IT'S OUR COMMUNITY DAY

For the 26th
time, Newarkers and UD students will gather on the mall this
Sunday, 10 a.m.-
5 p.m.

STARTING at 10 a.m. on Sunday, Newark again hosts Community Day as an expected 20,000 residents and visitors descend on the University of Delaware Mall.

The annual day-long event offers fun for all ages with food vendors, music, artisans, children's activities, attic treasures, and community groups displayed across several blocks of the university campus.

The Newark Lions are asking people to bring donations of used eyeglasses to their booth this year.

At her booth, Senator Donna Reed (R-Breezewood II) is accepting Boy Scout and Girl Scout uniforms for kids who cannot afford them.

Other local organizations are raising money with a Jail and Bail and a Dunking

Booth, both manned or womaned with local residents, and business and government leaders.

Additional highlights include a sale of com-posters by the Newark Conservation Advisory Commission — the first 100 will be sold at $20 each and after that they will be $35.

And the League of Women Voters will be registering voters and explaining the new electronic voting machine.

Organizers expect more than 60 juried artists and craftspeople to exhibit original works for sale at their site in front of Sypherd and Sharp halls.

Children's crafts and activities, as well as the popular scarecrow-making, will be found near Mitchell and Evans halls, while antiques and attic treasures crowd the bazaar area behind Sypherd and Brown halls.

Entertainers from Generations, the "Planet Folle" band, the Newark Community Band, and the Mary Archer band will provide music

JOHAN MAYER, stepping down in two weeks as president of the board of the Newark Senior Center, is going out with a bang.

On Tuesday, Mayer announced that Warner Perry, who died on Aug. 6, left an estate of more than $1 million to build a new wing on the year-old center.

"Mr. Perry was a member of the Newark Senior Center for a long time," said Mayer. "We knew he was leaving his estate to the center but we had no idea how much it was."

Police target students' wild parties

FOLLOWING several weeks of increasing complaints about noise and disorderly behavior in the city, police in Newark cracked down with a vengeance last weekend.

In a two-day period, Sept. 12-13, officers from the Newark Police Special Operations Unit joined by agents of the Delaware Alcoholic Beverage Control Enforcement Section wrote up a total of 112 charges. Offenses ranged from underage consumption of alcoholic beverages to underage entry into bars and package stores, as well as possession of LSD.

Media officer Curt Davis said the Judgment filed by state with Sears

Attorney General M. Jane Brady recently announced that Delaware has filed a Consent Judgment with Sears that resolves the state's claims against Sears, Roebuck & Co., for collecting debts in violation of the U.S. Bankruptcy Code and state consumer protection law.

Under a nationwide settlement, Sears is required to forgive up to approximately $125 million in consumer debts improperly obtained by Sears and repay at least $125 million in compensation to affected customers, including interest. Also required is $35 million to the state treasuries, as well as $5 million to benefit consumer education. Injunctive relief requiring Sears to change certain of its collection practices was also ordered.

Delaware will receive approximately $60,000 in civil penalties and costs, based upon the number of violations that occurred in the state. In addition, affected consumers in Delaware will receive compensation for their payments to Sears on the unlawful debts.

At present, Sears has identified over 146,000 customers nationwide who signed invalid reaffirmation agreements between January 1992 and April 1997. Approximately 250 of these reaffirmations were obtained from Delaware consumers. It is expected that more affected persons will be identified in the next two weeks.

Persons who would like to file a proof of claim form or believe they may be entitled to compensation under the settlement are encouraged to call the hotline run by the settlement administrator at 1-800-529-4500.

The settlement administrator will provide claim forms and information on how to complete the forms. Affected consumers also may contact the Delaware Attorney General's office if they have questions about the settlement at 1-800-220-5424.

incident is related to other cases where women have been approached while walking in Newark.

Woman accosted on street

A 20-year-old woman told police that on Sept. 12 around 1:10 p.m. a man driving by made insulting sexual comments to her as she walked alone near Haines and Lovett streets. The suspect, described as a white man about 35-40 years of age, with short blond hair, and heavy set, was driving a newer model black sports car, possibly a Nissan. According to officer Curt Davis, police do not think that the

Purse snatching

Newark Police report that a 55-year-old woman from Ecuador was grabbed from behind by two unknown males while walking with another woman near the K-Mart in College Square on Sept. 14 around 12:25 p.m. The victim said the men attempted to steal her purse and finally pushed her to the ground. The suspects fled in a black vehicle with Maryland tags, taking the purse, a camera and an unknown amount of cash. The woman suffered minor scrapes and a cut elbow in the assault.

Alcohol overdose

A 23-year-old man required medical treatment after he suffered an alcohol overdose at a tavern in College Square on Sept. 13 around 1:40 a.m. Police said the man was treated and released at the Newark Emergency Center.

Attempted burglary

Police were called to a residence on East Park Place on Aug. 29 around 11:20 a.m. after a report that unknown persons attempted to force entry through a bedroom screen. The resident said no entry was made and nothing was taken.

Police seek rape information

New Castle County police detectives are seeking information in regard to a rape which occurred at the Allandale Apartments in Ogletown on July 13, 1997. According to detectives, a woman was sexually assaulted by a black male who entered her bedroom through a first-floor window. Anyone with information is asked to call Crimestoppers at 1-800-TIP-3333.

combined forces targeted area bars, liquor stores, parties, and public areas during the operation. "These joint forces have been working together since December, 1996," said Davis, "but this is the largest weekend for total charges since they began."

In a separate but related effort, Newark Police arrested and charged additional offenders throughout the same period. "We last did this around 1993," said Davis. "It gets the students' attention and hopefully they learn this kind of behavior can't continue."

Occupants at dozens of houses and apartments in Newark were cited for noise and alcohol violations. At one residence on North Street, 33 persons were charged with underage drinking at the same party on Sept. 13 between 1 and 2:30 a.m.

In the week before and after Labor Day, Newark Police were called to over 25 residences with complaints about noise. In one instance, police went to the same house on New London Road three times between 11:30 p.m. on Sept. 3 and 3 a.m. on Sept. 4. Over 300 people were found partying at the house in that time.

Davis said the rowdy activities usually quiet down after the intense police operations. "It usually takes about three or four years before things get out of hand again," said Davis. "By that time, all the students have graduated who were involved in the previous incidents."

Davis said the current series of special operations will continue as long as they seem necessary and effective.

Tsionas. "The front will look just the same, but the kitchen is all new."

Starting Monday, the diner will be open 24 hours a day, according to manager/chef Turgut "John" Bolat. "With real diner food," added Tsionas.

The Newark Diner originally opened in 1953 and was later called the Hollywood Diner, Jimmy's Diner, and most recently, Jude's Diner. Jude McDonald was honored by the New Castle County Historic Review Board in 1996 for her maintenance of the diner's period look.

In April of this year, McDonald announced that she was selling the diner business in order to devote herself fulltime to catering. Tsionas said that the new owners and management for the restaurant have plenty of experience to draw upon. "They have worked in the diner business in New Jersey," explained Tsionas. "They can make it a success."

Co-partners Abdullah Kaya and Izzet Tulum, both of New Jersey, will be running the restaurant with the help of family and locals. Bolat said he previously worked in New Jersey at the Magnolia Diner, then owned by his brother. He has also worked at another restaurant site owned by Tsionas in Dewey Beach.

When the diner opens, it will have 15 employees including 10 waitstaff and counterpersons. "We might expand the staff later," said Bolat. "We have to see how it goes."

Breakfast, lunch and dinner will be available at any time. "Lunch at 2 a.m. is OK," Bolat said with a laugh. Bolat said his menu will include Italian, German, French and Middle Eastern entrees. "And American," added Tsionas. "That's the best."

Tsionas, whose other family holdings in Newark include Space II Pizza, Astra Plaza on Elkton Road and the about-to-open Astra Plaza Main Street, concluded. "This will be a family-run business, and everybody knows that's the best kind."

Newark Post publisher to lead new Chesapeake division

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

FOLLOWING A DECISION by Chesapeake Publishing Corporation to consolidate their business publications into one division, James B. Streit, Jr. has been named General Manager for the newly-created Chesapeake Business Ledger Division.

"Jim Streit will spearhead our efforts in developing a concerted marketing program, better coordination between the publications, and future expansion," said Thomas R. Bradlee, president of Chesapeake. "We believe by forming a division for these unique publications we will be able to do an even better job for the business communities we serve than we have in the past."

The new division will include six company papers: the New Castle Business Ledger in Delaware, the Cecil Business Ledger, Harford Business Ledger, and Charles County Business Ledger, all in Maryland, and two Chesapeake Business Ledgers on Maryland's Eastern Shore.

Bradlee said Streit will continue his role as publisher of the Newark Post, The Route 40 Flier, and the New Castle Business Ledger in addition to his new duties.

Streit has been pursuing his love of journalism since his teens when he hung around and helped out, usually without pay, at the Arbutus Times in Catonsville, Md.

Streit credits Jack Martin, then owner of the Arbutus, with mentoring him and providing a well-rounded introduction to community journalism. "By his example," said Streit, "he showed me how you could make a decent and rewarding living at the community paper."

When Martin became a commissioner for the Maryland State Lottery, Streit took over responsibility for the Arbutus paper and a career was launched.

That vocation has led him through increasingly responsible positions beginning in the suburbs of Baltimore and Washington, D.C., and continuing in southern Maryland and rural Virginia, before his years at papers in Maine.

