Long Made Vice President and Lipstein Named New Secretary and Treasurer. Frat Relay Discussed

James C. Stewart, president of the Sigma Nu fraternity, was elected the new president of the Interfraternity Council Monday at its first meeting since the recent elections of fraternity chieftains. He assumes his duties immediately, replacing Grover Surratt, former President of the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity. Other officers for the coming year elected with Stewart are: Armel Long, president of the Theta Chi fraternity, vice president; and Sigmund Lipstein, president of the Sigma Tau Phi fraternity, secretary and treasur-

The Interfraternity Council is planning to follow a vigorous program during the coming year. Grover Surratt, in his final speech to the Council, warned that the group must watch the Physical Education Department and the non-fraternity group. He objected strenuously to the fact that the Interfraternity Relay event had been interfered with this year and warned against allowing the nonfraternity men from obtaining too much strength. Lattin stated upon assuming the chair that he desired the immediate formation of a committee to consider a new Constitution for the Student Council. He declared that such a document cannot be drawn up hurriedly, for it must be capable of lasting more than a year or two. Lattin also stated his desire for the establishment of some definite policy concerning rat rules and the appointment of a parliamentarian to provide a definite plan of parliamentary pro-cedure for the Council.

Relay For Fraternities Alone

The attempt of the Physical Education Department to abolish the traditional Interfraternity Relay Event this year has met with vehement and overwhelming protest! Nonfraternity men and members of the Alumni have joined with the fraternities in a popular demand that this annual race, which has aroused such spirited and intense rivalry between the fraternities in the past, be held again this year.

Now the decision has been reached! Mr. Bardo states that the Interfraternity Relay will be held again on the day of the Interscholastics as in past years. There are conditions, however, set forth which will prevent the Relay from being entirely a fraternity event. Any organized group outside the fraternities will also be afforded the opportunity of entering a team. The fraternities are bound to "kick" about this condition and they will not be wholly unjustified. If any team is able to enter this race it will not be an Interfraternity Event but should more properly be called a "Delaware College Relay Event."

Theinterest which has always followed the Interfraternity Relay Event merits that it be held exclusively for the fraternities. It is the one last competitive event existing for them and while it holds its present name no outside group should be allowed to participate. Let the Interfraternity Relay be what the name implies, and may the best fraternity win.

Inter-Frat Council Petitions Dr. Hullihen

April 22, 1937.

Dr. Walter Hullihen, President, University of Delaware.

Dear Dr. Hullihen:

We, the members of the Interfraternity Council, and the representatives of our respective fraternities, do hereby present to you, the President, the following petition, feeling that you will consider it carefully.

In the past the fraternities have always had a traditional and colorful event-the Interfraternity Relay. Due to the present policy of the Physical Education Department we apparently must forego our relay. This has been our understanding from the Physical Education Department. We cannot understand why the Interfraternity Relay, as it has been in past years, will conflict in any serious way with the program of the Physical Education Department.

Inasmuch as our pleas to the Physical Education Department have been to no avail, we feel that perhaps you may be able to offer a solution to the situation.

Yours respectfully,

The Interfraternity Council.

Nothing To Fear But Yourselves

A strong fear and uneasiness seems to have gripped several of our fraternities at Delaware College. The extinction of one fraternity several months ago, the organization of a non-fraternity social group, and the attempt of the Physical Education Department to abolish the Interfraternity Relay have all served to frighten the fraternities into believing that their prestige and power is definitely waning. In one desperate struggle four of the fraternities organized and pounced upon most of the student offices during our recent elections.

We believe that this fatalistic course pursued by these fraternities is the most shortsighted kind of strategy they could possibly follow. It invites retaliation, and in a fight to the last ditch between fraternity and nonfraternity men, the Greek letter societies, composing less than thirty per cent of the undergraduate body, would find themselves in a losing struggle. Do the fraternities dare to hope that they can year after year organize according to a so-called setup and hand out student offices in exchange for votes with little regard for merit and ability? Is it possible that the seventy per cent outside the fraternities will never arouse themselves, but remain forever dormant to allow political setups to dominate campus life? We feel that the fraternities have no guarantee that they will always be allowed to wield. political control ruthlessly and in their own

Fraternal brotherhoods can afford great benefits to students which cannot be obtained elsewhere, but when they attempt to gain a strangle hold on collegiate politics, their usefulness ends. We hope that the new Interfraternity Council, which should certainly become a dominant influence for constructive activity at Delaware, will grasp the necessity for keeping fraternities from uniting for political purposes. If they do, they will attract larger and larger numbers into their folds, for the greatest objection to fraternity membership will then be removed. If they, however, feel that their function lies only in the field of political setups and deals, they are preparing themselves for a struggle which they can never win.

