JOYOUS HALLOWEEN CELEBRATION IN ELKTON LAST NIGHT

Town and Community Join in Making Affair Biggest Ever Held in Maryland Town. Parade Over a Mile Long Through Jammed Streets. Many Beautiful Costumes

MASKED BALL IN ARMORY AS A CLIMAX

Elkton was in her glory last night. The first real Halloween celebration ever undertaken by the citizens of the town proved to be an enormous success and a huge throng filled the streets from early in the evening until late at night. They came from Wilmington, Newark, Middletown, Rising Sun, North East and many other nearby points—in autos, on horseback and on foot—and they certainly saw what they came to see—a big old-time Halloween jubilee.

Before dark the paraders and spectators began gathering and the streets of the old town took on an unusual appearance. All kinds of spooks, hobgoblins and clowns wandered up and down Main and North streets near the center of town. While they waited for the parade to start, they paid impromptu visits to many of the stores and residences. The old sport of trying to pick the girls in the visiting parties provided plenty of amusement for the business men. Once in a while they would attempt a playful embrace only to be rebuffed in a healthy pair of masculine arms and vice versa. However, there was plenty of fun for all when the time darkness set in. The work of the volunteer traffic officers was highly commended. Many a jam along the crowded thoroughfares was prevented by prompt action on their part. Main Street and part of North Street was roped off and for a time after the parade to enable the marchers particularly the kiddies to be free from danger.

Chief Marshal A. D. Atkinson and his assistants got the parade off promptly on time and the various divisions fell into their places without a hitch. The Elkton Fire Company of the procession and was followed by the local band and mounted patriots. The balance of the marchers were in the order indicated in the last issue of the Post. Three full bands—the Elkton Band, Continental Band of Newark and the Cecilton Band—kept the spirits of the crowd by a continual feast of snappy music. According to reputable authorities, the number actually marching and coming to the host of prizes varied from 500 to 600 people, making a parade that was easily one mile in length. Red fire, presented gratis by the Victory Sparkler Co., threw a lurid light upon the scene all along the route and greatly added to the spirit of the occasion.

To enumerate the beautiful and novel effects originated by the competitors would be an almost impossible task. Every costume, float, horse and automobile showed clearly the fruits of true original ability and hard work on the part of the parader in charge. The floats and decorated automobiles were particularly effective, and when this section passed the judges' stand and the big crowd nearby, there seemed to be a continuous storm of applause. One young lady who, by the way, captured a prize, rode a well-bred gray horse and handled it like a veteran. The animal's favorite stunt was to rear up on its haunches upon a slight pull by the rider. This created all sorts of appreciative comment.

One of, if not the most beautiful decorated autos was entered in the name of Ruth Stanley, of Elkton, by a Mr. Giles, of Wilmington. The car was completely covered by white cloth through which tiny electric lights peeped out at intervals. An immense doll was fastened atop the radiator, and a chair, table and electric candle decorated the rear of the tonneau. Upon first glance, the whole effect resembled an immense mass of frosted icing, or a travelling ice berg. At all events it was one of the most striking gentries in the line of march. The local tribe of Red Men also exhibited a really wonderful effect, this time in the line of a float. The wagon was completely hidden in a mass of Autumn leaves and cedars and in the miniature thicket thus created, several redskins were grouped about a camp fire over which was placed a steaming cauldron. It was very well done and reflected great credit upon the lodge.

The five judges who selected the various prize winners were as follows: Charles R. Reckfus, William H. Jones, Mrs. A. T. Abernathy, Miss Viola Hahn and William H. Johnson. They had no easy task in choosing the winners, and several entrants were recalled to the judges stand to undergo another examination. Their work was eminently fair, however. (Continued on Page Eight.)

THE SICK

Mr. Leonard W. Lovett, better known as "Squire" to his many friends in and around Newark, is somewhat improved and it is expected that he will be out again in a few weeks. Mr. Lovett suffered a serious stroke several weeks ago, for a time his condition was very critical.

Dick Holton, former star tackle and captain of last year's University of Delaware football team, is slowly recovering from an operation for appendicitis, performed Friday last, at Delaware Hospital, Wilmington. Holton was stricken while at work in the Harlan Plant of the Bethlehem Steel Company, and he was rushed to the hospital where an immediate operation was necessary.

William, young son of Prof. and Mrs. G. L. Schuster, fell while playing on the porch of his home Monday morning and broke a thigh bone. He was removed to the Homeopathic Hospital by Dr. Walt H. Steel and the injured member was set. The boy is doing very well and should be home again in a few weeks.

Mr. Thomas A. Mullin, of the Red Bank Home, of this place, who has been ill for several weeks took a turn for the worse recently and is in a very critical condition.

Weather Outlook

Weather outlook for the period November 30 to November 4, inclusive, Middle and North Atlantic States. Considerable cloudiness and probability of occasional showers, with temperatures above normal, first part of week. Generally fair, with lower temperatures, latter half.

R. GILPIN BUCKINGHAM CONSENTS

TO SERVE AS JUSTICE

Local Delegation in Dover Today in His Behalf

A delegation of local citizens went to Dover today for a conference with Governor William D. Denney in the interest of R. Gilpin Buckingham, local merchant and son of Gen. R. G. Buckingham, one of Newark's oldest and most respected residents. Mr. Buckingham has consented to serve as Justice of the Peace providing he is appointed.

The outcome of the hurried conference in Dover today has not as yet been disclosed. Mr. Buckingham is a well-known resident of the town and has conducted a general store on Main Street for a number of years.

The situation in the town for the past few weeks has been desperate. Leonard W. Lovett has been seriously ill for some time and there is no one to handle this important office. Several other citizens have been approached in the matter but no progress has been made. The vital need of a Justice in Newark perhaps was never before felt more keenly than in the past month.

NEW ROAD WILL SOON BE COMPLETE

B. & O. Bridge Span Set in Place Monday. Many Spectators

RUSH CONCRETE WORK

After many months of patient waiting, residents of Newark and vicinity will soon be able to roll along in the family vehicle on solid concrete from the town limits all the way into Wilmington—that is, providing they feel so inclined. The Lincoln Highway section between Roseville and Newark was completed early in the summer and from that time on everything has been held up awaiting action by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Co. in removing the old bridge and placing a longer span across the tunnel cut through the embankment just this side of Lumbrook. And they have been waiting quite some time. Meanwhile the detour has become badly worn and is the cause of many caustic remarks by passing motorists.

The actual placing of the new span took place last Monday, just before noon, and the work was finished and traffic was clear shortly after two o'clock. The feat called for a large amount of engineering skill. Two big cranes were employed in sliding out the old bridge and setting the new span in place, and a large crowd of interested spectators were on the job to offer verbal suggestions and "Now this is how I would do it" remarks. However, despite such expert advice, the workmen managed to get the rails connected within a few minutes after the span was set, and as the story books say, everything was lovely.

The only other work to be done is the laying of a 16-foot width of concrete under the new bridge and the removal of the temporary piling on each side. According to County Engineer Grubb, who was present at the time, this suggestion has been approved by the Levy Court and the highway will, no doubt, be open for traffic early next week.

Now we may all breathe a sigh of relief, climb aboard our trusty flivver and charge down the new road and under the bridge with great glee. The only person who insists upon being pessimistic about the whole thing is the crossing watchman near the Union Station in Lumbrook, for it will leave him without a job for the winter.

Our Youngest Masquerader

Although Elkton may boast of its parade and Wilmington of its mummers, Newark takes a crack at fame in the announcement that within its limits last night it held the youngest masquerader of them all. Frank J., better known as "Skeezix," aged five weeks, hereby has our backing for the Hall of Fame. All dressed up in a clown suit, mask and all, the little fellow crowded with glee at the hobgoblins and boogey men clustered about him. He is the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Balling. His daddy is one of the Craftsmen of Kells on Welch Lane.

Delaware First in Ratio of Highways

Delaware ranks first in mileage of improved roads with regard to the size of the State and its population, it was announced at the national convention of the Highway Education Board, held in Washington Wednesday and Thursday of last week.

At the meeting the State was represented by C. Douglas Buck, State highway engineer; I. Paul Jones, secretary of the highway commission, and Professor W. Thoroughgood of the engineering department of the University of Delaware.

CENTURY CLUB LUNCHEON TODAY

Guests from All Over State Here for Elaborate Affair. Covers Laid for 135

PLAYLET IN AFTERNOON

The Newark New Century Club is playing host today to approximately 135 guests and members at the first of what is hoped to be an annual Fall social event—a club luncheon. The affair was conceived some time ago by the Executive Committee and met with instant approval by the ladies. The luncheon was held in the Club House on East Delaware avenue today at 12.30. At 2.15 the entertainment program started and continued until late in the afternoon. The attractive club was greatly enhanced by beautiful decorations suggestive of Halloween, and black cats and Jack-o-Lanterns were greatly in evidence. Mrs. Ernest Wright had charge of the luncheon committee and her untiring work and interest in the affair greatly increased its importance in Women's Club circles.

The menu served by the ladies of the local club was as follows:

Chicken Bouillon Saltines
Luncheon Platter
Chicken Salad Cold Tongue
Peas in Timbals Potato Chips
Hot Rolls Pickles
Jelly
Ice Cream and Cake
Coffee Nuts and Mints

The new brass candlesticks recently donated to the Club together with new baskets for the dining room table were in use for the first time today. Halloween decoration in the form of yellow candles and black cats set off the tastily arranged dining hall.

The heads of the various active committees directly connected with today's affair are:

Luncheon Committee: Mrs. E. B. Wright.
Hospitality: Mrs. R. W. Heim.
Decorations: Miss Elsie Wright.
Arrangements: Mrs. R. C. Lewis.
Program: Mrs. C. B. Evans and Mrs. J. O. G. Duffy.

Mrs. C. O. Houghton and Mrs. H. L. Bonham met incoming trains and conveyed out-of-town guests to the Club House.

The main committee was the reception committee, headed by Mrs. W. A. Wilkinson, President of the local Club. These ladies officially welcomed the guests and made them quite at home in Newark. This committee, included the following ladies: Mrs. A. T. Neale, Mrs. T. F. Mann, Mrs. J. P. Cann, Mrs. S. J. Wright, Mrs. John Pilling, Mrs. C. O. Houghton, Miss Herd, Mrs. C. A. Short, Dean Winifred J. Robinson, Mrs. R. W. Heim, Mrs. Walter Hullihen, Mrs. C. B. Evans, and Mrs. J. O. G. Duffy.

