Cancer probe focuses on chemical plant

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Local parents who worry about their child's safety on long bus trips or in "bad neighborhoods" when they send their children to schools in Wilmington may have yet another worry, but this one is invisible.

A special task force is looking into whether or not toxic and carcinogenic chemicals emitted by a chemical plant in Wilmington are affecting the cancer rate of Newark and Bear students who attend schools in the city.

Dr. Edward Malin, chairman of the environmental task committee of the Bear/Glasgow Council of Civic Organizations and a member of the cancer task force sent a letter to the Christina School District that says Bear and Newark students who attend Drew and Bancroft schools, located about three blocks away from Noramco—a chemical plant that produces analgesics—are breathing hazardous chemicals.

"I think all parents in this district should be concerned," Malin said. "Now we are trying to work with other environmental groups to strengthen our commitment and see how we can help."

Of all 50 states, Delaware has the highest number of cancer deaths, according to a study done by the state. In order to "get to the bottom" of this disturbing statistic, Delaware's general assembly formed a special cancer task force.

Malin wants to get strict regulations for toxic emissions based on human biological systems.

More than 40 states already have regulated toxic emissions.

Malin and groups such as the Sierra Club, Delaware Citizens for Clean Air, Wilmington residents who live near the plant and the University of Delaware's environmental club have already picketed Noramco and Gov. Carper's building twice.

"I was shocked at the fact that nobody in public office had any concern about this," Malin said. "Is life so cheap that we ignore the topic?"

Malin said the effects of the airborne toxins may not be seen for many years, because their effects on the body are cumulative.

"The thing that hurts is that we aren't getting any reaction," Malin said. "We've written and met with the governor and got no response at all, it's really

Retired teacher on the case

The Bear/Glasgow Council of Civic Organizations is gaining more recognition through a widespread community voice and people such as Dr. Edward Malin.

Malin is chairman of the environmental committee of the Bear/Glasgow Council and was appointed to Delaware's special cancer task force. This task force was formed to find solutions to the state's high cancer rate. The state currently leads the nation in cancer cases.

Malin is focusing his investigation of high cancer rates on the Bear/Glasgow area.

He is a retired high school biology and chemistry teacher

Malin who taught at Claymont, Wilmington, Conrad and Dickinson high schools.

Public hearing on hotel Dec. 13

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

A public hearing will be held Dec. 13 at 8 p.m. at the Newark City Council meeting to discuss a hotel chain's request to build a 97-room "Sleep-Inn" on South College Avenue across from University of Delaware's Field House.

The parcel of land at 630 South College Ave. is already zoned for a hotel provided the council grants a special use permit.

The national chain, Choice Hotels International, previously applied for a special use permit in February, 1989 and September, 1991, but never started construction.

The three-story hotel would be named "Newark Sleep Inn". Choice Hotels International also builds Comfort and Quality Inns.

Roy Lopota, the city's planning director said he believes the chances of construction this time are "100 percent."

"It seems like they have their finances in line," Lopota said.

Newark Lions celebrate 65 years

By TONJA CASTANEDA
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The Lion's Club of Newark have been fulfilling their motto of "We Serve" for 65 years in this community.

The club's celebration of six decades of service was marked at their annual recognition dinner on Dec. 3.

At the banquet, the club gave out the Lion of the Year Award to member James Hardwick and member Eugene Pierce received the Ralph Helm Fellowship, which is named for a club member who is a former international director for Lions.

The Newark club was founded in 1929 and was the second Lions Club chartered in Delaware when the Wilmington Lions Club sponsored the club.

The Newark Lions currently has 35 active members.

Lions Club President Nancy Moore said although it is difficult for her to see a sense of history because she has only been in the club since 1991, she feels the Newark Lions Club has a presence in the area.

"There are so many people I have talked to who in the past years have depended on the club," said

Pencader landowners fear study would mean lost profits

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Bear/Glasgow land owners complained to County planning department officials that their property values would decrease if the planning department adopted the Central Pencader Study.

Residents turned out for the last of three public hearings Tuesday evening to discuss the planning department's innovative growth plan.

If the study were adopted in its present form, people who own undeveloped property in the central Pencader area would probably receive less money for their property because developers could build fewer homes.

As of now, most property in these undeveloped areas is zoned for one house per 1/2 acre. The study proposes these areas be "down-zoned" to low density areas that would permit only one house every four acres.

Some residents seized this opportunity to speak out about the "down zoning" of their property.

"I am horrified about this recommendation because the plan lays the ground rules for the government to set the market value," said Stephen Brown, whose family owns 300 acres in the southwest

Barber pole to spin again at historic Main Street shop

By NANCY TURNER
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The Main Street Barber Shop has had a face lift and will open any day now for business. New owner Kim Teti hopes that once again, a steady stream of Newarkers will file into 154 East Main Street and happily come out looking neatly shorn and respectable.

Ralph Burchard, who took over the shop on July 4, 1958, is semi-retiring and ready to do a little fishing in Maine. He's turning over his proverbial red and white striped pole to barber Kim Teti, but he will help her out on a part-time basis as she takes her place in the history of Main Street barbers, along with him, Marshal, Graig, Tyson, and others.

Burchard is confident that new owner Teti will continue the best traditions of the shop. A licensed barber since 1978, Teti had mentors like Leo Santagata and Mario Capracini from the Hotel DuPont and Joe Pacello from the Men's Room in Greenville. She became acquainted with Burchard a couple of years ago when she filled in for him when he took a vacation.

The mother of three boys "who needed a lot of haircuts" chose to become a barber as opposed to a hair stylist because she is allergic to the chemicals that are used in styling salons.

154 East Main Street has been home to a barber shop for over a hundred years. That was until last summer, when it was damaged by water from the disastrous Klondike Kate's fire and Burchard closed the doors.

As far as Teti's restoration of the barber shop, as the song says, "everything old is new again."

Teti hopes that the first thing customers notice when they come into the shop is that it has "a comfortable old look to it. We are trying to re-create the look of an old barber shop," she said. "We'll play some ragtime, jazz and big band music for atmosphere."

The face lift includes new electrical work, plaster, woodwork and floor refinishing, and the addition of a reproduction pedestal sink and weathered brass lighting. Teti's husband, a tile fitter, has installed fine marble in the bathroom and an artist friend will paint a small mural on an inside wall depicting a turn of the century Newark Main Street scene. Two of Burchard's well-worn barber chairs are returning and the whole look will be topped off with an antique revolving barber's pole outside.

During his 35 years in the shop, Burchard has done as much as anyone to make Main Street Barber Shop a nostalgic Newark institution. Since 1958, when a shave and a hair cut was $1.25, (5 bits) and there were 13 barbers on Main Street, "I kept a clean operation," said Burchard. "No dirty jokes."

He cut boy bobs, shingles, crew cuts and flat

Police beat

Indecent exposure: A 19-year-old University of Delaware student walking on North College Avenue saw a white man playing with himself with his pants around his knees on Dec. 2 while he was sitting in a silver station wagon at the corner of North College Avenue and Ray Street in Newark. Police said the woman did not see the man's face.

Stolen car: A 1991 Accura Legend was reported stolen on Dec. 4 from the 200 block of Courtney Street, police said.

Newly constructed house burglarized: A saw, a tool box and cable being used to install a security system were reported stolen between Dec. 4-5 from a newly constructed house in the 200 block of Lasalle Way in Pine Meadows, police report. The house was locked but police believe the burglar could have entered through the front door where nails appear to be kicked out.

Baking ingredients put into gas tank: Police report sugar and eggs were put into the gas tank of a 1985 Dodge parked at the Chrysler Corp. plant on South College Avenue on Dec. 6. Police said residue of the food was found around the tank.

Kitchen cabinets, sink and furniture stolen: Kitchen cabinets, a sink, a countertop, copper tubing and a vanity were reported stolen from a house in the 1100 block of Elkton Road between Nov. 26 and Dec. 3. Police said 18 sheets of drywall were also damaged.

Cash, sunglasses and a purse stolen: A purse, sunglasses and $100 were reported stolen from a 1986 Oldsmobile Calais parked in the unit block of Shull Drive between Dec. 5-6. Police said the passenger side window was broken during the break-in.

Stereo equipment stolen: A stereo, cassette tapes and $2 in cash were reported stolen from a Jeep Wrangler parked in the unit block of Madison Drive on Dec. 2. Police said a window on the soft top was cut.

* A cassette stereo, amplifier and speakers were reported stolen on Dec. 6 from an Honda Accord parked in the 300 block of Chickory Way. Police report the left rear window of the car was smashed during the theft.

* A cassette stereo was reported stolen between Dec. 5-6 from a 1986 Toyota Celica parked in the unit block of Daniel Avenue.

Bike stolen: A 10-speed, 26-inch mountain bike was reported stolen between Dec. 5-6 from the rear porch of a house in the 100 block of King William Street, police said.

7-Eleven robber sought

Delaware State police are investigating an attempted robbery on Dec. 6 of the 7-Eleven convenience store on Red Mill Road in Newark.

Police report that a man described as being black or Hispanic, 16-18 years old, 130-150 pounds, entered the store at approximately 3:15 a.m. and demanded cash from a 19-year-old store clerk. Police said the clerk ran into an office without handing over any money and the suspect fled the store on foot.

The employee was not injured. Police report the man was last seen wearing a gray hooded sweatshirt and a red bandana.

Officer recovering after being run over

By TONJA CASTANEDA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

A New Castle County police officer, who resides in the Newark area, is in fair condition in Christiana Hospital after being run over by a stolen car on Dec. 7, police report.

Officer John Fisher, 27, has been on the county police force for four years.

The accident happened at approximately 4 a.m. when a resident of the Cambridge Apartments in Wilmington called 911 to report a suspicious vehicle.

Fisher and another officer responded and saw two teenage boys in a Mazda station wagon. The officers tried to talk to the boys when the driver of the car tried to flee and hit Fisher.

According to police, Fisher was knocked to the ground, the left front tire ran over his upper body and dragged him for approximately ten feet.

Because the office was under the car, the driver was unable to continue driving.

The other officer, whose name has not been released, fired a number of shots from his gun and hit the driver in the left hand.

The driver of the car was arrested, but the passenger fled on foot and police searching the area were unable to find him.

Several residents of the Cambridge Apartments, who were awakened by the commotion, came to the scene and assisted with lifting the car off Fisher.

Police report that Fisher was wearing a bullet proof vest which probably saved his life.

New Castle County Paramedics transported the officer to Christiana Hospital where he was admitted in critical condition. Fisher sustained a fractured ankle, abrasions and possible internal injuries.

The driver of the car which hit Fisher was also treated at the Christiana Hospital and then released to police.

The driver, identified as Cameron Jones, 17, of Wilmington was charged with assault in the first degree, receiving stolen property and conspiracy in the second degree.

He was arraigned at magistrate court 10 and his bond was set at $11,000 secured bail, cash only.

Further investigation revealed that the station wagon Jones was driving was reported stolen from Claymont on Dec. 5.

The passenger of the car was arrested by police later the same day in another stolen car. The passenger was identified as Sean Jamison, 16, of Wilmington.

Jamison was charged with receiving stolen property, conspiracy second degree, two counts of resisting arrest, two counts of felony theft, reckless driving, disregarding a stop sign, driving without a license and failure to stop at the command of a police officer.

He was arraigned at magistrate court 10 and his bond was set at $5,700 secured bail.

Both Jones and Jamison were unable to post bail and were committed to the New Castle County Juvenile Detention Center, pending a family court hearing on Dec. 8.

Police on the lookout for Newark kidnapper

By TONJA CASTANEDA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Police are investigating a carjacking and kidnapping which occurred on Dec. 1 in Woodshade Apartments off Old Baltimore Pike, according to Dave Eastburn of the New Castle County police.

Police said a white man wearing a green army jacket forced his way into a Christiana woman's car at about 5:30 p.m. while she was at a stop sign leaving the apartments. Police said the car doors were not locked.

The man displayed a knife and forced the woman to drive to Del. 896 and into Maryland.

Police report the man jumped out of the car and fled on foot on Chesapeake City Road.

Police from New Castle County along with Delaware and Maryland state police officers searched the area but did not find the man.

The man is described as being 25-35 years of age, weighing 170-180 pounds, 5'8"-5'11" with brown eyes and hair, a mustache and with two earrings in his left ear.

New Castle County police have released this composite sketch of the suspect.

The suspect when caught by police faces kidnapping, robbery and weapons violation charges.

Anyone having information about the man or the incident should call police at 571-7924.

UD student killed on I-95

A University of Delaware student was killed on Dec. 7 when she was attempting to cross Interstate 95, Delaware State police report.

Nicole Ilise Woolf, 20, from Harrisburg, Pa. was trying to cross the northbound lanes of I-95 with her boyfriend at approximately 5:45 p.m. when she was hit by a 1991 Pontiac Grand Am being driven by Donald L. Leblanc, 52, of Newtown, Pa.

