NEWARK, DELAWARE

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1933

NUMBER 40

Hundreds Hear Lowell Thomas Speak at Mitchell Hall American Legion Bowling Alleys Open Saturday, Nov. 11

C. W. W. SCHANTZ NEW PRESIDENT OF DEL. EDUCATION ASSOCIATION

Largest Crowd in History Attends Meetings

With the election of officers for the Delaware State Education Association for the ensuing year, held at the Newark High School Wednesday night, the fifteen annual convention of the association was opened. It will continue until late Friday afternoon. Today and Friday there will be special meetings held at the Newark School Building and the University, where the teachers from the various schools of the State will make reports and where addresses will be made. More than 1,000 teachers are here to attend the convention.

C. W. W. Schantz, superintendent of the Smyrna Public School, was elected president of the Association. E. N. Poulis, principal of the Bayard School, Wilmington, was elected vice-president. E. Paul Burkholder, of Georgetown, was re-elected treasurer, and Miss Evelyn J. Tubbs, of Bridgeville, re-elected secretary.

During the meeting 18 resolutions, all routine, were adopted. A proposed amendment to the constitution providing for a change in the governing body, was voted down.

This morning Lowell Thomas spoke in Mitchell Hall, to an overflowing audience. On account of a change in the appointed time, Mr. Thomas spoke earlier than had been expected by many. A number of college students and townspeople who went to Mitchell Hall at 11 o'clock, learned that they were too late to hear the noted radio news man, author and traveler. Mr. Thomas took for his subject, "A World Traveler Looks at Education."

Dr. Florence Hale, past president of the National Education Association, and editor of "The Grade Teacher," followed Mr. Thomas, and gave an exceedingly interesting talk, the subject of which was "New Education for a New World."

Former United States Commissioner of Education, Dr. William John Cooper, at present Professor of Education at George Washington University, spoke this afternoon on "The Changing Curriculum."

The annual banquet will be held this evening at the Women's College dining room, Kent Hall. In addition to the teachers and speakers, prominent Delaware educators will attend this banquet, after which there will be a reception in Old College.

"The Community—The Curriculum—The Child" has been set as the keynote of the convention.

The work of children throughout the State will also come under the consideration of the educators. They will inspect the pre-colonial project of Miss Ruth Appgar's third grade class, which hinges around a student constructed log cabin, as well as an exhibit of art work from more than 100 State schools. Place cards to be used at the banquet are the work of school children.

The convention will close with a general assembly in the high school auditorium Friday afternoon. One of the features of this final meeting will be a talk by Edwin Franko Goldman, leader of the famous Goldman Band, on "Music As An Avocation." The newly-elected president will also give a talk at this meeting.

Dr. Louis A. Wilson, Assistant Commissioner of Education for the State of New York, will appear in place of Dr. George W. Hambrecht, Director of Vocational Education for Minnesota, who is ill.

Professor George T. Macklin, superintendent of the Bridgeville public school, past president of the association, presides at the meetings.

NEWARK M. E. CHURCH TO BE SCENE OF BIG MEN'S BIBLE CLASS RALLY

A Rally of Men's Bible Classes of New Castle County, Delaware, will be held in the Social Hall of the Newark M. E. Church on Sunday, November 19th, at 2:30 p. m., under the supervision of the Delaware State Federation of Men's Bible Classes. A large turn-out is expected as a very interesting program is being arranged for the occasion, consisting of good music and addresses by prominent speakers. Ladies are welcomed.

Grand Opening of Legion Bowling Alleys Saturday

The American Legion Bowling Alleys, which will be operated under the J. Allison O'Daniel Post of Newark, will have their grand opening on Saturday, November 11th. Exhibition games by outside experts will be played. The alleys are open to the public and there will be a number of league teams formed.

Aetna Boys Had Busy Day Yesterday

The first fire of the day was a chimney fire at the home of John O'Rourke, below the Pennsylvania Station. Chief Ellison answered a silent alarm at the Wilmington Auto Co. when an oily rag caught fire. Slight damage was done, but Harry Myer, the mechanic, was burned.

At noon time the roof at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Rose, of Kells, avenue, was on fire. Slight damage.

About 5:45 the car of Tom Milliken was burned near Newark.

JOIN THE RED CROSS

The American Red Cross serves this country in many ways. It helps our ex-service men, gives generous aid in times of disaster and suffering, and trains a host of Public Health Nurses. Its duties never end.

It is YOUR Red Cross. Will YOU do your part to make it always ready for service?

The Roll Call will be taken in Newark from Armistice Day until Thanksgiving.

DIPHTHERIA PREVENTION TREATMENTS AND SCHICK TESTS

In order to better enable us to study Diphtheria conditions and control measures for Newark and vicinity, it has been deemed advisable to offer at school, Monday morning, November 13, 1933.

1. Immunizing treatments to all members of first and fourth grades in Newark School, who have not already had the treatments.
2. Schick test all members of these groups who have already had the treatments.
3. Offer Immunizing treatments to all pre-school children who apply for it at Health Center, Academy Building, November 13, 1933, 1:00 p. m.

It is urged that parents and guardians consult their physicians relative to this matter, as it is of importance to your children.

J. R. Downes, M. D., Director.
New Castle County Unit.

TOWN COUNCIL HAS BUSY SESSION MONDAY NIGHT

Pay Final Installment on Street Improvements; May Purchase Police Car

At the regular monthly meeting of the Town Council Monday evening, with a full Board, there was considerable business transacted. Clean-up day was set for November 15 so as not to be near Thanksgiving Day.