Fraternities: you have nothing to fear but yourselves!

Supporting Council Change

The class officer elections will soon be mere memories, but their individual effects will not be so forgotten. The disappointed candidates will react differently to the results. Some will take it with the same complacency that characterizes all their activities. Some will console themselves with the welcome knowledge that the offices are hollow honors anyhow, and would be a prostitution of their talents. While still others sulk or mutter about such a commonplace as the "doublecross."

Midst all this furor the rugged iberals trumpet and shout their individual wares. These rugged individualists go down together because they desire to stand alone. The liberals agree that Council representation should be changed, but they all offer their own pet plan. This results in a division of support. Meanwhile the conservatives sit back and laugh and mock. The true liberal to gain a lot must first satisfy himself to take a little and keep plugging.

Numerals For Athletes

Why has there never been inaugurated at the University Delaware a system of athletic re-wards in the form of numerals?

The introduction of numerals would serve as an athletic award for those who don't quite make letters in their sport. Now that intramural sports are coming in, these numerals would make an ideal award for the contestants on class teams. There would have to be two or three different kinds of numerals, but other colleges have worked out efficient systems of awarding numerals and there seems to be no good reason for not starting them

The awarding of numerals for inter-class athletics would stimuate interest and competition.

Progressive Weighs the Situation

Dear Sir: After mature reflection, observation, and consideration I have arrived at the conclusion that there are certain problems which exist Professor Holbrook Speaks on the campus unnoticed by the To Athenaeans Next Tues. administration. I wish to list a few, and I feel that speedy action should be taken on them. 1. There should be a faculty ruling preventing any student from matriculating who does not signify that he will join a frat. Fraternity costs should now be listed present German government. After in the catalogue as part of the essential expenses.

4. Non-frat men who live in Harter Hall next year should be forbidden from spreading "propaganda" against the noble and unselfish frats.

5. The Dean's office would do well to publish figures on the number of frat and non-frat men in the respective classes

6. The Student Council should be abolished and the Inter-fraternity Council more fully developed.

All of these suggestions embody vital and gripping campus prob-I wonder if the administralems. tion has an answer to them. The self-appointed campus dictators have selfishly ignored them.

Taxation Without Representation

In reading last week's REVIEW I noticed an article in "The Inquiring Reporter" column stating that four fraternities could control the Student Council, and thereby control the affairs of the student body at large.

This was definitely shown in the recent Student Council elections. Four fraternities, comprising approximately 100 members, or onefifth of the student body, completely controlled the elections.

It is rumored that at an Interfraternity Council meeting held earlier on the day of the election, only one fraternity president stated that he was in favor of holding fair election. Irregardless of who were the best men for the positions, these four fraternities had decided before the election just who was to get what position. stand that a man who holds a position which requires the greatest amount of time and effort, recently Despite received five conditions. the fact that there were other very capable men for filling some of the positions, underclassmen seemed to dominate the effices.

Out of 98 members of the junior class, there are thirty-eight fraternity men, or thirty-hine per cent; but in the case of represent-ation, there are five fraternity men to two non-fraternity men on the Council. Thus, 61 per cent of the class gets 29 per cent of the representation, while 39 per cent (the minority) gets 71 per cent.

Is 80 per cent of the student body going to sit back and let 20 per cent do as it pleases? students who contribute $600 against a total of $2,850 paid unto the Council in one year going to control our $2,850?
TAXATION WITHOUT REP-

RESENTATION MAY CAUSE ANOTHER REVOLUTION!

Sincerely yours, Elmer W. Baldwin, Jr.

New Officers Of the Student Council

Four young men gathered together in solemn conclave and de-cided just who the Student Council officers should be. If one fraternity got two officers it was because the other three frats decided that the offices were unimportant, besides entailing some work. If a certain fraternity magnanimously decided to give the political graveyard office to another organized brotherhood, it was for no better reason than to placate an insatiable office thirst with a lemon.

