A MERRY CHRISTMAS

GOLD AND PLATINUM FOUND ON IRON HILL

Company Works Quietly on Analysis of Ore—Additional Machinery to be Installed—Promise of a Good Business Proposition

Platinum and gold, two of the most valuable of the precious metals have been found in the old iron pits, on Chestnut Hill, in profitable quantities. This statement was made yesterday afternoon by W. M. Scott, who has had a wide experience in mining and is one of the men who have been conducting tests of the ore since the mine, abandoned for many years, was purchased from the McConaughy heirs more than a year ago.

For several days there have been rumors of sensational developments at the old mine. When seen yesterday, Mr. Scott told of the tests showing that the two precious metals were in the ore and added that he had purposely withheld making any announcement of the fact until he was positive that they were there in paying quantities. This has now been proven, he said, beyond a doubt. He is an assayer and his tests of the ore have been checked up by other assayers to be doubly positive, before recommending a larger outlay of money for machinery, which will now be done, the platinum and gold have, of course, always been in the hill but there was never any suspicion of its presence until those now interested started their tests. It had been worked on several occasions but only for the iron ore which is there in large quantities.

Mr. Scott does not contend that he has found a bonanza or a hidden mine that is going to bring a fortune to its owners over-night. He does intimate, however, that the ore containing the quantity of platinum that it does and the fact that he can utilize all the by-products, in addition to the iron, makes it a most alluring and profitable project. Associated with him in the work at the old pits are John Stahels and O. J. Freeman, all of Philadelphia. The property is owned, however, by a Philadelphia capitalist, who purchased it on their recommendation.

Mr. Scott stated that previous to recommending to the present owner to buy the property, which consists of about 100 acres, he had visited the old pit on numerous occasions and made tests of ore that he picked up. All of these samples, according to the assayer, contained gold in small quantities, but it was there and in some instances, he states that a streak of gold was plain enough in the ore to be seen with the naked eye. He now freely admits that it was because of this gold that was discovered that he became interested and that even after machinery was installed and about 60 tons of ore crushed for a more practical test, had it not shown the precious metal in paying quantities the project would have been abandoned, as he does not consider that it would pay sufficiently well to operate the mine for the iron ore alone. This accounts for the hurry in installing some machinery early last summer and operating it before erecting any buildings.

The practical tests after the installation of the machinery, however, even held a surprise for Mr. Scott and his associates. Up until that time, while all the ore assayed a small quantity of gold, they had no idea that it also contained the more precious metal platinum, and were consequently agreeably surprised and more pleased than ever with the project. While, according to Mr. Scott, the gold is in all the ore and even in the surface soil, some does not contain any sign of platinum, but other tests show it in more plentiful quantities than the gold, and in the more practical tests of crushing tons of the ore it appears in about the same quantity as the gold.

When asked if it was rather unusual to find gold in an iron mine, Mr. Scott replied that the peculiar honeycombed formation of black iron ore as is found there is always an indication of gold and that it was this formation that first attracted his attention and caused him to continue his tests.

The crusher that was installed last summer weighs 20 tons and has a capacity for crushing 300 tons daily. The other equipment, however, will not take care of more than 5 tons daily, so that it will be increased as it is desired to have a capacity of 300 tons when in operation, and another crusher may be added later. The ore and soil when it comes from the crusher is as fine as flour. It passes into a conveyor, capable of handling five tons per day, where the pure iron is collected and the residue passes out on tables arranged below. This residue, which in previous attempts at operating the mine was waste, only the iron being disposed of, can be used in by-products, so that there will be no waste. It will probably be used for making a cheap grade of paint after being put through a slight chemical treatment and also for manufacturing bricks. This will give five sources of revenue, namely—gold, platinum, iron paint and bricks, without any waste.

It is in the iron which is entirely separated from the other material that the gold and platinum are found. Mr. Scott said he was not prepared at this time to tell just how he will get the gold and platinum from the iron, but says he has a process that will do it with little trouble and expense. He estimates that it will cost about 60 cents a ton to mine and crush the ore. Near the pits there are two large piles of "dump," discarded by persons who operated the mine in years past, because it did not contain enough iron ore to bother with. There are thousands of tons of this discarded ore, and it is from this that the practical tests have been made, and when the plant is in full operation it will all be crushed first to get it out of the way, but even it will be very profitable. It is claimed that when the actual mining is started, there is no doubt that the quantity of both of the precious metals, as well as the iron, will increase the deeper they go.

In answer to questions, Mr. Scott stated that he estimates the amount of gold in what tests they have made from the discarded ore will run $1 to the ton. This estimate may increase materially as they go down some distance in mining. The platinum shows in about the same quantity as gold but is more than twice as valuable, so that a ton of the ore will produce between $3 and $4 of the two precious metals in addition to the iron and by-products. Gold is worth about $20 an ounce and the value of platinum is about $45 an ounce.

In speaking of platinum, Mr. Scott stated that nearly all that is used in the world comes from the Ural mountains of Russia. It is secured in small quantities in Oregon and Washington, but not in as large quantities as the tests show it to be in the old iron pits. It is used

State Farm And Experiment Station

The College Farm shipped yesterday a very fine grade heifer to Mr. Bennett, Superintendent of the Pennsylvania railroad Demonstration Farm at Bacon, Delaware.

Mr. M. T. Philips of Pomeroy was an interested visitor at the Farm last Friday.

Mr. Carl Christopher of the Experiment Station Staff will go to Washington on Friday of this week to consult with W. J. Spillman of the office of foreign management in regard to beginning farm management investigations in Delaware. Mr. Christopher will start this work shortly after January 1st. The Agricultural Department of Delaware College and the Department in Washington will co-operate in carrying on this new line of work.

Prof. Hayward is planning a trip to Edmeston, N. Y., to purchase a carload of cows. He will also go to Markham, Va., to look at some Percheron horses for the College Farm.

Professor Hayward addressed the pupils of the State College for Colored Pupils on Thursday of last week.

Prof. T. F. Manns will attend the American Thymopathological Society Convention which will be held in Cleveland, December 31 to January 3. He will present two papers for Mr. Taubenhaus, one entitled "Disease of the Sweet Pea" and another "The Black Rot of the Sweet Potato." He will also present his own paper entitled, "Bacterial of Sweet Peas and Clover." All of these will be illustrated with lantern slides.

