Arrange Diphtheria Inoculations For All Newark Children

Health and Education Boards Co-operate To Give Immunity To Children In Newark; Dr. Hurdle To Administer Inoculations Free Of Cost

NOT COMPULSORY

The plan to give the children of Newark the opportunity of being inoculated against diphtheria by the State Board of Health has been approved by the Newark School authorities. Under the plan the work is done free of all charge by Doctor Hurdle, of the State Board of Health, who is Deputy State Health Commissioner for New Castle County.

The State Board of Health will furnish to the parents, through the school, forms upon which parents will record their consent for having their children take such inoculation as a prevention against diphtheria.

While medical authorities urge all school children to have this inoculation, it is their wish as well as that of the Newark School authorities that the parents are the judges in the matter and that their judgment will be respected.

Consent Forms are now being distributed to parents by the school authorities, together with a booklet, "Diphtheria", published by the State Board of Health, which gives a comprehensive digest of diphtheria, its symptoms, effect, dangers and prevention. The toxin-antitoxin treatment, which is strongly beneficial, but carries no ill effects, is fully described in the booklet. Parents or guardians who have not received Consent Forms can use the coupon to be found on page 4 of this issue of The Post to indicate their willingness to have their children inoculated.

Dr. Hurdle will give inoculations in the Newark school buildings on the following dates:

Friday, January 27, 9 a. m.—Main Street Building.

Friday, January 27, 11 a. m.—Delaware Avenue Building.

Friday, January 27, 1:30 p. m.—New Building.

Monday, January 30, 9 a. m.—Colored School Building.

For the benefit of children between the ages of six months and six years, Doctor Hurdle will administer the inoculation to those in the Medical Room of the New Building, January 27, 4 p. m. Consent Cards may be obtained at the school by parents for pre-school children.

Dr. Hurdle makes a strong plea to the parents of Newark to have their children inoculated in relating the following facts:

"It is strongly advised that every child in the town of Newark over six months of age have this immunization and keep diphtheria out of the town.

"To be given Friday, January 27, 1928, in the Newark schools. Over 1800 inoculations have been given for the prevention of diphtheria in Rural New Castle County, including school children and pre-school children, for the period November 15, 1927, to date. (Continued on Page 4.)

LYNAM REED

Crook Store To Open Here Next Wednesday

Lynam Reed Will Be Manager; Many Features Planned For Opening; Will Handle Complete Food Line

On next Wednesday, February 1, the J. W. Crook Stores Company, of Baltimore, will hold a gala opening of their new store in Newark, which is located in the remodeled Farmer's Trust Building. Lynam Reed will be manager of the store and Leon Walls will be manager of the meat department. Both young men are of this town. They are both in Baltimore this week, being trained in the routine of the Crook Company.

The Crook Company has a number of stores in towns throughout Delaware. They handle fancy and staple groceries, fresh and smoked meats, fruits and vegetables, and highest grade bakery products. The Crook Company has planned to make the Newark opening a gala affair, and will distribute samples to each customer coming into the store on that day.

Lynam Reed, the Newark manager, has had considerable experience in the chain food store business, having been with the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company for five years. Much of his time was spent in the local A. & P. store, where he succeeded Mr. Ford as manager, when Mr. Ford was transferred to supervisory duties in New Jersey. When Mr. Ford returned to Newark, Mr. Reed was given the management of an A. & P. store in Wilmington.

It is said, that besides Lynam Reed and Leon Walls, a number of other Newark people will be employed in the Newark Crook store.

Cadet Appointments For U. S. Coast Guard

Senator Bayard Tells Delaware Youth Of Opportunity To Become Officers; Equal Rank With Army And Naval Officers

United States Senator Thomas F. Bayard, from Delaware, has released a message to young men in Delaware, advising them of the opening of competitive examinations for appointments of cadets in the U. S. Coast Guard Service, one of the most honorable of the armed services that the United States has to offer young men desiring an active career with the opportunity of advancement to high and honored positions: officers in the Coast Guard holding equal rank with those in the Army, Navy and Marine Corps. Senator Bayard's message reads as follows:

"An exceptional opportunity is offered young men of the right caliber to complete their education at Government expense and to become commissioned officers in the United States Coast Guard, one of the Military Services of the United States, which includes service afloat and ashore.

"The age limits for appointment of Cadets are 18 to 22 years. An applicant who has passed his twenty-second birthday is ineligible for appointment.

Major Glassburn Is Co-Author of "Dress Parade," Popular Movie of Cadet Life

It has recently been discovered that Major Robert Glassburn, U. S. A., commanding the University of Delaware unit of the R. O. T. C., is a co-author of "Dress Parade", a Cecil De Mille motion picture production, which is having long runs in a number of the larger cities. The picture, depicting the life of a cadet at the U. S. Military College, at West Point, stars two popular favorites in William Boyd and Bessie Love. There are only seven professionals in the cast, the rest of the actors being recruited from the officers, cadets and enlisted men at West Point, where the picture was made.

In 1915, Major Glassburn wrote a play for the legitimate stage which was received favorably by the Frohmans, prominent New York theatrical producers. Due to the oncoming war, the play was never staged. After the war, "Classmates" was produced by the First National Pictures. This photoplay, in the eyes of a West Point graduate, was not a true picture of life at the Academy. Early in 1926, General Stewart, Superintendent at West Point, requested Major Glassburn to write a play and to present the real picture of life at

Governor Robert P. Robinson, Master of the State Grange, and treasurer of the National Grange, attended a conference, held in Wolf Hall, last night, to discuss the feasibility of reorganizing the Newark Grange, which has been inactive for some time. Dean C. A. McCue presided at the conference, which was attended by members of the staff of the department of agriculture of the University.

No definite plans were adopted at the meeting, but another meeting will be held in the near future. The general consensus of opinion was that the grange should have the unanimous membership and support of the local farmers, in order that it function successfully.

The Newark Grange was the fifth grange organized in Delaware and dates back into 1870. It has run a more or less regular cycle of activity.

Honor Miss Worrell On 94th Birthday

Wilmington Club Women Add Volumes To Library Founded In Her Honor; Tea Given By Women's College

The ninety-fourth birthday of Miss Emma Worrell, of Wilmington, was celebrated on Monday afternoon at Women's College. The education committee of the Wilmington New Century Club, of which Mrs. James A. Barkley is chairman, with Miss Worrell, and a group of club members came with a gift of more than sixty books to add to the library in New Castle Hall, which collection of about two hundred volumes was presented to the college last year in honor of Miss Worrell's birthday. The books include the best in fiction, poetry, travel, and biography.

