PERMANENT RULES OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
OF THE 147th GENERAL ASSEMBLY
2013-2014
HOUSE RESOLUTION NUMBER 26

I. RULES OF ORDER

RULE 1 - CONVENING OF HOUSE

The House of Representatives shall meet every Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at 2:00 P.M., unless otherwise ordered. The Speaker or his or her designee shall take the chair at that time and shall call the House to order. At the beginning of each legislative day, the Speaker or his or her designee shall cause the names of the members to be called in alphabetical order. If a quorum is present, he or she shall proceed with the opening prayer, the pledge to the flag, and the business of the day.

RULE 2 - ORDER OF BUSINESS

(a) After the convening of the House, the order of business shall include the following:

(1) The minutes of the previous day shall be made public and posted by the Chief Clerk prior to the next legislative day. With the consent of a majority of members, the reading of the minutes for the previous day may be omitted.

(2) Presentation of petitions, memorials, tributes, memoriams, citations or communications.

(3) Reports from standing and special committees.

(4) Introduction and first reading of bills and resolutions.

(5) Consideration of Agenda.

(6) Consent Calendar, or Consent Agenda, when available.

(7) Announcement of committee meetings.

(8) Announcement of Agenda for next legislative day.

(b) The order of business may be changed when necessary by the Speaker unless a majority of the members present object.

RULE 3 – MESSAGES

Messages from the Senate or from the Governor may be received at any time except when the roll is being called.

II. DUTIES OF THE SPEAKER

RULE 4 - ORDER AND DECORUM

(a) The Speaker shall preside and have general direction over the House Chamber, and shall preserve order and decorum. In debate, the Speaker shall confine the members to the question under discussion. No member shall have the floor except when recognized by the Speaker, or when the Speaker grants open debate between members.

(b) Cameras, recording instruments, and similar equipment or electronic devices are permitted in the House Chamber only with the permission of the Speaker.

RULE 5 - QUESTIONS OF ORDER; APPEAL

The Speaker shall decide all questions of order. An appeal from his or her decision may be made by any member, if properly seconded. The appeal shall be upheld only upon the affirmative vote of a majority of the elected members. The Speaker shall not vote on any such appeal.

RULE 6 - TEMPORARY PRESIDING OFFICER, SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

(a) The Speaker may appoint a member to serve as the Temporary Presiding Officer to perform the duties of Speaker; but such appointment shall not extend beyond an adjournment or recess except when the Speaker takes a leave of absence, in which case the Speaker Pro Tempore shall perform the duties of Speaker during such leave. The Temporary Presiding Officer or the Speaker Pro Tempore shall not have authority to reassign any measure to a committee unless specifically required to do so by Rule 20, or the Speaker has taken a leave of absence or pursuant to the direction of the Speaker.

(b) When neither the elected Speaker nor the appointed Presiding Officer is present, the House shall be called to order and presided over by the Senior Member of the majority party. The Speaker Pro Tempore shall be the Senior Member of the majority party. The Senior Member is the member who has served in the House the longest current consecutive period of time. In the event more than one member has served the same length of time, the member originally sworn first shall be the Senior Member. If two or more members were sworn in at the same time, then of those two or more members the member whose name would appear first in alphabetical order shall be the Senior Member.

RULE 7 - SIGNING OF BILLS, RESOLUTIONS, AND OTHER DOCUMENTS

The Speaker shall sign all bills and resolutions passed by the House. All warrants, writs and subpoenas issued by the House shall be signed by the Speaker and attested to by the Chief Clerk. In the absence of the Speaker, the Temporary Presiding Officer or Speaker Pro Tempore shall have authority to sign such documents.

RULE 8 - APPOINTMENT OF COMMITTEES

(a) The Speaker shall appoint all committees and subcommittees.

(b) Where illness, stated conflict of interest, or other sufficient cause shall compel the absence or non-participation of any committee member, the Speaker, in his or her discretion, may fill such vacancy from the same political party as the absent or non-participating member during said absence or period of non-participation.

RULE 9 - ASSIGNMENT OF BILLS AND RESOLUTIONS TO COMMITTEE

The Speaker shall determine the principal objective of a bill or resolution and, subject to the provisions of Rule 20, assign the same to the appropriate committee. All prefiled measures shall be pre-assigned to committees by the Speaker and each member notified in writing of assignments. When the measure is introduced from the floor, the Speaker shall at that time announce the committee to which the measure is assigned.

RULE 10 - SETTING THE AGENDA

The Speaker sets the Agenda and may place an item on the Agenda only if the item is on the Ready List and has been requested to be placed on the Agenda by the Prime House Sponsor or Floor Manager of a Senate bill. The Ready List shall consist of all items that have been reported out of committee or have been laid on the table.

RULE 11 - SUBPOENA ISSUANCE

The Speaker may sign a subpoena if requested by a majority vote of a standing committee, a special committee, a joint committee, a task force, or any similar entity if the committee, task force or entity was created by the House of Representatives or an action of the General Assembly. No subpoena shall be issued unless it is first signed by the Speaker. Upon the majority vote of all members elected to the House, a subpoena shall be signed and issued by the Speaker, Presiding Officer or Speaker Pro Tempore.

III. RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF MEMBERS

RULE 12- ATTENDANCE OF MEMBERS

(a) No member shall knowingly absent himself or herself from any session of the House without notifying the Speaker that he or she is unable to attend. A member who is absent without notifying the Speaker may be considered in contempt, and may be subject to the censure of the House.

(b) Each member shall answer each roll call from his or her assigned seat in the Chamber.

RULE 13- QUORUM

Twenty-one (21) members of the House shall constitute a quorum. The House shall not convene without a quorum. In the absence of a quorum, the Sergeant-at-Arms shall notify those members who are absent from the Chamber, but not from Legislative Hall, that their presence is required. Upon receiving the notification, the absentee members shall report to the House Chamber. After a proper interval for such notifications, the Speaker shall order a roll call of the House to ascertain if a quorum is present.

RULE 14 - ADDRESSING THE HOUSE

(a) When a member wishes to speak, such member shall rise but shall not proceed to speak until recognized by the Speaker. Upon acknowledgment by the Speaker, the member may be seated until called upon. If two or more members seek recognition at the same time, the Speaker shall determine who shall speak first.

(b) Remarks shall be confined to the subject before the House, or to the purpose for which recognition was obtained.

RULE 15 - DECORUM OF MEMBERS ON FLOOR OF HOUSE

(a) Each member shall conduct himself or herself in a dignified manner at all times.

(b) No member or other person may walk across the House Chamber, or converse privately, in such a manner as to interrupt the House proceedings.

(c) A member shall not be interrupted when speaking except for the following reasons:

(1) a call to order by the Speaker,

(2) a point of order by a member, or

(3) a motion by a member to move the previous question, to adjourn, or to recess.

(d) A member shall not make derogatory personal comments about or to other members.

(e) No member shall talk on a cellular phone or other electronic communication device in the House Chamber while the House is in session.

(f) No member shall text on an electronic communication device in the House Chamber while the House is in session unless set to a non-audible setting.

RULE 16 - RULES OF LEGISLATIVE CONDUCT

(a) A member of the House shall be subject to discipline by the House for the violation of any of the following Rules of Legislative Conduct, which shall be deemed to constitute "disorderly behavior" within the meaning of Article II, Section 9 of the Delaware Constitution. The Rules of Legislative Conduct are as follows:

(1) Restrictions relating to "personal or private interests" within the meaning of Article II, Section 20 of the Delaware Constitution and Chapter 10, Title 29 of the Delaware Code are as follows:

A. A member who has a personal or private interest in any measure or bill pending before the House shall disclose the fact and shall not participate in the debate nor vote thereon; provided, however, that (i) upon the request of any other member of the House, a member who has such a personal or private interest may nevertheless respond to questions concerning any such measure or bill, or (ii) a member who has a personal or private interest may add factual matter to the debate which he or she believes will correct wrong or false information. A personal or private interest in a measure or bill is an interest which tends to impair a member's independence of judgment in the performance of his or her legislative duties with respect to that measure or bill.

B. A member has an interest which tends to impair his or her independence of judgment in the performance of his or her legislative duties with regard to any bill or measure when, (i) the enactment or defeat of the measure or bill would result in a financial benefit or detriment to accrue to the member or a close relative to a greater extent than such benefit or detriment would accrue to others who are members of the same class or group of persons, (ii) the member or a close relative has a financial interest in a private enterprise which enterprise or interest would be affected by a measure or bill to a greater extent than like enterprises or other interests in the same enterprise, or (iii) a person required to register as a legislative agent pursuant to Chapter 16, Title 29 of the Delaware Code is a close relative of the legislator and that person acts to promote, advocate, influence or oppose the measure or bill.

C. If the member is present, the disclosure required under paragraph (A) shall be made in open session, (i) prior to the vote on the measure or the bill by any committee of which the member is a member, and (ii) prior to the vote on the measure or bill in the House. Disclosure may be made by written statement submitted to the Chairperson of a committee or the Speaker of the House, and read in open session in the committee or the House as the case may be. If the member is absent when a measure or bill is voted on which would have required disclosure required under paragraph (A), then the member shall make the required disclosure as soon as possible upon returning to the committee or House.

D. For the purposes of this Rule:

(I) A "close relative" means a person's parents, spouse, children (natural or adopted) and siblings of the whole and half-blood.

(II) A "private enterprise" means any activity, whether conducted for profit or not for profit, and includes the ownership of real or personal property; provided that "private enterprise" does not include any activity of the State of Delaware, any political subdivision or any agency, authority or instrumentality thereof.

(III) A person has a "financial interest" in a private enterprise if he or she (i) has a legal or equitable ownership interest in the enterprise with a fair market value in excess of $5,000, or owns more than 10% of the enterprise if not traded on an established securities market, or owns more than 1% in the case of an enterprise whose securities are regularly traded on an established securities market, (ii) is associated with the enterprise and received from the enterprise during the last calendar year or might reasonably be expected to receive from the enterprise during the current or the next calendar year income in excess of $5,000 for services as an employee, officer, director, trustee, or independent contractor, or (iii) is a creditor of an insolvent private enterprise in an amount in excess of $5,000.

