15-MONTHS OLD TOT KILLED IN FALL DOWN WELL

Dorothy Lemmon Dead When Found After 38-foot Plunge WAS ONLY CHILD

GRIM tragedy interrupted a Thanksgiving week-end visit of a Newark family at the home of their grandmother, when little Dorothy Elizabeth Lemmon, 15-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. McKinley Lemmon, of Cleveland avenue, was killed in a fall down a well 38 feet deep last Saturday afternoon. She was an only child. The accident happened at the home of Mr. Lemmon's grandmother, Mrs. Emma Lemmon, near West Grove, Pa. Mrs. Lemmon, the grandmother, was preparing dinner for the family in the kitchen of her home, and the child was playing in the kitchen. The grandmother had occasion to go to the well pump in the yard of the home, and the child followed her out of the house. When Mrs. Lemmon's back was turned, and after she had started back to the house she heard a crash and cry from the child. When she looked back to see what had happened, the child had disappeared, and a frantic investigation showed that a loose board on top of the well had given away and the child had fallen into the 38-foot deep hole. West Grove firemen were called, but before they arrived Ralph Kelley, of Kelton, volunteered to go down the well and get the child. He was lowered by means of a black tackle, and found the child's body in about two feet of water.

A physician was called, and pronounced the cause of death as being a fractured skull, sustained when the child hit a brick jutting out from the sidewalk of the well. No water was found in the child's lungs, and the verdict of a coroner's jury was given as death due to a fracture of the skull.

Funeral services for the tot were held from the home of the parents Tuesday afternoon, and internment was made in Newark Cemetery.

FIREMEN FIGHT BLAZE ON DUMP

Battle One and a Half Hours to Subdue Fire in Freezing Weather

A fire Monday night at the dump on North College avenue, endangered the entire section of the town in the Prospect avenue and North College avenue district before the firemen of the Aetna Hose, Hook and Ladder Company succeeded in getting it under control and finally extinguished. The freezing weather and strong wind greatly hampered the work of the firemen, and made their task a most unpleasant one. Due to the wind, it was with great difficulty that the fire was controlled, as the wind, sweeping into the base of the dump, made the burning rubbish blaze as if it was a blast furnace.

The fire was discovered by the firemen when they answered a call on the New London road, where a burning fire in a house was causing some excitement. The fire on the dump was seen across the valley, and the firemen, realizing that serious consequences might result if the fire gained much headway in the strong wind, hurried to the dump and began to pour water on the blaze. A new fireplug was placed at the end of Prospect avenue recently by the City Engineer, and Fire Chief Elmer Ellison stated after

LIONS CLUB RELIEF FUND TOTALS $517

The fund for the relief of the unemployed and needy of Newark that is being collected and sponsored by the Lions Club of Newark totaled $517 at the close of the dinner meeting of the club Tuesday night. This fund, when completed, will be used by the Lions Club, working in co-operation and conjunction with the Welfare Committee of the Newark New Century Club, in aiding the needy of the town. The fund is being raised by contributions from local business men and residents. Robert Jones is chairman of the committee from the Lions Club, and is assisted in the work of raising the money by I. Newton Sheffer and Frank Fader.

TOWN COUNCIL VOTES TO PROBE RADIO MUDDLE

Decides to Investigate Causes Of Interference in Reception SEEK IMPROVEMENTS

That the radio reception muddle in Newark is still far from clear was proved Monday night when Town Council, meeting in its regular monthly session, decided to investigate the matter more deeply, and to make recommendations and requests to the Delaware Electric Power Company, owners of the high tension lines running through the center of town, for the betterment of conditions here.

Interest in Newark has been high several months over getting some kind of relief from the electrical interference that has caused many radio owners in Newark to express their opinions concerning radio reception in no uncertain terms. Radio dealers in town decry the conditions here, and have claimed that the leakage of electricity from the power lines along Main street has caused radio reception to become almost impossible in certain sections of the town. A number of complaints were made, but no action was taken until recently, when a leading radio dealer in Newark had expert technicians from the Radio Corporation of America, and from the offices of the Philadelphia distributor of the R. C. A., brought here to make a survey of the town and to determine the cause of the interference. The report of the electrical experts stated that the trouble came from leakage of power from the high tension lines, and from the insulators used on these lines.

A petition, signed by a large number of townpeople, was presented to Town Council recently requesting that Town Council should take some action to improve matters here. It is hoped now that Town Council will request the power company to either change the location of their high tension lines, or to place adequate equipment on the lines so that the leakage will be stopped.

U. OF D. ELEVEN HAS GOOD YEAR

Won Five, Lost Three and Tied One Game in Football Season

University of Delaware football team closed its season last Saturday by defeating the First Engineers' team of Fort duPont, 26 to 14, at Newark. This was the charity game suggested by Governor Buck to help the fund for the unemployed of Delaware. Governor Buck attended the game. There were about 1500 at the contest.

Delaware's collegiate schedule was ended on Thanksgiving Day when they lost to P. M. C. at Chester 10 to 2. Even with this defeat the season was the most successful for many years, Delaware winning five, losing three and tying one game.

In view of the fact that the team was built up largely with Freshmen with a few sophomores it was a remarkable record. There was not a senior on the team who made his letter and but one junior, Captain Sam Sloan, of Sussex County. This assures Delaware of a strong team for at least the next two or three years.

Practice is now going on at Delaware both for basketball and swimming. The basketball season will open at home on December 11, with the Philadelphia College of Osteopathy, but the swimming schedule does not start until after the holidays.

MRS. HOSSINGER GIVEN LEAVE OF ABSENCE BY TOWN COUNCIL

Mrs. Laura Hossinger, secretary of the Town Council of Newark, requested an indefinite leave of absence from her duties at the meeting of Council Monday night. Mrs. Hossinger has been unable to attend to her work here for some time due to the serious illness of her daughter, Miss Charlotte Hossinger, who is in a hospital in Philadelphia.

Mrs. Hossinger's request was granted by Town Council, and it was decided to retain Mrs. Homer VanSant, who has been filling Mrs. Hossinger's place, for several weeks, until Mrs. Hossinger would be able to return to her work.

The condition of Miss Charlotte Hossinger still remains serious, it is reported. Some improvement has been noted, but it will probably be quite a while before she will be able to return to Newark.

TWO LOCAL MEN ESCAPE DEATH IN TRAIN CRASH

J. Leonard Lewis and Sylvia Walker Injured When Engine Hits Truck LEWIS' HAND CRUSHED

Two Newark men, J. Leonard Lewis and Sylvia Walker, had a narrow escape from death last Friday when the truck in which they were riding was struck and demolished by an engine on the Pennsylvania Railroad at the crossing on North College avenue, at the beginning of the Creek Road.

Mr. Lewis and Mr. Walker were hauling a truckload of apples when the accident occurred. Both are employees of the agricultural department of the University of Delaware, and the truck belonged to the university. As they started to cross the railroad, they slowed down and looked and listened for any train that might have been coming. A sharp curve and a number of oil tanks and other large objects obstruct the view up or down the tracks at the point where North College avenue crosses them, and neither Mr. Lewis or Mr. Walker saw or heard the engine. As they started across the tracks, the locomotive struck the truck, hurling it ahead of it, and then dragging it more than one hundred feet before the engine could be stopped.

Mr. Lewis and Mr. Walker were rushed to the office of Dr. Wallace M. Johnson, where they were treated for their injuries. Mr. Walker had a cut on his head dressed, and was permitted to go to his home, but Mr. Lewis was taken to the Homeopathic Hospital in Wilmington, as his left hand is crushed, and he had several deep lacerations on his scalp.

FIRST CONCERT OF CHORAL CLUB PLEASES CROWD

Local Singers, Under Direction of Firmin Swinnen, Delight Audience ANNOUNCE PROGRAM

The Newark Choral Society, the organization of singers formed this fall by Firmin Swinnen, organist, gave its initial recital Monday evening in Mitchell Hall following the organ concert by Mr. Swinnen.

The concert was highly pleasing to the large audience present. Four numbers, chosen for the chorus by Mr. Swinnen, were rendered, and were greatly enjoyed by the audience. The pieces sung were: "Close Thine Eyes," "Volga Boatmen's Song," "To A Wild Rose," and "Hymn To America."