Since Streit came to Chesapeake Publishing and the Newark Post in 1992, he has guided that newspaper through a successful economic recovery. In addition he successfully launched two new publications in Newark, the New Castle Business Ledger and The Route 40 Flier.

Streit said his extensive involvement in the Newark community will continue as he takes up his new professional role. Among the organizations on which he presently serves are: board member and past president of Newark Rotary Club; founding member of Dupont's Newark Area Community Panel; vice-president of the Christina Educational Endowment Fund.

He is also a representative on the community coalition grant committee for the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation project against binge drinking at the University of Delaware; board member and secretary for Newark's business association, Downtown Newark - A Main Street Community, Inc.; board member of Newark Senior Center; and member of the Greater Newark Committee of the New Castle Chamber of Commerce.

A Newark resident, Streit is married to Linda Raab Streit who also works for the Newark Post. The couple have two children, Tyler, a seventh grader at Shue-Medill Middle School and Mackenzie, a 1996 graduate of Newark High School and currently a sophomore at the University of Delaware.

Chesapeake Publishing Company presently owns 48 community and business publications in Delaware, Maryland, and Virginia serving more than 1 million customers. The company also operates

Perry bestowed on the senior facility.

"I already had the pleasure of working with Mr. Perry last year when he wanted to give something lasting to the center on its opening," Mayer said. "I believe it was one of his greatest thrills to meet and work with artist Charles Parks whom he commissioned to create the sculpture of three seniors which stands outside our door."

Engraved on the sculpture is the quote, "Grow old along with me, the best is yet to be."

Mayer noted, "I think Mr. Perry had the foresight to ensure that 'the best is yet to be' for the center."

The Newark Senior Center, formerly located on Main Street, opened a $3 million facility on Whitechapel Drive in May 1996 following two years of community fundraising and construction. "The center owes its existence to a partnership between the University of Delaware, the city of Newark, the community and the seniors themselves," said Mayer.

According to the staff, the membership has almost doubled and so have the number of programs since its opening. "Sometimes the library, which Mr. Perry liked to use, was crowded with classes," said Mayer, "so he wanted to build a new wing."

Executive director Jean Simmons said the C. Warner Perry Wing will contain an extended fitness center, additional locker rooms for the swimming pool, classrooms and a computer room. "People using the equipment in the fitness room are right on top of each other," said Simmons. "And a lot more people want to join the fitness program."

According to Simmons, the 4,000 square-foot wing will be added on the east side of the front of the building, between the existing facility and the driveway.

"We probably will need a year for planning before we can start the construction," Simmons said.

Mayer said any funds remaining after the construction will be used to start an endowment fund for maintenance of the senior center in the future. "We were able to show Mr. Perry a rendering of the center with its new wing before he died," said Mayer. "The wing and the endowment fund were what he wanted."

Perry, a graduate of the University of Delaware who later worked for DuPont and other local companies as a design engineer, never married and had no children, according to activities director Eileen Thomas. "He loved to come here," said Thomas, noting that Perry was a founding member of the center's Stamp Club. "He was a simple, quiet man."

Apparently the people at the center were a family to Perry. "Wherever you are, Mr. Perry," said Mayer, "Thank-you."

Warner Perry's legacy

THINK BACK FIVE YEARS. Former Newark Senior Center director Margaret Catts was at wit's end trying to run a quality program for older adults in an antiquated Main Street facility. Membership and demand for services were rising, but cramped quarters in the former water works building prevented program expansion.

This month five years ago, the center's board was responding to the crowded situation by calling in a national expert to determine if it was feasible to raise $1.2 million locally to build Phase I of a new senior center. The board did not have real estate for a new building and phases II and III were only far-fetched dreams at the time.

A community-run, community-supported fund drive in 1993 and 1994 led to the construction and eventual opening last year of a new Newark Senior Center facility. The initial fund-raising effort was so successful that the board decided to raise the goal. The community responded and Phases I and II of the new building were opened on Whitechapel Drive off Marrows Road.

As many predicted, membership in the Newark Senior Center has jumped quickly and dramatically since the new building opened. There are more programs, classes and services than ever before...and so is the demand. As beautiful and expansive as the new facility is, there's so much going on in the building that there's a fight for space. Additional programs and classes are wanted but, amazingly, room space is short.

As was announced Tuesday morning in a gala press conference at the center, a generous bequest from a member of the center will solve this dilemma. Warner Perry, who died in August, was an active participant and benefactor of the Newark Senior Center before his death. He funded the bronze statue that greets center visitors. And his latest gift will allow construction of a new wing, one that should provide needed class space. His legacy surely will bring joy to many of Newark's seniors for years to come.

However, amidst all this success, the center's board remains rightfully concerned about the center's financial future. The fast-growing membership translates quickly into increased demands for services. To date, the center has been able to handle its operating expenses, but it still holds a mortgage on the first building phase. This needs to be retired. Local legislators need to be keenly aware of the center's fiscal needs and see that appropriate state funding heads our way.

Warner Perry's gift to the Newark Senior Center is notable and a welcome addition to the long list of NSC supporters.

IT HAS BEEN A LOOONG summer and I glad it is coming to an end. "I don't know about your kids, but my daughter has been bored since July. I am more and more convinced that there are a number of folks out there like me who would love to see year-round schooling. It really does make sense. Many children that I know started wishing for school shortly after the 4th of July.

There are many reasons why this makes sense to me. Here are five of them:

1. Children tend to forget what they learned during the school year. In September, the first marking period is re-teaching what was learned last year.
2. Baby-sitting and daycare is more expensive during the summer months.
3. Grocery bills go up somewhat during the summer. When kids are bored, they tend to eat more.
4. Electric bills also are higher — mainly from opening and closing the refrigerator/freezer doors. TV's are running all day, as well as air-conditioner's, fans, etc.
5. Parents are spending more money. This typically happens on shopping outings where we tend to say 'yes' when they ask for things to help us not feel guilty for being unable to spend more quality time with them during the summer months.

Parenting is getting tougher with each passing day. I find myself yelling and hollering at Kim so much, I'm starting to feel bad. But whenever I try to be nice, she tends to walk all over me. Screaming seems to get results.

She continues to be a "know-it-all" and challenges everything I say. I finally found myself repeating what my mother said to me and her mother probably said to her, which is, "Look, I know what you are going to do before you even do it and that whatever you are doing, I've been there and done that!"

In all seriousness, I have a good girl of whom I am very proud. She has never done anything really bad or of which I would be ashamed. I am truly blessed and she is a joy to have as a daughter. I work very hard at reminding myself of this especially when she is working on that last nerve of mine.

Straw destroyed at Iron Hill

Only the fact that wind was blowing the flames away from the buildings and the prompt action of neighbors, and firemen of Elkton fire department and the Aetna Hose, Hook and Ladder Company, on Thursday night, saved the property of Charles Walton, Iron Hill.

The result was the loss of about 50 tons of straw. The fire was discovered shortly before 7 p.m. and the alarm was spread.

Neighbors formed a bucket brigade and the fire companies of Newark and Elkton rushed to the scene.

The hed, hand and heart method

Some of my ideals for the public schools of the future would be to teach rewer things and to be more through.

As a recent addition to mental training I welcome manual training and physical culture.

Heretofore we have done well, but laid too much emphasis on mere mental training. It has given us a smattering knowledge of too many things and a through knowledge of scarcely anything.

Newark plans path for pedalers

If City Council adopts a proposed bicycle ordinance, Newark's bicyclists will no longer have to compete with motorists.

According to City Planner William J. Cohen, the newly-drafted proposed ordinance contains provision for a 10-mile "urban route bicycle system" through most of the major routes of the city.

Aetna may get paid drivers

Newark's Aetna Hose Hook and Ladder Company may no longer be relying on volunteer drivers for its fire trucks after Jan. 1, 1973.

Aetna officers and Newark city officials met last Tuesday night to discuss plans for hiring two full-time drivers, one for each of Aetna's two stations.

In an effort to get girls' soccer into the schools as a varsity sport, a new league is forming this fall that has the schools' represented as club teams.

The teams won't actually be varsity teams but there will be a Yellowjacket, Dragon and Viking entry into the league. Most, if not all, of the girls on the team will be from the local schools.

Organizers hope that the effort will show there is great enough interest in girls' soccer to make it a varsity sport soon.

Truancy Court getting children back in school

By PAMELA S. MAIER

NEWARK POST GUEST COLUMNIST

Truancy, or chronic repeated unexcused absences from school, is a problem in many schools for a small number of children.

In 1995, 130 truancy cases were filed in New Castle County. Between March 1996 and May 29, 1997, there were 292 cases. To combat this alarming and growing problem, State Senator David Sokola (D-Newark) and I chaired a Truancy Task Force. As a result, a Truancy Court was established in New Castle County last year. This Court consolidated all cases into the Justice of the Peace Court No. 14 and involved teachers, a deputy attorney general and a judge who reviews cases from arraignment to trial and follows those open cases to monitor the progress.

The average number of missed days for children in truancy court is 38 days, or about eight weeks of school. The average age of truant students is Grade 5, or at 10 and 11 years of age.

So far Truancy Court seems to be working well. Crucial to the success of the program is the involvement of parents. Parents are responsible for making sure their child attends school. Fines may be imposed on parents whose children are not in school and the parents must verify the child's attendance in school on a daily basis, must meet with school officials, may be told to attend school with the child and may be required to participate in parenting skills counseling. Cases are also referred to the Department of Services for Children, Youth and their Families.