Home For The Holidays

Records Over Century Old

James A. McKelvey, proprietor of the Deer Park Hotel, in going through some papers at the hotel several days ago, found four deeds conveying properties in the town of Newark. Two of them were made and recorded at New Castle more than a century ago and the other two are within two years of being one hundred years old. The two oldest of the deeds are on sheep skin and are finely preserved. The writing on the documents is beautiful work and looks almost as though it had been engraved. The other two deeds are made on large sheets of linen paper and are also well preserved.

The oldest of the parchments is a Sheriff's deed. It was made by J. Maxwell Bines, High Sheriff of New Castle County, in the year 1798, conveying certain property in Newark to one Charles Allen. In this deed Newark is spelled "New Ark" and New Castle is spelled as one word. The other deed made out on a large piece of sheep skin, conveys certain property from Moses Boggs and wife to George Jacobs and is marked recorded in the "Rolls Office," New Castle, December 4th, 1805. This deed was acknowledged before James Booth, Chief Justice of the Court of Common Pleas of the State of Delaware.

The other two documents were also deeds. One conveyed property from John Morrison to Benjamin Wattson, on April 28th, 1814, and the other was from John Scott to Robert McMellen, in the year 1813.

Mr. McKelvey does not know how the deeds came to be in the hotel. This hostelry, however, is an old one and it is likely the deeds had been there for many years. Early in the last century what is now the Deer Park Hotel, was known as the St. Patrick hotel. Some old deeds show that in 1835 it was sold for $800. When Mr. McKelvey purchased the hotel nearly two years ago from Mrs. Brown, the purchase price was about $50,000.

The public schools of Newark closed on Tuesday. The holiday will continue until the day following New Years.

Christmas In The Presbyterian Church

Christmas exercises were held by the children of the Presbyterian church last Sunday morning. The program was composed of Christmas carols and recitations.

In the evening special music was rendered by the choir. W. J. McAvoy accompanied the singers in several selections, with violin obbligato.

Monday afternoon the members of the Sunday School were treated to candy and fruit.

Children Enjoy Xmas Treat

The Christmas play given by the children in St. Thomas Parish House last Friday evening was enjoyed by an appreciative audience. The little folk took their parts in a very natural way that made the effect charming indeed.

Johnson Rowan and Marion Galaher as two German children played host and hostess to visitors from all countries who were brought by the Christmas fairy to spend their Christmas eve. Each guest was in costume and told of the doings in her native land.

Following the play Santa appeared, taking from his pack gifts for all the children which he placed in the stockings hanging by the fire. The pleasant excitement that follows these ever-welcome visits closed a happy evening.

Delaware College At The Conventions

The Modern Language Association Meeting will be held at the University of Pennsylvania, Dec. 26-27-28. Dr. Sypherd, Prof. E. L. Smith and Prof. Dutton will represent Delaware College.

Prof. E. Laurence Smith has been delegated to represent Delaware College at the annual meeting of the National Collegiate Athletic Association to be held at the Hotel Astor, New York City, January 27th. Physical Trainer W. J. McAvoy will also attend.

Professor E. V. Vaughn will leave Thursday for Boston to attend the American Historical Association in session from December 27th to January 3rd.

An excellent program has been arranged. The Presidential address will be delivered by Theodore Roosevelt.

Trust Company Receives Government Recognition

Increase of capital stock and surplus from $30,000 to $83,000 of the Newark Trust and Safe Deposit Company has received Government recognition. Notice from the Post Office Department has been given that after January 1st the Trust Company will be entitled to receive on deposit 45 per cent of the postal savings taken in at the Newark Post Office. This is an increase of 21 per cent over what has heretofore been given.

New Industry At Elkton

Mendell Bros. of Baltimore, have made a proposal to locate a factory in Elkton for making women's garments of a high grade, provided the residents of the town secure a site and erect a one-story frame building, at a cost of $2,500, with rent free for three years, agreeing to equip the plant and employ 100 hands, provided that assurance is given that the needed number of women and girls can be secured. After three years the firm agree to rent the premises and pay fair interest on the capital invested in the site and building.

Committees of the Improvement Association are at work to obtain subscriptions to the fund needed and secure the required hands for the plant.

WHAT CHRISTMAS IS

Oh, it isn't the gift, and it isn't the feast;
Of all the miracles, these are the least.
It's the good that flows from the hearts of men
When Christmas love is abroad again.

Oh, vain is the boast of the hardened one
Who scouts what the centuries have done.
Be he ever so mean, be he ever so cold,
Though his heart be flint and his claim be bold,
His veins will tingle, his pulses thrill,
To the sound of "Peace on Earth, Good Will!"
Why, even the man who grips his purse
With a stingy mouth and a cruel curse
Must yield to the flood and be borne away
To join in the glory of Christmas Day.

Oh, it isn't the holly, it isn't the snow,
It isn't the tree or the firelight glow;
It's the flame that goes from the hearts of men
When Christmas love is abroad again.

THE VALUE OF A PUBLIC LIBRARY

Mary Antin, a Jewish woman who was born "within the Pale" in Russian Poland, and came to America with her parents when about eleven years old, has written the story of her life for the Atlantic Monthly. The following clipping presents strong arguments for a public library and is an inspiring appreciation of our great land of opportunity.

It was my habit to go very slowly up the low, broad steps to the palace entrance, peering with my eyes at the majestic lines of the building, and lingering to read again the carved inscriptions: Public Library—Built by the People—Free to All.

I loved to lean against a pillar in the entrance hall, watching the people go in and out. Groups of children hushed their chatter at the entrance, and skipped, whispering and giggling in their fists, up the grand stairway, patting the great stone lions at the top, with an eye on the aged policeman down below. Spectacled scholars came slowly down the stairs, loaded with books, heedless of the lofty arches that echoed their steps. Visitors from out of town lingered long in the entrance hall, studying the inscriptions and symbols on the marble floor. And I loved to stand in the midst of all this, and remind myself that I was there, that I had a right to be there, that I was at home there. All these eager children, all these high-browed women, all these scholars going home to write learned books—I and they had this glorious thing in common, this noble treasure-house of learning. It was wonderful to say, This is mine; it was thrilling to say, This is ours.

Here is where I liked to remind myself of Polotsk, the better to bring out the wonder of my life. That I, who was born in the prison of the Pale, should roam at will in the land of freedom, was a marvel that it did me good to realize. That I, who was brought up to my teens almost without a book, should be set down in the midst of all the books that ever were written, was a miracle as great as any on record. That an outcast should become a privileged citizen, that a beggar should dwell in a palace—this was a romance more thrilling than poet ever sang. Surely I was rocked in an enchanted cradle.

