Dodge Intrepid rolls into Newark

New car seen as Chrysler plant's saving grace

By ERIC FINE

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The first American-made Dodge Intrepids rolled off the lines at Chrysler's Newark Assembly Plant Monday, delighting politicians and giving workers a new infusion of security.

Plant officials credit Chrysler Corp.'s decision to move production of the hot-selling $17,000 car from Canada to Newark for saving the 42-year-old South College Avenue site from an almost certain closing.

Chrysler invested $137 million to ready the plant for production of the Intrepid, which required a chassis that differed from the two already manufactured at the South College Avenue site.

The Intrepid uses Chrysler Corp.'s LH-Body, the same chassis used to build the Eagle Vision and the Chrysler Concorde.

"Right now, the corporation only wants us to build the Dodge Intrepid here," said Jim Taylor, the plant's personnel manager. He said building any other model would require another sizable investment, even if the new car were a variation of the plant's current models.

Production of the Chrysler LeBaron sedan and convertible, which the plant will continue to build, uses another chassis called the J-Body, making Newark Assembly Chrysler Corp.'s only domestic plant to manufacture models requiring three different body styles, Taylor said.

The A-Body is the third, which is used for two compacts, the Plymouth Acclaim and the Dodge Spirit. But Chrysler officials plan to end production of the two cars at the plant in about a year.

Even after production of the Dodge Intrepid reaches the goal of about 500 per day, the 300 A-Body cars will still represent about 38 percent of the plant's volume for the coming year, Taylor said. Without them, the plant can not sustain itself.

A Chrysler Corp. official in Detroit declined to speculate on the plant's future, saying the auto maker produces cars according to the demand in the marketplace.

If I'm wrong, I'm walking around with my head down," said spokesman Alan Miller. "Right now they have a hot product...people who are dedicated. We have the commitment from the state." (Gov. Carper appropriated $1 million to the plant for training purposes last spring.)

"As long as there's a market for the vehicles, we'll produce them."

Newark Assembly is the only site outside of Chrysler's plant in Bramalea, Ontario (Canada) to produce the Intrepid, which was introduced early last summer. Production of the Intrepid, which replaces the Dodge Dynasty at the plant, began the week of July 12.

The plant's work-force is 3,700.

Police grant promotes community presence

By TONJA CASTANEDA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

A $40,000 grant awarded to the Newark Police Department will be used to help four neighborhoods in Newark to become more community oriented and to promote security in the areas.

The communities being targeted are George Read Village, Wilbur Street off Cleveland Avenue, Cleveland Heights on Terrace Drive and Wharton Drive.

"These neighborhoods seem to be victimized a little more than the rest of the city," said John Potts, crime prevention officer with the Newark Police Department. "We want to help the residents take stock in their own community."

The federal grant, dubbed the "Newark Police Community Policing Grant", was given to the Newark Police through the criminal justice council in Wilmington. The grant runs from July 1, 1993, to June 30, 1994.

"We knew we would get the grant when we applied," said Potts, "but we didn't know in what amount we would get it." He said they received the amount they applied for.

According to Potts, Newark Police had to show a present concept of a problem they perceived and list goals and methods to solve it.

The grant is broken down into several components.

Potts said, $22,000 of the grant will be used to increase police presence by paying overtime for more police to be on foot patrols in the neighborhoods, starting within the next two weeks. "We want the police to be seen, make arrests if infractions are observed," said Potts, "but to also talk to residents and kids and be known in the community."

He said $3,000 is being used to fund a tutoring program for the children in these neighborhoods. "The tutoring started last week with 12 children," said Potts. "We hope to start tutoring 12 more children, sometime in the fall." The tutoring is for children who need educational assistance through high school.

He said the police find out about children having trouble in school and needing tutoring from the schools and through parents interacting and telling police officers.

Kids learn traffic savvy at Safety Town

By TONJA CASTANEDA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Using a miniature town and motorized cars, Safety Town teaches young children how to be safe pedestrians and how drivers should react to street signs and stop lights.

Safety Town, sponsored by the City of Newark Department of Parks and Recreation, completed their 14th year of the program last week.

Ninety children, ages 4 and 5, graduated from the program and received a certificate and packet of stickers.

"The children love the town and cars," said Sandy Morgan, recreation specialist for community events at the parks and recreation department. "They learn what stop signs mean and that cars should stop or that if a railroad track is nearby to stay off the tracks."

The program consists of two weeks of safety lessons, with the children learning everything from playground, bike, fire and stranger/danger safety to how to identify uniforms, such as police and crossing guards, to learning about dangerous substances such as chemicals, poisons and drugs.

A field trip was taken to the Newark Police Safety to emphasize bus safety and get familiar with the police station.

According to Morgan, an especially exciting day for the children was emergency vehicle day when a state police helicopter landed for the children and visits by an ambulance, New Castle County Mounted Police, Newark Police Motorcycle and Newark Bicycle Patrol were made.

A total of about 20 groups volunteered throughout the program to help teach the children bicycle helmet safety, 911 information and even dress up as characters "Safe and Sorry," to teach children it is better to be safe than sorry. Safe was healthy and happy, while Sorry had bandages and band-aids all over his body. Safety town also included safety seminars for parents on water and fire safety, child proofing homes and bicycle helmet usage.

Christina School District Kindergarten teacher Edith Webb teaches the Safety Town with help from many teenage volunteers. "The children get important lessons on being safe in all aspects of life," said Webb. "They really enjoyed emergency vehicle day."

Each child gets a Safety Town t-shirt designed by one of the children in the class.

This year Rebecca Carlson won first place in the T-shirt design competition. Her drawing says "I attended Safety Town. I love you policeman." Second place went to Andrew Saulsbery and Chrysy Breternitz was in third place.

Newark Police officers John Potts, has worked with children at Safety Town for 5 years and Susan Poley, has worked with Safety Town for 2 years. "The kids get excited and have fun," said Potts. "It's (Safety Town) positive and has a good influence on them."

"I relate to them as other kids would," he said. "I'm as big a kid as they are."

"The children love Uncle Charlie," said Morgan. "It's like he's straight out of Mr. Rogers."

The results of Safety Town seems to be shown when the children tell their parents how to apply safety rules in their lives. Morgan said some parents say that their child start telling them to put on their safety belt.

Bobby Davis, 4, said he likes to play with the motorized cars.

David Eissner, 4, said he has learned to always wear his helmet while on his bicycle.

First year volunteer Heather Sargent said, "I like to work with kids."

Volunteer Rebecca Culbertson, in her second year at Safety Town, said she likes being outside and helping the kids to play with the cars.

Three insurance companies—Nationwide, Alexander and John Slack Insurance donated money for the motorized cars for the children to drive. The McDonald's owned by Dukart Management donated the children's daily snacks.

NBA search narrows for Ashley's replacement

By ERIC FINE

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The Newark Business Association plans to fill a now-vacant staff position Aug. 6 after finalizing the decision during Thursday's board of directors meeting. NBA board member Gene Danneman said.

The position has been vacant since the board decided against renewing the contract of Marguerite Ashley in June. Ashley, 41, the downtown's merchant group's economic development coordinator for seven years, attributed her dismissal to a difference in philosophy.

Fifty-two people applied for the position during the first two weeks it was advertised. A search committee headed by Danneman pared that number down to four in late July.

The position pays a yearly salary of $20,000.

The association was formed in 1986 with federal grant money the city receives annually. The association arranges special events and promotion, while representing area business people in matters involving the city government.

Membership stands at 72 and includes merchants on Main Street and in the Newark Shopping Center.

For fiscal year 1993, the association received $14,000, or 40 percent of their $35,000 operating budget from the city.

That money was used to partially pay Ashley's salary, said Maureen Roser, the city's liaison at the association's board meetings.

Roser, a city planner, said the NBA would need a director in place by Oct. 15, when fiscal 1994 grant money recommendations are finalized.

Time capsule found under school steps school's new addition, at the same time we open the one from 1958," said Terry.

She said the staff and faculty had guessed there was a time capsule at Kirk because there had been rumors of one being there.

