Republican Meeting Lauds Coolidge

F. Trubee Davison Speaks at Republican Campaign Opening in Wilmington

Last evening a number of Newark people went to Wilmington to attend the opening of the Republican campaign, held in front of the Young Men's Republican Club.

F. Trubee Davison, Assistant Secretary of War in Charge of Aviation, was the principal speaker. Colonel Theodore Roosevelt and Charles N. Grakelow, of Philadelphia, who were also scheduled to speak, could not be there. Fully 1000 men and women attended the meeting.

Mr. Davison said that the American interest in Coolidge was a human interest and was fostered and would remain constant as long as President Coolidge produced the successful results expected of him. Thus far, Mr. Davison said, Coolidge has earned a deserved and firm support. He urged fair play in the following forceful remarks:

"If the American people during the next two years and particularly this fall, believe in Coolidge and believe he can give to them the kind of government that is going to mean the most to us and to this country as a whole, there is only one thing that they can do about it, and that is to see that he has fair play, and that the next Congress of the United States is dominated by people who believe in the same principles of government in which he believes."

George Chalmers Painfully Hurt

Linesman's Stick Punctures Leg in Game Friday

George (Shorty) Chalmers, former football star of Newark High School, and now a student at Tome, where he is the mainstay of the team, was painfully injured in a peculiar football accident last Saturday.

In the last half of the game, in which Tome was playing Baltimore City College, at Tome, "Shorty" while running with the ball was thrown along the sideline. He fell on the linesman's stick and the spear end ran into his leg to such a depth that considerable force had to be used to pull it out. The linesman had dropped the stick as the play surged toward him and in some manner the point was imbedded in "Shorty's" right leg. After the stick had been pulled out, Chalmers continued playing and finished the game, though the pain was quite severe. Inflammation set in and Saturday he came home, but returned to Tome Monday and expects to be back in scrimmage again by the end of the week.

Previous to the injury, "Shorty" had practically won the game single-handed, by booting two goals, one from the 43 and the other from the 35-yard line.

MRS. CANN OFFICIATES AT COOLIDGE MEETING

Mrs. John Pearce Cann, State Regent of D. A. R., represented Delaware on Monday at the luncheon at the Bellevue-Stratford tendered to President and Mrs. Coolidge, to the governors of the thirteen colonies and their wives and to the State Regents D. A. R. Governor and Mrs. Robinson were unable to be present, and Mrs. Cann officiated at the tree-planting in Independence Square, where a tree was planted by the governor or representative from each of the thirteen original states.

Delaware was given the place of first prominence in the impressive ceremonies and Mrs. Cann was in the first car in the procession. She deposited a spadeful of Delaware soil around the roots of the tree and affixed a tablet on it which set forth the fact that Delaware had placed the tree there.

The Town Council has passed the resolution that, beginning October 10th, lights must be displayed on parked automobiles from one hour after sunset until one hour before sunrise.

Schools Finish Study of Fire

If the fire loss in Newark for the coming year is not decidedly decreased, it will not be the fault of the public school system; for the different grades have just gone through a week of the most intensive study and work on fire and its prevention and control. This Fire Prevention Week program was a phase of the Safety Education plan laid out by Prof. Brinser.

The work on fire prevention was dramatized to give a lasting significance to the details and each course and grade were required to submit practical work on different phases of fire control. The study was not confined to school hours only, but the pupils were required to make studies of home and town conditions and submit reports and filled in questionnaires. This part of the program had a most valuable application in carrying instruction outside of the school. The daily assembly had as part of its program, speeches, discussions on the fire menace and methods of prevention and control. Demonstrations were made of fire fighting apparatus, its use, care and application. Fire drills were in regular order, and in one drill, the High School building was completely emptied in 55 seconds, without any disorder or confusion. Posters, showing ravages and effects of fire were prepared by different classes and shown in the windows of local merchants. A great deal of credit is due to the teaching staff for the practical way in which they applied the data supplied by the Fire Underwriters Association, and the methods they used to make it a dramatic and engrossing study. For example, the later classes studied the heating and lighting methods used by the ancient Romans and made interesting comparisons with present-day equipment.

Monday

Senior High School assembly, under direction of Miss Ann Osborne, three speeches: "The Fire Fund," by Elizabeth Eubanks; "Fire Prevention Week and Its Significance," by Charles Sylvester; "Fire Prevention Week, A Civic Project," by Oscar Manns.

Junior High School assembly, under direction of Miss Ewing; three speeches: "Fire Prevention Proclamation," J. Collins; "Causes and Prevention of Fire," J. Collins.

Saunders Richardson Killed By Train

Mangled Body of Elderly Negro Found Along B. & O. Tracks Mon.

Daylight on Monday morning disclosed a gruesome and pathetic spectacle along the tracks of the B. & O., just west of the Newark station; when the mangled body of Saunders Richardson, colored, was found lying close to that of his inseparable companion, a Scotch collie, "Sandy," as he had been affectionately known to Newark for many years, had evidently been walking the track with his dog, when an east bound train hit them both. His body was picked up at 6.30 a. m., but no information could be obtained as to what train had struck him.

Sandy was about 60 years of age and leaves a number of children and grand children. He was raised on the Pennington place, a few miles outside of Newark, and had worked around here all his life. He was an excellent teamster and had driven at one time or another for all the local coal and lumber yards. He was working for the Newark Lumber Company at the time of his death.

Sandy's dog, which was always with him except when he was at work, was no doubt killed by the same train that struck Sandy. The man's body was taken in charge by Robert T. Jones, undertaker.

Collision On Chapel Street Yesterday

George Gravenor and William Sullivan Cut by Glass

Yesterday morning, about 6.30, a Ford truck driven by William Sullivan, of North street, and owned by Octavio George, collided with a Clover Dairy Company truck, driven by a man named Cahall. Sullivan and George Gravenor, of 14 Cleveland avenue, who was riding with him, were cut about the face by flying glass from the windshield. Sullivan was attended by Dr. Johnson and Gravenor by Dr. Pearson.

Cahall, driver of the Clover Dairy truck, did not report to the authorities, but Sullivan reported to Magistrate Daniel Thompson, who with State Highway Officer Leach, visited the scene of the accident to determine who was responsible. It appears that Sullivan was proceeding down North Chapel street when the Clover Dairy truck turned into Chapel from a small side street by the M. E. Cemetery. It approached on Sullivan's right. Sullivan, unable to stop, struck the larger truck. The Ford suffered a bent front axle, the headlights and windshield were smashed and the radiator and hood badly damaged. Sullivan had a blank warrant sworn out for Cahall, whose name was not taken at the time of the accident. The hearing will be before Magistrate Thompson this evening.

Barclay Armstrong Killed Sunday

Popular Newark Boy Struck by Train at New Brunswick

Newark suffered another severe bereavement on Sunday when Bernard Barclay Armstrong, aged 22, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Armstrong, who live opposite the Newark Country Club grounds, was instantly killed at 10.40 in the morning by a Pennsylvania express train, at New Brunswick, N. J.

Barclay Armstrong was employed by the Railway Maintenance Corporation of Pittsburgh and was inspecting a machine on the tracks that was being used for the removal of ballast between the ties. He had been warned that a freight train was approaching, but noting that it would pass on the track next to the one on which he was working, kept on with his inspection. A fast express bore down on him from the rear, the warning his fellow workers shouted was drowned by the noise of the freight train, and the express struck him a glancing blow. Death was instantaneous.

Young Armstrong had gone to New Brunswick two weeks ago to take the position with the Railway Maintenance Corporation. His uncle, Leo St. Clair Picé, supervisor of that division of the Pennsylvania Railroad, had secured the position for him.

Armstrong graduated from Newark High School four years ago, where he was prominent in athletics, winning letters on the football, baseball and basketball teams. He entered Delaware University, but left early in the first semester to go to work.

For a time he was with the Atlantic Gulf and Pacific Dredging Company when they were dredging the Chesapeake Bay.

Delaware Has Post Of Honor In Legion Parade

Receives Tremendous Ovation As It Heads Big Procession

Six hundred Delaware Legionnaires led the great parade in Philadelphia, yesterday, opening the national convention of the American Legion. Delaware won this honor because she was the first State to ratify the Constitution and because her percentage of new members enrolled over the past year was the largest. "Delaware First in '76 and '26" was their slogan.

Immediately following Vice President Dawes and his official retinue, came the Delaware contingent, headed by State Commander Ennis and the First Engineers Band of Fort DuPont. Then followed the honor guard of 200 picked men dressed in the uniform of the Continental Army. Bringing up the rear of the Delaware delegation was the David E. Harrison Post ambulance, of Smyrna, the first American Legion ambulance in America.

The John G. Emory trophy will be awarded Delaware some time during the convention as a reward for increased membership. It will be accepted by State Commander Howard Ennis, who is a Past National Commander of the American Legion.

