City Employees' Union Rights Authorized In Council Action

Newark Hailed As First City In State To Endorse Plan
Provided By Law For State Employees; Bill Coverdale
Attends Final Meeting As 1st District Representative

The right of municipal employees to organize for union representation; two ordinances amending parking restrictions; and the recommendation that the American Association of Industrial Management conduct a local wage and salary survey were approved at last Monday night's meeting of Newark City Council, as Councilman William M. Coverdale attended his last meeting as a representative of the first district. Coverdale, who was first elected to council from the old Eastern District in 1950, is changing his residence to the second district, and his resignation becomes effective next Monday.

A proposed resolution citing Coverdale for his service to the city, was withdrawn at the retiring councilman's request after questioning by Councilman Albert P. Chittenden and David H. Doehrlert.

Chittenden termed the proffered resolution as "unusual," in lieu of a letter of commendation, and Mayor Joseph A. Shields replied that the resolution was presented because Coverdale was "an unusual man." Doehrlert objected to the wording and length of the resolution, expressing his view that "this council not sit in judgment on his character and performance."

Coverdale interposed with "to resolve this simple matter, I urge that you drop the resolution," and the resolution was withdrawn.

The proposal read in part that "Coverdale has served the citizens of the City of Newark for 15 years with honesty and dignity... and with expression of regret at his resignation, continued with 'Mr. Coverdale's interest, provident advice and sound judgment has rendered a service of great value to the people of the City of Newark.'"

Fred Wakefield, councilman for the second district in which Coverdale will live, expressed his hope that "Bill and I will be on the same ballot together."

Council adopted a resolution according municipal employees the right recently provided state employees for union organization, and Andrew J. Brothers and Richard Chatack—organizers for the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO, in the audience—congratulated council on this approval.

"You happen to be the first city in Delaware to conform to this law," Brothers said.

City Manager J. Francis Neide stated that "need for an employee organization affiliated with a national organization is not apparent," but added his belief that "relationship between the administration and employees would be greatly enhanced if the employees organized as an independent local and elected representatives who could discuss mutual problems with the administrative staff."

Parking Restrictions
The two ordinances approved unanimously at final readings last Monday night prohibit parking on East Delaware Avenue between Academy and South Chapel streets from 3 to 6 p.m. on the south side of Cleveland Avenue between Capitol Trail and McKee's Lane from 4 to 5 p.m., and provide new parking restrictions on portions of North and South College avenues: East and West Cleveland avenues; Delaware Avenue; North Chapel, East Main, and Academy streets.

Council approved city membership in the American Association of Industrial Management at an annual cost of approximately $150, and authorized expenditure of $2,000 for the association to conduct a municipal salary and wage schedule survey. Doehrlert raised the question of discrimination against property owners with the list of sub-standard dwellings presented by the city building inspector. Coverdale said that "I respect any implication of discrimination." He said that an additional inspector had been employed by the city.

Council approved city contribution of $400 to the Halloween Mardi Gras committee for the community program to be conducted this week. Authorized attendance of Sgt. George Getty at a three-week course on police traffic service to be conducted from Nov. 29 at Northwestern University at a cost of $675; and deferred action on a proposed agreement with Architect Richard P. Fox for design of a municipal building, until the next council meeting.

Board of Ethics
The first reading of a proposed ordinance to establish a municipal board of ethics to implement the code adopted by council for public officials and employees, was deferred pending revision to provide for board meetings other than by authority of city council. Coverdale pointed out that it may be desirable to have the city manager activate such a board.

NHS, Army Gragger, Capt. John Z. Miller Wins Silver Star For Vietnam Gallantry

Captain John Z. Miller, Jr., of Newark, was decorated with the Silver Star by Gen. W. C. Westmoreland of the Military Assistance Command in Vietnam, in a ceremony in the MACV headquarters at Saigon on Oct. 13.

Miller was cited for gallantry in action last May 11, when the village where he was located was attacked by four Viet Cong battalions which infiltrated the village and directed its main assault at the advisor compound.

"Captain Miller then returned to the compound where he took up a position only 10 meters from the main enemy position."

"Although the Viet Cong repeatedly threw grenades and placed intense small arms fire on his position, Captain Miller maintained his fire on the VC position."

"He then sent a clear, concise situation report to the reaction force indicating enemy locations, strength and weapon positions."

Volunteer Firemen To Launch Annual Fund Drive On Sunday

Aetnemen To Call At Homes In District On Successive
Sundays For Contributions To 1966 Goal Of $29,650;
Direct Mailing To Be Tried In Chestnut Hill Estates

Seeking $29,650 with house-to-house calls in the Newark fire district, volunteer firemen of the Aetna Hose, Hook & Ladder Co. will visit homes in the area on two successive Sundays—Oct. 31, and Nov. 7. Chestnut Hill Estates will be an exception, where direct mailing will be tried for the first time.

"Aetnemen have records for the past five years, and with expansion in the Newark area, direct mailing may prove the answer to our fund drive problems," Chairman Olan R. Thomas of the Aetna fund drive committee stated yesterday.

This Sunday, with their first trip through the Newark district, Aetna volunteers will distribute folders outlining their needs.

On the following Sunday, Nov. 7, some 150 uniformed firemen will call for collections on "A-Day." Residents not at home or missed in the canvass will be asked to mail their contributions during November.

"Funds are needed if Newark's volunteer fire department is to continue to provide adequate protection of life and property in this extremely fast-growing area," President Charles Wollaston of the Aetna Hose, Hook & Ladder Co., explained.

"The $29,650 is to supplement income from other sources to meet a proposed budget of $62,050 for the year 1966," Wollaston concluded.

During 1965, Aetna added a 1965 International brush truck No. 90, and 1965 American LaFrance pumper-tank-truck No. 93 to help meet heavy demands on equipment. The number of fire alarms has increased annually. In 1964 there were 405 alarms, and with 335 received through September, the total for the current year is expected to top that of 1964.

Aetnemen Receive
New Pump Truck
For Fire-Fighting
A new fire truck—an American LaFrance pumper—was delivered to Newark firemen of the Aetna Hose, Hook & Ladder Co. last Monday afternoon.

Fifth pump truck in the Aetna fleet which includes a ladder truck, two field fire engines; and a rescue truck, the new engine carries 750-gals. of water; 1,000-ft. of 2½-in. and 800-ft. of 1½-in. hose, and is valued at $29,000.

Fire Chief Clifton Knotts cited public support of Aetna's annual fund campaigns as "enabling Aetna to purchase such equipment that is efficient and in pace with latest techniques."