Tea was served to the visitors in the Common Room. Miss Dorothy Bond, student head of New Castle Hall, presided at the tea table. Students who served were: Misses Sibyl Young, Elizabeth Thornley, Adeline Downs, Dorothea Pierson, Margaret Vinsinger, and Florence Long.

FOREST PROTECTION

The State Forestry Department is developing a co-operative system of forest protection with organized Fire Companies in Delaware.

The Seaford Volunteer Fire Department has recently offered their services to the State Forester, W. S. Taber, to do whatever they can at any time, for the prevention and combating forest fires.

The Seaford Fire Department and other co-operating Fire Companies will form the backbone of the State Forest Protection system. Although a large number of forest fires are not anticipated, the State Forestry Department is endeavoring to be prepared.

Forest protection is the most important factor in Forestry; without it, Forestry cannot be practiced. It can be said that many of our farmers and timberland owners are quite familiar with the damage that forest fires do and are careful to protect their woodlands. Nevertheless, it takes but one careless person to cause a fire that can burn over the careful owners' land.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICES

Evangelistic services are in progress at the Presbyterian Church. The first service was held last evening, and they will continue each evening this week at 7:45. Reverend John D. Lindsay, of Findlay, Ohio, a graduate of Lafayette College and of Princeton Theological Seminary, will conduct the services, and will preach also on Sunday morning and evening.

ATTEND DINNER

Professor Ira S. Brinser and Professor W. A. Wilkinson, last night attended a dinner of the Home and School Society of the Tower Hill School, Wilmington. Dr. Burton Snyder, editor of Progressive Education, was the speaker.

N. H. S. Wins Bankers' Cup For Corn Judging

Local Team Gets Second Leg On Trophy; Alec Zabenko, High Individual Score. Banking Figures

The results of the annual State Corn Judging contest held at Dover, Friday, January 13th, in connection with the annual State Corn Show, have just been announced by the official judge, Prof. O. A. Pope, Assistant Agronomist of the University of Delaware.

The Newark High School agricultural department placed first with a total average of 86.2; the Bridgeville High School agricultural department second with a total average of 78.4; and the Harrington High School agricultural department third with a total average of 74.3.

The Newark team coached by Thomas Malin, was composed of Vincent Mayer, George Cook, and Alec Zabenko; the Bridgeville team, coached by Lyle W. Mowlds, was composed of Wm. Hastings, Edwin McCauley, and Leon McCauley; and the Harrington team, coached by Millard Fitzgerald, consisted of Wayne Rawding, Brinton Holloway and Lewis Baynard.

This cup, which was awarded four years ago by the Delaware State Bankers' Association, was won the first year by the Seaford High School; the year following by the Newark High School; and last year by the Bridgeville High School. One of the rules of the contest is that the cup will be competed for each year at the State Corn Show and the school winning it three times (not necessarily in succession) retains permanent possession of the cup. Newark, winning the cup at this year's contest, gives Newark the lead with a record of two victories and two defeats in the four years that the contests have been held. It is interesting to note also, that Bridgeville, which won the cup a year ago, placed second this year.

The highest individual score was 97, made by Alec Zabenko, of the Newark Agricultural Department; the second highest individual score was 93.5, made by Leon McCauley, of the Bridgeville Agricultural Department; and the third highest individual score was 90.5, made by Ernest Weldon, of the Middletown agricultural department. Leon McCauley had the highest individual score in the State Corn Judging contest a year ago, but this year lost out by a few points, with Alec Zabenko the winner.

The official presentation of the cup by the State Bankers' Association will be held at some subsequent date.

School Saving System

Last Tuesday, the first banking day under the new savings system in the Newark schools, 75.9 per cent of the whole school made deposits, $95.08 being deposited. The colored school had the highest percentage of pupils depositing, their average being 95.6 per cent. The Delaware avenue building was second with 75 per cent; the Main street school, third, with 73 per cent; and the New Building, last, with 60 per cent. In the colored school the first six grades had 100 per cent of scholars depositing. Mr. McMenamin's 8th grade class won the banner for the new school with a percentage of 90. Miss Steel's 1st grade class was first in the Delaware avenue building with 100 per cent; and Miss Johnson's 4th grade class was awarded the banner in the Main street building with a percentage of 85.

On the second banking day, yesterday, 76.3 per cent of the entire school made deposits amounting to $119.29. The colored school again stood first in percentage of pupils depositing with an average of 95.6. The Main street building was second with 77.2 per cent; the Delaware avenue building third with 74.2; and the New Building last with 58.3 per cent. Again the first six grades in the colored school were tied for first place with 100 per cent. Mr. McMenamin's grade retained the banner in the New Building with an average of 90.6 per cent. Miss Wilson's 3rd grade took the honors in the Delaware avenue building with 90.6 per cent; and Miss Wingate's 5th grade won the banner in the Main street building with a percentage of 90.9.

Elkton's Marriage Mill Again In The Spotlight

Testimony Being Taken In The Injunction Suit Of The Taxicab Company

On Wednesday last, the Elkton Taxi Company offered testimony for the purpose of securing an injunction against S. Ralph Andrews, Clerk of the Court, to prevent C. Ellis Deibert, a deputy, from continuing what they claim to be an interference with their business. The testimony was taken before James F. Evans, one of the standing examiners in Equity. Henry A. Warburton was counsel for the Taxi firm, and Mr. Andrews was represented by G. Reynolds Ash, who took the place of Henry R. McCullough, his regular counsel, who is ill.

E. Leland Ott, James Short, Jr., Addison E. Atkinson, J. Alfred Taylor and William Cann, members of the Taxi firm, all testified that Mr. Deibert has so interfered with their trade that they are now losing money, and will be put out of business within six months if Mr. Deibert's interference continues. They claim that Mr. Deibert tells the couples when he issues them the license that there are two ministers in town and directs the couples to them by drawing diagrams of the streets. As a result of this, it is claimed, the couples discharge the drivers at the Clerk's office, and they are thus forced to accept a very small portion of their regular $3.00 fee.

