Many New Books In College Library

Cover a Wide Range of Interest- ing Subjects

The list of books catalogued at the library in January is long and interesting. The fields of economics and history contain the majority of new titles. Several important volumes have been added to the series published by The Institute of Politics which holds forth in the summers at Williams College and devotes its time to discovering men who have something to say in connection with better understanding of international problems and relations. "Germany and Europe," by Kessler, and "The re-awakening of the Orient," by Salter, are among these. S. F. Platonov's new "History of Russia" and a new addition of Hegel's "Philosophy of History" appear on the list.

Two interesting books on the theatre are now on the shelves. "Costuming a Play," by Grimball and Wells, contains an excellent chapter on "Lighting and its effect on different materials and colors." "Modern Theatres," by Pichel, discusses the general principles on which modern theatres are constructed and gives a detailed account of the design of, among others, the Munich Art Theatre and Max Reinhardt's Josefstadter Theatre in Vienna.

"College," by J. G. Palmer, and "Tendencies in College Administration," by R. L. Kelly, are reports on the current ideals prevalent in college administration.

There is an interesting and rather original book in the shape of R. E. Turner's "America in Civilization." The author calls it a text-book, designed for use in college and university courses (Continued on Page 4.)

Summer Courses At Sorbonne Announced

The rates for the French Summer Courses at the Sorbonne have been announced by the Compagnie Française du Tourisme. Two courses are offered. Both include a study of French phonetics of the day, a study of the French language, a survey of modern French civilization, and a review of the actual French scene. This last consists of a trip through the best known French towns and provinces under the guidance of a professor "choisi parmi les plus celebres de l'Universite de Paris." The first course embraces visits to regions near Paris, cities of southern France, and trips over the "Route des Alpes" and the "Route des Pyrenees." The second course includes visits to Monte Carlo, Provence, and the Riviera.

The first course costs $380, the second $316, which includes, according to the circular issued by the University, "tips and taxes," tuition, board and lodging, train fares, and theatre tickets included in the course. Further information can be had from Miss Hawkins at the Library. The lectures begin in July at the "venerable et toujours jeune Sorbonne."

K. A.'s Planning House Party

The Kappa Alpha's are planning a house party for the near future. It will probably be held in about two weeks. Arrangements are already under way for the entertainments and decorations. This is the first house party that the K. A.'s have held since Christmas.

Alumni Banquet Tomorrow Night

The annual Mid-winter Dinner of the Alumni Association of Delaware College of the University of Delaware, will be held at 6:30 p. m., Saturday, February 20th, at the Hotel DuPont, Wilmington, Delaware. All alumni of this University and the members of the present Senior Class are invited to attend. An enjoyable evening and dinner is promised for everyone.

Blue and Gold Team Loses To Dickinson

Stellar Playing On Both Sides In Fast Game

Delaware's basketball team was beaten last Friday night for the second time by Dickinson's powerful quintet, as every competent reader of the daily news sheets knows. At the time, Dickinson was recognized as the strongest team in the loop. Undeclared, she had among her scalps that of the University of Pennsylvania. It was the Saturday after the game with Delaware that Dickinson suffered her first defeat—at the hands of P. M. C.

The game Friday was hard-fought and really closer than the score of 20-15 would indicate. Delaware got off to an excellent start and scored four points before Dickinson woke up. But then, with an exhibition of excellent passing, the men from Carlisle did wake up and walked past our five to be on the long end of a 10-6 score at the end of the half. At the beginning of the second half Delaware again caught Dickinson napping, tied the score, and eased on by to make it 11-10. After that it was a Dickinson score for a Delaware score, until the former got into the swing of their wonderful passing and got the lead and held it until the end of the game.

Rifle Match

On the 13th of February, the girls of Delaware and the girls of the University of Maryland shot a match. Each team fired its shots on its own home ground, then exchanged targets, accompanied by letters giving the score and average of each girl. The outcome was 500-491 in favor of the Maryland girls. Their average was 100, while ours was 98.2. Considering the fact that this was the first match in which many of the girls on the Delaware team had ever participated, much credit is due their score. The girls are all working hard and hope to make their score 100 per cent in the future.