She was trying to cross the highway to get assistance at the service area after her car broke down.

Woolf was pronounced dead at the scene of the accident. Her body was turned over to the state medical examiner's office for an autopsy to determine the exact cause of death.

Her boyfriend and Leblanc were not injured.

The accident is still under investigation but no charges are expected to be filed.

Kappa Alpha brothers open their hearts

By NANCY TURNER

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

On December 7, children of Our Lady of Grace Home in Newark enjoyed a little Christmas hospitality, Greek style, at the University of Delaware Kappa Alpha Fraternity.

About 50 brothers took time off from their studies to open their hearts and fraternity house at 19 Amstel Avenue for an evening of fun and entertainment.

The eight boys and girls attending, ranging in ages from four to eleven, are from emotionally distressed, single parent, home situations. They will live with the Felician Sisters at Our Lady of Grace on Chestnut Hill Road until their home environments have stabilized and they can to their parents.

The children arrived at the historic stone fraternity house at 4:45 p.m. and were greeted by the brothers in a parlor decked with evergreens and candles. A huge Douglas fir with twinkling lights reached to the high ceiling and beneath it, was an array of brightly papered packages.

After joining the brothers in the dining room for a festive dinner of fruit cups, ravioli in tomato sauce, rolls, ice cream and cookies, the party returned to the parlor, where they were entertained by Sodeen the Magician from Wilmington who pulled rabbits out of boxes, coins out of ears, and transformed a rainbow of balloons into fantasy creations.

The children's gifts of good will for the brothers consisted of songs, poetry recitations, and there was one little fellow who dazzled the group with break dancing. The evening culminated with the arrival of Santa Claus. With the help of some smart shopping brothers, the jolly old elf presented each child with an appropriate toy and stocking full of candy.

In addition to the Christmas party, the Kappa Alpha Fraternity has taken part in other community outreach projects. Among the most well known are the annual Backyard Bash for the Muscular Dystrophy Foundation in the spring and the Senior Prom in the fall, where the brothers sponsor a dance party at a local geriatric nursing facility.

Chris Conte, a senior from Newark and the brother in charge of organizing the party said, "we just wanted to do something positive in the community." He recalled that when he was a child, he accompanied his father, Emmett Conte, to Our Lady of Grace to deliver clothes and toys for children many Christmases ago. "I never saw the children there, but the experience left a lasting impression. That is what gave me the idea to undertake the Christmas party with the brothers."

Four Felician Sisters from Our Lady of Grace accompanied the children to the party and were delighted with their warm reception.

"These boys do have unselfish hearts," said Sister Charlotte Wszolek who coordinated the visit. "They put a spark, not only in my heart, but in the hearts of the children and it's gonna last for a long time."

Police say youth shot himself with stolen gun

By TONJA CASTANEDA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

New Castle County police said Craig Edlemann, the 16-year-old boy who accidentally shot himself in the head last week, did so with a gun he and another youth had stolen.

Police learned a gun has been stolen from a house in the 700 block of Kilgore Court the same day the shooting occurred.

Police said other handguns, cash and a video cassette recorder were also taken from the house.

Edlemann was arrested after being released from Christiana Hospital.

Richard D. Montgomery, 18, of the 700 block of Kilgore Court in Glasgow Pines, was arrested on Nov. 30 and charged with burglary in the second degree, theft, conspiracy in the second degree and theft of a firearm.

Montgomery was arraigned at Justice of the Peace Court 18 and released after posting $4,000 secured bond.

City to decide on $550,000 land purchase at meeting

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Newark City Council will decide whether to approve the purchase of 12.67 acres of land for $550,000 at their meeting on Dec. 13 at 8 p.m.

The money for the land located on north Elkton Road adjacent from the Maryland state line will come from the $2.9 million bond issue residents approved in April 10, 1990, for a parkland acquisition fund.

If the purchase is approved, the city will be buying land previously slated for the construction of 44 townhomes and protect 2.08 acres located along the Christina Creek.

Flooding problems that residents who live close to Christina Creek have complained about would not be aggravated.

The land straddling the West Branch of Christina Creek and continuing north to the Stine Haskel DuPont Company site would be left as "undisturbed" open space.

"Half the site is heavily wooded with a stream," said Roy Lopota, the city's planning director. "This will help limit the potential for downstream flooding."

The planned purchase, known as "Iron Glen", would be set aside for now with little or no maintenance required.

When the land is needed for recreational facilities it would be converted to include ball fields, tennis courts and other similar park needs.

"As the city continues to grow we will need more baseball fields, tennis courts and other facilities," Lopota said.

The "Iron Glen" park would be the fourth purchase from the parkland acquisition fund, the most recent being Karpinski Park.

If council buys the land there will be $1.3 million left in the fund.

MENORAH TREE

Hanukkah, the Jewish Feast of Lights, began at sundown Wednesday, and continues for eight days. Yvonne Link of Brookside thought this pine tree, in the yard of her neighbors Paige and Becky Buckley, has a striking resemblance to the menorah candelabrum used during the Hanukkah celebration.

Diesel fuel spill closes road

Approximately 20 to 30 gallons of diesel fuel spilled onto South College Avenue near Interstate 95 when a tractor trailer's fuel line ruptured on Dec. 5.

Aetna, Hose, Hook and Ladder Co. responded to the scene and the lane was shut down for about 20 minutes.

Newark police there were no injuries or lasting environmental impact.

Group concerned about Newark-area children being exposed to dangerous toxins

disconcerting."

As it stands, Delaware operates on a permit basis and has no state regulations relating to "non criteria pollutants", another name for toxic and carcinogenic emissions.

According to the Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Control and Noramco officials the plant emits the following "non-criteria" pollutants into the air:

- Acetone: 17,800 pounds per year in 1991 and 4,100 in 1992. This chemical can long term illness.

- Dichloromethane: 33,000 pounds per year in 1991 and 20,000 in 1992. This chemical, also known as methylene chloride can cause liver cancer. It's the same chemical that was removed from paint thinner and wood stripper a couple years ago, according to Toxicologist Dr. Gerald Llewellyn.

Llewellyn said there is "probably more of a risk crossing the street" than getting cancer from the amount of Dichloromethane in the air, but it is something he feels should be looked at more closely.

"If it's taken out of wood stripper the n that's starting to tell us something," Llewellyn said. "Lifetime exposure probably would mean an increased cancer risk.... it has caused liver cancer in mice."

- Methanol: 51,000 pounds per year in 1991 and 19,700 in 1992. This chemical can cause nerve damage.

- Methyl Isobutyl Ketone: none on record for 1991 and 1,600 pounds per year in 1992. This chemical also can cause nerve damage.

- Sulfuric acid: 1,400 pounds per year in 1991 and 832 in 1992. This can cause long term illness.

- Toluene: 4,800 pounds per year in 1991 and 1,100 in 1992. This chemical can be responsible for birth defects.

Non-criteria pollutants, which include organic and metal by-products, are also emitted from cars.

Delaware has regulations for "criteria pollutants", which are different than "non-criteria" pollutants, include emissions such as sulfur dioxide, carbon dioxide and ozone.

Joe Clement, program manager of air surveillance at the Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Control said "criteria pollutants" have been "looked at for years" and are strictly regulated.

"The cancer task force will look at the non criteria pollutants to establish if there is any effect," Clement said.

Only a limited amount of air sampling was done at the Noramco plant according to Clement. The scientists were at the plant on and off for about a week and found that the chemicals emitted are as harmful as those from a car.

"If we were out there every day it might be different," Clement said. "This is important because there is not enough money to cover the operational costs of running the equipment and a limited staff."

Sherry Woodruff, Gov. Carper's press secretary said the governor has been focused on meeting a Clean Air Act deadline of Nov. 15. His actions in this matter will limit "criteria pollutants", such as ozone and its by-products, by 26 tons per day.

Woodruff said Carper expects to begin talks with environmental groups, DNREC and industry that will deal specifically with "non criteria pollutants", or toxic and carcinogenic emissions, early next year.

For now, Noramco is violating no laws. It operates within its permit.

Vince Kranz, an environmental expert at Noramco said the company is currently taking voluntary measures to reduce toxic and carcinogenic emissions.

For example, the plant owners recently spent $250,000 for seven new vacuum systems throughout the plant. These will cut down on emissions and possible allow some waste to be reused.

Kranz has two children enrolled in Bancroft Elementary and doesn't believe their health is in jeopardy.

"Basically, I have no concerns about their health related to this plant...the bus trip is more dangerous," Kranz said.

Malin helps investigate

► TEACHER, from 1A

Later, he went onto administration as an Assistant Vice Principal in the Red Clay School District.

"I liked teaching, it was very rewarding. It was a lot better than administration," Malin said.

Malin, a native Delawarean, received his master's degree in natural science from the University of Delaware and his doctoral degree in teaching from California Coast University.

He teaches at Wilmington Teacher's College.

Hotel hearing set for Dec. 13

► HEARING, from 1A

a special use permit the hotel must meet certain restrictions.

One condition is that the hotel has a lobby so it can't be confused as a motel.

The Delaware Department of Transportation has already provided a service road that would connect the hotel to South College Avenue as part of its Del 896 construction.

The planning department is recommending that council approve the special use permit because it will provide hotel space for demands generated by the Carpenter Sports and Convocation Center, the Ice Skating Arena, Football Stadium and other nearby University of Delaware facilities.

Study gets mixed reaction

corner of the study area.

John Kang said his parents bought 100-acres of land in the study area as an investment for their retirement and now he fears it is worth half as much.

The study, which looks at a 28,000 acre area south of Old Baltimore Pike, north of the canal, east of Maryland and west of Del. 7, was compiled in April to help plan and control the rapid growth of the area.

Michael McGrath the planning manager for the Delaware Agricultural Lands Preservation Foundation suggested a "transferable development right" program, or TDR, as a means to preserve some land while using other land to its full potential.

A TDR program would allow the owner of low density property the opportunity to buy the higher density rights of another property.

The seller of high density rights would forfeit their right to develop the land in return for a negotiated price.

McGrath said the seller's land would be protected and could never be developed as anything other than a farm.

The TDR plan would offer the buyer, realtor and developer the opportunity to build more homes, make more money and avoid a timely and expensive fight to rezone in the county's planning department.

Brian Shuler, director of planning for New Castle County said TDR's have been discussed by the planning department for years and he is "willing to look at it."

Shuler said TDR's will "probably be in some form, part of the comprehensive plan as it relates to the county."

If so, then farmers in the southern part of the county who don't fall into the Central Pencader Study area might profit.

Robert Baker, a farmer from Middletown, told the planning department he thought the study would mean a "loss of value" for his property.

He and other representatives from below the canal were at the hearing to insure their voices were heard.

Geoff Perry, an environmental consultant from Middletown said this about the study: "No government policy or legislation is restricted to one area. It will be an experiment that will be applied to other areas to regulate growth."

The planning department's next step is to review all comments made about the Central Pencader Study and come up with a revised study to present to the citizen Planning Board and then to County Council for final approval.

After working hard for 15 years, you deserve a home of your own.

With a low-interest Open Door Mortgage from Bank of Delaware, owning can cost less than renting.

You've been paying rent for years now and never thought you could afford your own home. But did you know that if you make rent payments, chances are you could be paying about the same for a mortgage on your own home instead?

The Open Door Mortgage from Bank of Delaware is designed specifically to help families on a modest budget own the home of their dreams.

With an Open Door Mortgage, qualifying home buyers can take advantage of reduced rates, and reduced points. And to make it even easier to own a home, you'll only need a minimum 5% down payment.

So stop by any Bank of Delaware office, or call 1-800-722-1172 and ask about an Open Door Mortgage. Because it's time you stop spending your money on rent and turn your dream of owning a home into reality.

Newark Lions celebrate 65th

► LIONS, from 1A

Moore.

She said some of the club's annual projects have been going on for many years. She said the Lions have been paying for eye glasses for the needy since the 1930s and providing hospital equipment such as crutches, walkers and hospital beds at no charge for over 15 years.

Moore said her father has been in the Wilmington Manor Lions for 35 years and her husband in the same club for 20 years. "I wanted to do things as an individual without being in the shadow of my father or husband," said Moore on why she joined the Newark Lions.

Moore is the first woman president of the Newark Lions Club, an accomplishment since women were only allowed in the club since 1987.

This time of year, Newark Lions assist in the packing and distribution holiday food packages for people in need.

In addition, the club donates money each year to the Newark Senior Center and this year gave an extra amount to go towards the senior center's fund to construct a new building.

Also, many members participate in Meals-on-Wheels, and the club supports a variety of other local charitable and educational causes, and supports charity on the international level, too.

What's it like to be a long-term Newark Lion?