From the Public Library to the State House is only a step, and I found my way there without a guide. The State House was one of the places I could point to and say that I had a friend there to welcome me. I do not mean the representative of my district, though I hope he was a worthy man. My friend was no less a person than the Honorable Senator Row, from Worcester, whose letters to me, written under the ambushed letterhead of the Senate Chamber, I could not help attributing to my admiring schoolmates.

How did I come by a Senator? Through being a citizen of Boston, of course. To be a citizen of the smallest village in the United States which maintains a free school and a public library, is to stand in the path of splendid professions of opportunity. And as Boston has rather better schools and a rather finer library than some other villages, it comes natural there for children in the slums to summon gentlemen from the State House to be their personal friends.

It is so simple in Boston! You are a school girl, and your teacher gives you a ticket for the annual historical lecture in the old South Church, on Washington's Birthday. You hear a stirring discourse on some subject in your country's history, and you go home with a heart bursting with patriotism. You sit down and write a letter to the speaker who so moved you, telling him how glad you are to be an American explaining to him, if you happen to be a recently-made American, why you love your adopted country so much better than your native land. Perhaps the patriotic lecturer happens to be a Senator, and he reads your letter under the vast dome of the State House; and it occurs to him that he and his eminent colleagues, and the stately capital, and the glorious flag that floats above it, all gathered on the hill above the Common, do his country no greater honor than the outspoken admiration of an ardent young alien.

The Senator replies to your letter, inviting you to visit him at the State House; and in the renowned chamber, where the august business of the State is conducted, you, an obscure child from the slums, and he, a chosen leader of the people, seal a democratic friendship based on the love of a common flag.

Even simpler than to meet a Senator was it to become acquainted with a man like Edward Everett Hale, "The Grand Old Man of Boston," the people called him, from the manner of his life among them. He kept open house in every public building in the city. Wherever two citizens met to devise a measure for the public weal, he was a third. Wherever a worthy cause needed a champion, Dr. Hale lifted his mighty voice. At some time or another his colossal figure towered above an eager multitude from every pulpit in the city, from every lecture platform. And where is the map of Boston that gives the names of the lost alleys and backways where the great man went in search of the lame in body, who could not join the public assembly, in quest of the maimed in spirit, who feared to show their faces in the open? If all the little children who have sat on Dr. Hale's knee were started in a procession on the State House steps, marching four abreast, there would be a lane of merry faces across the Common, out to the Public Library, over Harvard Bridge, and away beyond to remoter landmarks.

That I met Dr. Hale is no wonder. It was as inevitable as that I should be a year older every twelvemonth. He was a part of Boston, as the salt wave is a part of the sea. I can hardly say whether he came to me or I came to him. We met, and my adopted country took me closer to her breast.

A day or two after our first meeting I called upon Dr. Hale, at his invitation. It was only eight o'clock in the morning. You may be sure, because he had just risen early to attend to a hundred great affairs, and I had risen early so as to talk with a great man before I went to school. I think we liked each other a little more for the fact that when so many people were still asleep, we were already busy in the interests of citizenship and friendship. We certainly liked each other.

I am sure I did not stay more than fifteen minutes, and all that I recall of our conversation is that Dr. Hale asked me a great many questions about Russia, in a manner, that made me feel that I was an authority on the subject, and with his great hand in good-bye, he gave me a bit of homely advice, namely, that I should never study before breakfast!

That was all, but for the rest of the day I moved against a background of grandeur. There was a noble ring to Virgil that day that even my teacher's firm translation had never brought out before. Obscure points in the history lesson were clear to me alone, of the thirty girls in the class. And it happened that the tulips in Copley Square opened that day, and shone in the sun like lighted lamps.

In The Light Of The Christmas Star

The days when the wandering minstrel sang his song and told his story by the yuletide board in the manor hall, and master and men, mistress and maids wept and laughed together, is gone forever. The sage, the story-teller, the singer of songs no longer stops on his gypsy way to make us merry and strengthen the bond of brotherhood with tears. But into our homes there comes a guest, as gay, as sad, as full of human sympathy and human fire as ever sat by a blazing hearth and strummed his battered harp. The story-teller touches the source of human emotion in the swarming life about him, and sends into a million homes his message of brightness and of love.

Christmas is a lot of trouble. It is very, oh very expensive! It is extraordinary. It is strong. But it is worth it. It is the money, all the efforts, all the pains! For it is the great day in all the year.

The Poverty of July, Washington's Day, Lincoln's Day, Memorial Day—all should be paid attention and taken very much to heart, and New Year's stands for a fresh start, but Christmas stands for over-throwing the love of money and the love of men, for work and rest and a fresh start, for the life that is now the life that is to be, for hope, for joy, for realization.

Since Christmas came the true measure of a man has been that which is, or may be, within him, and thereby has come an immense appreciation of the value of men. They are human no longer; they are "masses" no longer, they are individuals, each with a great possibility of value. To ignore or neglect them, or fail in doing what we can to benefit them, may be to miss a treasure by oversight, and blur our own vision by failure to discover.

"Perhaps that is why we make as much as we can of everybody at Christmas time, and neglecting our ordinary pursuits, give gifts where we can, spread feasts where we can, give such evidence as we may that everybody whom we can reach is important to us, and that there is love in our own hearts."

Edward S. Martin.

What Everybody Knows

Way down deep within their hearts
Everybody's lonesome.
For within their secret parts
Everybody's lonesome.
Makes no difference how they smile,
How they live or what their style;
Once in every little while
Everybody's lonesome.

People first in big affairs—
Even they are lonely.
Maybe like to put on airs;
Just the same, they're lonesome.
Men for whom existence blends
Every good, who gain all ends,
Still reach out their hands for friends.
Everybody's lonesome.

Women, silk clad, jeweled fine,
Yes, they, too, are lonesome.
When their gems the brightest shine,
They are just as lonesome.
Some must serve and some command;
All must seek with groping hand,
Love and friends who understand.
Everybody's lonesome.

Though your gift of friendship's small,
Everybody's lonesome.
It may answer someone's call,
Someone who is lonesome.
Give and give with might and main,
Give your hands, and join the chain,
And your gift will be your gain.
Sometime when you're lonesome.

PEOPLES' COLUMN

Editor Newark Post.

