Newark cops in hot pursuit:

Moving vans are making tracks to new station

By TONJA CASTANEDA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The Newark Police are moving into their new building at 220 Elkton Road this weekend.

Police Chief William Hogan said moving vans will start being loaded by a moving company after 5 p.m. on Friday and continue through the night.

He said mostly being moved are boxes packed with things such as old records, office supplies, books, training materials and police supplies which include extra handcuffs and finger print powder. Also being moved is the department's exercise equipment.

"We're not moving most of the old furnishings," said Hogan. He said police officers will be moving their personal objects.

Hogan said Sunday night after 11 p.m. Newark Police will be shutting down communication and moving the radio equipment, computers and phones.

"We won't be out of communication totally," he said. "911 calls will go to the Regional Communication Center at New Castle County Police headquarters."

He said that is where 911 calls go for county and state police and it used to take Newark's calls. According to Hogan, Newark Police have been receiving their own emergency calls for almost two years.

Hogan said the idea is that everything will be ready and set up by 7 a.m. Monday morning at the new location.

The public is invited to tour the new police station on Sept. 11 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. during open house.

Man takes his life in police station lot

By ERIC FINE

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

A 27-year-old Wilmington man took his life in the Newark police station parking lot, shooting himself in the head with a 9 mm handgun.

Carlos A. Espinoza of 607 N. Jackson Street drove into the department's east parking lot at about 4:20 p.m. last Friday, parked and began blowing his car's horn, police said.

Espinoza shot himself with exploding bullets, and probably died moments after pulling the trigger, police said. Because Espinoza had locked all of the doors in his car, police had to break the rear windshield to reach him.

He was moved to Christiana Hospital by paramedics where he was pronounced dead.

A note taped to the car dashboard with Espinoza's driver's license suggested he had chose the station parking lot to spare family and friends, police said. Another note found in his home suggested recent depression.

"It was very sad," said Lt. Alex von Koch, a Newark police spokesman. "I don't know why he chose the Newark police station. We could find no reference...in any of his personal effects."

Von Koch said Espinoza was employed by an area pizza shop and may have been a part-time student at the University of Delaware.

4-H Day Camp draws a crowd to Newark campus

From learning cheerleading chants to milking cows to shaping Bonsai trees to digging for artifacts to making and eating delicious desserts, 231 kids, ages 7-12, got to experience different interests at a 4-H day camp held at the University of Delaware last week.

The Cooperative Extension held their most popular summer day camp Aug. 9-13. Children chose three from almost 50 different activities to participate in.

The campers were also divided into 15 different Indian tribes where they learned songs and tribe spirit.

Newarker Maria Egler, 12, of the Mohawk tribe said she chose French, whale pillow—where she sewed a pillow in the shape of a whale, and Entomology—bug collecting. "My favorite was French," said Egler. "We got to learn the French culture."

Cars vandalized at Christina Mills:

Three cars parked on Christina Mill Drive were broken into at about the same time on Aug. 13-14. The locks had been pried open, police said. The dashboard in two of the cars were also damaged. Stereo equipment, a pair of soccer cleats, a radar detector, a gold necklace and a pair of men's sneakers were taken.

Wilbur Street Burglary:

A front window of a house in the 100 block of Wilbur Street was forced open and a Bicycle Trek 18-inch, green mountain bike and various stereo equipment worth $2,600 was taken sometime between Aug. 15-16.

Theft at Oakland Pool:

Police report $110 was taken from the Oakland Pool Association, when someone entered through a front window and took the cash box. Stolen motorcycle: A 1990 green Kawasaki motorcycle worth $2,600 was reported stolen from the 500 block of Capitol Trail sometime between Aug. 14-16.

Burglary on

Chrysler property:

A private contractor's trailer on Chrysler property, at 550 S. College Ave., was broken into through the rear window sometime between Aug. 12-13. A calculator, two briefcases and electrical toolbox were taken.

Cash stolen from house:

One hundred dollars was taken from a house in the unit block of E. Main St. when a rear window screen was forced open on Aug. 14.

Windows stolen from Jeep:

All the windows were stolen from a 1993 Jeep Wrangler getting serviced at Newark Jeep Eagle in the 200 block of E. Cleveland Ave. between Aug. 11-13.

Newark police have released this composite of a man wanted for the Aug. 4 rape of a woman while she was walking along Barksdale Road in the early morning hours.

He is described as white, in his late 20s or early 30s, about 5'9" tall and weighing approximately 230 pounds, with thick brown hair, a brown moustache and heavy or flabby build.

Anyone with information about the suspect can call police at 366-7111.

Boulden considers a run for the House

By ERIC FINE

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Now Boulden at the tender age of 28 is about to declare himself as a Republican candidate for the 23rd

County talks development plans with Glasgow, Bear residents

By TONJA CASTANEDA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Nearly 100 residents in the Glasgow/Bear area came to the Glasgow Reformed Presbyterian Church to hear more about future development in their area — the fastest growing area in the state.

The Aug. 11 get-together, conducted by the New Castle County Planning Department, was the third in a series of four public meetings held to keep residents abreast of findings gathered since April, when the planning department requested and County Council agreed to impose a temporary freeze on rezoning there.

The research, dubbed "The Central Pencader Study," is being done by the planning department to get a better handle on the overall development picture throughout the area so land use recommendations can be made to the County Council.

The study focuses on a region bordered by Old Baltimore Pike, Del. 7, the Maryland state line and the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal.

During the meeting, Bryan Shuler, county planning director, joined other department staffers in presenting a picture of future high-density development competing with open space and the need to preserve the quality of life residents fear will disappear if current development trends go unchecked.

"Why?" one frustrated woman in the crowd shouted. "Why do we need more development?"

Shuler explained that in many cases, council has already OK'd rezoning requests — giving developers the go-ahead to build 6,000 "dwelling units," including single-family homes, along with apartments and townhouses, throughout the region.

Shuler said council, since 1988, has approved 47 subdivisions that have already, or could be, built. Since 1980, the area's population has more than tripled — from 11,000 to nearly 40,000 residents.

The planning department has estimated that if all remaining open space in the area was developed, the population could swell to more than 104,000.

Shuler said the freeze on rezonings will most likely end after the Pencader Study is completed in September.

Huron tribe. At camp he took bicycle, new games and basketball. "In new games we played Capture the Flag and rode a water slide," said Novy. "Bicycle was my favorite because I never rode that far. It was kind of exciting. We rode to Carpenter Park and McDonald's."

Dane Stokes, 7, of Newark won Camper of the Week for the Hopi Tribe. He participated in archery, aerospace and Exploring 4-H. Stokes said his favorite class was aerospace.

Newarker Tony Manno, 10, of the Zuni tribe took country line dancing, basketball and bicycle. He said his favorite class was basketball because University of Delaware basketball player, Anthony Wright, taught the class.

Joey McCoy of Newark, 9, was in the Apache tribe. He took Entomology, life science and Exploring 4-H. He said he liked life science when the class took the DNA out of a chicken.

This 4-H camp, in its 11th year, had about 140 volunteers teaching classes and helping to supervise the campers.

"This is our largest summer camp," said Mark Manno, director of the University of Delaware Cooperative Extension. "Parents want to find quality activities for their kids during the summer."

The theme for camp was "Something for Everyone." "I think we do have something for everyone," said Manno.

Camp ended Friday night with a cook out. Campers performed, for the other campers and parents, what they learned in classes, such as country line dancing and cheerleading. Each Indian tribe also performed their song.

representative district seat currently occupied by Cathy Wojewodzki.

Boulden has lived in the district most of his life: he grew up in The Oaklands and owns a home nearby. He attended Downes Elementary School, the old Central Middle School and graduated from Newark High in 1983.

"My family has always lived in the district. Our business has always been in the district."

He believes his involvement with his family's business, Boulden Oil, has given him enough experience to become a legislator.

"You have look at the state and federal governments like a business," he said, comparing a business's resources to tax dollars, his employees to constituents.

His campaign also will be a family affair, with his brother Michael acting as his treasurer.

Boulden serves on Sen. James Neal's advisory committee and is a co-chairman of a fund-raising committee for the Newark Senior Center.

His priorities include education, job development, providing support for police and relieving traffic congestion.

As a legislator, he wants to provide national companies with the environment that will encourage them open shop here.

He wants police departments throughout the state to have the funding they need to do their jobs.

He also supports term limitations in both the House and the Senate but is against public campaign financing. He said incumbents win over 90 percent of the elections and that politics can get in the way of the "best interests of the people."

But his primary concern would

remain the district. "We can at times get too wrapped up in partisan politics and forget our constituents," he said.

Newark Rotary Club awards 5 college scholarships

By TONJA CASTANEDA
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Five Newark women received scholarships from the Newark Rotary on Monday night. All are 1993 high school graduates who will be starting their freshman year in college this fall.

The winner of a $2,000 scholarship is Christine Tymes from Christiana High School. At Christiana, she was involved in Students Promoting African-American Culture Through Education (SPAACE), Business Professionals of America and outside of the classroom involved with 4-H for 10 years.

Tymes, granddaughter of Florence Burns of Wilmington, will enter the University of Delaware and plans to study elementary education.

The other four winners received scholarships for $1,000.

The scholarship recipients are Wendy Swain, daughter of Dana and Debbie Swain of Newark; Cynthia Lee Riffert, daughter of Barbara Riffert of Wilmington and Ted Riffert of Newark; Dawn Feasel, daughter of Linda Sielski of Wilmington and David Feasel of Newark and Shannon Touchton, daughter of Cheryl and Gerald Cox and Frank Touchton all of Newark.

Swain, who graduated from Christiana High School, will attend Beebe Nursing School in Lewes. She wants to complete a three-year program at the school to become a registered nurse.