Newark's volunteer firemen will launch their 1966 campaign for funds this Sunday, with a goal of $29,650.

Roads in Delaware and Maryland challenged the map readers and only two cars lost their way and had to use the panic envelope with a map of the area.

The rally ended at Camp Tockwagh in Worton, Md.

Social Security Changes

By Myron Milbourn, Manager
Wilmington Social Security Office

Nearly all northern Delaware residents 65 or over will be affected by recent amendments in the Social Security Act whether or not they receive Social Security monthly benefits.

An entirely new program of health insurance for the aged will affect about 25,000 local residents 65 or over.

The first part of this program, a basic plan of hospital insurance, will benefit practically all 65 or over. The second part of the program is a supplementary medical plan in which people 65 or over must choose whether or not they may wish to enroll.

Another change in the law will affect all those people now getting monthly Social Security benefits. This is the 7 per cent increase in benefits, effective last January. In September, beneficiaries received an extra check representing the difference between new and old rates back to January.

Other important changes made in the Social Security law this year include: Permitting widows to receive a reduced benefit as early as age 60. Paying benefits to children after they reach 18 until they reach 22, if they are attending school full-time.

Providing automatic refiguring of a worker's monthly benefit if he has earnings from work after becoming eligible for benefits, to find out if additional earnings will increase his payment.

Authorizing benefits for certain persons 72 or older who did not have enough work credit to get benefits previously.

Increased amount of gross income farmers can use when reporting farm income under optional method.

Adjusted Social Security contribution rates for employees, employers, and self-employed persons. Also established a new contribution to finance hospital insurance for the aged, and raised earnings base on which these contributions are paid from $4,800 to $6,600 beginning with 1966.

Authorized benefits for certain divorced wives of deceased workers who were dependent on their former husbands.

Increased amount of earnings a beneficiary can have without having all benefits withheld, starting in 1966.

University Offers Free Eggs To Aid Science Projects

Hatching eggs for use in school science projects will be available this fall from the department of animal science and agricultural biochemistry at the University of Delaware, according to Dr. William Benton.

Last year, the department provided more than 1,500 eggs to schools throughout the state. Directions for building homemade incubators also are available. Dr. Benton says these incubators are quite satisfactory if they are kept at a fairly constant temperature of about 100 degrees. Eggs hatch three weeks after the start of incubation. White Leghorn chickens are used to produce eggs for this purpose because of their high rate of production. In addition, because shells are white, developing embryos can be observed.

Low Prices Face Soybean Farmers With Fall Market

Delaware farmers can expect lower prices and a strong preference for quality when they market their soybeans this fall. Prices will average $2.35 to $2.40 per bushel, according to W. T. McAllister, farm management specialist at the University of Delaware.

Currently, farmers are receiving $2.37 per bu. for U. S. #2 or better soybeans.

The largest soybean crop in history has depressed national soybean prices 25 to 30 cents per bu. below 1964 levels, and the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture estimates an increase of 25 per cent in national soybean production this year.

While both domestic and export uses for soybeans are expected to rise, McAllister says current supplies will more than offset demand during the next several months.

Over the past four years, soybeans have become the largest U. S. farm export. At least a fourth of Delaware's current crop of 3,500,000 bu. will be sold overseas according to the economist.

McAllister says that as soybeans exporters set higher penalties on low quality harvesting and beans, marketing will become more important.

"We believe the benefits these school children get from their research projects repay us well for the small cost of eggs," Benton says. As the eggs are produced on the university farm, they are placed in cold storage until requested. However, if they are all incubated at the same time, all embryos will develop at about the same time, regardless of when they were laid.

Teachers or students wishing to have a supply of fertile eggs for hatching may contact Jack Rosenberger, graduate assistant in the department of animal science and agricultural biochemistry at the university after Nov. 1.

One week's notice is required, and the usual limit is two dozen eggs for a project. However, more eggs are available for particularly large science classes. Eggs for these science projects are free.

Junior Red Cross School Enrollment To Begin Monday

The annual high school and Junior Red Cross enrollment in Delaware schools will begin next Monday, and Mrs. George A. Zerkow, chairman, announces that during the first two weeks in November, students in schools throughout the state will be given opportunity to join a program which bands together the nation's young people in humanitarian service.

A total of 35,360 students enrolled in the program in Delaware in the 1964-65 school year.

One of the major projects of Red Cross Youth in Delaware schools this season will be pupil preparation of Friendship kits and boxes for South Vietnamese children.

"The displacement of many thousands of South Vietnamese families is of concern to the Red Cross," said Mrs. Zerkow. "Many children are in refugee centers or otherwise out of their homes or away from their families."

"Although the U. S. Government and other agencies are assisting the South Vietnamese people in the meeting of their basic needs, the American Red Cross is uniquely capable of providing that extra something . . . that warm expression of love and concern from our young people to their children through Friendship boxes and kits," Mrs. Zerkow said.

The Friendship kits and boxes to be filled by pupils will include educational supplies, such as pencils, ballpoint pen, notebook or paper pad; health items such as toothbrush, toothpaste, comb and soap; and toys and personal items such as socks, hair bands or ribbons.

S&H Foundation Lectures Offered On Local Campus

A lecture series on "Social Science and Peace" is scheduled at the University of Delaware next spring under a grant from the S&H Foundation, Inc.

Parts of the lecture series will be open to the public. Other activities will be graduate-faculty colloquiums and classroom lectures.

The S&H Foundation sponsored by the Sperry and Hutchinson Co., recently presented the university with a check for $1,618 to support the two-part lecture series.

Dr. Dean G. Pruitt, associate professor of psychology, will direct the Delaware lecture program.

Speakers scheduled to spend about a day and a half each on the Newark campus next semester are Prof. Charles E. Osgood, University of Illinois, and Prof. Karl W. Deutsch of Yale.

The S&H Foundation lectureship was established in 1960 and more than 100 colleges and universities have received grants since that time. Last year 36 grants totaling $70,000 were made. The maximum annual award to any institution is $2,000.

The Sperry and Hutchinson Co., has supported the University of Delaware for the last three years through scholarships and unrestricted grants.

John W. Matthews, Wilmington, held a $750 S&H scholarship for the last two years. An engineering student, he graduated in June.

His brother David P., a biological sciences major, holds a $1,000 award this year.

Unrestricted grants equal to half of the scholarships were given to the university each year.

Automobile Listed No. 1

On Teen-Age Killer List

The No. 1 killer of American teenagers today is the automobile.