"Delaware Did Not Forget"

STATE WAR MEMORIAL DRIVE WENT OVER THE TOP MONDAY NIGHT IN GLORIOUS FINISH

More Contributions Still Pouring In

PIERRE du PONT AND WIFE GAVE $80,000

$350,000 May Be Final Total

This grand little State of Delaware again came through in a crisis and showed the way to other commonwealths in the matter of war memorials when she gave of her wealth, her time and her thoughts to the proposition to "build on the campus of the State University a living Memorial to the sons of Delaware who gave their lives in the great World War."

Last Monday night at a big dinner in the duBarry Room of the Hotel duPont in Wilmington, the workers from all three counties in the State together with the Wilmington teams and chairmen met in the last drive to reach the mark. At the beginning of the day they still had approximately $90,000 to raise. About ten o'clock the same evening the sum of $325,387 had been pledged and more kept coming at intervals. It was mainly due to the added gifts of Wilmington's wealthiest and most broad-minded men who were already heavy subscribers that the total for the New Library was raised.

Now the Library is an assured thing and it is with a great sigh of relief and thanksgiving that the hard working chairmen disbanded their faithful associates and one and all returned to their offices, farms and homes with the knowledge that they helped in putting over one of the finest campaigns in the history of the State. Although wealthy men helped in a large measure towards the success of the project it is the men and women of the State at large who are receiving the most earnest thanks. They gave of their time and money, some in large amounts, others in small portions, but it was their interest in the Drive, their co-operation in the work and their money that made this Library a real possession of the State and its people. The men who gave their lives came from Sussex farms and villages as well as crowded Wilmington. So should and did the support come. It is a true Delawarean spirit that could make this thing a reality, and it was the true Delawarean who came through and pushed along with his neighbor until the Memorial Library became a certainty.

Workers Thanked
Josiah Marvel, chairman of the executive committee in the campaign, expressed his thanks to the workers and to the Alumni of the University and to the Trustees of the University and then called upon Everett C. Johnson. He responded in an eloquent speech in which he referred to what Delaware had done in the past and the magnificent response it had made to this call. He showed that Delaware does not forget its sons who made sacrifices that the world might live at peace again.

Dr. Walter Hullihen, president of the University of Delaware, speaking both personally and for the University, gave his thanks for the way in which the people had responded. He said he wished he might mention by name those who had been so active in the drive. He referred to Mr. Johnson, Mr. Marvel, Mr. Sharp, Mr. Scott and then to the princely gifts made by a few from the "broadest minded and most liberal citizens in the United States."

LEVY COURT CHECKING UP LABOR

Votes Down Nine Hour Day Resolution

APPROPRIATIONS MADE

The Levy Court yesterday by vote of 3 to 2, voted down a resolution providing for a 9-hour day and 5 hours on Saturday for road workers. The resolution was presented by Commissioner Jones. Commissioner McCoy asked for a ye and nay vote Jones and Buckson; nays, Stetser, Ball and McCoy; not voting, Commissioners Strahorn and Lattomus, they being absent at the time.

Commissioner McCoy said he thought that most men were honest, that all were not crooks. He suggested that the supervisors confer with the commissioners at their next meeting.

Mr. Jones said that the men were sending in bills for 10 hours' labor daily when darkness prevents them from working that long. He said he proposed to check up on some of the workmen. The motion to confer with the supervisors was adopted.

Mr. Ball said he felt that some of the men were not working 10 hours.

The Court authorized the County Comptroller to transfer $5,000 from the Service Treatment Account to the Maintenance Account.

Commissioner Strahorn asked permission to have two hundred feet of concrete curbing laid along duPont Road. He explained that the Five meeting decided to ask the county to Points Civics Association as a recent do the work.

The matter was referred to County Engineer Grubb and the commissioner of the district with power to act.

The court then adjourned to meet on Wednesday of next week.

Appropriations of $300 were made by Levy Court for 9 rural fire companies and one Civic organization for providing fire protection to residents in the county. Those who will receive

Local Fishermen Hope to Get Results from 150 Bass Placed in Creek

FISHING POND SOON

Local devotees of the rod and reel have become tired of straying all over the State in search for big game bass with plenty of fight, and from now on their efforts will be directed in putting Newark on the fishing map, figuratively speaking. And why not? There is only one reason that the nearby streams and ponds are devoid of game fish, and that is because no one has taken sufficient interest in the matter to make any progress. The Newark Anglers' Association is still in its infancy but already they have taken a big step forward, and sooner or later their efforts along this line will be appreciated.

Last week under the supervision of O. W. Widdoes, president of the Association, 150 large mouth black bass ranging from 3 to 8 inches in length were placed in the Christiana between Cooch's Dam and McLaughlin's Mill. These fish were secured from the United States Government Fisheries and are of a hardy strain. Officials of the Association have requested that anyone catching the small fish carefully unhook them and throw them back. Providing they are left unmolested and given an opportunity to grow.

the appropriations are the Minquas Co., of Newport; Aetna Co., of Newark; Cranston Heights, Elsmere Fire Company; Good Will Co. of New Castle; Holloway Terrace Co.; Volunteer Hose Co., of Middletown; Delaware City Fire Co.; Christiana Fire Co. and the Five Points Civics Association.

OLD DELAWARE WAS LOYAL TO KING, DOCUMENTS SHOW

In the vault of the State House at Dover, Del., are many old documents, some with elaborate designs penned on them, and with portraits in pen-and-ink at the sides and top, says Miss Amy D. Putnam, in a special article in the Washington Herald. They are all, or practically all, handwritten, with great labor and care.

Most of them are in very good handwriting, such as we should be proud to claim. They are a little hard to read sometimes, owing to the differences in letters and spelling between that day and this, and the inconsistencies of spelling even in the same document in that time.

Most of these documents begin with the phrase "This indenture," and a strange thing about them is that the year of the sovereign's reign is given first, before the quaintly-expressed anno domini date. Anyone wishing to write a novel of the old colony days, or any of the periods of our history, making it lively and yet quaint, and picturesque, could not do better than to go to the old archives like this, and browse for hours at a time, during a period of weeks or months, stopping only when too much surfeited to get good from the study any longer.

We are again and again rather forcibly reminded, in going over these documents, that in those days we, as a country and as individuals, were loyal colonists. Everything emanates from the king. In his name are grants given, patents allowed and leases made out.

Sometimes wonderfully-drawn portraits of the king in whose name they are made out adorn these papers, to say nothing of coats-of-arms, symbolic figures, and pictures extolling the great deeds performed in those days.

Here is one indenture made out in 1682—a ten-year lease for the twelve-mile circle around New Castle, by James Six (King) to William Penn.

The half dozen or more important documents, of which this is one, are carefully kept in the safe within heavy plates of glass with metal frames. They are very highly valued in a city where I found most of the people very much interested in the history and art of their city and enthusiastic about keeping it in good shape.

Then there is the original grant for the State of Delaware, with a picture of Charles II, his arms and crown, containing the three lions, etc., at the side. This is all pen work and all very closely lined and printed. Next comes a great grant from the Duke of York to William Penn in 1682. Several of these papers, notably this one, have seals in which one heavy thread or wire is drawn through the papers, which are evidently double pieces of very heavy and strong paper, or perhaps real parchment, with the fold at the top. Then a sort of tassel is made at the end and the two ends of tying thread, together with the tops of the tassels, are embedded deeply in a round metal mass, stamped on both sides with the royal seal.

Another grant is made to William Penn from the Duke of York in 1682.

James King is mentioned in grant or lease for 10,000 years, given by the Duke of York to William Penn for the twelve-mile circle to Cape Henlopen.

Beside the safe, carefully preserved, is the old bell that was in the State House in 1753, or the court house, as it was then called. They still have the hanger, too. This is a matter of pride to all Delawareans—that they have their old town bell.

The old grants in the safe were presented to the State of Delaware by Mrs. Sarah Wistar Miller, of Media, Pa. Mrs. Miller is a descendant of William Penn.

dant of William Penn. The presentation of these old documents was made in 1909. There is endless fancy scrollwork around the first one.

For the Revolutionary War and the war of 1812 they have in the State House all the original papers, muster roll, etc. These are now all published in the Delaware archives.

In one of the side cases there is shown a Bible printed in 1532, on which the governors of Delaware made oath. It is all in Latin, and there is an engraving on the front in the quaint and old style of that time. It is an immense old volume, very much mended in the cover and inside. It is indeed very solemn-looking.

There are many documents with the old seal of State. Everything is in handwriting, some good and some bad, but mostly very good and much clearer than the ordinary handwriting of today.

There is an order to build the Kent county court house, in 1691. Then there is a sealed notice of a "lottery for building the Delaware State court house." There are 3,000 tickets offered at $4 each or $12,000, subject to a discount of 25 per cent, $1,500 is the highest prize to be gained, and the other prizes run down to $2. "Each person pays $2.50 and the other $1.50 is made up from the prizes of $5.00 and more."

Many old maps and plans of the State and city are found in the cases. In one holder are old land grants of Delaware from the year 1680. There are also many old accounts with the State many of them oddly worded. These alone make fascinating reading.

Some of those old documents have envelopes attached to them, evidently forming part of the document. The letter was evidently folded up and the flaps turned around the other way and pasted. This is an idea for some one who has not an envelope handy.

It is like we used to do as children—make our letter the envelope, too. We would mark off the parts that would form the outside and, by arrows, indicate that we must not write in these sections. Then we would write the rest of the sheet of paper full and sometimes inclose another sheet, closely written. This is being done largely by European countries lately, evidently to have the weight of the envelope in the postage charge.

Barratt's Chapel, near Dover, is said to be the oldest Methodist church in the world. Delaware boasts several very old churches, of which the best-known is the Old Swedes Church, in Wilmington.

One old building of which everyone tells you is the Logan farm, between Dover and the bay. The first legislature met in this old building. It has an attic, in which are, or used to be, many relics of the old time.

In Dover itself is the old Cowgill house called the "haunted house." This appears in the story of "The Entailed Hats," but I am afraid they have just naturally driven all the ghosts out by putting on new-fangled porches and actually painting the house!

In hunting up old art and antiquities in Dover I came across a curious old print that is privately owned by Mr. Samuel Carson, of Division street and Delaware avenue. At the top is the inscription:

"A view of part of the town of Boston, in New England, and the British ships of war landing their troops, 1768."