Work Started Monday On New Wright Home

Ground Broken Under Supervision of A. L. Ward, Architect

On Monday morning work was started on the colonial residence Ernest B. Wright is building on the corner of Kent Way and Orchard Road. This house, which will be one of the finest in this section, will face the home of J. P. Wright and will adjoin that of George L. Townsend. It will probably take ten months to complete.

The architect, Alfred Lewis Ward, of Philadelphia, was out Monday morning to see the ground broken. The residence will have an 84-foot frontage and a depth of 37 feet; the L, with the servants' quarters, will be in a straight line at the end. A large enclosed porch will fit in at the junction of the L. There will be a large open porch on one end and a brick terrace will run the entire length of the front. In the rear, there will be a porte-cochere. The house will contain fifteen rooms, five baths and a lavatory on the first floor. The third floor will contain four bedrooms and a bath. The construction will be of Sayre-Fisher colonial brick with limestone trimmings. The plumbing and heating will be of the latest type. In the rear, and separate from the house, there will be a three-car garage with a separate heating plant.

The Smyth Construction Company has the contract to erect the house and has placed sub-contracts with the following local concerns: Plumbing, heating and sheet metal work, Daniel Stoll; electric wiring, T. Ray Jacobs.

Car Found on Highway

Last Friday night State Highway Officer Leach found a Nash sedan abandoned along the highway near Roosevelt, with its lights extinguished. He took it to Stiltz garage, where Hugh Martin, 107 Market street, Philadelphia, later identified it as belonging to him.

Newark Odd Fellows Plan Booster Night

Odd Fellowship in Newark will receive a boost next Thursday evening, when grand and subordinate lodge officers of New Castle County and Wilmington, accompanied by delegations of members from the subordinate lodges will pay that lodge a fraternal visit. Efforts are being made by the committee of Oriental Lodge, I. O. O. F., No. 12, to sponsor the biggest gathering of Odd Fellows in the history of the lodge in Newark.

P. M. Dornall, chairman of the committee, is assisted by other members of the lodge and invitations have been extended to various lodge members to attend Thursday night's affair. The Odd Fellows' Hall has been renovated, remodeled and painted and is expected to present a pleasing appearance for this meeting.

Deputy Grand Master Groes and staff will install the following officers for the incoming term: Noble grand, Frank Durnall; vice-grand, Frank Tweed; financial secretary, Edward Stickley; recording secretary, Charles Colmery, and treasurer, J. Earl Dougherty.

Laposki Recovering

Chas. Laposki, who, it was thought, was injured beyond hope of recovery last Wednesday on the Lincoln Highway, is on the road to recovery. Laposki was struck by a machine and suffered a fractured skull and broken arm. Yesterday, at the Homeopathic Hospital, where he is confined, he was allowed up for a short time.

Auto Overtakes Near Newark Thursday

Newark Ambulance Takes Victims to Union Hospital, Elkton

On Thursday afternoon, Miss Mildred Smith, of 1404 Citizens avenue, Baltimore, and Miss Joan Bartley, of Norfolk, Va., were injured painfully but not seriously when a Buick coupe they were driving turned over on the Elkton road near the home of Thomas Riley, which is a short distance south of Newark. Dr. J. R. Downs gave the two women temporary treatment for their injuries, which consisted of cuts and severe bruises and they were later taken to the Union Hospital, Elkton, by Walter Powell, in the Newark ambulance.

Miss Bartley, who was driving, apparently applied the brakes too suddenly when she thought she was going to run into a truck, causing her car to skid and topple over. The car was not badly damaged and was taken to the garage of Walter Powell under its own power.

Joseph Toy, driver of a truck owned by a seminary at Childs, Md., had just previous to the accident stopped in the entrance to the Riley place to repair a defect in his steering gear. He was backing as the two women came by and Miss Bartley, seeing the truck, attempted to stop.

When Miss Smith was interviewed at the Elkton hospital by State Highway Officer Leach, she observed Toy of all responsibility, saying that when Miss Bartley put on the brakes, the car swerved. Officer Leach later tested the car and found the brakes unevenly adjusted, which was probably responsible for the skid. Toy says before he backed into the road he saw the other car coming about two city blocks away, and that he had proceeded about 15 yards when he heard the crash. Miss Bartley has gone home and Miss Smith is still in the Elkton hospital.

AN AUTO COLLISION

A Ford sedan, driven by Miss Grace Ellison, a senior at Women's College, was struck by another car and overturned near Miss Ellison's home at Newport, last Saturday evening about 7 o'clock. Miss Ellison saw the other car approaching, being driven recklessly from side to side of the road, and was unable to avoid the collision.

Miss Ellison was uninjured, but her car was somewhat damaged. No action has been taken, nor has the name of the offender been secured.

NEW SIDEWALKS

New sidewalks are being laid on Orchard Road, so that soon there will be a continuous line to Park Place.

Stubborn Fire In Elkton Saturday

Two Houses Guttured, Half-Dozen Menaced; Newark Dept. Responds

Fire about midnight Saturday was discovered in the house belonging to the Alagia estate on East Main street, Elkton. An alarm was sounded and Singlerly Fire Company responded with its full equipment and fought the stubborn blaze with great handicaps. It was with difficulty that the firemen made any headway, except in the rear of the building, on account of the dense smoke rolling from the windows. After fighting the blaze for about an hour some one got busy on the telephone and called the Newark, New Castle, Middletown, North East, Perryville and Chesapeake City fire companies and in thirty minutes seven companies were on the scene at work.

By that time the fire had gained headway, but was confined to the inside of the house occupied by William Bolton and family and Mr. and Mrs. William Fowler. It burned its way through the weather boarding into the adjoining house owned and occupied by Harry D. Henry. At one time it looked as if the entire row of frame houses would be a prey to the flames, but the firemen played several streams of water on the adjoining buildings and in that way saved them. The firemen worked until about three o'clock Sunday morning, and are to be congratulated on their heroism and the way in which they worked to save adjoining properties.

The origin of the fire is not definitely known but is supposed to have been from a defective flue. Some furniture and personal effects of the Bolton and Fowler families were saved. Losses estimated by all of the parties concerned, to be about $10,000, with only partial insurance.

The fire adjured the store of Henry M. Biddle, which was not burned, and was only about 100 yards from the Elkton gas works, and brave efforts were made to keep the fire from the latter place.

When the call came to Newark the local department responded with their pumper, manned by William Cunningham, driver; Chief Ellison, Shellander, Noll, Tweed, Tasker, Clancy, Bolton and Gregg.

Early Monday morning, Andrew Lewis Fisher, aged 77, died at his home on East Main street. Mr. Fisher had been in poor health for some time, but his death was a sudden shock to his large circle of friends.

Mr. Fisher was born near Newark and had lived here most of his life. He had been in the plumbing and heating business. For many years he was prominent in Delaware politics, and served in the Legislature in 1911. He had served as town assessor as well as holding other town offices.

Mr. Fisher is survived by his wife, who, before her marriage, was Miss Mollie Wright, sister of the late S. J. Wright. The funeral will be from his home this afternoon. Interment private.

Dairy Products Special Scheduled For November 1 to 20—Visit Delaware

Interesting exhibits which will show school children in a fascinating way the eight rules for "Playing the Game of Health" will be pictured in the Dairy Products Special of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, scheduled for November 1st to 20th, through the following counties in Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland and West Virginia.

Pennsylvania—Somerset, Fayette, Westmoreland, Washington, McKean, Forest, Clarion, Butler, Lawrence, Allegheny, Chester.

Delaware—New Castle county. Maryland—Cecil, Harford, Carroll, Frederick, Montgomery, Washington, Allegany, Garrett.

West Virginia—Marion, Harrison, Lewis, Randolph, Upshur, Grant, Hardy, Hampshire, Morgan.

This exhibit, arranged by specialists from the National Dairy Council, health and child welfare organization at Chicago, will have everything from ferris wheels to miniature life-like dolls, which are the pictures of health, to interest hundreds of kiddies who will daily attend the open train.

As they walk through the special car which is equipped by the Dairy Council they will find Brownies who are busy cleaning up to show the children just how they are able to keep so healthy that they never seem to grow old. A large ferris wheel will be going 'round and 'round and on it will be the cutest little boys and girls, only eight inches high, who will be swinging away, some with bottled milk, fruit and vegetables, others with glasses of cold water and others who are almost asleep to get the rest which they need so badly, while some are enjoying the merry ride of the ferris wheel.

Further on in the car the children will clap their hands when they see pictures of children just like themselves, who are happy and healthy because they are "Playing the Game of Health." Every child will be glad to take away one of the special little souvenirs which will be given to each child who sees the train to take home and color just as they please. Each child will be given a folder containing the following health rules:

1. Brush teeth every day.
2. Eat fruit every day.
3. Drink at least four glasses of water every day.
4. Eat some vegetable besides potato every day.
5. Use at least four glasses of milk every day.
6. Play part of every day out of doors.
7. Take a bath oftener than once a week.
8. Sleep many hours with the windows open.