Mr. Ott stated that the Reverend Mr. Cope came to Elkton at the instance of the Taxi firm, that they pay him a regular salary, and most of the witnesses said that they take all couples to Mr. Cope unless otherwise requested, but always took them to any minister desired. Mr. Cann stated that he offered to pay Mr. Deibert a salary of $15.00 per week, but, after some consideration, Mr. Deibert refused the proposition. After Mr. Cann had finished his evidence, the taking of testimony was suspended until Saturday in order for some additional witnesses be subpoenaed.

After hearing two ministers, James P. Evans, special examiner, again adjourned the hearing until next Saturday. The long recess was given on account of the death of the mother of one of the witnesses for the complainant.

It had been claimed that Deibert was diverting couples from Rev. C. M. Cope, preacher favored by the taxicab companies, to the Revs. W. G. Harris and Irvin F. Wagner.

The Rev. Mr. Harris said he performed about 40 or 50 more marriages in 1927 than he had in 1926. He testified that several times he had seen couples turn away from in front of his home after they had been spoken to by taxicab drivers, but he did not hear the conversation which took place. The minister denied that he had any agreement with Deibert by which Deibert was to direct couples to him and said that the couples whom he married generally came in cars.

The Rev. Mr. Wagner said that he had performed 66 marriage ceremonies in November and December, 1927, and 63 in the same months in 1928.

Fred H. Leffer, a newspaper correspondent, admitted that he suppressed about one out of every 15 marriages performed in Elkton. Small fees ranging from 50 cents to $5 were sometimes accepted for such service. He divided fees once or twice, he said, with William L. Cann, a driver for the Elkton Taxicab Company and once with E. Leland Ott of the same company, and a constable. He had never divided with Deibert.

George T. King testified that when he entered the clerk's office to obtain a gunning license, he heard Deibert tell a man and woman that the minister used by the jitney drivers was "illegal."

Alfred W. Renshaw, an independent taxicab driver, testified that he took a couple to the clerk's office to obtain a marriage license and was ordered out of the office by Deibert. He maintained that he had a perfect right to remain.

Deibert has not yet testified in the case and insisted upon his privilege of hearing all of the witnesses offered by the complainants before testifying in reply to them. It will probably be some time before he goes on the stand.

"You gave your seat to a poor old Irishman last night, didn't you, dear?"

"Why no. What makes you say that?"

"Well, I distinctly heard you say in your sleep, 'Oh, that's all right, I'll stand pat!'"—Item.

O God, animate us to cheerfulness! May we have a joyful sense of our blessings, learn to look on the bright circumstances of our lot, and maintain a perpetual contentedness.—W. E. Channing.

BUNYAN'S GREATEST BOOK

Of all our great authors Bunyan is the most autochthonous. He rose straight up from the depths of our English soil. Nobody but a social science prig would describe him as a "self-educated" author. Dr. Parr would not allow that he was educated at all, yet he managed somehow at a village school to learn to write legibly, to read intelligently and to speak plainly, three things which Parr never succeeded in accomplishing. Yet no one of these things, however hard to acquire at public schools or universities, will account for "The Pilgrim's Progress," though they may explain many other of Bunyan's books, for it should never be forgotten that Bunyan was one of our most voluminous authors and managed to fill two stout folios with his publications which are more numerous than the days of the year. He out-baxed Baxter.

The Bunyan who has outlived his tercentenary can only be accounted for by the possession (how come by we cannot say) of a vivid and sane imagination operating night and day upon a vision of human life and the destiny of man derived from certain conceptions of religion built up upon the English Bible, of which he was a walking-concordance.

The bibliography of this book is more than usually interesting.

First published in 1878 in a cheap and tiny volume, easily destroyed by dint of hard reading, the first edition is one of the rarest of treasures, only four copies being now known. In July, 1926, one of these copies was sold at public auction for six thousand eight hundred pounds. It was an immaculate copy, untouched, unread. It came from a nobleman's library. Being a cheap book, meant for the populace, it became at once a best-seller, and cheap edition after cheap edition followed in quick succession. Those "cuts" that have given more uneasy pleasure to more people than any other "cuts" in an English book began to make their appearance after the eighth edition.

Bunyan greatly enjoyed his success, and at once set to work upon the dangerous task of altering and adding. How great was his success can be judged by the facts that in the first edition for which somebody lately gave six thousand eight hundred pounds, there was no Mr. Wordly Wise; Giant Despair was a bachelor; Mr. Facing-both-ways is not there; and Apollyon when threatening "to spill" Christian's soul, forgot to swear "By the infernal Den!"

The second edition contains these amendments, but the third edition is the best. Unhappily it is also out of most men's reach. Other editions contain alterations, but hardly improvements.—Augustine Birrell, in "The Bookman," (London).

"Last evening, sir, I distinctly saw my daughter sitting in your lap. What explanation have you to make?"

"I got here early, sir, before the others."

THE PIONEER MINSTREL

The Maine pioneer had to be farmer, carpenter, blacksmith, mason, hunter, trapper, lumberman; upon occasion he was doctor and surgeon; and he was also his own poet. The idea that a select few are ordained to write poetry for others to read would not have been well received by the pioneer; any one ought to be able to do that for himself—and he proceeded to do it. All he asked was a good tune, a little time to think, and an idea which for its best expression did not require profane swearing. Give him time and he could produce the verses. Or he might make them without the time allowance; for impromptu rhymes were common as dandelions.

It is not remarkable that men make up jingles; but it is that others remember them and pass them along. Why should Mother Goose be so much better known than Shakespeare? All the wigs in the Puritan pulpits could not have exorcised her from Boston; no dread of excommunication could have forced those early grandames to forget "Hickory, dickory dock," and other rhymes dear to babes. A singing able bit of nonsense always stands a good chance of reaching a green old age.

Reverting to the little patch of ground which we love best to scratch in for buried wheat, there was here (and if here, then elsewhere in Maine) an unlimited amount of local rhyming. Every one had the knack of it. It was facetious, ironic, satiric, epigrammatic.

A century ago or more, in Hampden, some officious person posted a notice above an old sleigh belonging to one Isaac Dunning, asking him to remove it "by request of Briggs and Brothers and ten others." A rhyme in a notice like that was only a mark to shoot at: before the next day, beside the original notice was posted a conspicuous reply to it:

Then said I, Dunning has grown so cunning
He minds his own affairs;
And Briggs and Brothers and those ten others
Had better mind theirs.