This print was engraved, printed and sold by Paul Revere, Boston (who has since become famous through his supposed exciting ride), at a time when he was extremely loyal to England.—Evening Journal.

sist of one teaspoonful of lime sulphur (stock solution) to a quart of water. Supplement or supplant in bad cases the grain feed with a bran mash made from a solution of one tablespoonful of copper sulphate in one gallon of water. Give the birds plenty of sour milk.

Garden Diseases—The main disease of economic importance to gardeners at this season of the year is the blight and heart rot of celery. The heart rot is a disease which follows the blight and is of serious consequence in that celery so infected will deteriorate when put in storage. Gardeners who notice a yellow coloration in the celery during this period should lose no time in giving a heavy application of bordeaux mixture. Avoid the use of pyrox as several casualties have been reported as the result of arsenic poisoning from pyrox.

VOCATIONAL MEETING IN DOVER, NOVEMBER 9

The Vocational section of the Delaware State Teachers' Association has arranged a very interesting program for Thursday afternoon, November 9th, at Dover. The main addresses will be delivered by Dr. L. H. Dennis, of the State Department of Public Instruction, Harrisburg, Pa., and Miss Adalade Baylor, of the Federal Board for Vocational Education, Washington, D. C.

The Delaware Vocational Teachers' Association was organized a year ago at Dover at the time of the State Teachers' Association meeting. The purpose of this Society is to promote vocational education in every way possible and to afford to all those who are interested opportunities for the presentation and discussion of various problems of vocational education; to make available as far as possible the results of experiences and work accomplished in the various fields of vocational education and related science, both in this country and abroad; to make possible better cooperation with other agencies for the advancement of vocational education.

The present officers are: President, R. W. Heim, Professor of Agricultural Education, University of Delaware, and State Director for Vocational Education, Newark, Delaware; Vice-President, Miss Elizabeth Houston, Home Economics Instructor, Middletown High School, Middletown, Delaware; Secretary-Treasurer, R. L. Jacobs, Industrial Vocational Instructor, Wilmington High School, Wilmington, Delaware.

The Executive Committee—L. C. Armstrong, representing Agricultural Education; Miss Elisabeth Amery, representing Home Economics Education; and A. B. Anderson, representing Trade and Industrial Education, together with the officers listed above.

In Appreciation

To the many friends and neighbors who were so thoughtful and attentive to our every wish during our recent bereavement, we extend our most sincere thanks and appreciation.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Conner.

David Warfield at Playhouse

David Belasco will present Mr. Warfield as Shylock in Wm. Shakespeare's "The Merchant of Venice" at the Playhouse, Wilmington, on Friday evening, November 10th, for an engagement of two nights, with a matinee on Saturday, preceding his appearance at the Lyceum Theatre, New York.

Mr. Warfield's supporting cast will include Philip Merivale, A. E. Anson, Ian MacLaren, Walter Percival, Herbert Grimwood, Albert Bruning, Horace Braham, Reginald Goode, Herbert Ranson, Fuller Mellish, Charles Harbury, P. Vivian, Morris Strassberg, Edward H. Wever, Edward Crandall, Ward de Wolfe, Nick Long, H. Brown, Miss Mary Servoss, Miss Mary Ellis, Miss Julia Adler.

Father was Horrified

Susan was having her first beau, a youngster who drove a truck. And often when he came to Susan's home at night, since he lived in the other part of the town, he came in the truck. The family continually twitted her about it, saying such things as "I suppose the neighbors will think we're having our coal hauled at night," or "our flour" or some other commodity.

But one evening even father was horrified when one of the 10-year-old boys in the neighborhood said innocently, "My pa said that your pa would get pinched some night if he didn't quit having so much booze hauled here after dark."

Investigation disclosed the fact that the truck that stood at their door one evening each week was an old brewery truck.—Indianapolis News.

Local Farm News from County Agent

Certified Seed Potatoes—To determine the status of the certified seed potatoes placed among the farmers through the carload purchased by the Farm Bureau, the County Agent mailed a questionnaire to each farmer who received some of the seed. The majority of the questionnaires have been filled in and returned and are to the effect that in many cases the certified seed in yield doubled that of the locally purchased or home grown seed, and without exception every farmer indicated a desire for more of the certified seed next spring. The Extension Department of the University of Delaware, in co-operation with the New Castle County Farm Bureau, will doubtless arrange for a shipment of another car load next spring.

Soil Survey—The County Agent has been assisting Prof. G. L. Schuster, of the Department of Agronomy, in conducting a soil survey relative to lime requirements in this county. Several samples of solid have been taken from each community of the county. When this survey is complete and published every farmer of the county will have a fairly definite idea relative to the lime requirement of the soil on his particular farm. It is needless to say that every sample taken has indicated a need of lime. On the average, the lime requirement of the soils in this county run from 1,000 to 1,500 pounds of hydrated lime or slightly less for the burned lime.

Poultry Disease—Poultry growers are experiencing a rather serious outbreak of Infectious Enteritis. The symptoms are a general reduced vitality followed by a more or less paralytic condition. This disease is a natural consequence of poultry typhoid outbreak which was prevalent last summer. The following treatment has given satisfactory results in most cases: Drinking water to con-

OVER ELKTON WAY

Bits of News Gathered From Our Neighboring Town During the Week

The work of improving Main street just south of the Court House is almost finished. The street has been widened and the pavements on each side are being raised to a level with the roadway. This accomplishment is greeted with great glee by the residents. The street has always been an eyesore at this point and furthermore has been the cause of many minor accidents caused by cars running off the abrupt shoulders on each side of the street.

Quite a number of Elktonians attended the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the Tome Memorial Church in Port Deposit last Monday. The celebration took on a State-wide aspect and many distinguished visitors were present during the several exercises during Monday and Tuesday. The church is the gift of Jacob Tome, founder of the Tome School and one of the pioneers in Maryland educational circles. The opening sermon was delivered by Rev. Harvey Ewing, of Wilmington. District Superintendent Vaughn Collins, of Salisbury, Md., preached the evening sermon. On Tuesday Rev. A. S. Mowbray, of Washington, D. C., was the principal speaker.

An unusual piece of real estate finance and dealing took place in Elkton the latter part of last week which proved that the gentle art of swapping has not entirely given way to more modern business methods. Mrs. Richard Ott of this town traded two local properties, one of them being her home estate, to W. P. Cooney, owner of the Maryland Hotel property at Rising Sun. The transfer will not disturb the management of that famous old hostelry and the Dunbar boys will conduct it as usual. It is very seldom that such a unique deal is closed involving such valuable real estate. All of which goes to show that Elkton doesn't give a hang for conventions anyhow.

The approach of the gunning season has caused more activity in the office of County Clerk H. W. Lewis. Enthusiastic hunters, good bad and indifferent, have applied for the necessary license to give them a crack at Brer Rabbit and his associates. Up until Monday night Mr. Lewis has issued over 1500 licenses for the coming season. Believe it or not, his office is not the easiest in the roster of the county. If it isn't hunting permits it's marriage licenses, this added to his other duties. And the worst part of it is that prospective brides and grooms have an annoying habit of calling upon his services at all hours in the day and night. To say he is a busy man these days would be putting it mildly.

Elkton's crack football team trounced the soldiers from Aberdeen Saturday on the local grounds, 75-0. Touchdowns came in rapid succession and the busiest man on the sidelines was the score-keeper. There was little opposition offered by the visitors, and the Elkton backs ran through the line and around the ends with great abandon. From an Elkton viewpoint, it was an impressive victory, but such easy wins often do more harm than good to the morale of the team. The people of the town are eagerly awaiting word from Newark, relative to a big inter-borough game in the near future. So far, the Delawareans have not put a team on the field.

Delaware Remembered

"If you would read my epitaph, look about you."

These words are carved over an arch in St. Pauls, London, in memory of Christopher Wren, the great English architect. They express fittingly the work of citizens of Delaware who have so gloriously provided for the War Memorial Library in honor and loving memory of our Dead. Delaware remembered. Strangely, sadly, lovingly the words strike upon our ear. A feeble expression, true, for the lives of those who sleep Over There, but it was all we could do. It was our last and best for them. Delaware remembered and in the Memory paid tribute to them and gave to our sons and daughters an insight into the character of Delaware today. And gave, too, an inspiration for all the years to come.

Delaware remembered. Standing in the Shadow of History. She heard the call of Conscience and Gratitude and gave freely of time and wealth to the Cause. Delaware remembered and gave practically to the Future as well as devotedly to the Past. For tomorrow, our Sons and Daughter will read the story of our lives and History, and inspired by what their State did today will "Carry on."

Words cannot express or depict the glory, the joy and worth of service. And in the week just closed, so many gloriously and patriotically served their day and generation.

Children tomorrow, History, tomorrow, will thank those who so lovingly labored for them. Language today fails. Only Time can express the deserved appreciation. To have lived and had a part, however small, has been an honor, a privilege and an inspiration.

Delaware remembered!

If Tomorrow would read the epitaph of Today, let her look about her as She wanders through the fields of Art and Literature, the byways of History and Tradition—for

Civic Ancestry

Napoleon on being asked concerning his ancestry, pertinently replied: "Ancestry,—I have no ancestry. I am an Ancestor. My ancestry dates from the Battle of Montenotte." That master genius dated his ancestry and felt its pride, from a great event, which he had conceived and was master of and from which came the rights and privileges of men in France. From that deed came the recognition of work as well as blood. After that success, every soldier carried "a Marshal's baton in his knapsack." From that came recognition of deeds done by sons as well as by blood of fathers. Present accomplishments stood equal with past royalties. From his ancestry, dating from actual service and ability to succeed against the world's greatest uprising of blood and unreason, came The France of today.

With the same thought in mind which dominates the world's progress, we should like to inquire Mr. Bayard—What have you done? When and where, and from what service to your State or Nation, do you date your civic ancestry? What deed or event do you have in mind that prompts you to boast and plead for recognition? Son of a Bayard and grandson of a Bayard but what have you yourself done further than live in the reflection of their work. Proud you are, and rightfully so, of such blood but you are asking much of your State today. And their work and service was recognized in their day. They received the rewards and recognition of their generation and written history to date has indeed been very generous to them. Surely you do not ask for recognition for what your fathers did.