Lions member Fred Tarrant has been in the club for 30 years. He said he joined for the community service purpose.

Robert McAlpine has been a member for 32 years. "I joined to serve people and have stayed because it's a good organization," he said.

Robert Kerr, a member for 28 years, said he joined to help people. "I believe we serve," said Kerr.

Ralph Helm has 26 years of service in the club. "Lions is the greatest thing in the world," said Helm.

The club meets the first and third Tuesdays of each month at 6:30 p.m. at The Glasgow Arms Restaurant.

tops. He also cut "storm troopers", which is another name for energetic little boys who "could take over the shop."

The Main Street Barber Shop has a long standing reputation for being a trough of community information. And like many other traditional barbers, Burchard has been advisor, psychologist, counselor, as well as groomer, to the masses.

People come in and tell you everything," said Burchard. "If you don't love people, don't get in the personal business."

"I'll never forget this one man," said Burchard. "He was one of the highest paid men who worked for DuPont. He said he couldn't sleep very well last night. I said, 'You're not very grateful for the day you are living in. You've got to start it over and change that attitude. Balance you mental, physical and spiritual. Stay in love and play music and you won't have that problem!'"

A lot of barbers today are mixed up," said Burchard. "They call themselves stylists. I say that barbers have always been stylists if they cut somebody's hair like they wanted it."

I've cut women's hair as well as men's. There were times when I'd have six women in here waiting for a cut and a man would come to the door and turn around and say, 'I'm in the wrong place'."

Then there were the days when Bob Raines, a musician from Nashville would come into town. He and Burchard would strike up a tune right there in the shop. Burchard said he was "new on the fiddle," but he could play pretty good with Raines.

When we would get to playin', I'd hope that nobody would come in," said Burchard. "I'd say, to the fellow who worked with me, 'Sam, take the customers'." Sam Presley played a guitar, but I kept him busy cuttin' hair. He and I worked together for 10 years and we never had a foul word. He is still my best friend.

The barber shop has given me a good life. "It's wonderful to have a job that will give you wealth and make you happy."

"I used to have a motto that I wrote: Live today, hope for tomorrow, and make sure you forget yesterday. You'll forget the bad things of yesterday, but you always remember the good things."

The shop will be open Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. until 6 p.m.; Saturdays, 9 a.m. until 3 p.m.; and closed Sundays.

Prices for haircuts will be $6 for children; $7 for men with regular cuts; $8 for cuts with a shampoo; and $6 for seniors. No appointments are necessary.

Carvel makes a good point

Legalize drugs? That's what the United States Surgeon General suggested this week. Her feelings were echoed Tuesday night — Delaware Day — on TV 12 by former Delaware governor Elbert Carvel. He and former governors Peterson, Tribbitt, duPont and Castle were in the studio to discuss what it was like being at the helm of the Diamond State.

Gov. Carvel isn't some sort of liberal upstart. At 83, he's Delaware's respected elder statesman. "I'm about to drop a bombshell," he told the others before speaking his mind during the discussion. A bombshell, indeed. None of the other former governors dared to agree with his position on drugs.

But Gov. Carvel made a good point: legalizing drugs would eliminate the high-profit racketeering, which is the source of the high cost of these drugs on the street — a cost which is paid by unemployed inner city users who steal and murder to get the money. Drug arrests would cease, and there would be fewer theft and murder cases crowding our courts and prisons. The streets would be safer.

The biggest fear seems to be that more people would use drugs if they were legal. As Carvel mentioned, more lives are lost each year to cigarettes and alcohol than to drugs. Yet both substances are legal. Is everyone taking advantage of this legality, smoking and drinking excessively? Of course not. Gov. Carvel's idea deserves a closer look. It's not as far-fetched as some might portray it to be. Money now being spent needlessly on housing more and more criminals could be spent on drug education and prevention programs, nipping the problem in the bud.

PER CHANCE

Enough Star Spangled butchery

By ELBERT N. CHANCE

NEWARK POST COLUMNIST

Mention the name U. S. District Court Judge Murray M. Schwartz and most Delawareans think of the controversial cases involving school busing in New Castle County.

My personal relationship with Judge Schwartz dates to 1977 when he invited me to participate in the Naturalization Ceremonies for New Citizens over which he presided twice each year. I was involved in this program for ten years and found it a meaningful and rewarding experience.

Judge Schwartz may be portrayed as a demanding taskmaster by some of his critics, but I found him an admirable and compassionate man. He explained to me that it was his desire to make the Naturalization Ceremonies a memorable experience for the new citizens, and since the National Anthem was used during the program, he wanted a live performer rather than a tape or record, which were being used in some other courtrooms. He also sought speakers of the highest calibre, some of them individuals who traced their own heritage to immigrant parents or earlier ancestors. Among these speakers were the Governor and Lt. Governor, members of Delaware's Congressional delegation and the CEOs of DuPont and

The author, a long-time Newark resident, was the recipient of the W. W. Laird Award presented by OperaDelaware in recognition of contributions to vocal music in the Delaware Valley.

Chance

Hercules.

My participation evolved into a discussion of patriotic music, the singing of "America, the Beautiful" and leading the new citizens, their families and guests in the singing of our National Anthem.

There are many Americans who believe that "America, the Beautiful", with music by Samuel A. Ward and text by Katharine Lee Bates, is far more suitable as a National Anthem than "The Star-Spangled Banner". Its lyrics deal with the country at large rather than with a specific war-related incident and it is less demanding vocally than "Banner". It is paradoxical that Key's impassioned text is set to the tune of an English drinking song originally composed for the Anacreontic Society of London. It frequently had been used with other lyrics in this country, once as a campaign song in support of President John Adams.

The original music by John

Stafford Smith was eventually arranged for use by the U. S. Army and Navy Bands by John Philip Sousa and, though performed for many years, it was not officially adopted as the National Anthem by the U. S. Congress until 1931.

Since that time, a number of efforts have been launched to change from "Banner" to "Beautiful". The National Federation of Music Clubs announced its support for such a change, and a 1977 Boston Globe citizens' poll favored the switch by a 2-1 margin. An Indiana Congressman introduced a bill to make the change in 1985, but this measure was defeated. Still others have expressed support for the use of "God Bless America".

The major flaw in the performance of "The Star-Spangled Banner" lies not with the music, but with those who perform it. Rock, rap, pop and country and western singers, with rare exceptions, will never perform the anthem well. It is martial music that does not need "arranging" or "interpretation"; it demands trained vocalists with sufficient range and volume to meet its challenges.

On the local scene, stirring performances of the anthem were given during the 1993 football season by University of Delaware choral groups and by student and alumni soloists. When done well, the "Banner" can evoke the desired feelings of patriotism and pride.

But those who promote major sporting events and other public functions need to understand that the performance of our National Anthem demands ability—not merely name recognition. Roseanne Barr need not apply.

UPON MY WORD

Target trucks, not converters

By SHIRLEY M. TARRANT

NEWARK POST COLUMNIST

I don't even know what a catalytic converter is, but I got a new one — my car did, that is. It never occurred to me that the different and strange sound coming from under my car's hood would lead to such an expensive transaction, together with the risk of my being charged as a criminal. This catalytic converter business is serious business with the EPA.

It all started with a "ping-ping" sound coming from under the right side of the hood. At first, I thought perhaps my car needed a higher octane gas (too many TV commercials!). That first Ping-ping Day was a very busy one for me; I didn't have time to stop at my favorite gas station and bug the mechanic. (You know how that is). A few days later, the ping-ping was entertaining me not only when I accelerated, but it seemed even louder when the car was idling. It sounded like I had a cornpopper under the hood. I was embarrassed when I stopped at the red lights on Main St. and Elkton Road. I decided to stop at the service station and ask my friendly mechanic to give a quick look-see and hopefully, he would recognize the problem and fix it then and there. Wouldn't you know that by the time I went around a few blocks to get back to the mechanic who would work his magic, my car was running smoothly and quietly. When he lifted the hood, he could not really hear anything. Unbelievable! He recommended that I drive for a few more days until it became worse. Well, it got worse. The next time I rolled into the station, with a "ping-clank, ping-clunk", the mechanic had absolutely no problem evaluating the cause: "You need a new converter." Oh, okay. The car would have to be left for a day, so it was immediately scheduled for the Monday after Thanksgiving. The converter had to be ordered, and that takes time.

On the day that I picked up my car and paid the bill, I was asked apologetically to sign a form, a customer registration form which is required by our federal Environmental Protection Agency. My signature is legal proof that I indeed purchased and had installed a new catalytic converter, part number 4050, on Nov. 29, 1993, at University Mobil in Newark, DE. And the reason for replacement was "catalytic material breaking apart; noise from right side." Furthermore, I had to mail "the white copy" to the Catalytic Converter Headquarters in Toledo, Ohio immediately. The "installer" kept "the green Signed replacement statement". I kept "the pink copy" and "the manila copy" was attached to the used converter and required to be retained by the installer for 15 days. And there it was in all its glory—my car's old catalytic converter on the floor of the garage, tagged and available for EPA inspection.

I am impressed. All of the multi-colored copies of registration and warranty, the old tagged converter being held hostage, my signature for proof-of-purchase and "catalytic converter activity", the 15-day waiting period before I am declared innocent of wrongdoing and filing a copy with Headquarters (just like the IRS!). I hope the EPA is as impressed with my following through with all of their requirements. I commend them. I really do. But, it was rather disconcerting to return to the road, proudly accompanied by my new catalytic converter, and to see many, many trucks (large and small) emitting so much black smoke and soot from their exhaust pipes. It looked like their drivers are members of various Indian tribes who are trying to send us smoke signals. C'mon, EPA — come out of the back of the a garage and look at all of those exhaust fumes. Isn't anyone checking emissions? "Ping-ping" or no "ping-ping" — it's fouling our air!

Pays Social Call in Airplane

The first social visit made to Newark in an airplane occurred on the morning of Thanksgiving day when second Lieutenant William J. Fitzpatrick after treating the residents to some real thrills, glided gracefully to the ground in Wilson's field just west of town, along the Elkton road.

Hundreds of people, attracted by the stunts of the birdman thought that he had lost control of the machine and in spite of a driving rain followed in the general direction taken by the plane and witnessed its landing.

Fearing that some accident had befallen the aviator and that he had made a forced landing, the crowd were over the fence and the in the landing field.

Among them were a number of Delaware College students and others who were greatly surprised to be greeted by Lieutenant Fitzpatrick, a former student at Delaware college and popular member of the class of 1919. He was accompanied by Sergeant Unruh, a mechanic.

Hot Lunches Prove Popular

The serving of hot lunches to the pupils of the Newark Public Schools, inaugurated two weeks ago, is proving to be exceedingly popular.

A number of pupils far in excess of the maximum estimate are availing themselves daily of the opportunity to supplement the lunch brought from home with something hot and nourishing from the school kitchen.

On the second floor of the High School building with equipment loaned by Women's College in exchange for the privilege of using it for practice teaching, the Home Economics Class composed of high school girls, prepare under the

THE BIDEN REPORT

Manufacturing Alliance will provide a much needed link

By SEN. JOSEPH R. BIDEN JR.
SPECIAL TO THE NEWARK POST

On Dec. 1, I joined Governor Carper and Delaware Development Office Director Bob Coy in a press conference to launch the Delaware Manufacturing Alliance.

The highlight of that event was the presentation of a check for $750,000, representing the federal funding commitment to cover operational expenses of the Alliance for the next two years. I was very pleased to work with the State and the Commerce Department to help secure that funding.

The Alliance, a non-profit resource center, will link Delaware manufacturers in an information network, with special emphasis on the needs of small and mid-sized manufacturers. Those companies, like all small businesses, represent the creative core of our economy, and the source of the greatest number of jobs.

Alliance activities will be entirely controlled by a board of directors made up of local manufacturers. These businessmen and women — not the federal government — will decide what assistance they need to expand opportunities and improve production processes.

By providing information on new technologies, materials, production methods and potential markets, the Delaware Manufacturing Alliance will help small and mid-sized manufacturers improve their business practices and, ultimately, their bottom lines.

That's the kind of competitiveness that creates and secures jobs — jobs we need in Delaware.

The Alliance grew out of discussions involving Delaware business leaders, and represents the realization of a key goal established by the General Motors Task Force, which was formed following the announcement that G.M. planned to close its manufacturing plant on Boxwood Road. Richard Webb, President of Alanx Products in Newark, a manufacturer of ceramic tools for the mining industry, has been named Chairman of the Alliance.

The federal grant, which assures that the Alliance can go forward as planned, was awarded under the Technology Reinvestment Project. President Clinton initiated this program to help in the economic conversion from past reliance on defense funding of many high-technology firms, for both jobs and opportunities to test new technologies.

The Technology Reinvestment Project is designed to encourage concentration on those products and technologies that hold the greatest promise for both defense and commercial use. To put it another way, it's a program to help beat some of our swords into plowshares, and to ensure that both the swords and the plowshares are of the best possible, competitive quality.