Then there will be people who will tell the children stories which they can remember and take home to tell their fathers and mothers and other children.

Any child who misses the Dairy Products Special will be disappointed when he hears the other children in the neighborhood telling about the many interesting features which they saw on it. It will be a veritable circus day for those who attend.

Del-Mar-Va Eastern Shore Association Broadcasting From Station WJZ

The first two of the series of five one-hour programs publicizing the Del-Mar-Va Eastern Shore, to be broadcasted from station WJZ, New York, have been completed.

Under the arrangement with the Radio Corporation of America officials, who own the WJZ broadcasting station, the Del-Mar-Va Eastern Shore programs are scheduled to begin each Monday night, promptly at 8:30 o'clock, eastern standard time, and continue for one hour. This period of the evening is rated as the most valuable hour on each nightly program. Of the ten million radio owners throughout the country a recent survey shows that practically eighty percent are tuned in by eight o'clock in the evening, and continue to enjoy the programs from that time until about 10 p. m. This means that the Del-Mar-Va hour goes on the air when practically every radio fan within reach of WJZ will hear about the world famous Eastern Shore.

Officials of the Del-Mar-Va Association express gratification in having been able to secure a group of noted recording artists, for their programs. Dale Wimbrow, the Del-Mar-Va songster, who has won his way to a sound position in broadcasting, record making and professional theatrical circles in New York City, will feature the Del-Mar-Va hour. Mr. Wimbrow is supported by the Carl Fenton Recording Orchestra of fourteen pieces, who will be known as the Eastern Shore Serenaders. Walter Hinecheon, the leader, is recognized as one of the best recording directors in the country. The Misses Gladys Rice and Jane Smith are both professional singers of unusual ability and have been associated with several of the foremost attractions in legitimate New York theatrical productions. Douglas Stanbury, tenor, is a vocal and talking artist widely known and holds a high place among those sought by broadcasting stations.

The first program, offered on October fourth, was "A Cruise Down the Chesapeake." Too much speaking is not permitted over the radio; but between numerous vocal, orchestral, and other musical numbers the story of the Eastern Shore will be told in dialogue and topical songs. The entertainment is so well balanced and the "continuity" so carefully prepared that there will not be a single dull moment during the Del-Mar-Va hour. Announcement will be made at the conclusion of each Del-Mar-Va program that a handsomely illustrated book, descriptive of the Eastern Shore will be given in answer to requests.

The modern Gamaliel should teach ethics. Ethics is the science of human duty. Arithmetic tells man how to count his money; ethics how he should acquire it, whether by honesty or fraud. Geography is the map of the world; ethics is a beautiful map of duty. This ethics is not Christianity, it is not even religion; but it is the sister of religion, because the path of duty is in full harmony, as to quality and direction, with the path of God.—Professor Swing.

ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR IN WHITE HOUSE

Repairs and remodeling operations on the White House included the installation of electric apparatus to replace artificial ice in the two-year-old icebox. When Washington, Adams and Jefferson occupied the first White House, before it was burned by the British in 1812, the perishable foods were preserved in a cellar twenty feet in diameter and fifteen feet deep, packed with natural ice cut from the Potomac River. Then iceboxes constructed of crude lumber, merely caulked, were used until near the end of Lincoln's first administration, when an affair of two compartments, insulated with granulated cork and charcoal, was installed.—National Republic.

If a crooked stick is before, you need not explain how crooked it is. Lay a straight one down by the side of it, and the work is well done. Preach the truth, and error will stand abashed in its presence.

There would be few enterprises of great labor or hazard undertaken if we had not the power of magnifying the advantages which we persuade ourselves to expect from them.—Dr. Johnson.

The desire of excellence is the necessary attribute of those who excel. We work little for a thing unless we wish for it. But we cannot of ourselves estimate the degree of our success in what we strive for; that task is left to others. With the desire for excellence comes, therefore, the desire for approbation. And this distinguishes intellectual excellence from moral excellence; for the latter has no necessity of human tribunal; it is more inclined to shrink from the public than to invite the public to be its judge.—Bulwer-Lytton.

Rome built the finest roads of history. The Roman roads are, some of them, still in existence and use, after 2,000 years. But there has been, in the past quarter of a century, a greater revival of interest in highway construction than has occurred since the Appian Way was built.

It is interesting to contrast the methods and the motives of the Romans, in their highway activity, with the methods and motives of the highway construction of today. Rome built her roads in order to hold her empire together—by force. She built roads in order that she might move large bodies of troops quickly and effectively to points where insurrection from within, or invasion from without, was threatened.

The Americans have much the same idea in building the roads which cover the country today. The modern roads are intended to cement a nation and an empire—but not by the use of force.

The Americans realize that familiarity with the various sections of the country, results in understanding, appreciation, and the establishment of unity. Probably troops will never move over the Victory Highway, which stretches from coast to coast, in order to subdue an uprising within the country. But the fellowship of the man in New York City and the man in Oakland or San Francisco, will be strengthened and the nation as a whole knit closer together, because from the Atlantic coast and the Pacific coast, "the twain have met" and have learned to know and like each other. Without good roads, this would not have been possible. The Americans have built a more unified and permanent empire with their good roads, than the Romans with theirs—all on account of the difference in motives.

The Food Value of Pineapple

As pineapple is being produced in large quantities in the Hawaiian Islands and is gaining a prominent place on the American bill of fare, it is attracting the attention of food specialists, scientists and doctors. In fact, it is greatly to the credit of our colleges and universities today that they maintain a department where the food value of any product is tested, and where the most careful experimental work is carried on with any food that the American people like to eat.

Such experiments have been performed on Hawaiian pineapple, and the following interesting figures have resulted: Moisture, sugars, protein, crude fibre, mineral matter, and fruit acids in the order named are found in

The Parent-Teacher Association of Hillside School, near Thompson Station, will hold a pie social on Thursday evening, October 21, 1926. Each lady, married or single, is expected to furnish a pie. There will also be a chicken or a ham. Completely a social affair.

Since the training content of any food is regarded of great importance in securing a judgment of its dietary value, various experiments on rats and guinea pigs are performed to determine this point.

These experiments have proved beyond question that the pineapple takes an unusually high rank as an all around source of vitamins,—this applies to both the canned pineapple and the fresh—just after it has been picked at the right stage of ripeness.

Thus the American housewife is justified in her belief that canned pineapple is an article of diet of substantial food value and is not to be regarded as a luxury of pleasing flavor only.

The desire of excellence is the necessary attribute of those who excel. We work little for a thing unless we wish for it. But we cannot of ourselves estimate the degree of our success in what we strive for; that task is left to others. With the desire for excellences comes, therefore, the desire for approbation. And this distinguishes intellectual excellence from moral excellence; for the latter has no necessity of human tribunal; it is more inclined to shrink from the public than to invite the public to be its judge.—Bulwer-Lytton.

Transcontinental Memorial Motor Route

Rome built the finest roads of history. The oman roads are, some of them, still in existence and use, after 2,000 years. But there has been, in the past quarter of a century, a greater revival of interest in highway construction than has occurred since the Appian Way was built.

It is interesting to contrast the methods and the motives of the Romans, in their highway activity, with the methods and motives of the highway construction of today. Rome built her roads in order to hold her empire together—by force. She built roads in order that she might move large bodies of troops quickly and effectively to points where insurrection from within, or invasion from without, was threatened.

The Americans have much the same idea in building the roads which cover the country today. The modern roads are intended to cement a nation and an empire—but not by the use of force.

The Americans realize that familiarity with the various sections of the country, results in understanding, appreciation, and the establishment of unity. Probably troops will never move over the Victory Highway, which stretches from coast to coast, in order to subdue an uprising within the country. But the fellowship of the man in New York City and the man in Oakland or San Francisco, will be strengthened and the nation as a whole knit closer together, because from the Atlantic coast and the Pacific coast, "the twain have met" and have learned to know and like each other. Without good roads, this would not have been possible. The Americans have built a more unified and permanent empire with their good roads, than the Romans with theirs—all on account of the difference in motives.

What we call genius may, perhaps, in more strict propriety, be described as the spirit of discovery. Genius is the very eye of intellect and wing of thought. It is always in advance of its time. It is the pioneer for the generation which it precedes. For this reason it is called a seer and hence its songs have been prophecies.—Sims.

The Food Value of Pineapple

As pineapple is being produced in large quantities in the Hawaiian Islands and is gaining a prominent place on the American bill of fare, it is attracting the attention of food specialists, scientists and doctors. In fact, it is greatly to the credit of our colleges and universities today that they maintain a department where the food value of any product is tested, and where the most careful experimental work is carried on with any food that the American people like to eat.