Should the Inter-Fraternity Relay be continued?

Joseph Perkins, Jr., '37 Pre-Law The Inter-Fraternity Council should arrange with Director Shields of the Intramural program, a contest similar to the Inter-Fraternity Relay of previous years. If care and negotiations are used, I think that Mr. Shields can be induced to support a special event for the fraternity runners.

Randall Carpenter, '37 Pre-Law The Inter-Fraternity Relay, it seems to me, should be continued again this year because it is a tradition, the only form of Inter-Fraternity competition remaining, the property of the Interthe principal event on the Inter-Scholastic Day program, and an event of tremendous interest not only to fraternity men but to all others-including the alumni. I feel that it would in no serious way conflict with the goal and purpose of existing Intramural program.

Phys-Ed Fenton Carey, '38 I believe that the Inter-Fraternity Relay should be retained because it is one of the most colorful and exciting events of the year. The argument has been advanced that this event keeps men from participating in varsity track, but this has proven a fallacy. I do feel, however, that the representation of a Non-Fraternity group would lead to greater interest in this feature of Inter-Scholastics Day.

Clark Lattin, '38 I believe that the Inter-Fraternity Relay is one of the biggest events of the year. It draws interest not only from the fraternity group but from the whole school, Newark people, and many high school students who attend the Inter-Scholastics each year. It is one of the few events that help to keep some spirit and life on the campus.

A. W. Long, '38 A. & S. It is my firm belief that the Inter-Frat Relays should be continued as they have been in the past. If the non-frat group want a relay let them show their initiative by organizing one for themselves. Therefore, I am in favor of Interternities participating. C. C. Brown, '38 Chem. Eng. By all means the Inter-Fraternity Relays should be reinstated this year and continued in years to This relay is a wonderful outlet for Inter-Fraternity spirit which is rapidly being killed on the Delaware campus. I also think this should be a closed relay to all but fraternity teams with no varsity men participating to conform with the custom in the past. George K. Vapaa, '37 Ag. The Inter-Fraternity Relay in past years was quite a stirring event for the visiting high school students as well as for the college men. For the amount of interest it drew I think it was worth while Although not a fraternity man my-self, I think I got just as much kick out of the relay as did the Greek Letter men, and I would like to see I continued. Samuel M. Arnold, '38 mel M. Arnold, '38 A. & S. nity Relay is one of the most unfortunate decisions made on this tampus in a long time. Serving as Inter Scholastics, the relay has at-tracted more grads to the school Faces, if Paterson, in possible of the sease of the se than any other activity sponsored bool. Its loss would be

R. H. Hamsay, '40 the eigenboards of the school. Since I am a fraternity man, naturally mon-frat men will say that I am presidently but the aim of the fraternities to work for the good of the mon-fraternities to bring attention is the shoot through their competitive sports program, namely, the Inter-Fraternity Relay.

Al Young, '37 Most assuredly the Inter-Frater-nity Relay should be continued. event probably attracts as much attention from the student body as any other event with the exception of the P. M. C. game. The Inter-Fraternity Relays have become as much of an institution as the Inter-Scholastics themselves. Charles K. Winthrop, '38 Pre-Med. I think that the Inter-Fraternity

Relays should be continued for it has been one inter-fraternity sport that has been a drawing card for the Inter-Scholastics. The relay has been anticipated greatly in the years that have passed and I think that because of the great interest shown in the fraternities and in school as a whole should be reason enough for its continuance for the same regulations applied that were in effect last year and those years that have gone by.

George Spiller ,'37 Intra-Murals took all athletics away from the fraternities. Due to this, most men of the junior and senior classes lost all interest in athletics. Inter-Fraternity Relays would in my opinion, bring back their lost interest. If nothing more, Inter-Fraternity Relays would at least bring back a sense of sports-manship among fraternity men which has lately died out.

Washington Lands, 9-4

The Washington College nine invaded Newark last Saturday afternoon and returned to Chestertown that evening with a 9 to 4 win tucked under their belts.

The Sho'men presented a slug-ging outfit, which pounded the combined offerings of Jackson and Preston for 15 hits, while "Lefty" Copple, the visitors' southpaw mound ace, held the Hens well in hand. Copple limited the home team to five scattered hits, and fanned thirteen.