Part of that federal effort is the development of a national network of resource centers to provide services to manufacturers. The Delaware Manufacturing Alliance now takes its place at the lead of that growing network.

The need for such cooperative, coordinated programs, involving the different levels of government working together with the private sector, is increasingly urgent.

We responded to that need in a different way earlier this year, with legislation I sponsored to help encourage desirable, pro-competitive production joint ventures that locate their primary facilities in the United States. That legislation, which became known as the Joint Production Bill, was signed by the President in June.

The objective of the manufacturing alliance network, and of the Delaware Manufacturing Alliance in particular, is much the same — to boost overall commercial competitiveness in response to fundamental structural changes in our economy and a new level of competition.

The Alliance alone will not build a successful manufacturing base, but I believe it will be a vital tool as we work together to secure Delaware's economic future.

Red Cross Needs Sweaters

The soldiers of the Army of Occupation send word that last year's sweaters are worn out, that it is getting pretty cold there and that they want sweaters now more than anything else. Then, too, the refugees and repatriates have few warm garments and little or no heat in their houses. The nurses, too, are urgently in need of sweaters. The Red Cross therefore urges loyal knitters to continue their knitting with renewed zeal. Delaware Chapter is asked to send before February 1, 14,000 sweaters and 23,000 pairs of socks.

Former Students Selling Marijuana Sentenced to Jail

Two former University of Delaware students were sentenced to three years in prison and given $500 fines last week in New Castle County Court of Common Pleas, for selling marijuana.

Dennis K. Sponholtz, 19, of Rockville, Md., and William J. Graham III, 20, of Upper Darby, Pa., had been found guilty Sept. 19, by Judge A. James Gallo in New Castle County Court of Common Pleas on the testimony of a fellow student, John Wilson Jr., 20.

Gallo said he was giving the minimum sentence prescribed by the General Assembly and was making a sharp distinction between possession and sale of marijuana. In the former, he said his practice is to send offenders to prison for three months, then put them on three years' probation.

Support Grows for Development Impact Fees

Development impact fees may be the major issue decided by the 1989 Delaware General Assembly. Such fees have been proposed to finance the infrastructure needs—roads, water and waste water—of growing areas in the state.

Money would be collected from developers building the houses and store which place additional burdens on that infrastructure.

Committee Studies Rental Complaints

Buildings are not painted, the grass is not trimmed, cars are left vacant, and trash piles up.

Those are among complaints received about some rental properties in the City of Newark. In the past, the complaints have gotten tangled up in red tape as city officials try to decide which department should address the problem.

Now, however, a newly-formed committee will coordinate efforts along departments and hopefully get problems solved quickly.

Songs of the season play where death usually treads

By NANCY TURNER
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The splendor and festivities of the holiday season bring joy to millions, but for those who have lost loved ones, this time of year can be filled with sadness and apprehension.

In an effort to offer a helping hand of encouragement to survivors and assure them that there is room for hope and beauty in the future, Beeson Memorial Services of Christiana-Elkton sponsored a free Christmas concert for the public and a dedication reception of a Tree of Remembrance.

Dec. 3 concert were overwhelmed by the music of Christian recording artists Dana and Sue Talley, who filled the chapel with unprecedented sound and touched hearts with favorites like "Ave Maria," "Oh Come, Oh Come, Emanuel," "I Wonder as I Wander," "Sweet Little Jesus Boy," and finally an encore of "Oh Holy Night."

Dana made his debut at the Metropolitan Opera in 1979, where he performed as principal soloist for five years. Sue's musical career began at the age of five as a piano soloist. At age 16, she made her orchestral debut with the Santa Barbara Symphony Orchestra. Over the years, the couple has performed on stages from Venice to Salt Lake City. A recent performance in Russia will air on PBS the week before Christmas.

According to Ruth Beeson, an owner of Beeson Memorial Services, registered nurse and professional grief counselor, "we just wanted to offer something bright and encouraging for the community. This is the third year that we have sponsored the Talleys and we believe in the work that they are doing."

"After the loss of a loved one," said Beeson, "the first holiday is hard, but Christmas is by far the worst. It's hard to go it alone."

"Not everybody always cries," said owner Jay Beeson. "It comes and goes. Without the tears, there would be no relationship. It's part of the pain and natural expression. If not here, then where can people express their feelings — in the grocery store?"

"Ninety-eight percent of our work is with the living. It's part of our hospitality to allow people to cry here. It's so they can get on with their life. A lot of the people who have come here for the concert were here earlier this year. For many of them, it is the first time that they have been back to this place."

Ruth Beeson suggests those who have experienced the recent loss of a loved one, or friends who wish to help someone going through the grieving process, consider making changes in holiday tradition. "Maybe do things in a different way," she said. "Be with others. Volunteer in programs that help people."

At the end of the concert, guests shared a touching moment as they hung white paper doves commemorating lost loved ones with verses and sentiment that they inscribed.

"It has been three years and we still miss you like it was yesterday."

"Here's to you, mom. You were the greatest." "To dad, who did so much to make life comfortable." "We're okay, hope you are too." The messages were different, but the sense of loss was apparent.

"The Tree of Remembrance is a way for persons to get their feelings out into the open," said Ruth Beeson. "It's okay to hurt. It's okay to grieve. We worry about the ones who keep it all inside. We just want people to know that we are here for them."

Beeson Memorial Services has been in business since 1936 in Wilmington and most recently opened the second location at Fox Run on Route 40.

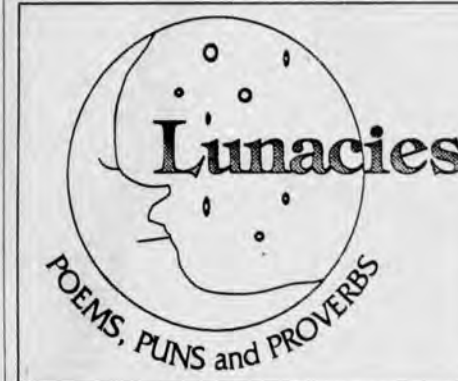

The company is initiating revolutionary changes in the traditional approach to the business.

Beeson's philosophy is that every life has a significant meaning and purpose and it is their goal to celebrate the life that has been lived.

As a visible extension of this philosophy, Beeson uses forest green mini vans rather than hearses and limousines; invites friends to share in the preparation of a "memory album" that contains written thoughts and memories for the family of the deceased; has substituted heavy draperies with skylights and provided a cheerful lounge area for children with video television and toys; and has replaced the dark clad funeral directors with ladies in fashionably colored dresses with a gentle touch.

POEMS, PUNS and PROVERBS

By James C. McLaren

A vaudevillian calf,
Always out for a laugh,
Said, "I'm a shammy who's hell-bent for leather!"
When his act went kaput,
The poor calf got the boot,
And was gloved at the end of his tether.

A homeless old Skunk
Without food or a bunk,
Went for help to the Salvation Army.
When he offered a scent
For the shelter and rent,
The sisters dispersed in alarmy.

Why do rock stars argue at dinner?
—They like to disc-uss the platters.

Would it be easy to brain-wash a Disney bird?
—It might be Daffy-cult.

While sparrows chirp brightly in the sky, the songs of earth-folks are often shabby.

To sail off with a grudge is more rewarding than to harbor a grudge.

Author's note:

Lunacies like these have been inflicted on my poor wife, children and colleagues for years. They have been greeted by both groans and guffaws — the latter, perhaps, to pacify the punster and offset a further barrage. To its victims, punning can be seen as a disease, since any laughter, however sparse, can be contagious. I hope readers will tackle this word-play nonsense with zest, thereby assuring them Eternal Joy and a letter from Ed McMahon.

Keep safety in mind as holidays approach

NEWARK OUTLOOK

FROM THE STAFF OF THE COOPERATIVE EXTENSION OFFICE AT UNIVERSITY OF DELAWARE

This week's author: Mark Manno

With only two short weeks until the holidays, you may find that your already busy life is becoming even more hectic. The last thing on your mind may be safety. Yet more accidents happen in December than any other month. Though this season is a time of joy, fun, gifts and surprises, there are also added hazards—more traffic accidents, house fires, falls and accidents involving toys.

Holiday traffic is awful. The construction tangle on the Kirkwood Highway just outside of Newark seems specifically designed to dampen the spirits of any holiday shopper. Attentiveness to driving tends to dwindle this time of year. Traffic is often heavy, and with fewer hours of daylight, visibility is sometimes poor. Parking is at a premium at malls and shopping centers. Many a fender-bender occurs as drivers circle the lot, looking for that elusive parking place.

Walking, especially through crowded parking lots, can be just as risky. Walk defensively. Don't depend on drivers to see you. Their minds may be focused on a car that's pulling out of a parking spot several rows over. Something as commonplace as carrying packages can reduce your ability to see and your mobility. When shopping, wear footwear that offers maximum traction on slippery surfaces.

During the holiday season, the risk of fire in homes increases substantially. As many as 57 percent of all house fires are caused by defective heating equipment. If you haven't had your furnace checked lately, get it done before the holidays. Inspect your chimney and fireplaces, too. Look for loose mortar that would indicate a breakdown in the integrity of the chimney, and clean the pipes and flues.

Christmas trees can be a potential source of fires. Fresh-cut trees are safer than trees that have been harvested weeks or even months before the holidays. Keep your tree fresh by storing it in a cool place and continuing to water it. Just before placing the tree in the stand, cut off the base of the trunk.

Check the water level often, especially the first few days.

Inspect the lights before you put them on the tree. Look for loose sockets and frayed wires. If you use extension cords, make sure that they are in good condition and don't overload them. If you suspect that an extension cord may be less than perfect, throw it out. A dried-out 8-foot pine can burn completely in just 27 seconds, creating tremendous heat.

If you haven't replaced your smoke alarm batteries lately, do it now. You should have smoke alarms in every bedroom and on every floor of the house including the basement. Smoke alarms aren't expensive. While you are out shopping for other holiday gifts, pick up smoke alarms for yourself.

Outdoor lights can cause fires. Use only those products that bear the Underwriter's Laboratory (UL) seal of approval. Don't overload circuits, and plug the lights into outlets away from high-traffic areas.

Children need special protection from hazards that are more prevalent this time of year. Select safe toys. Check the toy recall list as well. Don't assume that the manufacturer has designed a toy with safety as the primary consideration. Even toys that are designed for use by older children could have parts that pose a threat to toddlers. Examples of these are chemistry and science kits and art boxes that contain paints.

Keep safety in mind at all times, but especially during this season. Newscasts are filled with reports of fires and accidents — tragedies that could have been avoided. Don't let carelessness ruin your holidays.

Sonya Markarian and Craig Huffman

Markarian, Huffman to wed

Dr. and Mrs. Ralph K. Markarian of Newark are proud to announce the engagement of their daughter, Sonya Araxie, to Craig Branden Huffman, son of Newark residents Mr. and Mrs. Alden G. Huffman.

The bride graduated from Pennsbury High School, Fair Hills, Pa., in 1991 and is a student at the University of Delaware studying Criminal Justice/Psychology. She is a golden key member of the National Honor Society.

The groom graduated from Glasgow High School in 1991 and is majoring in Education at the University of Delaware. He is a resident assistant and the Vice President of Kappa Delta Rho fraternity.

The couple is planning to marry on Aug. 13, 1994.

Post office collecting toys

Newarkers on their way to mailing Christmas packages can now participate in a gift-giving program for needy children, sponsored by both branches of the Newark Post Office.

Through Dec. 20, new, unwrapped toys will be accepted in the lobbies at the Main Street (110 East Main Street) and Federal Station (401 Ogletown Road) buildings as part of the postal service's "Wee Deliver For Kids Too" program. The toys will then be given to a local charity for delivery to qualifying children in the Newark area.

Main Street lobby hours are 7:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. weekdays, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturdays. Hours at the Federal Station lobby are 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. weekdays, 8 a.m. to noon Saturdays. Both lobbies are closed Sundays.

Officer-in-Charge Anthony G. Dilorio Jr. encourages those with further questions to call him at 737-5770.

Risotto takes time to prepare, but it's worth the effort

The most common varieties of rice used in Italy are a long-grain, similar to the one we know, and superfino, a short-grain rice that cooks up into those beautiful creamy risotto dishes.

If you have never prepared risotto to it may take you one or two times to get it right. But please understand that this is one of the great dishes of the world and you will be very pleased with your success.

BASIC RISOTTO (serves 6-8 as a side dish)

This dish is easy to prepare and will help you understand why risotto is served as a separate course in such wonderful cities as Milan.

7 cups of fresh or canned chicken stock
3 tablespoons olive oil
2 cups arborio rice
Salt and pepper to taste

In a small saucepan bring the stock to a gentle simmer. Heat a 4 quart heavy-bottomed pot and add the oil.