NEWS OF THE NEIGHBORING TOWNS

AS TOLD BY OUR CORRESPONDENTS

Home Burns While Arranging for Funeral

Misfortune seems to be following the family of John Howell, a farmer who resides on the Creswell farm, a half mile east of Elkton. On Friday morning their eldest son, William Howell, was caught under an avalanche of falling clay at the United Clay plant in Elk Neck and was crushed to death.

It was while arranging for their son's funeral in North East that the Howell home caught fire and so rapidly did the flames spread that by the time the Elkton Fire Company had reached the scene the home and all its contents were consumed in the flames.

The origin of the fire is unknown as no one was at home when the blaze started. The building was owned by Mr. William Selby and was a tenant house adjoining "Creswell Hall," the summer residence of Mr. Selby, who was in Washington, D. C., at the time of the blaze. The residence was covered by insurance.

The loss to Mr. Howell is heavy as he had only a small amount of insurance and lost many valuable papers and records.

Perryville Bridge Toll Free August 1

Span To Have de Grace Will Have Paid for Itself by that Time

Motorists who cross the Susquehanna river bridge at Havre de Grace after August 1 will not be charged 60 cents and 5 cents additional for each passenger, John N. Mackall, chairman of the State Roads Commission, said Friday. Mr. Mackall explained that the bridge would be paid for at that time and the toll charges removed.

The bridge, a double-deck span, is said to be the only one of its type in the world. When the toll is removed the bridge will be free to motorists for the first time since it was bought from the Pennsylvania Railroad by private interests and converted for vehicular traffic.

The State bought the bridge for $585,000 in February, 1923. Since that time the State has received about $200,000 annually in tolls, according to Mr. Mackall. Trucks using the span pay as much as $2.50.

The upper roadway of the bridge was completed recently at a cost of $450,000. The lower roadway, which is only thirteen feet wide, was found inadequate.

Speaking of the State ownership of the bridge, Mr. Mackall said the State was fortunate in being able to purchase it in 1923 for $585,000. It could not be replaced today, even with inferior materials, for less than $1,250,000 he asserted.

Although all the bonds issued for the payment of the span have not been retired, funds are at hand to

Crushed To Death By Falling Clay

Caught under an avalanche of falling clay, William Howell, of North East, was crushed to death early Friday morning one half hour after starting work at the pit of the United Clay Company in Elk Neck. Howell's neck was broken and his left leg and side crushed. His death was instantaneous.

Howell, who was thirty-four years old, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Howell, of near Elkton. The deceased leaves a wife and four daughters. His parents, one brother, Jesse, and a sister also survive.

The body was taken to North East and a jury impaneled by Coroner Howard Green, of Elkton. The inquest was held Monday evening, when the following verdict was rendered:

"That William Howell came to his death while working in the clay pit of the United Clay Product Company on January 20, 1928, by being struck by falling clay which broke his neck, and we, the jury, exonerate the said Clay Company and its employees from all blame."

Christiana

Last Tuesday afternoon a number of women members of the Christiana Improvement Association met at the home of Mrs. Raymond Lowth, to receive the regular once-a-month visit of Mrs. Helen McKinley of the University of Delaware Extension Department. These meetings have proved both popular and profitable, and Mrs. McKinley's talks both helpful and interesting. She has given the ladies instruction in sewing, cooking and other housewifely arts, while before the holidays she made many helpful suggestions for making various inexpensive fancy articles suitable for Christmas gifts.

There was another disastrous fire in this vicinity on Wednesday, when the home of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Guczynski, on the Ogletown road, was destroyed. The first alarm was given shortly before noon, and the firemen responded quickly; but the lane was so muddy that the engine was stalled, and it was an hour before the men could reach the scene of the fire. They worked with a will, however, and succeeded in saving a part of the house and many of the furnishings. Unfortunately, when no one was on the premises, the fire broke out again late in the afternoon, and this time the inside of the house was entirely destroyed, leaving only the brick walls standing. The fire was caused originally by the explosion of an oil stove. During the first fire Norman Cleaves, one of the firemen, was slightly injured when the floor gave way, causing him to fall through.

Work is progressing rapidly on Mr. Henry Mason's new house, being built on the foundation of the one which was destroyed by fire the Sunday after Thanksgiving.

Saturday evening the Fire Company held another one of their popular dances in the Firehouse.

A banking system, similar to that recently installed in the Newark Schools, is being tried out in the local Public School. Judging by the response made by the pupils on the first banking day, the experiment is going to succeed. It has been carried out with great success in other states, and is regarded as one of the very best methods of teaching the children thrift—a real working object-lesson.

Harmony Grange gave a rising vote of thanks to Delaware Grange for its hospitality.

The State Master and Pomona Master urged the members of both Granges to follow the example of the two lower counties in the effort to secure new members, in order to have

JANUARY 25, 1928

True Happiness

When you tell me what you consider true happiness, then I will tell you the way to find it.

That's the rub. We do not define the different brands of happiness or the different degrees of happiness. We just call it all "happiness," then start out with a shotgun and try to wing everything we see in the air.

True happiness is big game, right down on the ground. It does not fly high. It takes a rifle shot, not bird shot, to get true happiness.

Our desires to be happy are so exorbitant and endless that we are always looking up in the heavens to find happiness, when, in reality, happiness is right here on the ground.

Happiness is a by-product, an indirect result of making others happy.

We are usually unhappy when we get what appeals to our imagination. Our enthusiasm of expectation exceeds our real happiness of experience.

Here is a suggestion that may help you to be happy: Refuse what you know you can't have and then convince yourself that you didn't want what you have declined, anyway.

Then go out and do a friendly turn for some fellow who needs it.

Forget that you are a big man and be a big boy. It is the boy in you—that unsuspecting boy in you—who will make you truly happy.

Your happiest hours have come when you have made someone else happy—made some miserable soul see a bit of sunshine.—The Silent Partner.

Vision

One of the dictionary definitions of vision is "the power to see, physically or mentally." When one is forming a plan, he sees mentally what he wishes to do or have done. When the power of thought is recognized, the quality of this mental work is seen to be of importance. Ask a man who has attained noticeable success in any direction, what was the nature of the vision he had held mentally during his days of effort, and he will invariably reply that he had always a mental ideal of obstacles to overcome and the end accomplished; in a word, success. Very different would have been the result had he failed to make a right use of the great power of thought. The "fearful and unbelieving" do not succeed.—The Roycrofters.