Delaware today, America today—the world today asks not who your father was but what you yourself can do. Delaware asks naught of your ancestry by blood but inquires interestedly and specifically—What is your Ancestry in deeds and service to your State and Nation? By inheritance a prominent citizen, by nature, training and choice a good citizen, but what is the event in your civic and political life that prompts you to ask, with such confidence, the leadership in National Halls of Congress, as the representative of this proud State? With naught but respect for you as a citizen and a gentleman, what has been your specific success and experience in affairs, state or national, civic or economic, that causes you to ask for association in conference in the nation's greatest problems in the world's period of greatest stress. A responsibility of terrific proportions, demanding in our judgement previous wide acquaintance with men, experience in international economics. Your ability to do can be judged only by what you have done. What has been your experience, your association with such men and such problems?

Upon this and these, make your plea and not upon ancestral photographs of fathers and homes—leaving out the recent Bohemia Manor estate.

Deeds, conceived by your brain, experiences enjoyed by your life, events executed by your service,—from these date your civic ancestry.

What is it?

Robert Gallaher

The local Republican candidate for Representative in the General Assembly is Robert Gallaher. He needs no introduction to this community. No word from us would increase the esteem and confidence in which he is held. If it were possible we should add that word. His life among us, his experience and sympathy with us, make him an exceptional man to represent Newark. Honor, honesty, integrity, sympathy and calm good judgement, in everything are words that describe him. He is the pride of his party in Newark and his election means that this community will be represented in a way that will be a pride to every one.

PLAY FAIR

A Passing Discussion on the Campaign

There has been a great deal of discussion by Democratic speakers and newspapers concerning increased expenditures of the State administration for the past 20 years under Republican management. Also criticism of Republican campaigners for avoiding local issues. These are both pertinent and are worthy of serious attention and reply. Voters more than ever before are reading and thinking. In a casual reply, let us ask our Democrat citizens to play fair and not cloud the issue by suppressing reasonable facts.

Expenses have increased. Admitted. Seriously so. Still admitted. Commissions and Boards have increased. Admitted and with pride. But in any discussion of public or private affairs, reason prompts us to recognize receipts when expenditures are under discussion. Any business would do it. Any review of personal expenses increasing would prompt a looking over receipts to see if they have increased accordingly. Then surely in any fair play discussion of State affairs, the same method would prevail. Just glance at this.

	Receipts	Expenditures	Balance
1903	$ 420,704.74	$ 446,559.93	Deficit
1919	3,259,721.98	2,425,681.28	$834,040.70

Rather interesting increases in everything. A deficit in 1903 and a balance of $834,040.70 in 1919. That is Republican defense and reply if it is necessary.

Again take the office of Secretary of State. Glance at the increased receipts from an official report compiled in 1919.

Revenue Through the Secretary of State's Office and Franchise

1919	1,051,589.14	228,834.19	286,334	1,226	90,498.30

Twenty years ago, no corporation business. Today receipts running in figures of a million and over. Would our Democratic lawyer candidates do away with expense to carry on this business? In 1910 automobile license business receipts were $9,394. Today increased business makes it upwards of $350,000. And so with every source of income, licenses, franchises, and legal fees. Of course expenses have increased. But receipts have piled up out of all proportion to these increases. Take just one Department, Secretary of State office. Twenty years ago, just an office for clerical and state official duties. Today upward of 80,000 corporation papers and nearly 25,000 automobiles, aside from all the other increased duties attending. No business office in this State, public or private, is so ill equipped, harder worked and more efficiently managed than that office. We challenge Mr. Bayard, Mr. Boyce or any of their associates who know of it as they do, to deny it.

These are just passing illustrations. Official records are full of them and the leading candidates on the Democratic ticket know it. Their work and profession make them familiar with the facts. So they need search further for argument for getting into office than references to increased expenditures, not mentioning the attending increased business and receipts that the last twenty years have brought to every walk of life.

Again there have been increased expenses by innovations necessitating Boards and Commissions. Admitted. But would our candidates do away with these? To their credit, their party, in several instances, have worked with the party in power to bring about these improvements and Commissions. To recite a few. Would they do away with the Women's College? Would they restrict boys from the advantages at Delaware College? Don't they want the State Farm? Would they curtail work at the State Hospital?

Do they wish to abolish the Labor Commission, the Industrial Accident Board, the Mothers' Pension, the Feeble Minded Commission? Would they close the last door of hope to the blind, and child welfare? Would they give up the fight being waged by the Anti-Tuberculosis Commission? Would they close the Summer School for Teachers? Would they go back to the roads of twenty years ago today? Will they go back to the educational advantages of then,—selfishly knowing that private schools would take care of their children now as they have done in the past?

These are just a few but ample to illustrate events. The ideals and the ideas of every one of these innovations have been to increase the joy and standard of living and to make easier and more efficient life in Delaware. And our Democratic friends should not throw the dust of prejudice or misinformation. Play fair and give both sides of the issue.

Nationally, our opponents are at sea, paying a compliment to the Harding Administration in their very criticism. "Congress has not done enough,"—admitting by force of facts, budget economies, better business, par Liberty Bonds and fast increasing normalcy in business and international relations.

So, not by inheritance, but by facts national and local, in keeping with State and National History, the Republican Party has rightful and practical claim to continuance in power.

By supporting the President and the history of Delaware for 20 years, there will in our judgement, result a continued prosperity and advance in the chance to live and work—especially for the rank and file of citizenship of which we are a member and whom we love so well.

NEWS OF THE

WOMEN'S COLLEGE

Founder's Day, or Anniversary Day, is to be observed at the Women's College on Saturday, November 4th. The Sophomore class will plant a tree on the campus, and Grace Reed, president of class of 1925, will pass the spade on to the class of 1926, which will be received by Lillian Looze, captain of the Freshman class. Republican Facts

The record of the Republican Congress speaks forcibly for itself. It needs no defense and to the reasonable observer, it withstands all the attacks yet made by our Democrat candidates.

"We found a debt of $24,000,000,000, a major portion of which was due to Democratic incompetency, and an annual interest charge of $1,000,000,000.

"In the first year we paid off $350,000,000 of the principal of the debt.

"We found the most disastrous revenue system with which the country was ever cursed.

"We passed a new law and reduced the burden of taxes upon the people by $819,000,000 a year.

"We found the Liberty bonds selling for 85 cents on the dollar.

"We brought them to par.

"We found an army of 230,000 men.

"We have reduced it to 135,000.

"We found a navy of 133,765.

"We have reduced it to 96,000.

"We found total appropriations for 1920 of $7,348,259,415.37.

"We reduced it in 1922 to $3,909,782,209.46.

"We found 640,175 civil employees.

"We reduced them in one year by 71,849.

Saved Trade, Succored Farmers

"We found the doors of our country open to the trade and cheap labor of the world.

"We closed them by temporary tariffs and will regulate them by a scientifically adjusted tariff law.

"We found the farmers of the country threatened with disaster as war contracts closed and deflation from Democratic waste and inflation came.

"We aided them by timely legislation, through the Federal farm loan system and the War Finance Corporation, until today farm prosperity is on the way.

"We found a state of war with Germany.

"We ended it.

"We found an entangling League of Nations.

"We gave the world disarmament and a dream of peace realized.

"We found American prestige at its lowest ebb.

"We placed it in the forefront of the nations.

The hall was decorated with orange and black crepe paper, autumn leaves, cornstalks and pumpkins. The music was furnished by Madden's Orchestra, and it was especially lively. Claret and crullers were served during intermission. There were about 125 couples in attendance and everyone seemed to have a good time. The patrons and patronesses were Dean Robinson, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Hullihen, Dean and Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Dutton.

Last Saturday Mrs. Henry P. Scott and Miss Draper, of the Wilmington Garden Club, and Miss Marion Cossins, landscape architect of the University, were visitors at the Women's College and discussed with Dean Robinson the plans for the planting of more trees upon the campus next Spring. Miss Cossins also indicated the place for the Sophomores to plant their tree on Founders' Day.

portunity to spawn it will only be a short time before they are ready to give plenty of sport to local anglers.

In addition to this activity, the Association is open for bids on the contracting work connected with the proposed dam at Dayett's old mill, near Cooch's Bridge. The plans call for the complete transformation of the present site into a big fishing pond and stocking it with fish. The plans were drawn up by Prof. Robert Thoroughgood of the University Engineering School. They may be seen by prospective bidders by calling on Prof. Thoroughgood or Mr. Widdows. One bid has already been received and the contract should be let within a few days at the least. If such is the case, work will commence immediately.

COMMUNITY CLUB HOLD HALLOWEEN PARTY

Members of the Pleasant Valley Community Club held their annual Halloween frolic last Thursday night. It was one of the best attended functions ever given by the association, more than 100 persons taking part in the fun. The Pleasant Valley School-house, where the frolic was held, was beautifully decorated for the occasion and gave a splendid opportunity for the games and refreshments. Every kind of masker was in attendance from clowns, tramps, gypsies, to Palm Beach dandies. Prizes were given for the best costumes, the judges being Charles Walton, W. C. Schwartz and W. F. Wood. Mrs. William David won the first prize, her costume of a Palm Beach dandy attracting much attention. Miss Alice Rambo won the second prize, her costume of a country boy was very good.

It has been determined by the Club to have a campaign for new members and at the meeting next month committees will be formed for the work.

HOLD FESTIVAL

The Clover Leaf Sewing Club held one of its delightful club festivals at the home of its local leader, Mrs. Clarke McCarns, on Tuesday evening of last week. The sum of $46.85 was cleared by the workers and the money turned over to a fund which will be expended to buy material for the coming year.

In A Social Way

On Saturday evening, October 28th, Mr. and Mrs. Conrad K. D. Lewis gave a Halloween party at their home on Academy Street. Upon arrival at the front door the guests were greeted by two huge pumpkin faces and a detour sign arrow pointing in the darkness to the side of the house. At the cellar door a ghost greeted them and directed them to the kitchen where they were numbered and allowed to pass on.

The house was tastefully decorated with crepe paper, black cats, witches, corn fodder and pumpkins. Games pertaining to Halloween were played and fortunes told. Refreshments were served, at a late hour, in the cellar beside the witch's glowing fire.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. H. Pedrick, Mr. and Mrs. Walker Hoopes, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baylis, Mrs. Melvin, Misses Elva Chandler, Elizabeth Knorr, Helen White, Louise Coe, Elsie Coe, Azalia James, Helen Castner, Messrs. Wm. UNITED STATES POST OFFICE

Newark, Delaware,

October 30, 1922.