The Choral Society is composed of about 80 men and women, members of the faculty and student body of the University of Delaware, and residents of Newark. They are directed and trained by Mr. Swinnen, and accompanied by Carl Budin, a student at the University of Delaware.

Mr. Swinnen has chosen a program of great appeal for his concert this Monday evening. The program will be as follows:

(1) Edmont—Overture, L. Von Beethoven; (2) Romance de Pauline, P. Tchaikowski; (3) Valse Triste, Jean Sibelius; (4) Chorale No. 3, A Minor, C. Franck; (5) Dance of the Goblins, A. Dvorak; (6) Song of the Basket Weaver, A. Russell; (7) Carmen—Fantaisie, G. Bizet.

Next week's program will be an Operatic Program, consisting entirely of operatic selections.

MISS BUTLER RESCUED FROM BLAZING BED BY OFFICER

Florence James Keeley saved Miss Florence Butler from injury and possible death by fire last Sunday night when, in passing her home on East Main street, he noticed smoke coming out of the bedroom window.

Falling to arouse any one by knocking on the door, Officer Keeley broke into the house and ran upstairs and into the bedroom, where he found the bed in which Miss Butler was sleeping was on fire. The fire was caused by a defective electric heating pad. He aroused Miss Butler, and then extinguished the fire before much damage was done.

BAKE

A bake will be held this Saturday, starting at 10 o'clock, in the hall of the M. E. Church, by the Nursery, Beginners, and Primary Departments of the Sunday School.

NEWARK UPSETS DELMAR TO WIN D.I.A.A. HONORS

Win 13-0 from Downstaters for Championship of Delaware HAVE FINE SEASON

By handing the Delmar High School football team a 13-0 setback on Thanksgiving Day, the Newark High School eleven retained the Delaware Interscholastic Athletic Association's football championship for schools outside of Wilmington. The game was played at Dover, and was attended by a large crowd of fans from all parts of the state.

This makes the eighth time in the past eleven years that Newark has won this coveted state honor. The game Thanksgiving Day was a hard fought one, with both teams playing rather closely matched football. Both of Newark's touchdowns came close to the end of each half.

Seaford has challenged Newark High to play a game for charity but this offer in view of the hard schedule that Newark has just completed will not be accepted. The Newark boys played ten games without a defeat but were twice tied by duPont High. Newark and duPont were required to play three games to decide the winner of the northern section the first two games ending 6 to 6 and 7 to 7. Newark won the third game.

Newark will lose seven of this year's varsity by graduation next June. Coach Gillespie will have his work cut out to build up another championship eleven. Those seniors who have played their final high school game are: Captain Schwartz, Johnson, Ford, Surratt, Edmundson, Robinson and Cooper. It is understood the members of the championship team will receive gold footballs this year although they received no award in this line for winning the title last year.

FOOTBALL TEAM DINNER GUESTS OF LIONS CLUB

High School Squad Feted with Turkey Banquet by Club 31 BOYS PRESENT

Strong center rushes by the members of the Newark High School football squad, assisted by their coaches, managers, officials, and by the members of the Newark Lions Club, resulted in the overwhelming defeat and the complete disappearance of a number of large platters of turkey, dressing, sweet potatoes, and other tasty foods, at the dinner given the football boys by the Lions Club Tuesday night in the Blue Hen Tea Room.

Nearly every boy on the football squad, including the mascot, Clement Brown, was present for the dinner given the boys by the Lions Club as a compliment for their winning the D. I. A. A. state championship again for the second year. Each member of the club sponsored a boy for the evening, and took upon himself the responsibility of seeing that the boys' plate was kept well filled with food, and that the boy had a good time during the evening. The enthusiasm displayed by the boys as the big dinner was set before them, and the rapid manner in which the food disappeared, was a treat for the Lions to see.

Cheers for the Lions Club were given by the boys, and the Lions returned the compliment by giving a lusty cheer for the team. Short addresses were made by Ira S. Brinser, superintendent of the school, and by

TOWN COUNCIL STUDIES IDEA OF INCREASING POLICE FORCE

A committee of three was appointed by Town Council Monday night to study the needs of Newark for additional police protection, and to make a report on the plan of employing an additional police officer to aid Officers Keeley and Cunningham in their work here. C. C. Hubert, Henry Mote, and George Ferguson were named as the committee, and it is expected that they will report their views at the next meeting of the Council.

For some time it has been felt that another police officer was needed here, as the town covers too large an area for two officers to cover both day and night. With the installation of the new police signal system, this difficulty will be overcome somewhat, but it is considered by many to be still too large a job for two men to handle.

MRS. ELSIE DAVY, MOTHER OF FOUR TAKEN BY DEATH

Stricken Early Sunday; Boys Summon Help but Mother Fails to Rally FUNERAL YESTERDAY

The unexpected death early Sunday morning of Mrs. Elsie Davy, a widow, and the mother of four small children, at her home on Elkton Road opposite the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad station is one of the most pathetic cases Her husband, Howard Davy, who worked at the Baltimore and Ohio station for some years, died about three years ago. Their two youngest children, twins, were but a few months old at that time.

Mrs. Davy's death was due to quinsy and complications. Thanksgiving Day she and her four children spent the day with relatives in Maryland. She had a sore throat on her return and quinsy developed. She was able to be up and about the house until 9 Saturday night when she put the twins to bed and went to bed herself. Neighbors and friends had called during the evening knowing that she was not well, but there was no indication that her condition was serious.

After Mrs. Davy went to bed Jackie, 12, the oldest child and Tommy, 10, remained up for a time. Later Tommy went to bed but Jackie, knowing that his mother was ill, decided he would remain up. Eventually, however, the little fellow was overcome by sleep and dozed off. He awoke at 4 a. m. to find his mother in convulsions. Knowing his mother was seriously ill the youngster was frightened. He awakened his brother and then ran out of the house in his stocking feet to the home of the Misses May and Alice Kerr, neighbors, whom he aroused and told of his mother's condition. They hurried into the Davy house and at once called Dr. J. R. Downes. Mrs. Davy, however, was beyond medical aid and died an hour later.

The funeral was held at 2 p. m., yesterday afternoon from Sheller's (Continued on Page 4.)

DR. RYDEN TAKES UP NEW DUTIES

Succeeds Late Judge Conrad as State Archivist

Dr. George H. Ryden, professor of history and political science at the University of Delaware and recently elected State Archivist by the Delaware State Archives Commission assumed his duties on Monday of this week. Dr. Ryden succeeds the late former Judge Henry C. Conrad, who held the office for several years.

This appointment is a recognition of the ability of Dr. Ryden as a historian. He has held the chair of Delaware History at the University of Delaware for some years and has made an exhaustive study on matters pertaining to the early history of the state and has written a number of papers on these subjects.

While Dr. Ryden will continue his work at the university his duties as archivist will take him to Dover often. Leon DeVallinger, assistant archivist, will be on duty at the Hall of Records in Dover daily.

DU VALL CLEAVES BREAKS ARM AT SCHOOL PLAYGROUND

DuVall Cleaves, 6-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cleaves, of Kells avenue, received a fracture of the left forearm and lacerations of the nose and lower lip when he fell from a sliding board in the playground of the school at Academy street and Delaware avenue, Monday afternoon.

Dr. J. R. Downes was called to render medical aid to the lad, and set the arm and dressed the other injuries, after which the boy was taken to his home.

AUTO LICENSE TAGS FOR 1931 AT SQUIRE THOMPSON'S OFFICE

Representatives from the Motor Vehicle Department in Dover will be at the office of Magistrate Daniel Thompson on Saturday, December 13, to issue automobile licenses for 1931. The license tags will be given out there, and motorists will not have to wait for delivery through the mail if they get their licenses at that time.

PLAY TO BE GIVEN

A play, "Ten Days Before the Wedding," is to be given by The Viking Club of Eastlake Church, Wilmington, at the Newark M. E. Church, Thursday, December 11.