Old Local History

From an issue of the Philadelphia Bulletin, some months old, there comes an interesting bit of local history, which includes data on old Newark, or New Worke, as it was known then. The Bulletin account is as follows:

"In connection with the Battle of Brandywine sesqui-centennial, it was learned yesterday that one of the present owners of the Maryland estate, on which the British landed prior to the battle, is a granddaughter, four generations removed, of the founder of the farm.

"Henry Hollingsworth settled on the Cecil county estate at the head of Elk creek in 1711, and the place has since been in continuous possession of his family. The present representative is Mrs. H. S. Young, who inherited the estate jointly with her mother, Mrs. William Hollingsworth Mackall.

Arrived Here With Penn

"The founder was the son of Valentine Hollingsworth and Catherine Cornish, who came to America with William Penn on The Welcome in 1682. Valentine settled in Brandywine Hundred, New Castle County, and became a member of the first Assembly convened after Penn's arrival. He obtained a patent for his land, which became known as New Worke and is now Newark, Del.

"Henry was a large land owner in Chester and in New Castle Counties. Father and son represented the latter county in the Assembly of 1685.

"A year after Henry established the home at Elk Landing, he was appointed surveyor by Lord Baltimore, and laid out the town of Philadelphia. He and his wife, the former Elizabeth Atkinson, became the parents of Zebulon Hollingsworth, who inherited the family home—usually known as The Landing.

"Both sons of Zebulon, Colonel Henry Hollingsworth and Zebulon, Jr., were leaders in Revolutionary affairs and it was the latter who was living at The Landing when the event occurred, which gave it its name.

Buried in Private Cemetery

"Zebulon, Jr., was born at The Landing in 1735 and died there in 1812. Henry was born in 1737 and died in 1803 at his home in Elkton, later known as Partridge Hill in honor of one of his sons-in-law. The brothers were buried in the private ground at The Landing. The cemetery was included in the portion of the estate which William M. Singler bought in 1880. He had the graves transferred to the Elkton Cemetery in ground which he gave for the purpose.

"It was from Partridge Hill that the British took the theodolite, just prior to Brandywine, which the surveyor-founder had used in laying out this city.

"Peggy, a daughter of Zebulon, Jr., married William Cooch and moved to Cooch's Bridge Homestead, another famous Revolutionary home, which is now occupied by Edward W. Cooch.

"William, another child of Zebulon, inherited the family home and passed it on to his daughter, Isabella Hollingsworth Mackall, who in turn, left it to her son, William Hollingsworth Mackall. It is his widow and daughter who now own The Landing.

"The original home was burnt in 1847 but was rebuilt with the original stone walls, which now are pebbledashed."

INVITATION TO SERVICES

Next Sunday evangelistic services will begin in the Methodist Episcopal Church of this town. The services during the month of January have emphasized the need of a deeper spiritual experience on the part of the membership of the church and a greater interest in the salvation of others. The Pastor, Rev. Disston W. Jacobs, will conduct the meetings from night to night. New song books have been purchased and are already being used in the Sunday evening song services. Lay aside your social engagements and join this church for the next two weeks in this series of meetings. Not only are the members and friends of this church urged to attend these meetings but a cordial welcome will be extended to all who come. A protracted series of services for the enrichment of Christian experience and the salvation of the unsaved at which an inspirational song service will be conducted and there will be delivered a thoughtful message on scriptural truths and an opportunity afforded the unsaved to accept Jesus Christ as a personal Saviour.—The Pastor.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED

We quote from a diary written in Massachusetts in 1768:
"Rene Parsons came here to make the girls' surtouts."
"Mrs. Rebekah D. came here to tailor; tarried till Friday."
"Lodemy came to weave."
"Mrs. H. here to weave our samboet."

In the same diary a wedding outfit included the making of a "copperplate bed-quilt."

On a visit to Boston a dressmaker is called in "to make my dress plumb."

"Several schools have had 100 per cent and several communities have had 100 per cent including the school children and children outside of the school.

"We have two cases of diphtheria at Corner Ketch, at the present time, one school age and one pre-school age and there has already been one death in the town of Newark from diphtheria during the latter part of the year 1927.

"The two children who have diphtheria at the present time, had an opportunity to be inoculated last year in the school where the child of school age attended, but the parent refused to let the children receive the inoculations.

"Any parent can blame himself if his child has diphtheria as it can easily be prevented, and is absolutely free and has no harmful effects."

Application of Radio to Educational Uses

The Newark Radio Store has made public a plan evolved by A. Atwater Kent for definite organization for the general use of radio in schools and colleges that may be effected in the near future. In a letter dealing with extension of the use of radio in education, Mr. Kent urges the Federal Radio Commission to bring together leaders in the radio and educational fields, for the purpose of working out a practical program. He also sounds a note of warning that the interests of education should be effectively considered before all the broadcasting hours are taken for entertainment. His letter follows, in part:

"I am writing you today to transmit to you, as the legally constituted, governmental authority in radio, a thought which has been developing in my mind with increasing insistence during the past year. I feel very strongly that those of us who are directly interested in the progress of radio should co-ordinate our efforts in some practical manner to the end that the advantages of radio may be extended to the field of education on a wider and more effective basis.

"The horizon of radio activity has broadened so rapidly that it has kept all of us busy to follow it and has perhaps affected our perspective of radio's greatest possibilities. We should not, however, accept the accomplishments of today as the ultimate in serviceable achievement. While my direct interest has lain in manufacturing and broadcasting, I have felt for some time that the use of radio in education is not receiving the attention which it merits and which it should receive because of the opportunity it affords for the dissemination of knowledge. It seems to me that we should not permit the attractiveness and pleasures of entertainment broadcasting to absorb us to the point of exclusion or neglect of education.

"One important reason for bringing this subject to your attention at this time is the constantly increasing movement towards devotion of hours to entertainment, both commercial and non-commercial. My fear is that, unless we organize a practical and systematic plan for educational broadcasting, it will not be long until all the hours are gone.

"As the official authority towards which we look for leadership, might it not be proper for the Federal Radio Commission to consider this question and to draw into conference some of the leading school, educational and radio authorities of the country?"

JUNIOR MECHANICS CELEBRATE 31st ANNIVERSARY

On last Monday evening American Flag Council No. 28, Jr. O. U. A. M. celebrated their 31st birthday with a varied and very interesting program, given in their lodge room.