The other two middle schools in the district are also getting renovations. Shue Medill Middle School, recently renamed, is getting $1.3 million of major construction done and Gauger Cobbs Middle School, also renamed with last spring's closing of Cobbs Elementary, is getting $2 million of renovations.

"We're (Christina District) growing very quickly," said Dr. Capes Riley, director of planning and development for Christina

School District. "The growth in the elementary schools is moving on to our middle schools."

According to Riley, Kirk is getting an expansion of the cafeteria to add a multi-purpose area, additions of air conditioning to the kitchen and cafeteria and the front entrance of Kirk is being made accessible for the handicapped.

An additional $600,000 of work is being done at the existing school, said Riley, including classroom renovations and new science labs, along with roof and air conditioning work.

Riley said there will also be a new staff parking lot by the grass area near Jennie E. Smith Elementary and bus parking will be added to the front of the new addition. He said the auditorium has been renovated, too.

At Shue Medill Middle School, Medill Elementary is being made part of Shue. Also Riley said classrooms are being modernized and four science labs are being created, Gauger Cobbs Middle School is getting construction done to make the open classrooms at Cobbs into regular, self-contained classrooms, technology wiring and getting the air conditioning units that do not work very well replaced.

Riley said at Kirk, all the work will be done to the existing building and cafeteria by Sept. 7 when school starts, but the new addition and auxiliary gym will not be complete until November.

Riley said most work at Shue Medill and Gauger Cobbs will also be done when school opens.

Community is focus of Newark police grant

► GRANT, from 1A

$1,000 will buy new uniforms for "Pride Drill & Drum Team," a team made up of kids from Terrace Drive.

Another $1,000 will be used to outfit another police officer with a bike and uniform to be a part of the bicycle patrol. Potts said Newark Police currently have two officers on the bicycle patrol.

He said $5,000 will be used to buy police equipment such as neighborhood watch signs and coloring books and pamphlets with crime prevention messages.

Two thousand, eight hundred dollars will be used for community police training that involves problem solving, networking with other organizations and cultural awareness.

Potts said police objectives for this grant include an increase of involvement in the community and in resident satisfaction in police services and a decrease in crime.

Along with striving for more community presence, residential interaction and less crime, another objective, Potts said, is to form a civic association for George Read Village and Terrace Drive.

He said every four months a review will be done to determine the progress made on meeting these objectives.

"We hope this increased interaction with the police and the public will create a better cooperative atmosphere, public trust of the officers and to make Newark a better place to live," said Potts.

Video phone allows new criminal, legal link

► VIDEO, from 1A

He said before the video phone these interviews were done by having the arresting officers come to Wilmington to discuss each felony case, before defendants were formally charged.

"For the intake interviews we used to send officers to Wilmington on overtime to discuss cases with the Attorney General," said Lt. Alex Von Koch of the Newark Police Department. "This saves us a trip there and back and the parking fees."

Police officers can now use the video system at the scheduled time to discuss the case and show physical evidence. The police report and other necessary information are faxed to the Attorney General's Office

Von Koch said the video phone is also used to call the courts for search warrants and bring defendants before a judge to set the initial bail and hear the charges.

The system will also be used to make conference calls, hooking up four sites at one time.

"It took quite a bit of training for the officers to become familiar with the system," said Von Koch, "But it's a big time saver."

Delaware Public Defender Lawrence M. Sullivan said the video phone system costs $436,094 to install and operate for one year. He said the system is estimated to save $347,000 annually in police overtime and transportation costs.

"I fully expect police agencies throughout the country will pick up on this and go with it," said Sullivan.

Traffic solution: more roads?

Are state transportation officials really serious about reducing traffic congestion and reducing pollution created by cars and trucks?

The answer would seem to be a weak "Maybe." On the one hand, there is the DART bus service and the recently-established Blue Diamond bus service, linking Lewes to Wilmington, with stops in Dover, Smyrna, Middletown, Newark and points in between. There is also commuter rail service between Wilmington, Claymont and Philadelphia, with talk of extending the service to Newark.

These steps at re-establishing public transportation are to be commended. But on the other hand, we have the same department of transportation still spending millions of dollars widening roads and building highways here — encouraging even more traffic, development and congestion, and perpetuating the notion that driving your own car is the best way to go.

How long will it take before a real commitment to public transportation can be made? Perhaps when there's no open space left. Here in northwestern New Castle County, that day isn't too far away.

PASSING THOUGHTS

It's tough for a middle-aged man to make new friends

By JIM STREIT

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

I feel lonely. I'm happily married and have been for more than two decades. I consider my wife to be my best friend.

I am grateful for the relationship that I share with my two children, ages 8 and 14. We actually communicate, often and in meaningful ways.

I talk frequently with my mother and sister, even though they reside hundreds of miles from Newark. As appropriate at anniversary and birthday times, I chat with other relatives.

As well, I stay in touch with childhood and long-time friends. When I go to my 25th high school reunion this fall, I suspect that I will be one of few members of the Class of '68 who have been in touch with most of my closest high school acquaintances within the past year.

Friends — persons outside my marriage and family with whom I feel emotionally intimate — have always been an important element of my life.

While I continue to enjoy rich rewards from my friendships, my big pay-off came a few years ago when crises of major proportions hit me with a one-two-three punch. I turned 40, my father died suddenly and I lost the job for which I had worked my entire career.

I certainly cannot overstate the importance of my wife's and family's support during this time (that is material for a column all to itself). But it was my friends that seemed to make the experience bearable. After being optimistic and strong for my wife and family, it was a close friend with whom I could honestly share my feelings of despair, anger and hopelessness.

Why am I lonely today? Because, at age 42, with a demanding job, two kids and lots of volunteer involvement, I have not made any close friends here. I'm trying. In fact, I feel budding relationships with a fellow Rotarian, a local official and a man of the cloth.

I often make jokes about "male bonding," a 90s euphemism that conjures up images of guys away from wives and family on fishing or camping trips, or workers hanging in a neighborhood bar after work.

To me, male bonding is my effort to make friends.

For a busy 42-year-old male, this is difficult. My schedule is so full that I barely have time for my family, though spending time with Linda and Mackenzie and Tyler is my grandest joy.

No longer drink or the old "let's stop and get a beer after work" invitation does not apply. I don't hang in the bar before or after the many meetings that I attend.

And, in today's homophobic world, it's awkward at best to make a pointed overture to another male because you see common threads in your lives and you want to get to know him better.

I'm been thinking about this

process a lot recently and this has led me to this astounding observation: my children don't seem to have as many friends as I did when I was young. Nor do they spend as much time with friends as I did with my young buddies.

Part of this is probably that I had nothing better to do. Perhaps it also of consequence of a less safe society that families tend to be more insular. Plus, so many kids have a wide variety of entertainment possibilities at home, be it Nintendo, computers or MTV, that they seem to extend themselves less outside of the home or at school.

I don't want to be lonely. In time, I know that I will develop close friendships here.

But I'm fearful that my children will not be able to cherish a variety of friendships like I have been able to tally in my first 42 years.

Saturday Night Fairs Called Off

Members of the Committee working upon the series of Saturday night fairs for the entertainment of draft men stationed at Newark, have found the development of the plan at this time, impractical. Many of the best workers it is learned will be absent during August; the restrictions on the use of sugar make it impossible to provide the home made delicacies and ice cream that figure largely in the general returns. It is understood also that there is some feeling on the part of townspeople over the abandonment of the

Emergency Phone System for Fires Established at UD

The University of Delaware has set up a fire emergency phone system and hopes to have a central alarm system by autumn of 1969.

The central alarm system is "in a planning stage at this point," James Osborne, director of material, said last week.

The idea for a central alarm system at the university was spurred by a fire at Colburn Hall in January. At that time, in a fire broke out in a dormitory, an alarm could be pulled to alert residents, but to alert firemen, the call would have to be placed to either campus security or county call board.

Krapfs Purchase Shopping Center

Major renovation and expansion plans for the Newark Shopping Center have been announced by the center's new owners.