In high school, Swain was active in field hockey, swim team, Students Against Driving Drunk (SADD) and volunteered at Christiana Hospital for two summers.

Riffert is a graduate of Newark High School. She will be attending the University of Delaware and studying elementary education with a specialization in mathematics.

During high school, Riffert participated in color guard, marching band, Lacrosse, Honor Society and Nature Society. Outside of school, she is a part-time tutor and a member of the New Jersey Surf Drum and Bugle Corps.

Feasel, a graduate of Christiana High School, will attend Goldey-Beacom College in Wilmington. She wants to get her bachelor's degree in accounting and become a Certified Public Accountant.

At Christiana High, she participated in Business Professionals of America, Vocational Industrial Clubs of America and cheerleading.

Touchton is a Glasgow High School graduate. She will attend High Point University in High Point, N.C. and study accounting.

At Glasgow High, she participated in volleyball, National Honor Society and Business Professionals of America.

The Newark Rotary Club has been awarding local students college scholarships since the 1950s.

Budding journalists get the scoop at City Hall

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Would you have enjoyed telling the superintendent of your elementary school what could "be done" with a plan to lengthen school days and shorten lunch breaks?

Nine area students got such a chance in the opinion column of a newspaper they published during a week-long, young reporter's camp offered by the Newark Parks and Recreation Department.

When the idea of a reporter's camp was initially suggested, Kristin Foltz, recreation specialist of community arts at the Parks and Recreation Department had her reservations.

"The camp turned out to be a big surprise," Foltz said. "We run nature camps and sports camps, but I wasn't sure how a school type, learning situation would work. The kids were great and very enthusiastic."

The young reporters were assigned one story at the beginning of the week by their teacher David Wilkie of Newark. Wilkie teaches third grade at Gallaher Elementary School.

The camp was held in the Municipal Building so the aspiring reporters could be close to the source of many news makers in Newark. Police Chief William Hogan; Dispatcher/Secretary in the Public Works Department, Carolyn Molitor; City Secretary Sue Lamblak; Fire Marshal Ken Farrall; and Recreation Supervisor Carol Houck were among the people interviewed and featured in the paper titled, "Young Reporter."

"The people in the building were very cooperative," Foltz said. "They would see the kids in the building and ask—what's going on?"

The young reporters did manage to travel across the street to Alderman's Court, where they saw a man in shackles brought before Judge Thomas Ferry.

"The weird thing was that the guy (in shackles) lied," Jessica Rowland, 13, of Newark said. "He told the judge that he didn't have any family in the area and when the judge asked him where his mother lived, he said New Castle."

The reporters also had a chance to do a live interview when fire alarms sounded during a visit by WILM radio reporter Suzanne Harold.

Demonstrating their newly cultivated noses for news, the students reacted to the sirens quickly.

"We ran upstairs trying to get the story," said Anne Hauser, 10, of Newark.

They discovered a man was testing the fire alarms and used the mike and live feed the radio reporter brought, to "get the scoop."

When asked who came up with the idea to take the class, the reporters were divided. About half approached their parents for permission to take the class while the others were signed up and "told about it later."

"I would have done it every day of the summer," Amber Knight, 10, from Newark said; however, her brother Matt Knight, 11, also in the class, replied, "No way!"

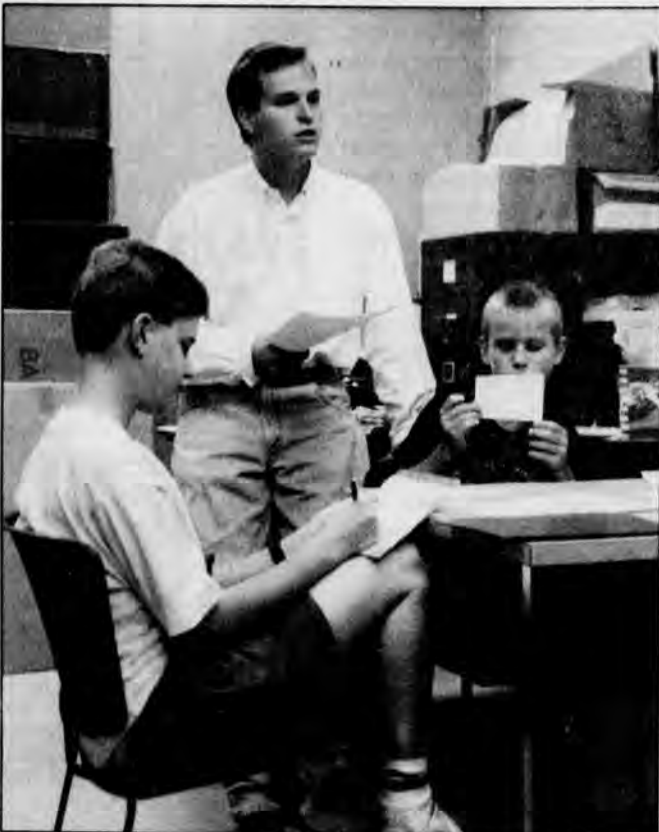

Nonetheless, class consensus was that the camp was "awesome." Even Matt had to concur.

The students even offered some advice in a "Dear Jessie" column. When a distraught shoplifter wonders how she can wear the jeans she stole without her mother finding out, Jessie suggests she buy something else at the store and pay for it and the jeans.

"When the cashier gives you the change, tell her to keep it or just run out of store," advised Jessie.

Wilkie, whose third graders at Gallaher publish a class newspaper every week, designed the curriculum for the class and the final paper.

"I would definitely teach the class again," said Wilkie. "I enjoyed the group I had here."

Rezoning freeze a first step

The New Castle County Council is to be commended for putting the brakes on rezoning requests in the Bear-Glasgow area until further study can be done to determine the impact development there is having on residents and the environment.

While it would have been better to tackle this problem earlier on, the consequences of continuing with business as usual — with County Council's penchant for an almost blanket stamp of approval for rezoning requests favoring more development — would have led to a nightmare. Just take a drive along Kirkwood Highway or Route 202 and see what past decisions have created.

The future of the Bear-Glasgow area is still an uncertain one, and we should not forget that the present rezoning ban is only temporary.

Those we elect to County Council ultimately hold the key to how the face of the area will change in years to come.

In the past, council's attitude has seemed to be "Development will occur; it's just a matter of time, so get used to the idea." Residents' pleas of "enough!" have been muffled by high-rolling developers and their attorneys, who will do just about anything to woo the body politic in their on-going attempt to turn a fast buck.

Hopefully, our present County Council will see the light and realize what a mess New Castle County has become. The die has been cast by past councils, already paving the way for more development.

A permanent plan for preserving what county farmland is left would make many residents happy, but would no doubt leave developers up in arms.

The present rezoning freeze has captured the public's attention. Now it's up to the movers and shakers in county government to show us where their loyalty really lies, and explain why.

SOME MORE THOUGHTS

Life doesn't have to be a blur

By SCOTT LAWRENCE

EDITOR

Sometimes I think I was born about 100 years too late. Not that I don't enjoy all the conveniences our modern society has to offer — I'd be a heretic if I said I didn't. I think that it has something to do instead with the pace of life. Unfortunately, the world I live in today has taken on a "faster is better" motto.

Take a simple meal, for example. Having grown up in the fast food era, I've become so used to expecting my food instantly thrown at me that when I go to a place that takes more than 15 minutes for a meal, I get the fidgets. And usually the person waiting on me has been trained to be at my side within seconds, pad in hand, asking, "Are you ready to order yet?" And then as soon as I take my last fork full of food, they're back to snatch my plate away. Of course unfamiliar fast food joints are even worse. Usually five seconds after I walk through the door and toward the counter, someone behind the register has already asked for my order. Forget about having enough time to read what's available. It's even sort of fun to stand there in front of them, casually scanning the offerings line by line. "Hurry up! Hurry up!" I can hear them thinking to themselves. They don't know how to deal with an idle second or two.

I'm not even going to get into all the time saving "wonders" the microwave oven can perform, but I do get amused when I hear people boasting about how they can nuke a potato in 12 minutes instead of baking one for an hour, "save all that time" and get dinner over with faster. But then they retire to their living rooms, sit in front of the tube and complain about having nothing to do.

The same attitude holds true when it comes to travel. We're so conditioned to getting from point A to point B as quickly as possible that we have little or no tolerance for those who think otherwise. Try taking a drive on one of the few remaining country roads in northern New Castle County. Observe the leisurely 40 miles-per-hour speed limit and watch your rear view mirror. It's like your rear bumper has become some sort of magnet because the car behind you is now about six inches away. Look at the driver's face. Chances are he or she is wearing that "speed up, you #@%ing SOB" expression. It's not because there's some sort of dire emergency. Most of us are just so conditioned to getting where we have to go as fast as we can that we can't deal with a more leisurely pace. Even car ads boast about the number of seconds it takes to go from 0 to 60 miles-per-hour, as if it really matters. We can't take in the scenery because there just isn't the time — at least that's what we tell ourselves.

Politicians have honed in on the "faster is better" motto, too. Entire political agendas have been edited down to 30 second sound bites. Candidate Smith is guy who "supports the working man and wants a strong defense system." That's all most of us know about Candidate Smith, and we're satisfied. Listening to Candidate Smith go into lengthy detail about what he does or doesn't support would take up too much of our time, and that isn't good, we tell ourselves. Even when it comes to having a conversation with a friend or neighbor, time always seems to be of the essence. I don't know about you, but I'm certainly guilty of half-listening to what someone is telling me after a conversation has gone more than two or three minutes because in the back of my mind I know I'm being put behind schedule.