LOCAL LEGION AUXILIARY IS CITED FOR WORK

Award from National Organization presented for Good Work MRS. LITTLE GIVEN PIN

The American Legion Auxiliary of Newark, at its meeting Monday night in the Legion headquarters in the Academy Building, was presented with a citation award by the national organization of the American Legion Auxiliary for being the outstanding auxiliary in Delaware during the past year in activities and in auxiliary work. The citation award was presented the local auxiliary by Mrs. William N. Cann, of the Wilmington Auxiliary.

The meeting was a county meeting, at which the Newark post acted as host to the other auxiliaries. Fifty representatives of the four legion auxiliaries of the county were present. Mrs. Conrad Lewis, president of the local group, presided.

Mrs. Orville Little, past president of the Newark Auxiliary, was presented with a past president's pin by the members of the Auxiliary. It was during the time of Mrs. Little's tenure of office that the Newark auxiliary accomplished its good work and made its record which resulted in the awarding of the citation.

Following a business session and reports by the chairman of the various departments, Mrs. Cann gave a report of the Boston convention of this Fall and Mrs. C. M. Dillon spoke of the Christmas program of the auxiliary and the mothers' pension as applied to veterans. There were readings and vocal entertainment numbers.

Mrs. Dillon represented the auxiliary at the meeting of the legislative committee at Dover Sunday.

CORRECT POULTRY FEEDING

By Prof. A. G. Phillips

A great many people believe that by selecting proper rations and finding the proper feeding method, they will solve all the problems of poultry production. Unfortunately feeding is not a panacea for all the ailments in the poultry industry. It is but a part of poultry management and must be preceded by correct breeding.

It is folly to feed fowls incapable of production, on the best of rations. Life reacts to proper and improper feeding, regardless of whether it be plants, birds, animals or human beings. While the method of reproduction is somewhat different, poultry is not essentially different from other kinds of living things so far as its use of feeds is concerned.

Egg production is merely the job of producing in a container, what might be considered the entire nourishment for the development of the embryo. This means that we must have a complete ration if we are going to produce eggs that, in themselves, will be perfect. This is the problem of feeding. We must think of the egg as much as we do of the hen. The present standard of egg production is highly artificial. We are producing birds that are required to reproduce themselves from 150 to 250 times a year. They draw on their body reserve when the food supply is insufficient, in order that they may continue doing what is normally unnatural.

This means that if we do not have the hen's "storage battery" well charged and well supplied with what her eggs will demand of her, there will be a tendency to let up in producing a satisfactory food supply inside of the egg shell, resulting in lower hatches, poor hatches, and inferior eggs for human consumption. If we did not have such a high standard of egg production, it would be much easier to secure eggs and we would have less mortality in our flocks. This high standard requires much better feeding than we used to think was necessary.

One of the most important things is the question of total consumption or total intake. The more a hen lays, the more she must eat, and the more she consumes of the right feed, the more she can lay. High producers eat more feed than low producers, and, therefore, the smart poultryman will do everything within his power to keep food consumption to the very maximum.

High producing hens are very temperamental. The feeder must cater to their appetites, partly by method of feeding and also by making the ration palatable. The feeding of a moist fattening mash at noon will increase consumption and help maintain body weight. Feeding cracked corn instead of whole corn, offering germinated oats and chopped alfalfa (moist or dry), will all aid in keeping heavy laying pullets from losing appetite and body weight.

P. T. A. PLANS ORCHESTRA

The Oak Grove-Elmsmere Parent-Teacher Association has a membership of 95. This association is interested in the organization of an orchestra under the direction of Lieutenant Robert Arthurs of the Ferris Industrial School. A benefit play will be given soon to raise money to buy extra utensils for the cafeteria. There was a balance of $111 in the treasury before the dance which the association sponsored on November 29th.

NEWARK, DELAWARE

SNOW had fallen generously for several days in Western Pennsylvania and the country sides rang with the merry tinkle of sleigh bells, that had long hung rusting in the barns. One cheery member of the farm community had turned to his telephone and passed along the word for a general sleighing party by moonlight—an evening's entertainment which proved the social event of the year.

COWVIEW FARM JERSEY HERD SETS HIGH RECORD FOR YEAR

Cattle of J. Wirt Willis Win 205 Ribbons and Prizes on Show Circuit in 1930

Two hundred and five ribbons and prizes were won by the Jersey cattle exhibition herd of Cowview Farm near Glasgow, Delaware, on the show circuit this season. Beside these winning this herd of over 75 cows led the New Castle County Cow Testing Association in average butterfat production per cow during the months of April, May, June and July, 1930, and numbers for its group by official tests, seven cows holding state class championships. This herd of pure bred stock is owned by Mr. J. Wirt Willis of Wilmington and managed by Mr. J. A. Correll, who lives on the farm at Glasgow.

A summary of the activities of this herd on the fair and show circuit, gives the following facts. The cattle were exhibited at eight fairs and shows starting with the Kent-Sussex Fair, Harrington, Delaware, in the latter part of July, followed by the Parish Show of the Eastern Shore Jersey Cattle Club in August, and the Trenton, New Jersey, Pottsville, Reading, Allentown, Bloomsburg, and York Fairs in Pennsylvania. In the open classes, the herd won forty-three blue or first ribbons, thirty-one second places, thirty-one third, twenty-three fourths, seven fifths, and two sixth place prizes. In the group classes, including exhibitors herd, get of sire, produce of dam, etc., these Jerseys brought in the coveted blue ribbon twenty-seven times and won the second and third ribbons eleven and seven times respectively. At all shows this herd won the first in get of sire, and produce of dam classes; and had the first exhibitors' herd at all except the Kent-Sussex Fair. In individual championship places, the Cowview entries had the Junior Champion Male at seven shows, the Junior Champion Female at four, the Senior Champion Female at five, and the Grand Champion Male at six fairs. Mr. Willis' future herd sire, Raleigh's Warbler Noble Jack, No. 308,631, carried off the individual winners' honors by being picked Junior Champion Male at every show except Allentown and Trenton.

No Junior Champion was in the catalogue classification at the former place, and at Trenton this young bull was considered the second best in this event; only after deliberate consideration by the judge.

Among the other high individual winners in this herd at these fairs was Warbler's Fairy Noble, No. 618,871, a cow showing in the over five year old class which placed first at all of the fairs except one, and was named Senior and Grand Champion Cow at four. By winning all of these honors, this animal was the highest prize money taken in the entire herd with winnings of $159 to her credit. The second and third highest money winners in individual classes were Volunteer's Society Belle, No. 771,161, a two year old heifer, and By Jingo's Oxford Love, No. 895,336, a cow showing in the three year old events.

The get or progeny of Imported La Sentes Oxford Prince, and of Raleigh's Warbler Cherry Boy, two sires in the Cowview herd with the produce or progeny of Golden Nobles Frances, Golden Nobles Melba and of Raleigh's Rhyme, cows in the herd were considered very high class animals by all of the judges. The exhibitors' herd—the dean of all dairy showmen's prizes, was won at the five Pennsylvania Fairs with second at Harrington, Delaware.

That Mr. Willis' herd is not only high in exhibition, but also in production is shown by the fact that this bunch of 75 cows averaged over 360 pounds of butterfat each during 1929 and led the cow testing association this year with the highest monthly averages of butterfat per cow in April, May, June, July, second highest in August, third in September, and ninth in October. When it is remembered that this herd has around 75 milking cows in it, these averages should assume more significance than if the herd comprised only 15 or 20 cows. During this same period the average milk production per cow in the Cowview herd has been among the first ten every month, but two, and the average test has never been below 5.2 per cent butterfat.

The high grade A quality milk produced at the Cowview Farm is milked by the latest type of milking machines in new modern and sanitary barns, cooled by electric refrigeration, and sold at all times by the Clover Dairy in Wilmington, Delaware. Mr. W. L. Rickards, manager of this milk distributing company, states that he is glad to be the distributor of this high grade product to Wilmington homes.