Such experiments have been performed on Hawaiian pineapple, and the following interesting figures have resulted:

Moisture, sugars, protein, crude fibre, mineral matter, and fruit acids in the order named are found in

Register on the 16th

Saturday, October 16, will be the last registration day of the year for Delaware voters. It would seem that no voter would need to be reminded of that fact, unless he had availed himself of the privilege on previous registration days. However, dates do slip one's mind in this busy world, so please repeat the date, Mr. Voter, October 16.

Qualified Drivers

The State Conference on Street and Highway Safety are planning to discuss a probable amendment to the State driving license law. This amendment will probably require an examination of applicants for operators' licenses, and revocation of license for offenses other than driving while intoxicated.

Such an amendment will fill a long-felt need in the traffic situation by striking at the root of one of the greatest of highway menaces; the driver who is physically, mentally or emotionally unfit safely to operate an automobile. Under the existing law, which requires only that the applicant write his name and pay his fee, it is certain that there is a large number of such persons driving cars in this State. With the accident records so appalling, any law that will, in any degree, mitigate the dangers of street and highway travel, is deserving of whole-hearted support from all factions in the State, and there is nothing in this proposed amendment that will work a hardship on any person actually qualified to drive a car.

The second portion of the proposed amendment, which relates to revocation of licenses, will, if put through, curb the wealthy speeder who can easily afford to pay any fines he may incur for privilege of endangering the lives of other motorists.

Delaware, with its efficient policing of its fine roads, needs only to provide a few sharp legal tools to make its street and highway situation the equal in safety of any state in the Union. Any opposition to such an amendment as proposed, must necessarily come from persons who are a conscious and unfeeling menace to safe travel.

Printed Treasures

We have been greatly interested in the search for old Bibles that is being conducted by the Wilmington Sunday Star. Not only have many ancient Good Books been brought to light, but readers have become more interested in old printed matter of all kinds. Deeds, newspapers, magazines, almanacs, placards, diaries, scrapbooks, and samplers, stored away for years, have been brought out and carefully read. Aside from the historical value of many old publications, there is always the human interest—the comparison of modes of living, and the political and social activities of the day.

It is, of course, impractical, to keep stacks of old newspapers and magazines, year after year, but we feel sad to think of the few that have been preserved. There is bound to come a time, to each of us, where the older generation has passed on, when we shall long for some communion with the past. We shall then properly value old books, old clippings, old letters.

If the possessor of bits of old printed matter should ever find it a care longer to preserve them, he should hesitate long before destroying them or placing them in careless hands. There is always the opportunity of learning their real value through the libraries, where they may be also properly cared for.

I Am the Newspaper

"I was born in the silent forests far from the ports of men. I have watched the Redman hunt his game by day and great animals fight to death by the aurora's pale glare!"

"The woodman's axe, an icy stream, a merciless shrieking of wheels and knives, terrific heat and pressure, and I am a great white ribbon, spun into a roll, only to be drawn out again through the battering, thundering jaws of a printing press."

"But in the hands of all men I am now an inspiration, a clairvoyant, a historian. My sides are covered with magic symbols of a gigantic significance."

"I am the voice of the nation; the light of the world. When I go forth I bear the decrees of the greatest brains and threats of the strongest mob forces of my time."

"I tell my story; a king topples from his throne, and millions of soldiers march gallantly to an unknown death. I sing their requiem and it is known in the farthest corners of the earth, and in its deepest seas."

"I weave dreamer's thoughts into spans of steel over great torrents, and build spires of stone to shelter men's gods. I speak, and continents are served and worlds are cemented."

"I tell my tales of the prince and the pauper. My anthems are of the free and the brave; I chant the song of the wage slave in dusty noon; I bring comfort to tired eyes and jaded minds by feverish midnight."

"I am feared by all men, yet wooed and courted like a fickle muse."

"Where men have gathered together I am. And until the last man has gone home to the Great Beyond, I shall be."

Coming Poultry Tour Creates Much Interest

Over fifty prominent poultrymen have volunteered to serve on the state committee to complete plans and arrangements for the state-wide poultry tour which is scheduled for November 3rd and 4th. W. V. Cosden, of Dover, is chairman of this committee.

These committeemen, together with H. S. Palmer, Extension Poultryman, University of Delaware, New Castle County Agent R. O. Bausman, Kent County Agent Russell E. Wilson, and Sussex County Agent M. C. Vaughn are doing their best to make this tour a big event in the Poultry Development Program for this section of the country. Each member of this large committee will make a list of all the farmers in his community who are really interested in chickens. This list will be used in advertising the tour, and later by the Extension Poultryman of the University of Delaware for mailing out such literature on poultry keeping as he may have for distribution. These committeemen will also encourage their neighbors to attend the tour for its educational and advertising advantages, and sell tickets for the Blue Hen State Chicken Banquet which will be held at Milford on Thursday evening, November 4th. Mr. H. R. Lenex, of Milford, is chairman of the Banquet Committee.

Eight farms will be visited on the tour, and at each farm certain special features of poultry management have been selected for observation. The itinerary will include the farms of Karl J. Karbaum, and W. V. Cosden, in the Dover area; O. A. Newton & Son, Bridgeville; E. W. Palmer, Delmar; Marvel Poultry Farm and A. C. Jones Poultry Farm, near Georgetown; W. D. Kibler and the International Egg-Laying Contest at Milford.

Poultry raising is one of the leading agricultural industries in Delaware, and this is especially true of the two lower counties where the sales of eggs and chickens are the chief sources of income from many of the farms. According to the United States Census for 1925, the poultry industry as a whole resulted in more income to the farmers of Delaware than any other one type of farming.

During the year 1925, the hens in Delaware produced 6,380,888 dozens of eggs with a total market value of $2,360,929. In addition to these eggs, 1,582,186 chickens were raised last year at a value of $1,582,186, making the total value of the poultry industry of our state amount to almost four million dollars. What Delaware poultrymen need most now is to advertise their product. This statewide tour will do much toward advertisement.

The following poultrymen in the state comprise the committee on general arrangements for this tour:

Norval Pepper, J. J. Kinder, C. C. Allen, A. M. Tarr, R. E. Gordy, and Robert Boyce, of Seaford; Miss Lily Melson and Warren C. Newton, of Bridgeville; Clarence Bunting, of Selbyville; E. A. Prettyman, Farmington; and Mrs. Gardner, of Selbyville; S. E. Evans, Millville; John S. Dobson, Millsboro, Albert Lecates, Frankford; Everett Long, Dagsboro; E. W. Palmer and Frank Pilgrim, of Delmar; Miss Mary Lockerman, Greenwood; Dallas Kibler, Lincoln City; E. T. Vaughn, Fred Walls, of Harbeson; Asa Reynolds, John Reynolds and Byron Pepper, of Georgetown; Elmer Dickerson and Mrs. S. M. Reynolds, of Milton; A. E. Nunn, B. B. Vinyard, Gus Swanson and Frank B. Austin, of Milford; Ed Todd, Viola, Mrs. D. F. Kinnamon, Dover; W. V. Cosden, Dover; J. H. Coode, Felton; Charles Kohout, Antton Vodvarka, of Hartly; Harry Roberts, George C. Burge, Middletown; W. C. Matthews and Wilson Pierson, of Hockessin; E. H. Donovan, Brenford; Harry C. Dance, New Castle; C. P. Dieck, Stanton; James Jackson and Wallace Cook, of Newark; Norman Elliott, Laurel; and T. W. Hudson, of Ocean View. Others will no doubt join the list.

DRIVE FOR GIRL RESERVES' WORK

Summer vacation has become a pleasant memory. The time has arrived for earnest work to begin. No tasks are more important and far-reaching in their results than those pertaining to the careful development and wise guidance of our young people.

The organization that fosters this work among the girls is the Y. W. C. A. Its insignia is the triangle which symbolizes the three-fold nature of the child, viz: the physical, the mental, and the spiritual. The work is so planned that it stimulates sound growth along these three lines.

The Y. W. C. A. is undenominational.

ALL KINDS OF PEOPLE

The Girl Who Spoiled the Picture

I was with the doctor on his morning round and we had just stopped in the driveway of a charming bungalow on the outskirts of the city. The doctor promptly seized his bag and rushed into the house. I sat in the car and admired the garden. The shrubbery impressed me most. There was a high, thick hedge surrounding the premises and the lawn was dotted with clumps of tall bushes.

Suddenly a young girl appeared around the corner of the house. She paused beside a bush of dark, dense foliage and I gave a little inward gasp as I saw a vivid red frock which brought out the startling whiteness of her skin and the dusky blackness of her long curling hair.