Francis J. Jamison, assistant manager of the Delaware Safety Council, warns.

"Last year in Delaware, 19 teenagers were killed on our highways, with 65 injured and 3,240 teen-age drivers involved in accidents."

The teen-age driver has nearly 2.5 million accidents per year and the total is steadily increasing.

"Unfortunately, the general attitude of the parents seem to be that only a few hot rods have accidents, certainly not their kids," Jamison said.

A little thought and a little kindness are often worth more than a great deal of money. —John Ruskin

Automobile Listed No. 1 On Teen-Age Killer List

"The No. 1 killer of American teenagers today is the automobile," Francis J. Jamison, assistant manager of the Delaware Safety Council, warns.

"Last year in Delaware, 19 teenagers were killed on our highways, with 65 injured and 3,240 teen-age drivers involved in accidents."

The teen-age driver has nearly 2.5 million accidents per year and the total is steadily increasing.

"Unfortunately, the general attitude of the parents seem to be that only a few hot rods have accidents, certainly not their kids," Jamison said.

Fun, Not Disaster Parents Cautioned With Halloween

Halloween is exciting fun, but don't let it turn into a disaster for your child, says Coral K. Morris, extension home management specialist at the University of Delaware.

A jack-o-lantern grinning in the dark is a Halloween tradition. Don't let that grin turn into a fire. If you use real pumpkins, be sure the candle is placed firmly and in an upright position. And of course, never leave a lighted jack-o-lantern unattended.

A costume without a mask hardly seems like a costume at all. Yet a mask can be very dangerous. If it blocks a child's vision, make-up can be just as imaginative as any mask, and far safer, says Miss Morris.

Costumes, too, can be hazardous, warns Miss Morris. Most are not fireproof, many are extremely flimsy. Keep candles and jack-o-lanterns safely away.

Do not allow children to wear costumes that are so long they trail on the ground. Children can trip and fall much too easily while dashing back and forth in the dark.

Ghosts are safer than witches—on dark roads. Certainly motorists can see a white costume more clearly. For traffic safety, be sure your children wear light-colored costumes when they go trick-or-treating.

Perhaps the greatest Halloween hazard is internal. Children who eat a six-month supply of candy in one night will probably need medical attention the next day. Put some candy aside and dole it out over a few weeks time, Miss Morris advises parents.

Never give suckers with hard sticks. Give fruit, cookies, popcorn balls or small packages of raisins to youngsters who knock on your door this Halloween. Parents at last, will welcome these more nutritious treats.

Needlecraft News by Nancy Baxter

FLOWERS SEEM TO BE GROWING all over the place on this cheerful toaster cover and potholder set. Toasters are so constantly in service these days, especially when there are youngsters around, that they deserve to be "dressed up" and put on display when they're not in use. Just think of how nice they would be to look at, first in the morning!

ADD A DECORATOR'S TOUCH

This set is crocheted in a simple pattern that goes very quickly. The flowers are easy to make, and they add a definite "decorator's touch" to the ensemble. There are so many shades of merized "SPED-CRO-SHEEN" cotton to choose from, that you can coordinate this set with any part of your kitchen or dinette decor. Have you noticed the hook on the potholder? It's crocheted over a bone ring which is a very clever idea — this way it's not hard to find and will last and last, and never look sloppy.

HOLIDAY SEASON IS COMING

Not only is this a perfect "outfit" for your own home, but what a wonderful house present for someone that you know who is either there really isn't anyone who has a toaster who wouldn't welcome this as a gift, especially when you've made it yourself with their kitchen needs in mind. Free instructions for both the toaster cover and the potholder may be obtained by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to the Needlework Editor of this newspaper along with your request for Leaflet S 954.

Your nickel treat to UNICEF at Halloween protects five children from TB.

HALLOWEEN PRECAUTIONS

Chief Arthur S. Haussler of the Newark Police Department, advises some adults in the family to remain at home on Saturday night with the lights on and to "have a treat for the little tricksters, plus a donation for UNICEF."

"A darkened house with no one on the premises is an invitation to vandals," Chief Haussler warns.

Extra policemen will be assigned patrol duty this Saturday in an effort to prevent property damage and to apprehend offenders—but the Chief and his men hope that this will be a happy Halloween—a credit to the youth of the City of Newark—with no necessity for police intervention.

PUMPKIN HEAD PARADE

BY DICK MANSFIELD

"Little Feet Can Lead To Big Trouble!" This warning from the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission is given to parents to remind them of the many dangers that beset children on the streets and highways at Halloween. Halloween is an exceptional Night Traffic Hazard—there are many more children on the streets, and the costumes they will be wearing, and their complete concentration on their celebration are all factors that can reduce their safety. Youngsters have a tendency to forget about traffic dangers and this is especially true when they are wearing masks and dark costumes. Safety rules practiced at other times go by the board. Therefore, parents should be certain that the Halloween costume is light in color and that masks are not worn on the street—that all Trick and Treaters are done in the daytime—And Youngsters should be entertained indoors at night.

Drivers are urged to be on the alert for young masqueraders roaming the streets, both in the daytime and at night. PLEASE BE ESPECIALLY CAREFUL FOR Children on this Hallowed Eve—WATCH FOR THEM! THINK FOR THEM! PROTECT THEM!

Balanced Diet Plus Will Power Advised As Only Safe, Sure Weight Loss Method

Those who are planning to lose weight have a wide variety of popular diets to choose from these days. However, there is still only one safe, sure way to reduce, according to Janet Coblenz, foods and nutrition specialist at the University of Delaware.

The diet recommended to take pounds off—and more important, keep them off—includes a balance of carbohydrates, protein and fat calories—and will power. Don't cut down drastically on only one type of calories, Miss Coblenz advises. Many of the popular diets are much higher in protein and fat calories than in carbohydrate calories.

Nutrition scientists say that the further you push the balance of nutrients out of proportion, the more work you put on the liver. When carbohydrates are too low, you are too close to the borderline of injury caused by incompletely burned fats. The drinking man's diet, the Air Force, the "Mayo Clinic" and other low carbohydrate diets all promise to make you lose weight the easy way. Diets, as well as the claims, are similar. The basis for weight reduction in all of them is a restriction on the amount of carbohydrates.

These diets recommend less than 60 grams a day of carbohydrates—an adult consumes an average of 300 to 400 grams of carbohydrates a day.