While many truant children may appear before Truancy Court with a chip on their shoulder, it should be noted that the goal of Judge Rosalind Toulson is not to punish but to motivate parents and children to attend school. Judge Toulson has done a great job with the Truancy Court, and reports that of the 292 cases filed in 1997, 149 cases, or 51 percent, have been closed. That figure may sound low but we must remember that chronic truancy is a behavioral and lifestyle change for parents and students. Children also learn that whether or not a parent gets fined for that child's school attendance, is up to that child. That fact has proven a strong motivator to attend school.

Special thanks goes out to the Department of Justice's office for supplying the deputy attorney generals who prosecute the cases. Without the resources and expertise from the Attorney General, Truancy Court simply would not be able to exist.

Sussex County will be starting their own Truancy Court in October 1997. We are hoping to expand Truancy Court into Kent County the following school year. The Attorney General's office will be meeting with county school district officials in hopes of having a fully operational Truancy Court in each county by 1998.

Truancy Court has proven to be a positive experience for parents, students and schools. We expect the percentage of closed cases to increase as students realize the State and our courts are serious about students attending school the required number of days. This is a program which should operate statewide.

Paper encourages Letters to the Editor

Any community newspaper receives many letters over the course of a year. The number per week fluctuates, of course, the determining factor usually the degree to which our readers are upset . . . about the council representative, the mayor, the superintendent of schools, the guy next door.

Dealing with letters to the editor is one of the more difficult jobs for a newspaper editor. We want to let people have their say, for or against, praising or criticizing, and to vent their frustrations over what they usually perceive to be an injustice. Yet we do not want to print unsubstantiated allegations or rumors.

Generally the subject of a letter is someone in government. That's okay with us. We see that as a fact of life.

So, blast away, if you wish. No doubt a salvo or two will be lobbed in the direction of this newspaper and that's okay, too.

What we need from you and what we cannot allow is spelled out in our letters policy, which is printed every week in the staff box in the newspaper. It isn't very long because we don't have a lot of rules.

We expect your name, address and daytime phone number to be on the letter as well as your signature. The phone number will not appear in the newspaper; it is for our use only.

There should be no obscenities, for obvious reasons, and we will make the decision about what is obscene.

We will not allow libelous comments. That is for your protection as well as ours.

There is virtually no circumstances in which we will withhold a writer's name. The reason would have to be extraordinary.

So, keep those cards and letters coming. The Opinion Page is yours and we want you to use it.

Lend an ear to how corn improves life

■ This weekly feature on the Lifestyle page is authored by the staff of the Newark-based Cooperative Extension Service.

LAST YEAR, New Castle County grain farmers grew 23,000 acres of corn. And that's just one county. The United States needs a lot of corn. Why? Feed for livestock, poultry and dairy accounts for more than 80 percent of the nation's corn crop, but the remainder—an estimated 1 to 2 billion bushels of corn in 1996—goes into food and industrial products. Corn is used for so many things that you would be hard put to go one day without coming in contact with a corn product.

A very abbreviated list of food and industrial uses of corn includes adhesives, batteries, detergents, crayons, degradable plastics, dyes, plywood, antibiotics, chewing gum, shoe polish, paper, soft drinks and juices, cereal, licorice, peanut butter, pickles, catsup, marshmallows, motor fuel additive, alcoholic beverages, industrial alcohol, cooking oil, margarine, mayonnaise, salad dressing, shortening, soups, printing ink, soap, leather tanning, livestock and poultry feed and pet food. Most of the corn for these uses is processed by the corn wet milling industry. Wet milling involves soaking corn in warm water, a process called steeping. After the steep water is drawn off, the softened kernels go to de-germinating mills and separators, where the germ is removed and the oil extracted. The remaining parts—starch, gluten and hulls—are ground and passed through screens for hull removal. The starch and gluten are then separated, and the starch is washed and dried to be used as clothing starch, sweeteners for food processing or converted to ethanol, an engine fuel additive.

The National Corn Growers Association also offers the following a-maize-ing uses for corn: 1) completely biodegradable golf tees made of cornstarch-based plastics; 2) corn-derived citric acid as a substitute for phosphate, which increases the cleaning power and decreases the volume of laundry detergents needed; 3) "packing peanuts" made of nearly 100 percent cornstarch, totally water-soluble, biodegradable and an excellent way to pack breakable items; and 4) ethanol, an alcohol co-product produced from corn.

Music stirs the memories of Alzheimers patients and creates new moments to enjoy like the one these patients at the Evergreen Center in Wilmington are enjoying.

Local author provides musical moments for Alzheimer patients

Music therapists can use new book to help patients

By PEG BROADWATER

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

FOR MANY PEOPLE, music plays a vital role throughout their lives. For Alzheimer patients, it stirs memories and creates new moments to enjoy.

Cindy Cordrey, a lifetime resident of Newark, is a certified music therapist and author of "Hidden Treasures." The book is used nationwide by other music therapists and caregivers of Alzheimer patients.

"The book is a springboard for therapists to use in their own way," said Cordrey. "I call it my bag of tricks because you never know what is going to happen and you need to be ready to try something else if one thing doesn't work."

The book is a compilation of things that have worked for Cordrey in her work with Alzheimer patients at the Evergreen Center in Wilmington. Also included are things she has learned from workshops, seminars and studies.

"There was very little available in music therapy with Alzheimer patients," said Cordrey. "I wanted to provide a practical book for people to use."

With Alzheimer disease there are speech disturbances, disorientation and severe short-term memory loss. "Alzheimer patients respond to music therapy because so much of life experience is wrapped around the music of their time," added Cordrey who uses music from the 1920s and 30s.

Cordrey said she tries to provide the maximum stimulation and enjoyment for the moment. Music is a motivator to move, participate and reminisce with the memories Alzheimer patients do have. "They enjoy the old hymns," Cordrey said. "I like to 'make a joyful noise unto the Lord' as in Psalm 98."

Music therapy is a relatively new field of study. After World War II, music was used to help veterans devastated by the horrors of war. Music proved to be very effective in helping vets verbalize things that would not come out otherwise.

This book is a springboard for therapists to use in their own way.”

CINDY CORDREY
AUTHOR OF BOOK FOR MUSIC THERAPISTS

Although the use of music with the ill has been used for many years, Donald Sears was a pioneer in research of the effects of music therapy.

Cordrey became interested in music therapy after seeing a commercial on television while she was still attending Glasgow High School. "It was difficult to get information," she said. "There was no Internet at that time."

Cordrey wrote to the National Association of Music Therapy which was founded in 1950. They sent her the information that she needed.

Cordrey studied one year at Shenandoah College in Virginia then continued her studies and graduated from the University of Delaware in 1982. She wrote her own degree because there was nothing available at that time for music therapy at the university.

"I worked closely with the dean of arts and sciences," said Cordrey. "I took my core courses at Combs College of Music in Philadelphia."

She ended up with a dual degree: a bachelor of arts in liberal studies with a major in music therapy; and also a bachelor of music education.

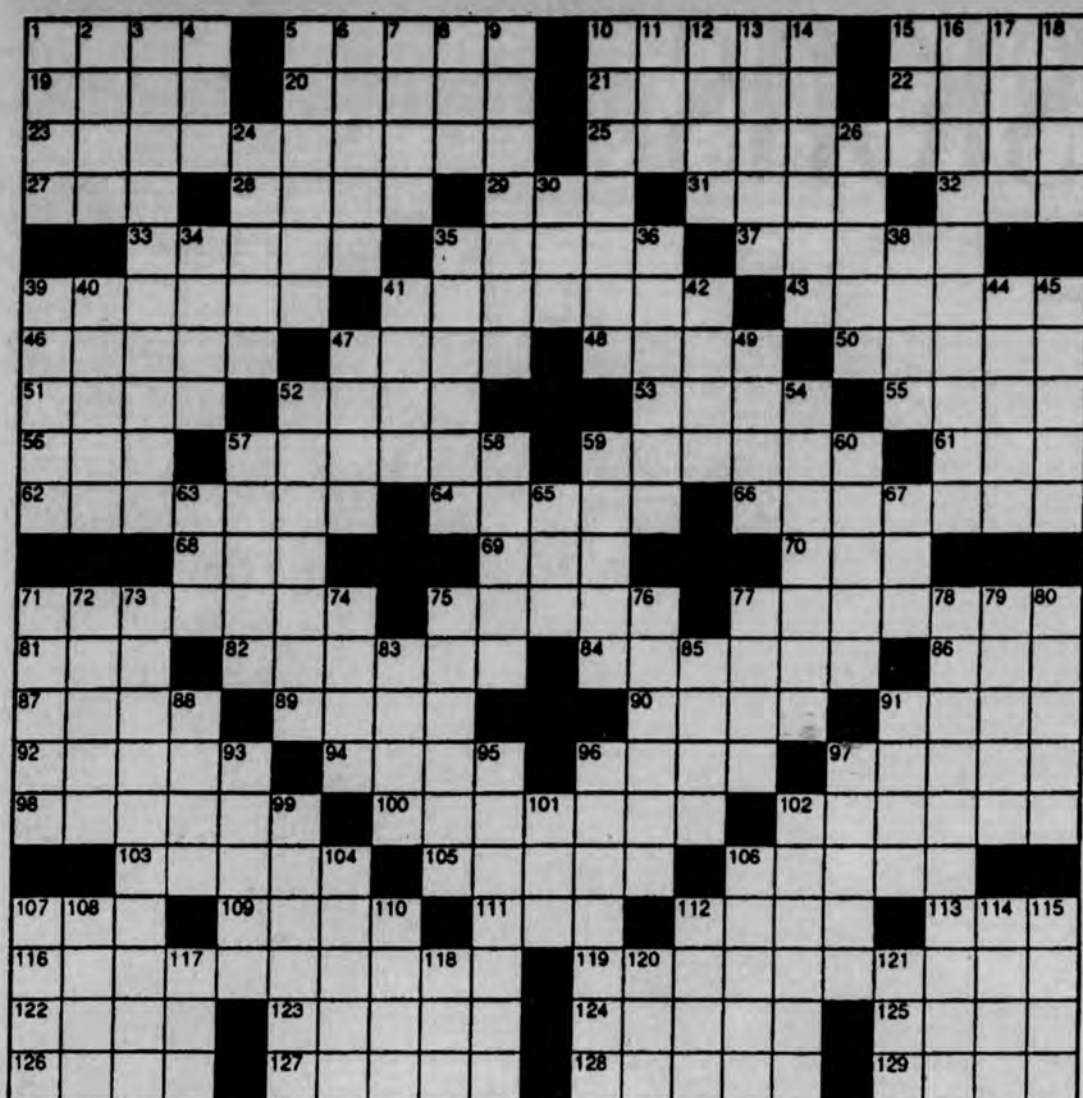

As with other certified professions, music therapists take continuing education units prior to recertification every five years.