Dear Sir:

I notice by your issue of the 4th that Councilman Lutton offered a resolution to reduce the water tax from 10 to 8 dollars but at the same time to also reduce the quantity from 7500 to 6000 gallons. Now the reduction of price is alright, but the quantity not, for the reason that my experience as a landlord is that tenants require 7500 gallons—some even more. I would rather pay 10 dollars per annum than bicker and quarrel with tenants over excess water. As landlords we pay the fixed tax but excess, tenants pay, and since the 7500 gallon rate of 10 dollars has been in force we have had peace with our tenants. Now if the Council is so anxious to do good let them take a walk over to Delaware Ave. and Academy street and see the condition of the crossing facing the school. Some day there will be an accident and the Town of Newark will be compelled to foot the bill. I cannot get anything out of the Council excepting the time worn song "We Have No Money." Well, let them find money and repair this crossing.

ing. We pay taxes good and plenty but get very little in return. Of course if there is 40 cents in the Treasury why they buy another load of stone and fill up a hole instead of making a lasting repair. Use your good efforts and continue to kick for good streets and crossings and I as an owner will be only too pleased to pay for permanent repairs in increased taxes but for temporary repairs I protest emphatically.

COMPLIMENTS FOR H. R. TYSON

Review of the Record of Harry J. S.

The Christmas number of "The Horse Review," the leading sporting journal of the country, published at Chicago, pays a glowing tribute to the ability as a driver and trainer of the local horseman, H. R. Tyson.

An accompanying cut shows horse and driver ready for a tryout on the track. Interesting extracts from the article follow:

"Herman R. Tyson, Newark, Delaware, has, during the past few seasons, raced some of the best trotters we have ever seen over the half-mile tracks of Pennsylvania, Delaware and the southeast, including those two cracks, Charley Mitchell, 2:04:15, and Esther W., 2:06:15, but the past season he appeared with one that was fair to prove the equal of either of the above mentioned pair. His name is Harry J. S., and in the hands of the Delaware reinsman he did not lose a single race during the campaign just closed. Tyson started him in eight races, which the youngster won in twenty four heats, beating the best of the fast division of trotters racing over the south-eastern courses.

"As a three-year-old Harry J. S. started in five races and won them all, taking a mark of 2:18:15 at Belmont track in Philadelphia while, when a two-year-old, such a competent expert as Dr. J. C. Stokely pronounced him one of the best prospects that was ever developed over the Kinkwood, Del., track, where such stars as Boralina, 2:07, Country Jay, 2:05:13, Ethel's Pride, 2:06:45, R. T. C., 2:06:15, etc. have been trained.

"Harry J. S. is one of the best bred young trotting stallions in the country. His sire was the late Admiral Dewey 2:04:45, the son of Bingen, 2:06:15, and the ex-trotting queen Nancy Hanks, 2:04, that was one of the best sires we have ever had, and whose get are still in the front rank. The blood of Bingen is furnishing us our best trotters with great uniformity, for each season we have horses to carry the Bingen banner to victory in the greatest turf combats of the year.

"The dam of Harry J. S. was the good trotting race mare Dorcas Moore, 2:20:30, who is an own sister of Amy Milton, the dam of Edna the Great, that, as a yearling, lowered the world's record for trotters of that age to 2:29:15, over a half-mile track the past season.

"Harry J. S. was bred and is owned by H. J. Stoeckel, Wilmington, Del., who also maintained his dam, Dorcas Moore. Mr. Stoeckel is planning to race Harry J. S. down the Grand circuit the coming year, and with the success of Charley Mitchell 2:04:15, Esther W., 2:06:15, and R. T. C. 2:06:45, all of which were developed over the half-mile tracks in the section where Harry J. S. has raced so consistently, in mind, it is more than probable that he will be accorded a prominent place in the ante-post calculations on the winners of the rich stakes for 1915."

A resume of the colt's campaign shows that he won every race in which Mr. Tyson drove him, in his two defeats having another man up, and he an amateur.

Find has been at such a rate as to almost cover our outstanding bonds at the time of their maturity without any refunding issues.

The most direct indication of our healthy financial condition is the fact that Delaware has assets in excess of all liabilities of more than $1,000,000. These figures are all the more remarkable when it is remembered that all this has been accomplished without a State Tax on property of any description.

STATE'S FINANCES IN EXCELLENT CONDITION

The Problems That Face The New Legislature

When the Legislature convenes at its regular session next month, actually on January 7th, 1913, the members will find the finances of this State in an excellent condition and that the record made by our State along this line during the past year is one that a State much larger and of many more resources might well be proud.

There will be no necessity of borrowing to meet current expenses.

A brief resume of the finances for the past four years show facts that are very surprising and gratifying to our citizens. There was, at the beginning of this period, in the General Fund of the State about $136,000. During this time, we have built and furnished a New State House at the cost of over $100,000, erected a State Armory at Dover at a cost of $150,000 and also have purchased good, interest bearing bonds, to be held against our outstanding indebtedness, to the amount of over $50,000. All this has been done out of the balance on hand, as mentioned above, and the receipts during that time, in addition to paying all current expenses during the four years.

NINETY-THOUSAND ON HAND. As the approximate balance that will be on hand at the end of the present year will be $90,000, it will be seen that little Delaware has, during this time, made a net gain of about $120,000. In considering this, it should also be borne in mind that the appropriations for purposes beneficial to the people of this State have been regularly increased as needed.

The fact that more than $200,000 exclusive of the School Fund is spent by our State Government on Education alone, to say nothing of the amounts spent on other institutions and purposes of public interest, such as Preservation of Health, Agriculture, Hospitals, etc., should be a matter of pride to all true Delawareans.

In addition to these figures regarding the General Fund of the State, there has been established a Sinking Fund for the purpose of liquidating our public debt, and the growth and investment of this

Want Ads for Farmers

Only a comparatively few readers of newspapers realize the benefit of the Want Ad Department. It is a cheap form of advertising odds and ends. For the farmer it is always a paying proposition. Suppose you have a cow, few pigs that you would be willing to sell. Put it in the Want Column and rest assured you will get the customers. Then again, a farmer often sees where he could handle a heifer or calf during the winter. With a little extra forage, he has on hand, he can by feeding it make a dollar or so without any extra work. But he has not the time to hunt them up. Run in an Ad something like this:—

WANTED—Calves. Would buy 3 or 4 calves, if price is right.—

You will get an answer. There isn't a farmer in this community but what could have an Ad in our Want Department at a profit to him.

MERRY CHRISTMAS

If Bethlehem be the place of the birth of the child called Jesus and Truth be the only living thing, then indeed can the spirit of Christmas be traced to this source of its truest expression. History has pushed Bethlehem into the background 2,000 years and though to-day it has almost lost its identity as a place, it pervades the life and thought of the world. Whether we realize the Divine or recognize the Ideal, from here comes all that makes man and life worth the living. Whatever our creed or belief, we are in one accord in acknowledging that Love in its highest form was given birth in the Manger in yon far Eastern Town.