125 to 150 grams of fat and 90 to 120 grams of protein, says Miss Coblenz. Some of these diets claim that if you lower your carbohydrate intake, you can eat all you want of foods high in fat or protein, or drink all the alcoholic beverages you want. Naturally, this would raise the calorie intake far above the level recommended for weight loss.

Miss Coblenz says that research does show that a high fat-low carbohydrate diet may help lose quite a few pounds simply because of the release of water from body tissues. A high fat diet dehydrates body tissues. However, this type of weight loss stops after a short time. It is important to remember that as soon as the weight loss from dehydration stops, the number of calories consumed again will be the main factor influencing weight loss.

The drinking man's diet allows the dieter to drink all the alcoholic beverages he wants provided he keeps his carbohydrate consumption at a low level. Since alcoholic beverages are high in calories, any diet that caused by dehydration, the so-called Mayo Clinic diet—which includes a large number of eggs and grapefruit—does not come from the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn. In fact, it doesn't even resemble any diet used there. This Michael is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Ricks, 87 New London Avenue, Newark.

City Council

Planning Director John J. Griesbaum presented a report on past, present, and projected populations in the six districts of the city for consideration with proposed reapportionment, and Mayor Shields requested councilmen to submit names for a reapportionment committee.

Griesbaum estimated a total population of 19,386 within the next five years—an increase of 6,693—with 2,513 persons in the 1st district; 2,358 in the 2nd; 4,633 in the 3rd; 2,785 in the 4th; 5,552 in the 5th; and 2,025 persons in the 6th district.

Harold Grant, president of the Newark Election Board, reported the need of "two years for reapportionment by the election board."

Beltway Land

The Newark Planning Commission recommendation that a professional appraiser be employed to determine value of land in the Hunting Hills subdivision to be acquired for the proposed beltway, was approved.

Neide pointed out that "a very small percentage of the beltline is within the city limits," and urged acquisition of parkland in the beltway area contiguous to the city limits. Council approved appraisal of such land for city acquisition.

In a 6-1 vote, council endorsed the request of VFW Post 475 Commander Sephas Dalton for official city support of United States foreign policy in Vietnam.

Dochert opposed the measure with "I don't think this is appropriate business at this table." He said that council had not officially endorsed the national public housing program, and favored a "general motion supporting the national activities."

Director of Public Works Benjamin J. Campagna reported that the city could dispose of effluent from the New London Textile Print Works, Inc., at the rate of 200 gpm, but that if any special sewage treatment is necessary, it is to be at the owner's expense.

"We have no law covering effluents," the city manager stated, "but the state and county do." City Solicitor Clyde M. England, Jr., is to investigate such protection for the city.

Mayor Shields left the meeting at 10:12, and Henry R. Folsom, Jr., presided in the mayor's absence until adjournment at 10:32.

Neide reported an appraisal of $12,000 for the right-of-way with the extension of Apple Road to Hillside Road, and the solicitor is to negotiate for this property.

Lien notices sent to property owners for sidewalk construction costs on Casho Mill Road, have been canceled, Neide reported, and any such liens will be corrected. "On the books, they are satisfied," the city manager said.

A resident of the area asked that Casho Mill Road sidewalks be illuminated, and Neide replied that "orders have been issued that such lights will be there before Mischief Night."

"Best service ever!" Acting-Mayor Folsom commended. And the meeting was adjourned.

Lyman F. Gillespie Dies In Virginia

Lyman F. Gillespie, 59, of 15 Matthews Road, Brookside, died Sunday in Waynesboro, Va., after a short illness—one year after his wife's death.

Born in Oil City, Pa., Mr. Gillespie worked as an engineer for DuPont. He was a member of Masonic Lodge No. 43, Rousseville, Pa.

His wife, Mrs. Ruth Benson Gillespie died Oct. 18, 1964.

He is survived by two sons, Harry E. of Richmond, Va., and Donald W. of Seaford; one grandchild; and his mother, Mrs. Cora Gillespie of Rousseville.

Services were conducted yesterday at the Charles A. Morrison Funeral Home, Oil City.

Interment was in the Methodist Cemetery, Garland, Pa.

popular diet claims a particular combination of foods in each meal will burn up the accumulated fat. It also claims grapefruit acts as a catalyst to start the fat burning process. These claims are not based on scientific fact, Miss Coblenz says.

Neither is the Air Force Diet an official U. S. Air Force Academy diet, Miss Coblenz points out. Beware of diets circulated from person to person that offer a semi-magical way of losing weight by eating an odd combination of foods or any diet that says "eat all you want." Consult your doctor or a qualified nutritionist for a recommended weight reduction regimen, Miss Coblenz advises.

Science In Action To Feature Theme For Careers Day

Students In High Schools Invited For Agricultural Sciences Event On Campus

"Science in Action" will be the theme of a careers day planned by the college of agricultural sciences at the University of Delaware on Saturday, Nov. 13 in Agricultural Hall on the local campus.

Dr. William E. McDaniel, dean of the college, said the program is designed to supply information to high school students interested in pursuing a college education in the plant and animal sciences; engineering aspects of food and fiber production; and management of food production and marketing.

Application of science to the growing of food is only one of the professional goals of those involved in agricultural study and research, McDaniel stated. The broad field of what he calls "agri-industry" provides opportunities in the areas of research, development, manufacture and sales of many commodities including machinery, equipment, chemicals, feed and supplies.

"Interests in the sciences can be developed by students to prepare them for employment opportunities in the processing and marketing of foods as well as for careers in education," McDaniel said.

Careers Day is aimed especially at high school juniors and seniors, but other high school students are welcome.

High school administrators, counselors, science teachers, vocational agriculture teachers and parents also are welcome.

The programs start at 9:45 a.m. in Agricultural Hall with welcoming remarks and a discussion of the sciences involved in producing food. Between 10:30 and noon visitors will have opportunity to participate in "Science in Action" as they tour laboratory and teaching facilities of the college. They will see demonstrations in animal science, plant science, and agricultural and food business management.

During an informal lunch hour, students will be able to talk with university staff members about admission, courses and programs, employment opportunities, and other career considerations.

Deadline for registering for Careers Day is Nov. 3. All inquiries should be sent to Dr. William E. McDaniel, college of agricultural sciences, University of Delaware, Newark.

Record Corn Crop Surprises Grower With Good Prices

Delmarva's record-breaking corn crop of 1965 has surprised growers, other than by its very size.

Late in August as the crop shaped up and it became apparent that there would be many farms with 100-bu. yields, and that total Delmarva Peninsula production was likely to hit between 35 and 40-million bu., there were predictions that farmers who didn't own drying and shelled-corn storage facilities would be lucky to get 90-cents a bushel when they dumped their harvest at the grain handler's door.