She did not see me at all. Her entire attitude was one of expectancy and half-fearful eagerness. She was really the loveliest looking creature I had ever seen and in two short minutes may ever-ready imagination wove a dozen stories about her. She would be a charming heroine, I thought, sweet, modest, girlish, shy. She would be simple and unaffected and would win the hearts of old and young alike with her candor and unselfishness, her youth and eager joy in living. It seems foolish that such a mere slip of a girl should inspire me to such raptures, but she was such an absolute type of little lady sweet sixteen.

The postman's whistle interrupted my dreaming. He was almost at the gate when I realized that he was the one for whom the girl was waiting. I hastily added a hero who wrote letters to my mental story and awaited further developments with interest. Alas! the postman continued his way serenely down the street, without even noticing the girl in red. She called after him harshly, "There is no mail for me?" "No, none today," "Are you sure?" she questioned, sharply. "No mail today," he answered doggedly.

The doctor came out of the house at that moment. "Forgot you today, eh?" he said teasingly.

The girl turned, and I saw her full face. Where was my charming little lady? She was a spoilt, sullen, peevish child. I could almost see her saying when she was very small, "If you don't tional. All girls are most cordially welcome. Parents, urge your girls to join one of the classes that are now being organized—one under the able leadership of Mrs. Wheelless and the other under the equally efficient guidance of Mrs. VanKeuren.

Miss Martha Good has proved herself to be a splendid director of the work for the entire State of Delaware. Miss Good, who gives her entire time to this enterprise, is, and rightly so, a paid worker. Newark's quota of the expenses incident to carrying on the work of the Y. W. C. A. is $350 per year. Last year we fell short about $60, which means that we need $110 more this year than was subscribed last year. So when the solicitor calls on you, as she soon will, won't you please help all you can?

If anyone is overlooked, phone Mrs. W. A. Wilkinson, chairman.

Newark P.T.A.

Twenty teachers and forty parents attended the first meeting of the year of the Newark Parent-Teacher Association, last evening, in the Assembly Room of the High School. Mrs. Guy Hancock, president of the organization, presided. After a short business meeting, Miss Harding, of Women's College faculty, played a selection on the flute. Miss Harding was accompanied by Miss Gillespie, instructor in music at Women's College. John S. Shaw, president of the school board, introduced the new members of the faculty. Professor Brinser, superintendent of the school, made a short address. Kennedy Fell, accompanied by Miss Alice Fell, gave a vocal solo. Miss Nell Wilson played the piano. The rest of the evening was given over to a get-acquainted party.

play such and such a game, I'm going home and tell Mother," She now answered the doctor petulantly, "No, he didn't forget. He was to have written to say what time he was coming. He just isn't coming, now, because I told him Mother didn't feel well. I think it's a mean shame she had to go and get sick."

I never make up stories about people anymore. It's too disillusioning.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED

We quote from an undated newspaper clipping found in an old scrap book: "The College (Old Delaware) building has been undergoing radical improvements during the summer vacation, as a result of the appropriation of $8,000 by the State Legislature during its last session. New and excellent floors have been laid in most of the rooms of the building, including all the students' sleeping rooms in the upper stories. New and excellent floors have been laid in most of the rooms of the building, including all the students' sleeping rooms in the upper stories. New windows and doors with those comparatively useless articles, locks, have superseded the old battered doors and windows. The books in the library have been rearranged and a handsome Brussels carpet put underfoot, but it remains to be seen whether the students will derive any benefit from all this. Over the main front door, from the porch to the main hall which was formerly occupied by an unsightly board partition, has been placed a large plate of glass, allowing the entrance of much more light and adding considerably to the general effect from the exterior of the building. The back campus, which old students will remember as their sporting ground, has been cut through by the Baltimore and Philadelphia extension of the B. & O. railroad, and consequently rendered useless for the aforesaid purpose."

Head Of Christiana Church Arranging 224th Anniversary

Hundreds Expected To Attend Services Next Sunday In
One Of Delaware's Oldest Institutions; Plan
Morning And Afternoon Services

The two hundred and twenty-fourth anniversary of the founding of Head of Christiana Church will be observed next Sunday, October 17.

At the old church, situated along Nottingham pike, about two miles west of Newark, will be held two services, one at 11 a.m., the second at 2 p.m. Miss Josephine Kaye, an ordained minister of the Gospel, will make addresses at both services. Miss Kaye is also a doctor of medicine and will go soon to a foreign field as a medical missionary. She is temporarily speaking for the "Pocket Testament League," under the auspices of the Presbyterian Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur B. Wilson, of Wilmington, will direct the singing. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson are very popular with the Head of Christiana congregation.

Reverend John McMurray is pastor of the church.

NO SECRETS TO MAKING PERFECT CUP OF COFFEE

Can Be Achieved By Following A Few Simple Rules Says Famous
Cooking Expert

By Mildred Maddock Bentley, Formerly Director of Good Housekeeping
Institute

What is the secret of first-rate coffee—the kind that starts the day right—that makes you feel "like a million dollars"?

Literally hundreds of women—and a surprising number of men—have asked me this question in one form or another. And it's an important one—for what can be more blighting to domestic happiness than a cup of muddy coffee or coffee improperly "creamed"? And, on the contrary, what can be more exhilarating than a good cup—fragrant, golden, delicious?

Luckily there's no hidden secret about making and serving the perfect coffee—it's just a matter of minding your p's and q's and following a few simple directions.

Selection of Coffee

There are many excellent brands of coffee in the market—the choice of one of these is largely a matter of individual taste. But I do want to say that usually coffee in the bean retains its flavor longer than in the ground form—so, if possible, buy the whole beans and grind your coffee fresh for each meal. If, however, the breakfast hour—or fifteen minutes—is too hectic to admit of this extra step, at least keep your ground coffee in an air tight container—a glass fruit jar for instance. And it's well to remember that the more finely the coffee is ground, the easier it is to extract its full strength and flavor—consequently finely-ground coffee is economical and time-saving.

The Coffee Pot

Cummeisours maintain that coffee brewed in a metal pot has a less delicate flavor than in a container of glass, stone-ware or agate. Whatever kind of coffee pot you prefer—it should be scoured frequently and occasionally "boiled out" with water to which a pinch of baking soda has been added—then rinsed, dried, and left uncovered.

If a percolator is used, the pipe should be carefully washed every day with a brush to remove all scum from the preceding brew.

For drip coffee, if you do not have a special drip coffee pot, an ordinary one equipped with a double cheese-cloth bag will serve the purpose. The cheesecloth should be washed in cold water after using and renewed at least once a week. Keep the bag always moist.

The "Creaming"

This I consider quite as important as the actual brewing. Good coffee can so easily be spoiled by using cream of inferior quality or the "top of the bottle" if carelessly poured off. In my study of food habits, I am finding that every year more and more people prefer sweetened condensed milk in their coffee. You see this kind is twice as rich and creamy as ordinary milk and furthermore already contains sugar, thus serving the additional purpose of sweetening the coffee. Try it for a few days, and I think you will agree that the condensed milk gives a delightfully rich, smoothly blended drink, bringing out the real coffee flavor. And of course it is very convenient, as it keeps fresh without ice even after the can is opened—and the cost is extremely moderate.

Now as to the actual methods of brewing. There are several and your choice is entirely a matter of individual taste. If the directions are carefully followed, any of the methods will yield the "perfect cup of coffee"—mellow in flavor, with a delicate, fragrant aroma, free from sediment and of a dark golden hue.

Boiled Coffee

Rinse the pot with hot water, put the coffee in the pot—one rounded tablespoon of medium-ground coffee to each cup of boiling water, with an additional spoon "for the pot." Add a little white of egg, or crushed egg shell and about one-fourth cup of cold water, stirring briskly. Add the boiling water, place the coffee pot over heat, and bring to a full boil. Place on back of the stove or over low heat for about ten minutes to settle, before serving. Do not allow the coffee to become unsettled by careless pouring.

Percolated Coffee

Use one cup of finely-ground coffee to six cups of boiling water. Place the coffee in the strainer in the upper part of the pot and let the water bubble up through the tube, percolating through the coffee into the lower part, until the coffee is of the desired strength, five minutes being the usual time required. Serve at once. Coffee made in a percolator is not good if allowed to cool after the required strength is reached.

Drip Coffee

Heat the pot by rinsing in hot water, and wet the strainer. Measure carefully the coffee (finely-ground) allowing one rounded tablespoon to each cup of water. Place in the drip-medium and pour boiling water through the coffee very slowly. Cover and let stand to drip through and serve immediately. Do not allow the brew to cool. If service is delayed, place the pot in or over hot water. Never reheat by placing over the fire.

Steeped Coffee

In making steeped coffee use one rounded tablespoon of coffee to each cup of water used, with an additional spoon for the pot. Add cold water. Place over the fire and bring quickly to the boiling point. Either let it stand for a moment to settle or add a little cold water.