Since the foundation of this herd by Mr. Willis several years ago, he has always been on the lookout for better show and production type animals for his herd. To find the best producers, Mr. Correll has been running official tests on various cows in the herd since assuming the management about three years ago. Under his direction seven state championship records for different classes have been made. Under the American Jersey Cattle Club rules of official testing, the Cowview producers hold the Delaware Championship in Class AAA, 805 days, Senior Yearling record with 6293 pounds of milk and 391 pounds of butterfat. In the same classes AAA, 305 days, one of their junior two year old cows holds the record with 8868 pounds of milk and 452 pounds of fat, while a senior three year old female tops this class with 7239 pounds of milk and 425 pounds of fat. In Class AA, 365 days, a junior three year old leads the state Jerseys with 10,583 pounds of milk and 575 pounds of fat. A senior three year old cow is first with 11,376 pounds of milk and 639 pounds of fat, and in the mature age class, one of their Jerseys leads the state with 13,311 pounds of milk and 747 pounds of fat. In Class A, 365 days, a senior three year old cow holds the Delaware record with 13,147 pounds of milk and 900 pounds of fat.

Jersey cattle breeders are invited to visit this breeding establishment at any time. They will be shown over the farm and through the dairy by Mr. Correll or some of his assistants.

THE PROPER MEDICINE

Leaders in both political parties assure the nation that there will be no attempts at radical legislation in the coming Congress, or the one following. It is time the country forgot politics and turned to the problems of encouraging business.

Public officials come and go. Administrations change. But employment, wage scales and industries must be maintained without interruption. They should not be at the mercy of partisan politics. If capital becomes timid, the inevitable result will be a financial panic and unemployment crisis.

Outstanding industrial leaders have pointed out that low price levels have made this a good time to buy and are following their own advice. If business and individuals will do likewise, it will stimulate production and employment.

FOOD BASKETS GIVEN TO POOR FOR THANKSGIVING

Under the directions of the Welfare Committee of the Newark New Century Club twenty-two baskets of food were furnished to poor families of Newark and vicinity on Thanksgiving. These baskets of food were gathered by the members of the local troop of Boy Scouts, the local kindergarten, the children of the primary school, the high school and the colored schools. Other organizations of the town also aided in the work of making the Thanksgiving Day as happy as possible for the needy of the town.

CENTURY CLUB HEARS LT. VICTOR E. DEVERAUX

Lieut. Victor E. Devereaux, chairman of the National Defense Committee of the National Sojourners, duPont Chapter, addressed the Newark, New Century Club Monday afternoon. Lieut. Devereaux spoke of the development of Communism in America and in Delaware, and of the alarming spread of the propaganda.

Mrs. H. Gabriel, secretary of the club, presided in the absence of Mrs. R. O. Bausman, president. Mrs. E. P. Jolls served as secretary.

"STOP!" SAYS SANTA CLAUS

Among the thousands of children hurrying daily to school or play, many need to heed the signal of Santa Claus, who directs the Christmas seal traffic.

"Watch for the red light," says Santa. "When you see it stop. The red light means danger to health; it means too much strain; short hours of sleep; ill-chosen food; neglected teeth and tonsils; too little sunshine. Tuberculosis usually begins in childhood, and may be endangering health long before any symptoms appear. Fully half the cases of adult tuberculosis in later years show X-Ray signs of having had this early condition called childhood tuberculosis at an age under 15. Such children can usually be discovered by the X-Ray and the tuberculin test and given special care."

"Parents should see that children take the well-marked detours around the steep grades during the years when the child is becoming a man; when school life is most intense and the temptation to excess is greatest. "On the road to health, keep your brakes in good condition, stop at the red lights and proceed cautiously when you see the blinker of overstrain."

A ONE-CENT CHRISTMAS STORY

I won't buy a stick of candy.
I buy no newspapers nowadays.
I can't even go to Sunday-school alone.
I can think of more things I used to do that I am no longer allowed to do than any husband in the world.
Eleven months in the year I am good for nothing.
But in December—oh, boy! Then I come into my own.
I buy the most beautiful decoration for a Christmas gift package.
I buy hope for the sick.
I buy health for a child.
I buy a CHRISTMAS SEAL.

Good Work by Our Police Officers

Praise is due the two police officers of Newark for the efficient manner in which they handled traffic this fall during the football season. With the heaviest automobile traffic ever known in Newark, these two men directed the flow of automobiles, found parking space for them, and saw to it that pedestrians were given protection in crossing streets, and not one accident occurred. That no one was struck and injured by an automobile, or that not one car was damaged in the heavy traffic, is largely due to the vigilance and good work of Officers Keeley and Cunningham.

To those of us who watched the thick lines of cars drive into Newark on the Saturday afternoons when a football game was being played at the University of Delaware, it is a wonder that room was found in the town to hold all of the vehicles, let alone get them parked safely and surely within a short distance of Frazer Field. Yet our two officers kept the lines of cars moving, prevented any traffic jams from forming, saw to it that parking space was found, and kept an alert eye open for any possible chance of accidents. A number of motorists have remarked about the quick and efficient way in which the traffic problem was disposed of, yet a great number of residents of the town have failed to take notice of the good work.

A police officer is, of course, the man expected to clear up any trouble and to straighten out the reasons for an accident and to make arrests of the persons to blame for that trouble and for the accidents—after the trouble and accidents have occurred. Yet we fail to realize that an officers best work is that of preventing the trouble before it starts, or to see to it that accidents do not occur. A great deal of good work along these lines is done by our officers, but a lot of us fail to realize the fact. We pay no attention to the possible dozens of accidents that might have happened, but when one finally does occur, we are apt to criticize the police for not being there to prevent it. Why not think the matter over, and weigh the good work done by the officers. If we do, we will find the good overbalancing the bad, and we should realize it and value our police accordingly.

Newark's Opportunity

Newark has an opportunity within its reach to attract nationwide fame, if it will only take advantage of its chance and work for success. In nearly every city of any size throughout the country at the present time, the Little Theatre movement is gaining in recognition and popularity. The Little Theatre movement is a project of producing amateur theatrical productions, employing local talent in the cast, and using local talent for the direction and staging of the show. It is, in a certain sense of the word, a revival of the old Greek custom of giving plays, both comedies and dramas, for the entertainment and education of the local citizens, and using local talent in the producing of these plays.

Newark has, in the new Mitchell Hall, a plant that is unsurpassed anywhere else in the country. It is doubtful if any city, no matter what size, has any plant quite as good, or as well equipped, as we have here in Newark. The new auditorium was designed and built and equipped so that plays of the highest type can be given under the most favorable of conditions. Its acoustics properties are excellent, its lighting system is of the finest type known, and its stage is so designed that scenic effects can be obtained that would be impossible in almost any other building.

With these facilities at our service, and with excellent talent in the University and town, there is no reason why Newark cannot become a center of dramatic interest, an Athens of this country. Why not take advantage of this opportunity, and support and foster the productions that are being given, and will be given, there?

Old Age Pensions

In a short time the world will pay homage to the birthday of the greatest Man who ever lived—whose thought and whose wisdom and whose doctrine of brotherly love and kindness has guided all of the Christian world for nearly two thousand years. In Him we recognize all that is good and beautiful and kind, and in His footsteps we, in our daily lives, attempt to follow.

This Man of God brought a new thought to a harsh and cruel world—that of caring for the weak, the poor, the needy—in other words, the thought of brotherly love. We all of us in our hearts have this thought, and in some way or another, try in our own way, to express it in word and deed. We all know that we of us who are fortunate should aid and care for those who are unfortunate. Too often, however, we confine ourselves to some deed from which we can see the results with our own eyes, or in some act by which we will in some measure also benefit.

Not so in the case of the pensioning of the aged of Delaware by Alfred L. du Pont. To Mr. du Pont and his plan of old-age pensions in Delaware should go the thanks and gratitude of all of us. For Mr. du Pont has not been paying a fortune each year from his own funds to aid the needy aged of the State for any personal glory or praise. He has done it because of his sympathy and kindly feeling for those not as fortunate as he. His efforts to have an Old Age Pension bill passed in the State Legislature have been untiring, and during the time that it has taken for the necessary feeling to be aroused on this question, he has come to the aid of the aged needy, and has helped them and pensioned them from his own funds.

Th Old Age Pension law now appears to be assured. Its good effects, we hope, will never die. And many years from now, when Alfred L. du Pont is but a memory, he will be remembered as a man who loved his fellow men, and a man to whom 'brotherly love' had a full and deep meaning.