Two weeks ago, James and Thomas Krapf, partners in J&T Real Estate, bought the shopping center from Pomeroy Realty for $3.6 million. Thomas Krapf said they hope to begin the construction as soon as permits are issued for the project.

Across the parking lot from the center's existing stores, Krapf said they are planning an addition of 20,000 sq. ft. in new stores.

Department Store To Remain in Center

The Newark Department Store is firmly rooted in this community and will likely continue as a predominant landmark in the city for years to come.

Major renovation plans have been announced for the Newark Shopping Center where the Newark Department Store is located.

Newark Department Store has a long history in Newark having located here in 1919. "We lived in Philadelphia prior to living here. My dad wanted to get away from the hustle of the city. He went around to different town and thought that Newark was a perfect place to bring up the family," said Jack Handloff, former co-owner of the shopping center.

PER CHANCE

This year's opening kickoff conjures up exciting memories

By ELBERT CHANCE

NEWARK POST COLUMNIST

Up at the great gridiron in the sky, Admiral Dave Nelson must be smiling. For on September 4, the Fighting Blue Hens will meet the Lehigh Engineers in the renewal of a rivalry that presumably ended six years ago.

Diverging commitments in scheduling had drawn the two institutions apart. Lehigh had joined the Colonial Conference composed principally of private school opponents while Delaware was entering the Yankee conference consisting of New England state universities. Both teams had a limited number of open dates, but Delaware's athletic officials were anxious to continue a relationship with this respected opponent that already spanned eight decades.

When Lehigh officials decided against it, Nelson told me, "We're sorry to see it end and some day they'll regret it, too."

The effort to extend the series obviously was not based on a desire to schedule a soft touch. Of all the comparable, longstanding opponents Delaware has faced, Lehigh has perhaps been the most difficult and tenacious. Although the series stands 23016 in Delaware's favor, the victories have seldom come easily.

Coach Nelson encountered Lehigh in his first game as Delaware's head football coach. His decidedly underdog team met the Engineers on September 22, 1951, in the old Wilmington Ball Park. The outlook was bleak. In four prior meetings dating to 1912, the Blue Hens had been bludgeoned 45-0, 32-0, 39-7 and 21-0. But the young squad, unveiling Nelson's innovative Wing-T offense, scored 7-0 upset and, by 1954, the series was even at 4-4.

The Engineer coaching staff was among the first to grasp the Wing-T strategy and even the best Blue Hen teams have found Lehigh a worthy foe. Delaware's 1970 Lambert Cup winners suffered one of their two losses of the season in a stunning 36-13 pounding at Taylor Stadium. The undefeated 1972 Blue Hens were held to their narrowest margin of victory—six points—in a 28-22 battle with the Engineers, and the 1974 NCAA Division II runnerup squad (12-1) managed only a 14-7 decision against their Bethlehem, Pa., tormentors. The Division II National championship team of 1979, so well remembered for its stirring victories over Youngstown and Villanova, struggled hard to beat Lehigh 21-14. Three years later, the 1982 NCAA Division I-AA runnerup, 12-2 for the season, squeaked by Lehigh 20-19.

Lehigh, in short, has always been regarded with respect, a quality opponent with an excellent reputation for high academic standards, sound coaching, good sportsmanship and capable athletes. The names Dan Nolan, Kim McQuilken, Marty Horn and Rennie Benn quickly come to mind.

So the opening kickoff at Delaware Stadium not only marks the beginning of a new football season, but conjures up exciting memories of a great rivalry once again revived. Yes, the Admiral would surely be pleased, as should the students and fans of both universities.

The author, a long-time Newark resident, can be heard as the familiar voice announcing University of Delaware home football games.

Newarkers join country line dancing craze

By NANCY TURNER
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Does the very sound of the names "Wheelin'", "Sage Brush", "Gunslinger", and "Tush Push" make you want to put on your boots and slip into your Saturday night rug cuttin' duds? If so, perhaps you are one of the millions of Americans who are riding the crest of the country line dancing craze.

Twenty Newarkers recently joined in the fun of country line dancing during a Parks and Recreation Seminar.

Barbara Anzilotti and Ruth Ann Moore were "having a great time" and will take their new line dancing skills back to the Two By Fours square dancing club.

Alice Shurtleff says she loves it and has been line dancing regularly at the Newark Senior Center for two years.

John Wapniarek said that he and wife Phyllis "went to some western places and I loved to sit there and watch 'em. Now I hope I can get into the action."

Country line dancing is a series of simple hitches, kicks, stomps, shuffles and side steps that, when combined, move a dancer gently over the dance floor in a square formation and then return him to the same spot where the series began. The fun, as well as the beauty, of line dancing is that it can be done with as many participants as you like. It is not a partner's dance so anyone can hop out of the chair and into the ranks, especially if they know the choreography of the dance.

Country line dancing is nothing new. It has been around for decades and easily predates the popular "bus stop" line dance of the disco scene that was considered one of the first line dances to earn popular recognition.

These days you can go into any country music bar or dance parlor and drop a quarter in the juke box; pull out a few favorites like "My Blue Angel", "Horsin' Around", "Take it Back" or "Trashy Women"; and in no time, the dance floor will be filled with a dozen or more people all doing the same step in unison.

Rick Wilson and Barbara Carter of Can't Stop Dancing, Inc. of Bear have been teaching coun-and has a lot of fun without the pressure of having to pair up."

"Line dancing is also considered a low impact aerobic work out," said Carter. "You would be surprised the amount of energy that goes into those 32, 120, or however many steps that constantly repeat. The dancers put everything they have into the steps."

Country line dancing is ever evolving. As soon as you get the hang of one routine, another one comes along and challenges you again. It would be impossible to count the number of country line dances that are currently in existence largely because there are signature line dances or club oriented line dances. They are the ones that are created and danced almost exclusively in their home establishments. There is also a river of new line dances being released through national line dancing competitions, dance network publications and at festivals like the Wilmington Country Music Festival that was held this month where Rick Wilson debuted his own line dancing creation, "Lickety Split".

What makes a line dance a success? "Line dancing is a musical interpretation," said Wilson. "There is a lot of good country music being written today. It's just a matter of finding that one song with a catchy beat that everyone seems to like and then working out your steps to accent the different beats with hip bounces or kicks or whatever."

"Ballroom dancing was very popular a couple of years ago," Wilson continued. "It just took off and everybody wanted to learn how to ballroom dance. It's still around and going strong, but country and western has moved in because it is so accessible. The biggest, macho guy with two left feet in a tee-shirt and jeans can still get out there and clod around and have a great time."

Country line dancing classes, sponsored by the Newark Department of Parks and Recreation, were held again on Wednesday. The department holds another class Oct. 6 at the George Wilson Center. Call 366-7060 for details.

try line dancing and other country dance styles for two years.

Lunacies like these have been inflicted on my poor wife, children and colleagues for years. They have been greeted by both groans and guffaws — the latter, perhaps, to pacify the punster and offset a further barrage. To its victims, punning can be seen as a disease, since any laughter, however sparse, can be contagious. I hope Newark Post readers will tackle this word-play nonsense with zest, thereby assuring them Eternal Joy and a letter from Ed McMahon.

Poison ivy, oak, sumac: identification helps avoid itchy results

I feel fortunate not to have been affected by the toxic oils of the poison ivy plant. Some people are so sensitive that they claim just looking at the plant causes them to break out in the rash and blisters that characterize the body's immune response to the oil.

Poison oak, poison ivy, and poison sumac are all members of the cashew family along with the tropical tree that produces tasty cashew nuts. Interestingly, there are several species in this family which produce the same types of toxins and skin eruptions in sensitive individuals. Only the shell of a cashew nut (which is removed before marketing in the U.S.) is toxic, whereas all parts of poison ivy, oak and sumac in North America are toxic. Inability to correctly identify and avoid touching these plants are the primary reason for exposure.

Whereas some harmless vines and shrubs are persecuted as poisonous, the real culprits often go unnoticed.