Eddie Graham, freshman flash, solved Copple's slants for a brace of triples, and tallied three of Delaware's four runs. Besides leading his team-mates at the plate, he fielded his position flaw-

Georgetown Wins, 9-8

Delaware dropped its fourth straight game last Tuesday, bowing to the strong Georgetown University team by a score of 9 to 8. The Hilltoppers, coached by Joe Judge, former big league star, are rated among the best college basehall teams in the East.

The Hoyas trailed the Blue Hens throughout most of the fray, won out in the final innings. Delaware scored three runs in the first inning to knock Nicketrakis, their star pitcher, from the box. The locals were not headed until the sixth frame, when the Washington team went on a batting spree to manufacture three runs and assume a 7 to 5 lead. The Hens came back in the seventh to tally three times and regain their early lead.

Intramural Entries Open

but the Judgemen pushed across a single run in the eighth to knot the count, and another lone tally in the final canto to annex the game.

Eddie Graham, Delaware's mighty mite, again proved the feature attraction of the day. Graham collected three safe blows in five trips to the plate, including in his collection a home run and a triple. Captain Dick Roberts, Earl Sheats, and Lew Carey each con-tributed two hits to the local cause, while Petrosky, a hitting pitcher, was the big gun for the opposition with a homer and a single. Box score:

WITH THE BLUE * AND GOLD *

By Fenton Carey

With all due deference to the wisdom and sagacity gained by those with years of experience in the field of sports writing, we take upon ourselves to criticize the Wilmington sports commentators. We offer this criticism in the hope that it may prove constructive. In the first place, it seems to us that the Wilmington papers could well afford to give Delaware athletics a little more favorable publicity in place of unnecessary adverse criticism. We see nothing to be gained by unfavorable comment and facetious remarks sometimes made by Wilmington sports writers in reference to Delaware athletic teams. We refer especially to pre-game stories.

We take the liberty to quote a few lines from a column which appeared in the "Journal" last Friday evening, in reference to the impending track meet between the local team and St. Joseph's, "The Crimson and Gray crushed Philadelphia Normal in an easy manner a few days ago and the Ovrebrook aggregation should make it two in a row without too much puffing and pawing." We feel that this statement was made with little knowledge of the Blue Hen team gained either by observation or by first hand information. Take it from one who was there, the Hawks did plenty of puffing and pawing before emerging the victors by the narrow margin of 3 1/3 points. It may be recalled that the pre-meet story in "The Re-view" contained the statement that "indications point to a close meet,"

We recall one occasion during the 1936 basketball season when a certain columnist stated that the Delaware court team had been swamped by Dickinson. The Hens won that game, which leads one to believe that the article was written before the game was even played. Perhaps the writer considered the result of the game a foregone conclusion, as did many others, but this is no excuse for the fact that the final outcome was misrepresented. We realize that we are digging up rather ancient history, but we use this example merely to illustrate our point.

In commenting upon Delaathletes and athletics, the Wilmington sports writers should adopt the slogan of a well-known metropolitan columnist, i. e., "If you can't boost, don't knock." We also believe that more space could be given to the University's athletic teams. The frequency with wheih articles are contained on the inside sports pages leads us to believe that they are considered merely as "filler."

We leave our criticisms to toss a few bouquets to the outstanding athletes of the week for exceptional performances on the diamend and track. We refer to a trio of freshman stars, namely, Eddie Graham, Bob Ramsay, and Tom Hatcherson, Graham continued to be the heaviest hitter on the Doherty nine by slamming out three lusty triples, a home run. and three singles in three games.

Late News Flash!

The Delaware mile relay team will run in a special event in the Penn Relays tomorrow at 2.10 p. m. The Hens will match strides with Washington College, Catholic U., Johns Hopkins, American U., Randolph-Macon, and Galludet in the Mason-Dixon Conference event. The quartet that will represent Delaware inludes Capt. Joe Perkins, Fenton Carey, Tom Hatcher-son, and Jim Dickinson with Jim Tyler as alternate.

Linksmen Blanked 6-0 By Engineers

Hens Hampered by Wind and Rain in Away Match.

The Blue Hen golfers went down to defeat before the Lehigh pillchasers last Wednesday, losing the match by a score of 6 to 0.

The match was played in a cold, driving rain, which handicapped Captain Jamison and his mates considerably, but did not seem to greatly affect the Engineers. A high wind which swept over the course played havoc with the Hens' tee shots and approaches, while the wet ground made the greens slow and putting uncertain.