Dean Smith Speaks At Faculty Club Meeting

Dean Smith gave a very interesting talk on engineering and its problems at the meeting of the Faculty Club which occurred in Old College on Monday night. The subject matter of the lecture was presented in such a way as to make it easily intelligible to the listener with no knowledge of engineering.

At this meeting of the Faculty Club a life-size portrait of the late Dean Lawrence Smith was unveiled. The portrait will hang on the walls of the Faculty Club Rooms.

Y. M. C. A. Worker Speaks At Freshman Chapel

Holds Freshmen Spell-Bound for Whole Hour

Mr. Tinker, the New York Area Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., addressed the Freshmen at College Hour Wednesday. The speech was inspiring, in the Y. M. C. A. manner. Mr. Tinker tried to bring spiritual things down to earth by substituting such expressions as "het up" for "inspired." The speaker was blessed with a voice that rendered the exact shade of sentiment to such statements as "You have no idea how much dad cares" (about what you do in college).

The purpose of the speech was to inspire the Freshmen to make decisions in the "little problems" connected with college life, for instance, drinking at house-parties. The age-old plea to learn one's own mind and follow it rigorously and fearlessly was made. Certain of Mr. Tinker's statements follow:

"The voice of the crowd in these times is not the voice of God."

"Use the highest ideals you have."

"When you make a decision, you make friends and then your friends make you."

Mr. Tinker began and ended his speech with reference to a story about Dillon, the financier, who presented a plan for the reorganization of Heaven, in which Mr. Dillon was to be President. The plan was rejected because God refused to be Vice-President. Mr. Tinker earnestly impressed the fact on the Freshmen that God will not consent to be Vice-President in anything. "If you deal with Him at all," he said, "you've got to make Him President."

The Freshmen listened without a murmur or an outburst of mirth. The meeting was closed with prayer.

A NOTICE

I shall be in my office from one to five o'clock on Wednesday and Thursday afternoons of this week to interview students who wish to take part in the second term production of a play by English 52. Though you have tried out before and been rejected, do not hesitate to try out again. Perhaps I now have a part better suited to your ability. Quite often I realize that a student can play a certain type of character well; but because I do not need the kind of character he can depict, I cannot use him. There are only two kinds of students that I do not want to try out: those who are on probation for having failed in a large proportion of their first term's work, and those whose schedule will not permit their attending rehearsals on Tuesday and Thursday from 4:10 to 5:30 p. m.

—E. C. Van Keuren.

Senior Banquet To Be Held In Wilmington

The Senior classmen will hold their banquet some time in the near future. The exact date has not as yet been decided upon. It is one of Delaware's traditions, that the Senior class hold a banquet in the second semester of their last year. This year's class, as all previous classes have done, will live up to this tradition, and hold a huge banquet in Wilmington. The banquet will probably be held at the Hotel DuPont.

Sigma Nu's To Build $50,000 House In Spring

The Alumni of the Delaware Chapter of Sigma Nu are very active in their work on the plans of the new house of the Fraternity that is to be built in the campus. Ground will be broken the latter part of May of this year for their new home at Delaware. It is expected that the new house will be ready for occupancy shortly after the Fall semester opens. The house will be newly furnished throughout so that the interior will be quite as attractive as the exterior. The approximate cost of the new home is $50,000. It will be situated on the campus alongside of Frazer Field, and facing Recitation Hall.

Excellent Material For 1926 Tennis Team

Tentative Schedule Has Been Arranged

The slush and cold of the dreary winter will soon be giving way to the brighter days of spring and with them will come bright prospects for a successful tennis season.

Last year Delaware made a good showing, winning four and losing four games. This year, if the support of the student body is evident, the squad should pass their last year's mark and make the game more popular at Delaware.

Fritz Creamer is the only letter man back at college this year, but with the return of Dudley Johnson, who showed himself a master of the racket before his trip to France, and the support of Hoffecker, Meredith, and Stein, all of whom were in matches last year, the team should be able to take off honors.

The Freshman class will also, in all probability, be represented in the sport, for it has in its membership such high school stars as Turner, Eastburn, Herr, Murray, and Crossgrove. (Continued on Page 3.)