Poison ivy is a common weed that grows along edges of streams and woodlands, disturbed ground and hedgerows. Poison ivy likes moderate shade and relatively rich, moist soil. In the eastern U.S. the three-part leaves are mostly smooth along the margins. As one looks at plants occurring farther west, the leaflets tend to have coarse teeth, or deep lobes in the terminal leaflet.

The plant can assume a form that ranges from a small shrub to a vigorous climbing vine. Old poison ivy trunks are quite thick and covered with brown aerial roots that help it cling to trees, fences and walls. The female plants have small berries that ripen to a tan or yellowish color. Birds relish the fruits and spread poison ivy seeds in their droppings. In fall the leaves become brilliant red, one of the few redeeming qualities of the plant.

Controlling poison ivy in the landscape is difficult if it's entwined with desirable plants. There is no herbicide specific only to poison ivy and also harmless to woody ornamentals. Sometimes the only alternative is hand pulling and cutting. Painting the fresh cut stubs with herbicide may help prevent resprouting. If you have the time and patience, you could also carefully paint each poison ivy leaf with herbicide while avoiding the landscape plants. In open ground, broadleaf herbicides will kill poison ivy, but preserve desirable grasses.

If you are faced with the task of hand pulling poison ivy, avoid touching it even if you have never broken out in a rash from previous exposures. Anyone can become sensitized at any time. Wear garden gloves and long sleeves and pants. Be aware that the toxic oil can be transmitted on the surfaces of tools and clothing that touch poison ivy. Don't wipe the sweat from your eyes with the back of a contaminated glove! All these articles should be washed in hot water with strong detergent. Use rubber gloves to protect your hands from contact with the contaminated wash water.

Wash your body with a soap that doesn't contain any skin softeners. The oils in a "moisturizing facial soap could carry the toxic oils to other parts of the body.

Exposure will affect sensitive people with reddened, itchy skin progressing to weeping blisters. All surfaces of the body, inside and out, can be affected. Areas where the skin is softer, such as the eyes and groin, will react faster than tougher skin such as the palms and soles. Burning poison ivy will release smoke containing poison oil which in turn can be inhaled. Mild cases are treatable with over-the-counter medications. A physician will have additional drugs to prescribe for severe cases or secondary infections.

Poison oak is found on Delmarva in drier, sandier soils where poison ivy generally doesn't grow. Poison

Bring a taste of Italy to your dinner table and savor the flavor

I don't think that Italy has been given proper credit for the influence of its cuisine. Well over 2,000 years ago the Italians had an understanding of food, a sophistication, that was not equaled in any other part of the Western world.

Please remember that a formal Italian meal begins with an antipasto plate, followed by a soup, the pasta course then the main course. The salad is usually served with the main course or at the end of the meal. Yes, at the end.

ZUCCHINI FRITTERS (serves 6)

This simple and lovely little item is light enough for a first course or flavorful enough to be served as a vegetable dish during the main part of the meal.

- 3 cups coarsely grated zucchini
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 1/8 cup milk
- 2 teaspoons flour
- Salt and black pepper, freshly ground
- Mint, dried or fresh
- Olive oil for pan frying

Grate the squash and drain in a colander for 1 hour.

Mix the eggs, milk and flour into a smooth batter.

Add salt and pepper to taste. Add mint to taste. (I use about 1 teaspoon dried mint in this recipe. If using fresh mint leaf, chop about 1 tablespoon.) mix batter with the squash and pan-fry in small fritters in a bit of olive oil. Cook just until golden brown and serve as a first course or vegetable dish.

These can be kept warm in the oven for a bit before dinner. Be sure to cover.

ITALIAN BARLEY SOUP (serves 8)

This is a great dish, and talk about frugal. No meat is needed.

- 1 1/2 quarts fresh or canned beef stock
- 2 cups water
- 3/4 cup barley
- 1 cup celery, chopped
- 1 cup grated carrot
- 1 cup yellow onion, peeled and chopped
- 4 cloves garlic, crushed
- 1/2 cup red wine
- 1 piece lemon peel, about 1 inch by 1/2 inch
- Pepper to taste (I like plenty)
- Salt (if you must)

HERBS

- 1/2 tablespoon basil
- 1/4 tablespoon oregano
- 1/2 cup fresh parsley, chopped
- 2 bay leaves
- 1/2 tablespoon whole rosemary
- 2 tomatoes, chopped
- 4 tablespoons tomato paste
- Fresh-grated Parmesan or Romano cheese

Bring the stock and water to a boil.

Add the barley and turn down to a light simmer.

Add the celery, carrot, onion, garlic, red wine, lemon peel, pepper and salt and simmer for two hours. Stir often or the barley will stick to the bottom of the pot.

At the end of the two hours add the herbs, tomatoes and tomato paste.

Continue cooking the soup for one more hour, the total cooking time being three hours. Leave the lid on during the whole operation, and remember to stir often and check to see if you need to add water. Stir in a handful of grated cheese before serving.

PASTA PRIMAVERA (serves 6 to 8)

This dish is so named because it uses vegetables that come with the spring. However, in our time we can purchase these items all year round, so you can enjoy this spring dish even in January.

- 2 cloves garlic, minced fine
- 1 tablespoon olive oil
- 1 small yellow onion, peeled and diced
- 2 ripe tomatoes, chopped
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 1/2 teaspoon basil
- 1/2 teaspoon oregano
- 2 medium zucchini, grated into coarse pieces
- 1/2 cup dry red wine

- 1 egg beaten
- 1/4 cup grated Parmesan or Romano cheese
- 1 pound pasta

In a large frying pan, saute the garlic in the oil until it is lightly browned.

Add the onion and saute until it is clear. Add the tomato, salt, pepper, basil and oregano.

Simmer for a few minutes and add the zucchini.

Cook for about 15 minutes on high heat or until the moisture is almost gone.

Add the wine and simmer to reduce moisture. Add the egg and the cheese. Pour over the pasta and enjoy.

You can use this sauce over meats, fish, even poultry. It is also good over rice or bulgur wheat.

- 2 tablespoons butter
- 2 tablespoons dry sherry
- 2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
- 1 tablespoon capers, chopped
- 2 tablespoons chicken stock (Optional)
- 8 thin lemon slices
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley

Saute the yellow onion, garlic and green onions in the olive oil just until tender. Remove from the pan and set aside.

Remove the skins and bones from the chicken breasts and pound them flat with a fancy meat pounder or with two pieces of wax paper and a 2-by-4.

Mix the flour, salt and pepper together and place in flat bowl.

Dip the chicken slices in butter, two to three minutes per side. Add the sauteed onions and garlic.

Over high heat add the sherry, lemon juice and capers. This should thicken to make a nice gravy for the chicken; if the gravy becomes too thick add a bit of chicken stock.

Garnish with thin slices of lemon and the chopped parsley.

ITALIAN VEGETABLE SAUTE (serves 6 to 8)

This is a great way to serve vegetables, and they are not soggy or overdone. The advantage here is simple. Everything is partially cooled ahead of time and then sauteed at the last minute. Great for your family or company.

- 4 medium carrots, peeled and sliced
- 1 head cauliflower, divided into florets
- 3 small zucchini, sliced thin
- 3 tablespoons olive oil
- 2 yellow onions, peeled and sliced
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 1/4 cup beef stock
- 2 tablespoons fresh-grated Parmesan or Romano cheese

In a pot of boiling water blanch the carrots i.e., boil them for about 5 or 6 minutes or until they are tender; remove and cool.

Add the cauliflower to the same boiling water and cook until barley tender; remove and cool.

Add the zucchini to the pot, but do not cook long at all.

When you are ready to serve dinner, in a large frying pan or a wok saute the garlic in the olive oil. Add the carrots, cauliflower, zucchini and onions.

Toss for a few minutes, then add the salt, pepper and beef stock.

Cover the pan and cook just long enough to heat everything through. Stir gently often.

Sprinkle the cheese on top and serve.

TREAT YOURSELF.

Exactly what does an artist wear to her first exhibit? But what's really wonderful is the encouragement and support of all Pearls are always a safe bet. To my friends and neighbors here. My confidence has never soared quite so high! Cokesbury residents have a variety of diverse interests and talents, but all share a deep respect for accomplishment and friendship. They're just enthusiastic about life, in general!