This season of good cheer, when all of us are at our very best, is the result of the teaching of this child of humble birth. And as then, the three wise men representing the highest of their respective nations, so to-day, the Hindu, the Egyptian and the Greek, with their resultant following bow with uncovered head to this representative of the Ideal. And too, in our life of detailed complexities, we, at this season, catch a little of the sentiment and proclaim, by word and deed, with true feeling, "Peace on Earth, Good Will toward Men." Generous toward opinions and life, we approach nearer our better selves and possibilities.

Than at any other time of the year, our world and life, is better, truer—on Christmas Day.

CHRISTMAS! What a world of meaning we weave in that name. Ideas and conceptions differ with men and nations but all join heartily in this season, kindly riotous of good cheer. It is the universal holiday of all the year—all days are holy. Christmas is the holiday of holy days. It is the one day unconquered by national significance. Be it amid the cold wintry storms of the north or under the subtle influence of a southern clime, it is the one day when all of whatsoever creed, station in life, or whatsoever nationality, join in glad accord and nurture our faith in the some-day realization of the Brotherhood of Man.

In the banquet hall or in the slums; in the rustling jingle of the city or before the country fire; in the forest wilds or on the midnight watch,—there,—wherever man is, is feeling of good cheer. It is the spirit of home, of love, of fellowship. Even those away from the old hearthstone, where Christmas best abides, feel the glow and remember the little ones at home.

Ah, the little ones—there's the key. It's the children that make Christmas. For without children, soon Love would die—and Christmas is Love's banquet season and holiday.

Their smile and thoughts for their happiness are the lure that makes the gaiety of the holiday crowds. Its celebration for both rich and poor, perhaps, if such could be, an advantage to the poor. For money dawns the cheer of Christmas. Expensive gifts take the place of "Merry Christmas to You."

The Hero of these Christmas times is the Wonderful Santa Claus. There are a few pedants and crude realists who dare challenge his existence. But myths are often nearer truth than facts, and it is an iconoclast, indeed who robs Christmas of this old man, who so brings forth his better nature at this season. Only those who know not Love and children can fail to recognize him. And he it is, who inspires what is in us, truly worth while.

What is Christmas and why? If you have in your heart the spirit that pervades the season, then you honor the day. And if you smile a "Christmas Greeting," then you have within you the spirit of Bethlehem, and the teaching of the world's greatest Master has reached you, too. Only pity for those so stern in materialism that they feel it weak to smile at the Good Cheer of Christmas-tide. Whether you worship in the pew or romp at the fireside, you celebrate in season.

And when the day has closed in, gather the little ones around you and tell them the story of the Wise Men—then forget, for it's Christmas, you know,—and wish us, as we do you

A MERRY CHRISTMAS.

P. S. It's early morning of Christmas Eve and I look out to see that Nature has given us the Season's Greeting—the Christmas Snow. I wonder now, Do you smile and think in dress the man, for I feel a little Christmas, too. Again with misunderstanding—what care I if we don't agree, here's Merry Christmas to you. If you feel it, too, you'll accept, if not, Merry Christmas just the same.

To the men, the girls and boys in our shop, to our readers, kind and harsh, all Good Wishes.—Ed.

WILMINGTON'S GENEROSITY

A Million to Charity and Public Service. That is the proud, yet unheralded record of Wilmington during the past five years. Though unable to give comparative statistics, we believe that in the roll of honor, the city of Wilmington will be writ large. For a city of 100,000 to contribute so liberally speaks strongly of this awakening to her possibilities. A million in 5 years or Two Dollars a year to each and every citizen.

Metropolitan cities, look to your laurels!

Wilmington has done this with such modesty that the cynics still laugh, not realizing the extent of her generosity. So quietly, in fact, that the public scarcely realizes the Spirit of Service in its midst. And for such causes, too! Just glance at them. People's Settlement, Y. W. C. A., Y. M. C. A. and West End Reading Room. Hope Farm, Home of Merciful Rest, Physicians and Surgeons Hospital and then, final proof that with a cause and a will and co-operation it can all ways be done, the $300,000 for Delaware Hospital. The churches, too. The Episcopalians with improvements at Trinity, the Presbyterians at Westminster, the Methodists at St. Paul's and the Second Baptists. These with the usual large charities among the Jews and Catholics make the last half decade in Wilmington a time of "good will toward men."

The figures really startle and many are prompted to question. But by penciling recollections it is found that Wilmington has built "better than she knew."

This should silence those brossing, it can't be done, fanatics and be sufficient proof that Wilmington as a city can do what her citizens in her several organizations have accomplished.

If these figures and recent Signs of the Times be of any worth, our only city promises a better realization of its possibilities. And its effect will be felt throughout the State. The Board of Trade, which promises, at last, to be an efficient fact instead of a banquet theory will bring about a healthier understanding between Wilmington and the rural districts, leading to a general co-operation throughout the State. Then when the county and City building is completed, Wilmington can, well and appropriately, invite guests to the new Hotel DuPont and proclaim herself as the City that does things and is worth while.

But this is a record of congratulation for the Million Dollars to Charity and Public Service.

THE NEWER EDUCATION

A recent Government Report gives us this news:

The citizens in and around Colebrook, New Hampshire, a town of two thousand inhabitants (not well the size of the town) have added to the Public School system, gardens, a greenhouse, a dairy laboratory, a domestic-arts department, a carpenter shop, a blacksmith shop.

Advocates of the old cultural ideal stand aghast and question. Is it possible and too staid New England too?

It is true, and the reason is the awakening to the idea of self preservation. These people came to the conclusion that to save themselves and their homes the children must have the necessities first realizing that only by a practical and efficient life could they enjoy and develop the ideals of living. It is only another illustration upon which the fundamental principle of the American public school must stand or fall—"that it shall be a direct source of strength to the community that pays for it."

We rural folk who are paying the larger proportion of the taxes are allowing our children to be lured and educated away from the country—the farm—the home of best health, truest happiness and original and noblest occupation of man. We are footing the bill and giving our life's blood to the cities, depriving our community of its best citizens. Alert we are becoming to the need of an educated and stable rural citizenship, yet our taxes are being spent to fit a boy for the market of the curb and a girl ill versed in Latin and French. This we blindly term culture, failing to realize that equal development, and more rural, can be derived from competent instruction in those things most needed by the man or woman on the farm.

Understand this Colebrook idea is not solely to make business farmers or professional housekeepers.