New System In Vogue For College Athletics

The general trend of athletics at present is toward the league system and a grand champion of all teams competing. For several years this plan has been tried out in the Middle Atlantic Track meets. These have proved very successful and the coaches of the Middle Atlantic colleges have thought it advisable that the same system be used in other branches of athletics. The plan has not been definitely decided upon as yet, but there is to be a final meeting this Thursday or Friday for the purpose of drawing up the final arrangements. There will be two classes, Class A and Class B. Class A will be no better than Class B, but some teams have a preference for the teams they play and this system will be used both for this purpose and also to make it easier to run off the finals.

K. A. Cagers Lose Game

The Kappa Alpha basketball team suffered defeat at the hands of the Harrison Street Methodist Episcopal Church Team of Wilmington, Wednesday night, when the two opponents clashed on the Gymnasium floor at 8:45.

The game was decidedly slow. Neither team seemed to show much spirit or exhibit any sensational plays.

The final score was: Kappa Alpha, 13; Harrison Street Church, 14.

Baseball Practice About to Start

Indoor Practice To Begin After Basketball Season

Baseball practice will start as soon as the ground is in fit shape to play on. Last year, because of the poor condition of the diamond, a great deal of the early practice was done on that part of Frazer Field which serves as the gridiron in the fall. Although the ground was a little rough, he place served its purpose very adequately. Mid-years took away two prospective pitchers who were being counted upon to help solve the pitching question. The schedule has been completed and is in no way an easy one. It will take a fighting team to come out on the long end, but Delaware has always been noted for fighting teams. A great deal can be expected from this year's aggregation. A southern training trip has been arranged to get the boys in shape, and will include Randolph-Macon and several other southern colleges, ending up with St. John's. Indoor practice will start as soon as the basketball season is over.

Location of R. O. T. C. Camp Is Uncertain

Those students who are contemplating attending the R. O. T. C. Camp this summer will be interested to know that the camp this year will be at Plattsburg, as formerly. It was rumored around the campus that Fort Niagara was being contemplated by the government as a new site, but Major Underwood has received official information to the contrary.

According to Captain Whittemore, the Rifle Team of the Women's College is doing exceptionally well. Scores of ninety-six and ninety-seven are common, and the team as a whole shows championship calibre. Although the girls have taken part in several inter-collegiate contests, results have been heard from only one of the matches. The University of Maryland defeated the Delaware representatives by a close score. However, this defeat should not be taken too much to heart, as Maryland has a team composed of veterans, and has a good chance of winning the inter-collegiate championship of the country.

Phi Kappa Phi Initiation

Yesterday afternoon the initiation of the newly elected members of the Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society took place in Recitation Hall. After the ceremonies, a banquet was held in Old College. Professor Wilkinson, who is president of the Delaware Chapter of the society, was toastmaster. The principal speaker of the evening was Prof. Charles W. Bush, Principal of the Wilmington Friends' School. Short talks were made by President Hullahen, representing the Faculty, and by Louise Harris, '26, and James King, '26, who represented the Women's College and Delaware College respectively.

Orientation Meeting

A meeting of the Freshmen Orientation Series was held Wednesday morning in the Chapel at the Women's College. Hon. Everett C. Johnson, of Newark, was the speaker.

Mr. Johnson gave a very interesting and enlightening talk on "The Foundation of the Women's College."

UNIVERSITY OF DELAWARE REVIEW
NEWARK DELAWARE

The University of Delaware Review is a newspaper, published on Fridays during the College year by the students of the University of Delaware, in which is presented the campus news.

Whereas, the University of Delaware Review is not a literary publication, nevertheless occasional attempts at literature will appear in its columns.

The editorial policy will change a trifle each year, as a new editor takes charge of the paper, but the basis of each editor's policy must always be to present the truth and to aid in the cultural expansion of the University.

Subscription $2.00 per year.

Single Copies 10 cents.

Entered at the Newark, Delaware, Post Office as Second-Class Matter.

A LESSON IN ETIQUETTE

The Athletic Council should be very thankful for the hospitality that Wilmington High School extended our basketball team in offering to the team the use of their locker and shower rooms on last Friday night.