I'm making an effort to slow things down and enjoy the task at hand, whatever that task may be. But I have to tell you, it isn't as easy as it sounds. I think my impatience has been acquired — I didn't used to be this way. I was born and raised below the canal, where drivers still wave to the farmer behind the wheel of slow-moving combine taking up half the road instead of giving him the finger for holding them up. It's the land known as "Slower Delaware", a label I used to find offensive. I thought those of us from below the canal were, in the eyes of those above, inferior because we weren't part of the fast-paced hustle and bustle northern Delaware is known for — the hustle and bustle that I always equated with success. But I've grown to learn that a slower pace in life is actually more enjoyable than conquering each day with breakneck speed. In many ways, I'm finding true success has a lot more to do with savoring the moment at hand than it does with flying blindly through the present, making time for an unknown future.

GUEST OPINION

Bipartisan cooperation is key

By MICHAEL N. CASTLE

CONGRESSMAN, R-DE.

Editor:

With the budget battle behind us, Congress must refocus its attention on several critical issues facing this country and redouble its efforts to work in a bipartisan manner to tackle these issues.

As I have stated numerous times, I am extremely disappointed with, and did not support, the Budget bill that barely squeaked through the House and Senate. However, Republicans and Democrats, who voted for and against the bill, now are urging congressional leaders to hold a special legislative session in September, dedicated exclusively to enacting detailed spending cuts. Resolving to make the tough decisions on how and where to reduce spending is absolutely essential if we are to grab control of the runaway federal deficit.

Along with the need to bring the deficit under control, there are many other areas Republicans and Democrats can agree on and strive for a common goal, including the need to enact comprehensive health care reform; tough anti-crime legislation; and, a major overhaul of our welfare system. I have actively been working on all these issues in Congress, and I hope to serve as a vital link with our nation's governors to maintain an open, productive dialogue with them on how these measures will impact the states.

As a member of the House Republican Health Care Task Force for the last nine months, I have been working with my colleagues to draft innovative initiatives designed to provide preventative and basic medical care to the tens of millions of Americans who currently are uninsured or underinsured. However, in proposing such reforms, we must work closely with the states, small businesses, hospitals, physicians and nurses to ensure their concerns and problems are addressed. I anticipate the Republican's Health Care legislation will be released next month.

I also have had numerous opportunities to meet with Hillary Rodham Clinton and her top health care advisor to learn more about the White House Health care plan. Overall, there are many similarities between these two plans, and I sincerely hope we can work out our differences in a bipartisan manner.

In addition to health care reform, Americans want Congress to get tougher on crime, put more cops on the streets, put more criminals behind bars and keep guns out of the hands of people who have no business owning them. I am an original co-sponsor of the Republican Crime Bill, which does all that and more. President Clinton recently has unveiled a major anti-crime plan, and I look forward to Republicans and Democrats in both houses sitting down together to craft a compromise bill and enact it swiftly.

I also have joined a group of House members focusing on comparisons welfare reform. As governors, Bill Clinton and I worked together to persuade Congress to enact the Family Support Act of 1988, which was the first step towards much broader reforms that are needed to achieve President Clinton's goal of "ending welfare as we know it." The obstacle we must overcome is removing the current barriers that discourage welfare recipients from getting off welfare for fear of losing government-pro-

OUT OF THE ATTIC

This week, Out of the Attic features a 1948 photograph of the covered bridge over White Clay Creek near Curtis Paper Mill. The bridge was built in 1860 and torn down in 1949. Mrs. Esther F. Godwin of Newark, who loaned the photo, said she used to walk through the bridge twice each school day plus any other time she went "uptown." It was apparently the second such bridge at the site, the first having been built in 1817. Readers are invited to submit historic photographs for publication in this space. Special care will be taken. Call Scott Lawrence, editor, for details, 737-0724.

Draft Dodgers Arrested

A message came to the town authorities on Monday afternoon from Baltimore to the effect that several draft dodgers were making a get-a-way over the B.&O. railroad. Policeman Foster was on the job and in a few minutes arrested a young colored man escaping on a freight train.

A second message reported 11 working their way north on the same road and asked for a detail of soldiers in apprehending the slackers. After a fruitless wait at the station, word came that the men were at Elk Mills. The soldiers commandeered a couple of hand cars and hastened to Elk Mills where they arrested 9 white men and 2 colored men whom they locked up in Elkton jail. Three slackers were later taken from the rear of the passenger train passing through here shortly after four o'clock and placed in the town lock-up.

C&O-B&O Railroads Freight Derailed Thursday at Frazier Field

A northbound C&O-B&O railroad freight train was derailed early last Thursday morning in Newark sending 10 cars off the tracks but injuring no one.

The wreck occurred at 1:50 a.m., eighty yards east of North College Avenue next to Frazier Field on the University campus.

Capt. C. A. Hall of the railroad police said 150 yards of track were badly damaged. Four of the cars were completely destroyed, one of them jackknifed across the single track and another car landed on top of it.

Derailed cars were carrying canned goods, celery, paper and lumber.

Beginning this Sunday, Diamond State Telephone information operators will become directory assistance operators.

"Frankly, the term 'information' has caused a lot of confusion and delay," Claude Feters, district traffic superintendent of the company said.

"Many people call for baseball scores, bus schedules, solutions to homework problems, the time it takes to cook a soft boiled egg and other information which our operators do not have."

Newark Police Picket City Council Meeting

City police officers picketed outside the Newark Municipal Building Monday night to protest stalled contract negotiations.

Marchers took their places prior to the start of a City Council meeting. They were joined online by friends, family and police officers from other cities.

Negotiations broke down two weeks ago following release of a Delaware Public Employees Relations Board report that sided with police.

Police are asking for an increase in the cities contribution to their pension fund.

4-H'ers find more than cows in Wisconsin

Twelve New Castle County 4-H members and their two chaperons learned recently that Wisconsin is much more than cows and cheese.

They were part of a week-long 4-H program for teens called the 4-H Interstate Exchange. In this program, Delaware 4-H members travel to another state to live with 4-H families there for one week. The following year, the 4-H members who hosted the Delaware 4-H'ers come to Delaware for an up close look at our state.

Most of the Delaware 4-H'ers stayed on small dairy farms and a few stayed in the town of Balsam Lake, the seat for Polk County in west central Wisconsin. The Delaware kids were amazed by the spectacular scenery of the area, especially the numerous lakes and rivers.

The trip was a great learning experience for the Delaware kids. In addition to learning more than they imagined possible about cows, they also baled hay, bagged oats and fed calves, chickens and horses.

Andrea Passarelli was impressed with the huge number of deer in Polk County. They are the major traffic hazard there. Nikki Manno of Newark had her first experience on horseback. Anna Palermo, also of Newark was impressed with how spread out everything was and how you rarely saw two houses next to each other. Amber Bacot of Newark lived with a family that had five kids. She found that a real eye opening experience.

One of the major differences the kids from Delaware found was that Wisconsin kids used words like "pop" instead of "soda". During the week both sets of 4-H'ers kidded each other about each others' accents. The 4-H program in Wisconsin is very different than the 4-H program in Delaware. According to Mary Chapman, who served as one of the chaperons, because the area is so rural and sparsely populated, 4-H is really the only thing happening. In Wisconsin, the 4-H program even runs all the sports programs in the county.

The Delawareans who participated in the Interstate Exchange were Anna Palermo, Georgi Daugherty, Nikki Manno, John Crossan, Megan Chapman, Amber Bacot, Ryan Melson, and Jodi Bloom, all of Newark; Ryan Stuckert of Middletown; Sarah and Andrea Passarelli of Hockessin; and Joan Zippe of Smyrna. The chaperons were Mary Chapman and Karen Bacot, both of Newark.

The Delaware 4-H'ers will correspond with their Wisconsin hosts during the year and will also be hard at work planning to show them that the east coast is more than cars and shopping centers.

Reforms on the way this fall vided medical and food assistance benefits they need to support themselves and their children.

Some of the reforms, which will be included in legislation released this fall are: establishing a transition program to provide training and temporary services to people to help them get off welfare and into the work force; enhanced child support enforcement; increased effort to establish paternity; and greater state flexibility in spending federal public assistance funds.

These are not Republican or Democratic issues. They affect all of us. For the last nine months, I have been working to build coalitions with members on both sides of the aisle in many legislative areas. It is my hope that we can get back on a bipartisan track and do all we can to lift the partisan cloud hovering over Capitol Hill, so we can achieve real and significant change for citizens of Delaware and across this country.

New program introduces children to music's many facets

By TONJA CASTANEDA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Some young children spend their days in front of the television playing Nintendo, but not those who attend Kindermusik Beginnings classes—they're busy marching to a different beat, learning how to make music together.

These classes, which introduce children ages 18 months to 3 years to music, will be offered starting in September at Newark United Methodist Church, Newark YWCA and the City of Newark.

Although the original Kindermusik program for children ages 4 to 7 has been established in this area for some time, Kindermusik Beginnings is fairly new to Newark as of February this year.

Amy Boyd, Kindermusik Beginnings teacher said the program began in other parts of the country in 1990. She said Beginnings is based on research from two colleges which showed very young children are uniquely capable of absorbing all kinds of musical ideas.

"I started out teaching beginnings at the YWCA expecting to teach about eight families," said Boyd. "I taught 24 families for that class and 40 plus families by the end of the year."

Boyd said for Beginnings the children attend classes with a parent or caretaker. "We have families who get into it and both parents and a grandmother will attend class."

She said the children learn songs and music the same way they learn to talk—by listening.

Boyd teaches the parents what to do. "I demonstrate and the adults imitate what I'm doing," Boyd said. "The children are sitting in this happy, bubbling environment and they start to join in."

The class is a non-threatening setting. "It's useful if children are going to learn if they have an upbeat environment to feel comfortable," she said.