The expected huge crop materialized, and will probably total about 39-million bu. by the time the last acre is harvested. Last year it was 24-million bu.

But the predicted 90-cent price never did make its appearance. As of mid-October when about two-thirds of the 1965 crop had been stored or sold, prices had averaged only five to eight cents a bu. under last year when the crop was 15-million bu. smaller.

Few farmers have received less than $1.10 for corn testing the standard 15½ per cent moisture at any time during the first six weeks of harvest, and some were paid as much as $1.18 early in the harvest.

Agricultural marketing specialists from the universities of Delaware and Maryland, who were among the first to predict a bumper crop for this fall, and who urged farmers to take steps to avoid a glut in the market at harvest time, have been pleased with how orderly the marketing has been under pressure of a crop nearly 25 per cent greater than the average for the past five years.

Willard T. McAllister, agricultural marketing specialist at the University of Delaware, paid tribute to the Peninsula's poultry industry as the stabilizing force making it possible to successfully market this year's huge crop. Despite the size of the crop, he predicted that Peninsula growers would still get 10 to 13 cents more per bu. for their 1965 harvest than the average U. S. farmer.

Boggs Announces Approval Of Poultry Research Lab

A $500,000 poultry research laboratory will be built in Delaware at Georgetown as the result of final senate action on the agriculture appropriations bill, U. S. Sen. J. Caleb Boggs has announced.

"It is logical to locate this laboratory in the county where large-scale broiler growing first began," the Delaware senator added. "Research at this laboratory will help the broiler industry provide even greater benefits for producers and consumers alike," Boggs said.

Poison Control Center Around The Clock Offers Life-Saving Aid To Delawareans

Many Delawareans, particularly children, are kept alive despite accidental poisoning because of efforts of the Poison Control Center in Wilmington, according to Frank Boys, extension specialist in agricultural chemicals at the University of Delaware.

For the past 10 years, one office in the Delaware Hospital has been maintained as a Poison Control Center.

Manned around the clock seven days a week, this office provides physicians and parents with information needed to treat accidental poisonings.

When a doctor or parent calls for emergency information, the pharmacists on duty can quickly tell the caller what is in the substance the victim has taken and what antidote should be administered, as well as any other emergency measures that should be taken.

The center maintains a file listing of drugs, pesticides and household chemicals by brand name, as well as a cross reference with the products' chemical contents.

New information on both old and new compounds is supplied daily by the U. S. Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare. At present, the files contain information on some 20,000 chemicals and compounds.

Besides keeping lists of household chemicals and medicines, the center has listings of various plants and weeds that could cause harm when eaten or handled.

Substances which cause the greatest number of serious accidental poisonings in Delaware include aspirin, household cleaners, insecticides, turpentine, nail polish, berries—holly, firethorn, mistletoe—and furniture polish.

Aspirin heads the list as the most offender in reports from all poison control centers. It accounted for about one-fifth of the 700 documented poisonings in this state last year.

Obviously, says Boys, one reason for this is that children are given baby aspirin and learn to like them since

Use Of Pesticides Requires Caution Frank Boys Urges

Home gardeners and commercial farmers should again take a good look at their pesticide spraying operations to be sure they are observing safety precautions, says Frank Boys, extension specialist in agricultural chemicals at the University of Delaware.

This year both gardeners and farmers will receive safety reminders via television from a new cartoon character, "Larry, the Pesticide Label." "Larry" is the product of the Northeastern States Pesticide Coordinators, agricultural chemical specialists in 12 northeastern land grant universities.

Cartoons featuring "Larry" will appear on television this fall according to Boys, reminding pesticide users to examine the entire label carefully.

Users should be sure the pest they want to control is listed on the label. If not, check with a competent authority to make certain that particular pesticide can safely be used, Boys advises.

Be certain the entire label is clearly readable, he adds. Don't buy containers that are torn.

Use only the exact amount of pesticide directed on the label. Often it is hazardous, as well as a waste of money, to use more than the label calls for.

Many times an excess of chemicals on a crop or shrub can actually reduce the ability of the chemicals to do the intended job.

Mix only the amount of pesticide that you need for immediate use, and use chemicals only on the crops for which they are recommended. This rule is very important, emphasizes Boys, because an entire crop can be destroyed by the wrong chemical, and the farmer also runs the risk of personal exposure to a toxic chemical.

Apply pesticides only at the times recommended on the label, Boys warns. Restrictions on the label will prevent a hazardous excess residue on the plants, parts which later will be eaten.

Scholar, college teacher, clergyman, and lecturer, Dr. Amos B. Horlacher, professor of English at Dickinson College, will speak this Sunday at the Unitarian Fellowship.

Ordained minister of the Unitarian Church, Dr. Horlacher was minister of the Unitarian Church of Harrisburg, Pa., from 1954 to 1965.

For his work in education and religion, and for his influence upon youth of the country, Dr. Horlacher was named "Man of the Year" in 1957 by Alpha Chi Rho fraternity.

His topic will be "The Little World and Great Thoughts of Dante After 700 Years."

The public is invited to hear Dr. Horlacher, and a nursery and Sunday school classes are available at the same hour.

Most baby aspirin is flavored. Usually it will make them sick, causing dizziness and stomach pains, but it can kill if enough is consumed. And yet it is left within easy reach of small children every day.

Ninety per cent of all accidental poisonings involve children under five. The most susceptible age is two, and the next most dangerous age is one. One-third of all poisoning accidents occur in the kitchen; the bedroom is a close second.

In two out of three poisonings, the harmful substances are not in their original containers.

Boys recommends that parents take the advice of the Delaware Poison Control Center and eliminate carelessness. It's careless, he points out, to leave aspirin on a bedside table, or to leave furniture polish on the coffee table while you answer the telephone, or to put kerosene in a cup or pop bottle, or to think a child knows better than to drink perfume or liniment—or to believe that products marked by a skull and crossbones are the only real hazards in the home.

For a safer home, take the time to place household cleaners, drugs and pesticides out of the reach of little ones, making sure the containers are clearly marked. Boys urges. Follow the directions and precautions listed on the label, and don't use soft drink bottles and tea cups for anything other than soft drinks or tea. When medication is necessary, don't take medicines in the dark; the consequences can be deadly.

Save the container, for the information on the label can save a life, he says.