Use of Small Cards and Envelopes to be Discouraged

In connection with the preparations being made to handle the mails during the forthcoming Christmas holidays, postmasters are requested to make every proper endeavor to secure the co-operation of manufacturers, dealers and the public generally, in the elimination of small cards and envelopes, and to discourage the use of small "greetings" cards and envelopes that the Postal Service may be relieved of the burden of handling them.

The use of cards and envelopes smaller than those generally used for mailing purposes seriously retards and disarranges work in the post office at a time when the postal facilities are taxed to the utmost. Small sized cards and envelopes frequently cannot be run through the cancelling machines, thus necessitating cancelling the stamp by hand, and other extra handlings in course of their facing, distribution, etc.; the addresses are likely to be obliterated by the cancellation mark; they do not fit the separating cases in use throughout the Postal Service, and cannot be tied securely with letter packages. Furthermore, there is not sufficient space for directions for forwarding, in cases where it is necessary to forward such matter in order to reach the addressee. In no case should cards and envelopes be smaller than 2 1/4 by 4 inches and a size somewhat larger is preferred.

W. IRVING GLOVER,

Third Assistant Postmaster General.

Wooly Dogs Are Useful

A widely known actress, says Nelson Keys, lost a little dog. She did not lose it for publicity purposes, having a genuine affection for her pet, and she besought the police to find it for her.

She spent a night of agony. Next day, to her infinite relief, a constable called upon her, with the dog under his arm. The dog was very wet and very dirty, but the actress clasped it to her bosom and covered it with kisses.

"Where did you find my darling?" she asked the constable.

"Why, mum," replied the policeman, "a fellow had him on a pole and was washing windows with him."—Answer, London.

PARENT-TEACHER MEETING HELD IN NEW SCHOOL

First of State-Wide Demonstration Series in Newark.
Many Visitors Attend

G. S. WORMLEY SPEAKS

Newark and community had the honor last Thursday evening of inaugurating the State-wide series of demonstration lessons to be held over the various districts during the current school year. These meetings are planned by the State Parent-Teacher Association, and are primarily given to enable the officers and teachers and members of the local Associations the benefit derived from the practical demonstrations of modern schoolroom methods. The first meeting of the series was for the people of this community and was held in the new colored school building north of town.

The first topic of the years as given Thursday evening was: "What the School Should Do for the Child." Mrs. John B. Cleaver, State President of the Association, presided and carried on the meeting. She turned over the demonstration to Mr. G. Smith Wormley, director of practice teaching at the Miner Normal School, Washington, D. C. Mr. Wormley taught a model reading class, and showed by the actual demonstration, the modern methods in reading instruction. This was a new departure from the regular form of the meetings, and proved of great value to the assembled teachers and parents alike.

Following the demonstration, Mr. Wormley gave a short address on the modern system of training children in the manner in which a teacher may help the pupil to "find himself."

Following this, the speaker stated that all children vary in their ability, and that the methods of testing developed by educators all over the country have proved successful in every case. It is the only way to insure against forcing a child into the wrong channels. Mr. Wormley showed how it is possible for the teacher to make a mental estimate of each child's ability during the regular teaching hours, and thus place him in the proper grade according to his ability, rather than waste valuable time and energy by confining him to grade work to which he is not adapted.

The speaker also made clear the fact that the modern school methods as practiced in a majority of States aim toward two main objectives, first, to discover the child's ability, and second, to provide adequate means for his development along the line he is fitted for.

Visitors were present at the meeting from Mt. Pleasant, Hockessin, Newport, Marshalltown, St. Georges, Middletown, Townsend and Leeds Chapel. The evident interest of the district in the series of meetings was clearly manifested at the meeting. The new colored school building was inspected by the members present and pronounced a most adequate and modern building. The Newark Public Schools were represented by Mr. Owens and several teachers.

ACCURATE AMONG THE SPORTS BREEZY

NEWARK HIGH CRUSHES DELAWARE CITY 81-0

Team Far Outclasses Visitors in Interesting Game

PLAY 2ND HALF

A long drawn out game which to the spectators resembled a football match, ended with a complete demolition of the Delaware City team last Friday afternoon on the High School field to the tune of 81-0.

The loss of the actual play was from the beginning the Delaware City team showed a complete lack of football knowledge. Their attack was feeble and on the defense, their players were completely out of sync. The one thing they did do was to fight hard and keep the local gridirers outwitted. When it is pointed out that at least fifteen pounds to the Delaware City team, in addition to the advantage of team play and the fact that the Delaware City team was put up by Delaware City, the result is a foregone conclusion.

Touchdowns came with amazing frequency throughout the game, the Delaware City team being scored in the first minute of play. All varieties of plays were run off by Townsend, the diminutive Delaware City quarterback, and on many occasions were they stopped without gain. The pretties play of the game from the spectators' viewpoint was a forty yard forward pass by Townsend to a receiver late in the second half, resulting in a difficult catch and touchdown.

Beginning the second half, Coach Townsend sent in a mob of second string players. They took up the burden and played at will during the remainder of the game.

One of the most loyal rooters for the Delaware City team was W. B. Miller, a member of the famous class of 1906 of Delaware College. Incidentally, he was manager of the first Delaware City team which really showed winning form and which went into intercollegiate competition that year.

Next Friday Newark tackles Ben Miller's Dover aggregation in the most important game of the season so far. On the form displayed thus far and barring the harmful influence of overconfidence, Wilson's team should make it hot for the Capital City boys.

THE SPORTING TICKER

A Column Devoted to Clean Athletics and Sportsmanship, written by one who loves the Game.

THE HUMAN ELEMENT IN FOOTBALL

The writer of this column has not completely recovered from the shock of Penn's unexpected and sensational victory over the Navy, on Franklin Field, Saturday. Along with some 2,000,000 other football fans of this section of the East, he decided that Penn should have chosen some other day for the dedication of their new stadium and thus be spared the uncomfortable feeling resulting from seeing their hopefuls battered about the big enclosure by the husky Middies. And along with the aforesaid 2,000,000 others, he was beautifully, completely and financially fooled.

Here is one of the many explanations of the great victory for the sons of Old Penn which seems most convincing and complete:

"You cannot figure the human element in football. Penn proved this again on Saturday. All the dope in the world cannot take into account the vital spark that comes to a man to arouse him to the heights of his game."

The Red and Blue staged one of the biggest upsets in some seasons by that 13 to 7 defeat of the Navy when virtually everybody said it could not be done; and they did it because they were aroused to a fighting pitch that nobody dreamed was possible.

Outraged by the Middies more than two to one still, they conquered by playing wide-awake football and holding them when the going was hardest. Saturday came the culmination of everything the Penn coaches have been working and hoping for all season, and the game itself was the whole season's training condensed into an hour's play and flashed to public eye.

With all the early training devoted to building defense the team went out Saturday to play throughout the early part of the game on defense, to make Navy do the attacking and run work of the coaches has been to bring along the offensive, building up the attack and arouse the fighting instincts of the players. The latter part of the game saw the Penn team uncorking everything it had in the way of offense and it was enough.

Thurman's Great Defense

In all the history of Penn football it is doubtful whether any more brilliant defensive play has been seen than that exhibited by John Thurman. Saturday he rose to heights reminiscent of Eddie Green's play and that of the host of magnificent defensive men Penn has known.

The fact that the Navy team was held and its strength pretty much battered out in the first half was a personal tribute to Thurman. Time after time as the Middle backs came through or around the Penn line Thurman literally battered them to earth and they could not avoid him. Undoubtedly his tackling punished them terribly and sapped their strength. Today he is an All-American, and All-Eastern, and all-anything in the azure where the football brilliants shine.

Every man on that Penn team deserves commendation and more. Pos Miller, the man they made captain, and whose work has not stood up previously this season, came into his own. For yards off the tackles, those short thrusts that earn first downs and touchdowns, Penn has not better.

One thing this victory certainly should do for Penn. It is the biggest triumph in many years and should be the making of the team by keeping alive that spirit which generates the ability to win.—T. Von Ziekursch in Public Ledger.

DUCKS

Oodles of them—whole armies—clouds of them darkening the sky, then underneath them you in a well-concealed sink box, a pair of your favorite guns and plenty of shells. Is that not a recipe for a perfect day?

Reports coming up from the Chesapeake flats state that the ducks are there in abundance and are in readiness for the annual fall sport of dodging the Gun. To many people the art of ducking is merely a matter of lying out in an open boat with the waves lapping over the side and down your trouser leg and waiting for a couple of thousand ducks to come swooping down upon you. Then the sport takes on a different angle. The business of waiting gives way to apparent desire to fire as many shells as Providence and a good gun barrel will permit. The unfortunate wingers which happen to come within range of the aimless barrage then fall to the water and float around until it is convenient for the hunter to pick them up. When the boat is well filled, the gentleman with the launch comes up and transfers the cargo, and the hunter goes home and treats the neighbors to a duck dinner. His wife concocts all kinds of dishes in which it is possible to use duck and there are still many left over. And they call it sport.

But this type of duck shooting is becoming as rare as the proverbial rubber hatchet. In days gone by the Chesapeake flats were swarming with the birds, and under the sheltering guise of so-called sport, an annual slaughter took place. But today the ducks are thinned out and their ranks hold great vacancies. A man does not have many chances at a big covey, and takes his shots as they offer a chance worth while. Furthermore, wing shooting is not the easiest method of bringing down game, particularly when it is pointed out that a Teal or Mallard can and usually does fly as fast as 50 or 60 miles an hour and often faster. Flying at this speed at an angle to the muzzle offers all the sport necessary to try one's ability as a marksman. No, ducking is not by any means a wholesale autumn slaughter. If you want more proof, try winging them at fifty yards when they are in high gear.

The Eastern Basketball League starts on its current season this week. It is expected that three of the six clubs now in the circuit will finish the season intact. In most of the cages, Marquis of Queensberry rules will be enforced.

Middletown Easily Beats St. Luke of Wilmington

Middletown defeated St. Luke's of Wilmington Saturday afternoon at the former's grounds, by the score of 19 to 6. The Middletown boys held twice when the St. Luke boys threatened to score touchdowns. It was the second game for Middletown and they played good football. Due to the warm weather the players suffered but this did not in any way effect the quality of the game put up by Middletown.

Passing Show

The Messrs. Shubert announce the coming engagement of the big New York Winter Garden's annual revue, "The Passing Show," which comes to the Playhouse, Wilmington, on November 14 and 15.