Boyd said each class consists of about 10-15 activities where the children work alone and in groups.

There are four Beginnings classes that have the same ideas but different songs and themes: "Music for Me," "Music and My Animal Friends," "Music and My World" and "Music and My Favorite Things."

"The impact of Beginnings is tremendous," said Boyd. "A child who takes Beginnings has a potential to internalize musical basic rhythms and melodic sounds, meaning they have sounds in their minds."

"If this is in place at 3 years of age, they can be ready to enjoy singing and possibly more formal training," she said.

Boyd, who teaches French horn at Wilmington Music School got involved with she couldn't think of anything to sing to her children at bedtime. But after taking the classes she said, "It gave me confidence, anywhere anytime to sing to my kids—even in the grocery store line to distract them."

Lin McDowell, now a teacher in Beginnings, said she and her daughter, Kelsey, went through a class. "It definitely helped my daughter develop a sense of self esteem of what she can do."

McDowell said in the classes because there are no external standards to the child's development, it's a non-judgmental kind of environment.

Beginnings classes meet weekly for 30 minutes for 14 weeks. The classes cost from $63 to $72 with an additional materials fee of $25.

Author's note:

Lunacies like these have been inflicted on my poor wife, children and colleagues for years. They have been greeted by both groans and guffaws—the latter, perhaps, to pacify the punster and offset a further barrage. To its victims, punning can be seen as a disease, since any laughter, however sparse, can be contagious. I hope readers will tackle this word-play nonsense with zest, thereby assuring them Eternal Joy and a letter from Ed McMahon.

Statistics point to need for a more supportive environment for kids

Helping kids become productive adults can be a full time job. Young people need a supportive environment to learn, grow and develop skills. Half of their waking time is used at their discretion and therefore it is up to parents and communities to provide healthy opportunities and activities.

The latest statistics from the Carnegie Corporation's Council on Adolescent Development shows that about 42 percent of our children's time is spent on television (20.7%), playing and hobbies (8.7%), outdoor/sports activities (6.6%), church (2.5%) and visiting (2.2%). The time they spend in front of the tube is about equal to the time they spend on maintenance activities (21%) such as eating, personal care and household work, chores or errands. Thirty-seven percent of their time is being spent on productive activities such as school, studying, job related activities and reading.

It is during this time that kids are exposed to risks and opportunities.

According to the report, kids need opportunities to form secure and stable relationships with caring adults and peers. They also want safe and attractive places to play and hangout. They are willing to serve their communities and they seek out places that will allow them to demonstrate their competence, gain respect and become a valued member.

Supportive environments help kids achieve these goals. Parents and grandparents can provide excellent opportunities for kids by helping them use their time in a constructive way. Plan or encourage participation in activities that help build their self-esteem and an understanding of their strengths. Offer them safe places where they can show how wonderful they really are. Allow them to participate in family decision making and give them the opportunity to implement the plans. Pay attention to where they are and how they are doing. Ask!!!

Planning family time that focuses on doing something like washing the car, reading to each other, picnics, visiting, playing games or sports or exercising helps to show you care and strengthens your relationships.

Enrolling children in community based programs like 4-H, athletic programs, clubs, and theater groups are alternatives that provide ways to make unproductive time become more meaningful. Accessing programs offered at schools or community centers assist parents as well. Contact the schools or centers nearest you for more information.

Parents can also help by volunteering to assist community based

Pamela Joyce Cosgrove weds Thomas DuVal Roberts II

Pamela Joyce Cosgrove, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard E. Cosgrove, Jr. of Newark, and Thomas DuVal Roberts II were married July 24, 1993.

The Rev. Luis Leon officiated at a double ring ceremony at Old Swedes Episcopal Church in Wilmington.

Baroque music played by an organist and trumpet player, accompanied by soloist Amy Gee, of Newark, who sang "The Wedding Song" and "A Gift of Love" was played during the ceremony.

The bride wore an ivory full-length gown made of raw silk with a chapel-length train. The bodice is decorated with Alecon lace, sequins and tiny pearls.

The maid of honor was Susan Ann Cosgrove of Arlington, Va., the bride's sister.

The bridesmaids were Martha Browne of Woodbridge, Va., the groom's sister; Kristen Vaughan of Wilmington, a friend of the bride; Julie Earhart of Wilmington, a friend of the bride; Lisa Brook of Annandale, Va., a friend of the bride; Tracy Maher of Richmond, Va., a friend of the bride.

The bridesmaids wore a rose two-piece suit that was floor length with an ivory lace yoke and pearl buttons down the front.

The flower girls, Christine and Allyson Olewine, were both cousins of the bride from Elkton, Md.

The bridal party carried summer bouquets with white and pink roses and Queen Anne's Lace.

The best man was Mr. Thomas D. Roberts II of Alexandria, Va., the groom's father.

The ushers were Bradley Davis of Arlington, Va., a friend of the groom; Timothy Byrnes of

Mrs. Thomas DuVal Roberts II

Arlington, Va., a friend of the groom, Robert McLaughlin of Arlington, Va., a friend of the groom; and Charles Browne of Woodbridge, Va., the groom's brother-in-law.

Following the wedding, a reception was held at Greenville Country Club in Wilmington.

The bride is a 1986 graduate of Newark High School and a 1990 graduate of The University of Virginia. She is presently a senior consulting with Andersen Consulting.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas DuVal Roberts II, is a 1985 graduate of Lake Braddock High School of Va., and a 1989 graduate of The University of Virginia. He will be attending the Darden School of Business at The University of Virginia this fall.

The couple enjoyed a honeymoon trip to St. John of the U.S. Virgin Islands and will reside in Charlottesville, Va.

Versatility of chicken makes it a favorite food

Chicken is one of my favorite foods because it is versatile and inexpensive and everyone loves it. If you remove the skin from the bird it is also low in fat.

So experiment with these recipes. You'll get great reviews.

Pan-Fried Chicken Strips (serves 4 to 6)

This dish is a snap to make and it is delicious. Prepare everything ahead of time and throw it together at the last minute.

2 tablespoons olive oil
2 pounds chicken breasts, skinned, boned and cut into 1/2-inch-wide strips
2 cloves garlic, crushed
6 green onions, chopped
4 tablespoons Marsala wine
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Salt and pepper to taste

Heat a large frying pan. Add the oil, chicken strips, garlic and green onions.

Saute over high heat until the chicken is lightly browned and tender. Remove from the pan.

Add the Marsala and lemon juice and allow the liquid to reduce for a moment.

Return the chicken to the hot pan and add salt and pepper.

Do not overcook this dish. Serve immediately.

Chicken with Rosemary (serves 3 or 4)

I hope you can find fresh rosemary for this one. Rosemary grows as a shrub here in the Northwest, and I expect that you can get some growing in your yard. Try it. If not, use dried.

1 3-to-4 pound chicken, cut up
3 slices bacon, chopped
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon olive oil
Salt and pepper to taste
1 or 2 cloves garlic, crushed
1/2 cup white wine
1/2 tablespoon dried rosemary or 1 tablespoon fresh rosemary
2 tablespoons tomato paste
1/2 cup chicken broth

Fry the bacon until barely crisp. Pour off the fat and remove the bacon.

Add the butter and olive oil to the pan and brown the chicken pieces.

Add salt, pepper and garlic to the pan when the chicken is almost browned. When it is browned add the white wine and rosemary to the pan.

Add the bacon, cover and cook for 15 minutes.

Mix the tomato paste with the chicken broth and add to the pan.

Cover and cook for about 30 minutes or until the chicken is tender.

Chicken in Red Wine (Coq au Vin) (serves 6)

There are a thousand variations on this classic dish. In this case I am going to use a beef stock along with the wine. In this way we will come closer to that dark brown sauce served with the chicken when you see it in France.

1/4 cup olive oil

THE FRUGAL GOURMET

By JEFF SMITH

2 yellow onions, peeled and sliced
4 garlic cloves, crushed
1 pound white mushrooms, sliced
1/4 pound bacon, diced
2 fryer chickens, 3 to 4 pounds each, or use 5 pounds breasts, thighs and legs
2 cups fresh or canned beef stock
2 cups dry red wine, such as Burgundy
2 bay leaves
1 teaspoon whole thyme
Salt and pepper, freshly ground, to taste
1/2 cup minced parsley
4 tablespoons brandy

Roux: 6 tablespoons flour cooked in 6 tablespoons butter

Heat a large frying pan and add the olive oil, onions and garlic and saute until they are tender.

Add the mushrooms and saute on high heat until the mushrooms are barely tender. Remove from pan and deglaze the pan with a little of the red wine.

Pour the pan drippings over the onions and mushrooms.

Set aside. In the same pan saute the bacon until clear.

Remove the bacon from the pan leaving the fat. Set the bacon aside.

Cut the chicken into serving pieces. In small batches brown the chicken in the bacon fat.

Place the chicken and bacon in a large kettle and add the stock, red wine, bay leaves, thyme, salt, pepper, parsley and brandy.

Bring to a simmer and cook until tender, about one hour.

Add the onions and mushrooms and continue to simmer while you prepare the roux.

Lightly brown the flour in to melted butter and stir this mixture into the cooked chicken and sauce.

Stir over the heat until the sauce thickens.

Serve the chicken and sauce over noodles or rice pilaf.

Chicken Marsala (serves 6 to 8)

This spiciness and sweetness of Marsala wine adds wonderful depth to this quick chicken dish.

8 chicken breasts (each chicken has two breasts)

Flour for dredging
Salt and freshly ground black pepper, to taste
Olive oil for frying
1 yellow onion, peeled and sliced
2 garlic cloves, crushed
1/4 cup dry white wine, Chablis type
1/2 cup sweet Marsala wine

Debone the chicken breasts and remove the skin. Pound the breasts thin between two pieces of plastic.