In order to show our appreciation for this hospitality, Coach Forstburg allowed high school students in to see the game for the small sum of twenty-five cents. This noble act was very thoughtful. When Coach Brown of Wilmington High School asked for complimentary tickets for his basketball team, he was refused.

For several years, Mr. Brown has been a Delaware booster. However, we can hardly expect that his attitude will not change, after such a display of discourteousness. How can we hope that any athletic material will ever come to Delaware if we are so rude and mercenary? This instance is probably the worst example of thoughtlessness that has occurred recently, but nothing like it can be justified, and nothing like it should happen again.

It is also interesting to note that each member of the Delaware basketball team is allowed one complimentary ticket. And the Dickinson team was allowed a total of five tickets! Such generosity and extravagance is a disgrace to the University.

A PROBLEM

It is no dark secret that the Student Councils of both Colleges which make up this University of ours have occasionally to deal with the student who cheats in examinations. We have somehow come to differentiate in forms of cheating; for, in a sense, all disobedience of rules is cheating,—it is an attempt to "get away with something" that is unfair in its effect on the government of student life. We are apt to think of many infringements as punishable, but as not seriously morally wrong; while we treat the student who cheats as one unclean.

We do not wish to be understood as condoning such an offense, but are simply wondering whether we are helping the weak one as we should, whether expulsion is the proper method of punishment. Do we try to support the weak, suspected one against his weakness, guarding him at every turn, warning, and directing, or do we set traps, that we may be sure of him when he shall fall? Then, when he is at our mercy, are we warranted in casting him out, branded? Hasn't our college training taught us a better way than that? Hasn't Christ taught us a better way?

It has been said that this question was put up to two members of our faculty, with this result: one man claimed that the boy or girl should be expelled, because he or she would have a bad influence on the rest of the students; the other professor claimed that the student should be kept in college, so that he might have the help of the rest of the students in regaining his moral balance. Can not a form of punishment be found that would meet such cases without branding the student? Are we not admitting our inefficiency when we wash our hands of the offender? Is not the attitude taken by the second professor really the humane one?

WELL?

What has become of the Soccer Team? Since its first, and apparently last appearance, nothing has been seen or heard of it. There is no talk of soccer among the various groups gathered daily about the campus, nor does there seem to be any prospects of its resurrection. What is the matter? Surely the Student Body is satisfied with the only match the team played, the one with Tome. It is true that Tome rolled up a score of 5 to 1, but even that score is a credit to the Delaware players in consideration of the fact that probably six of the eleven men on the team had never kicked a soccer ball before. What's wrong?

Letters On History

Dear Sue:

Today I heard of the original play boy who presented the season's best excuse for a variation on the old song "Where is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" It seems that this bird—Mr.

Ulysses by name—was helping to wage a war around a city called Troy. He stayed away from the domestic domicile for nine years—however, that was easy, a few other brothers were enjoying the same kind of a martial vacation. Each time things were a little dull, the boys would all get together and write home how war was, what Sherman said it was, and how they wished they were home, when all they were doing was waving helmets at the fair Trojans.

After the battle, however, Ulysses felt that the longest way round was the shortest way home. Would you believe it, Sue, the old bird swore it took him ten years to get back to Ithaca? Now that's all applesauce because even commuters from Brooklyn reach home eventually, if shamefully. And with all the boys going to Cornell reunions, you'd have thought some old classmate would have shown Mr. Ulysses the right way.

When he got there he had everything jake because some king gave him a bag of mind and for once in his life, the wife lost out on the home stretch. He had a list of accidents which had detained him those ten years, so long and so terrible that it made riding the eleven o'clock bus to Newark seem like a Rolls Royce special. After he got through, I bet she had enough fiction to give the children for life.

So, Sue, I've concluded that if men have had all that practice in the gentle art and if a man could get away with a ten-year trip, what chance have we to do anything but believe them when they are home late at night. Listening to a man's excuses is like listening to a lecture on the North Pole by Dr. Cook. The talk sounds alright, but it's lucky there aren't any slides.

Yours,

—True.

Delaware Takes Part In Student Federation Drive

Does this university realize its membership in the World's Student Christian Federation, comprising intelligent and earnest students who strive to understand the world in which we live? As is implied in the Federation's motto, "Ut Omnes Unum Sint," the organization aims to produce a far greater unity and co-operation among the students of different nations.