The early part of the evening was spent in transacting the usual routing business, followed by installation of officers. The installing work was done by Past State Councilor Arthur W. Hope, of Delaware City. It is interesting to note that it was during Mr. Hope's term of office that this council was organized. In the talk given by Mr. Hope later in the evening he referred to his pride in the local council, is likened to pride a parent might feel for a child grown-up and celebrating its 31st birthday.

One of the features of the evening was an illustrated lecture, describing the National Orphans Home of this fraternity, at Tiffin, Ohio, given by Mr. Bradstreet, of Boston, Mass. During the lecture, Mr. Bradstreet not only told, but showed by pictures on the screen how the Jr. O. U. A. M. are caring for over one thousand orphan children at their home.

A comic sketch, "A Royal Invitation," given by local talent was highly amusing. The characters were taken by the following: His Royal Majesty, Henry F. Mote; Honorable Prime Minister, W. Sidney Collins; Crown Prince of Jollers, A. Neal Smythe; Honorable Supreme Treasurer, Chas. W. Colmery; Honorable Supreme Secretary, T. Raymond McMullen; Lord High Executioner, Frank E. Mote; Candidate, who had interesting experience with the Royal Goat, Francis L. Hall.

Among the visitors who gave interesting talks during the evening were State Councilor H. S. Lowe, of Delaware; State Vice-Councilor, G. Stewart, of Canterbury; State Secretary F. Siegrist, of Wilmington; State Treasurer H. S. Hoffecker, of Newark; Past State Councilor Chas. W. Sharpe, of Wilmington; A. W. Hope of Delaware City; George Kinney, of Dover; George Swain, of Harrington; A. H. Cadik, of Wilmington; W. Hoops, of Wilmington, and many other visitors.

Music during the evening was furnished by Professor Brainer and his orchestra, which filled in all spots that might have been otherwise quiet on the program.

At a late hour very pleasing refreshments of chicken salad, olives, rolls, butter and coffee ice cream, cakes and cigars were served.

There were about two hundred and fifty present, and they unanimously voted it a very pleasant evening.—W. S. Collins, Chairman Publicity Com.

SCHUSTER BABY ILL

George, Jr., the small son of Professor and Mrs. George Schuster, underwent an operation yesterday at the Jefferson Hospital in Philadelphia, and is in a serious condition. The child, who is a little more than a year and a half old, swallowed a small piece of apple as he was running, last October. He choked, and it was thought that the apple entered his lung. His condition became serious recently and his parents took him to Dr. Chevalier Jackson, who has invented the bronchoscope, an instrument for probing the lung. The apple was not found, and is supposed to have been absorbed, but an abscess was found and removed.

Professor Schuster is on a year's leave of absence from the University of Delaware, for study at Cornell University. Mrs. Schuster is staying in Philadelphia until the child shall be thought out of danger.

N. S. C. Loses Tight Game To Fort DuPont

Strong Soldiers' Team Noses Out Locals, 27-23; Play New London Tonight; Elect Officers

In a game played last Thursday night, on the floor of the Newark Armory, the Newark Sporting Club basketball team lost a close game to the strong service team from Fort du Pont. The score of 27 to 23 speaks well for the Sporting Club, as the Fort du Pont quintette has crushed some of the strongest aggregations in this vicinity. The local boys were by no means crushed.

Newark got off to a bad start, and the soldiers piled up a lead. In the second half Newark made a determined come-back, tying the score, and the game was not decided until the last few minutes of play, when Fort du Pont got 4 points. Bland did the scoring honors for Newark with 3 field goals and 4 fouls for a total of 10 points. Conaway, soldier guard, was high score man with 11 tallies.

Tonight, the Newark Sporting Club will play the New London Cats, at New London. Score:

Newark Splits Honors With Beacom College

Boys Take 70-23 Lacing; Girls Win 34-20; Ann Chalmers Stars

The boys' basketball team of the Newark High School took a bad drubbing at the hands of the Beacom College five last night, when it was swamped 70 to 23; but the Newark girls retrieved some of the local athletic honor by beating the Beacom girls, 34 to 20. The games were played on the court of the Harrison Street Church, in Wilmington.

The boys' game was a route. Beacom's heavier, older and more experienced players found little match in the green team of the High School, and the first half ended 38 to 17. Captain Marker, of Beacom, had a regular basket picnic, scoring 23 points. Holloway, Newark forward, kept up his high scoring average by accounting for 14 tallies.

In the Newark girls, Beacom encountered a seasoned team running right up to its stride. Ann Chalmers came into her own, scoring 29 points,

Better Shooting Wins From Fast Gallaudet Team; J. V.'s Beat Harrison Street Church

The University of Delaware basketball team turned in its first victory out of three starts, last Friday night, when it defeated Gallaudet, of Washington.

The first half of the main event ended in an 18 to 18 tie. Gallaudet had passed rings around the Blue and Gold, but seemed to lack accuracy in finding the basket. In the second half, Creamer and Hugh Holt went in as defense men for Delaware and allowed the mutes only 6 points. Hill and Jaquette were the only two men who played a full game for Delaware, and Hill was the scoring star of the game with 8 goals from the field. This game was more cleanly played than any other this season.

In the junior varsity game, the issue was decided in the last few minutes, the Church boys giving Delaware a hot contest. Scores:

U. Of D. Trips Drexel Cage Team, 34-33

Win Second Game Of Season; Junior Varsity Loses, 29-27; Play Naval Academy Tonight

The University of Delaware came out on the top side of one of those one point margin finishes last night and took a basketball game from Drexel by a score of 34 to 33. The Blue and Gold had to come from behind to do it, as Drexel led at the half, 18 to 17. In a preliminary game the Drexel Junior Varsity dumped the Delaware Jay Vees, 29 to 27. The games were

Improved Team Held Opponents To Seven Points; but Shooting Poor

In their second game this season on the D. I. A. A. schedule, the Newark High School boys' basketball team found Delaware City five easy picking, and smothered it under a score of 38 to 7. The game was played last Friday night at the Newark Armory. As Delaware City has no girls team, only one game was contested.

The Newark boys owed a tighter defense, and improvement in shooting. Delaware City was under all the way and the game turned into a practical rout. Holway did most of the scoring for Newark, making 10 goals from the field. Newark showed itself woefully weak on shooting fouls, making 12 out of 15 chances. Scores:

played in the University of Delaware gym.