Remember—the best coffee will lose its flavor if allowed to stand. Coffee should always be freshly made and served piping hot, as soon as it is brewed. If necessary to let stand, the pot should be tightly covered and the spout closed by stuffing with soft cloth or paper, so that none of the aroma and flavor may be lost.

Century Club Notes

At the meeting of the Newark New Century Club on Monday, October 11th, the resignation of the recording secretary, Mrs. B. F. Proud, was respectfully accepted. Mrs. William H. Evans will act as secretary until a new one is named. A report of the proceedings of the Executive Board, at a meeting held at the home of the president, Mrs. A. D. Cobb, on Friday, October 8th, was given. The advisability of furnishing milk to undernourished school children was discussed, and the matter referred to the proper committees. The Club-house chairman, Mrs. H. L. Bonham, had asked for an assistant and a committee to help in her work. Mrs. Ernest Wright was named assistant and they will choose their own committee.

The date of the annual club supper is set for Tuesday, November 16th; the hospitality committee will see that a delicious supper is provided. The ways and means committee will take care of all other details. Mrs. George Rhodes is chairman and asks for the co-operation of all club members. The success of the evening will be augmented by the lavishness of the supplies of cake, candy, and needlework, which will be for sale in the drawing-room of the clubhouse.

Mrs. Richard Couch was named "subscription chairman" for the "Federation Bulletin." This little state paper costs but 35 cents a year for four issues and contains in condensed form all that the State Executive Board and Division Chairmen are trying to do and is a worthwhile link between individual members and the state organization; through its columns, information comes first-hand to subscribers.

Officers Investigate Reckless Driving

On complaint of Mr. Mason and Mr. Lewis, of the Curtis Paper Mills, State Highway Officers Hessian and Leach investigated the charges made against truck drivers of the O'Connell Company, who have been hauling crushed stone to the Milford Cross Road. The trucks have been running from Newark Center up North Chapel street and across the bridge at the paper mill. There have been several near accidents alleged as a result of fast driving on the part of the truck drivers. Officers Leach and Hessian got data of several of these instances and presented it to Mr. O'Connell, who promised that the reckless practice would stop. It seems the truck drivers are paid by the number of loads they haul.

On Friday, October 29, Mr. Pierre du Pont will give his annual theatre party at the University of Delaware.

Mr. du Pont has made this an annual event for the last several years. The invitation is extended to the entire student body, the faculty and staff, with their wives. The Athletic Board of Control met Monday night to discuss routine business.

The English Course 51, given by Mr. Ernest VanKeuren, are planning to produce Bernard Shaw's "Candida" on December 10, at Wolf Hall. The cast chosen is as follows: Candida, Angela Wisneski; Proserpine Garnet, Frances Eckbert; James Morell, Bernard Nobis; Eugene March, Frank Swezey; Alexander Hill, Winfield Adams; Mr. Burgess, John Steel.

MARYLAND TOWN TO HONOR PENNOCK

Saturday, October 16th, Rising Sun, Md., will acclaim Pennock Day, at which time Herb Pennock, star pitcher of the New York Yankees, who recently turned in two victories over the St. Louis Cardinals, will pitch for Rising Sun, and Wally Schang, now with St. Louis Browns, will catch.

Rising Sun will be opposed by an all-star team of the Tri-County League, led by Rueben Dunbar, of Elkton.

Manager Biles is making big plans to put over the event, and is preparing to handle the largest crowd of fans ever to witness a game in Cecil county. All business places will be closed from 2 to 4, during the game.

Gladys Bucher Charges Non-Support

A pathetic case came to the attention of the local authorities yesterday, when Gladys Bucher, of 334 South Chapel street, appeared before Magistrate Thompson and swore out a warrant charging her husband, Walter Bucher, now living at 606 East 8th street, Wilmington, with non-support.

Mrs. Bucher has had little support from her husband for some time, she says, and had receipts to show where she had on several occasions settled board and room bills that he was alleged to have skipped. Lately she has lost her eyesight, and since that affliction, her husband has not only, she claims, refused her support, but has tried to get her to agree to a divorce. State Highway Officer Leach will serve the warrant and the hearing will be held at Magistrate Thompson's office tonight at seven o'clock.

Have liver and bacon for dinner rather than breakfast. For one thing, people are not demanding the heavy type of breakfast formerly eaten. Liver is one of the most important meats in regard to the protein and calories it furnishes the body, and it also contains all three vitamins. Recent experiments have shown it to be one of the most valuable sources of iron in cases of anemia. No distinction in food value is made between the various kinds of liver.

The Community Fire Company Band will furnish music.

The Story

"A certain man had two sons. And the younger of them said to his father, 'Father, give me the portion of goods that falleth to me.'"
From the Bible.

The younger son is Jether, lithe, handsome and a dreamer. Watching his flocks, he sees a caravan from Babylon pass the farm. Mounted on an elephant's back is the ravishingly beautiful Tisha. She smiles. Jether falls. Egged on by Tisha's companion, the evil Tola, Jether gets his share of his inheritance from his rich father and journeys with the caravan to wicked Babylon.

Jether for a time basks in the warm love of Tisha. But he loses his money in gambling and riotous living. Pharis, a big butter and egg man from the sea, wins Tisha away from him with jewels and gold. A bearded prophet roams the streets of Babylon predicting that this, the wickedest city in the world, will be destroyed by the hand of God. A great feast is held at the pagan love palace of Tisha. In the midst of it, lightning flashes, thunder roars, the great columns of the palace crash down. In a few minutes the whole great city, in a series of tremendously spectacular scenes, is in ruins. Jether, spared because he would not worship the pagan gods, flees, ragged, broke and hungry, to the desert.

For weeks he wanders, more dead than alive, in the wilderness. At last he reaches home. His big-hearted mother takes him into her arms. His stern father, at first refusing to forgive, relents and orders the fattened calf to be killed. Naomi, Jether's boyhood sweetheart, comes back to him.

The Merchants' Plan

The Opera House, cooperating with the local merchants in The Merchants' Ticket Campaign, has booked its plays for the period ending January first, with the idea of having the largest and best productions on the days of the week that the merchants' tickets apply. These tickets are good Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of each week for the next three months, excepting when a benefit performance falls on one of those days.

This Merchants' Ticket Plan is unique as an advertising and service feature, in that, in a friendly way it stimulates business by adding something that puts an additional value on their merchandise or service in a rather unusual manner. Beside the free tickets, the co-operating merchants are planning various specials that their patrons can take advantage of during the duration of the ticket campaign. These specials will be advertised from week to week along with the featured pictures at the Opera House so that patrons can enjoy double advantage of getting a free ticket for a particularly fine picture with something special in the way of service or merchandise.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES
ADOPT RESOLUTIONS

The following resolutions were adopted unanimously by the board of trustees of the Methodist Episcopal Church at their meeting on October 5.

"Whereas: The Board of Trustees of the Newark Methodist Episcopal Church has received notice of the intention of our Pastor, the Rev. Frank Herson, to ask for a transfer to another charge at the close of the present conference year;

Now Therefore, Be it Resolved that we deem it fitting and proper at this time to record our deep appreciation of his arduous, untiring and conscientious work during a pastorate that has been memorable not only for its length but also for the growth in the spiritual and in the material life of the church.

He has been with us in sickness and in health; he has shared our joys and our sorrows; and his departure will leave a vacancy that will require a man of unusual gifts to fill acceptably to the congregation of the Newark Methodist Episcopal Church.

We shall part with Mr. Herson with regret; our loss shall be the gain of another church; and we ask God's blessing upon him and upon his family in whatever field he may labor hereafter."

The above resolutions were adopted by a unanimous rising vote of the fourteen members and associates present.

The Pastor will be with us as usual, of course, until after the Conference next Spring, and this Board asks the co-operation of all to make this closing year the best of this nine-year pastorate.

"Grass"

On Wednesday, October 20, at the Opera House, the Women's Guild of St. Thomas P. E. Church will present as a benefit, one of the most unusual motion pictures ever made, "Grass."

"Grass" is the actual picture of the migration of an Asiatic tribe. It was not staged or directed, but made by three intrepid American explorers, Merian Cooper, Marguerite Harrison and Ernest Shoedsack, who followed the migration and pictured the terrific hardships and dangers that the tribe endured in their epic journey. The start is made on a burning desert and goes over mountains through snow-clogged passes, across swift rivers till finally the tribe reaches the fertile valley, where they find growing the "grass" for their flocks, which is the object of the migration. The hardships and dangers endured are unbelievable till seen on the screen. The tribe walks barefooted through the snow carrying heavy burdens, crosses icy mountain torrents on rafts made of inflated sheep bladders, swimming the flock, many of which perish in the swift waters.

The picture is grim, real and sensational. It is a true record of an exodus of conquest, a defeat the most severe extremes the natural elements can offer.