Before I moved to Cokesbury Village, I lacked the time, confidence and inspiration to really cultivate my artistic talent. Here, services such as maintenance and housekeeping leave me all the time in the world. Having my meals prepared daily is a real treat, too.

And as for inspiration, well, that comes from my view of the Village gardens, ponds, and woodlands.

Saturday's art show, sale at Hagley features 24 artists, more

The Hagley Museum and Library has earned a worldwide reputation as one of the leading industrial museums of the planet. It is a well deserved reputation, but there is another side to Hagley, the site of the first duPont home and powder mills on the banks of the Brandywine. That side is a people oriented artistic side. A perfect illustration of that side will be on tap tomorrow.

From 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on Saturday, Aug. 7, Hagley will present a one-day indoor art show and sale. It will be held in the Soda House and Library Building. The event is being called "Hagley's Artful Occasion." The name tells the story.

Hagley honorary trustee Mrs. Donald S. Craven is the chairperson of the event which will feature original works from 24 invited artists as well as jewelry, sculpture and pottery from five regional galleries. Since the show is indoors, it will be held rain or shine. Besides the Soda House and Library are air conditioned!

"Hagley's Artful Occasion" is similar to other art shows held on the grounds in years past. It will showcase local and regional artists who have sketched and painted at Hagley Museum. In addition to Hagley scenes will be oils and watercolors depicting the Brandywine River Valley as well as other landscapes and seascapes.

The painting of the Birkenhead Mills by James McGlynn which is with my column today is one of my favorites of the show which opens to the public tomorrow. I think the entire are in and around the Hagley grounds are prime subjects for artists in most media and this painting proves my point. There are others which you and your family may enjoy more, but you won't know if you don't go!

In addition to James McGlynn, other artists invited to show include Mr. and Mrs. John Bayalis, Howard Eberle, Vernon Good, James Huntsberger, Kathleen Koch, Tzu Wen Kwok, Brian Magaral, Sharon Mallison, Jean Metzler, Susan B. Myers, Barbara Neville, Thomas A. Newnam, Dennis Park, Sueann Phillips, Anne Robinson, Nancy Sawin, Ralph Scharff, Wendy Scheirer, Charlu Schilling, Audrey Tant, Rita Trimmer and Nancy C. Willis.

Invited galleries participating in "Hagley's Artful Occasion" are Creations Fine Woodworking Gallery of Yorklyn, featuring wood-turned and crafted furniture and decorative pieces; Blue Streak Gallery of Wilmington, showing contemporary craft glass, pottery, wood, jewelry and clothing; Harcastle Gallery of Wilmington, with sculpture and decorative arts; Somerville Manning of Greenville, 19th and 20th century art and Studio One of Wilmington with fine textiles, furniture and art.

Both lists, the individual artists and the galleries, are impressive. They bode well for a fine artistic experience tomorrow from 9:30 to 4:30.

Dorothy Lehr, PR coordinator at Hagley, wanted me to remind all my readers not to come in the regular (main) gate off route 141. For tomorrow's events, please use the Buck Road East entrance off or Route 100 to get to the Soda House and Library.

Admission to the show is $3.50. Children under six, when accompanied by an adult, are admitted free.

If the temperature holds at its traditional August levels, a nice stroll along the Brandywine could be in order. Just a suggestion, keep under the shade of the many trees on the estate and museum grounds. Such strolls are lovely anytime of year. They can even be a "natural" relief from the heat.

If your trips to Hagley have been concentrated on the more "public" areas of the grounds, a camera will be most in order tomorrow. The greens are deeply green right now and the lush vegetation is at its height.

There is so much to see and to at Hagley, I am always grateful for another opportunity to get on the grounds. Enjoy!

 Poison sumac is a tall rangy shrub with compound leaflets resembling an ash tree. The staghorn sumac is harmless and can be distinguished from poison sumac by the erect fruit clusters (staghorns) as opposed to the drooping clusters of poison sumac. Poison sumac needs moist to wet soil, so it will be found only in marsh areas and swamps. Land development and wetlands drainage has severely reduced the range of poison sumac in the U.S.

Landmark Homes Is A Winner!

If a builder is to be judged by its accomplishments and by the way they are viewed by their peers, Landmark Homes can definitely be considered a winner! Over their short seven year history in the industry, they have been honored with sixteen Awards of Excellence by the Sales and Marketing Council of the Homebuilders Association of Maryland. These awards, based upon excellence in design, livability, and value have been presented in a variety of categories ranging from $140,000 to a custom home in the $350,000+ slot. What does it take to consistently produce award winners? According to Gary Houston, the company's CEO, the key is to listen to your customer. Landmark is concerned with open channels of communication between the buying public and the principles of the company. They encourage, and actually solicit, critiques of their homes by their customers. Who better knows about the "Livability" of a home than those who have purchased it? Always being on the cutting edge of design with an emphasis on convenience and comfort make Landmark outstanding in this area.

The second key to their success, says Landmark's President Rick Yaffe, is to be aware of product availability and what is new in the market. Being a trendsetter and always new and fresh is critical in the industry. What better excuse to try out all of the new "toys" of the trade!

Finally, Landmark's owners feel that every home should be constructed as if it were their own. They have so much pride in their homes that each and every design is named after a child in the company. Landmark's customers can be sure that it is the company's goal that every Chase Alexander or Rebecca Lauren that they construct is the best that they can build.

Beginning in 1987, the first year that Landmark was officially in business, full of enthusiasm and hope they entered their only two house types—the Ryan and the Ashley Blair. An excited entourage from Landmark accepted their first award for the Ryan in Vale Hills.

1988 was truly a "Landmark" year with three awards for the Britany Ann and the Ashley Blair in Durham Manor and the Chase Alexander in Hillview Farms. They were definitely proving themselves as a leader in the industry.

A second "hat trick" in a row, 1989 was a banner year. The Chase Alexander and Kelly Marie in Falls Glen and the Sunni Leigh in Overview Manor took their categories. Proving that there is a charm, Overview Manor, was 1990's award winning subdivision with trophies going to the Tara, Sunni Leigh, and Douglas William.

Entering the custom division for the first time in 1991, Landmark was excited to win for the Houston residence in Morikton Farms. Expanding into the division gave added dimension to Landmark Homes.

This brings us to the present! Last month Landmark won an unprecedented 4 division awards, 1 Silver Merit and 1 affordable housing-making them the all time leader in the industry. Cedarside's Andrew Harris, Overview's Matthew Brian, the Brad Jacob in Seminary Overlook, and the Chase Alexander in Hampton Ridge all took top honors.

The owners and employees of Landmark Homes are extremely proud of these accomplishments and would like to invite everyone to visit one of their 16 Subdivisions and see for themselves what makes a home a Landmark.

Preview Landmark Homes' newest community of "Woodhoime" and reserve a choice lot now for early 1994 delivery.

HERE'S ANOTHER REHABILITATION SUCCESS STORY

FROM THE ARBORS AT NEW CASTLE

Walter Brown of Townsend was admitted to the Arbors at New Castle last September. He was suffering from Parkinson's disease and a stroke that had left him partially paralyzed.

From the moment Walter entered the Arbors at New Castle, our medical and therapy teams went to work and mapped out a customized care plan to get Walter home as quickly as possible.

Only nine weeks later, Walter had made significant progress and could again live independently with minimal assistance. Today, Walter is back home with his wife.

Walter Brown is just one of the many success stories that are happening every day at the Arbors at New Castle. We're proud of our record, our full line of services, our excellent staff, and our ability to provide the community with the best in rehabilitative and subacute services.

Canal Seniors win state championship

Win opener in Mid-Atlantic regional too

By MARTY VALANIA
NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

RISING SUN, Md. — The Canal Senior League All-Star team impressively opened defense of its Mid-Atlantic Regional title with a 9-0 win over Southern Charles (Md.) Monday night.