NOTED SPEAKER WILL ADDRESS LEAGUE GROUP

Taxpayers' Research League
to Here Justice O. J.
Roberts

BUCK ON PROGRAM

Justice Owen J. Roberts, of the Supreme Court of the United States, Governor C. Douglass Buck, and Chancellor Josiah O. Wolcott were announced today as the speakers for the annual dinner of the Taxpayers' Research League of Delaware, to be held Monday evening, December 15, in the Ball Room of the du Pont-Biltmore Hotel, in Wilmington.

"The Citizen and the Public Official" is the title of the principal address of the evening, which will be delivered by Justice Roberts, who is widely known as a brilliant and forceful speaker, and who, before his appointment to the Supreme Court, was one of the leaders of the American Bar.

In addition to serving as professor of law at the University of Pennsylvania and engaging in a large private practice, Justice Roberts was a special deputy attorney general of the United States Government to prosecute espionage cases during the World War, and was also appointed special counsel by President Coolidge in 1924 to prosecute the "oil cases." During his thirty years of law practice in Philadelphia, he was a constant participant in a wide variety of civic activities, which particularly qualify him to speak on the subject announced.

The League's dinner, which will be one of the outstanding civic affairs of the year, is in charge of a committee consisting of H. Fletcher Brown, chairman, W. S. Carpenter, Jr., Louis A. Drexler, Lamont du Pont, Pierre S. du Pont, H. T. Graham, J. Warren Marshall, Henry Ridgely, Frank G. Tallman and Charles Warner. Mr. Warner, president of the League, will preside at the dinner.

In honor of Justice Roberts, the members of the State judiciary have been invited to attend the dinner, as have also the members of the State Legislature and prominent State officials.

The program for the evening will include a report of the work in which the League has been engaged in co-operation with State officials in preparation for the forthcoming session of the Legislature.

In view of the unusual interest and importance of this event, and the fact that many citizens will wish to attend, the Dinner Committee has announced that tickets for the dinner, up to the limit of the seating capacity of the Ball Room, will be on sale at the office of the League, Room 511 Industrial Trust Building, Wilmington.

CHANGE IN WATER RATE APPROVED BY COUNCIL

Town Council, at its meeting Monday night, approved the plans of City Engineer Merle Sigmund for the change of the water rates in Newark. Heretofore, all water rates have been figured on a gallon basis, and as the meters in the town record the consumption of water by a cubic foot rate, a lot of work was necessitated by the old system for the clerks in the Town Council office.

The new plan is to sell water at a rate of twenty cents per each 100 cubic feet of water used. Under the old method, water consumers paid twenty-five cents for each 1,000 gallons of water used. Figuring the cost of water on the cubic foot rate will make practically no difference in the cost of the water to users, Mr. Sigmund points out, but will save a lot of overhead expense in computing the costs and consumption in the town by water users.

FT. DU PONT TO PLAY PENN-DEL FOR CHAMPIONSHIP SUNDAY

Fort du Pont football team will play the Penn-Del eleven of Wilmington Sunday afternoon at Fort du Pont for the championship of Delaware, exclusive of school teams. The game is called for 2:30 o'clock, and it is expected that a large crowd will be present to see the game. Plenty of free parking space is guaranteed by the officials at Fort du Pont.

Wednesday the Fort du Pont team won a football game from the Philadelphia Marines by a score of 35-0. It is expected that the game Sunday will be a hard fought one, as both teams have been playing good football this season.

MISS EDWINA LONG TO ATTEND MEETING

Miss Edwinna Long will represent the University of Delaware at the eleventh annual meeting of the Association of University and College Business Officers of the Eastern States, which will convene tomorrow at Lafayette College, Easton, Pa.

The association, which includes 110 educational institutions, meets annually to consider college financial problems and this year will consider such questions as the organization for the University plant, building, maintenance and operation, and tuition fees and loans.

CLEAN-UP DAY—DEC. 17

FOUR STUDENTS HURT IN CRASH

U. of D. Boys, Returning from Dance, in Auto Smashup

Two automobiles were badly wrecked, and four University of Delaware students were injured, early last Sunday morning, when a car containing a party of students returning from a dance in Wilmington crashed into a car driven by Willard Johnson, of Newark, in Wilmington. The drivers of the cars were arrested and were later arranged in Municipal Court in Wilmington, but charges were dropped when the matter was settled between the parties involved.

The injured were: Paul Smith, Maryland, who was badly shaken and bruised; Walter Kelk, of Upper Darby, Pa., lacerations about the face, head and knees, taken to the St. Francis Hospital; Paul Rash, Wilmington, possible fracture of right hip, taken to the Wilmington General Hospital; Eugene Morgan, aged 19 years, of Haksell, N. J., injuries to his right leg and back, taken to the Wilmington General Hospital.

All now fully recovered and are back at their studies in the university.

The fire that if it had not been for the nearby location of the plug, it is doubtful if the fire could have been confined to the dump, and that it probably would have spread to some of the houses in that section of the town. The firemen fought the fire for more than one and one-half hours before they succeeded in extinguishing it.

The cause of the fire is not known, but the fuel that fed it and caused so much trouble was the fine fibre dust that is dumped there by the local fibre companies. A number of requests have been made from time to time by local firemen to the fibre companies to discontinue the dumping of this highly inflammable matter there, but the piles of fibre dust and scarp have increased steadily. During the fire Monday night, the wind picked up large chunks of this light, fluffy waste and carried them over to the rooftops along Prospect avenue. It is hoped now that no more of this waste will be dumped there.

undertaking parlors, with interment at Newark M. E. Cemetery.

The four little children left orphaned by the tragic death of their mother have been taken into the homes of friends and relatives. Mrs. Alice Davy Truitt, of Newark, has taken Tommy into her home, and the twins and Jackie are in Wilmington at the home of a sister and brother of Mrs. Davy. A friend of the family is anxious to take Jackie, so good homes have been assured for all of the children.

CAUTION IN STORMY WEATHER URGED BY SAFETY COUNCIL

The first essentials of safe driving is to be able to see where you are going. The Delaware Safety Council cautions automobilists about the increased hazards and difficulties arising from stormy weather which can be expected soon. The least of these hazards is the obscuring of the motorists' vision through snow, sleet or rain on the windshield. It is difficult to see the road clearly in stormy weather and it is impossible to drive safely unless the windshield is at least clear.

All cars in the State are equipped with a windshield cleaner, either automatic or manually operated. The automatic device is a great convenience and a valuable safeguard as it permits you to keep both hands on the steering wheel where they should be at all times while driving.

Coating the windshield with a mixture of equal parts of alcohol and glycerine may be of some help in keeping the windshield clear but don't depend on it in a heavy storm. When bad weather comes the motorist must look out for the human ostrich who hides his face in his coat collar or behind an umbrella and rushes across the street, adding to the numerous stormy weather troubles of the motorist. Because of low visibility and slippery pavements the driver must use double caution both at the intersection and in between.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR NEWS

The Newark Christian Endeavor Society will have as its topic on December 7, "The Best Christmas Gifts." The meeting, beginning at 6:45 p. m., will be in charge of Miss Elizabeth Tiffany.

CLEAN-UP DAY—DEC. 17

the coach, W. K. Gillespie, Dr. E. I. Crooks, a member of the club, made a short talk to the boys, praising them for their fine record for the year, and on the good sportsmanship displayed by the team throughout the season. Each member of the squad was introduced to the Lions Club by Coach Gillespie, and each member responded with a bow to the club.

The boys who were present for the dinner, and the faculty members of the school who accompanied them, were:

HOW THE NEWARK SCHOOL WILL LOOK WHEN COMPLETED

Preliminary work on the erection of the new wing to the Newark School has been started, and the contractors for the new addition are placing equipment and are making arrangements for the storage of materials.

The new addition will make the Newark School one of the finest in the State. The new wing will have seven-teen rooms, a gymnasium, locker rooms, and other rooms which will greatly increase the space in the school building, and will relieve the overcrowded conditions that have caused so much trouble for the faculty and students during the past few years.