(IV) A "person" means an individual, partnership, corporation, trust, joint venture and any other association of individuals or entities.

(2) A member shall not receive unlawful gratuities in violation of § 1206, Title 11 of the Delaware Code.

(3) A member shall not receive a bribe in violation of § 1203, Title 11 of the Delaware Code.

(4) A member shall not profiteer in violation of § 1212, Title 11 of the Delaware Code.

(5) A member shall not engage in conduct constituting official misconduct in violation of § 1211, Title 11 of the Delaware Code.

(6) A member shall not fail to comply with the campaign finance disclosure requirements set forth in Chapter 80, Title 15 of the Delaware Code.

(7) A member shall not fail to comply with the financial disclosure requirements of Chapter 58, Title 29 of the Delaware Code.

(8) A member shall not appear for, represent, or assist another in respect to a matter before the General Assembly or one of its committees for compensation other than that provided by law.

(9) A member shall not release, without authorization of the Ethics Committee, any confidential matter pertaining to proceedings of the Ethics Committee.

(10) A member shall not knowingly file a false statement with the Ethics Committee or the House in connection with any proceeding involving a Rule of Legislative Conduct.

(11) A member shall not engage in conduct which the House determines (i) brings the House into disrepute or (ii) reflects adversely on the member's fitness to hold legislative office.

(b) A member shall be subject to sanction for any disorderly behavior occurring subsequent to being elected to the House.

(c) A complaint alleging a violation of a Rule of Legislative Conduct shall be filed in writing by a member with the Ethics Committee for investigation and recommendation to the House as to disposition. A complaint must be accompanied by a written statement signed by any person, sworn under oath, setting forth the facts supporting the complaints. No such complaint shall be considered by the House prior to its consideration and recommendation by the Ethics Committee.

(d) If the Ethics Committee recommends some disciplinary action with respect to a complaint, it shall present a resolution to the House requesting that the House conduct a proceeding to consider the matter. If the Ethics Committee votes to dismiss a complaint, and there are no votes against dismissal in the Committee, the House shall take no action with respect thereto. If the Ethics Committee votes to dismiss a complaint, but there are dissenting votes in the Committee, the House may consider the matter upon the motion of any member of the House, approved by a majority vote of the House. In any proceeding before the House involving an alleged violation of a Rule of Legislative Conduct, the accused member shall be given an opportunity to be heard after notice, to be advised and assisted by legal counsel, to produce witnesses, and offer evidence and to cross-examine any witnesses. A transcript of any such proceeding shall be made and retained, and rules of procedure for ethics violations as may be adopted by the House shall apply.

(e) If the House finds by a majority vote that a member has violated a Rule of Legislative Conduct, it may impose such disciplinary action as it deems appropriate, provided that no member may be suspended or expelled without the vote of two-thirds of the members of the House concurring therein.

IV. BILLS, RESOLUTIONS AND OTHER MEASURES

RULE 17 - RESOLUTIONS AND OTHER MEASURES; DEFINITIONS

(a) The following types of resolutions may be considered by this body:

(1) Simple Resolutions: A Simple Resolution is an expression of a majority of members on a specific subject, and deals with the internal affairs of the House only. The effect of its passage does not go beyond the bounds and the authority of the House.

(2) Concurrent Resolutions: A Concurrent Resolution is used to accomplish the same purpose in relation to the entire General Assembly that the Simple Resolution achieves for either the House or Senate singly. It must be passed by both the House and Senate to become effective. A Concurrent Resolution adopted by the General Assembly does not become a statute, nor does it have the force and effect of law, nor can it be used for any purpose which requires the exercise of legislative power.

(3) Joint Resolutions: A Joint Resolution is the most formal type of resolution, and is addressed to matters which are not internal affairs of either the House individually, nor the internal affairs of the General Assembly as a whole. It is of no legal effect unless passed by both Houses and approved by the Governor. Although a Joint Resolution is not a law, it is employed to provide for temporary measures, and has the force of law while in effect for a wide variety of limited purposes. A Joint Resolution is effective only for the General Assembly in which it was passed and approved. The requirement of the Governor's signature for Joint Resolutions stems from its original use in instances where it was expedient or necessary to express the joint will and action of the General Assembly and Governor combined.

(b) Each member of the House may issue tributes and memoriams at any time during his or her term of office. Tributes and memoriams shall be sequentially numbered by the Chief Clerk and made a part of the House Journal. Each tribute or memoriam shall be signed by the Prime Sponsor, the Speaker and the Chief Clerk. The Speaker, or his or her designee, shall cause to be read into the permanent record of the House such tributes and memoriams as have been filed with the Chief Clerk. Tributes and memoriams shall not require a vote; however, at the time such items are officially read into the record, any member may comment on the tributes or memoriams. Tributes and memoriams issued when the House stands in recess or adjournment shall be administratively managed by the Chief Clerk, who shall cause such items to be made a part of the official proceedings of the House.

(c) A measure, as used in these Rules, means a bill, resolution, amendment, motion, or other questions before the House.

RULE 18 - PREPARATION AND CUSTODY

(a) Each bill and resolution shall be introduced with as many backed copies as are deemed necessary by the Speaker. The original of the bill or resolution shall at all times remain in the custody of the Chief Clerk of the House or the Chairperson of the committee to which it has been assigned. A "duplicate" backed copy may go (on request) to the following: the Speaker, the Sponsor, and the Division of Research. (e) (1) As soon as practical after the expiration of all applicable time limitations for action under Subsections (a) and (b) of this rule, the Committee shall act, by the vote of a majority of the members of the Committee, to:

(2) Testimony of all witnesses shall be taken under oath. The oath shall be administered by the Chair or Committee member designated by him to administer oaths.

(f) The second phase of a disciplinary hearing shall consist of oral and/or written submission by counsel for the Committee and counsel for the respondent as to the sanction the Committee should recommend to the House with respect to any count of the Statement of Alleged Violation which has been proved. Testimony by witnesses will not be heard at phase two except by a vote of a majority of the Committee.

A count shall not be proved unless at least a majority of the Committee vote for a motion that the count has been proved.

(2) If the Committee votes that a count has been proved, the Committee may, upon completion of the second phase of the disciplinary hearing, by a majority vote of the Committee, consider and vote on a motion that a recommendation be made to the House for appropriate action respecting the violation charged in such count.

(b) With respect to any violation with which a member of the House was charged in a count which the Committee has voted as proved, the Committee may include in its recommendations to the House one or more of the following sanctions:

The Committee shall cause a copy of the Committee's report and the Statement of Alleged Violation to be served upon the respondent. The statement shall be the basis of the House's consideration of the matter.

Blakey to form a committee to escort the Governor to the Joint Session.

The Lieutenant Governor recognized First Lady Carla Markell, Michael Markell and former President Pro Tem Anthony J. DeLuca.

At 2:10 p.m., the Sergeant-at-Arms announced the arrival of the escort party with Governor Markell. They were admitted.

Senator Bethany A. Hall-Long introduced Governor Jack A. Markell to the Joint Session.

The Lieutenant Governor welcomed the Governor.

The Governor addressed the members of the General Assembly as follows:

Lt. Governor Denn, members of the 147th General Assembly, other elected officials, members of the Judiciary, members of the Cabinet, our state employees, Carla, the people of Delaware. To our new legislative leaders, President Pro Tem Blevins and Speaker Schwartzkopf, most importantly, congratulations. Thank you for inviting me to address you today.

You know, forty years ago, Korea was widely considered to be a third world country, having barely begun to rebuild from war. Recently, a Korean poultry company purchased Allen Foods in Sussex County and saved hundreds of jobs.

This is the world we now live in.

Evraz of Russia owns the steel plant in Claymont. And German-based Fraunhofer plans to expand its research and development in Newark. Companies from many other countries are important employers throughout our state.

This is the world we now live in.

Around the country, companies are producing more than ever, but as a result of productivity gains, they sometimes do so with fewer people.

This is the world we now live in.

There are 3 billion people in the world today looking for jobs, but there are only 1.2 billion jobs available.

This too is the world that we now live in. More global. More productive. More competitive. It is a new world of unprecedented opportunities – to create new partnerships, to sell to new customers, to innovate and collaborate in ways previously unimaginable.

But it is also a world with new and formidable challenges – to attract and retain employers that have more options than ever; to educate our children to higher standards of job readiness; and to invest in the future as we care for an aging population.

And these challenges demand an understanding of the world as it is and a vision of what it can become. And they require us to do as Delawareans have done throughout our history, including many I spoke of in my Inaugural Address – not to choose what is easiest for us today, but to create a better world for our children tomorrow.

Now, it is difficult to watch the debates in Washington and be confident that we are up to the task. Progress falls prey to political posturing. Problems get kicked down the road. But Delaware is not Washington. We will meet the challenges of the world we now live in because of the enduring qualities that make us unique. We are a state of neighbors. We know how to move forward together. So let's shape Delaware for the world we now live in, and the world our children will live in tomorrow.

Now, this new world begins in Delaware's schools.

And I have never been more excited about the great work being done in our schools. In the last year, thousands of students moved from below or average to higher levels of achievement. Graduation rates have improved steadily. More high school students are taking advanced coursework. And more parents are choosing Delaware's public schools. For this, we have great Delaware educators to thank.

Now, we have built a strong foundation to improve our kids' education. And two years ago, the General Assembly made the single largest investment in early childhood education in our state's history. As a result, we are on track to increase from 20 to 80 the percentage of high need children in child care enrolled in quality-rated early learning programs. These are children who otherwise would have arrived at kindergarten well behind their peers. And now, thanks to you, they will arrive ready to learn. For them and for Delaware, that is a game-changer.

And we made the difficult choice to raise our academic standards for the world our children will live in. Teachers across the state are transitioning to the Common Core Standards, a set of uniform, higher standards that will better prepare our students for the global economy. Now, as we move to these higher standards, fewer of our students will meet them initially. It is not an easy change, but it is one we must make, and our students will rise to the challenge.