Dredge the pieces in flour seasoned with a bit of salt and pepper. Set aside.

In a large frying pan saute the onion and garlic in a bit of olive oil. Saute only until the onions are clear not browned.

Remove from the pan and deglaze the pan with the white wine. Pour the wine over the onion and garlic.

Rinse the pan and heat it again. Add a bit of olive oil for frying and saute the chicken pieces a few at a time, quickly, on both sides.

They should just begin to brown. Remove them to a warm plate and finish the remaining chicken pieces.

Add the onion and garlic to the pan and deglaze with the Marsala wine. Allow the wine to reduce a bit and then pour the sauce over the chicken pieces.

Chicken with Mustard and Wine Sauce (serves 2-3)

Your guests will want second helpings of this dish. I am warning you. Make plenty.

1 whole frying chicken
2 tablespoons peanut oil
2 large garlic cloves, peeled and slice thin
2 tablespoons chopped shallots (may substitute red onion)
1/2 cup dry white wine (more may be needed)
1 cup leeks sliced into 2-inch lengths, washed and drained
Salt and pepper to taste
3 tablespoons Dijon mustard
1/4 cup whipping cream, unsweetened and unwhipped

Hack the chicken, i.e. cut it into serving pieces. Use a cleaver and have the pieces no larger than 2-inches square.

Heat a large frying pan or wok and add the oil.

Saute the chicken pieces over high heat, stirring as you cook until they are browned.

Remove the chicken from the wok; drain the oil and discard. Saute the garlic and shallots or red onion in the pan for a minute. Add the white wine and the chicken. Cover and simmer until the chicken is tender, about 15 minutes.

Increase heat to high. Add the leeks. Toss and cook for a moment.

Add salt and pepper to taste.

Cover and cook over medium heat for three minutes.

Add the mustard and cream

Toss and serve

You may need to add more wine if the sauce is too thick.

Annual Irish Festival and Feis in Newark Sunday

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Be sure to follow the green shamrocks this Sunday.

This is no blarney, there will be shamrocks lining Del. 896 from the I-95 exit this Sunday in an effort to entice people to attend the 14th Annual Irish Festival and Feis at the University of Delaware's Clayton Hall.

The Irish Culture Club, which was founded in 1976, will sponsor the day's activities. The day will begin at 9 a.m. with a Catholic mass offered by a local priest. After all holy obligations are fulfilled, the festivities begin with the Feis, which is the Gaelic word for an Irish dance competition.

Students of the only Irish dance school in the state, the McAleer School, will be competing in the Feis on five different stages.

Spokesperson, Nora Smith said the McAleer dancers range in age from 5 to 23. Their teacher, Veronica McAleer McCrea taught Irish dance in Philadelphia for two years before establishing her Delaware School.

After most of the Feis competition is over, the "grown-ups" get a chance to break in their dancing shoes while Ceili dancing to Irish music performed by Kevin and Pancho and Ian Gallagher's Irish Show Band. Smith said that Ceili dancing is similar to line dancing. Of course a few Irish jigs will be performed for good measure.

If you make a killer Irish soda bread, be sure to bring it to festival.

There will be a sodabread contest and the winners will receive awards.

There will also be vendors of Irish crafts and goods. The Irish Culture Club will have a table with items ranging from T-shirts with Irish slogans to hats, while craft vendors will sell handmade Irish wares and food. The shoes the Feis competitors wear will also be on sale.

The Feis dancers are not limited to Festivals. They entertain year round at parades and retirement and nursing homes, with the month of March being their most busy time. They travel to competitions May through October.

The dancers wear authentic Gaelic dress that has to be hand-made by a parent or friend.

"My husband is working on our daughter Colleen's dress right now... he does the embroidery," said Smith when referring to her own daughter's costume. "Colleen keeps asking if it will be ready for the Delaware competition and my husband just looks at her. If it's not ready for next week then it will be ready for the next competition."

Everyone will win this Sunday, according to Smith. There are trophies for first, second and third prizes, but even those dancers that don't place get a ribbon with an honorable mention medal.

Admission is $5 for adults and $3 for Senior Citizens. Children under 15, when accompanied by their families, are admitted for free. The fun ends at 8 p.m. For more information call, 478-4219 or 998-7678.

'Down with the Arts' on Main Street Friday

By ERIC FINE
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The Newark Arts Alliance will present another edition of "Down with the Arts" on Main Street this Friday (Aug. 20), featuring plenty of art and music.

The program debuted last month, drawing a little over 1,000 people to the city's central business district. The art remained on display through this week.

New displays will be presented at the following sites beginning at 4 p.m.:

- The Newark Free Library
- The Halloween Gallery (286 E. Main)
- You've Been Framed
- Minuteman Press
- Main Street Florist and Plant Shop
- Ninety East Main Cafe
- Objects of Desire
- Treats
- Mirage
- Clayton Hall

The following performances are scheduled at the lot formerly occupied by the State Theater:

- "Escape" and "Apogee" play rock from 4 p.m. to 5:30 p.m.

- "One" plays reggae from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m.
- Poet Ellen Mason reads from 7 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.

- The Master Beats play rock, 7:30 to 9 p.m.
- Julius Gordon and Nick Brush play guitar and mandolin in front of the Academy Building where there also will be a crafts display.

Buggy rides will be provided by the Carousel Farms Riding Stable and a painting donated by Newark artist Pamela Bounds Seemans will be raffled off. Additionally, an open mic will be set up in front of the Post House Restaurant.

Call David Robertson at 368-7158 for further information.

Newark's Mister Donut packs up for Boss Dogs

By TONJA CASTANEDA
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

After 15 years of seeing the Mister Donut sign on E. Delaware Ave., a Boss Dogs sign now replaces it.

Because of health reasons, owners Martin and Janice Lehman recently closed Mister Donut and moved Boss Dogs, their other business, from Fox Run Shopping Center to E. Delaware Ave.

According to Janice, Martin recently had part of his lung removed to rid his body of cancer. She said her husband is still in pain from surgery but is doing good.

"I was trying to run both businesses and the doughnut place was open 24 hours," said Janice. She said running both businesses was impossible.

So, they combined the two businesses and now offer donuts, hot dogs, ice cream and beach fries cooked in peanut oil.

Boss Dogs is open Sunday through Thursday until 10 p.m. and Friday and Saturday to midnight.

A Grand season lies ahead

Did you really look at the date at the top of this page? Did it sink in? The summer almost ain't! At this time of year the thoughts of "Post" readers usually turn to two things, getting the kids back to school and the upcoming performing arts season. In some cases, both things.

Today I would like to focus on the upcoming season and I have some very pleasant and exciting news. Our own Opera Delaware has completed casting on the world premiere of the opera they will stage at the Grand Opera House. The opera is Conrad Cummings' new opus about America and Vietnam and is titled "Tonkin." The premiere is set for Saturday evening, November 27, with subsequent performances on December 2 and 4.

We haven't had a world premiere of a major opera for fifteen years. Anticipation is running high in opera circles especially since those who are studying the work have told your reporter that "This is not one of those atonal things that ought to be seen once." There is some truly beautiful and melodic music in the Cummings' score. I have that from four separate people intimately involved with Opera Delaware.

Now, to the cast. The role of

THE ARTS

By PHIL TOMAN

Trung Minh Chau, the Vietnamese woman who is the opera's central character will be sung by soprano Peggy Kriha. Tenor Matthew Lord will sing the role of the American flyer and military advisor John Paul Scott. Baritone Perry Ward will portray Ho Chi Minh. The dual role of the State Department official and Madame Nhu will be sung by mezzo-soprano Kathryn Honan-Carter.

Peggy Kriha has a Bachelor of Arts in music and is currently working on a graduate degree at the Manhattan School of Music. She was chosen for the 1993 Merola Apprentice Program in San Francisco and the Julliard Opera Center's 1993-94 season. She performed the role of Jane Eyre in the U. S. premiere of "True Love/False Love" at Weill Recital Hall in New York, the role of Charlotte in the New York premiere of "The Yellow Wallpaper," the role of Girl No. 1 in "Jacques Brel" with the Chautauqua Opera and the role of Lucy in Menotti's "The Telephone" in Minnesota.

One laurel of which Peggy is especially proud - and she should be - is the Birgit Nilsson Scholarship which she won at the Manhattan School of Music in both 1991 and 1992.

California native Matthew Lord was a member of the Julliard Opera Center for two consecutive seasons. While there he sang the role of Judge Danforth in Ward's Pulitzer Prize-winning "The Crucible" and the title role in Ralph Vaughn Williams' "Hugh the Drover." Last season he sang Rudolfo in "La Boheme" at San Francisco. This summer he performed Sam in Floyd's "Susannah" with the Berkshire Opera, the Steuermann in Wagner's "Der Fliegende Hollander" and Marvin Heeno in Argento's "The Dream of Valentino, both with the Dallas Opera.

Matthew has also appeared in the title role of Thompson's "Lord Byron," Fenton in Nicolai's "The Merry Wives of Windsor," Edgardo in Donizetti's "Lucia di Lammermoor," Mr. Owen in Argento's "Postcard from Morocco," Fenton in Verdi's "Falstaff" and Bob Boles in Britten's "Peter Grimes."

Perry Ward made his Metropolitan Opera debut in October, 1991, singing the role of Sid in the first performance of the new production of Puccini's "La Fanciulla del West" on less than an hour's notice! During that season he also sang Donald in Britten's "Billy Budd." Last season he sang both Herman and Schlemil in Offenbach's "Les Contes d'Hoffman."