Cordrey wrote her book during her 1992 recertification. "I self-published and I had about 20 copies made originally," she said with a laugh. "I went to local Alzheimer support meetings and sold it to family caregivers."

Now the book is headed for a third printing with ElderSong of Mt. Airy, Md., a leading publisher of music therapy resources.

In addition to her professional work and home-schooling her four children, Cordrey writes a bi-monthly column for the international newsletter, Eldersong. She also has presented seminars and workshops at music therapy conventions to help others who work with Alzheimer patients.

High school at a distance

The Diploma-At-A-Distance program offered at the James H. Groves Adult High School is a new alternative for the busy adult student in Delaware. While distance learning is not new, this program is unique because first such program at a high school level in Delaware. TV/VCR, cable network and the Internet are used in the open format program. Contact between the student and the instructor is made via telephone and through e-mail.

Child care, work schedule and the lack of transportation are the main reasons that prospective students feel frustrated, and sometimes uninspired, to continue their education. Diploma-At-A-Distance was created in response to these obstacles, and will benefit many adults who were not formerly using adult education programs. Since 1964, more than 30,000 former school dropouts earned their high school diplomas at Grover.

This program meets the requirements for high school credit and for the high school diploma prescribed by the State Board of Education and the Delaware Department of Education. Groves Diploma-At-A-Distance is accredited by Middle

Newark symphony ready for season to open

ONE OF THE brightest stars in Newark's cultural firmament is about to begin a new season. It is the Newark Symphony Orchestra. The orchestra will offer us two series during the 1997-98 concert season, a Symphony Series and a Chamber series.

To make it easier for us to remember, all the Symphony Series performances will be on Sundays in Loudis Hall of the Amy E. du Pont Building beginning at 7:30 p.m. All of the Chamber Series will be in the Newark United Methodist Church on Saturdays beginning at 8 p.m.

I will begin with the Symphony Series but go out of chronological order to share information with you about the second concert in the series set for December 14.

My reason is one of the soloists scheduled for that evening who is known by so many titles. Some examples: Opera star, symphony soloist, church soloist, narrator, newspaper columnist, writer, historian, voice of The Fighting Blue Hens and — to some fortunate people — friend.

If you have been around Newark any length of time you have to know I am writing about T. Elbert Chance.

Elbert and the Newark Symphony go way back! In the early days of the group, when Founder and Music Director Emeritus Harley S. Hastings was struggling to give the NSO life and make it a meaningful part of this community, Elbert Chance was there and working without compensation. He performed four times with the group. He made his Newark Symphony Debut in 1969 with "Peter and the Wolf."

Two years later he returned for one of the most memorable "Lincoln Portrait" performances I have ever heard. Two years after that he was soloist in Beethoven's Mass in C, Op. 86 and in 1976 reprised his debut performance.

With present Music Director Roman Pawlowski he narrated Tony Davidson's "The Selkie Boy" in a joint effort of the orchestra and OperaDelaware in 1994. On December 14 the two men will open the concert with Ottorino Respighi's "The Enchanted Toy Shop." Nice idea for the Christmas season? Well, there is more for the season in the same concert. Joan Barnhill, soprano, and the Delaware Valley Chorale will join the orchestra for a performance of Francis Poulenc's "Gloria" and the evening will conclude with Arthur Harris' "Christmas Carols." Sounds like a must for the holidays.

THE ARTS

By PHIL TOMAN

A celebration of the music of one of the famous "Three Bs" of music, Johannes Brahms, will open the season on October 26. Susan Peo will be guest conductor for an evening which includes the Tragic Overture; Three Songs with soloist Tonia Teece, soprano and Symphony No. 3.

The program for March 15 was not complete at deadline but I do know two of the works that evening. Delaware composer William Copper's Symphony No. 3, "From the Old World" will have its premiere that evening. George Gershwin's "An American in Paris" will conclude the program.

The results of the NSO's annual Concerto Competition will be known by the final concert, May 16. The winner will perform with the orchestra a concerto of his or her choosing. This competition gives high school and college musicians the opportunity to perform with a symphony orchestra and is always one of the highlights of the season. The program will also feature Mikhail Glinka's Overture to "Russlan and Ludmila" and Nicolai Rimsky-Korsakov's "Scheherazade."

The Chamber Series will open on October 4 with a rather wacky (in the good sense) program which includes fun performances of Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart's "A Musical Joke," P. D. Q. Bach's "Erotica Variations" and Jokenno Rossini's "Opera Buffa da Camera." Note: People with no sense of humor please stay away!

A program a bit more (read a LOT more) serious will be presented November 15. It will include Georg Philipp Telemann's "Don Quixote Suite" and Franz Schubert's Symphony No. 5 in B minor. Harpist Laura Baker will join the aggregation for Claude Debussy's "Dances: Sacree et Profane."

The winds of the symphony and Betsy Kent's Newark Ecumenical Chorus will join forces on February 14 for Mozart's Serenade in B-flat for 13 Winds and Anton Bruckner's Mass No. 2 in E minor.

Finally, on March 28, the Chamber Series will end with Ludwig van Beethoven's String Quartet in D, Op. 18, No. 3 and Dmitri Shostakovich's String Quartet No. 8 in C minor.

Violinist Thomas Di Sarlo will join the ensemble for Eugene Vsaie's Sonata for Violin in D minor.

For more information or tickets, you may call 302-369-3466.

T. Elbert Chance will be a soloist at the Newark Symphony Orchestra.

Residents share their visions of what they want downtown

Parking and traffic main concerns

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

There were few surprises at the public "visioning" meeting in Newark on Monday night, but at least it's official — parking and traffic are the number one concerns of residents when discussing the downtown area.

City council chambers were packed with community members who wanted to provide input for the planning survey being conducted here by professional consultants HyattPalma, Inc.

Among others areas, Dolores Palma asked residents to comment on what changes they would like to see by the year 2003, what services or products they thought were missing here, and what kind of community "users" they wanted to attract to Newark.

Residents listed better bus service, better bike and pedestrian facilities, more diversity of businesses to serve residents like the elderly and not just students, a variety of housing which includes low-income families, and a community center for youth just for starters. Benches, trees, greenery, more flowers and an overall cleaner downtown were also considered desirable.

Residents also said they would like to have more theater, movies and culture in the center of town. "Large city amenities in a small town atmosphere," was the way New London Road resident Norris Saunders put it.

Some speakers felt that too many students on Main Street were a problem. "The University of Delaware should have more responsibility for students," noted Fatty Patty owner Pat Giuffre. "I'd like to see more accountability for them by the University administration."

"I also like seeing them go in June."

But Peter Wells, pastor of the Newark United Church of Christ, said he likes seeing the students arrive in September. "I also like seeing them go in June," said Wells. "But they're part of the diversity and life I like on Main Street."

When Palma later asked what image residents would like to project about Newark, Wells said, "A place you can sit on the benches they put in and watch the interesting mix of people go by."

Anita Puglisi, Nottingham Green resident and president of the League of Women Voters of New Castle County, said she wanted a town bustling with activity. "I want to be a community that makes you feel 'young at heart,'" said Puglisi, "because that's what a college town is about."

According to city planning director Roy Lopata, the city hired the consulting group to determine the needs and market potentials of the downtown commercial area.

During their week-long survey, Palma and Doyle Hyatt met with business leaders, government officials, university representatives and others with an interest in Newark's downtown.

Palma said every group she met mentioned the parking, towing, and traffic issues. "We hear you loud and clear," she said.

In addition to the direct interviews, the group also sent out business surveys by mail and took random surveys of residents by telephone.

"People have asked us how we expect to get people to agree on anything here," said Palma. "The answer is — we don't. We want to identify what people disagree on as well as what they agree on."

Palma said the consultants will present the results of their study with recommendations at a future time and date following completion of the survey.

The $37,500 study is being funded by the city of Newark and the University of Delaware, as well as $22,500 donated by area businesses who will benefit from the market information.

Input sought for transportation issues

LAND USE, ride sharing, extending regional rail service, and reducing auto trips are some of the strategies to be examined in the next phase of the Newark-Elkton Intermodal Transportation Plan.