The terms of the contract require that the new addition be completed and ready for occupancy by August 31, 1931, which means that the new section of the school will be occupied by the students next year.

Marie Pemberton, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Pemberton, is home from the Johns Hopkins Hospital, in Baltimore, where she underwent an operation some time ago to correct some trouble with her knees.

SPORTSMANSHIP
By Thomas Foster

Few people realize that the greatest feeling to have in any sort of a contest is that of sportsmanship. "What is sportsmanship?" you might be inclined to ask. Well, sportsmanship is the acting fairly and generously whether a person be winner or loser. It doesn't do any good for either you or your team and may often do harm if you are continually throwing taunting remarks of your opponent. Act toward your opponent as if he were a friend. Don't do something you know is against the rules, taking a chance the referee won't see you. Surely it is all right to outplay your opponent, but don't try to injure him and if he accidentally gets knocked out or if he makes a good play give him a helping hand or a good word. When every person shows true sportsmanship, there will be less rivalry between schools. Contests in sports will be held for the sake of the sport, and not for the purpose of showing another team that it is weaker than yours.

NEWARK BEATS DELMAR

By Thomas Foster

The whole town is talking! Of what? Why of the Newark High School football squad, of course. Last Thursday, November 27, Newark defeated Delmar, 13-0 on the field at Dover, and thereby have won the championship for football in secondary schools of Delaware.

A large crowd assembled at the game and although Delmar's forces were backed by Dover, perhaps because of trouble with Newark over the protest of the Dover-Newark game, the cheering was better on Newark's sidelines. This proves that the Newark teams are backed and supported by their school and town.

A very cold gale was blowing and the boys were forced to play a careful game to prevent fumbles on account of cold fingers. The ground was frozen and didn't give much when you fell, so that perhaps accounts for some of the bruises that the boys have. The boys were intent on bringing the championship to Newark and also on eating turkey, I think, so they were a cooperating team of fighting demons. From the opening kickoff to the final whistle that line held like the rock of Gibraltar and the backfield was a regular battering ram.

The first score came when Captain Schwartz scooped up a blocked kick and crossed the goal line while Robinson dove over the line again for the extra point. The third period was scoreless, but in the fourth, Willis, Newark's giant end, picked the pigskin out of the air and raced over the goal line while Barrow scored the extra point.

Again Newark showed what it thought of its school when following the game a Delmar rooster made a remark that didn't digest and a "free-for-all" ensued till Coach Gillespie ordered all scrapping to be done off the field.

The squad was given a dinner at the Hotel Richardson that evening and one at the Lion's Club the following Tuesday. The season was topped off by dinners given by several other prominent Newark citizens.

THE ART OF WALKING

There are so many ways of interpreting the verb "to walk" that it is almost impossible to describe them all without writing a veritable journal on the subject. From the infant's toddle to the hobble of those who were in their youth three score and ten years ago, the walks of life are different, and reflect, to a great extent, the character of the persons who follow them. The shuffling feet of the schoolboy show that he is trying not to hurry, so that he'll be late for school and miss a part, if not all, of one class anyway. On the other hand the quick, short steps tell us immediately of the approach of the teacher's pet, or at least of the most conscientious student in the school. The wide-eyed, watch-glancing, coffee-gulping, fleet-footed appearance denotes the coxswain. The mincing, careful stepping, small-footed gait tells you that the person is the kind that jumps on a chair when a mouse strolls across the floor. The nervous, sheepish walk, usually accompanied by a hang-dog and cowed expression, denotes a gentleman with a strong-willed wife, and that the gentleman has just succumbed to the will of that said strong-minded wife and is taking either the baby or the Pekinese for an airing. Then again, the unsteady, staggering amble denotes the slightly inebriated gentleman of good intent, busy distributing all his worldly wealth to those standing nearby with a "Shay, ol' pal, you done me a good turn onah; how'd you like a good watch 'n a hunner dollar bill to buy yourself a lil drink?" This conversation continues until some indignant person, with firm, hasty step, notifies the police, and the slightly inebriated gentleman is promptly "jugged."

Oh, there are many walks of life!
Caroline Julia Cobb.

LOST IN THE CITY

I was waiting for a ferry to take me across the Hudson River. Having gone to the wrong station in New York City, I had to cross practically the entire city to get to my destination. I had ridden in elevated trains, shuttles, as the subways in New York are called, trolley cars, taxi cabs, and every other conceivable means of transportation except the aeroplane.

As I was waiting for the ferry, a lady of no small dimensions came up talking to another lady. My mind was wandering and I didn't hear any of the conversation except the fat lady's last statement, "I am going to Trenton in a tub," she exclaimed! I looked at the lady to see if she were joking, but no, she was in real earnest. Imagine a fat lady sailing down the river in a tub!

I laughed so hard that by the time I reached the boat I was so weak I could scarcely stand up, and as I started on the ferry, I staggered blindly into a policeman, both of us falling. He was so mad that he grabbed me by the arm and "escorted" me to a police station. After half an hour of explanation, the policeman let me go, provided I would never return to the city of New York again. I told him if I ever escaped from that place with my life, I would never be any closer than two hundred miles of the city again.

After what seemed hours of traveling, I arrived at the station and succeeded in getting on the train a half minute before the train pulled out.

Having settled myself on the train I began to think about what the fat lady had said. Finally I decided that she must have said "tug," which is a kind of boat, instead of "tub."

AN INVITATION FROM BEACON'S

Almost every Senior and member of the Newark School Faculty has been confronted with the same question, "Going to the dance?" Where? At the du Pont Hotel in the gold ball room. Who's giving it? The Beacon's College Club has invited the seniors and faculty of the Newark High School to attend their annual dance. When? On Friday, December the fifth. Are many expecting to go? Yes, quite a few have signed for tickets. They are:

The Misses Kathryn Hubert, Sarah Hinkle, Ruth Apgar and Beulah E. Thompson, and Mr. John L. Phillips, all members of the faculty. Those of the Senior Class expecting to attend are: The Misses Carolyn Cobb, Grace McMullen, Louise Fulton, Katharine Eastburn, Alice Sheldon, Eleanor Doordan, Marie Moeller, Mildred Steele, Rebecca Smith, Frances Danby, Louisa Whitten, Joan Fletcher, Ruth Fisher, Louise Hutchinson, Lila Richards, Helen Moore, Sara White, Emilie Clark, and Elsie Richards.

The boys expecting to attend are: Charles Pie, Robert Ford, John Cooper, Grover Surratt, Donald Pierce, Paul Whiteman, Isadore Hoffman, William Huxtable, Donald Harris, John Edmondson, and Gilbert Melvin.

NEWS OF THE FRENCH CLASS

At a recent meeting of the Senior French class, Miss Katherine Hubert gave a very interesting talk about her year with the Foreign Study Group in France. The central points of interest and study were Paris and Nancy. Miss Hubert told about her visits to various places of interest such as important battlefields, parts of Belgium, a small port in Spain, and to Switzerland.

WORK IN HOME ECONOMICS

For the teachers' room they have upholstered and refurnished the chairs. Pictures of attractive rooms for girls are posted on the bulletin board in the Home Economics classroom.

WINTER

I love the cold bleak winter nights.
The beautiful frozen snow,
The icy view of frozen lakes
As the days come and go.

The sleighing time I love the best.
When the air is crisp and clear,
And the bells ring out upon the snow

With joy, and with cheer.

"Mona Lisa" Without Eyebrows
Da Vinci's "Mona Lisa" has no eyebrows. During the early renaissance some ladies followed the custom of having their eyebrows plucked or cut. There are many instances in the sculpture and painting of the period. It is not known whether "Mona Lisa" had eyebrows in real life, but the picture shows none.—Washington Star.

E51 PLAY TO BE GIVEN ON DEC. 11

"Outward Bound" Expected to Draw Record Audience

The E51 class of the University of Delaware has nearly perfected its performance of the play "Outward Bound," on which the class has been working for the past few weeks. The production of "Outward Bound" is the most expensive which has been produced on the campus in recent years. It is felt that this action of choosing a play with such a high royalty is justified by the interest which the public will take in supporting a drama which has already been very successful in the large cities. The drama cannot aptly be called comedy or tragedy because it contains degrees of both, and rather than provoking laughter or tears, it is highly amusing and plays upon the imagination.