Drexel had a fast, shifty combination, so Coach Rothrock used his light team. Drexel took the lead at the start, but the Blue and Gold kept pace with them in the scoring. Harris did yeoman service for Delaware in the first half both offensively and defensively. In fact he was high score man for Delaware for the game with 11 points. Johnny LeCarpentier saved the Delaware bacon in the last stanza with timely tosses from the field. Tucker, Drexel forward, played a great game, taking scoring honors with 13 tallies.

The Junior Varsity game was even at the half with 11 all, but the Philadelphia pulled ahead in the second half to take the contest by two points. Tonight the University of Delaware will go on "big time," meeting the Naval Academy at Annapolis. Scores:

Plan to Control Rats On County Farms
County Agent to Help Farmers Ex-terminate Rodents from Farm Buildings
There is no argument to the fact that one of the greatest losses to property and its contents is caused by the various kinds of rodents, and especially rats, which annually damage and destroy thousands of dollars worth of property and food-stuffs throughout the country, and in view of this condition a rat control campaign is being planned for New Castle county under the direction of Assistant County Agent G. M. Worri- low who will conduct demonstrations on farms to show how these pests can be exterminated by the use of a poisonous dust known as cyanogenes which is injected under the farm buildings by means of a small foot- pump especially designed for this purpose.
The permanent exclusion of rats involves primarily the proper construction, repair, and upkeep of build- ings and keeping the premises in a sanitary condition, as rats require both food and shelter for their well- being, and they cannot exist where either of these elements is lacking. Rat infestation of premises can usu- ally be traced to some conditions that are favorable to them, and the removal of these conditions discour- ages their presence and generally results in a permanent reduction of rat infestation. Most modern build- ings and many older ones are so con- structed as to be rat-proof, or could be made so at a relatively small cost, as owners of such buildings as ware- houses and storages in which produce and other supplies are kept, have found that the precautions necessary for making their buildings rat-proof may be wisely followed even though the expense may be considerable more.
Although measures for the perma- nent riddance of rats should be taken wherever practicable, they usually must be combined with rat destruc- tion, and in many instances the con- tinual killing of these pests is the only practical method of control. There are numerous materials and contrivances designed for rat destruc- tion, but it has been found that the most efficient means of killing them is by the use of poison materials in the form of dusts or gases which can be forced into their burrows and har- boring places.
Of the many chemicals commonly employed for destroying rats in their harbors, calcium cyanide dust is of outstanding usefulness, as this ma- terial is extremely poisonous and in sufficient concentration is destructive to most animal life. Calcium cyanide is a compound that rapidly gives off hydrocyanic, or prussic, acid gas when acted upon by the moisture in the air, and it has recently come into promi- nence in connection with the control of the various rodents as well as in- sect pests. It may be used to ad- vantage in destroying rats in open burrows in fields, along ditch banks and levees, in city dumps and sanitary fills, around the exterior of buildings, under sidewalks, pavements, and tight floors, in lumber piles, rubbish, and other accumulations, in corn cribs, and sometimes in hay and straw stacks. It is particularly suited for use on farms and poultry houses and around city dumps.
On the average farm it is not often the case that all the buildings are so constructed as to be entirely rat- proof, and there are usually several of the farm buildings which furnish excellent places for rats to live and propagate. This condition, therefore, makes it necessary that some method of control be put into practice where- by these pests can be exterminated effectively and at the most reasonable expense to the owner.
Assistant County Agent Worri- low and County Agent Willim plan to con- duct several rat control demon- strations in the county sometime within the next few weeks, and those farmers and others who are interested in see- ing how these rodents are killed by the cyanogenes treatment are invited to attend these demonstrations, the date and location of which will be an- nounced later.
Although getting rid of rats is largely an individual problem, rat in- festation has a serious effect upon the whole community, and an organized control effort is highly desirable. A person who allows rats to increase on his property until they become a menace to the entire neighborhood becomes an object of public concern, and a city that permits its refuse dump to serve as a breeding ground for hordes of these pests is com- mitting a grave injustice to its popu- lation. Campaigns are being conduct- ed regularly in an increasing number of counties and cities, as people in general are recognizing the value to the community of an organized war- fare on rats and are taking an active interest in planning and promoting anti-rat campaigns along with other movements to exterminate pests and disease.

Ending a War

A reader of The Post has sent us this interesting article, by Richard Wood, from the American Service Committee, of Philadelphia:

"I came here to hear the word Peace. I have not heard it mentioned since I got here. If he does not say Peace, I am going back to Warsaw, where war can be spoken." His For- eign Minister, Zaleski, clutching fran- tically at his coat-tails, Marshal Pil- sudski, the fiery dictator of Poland, stormed toward the door. There his wiser counselor prevailed, and Pil- sudski resumed his seat in the Coun- cil of the League of Nations.

Trembling with rage, Professor Waldemar, Prime Minister of Lithu- ania, shouted across the room, "He wants me to say Peace. All right, I'll say Peace, but then he has got to do the things that will make peace possible."

Pilsudski was once more on his feet. "I take you gentlemen to witness, he has said Peace. I'm going to tele- graph to Warsaw to ring the bells and sing the Te Deum."

Sputtering Lithuanian like a fire- cracker, Waldemar interrupted at the top of his voice, "there are two kinds of Te Deum, the Te Deum of peace and goodwill and the Te Deum of victory. If he mean the first kin, I agree; but if he means the second kind, I object!"

Pilsudski turned and growled something in Polish which the mem- bers of the Council could not under- stand. Waldemar responded in a torrent of Lithuanian, and the two men seemed on the point of coming to blows. Collected, prudent, auda- cious, with long experience in har- monizing angry colleagues and irate party members, Aristide Briand, ten- times Premier of France, most ex- periented statesman in Europe, dedi- cated in the agony of Verdun to the prevention of war henceforth, prac- tically forced the two jarring Baltic statesmen down into adjoining chairs. Then, leaning over them, speaking in the deepest and most earnest tones of his magnificent voice, emphasizing every word with his long, agile fore- finger, he glared at Waldemar and Pilsudski and said:

"You two have got to stop it. You are both talking about the same thing. You both love each other. It is absolutely necessary."

And before they left the room, Prime Minister Waldemar of Lithu- ania and Dictator Pilsudski of Pol- and were sufficiently impressed with the necessity of it to sign an agree- ment ending the "state of war" that has existed for seven years between Lithuania and Poland.