SPECIAL WASHINGTON REPORT

Refugees In South Vietnam

By Senator EDWARD M. KENNEDY (D-Mass.)
Senator Kennedy is Chairman of the Senate Subcommittee on Refugees and Escapees

Behind the gunsmoke of combat in South Vietnam is a pressing problem which demands the keen attention of the American people and their government — the heartbreak of refugees displaced by the fighting. The refugee problem is basically humanitarian, but the political and economic strain caused by this movement of people also affects the conduct of the war.

In three months of public hearings, the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee on Refugees and Escapees has put on the record considerable information regarding the nature and causes of the refugee problem, and the kinds of programs that are needed to help these hapless people.

REFUGEES VICTIMS OF RED TERRORISM

The record shows the problem is serious. Since January of this year more than 600,000 refugees have fled from combat zones and areas controlled by Viet Cong forces into cities and towns secured by the Saigon government. They arrive homeless and destitute — in need of food, shelter and clothing. Many are in poor physical condition and separated from immediate family and other close relatives. They are victims of Communist terrorism, persecution, and oppression. They are casualties of combat, just as surely as the soldiers wounded by Viet Cong bullets.

A little told story out of South Vietnam are the dedicated efforts of many individual Americans and nationals of other countries, who serve their governments or private voluntary agencies, often at great personal risk, in assisting the displaced persons. Numbered among American voluntary agencies, all of which are supported by citizens throughout our country, are Catholic Relief Services, CARE, Church World Service, International Rescue Committee, International Voluntary Services, and the Mennonite Central Committee. The work of these agencies deserves high tribute and the continued support of our government and all Americans.

U.S. MUST HELP REFUGEES

It is extremely important that United States policy toward Vietnam continue to include provision for the refugee problem, and that we assist the government of South Vietnam in every way possible to provide adequate care and protection for the refugees. As President Johnson has been careful to stress, economic assistance to the people of Vietnam is just as important as the needed military effort for that country. Refugees offer an immediate test for our policy.

The effort put forth to inspire their confidence in the future and their support of the government will contribute significantly to the outcome of the conflict.

The battles of this war will be won by the military. But the final victory will be won by the people.

MEMO FROM YOUR DOCTOR

HIGH BLOOD PRESURE

High blood pressure, known medically as hypertension, is an abnormal state of blood circulation which may be both a cause and/or a result of arterial disease.

Primary hypertension for which no underlying cause can be identified represents four out of five instances of persistently increased blood pressure.

It is likely to occur more often to those who have a family history of increased blood pressure. Usually the patient with hypertension is able to live a long and most useful life, but he must often work closely with his physician.

The physician must know his patient well in order to interpret his reaction to medications, diets, living routines and prescribed exercise.

Therapy to lower the blood pressure can range from simple sedation to the use of recently discovered drugs that lower blood pressure, such as drugs that actually block the nerves that constrict the small arteries.

Kidney infections, diabetes, and other complicating factors must often be searched for to protect the arteries.

Lowering of abnormally high blood pressure tends to decrease damage to the brain, kidneys, and blood vessels and to increase life expectancy.

Diet and weight control may be prescribed to protect the arteries from cholesterol deposits in their linings and to maintain a low normal weight. Since there is a high correlation between overweight and high blood pressure, simply reducing one's weight to the normal range often reduces hypertension without additional drug therapy.

Seat Belt Safety Factor Stressed By State Police

Seven persons were killed and 21 were seriously injured in highway accidents investigated by the Maryland State Police last week. None of those killed or injured was using a seat belt although they were available in six cases.

Investigators are of the opinion that four lives would have been saved and 15 serious injuries lessened had those involved in the accidents been wearing seat belts.

"Continued reluctance of many motorists to equip their cars with seat belts is very discouraging," commented Col. Carey Jarman, superintendent of state police, "but it is even more difficult to understand why readily available seat belts so often are not used."

Co-Capt. Dick Fulton Scores Three TD's Kicks Five Points As Yellowjackets Win

Co-Captain Dick Fulton ran for three touchdowns—two of them for 72 and 40 yards in the first period—and kicked five extra points as Coach Bob Hoffman's Yellowjackets walloped the defending champion Bulldogs of Brandywine 35-6 in Newark High School's homecoming game last Saturday afternoon.

Fulton, a halfback, has scored 77 points for the season to lead the race for the state scoring championship.

Leading 14-0 at the end of the first quarter against Brandywine, the Yellowjackets unleashed a second period offensive with 21 points to insure a happy homecoming for Newark alumni with a 35-0 halftime lead.

Quarterback Lee Stengari turned in a beautiful bit of running with a 35-yard touchdown sprint. Halfback Dick Fulton added more of the same with a 35-yard dash into the Brandywine end zone, and Fulton rang up the third Newark touchdown of a bad second period for the Bulldogs with a two-yard plunge.

With the Yellowjacket reserves in action during the second half, Brandywine held Newark scoreless, and the Bulldogs tallied in the final frame when Burns drove for two yards and a touchdown for the final 35-6 count.

"What kind of fish is that?" three veteran anglers asked a pleasant waitress concerning a stuffed specimen on the wall of the Chesapeake Bridge-Tunnel snack bar last Friday afternoon on their way to North Carolina's Marshallberg for fishing in the Atlantic off Cape Lookout—and the lady promptly put to shame by identifying the mounted marlin as a "tautog."

"We should have known that," Martin Champ Gus Tagnon teased. But that minor setback was the only flaw in what proved to be a glorious trip to Carolina's Core Sound with its blue water and golden marshes where the Cape Lookout lighthouse flashed its beacon from the Outer Banks to seaward, and the Atlantic Ocean rolled on and on beyond the 'air horizon."

At Plymouth in North Carolina, we stopped to pick up Gentleman Jim Etheridge, outdoorsman and waterman second to none, and rolling into Morehead City that evening where the charter boat fleet gleamed in mahogany and paint at its moorings along the illuminated waterfront, met Capt. Dick Pleasanton from Delaware's Lewes and the Indian River Inlet, and Boatbuilder Ray Davis with his seafaring son Edward from Marshallberg.

Capt'n Pleasanton had single-handed run the Young Lady down the coast from Delaware to the Ray Davis Boat Works at Marshallberg where the sportsfishing cruiser was built two years ago. The boat had been scraped and painted for the long haul and winter's fishing at Boynton Beach on Florida's East Coast—and was awaiting our arrival with Skipper H. G. Young and Gus Tagnon for a last-of-the-year fishing chance. The Morehead menu at the Sanitary Seafood Restaurant presented a real problem in decision with its crab, clams, shrimps, scallops, oysters, bluefish, Spanish mackerel, flounder and trout fresh from the sea—but one couldn't go far wrong. And after dinner and a stroll along the waterfront, we drove onto Marshallberg to spend the night in the snug fisherman's cottage of Brothers

Veteran golf professional at the Newark Country Club, Joe Aneda has been elected president of the Philadelphia Professional Golfers Association.