Some projects identified in the short term intermodal phase which ended in May 1996, are already in progress. Included are computerization of traffic signals, improving biking facilities, and upgrades at the Elkton Road/Main Street and New London Road intersection.

As part of the long term phase now beginning, the public is invited to ask questions and voice their concerns on the issues at a meeting sponsored by the Wilmington Area Planning Council at their offices on Library Avenue from 7 to 9 p.m. on Sept. 24.

WILMAPCO senior planner Anthony DiGiacomo said the second phase will analyze the long range situation for transportation and land use throughout the Newark-Elkton region, including Pennsylvania. "(We want to) arrive at a truly comprehensive program for solving congestion and mobility problems," said DiGiacomo.

Some key considerations are: impact of population and development on transportation; trip reduction strategies; increasing road capacity by connecting with road projects in New Castle County; potential of MARC and SEPTA rail transit for enhancing Newark-Elkton connections; and ride sharing programs in Newark and parts of Cecil County.

City offers fitness class

Abbotsford has land for sale

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

AFTER STRIKING out with the Delaware Department of Transportation, Abbotsford residents tried their land deal on the Western Newark Traffic Relief Committee.

According to Scott Bowling, a member of the Abbotsford board of directors, when the city gave subdivision approval for Abbotsford, a 4-acre parcel of land was reserved for future extension of the Christina Parkway or a roadway buffer.

"We discussed DelDOT acquiring this land, but the talks went nowhere," explained Bowling. "We wondered whether the city would be interested in acquiring this land?"

Bowling said he did not want to give the impression that he was asking for city help because Abbotsford couldn't afford the taxes on the land. "It's $1,000 a year, though," said Bowling. "From a logical point of view, why should we have it?"

City planning director Roy

Lopata confirmed that the land was reserved and cannot be used for development at this point. "For the time being, it's a green buffer or open space," said Lopata. "But if it is ever determined that it will not be used for the road, Abbotsford can come back and ask council to let the community use it."

Bowling explained that the community had appealed the tax assessment placed on the land by New Castle County because the residents thought it was too high for "unusable" land.

But State Senator Steven Amick (R-Newark West) said the land could be used at present for a playground or a ball-field and had mineral rights underneath it. "There's a whole raft of rights here," said Amick. "This situation happens all the time - it's not unique from a legal point."

WNTRC members decided that Bowling's request was not an issue for the committee but agreed to help Bowling research the subdivision plan and determine the community's legal position.

“We discussed DelDOT acquiring this land but the talks went nowhere.”

WILMAPCO survey measures traffic perceptions

Citizens asked to rate transportation technologies

RESULTS are in for a poll designed to measure perceptions of congestion and transportation improvement strategies in the region.

In the 1997 Public Opinion Survey released by the Wilmington Area Planning Council, citizens rated use of more efficient transportation technology systems and managing growth among the most effective solutions to congestion.

Almost 64 percent of those surveyed wanted new development targeted to already-developed areas like towns and villages and to designated growth areas. Of those people, 87 percent supported modern zoning ordinances and community designs where walking, biking, and transit are accessible to stores and other neighborhoods.

Citizens agreed with the region's long range plan to invest in innovative management policies for our existing transportation assets rather than only building more highway facilities," said G. Alexander Taft, WILMAPCO executive director.

"The survey shows strong support for the sophisticated highway technology systems we are looking at to improve traffic flow and safety," said Anne P. Canby, Delaware Transportation Secretary and WILMAPCO member. "The technology would also support the 74% of respondents who desired information systems that simplify transit use."

Respondents were asked to rate 15 strategies contained in the WILMAPCO long range plan. Those rated the six most effective were:

1) coordinating and better timing of traffic signals (86 percent believed effective)

2) creating service patrols to quickly respond to accidents (85 percent believed effective)

3) designing communities that make it easier for people to walk and bike to stores, schools and other public facilities and to other neighborhoods (80 percent believed effective)

4) "Intelligent Transportation Systems" for incident detection and management, traveler information, and computerized ticketing systems for transit (78% believed effective)

6) widening existing highways (73 percent believed effective)

Each of the remaining nine strategies received over 50 percent effective ratings. These strategies ranged from expanding passenger rail and transit facilities to making improvements for carpoolers, walkers and bikers.

The survey results profiled customer satisfaction for each travel mode including auto, carpool, transit, bicycling, and walking. Commuting experiences and perceptions of congestion were also explored. Based on the poll, 27 percent of commuters said they "always" experience congestion on the way to work.

In addition to the survey, WILMAPCO has released benchmark tools to assist transportation and land use decision makers in solving traffic congestion and sprawl development issues. These include an Annual Effectiveness Review for 1996 and a report on a new Congestion Management System.

The Annual Effectiveness Review concludes that in some ways we have diverted from the regional long range plan and the region must work more aggressively to implement the actions of the plan. The Review reports some major contributing factors: traffic is multiplying and car travelers have increased the miles they traveled by 5.3 percent between 1994 and 1995; and sprawl development is continuing, leading to an increase in local auto trips, which in turn increases traffic.

The report says changes in travel behavior and air quality will take awhile to become evident.

The region's new Congestion Management System focuses on strategies and projects underway to solve congestion. The system was designed to address the region's most congested areas, roadway links, and intersections. The area bounded by US Route 40, Route 896, Route 72, and 41 was identified as the most significant concentration of congested roadways and intersections in the region.

Several hundred people lined up for free groceries as Genuardi's opened its grocery store in Peoples Plaza Wednesday morning.

Genuardi's celebrates Peoples Plaza opening

THE CROWDS were in line early on Wednesday to witness the grand opening of the 62,000 square-foot Genuardi's at Peoples Plaza.

Don Lawson of Newark was the first in line at 6:00 a.m. "I'm retired and up early anyway," said Lawson who visited the old store in the shopping center just about every day. "(The employees) go backwards to help you."

A Delaware City resident, Phyllis Loveless, said she was waiting in her car when Lawson got in line. "I decided I better get in line," she said and was quickly followed by Bill Johnson of Northeast, Md. who had been by the store even earlier and then came back.

The line continued to form and stretched all the way around the building. Jane Keeper of Newark came prepared. She was reading a book to her two small boys while they ate cereal from single-serve boxes. "I really need to shop," said Keeper, who noted how nice the staff is to children. "The other Genuardi's store here was getting empty."

The ribbon cutting ceremony was held inside the store at 7:45 a.m. with Genuardi family members, management and well wishers. Father Clem Manista of St. Elizabeth Ann Seton Church in Bear blessed the store before Charles A. Genuardi, president and CEO, had the honor of cutting the ribbon.

"It is truly a whole new way to shop," said Genuardi who is a University of Delaware graduate. "It is our basic belief to serve the customer, exceed their expectations and treat the employees as extended family."

Following the ceremony, the anxiously-waiting customers filed in and received a coupon for a free bag of groceries to the first 300 people. Eyes widened as they saw the large facility and wandered from aisle to aisle with their free coffee in hand.

The new store, which replaces a smaller Genuardi's in the same shopping center, will employ 160 people. According to Genuardi research, the services and amenities provided are what time-pressed consumers want.

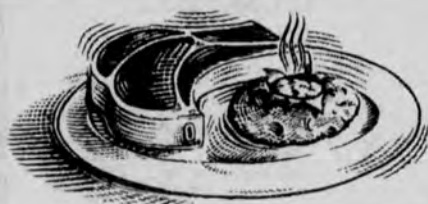

The store has two main entrances—one for quick access to services such as video rental and photo processing. The other entrance opens into a large area of prepared food that can be picked up for take out or eaten in the store cafe.

Many of the people in line said they enjoy the convenience of the prepared food. "I will stop to pick up dinner from time to time," said Lawson.

By 8:15 a.m., people were busy looking over the displays and the store filled with eager shoppers. "They have a first class operation," concluded Johnson.

Glasgow v-ball sweeps local rivals

Dragons earn first win over Newark in many years

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

IT WAS A LONG TIME coming for the Glasgow High volleyball team, but it finally earned a victory over rival Newark.

The Dragons downed the Yellowjackets 15-6, 15-12 Tuesday night to complete an amazing five days in which they also knocked off district rival Christiana.

It was the first time anyone associated with the Glasgow program remembered beating Newark.

"It's about time," said senior captain Kristin Nau. "I don't ever remember beating Newark. I know we won a game but never a match."