A very carefully selected cast has been rehearsing strenuously under the direction of Mr. Kase. Another group from the class has developed such a setting as has not been possible before, but is now accomplished by the excellent stage arrangement in Mitchell Hall. This also includes the use of a lighting system which is worthy of the very best theatrical productions.

The audience of "Outward Bound" will have the opportunity to enjoy a most entertaining evening with its friends of Newark, for Harold Plummer, who takes the lead as Tom Prior, and Robert Potts, who is Henry, the "Half Way" soul of the story, are both of Newark.

"Outward Bound" is typical of the Little Theatre productions throughout the country, since it uses the actors of note from within the community to furnish entertainment for the community.

In "Outward Bound" the public will see the product of Sutton Vane's vivid imagination, when it is revealed that the passengers of a ship bound outward are dead and journeying to their future life of torture or ease, according to their deeds on earth. How these souls find out that they are dead and not living is a scene of a striking nature to the audience.

The center orchestra section of the auditorium in Mitchell Hall has been reserved. Tickets can be secured at any time of the day in Rhodes' Drug Store, and every afternoon from 4 to 5:30 in Mitchell Hall. Members of the E51 class are also offering tickets for sale. The play will begin at 8:20 on Thursday evening, December 11.

IMPROVING OIL PRODUCTS

Most gasoline buyers are aware of the strenuous efforts made by the oil industry to prevent over-production and waste of our petroleum resources.

Of almost equal public interest is the industry's work to improve the quality of its products and to develop scientific processes which will make possible larger recovery of gasoline from a given amount of crude oil.

At the recent meeting of the American Petroleum Institute paper after paper was presented, each dwelling upon some phase of the industry's business which will eventually affect the price and quality of the oil products the public buys.

Today our gasoline, lubricants and greases are by far the best we have ever had and their cost, after state gasoline taxes have been deducted, is about the lowest. Progress in motors has been accompanied by an equivalent progress on the part of the oil industry.

ELECTRIFYING THE FARM

The business depression has not hampered the farm electrification movement.

During the first half of this year, 68,532 farms in the United States were electrified, as compared with 48,000 in the same period last year. On June 30, the electric industry served 627,105 farms—a gain of 12 per cent in 12 months. In all parts of the nation the demand for farm electrification is rapidly growing and is being satisfied as fast as possible.

The ideal we are working toward is that, eventually, every farmer will have an abundant supply of low-priced electric power with which to light his home, milk his cows, churn his butter and do a multitude of other tasks, great and small. Present statistics show that within the immediate future at least a large minority of farms will have the manifold advantages of power.

Protective Galvanizing

Galvanizing is a process by which metal sheets and other parts passed through a pot of molten zinc take on a protective coating of that metal. The coating must be thin enough to permit forming into spouting, cornices, gutters, etc., without cracking, and so permitting corrosion to take place at the exposed portion, and thick enough to provide satisfactory durability against the effect of atmospheric gases, moisture, etc.

Flag at Vessel's Stern

The origin of the custom of carrying a flag at the stern of a ship is obscure. Several theories have been advanced, one of the most substantial being that in the case of old vessels the flag was down over the captain's quarters, which are aft on board ship.

GAME SCHEDULE IS ANNOUNCED

Newark High School Basketball Teams Have Hard Season Ahead

Sixteen games for the basketball teams of the Newark High School have been scheduled, Coach William Gillespie has announced, and, while the schedule will be a hard one, Newark is looking forward to bringing another state championship to Newark this season.

The squads are very large this year, both for the boys' team and the girls' team. A number of last year's letter men are back for the boys' team, and it is expected that a strong team will be sent out from Newark for each game. The schedule is as follows:

Dec. 12—Friends, Boys and Girls, Newark.
Dec. 19—Salesianum, Boys, Wilmington.
Jan. 9—Claymont, Boys and Girls, Claymont.
Jan. 14—Beacon, Boys and Girls, Newark.

133rd Anniversary of the Signing of the Constitution by Delaware is Dec. 7

To the people of the State of Delaware, the date, December 7, is of particular significance, for it is the anniversary of Delaware's ratification of the United States Constitution. The event assumes added importance in the light of the fact that the Diamond State was the first of the original thirteen states to approve this great document. Despite her small size, Delaware had loyally contributed to the evolution in men and money. In the person of John Dickinson, she presented one of the great statesmen of a period whose influence was to be felt throughout the nation.

The story of Delaware's ratification of the Constitution is told in a document from the Division of Information and Publication of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission, which reviews the events leading up to the framing of all of the states. After the War of Independence, the erstwhile colonies free from Britain found themselves free from Mother Country, they discovered that all their problems were not yet solved. In fact, the question of what to do with their independence now appeared as a perplexity which for a threatened to plunge the new nation into the chaos of anarchy—no respect for law, no respect for the British crown. The leaders of political thought and philosophy were divided in opinion as to the form of government which should be adopted although it was apparent to what the old Articles of Confederation were wholly inadequate to meet the needs of the new Nation. The people themselves were influenced in their opinions by sectional interests, by the States, with their jealousies, by restricted ideas of local sovereignty, presented anything but an appearance of national unity.

Men talked much in those days of democracy, Republics and the rule of the people. America's enemies abroad, seeing the disorder, confidently predicted the collapse of what political structures the country did possess, and then sat back to await the crash. The prominent statesmen here talked of monarchy and an American nobility. At one time, before the close of the war, George Washington was approached with a proposal to make himself a king, a suggestion so repugnant to him that he replied to it in such blunt terms as to leave no doubt as to his position in the matter. At last the situation became so desperate that a convention was called to consider and effect a revision of the Articles of Confederation.

This convention, growing out of the Annapolis Convention which had been held in 1786, met in Philadelphia in September of 1787. It comprised in personnel most of the luminaries of the country—it was a noteworthy assemblage of America's foremost statesmen and ability. George Washington, the great Commander-in-Chief of the Revolutionary forces, was elected president and the momentous discussion was soon under way. Among the members of this great body were Benjamin Franklin from Pennsylvania, James Madison from Virginia, Alexander Hamilton from New York, William Patterson from New Jersey, Luther Martin from Maryland, and Charles Cotesworth Pinckney from South Carolina. Delaware sent the following delegates: George Read, James Mifflin, Jr., John Dickinson, and Richard Bassett.

The story of that summer of bitter debate, of proposals and compromise, is well known as to need no review. The convention was held behind closed doors so that no one except the delegates themselves knew what was going on. It was taken for granted by people that the Articles of Confederation were to be revised, and no unexpected the formulation of an entirely new Constitution. But after deliberations began, the delegates realized that the strong central government now so definitely needed, could not be built on the foundation of the Confederation. Thus it was that after the long weeks of mighty effort, the Federal Constitution—innovation and an experiment in government.

The completed document was sent to the states for ratification on September 28, 1787, and then began a great struggle, this time to secure the approval of at least nine of the states, which constituted the necessary majority to put the Constitution into effect. It was not at all certain that this approval could be obtained for although the Constitution had been signed by delegates from twelve of the states, it was generally known that opposition would be encountered in many localities. Therefore, most of the men who were members of the convention turned to their homes to battle for ratification.

One of these delegates, as has been said, was Delaware's own John Dickinson, who had taken a prominent part in the convention. He wrote a series of pamphlets signed "Fabius" in which he discussed the Constitution and its adoption. When George Washington read these pamphlets and became known the identity of their author, he wrote his approval of the political thought and argument which they contained. Dickinson's efforts were an outstanding contribution to the political literature of the time and undoubtedly went far to influence the popular mind in favor of the Constitution.