Aneda, who served as treasurer of the group in 1961-62 and as secretary for the next three years, is the first Delaware pro to be singled out for the presidency of the third largest PGA section in the nation—topped only by Chicago and California.

Under Aneda's jurisdiction are 344 pros from 150 clubs in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware.

He's scheduled to attend a meeting of the golf manufacturers' relations committee for the nationals at Palm Beach Gardens, Fla., on Nov. 7, along with the week-long PGA national convention there.

The 54-year-old genial golf pro is the father of two daughters.

Joan, a graduate of Delaware, is a second-grade teacher at Pleasantville Elementary School while Judy is a senior at Penn Hall, Chambersburg, Pa.

All the Anedas are golfers, including wife Jean. Both daughters are former Delaware state junior champions.

The three captains—Etheridge, Pleasanton and Young—slept aboard the boat—and with Mr. Tagnon we sacked out ashore in the Jones cottage where we were joined very early in the morning by Al Priestley and his dentist son Howard, driving down from Newark.

"Short night," Mr. Priestley yawned in greeting us at 5 a.m., as Ed Davis called us for breakfast of piping hot bacon, eggs, toast and coffee provided by Archie and Mrs.

LEADING SCORER

Dick Fulton, halfback and co-captain of Coach Bob Hoffman's Newark High School Yellowjackets, added to his state scoring championship lead by running three touchdowns in a 35-6 victory over Brandywine last Saturday to win 35-6.

Newark shares a 4-1 second place in the Blue Hen Conference title race with William Penn, while Wilmington High is undefeated after five straight wins. And the Yellowjackets have yet to face the Red Devils.

Barbara Bohning Ranked U. S. No. 2 In Table Tennis

Barbara Bohning of 250 Dallen Road, Newark, is placed second in the Under-17 girls rankings published this week by the U. S. Table Tennis Association.

Miss Bohning was first ranked one year ago, in fourth place, and is the first Delaware player ever to receive national ranking.

During the 1964-65 season, she had only two losses—in the Eastern Open and in the U. S. Open.

Miss Bohning, now 18 and no longer eligible for junior events, is a physical education major at the University of Delaware.

Two Racing Cards Slated Saturday For Harrington

Two racing programs this Saturday—one in the afternoon starting at 1:30 and the second at 8:15 p.m.—will wind up the 1965 harness racing season at the Kent and Sussex Raceway at Harrington. Each program will consist of 10 races and two daily doubles.

This is believed to be the first time in Delaware that two harness racing programs have been held the same day. W. W. Shaw, director of racing, says indications are that most of the top horses stabled at Harrington will be entered in the 20 races this Saturday.

"If we get a good break from the weather man we should wind up the season in pretty good shape financially," Shaw said.

"Rain-outs on three consecutive Fridays hurt us considerably as Friday is usually our second best night in attendance and wagering," he said.

Pari-mutuel betting at Harrington totaled $3,181,585 during the first 32 days of the meet—an increase of $154,267 over the same period of 1964.

A Harrington mutual record was set Saturday, Oct. 2, when the handle was $183,686.

Jones in their cheery dining room beside the Marshallberg docks, Pop and Howard Priestley had arrived at 2 o'clock while we were asleep.

The narrow channel past Harkers Island and over the Core Sound shoals would baffle Mother Goose's "crooked man who walked a crooked mile," and with no lights on the channel marker stakes, successful navigation in the gray gloom of early morning takes a real bit of doing. But Jim Etheridge, who knows the tortuous channel as well as he knows his driveway back home in Plymouth, kept us afloat and moving while the gray-black gave way to the pale green-blue, pink, and finally, golden glory of the dawn.

Rounding Cape Lookout, we headed far offshore into great 15-ft. seas foaming white-capped over the vast Atlantic where the land disappeared astern over the horizon, to rendezvous with Capt'n Archie Jones and Mate Edward Davis aboard the Downeaster, and Skipper Claude Brown with his Miss Belle—three little ships trolling over the wreck of a Russian trawler on a lonely ocean.

Our companion cruisers would rise high on the crests of the great, roaring rollers with hull bottoms gleaming in the sun, and then in the troughs, would disappear from view except for the tops of the high flying bridges. But as we neared the Downeaster, Edward was swinging a great 3-ft. length of shimmering king mackerel into the cockpit. It was rough, but we were over fish—and they were hitting.

Trolling with man-o-war streamers garnished with 6-in. strips of filleted mullet, we caught six beautiful king mackerel, kingfish, or cero—yard-long silvered satin, golden gleaming, and mother-of-pearl iridescent beauties that are fast and strong and rank with the great game fish of the world. And they make a reel scream.

Al Priestley boated the biggest—a 15-pounder—and son Howard added bulk and variety to the fish box with a 20-lb. false albacore—a tuna-like torpedo that is stronger than any fish has right to be.

"I don't want to catch another one right away," Dr. Priestley breathed hard.

We lost a dozen fish at the strike; caught a trio of big black sea bass in trolling slowly into the wind while the lures settled to the bottom, and then action tapered off for an hour until a great swarm of small, white terns appeared ahead, hovering just over the tossing surface where albacore slashed the water into misty spray as they harried schooled bait-fish.

Delaware Dick Pleasanton may have been a bit bashful about the unfamiliar Carolina kingfishing, but the Indian River Inlet pro bounded down from the bridge with a whoop and a holler when the albacore appeared.

Coach Dave Nelson's High-Flying Hens Face Temple Owls After Beating Lehigh

Delaware's football team will have its hands full when it invades Temple Stadium to take on the rejuvenated Owls this Saturday at 1:30 p.m.

Coach George Makris' Temple team started the season with four straight losses, but the Owls rebounded to win their next two games and seem ready to reach the heights Makris has predicted for them.

"We could win five or even all six of our remaining games," the Owl coach said after his team's victory over Lafayette. "We're on our way," he repeated after the Owls came back for a 12-11 win over Connecticut last week.

Much of the credit for the Owl's resurgence belongs to senior quarterback Joe Petro and sophomore fullback Mike Derchak.

Petro was injured early in the season and the Temple offense missed his leadership and running ability. He leads the Owls in passing with 46 completions for 633 yards and four touchdowns and is second in rushing with 250 yards on 70 carries.