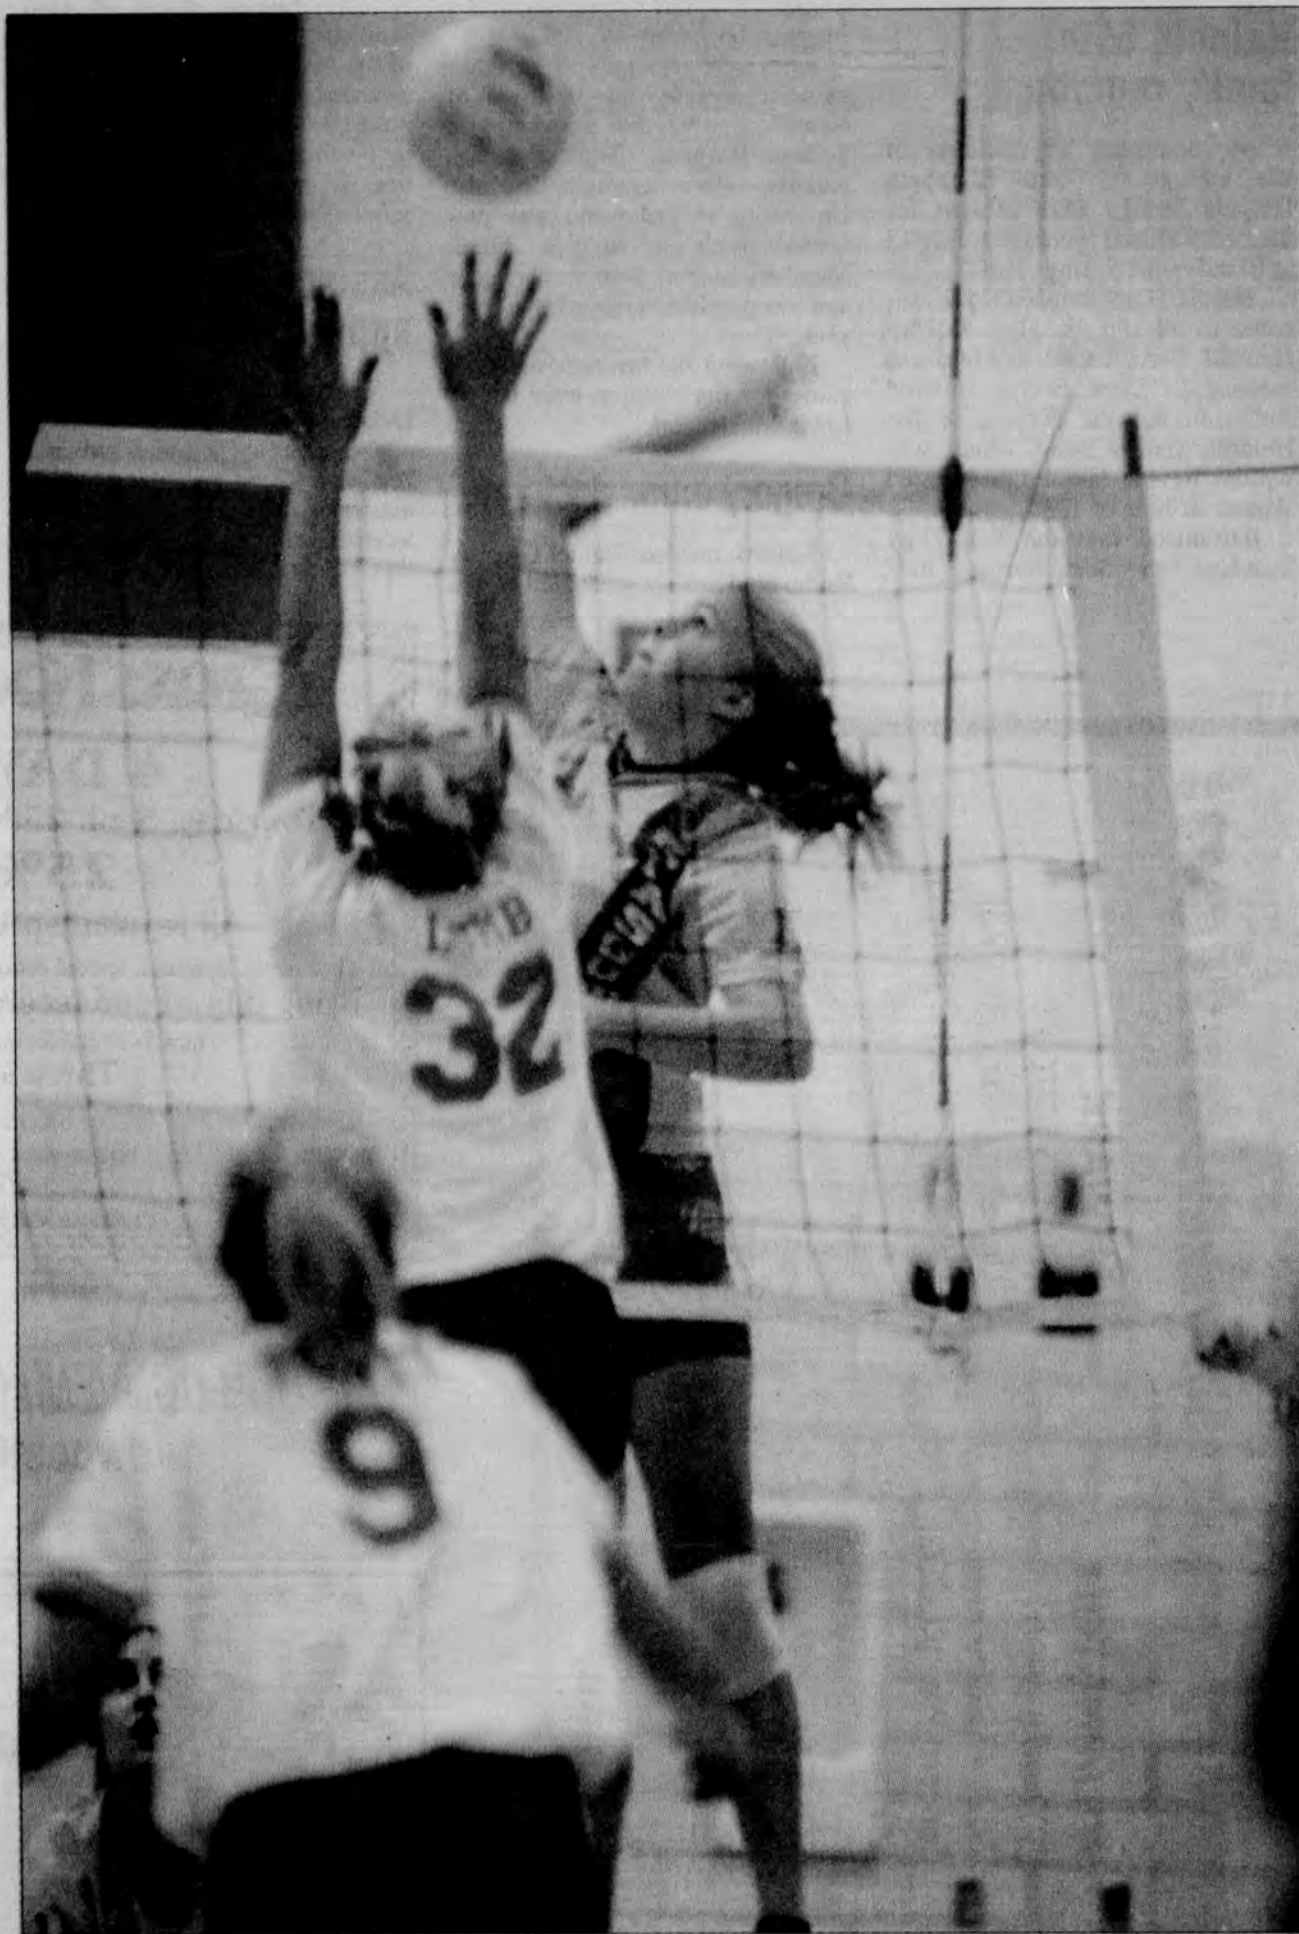

The Dragons dominated the first game en route to a 15-6 victory. The second game started similarly with Glasgow jumping to a 7-0 lead.

Newark, though, fought back to tie the score 8-8 and then went on to a 12-8 lead. Glasgow coach Robin Dunlap called a time out at that point. Following the time out, the Dragons ripped off seven straight points to earn the victory.

"I just wanted to settle them down," the first-year Glasgow coach said. "We weren't making good passes and I told them to concentrate on doing that. [Newark] had the momentum and we also wanted to stop that."

"It was very much like when we jumped out to a big lead against Christiana and they came back. I just wanted our players to keep pushing and pushing." Glasgow was led by Kristin Nau's 12 kills and Natalie Dunlap's 21 assists and two aces. Erin Anderson added five kills while Lashanda Simpson added six blocks. Cheshia Harding also had two aces while Jill Biggs had eight perfect passes and Jamie Sassaman had six.

"We were a little psyched out before the timeout," said senior setter Natalie Dunlap. "We just kept

Glasgow falls in grid opener

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

IT WAS A BAD SIGN when Glasgow High's football game against Caesar Rodney was moved from Glasgow to Newark High because the Dragons' field wasn't ready. It was a bad sign when it took three tries before the opening kickoff finally succeeded. It wasn't a good sign when the scoreboard clock couldn't get started correctly either.

Those ominous signs, however, proved to be nothing compared to the actual playing of the game in which the Riders blanked the Dragons 26-0 in both teams' opener Friday night.

Glasgow had a difficult time unleashing any of its offensive weapons. The Riders shut down Dragons' running back John Adams and did not allow quarterback Ike Wilson much time to find his skilled receivers.

"We just couldn't make a big play," said Glasgow coach Dave Scott. "I really thought we'd be able to do a little more.

"The good thing is that after looking at the tape we saw that most of the mistakes were mental, which can be corrected."

Scott, before the season, had thought getting off to a good start was one of the keys to having a successful year. Despite the loss, he still feels his team can rebound.

"I'm not disheartened," he said. "I actually think our defense played well. [CR] did not complete one pass the whole game."

The Riders went ahead 7-0 late in the first quarter when Aubrey West recovered an Ike Wilson fumble and returned 36 yards for a touchdown.

Caesar Rodney improved the lead to 13-0 late in the second quarter as Anwar Dyer rumbled four yards for a touchdown.

Glasgow appeared ready to get back into the game with a long drive before halftime. The Dragons penetrated to the Riders' 20-yard line with 30 seconds

ATHLETES OF THE WEEK

GLASGOW HIGH

NOT TOO MANY things are valued by coaches more than senior leadership.