Stating the real object of the school, Honorable H. C. Morrison, State Superintendent of New Hampshire says:

"The purpose of the Colebrook School is not primarily to make good farmers or skilled mechanics, or professional housekeepers. The primary object is the education of the boy and girl to become a sincere and efficient and happy man and woman, capable of becoming an educated worker with material things, capable of getting life's happiness out of work rather than out of the leisure which comes after work. If indeed it comes at all. A further purpose is to educate the strongest youth toward the farm and the industries, instead of toward the professions and business exclusively."

This is the newer and advanced tendency of education. It will not dull, as opponents predict, the finer qualities of our nature. There is no disposition to deprive the boy of his history; it will merely change his interpretation of its meaning and bearing on present day issues. It will not rob him of the inspiration gained from biography, of his Shakespeare, or of his Emerson. It will not take away from the girl, her art, her music; it will teach her that to best enjoy life she must first know the laws and strifes of living.

One pet theory of the opposition is that this newer idea is a tending toward economics solely—that, in old age when the active work of life is done, our children will be unable to sit back and read, with pleasure, the thoughts of the masters of the Classics—that life would be sordid and blind to those ideals found in the literature of the past.

In reply the best answer can be found in the comparison of the few truly and the many pseudo-cultured and the home of the efficient farmer close to and with a working knowledge of the laws of Nature with which he of necessity and love co-operates. In your comparisons, light the evening lamp in the city residence and in the country home. Compare them. Now dare say that health, happiness, and the highest Truth does not exist around the fireplace, too.

But the tendencies, the influence on life and toward which education should bend its energies, are not the primary issues.

That we need a more educated and better trained man and woman on the farm, no one will dispute. Upon these the welfare of the nation, in the last analysis, depend. And again, Our schools are not giving our country boy and girl that which will best fit them for their life work. Money being paid by our land in supporting the schools is luring our children away from the farm and the coming leading profession.

Our State Board of Education has caught the idea and has realized the need of rural Delaware. Recommendations leading to better educational facilities will be made to the coming session of the General Assembly.

largely in chemical laboratories, in porcelain teeth, and in incandescent lights. It is for the latter purpose that most of it is now being used, as millions of the lights are turned out daily, so that there is a big market for the metal.

Now that winter is set in it is hardly likely that the additional machinery will be installed before early spring. The old mine is located about three miles from Newark and near the Maryland line. The mine owners also own a right of way through the Wilson farm adjoining. Although an out-of-the-way place, when the time arrives, the P. B. & W. Railroad will no doubt put a siding in, so that it will not be difficult to get the iron and other products out. In fact, in past years when the mine was operated there was a siding used, but it was abandoned when the working of the mine was stopped.

A Social Evening

Mr. and Mrs. Francis A. Cooch entertained a dinner party last Thursday evening, the guests including the following:

Miss Agnes Medill, Miss Louisa Swartz, Miss West, Miss Swaborn, Miss Armstrong, Miss Pennox and Miss Rauh.

Other guests were delightfully entertained during the evening. Among the number were: Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Richards, Mr. and Mrs. George Dutton, Mr. and Mrs. Whittier, Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Gillilan.

Miss Hood of Nashville, Tennessee, and Miss Ida M. Hood of Bryn Mawr College, are spending the holidays with Professor and Mrs. Charles L. Penny.

H. R. Tyson moved his stable on Monday to the quarters on the Huber property, east of town. Mr. Tyson has heretofore used this only during the summer season. The change was necessary because of the demand for more room. There are now eighteen horses in the stable.

Wesley M. E. Church, McClellandsville will give a Christmas entertainment on Saturday, December 28th. Everybody welcome.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD

Bulletin.

CONVENIENT TRANSPORTATION FACILITIES

The Pennsylvania Railroad, by main lines, branches, subsidiary lines, and connections, covers the Eastern country so completely that the people of almost every community may avail themselves of its facilities.

The lines reach the cities, the big towns and the little towns, so that whether the impulse to travel be for business, pleasure, or social purposes, it may be satisfactorily carried out, as far as transportation facilities are concerned, by taking a Pennsylvania Railroad train at the nearest point.

Through cars are operated over the lines between all important centres of population, and an excellent dining car service is available at the usual hours for meals on the through trains. The all-steel equipment of the trains adds greatly to the security and comfort of passengers.

The spirit of the holiday season stimulates the wish to travel, and the facilities of the Pennsylvania Railroad and its connections appeal with equal force to the home-coming young folks and the migrating people of maturer years.

The comprehensive train service, apart from the local trains well known in each community, covers a wide extent of territory.

BETWEEN THE EAST AND THE WEST

There are splendid limited trains between New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Harrisburg, Altoona, Pittsburgh, and points in the West, notably Chicago and St. Louis. Included among these are the "BROADWAY LIMITED," the 20-hour train between New York and Chicago; the "24-HOUR ST. LOUIS," to St. Louis and Chicago; "THE PENNSYLVANIA LIMITED," to Chicago, St. Louis, Cleveland, and Cincinnati; and the "CHICAGO LIMITED," to Chicago, Cincinnati, and Cleveland. These are all Pullman trains and provide the highest grade of service. In addition there are a number of express trains to Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Louisville, Indianapolis, Columbus, Cleveland, Toledo, Detroit, and other important centres of the Middle West, which provide both Pullman and all-steel coach service. Among these are the "Chicago Special," "Chicago Express," "St. Louis Express," "Western Express," and the "Cleveland, Cincinnati, and Chicago Express."

TO THE SOUTH

Those contemplating a trip South, to the resorts of the Carolinas, Georgia, Florida, and the Gulf Coast, will find a number of fine trains between the important terminal cities of the Pennsylvania Railroad; and cars to the more important cities of the South, running through from and to New York via Washington, Baltimore, and Philadelphia. On January 6, 1913, the through Limited Trains between New York and Florida will be placed in service.

COMMERCIAL CENTERS LINKED

An examination of the time tables of the Pennsylvania Railroad will show that practically all important commercial centres on its lines and connections are linked by through trains, through cars, or convenient connections, affording accommodating service.

Anyone who wishes to go anywhere should consult the nearest Ticket Agent of the Pennsylvania Railroad. He can give all the information a traveler requires.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR CONVENTION

Of Peninsula Horticultural Society and State Corn Show in duPont Auditorium

The 20th annual convention of the Peninsula Horticultural Society will open in Wilmington, Delaware, in the duPont auditorium, Tuesday morning at 10:30, January 14th, 1913, and continue in session until Thursday afternoon, January 16th.

"This will be the most interesting and profitable and by far the most largely attended horticultural convention ever held in this part of the United States," was the statement made yesterday by Wesley Webb of Dover, Delaware, Secretary of the Peninsula Horticultural Society.