Thanks to another investment made by this body, 10,000 Delaware students will participate in a world language immersion program over the next decade. 340 students started the program this year. For example, at McIlvane Early Learning Center in Magnolia, 100 kindergartners spend half their school day learning science, social studies and math in Chinese. One of the Chinese teachers there, Li Jing Jing, had a goal for her students to be able to count to 100 by the end of the school year. Her students achieved that goal by November. By the fourth grade, these students will achieve language proficiency. They will take the AP test in ninth grade. And they will be ready for those 1.2 billion jobs when that day comes. And I can't wait to see how far these kids go and I'm excited to see more schools offering this opportunity. Li Jing Jing is here with us today. Let's thank her and her fellow world language teachers for the great work they are doing to prepare Delaware students for the world we now live in.

Now, it takes great teachers to keep up with these young learners. Research confirms what parents know – nothing contributes to student learning as much as a quality teacher. And we have many excellent teachers in Delaware now. Now, here are three ways we can get more.

Now, first, new teachers need to be ready to make a difference on their first day in the classroom, and I recently heard a teacher's account of his conversation with a student. The student said she wanted to be a nurse, but she'd probably become a teacher instead, because she didn't have the grades for nursing, as though she didn't need excellent preparation to be a teacher. And this is a perception we need to dispel. Teaching is a demanding profession, and our admissions requirements for teacher preparation programs should reflect this. So, Secretary Murphy will be working with our universities to strengthen the standards for entry into the teaching profession.

And just as lawyers take a bar exam before they begin practicing law, we also need a rigorous exit assessment for our preparation programs, which includes demonstration of content knowledge as well as teaching skills.

And these steps will help ensure that today's college graduates are ready to make an impact for generations of Delaware students.

Now second, we need to keep great teachers in Delaware classrooms. You know, forty percent of new teachers in Delaware leave teaching within four years. Every year, I have lunch with our state's Teacher of the Year nominees, and every year, I hear the same question: Why is the only opportunity for teachers to gain additional prestige and pay to leave the classroom for administration? It shouldn't be. Our best teachers should be able to stay on the front lines of learning. Our 2013 Teacher of the Year, John Sell, is a great example. John is not just a teacher of high school students – he is a teacher of teachers. At Sussex Tech, he leads a professional learning community; he served on the teacher leadership committee, and informally mentors new teachers. As his principal says, "John is a multiplier." Please join me in thanking John Sell, who is here with us today.

Now, teachers like John should be formally recognized as Teacher Leaders – role models in their schools who have demonstrated their abilities, are ready to help other teachers, and earn more for putting their experience to work in the classroom. Now, I ask that the General Assembly work with me to formally create this role, with the prestige and compensation it deserves.

Now third, we should strengthen our compensation system to better attract great teachers where we need them. In our highest-poverty schools in Delaware, we have almost twice the teacher turnover of our lowest-poverty schools. University students studying science, technology, engineering and math have lucrative opportunities that make it more difficult to recruit them into the classroom. You know, first year teachers deciding where to teach can make thousands more in Pocomoke, Kennett Square, and Salem than in Bridgeville or Felton, or Bear.

If we're to have the best education system in the country, we can't continue to have the lowest starting and average teacher salaries in our region. Now, we can change this without substantial new resources by reexamining our pay structure, which hasn't been substantively changed in decades. So, I ask that the General Assembly work with me to re-examine that pay structure so we can incentivize teaching in high-need schools and critical subjects, to raise starting teacher pay, and reward teacher leadership.

And just as we need high-quality career choices for our teachers, we need high-quality school choices for our families. The application process for choice and charter schools has become too burdensome and complicated. I talk to parents with children in multiple schools and they look forward to school choice and charter applications with the same enthusiasm that they have for tax season. There are multiple applications. Numerous deadlines. Different requirements. And I propose that we create a best-in-class information system on Delaware's schools that provides a clear picture of the different strengths in each school. And I also propose that we give parents the option of a common application to make it easier to apply to multiple schools.

Now, learning, of course, does not end in high school. The skill demands of today's jobs are rapidly evolving. The days of one employer, one career are over for most workers. It's not uncommon today for workers to hold ten different jobs before the age of 45. Lifetime learning is no longer an aspiration; it is a necessity.

Not long ago, the focus of our workforce system was placing unemployed workers back into similar jobs. But the challenge today is far greater. Placing unemployed workers back into similar jobs today often means consigning them to continued insecurity in a field with diminishing prospects. Today, workers throughout their careers – employed and unemployed – have to upgrade their skills to remain competitive.

Now, in the world we now live in, we need a workforce system that delivers the training that workers need to qualify for the jobs employers are seeking to fill. Now, that's what our Department of Labor now does thanks to partnerships with Delaware Tech and others. We should build on this work by developing a Delaware Skills Bank – an inventory of essential tasks for in-demand occupations in our state – and use it to ensure that our training programs provide our workers with the right opportunities. And once workers have completed the training they need to fill in-demand jobs, we should make sure that employers know it, by providing these workers with a Career Readiness Certificate that employers respect and trust.

Now, readying a workforce for the world we now live in is a key part of making Delaware an attractive place to do business. So is providing a nurturing environment for new entrepreneurs. Let's start at the beginning. Businesses that start here are more likely to stay here. New companies create 3 million jobs a year. And Delaware, which here we were rated the second-best state in the country for a knowledge and innovation economy, could be a leader in the creation and growth of early-stage companies. We have the people. We have the ideas. And we have the capital. The challenge is to get the people, the ideas, and the capital together as we build The Start-Up State.

Now, inspired by successful models across the country, local entrepreneurs have created Start It Up Delaware. This is a public-private partnership that will serve as a hub for entrepreneurial activity with support from Delaware's financial, accounting, legal, and real estate communities. It will build relationships with the University of Delaware, with Delaware State and Delaware Tech, among other institutions of higher education. And DEDO Director Levin is working closely with Start It Up Delaware to bring these entrepreneurs together and help them thrive.

Now we know, for manufacturers and other businesses, we know the reliability and cost of energy is key. We need to expand our energy portfolio; we need to reduce costs and improve air quality. Secretary O'Mara, working with the leadership of our major energy companies, has developed a three-part strategy to do just that.

First, we import too much of our electricity from dirty and expensive sources. Over the last four years, we have reduced emissions more than any other state, while also reducing energy bills and health impacts by hundreds of millions of dollars. But we need more local generation. That is why we support numerous utility-scale clean and efficient natural gas plants and cost-effective clean energy projects – Calpine's new Dover plant, the conversion of NRG's Energy Center, the Municipal Electric Corporation's new plant, and biogas and fuel cell projects as well as solar.

Second, we need to expand natural gas infrastructure across our state. Too many in Delaware are paying too much for energy because they are too far from a pipeline to bring them affordable natural gas. The energy savings from fuel switching are substantial and can cover the costs of new infrastructure. To help businesses and residents save money, we are working with both Delmarva and Chesapeake to make it easier for businesses to switch to cheaper and cleaner energy.

And third, as Senator Harris McDowell often says, the cheapest energy remains the energy that we don't use. We have made progress on improving energy efficiency working with the Delaware Electric Co-op, but we can do more to help save money by making efficiency Delaware's "first fuel." This year, let's pass legislation to encourage our utilities to prioritize energy efficiency when it is cheaper than buying electricity from the grid.

Now, these steps to encourage entrepreneurship and keep Delaware energy competitive go hand-in-hand with our efforts to improve our schools, strengthen our workforce, and enhance our quality of life. They are all part of our larger effort to make Delaware globally competitive as a place to do business and create jobs. These efforts have paid off in recent years, and they continue to pay off. Senator Bob Venables and Representative Dan Short have been strong advocates for economic growth in western Sussex County. So Bob and Dan, I am pleased to announce today that ILC Dover will bring 115 new jobs and a production line of protecting packaging materials from Mexico to a new plant near Seaford later this year.

You know, in the world we now live in, employers survive only when they hire the most talented workers. And talented employees want to work in places they are proud to call home.

Delaware is blessed with beautiful beaches and parks and scenic farmland, a vibrant arts community, and a great cultural and historical heritage. Preserving and improving that quality of life is vital.

In the years to come, Delawareans will be able to walk and bike to work because of the investments we are making today. Delaware is now in the top ten of bike friendly states, up from 31st four years ago. Our First State Trails and Pathways Initiative is connecting neighborhoods, parks, and downtowns throughout our state. The Pomeroy Trail connects Newark to White Clay Creek State Park. We're linking Lewes, Rehoboth and eventually Georgetown with a series of interconnected trails. We're enhancing and expanding recreational access to the Nanticoke River and Broad Creek.

We're connecting Delaware City to Chesapeake City and extending the Milford Riverwalk. In Dover, we are expanding the Capitol City Trail along the St. Jones River. And our Delaware Bayshore

Initiative is protecting the Thousand Acre Marsh and expanding the Ted Harvey Wildlife Area. Projects like these improve our quality of life and make our state a magnet for talented workers.

Now, Communities attract business investment by being vibrant with recreation and culture, and also by being safe.

The Delaware State Police and their colleagues from Wilmington and New Castle County are working with Attorney General Biden to reduce violent crime in the City of Wilmington. Those efforts include intelligence gathering, targeted investigations, and an emphasis on ensuring that those who are most violent offenders are off the street. Last year, I authorized six new state troopers from the Violent Crime Fund to focus on the violent gangs and drug-trafficking groups that commit the majority of homicides in Delaware. This year, I propose funding for six additional troopers with the same focus.

But troopers and police are not the only first responders who keep our communities safe. As we saw in the horrible events in Connecticut recently, sometimes teachers find themselves on the front line of a tragedy. We pray that evil like that does not come to our communities. But if it does, we need to be prepared. Now, last year, this body, working with Secretary Schiliro, passed the Omnibus School Safety Act, which requires preparation of state-of-the-art school safety plans for every Delaware public school within 5 years. It's a laudable goal, but we can do better. I ask the General Assembly to work with me so that every Delaware school has an up-to-date school safety plan within two years.