The linksmen will make a strong effort to break into the win column tomorrow when they journey to Carlisle to meet a strong Dickinson team.

While St. Joseph's produced a trio of double winners in Walsh, Cann, and Riley, the individual scoring honors for the day went to a pair of Delaware yearlings, Bob Ramsay and Tom Hatcherson with 15 and 14 points respectively.

Ramsay won the opening event, the high hurdles, continued his winning way by soaring to victory in the high jump, and concluded n busy afternoon with a good jump of 21 feet, 5 inches to take first honors in the broad jump. Hatcherson sprinted to the tape first in both the century and furlong dashes, came from behind to finish second in the quarter, and finished his chores by annexing third place in the broad jump.

The Delaware spear tossers, led by Tom Pennock, made a clean sweep in the javelin throw with Fent Carey and "Swede" Drozdov in the place and show positions. Pennock also placed second to Ramsay in the tall timbers, and figured in a triple tie for second place in the high jump. Drozdov also placed second in the shot, while Carey added lone points in the half-mile and low hurdle events.

"Fritz" Ware showed promise in the weight events by hurling himself into second place in the discus throw, and gaining third in the shot. Harry Wilson ran a good race to finish second in the two-mile grind, while Bill Ham-mel and Tommy Hill tied for the runner-up position in the pole

Other point winners for the locals were Jim Dickinson, Eugene Vernon, and Captain Joe Perkins, who holds the Delaware 440 yd. record, pulled a muscle in the furlong and was unable to compete in his favorite event.

Next week, the Blue Hens will meet the strong West Chester Teachers squad at home on Tuesday, and will journey to foreign cinders to meet Swarthmore o Friday.

Review's Reviews

By Harry T. Stutman

Reviewers (!)

In looking over the book-review columns of other college papers we find a distressing condition. It's not so much a condition as it is a tendency. And you know what ten-dencies are. This one reveals itself as an astonishing predilec-tion for reviewing books! We had fondly cherished the hope that with the advent of Stut-man's Little Gem Bookless Book-Review Column that the above old-fashioned, out-moded, inefficient practice of preaching about other people's sermons would fast be-come a thing of the past. But no. Only Delaware, that staunch citadel of progressive liberalism, marches in the van. All the other schools still review books. Accounts Receivable . . . One Nickel

We would like to see a collection bureau established on this campus There are a great many things that need collecting, including a nickel which is due me from a certain charming young W. C. Dam-sel from Turvy Hall who shall re-main nameless at this juncture, ecause in our own small way, we hesitate to bring pain, displeasure, or embarassment to any member of the fair sex. However, it seems to us that this young lady is far from fair, either dermatologically or ethically. We were nice enough to pay for her liquid refreshment (it refreshes). Wholly unasked, mind you. Then, on learning of her good fortune, she made a most disgraceful, unladylike scene, in which she repeated with some vehemence several times that she would give us back our nickel. We weren't there, but we have several reliable witnesses.

All right. Well and good. She will return our nickel. Hasn't she said so. But has she made any attempts at the settlement of her debt? No. Has she so much as signified that she would, at some more propituous time in the future, make some attempt at the settlement of her dabt? No. Has she even communicated with us, by telephone, postal service, wireless, or grapevine telegraph (we're not on speaking terms) that she is sorry, but she is, at the moment, sorry, but she is, at the moment, in no position to repay us our nickel? No. We must say, we don't consider this quite sporting. TakLippincott doesn't hurry and get out of there. Get well soon, Bob. our budget for the coming Spring. But it would seem that we may never get this nickel. We are in a worse hole than the Student Accounts Payable . . . P., D. and E.

As we mentioned above, we hesitate to bring pain, displeasure, or embarrassment to any member of the fair sex. At the same time, we have conclusively proven that she is anything but fair. The inference is obvious. Unless some a tion concerning this nickel is forthcoming in the near future, we shall take steps; we shall bring her pain, displeasure, and embarrass-ment: in short, we shall bash her

We hope we have made ourselves clear.

Who is it that Leigh Rice and John Tunnell are so successful in calling on the phone? It seems that they call at all hours of the day and night so that eliminates clues that we all know about. Futhermore, the two Tunnells and the one Rice all try to talk at one time. Then when they don't call, the girl calls them. If the dial system weren't in use, we could say that it is a telephone operator, but now who is it?