"There will be an unusually fine fruit and vegetable exhibit in connection with the convention," continued Mr. Webb. "The Sixth annual Delaware State Corn Show will open the last day of our convention, continue all of the following day and will be a great attraction to those who come to attend our convention. The program which will be presented by the Horticultural Society is of special and unusual interest and with the fruit exhibit and the corn show will bring to the convention hundreds of leading horticulturists and agriculturists from all over the states of Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, New Jersey and eastern Pennsylvania. I shall not be surprised if the attendance is double what we had on any previous occasion."

"Arrangements have been made with the railroads to sell excursion tickets to the Convention in Wilmington and return, at the rate of two cents per mile each way. The Wilmington Chamber of Commerce will see to it that every visitor to the convention is provided with good hotel accommodation. The duPont auditorium, where the convention will be held, is one of the largest and best equipped convention halls in America."

THE PROGRAM.

At the opening session Tuesday, January 14th, there will be an address of welcome by Hon. Harrison W. Howell, Mayor of Wilmington, a response by Orlando Harrison, Berlin, Maryland, and the annual address of the president of the society, Hon. F. M. Soper, Magnolia, Delaware.

D. S. Collins, Milford, Delaware, will report on behalf of the committee on peaches; John J. Rosa, Milford, Delaware, on pears; and Prof. C. P. Close, Washington, D. C., on apples.

The following will be the afternoon program on Tuesday:

"Apple Growing in New Jersey,"

Albert T. Repp, Glassboro, New Jersey; "Modern Peach Growing," Prof. C. A. McChes, Delaware Experiment Station; "Success with a Peach Orchard," Joseph Barton, Marlton, New Jersey; "Orcharding in the Pacific Northwest," Prof. E. B. Lake, Secretary of the American Pomological Society.

In the evening Dr. George A. Harter, President of Delaware College, will make a report on behalf of the committee on horticultural education. O. H. Benson, of the United States Department of Agriculture, will discuss the education of the American boy. Dr. J. H. Squires will give an illustrated lecture on the use of dynamite in horticulture.

COMMITTEE REPORTS.

The Wednesday morning session will begin at 9 o'clock. J. W. Killen, Felton, Delaware; J. W. Kerr, Denton, Maryland; J. Frank Moore, Dover, Delaware; W. F. Allen, Salisbury, Maryland, will respond respectively on behalf of the committees on Nut Culture, New Fruits, Grapes and Small Fruits. Horace Roberts, Moorestown, New Jersey will discuss "Success with Strawberries."

The afternoon program follows: "Control of Insect Pests and Diseases," Prof. Thomas R. Symons, State Horticulturist of Maryland; "Report of the Committee on Market Gardening," G. J. Meredith, Felton, Delaware; "Sweet Potato Culture, Harvesting and Curing," Homer C. Thompson, Assistant Horticulturist, Department of Agriculture; "Commercial Market Gardening," George Morrison, Uplands Farms, Baltimore County, Maryland; "Freight Rates as Affecting Market Gardening," E. W. Jenkins, Dover, Delaware.

At the evening session there will be two illustrated lectures: one by O. H. Benson regarding the training of rural and village girls for home life, the other on horticulture by Richard Vincent, Jr., Whitmarsh, Maryland.

Thursday morning at 9 o'clock will take place the election of officers for 1913. W. G. Dawson, Cambridge, Maryland, will report for the committee on Fertilizers. Horace Roberts will discuss "Secondary Crops in the Orchard." C. L. Opperman, College Park, Maryland, "Combining Poultry with Horticulture."

At the afternoon session on Thursday, Logan W. Page, Director of the Office of Public Roads, Washington, D. C., will discuss "Economic Advantages of Improved Roads." W. Irving Walker, Chestertown, Maryland, will present the subject, "Good Roads in the State of Maryland," and make a report for the committee on Transportation.

DELAWARE STATE CORN SHOW.

The closing exercises of the Peninsula Horticultural Society will merge into the opening exercises of the Sixth Annual Delaware State Corn Show, which will be held in the duPont building in the same rooms that will be occupied by the Horticultural Society, making up an entire week devoted to the interests of horticulture and grain growing.

The slogan of the Delaware Corn Growers' Association is "more and better grain for Delaware." The officers of this association are Arnold Naudain, Marshallton, Delaware; James T. Shallcross, Middletown, Delaware, Vice President for New Castle County; Gamaliel Garrison, Kenton, Delaware, Vice-President for Kent County; W. S. Davis, Bridgeville, Delaware, Vice-President for Sussex County; Prof. A. E. Grantham, Newark, Delaware, Secretary-Treasurer.

In announcing the program, Prof. Grantham says: "Special effort is being put forth to make the Sixth Annual Delaware State Corn Show the largest, best and most instructive exhibition ever held by the Delaware Corn Growers' Association. A large acreage of good corn in the state this season should stimulate keen competition and bring out a large number of exhibits. The object of the Corn Show is to create among grain growers a greater interest in methods of high quality at a minimum cost per acre. Every grain grower in Delaware is invited to make an exhibit and is urged to attend the Corn Institute."

Thursday morning, January 15th, will be devoted to judging and shelling exhibits. The exhibition will be open to the public all day. At 1:30 in the afternoon there will be a round table discussion on "Corn growing," led by the men who secured the highest yields per acre in 1912: James T. Shallcross, Middletown; Harvey Ball, Marshallton; and Arnold Naudain, Marshallton.

There will be a corn judging contest conducted by M. O. Penne, of Delaware College for the benefit of those who desire to become more familiar with corn scoring methods.

At 8 o'clock in the evening the department of Agronomy of Delaware College will present a Stereoscopic lecture on "Some Methods of Improving the Soil and Increasing the Yield of Grain."

The opening address of the Corn Show will be Friday morning, January 16th, at 10 o'clock, by Arnold Naudain, President. Prof. C. G. Williams, Agronomist, Ohio Experiment Station, Wooster, Ohio, will follow with a discussion on "Corn Improvement." Prof. Lyman Carrier, Agronomist, Virginia Experiment Station, will discuss "Some Factors in Securing High Yields of Corn per acre."

The program in the afternoon follows: Report of the Secretary and annual election of officers; "Relation of Lime and Legumes to Soil Improvement," Dr. J. B. Lippman, Director New Jersey Experiment Station, New Brunswick, New Jersey; "Feeding of Live Stock as a Means of Marketing the Corn Crop," Prof. H. Hayward, Delaware Experiment Station, Newark, Delaware.