The tenor earned his Master of Music degree at the New England Conservatory and his Bachelor of Music from the St. Louis Conservatory. He has also studied at Temple University and the Franz Schubert Institute in Austria.

Other roles include Dr. Falke in Strauss' "Die Fledermaus," Lt. Redburn in Britten's "Billy Budd," Sulpice in Donizetti's "The Daughter of the Regiment" and Dimitri in Wargo's "The Music Shop."

Kathryn Honan-Carter's undergraduate degree is from the University of Connecticut and her graduate degree from the New England Conservatory. She was a winner in the 1990 New England Regional Metropolitan Opera National Council Auditions.

The mezzo's roles have been extensive. She has performed Cherubino in Mozart's "Nozze di Figaro," Kate in Puccini's "Madama Butterfly," Hansel in Humperdinck's "Hansel und Gretel," Prince Orlovsky in Strauss' "Die Fledermaus," Nancy in Britten's "Albert Herring," Buttercup in Gilbert and Sullivan's "H. M. S. Pinafore" and Suzuki in Puccini's "Madama Butterfly."

"Tonkin" will be conducted by one of my favorite Opera Delaware pit people, David Larson. Harry Silverstein will direct. John Culbert will design the lighting and the set and Andrea Barrier will design the costumes.

I think that with this cast, "Tonkin" is a not to be missed opera. Order your tickets from Opera Delaware early. Late orders may well bring disappointment.

POST GAME

Hen gridders open practice

It won't be long now. The leaves will start turning, then falling; the temperature will drop and the pads will start popping.

That's right football season is right around the corner. In fact, the pads will start popping this week with or without the cooler temperatures as the University of Delaware football team opened its preseason practice with Media Day on Sunday.

Delaware returns 42 letterman and 15 starters from last year's 11-3 team that captured the Yankee Conference crown and advanced to the semifinals of the NCAA I-AA playoffs before bowing to Marshall 28-7.

In fact, Delaware will be going after its third straight Yankee Conference championship and its fifth in eight years.

The loss of nine starters and 16 lettermen including four-year quarterback Bill Vergantino is obvious, but don't count the Hens out.

"It was a special year," said Delaware Coach Tubby Raymond, who starts his 28th year at the helm of the Blue Hen program. "Looking back we might have gone undefeated."

The media that covers the Yankee Conference apparently hasn't put too much weight on the losses picking Delaware as a slight favorite over Richmond to win the title.

The schedule will again be a challenging one for the Hens with Lehigh, William & Mary, James Madison, UMass, Villanova and Richmond, to name a few I-AA powerhouses, dotting the schedule.

Softball keeps summer around

Before I can fully get into the fall sports, the summer ones have to end.

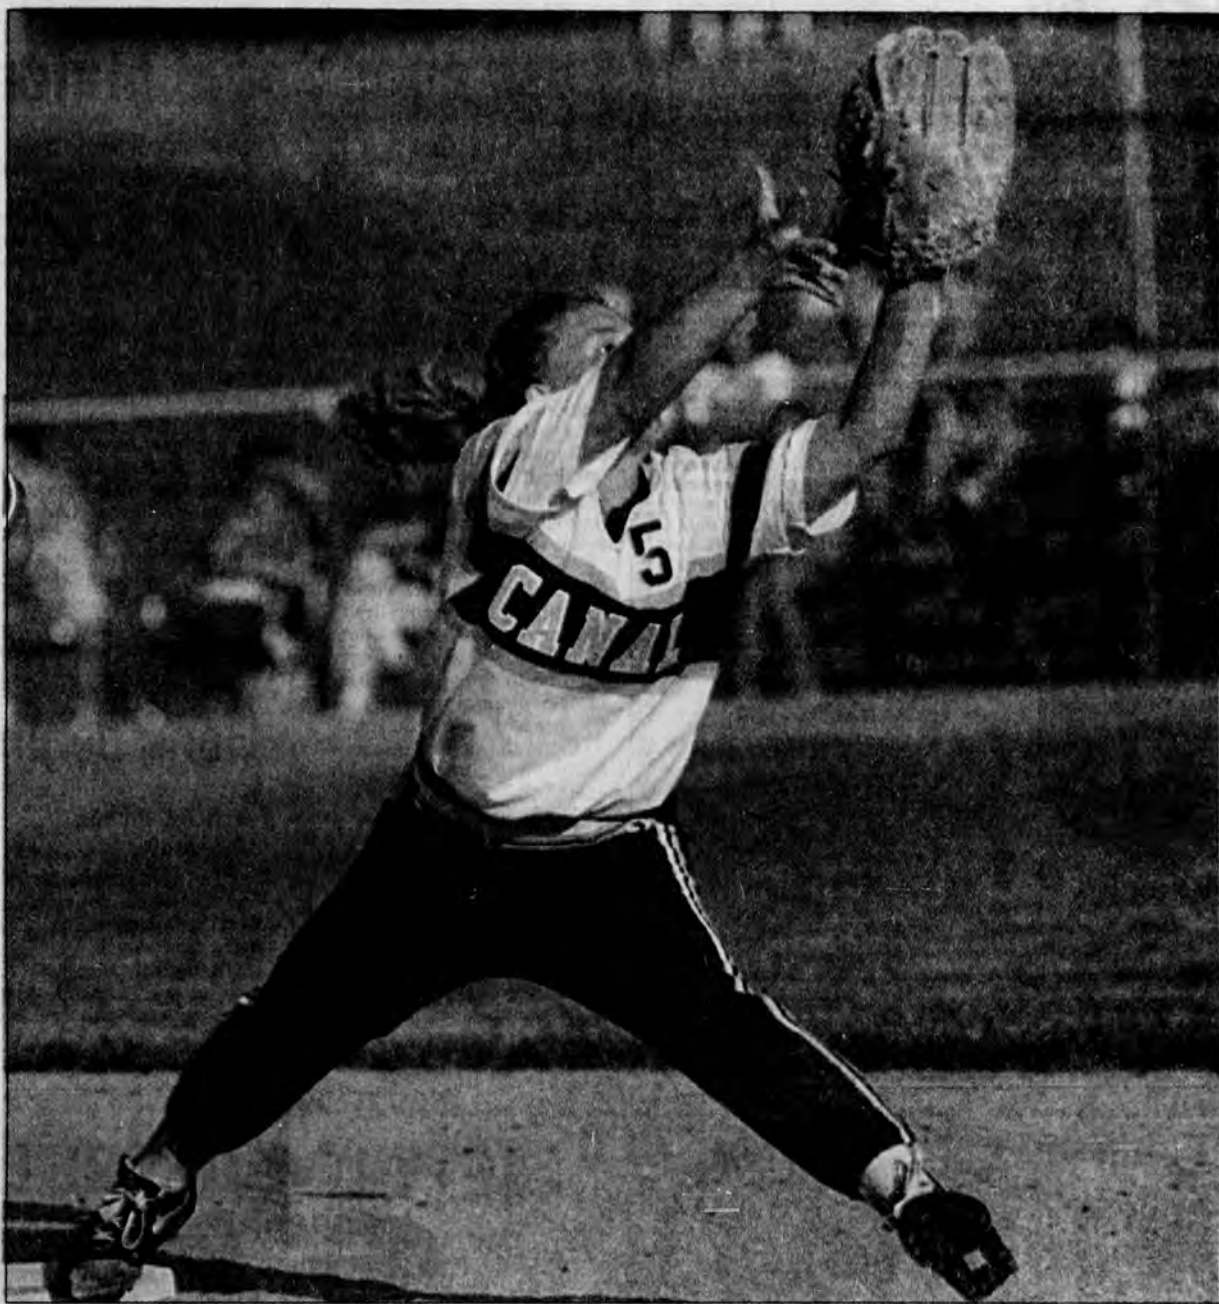

The Canal Senior All-Star team is doing its best to keep the summer alive by continually winning.

This team has amazed in one tournament after another.

It probably shouldn't have won the state series. It dropped the first game and trailed 5-4 late in the final game.

It definitely shouldn't have won the Mid-Atlantics. Needing to win two games, it trailed by three runs in the first entering the final inning. No matter, rally - tie the game - win in extra innings - win the second game

Team's rebound from loss is key to regional victory

By MARTY VALANIA

ORANGE, Conn. - The Canal Senior All-Star team knew all about teams coming out of the loser's bracket to win tournaments.

Canal, itself, did that very thing not once, but twice. The Delaware, Mid-Atlantic and Eastern champs lost the first game of the state championship series to Laurel forcing them to win two in a row. They did narrowly escaping with a 6-5 win (after trailing 5-4 late in the game) in the deciding game.

Then came Mid-Atlantics.

Canal opened the tourney with a win but fell 5-4 to Woodbury in the second game. After another win in the loser's bracket final, Canal rallied from a 5-2 deficit to score three times in the seventh to tie Woodbury 5-5. Finally, in the 10th Canal scored twice to prevail 7-5 and force an "if" game.

Then Canal needed Adrienne Maloney's sixth-inning home run to win that game 2-1 and advance to the Eastern Regional.

After cruising to two easy victories - including an 11-2 victory over Minersville - in the opening two games of the Eastern Regional, the team was determined not to be like Woodbury or Laurel.

Minersville, the Pennsylvania champions, also knew about coming from the loser's bracket. It did it in the finals of the Pennsylvania championship round against a Guilford team that defeated Canal three years ago in the Major Division's Eastern Regional.

"We felt very confident that we could win two," said Minersville Manager Tom Halye. "We came out of the loser's bracket before and knew we could do it again."

"We just wanted it a lot more than we did the first time we played [Canal]. It was a great first game."

Canal knew that winning Friday's first game was key.

It didn't happen though as Minersville played from on top all game.