You know, even with excellent school safety plans in place, we know that ready access to assault weapons and high-capacity magazines by persons who should not have them can lead to tragedy. Earlier this week, I joined Lieutenant Governor Denn and Attorney General Biden to propose new legislation to help get guns out of the hands of people who shouldn't have them. I ask you to join Representative Longhurst and Senator Henry in finishing the job and pass reasonable gun safety legislation that respects Second Amendment rights and makes our streets safer.

But more police, new crime fighting strategies, and gun safety, as important as they are, are not the whole answer. I will never forget going to Tenth and Pine Streets in Wilmington days after a 16-year-old was murdered there. It was 10 p.m. The streets were empty. But when I got out of my car to pay tribute to the makeshift memorial on that corner, dozens of people came out to talk. To thank me for being there. To tell me they were tired of the violence. To tell me that all they wanted to do was raise their children in peace. One ten-year-old boy came up to me and said, "Governor, I don't have anything to do around here. I have no place to go other than the street." That boy's story is the story of too many of our young people. And in a more perfect world, it wouldn't be government's role to address it. His family, his neighbors and his community center would have the resources to look after him. But too often in the world we now live in, they don't.

We know what after-school and summer programs do for kids: research has demonstrated that they improve academic performance, that they reduce drop-out rates, they reduce depression, improve self-control and self-esteem, and prevent risky behaviors such as drug and alcohol use and juvenile crime.

For these reasons, I will propose that we provide more opportunities for after-school and summer activities that get kids off the streets and give them exposure to the arts, nature, and physical activity – opportunities that many Delaware kids take for granted. And consistent with the CDC's recommendations in response to the tragic suicides of twelve of our young people last year, the staff running these activities will all receive training in suicide prevention.

You know, suicides among our youth are the most tragic child mental health problem in our state, and, thanks to the leadership of Lieutenant Governor Denn and others, we have taken serious steps to address them. Last year, we worked together to fund new training for front line school personnel in Kent and Sussex Counties to recognize early signs of trauma in children. We worked together with Johns Hopkins School of Medicine to offer the highest-quality training to all of our high schools in detection and prevention of depression in teenagers. Our Health Care Commission uses its funds to encourage mental health professionals to practice in southern Delaware, where we have a shortage. And we closed gaps in our state's support network for child victims of trauma; now each child victim has a case manager who helps guide that child's family through the different services that these most vulnerable children need.

But there is still more to do, both to address youth suicides and the many other mental health issues that professionals are seeing in children. It starts in our schools, where our kids spend so much of their day. You know, we have the ability to provide some mental health services in Delaware high schools, and we have family crisis therapists in some elementary schools, but we have almost no mental health resources in our middle schools. Only three of our state's middle schools have full-time professionals responsible for the mental health needs of students at that critical age. That is a huge gap in our care for adolescents. I ask the General Assembly to address this need. I propose a ten-fold increase in the number of trained, front line mental health personnel in our middle schools.

Now, this investment will help ensure our kids get the services they deserve. And over the long term, it will also help Delaware build a better private network of child mental health providers. We don't have enough mental health providers right now. So let's allow pediatricians and family doctors to do telephone consultations with expert child psychiatrists. Let's also invest in long-distance mental health services provided through technology like Skype. Telemedicine like this can help get kids services without waiting for weeks or months for appointments. Simple investments like these can make a real difference in a child's life. I ask you for your support.

You know, at a time when the Delaware National Guard is as busy as they have been in decades defending our country overseas, they are doing all they can as well here at home to help make a difference in young people's lives. Under General Vavala's leadership, the Delaware National Guard proposes to partner with Maryland in their Youth ChalleNge program. This is a residential program for a couple dozen Delaware high school drop-outs. Through education and mentoring from Guard members, the program targets young people who can get back on a path to a degree and a rewarding life and career. And because Maryland has all of the necessary facilities and because the Department of Defense picks up 75 percent of the cost, this is a very cost-effective way to serve these young people. General Vavala, I want to thank you for your leadership.

Now, all of you know what an important role the Guard played in our response to Hurricane Sandy. Hundreds of members of the Guard joined with other emergency response personnel to prepare for and respond to the storm. One of those is Specialist Paul Romer from Seaford, who previously served with the 1049th Transportation Company based in Seaford and served in Afghanistan. During the storm, he helped Delaware residents and then traveled to New York City to help with recovery efforts there. Please join me in thanking Specialist Romer and all of the members of the Guard who gave of themselves so selflessly to assist their fellow citizens and our neighbors in nearby states.

Now, hurricane Sandy is a wake-up call. Because we are a low-lying state, extreme storms and sea level rise pose a threat to us. A more direct hit could have cost us lives, billions of dollars in investment, thousands of homes, and thousands of jobs. Key parts of our tourism, agriculture and manufacturing industries sit yards from the ocean, the bay, and other waterways.

Now, given our vulnerabilities, our duty is to ensure that Delaware is better prepared, as I have often discussed with Senator Simpson and Representative Kenton. A dollar invested wisely today can prevent hundreds of dollars of damage tomorrow, whether by strengthening dikes and dams, conserving wetlands, improving drainage, or nourishing beaches.

The need for this infrastructure exceeds the resources available. And we need to have a frank conversation about how to prioritize and finance projects, and so that we protect what we can and make realistic choices about what we cannot. I look forward to the recommendations of the working group analyzing these challenges and to engaging with you about the long-term choices we must make for the benefit of our state.

You know, other long-term choices we must make involve the cost of health care. Thanks to the General Assembly, we have the nation's leading health technology infrastructure; it's a foundation that can help improve quality and reduce costs. We are seeing innovative and promising approaches to care throughout the state – at our hospitals, in a partnership between the Medical Society and Highmark Delaware, and in initiatives led by the Delaware Health Sciences Alliance. Let's build on our technological innovation by developing payment models that reward great outcomes, encourage healthy behaviors, and reduce costs.

Now, none of the issues I've mentioned is easy. To make sound decisions, we need to look beyond the next day's newspaper or the next election, and we've got to focus on the decisions that we make now to create a better tomorrow.

The key question for us is: How do we grow our economy so that those who come after us do better?

And we grow our economy by investing in our kids' education, in a skilled workforce, and in the quality of life that makes our communities magnets for talented people.

And though these investments are more essential than ever, making them is more difficult. We no longer finance investments by divvying up surpluses each year. Rather, we figure out each year how we can save to free up resources to invest.

We have done that for four years. This is the first administration in modern history – Republican or Democratic – to have fewer executive branch employees than when we started. We cut energy costs. We sold off fleet cars; we integrated IT, and cut prescription costs. We're saving almost half a billion dollars through health and pension reform.

We will continue to find savings wherever they may be, but there are things that we won't do if it means compromising public safety or turning our backs on our most vulnerable citizens. And while we want to keep taxes low and they are – and are attractive here in Delaware – we should not shortchange our children and their future to pay for unaffordable tax cuts today.

The world we now live in is different than anything our parents knew – it's more competitive, more global, and more connected. But it was made possible by their choices and sacrifices. And our obligation to our children is to prepare the way for their world – a Delaware better than anything that came before it. We must leave:

A Delaware in which every child has a great teacher, and in which every student graduates career- or college-ready.

A Delaware in which our workforce, our quality of life, and our responsiveness drive entrepreneurship, and growth, and employment.

A Delaware in which our streets are safe and inviting, and in which those so often forgotten among us, adults and youth with mental illness, receive the services and the support they deserve.

A Delaware that protects the rights of all its citizens, no matter whom they love.

A Delaware that responsibly protects its natural resources and that understands the risks and opportunities of climate change and sea-level rise.

We can create this Delaware, but it will require us to put that future and those who will inhabit it ahead of ourselves.

Now, in that spirit, Carla and I declared this inaugural week a week of service! Thank you, Carla. Volunteers across our state are donating food, giving blood, helping our community centers, and improving our parks. We focus on service this week knowing that, every day of the year, Delawareans give of themselves to make life better for all. Some do so as volunteers. Others as public servants or citizen soldiers. Many, just as neighbors.

These are the examples our citizens set. And they simply ask that, every day we are privileged to serve them, we act in a manner that makes us worthy of being called their representatives.

If we meet that test, if we are as good as the people we serve and lead, we will make wise choices today that will benefit generations of Delawareans for years to come. We will give those future Delawareans reason to greet a changed world with open arms, sure in the knowledge that we did for them what was done before for us, that we prepared the way for their success, that we passed onto them a Delaware whose brightest days were still to come.

Thank you.

HR 7 - RECOGNIZING APRIL 24, 2013 AS "EQUAL PAY FOR WOMEN DAY" IN THE STATE OF DELAWARE.

WHEREAS, over fifty years after Congress passed the Equal Pay Act and Title VII of the Civil Rights Act, women, especially minority women, continue to suffer the consequences of unequal pay; and

WHEREAS, according to U.S. Census Bureau Statistics, year-round, full-time working women earned only 77% of the earnings of year-round, full-time working men, indicating very little recent change in progress for pay equity; and

WHEREAS, an analysis by the U.S. Department of Labor Statistics data in over 300 classifications showed that women earn less in every occupational classification for which enough data is available, including occupations traditionally dominated by women (e.g., registered nurses and teachers); and

WHEREAS, just one year out of college, working women already generally earn less than their male colleagues in the same field and with the same degree; and

WHEREAS, over a working lifetime, this wage disparity costs the average American woman and her family $700,000 to $2 million in lost wages, also impacting social security benefits and pensions; and

WHEREAS, nearly four in ten mothers are primary breadwinners in their households, and nearly two-thirds are significant earners, making pay equity critical to families' economic security; and

WHEREAS, median income of single mothers in Delaware is $22,137, and 71% of women with children in Delaware work; and

WHEREAS, twenty-one percent of women-headed households in Delaware live below the poverty line; eliminating the wage gap would provide critical income to 9,608 families living in poverty; and

WHEREAS, at age 66 and older, women are twice as likely as men to be poor; and

WHEREAS, fair pay equity policies can be implemented simply and without undue cost or hardship in both the public and private sectors; and

WHEREAS, in 2009 the Lilly Ledbetter Act of 2009 was signed into law, which restores protection against pay discrimination, and now we must pass the Paycheck Fairness Act which would ensure effective remedies for wage discrimination and strengthen enforcement of equal pay laws; and

WHEREAS, Tuesday, April 9 symbolized the time this year in which the wages paid to American women catch up to the wages paid to men from the previous year; April 18th is the actual date of how far into 2013 a woman must work to earn what men earned in 2012. African American women would have to work until June 9, 2013 and Latinas until August 19, 2013.