Newark Repels Dover High 6-0

Defeat More Crushing Than Score
Indicates; Fumbling
Mars Game

On Friday afternoon, the Newark High School football team played their first game on the D. I. A. A. schedule and turned back the highly touted Dover huskies by a score of 6 to 0. The score is an indication of Newark's weaknesses rather than its strength, for Dover made only one first down and at no time advanced to a threatening proximity of the Newark goal line. Newark on the other hand, carried the ball repeatedly into the shadows of the Dover goal posts only to lose it by fumbles. The only touchdowns came in the first period, when after making three first downs, in short order, Newark brought the ball within a few yards of the Dover line and Capt. Riley carried it over for 6 points. A pass for the extra point failed.

Riley was outstanding in all phases of the game, his speed and strength tore the Dover line to pieces and his defensive work took much of the sting from the Dover attack. He also contributed more than his share of errors, dropping the ball at several crucial points in the game.

Morris, at quarter for Newark, contributed the most flawless football of the afternoon. He ran his team with good judgment and kept them fighting every moment. His punting earned him applause from both sides of the field. On one occasion he made an eighty yard run down the side of the field, evading half a dozen tacklers, but was called back because one foot went out of bounds.

Whitman and Smith, the other two Newark backfield men, showed smart football, both on attack and defense. Whitman's off tackle plunges would have gladdened the gloomy heart of Gil Dobie.

The first half was an exhibition of steam roller tactics on Newark's part. Dover was continually on the defense and retreating till they were backed up under their goal posts, when they tightened and held manfully on two occasions. However, the score came in the first period of the half, when Riley knifed his way through the Dover line. J. Branner, Dover quarter, smeared many a Newark attack, but he couldn't stop all of them. Newark missed a number of chances to score by untimely juggling of the ball.

In the second half, Dover still remained on the defense, getting the ball now and then. J. Branner led the Dover attack whenever he had the opportunity, but it was a question of an irresistible force meeting an immovable object, and when he hit that solid Newark line he popped up in the air like a wave hitting a breakwater. On several occasions Dover had a chance for a first down, but they elected to kick on the last try. Dover finally did make its lone first down when she completed a 30 yard pass in the closing minutes of the game.

The game was punctuated by hard, clean and vicious tackling on both sides; though toward the latter part of the second half both teams were guilty of "necking." Mayer, on end for Newark, and W. Branner, end for Dover, both played beautiful defensive games, eluding the interference and bringing down the carrier. Dover used the huddle system on signals, but these conferences produced nothing effective.

Coach Malin has whipped into shape a team that Newark can well be proud of for, with the exception of fumbling, the boys showed sterling football. Their physical condition was particularly notable as they played hard football throughout with not a single substitution. In fact, there was only one substitution in the game, when Buxton replaced Branner at end for Dover. The Newark line, which is light and had not been severely tried till Friday, was horse high, bull strong, and hog tight, and withstood the smashing plunges of Branner without even bulging.

Next Friday Newark will entertain the du Pont School on the Newark grounds. The line up:

Newark	Dover
Mayer..... end	W. Branner
McMurray.... tackle	C. Vaughn
Cook..... guard	Carson...
Dayett..... center	Shahan
McDowell.... guard	Hancock
Vansant..... tackle	Spence
Jacquette.... end	Van Sant
Smith..... right-halfback	Boyd
Riley..... fullback	Bobbs

Referee—Weggenmann, Delaware.
Umpire—Whitmore. Head linesman—Whitney. Touchdown—Riley.
Substitute—Dover: Buxton for W. Branner.

Cards Win the Flag

Last Sunday was a day of rejoicing and jubilation in St. Louis, Mo., for the St. Louis Cardinals celebrated their first pennant by taking the seventh and final game of the World's Series from the haughty Yanks. The event took place at the Yanks' Stadium in New York, but the echoes in St. Louis outdid in volume and raucousness the original celebration in New York.

It was a very successful series in every way. The sentimental favorites won; they played to an attendance of 328,051, paying $1,207,864 for the privilege. Herb Penneck, who is a native of Kennett Square, twirled the Yanks to victory in two of their three won games. In his first start, he let the Cards down with only three hits.

Newark C. C. Wins Cup From Talbot

H. A. Turner Defeats Dr. Sypherd
For Championship

On Saturday afternoon at Newark, the golfers of the Newark Country Club defeated the Talbot County Club team, from Easton, Md., in a Nassau team match, by a score of 8 points to 5. This gives Newark possession, for a year, of the cup the two clubs are playing their annual matches for. Last year Talbot won it and next season they will play the rubber for permanent possession.

The point score:

Newark Country Club
R. C. Seasholtz	3
J. P. Armstrong	0
P. C. Houghton	2
P. F. Pié	0
C. O. Houghton	3
Total	8

Talbot County Club
R. R. Spring	3
C. P. Buch	2
E. A. Cable	0
Total	5

Next Saturday the Newark golf team will play a Nassau match with the Brinton Lake Club at Brinton Lake. About 25 players are expected to go up from Newark.

Turner Wins from Sypherd

On Saturday afternoon H. A. Turner and Dr. W. Owen Sypherd played the final round for the Newark Country Club Championship. The match was 18 holes and turned into a bitter struggle after the first 9. Dr. Sypherd was 2 up at the turn, but Turner came home with the tightest kind of golf and clinched the match at the 16th hole, 3 and 2.

How were friendship possible? In mutual devotedness to the good and true; otherwise impossible except as armed neutrality or hollow commercial league. A man, be the heavens ever praised, is sufficient for himself; yet were ten men, united in love, capable of doing what ten thousand singly would fail in. Infinite is the help man can yield to man.—Carlyle.

The one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence will be observed by the Sesquicentennial International Exposition, which opens at Philadelphia, June 1, 1926.

Francis Lewis, Signer

Through his knowledge of Gaelic and Cymraeg, Francis Lewis, New York Signer of the Declaration of Independence, was able to save himself from being made a burnt sacrifice by the Indians. The four signers from the Empire State were eulogized recently at exercises held in the New York State Building at the Sesquicentennial International Exposition.

During the French and Indian War Lewis supplied the British troops with clothing as agent at Oswego. On the surrender of the fort and its garrison of 1600 men, Lewis was handed over to the Indians as one of thirty captives. He expected to suffer the fate of a captive, but he succeeded in making friends with the warriors who guarded him by means of the dialects he had learned in Wales.

Lewis was born in Llandoff, Wales, in 1713. He studied at Westminster, and began business in London as a clerk in a counting house. Later he came to the New World where he rapidly became a most successful

Delaware Wins From Ursinus Sat.

Improved Team Takes Sensational
Game 6 to 0

On Saturday afternoon the Delaware University football squad, accompanied by a large delegation of rooters, travelled to Collegeville, Pa., where they were entertained by Ursinus. Delaware made itself thoroughly at home, showed its hearty social spirit by outwelling the cohorts of its hosts, and winning a football game.

Coaches Forstburg and Dougherty had reorganized their team and ironed out the wrinkles that showed so glaringly in last week's game with Drexel. Ursinus with a much stronger team than Drexel failed to stop the vastly improved team that Delaware put on the field. The game was tight and spectacular throughout and was featured by sensational passing on the part of both sides.

Delaware made its score in the second quarter. After an exchange of punts Delaware held the ball on the 50 yard line. Loveland made an 8 yard gain on an end run and Di Joseph followed this by making two first downs in three successive plays. By straight line plunges, Delaware advanced to the Ursinus 8 yard line where Ursinus held for downs, and receiving the ball punted to Creamer on his 30 yard line. Again Delaware marched down the field till they were held for 3 downs on the Collegeville 20 yard mark. On the fourth down, from a kick formation, Creamer threw a pass to Glasser, who surrounded by Ursinus men, caught it on the 10 yard line and, though tackled from the rear and opposed by two men in front, advanced far enough to throw himself over the goal line. Delaware failed to make the seventh point.

Ursinus exceeded Delaware in first downs, but this was largely due to the shifty running of Cherin, left half for Ursinus, who tore off runs of twenty and twenty-five yards, and to Delaware's inability to break up the Ursinus overhead attack in the early stages of the game. However, whenever the goal was threatened the Delaware line stood like a rock.

The Delaware line showed a steady improvement, held firmly on defense and opened up gaping holes for the backfield to drive through. The organized backfield, however, was the portion of the team that revived optimistic hopes in the hearts of Delaware's backers. Creamer, who generated the team last year and who was out of last week's game because of injuries, added a lot to the morale of the team and took care of the kicking in fine style. Ton Di Joseph outshone everybody by his allround playing and accumulated more yardage than anyone else. Loveland made some fine gains and shared honors with Di Joseph in breaking up the Ursinus attack. Glasser, on right end for Delaware, besides making the score, contributed plenty of fast, accurate tackling.