There has been no actual fighting. But to go from Lithuania to Poland it has been necessary to make a long

OBITUARY

William L. Wright, aged 66 years, died on Sunday morning at the Homeopathic Hospital, following an operation. Dr. Mathews, rector of St. Thomas' Episcopal Church, conducted the funeral services at 1:30 yesterday afternoon, at the home of John B. Miller, of this town, a brother-in-law of the deceased. Interment was made in St. James' Cemetery, Newport.

Mr. Wright was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wright, and was born at Kiamonsi. His father was the dyer in the Kiamonsi Woolen Mills. After his death, his son was in the woolen manufacturing business for several years, after which he lived in Haddonfield, New Jersey, until the death of his mother, two years ago. Since then, he has spent much of his time here with his sister, Mrs. Miller, who is his only near relative. He has been in poor health for several months.

At the time of Mr. Wright's death, Mrs. Miller had gone for a rest and visit at the home of a friend, Mrs. Charles M. Richardson, at Newport News, Virginia.

MRS. NELLIE SEAMAN

Mrs. Nellie Seaman, aged 53 years, died at her home in Richardson Park on Monday, January 23. She had been an invalid for eight years. The funeral services will be held at her home tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, with interment in Head of Christiansa Cemetery.

Mrs. Seaman is survived by her husband, Charles Seaman, and two sons by a first marriage, Griffith Moore, of this town, and Kenneth Moore, of Philadelphia. Both Mr. Seaman and his wife, who by her first marriage was Mrs. Leslie Moore, lived here at one time. Mrs. Burton Messick is a sister and George Crowe, a brother of the deceased.

ALLEN RUTH

Allen Ruth, aged 67 years, died at his home in Stanton on January 20. The funeral services were held from his late home yesterday afternoon. Interment was made in St. James' Cemetery, Newport. The deceased is survived by his widow and several children.

CLINTON R. MCKINSEY

Clinton R. McKinsey, aged 56 years, died on January 20 after a three weeks' illness. Funeral services were held on Monday afternoon from his late residence, 1301 West Eighth street, Wilmington. Interment was made in the Presbyterian Cemetery at Christiansa.

Mr. McKinsey was the son of Zebadec and Catherine P. McKinsey, of this town, and lived here as a young man. He married Miss Ruth Collins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Blay Collins, of this town. He was a graduate of Delaware College.

As a young man he began his trade at the Pennsylvania Railroad shops and finally worked his way upwards until he became general passenger inspector for the company. Later he became master mechanic of the Washington terminal which position he amply filled until duty to his country called him into the World War. He entered the service in 1918 as a captain and by the time of his honorable discharge he had become a major. He then started a new career in the service of the American Car and Foundry Company as a mechanical engineer, which position he retained until the time of his death. His territory covered the entire east coast, from Canada to Florida. From north to south he had made a host of friends who will greatly mourn the loss of such a faithful friend and co-worker. His genial manner, kindness and willingness to help in times of trouble and adversity will long be remembered by all who knew him. He was a wonderful home-maker and one of his outstanding strong points was to make and keep his loved ones happy, comfortable and free from care. The deceased was an energetic, faithful Mason, being affiliated with St. John's Lodge No. 11, A. F. and A. M.; Alfred Pike Consistory, and Almas Temple of the Mystic Shrine, Washington, D. C. He was also a member of the Delaware Shrine Club. Surviving Mr. McKinsey are his wife and daughter, Miss Greta Estelle McKinsey, a high school teacher at Newark; one sister, Mrs. J. E. Stroops; and a brother, Frederick McKinsey, of Richardson Park.

ROBERT S. TAYLOR

Robert S. Taylor, aged 93 years, died on January 22, at the home of his son, George Taylor, near Harmony. The funeral services were conducted by Reverend Gehman and Reverend Irvine at his late home this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment was made in White Clay Creek Cemetery.

Mr. Taylor had lived an interesting life. He was the only child of Joseph and Lucy Taylor, and was born in England. He came to this country when he was 14 years of age and lived at different times in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania; Louisville, Kentucky, and in Brooklyn. When he was 23 years of age, he married Annie Kelly, daughter of William and Katharine Kelly. He lived on the farm where he died, now the home of his son, for 68 years. He is survived also by five daughters: Mrs. John C. Boulden and Mrs. Charles M. Day, of Wilmington; Mrs. Calvin Eastburn, of Richardson Park; Mrs. Albert Eastburn, of Union; and Mrs. William Armstrong, of near Claymont. He leaves also thirteen grandchildren and a number of great grandchildren. One daughter, Mrs. Jacob Welsh, is deceased.

LEON McCaULEY 4-H CORN SHOW CHAMPION

For the second consecutive year Leon McCauley, of Bridgeville, is the champion 4-H Club corn judge of Delaware and retains possession of the big silver trophy cup offered annually by the Delaware State Corn Growers' Association at the 4-H Club corn judging contest held each year in connection with the State Corn Show.

Final results of this year's contest held at Dover, January 13, have just been made by A. D. Cobb, State Leader of County Agents in charge of 4-H Club Work in Delaware, and show unusually keen competition among the junior corn growers. Young McCauley had a total score of 381 points out of a possible perfect score of 400.

Second place went to George Phillips, son of E. C. Phillips, well known farmer near Odessa. Phillips showed a big improvement over last year when he ranked 31st among the 37 contestants with a total score of 291 points as compared to his score of 377 this year.

Third place went to Irene Tarr, of Seaford, with 376 points. Irene was one of two girls who competed with the boys, and has the honor of being the only girl to ever win the big cup, achieving this two years ago. Clarence Huston, of Seaford, showed consistency by placing fourth with a score of 373 points, having held the same position last year with 353 points. His score was tied by John C. Green, Jr., of Middletown.

The contestants were required to place and write reasons for placing four ten ear samples each of white corn and yellow corn and place four samples of single ears in both white and yellow corn.

Leon McCauley is the third boy to win the cup for two consecutive years. Stanley Short, veteran 4-H Club member of Cheswold, and Lawrence Mercedith, of Greenwood, being the only two boys to win twice in succession before. Should McCauley win again next year the cup becomes his permanent possession.

Thirty-nine boys from all parts of the state competed this year, being the largest group which ever came together for this final competition. The contest was supervised by Mr. Cobb and George M. Worrlow, Assistant County Agent of New Castle County, and the papers were graded by C. A. Pope, of the Agronomy Department of the University of Delaware.