In the cast are: Helen Remstrom, Sam Howard, Alexandra Dagmar, Will H. Philbrick, Peggy Brown, John Quindan, Norman Hamilton, William Pringle, Lillian Norworth, Jack Rice, Marie Gleason, Bob Gilbert, Margaret Wood, Frank Masters, Bessie Haban, Anthony Joachim, Victor Borash, Jack Hall, Abe Aronson, Francis Mahoney, Dempsey and Vaughn, and many others, besides a chorus of seventy-five glorious girls gorgeously gowned.

DANGEROUS

"I have heard so much about your Wild West," remarked the foreign visitor. "Show me one of your dangerous characters."

"The prosperous looking man you see getting out of the motor car across the street is one."
"Not a cowboy, surely?"
"No. He's an oil promoter."

Delaware Loses To P. M. C.

Cadets Uncork Aerial Attack in Last Quarter and Overcome Lead

Near Riots In Stands

The Blue and Gold of Delaware again went down to defeat, this time before their old and honored rivals, P. M. C. on Saturday afternoon in Chester, 6-2.

Practically the entire student body of the University accompanied the team and rooted long and hard for their favorites, and although their hopes were eventually crushed they saw a real football game which held a goodly share of thrills for all concerned. The scoring was all accomplished in the last two quarters. From the opening whistle until half time the two teams battled on even terms, and neither gained any appreciable ground. Delaware showed the ablest defense all through the game. The much touted Worst and the Allens found no hole through which they could wriggle. Magaw and Price turned them in on attempted runs, and left the runner with only one possible thing to do—run into the waiting arms of Goffigon, Akin, McKelvie or Cole. It was indeed a joy to see that line in action Saturday, and the great numbers of alumni who witnessed the struggle were united in praising it.

But the Delaware invaders were noticeably helpless before the systematic forward passing of the Cadets, and this glaring weakness ultimately caused their downfall. Late in the last quarter P. M. C. started their deadly overhead attack, and straight down the field they marched. Pass after pass went over the line and into the waiting arms of a Cadet. Delaware's secondary defense made frantic attempts to cover eligible men, but there always seemed to be one loose somewhere. Finally, Mc-

Caffery hurled the ball over to the left of the line of scrimmage with about thirty yards separating him from the goal line. Elliott of P. M. C. was waiting for it and got away for the simple reason that there was no one near him. Steel finally brought him down, but not before he had rolled over the line for the winning score. It was plainly evident to all who were present that Delaware has no defense for the forward pass. If they have, they left it in Newark Saturday. Their defense in the other departments is without reproach, and the backfield did noble work throughout the game. That made it particularly hard to lose the big game of the year.

Immediately following the P. M. C. touchdown a young free for all fight started in the Delaware stands between the loyal supporters of the Blue and Gold and a crowd of belligerent Chesterites, who had continually kept up a running fire of verbal abuse directed at the Delaware followers. The touchdown was hard enough to bear, but when the hoodlums in the upper part of the stands increased their howlings, it was too much. Several students mounted the stands and dragged down some of the agitators. In an instant a small riot was in progress, and only through the prompt action of mounted officers was it confined to one or two small encounters. No casualties were reported, except that several ladies were knocked down by the force of the rush.

Jack Williams, Ike Elliott and Doc Steel starred in the Delaware backfield. McDonald did some pretty off-tackle plunging. Cherpak disappointed many of his supporters by continual fumbling of punts, many times greatly endangering the Delaware goal line. The lineup:

SPLENDID RACING AT GLASGOW TRACK

Cherry Willis Steps Mile in 2:10 3/4

With the largest entry and crowd present at any of the matinees thus far held at their new track at Glasgow, the Pencader B. and A. A. staged, on Saturday, one of the best shows held in this vicinity for a number of years.

The main attraction of the afternoon, of course, was the performance of that grand little pacing mare, Cherry Willis, 2:06 1/4, by Peter the Great. Handicapped with a stiff breeze and a new track the mare and her driver were given a rousing cheer from the crowd.

Aside from the special feature, the best attraction of the afternoon was the performance of Fatima Axworthy, 2:15 1/4, which established a trotting record for the new course—stepping the second heat in 2:18 flat, thereby filling the Wilmington owner's cup to overflowing.

LODGE NOTES

Ivy Castle No. 23, K. G. E., will attend in a body the services at the Ebenezer Church next Sunday morning. All members are hereby requested to attend. They will assemble in the Lodge room promptly at 10 o'clock.

The local Tribe of Red Men, accompanied by their band, went on what might be called the "friendly" war path last night and journeyed in a body to the Halloween celebration in Avondale, Pa. There they joined in the big parade and reported that their Pennsylvania neighbors showed them a mighty good time. The Red Men's Band made a most impressive showing and many complimentary remarks were directed their way during the parade. Although smaller than some parades the Avondale citizens put over the affair in fine style.

RED MEN WILL PAY VISIT

Minnehaha Tribe No. 23, Improved Order of Red Men of Newark, are planning to pay a visit to Elkton, Md., on Wednesday evening, November 15, 1922, for the purpose of hearing the long talk of the Great Incahony of the United States, who will be in Elkton on this date as paying a visit to his Brother Red Men. There will be an adoption of pale faces in the Armory at Elkton on this occasion by a Crack Degree Team, and preceding the adoption of pale faces there will be a parade of Red Men through the Main streets of Elkton, with the Great Incahony at the head of the line, and after the adoption of pale faces there will be corn and venison served to all in the Armory.

Minnehaha Tribe No. 23 will be accompanied by their band and expect to leave Newark about 6.30 P. M. by automobiles, and this is a rare chance for all Red Men to have a good night's outing as well as to hear the long talk of the Great Incahony of the United States, a talk which is seldom heard by the country tribes, it will be interesting to all Red Men of Newark to make this a great Red Men's night by joining in the gang and following their band to Elkton.

JOYOUS HALLOWEEN CELEBRATION

and met with the approval of the great majorities of parents and friends of the competitors.

The parade, although featured as the big event of the night, had to share its importance with the Masquerade Ball, which commenced about ten o'clock in the spacious Armory. This party really constituted the climax for the hilarious evening. Almost three hundred people crowded into the hall and danced from ten until one in the morning. And what a motley crew they were. Cowboys from the wild ranges of Newark mingled nonchalantly with sailors from the Elk River Navy Yard. Hoboes somehow found their way in and were soon dancing around with colonial dames and ballet dancers as if they had known them all their lives. Even Romeo, the only historical rival of the noted Sheik was present and although mourning the absence of his Juliet and minus the services of his trusty ladder, he managed to have a good time. Some of the flappers and Paris fashion plates who were present showed many entirely new and novel arrangements concerning the proper wearing of clothes. Music was furnished in large and copious quantities by Vic's Orchestra, aided and abetted by the allround work of Sterling Dunbar. The only thing that Sterling didn't play was his mouth organ. For a time the orchestra had some whirlwind competition in the form of a visiting band over in one corner, but they soon left because there was no room to sit down. Many of the dances were tag affairs and the great crowd of unattached men at one end of the Armory were eagerly led in upon the unsuspecting couples by "Slim" Giles, he being the only man who could open up a passage for the taggers.

All in all it was one of the most jolly, carefree, hilarious and good-natured parties held in this vicinity in many a day. Everyone had a good time whether they won a prize or not. They were all friends and fellow frolicers about the shrine of Halloween. Both the Committees in charge of the whole affair and the participants thereof are to be heartily congratulated upon the great success they attained. And furthermore a word of praise should be directed to the generosity and civic activity of the various merchants, both in Elkton and in Wilmington and nearby points, for the prizes which made the parade worth while.

It is hoped that Elkton may take courage by the showing this year and make the Halloween Parade an annual affair. It is most commendable that these old-time holidays and the joys derived therefrom should be kept alive in the hearts of the children and grown-ups as well.

Striking New Red Cross Poster

Riveting the attention of the beholder on the fact that the American Red Cross is chartered by Congress as an official volunteer relief organization the dome of the Capitol at Washington, upon which is superimposed a large Red Cross, is the central figure of a new poster for the Annual Red Cross Roll Call. The poster, which has been pronounced one of the most striking of innumerable representations of the famous dome, is the work of Franklin Booth, a New York artist of wide renown. It will be displayed throughout the country during the Roll Call period, Armistice Day to Thanksgiving, when the Red Cross membership for 1922 will be enrolled.

HIS MAJESTY THE STORK

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Batterby, of this place, are receiving congratulations upon the recent birth of a baby girl. The young lady's name is Audrey.

A little visitor came to grace the home of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Proud, of Tarrytown, N. Y., last week. The event took place in the Homeopathic Hospital, Wilmington, and the little girl was christened Isabelle. Mrs. Proud before her marriage was Miss Elizabeth Wright, of this place.

"ONE OF THE FINEST CAMPAIGNS I HAVE EVER ENTERED"

Director of Library Drive Deeply Grateful for Wonderful Co-operation and Friendship of People of Delaware

LOYALTY AND STATE PRIDE OUTSTANDING IMPRESSIONS

Although still forging along at high speed in his efforts to wind up the Library Campaign, and with his office door continually opening to admit some member of his staff for a hurried conference, the director of the great State-wide Memorial Library Drive still had time to talk for a little while upon his impressions and comments which he had saved up during his activity in this section. And when I called early Monday morning he was ready and as soon as I could find a seat and before I could think of a question he was off. That's the type of man he is—energetic, forceful and dynamic. He never waits for you. He is usually several steps ahead. And while he talked—easily and steadily, he accomplished a dozen little jobs waiting on his desk for his attention. Of course, he is a man well trained and accustomed to the rush and bustle of a campaign. Campaigning is his vocation. But it is nevertheless a treat to watch him at the helm. When I asked him at the close of the interview for a short farewell message to the people of Newark and the State, he paused and for some time was wrapped in thought. Finally he arose and strode over to the window and gazed over the house tops of Wilmington, bright and cheerful looking in the bright morning sunlight.

"Tell them," he said, "that I am loathe to leave this little State. I have never been accorded the welcome and co-operation from so many wonderful people in all my experience in this work. To the friends of the University and to the people of Newark who showed the way in this great undertaking, I have nothing but praise to offer them. Without their support, I would have failed. With their support, I succeeded. I wish I could, in parting, shake the hands of these fine people, but since that is impossible, I want to take this opportunity to congratulate them for bringing to a successful close this effort to build upon the campus of the State University a living Memorial to those who gave their lives in the service of their country."