One of the major platforms in this world friendship program is the solution of the vital international problems that confront the world today. The Federation serves as a stimulant to rouse the youth of our own and of foreign countries to assume a whole-hearted interest in political, social, and industrial questions. Though the American students have scarcely participated in this movement, they are beginning to coordinate their endeavors with those of foreign students in order to make a safer and better world.

In addition to the promotion of active interest in national affairs, the Federation renders valuable assistance by cultivating friendly relations with students of other lands. In American institutions of higher education, for example, there are about ten thousand initiative and resourceful young men and women of varied nationalities, who wish to derive the fullest enjoyment and profit from their sojourn in this country. Through the World Student Christian Association, the American students give them a priceless interpretation of all that is worth while in American life, and receive from them in return a keener insight and understanding of other people. Such mutual friendship is at the root of the spirit of comity which will ultimately bind all nations. Many of these students will develop into eminent national leaders in their respective countries; and it is, consequently, of the greatest necessity that they maintain a friendly attitude towards the United States.

To further this far-reaching movement to secure world fellowship, students must lend financial support as well as interest. The channel through which American students make their contribution to the World's Student Christian Federation, is known as the Student Friendship Fund. The support of every university and college in the nation is being solicited for the perpetuation of this fund, to which the students of America must contribute $117,500. The University of Delaware assumes a comparatively small share of this budget; however, when the Friendship Fund Campaign is launched, may our students meet this obligation not as a tax or assessment, but as an opportunity to encourage the solution of world problems, to relieve foreign students, and to foster amity throughout the world.

The practicing facilities are also increased this year by the addition of two new courts back of Wolf Hall.

A schedule has been partly arranged. It is as follows:

(At home.)

Delaware vs. Haverford.
Delaware vs. Maryland.
Delaware vs. St. Joseph.
Delaware vs. Franklin and Marshall

(Away)

Delaware vs. Drexel.
Delaware vs. Rutgers.

A two-match trip is also being planned but no opponents have yet been chosen.

No dates for any of the matches have been set but the schedule is to be completed within a short time.

Dr. A. C. Sherman Lectures On Food Nutrition

Through the efforts of the Home Economics Department, a very interesting program was presented on Tuesday evening, February 16, when Dr. Henry C. Sherman, of the University of Columbia, lectured on Food Nutrition. Dr. Sherman is a chemist of note and has done a great deal of work in the fields of nutrition and its chemical support. Much of his lecture was taken from data which he had gotten from work in his own laboratory, while other data was collected from the experiments of other chemists working in the same line.

Dr. Sherman used slides for illustration of certain food diets on rats. He also presented many graphs which showed the comparison of certain food diets on the same age rats through their stages of advancement. During the course of the lecture Dr. Sherman spoke of rickets. He showed several cases of rickets which had been produced by taking away the essential vitamin A diet and sunlight. One of his statements was to the effect that it often took two generations to show a pronounced case of rickets.

Besides the tests for rickets and the decision of what things are essential in the diet, Dr.

Sherman lectured on the measurement of energy which is expended and told how Science has determined the essential food and the amount necessary for health. He gave a very interesting story of the room and fittings and precaution which must be used to carry on such experiments.

Dr. Sherman has a very affable and pleasing manner. He lectured along in a most interesting manner, keeping the lecture in a path that made it interesting for even those who had small initiation into the world of nutrition and chemistry.

Vesper Services

Vesper services the past Sunday night were of particular interest, as the speaker and soloist of the evening were both members of the faculty. The program was planned by the girls of third floor Sussex, and was fifth of the competitive vesper services given every Sunday under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A. The idea was lately suggested by the Program Committee of the organization to arouse interest among the girls and has so far proved a big success.

The service was opened by a piano solo by Eloise Rodney, followed by collective singing. Olive Murray read the Bible lesson and introduced the soloist, Prof. Matthews, and the speaker, Dr. Benner. The latter's talk was upon the subject of "Benefits of a College Education." It was most stimulating, and brought home to his listeners more forcibly than ever the possibilities of an education which lies outside of the proverbial reading, 'riting, and 'rithmetic manuals. Tolerance, sympathy, kindness, a more thorough knowledge and appreciation of art and books, and the realization of the value of friendship, were a few of the necessary requisites of an education, suggested by Dr. Benner.