Canal pitcher Adrienne Maloney hurled a three-hitter while striking out 12 and walking none to help lead the Delaware state champs to the victory. Offensively, Kati Salony and Kristin Nau each had two hits to lead the charge.

"I thought Adrienne did an excellent job," said Canal Manager Mike Salony. "It was another good team effort — led by Adrienne."

Maloney set the tone of the game early as she struck out the first three Southern Charles batters.

Canal then struck for a run in the bottom of the first as Nau singled home Salony to give the winners a lead they would never relinquish.

That lead was stretched to 5-0 in the third inning as Ellie Miller started a four-run rally with a walk. Salony and Mandichak followed with singles to score Miller. Nau then doubled to left field to push the lead to 4-0. Lisa Delcollo's ground ball with one out scored Nau.

Maloney, meanwhile, continued to sail along giving up single hits in the third, fourth and seventh innings.

"We wanted to come out and

Down Laurel in three games for state crown

STANTON — This championship was anything but easy.

The Canal Senior All-Star softball team defeated the Laurel All-Stars 6-5 in the third game of the best-of-three state championship series Saturday at the Stanton-Newport Little League complex to capture the Delaware title. It marked the sixth straight year that Canal has won the Senior title.

Jodi Mandichak, with one out and the score tied 5-5 in the bottom of the sixth inning, reached base on an infield single to start the winning rally. An errant throw on her hit allowed Mandichak to reach second base. She then executed a perfect delayed steal to reach third base.

There, a big lead drew a pick-off attempt from Laurel pitcher Mandy Pepper. The throw, however, got away in the left field foul territory and Mandichak was able to scamper home with the winning run.

"I knew I had to do something," said Mandichak, who had seven hits in the series including three in the final game. "I saw they really weren't paying attention to me [on second base] and I could make it. Then I noticed that [Pepper] was eager to throw over to third. It just worked out."

Sunday's win completed a two-game comeback for Canal in the series, which saw Laurel dominate the first game 8-4. Canal won the second game 9-5.

"We thought we could come back," said Mandichak of losing the first game of the series. "We

Wizards win playoff game

Delaware to face Greensboro this weekend

By JOHN HOLOWKA
NEWARK POST SPORTS WRITER

GLASGOW — For the third time as many home games, the Delaware Wizards played catchup and rallied from a one-goal deficit to overcome Raleigh 4-2 Saturday in a US Interregional Soccer League Atlantic Division semifinal game in front of 3,417 fans at Glasgow High.

"We never plan on what the score will be but we always expect to win," said Tim Jones, a Brandywine High graduate who assisted on a pair of goals. "With this team, being a come-from-behind and a goal-scoring team we knew when we went in at halftime tied 2-2 we had the advantage. We're a second-half team and I thought we'd get more than one goal. We did."

The victory thrusts the fledgling team into a two-game series against top-seeded Greensboro Dynamo, a team that has beaten Delaware twice this season by 2-1 scores, one coming at Glasgow in overtime. Both games of the series will be played in Greensboro.

Delaware took a 1-0 lead following Mike McFarland's sixth goal of the season from Jones in the 8th minute, but Raleigh scored the next two goals off direct kicks from about 30 yards to take a 2-1 advantage with 22 minutes left in the half. Midfielder Darek Bujak evened the match 2-2 with a goal just before the break.

"We had momentum going for us the first half and then we gave it back to (Raleigh) on the free kicks. We're thankful we got the goal before half," said Wizards Coach Joe Brown, voted USISL Atlantic Division Coach of the Year. "We know we're a second-half team, and the thing was we were in there really putting it to them. We're playing consistent and didn't have to make many adjustments (Saturday)."

McKean High's Chris Morgan put Delaware ahead 3-2 with his fourth goal in the 62nd minutes and the Wizards sealed their 11th win of the year when substitute Andy Barat (St. Mark's) headed in a perfect crossing pass from Eric Smith in the final minutes.

"Halftime for us has always been a rejuvenation period," Jones said. "We're really fit and we've trained to be extremely physically fit. We went into halftime and said it's time for us to play. And we always seem to dominate teams in the second half."

"Without a doubt, individually, we're the best team in the conference. We've worked hard since December but we never thought we'd get (to the division finals). I'm amazed we've come this far."

"This has been a Cinderella season," said Brown.

Hens selected to repeat as champs

By MARTY VALANIA
NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

Ready or not, it's football season again.

For anyone who thought the University of Delaware football team's fortunes went down the tubes with the graduation of last year's exceptional senior class, there was some good news this week.

Yes, the Blue Hens — in the minds of the media that cover the Yankee Conference anyway — have been selected as the favorite to win the conference again. Delaware outpooled Richmond for the pre-season honor.

"I'm surprised," said Delaware Coach Tubby Raymond Monday at the Yankee Conference meetings in Richmond after hearing the news. "That's a little heavy.

POST GAME

"But seriously, it's a compliment to our program that people think we could be or should be the best team in the league."

The Yankee Conference will be different this year than it has been in the past. James Madison, William & Mary and Northeastern join the league making it a 12-team conference.

Delaware will be in the Mid-Atlantic Division of the Conference. What an imposing group that is with William & Mary, James Madison, Villanova, Richmond and Northeastern joining the Blue Hens.

That's a lot of traditional powers in one half of a league.

The New England Division will consist of UMass, UConn, Maine, New Hampshire, Boston University and Rhode Island.

District II Big League softball wins state and Mid-Atlantic championship

Burgess pitches 10 innings in final game

By MARTY VALANIA
NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

The final game was, literally, more than just a game.

It meant the state championship... and it meant the Mid-Atlantic Regional championship.

There was certainly a lot at stake as the District II Big League All-Star softball team (Nor Del) scored four runs in the 10th inning to down the District I team (Lo Del) Sunday night to capture both titles. Tammy Dotson's bases-loaded triple in the 10th was the big blow scoring Stephanie Donovan, Stacey Mandichak and Roni Salony. Dotson then scampered home on a wild pitch to provide the final margin.

The late-inning offensive heroics were made possible by a strong 10-inning pitching performance by Alaina Burgess. Burgess shut down Lo Del all night and combined with the good defense behind her picked up her second win of the five-game tournament which had the New Jersey and Maryland champions also participating.

The win sends Nor Del into Eastern Regional play starting Tuesday in Lusby, Md. The winner of that tournament advances to the Big League World Series in Arizona.

"It was a great tournament," said District II Manager Benny Dotson. "We knew a Delaware team would be going to the Eastern Regional but I'm glad we could do it."

The tournament victory marked the third straight state championship for District II but the first-ever Mid-Atlantic champi-

Newark playoffs down to final four teams

By CHARLIE REMSBURG
SPECIAL TO THE NEWARK POST

It took just five playoff games for the four top teams in the Newark Softball League to win their way into the winner's bracket final four. Thus, as the week started, East End Cafe did battle with Pat's Delivery while Time Out Sports conflicted with Taylor's Ink. And the survivor of this mine-showdown is in the so-called "cat bird seat".

So, if weather permitted all this week, the League title is set to be decided Monday evening at 6 p.m. on the Barksdale 2 Field with one or two games.

"B" Division double-elimination play final-foured with showdowns between GRPC-Schumachers and El Sombrero-Glasgow Gulf.

Monday that title will be decided on Barksdale 1 at 6 p.m.

East End Cafe (32-4, Blue Division champ) eased its way into the "A" Division final four by ripping Vision Source (16-19, Blue sixth place) 13-8. Down 7-2 in what could have been the biggest upset in league history, Cafe treyed its way to the win by posting three runs in innings three through five.

Jim Brown led East End with four hits including a two-run single in the third to get his team close. Butch Simpson's key two-run triple helped give East End an 8-7 lead after four, and Len Donahue's two-run homer in the fifth eased East End to the five-run final count.

Pat's Delivery (26-10) walked its way into a showdown with East End. It beat Deco-Signs 7-6 and Scorer's Pub 14-3 to advance.