NOW, THEREFORE:

BE IT RESOLVED by the House of Representatives of the 147th General Assembly of the State of Delaware that Equal Pay For Women Day be recognized on April 24, 2013 in the State of Delaware.

SCR 13 - HONORING THE DELAWARE CAPITOL POLICE FOR THEIR DISTINGUISHED SERVICE IN PROTECTING THE HEALTH, SAFETY AND WELL-BEING OF ALL DELAWAREANS AND OTHERS WHO VISIT DELAWARE STATE GOVERNMENT FACILITIES.

WHEREAS, the Delaware Capitol Police has its origin in a three-man unit established in 1965 to watch over Legislative Hall in order to deter vandalism of the property; and

WHEREAS, the mission of the unit then known as "Capitol Security" was later expanded to include surveillance of several other state properties, and was, at this early stage in its history, unfunded and reliant upon donations and transfers of equipment from other agencies; and

WHEREAS, the security officers, who then received no formal training, were unarmed and carried only nightsticks, handcuffs and tear gas canisters, making use of a used state vehicle with no markings, emergency lighting or radios; and

WHEREAS, in July, 1974, Thomas Murray, then Director of Administrative Services, saw a need to expand the role of Capitol Security and began a two-week basic police/security training course for officers, including weapons qualification; and

WHEREAS, Capitol Security officers were thereafter allowed to be armed and were sworn in as state constables with the same arrest powers as officers of the Dover City Police while on state property; and

WHEREAS, after that change in their scope and mission, Capitol Security officers began attending the Delaware State Police Academy for formal police training and the force was redesignated the "Capitol Security Police” and was equipped with fully-equipped police vehicles, new uniforms and a police canine unit; and

WHEREAS, by 1980, all Capitol Security Police officers who were qualified to attend the Delaware State Police Academy had completed their training, and, with the completion of the Carvel State Office Building in Wilmington, the size of the force was expanded to allow for police coverage of that building as well; and

WHEREAS, at the time of this expansion, the force was officially renamed the “Delaware Capitol Police,” followed several years later by the granting of statewide arrest powers to members of the force; and

WHEREAS, during the 1990’s, there were further changes, including the inclusion of the Division of Capitol Police in the Department of Public Safety (later renamed the Department of Safety and Homeland Security by Governor Ruth Ann Minner); and a further integration of its communications center into the state communications center; and

WHEREAS, in recent years, and particularly since the September 11, 2001, terrorist attacks on the nation, the mission of the Capitol Police has continued to expand, with an extension of its responsibility over new courthouses and court facilities in all three counties, as well as other state buildings; and

WHEREAS, the importance of the Delaware Capitol Police was dramatically demonstrated during the tragic events of Monday, February 11, 2013, when a gunman in the lobby of Wilmington’s New Castle County Courthouse opened fire on several women who were waiting to go through the metal detectors in the lobby area and enter the court, killing two persons and then killing himself during an exchange of gunfire with the Capitol Police officers who were on the scene, two of whom were slightly wounded in the exchange; and

WHEREAS, other Capitol Police officers in the area placed their own lives in danger by helping to protect many of the estimated 50 to 60 persons then in that part of the building; and

WHEREAS, this incident, tragic as it was, was a graphic reminder both of the high level of professionalism of the Delaware Capitol Police and of the importance of their mission of guarding state government facilities and those who use them;

NOW, THEREFORE:

BE IT RESOLVED by the Senate of the 147th General Assembly of the State of Delaware, the House of Representatives concurring therein, that the members do hereby express the heartfelt thanks of all Delawareans to the Delaware Capitol Police for their outstanding service to the citizens they are sworn to protect.

WHEREAS, the first officer for the new police force, Daniel Knight, was not hired by the county government until February, 1913; and

WHEREAS, that action came after the Levy Court had received a petition from residents of New Castle County frustrated by that body's failure to comply with the 1911 legislation in a more timely fashion; and

WHEREAS, Officer Knight received a salary of two dollars a day and served primarily as a crossing guard; and

WHEREAS, that same year, a group of additional officers was hired to form the "county highway police"; and

WHEREAS, the two forces eventually were combined to form what is now known as the New Castle County Police Department; and

WHEREAS, by the late 1950's, the county police department had grown to 22 officers, including two Democrats and two Republicans each from Brandywine, Christiana, New Castle and Millcreek Hundreds, and one officer each from White Clay, Pencader, St. George's, Red Lion, Appoquinimink and Blackbird Hundreds; and

WHEREAS, funding for the New Castle Rural Police was very limited, with uniforms being recycled from other police departments or from the military and used motor vehicles; and

WHEREAS, in May, 1965, New Castle County government was reorganized, with all the powers and duties of the former levy court being transferred to the newly-created New Castle County Council; and

WHEREAS, the said reorganization included a reorganization as well of the New Castle Police, with officers no longer appointed on the basis of politics and new hiring and training standards adopted; and

WHEREAS, with the rapid growth and development of suburban New Castle County during the 1960's, the need for policing was also expanding rapidly; and

WHEREAS by 1968, the police force had grown to 65 officers, many of whom had formerly been members of the Wilmington Police Department or the Delaware River and Bay Police Department; and

WHEREAS, today, the New Castle County Police Department has an authorized strength of more than 350 sworn personnel and is the largest police department serving New Castle County;

NOW, THEREFORE:

BE IT RESOLVED by the Senate of the 147th General Assembly of the State of Delaware, the House of Representatives concurring therein, that the members do hereby express the heartfelt thanks of all Delawareans to the New Castle County Police Department and its membership, past and present, for all that they have done over the past century, often at great risk to themselves, to protect the health, safety and well-being of the citizens they have sworn to serve.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the members of the Senate and the House do hereby honor the memory of, and give special thanks for the lives of, those members of the New Castle County Police Department who have lost their lives or have been gravely injured in the line of duty over the past 100 years.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the members do hereby extend to the New Castle County Police Department the sincere hope for many more years of success and continued service to the citizens of New Castle County and the State of Delaware.

Speaker's Memo

May 15, 2013

Dear Mr. Speaker,

I will be absent today, May 15, 2013 due to personal business.

Signed,
Rep. John Atkins

Representative Longhurst brought HCR 23, jointly sponsored by Representative Bolden on behalf of All Representatives & Senator Poore on behalf of All Senators, before the House for consideration.

HCR 23 - PROCLAIMING MAY 2013 AS "FOSTER CARE APPRECIATION MONTH".

WHEREAS, there are approximately 800 children in Delaware's foster care system due to abuse, neglect, or dependency; and

WHEREAS, we must address the needs of children in foster care, including a stable and secure home until they can either return to their parents or establish a lifelong connection to a nurturing adult; and

WHEREAS, the children in our foster care system are precious and we must work to ensure their safety, health, and wellbeing; and

WHEREAS, placement of children into foster care is based on the actions of a parent or guardian and not the actions of the child; and

WHEREAS, the State of Delaware, legislators, communities and related agencies are encouraged to invest in services that support reuniting children in foster care with their biological parents or finding a permanent, safe, loving, and stable home for the children; and

WHEREAS, approximately 67% of foster children do not graduate from high school and only approximately 20% of teens who age out of foster care are able to obtain full-time employment when they turn 18; and

WHEREAS, in Delaware each year approximately 100 youth age out of foster care without the security of a stable home life to receive the training and support they need to succeed as adults; and

WHEREAS, children aging out of the system need to obtain affordable housing, health insurance, and acquire appropriate employment.

NOW, THEREFORE:

BE IT RESOLVED by the House of Representatives of the 147th General Assembly of the State of Delaware, the Senate concurring therein, that May 2013 is proclaimed "Foster Care Appreciation Month," which serves as an opportunity to raise awareness of the challenges of Delaware's children in the foster care system.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that its members recognize the important role that foster parents, social workers, advocates, and legislators have in these children's lives, acknowledge the needs of children in Delaware's foster care system, honor the commitment and dedication of individuals who work to provide love, assistance and services to foster children, and recognize the need to continue work to improve the outcomes and lives of children in the foster care system.

The Governor addressed the members of the General Assembly as follows:

Lt. Governor Denn, President Pro Tem Blevins, Speaker Schwartzkopf, members of the 147th General Assembly, other elected officials, members of the Cabinet, members of the Judiciary, Carla, and the people of Delaware. Thank you for inviting me to address you today. I want also to acknowledge my family members who are here, my sister Judy, my brother-in-law Alan, and my niece Dina.

Now, I know it wasn't necessary but I just want to assure the members of the General Assembly that Secretary Bhatt was ready to personally plow each of your driveways to facilitate your travel here.

In all seriousness, I would like to take a moment to acknowledge our terrific state employees who day in and day out provide critical services to the citizens of our State. And we all experienced the benefit of their work and commitment during the recent snow storms.

Our public safety, transportation, healthcare, facilities and other staff truly answered the call. We owe a continual debt of gratitude to our state employees for being there when their neighbors and fellow Delawareans need them.

Let me also thank the members of our military – our friends from the Dover Air Force Base, all Delawareans in the armed forces, and members of the Delaware National Guard. We had more members of the Guard deployed last year than ever.

And two of our Afghanistan veterans are with us today. And I ask you to join me in thanking Captain Brian Malloy and Chief Master Sergeant Kevin Gordon. Will Captain and Chief, please accept our appreciation for all that you and your colleagues have done for us?

This past year, one of Delaware's own made the ultimate sacrifice. Warrant Officer Sean Mullen gave his life serving in Afghanistan. I ask that we all pause for a moment of silence to honor his memory. Thank you.