There was some opposition to the Constitution of the convention in all of the states, but it seems to have been negligible in Delaware where the legislature met on October 24 and immediately adopted measures to call a convention for the purpose of adopting the Constitution. This convocation met at Dover in the first week in December and acted with surprising dispatch. The resolution of ratification was unanimously passed on December 7, 1787, and Delaware became the first state to adopt the Federal Constitution. Only two other states, Pennsylvania and New Jersey, took action that year. Delaware's notification of approval read as follows:

"We the deputation of the people of Delaware State in convention met, having taken into serious consideration the Federal Constitution proposed and agreed upon by the deputies of the United States in a general convention held at the city of Philadelphia on the seventeenth day of September, in the year of our Lord 1787, have approved, assented to, ratified and confirmed, and by these presents do, in virtue of the power and authority to us given for that purpose and on behalf of our constituents, fully, freely, and entirely approved of, assent to, ratify, and affirm the said convention."

Delaware, known as the Diamond State because of its small size and great value, held the first election under the new Constitution in January, 1789. At this time the presidential electors, Gunning Bedford, George Mitchell and John Mitchell, were chosen. All three of these men cast their votes for Washington and John Jay. At the same election, John Vining was selected representative and George Read and Richard Bassett became the first Senators from Delaware.

Always progressive and public spirited, Delaware was one of the first states to fall in line with the program outlined by the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission for the great Celebration in 1932 of the Two Hundredth Anniversary of George Washington's birth. Acting on the invitation of Congress to appoint a State Commission, Governor C. Douglas Buck appointed the following to the Diamond State Commission: Hon. Robert P. Robinson of Wilmington, Hon. Charles H. Grantland of Dover, W. A. Speakman of Wilmington, D. M. Wilson of Dover, Herman C. Taylor of Dover, W. F. Allen of Seaford, Leroy Cramer of Wilmington, J. Gilpin Highfield of Wilmington, Hervey P. Hall of Smyrna, Joseph H. Cox of Seaford, William Winthrop of Wilmington, Wm. E. Virden of Wilmington, James W. Carrow of Dover, W. O. Cubbage of Wyoming and Thomas C. Curry of Greenwood.

In order to effect the plans for state participation, the Legislature of Delaware authorized an appropriation of five thousand dollars, again pointing the way, for this was one of the first instances of definite action on the part of any of the states.

The history of Delaware is a source of pride to all her people. From the very first, this little state on the Atlantic seaboard played an active and important part in the forming of the United States. George Washington was a frequent visitor there during his long career of public service, and his diaries contain particular references to entertainments held in his honor in Wilmington and other cities. The significance of Delaware's prompt approval of the great instrument of government which was framed under the direction of the Father of his Country is noted with satisfaction on the occasion of the 133rd anniversary of that event.

PAYS $5,000,000 EACH WEEK TO DAIRY FARMERS OF U. S.

President of National Dairy Declares 50 Percent Increase in Milk Consumption Is Possible

As a purchaser and retail distributor, the National Dairy Products Corporation each week pays to the dairy farmers of the country approximately five millions in cash for their products.

According to Thomas H. McInerney, president of "National Dairy," who addressed the annual convention of the National Cooperative Milk Producers' Federation held recently in Des Moines, the market for milk and dairy products is consistently widening. Nutrition scientists, he said, estimate that the present consumptive demand should permit of an increase of 50 percent over present volume.

Mr. McInerney's appearance before the cooperatives' convention was in response to an invitation to outline his company's attitude toward the dairymen's associations. In cordial frankness, Mr. McInerney stated that he believed in and welcomed collective bargaining in the sale of raw materials but as for the retail distribution of milk and dairy products the private company was better equipped both in plant facilities and financial resources. If that was not true, he said, then it would be entirely a question of the survival of the fittest.

THOMAS H. MCINERNEY

In its efforts to expand the milk market, Mr. McInerney said, the National Dairy Products Corporation was spending millions of dollars in advertising, in research work and in varied promotional activities. He declared it was to the interest of both farmer and distributor to increase the volume of milk consumption to market capacity and toward that end pledged his company's cooperation.

UNEMPLOYMENT RETURNS FOR DELAWARE SHOWN IN CENSUS

Unemployment returns for the State of Delaware have just been published by the Census Bureau in bulletin form. The unemployment inquiry, which was made last April as a part of the population census, covered all persons usually working at a gainful occupation who were not at work on the day preceding the enumerator's call. In the bulletin which has just been issued they are presented in seven classes, based on the worker's status as "having a job," "able to work," etc.

The most significant group, designated in the tables as Class A, is made up of persons out of a job, able to work, and looking for a job. These persons numbered 3,187, forming 1.3 per cent of the total population, and 3.2 per cent of the whole number of gainful workers. The total included 2,636 males, forming 3.4 per cent of the whole number of male gainful workers, and 551 females, forming 2.6 per cent of the female gainful workers.

The next most important group, designated Class B, comprises persons having jobs who are on layoff without pay, excluding those sick or voluntarily idle. In this class, there were 726 persons, 681 males and 145 females.

The remaining returns were grouped into five classes, as follows: Class C, persons out of a job and unable to work, of whom there were 285; Class D, persons having jobs but idle on account of sickness or disability, of whom there were 513; Class E, persons out of a job and not looking for work, of whom there were 109; Class F, persons having jobs but voluntarily idle, without pay, of whom there were 107; Class G, persons having jobs and drawing pay, though not at work (on vacation, etc.) of whom there were 164.

Of the jobless (Class A) for whom the period of idleness was reported, 1,623, or nearly 52 per cent, had been out of a job for more than 8 weeks, and 2,178, or 69 per cent, had been idle for more than four weeks. Of the 695 persons laid off without pay (Class B), for whom the period of idleness was reported, 333, or 48 per cent, had been idle less than two weeks; 103, or 15 per cent, 3 or 4 weeks; and 259, or 37 per cent, more than four weeks.

Detailed figures are also shown for Class A and Class B by industry groups, together with the number of gainful workers in each industry. In all manufacturing and mechanical industries, 4.3 per cent of the gainful workers were returned as jobless (Class A), as compared with less than one per cent in agriculture, and 1.8 per cent in trade. In the building industry alone, this percentage rose to 7.1, and was also high (6.6) in blast furnaces and rolling mills. In the chemical and allied industries, however, only 1.6 per cent were returned as jobless.

Of the 3,187 in Class A, 1,003 were returned as heads of families, 1,507 as related members of families, and 677 without known family ties. In Class B, 295 out of a total of 726 were heads of families.

Performance of contract shall commence within ten (10) days after execution of the contract and be completed as specified.

In the employment of labor, preference shall be given to residents of the State of Delaware.

Monthly payments will be made for 90 per cent of the construction completed each month.

Bidders must submit proposals upon forms provided by the Department.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a surety bond, certified check, or money to the amount of at least ten (10) per cent of the total amount of the proposal.

The envelope containing the proposal must be marked "Proposal for the construction of State Highway Contract No. 1444."

The contract will be awarded or rejected within twenty (20) days after the date of opening proposals.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.

Complete sets of plans and specifications may be obtained upon receipt of two dollars ($2.00) for each contract, which amount will not be refunded.

AVERT THE CRISIS

Western railroads have formally advised the Interstate Commerce Commission that the present income of western lines is inadequate to assure maintenance of transportation facilities and to continue expansions and improvements in the face of diminishing revenues. Eastern lines are in much the same position.

Here is a problem that is of vital interest to the public. Railroad passenger business has fallen to a shadow of its former magnitude; competing transportation agencies are being rapidly developed, some with governmental aid; a tremendous decline in car loadings has occurred and the rate structure fails to reflect the increase in operating costs. As a result, railroad net income in the western district has been so depleted during the present year that it is less than the interest accruals upon the funded debt, with no margin for either dividends or surplus.

Such a condition is first felt by railroad workers and stockholders. But the inevitable result will be a blow to the entire nation. The farmer, manufacturer and business man depend largely for prosperity upon adequate and improving railroad service. Once the standards of that service decline, progress is retarded.

The Commission was likewise told that there is an urgent need for cooperative effort between those who regulate the railroads, those who operate them and those who use them in order to assure an adequate system of transportation. Only by immediate action can the threatened transportation crisis be averted.

Chestnut trees killed by blight can be utilized for poles, posts, cordwood, lumber, and extract wood, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture. The fungus that causes the blight disease does not lessen the strength of the wood. The department is searching for native or foreign chestnut resistant to blight, in the hope of finding a variety to replace the rapidly disappearing stands of chestnuts.