Petro is no stranger to the Blue Hens. He threw three touchdown passes in a losing cause in 1963 and

"This is northern fishing!" Dick roared, swiftly shifting gear from streamer strips to spoons.

And a pair of successive albacore almost pulled our arms out of their shoulder sockets.

The "false albacore" of Newark lthyologist Andy Biasotto are tireless, ferocious fighters, and as Cap'n Dick declared "if they weighed as much as 60 pounds, you'd never beat one."

These were 10-pounders—big enough. The second one fought twice as hard as the first—and the first one was no slouch.

"You were just twice as tired with the second one," Gibby Young advised in some real reasoning.

Coming in off the ocean, we trolled just off Cape Lookout where great green masses of water exploded into spindrift and white foaming thunder on the sandy shoals, and where surfmen were casting from a cluster on the point into the maelstrom for channell bass, spotted trout, and bluefish.

Gus Sagnon caught one snapper blue, and we lost a half-dozen more in a quick turn just off the beach, but Dick Pleasanton boated a cop-per-clad whiting, Carolina sea mullet, or Delaware kingfish that was so big we thought it was a puppy dog—a kingfish that hit a trolled spoon.

"Don't tell anybody," Dick Pleasanton advised. "They won't believe it, anyway."

"I never saw a worse set-up for a mutiny," a member of the four-man crew below said in joining three captains on the bridge.

"Good way to run up on a shoal," Skipper Jim Etheridge responded. "With the Young Lady's big diesel rumbling ahead of a foaming white wake, we threaded our way through the quiet blue water of the Core Sound channel amid the golden grass of the myriad marshy islets to come ashore in a crimson sunset over the Marshallberg mainland pines to end a perfect day with some warm memories for a cold winter."

Coach Loren Kline's Blue Hen soccer team faces a pair of home stands—this Saturday at 2 p.m., against Ursinus, and next Wednesday with Franklin & Marshall at 4 o'clock.

Bordentown Prep Beats Blue Chicks In Frosh Football

Bordentown Military Institute defeated Coach Jimmy Flynn's Delaware frosh 35-20 last Friday at Frazer Field.

Dick Panczynski fired four touchdown passes in the first half as the visitors piled up a 28-0 lead, but Delaware became the first team to score this season on the Jerseymen with a 20-point rally in the second half.

In an effort to pull out a victory, Delaware gambled on fourth down with 4 minutes and 10 seconds remaining in the game, but failed to make the necessary yardage.

Bordentown took over on Delaware's 23 and added a clinching touchdown two plays later on Dean Cornella's 21-yard sprint.

Jim Danti raced 13 yards for Delaware's first TD in the third period.

Delaware added two more in the final quarter. The first came on George Karabinos' 20-yard pass to Jim Lazarski, while end Jack Montemery raced 36 yards with a Bordentown fumble for the second TD.

The Blue Chicks play this Friday at Bullip Prep.

Vikings Take 7th In BHC Standings For Cross Country

Christiana was defeated 20-39 by Mt. Pleasant in the final cross country meet of the Blue Hen Conference season yesterday, to finish in 7th place with a 3-6 record.

Undeclared Wilmington High School won the conference title with nine victories, while Newark finished in 9th place with a 1-8 log ahead of winless P. S. du Pont.

Monte Baldwin took third for the Vikings in the run against the Knights; Tim Herman was 5th; and Joe Outlaw, 8th.

Laurel Maryland Handicap Scheduled This Saturday

The $200,000-added Maryland Handicap on the grass this Saturday will be a feature at Laurel Race Course.

Also on Saturday, Laurel will play host to Jaycees from throughout the state who will enjoy a day at the races as a way of becoming acquainted with the facilities they will use at the track for their state convention next May. Jaycee officials will make a trophy presentation following the Jaycee Purse.

The Maryland Handicap, a mile on the turf, has drawn 53 nominations topped by two of the biggest names in racing, Kelso and Tom Rolfe, but Spangler, a hard-driving 180-pounder, has picked up 150 yards on 35 carries since breaking into the lineup in the Hens' third game of the season.

The 4-1 Hens are averaging 372.3 yards per game offensively, while limiting opponents to 241.8 yards. Delaware has scored 127 points to 66 for its five opponents.

Christiana Faces Undeclared Wilmington After Record 22nd Loss To DeLaWarr

Christiana's chance to leave Georgetown High School with a half share of a 21-game losing streak state record, went down the drain last Saturday as an inspired DeLaWarr team won its first game of the season in stopping the Vikings 26-0 on the Lions' field at Garfield Park.

DeLaWarr's Rick Ward threw two touchdown passes as the Lions won over Christiana.

The Vikings of Coach Bill Horney face undeclared Wilmington High School this Saturday at 10:30 a.m. on the Newark field.

Playing for Christiana last Saturday were Quarterbacks Dave Clauss and Roger Barnes, and Co-Capt. Barnes, a senior halfback, along with Bob Hall, Jeff Heath, John Thomas, Jim Uniatowski, and John Belcher, while Jerry Perry was the Viking fullback.

Christiana ends in action included Roger Hunt, Greg Kracher, Mike Gray, Bill Rust, and Jim Spinks; the tackles were Chuck Garber, Co-Capt. Harold Boyer, Garry Lloyd, and Al Dagger; and the guards were John Bonner, George Arbeiter, and Al Peoples.

Ed Ridgeway, Dick Rhodes, and Bob Olin were the centers.

Horney, Hugh Ferguson, Carmen Leto, and Bob Turnberger are the Viking football coaches.

Christiana has four games remaining—with Wilmington at home; Dickinson and Mt. Pleasant away; and Newark at home in the Thanksgiving Day finale.

Georgetown Track To Extend Racing Through Dec. 31

Beginning next Wednesday, the new Georgetown Raceway, which extends the Delaware fall racing season right on through to the final day of the year—Dec. 31—will have an all-weather race track for horsemen.

Secretary Paul Roth has promised that even heavy rains will not postpone a night's racing. The racing surface at Georgetown has been constructed that trotters and pacers can go right on top schedules. A special application of five inches of top stone dust has been worked into the track, which will insure a good and safe track at all times.

Racing at Georgetown will be conducted Wednesday through Saturday nights, with an eight o'clock post, and also will introduce the first Saturday afternoon harness racing ever held regularly on the Delaware-Maryland mutual circuit.

The weekly handicapper race feature will be a high spot of the Saturday afternoon matinee, with a 1:30 post.