Mr. Perry Burgess is a native of Missouri, and received his college training in Kansas. Shortly after his graduation he came East for post-graduate work. He began campaigning in 1917 with the Near East Relief, out of Pittsburgh. He was the National Field Director during their first two campaigns.

Following this work, he plunged into the war drives for the Liberty Loans and then Red Cross. In all his campaigns he achieved marked success and was recognized over the country as one of the ablest of the young campaigners. A few years ago he organized an international campaign in the interests of the Dr. Grenfell expedition to the sufferers in Labrador. This campaign took in England, New Foundland, Canada and the United States. He travelled many months upon the sea along the East coast of Canada with Dr. Grenfell, and also spent several months in Europe in the interests of the expedition. Following this he has conducted all kinds of hospital, church, civic and State campaigns throughout the country. Following his departure from Delaware, Mr. Burgess goes directly to Richmond, Va., where he will conduct a campaign starting today.

A Few Impressions

According to Mr. Burgess, there are three things which impress a visitor to the State of Delaware, and they are, first, the ever present feeling of State pride—a fine token of the love of home and fireside; second, the loyalty of the people of all classes and creeds to the institutions and traditions of their State; and third, that unlike so many larger communities, the people of Delaware come from the old stock, their families date back to the first settlers, their sterling qualities of citizenship and state pride have the beginning in the knowledge that they are descended from the nation's pioneers.

"There are many phases of the Drive which I could easily discuss, but I believe the high points of the whole affair were the showing made by the University and the town of Newark, the great demonstration in Rodney Square last week and the interest shown in the project by the people not even remotely connected with the University. To be sure, large gifts from the rich men of the State were great factors in the success of the Drive, but when it is realized that perhaps 15,000 people of the State contributed, there is no doubt that they are right behind the Memorial at all times."

Mr. Burgess was particularly gratified at the manner in which the men and women who were on the hundreds of committees and teams gave up their valuable time to the work. He figured that at least 800 people gave up approximately a week each of free labor. This amounts to 5,600 weeks, or about 15 years of time was freely given to the cause by business men and women of the State.

"Some day," said this seasoned campaigner, "I want to come back to little Delaware, not in the capacity of a campaign director, nor as a business, but just as Perry Burgess, and I want to see the day when I may renew the warm friendships and acquaintances which it has been my pleasure to enjoy in these eight short weeks. Whether that will ever be possible I don't know. At all events, I shall always keep a warm spot in my heart for Delaware—the First State."

By this time I knew the interview was over as far as he was concerned. Things were beginning to hum in the outer office and once more Perry Burgess, campaigner, buckled into the harness and began driving through another day, full of vim and dash and abundant faith.

PARENT-TEACHER MEETING TOMORROW NIGHT

The Newark Parent-Teacher Association will hold a regular meeting in the High School tomorrow evening at eight o'clock. The announcement made in the Post relative to a meeting last Thursday night was a mistake and we are very sorry to have been in error. However, the meeting tomorrow night will be deserving of attention by all concerned in the movement. Miss Snyder, of the Women's College, will address the gathering on "The School and What It Should Do for the Child." Following Miss Snyder, Miss Cooper, teacher of the Fourth Grade in the local schools, will give a demonstration lesson upon the same general topic and will use some of her children to illustrate the main points of the talk.

This promises to be one of the most interesting meetings of the season and it is hoped that as many as possible will attend. The general topic for the meeting is the same one as is being used throughout the State during November and thus is giving each community a chance to become familiar with it.

Appleton Women's Club

Appleton Women's Club had a mask party at their regular meeting Wednesday October 25, at the home of Mrs. D. Short. The meeting was opened with an apron suggestion and many very pretty and useful aprons were shown. Mrs. H. Smith acted as model and demonstrator. Much fun was enjoyed by the costumes, games and music.

The program included piano selections, Mrs. R. Ford, of Elkton; reading by Mrs. D. Short; solos by Mrs. F. VanSant, Miss E. Hodgeson and Miss B. Ford, and many other pleasant things.

The home was beautifully decorated with orange and black colors, cats, pumpkins, fruits, ghosts and autumn leaves for the occasion.

At the close of the meeting many good refreshments were served. The club agreed to meet November 15 at the home of Mrs. S. Vincent, of Big Elk. Subject of the meeting will be "Christmas Suggestions." Each member is expected to bring one or many suggestions.

STATE SCHOOL LAWS AMENDED

Board of Education Approves Changes

The State Board of Education held a lengthy session in Dover recently, considering suggested changes in the State School laws of 1921, approved the following which will be referred to local school and civic bodies for further consideration:

Allow district trustees and Boards of Education to levy a tax not to exceed 25 cents per $100, without a referendum.

Provide for the sale of property when no longer needed for school purposes.

Allow a school district to bond itself after referendum and approval of the State Board, the same as special districts, and make the districts in question financially responsible for payment of bond and interest.

Place enforcement of the Compulsory School law under the jurisdiction of the justices of the peace.

Authorize the payment for transportation of school children when living more than a certain distance from schools providing the proper grade.

Provide for the organization of junior high schools wherever a 9th grade is taught, instead of the present so-called 9th grade elementary school.

Provide that the ninth grade shall not be added to any school unless a minimum of 10 pupils can be enrolled in such grade.

Authorize Boards of Education to employ teachers before July 1, of the year preceding the time of service of such teachers, and place the appointment of teachers in the hands of the State superintendent after July 1 of the year preceding their time of service in case the school trustees have not elected such teachers.

Change date of school election from third Saturday in June to first Saturday in May.

Define qualifications for voting at school elections. (Page 23, line 21 of School law.)

On page 26 of line 9 of school law, requiring trustees to present monthly reports, omit words "monthly report."

Make it the duty of the attorney-general to conduct for the State Board of Education, or any district board, legal proceedings which may grow out of a contest on any point of the School law.

Authorize the State Board to alter district lines where the trustees of the respective districts and the property owners involved are willing. (This power was in the hands of the old County Commissioners.)

Amend the law which says "all white schools of the State shall be free to all white children of the State etc., by adding the following: "But no pupil shall be permitted to change schools during the year except when such pupil moves his residence, without the consent of all boards concerned, and permission from the State Superintendent; and authorize local Boards of Trustees, and Boards of Education to accept or reject pupils from other districts when the proper grade is taught in their district."

Revise the clause about contracts not extending beyond the school year, so as to permit the building and repair projects paid for from Bond Issues and other contracts, including contracts for transportation, to extend to the end of the biennial school appropriation.

Strike out the $100 per pupil provision for high school support.

Make clear whether or not county tax agencies are to allow discount on school taxes. (New Castle county has allowed such discounts, while Kent and Sussex counties have not.)

Authorize the State Auditor to withhold State appropriations from any district which does not comply with the law in handling its funds.

Pay $200 of the expenses of training elementary teachers in the University of Delaware, on condition that they teach three years in Delaware next succeeding their graduation; the number of scholarships not to exceed sixty.

Provide that the State Board of Education shall hold its organization meeting during July, rather than on the first day of July, and eliminate all other specified dates for State Board meetings.

Provide that when a school is closed, either by the State Board of Education or by consolidation, it shall be lawful to transfer as much of the budget allowance as is necessary for that school, to the transportation account.

Authorize and direct the Levy Courts of Kent and Sussex counties to place at the disposal of the State Board of Education, sufficient funds to pay off the outstanding debts of the Kent and Sussex County Boards of Education, respectively. (Uncollected taxes in New Castle county will take care of the old debts of the New Castle County Board of Education.)

Eliminate in Section 38, "It shall also be the duty of the said State Board of Education to furnish special school districts and to high schools throughout the State all books and supplies to which they may be entitled under the provisions of this act, and to do and assist in every way to bring about the full requirements of this Act throughout the State." Section 23 gives special districts this power.

Insert at end of paragraph 4, section 23, a reference to section 8, and change "three" to "four years" to make them conform to section 8.

Watch and Wait for the Big Annual "Home" One-Cent Sale

Starting Thursday of next week, Nov. 9th

This sale was such a success last year that we exhausted our supply of sale merchandise early in the same. This year we have a very large assortment of goods, but don't take any chances. If you want bargains come early in the sale.

We enjoy accommodating and serving people and we want you to feel at "Home" when you come in our store.

Don't forget that we sell Electric Light Bulbs in all sizes and types, and above all, don't forget the Date on which our One-Cent Sale begins.

BILLIONS of the nation's dollars are kept out of circulation by hoarders. Not long ago a laborer accounted for a couple of thousand of this money. It was his life savings and he had concealed it in a stove. Some thoughtless person started a fire in the stove and reduced his money to ashes. These folks who persist in keeping money in queer places are losing interest, taking dangerous chances and tying up money that ought to be doing the world's work. Banked money helps industry.

$1,441,486 A YEAR'S DISASTER RELIEF COST

Red Cross Aided 145,000 Victims in United States—Losses Total $30,000,000.

Seventy-two disasters, with hundreds reported killed and injured, and more than 145,000 either homeless or requiring assistance, called for emergency relief measures and the expenditure of $1,441,486.30 by the American Red Cross during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1922, according to a statement based on the forthcoming annual report of the Red Cross. The greatest toll of life was taken by hurricane and tornado, while the overflowing of rivers, the breaking of dams and torrential rains drove the greatest number of people from their homes. The property loss was estimated at more than $30,000,000.

The year's disasters reported included twenty-six floods, nineteen tornadoes, fifteen fires, four epidemics, two theatre collapses, two shipwrecks (one an airship), and a bridge collapse, mine explosion, railway collision, and a drought. Of the floods in the United States that at San Antonio, Texas, caused the greatest property loss, $6,000,000 and the high mark of fatalities, 100, while the flood in the vicinity of Vicksburg and Natchez, Miss., forced 81,000 persons from their homes.

A National Calamity

In the Red Cross disaster relief records there will probably remain for many years one calamity which touched nearly every state with a sense of horror and of loss. This was the distressing collapse of the roof of the Knickerbocker Theatre in Washington, D. C., resulting in ninety-six deaths and 125 persons injured. Situated in the center of the beautiful Northwest residential section, this motion picture theatre was patronized by many persons of prominence both in the official and civil life of the National Capital, whose family and personal connections radiated out over the entire country. The horror was intensified by a terrific snowstorm which, though it retarded, did not block Red Cross relief.