Both teams scored a run in the first inning, Minersville's coming on a home run over the right field fence.

Senior girls top Minersville for Eastern Regional title

ORANGE, Conn. - Nothing has come easy for the Canal Senior All-Star team.

That includes the 11-8 win over Minersville, Pa. for the championship of the Eastern Regional Friday evening at Old Tavern Park.

The win advanced Canal to this week's Softball World Series in Kalamazoo, Mich.

Canal (13-3), the winner's bracket champion of the double-elimination tournament, dropped the first game of Friday's doubleheader 6-5 in eight innings to force the decisive second game. The champs jumped to a 9-0 lead before hanging on for dear life against the power hitting Minersville squad.

"It's a nice feeling," said a relieved Canal Manager Mike Salony who is taking his second straight team to the Series. "This team has been unbelievable. They've won in every possible way."

"They don't ever do things easy but they're going to the World Series."

After cruising through the first two games of the Eastern Regional - a 7-0 win over West Haven, Conn. and a 11-2 whipping of the same Minersville team - it appeared as if the Delaware champs would have an easy stroll to Kalamazoo.

Wrong.

The Pennsylvania champs, playing in front of several hundred of their vocal (if not intimidating) townsfolk that came to Connecticut on chartered buses, were much more inspired Friday than the first time the two teams met.

Canal trailed all game but rallied for two runs in the bottom of the sixth inning to tie the game 5-5 on Kristin Nau's two-run single. Winning pitcher Jodie Ondisco's RBI-single in the eighth, how-

NEWARK - Following back-to-back NCAA Division I-AA playoff appearances, the Delaware Blue Hens this season might be hard pressed for an encore.

But with some talented understudies suddenly thrust into the limelight, the Hens might just produce a long-awaited feature presentation in 1993.

The four-time and reigning Yankee Conference champions opened two weeks of preseason camp scrimmages and drills Sunday and welcomed back 42 lettermen, including 15 starters from last year's 11-3 team that advanced to the 1-AA semifinals against Marshall, Delaware's farthest post-season foray since 1982.

Delaware, which last won a tournament championship against Division II Youngstown in 1979, lost nine starters and 16 lettermen to graduation, including quarterback Bill Vergantino, a four-year starter who holds 24 Delaware offensive records.

Last season he eclipsed Christiana High's Rick Scully's tab of 41 career touchdown passes when he threw for 18 TD's and 2,030 yards in 14 games, bringing his career mark to 47. He also holds the record for career rushing TDs (36).

But senior Dale Fry, a standout athlete at Middletown, is ready to lead the Hens after playing second fiddle in 1992. Fry, a 6-foot-3, 202-pounder, saw action in all 14 games last season, is experienced in running the offense, and replaced an ailing Vergantino after halftime in Delaware's 28-7 semifinal loss to the Thundering Herd.

"This is what I've been waiting for," said Fry, who completed 10 of 26 passes last season for 110 yards and was six of 18 for 56 yards against Marshall. "We're going to run basically the same offense we did last year. We won't change anything more than we usually would, except for a little more passing."

Fry's career totals with Delaware are 22 of 51 passes for 334 yards and two TD's and three interceptions. He's rushed 47 times for 70 yards and a pair of touchdowns for a 1.5 yards-per-carry average.

"He's a physical type of guy who knows the offense," said Coach Tubby Raymond, entering his 28th season and commanding a 223-88-2 record. "He's been in games before for us; he's not going to panic. This is something we really need right now."

The tandem of Brown (1225 yards) and Johnson (756) tallied 22 collective touchdowns for the Hens in 1992. Johnson was second on the team with 26 receptions for 55 yards and five TDs behind returning

Canal Senior All-Stars score big win over Minersville

ORANGE, Conn. — A big key to winning any double-elimination tournament is staying in the winners bracket.

Despite coming out of the loser's bracket twice previously, the Canal Senior All-Star team knew that the 11-2 winner's bracket final victory over Minersville, Pa. was a big win. Minersville entered the game on the heels of a 20-3 whipping of Dunkirk, N.Y. in its opening round game. The team blasted six home runs over the 180-foot fence and clearly established itself in the minds of many observers as the tournament favorite. Canal entered the contest following a lackluster 7-0 victory over the host team from West Haven, Conn. It was a win but it didn't open many eyes. The Minersville game, however, definitely woke some people up. Canal took a 1-0 lead in the second inning as Jen Olsen's single to right field scored Adrienne Maloney.

It was a hit that seemed to wake up the Canal bats. "I think it was definitely what we needed," said Olsen, a 15-year-old who also plays at William Penn High. "After I got a hit, it seemed like everyone started hitting the ball."

Canal, using Olsen's hit as a springboard, scored four more times in the third inning to stretch its lead to 5-1. Kati Salony started the rally by getting hit by a pitch. Jodi Mandichak followed by reaching on a Minersville error. Kristin Nau singled to load the bases. Maloney then doubled to right-center to score two runs. Jen Rossetti's perfect bunt scored Nau and Maloney scored on a wild pitch. Meanwhile, winning pitcher Kati Salony held the heavy-hitting Minersville bats to just two runs on five hits. "Kati did a great job for us," said Canal Manager and father Mike Salony. "That was as well as she's pitched all tournament. That team can crush the ball."

Canal scored twice more in the fourth with Maloney and Lisa Delcollo collecting RBI-singles to improve the cushion to 7-1. Canal added four more runs in the sixth inning to seal the victory. Brenda Marley's run scoring single was one of the big blows of the inning. "The team really came out pumped up," said the manager. "I think the girls picked up on the fact that [Minersville] didn't respect us as a team. That really got them going."

That also set up the deciding last day when it was a good thing for Canal that Minersville had to beat it twice and couldn't use its number one pitcher to do it. But that's how you win most double-elimination tournaments.

Loss ends Canal Major bid for series

By MARTY VALANIA

EAST VINELAND, N.J. — The Canal Major All-Star team's bid for a World Series trip ended last Wednesday with a 2-1 (seven innings) loss to Coginchaug, Conn. in the Eastern Regional loser's bracket final.

Coginchaug, the New England Regional champions, scored a run on a bases-loaded walk in the seventh inning to capture the championship. It was the second time that Coginchaug had defeated Canal in the tournament, the first being a 4-1 loss in the first game.

That first loss dropped Canal into the loser's bracket where it had to play Shippensburg, Pa. Shippensburg lost its opener to Islip, N.Y. 9-5 in 11 innings. Islip went on to defeat Coginchaug 5-3 in the championship game to advance to the World Series.

Canal did defeat Shippensburg 5-4 in an exciting loser's bracket game.

The Delaware and Mid-Atlantic champions took a 2-0 lead in the top of the third inning as Stacey Watson walked and scored on Lisa Laskowski's ground ball and winning pitcher Julie Van Deusen walked and scored on a wild pitch.

The Pennsylvania champions, however, came right back in the bottom of the third with four runs off their own. Pitcher Julie Varner's three-run double to deep center field was the major offensive cog in the inning.

Trailing 4-2, Canal answered the Shippensburg rally with a run in the fourth inning as Jessi Marley's bases-loaded walk scored Jamie Gallagher.

Canal then took the lead for good in the fifth inning as Cori Abshagen singled and moved around the bases on wild pitches and Gallagher walked and moved around the same way.

Shippensburg tried to rally in the bottom of the fifth but with two out and runners on second and third, Laskowski — who plays second base — snared a sharply hit ground ball headed for the outfield and threw out the runner to preserve the lead.

Van Deusen, the winning pitcher, retired Shippensburg in order in the sixth to seal the victory. "That was a good win for us," said Canal Manager Herb Van Deusen.

The team finished its fine summer with a 9-2 record and the District II, Delaware and Mid-Atlantic Regional championships to their credit.

on a home run — on to Easterns. Last week in the Eastern Regional the team finally was in a winner's bracket needing to be beaten twice.

It promptly fell in the first game setting up a wild final game, which, of course, it won.

On to the World Series, where — not matter what happens — the team will be a monster success just for getting there.

Dan Cooper, who started 11 games and caught 50 passes for 797 yards and seven touchdowns after taking over the starting job from suspended Keita Malloy.

Defensively Salesianum's Chris Johnson is listed No. 1 at right outside linebacker and Paul Williams, Pat's twin brother, has the preseason nod at right cornerback. Tyrann Rice, a redshirted freshman last year from Glasgow is listed third at left cornerback.

Monday the Hens began two-day practices with the first scrimmage slated for Aug. 24 at the Delaware Athletic Complex. Delaware opens its season at home against Lehigh Sept. 4.

P & L SERVICES, INC.

Everyone knows a fresh coat of paint does wonders to brighten up a home's exterior. But on most homes today, only small areas of trim ever need repainting. So how do you brighten up vinyl or aluminum siding, brickface, natural-finished lumber, shingles, even sidewalks? Phil Weible, of P & L Services, Inc., has the answer. High-pressure water power washing will produce amazing results on these and many other surfaces. Auto dealers have long known that this is the way to keep cars looking new, and marina operators know it to be the best way to scour a boat, but somehow many homeowners are not aware of the dramatic improvement power washing can make on their homes. You may be familiar with self-service car washes, which typically use water pressurized to about 500 lbs./sq. in. (PSI). Phil generally uses about 2000 PSI to clean exterior surfaces. His gasoline-powered portable pressurizer can provide from 250 to 3000 PSI to suit any job. High-pressure water readily removes stain and sealer from treated lumber decks to prepare them for refinishing. It's the water that does the cleaning; the soaps Phil uses are to kill bacteria, mold, and the like. A special soap can be used to degrease surfaces. All the products Phil uses are E.P.A.-approved and non-polluting. He won't injure your plants or pollute your yard. Others may not be so fastidious, he warns. After 15 years in the business, he's learned that only by doing the job correctly, honestly, and with attention to detail can you satisfy customers and establish a reputation. Call P & L Services and Phil will demonstrate the effects of power washing on your surface while giving you an estimate on the job, without charge or obligation.