Pat's tallied two runs in the bottom of the seventh to get by Deco. Tom Murphy and Vance Pennington started the rally with hits. An error and two flyouts (Ed Herr's to tie the game 6-6) created a two on, two out situation. Then, startlingly, Vito Demarco and Al Foskey walked on the next nine pitches forcing home the winning run.

Pat's ripped Scorer's as Tom Johnson's two-run homer in the first delivered an early lead. Johnson and Herr were each 4-for-4 as Pat's scored in all six at bats to prevail 14-3.

Pat's won the Gold Division in 1991 and 1992 but faded in the playoffs. They were 0-4 against East End in the Blue in 1993.

"But we played them tough in a couple of games," said Pat's Manager Pat Roby. "This past weekend we won the state NSA Tournament, so we're ready."

Defensive-minded Time Out Sports carries the Gold Division's hopes in 1993. It won the division handily at 31-4 and won all seven games against the second and third place teams while yielding an average of just four runs per game.

Staying consistent in the playoffs, the team edged a good but inconsistent Crab Trap team (19-17) 6-4. Sport's leadoff batters Henry Wagner, Mark Schroeder and Rich Burris hit and scored in the first and third innings for the team's offense. Pitcher Joe Krawczyk, a quick defense and great plays at third by Guy Remsburg and second base by Matt Krawczyk carried Time Out by the Trap.

But what about Taylor's Ink? "We play them one at a time. We're young," said Time Out Manager John Slack, Sr.

"Time Out's young, smart and they play good defense," said Taylor's Dave Michaloski. "But you can't win if you can't hit (in the playoffs)."

Taylor's can hit and they over-rode William's Realtors 10-8 for its advance to the final four. Down 5-0, Ken Tompkins' three-run homer started a seven-run fourth and Tom Snyder's two-run blast concluded the rally giving Ink the lead for good.

"We're hitting better now, and feeling better as a team going into the playoffs," Michaloski said.

In 1992, a highly regarded Ink team was erased from tournament play early in a pair of upsets.

But the "A" Division playoffs in 1993 are no upset. Discarding games among themselves, East End, Pat's, Taylor's were a combined 77-6 against the rest of the Blue Division and Time Out was 31-4 against the Gold.

"These are the best four teams," said East End Manager Mike Brogan whose franchise started as Taylor's Sporting Goods in 1989 and East End Cafe since, has won 12 of the last 14 Newark League titles.

Double elimination gives a team a second chance. As such, Scorer's Pub and Crab Trap remain alive in "A" play. Scorer's whipped State Line Liquors 10-2 after State Line eliminated Vision Source 10-9. Crab Trap came back to whip Deco Signs 10-2 and edge William's Realtors 11-9 to eliminate the latter two from further play.

GRPC (fifth in Gold) vs. Schumacher's (seventh in Gold) and El Sombrero (ninth in Blue) vs. Glasgow Gulf (10th in Blue) constitute the upset-minded "B" Division final four playoffs for the consolation title. GRPC edged Fair Hill Taylor's Gary Connell accepts congratulations after win over Time Out.

Auto 5-4, while Schumacher's advanced over Thirtysomething 16-14. The Thirtys had stopped Newark Auto Buffs 11-9.

El Sombrero out-defensed both Margaretten Mortgage 5-4 and Yankee Restaurant 5-1 to advance against Glasgow Gulf which stunned Moondog's Cafe 7-1. Moondog's stayed alive in the loser's bracket by eliminating Newark Auto and Yankee 9-3.

Margaretten, however, stayed alive by doubling Fair Hill Auto 14-7 and nearly tripling Thirtysomething 17-6.

The double-elimination is a Newark tradition. Allowing a loss to win a title is the hopeful part of the double-elimination process. But it leaves a premium to the unbeaten survivor of the winner's bracket. That's the team that makes the final night of the season with two chances to win the title if needed.

Traditionally, but not always, comes from the winner's bracket final—the catbird's seat.

Taylor's is nearly there and say it'll do it. Pat's Delivery moved and played a tougher schedule in 1993 to enhance its chances. Time Out Sports is young, quick and confident hasn't even averaged a loss a month. The Pub called scorers and the group from Crab are trapped with a loss, but hopeful.

And there, seemingly forever, is East End Cafe—the catbird.

have a lot of girls on this team that have gone all the way to the World Series before so I think the loss got us motivated again."

After the second game win, Canal jumped to a 4-0 in the first inning of the last game. It appeared that all the momentum had switched to Canal and it would be able to cruise to the final victory.

Wrong. With two errors opening the door, Laurel banged through with four runs in the third inning to tie the game. Then the District 1 champs added another in the fourth inning to take a 5-4 lead.

Momentum had switched. "My girls hit the ball hard," said Laurel Manager Horace Pepper. "We felt we could come back."

"Canal's a real good team. It was a good series."

Canal answered with a run in the bottom of the fourth to tie the game

5-5 as Kati Salony doubled to deep left and scored on Mandichak's single.

Salony, the winning pitcher, was able to shut down Laurel in the fifth and sixth innings setting up the deciding bottom of the sixth.

After getting the go-ahead run Salony got Laurel out in the seventh with the game ending on a double play.

"It's a real tribute to the girls to come back the way they did," said winning manager Mike Salony. "We could've died after the first game and we could've rolled over when [Laurel] came back and took the lead today."

"It was a good series and good hard-earned win."

New attitude helps Canal regroup and take game two of state title series

By MARTY VALANIA

STANTON - Things did not look good for the Canal Senior League All-Star team following the first game of the state championship series. Laurel convincingly won the first game of the series 8-4.

If Canal was going to continue with its tradition of winning state championships and advancing deep into regional play, two wins were a must.

That made the second game all that more important and Canal came through with a 9-5 victory.

What was the big difference from the first game?

"Attitude," said second baseman Ellie Miller who hit two triples, stole two bases and scored three runs to lead the offense. "We needed a game like that - a setback to get us going again."

Canal started the game on top of note by scoring twice in the top of the first inning.

Miller led the game off with a walk and two batters later scored on a double by Jodi Mandichak. Kristin Nau's single scored Mandichak.

Miller's triple in the second inning scored Brenda Marley to improve Canal's cushion to 3-0. Mandichak then singled home

Miller in the fourth inning to give Canal a 4-0 lead.

Laurel, however, fought back with three runs in the bottom of the fourth as, again, errors were a big culprit. The normally strong Canal defense uncharacteristically committed 15 errors in the three-game series. Two in the fourth inning along with one Laurel hit, cut the lead to 4-3.

The victory was sealed in the sixth inning as Canal plated five runs.

Miller, again, was the catalyst starting the rally with her second triple. Kati Salony followed with a walk, Mandichak walked and Nau doubled home two runs with a shot in the left-center field gap.

"That was a big hit," said Canal Manager Mike Salony of Nau's hit. "This team came back real well after the loss. We didn't hang our heads and we came out strong with a good attitude."

Winning pitcher Adrienne Maloney continued the rally with a walk, Megan Biddle hit a sacrifice fly to score a run and Jen Olsen singled home a run to provide the final margin.

"We had to win if we wanted any chance of winning the state championship," said Salony. "We handled the pressure of being eliminated well."

Canal Majors down Rising Sun in opening game of Mid-Atlantic Regional in N.J.

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

NORTH CUMBERLAND, N.J. - A manager couldn't hope for a much better beginning.

The Canal Major All-Star softball team opened Mid-Atlantic Regional play with a 7-0 victory over Maryland champion Rising Sun Tuesday night at the North Cumberland Little League complex.

Julie Van Deussen pitched a two-hitter while striking out 12 in a dominating effort. Offensively, Katie Esposito had two hits while Lisa Laskowski also had two hits and scored twice.

"It was a good win," said Canal Manager Herb Van Deussen. "[Rising Sun] is a good team. They play great defense and they can put the ball in play."

Canal took a 1-0 lead in the second inning on aggressive base running by Erica Richardson. The quick centerfielder reached first base on an error, stole second, moved to third on a wild pitch and stole home on as the catcher lazily threw the ball back to an unsuspecting pitcher.

"She's amazing, especially for an 11-year-old," said the manager. "She really has good instinct. You can't teach some of the things she does."