Glasgow volleyball coach Robin Dunlap certainly has received that in the first few matches of the season.

The Dragons, led by senior co-captains Natalie Dunlap and Kristin Nau, completed a great week in which they knocked off both Christiana and Newark — their two biggest rivals. Glasgow swept the Vikings Friday night and then came right back to sweep the Yellowjackets Tuesday night.

Dunlap had 21 assists and two aces while Nau had 12 kills and six perfect passes in the victory over Newark. Against Christiana, Dunlap had 19 assists and three aces while Nau had nine kills and nine perfect passes.

It was the first time anyone associated with Glasgow remembered beating Newark in a match.

"Natalie and Kristin have just played great," said coach Robin

Dunlap. "They have provided great leadership on the court and off. They have started for this team for four years now and they push each other and they push the rest of the team. If we're slumping a little bit, they're the ones that get everybody going."

The wins not only were big ones over district and neighborhood rivals, but they propelled the Dragons to the top of the Flight A standings.

"They definitely meant a lot," said Natalie Dunlap of the victories. "They're our two main rivals and it's been a long time since we've beaten them both."

The Dragons, which returned a host of seniors this season, knew they had a chance to be good. The two wins now have confirmed that.

"Definitely," Dunlap said. "We know now that we can be one of the best in the state. We are a close group off the court and I really think that helps us on the court. Hopefully, we can keep getting better."

Local football teams will make year an exciting one

POST GAME

By MARTY VALANIA

ALTHOUGH IT IS STILL VERY EARLY, it appears that the high school football season should be very interesting for teams and fans in our community.

Newark proved to be one of the state's elite with a 31-0 thrashing of Salesianum in its season opener two weeks ago.

St. Mark's opened with big win over Brandywine and came back and battled to a hard-fought tie with Christiana — making the Vikings a team to be reckoned with as well.

The Spartans will take on Newark next week in a huge game for both teams. The week after that will see Newark take on Christiana in another monster game.

In other words three of the state's top four or five teams are right here and these early season tests will go a long way in deciding which teams make the state tournament at the end of the season.

Let's not forget about Caravel. The Bucs are one of the state's best Division II teams. Already off to a 2-0 start, Caravel could be a team that will vie for a state title this season.

Christina District strikes again

Anybody that was at Glasgow's football game against Caesar Rodney last Friday saw that the Riders traveled to Newark in a charter bus.

That's a nice luxury but the school, more likely the booster club, has the money to pay for it.

Newark High, which is playing at Caesar Rodney tonight, would have liked to have done the same thing. It told the district that its booster club would pay any extra money needed to pay for the buses.

In other words, the district would pay whatever it costs to send two school buses — like it does for every team that travels — to Caesar Rodney. It would pay no extra money at all.

In its infinite wisdom the district wouldn't allow it, citing public perception.

My perception is that it doesn't care about its parents who work extra hard in working concession stands or doing fund raisers for their kids. These are the people that volunteered their time and effort to pay the extra money for the kids in this case to ride the charter bus.

It's unbelievable that the same district that doesn't take public perception into account when it comes to changing grades and rounding up grades is worried about a team — without one penny of extra tax money being spent — taking a charter bus.

Speaking of blunders

As of this writing there was some question whether the Glasgow High stadium field would be ready for next Friday night's scheduled football game.

It was suppose to be ready Sept. 12. Then it was suppose to be definitely ready for the Sept. 26 game.

What gives?

Well, for starters, it may have a lot to do with the fact that a project that was suppose to start March 1 didn't actually start until June 1. Do you think those three months had anything to do with this scheduling problem now?

It seems that the Christina School District (I know it's hard to believe) didn't count on the necessary paperwork taking so long to work its way through the state's bureaucracy.

The contractor started the job just two days after being awarded it.

I guess the district wasn't too worried about the perception of having to switch the site of a game just days before it was going to take place.

Hens try to rebound against WCU

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The University of Delaware football team didn't plan on being in a must-win situation so early in the season. But that's exactly what the Blue Hens will face Saturday when they host local rival West Chester — a team they needed a last second touchdown in order to beat last season.

Last week's 35-25 loss to Villanova certainly didn't ruin the Hens' season but it probably has given them more of a sense of urgency. With preseason conference favorite William & Mary, along with a host of other Atlantic-10 conference games, looming on the schedule, it's important that Delaware gets back on the winning track. And, although it's very early in the season, a possible playoff berth could be dashed with a loss to a Division II squad — especially with one less at-large berth available (the Patriot League now gets an automatic bid) this year.

"I told our kids they better buckle up," said West Chester coach Rick Daniels, who holds a 1-7 record against Delaware. "We know they won't be looking past us now — they never do. They'll want to come out and show they're a good football team."

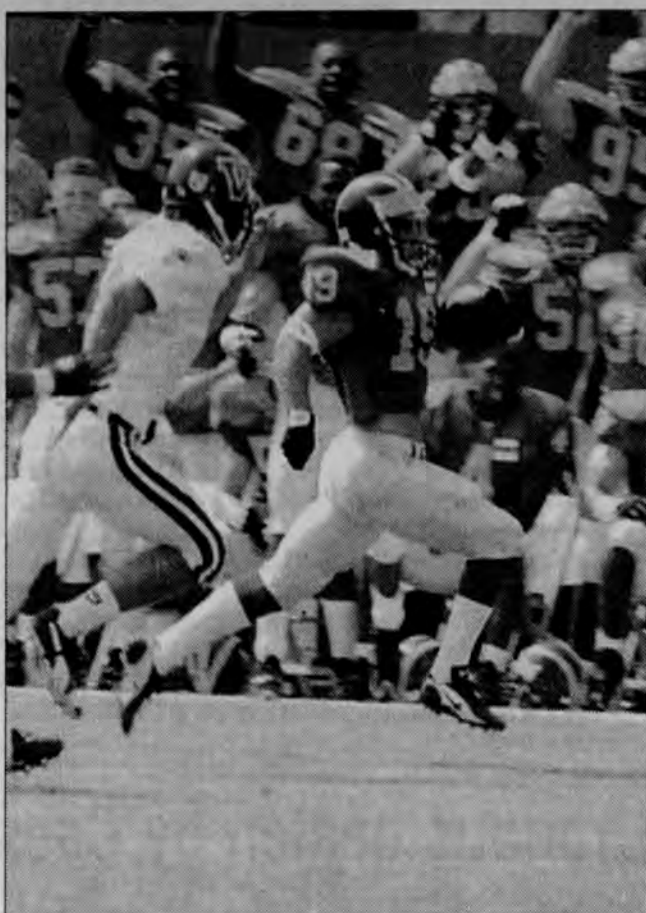

West Chester has had a rough start to its season. The Rams were pounded 64-0 (in a game called just after halftime because of lightning) by Villanova. The Rams also fell 32-26 to perennial Division II power New Haven.

"We're feeling a little better, but not much," Daniels said. "We're still an 0-2 football team. It took us until about the second quarter of the New Haven game to really get over that Villanova loss. But after that I think we started to play a little better."

"I just hope we can come down and hopefully be competitive. We won't just show up and go through the motions, though. We'll be playing to win."

The Rams are led by sophomore quarterback Mike Mitros, who started last year and completed 21-of-37 passes for 208 yards against Delaware. Tailback Thomas Fulton, who has run for 144 yards in two games, also returns.

Delaware coach Tubby Raymond expects to see Mitros put the ball in the air often Saturday — especially after the success Villanova had throwing the ball (24-of-38 for 348 yards) against Delaware.

Eddie Conti returned a kick 90 yards against Villanova.

"They'll may throw the ball 40 times or so," Raymond said.

For its part Raymond hopes his Hens run the ball more effectively than they did against Villanova.

"Everybody points to that third-quarter fumble as the turning point in the game," said Raymond of quarterback Brian Ginn's fumble that led to a Villanova touchdown. "But the real turning point was our inability to run the football."

"We were surprised we couldn't run the football. That is what really hurt us. That meant that their defense knew we were going to pass and they could just pin their ears back and rush."

The Wildcats ended up sacking Ginn nine times in the game.

Both Daniels and Raymond also noted that West Chester's week off will be a big help to the Rams.

"One of our advantages has always been that the other team only has four days to prepare for our Wing-T," Raymond said. "Villanova had 15 days and now West Chester has 14."

"It gives our guys that were hurt a chance to heal," Daniels said. "But it also gives another week to work on defending the Wing-T. That always helps."

Kickoff is scheduled for 1 p.m. at Delaware Stadium.

DFC Blast win first two games

The DFC Blast defeated the AFC Spirit 5-2 Sunday in Dover. The first goal of the game was scored by Todd Brandt on an assist from Tom Boettner. The Blast second goal came on a direct kick by Joel Rossi. A strong defense led by Mark Lloyd, Allen Sylvester, Brandon McClintock and Eric Altemus shut down the offensive attacks by the Spirit.

Second half goals for the Blast were scored by Donald Lynch (assist From Tom Boettner), Chris Carlton (assist Jason Long) and Scott Lyons (assist Chris Carlton). Drew Walstrum played a strong defense to help keepers Andy Camac and Roy Hoskins hold the Spirit to two goals.