Chiefs Hockey player meeting Sept. 1

The Delaware Chiefs Ice Hockey Club will be holding its annual prospective player meeting for the 1993/1994 season on Wednesday, Sept. 1, 1993, at 8 p.m. at the University of Delaware Blue Arena V.I.P. Lounge. Attendance is mandatory for all prospective players due to the amount of information to be discussed.

Tryouts for the Senior (ages 18 and older), Junior (ages 14-19), Midget/Prep (ages 14-17) and Mite (ages 8 and under) divisions will be held on Tuesday, Sept. 7 from 7:45 to 8:45 p.m. and Thursday, Sept. 9 from 9 to 10 p.m. at the Blue Arena. Tryout fee is $30 and made payable to the Delaware Chiefs Hockey Club at the Sept. 1 meeting.

This season looks to be the most promising in club history because of new talent, recruiting and road trips to Montreal, Canada; Lake Placid, N.Y. and Connecticut. For information on the Chiefs and their upcoming season, call Charlie Pens at 731-2924.

Soccer team wins British festival

The Kirkwood Under-14 Wildcats won the London International Football (Soccer) Festival held in Wembley, England, July 30 to Aug. 1. The Wildcats faced teams from Russia, Italy, and England on their way to the championship, scoring 15 goals and allowing 7.

This British Isles trip was in keeping with the Kirkwood tradition of a major tour for the under-14 age group. Before playing at Wembley, the team spent 5 days in Ireland, and were hosted by the Greenhills AFC Soccer Club in Dublin. The Kirkwood team won both "friendly" games against their Irish hosts, playing on lush green fields at the foot of the Wicklow Mountains. More than 150 spectators came to view the second game after word got out that "the Yanks are good." The Irish joked that only Irish hospitality allowed their guest to win.

The core of the team has played together since they were 8-years-old. They have been Delaware State Champions for three consecutive years, 1991, 1992, 1993.

In London, Andrew Boyle was the Wildcats top scorer with 5 goals. Ben Thompson and Frankie Potter each had three, with Thompson scoring on the Russians with a penalty kick. Other goals were scored by Jamie Sipe, Mat Dunbar, Ivan Vidanovic and Chris Ricevuto. Ricevuto's goal won the semi-final game.

London Cup Opponents: Parkfield Youth (London) 2-1; Mirafiori (Turin, Italy) 1-1; Westward Boys (England) 2-0; Viking Sports Youth (London) 3-3; F.C. Istochinik (Russia) 1-0; Belmont Boys United (London) 1-0; Croydon Schools (Croydon, England) 5-2.

Canal girls win big, head to Kalamazoo

► CHAMPS, from 1B

ever, won the game for Minersville to force the "if" game.

"We knew in the first game that Canal beat Canal," said shortstop Jodi Mandichak of her team, which committed a whopping seven errors. "We thought that if we played our game we could win. We knew we already beat them."

Following a scoreless first inning, Canal's offense stormed through the second inning. Aided by walks by Chapsman's starting pitcher Kim Minersville and five sharp singles Canal posted nine runs.

Lisa Delcollo, who would later turn into a defensive hero, started the inning by beating out a bunt single. Jen Rossetti, Jen Olsen and Brenda Marley all drew consecutive walks to score Delcollo for the game's first run.

Ellie Miller continued the rally by also walking to drive home Rossetti. Winning pitcher Kati Salony then singled to left to score Olsen. Jodi Mandichak then walked to plate Marley. Adrienne Maloney also walked in the inning followed by consecutive RBI-singles by Delcollo, Rossetti and Olsen.

Again it appeared as if Canal would at least stroll through the second game.

Wrong again.

Minersville (10-3 overall record) had come out of the loser's bracket in its state tournament and defeated Guilford twice to qualify for the Eastern Regional. Guilford was the team that knocked Canal out of the Eastern Regional and advanced to the World Series three years ago when players from both teams were 11-12 years old.

That experience certainly helped Minersville in the Eastern Regional.

The Miners had pounded 15 home runs over short 180-foot fences during its run through the Easterns, in which they blasted Dunkirk, N.Y. 20-3 and East Lyme, Conn. 18-5 in its two other non-Canal games.

The rally started in the third inning as a Canal error and a bloop single opened the door for three Minersville runs.

Canal came back with a run of its own in the bottom of the third as Rossetti drew a bases-loaded walk to score Mandichak. The run pushed the lead to 10-3.

Then came the fourth inning.

The first two Minersville batters reached on two more Canal errors. A fielder's choice and a single plated one run and had the large Minersville crowd in a frenzy.

With bases loaded Ondisco knocked a ball deep to left that Olsen caught in front of the fence allowing the runner on third to tag up and score cutting the lead to 10-5.

The next batter, Katie Rowland, then blasted a pitch over the center-field fence to cut the lead to 10-7.

The Minersville fans were roaring.

Catcher Shannon Slabinsky followed with another dinger to center and the fans, which outnumbered Canal supporters by at least 10 to 1, circling the field moved in for the apparent kill.

"They were talking a lot of trash out there," said Delcollo, the Canal centerfielder, who saved the game in the fifth. "All game they kept talking."

With the lead down to 10-8, Canal sputtering and all of Minersville going crazy — a second straight trip to the World Series didn't look like a particularly good bet.

Then came the catch.

With two Minersville runners on and two out in the fifth inning, Ondisco blasted another ball to deep center field. It was surely headed for the parking lot and it would've put Minersville ahead by a run.

Delcollo, with her back to the fence, leaped and snared the ball out of the waiting fans' arms for the third out.

"I was all the way back as far as I could go," said Delcollo, one of four players on the team making her first trip to the World Series. "I couldn't believe all the ones that were going out. I just had to make that catch."

That's when the comeback bubble burst.

"That was awesome," said pitcher Kati Salony of Delcollo's catch. "That saved the game."

A rejuvenated Canal team added a run in the bottom of the fifth as Delcollo walked, stole second and moved to third when the catcher's throw sailed into center field. She then scored on Olsen's infield ground ball when a hard slide home jarred the ball loose from the catcher.

Defensively, Salony was able to hold off the Minersville attack in the last two innings and the small contingent of Canal faithful celebrated heartily.

"I knew what I had to do," said Salony of her thoughts after the Minersville barrage. "We always seem to have one bad inning and [the fourth] was it today. We still felt we could win; we had the lead."

"I can't believe it," said a tearful Rossetti another one of the players making her first-ever World Series trip. "It's so incredible; I never thought I'd be in this situation. It's great!"

All the members of Canal's World Series team include Amanda Armstrong, Kelly Baker, Megan Biddle, Katie Lott, Dawn Magaw, Ellie Miller, Kati Salony, Jodi Mandichak, Kristin Nau, Adrienne Maloney, Lisa Delcollo, Jen Rossetti, Jen Olsen and Brenda Marley. The team is managed by Mike Salony and he's assisted by Chuck Watkins, Jeff Nau and Steve Miller.

WRITING An Ad

- Start your ad with what you are selling.
- Be descriptive. List your item's best features.
- Avoid abbreviations. Too many abbreviations can confuse the reader.
- Always state the price of an item. If you are flexible on price, include "negotiable" or "best offer".
- Complete your ad with a phone number and the hours in which you will receive calls.
- Including the word "please" in your ad increases responses.

Ad changes and policies

Please check your ad the first day to see that all information is correct. This will ensure your ad is exactly what you want readers to see. Call us the very first day your ad appears to make any changes or corrections. By doing this we can credit you for the first day if an error occurred. The newspaper's financial responsibility, if any, for errors of any kind is limited to the charge for the space for one day.

The publisher wants to do everything possible within the confines of good taste and legal constraints to help you advertise your products or services to your best advantage. The newspaper does reserve the right to edit or reject any copy or illustration that does not meet the newspaper's standards of acceptance. We make every effort to ensure that our advertisers are reputable. However, we welcome your comments and suggestions concerning any of our advertisers. Call Classified and ask for the manager.

PLACING An Ad

DAVID GRUBE and GINA GRUBE d/b/a WALL-TO-WALL BEDROOMS 18 ELIZABETH COURT MILL RACE NEWARK, DE 19711

1. Plaintiff in the above-captioned matter intends to obtain Court judgment against you in the Superior Court of the State of Delaware in and for New Castle County (based on the enclosed document) for the following amounts:

Principal Amount: $24,242.49
Accrued Interest: (As of May 31, 1993) $6,648.22
Attorney's Fees: $2,892.39

TOTAL - $33,816.27*

*Plus post-judgment interest and costs.

2. Plaintiff alleges that you have waived your rights to notice and hearing prior to the entry of this judgment against you.

3. The entry of this Court judgment will result in a lien against all your real estate and means, in default of payment, whereby the Sheriff can levy against your personal property and real estate and ultimately sell, at public auction, your personal property and real estate for credit against the debt.

4. In default of payment in appropriate cases, the Sheriff may seize some portion of your wages for credit against the debt.

5. You may appear in the Superior Court, Public Building, 1000 King Street, Wilmington, Delaware, at 10:00 a.m. on September 10, 1993, at which time you may object to the entry of the judgment, and a hearing will then be scheduled by the Court. At the hearing, Plaintiff will be required to prove that you have effectively waived your rights to notice and a hearing prior to the entry of this judgment.

6. You are not required to appear, but if you fail to do so, judgment will be entered by default.

7. If you have any questions about these matters, you should consult a lawyer immediately.