Add the arborio and toast the rice a few minutes but do not burn.

Ladle in 1 1/2 cups of the simmering stock initially, stirring the rice constantly. Cook the rice over medium-low heat.

When the liquid has almost been absorbed by the rice, add another 1/2 cup of the hot stock.

Continue stirring and adding the remaining stock 1/2 cup at a time as the stock is absorbed. This should take 30 minutes to cook and the arborio should be tender but firm to the tooth when done.

Add salt and pepper to taste.

RISOTTO WITH FENNEL (serves 8 as a side dish)

I am so glad that fresh fennel can now be purchased year-round. Any large American city with a significant Italian population will have supermarkets that offer vegetables we considered quite exotic only a few years ago. The fennel makes this rice dish just delightful.

3 tablespoons butter
2 cloves garlic
1 cup diced yellow onion

3 cups julienned fresh fennel bulb
1 recipe Basic Risotto (recipe above)
Salt and pepper to taste

GARNISH

2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese

THE FRUGAL GOURMET

By JEFF SMITH

2 tablespoons chopped parsley

Heat a large frying pan and saute the butter, garlic and onion until the onion is almost clear.

Add the julienned fennel and saute until the fennel is tender, about 7 to 10 minutes.

Prepare the recipe for Basic Risotto

When the rice is 5 minutes from being finished, stir in the sauteed fennel mixture.

Add salt and pepper to taste and garnish with the grated cheese and parsley.

crumbled
1/3 cup whipping cream

Garnish with chopped parsley

RISOTTO WITH MUSHROOMS (serves 6-8)

This dish can be served with just about anything. Meats and fish and sausages simmered in tomato sauce all would welcome these supportive and rich flavors.

1/2 ounce dried porcini mushrooms
3/4 cup hot water
2 tablespoons olive oil
2 cloves garlic, crushed
1/2 pound fresh mushrooms, sliced
6 1/2 cups fresh or canned chicken stock
2 cups arborio rice
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1/4 cup whipping cream
2 tablespoons butter
Salt and pepper to taste

Place the dried porcini in a water glass and add 3/4 cup hot water. Allow to soak for 45 minutes and drain, reserving the liquid.

Rinse the soaked porcini to be sure they contain no sand and chop coarsely.

Heat a medium-size frying pan and add 1 tablespoon of the oil, the garlic and the chopped soaked porcini.

Saute for 3 minutes and add the fresh mushrooms. Saute until the mushrooms are just tender; set aside.

Bring the stock and 1/4 cup of the reserved liquid from the porcini to a simmer in a small pot.

Heat a 4- to 6-quart pot and add the remaining 1 tablespoon of oil and the arborio.

Saute the rice over low heat 5 to 7 minutes to lightly toast the rice. Add 1 1/2 cups of the simmering stock, stirring constantly, and simmer until the liquid is absorbed.

Add the remaining stock 1/2 cup at a time as the rice absorbs the liquid. This will take about 30 minutes total time.

Add the parsley, cream, butter and reserved mushroom mixture when the rice is almost done.

Add salt and pepper to taste.

RISOTTO WITH GORGONZOLA (serves 6-8)

Yes, this is rich. No, you should not cook much else for dinner. Yes, you can substitute bleu cheese. No, it will not be as good.

Follow the recipe for Basic Risotto (recipe above) and stir in the following ingredients when the rice is done.

1/3 pound (5 ounces) Gorgonzola,

Special holiday attractions at Hagley Museum this season

This is the season for celebration, warm feelings, twinkling lights and much more. One of the best places to find all of these in our area is at the Hagley Museum and Library, the grounds on which are the original home and black powder mills of the du Pont family.

All year long Hagley is the site of one of the finest industrial history and research facilities in the world. At this season, however, things change. Now the Hagley staff has adorned the indoors and outdoors of the 240 acres with decorations to please the many visitors who will pass through. Natural materials are used to illustrate not only 19th-century holiday decorating practices, but to reflect the setting in a wooded area along the banks of the Brandywine.

According to Hagley PR Coordinator Dorothy Lehr, "Three major areas of the museum build on their interpretive themes when creating holiday decorations and scheduling activities. For example," she continued, "the machines of industrialization are part of the story of making black powder at Mr. du Pont's mills in the 1800s. To evoke the past, demonstrations, and exhibit of scale locomotives and an operating model railroad will entertain visitors and conjure images of both holiday delight and the might machines of America's industrial past."

As far as family life is concerned, visitors can see the original du Pont home as well as the restored workers' houses. The contrast will be most obvious. Can you guess which location is the source of the color photo with my column today?

New for this holiday season is the integration of articles of lace from the collection of a present day member of the du Pont family. Items of Irish lace and War lace are on exhibit in the du Pont home. Many of the interior decorations this year incorporate this lace theme. By the way, if you are not familiar with the term "War lace," it signifies the lace created in World War I Belgium to support the war effort. (Toman's Trivia for Today.)

From now through January 2, you may see all of the decorations both indoors and out. Visits to the du Pont home are offered daily and weekend visits are offered to the workers' area on Blacksmith Hill.

The justly famous Candlelight Tours are set for three dates this month, the 20th, 21st and 27th. They will be given at 5:30 and 8:00 p.m. The cradles softly illuminate the festively decorated du Pont Home on these very special evenings. While visitors are going about, carolers and instrumental musicians will be making a joyful

'Who's Got His Own' on Bacchus Theatre stage

The University of Delaware Black Student Theatre will present "Who's Got His Own" by Ron Miller at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Dec. 10-11, in the Bacchus Theatre of the Perkins Student Center, located on Academy Street in Newark.

This production will be a participating entry in the Kennedy Center American College Theatre Festival to be held at Penn State University in January.

Set in Detroit in the 1960s, "Who's Got His Own" is about an African-American family after the death of the father. The pivotal characters are a college-aged son and daughter and their mother, who all are forced to face their emotional and strife-filled past while dealing with the present. By bringing their experiences with their father and husband out in the open, they come to a greater understanding and acceptance of him and of each other. The issues of violence and racism they face are pertinent today, according to Chris Matthews, who is president of the campus theater group.

In order to give several students the opportunity to learn stagecraft, there will be two different casts. On Dec. 10, the production will feature Rich Briggs, Veronica Rockett and Mikelle Drew. On Dec. 11, Matthews, Andrea Gathers and Melinda Blow will play the major roles. Naomi Carter, Christine Tymes and Candace Weir will appear in all four performances.

This is the group's third production in its two years on the campus. Nancy King, professor in the University Honors Program, is the group's adviser.

Tickets are $5 for general admission and $4 for students. For further information, advance ticket sales and group rates, call Kenya Barnes at 837-1030.

noise. These tours are so very popular and reservations are a "must." The cost of the tours is $9 for adults and $5 for children 14 and under.

Through January 17, you may visit "The Magic of Miniature" in the Henry Clay Mill gallery on the Hagley grounds. There are so many miniatures, to which I referred earlier to be seen here. Tops on my list are the toys and models from the machine age, in particular the operating HO scale model train layout. There is no extra charge to visit this exhibit.

For these holiday exhibits, please use the main entrance just off Delaware Route 141. If you are coming from the Newark area, go toward Wilmington on the Kirkwood Highway, Del. Rt. 2. Get on Del. Rt. 141 at Prices Corner and stay on it until St. Joseph's on the Brandywine, where Del. Rt. 100 goes off to the left. Just about a hundred yards past that, there is a sign to turn left to Hagley. Follow that road to the bottom of the hill, turn left through the big iron gates and you are there.

Admission for all the events, except the Candlelight Tours noted above, is $9.75 for adults; $7.50 for seniors, students with ID and chil-

Crossans to host UD fundraising trip to Egypt

As a fund-raiser for the University of Delaware Agricultural Alumni Association Scholarship Fund, former Dean Don Crossan will lead a tour to Egypt from Feb. 17 to March 1, 1994.

Highlights of the 14-day tour include visits to the Sphinx and the Great Pyramids of Giza, the Temple of Ramses II at Abu Simbel, the Valley of the Kings and other remains of ancient Egyptian civilization. The group will also visit the High Aswan Dam, the botanical garden of Kitchener Island and the King Tut treasures.

A deluxe 5-day cruise aboard the M/S Nile goddess will provide the opportunity to observe farming as it was practiced in biblical times, with ancient irrigation water wheels, wooden plows pulled by water buffalo, and much of the planting and harvesting still done by hand.

An optional 6-day trip to the Sinai will provide opportunities for snorkeling and fishing, as well as spectacular scenery and religious landmarks such as the 6th century St. Catherine's Monastery located on Mt. Sinai. An Egyptologist will accompany the tour, and a noted American professor at the University of Cairo will present a seminar to give tour members a better understanding of Egypt's history, economics, agriculture, art and social customs.

For a brochure outlining the complete itinerary and costs, call Don Crossan at 738-4318.

Blue Hen cagers edge DelState

Blue Hen point guard Rob Garner hit the winning shot in Delaware's one-point win over Delaware State.

Garner's jumper gives Delaware an exciting 73-72 victory over the Hornets

By JOHN HOLOWKA
NEWARK POST SPORTS WRITER

Rob Garner's basket with nine seconds remaining gave the University of Delaware a 73-72 victory over intrastate Division I-A foe Delaware State on Saturday in a nonconference basketball game at Bob Carpenter Center.

A vocal throng of 4,217 bipartisan rooters watched the closest contest of the series in a game that featured 10 ties and 23 lead changes before Garner's left-handed 10-footer sealed the Blue Hen win.

Delaware, which routed the Hornets 81-64 last year in Dover, leads the series 2-1 and boosted its season record to 2-1. Delaware State falls to 1-3.

"(Brian) Pearl went up for the shot and (Delaware State) blocked it," said Garner, a sophomore guard and University of Texas transfer who led the Hens with 21 points and eight assists. "I was going back on defense and I saw the ball come back. I made a quick move and looked at the shot clock that had four seconds on it, so I knew I had to get a shot off."

"We felt the game would come down to the end for sure. It just so happened that the ball ended up in my hands. I took the shot and it went in. The thing is, my job is to make sure the team wins."

"This was a big game — not our biggest game, but a big game," Garner said. "It was at the forefront of the team all week long. We've been talking about it and practicing hard. I was really motivated."

Delaware State held in check the Hens with a man-to-man defensive scheme that effectively kept the game close for 40 minutes. Delaware shot just under 38 percent in the first half and netted 29 of 68 (42.6 percent) from the floor on the afternoon. The Hornets hit 30 percent during the opening half and 40 percent (29 out of 72) for the game.

Andrew Miles, a graduate of Sanford School, led the Hornets and all scorers with 23 points, including a perfect 6-of-6 from the foul line. Delaware State's Malcolm Musgrove scored 14 points while Artis Preston finished with 12 points and a game-high 14 boards.

"I thought this game was a classic," said Blue Hen Coach Steve Steinwedel. "All three have been exciting, but I think this was the best. Both teams played a better game."

Neither team took more than a two-point lead until Delaware junior guard Pearl put the Hens up 12-9 with a three-pointer and 13:29 left in the first. The Hornets answered to tie it 12-12 and fought a seesaw battle before 6-foot-8 Matt Strine's dunk off a 3-on-2 break just before the half gave the Hens a tight 32-30 lead.

Strine, a sophomore forward, had given Delaware its widest margin of the game at 22-18 with seven minutes left in the

Fry shows grit in Hens' loss

Leads team to 14-point, fourth quarter rally to tie game

By MARTY VALANIA
NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

The University of Delaware football team fell 34-31 to Marshall University last Saturday and was eliminated from the NCAA's I-AA playoffs. It was both eerily similar and light years different from last year.

It was a dark-dreary day in Huntington, W.V. and the Blue Hens were again trailing Marshall by 14 points with reserve quarterback Dale Fry trying to lead the Hens from behind.

This year, however, Fry was better prepared. He had been the starter through the first five games and, in fact, was on his way to one of the greatest seasons a Delaware quarterback has ever had. But a broken collarbone sidelined him and Saturday's appearance versus the Thundering Herd was his first meaningful action since the injury.

Last year Fry was unable to guide the Hens to the end zone; Saturday he directed the Hens to scores twice in the final 7:30 to erase a 31-17 deficit and apparently send the game to overtime.

Instead, a long kickoff return, a crazy fumble that the Herd somehow recovered and a 38-yard field goal with just three seconds remaining in the fourth quarter, again ended a season in Huntington.

Fry, though, left quite an impression on anyone that saw his gutsy return.

The first big play came in third-and-10 situation as Fry, scrambling out of reach of several Marshall defenders, connected with Lanue Johnson on a 54 yard pass play to give Delaware a first down on the Marshall 19-yard line.