Meanwhile, Van Deussen was mowing through the Rising Sun batting order. Ten of the first 12 outs recorded were by strikeout.

"It was a tougher game than our first one [in Mid-Atlantics] last year," said the diminutive pitcher, one of just two players who played on Canal's World Series team of a year ago. "We won the first game 22-1 last year but then came back with a 2-1 game."

"We heard that [Rising Sun] was real good and had a great pitcher, but when we got out there we thought we had a good chance to win."

The lead was stretched to 4-0 in the fifth inning as Laskowski doubled home Van Deussen and later scored on Kirsty Lloyd's single. Lloyd would eventually score on a wild pitch.

Canal sealed the victory with three more runs in the sixth inning.

Annie Nefosky started the rally by reaching base on a hard hit ball misplayed in the outfield.

Two batters later Lisa Scanlon also reached on an error. Consecutive singles by Van Deussen and Laskowski scored Scanlon.

Van Deussen and Laskowski then came around to score on another Rising Sun error.

Cori Abshagen also picked up a hit for Canal.

The win advanced the Delaware state champs to the winner's bracket final against Pompton Lakes, N.J. on Wednesday.

The winner of that game will play for the championship Friday.

The winner of the regional will advance to the Eastern Regionals in Vineland, N.J. with a berth to the World Series on the line.

Canal is bidding for its third straight trip to the Series in Kalamazoo, Mich.

play Canal ball," said Maloney. "We wanted to put the Laurel games (state tournament series) behind us and start over. I think this gives us some confidence."

Four more runs in the fifth inning sealed the victory for Canal. Delcollo led the inning off with a double to right-center. Jen Rossetti followed with an RBI-single to left. Jen Olsen, who singled earlier in the game, then reached on a fielder's choice and Megan Biddle singled. Miller then hit a booming double to right to score the runners. Salony's ground ball scored Miller to provide the final run.

"It's a good start," said the manager.

New professional basketball league to play games at Newark High this fall

By JOHN HOLOWKA
NEWARK POST SPORTS WRITER

STANTON — Delaware will be home to its third professional sports team in the past year when the Blue Bombers of the seven-team Atlantic Basketball Association descend on Newark High's basketball court this fall.

After a 22 year absence, the Blue Bombers, who played in the former Eastern Basketball League (now the Continental Basketball Association) from 1963-1971, will play a 30-game season (15 home games) against Frederick (MD), Trenton and Pennsylvania squads Allentown, Hazleton, Pottsville and Scranton.

Tryouts opened last Friday and Saturday at Delaware Technical & Community College's gym with an estimated 70 players vying for the 12 regular-season active and four non-active roster spots with a salary cap of $1,000 per player per game.

The season opens the weekend following Thanksgiving and runs into early April. All home games are scheduled at Newark, which has a seating capacity of 1,500.

Ticket prices range from $4.50 to $6.50 for reserved and general admission, and from $97.50 to $67.50 for season tickets. A discount will be applied to all season tickets purchased before Sept. 3.

"We're getting a lot of positive feedback from the community," said team general manager and coach Scott Barker during a press conference last week. "And of course we'd like to draw some of our players from nearby and from those who have grown up and played in the area."

"We're confident that the tryout process will produce the 12 best players for the team," Barker said. "We'll be testing for a number of things, including speed, quickness strength, vertical leap and body fat in relation to height and weight."

Some big name local players invited to tryout are former Villanova star Alex Bradley, who saw some playing time with the NBA New York Knicks and Drexel's fifth leading scorer Michael Thompson.

Former University of Delaware players include: Mark Murray, the only player in Delaware history to play in the top 10 for career scoring, rebounds, assists, blocks and steals; Taurence Chisholm, who holds 16 records and is the all-time leader in assists and steals; Anthony Wright, sixth in career scoring, first in games played; Tony Tucker, Oscar Jones, Steve Jennings and Denard Montgomery.

"We'll look closely at everybody," Barker said. "What we're really looking for is players with a certain style, players that play with a high level of intensity and play team ball. We're going to run a speed game at both ends of the floor, so we're looking for players who get up and down hard every time."

Barker, 29, of Hockessin, was assistant coach at Del Tech the past five years and before that assistant at Middletown and A.I. DuPont high schools. Blue Bomber's assistant coach Reggie Lackfield, once drafted by the Los Angeles Lakers and the Kentucky Colonels, has coached in many professional settings, his most recent as player-coach with the Lancaster Red Roses of the Eastern Basketball League.

Ticket information is available by calling 426-9334.

onship.

"It's the first-time ever we've won the Mid-Atlantics," Dotson said. "Cecil County has won the last several and it's just awesome to be able to come back and win."

Come back indeed.

Nor Del was pounded 13-3 in its opening game of the tournament. That forced four straight wins to emerge as champion.

Following its opening loss, the team came back to defeat New Jersey 7-3 behind the combined pitching of Burgess, Christina Klein and Jamie Elliott.

Klein came back and pitched five innings in each of Nor Del's two victories Saturday night. District II defeated the Cecil County team, the team that crushed it in the first game, by the score of 5-1.

That win advanced Nor Del to the final where it had to beat Lo Del twice. The first game was scoreless through six innings. The eventual champions, however, were able to scratch out two runs in the top of the seventh and Klein shut Lo Del down in the bottom to force the "if" game.

"It was a real pitcher's duel," said Dotson of that game. "It was a great job."

That set up the dramatic "winner take all" game.

"Alaina just did a super job," Dotson said of the final game. "She threw an outstanding game.

"The whole tournament was a great team effort. We came together and the girls just did an awesome job."

Yankee Conference to have new look

► POST GAME, from 1B

Even though the league is divided into two divisions, the overall champion will be determined by best overall record. The teams will just play the ones in its division and three others from the other division.

It's possible that a team from one division could miss the big hitters from the other division in a given year.

"There will be a year - I hope it's not this year - where a team from the North didn't play the top team from the South," said New Hampshire Coach Bill Bowes. "That will be unfortunate, but it will happen."

Other than playing all 11 games in the conference, there is no way of getting around this scenario.

A post-season playoff similar to the Southeastern Conference's is not an option because of the I-AA playoffs.

Despite this glitch, all the coaches seem ecstatic with the set up.

New Yankee Conference Executive Director Chuck Boone stated that the goal is to keep the conference moving toward being the premiere I-AA football conference in the country.

Delaware opens its season Sept. 4 against former rival Lehigh at Delaware Stadium. A big clash with William & Mary follows the next week.

It looks like it will be another exciting fall for Blue Hen followers and it's right around the corner.

HOME SERVICE DIRECTORY

P & L SERVICES, INC.

Everyone knows a fresh coat of paint does wonders, brightening up a home's exterior. But on most homes today, only small areas of trim ever need repainting. So how do you brighten up vinyl or aluminum siding, brickface, natural-finished lumber, shingles, even sidewalks? Phil Weible, of P & L Services, Inc., has the answer. High-pressure water power washing will produce amazing results on these and many other surfaces. Auto dealers have long known that this is the way to keep cars looking new, and marina operators know it to be the best way to scour a boat, but somehow many homeowners are not aware of the dramatic improvement power washing can make on their homes. You may be familiar with self-service car washes, which typically use water pressurized to about 500 lbs./sq. in. (PSI). Phil generally uses about 2000 PSI to clean exterior surfaces. His gasoline-powered portable pressurizer can provide from 250 to 3000 PSI to suit any job. High-pressure water readily removes stain and sealer from treated lumber decks to prepare them for refinishing. It's the water that does the cleaning; the soaps Phil uses are to kill bacteria, mold, and the like. A special soap can be used to degrease surfaces. All the products Phil uses are E.P.A.-approved and non-polluting. He won't injure your plants or pollute your yard. Others may not be so fastidious, he warns. After 15 years in the business, he's learned that only by doing the job correctly, honestly, and with attention to detail can you satisfy customers and establish a reputation. Call P & L Services and Phil will demonstrate the effects of power washing on your surface while giving you an estimate on the job, without charge or obligation.