It seems as though Wetherall went out with the boys to take some moonshine to the city. They stopped the car, Wetherall got out, a fake officer told him to "stick 'em up," and Boh started to run. Then he decided to run into the woods and in so doing ran into barbed wire and tore his trousers as well as scarring his shins all up. MY! What a brave young man you have Ruthie!

Well, the horse race season is here and Johnston, Burke, Man-chester, Carney, Lattin, Marvil, and Cannon seem to have been doing right well , except Marvil who still doesn't know the difference between a black card and a red one.

The next time that Johnnie Rogers goes down to Laurel with Marvil, he had better stay at least two rooms away from the kitchen, especially if there is a gal named Eliza around.

Benny Benson's Big Ben boisterous buzzer, since its spring sprung once too many, doesn't fill its ac-customed role of awakening every-one on deck at 7 a. m. Jacobs still can't explain why water should fall from dry ceilings. Say fellows, anyone desiring to know the local happenings a round Middletown each week-end should see Jackson on Monday morning. See the president of the Student Council about Haight's visits to Wilmington. "Cabin Kid" Scott just spent his will not.

Apology

In last week's column we credited a certain Mr. E. W. Wilson with a brilliant aphorism. We must retract that. There is no Mr. E. W. Wilson. The aforementioned brilliant aphorism belongs to Mr. W. J. Wilson. He can have it.

W. J. Wilson. He can have it.

Frog Visits The Yankees

BY JEAN N. BAILLY

When I came over here I did not know anything about football, but I was not long in discovering that, in America, this game played an enthusiastic descriptions I heard gave me the idea that an American University, like the Bladesover society, was divided into three parts. I imagined that, at the head and center of the college life were the football players whom I considered as real Olympians, living apart in the training house, eating their meals at a reserved table, and ruling the roost. Next to these big shots I placed the whole body of profs and students, and last of all those ambiguous creeping beings called "rats," whose main occupation, I thought, consisted in learn-ing how to cheer and stimulate the almighty footballers in their epic combats.

Of course these ideas were too schematic to be true. But still they showed me the importance of football in a so-called college edu-cation, and incited me to learn something about this typical American institution. For that purpose I gathered as much information as I could. I went to Joe Frazer field to watch the Blue and Gold practicing, and I saw helmeted and caparisoned modern knights rushin America, this game played an essential part, and that, in the University life, it was the thing that really mattered and gave to all the other activities their significance and their justification. The arthusiastic descriptions I heard all about. He kindly gave me ing headlong into dummies. To my was all about. He kindly gave me this explanation: You see, American football is a bit like rugby, but much better and more thrilling. The field is divided by lines five yards apart, and each team is al-lowed four attempts or downs to make ten yards with the ball. If it succeeds it tries to proceed from the next line. If not, the opposite team takes its chance in its turn.

—That seems very easy!
—That's what you think! On the contrary it's an awful job to make a touchdown. The men have to fight hard and to renew their efforts all the time. That's why they must first practice against dummies and have a long training. When I saw the first game I realized that my friend was right and I wondered how the backfield men could possibly cross such a living obstacle of entangled bodies and gain each time a few yards.

At first I didn't think much of football, it was too rough and too dangerous. I never liked to see young and strong athletes risking their lives to carry a pigskin a few yards forward, and if I had been a judge, I would have given two balls to the teams so that they would not have to fight for one. Then, little by little, I got used to it. I was carried away by enthusiasm, I could not resist the contagious excitement of all the spec-tators. I lost all my individuality and took part in the general frenzy, holding my breath, or yelling and cheering like everybody else: Hoo-rah! Hooray!

Radio Education Is College Hour Subject

cal side of radio, the speaker showed the difficulty to regulate radio for the public good. Obscenity and profanity are the only two things barred on present-day radio. Economically, the radio is an expensive proposition. From the time when a prominent radio manufacturing company started to broadcast in order to get the public to buy sets, radio has been largely controlled by General Electric, R.C.A., American T. and T. and the Columbia Broadcasting Sys-At the present time radio is tem. a billion dollar business.

The conclusion of the address was the fact that educators should endeavor to secure more radio time in which to present educa-tional subjects to the public.