Now, veterans like Captain Malloy, Chief Gordon, and Warrant Officer Mullen, protect what makes America great. Our freedoms. Our liberty. And the promise that any child in America can grow up to be whatever they want to be.

And that, of course, is the essence of the American dream. Everybody in this state wants a piece of it. That longing defines who we are as a people.

And while it isn't our job to guarantee success for every Delawarean, it is our job to empower them to make their dreams real. Through several difficult years and this country's worst recession in generations, we have made progress on securing that promise.

The state of our state is stronger today than when I addressed you a year ago. Our job growth has outpaced the nation's, highlighted by a thriving financial sector and technological innovation from companies large and small, whether it's the parts manufactured at Miller Metal, the new pharmaceuticals developed at Incyte, the software made at SevOne, or the cutting edge fuel cells made by Bloom Energy.

Our schools are implementing higher standards while, thanks to legislation passed by the General Assembly, we are better preparing our teachers. And the companies that will hire our students are dealing with fewer and clearer government regulations.

So we've made progress, but to paraphrase Will Rogers, even if we're on the right track, we'll get run over if we just sit here. We have so much more to do.

You know, if you have the right skills and live in the right communities, good-paying jobs are available. But for too many people, that's not reality. Every Delawarean has something to contribute if given the chance. And we need to make sure they have that chance.

As governor, I've made repeated visits to the Ferris School. The young men at Ferris often require intense rehabilitation. And four years ago, during a visit to a Ferris art class, a young man, whom I'll call Brian, gave me a drawing he made.

About a year later, a confident young man approached me at a Habitat for Humanity event. He delivered a firm handshake and asked if I remembered who he was. I couldn't quite place him. "I'm Brian," he said. "You met me at Ferris. I gave you the drawing. And look at me now."

A bit stunned, I asked if he was working for Habitat for Humanity. He wasn't. He was just volunteering in his free time while studying to be a nurse. And he was positively glowing.

I think about Brian whenever I see his drawing hanging in my office. It reminds me of the potential in every Delawarean. And unleashing that potential is one of the most important things we can do.

Unrealized potential has always been a human tragedy. And now, it is also an economic calamity. The premium in today's economy is on the human factor – the creativity, the talent, and drive in every one of us. And a society that squanders the potential of its people is a society that lets its future slip away.

Now, a bright future belongs to the states and nations that empower all of their citizens, transforming those who rely on government resources into contributors to our community. And that bright future belongs to places where people like Brian get trained, find good jobs, and build better tomorrows.

And that future will belong to us if we commit to unleash the potential in every Delawarean. And how we do that is what I want to talk about today.

Now, first and foremost, unleashing that potential requires that Delawareans have the opportunity to work.

Before the end of the decade, 60 percent of our jobs will require training beyond high school. And yet only 20% of our kids graduate from high school ready for college or a career.

The path to middle-class security is not what it was 30 years ago. So our approach to career preparation can't be either.

So, let's ensure that all of our children are on a path to realizing their full potential – whether they choose to pursue a degree or take an accelerated career path.

Now, first, we need to make sure that every Delaware student who can succeed in college gets off to a great start. Last week I spoke at a White House event where 100 college presidents announced new commitments to expanding college access. And because of our commitment, our commitment, to be first in the nation working to expand college opportunities statewide, Delaware was the only state recognized.

Thanks to our partnership with the College Board, we are identifying students with the potential to thrive in college, but who would likely not apply, often because of financial concerns. They have received letters from some of the nation's top colleges, including those from Delaware institutions, encouraging them to apply, waiving their application fees, and offering financial support.

They are students like Afoma Mbanefo of Christiana High School who was born in Nigeria to parents who never dreamed of going to college. After receiving the information we sent, she applied and has been accepted to six institutions, including the Honors Program at the University of Delaware. Afoma, congratulations!

We have 1,000 students in Delaware like Afoma who are capable of succeeding in college, but who don't attend. We can get that number to zero.

We know that students who are challenged in high school with college-level material often rise to the occasion. And studies show that when these students get a taste of college academics, they are twice as likely to enroll and persist to a second year in college.

So, I propose a scholarship program so that all low-income Delaware students with college potential can take credit-bearing courses during their senior year of high school.

And as we send more of our students into higher education, we need to make sure that they have a roadmap from the classroom to employment, and that our major employers are working with our universities so that our youth are prepared for the workforce. I'm pleased to announce today that DuPont has agreed to partner with our colleges on this effort.

They will work to identify skills needed for entry-level positions, they'll match those skills with courses offered by our colleges, and provide internships. And by completing identified courses and practical experiences, they will put students on a fast-track for opportunities, including full-time jobs.

And we look forward to other employers joining DuPont on this initiative.

Now, let's also ensure that those students who choose an accelerated career path – one that doesn't involve a degree – they have to get a head start on their futures.

Now, this fall, we will roll out a new two-year comprehensive program in manufacturing technologies for high school juniors and seniors. The program will focus on mechanical, electrical, and computer engineering – and it will lead to nationally recognized manufacturing certificates.

It's modeled after a partnership between Delaware Tech and Red Clay which allows students to attend classes at their home school, while augmenting what they learn by providing access to manufacturing equipment at Delaware Tech.

Now, to make our new program even more meaningful, it also must include real world experience. And that's where a new public-private partnership comes into play.

The Delaware Manufacturing Association and the Manufacturing Extension Partnership are working with us to identify members willing to offer real world opportunities during the summer between junior and senior year. Whether it takes the form of hands-on work or job shadowing, direct exposure to the workplace is crucial. And several manufacturers already have answered this call to action, including Agilent, Siemens, PBF, and PPG.

Now, matching skilled workers with available jobs is critical. And thanks to our new JobLink capability, it is easier than ever for employers to search our database for employees with the skills they need.

And in the last year, hundreds of employers have taken advantage of our new tools to find employees, and those inquiries led to hundreds of new hires at places such as Cabelas, Sitel, and Grayling Industries.

All of our efforts will be most successful when Delaware businesses collaborate with Delaware educational institutions. So I propose creating a competitive grant program to fund public-private partnerships between employers and our schools and colleges that will develop the skills needed by tomorrow's workforce.

Now, finally, too many working Delawareans struggle to care for their families and put food on the table. And I am glad that the General Assembly is poised to increase the minimum wage. Thank you for helping so many hardworking Delawareans.

Now, our ability to put Delawareans to work depends in part on whether we build on our legacy of innovation. We have a rich history of invention in Delaware, and it's time to write a new chapter. From the ashes of the old Chrysler plant is rising a new center of innovation that promises to do just that, the Science, Technology and Advanced Research campus.

The STAR campus represents the potential of university-based innovation to transform industries and spawn new companies. Now, academic research in Delaware contributed to the technologies that led to smart phones and tablets. Work done by Nobel Laureate and UD Professor Richard Heck yielded chemical processes used in pharmaceuticals, energy, and electronics.

So to encourage that kind of research, I ask that you invest in innovation by creating a $2 million matching grant program that will leverage federal dollars in support of research that will create the jobs of tomorrow.

And one of the most promising areas for research that will have an impact on our economy is cybersecurity. From the financial information held by Delaware's many banks to the technologies being developed by area science companies, our economy is only as secure as the networks that hold our personal data and intellectual property. As customers of Target and many other companies know, hacking and cyber attacks represent a huge threat.

And staying ahead of this challenge is something we and our employers need to do to protect our citizens and our customers, and it is good for our economy. Hundreds of unfilled jobs in this sector exist in Delaware today.

And our institutions of higher education are positioning themselves to take a leadership role in this area and I am poised to join with them to launch the Delaware Cyber Initiative.

Located on the STAR campus, this initiative will be a public-private partnership between the University of Delaware, Delaware State University, Delaware Tech and the private sector. It will feature a collaborative learning and research network dedicated to cyber innovation, and I'm proud to say it will tap into the resources of the 166th Network Warfare Squadron of the Delaware National Guard.

Now, unleashing the potential of our economy also demands world-class infrastructure. The ability to move goods and services efficiently, to connect to cutting-edge information technology infrastructure, and access cleaner, cheaper, and more reliable energy, is essential to every industry in our state.

For years, Delawareans tried to avoid the interchange of I-95 and Route 1. But our investment in new fly-over ramps has alleviated congestion, shortening commutes, shipping times, and trips to the beach.

We are making similar improvements at I-95 and 202. That exit ramp was a notorious choke point, but improvements have cut the average number of hours per day of slowing traffic from six to less than one.

DelDOT will soon begin construction on the long-awaited West Dover Connector. In Sussex County, DelDOT is widening SR 26. And across Delaware, new and improved bike paths are improving our quality of life.

Infrastructure investments create high-paying, middle-class jobs today and they lay the foundation for future prosperity. And it's time to stop complaining about the sorry shape of our Transportation Trust Fund and fix the underlying issues.

I propose that we invest $1.1 billion over five years; now that is a $500 million increase over our current financial plan. Let's improve our transportation network for generations to come and put thousands of Delawareans to work.

We need to invest beyond our road network.

As Speaker Schwartzkopf and Senator Simpson know full well, investment in our parks, wildlife areas, beaches and other recreational amenities help attract millions of tourists, who in turn spend hundreds of millions of dollars and support thousands of jobs at restaurants, hotels and retail shops across our state.

Look specifically at our waterways. Water is the foundation of our tourism industry. It's vital to agriculture, manufacturing, and everything that we do.

Yet a century of pollution has impaired nearly every waterway in our state. While we have significantly reduced air pollution and cleaned up brownfields, far too many streams remain unsafe, as Senator Lopez keeps reminding us.

We can't eat our fish from the St. Jones. We can't swim in too many parts of the Inland Bays. The Christina and Brandywine rivers are laced with toxic pollutants.

This is embarrassing. This is unacceptable. And we must change it.

This won't be easy or cheap – but it is achievable. Now, we must upgrade wastewater and drinking water plants and improve stormwater infrastructure. We must use cutting-edge technologies to remove toxic substances, like we are doing right outside this building at Mirror Lake thanks to the strong advocacy of Senator Bushweller.