Airship Crash Finds Aid at Hand

The crash and destruction of the U. S. Army's large airship Roma in Virginia last February with the loss of 34 officers and men and 11 injured was the first disaster of its kind to call for Red Cross relief in this country. The suddenness of the accident tested the preparedness of the organization and of the Chapter at Hampton, Va., but the response was immediate and relief furnished the survivors, also funds for the expenses of relatives of the dead, who came from long distances to claim their own.

In the year's overseas record for aid rendered by the Red Cross are two fires in the Philippines, one in Manila, which destroyed 1,000 homes, with a loss of $1,500,000 and 5,000 persons made homeless, the other at Tono, which drove 3,000 from their dwellings. In medical relief that was quick and effective the smallpox epidemic in San Domingo, which had a total of 22,000 cases with 225 deaths in a single day, tested the readiness of the Red Cross for action, and the same can be said of the San Domingo hurricane, which killed 12 persons and reduced the homes of 182 persons to wreckage. A flood in San Salvador, with a death toll of 50 and 2,000 refugees, was also effectively handled by the local Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Relief Machinery Perfected

The year has seen the further perfection of disaster relief administrative measures in every field of American Red Cross activity, and that the work may be carried on to still greater accomplishments the American Red Cross is appealing for widespread renewal of membership during the annual Roll Call, to be conducted this year from Armistice Day (November 11) to, and including, Thanksgiving Day (November 30).

Red Cross Roll Call Heard World Around

The Annual Roll Call of the American Red Cross for registration of the membership for 1923 will begin on Armistice Day, November 11, and close on Thanksgiving Day, November 30. The ground work for this stupendous task of re-enrolling the membership throughout the world has been laid in a plan for the first complete and comprehensive system of registration of the Red Cross membership in all its 3,300 active Chapters at home and abroad.

An important feature of the round-the-world Roll Call campaign will be a universal effort to re-enlist the service of war-time Red Cross workers in the peace program by their participation in the Roll Call. In this way the vast army of volunteers will once more affiliate with the work of the Red Cross in its manifold phases. Cooperation also has been assured by Government and private maritime interests in a deep-sea Roll Call that is designed to reach every member or potential member in every part of the world who may be on voyage or temporarily in any port.

Thousands of Chapters will adopt the home canvass plan of enrollment which originated in Pittsburgh, where last year it resulted in a membership increase of 50 per cent. All records in this year's campaign will be kept on standard size cards to be filed by each Chapter for future use.

Clothes in Business

Success in Business is not assured by clothes. It does not make the man as was thought in Beau Brummel days, but it does present him. Style, Fit, Quality, are all considered in the drawing room. They are there, admitted essentials.

But today the same holds good in the business world. In a conference with the Director, on the street, soliciting ads or news --- attention to clothes is necessary. Here at the Quality Shop we have the business suit as well as the full dress. We pay the same careful attention to its details.

RED CROSS WINNING IN FIGHT FOR HEALTH

Better, Stronger Citizenry Now
Emerging Out of Work in United States.

The American Red Cross as an evangelist of better health has looked its problem square in the face. How it accepted the task revealed to it in the nation's physical condition as brought out during the World War, and conscientiously applied its activities to correction forms a vivid chapter in the forthcoming annual report. Historically and practically, nursing is a basic work for the Red Cross. In its public health nursing service, in instruction in home hygiene and care of the sick, nutrition classes, first aid and life saving courses and health centers, the American Red Cross is applying effectually the lessons learned during the war and making for a healthier, stronger and better nourished citizenry.

The task of the Red Cross Public Health nurse in the 1,240 nursing services now operating throughout the country instructing their communities in health essentials and disease prevention is demonstrating the possibilities of human betterment and the great benefits of enlightenment.

During the last year 313 new public health nursing services were established by Red Cross Chapters, and several hundred services so convincingly proved their effectiveness that they were taken over by public authorities. In order to promote this work $30,000 was allotted to provide women to prepare themselves for public nursing. The home visits made by the 1,240 nurses aggregated nearly 1,500,000, visits to schools numbered 140,000, and in six months 1,250,000 school children were inspected by these nurses and where defects were found advised examination by physicians. In rural communities this service has made a very marked advance and has won thousands of converts to approved methods of disease prevention.

In home hygiene and care of the sick instruction, which fits the student in methods of proper care where illness is not so serious as to require professional service, the Red Cross conducted 3,884 classes during the last year, enrolled 2,356 instructors, 93,448 students and issued 42,656 certificates.

On June 30, 1922, nutrition service embraced 1,199 classes, with a total of 27,523 children and 2,589 enrolled dietitians. Seventy-eight food selection classes graduated 733 who received Red Cross certificates. In general health activities Red Cross Chapters maintained 377 health centers, serving as many communities, provided 38,751 health lectures for large audiences everywhere, while clinics numbered over 10,000.

Red Cross Gains Strength in All Foreign Fields

In insular possessions of the United States and in foreign lands the American Red Cross scored heavy gains during the last year, passing the previous membership high mark of 1918 by 4,261 and advancing the figure to 156,408. The Philippines take the lead, gaining nearly 100 per cent, now having 115,917 members. In Europe the 1921 Roll Call enrolled 11,125, with the Constantinople Chapter reporting 665, a gain of 33 members. China was 1,782 members, a gain of 596; the little Virgin Islands have 1,000, while the Dominican Republic with 2,927 advanced from its previous high mark by 1,423 new members. Haiti, organized in 1920, now has nearly 1,000 enrolled. Mexico reports 354, a gain of 327 in one year. The American Red Cross has spread its membership over some 70 foreign lands and its Junior membership outside of the United States is close to 700,000.

Red Cross Water First Aid Makes Life-Saving Gain

More than 325 Chapters engaged in life saving or water first aid last year with the result that the American Red Cross Life Saving Corps has set a new high mark for enrollment and the number of qualified life savers developed. The influence of "learn to swim week" in many localities is reducing the water fatalities through instruction and the wider dissemination of resuscitation methods demonstrated by the Red Cross representatives. Excellent work has been done in teaching a large part of the American population how to take care of itself in the water. Growing appreciation for this Red Cross Life-Saving Service is shown by the compulsory instruction adopted in many cities for members of the police and fire departments in the prone pressure method of resuscitation.

Help to Help Others

You can't "give until it hurts"—for giving an American dollar to join the American Red Cross helps you to help others who are hurt and who need relief.

University of Delaware Third Annual Artist Series

The Artist Series Committee of the University of Delaware takes pleasure in presenting the following artists in musical concerts and lectures for the season of 1922-1923.

November 18. Lecture—Syud Hossain

India's Famous Orator and Journalist

"The Moslem World and Western Civilization"

(There are over 250,000,000 Mohammedans in the world and the Moslem world today is in a ferment from Morocco to China. The impending evolution of this tremendous factor has a direct bearing on the future of civilization. Syud Hossain, who knows Moslem doctrine, society and institutions at first hand can discuss the problem of "Pan-Islam" with rare authority.)

December 16. Concert—Russian Cathedral Quartette

Native Folk and Gypsy Song and Cathedral Music

("The most unique organization of its kind, their voices are almost phenomenal," says Musical America. By their masterful interpretation of their native music, they have been creating a sensation everywhere. Selected by the former Russian Government as the best of Russia, they were sent to America to interpret Russian music, especially Church music, which he who has once heard will never forget.)

January 27. Lecture—Dr. Arthur Walwyn Evans

Distinguished Welsh Humorist (Nephew of Lloyd George)

"What Democracy Means to Me"

(During the 24 years he lived in Great Britain he met and knew personally such men as Gladstone, Asquith, Balfour, Joseph Chamberlain, Ruskin, Kipling, Lord Roberts, Kitchener, etc. Now he has adopted America as his land. With a flood of oratory and a barrage of irresistible wit he tells us what is Right with us here and what is Wrong.)

February 24. Concert—Rosa Tuck, Canadian Contralto

Leigh Wittell, American Pianist

(Miss Tuck's concert at Delaware during the summer was so well received that the Committee is glad to announce that the many demands for a return have been met and, in addition, Mr. Wittell is a master at the keys.)

March 24. Lecture-Recital—Prof. Paul M. Pearson

"Rudyard Kipling"

(Prof. Pearson's readings are known and appreciated throughout Delaware. His lecture-recital method of presenting a subject is peculiarly his own and his readings will be found to be most enjoyable.)

HALLOWE'EN PARTY FOR SENIORS

Members of the Senior Class of the Newark High School were the guests of Floyd Hubert and Marshall Manns, at the latter's home on Park Place, last Friday evening. The affair was in the nature of a Halloween celebration and the house was prettily decorated for the occasion. Many games appropriate to the Fall event were indulged in by the young people. Later on in the evening there was dancing. Refreshments, consisting principally of lots of good ginger bread and cider, topped off the evening to perfection. Included among the guests were: Catherine Hubert, Alice Charsha, Alice Williams, Elizabeth Cook, Edna Holton, Ida MacMurray, Lydia Young, Mary Stroud, Louis Green, William Rupp, Raymond Russell, Alvin Wake, land, Herbert Hennigh, Arthur Mayer, Albert Strahorn, Paul Conrad, Floyd Hubert and Marshall Manns. The teachers present were: Mr. Gallagher, Miss Hobbs, Mr. Wilson and Mr. Sutlin.

The Brunswick METHOD OF REPRODUCTION Gives New Beauty to Record Music

"Tones that are reproduced truer, finer, sweeter." "Music that in both spirit and letter is restated with greater beauty." "All records transcribed with greater fidelity."

Golden opinions like these are showered on The Brunswick by its hearers everywhere. And why?

Because, with its many other betterments, it has an exclusive new Method of Reproduction.

Method of Reproduction

This Method of Reproduction for which

The Brunswick

Phonograph is famous, includes two scientific features—the Ultona and the Tone Amplifier.

The Ultona

The Ultona—a new day creation—is a tone arm adapted to playing any make of record.

With but a slight turn of the hand, it presents the correct weight, precise diaphragm and proper needle.

The Tone Amplifier

The Tone Amplifier is the vibrant all-wood throat of The Brunswick.

It is oval in shape and made entirely of rare moulded hollywood.

By it, sound waves are projected into full rounded tones—tones that are richer and more natural.

Brunswick Superiority is Apparent

A complete demonstration will prove to you the merits of this super-instrument. Come in today.

The prices range from $65.00 to $300.00.