Four plays later, facing a fourth-and-11, Fry — after having the wet ball snapped through his hands and rolling around at the 35-yard line — picked up the ball and threw a strike to Dan Cooper in the corner of the end zone to cut the lead to 31-24 with 7:27 to play in the game.

After a defensive stand, Fry again led the Hens back down the field scrambling and passing the whole way. This drive culminated in a 10-yard pass from Fry to Keita Malloy for the tying touchdown with 1:14 left.

"Fry came in and made some of the most unbelievable plays I've ever seen on a football field," said Marshall Coach Jim Donnan. "I can't give him enough credit for coming from 14 points down in this kind of atmosphere."

It would be easy to say that Fry should've been in the game earlier — especially after his miraculous performance.

Hen opponent makes tough loss tougher

By MARTY VALANIA

There are several things that just don't seem right about the University of Delaware football team being eliminated from the NCAA's I-AA playoffs this season.

The Blue Hens fell in a 34-31 heartbreaker to Marshall University Saturday afternoon as the Herd's David Merrick booted a 38-yard game-winning field goal with just three seconds remaining in the fourth quarter. The loss marked the second straight year that Marshall has eliminated the Hens from national championship contention; both times in Huntington, W.V.

It's may be tough for anyone that hasn't made the trip to Huntington in either of the past two seasons to comprehend the bitterness of the loss.

And it's not because Huntington is such a dreary place. It's certainly not a booming Sun Belt town; but it's a town with great school spirit. The whole town — businesses, the community and the school — supports Marshall athletics with great passion. Newark can't even compare.

I've thoroughly enjoyed my trips to Huntington.

It's not the facilities. Heck, Marshall has the best I-AA stadium in the country. It's an unbelievable stadium with a beautiful press box and numerous luxury boxes.

It's definitely a big-time operation.

It's really hard to pinpoint the reason for such feelings toward the Herd, but I think it begins with the

We finished off the season with a 1-1 record good enough for a 45-13 overall record — a .776 winning percentage.

We picked up a win in the Division I game but, like all the other Division II games, missed the Middletown-Sussex Tech.

It was certainly not a great year but it was good enough for a win in a friendly rivalry with another soothsayer.

This week will pick some of the highlights of the football season.

GAME OF THE YEAR: There was none better than the Glasgow-Christiana game. It was a hard-hitting affair between two good rivals that were playing for a state tournament berth. Both teams left everything they had on the field.

Post Picks of the Week

OFFENSIVE PLAYER OF THE YEAR: That's a tough choice locally. But, I think we'll have to go with Glasgow's Tyjuan Lewis. At his best, he was just awesome; just ask Newark Christiana's Marvel Watts, Newark's Jody Russell and Caravel's Mike Caldwell all deserved consideration.

DEFENSIVE PLAYER OF THE YEAR: No question about this one. Glasgow's Rodney Burnett had a super year. He was always around the ball. Christiana's Pat Bufano also had a great season.

UPSET OF THE YEAR: I still haven't figured out how Newark knocked off Christiana. That's about as big as it gets. Cape Henlopen knocking off Glasgow was also a stunner early on.

TEAM OF THE YEAR: Has anyone been more consistent than Christiana has over the last several years. Following the 1991 season, everyone said "They lose 20 seniors; wait until next year."

Last year they lost Jamie Duncan and Duane Davis and everyone said "We'll see how good they are next year."

Well the Vikings were good enough to go 8-2, win Flight A and get into the state tournament. Great job.

EFFORT OF THE YEAR: Newark bounced back from a monster 51-7 blowout at the hands of Glasgow to beat a good Brandywine team and finish the season 6-4.

It would have been easy to pack it in after that game but the "Jackets gutted out the rest of the season and deserve credit for that.

It's a fine accomplishment nowadays.

weekend success

The Delaware Hawks Ice Hockey club had four teams in action last weekend.

Squirts lose to Chesapeake Chiefs

The Hawks squirt team fell 13-0 to the Chesapeake Chiefs in a game at the United States Naval Academy Ice Rink in Annapolis, Md. last Saturday.

Peewees win two games

The Peewees beat the Chesapeake Chiefs 8-6 and the Cap Boys 5-2 last weekend.

Mike DeEmedio scored three times to lead the Hawks over Chiefs. Shawn Collins added two goals and an assist. Others scoring for the Hawks included Mike Mooney, David Sarawesky and Tom Uebler.

Brandon Episcopo got the win in goal.

The Hawks came back Sunday to down the Cap Boys 5-2 in a game at the University of Delaware Gold Arena.

Collins had two goals and an assist while Sarawesky added two goals. Reed Parkhurst chipped in the final goal. Episcopo again was the goalie.

Hawk bantams stay unbeaten

The Delaware Hawks bantam team defeated the Chesapeake Chiefs 7-4 in a game at the University of Delaware Gold Arena.

Eric Chance and Keith Collins each scored twice to lead the Hawks to the victory. John Neighbors, Eric Schurman and Frank Maier each also scored.

Ross Pugh stopped 21 shots in goal.

The bantams also defeated the Bowie Bruins 6-2 last weekend to improve their record to 7-0 in league play.

Maier led the scoring with four goals while Chance and Anthony Palese each added a goal. Collins had three assists while Chance, Owen Carrol and Smith also had assists.

Pugh again stopped 21 shots in goal.

Midget minor team ties

The Hawks fought back from a three-goal deficit to earn a 3-3 tie with the Baltimore Stars Sunday at the University of Delaware Gold Arena.

Shawn Oberly, Eric Choban and Chop Nau each scored goals. Kyle Kranz, Mark Giobbe, and Oberly assisted on the goals.

Goalies Doug Hemmer and Scott Williams split the goal tending duties and saved 23 shots.

SPARE THOUGHTS

A bowling column contributed by Blue Hen Lanes

Every Tuesday morning some of the most dynamic people in Newark roll into Blue Hen Lanes to bowl in the Newark Seniors League.

The league is 152 members strong, including regular substitutes, the league is comprised of 32 teams, and fills the entire bowling center.

Ages of members in the league range from 55, the minimum, to 95. Paul McClean claims honors as the Most Senior member of the league and is still going strong at 95.

Elsie Badson and Anne Cooper, both of whom enjoy bowling immensely, are the senior women bowlers at 92 and 91 respectively. In addition to bowlers from the Newark area, the seniors come from Wilmington, Bear, New Castle, Landenberg, Lincoln University, Kennett Square, Elkton and North East.

Averages for the men range from a high of 190 for Bucky Money to a low of 95. Women's averages range from a low of 71 to Betty Tinsley's high of 170.

Although there is keen competition, the prime focus of the league is fun, good fellowship and some good exercise all rolled into one.

Among the awards the Seniors earn are 200, 235 and 300 games — 500, 600 and 700 series awards and the Club 55 Award for each bowler scoring 55 points above his or her average. The Club 55 Vacation Classic Tournament, held at the end of the bowling season, is for the 36 weekly winners who have bowled most pins over average.

Bowlers compete to represent Blue Hen and win national award of all expense paid trip anywhere in the continental United States.

The League bowls Tuesday morning and is well run by league officers, President Bill McKenna; Vice President Sara Tweed; Secretary Harry Davidson and Treasurer Alex Riebe.

The officers also always welcome new bowlers.

Local skater Savidge wins regional figure skating championship

McKenzie Savidge, a 13-year-old member of the University of Delaware Figure Skating Club, won the Novice Ladies Figures title at the Eastern Sectional Figure Skating Championships last week.

By winning, Savidge qualified for the National Championships to be held in Detroit, Mich. starting Jan. 2, 1994.

McKenzie moved from Idaho Falls, Idaho in 1990 to train at the University of Delaware with Coach Priscilla Hill, a two-time member of the United States World Figure Skating team. After winning her last five Figure competitions, Savidge is excited about the challenge of skating for the U.S. Novice Ladies figure championship.

Kirkwood Explosion win indoor tourney

The newest Kirkwood senior team, the under-nine Explosion, went undefeated to win its first indoor tournament at the Kirkwood Complex.

In preliminary action the Explosion beat the Rosetree Warriors 4-2, the St. Elizabeth Vikings 5-1, the Cecil Spiders 5-2 and the Dover Wizards 7-0.

Jeff DiGiacobbe led the scoring with 10 goals. Ryan Dzielak added seven, Shaun Joyce four, Justin Esposito two and Matt Brown and Justin Savino one each.

In the championship game, DiGiacobbe scored an overtime goal to give the Explosion a 3-2 victory over Rosetree. Savino and Dzielak manned the goal in the final.

Newark opens seson with an easy 68-51 win over Milford

By JOHN HOLOWKA
NEWARK POST SPORTS WRITER

Jody Russell led host Newark High with 22 points and 14 rebounds as the Yellowjackets logged a season-opening 68-51 win against Milford Tuesday in a non-conference basketball game.

Newark took a quick 9-2 lead and led for most of the game by double figures. The Yellowjackets commanded a 15-8 margin after one period and led 28-17 at half-time.

"We expected Milford to be kind of a slow-down team," said Russell, a senior center. "And when they went into the 2-1-2, we didn't think we could get the ball inside so we had to shoot better from outside. I got the ball after a while and scored."

Milford (0-1) inched back to get within nine points of the lead 40-31 midway through the third quarter, but two consecutive baskets by Russell and a foul shot by Jerry Pritchett put Newark up 45-31 entering the final period.

"Jody had a really nice game (Tuesday); he had a real solid pre-season," said Newark Coach Jim Doody. "He and Freeman (Williams) and Jerry Pritchett are all better than last year. It's my expectation that they can have a decent senior year."

"We absolutely wanted to beat Milford," Doody said. "And you'll see that Milford will probably be picked as one of the better teams downstate; they have all their starters back from last year and finished strong at the end of last season."

Colin Ripley and Williams each scored 15 points for the 'Jackets. Jerry Pritchett added eight and Mike Pollock, Chris Weiss, Demaine Pearsall and Dwayne Pritchett all had two points.

Mullen, who led Milford with 22 points including 10 in the final quarter, brought the Bucs back within striking distance 59-48 with 3:00 left to play following his fourth basket of the period. But Newark answered by canning 5 of 6 foul shots to seal the victory.

"We did a good job with Mullen and shadowed (Brian) Deputy (13 points) all over the place," Doody said. "He averaged 14.3 points per game last year for them. So it was a nice victory for us. Now we have to go on the road to play Seaford and that's another important contest."

"It's always nice to be 1-0," Russell said. "It starts your season off on the right foot."

GLASGOW 78, McKean 49 - The Dragons also opened their season with an easy win defeating Flight B McKean.

Antoine Haman led Glasgow with 22 points while Corey Curtis added 17 and Terron Richardson 12.

ST. MARK'S 70, Delcastle 33 - The Spartans started the year on the right foot by routing the Cougars Tuesday night.

John Gordon and Gene Kelly each scored 15 to lead the Spartans while Brian August chipped in nine and Alex Karlson eight.

Sanford 52, Christiana 45 - The Vikings dropped their opening game to last year's state semifinalist as Tyson Waterman poured in 22 points for the Warriors.

St. Mark's John Gordon scored 15 points to help lead the Spartans to a big win over Delcastle in their season opener.

Fry won't second guess coach's decision to sit

► FRY from 1B

"No, not really," answered Delaware Coach Tubby Raymond when asked if he thought about going to Fry earlier in the game. "I didn't want to get into a situation where we were repeatedly changing quarterbacks."

Fry, a senior with absolutely nothing to lose, defended his coach's decision.

"I really didn't feel I could've started this game," he said. "If I felt 100 percent, I would've been in there earlier. I wasn't going to go in the game if I wasn't 100 percent. I thought Leo [Hamlett] was better at 100 percent than me at 80 or 90."

"I mean, it [clavicle] really hurts. But, we were down and it was the fourth quarter, so I thought I'd just give it a try."

Fry knows about quarterbacks not being 100 percent and trying to play. The memory of an extremely ill Bill Vergantino trying to guide the Hens last year was still fresh in his mind.

"I definitely thought about that," Fry said. "If I wasn't 100 percent, I didn't want to hurt the team."

Fry's effort and, maybe even more importantly, what could've been if not for the injury wasn't lost on the coach.

"I think Fry might well have been the best quarterback we've ever had (if not for the injury)," Raymond said. "He did some exceptional things."

The situation was certainly not an easy one to figure out. Justice didn't prevail. And if there was anyone who could've been bitter about it, it was Dale Fry.

But the Middletown native handled it with class, as he has everything he's been dealt over the past four years.

Delaware didn't win its last game, but Dale Fry went out a winner.

Delaware's Brian Pearl tries to drive by Delaware State's Andrew Miles during Saturday's intrastate rivalry at the Carpenter Center.

opening half. He finished the game with 16 points and led the Blue Hens with 11 rebounds. Junior forward Robbie Johnson added 15 points, Pearl chipped in with 13 and junior center Michal Edwards had five points.