So, to work toward these goals, next month, I will propose the Clean Water for Delaware's Future Initiative. The goal of this initiative is to clean up our waterways within a generation. Some much faster than that.

And in our time, this will create jobs. In our kids' time, we will revitalize communities across our state. We owe future generations clean water. It's that simple.

Now, we all agree that a quality education is essential for anyone seeking to unleash his or her potential – and this begins at a very early age. Teachers tell us that the number one barrier to academic success is when kids do not come to school ready to learn.

Six years ago, Senator Blevins set us on a path to improve the quality of our children's early learning experiences, as prime sponsor of the legislation that created the Stars quality rating system in Delaware. The Stars program has provided the critical base for the investments we have made over the last several years.

We have made significant progress. Last year alone the number of low-income children attending a high quality program increased by 50%. That means 2,200, two thousand two hundred, more children are getting better opportunities to be prepared for success in school.

I am grateful to Senator Blevins and all of the members of the General Assembly for your support of early childhood education opportunities for low income Delawareans.

But our work on behalf of our most vulnerable children isn't done. We can do more to support the national Nurse Family Partnership program, through which nurses visit first-time low-income mothers, and teach them how to care for their newborns. The results around the country have been stunning, including better academic performance, less juvenile delinquency and better overall child health outcomes.

And as our next step, I propose that we more than double the number of first-time mothers who are served in Delaware by this proven program. That would give us a higher percentage of eligible mothers who are benefitting from this program than in any other state in America.

And I want to thank Lt. Governor Matt Denn for championing this proposal.

We are making significant strides in our schools, thanks to this General Assembly, including education chairs Senator Sokola and Representative Scott, and thanks to so many talented educators across our state.

The world language immersion programs you funded now have 850 students in ten schools spending half of their school days learning in either Chinese or Spanish. And parents of those students have been thrilled with the results, telling us these programs have enriched their children's education.

Our professional learning communities and implementation of higher standards are producing positive results. And two-thirds of our educators say their improved professional development is having a positive impact in their classrooms.

We are particularly focused on supporting our teachers of science, technology, engineering and math. Many jobs of the future will be in these STEM fields. But we have trouble recruiting and retaining talented STEM teachers who have more lucrative options.

So, today I'm delighted to announce that this fall the Delaware STEM Council, in partnership with Ashland, will be giving awards to support our best STEM teachers, so they can share effective teaching strategies.

Now, the magic of education happens with our teachers. It doesn't happen in Legislative Hall or in my office. But if you look at the way we fund education, you would think politicians have all the answers.

State government sets rigid funding formulas that determine how many assistant principals, reading instructors, and administrative assistants a school will have. In fact, we have one of the most rigid funding systems in the country. And this leaves little room for school leaders – those who know our students best – to innovate, create a vision, and pursue it.

It's time to give those school leaders more flexibility to make a difference in our kids' education.

Starting in a handful of districts, I propose that we give school leaders the ability to spend some portion of their state resources in implementing their own school improvement plans. We should track their choices, measure the results, and see how we can best provide greater flexibility to more schools.

I thank Representative Heffernan for taking the lead on this issue.

Now, unleashing every student's potential also demands that we make it more attractive for our best teachers to continue doing what they love – teaching. And since last year, my administration has been listening to educators about how we might set up a compensation system that attracts and retains great teachers.

Our best teachers deserve a path to receive additional compensation for pursuing leadership opportunities while remaining in the classroom.

And we also must recognize that our starting salaries are not competitive with our neighbors.

I want to thank the Delaware State Education Association and the teachers who are working with us on an improved approach to educator compensation. We are pleased with the progress we've made, but there is still work to do and I hope we will be in a position to introduce legislation this spring.

Now, much of our success as a state will depend upon whether our cities are safe and vibrant.

We know revitalizing neighborhoods is an important part of making our streets safer. And we can replicate the success other communities have had in strengthening neighborhoods, while also harnessing the attraction that vibrant downtowns hold for talented young people and innovative small businesses.

To do so, I propose we create "Downtown Development Districts" – a small number of designated areas in our cities that will qualify for development incentives and a host of other benefits in housing and transportation. Builders looking to make investments in these Districts would receive grants for a percentage of their investment.

And I propose dedicating $7 million toward these kinds of projects, which will leverage tens of millions of dollars in private capital. And more importantly, this program can improve our housing stock and revitalize our downtowns.

Now, making our downtowns more vibrant and safer must start with Wilmington. Wilmington is the business capital of the state and our cultural center, yet violent crime has engulfed neighborhoods and taken many lives. And when people do not feel safe in their communities, little else matters.

There is no quick fix. Mayor Williams has a significant task ahead of him. But it will take all of us doing our part -- all levels of government, neighborhood leaders, faith communities, businesses—all of us. The Delaware State Police, Secretary Schiliro, Attorney General Biden, New Castle County Executive Gordon, and others all stand ready to help address the crime problems in Wilmington and beyond.

Far too often, gun violence is committed by shooters who cannot legally own guns, so it is critical that we do a better job tracing these weapons back to their sources. We must redouble our efforts to confront the gun-trafficking that is escalating the gang wars.

And to do so, I am proposing a new Division of Special Investigations within the Department of Safety and Homeland Security that will focus on gun-trafficking.

At the same time, we must place as much focus on addressing the causes of crime. So much crime is committed by people with substance abuse problems. Seventy-one percent of men arrested in 10 U.S. cities in 2011 tested positive for an illegal substance.

And too often, our solution is to simply throw the drug user in prison, but many of these individuals need treatment more than a prison guard.

For many addicts, it's possible to deal with their disease successfully and go on to live happy, productive lives. There are stories like the young man recovering from a life-threatening addiction to heroin and becoming a business owner.

Or a teenage girl who lapsed into drug and alcohol use following her father's suicide and landed in jail, but with assistance of a Drug Court program, she overcame her addiction. And she got a college education.

We all know people with addictions who, with the right intervention, could live fulfilling lives. It's time for us to put into practice what we already know: addiction is a disease. It can and must be treated.

Now, Representatives Keeley, Barbieri, and Mulrooney along with Senators Henry and Hall Long, together with Secretary Landgraf and with Carla, are reviewing the addiction treatment needs in our state and the resources available to meet those needs.

Later this year, I will propose changes that better align our resources to fill the gaps in our drug treatment system and I look forward to working with you to fill these gaps.

Now, we can't meet the potential of our great state and our great country if we give up on a great number of our people. Today, America incarcerates more than 2 million people, and each year we release more than 700,000 inmates. 25 years ago, the total number of people incarcerated was 700,000.

For released inmates, their criminal record makes it difficult to be productive members of society.

There are those who belong behind bars and it is worth every penny we spend to keep them there. But when a person has served their time, it's up to them – and to us – to make sure they transition effectively, achieve their potential and contribute to society.

Now, in 2009, with the leadership of Secretary McMahon and Director Ben Addi, we began our I-ADAPT initiative to help offenders prepare for their eventual release by giving them some of what they need to return to our communities. Identification. Access to medical care. A transition plan. Job training opportunities.

And five years of experience has taught us that those little things make a big difference. But for many offenders there is one thing we can't give them – a driver's license. Many offenders guilty of drug offenses are denied a driver's license – regardless of whether their crime had anything to do with a car. And this penalty is just one more punishment that prevents them from seeking employment and accessing job training.

This should change. And I ask you to eliminate the arbitrary loss of a drivers' license for crimes that have nothing to do with automobiles.

And too many of the inmates we release end up going back to prison. And one of the best predictors of whether a person will commit another crime is whether they have a job. But if we know employing ex-offenders helps make our communities safer, why are we putting so many hurdles in the way of job opportunities for ex-offenders?

We need to start by looking at employment discrimination against people who have repaid their debt to society. Here is an example: If there is one employer in Delaware that should be able to decide whether hiring an ex-offender makes sense, it's the Department of Correction. But the Department is prohibited from hiring anyone with a felony record, even on a part-time basis.

As Representative JJ Johnson has suggested, we can do better.

Many communities have started to "ban the box" on job applications by eliminating the box that says "check here if you've been convicted of a crime." I believe we should ban the box for state government hires this year.

Let's stop denying ex-offenders their first interview. And let's be a model for the private sector, because marginalizing ex-offenders helps none of us.

Now, Delaware's incarceration rate is higher than the national average in a country whose average is higher than the rest of the world's. That's not a point of pride, it's incredibly expensive, and it hasn't worked.

We lock up too many people for not making bail and not appearing at hearings. Forty percent of the women incarcerated at Baylor are pre-trial detainees, many charged with non-violent offenses.

And based on guidance from Commissioner Coupe, I propose that we pilot, in the City of Wilmington, a program of pre-trial community supervision for non-violent offenders. Based on a model from New York, this pilot program will allow the Department of Correction and social service providers to help get offenders to hearings and avoid trouble while awaiting trial.

By supervising some offenders, we can keep them out of prison in the first place and link them with services to address addictions or mental health concerns in the community, and not a prison cell.

And in addition to filling our prisons with pre-trial detainees, we also impose longer sentences than other states do. And one reason is that we are the only state in the country that forces our judges, without exception, to impose consecutive rather than concurrent sentences for multiple offenses.

That hasn't made us any safer and contributes to overcrowding in our prisons. I ask you to join me in giving judges greater discretion when it comes to concurrent and consecutive sentencing.

And lastly, we need to change the trajectory of kids who enter the criminal justice system at a young age.

Many of these kids are bright and full of potential. And, after living in a facility with structure, education, and medical care, they have the same goals and determination as any of our kids.

But here is the reality. As well as those kids do while they are in a secure facility, when they leave our care, they often return to the same exact circumstances that led them to us in the first place, only now they are returning with the burden of a juvenile record. Many of them won't complete their education.

Of 184 kids in custody at our Faulkland Road campus last year, only 11 were back in traditional schools six months later. Many kids drop out, are expelled, or are re-incarcerated. This is our failure. Because we have seen the progress many of them make while under our care and we must do better when they transition away from our facilities.