PRIZE LISTS.

The Secretaries of the Peninsula Horticultural Society and the Delaware State Corn Show have compiled prize lists which will be sent to all inquirers. The Wilmington Chamber of Commerce is making preparation for 1,000 visitors.

Here And There

SUNSHINE OF LIFE.

The sunshine of life is made up of very little beams that are bright all the time. To give up something when giving up will prevent unhappiness; to yield when persisting will chafe and fret others; to go a little way around rather than come against another; to take an adverse look or word quietly rather than return it—these are the ways in which clouds are kept off and pleasant, steady sunshine is secured.—Athena.

GEORGE MEREDITH'S BELIEF.

"Let nothing blunt your sense of a Supreme Being, and be certain that your understanding wavers whenever your chance to doubt that leads to good. We grow to good as surely as the plant grows to the light. The school has only to look through history for a scientific assurance of it."—George Meredith, writing to his son.

BEST OF ALL PHYSICIANS.

There is physician like cheerful thought for dissipating the ills of the body; there is no comfort to compare with good will for dispersing the shadows of grief and sorrow. To live continually in thoughts of ill-will, cynicism, suspicion and envy, is to be confined in a self-made prison hole. But to think well of all, to be cheerful with all, to patiently learn to find the good in all—such unselfish thoughts are the very portals of heaven; and to dwell day by day in thoughts of peace toward every creature will bring abounding peace to the possessor.—James Allen.

ROYALTY OF VIRTUE.

If there be no nobility of descent, all the more indispensable is it that there should be nobility of ascent—a character in them that bear rule so fine and high and pure that as man came within the circle of its influence they involuntarily pay homage to that which is the one pre-eminent distinction, the royalty of virtue.—Bishop Henry C. Potter.

Cecil County Letter

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Lushy of Elkton, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Edna L. to Mr. Edwin L. Tice of South Ambroy, N. J.

Miss Ellen Wetherill and her nieces, the Misses Marion and Julia Young, have removed from River-view, the Wetherill homestead, near Elkton, to the former residence of the late Reuben Hains, on East Main street, which Miss Wetherill recently purchased.

Elkton Presbyterian Sunday School held its Christmas exercises giving an interesting program in the church, on Sunday evening.

Crouch M. E. Chapel, near Elkton, closed for the winter on Sunday evening when the Sunday School held its Christmas exercises.

Dr. Dennis, a well-known Cecil veterinarian of Perryville, was kicked by a horse he was treating one day this week and severely injured.

Baugh & Company of Baltimore, have applied to the Cecil Circuit Court for a receiver for the Eureka Fertilizer Company, whose plant is located near Perryville. The petitioners aver that the concern has liabilities of $100,000, with assets of little more than half that amount exclusive of what is due stockholders.

Messrs. William S. Evans and Omar D. Crothers of Elkton, have bonded for $12,000 as receivers of the Perryville Real Estate and Improvement Company, which, it is alleged, is insolvent, with liabilities of $9,000 and assets of about $8,000.

National Lodge, I. O. O. F. of Elkton, will admit twenty new members during the celebration of its coming twentieth anniversary, for which it is arranging.

Among postmasters whom President Taft will take a chance for confirmation by the Senate are Samuel Hambleton at Rising Sun and Mary West at North East, whom he renominated this week.

The Cecil Circuit Court has decreed a divorce to Mrs. Estella Gregg of Fair Hill, from her husband, Howard W. Gregg, on the ground of desertion.

Cherry Hill M. E. congregation has invited Rev. D. J. Ford to continue as its pastor for another year. His first year has been very successful with a record of twenty new members of the church and repairs costing $2,000 made to the building.

The basket ball teams of Company E., First Regiment, M. N. G., and Central Academy of Wilmington, played on the Armory floor in Mechanics' Hall, Elkton, on Thursday evening, the soldiers winning by a score of 18 to 10.

On the same floor, the same evening, the Elkton High School team defeated the Penlyn Hall team of Wilmington, by a score of 16 to 13.

Chicken thieves, it is stated, secured 300 fowls in recent raids on the premises of John Spotts, Allen Wilkinson, William Stewart and Alexander Gregg, in the Fair Hill, Lewisville sections.

The vacancy in the office of State Auditor, existing since the death of George R. Ash, of Elkton, in January last, is to be filled by the choice of J. Enos Ray, of Prince George's County, by State Comptroller Harrington and State Treasurer Vandiner, at the meeting of the Board of Public Works, on January 2nd. Thomas J. Murray, of Elkton, who secured the creation of the post of Assistant Auditor by the Legislature will, it is said, likely be appointed thereto.

The double team of Charles C. Queek, baker, of Elkton, bolted at High and Bridge streets, on Thursday and after a lively run, without damage, brought up in Mrs. J. W. Cooper's yard at East Main and South streets, whence team and wagon were removed after a panel of the fence was taken down.

William H. Warrington, a well-known farmer, while operating a corn husking machine at his home near Eder Station on the B. & O. G. R., caught his right hand in the gearing and was painfully injured, one day last week. He went to Union Hospital, Elkton, where the ends of three fingers were amputated.

William Hill of Andora, was seriously injured one day last week, when caught by a belt at the paper mill at Providence.

Rev. E. G. Eggert of Harrington, Del., has, it is stated, accepted a call to the Presbyterian Church in Chesapeake City.

Dr. G. H. Grapple, of Port Deposit, has been appointed dairy inspector for Cecil County, by the State Live Stock Sanitary Board.

The engagement is announced of Miss Rose Montgomery of Kentlesville, and Mr. Orville Cloud of Lewisville.

According to a special from Rising Sun to the New York Evening Telegram, parties in that city have purchased the John Graham farm, near Blythedale, from Orion Taylor or Perryville, and rented the Jackson Park half-mile track for the training of horses to run on the Hayre de Grace mile track. The Jackson Park track is to be improved and stables erected for a large number of horses. Surmise is rife as to whether it is purposed to try to restore racing in Cecil. Horses could be trained on the Hayre de Grace track, as well as at Pimlico and Laurel and the need of another such purpose is not apparent.

SIR WALTER RALEIGH

"The Best Potato Grown!"

I have just finished sorting my big crop of SIR WALTER RALEIGH potatoes and am offering the best for seed. My reason for doing so now is simply because my cellar is too warm. If you have a place to store potatoes over winter, you will find it profitable to buy now, as good seed, such as I am offering, will be much higher next spring. Get what seed you will need NOW and save money. SIR WALTER RALEIGH stands for QUALITY and A BIG CROP!