The program next Sunday night will be under the supervision of another group of campus girls.

Among the largest one-man shovels in the world is this electric giant engaged in open-pit mining on the Mesabi Range in northern Minnesota. It picks up eight cubic yards of iron ore at a gulp, which it dumps into a waiting car.

A day's work in a minute

Mesabi Range, renowned iron ore deposit, is yielding its mineral wealth at the rate of 16 tons for every bite of an electric scoop.

A man with a shovel would work a whole day to mine and load eight cubic yards of iron ore which this 300-ton electric giant moves in one minute.

Of course, all mining is not done on the surface. But there are many mines in which electricity has changed our conception of mining operations. Wires, penetrating even to the deepest shafts and galleries, have brought light, power, ventilation and added safety to those who must work in the very bowels of the earth.

Electricity's contribution to mining may be of particular interest to the student of mining engineering, but it is of general interest to all college men as still another example of how electricity is simplifying the world's work.

In every branch of mining operations G-E equipment is very much in evidence. And there are engineers of the General Electric Company especially assigned to mining problems and requirements, just as there are others specializing in all major applications of electricity.

A new series of G-E advertisements showing what electricity is doing in many fields will be sent on request. Ask for booklet GEK-1

Miss Northrup to Speak Today at W. C. D. on Art in Costume

"Art Structure in Relation to Costume" will be the subject of Miss Belle Northrup's lecture in the Hilarius at three o'clock this afternoon. Miss Northrup is Instructor in Costume Art at the School of Practical Arts of Columbia University and is a recognized authority on Art as applied to costume. Miss Northrup will illustrate her lecture with actual dresses and fabrics of different textures and colors to show their qualities and possibilities. The lecture is primarily for clothing students of the Home Economics course, but all other members of the college are invited. The Home Economics department is sponsoring this lecture, and the faculty of this department are Miss Parker, director and supervisor of the Practice House; Miss Spencer, Nutrition; and Miss Kelly, Textiles and Clothing.

which introduce the student to life. There are excellent and exhaustive bibliographies at the end of each chapter, covering such subjects as the economic organization of modern life, social values, etc. J. Russel Smith's much talked of survey of our continent, "North America: Its People and Resources, Development, and Prospects of the Continent as an Agricultural, Industrial, and Commercial Area," can hardly help but be interesting.

Chief among the new books appears the third volume of Walter H. Page's celebrated "Life and Letters." The recent article in the Mercury should not make this less interesting. Then there is Carl Sandburg's "Abraham Lincoln: the Prairie Years," which has been reviewed as the most "vigorous" biography of Lincoln so far. "The Diaries of George Washington" have been described by a reviewer of the New York "Times" as revealing, both in a positive and a negative sense. "The True Stevenson," by G. S. Hellman, "demolishes the sugared effigy of R. L. S." that is fixed so firmly in our minds. "The Perennial Bachelor," Anne Parish's novel of Claymont and Wilmington that has been acclaimed by all reviewers from Sherman to Mencken, is now in the library.

Decorate
the degree of P. A.

THAT means "Pipa Amoroso" in the Latin, or "pipe-lover" in plain campus English. P. A. has certainly endeared a pipe to more men than any other letters in the smoke-alphabet. Because Prince Albert lets a fellow smoke all he wants to—and makes him want to!

Cool as the stare of a marble Venus. Sweet as the approach of vacation. Fragrant as spring blossoms. Think up your own similes, Fellows. You will when you pick P. A. and a jimmy-pipe for permanent roommates. Prince Albert is great tobacco, and that's not blah.

Get yourself a tidy red tin of Prince Albert today. Fill the bowl of that old jimmy-pipe to the brim and borrow a match. Then you're set for some great smoke-sessions, as sure as you're a foot high.

PRINCE ALBERT
—no other tobacco is like it!

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

Better Times Around the Corner

He is an optimist—always looking forward to better times. When they come, however, he is unprepared. He hopes, but he doesn't save. Hopes are good as far as they go, but a growing savings account is needed to back them. How's your account.