Johnson gave Delaware a 47-43 lead and then helped the Hens to a 62-60 lead by hitting a pair of free throws with 6:36 remaining. Preston's basket and Musgrove's foul shot put the Hornets up 68-65 late but a basket by Strine and Pearl's two from the line gave Delaware a 69-68 edge.

The Hornets took the lead 72-71 off Andre Griffin's steal and Preston's basket with 47 seconds left. With the shot clock running out, Pearl's shot was blocked by Hijr Sabree. Garner scooped up the loose ball and won the game.

"This was just one great game," said Delaware State Coach Jeff Jones. "Whoever didn't come to see this one missed the best sporting event they'll ever see in the state of Delaware this year. I wouldn't have any problems if we had to lose everyone like this."

Marshall loss a bitter one

Huntington media.

For instance, the writers and the television broadcasters went out of their way to try to stir up controversy. Anything written in a Delaware paper was played up big in Huntington. Comments by the Delaware radio broadcast crew became a rallying point for the entire town.

The media just kept baiting Delaware players, coaches and media members to some something that wasn't complimentary of Marshall, the football team, the school, the town or the state. Then it would become headlines in the paper or the lead story in a newscast.

Even after the game — a thrilling contest decided in the last three seconds — the lead in Sunday's game story in the Huntington paper was that the Delaware radio crew wouldn't have to worry about coming back to Huntington for another year. Don Volts and Bill Pfeiffer got their names mentioned before Merrick or Marshall running back Chris Parker, who scored four touchdowns.

Does anyone really believe that Merrick's first thoughts — after his winning field goal split the uprisings — were about Don Volts?

I don't remember him mentioning it in his post-game comments. Maybe I just missed it.

Before the contest, the paper ran a chart with nine categories ranging from running game and quarterback to 'getting it done' (whatever that means). The genius doing the analysis between the two teams decided that Marshall was better in all nine categories. That includes the running game, in which Delaware was ranked first in the entire country. I guess that wasn't good enough.

I'm not sure how the game came down to the final three seconds with the odds so stacked against the totally overmatched Hens.

Maybe it's the feeling that the football factory has bought its one national championship and is trying to buy as many as it can.

Marshall has played 13 of their last 16 playoff games at home with two of the other three being played at neutral sites. When the team got to the finals and lost it bought the national championship game too.

It's not like the Herd is piling people into the beautiful 30,000 seat stadium. Only 13,687 showed up Saturday, but one gets the feeling that it only matters if Marshall wins, no matter the cost.

The Blue Hen team also was subjected to being spit on, having sodas and batteries thrown at them. But according to the Huntington writers it was the Delaware players that had no class.

Following the game Marshall Coach Jim Donnan started the post-game press conference giving the Blue Hens credit for a good comeback. He then attributed the comeback to the fact that his defense couldn't stop the Delaware offense because it had illegal receivers downfield on every play. "It's hard to cover people when you don't know which ones are legal," he said.

But it was Delaware Coach Tubby Raymond who was called a "jerk" by the media types for complaining about Marshall playing all its playoff games at home.

It's definitely a different atmosphere in Huntington. Whether it's better or worse is up to each individual.

But it's not hard to figure out that most of the problems that seem to exist between the two schools come from the Huntington media just trying to come up with bulletin-board material for its home team.

GLASGOW TO REPEAT?

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

The winter sports season is always one of the busiest – and most exciting – times of the year.

This year there will be several local teams competing for state titles in wrestling, boys basketball and girls basketball. The basketball season ends with exciting games in the Carpenter Center while the wrestling season ends with two exciting weeks of tournaments – one the individual state tournament and one the dual meet state tournament.

Glasgow High is the defending state champion in boys basketball and looks to be loaded again this season. For that reason we give the preseason number one nod to the Dragons.

Certainly St. Mark's, Newark and Christiana will be very competitive again this that feat this season.

Caravel should be better than last year and Coach Bill McCartan's club will be in the hunt for a berth in the state tournament while Christiana will be trying to break into that group as well.

St. Mark's leads a strong contingent of local wrestling squads. The Spartans are always among the state's elite and will be again this season. Newark, under Coach Kevin Martin, seems to be getting better every year. The Yellowjackets are probably the second best team in Flight A behind defending state champion William Penn.

season with the Spartans and the 'Jackets looking to go far in the state tournament. Caravel, with Coach Lou Bender, will also be fighting for a tournament spot.

On the girls side, St. Mark's always seems to have strong team. The Spartans play in the always-tough Catholic Conference and are battle-hardened by state tournament time. Newark has a new coach in Dave Simpson and looks to battle back to the state tourney as well.

Larry Walker's Glasgow team had a winning team last season and hopes to duplicate Christiana has a new coach in Dan Chopko as does Glasgow in Mark Vettori. Both teams hope to challenge Newark for that second position in Flight A and a possible state tournament berth.

Hodgson is always one of the best Division II teams in the state. The Silver Eagles should challenge again for the Flight B title.

The winter sports have come upon us quickly as regular season games and tournaments have started this week.

Here's one opinion of the various preseason top ten rankings.

Dragons face tough schedule in quest for second state title

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

The Glasgow High boys basketball team found out what it took to win a state championship last year. It now hopes that it can remember the recipe and repeat this season.

The Dragons are certainly one of a handful of teams with enough talent to compete for the state title.

"That's the motivation," said Glasgow Coach Don Haman. "We're the only team in the state that can repeat."

"We got a letter from Providence Coach Rick Barnes congratulating us on our state championship and reminding us of how much work we put in to get it. Now we have to go out and work just as hard to defend the title."

Senior All-Staters Corey Curtis and Antoine Haman lead a talented senior class that have experienced great success at Glasgow.

"They're both playing with great confidence and maturity," said Haman of the two top seniors. "Antoine especially has stepped up his play and Corey still plays with the all-out attitude he always has."

"One big key to both of them is that they can play several different positions. They can play both guards and the forward positions as well."

Other seniors expected to play a big part in the Dragons run for the Flight A and state title include Terron Richardson, Rodney Burnett, Shannon Riley and Ivan Thomas.

Juniors Wayne Richardson, Larry Edwards and Jeff Epps will also see significant time.

Sophomore Rashan Goldsborough, a 5-foot-8 guard, is one of several young players that may be contributing by the end of the season. Freshman Darnell Vaughn, a 6-3 inside player, is another who might be very well be starting on another team but will be fighting for playing time on the deep Dragon bench.

Spartan hopes high with 5 starters back

By RICHARD JUST

SPECIAL TO THE NEWARK POST

When St. Mark's second-year coach Lee Sibley says his basketball team has "high goals", it's not hard to understand why.

All five starters return from a Spartan squad that compiled a 16-9 record and advanced to the second round of the state tournament.

"On paper, we have a very good team," said Sibley, whose 21-year coaching career includes stops at Brandywine and Friends. "The kids are excited about the upcoming season."

St. Mark's will face some stiff competition in its own conference. Catholic rival Salesianum was a state finalist a year ago, losing to Glasgow in the title tilt.

"We split with Sallies last year," said Sibley. "They're always tough. I expect St. Elizabeth and Archmere to be improved as well."

The Spartans are led up front by senior co-captains Geoff Wikel and Brian August. A 6-foot-2 forward, August was selected first-team All-Catholic last season.

Junior John Gordon was also named to the All-Catholic team. The 5-9 guard led St. Mark's in scoring with a 17.5 points per game average. He'll be joined again in the backcourt by sophomores

Alex Karlson and Gene Kelly.

When Sibley goes to his bench, he'll be counting on 6-3 Geoff Bock and 6-6 Jason Vankerhoven to pound the boards.

"We're not a particularly tall team, and we need their help rebounding," said the coach.

Sibley is impressed with the overall skill level of his team.

"I'm sure the C.Y.O. leagues had something to do with that," he said. "One of our strengths is balance. Although Gordon is our top scorer, we feel confident going to anybody."

The St. Mark's defense isn't bad, either. An aggressive man-to-man style limited opponents to a state-best 46 points per game last season.

It won't take long for Sibley and his Spartans to find out just how good they really are. After participating in the Mount Pleasant Tournament this weekend, St. Mark's will compete for the Governor's Cup starting Dec. 28 at the Slam Dunk to the Beach Tournament at Cape Henlopen.

"We're part of the Slam Dunk to the Beach tournament," Sibley said. "Our first game is against Sanford. Glasgow and Indian River are also in our group."

"We'll also play Lake Clifton (a regional powerhouse from Baltimore) on Dec. 29."

Spartan guard Gené Kelly is one of five starters returning to this year's squad.

Vikings hope to contend

By JOHN HOLOWKA

NEWARK POST SPORTS WRITER

CHRISTIANA —The Christiana Vikings somehow always seem to end up in the state basketball tournament, although this year the way they get there might prove a little more interesting.

Despite losing three seasoned veterans to graduation, Viking Coach Ron Hollis sees his team back in the 16-team playoff picture come February.

"We've gone (to the tournament) every year since I've been coaching," said Hollis, entering his 11th season.

"We're optimistic about the season. We're not what I'd call a powerhouse, but we'll be competitive every game. We try to play hard every game."

The Vikings lost leading scorer Calvin Copeland (Potomac) and power forward Kip Remsburg (Philadelphia Pharmacy), who finished one-tenth of a percentage point apart for team-leading scorer honors. They'll also miss Jamie Duncan, the team's leading rebounder who now attends Vanderbilt.

But Hollis is looking to experienced senior starters Anthony Laws and Michael Winchester to lead his team that advanced to the quarterfinals last

Returning to state tournament is goal of '93 girls team

NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

THE GLASGOW HIGH GIRLS BASKETBALL TEAM GOT A TASTE OF SUCCESS LAST SEASON. WITH FIVE STARTERS BACK, THE DRAGONS ARE LOOKING FOR AN EVEN BIGGER PIECE THIS YEAR.

Coach Larry Walker, starting his 13th year at the helm of the Dragons, likes what he saw in the preseason.

"It's the best first practice I've had in 13 years," said

Walker, whose team finished 11-8 last year. "Everyone knew what was going on. We didn't have to introduce anything new. It was all review. With so many people knowing what's going on, even the others were able to pick it up quickly."

Hoping to lead the way for the Dragons this season will be co-captains Laurie Brosnahan and Toni Burke. The junior guards played the bulk of the minutes in the backcourt last year and Walker hopes the experience will help this season.

Junior Chas Friant will bolster the Glasgow High School Dragons' inside game.

Glasgow's Toni Burke hopes to lead the Dragons.

Junior forwards Chas Friant and Shammara Mason will be back to bolster the frontcourt. Sophomore Lakisca Rahming will round out the starting five.

Others Walker hope will contribute include sophomore guard Megan Hart, junior forward Felicia Czerszwinski, junior forward Karen Ternoski, junior forward Zoe Gonzales and junior guard Roula Pappoulis.

"Our attitude has been very good," Walker said. "This team really has a good work ethic."

"We're quicker than we were, we handle the ball better, we make better passes and we shoot better."

The improvement paid off in preseason scrimmages with the Dragons playing very well.

"This is probably as much talent as I've had one through five in all my years here," said the coach. "We really have five people that can play and have experience."

Spartans eye title

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

The St. Mark's High wrestling team is a consistent winner and this year should be no exception.

The Spartans have 10 letterman back from last year's team that was a semifinalist in the first-ever state dual meet tournament. Nine of those 10 wrestlers qualified for the individual state tournament and five placed in the top six.

"I think the team's coming around," said Coach Steve Bastianelli, who's in his 14th year as head of the Spartan wrestling program. "No matter how many guys you have back, you still need time at the beginning of the season to come together."

"Things are going well so far and I think the kids are anxious to get going."

Captains R.J. George, Mark Bosick and Jamie Iudica lead the returnees.

George, a 135 pound senior, compiled a 31-3 record last year on his way to a conference championship and a second place finish in the state tourney.

Bosick, a senior who will wrestle 140 this season, racked up a 31-7 record on his way to a conference championship and a third place finish in the individual state tournament.

At 171 Iudica, also a senior and the team's only two-time state place winner, earned a 22-14 record last season. The state soccer player of the year finished fifth in the state.

Stan Spoor, the team's 145 pounder, also placed fifth in the state last year after compiling a 27-9 record and winning a conference title.

At 119 pound, junior Joe Amon - another conference champion and sixth place state placer - is back.

freshman Kyle Talley at 103; sophomore Jon Jacob (conference champion last year) at 112; Randy Nowell at 125; either Brad Simendinger or Chris Dandeneau at 130; sophomore Corey Frederick at 152; junior Phil Manolakas (second place conference finisher) at 160; senior Frank Broomall at 189 and senior Rick Houck (second place conference placer) at heavy-weight.

One obstacle for the Spartans this season is their difficult schedule.