So, I am asking you to fund community-based advocates to work with these families and kids after they leave the custody of the Kids Department. A 15 year old doesn't know how to access mental health services, or re-enroll in school, and get on a path to success. But these advocates can make that happen.

And we also need to break the cycle of incarceration by getting these kids back into school. I am asking Secretary Ranji to lead a task force focused on how to get these children into an educational environment that is sensitive to their unique challenges and experiences.

Now, one of my favorite parts about being Governor is that I get to meet Delawareans from every walk of life. The budding entrepreneur. The ex-con trying to get back on his feet. The first generation college student. The third generation farmer. The excited new mother. The hopeful immigrant.

And you know what? We all really want the same thing. We want to give life our very best shot. We want to make the most of the talents that God has given us.

Much has been written in recent months about inequality in America. About a lack of economic mobility, declining incomes for working families, a shrinking middle class. About a lack of opportunity for people born into difficult circumstances or who make a poor decision early in life.

The very promise of America – the essence of the American dream – is that while we are not guaranteed equal outcomes, we are guaranteed equal opportunities to achieve our potential.

That's why in recent years, we have focused so much on strengthening our schools, creating good-paying jobs, and enhancing our quality of life.

That's why, with the help of Representative Melanie Smith and Senator Greg Lavelle, we passed the Justice Reinvestment Act to rehabilitate and not just incarcerate.

That's why we passed new laws to make it clear that Delaware is a welcoming state no matter whom you love.

We do all of this because of our core value – our shared belief – that we all stand to gain when everyone gets a fair shot.

Isn't that why we're all here?

Years from now – after the roads have been built; after today's kindergartners have retired from jobs that we helped create; after our cities thrive and our waters run clean; the people of Delaware may not remember us by name or know about the laws we passed or the bills we debated.

But in the end, that's not what's important. What they will know is that we were here for them and that our focus was to unleash the potential of every Delawarean now and help ensure that future generations will be able to go further than we could ever have dreamed.

I know we have the resolve to do our part to realize the promise of our great State of Delaware.

Thank you. God bless you and all the people of Delaware!

HCR 62 - RECOGNIZING THE 60TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE OPINION OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES IN BROWN V. BOARD OF EDUCATION AND RECOGNIZING THE EFFORTS OF DELAWAREANS INVOLVED IN THE CONSOLIDATED CASES.

WHEREAS, the opinion of the Warren Court in the Brown v. Board of Education case was handed down 60 years ago this past May; and

WHEREAS, the unanimous ruling reversed a previous ruling in Plessy v. Ferguson and found that “separate but equal accommodations” were a violation of the 14th amendment and denied persons of color the equal protection of the laws of the United States; and

WHEREAS, the ruling found that “separate educational facilities are inherently unequal,” effectively beginning the end of racial segregation in our public schools; and

WHEREAS, the ruling’s impacts were even more broadly felt, instituting the principle that the Constitution forbids segregation on the basis of race in any instance; and

WHEREAS, two cases filed in Delaware and heard by the Delaware Supreme Court, Belton v. Gebhart and Bulah v. Gebhart were part of the package of cases examined in Brown, and were the only cases in which the state court held racial segregation was unconstitutional; and

WHEREAS, Louis L. Redding, the first African American member of the Delaware State Bar, argued the Gebhart cases before the Delaware courts, and was successful in winning a ruling in favor of integration; and

WHEREAS, Collins J. Seitz was presiding as the Chancellor of the Court of Chancery at the time the case was heard, and led his court in an opinion railing against the separate but equal principle and racial segregation; and

WHEREAS, Shirley Bulah and Ethel Louise Belton, both students forced to attend a school for African American students, were the plaintiff’s [sic] in the two Delaware cases; and

WHEREAS, an integrated society is one that fosters a greater sharing of cultures, ideas, and values, resulting in a richer community experience for all citizens; and

WHEREAS, we must continue to work towards ensuring that we provide the resources necessary to make sure that our schools are accommodating and effective for students of all backgrounds;

NOW, THEREFORE:

BE IT RESOLVED by the House of Representatives of the 147th General Assembly, the Senate concurring therein, that we do hereby recognize 2014 as the 60th anniversary of the announcement of the opinion in the case of *Brown v. September 19, 2014

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
OF THE 147TH GENERAL ASSEMBLY:

Pursuant to Article III, Section 18 of the Delaware Constitution, I am vetoing House Substitute No. 1 to House Bill No. 231 (“House Bill 231”) by returning it with my objections to the House of Representatives without my signature.

House Bill 231 would expand the Board of Directors of the Diamond State Port Corporation (“DSPC Board”), which owns and operates the Port of Wilmington, from 15 to 17 members. The 2 new members would be appointed by the General Assembly, thereby giving the legislative branch 5 direct appointees on the DSPC Board.

The Port of Wilmington is one of Delaware’s most important economic assets, and the legislative branch has an important role to play in its operation and oversight. I have twice signed legislation to expand the General Assembly’s authority in that regard. But the fact is that Delaware law already gives the legislature a stronger voice in port operations than virtually any other legislative body in America.

Under current law, the DSPC Board is comprised of 8 ex officio members and 7 gubernatorial “public” appointees. 29 Del.C. § 8781(b). Three of the 8 ex officio positions belong to the General Assembly, and the Senate must confirm the nominations of the chair (one of the ex officio members) and each of the 7 “public” members appointed by the Governor. Id. In addition, transactions involving the sale, lease, or merger of the Port must be approved by the legislature -- and under a bill I signed last year, transactions involving the lease or privatization of the Port require General Assembly approval as well. Id. §§ 8781(a), 8784(1). Further, last week I signed legislation creating a 9-member council, which includes 4 legislative appointees, to advise the DSPC Board. Id. § 8781(e). In sum, multiple avenues exist for members of the legislative branch to participate in the operation of the Port and to help shape its overall direction.

In virtually every other state, by contrast, port operations are viewed as exclusively executive functions. As a result, the legislative branch in those states has little or no input. In Maryland, for instance, the Port of Baltimore is governed by a 7-member commission comprised of the Secretary of Transportation and 6 members appointed by the Governor and confirmed by the Senate. Md. Stat. Ann. § 6-201(c). Under Maryland law, the Governor is prohibited from appointing a member of the General Assembly to the commission. Id. § 6-201(d)(1)(iv).

In New Jersey, the Ports of Camden and Salem are owned and operated by the South Jersey Port Corporation, which is governed by an 11-member board comprised of the State Treasurer and 10 members appointed by the Governor and confirmed by the Senate. N.J. Stat. Ann. § 12:11A-5(b). Further south, the Virginia Ports Authority, which operates Port of Virginia at Norfolk and all state ports, is governed by a 13-member board comprised of two ex officio members and 11 members appointed by the Governor and confirmed by the Senate. Va. Code Ann. § 62.1-129.

The above examples are consistent with the law in most states as well. Some of the largest and busiest ports in America are governed by port authorities having boards that consist entirely of gubernatorial appointees and members of the executive branch. Among many other examples, these include the Georgia Ports Authority (which owns and operates the Port of Savannah and all other state ports), the Ports of Indiana (3 state ports); the Massachusetts Port Authority (Port of Boston); the Port of New Orleans; and the South Carolina State Ports Authority (Port of Charleston and other state ports).<sup>1</sup> Indeed, in Georgia, Indiana, and Massachusetts, the Governor’s appointments do not even require confirmation by the legislature.<sup>2</sup>

<sup>1</sup> See Ga. Code Ann. § 52-2-5 (Ga. Ports Authority governed by 13-member board appointed by Governor); Ind. Code 8-10-1-3(b) (all members of Port of Indiana Commission appointed by Governor); 1956 Mass. Acts ch 465, § 2 (Mass. Port Authority board comprised of 6 gubernatorial appointees and Secretary of Transportation); La. Rev. Stat. Ann. § 34:1 (Board of Commissioners of Port of New Orleans comprised of 7 members appointed by Governor from list of nominees submitted by local groups); S.C. Code Ann. § 54-3-10 (S.C. State Ports Authority governed by board consisting of 2 ex officio members and 9 members appointed by Governor).

<sup>2</sup> Even among the small number of jurisdictions that authorize legislative appointments to state port boards, the authority of the legislative branch is typically limited by other provisions of state law. In North Carolina, for example, the General Assembly appoints 4 of 11 members to the N.C. State Ports Authority. N.C. Stat. Art. 20, § 136-260(a). However, state law also provides that the Authority is “created within the Department of Transportation and shall be subject to and under the direct supervision of the Secretary of Transportation.” Id.

In addition to the broader policy issues raised above, House Bill 231 raises a practical issue as well. Under current law, 6 out of 15 DSPC Board members are required to establish a quorum and to take action on any matter before the corporation. 29 Del.C. § 8781(d). In additions, DSPC’s bylaws provide that a special meeting may be called by 6 members -- i.e., “one-third of the directors then in office (rounded up to the nearest whole number).” Bylaws § 2.

Although House Bill 231 would expand the DSPC Board from 15 to 17 members, it does not change the foregoing requirement. Thus, if House Bill 231 were to become law, it would take only 6 out of 17 directors to call a special meeting, establish a quorum, and bind the Port to a particular course of action. While not a significant factor in my decision to veto House Bill 231, this number is inappropriately low. Delaware law should encourage DSPC Board members to collaborate and participate in the management of the Port, and allowing only 6 members to act on behalf of a 17-member DSPC Board would send the opposite message. Given the issues raised above, there would have to be a compelling reason to expand the DSPC Board to add 2 additional members appointed by the legislature. Simply put, no such reason exists here. According to the bill’s prime sponsor, the principal rationale for this bill is to give the General Assembly a greater say in the affairs and management of the Port. But as set forth above, the legislature already has significant authority in this regard.

The Port is a source of good jobs in Wilmington and an economic engine in our region, and the General Assembly is a valuable partner in ensuring the ongoing success of the Port and its employees and customers. But absent a significant and demonstrable benefit to the operations of the Port, I see no reason to expand the DSPC Board in the manner contemplated by House Bill 231.

Sincerely,
Jack A. Markell
Governor