Next week Delaware will take on the Y. M. C. A. at Springfield, Mass., and if they show the same percentage of improvement next week as they did over the last, they should make

New $1,500,000 Plant For Eastern Shore

Salisbury, Md., Oct. 11.—In a statement made here today, F. N. Lawton, General Manager of the Eastern Shore Gas and Electric Company, gave definite assurance that the proposed new $1,500,000 power plant to be erected by his company will be sufficiently large to supply power in practically any quantity to all points on the Delmarva Peninsula.

This statement is meeting with widespread gratification as certain disappointment was expressed recently when it became known that the Conowingo plant, being constructed by the Philadelphia Electric Company, would probably divert its main output into Philadelphia, and not supply the Eastern Shore direct.

Officials of the Eastern Shore Gas and Electric Company have recently been questioned by representatives from various sections of the Peninsula as to the extent of the power supply from their proposed new plant. General assurance has been given to the effect that it will be able to furnish all points south of Wilmington and that practically no limit on the power supply would be fixed. Interviewed directly on the subject today Mr. Lawton bears out this impression. He said:

"Our proposed new plant will be large enough to supply power to any point on the Delmarva Eastern Shore. By this I mean that we will be in a position to extend our service practically without limit within the confines of the peninsula. This will apply not only to the individual home service, but to communities and to manufacturing plants. An outstanding feature which the new power house will provide will be practically a guarantee of unbroken service. It will equal that in any section of the country, with an extra reserve supply to overcome interference during heavy storms and eliminating interference which has been experienced in the past.

Prominent residents of the peninsula who have been vitally interested in extension of electric lighting and power, recognizing its value in connection with the general plan to promote peninsula development, are expressing decided satisfaction with the information which has been officially given by Mr. Lawton. There are numerous sections which have not thus far been reached with a supply which they feel is warranted and

Mr. Lawton explains that it is the purpose of the Eastern Shore Gas and Electric Company to care for just such conditions where they are justified.

Decision as to the location of the new power plant has not yet been made, but with final selection of a site work on construction will begin without delay. Mr. Lawton stated that the new power house would be in operation within ten months after work is started.

MOODY BIBLE INSTITUTE

Young men and women who are thinking of Christian service at home or abroad, are offered free training for the purpose by the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago, the oldest and largest institute of its kind in the world. To those who hesitate from lack of funds it offers the services of an efficient employment bureau. Its president, Dr. James M. Gray, says that almost any young man in good health can earn his way through the institute and that the opportunities for young women to do so are almost as plentiful. The location of the institute near the loop gives it a great advantage in this respect over schools distant from large centers. The fall term is now well under way, but students may begin the work with equal convenience at the opening of the winter term, January 6. Catalogs and application blanks are furnished free on request.

REASON FOR LIME

Many soils are deficient in lime, and its addition will often result in larger crop yields. An important effect of liming is a stimulation of the decomposition of organic matter. When lime in any form is applied to soils with insufficient organic matter, especially in warm, humid climates, it is usually advisable to add manure or plow under green crops for the purpose of keeping up or, if possible, increasing the supply of this essential ingredient.

Soils require lime for other reasons, among them for correction of acidity, for improvement of the drainage, and to supply lack of lime for plant food. It is suggested that farmers experiment on their own soils with various

May Require Test For Auto Operators

State Conference on Highway Safety Likely to Raise Issue

According to Carlton T. Bridgman, director of the State Conference on Street and Highway Safety, an amendment to the State driver's license law is likely to be one of the important legislative questions raised in the conference. This amendment will probably require an examination of applicants for operator's licenses and a revocation of drivers' license for offenses other than drunken driving.

Mr. Bridgman said: "At present our laws require the paid driver to take an examination, but many feel that all drivers should be examined. In event that the examination of all drivers should be proposed, very likely the bill would be so worded as to require only new applicants for licenses to be examined, as the tremendous work involved in examining the present licensed drivers would be onerous."

"Eighteen states have license laws requiring that applicants must be able to meet the following requirements: A—fill out application blank; B—to read road signs; C—knowledge of traffic regulations, laws and rules of the road. The physical examinations vary from a sworn statement by the applicant that he or she has no physical defects as to sight and hearing to an examination to determine the coordination of mind and muscle. In many instances a short road test is required."

"While Delaware has a license law, there are no examinations of the applicant except for those driving vehicles for hire."

"New York and Massachusetts are the leading advocates of the revocation of licenses in the interest of safety. In Delaware licenses are revoked for drunken driving or may be revoked by the secretary of state for cause. In New York the chief causes for revocation and suspending of licenses in addition to operating a car while under the influence of liquor, are reckless driving, faulty equipment, improper licenses, and continual accidents."

Women's College Notes

Add to Women's College Notes HG Friends of Women's College are interested each year in the girls from the Junior Class who may be members of the Foreign Study Group. Dorothy Inderlied, of Wilmington, is at present spending her Junior year in France. In the interval between the summer sessions at Nancy and the time when she entered the University of Paris, she enjoyed one of those delightful trips which are the good fortune of the members of the group. Extracts from a letter, dated September 14, written by Miss Inderlied to a class-mate, follows: "I hardly know where to start to tell you about my trip. From Nancy we went to Grenoble and there we climbed a real mountain. I haven't worked so hard for a long time. It took us over two hours to get to the summit, but oh, when we got there, it was superb. The air was so wonderful, too. We could see the mountains for miles around and the broad valley dotted with villages and hamlets. The coming down was worse than going up; we took a shorter but harder path. For ages we followed an old bed of a stream and I never saw a worse path. We finally got down without any mishap, although I expected to roll all the way down at any moment."

"The next morning after our climb, we visited Ganterle and saw the whole process of glove-making. It was most interesting. We travelled on the train most of yesterday afternoon, but finally arrived at Annecy. There we went for a boatride. It was just at sunset and in back of us we could see all the glory of the sun itself while in front we could see the marvelous rosy glow on the whole mountain-side. You know how perfectly useless it is to try to describe things like that."

"Miss Fitzwater is with us and I tell you she is a good sport. Today we've been on the go all day. We left Annecy at seven-thirty and went as far as St. Gervais les Bains on the train. (I remember when we studied about them in our 'French Daily Life'). We got halfway up the mountain before lunch, which we had at Col-de-Waza. After lunch, we continued on up the mountain to the glacier. The mountains up there are perfectly marvelous. They are rugged and wild and covered with snow. The boys were playing with snowballs and I washed my hands in some snow on top of the Alps—how thrilling!"

"After we got down to St. Gervais again, we went to the Casino. There was an awfully good orchestra there and I certainly was surprised to find artists like that playing real classic music in a casino."

"The ride from St. Gervais to Chamonix was lovely. I have never seen such beautiful scenery: the lower mountains covered with green, green grass and trees; the huge gaunt ones covered with ice and snow and with swift mountain streams running down their sides. We were up above the clouds, too, and it's so funny to see them floating around. When we got in Chamonix we watched the sun set on the glaciers on Mont Blanc."

"Tomorrow we're going to the Mer de Glace and then to Geneva."

"In a few days school will be starting at Delaware. How I wish I could be there and here too!"

The first meeting since last June of Cooch's Bridge Chapter, D. A. R., was held in the D. A. R. Room in the Academy Building, Saturday, October second.

The members are much interest in ways of raising money to have the room painted and furnished. One daughter has presented a table, bookcase and pictures, which are much appreciated.

peaks and Delaware Canal, and last winter did survey work in Florida. This last summer, and up to the time he left for New Brunswick, he worked on the Newark Country Club course.

Paul Aronah Armstrong, an elder brother, who lives in Jamesville, N. Y., arrived home Sunday for a visit. When word came of the accident, he and his uncle, Paul F. Pie, of Newark, left for New Brunswick, returning at midnight with the body.

Besides his parents, young Armstrong leaves two brothers, Thomas P., of Winston-Salem, N. C., and Paul A., of Jamesville, N. Y., and a sister, Manulita Armstrong, of Newark. He was athletic and extremely popular in Newark. He leaves a host of saddened friends.

His father, J. P. Armstrong, was a member of the Delaware Legislature some years ago and for many years was connected with the Kiamensi Woolen Mills.

High Mass was solemnized at 9.30 this morning at St. Johns R. C. Church. Interment was in Catholic cemetery, Newark. The pallbearers were Amos Collins, Cortland Houghton, Robert Hayes, Edward Ginther, Floyd Herbert, Henry Townsend, Francis Pie and Paul Steel.

A GOOD OPPORTUNITY

The Red Men's Band opened up their Fall and Winter rehearsals at the Town Council Building (old fire house) on last Thursday evening. They have secured the services of Prof. Charles T. Edwards, of Wilmington, who has a wide experience as a band instructor. It is the intention of the Band to put on concerts during the winter season, the first of which will be given in about a month's time.

ARRESTING DISPLAY

This semi-motion picture has attracted considerable attention when it is lighted during the evening.