St. Mark's slate is heavy with quality out-of-state opponents. Making the four in-state duals with Salesianum, Smyrna, Newark and William Penn all that more important if the Spartans want to be invited to the four-team state dual-meet tournament.

"I hope we can win enough to make the tournament," Bastianelli said. "It's definitely not a given. We wrestle some tough teams from Virginia and New Jersey as well as West Chester (Pa.) East. It's going to be hard to judge how good we really are relative to other Delaware schools."

Eagles rebuilding

By JOHN HOLOWKA

NEWARK POST SPORTS WRITER

GLASGOW — Hodgson Vo-Tech will have to start the 1993-94 wrestling season on the ground floor.

The Silver Eagles lost nine wrestlers from one of its most successful seasons last year, but will count on a host of new talent to continue a winning tradition.

"After losing nine, we're rebuilding this year," said Silver Eagle Coach Jerry Lamey, starting his sixth year. "Basically, we're looking at a whole new team. We're really young; we only have two seniors."

Hodgson returns seniors Jeff Jones at 140 and also 135, and Jeff Boyd (145), who finished third last season at the conference meet.

That's a little consolation for a team that lost a bevy of experienced wrestlers, including Steve Hampton (125) and 130-pounder Rick Bourne, who finished third in the state and conference championships.

At 140 conference champ Eric Robertson will be missed, as will be John Britz (152), Joe Leary (160) and Dave Jones (171), who also placed third in the conference.

The Silver Eagles have to count on a couple of much-needed transfers.

Dave Thomas (103) finished fifth in the conference at Middletown and former Delcastle standout Chris Foster at 112 finished third at the state meet and second in the Blue Hen Conference.

"We have some new kids and we lost a lot, but I think our transfers will be right there," Lamey said. "That should help us because we don't have a lot of depth."

Brian Anker wrestled junior varsity at William Penn last year and should help at 152 pounds, while freshman Victor Keeler or Mike Mahan will wrestle at 119.

Greg Antonelli (125) moves up a weight class and Nigel Demby should handle the 130-pound spot after dropping from 135 last year. Don Brown and Jamie Boone, both junior varsity last season, will wrestle-off at 135 and sophomore Steve Matucci will bolster the middleweights.

"Our strengths will be the light- and middleweights; they'll be strong," Lamey said. "The question is the upper weights. The key this year is everyone staying healthy and getting to the right spot. We'll do fine if we gel as a team and I think we're doing that."

Junior Jay Leary or sophomore Mike Adams will wrestle at 171 and Caravel transfer Scott Bosould, now injured might wrestle at 189. Sophomore heavyweight Eric Grasty may also see time at 189.

Hodgson opens the 1993-94 campaign this weekend at the Christiana Invitational and its dual-meet season against Wilmington Dec. 15.

VIKINGS RETURN STRONG NUCLEUS

By JOHN HOLOWKA

NEWARK POST SPORTS WRITER

IT'S ALL IN THE NUMBERS this season for the Christiana High wrestling team.

"We don't have a lot of guys out, but we're pretty solid," said first-year Coach Dan Chopko a former 155-pound state champion his senior year at Glasgow in 1987. "We're probably going to forfeit three or four weight classes."

The Vikings, which return a strong nucleus in the light- and middleweights, placed fifth in the Blue Hen Conference last year and finished 3-4 in dual-meets.

Lateace Neal, an undefeated 36-0 state champion last year at 103, is a two-time conference champion with an 80-12 record who moves up to 112 this season. Jason Zayakowski will wrestle at 125. He was sixth in the conference last year and finished 19-13.

Co-captains Brian Revels has a 32-19 scholastic record and was third in the conference and sixth in the states at 130, while 135-pounder Jason Mills finished fourth in the conference meet and fifth at the state. He was 19-9 last year.

Mike Scherer (140) is coming off a knee injury after wrestling at 119 two years ago and Mike Conroy, who went 11-10 last year at 152 drops to 145. Junior Tim Walz placed sixth in the conference at 189.

"We are really tough at 122 through 145," said Chopko. "That's definitely the strong point of the team this season. We'll be the same type of team as last year basically. We have a lot of good individuals coming back."

"The team has self discipline and that's the good part, but we're trying to get physically tougher right now," Chopko said. "We only have 19 (wrestlers) in the room but 15 with experience. We'll have to go from there and try to make the kids wrestle with the same type of enthusiasm I had when I wrestled."

Newcomers Ervin Phillips (103), Carlyle Osiva (119), a transfer from Maryland and Joe Hanlin (152 or 160) round out the squad.

The Vikings open their season when they host the Christiana Christmas Invitational this weekend and then travel to Newark for the Yellowjacket Tournament the following Friday and Saturday. The first conference is against Glasgow Dec. 22 followed by Newark Jan. 5.

"We have our goal and that's to win the two matches against Glasgow and Christiana," Chopko said. "They're probably our two biggest meets at the beginning of the season to find out where we stand. (In the states) I think all those guys have the opportunity to place in the top 6."

St. Mark's hopes to challenge for the Catholic Conference crown.

Injuries, illness slow Spartans preseason

The season is just underway and already the St. Mark's High girls basketball team has had a lot to overcome.

Not only did the Spartans lose All-Stater Jen Skinner but they've had to deal with off-season injuries and illness in the preseason.

"Andrea Beccaria has a torn anterior crucia ligament and won't be back to January," said St. Mark's Coach John Fiorelli. "Liza Stapleford is out for a few weeks with mono."

"As far as Jen is concerned she's a big loss. She could drive to the basket or shoot the three pointer - outside and inside she could do it. We're trying to replace one person with two or three."

Despite the problems, Fiorelli remains optimistic that his team will come along.

"I'm still excited," said the coach. "We're not going to be a bad team but we're inexperienced right now."

"We're going to try and up-tempo the game. We're small but quick. We have the quickness to run and press all night. I think that's the type of team that we have."

Leading the way in the backcourt will be senior guard Jenny Santilli and junior Val Speakman.

Sophomore Allison LaFazia at 5-foot-9 will play inside along with Stapleford, a junior, and sophomore Katie Phipps.

Juniors Colleen Casey and Megan Jester will also contribute heavily to the Spartans this season.

St. Mark's will have its work cut out for it in the ferocious Catholic Conference. The league is always the best in the state and this year is no exception.

"You have to keep improving just to keep your head above water in the Catholic Conference," Fiorelli said. "I think we'll be able to be in there."

Delaware basketball

Can the Hens make it three in a row?

The University of Delaware men's basketball team will have a tough job living up to the exploits of its two predecessors.

Back to back North Atlantic Conference championships, two straight NCAA Tournament Midwest Regional appearances, a combined record of 49-12 overall and 24-4 in NAC play, and the move into the new 5,000-seat Carpenter Center have all been products of Delaware's resurgence on the hardwood.

Unfortunately, Coach Steve Steinwedel - who is starting his ninth year at Delaware - will be without (due to graduation) many of players that contributed to that success.

"We've lost 10 guys over the past two years who have made outstanding contributions to this program," Steinwedel said. "They've created some awfully big shoes to fill."

The rebuilding process starts with two starters and seven letterwinners returning from last year's 22-8 squad that advanced to the NCAA Tournament before falling to Louisville.

The Hens should have a strong backcourt with junior Brian Pearl back along with Texas transfer Rob Garner. Sophomores Bruce McCullough and Ron Hill should contribute as well.

Adam Miller, who broke many of Pearl's high school scoring records in York County (Pa.), is a freshman who may see significant time. Mike Liloia is a freshman walk-on, who will also compete for minutes.

Up front, Delaware will be lead by junior Robbie Johnson. Johnson averaged 5.6 points and 4.9 rebounds per game last season and is looking for more this year. Patrick Evans and Micha Edwards are two more juniors that should see a lot of time inside the paint this winter.

Sophomore forward Matt Strine, who didn't play a whole lot last year, will see his role expand a great deal this season.

New to the squad will be Darrin Anderson, a 6-foot-7, 235 pound transfer from Independence (Kan.) Junior College who hopes to add inside strength. Freshman Greg Smith may also play quite a bit up front this year.

"We have a nice blend," said Steinwedel. "We have the most complete backcourt since I've been here and I think the frontcourt will take care of itself."

The Hens were picked third in the preseason NAC poll behind Drexel and Hartford - the two teams Delaware beat on the road in last year's conference tournament semifinals and championship.

This year's schedule, while not as difficult as last season's, is still quite formidable.

Besides the NAC schedule, Delaware will host Richmond on Jan. 5; travel to Rutgers on Jan. 8; play nemesis Towson State, intrastate rival Delaware State and travel to the University of New Orleans Holiday Tournament as well as the Toledo Holiday Classic.

Newark boys basketball

'Jackets looking for return to glory

By RICHARD JUST

SPECIAL TO THE NEWARK POST

The Newark High boys basketball team defeated Seaford in the 1990 state championship game. The victory capped a remarkable eight-year run that saw the Yellowjackets win three state titles and finish in the final four twice.

Since then, Newark has experienced three consecutive losing campaigns. Veteran coach Jim Doody is optimistic that the 1993-94 season will signal a reversal of that trend.

"Those (1982-90) were the glory years," Doody said. "We've been in a down cycle recently. However, we have a group of experienced players, who like to play with each other, coming back."

Newark returns all of its starters from last season's 8-14 (5-9 Flight A) club. Guards Jerry Pritchard and Freeman Williams, III along with 6-foot-5 center/forward Jody Russell were each named Honorable Mention All-Conference as juniors.

"Jody is probably one of the best post players we've had," said Doody. "Jerry and Freeman are both good outside shooters. All three averaged about 13 points per game."

Williams will switch from to 'off' guard this season to make room for Collyn Ripley. The 5-10 junior triggered an outstanding junior varsity team and saw varsity action at the end of last year.

Russell will be joined in the front court by 6-3 senior Dwayne Pritchard.

"He's a good all-around athlete who was Flight A's Player-of-the-Year in soccer," said the coach.

Guard Aaron Johnson, a junior who started last year, is Doody's defensive specialist. He and 6-4 Michael Pollock figure to play significant roles in Newark's seven or eight man rotation.

The Yellowjackets are well-known for their fast-break offense.

"Given the opportunity, we'll run," Doody said. "We've also incorporated the three-point game into our offense."

Newark will look to Russell for the bulk of the inside scoring.

On defense, Doody plans on employing a variety of zone defenses.

"We don't have the overall team quickness necessary to play man-to-man," he said.

Doody's optimism is tempered when he considers the rest of the conference.

"We could develop into one of the top ten teams in the state, but only finish fourth in Flight A," said the coach. "State champion Glasgow (tournament semifinalist) William Penn, and Mount Pleasant all have their best players back."

The 'Jackets will have time to prepare with three December games and the Kappa Tournament before the conference season starts Jan. 4.

Inexperience a problem

► VIKINGS, from 11

year before losing to William Penn and finishing the year 17-8

"We're looking to those two to carry the team this year," Hollis said. "We hope they can provide leadership for the younger players."

Laws is a 6-foot point guard that received all-conference honorable mention last year and 6-foot-4 Winchester will add height at strong forward.

Prince Williams, a 5-foot-11 senior and Ernest Fobbs, up from the junior varsity will start as guards, while Chris Washington, a 6-foot-5 first-year varsity senior, gets the nod at center. Juniors Jerry Moore (5-foot-11) and Damon Bagwell (6-foot) will add depth off the bench.

"There really are no surprises for us this year," Hollis said. "We're a little inexperienced right now, but we have a lot of faith in the kids, but our lack of varsity experience could hurt us in tight games."

Six-foot-2 seniors Kakawana Chandler and Clarence Casson will also see plenty of game time.

The Vikings opened their season Tuesday against Sanford and then play Howard, Indian River, Dover, Salesianum and St. Marks for tough going in the early part of the schedule.

"We didn't duck anybody," Hollis said. "I think it's (along with Flight A) is one of the toughest schedules in the state. I think William Penn and Glasgow will be the top two teams in the conference and we'll battle Mount Pleasant for third. Our first goal is to make the tournament; we'll make every effort to get there."

All-stater Antoine Haman will lead the Dragons again this year.

Dragons schedule toughest in state

► DRAGONS, from 3

A big challenge for the Dragons this season will be their tough schedule. Besides an always-tough Flight A schedule that includes state powers William Penn, Mount Pleasant and Newark, Glasgow will take on Chester and Howard as well as participating in the Slam Dunk to the Beach Tournament.

The biggest game of all will come between the end of the conference schedule and state tournament when Glasgow will travel to Atlantic City to play national powerhouse St. Anthony's (N.J.), as well as Canterbury (Md.).

"This is something that will definitely keep us from becoming complacent," Haman said. "Our games with those teams, especially St. Anthony's, will tell us how good we really are and tell us what we have to work on. A team like that will find any weaknesses that we might have and has the talent to exploit them."