DFC Blast 9, Missiles 2 — The Blast won their second game of the day last Sunday to go 3-0 in the Mid-Atlantic. Tom Boettner scored the first goal of the game, assisted by Roy Hoskins, then quickly responded with his second goal of the game with an assist by Bobby Schmid. The third and fourth goals were scored by Todd Brandt (Schmid assist). After the Missiles scored the Blast responded with two more goals in the first half. Brandon McClintock and Jason Long did the scoring.

The second half saw Allen Sylvester score his first goal of the year on an assist by Tom Boettner. The next Blast goal was scored by Bobby Schmid with an assist by Scott Lyons. The Blast finished out its scoring with Boettner tapping in his third goal of the game. Joel Rossi got the assist. Keepers Eric Altemus, Andy Camac and Mark Lloyd held the Missiles to two goals.

Kirkwood Twisters romp to victory

The Kirkwood Twisters under-10 girls soccer team improved their record to 2-0 in the Tri-County League with a 7-0 win over the Philly Tie-Dyes-2.

Katie Attenberger led the offense with four goals while Katie Thomaides, Danielle Weaver and Allyson Olewine scored one each.

Erin Konrad, Anna Lewis, Megan Watson and Weaver all were credited with assists. Ashley Fogleman and Jennifer Piechowski added to the offensive pressure. Lewis, Heather Richardson, Konrad and Beth Kitchen formed a strong defense that didn't allow many good shots on goal. The goalkeeping tandem of Stephanie Kappler and Michele Betty combined to form another shutout.

Glasgow sweeps past Christiana in volleyball action

► V-BALL, from 20

Christiana ran off three consecutive points. After Glasgow took an 11-3 lead, Christiana shaved the deficit to 11-9 sparked by the strong play of Ashley Moe, who would finish the match with 10 perfect passes, eight digs and six assists.

The teams traded points to make it 15-15, but Glasgow scored the final two points with an ace and a kill.

After taking a 9-3 lead in the second game, Christiana was able to draw within 9-7, but couldn't get any closer. The match ended on an errant service return and produced a wild celebration by the Dragons and their fans.

"This was a really big game for us, especially for the seniors," said Natalie Dunlap. "As long as we've been playing them, they've always ended up sort of with the upper hand. We started out strong, then they came back, but we wanted this real bad."

"I thought we played a pretty good game," Nau said. "The offense was there, the defense was there, and when we ran out of substitutions, the people off the bench came in and did a nice job."

Four teams from Flight A in the Blue Hen Conference receive automatic state tournament bids. Dunlap said he expects both teams to be part of that group by season's end.

"Statewide, we still have to beat the St. Mark's, we still have to beat the Newark, and Archmere and Ursuline are tough again," Dunlap said when asked to assess what the victory against Christiana meant.

"We're there in the top five. We've got a real tough game against Newark, so that will let us know. I think the states are kind of like a jump ball for five or six teams. If a team gets hot this year, they can go (all the way)."

Huggins, meanwhile, who has 10 seniors on her roster, said her players have to look in the mirror for some answers.

"I wish I could explain it," she said of the defeat. "You can only coach so much. Now it's going to be mental, and who has the heart, who has the desire, and they've got to make a decision. Are we going to climb the ladder and charge to the end?"

"Or, I don't want to say, give up? I don't think that will necessarily happen, but if a game like this gets to you, it can cost you a season."

saying, "It wasn't over, it wasn't over, they still have to get 15."

The win avenged, not only years of defeats, but also an early season loss in the Alexis I. DuPont Tournament two Saturdays ago.

"[Newark's] been playing together a long time," Dunlap said. "We have some new girls and we need time to play together. I think the longer we're playing together the better we're going to get.

"It means a lot to beat Newark and Christiana. The seniors have been here a long time and haven't been able to do it."

The two wins give Glasgow the early lead in the Blue Hen Conference Flight A standings but the teams will have to play each other again later in the season.

Newark was led by Andrea Clarke, who had six blocks and Meredith McIntosh who had five kills. Paige Cunningham added four kills.

The win improved Glasgow's record to 3-1 while Newark fell to 3-2.

POST PICKS OF THE WEEK

It wasn't a bad effort last week as we correctly picked three of four games. The fourth game was the 6-6 tie between St. Mark's and Christiana. The 3-0-1 mark brings our two-week season record to 6-1-1 — one of our best starts in recent years. Here's a look at this week's games.

NEWARK (1-0) VS. CAESAR RODNEY (1-0) — Friday night at Caesar Rodney, 7:30. The Yellowjackets could not have been more impressive in their 31-0 opening night romp over Salesianum two weeks ago. CR defeated Glasgow by a big margin but made a ton of mistakes (25 penalties). The Riders also lost their two best players — one due to injury and one to suspension. The Pick: Newark 21, CR 7.

GLASGOW (0-1) VS. MIDDLETOWN (2-0) — Friday night at Middletown, 7:30. This is a huge game for the Dragons. They had hoped to get the season off to a good start but that was quickly dashed last week against Caesar Rodney. Coach Dave Scott knows it's important for Glasgow to get a win. The Pick: Glasgow 20, Middletown 19.

CHRISTIANA (0-0-1) VS. DOVER (1-0) — Friday night at Dover, 7:30. The Vikings played very tough in its opening day tie with St. Mark's. Dover had last week off after narrowly defeating Lake Forest. St. Mark's, certainly, is a stronger opponent than Lake. The Pick: Christiana 22, Dover 13.

CARAVEL (2-0) VS. WOODBRIDGE (0-2) — Friday night at Woodbridge, 7:30. The Bucs have looked good in their two victories. Woodbridge has dropped its first two games. Make it three. The Pick: Caravel 28, Woodbridge 14.

ST. MARK'S (1-0-1) VS. DELCASTLE (0-1-1) — Saturday morning at Delcastle, 10:30. Look for the Spartans to bounce back. The Pick: St. Mark's 26, Delcastle 12.

HODGSON (1-1) VS. NORTH EAST (2-0) — Saturday morning at Hodgson, 11. The Silver Eagles earned a big victory over Academy-New Church last week. They have played two close games in their first two games and this week should be no exception. The Pick: Hodgson 28, North East 20.

remaining in the second quarter.

The half, however, ran out before Glasgow could score.

"I think that drive at the end of the first half was important," Scott said. "If we can score there I think it's a whole different game."

Caesar Rodney stretched lead to 20-0 with another touchdown run by Dyer, who later left the game with a broken leg, with 5:20 to play in the third quarter. The Riders tacked on another touchdown to provide the final margin of victory.

"I think our inexperienced really showed," Scott said. "We had people playing for the first time that I think had some first game jitters. They played a lot better in our scrimmages."

The Dragons now turn their attention to Middletown — a Division II playoff team last season — which has won its first two games of the season.

"This week's game [against Middletown] is a very big one," Scott said. "We were in the same situation last year. We were 0-1 and they were 2-0 and lost a tough one. They'll probably take us more seriously and I know we'll take them seriously."

"Playing with a sense of urgency isn't a bad thing. I hope we can do it."

Kirkwood Typhoon earns win

The Kirkwood Typhoon began its NORDEL season with a 3-1 victory over the MOT Impact.

After two very successful tournaments in the past three weeks, the Typhoon played a possession game which helped it control the play in the Impact's defensive zone for the majority of the first half. Striker Kevin Gallagher scored on a break-away on a lead pass from midfielder Paul Lawruk, which gave the Typhoon a 1-0 lead at halftime.

In the second half, the Typhoon goalkeeper Greg Draper was able to turn away shot after shot as the Impact offense came out from the break with thoughts of knotting the score. Midway through the period, Typhoon striker Bobby Janiszewski placed a beautiful head shot behind the Impact keeper on a crossing pass by Justin Savino to extend the lead to 2-0. Kevin Gallagher scored again later in the half to make the score 3-0.

The Impact scored its lone goal on a free kick in the closing minutes.

Home Depot may be coming to Glasgow area

According to Dan Langston of Deaton McCue & Co., Home Depot, America's largest home improvement retailer, is planning to build a 130,000 square-foot store next to the new Genuardi's at People's Plaza in Glasgow. Katrina Blauvelt, Home Depot representative for the northeast region, said she could not confirm the deal until a lease was signed. However, Blauvelt said that the company is looking for a site along the Route 40 corridor in the Newark-Glasgow-Maryland area.

Home Depot opened a 128,000 square-foot store on Churchmans Road Road across from the Christiana Medical Center in January 1996. The Christiana location, employing nearly 200 people, was the company's 499th store.

Langston also reported that the Casho Mill Professional Office Building on Elkton Road in Newark has been sold to Lee Ramunno of Wilmington for $2 million. Major tenants in the facility are TCI Telecommunications and Blue Hen Physical Therapy. The 24,000 square-foot office building, built in the late 1980s, sits on 6.7 acres and presently has approximately 3,000 square feet available for lease.

According to Langston, Ramunno chose the property for its price as well as its "outstanding condition" and the location on Elkton Road.

Patterson-Schwartz sales associates recently attended the Howard Brinton educational seminar held in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. Over 1000 real estate sales professionals from across the country met to share their personal methods of success. Among the areas of discussion were tools for providing quality

APC expands with Churchmans site

Work has begun on construction of a brand new office building for Association Plan Concepts Inc. of Newark, a managing general agent who markets small business insurance programs.

The building site, located on Churchmans Road next to the Delaware Contractors Association, will provide APC with 10,000 square feet of office space. APC had recently expanded its space to 7,500 square feet at its Christina Executive Campus site. The new building is being constructed due to further expansion and growth for APC, as the company has created an alliance with a major life insurance carrier for health insurance benefits on a national level. Occupation is expected in early January 1998.