A discussion was held on the question of buying an automobile to be used by the chief of police and the two other patrolmen, and a committee was appointed to investigate to see if this was advisable.

The gutters were ordered cleaned on Elkton Road and Haines street. The light opposite the fire plug on South Academy street has been replaced and South Academy street and Lovett avenue extended filled with cinders. The final payment of $9,326.24 on the street improvement was ordered paid to Olivere Construction Company.

Council authorized the Treasurer to pay the light and water bonds on December 1st, the bonds not being due until 1936. Stop buttons were also

KINDERGARTEN MEETING TO BE HELD NOVEMBER 15 IN SCHOOL AUDITORIUM

Through the courtesy of the School Board and Superintendent Ira S. Brinser, there will be a meeting of those persons interested in the kindergarten in the Newark Schools, in the High School Auditorium, Wednesday, November 15, at 8 o'clock.

This matter was discussed at a previous meeting and a committee appointed to work with the school authorities in the matter. The committee is now ready to make a report of progress. All persons interested in this matter, whether they have children now ready to enter kindergarten or not, are cordially invited to attend.

The committee consists of John Dubell, chairman; Mrs. T. A. Baker, and Mrs. H. S. Gabriel.

LOCAL TALENT MAKES BIG HIT IN "PIRATE GOLD"

Dancing Features Well Received

"Pirate Gold," the fifth annual American Legion theatrical production, personally conducted by Clifford Brown, of John B. Rogers Production Company, was presented in State Theatre on Monday and Tuesday nights before a large audience.

In the first act, Lee Hurley's manipulations of mystery, in which he was aided by Miss Verna Vallance and Miss Sarah Wyatt and the dancing solos in the final scene, dominated. Mrs. Richard Cooch and her cake-walkers made a big hit with the audience.

As proprietor of the Cafe, Wayne Brewer introduced Miss Blanche Malcom as "Revue", assisted by Doris Smith and chorus. When the cafe entertainers were introduced, the audience tried hard to get Master Eugene Monahan to repeat his tap dance number. Gene, however, has not been well and thinks more of his health than applause. More power to him!

His friend, Miss Ann Vassallo, with a clever toe tap dance, responded to the demands of the audience. "Dinner at Eight," a song by Mrs. Reese Griffin, was much appreciated.

Harold Barker was a perfect "Dr. Crank" in the first scene. Alec Cobb, Jr., and James Hutchison apparently were successful in the use of their female roles, used on Bailiff Cleaves and Judge Brinser in the trial of Mary Google. Dr. J. R. Downes as Mrs. Dice was found guilty of murder.

Harry Williamson rendered a clever "Stomp" number, assisted by Miss Marian Colgain, Percy Roberts and chorus. Allyn Cooch was a success in the drama, "It's How They Say It."

Pirate Captain James Hastings introduced his pirate mates and chorus and dragged in the hostages and slaves and interlarded a Minstrel Show in the second act that embodied some clever chorus singing and accompaniment.

Raymond Buckingham rendered "Rasputin Jones," J. Q. Smith sang "Somebody 'Stole Gabriel's Horn," Wesley Dempsey was well received as "Ole Man Devil," as end men soloists in the act. "Dutch" Fader and Harold Schenffer were star comedy end men.

The feature specialties in this act were the stowaways in a clever dancing number. A duett by Mrs. Lee Lewis and Miss Blanche Malcom was well received by the audience. Jim Hastings sang "Blue Roses," which was then tap danced by Miss Ann Vassallo, assisted by Rose Girls and chorus.

The usual array of local talent was used in dance specialties and sketches, the cast required one hundred twenty-five people in all.

LOWELL THOMAS

Edward Bigell Dies After Accident

Edward Bigell, colored, aged 23 years, of Elkton, died Sunday night in the Wilmington General Hospital of a compound fracture of the skull after the car he was driving was side-swiped by a car operated by Ralph Skillman, of Newark, on the Elkton-Newark road, earlier in the evening.

Skillman and a companion, Eugene Walls, of Newark, escaped injury, as did Emory Bigell, brother of the dead man, and Ophelia Wilkes, colored, who were riding with Edward Bigell.

Skillman was arrested by Privates Barnes and Carpenter of the State Police on a charge of assault and battery which was later changed to one of manslaughter. He was given a hearing before Magistrate Thompson, of Newark, and held for Court, but was released under $5,000 bail bond, which was furnished by George Moore.

Prohibition Ended By Three States Voting Wet

In Tuesday's elections Pennsylvania, Ohio and Utah voted to repeal the 18th Amendment, making the necessary 36 States to end Prohibition.

North Carolina was the first State to vote against repeal, and South Carolina also landed in the dry column. In Kentucky the count was not begun until yesterday.

Print Exhibit at Memorial Library

Beginning, last Sunday, there will be an exhibition of prints in the Art Gallery of Memorial Library. This exhibit will continue until November 28, and will be open to the public from 8 a. m. until 4:30 p. m. on week days and from 2 p. m. until 5 p. m. on Sundays.

The prints include wood blocks, etchings, lithographs, and wood engravings, by such artists as Wanda Gag, Howard Cook, Emil Ganso, Rockwell Kent, and Mabel Dwight.

PROF. THOROUGHGOOD'S CONDITION UNCHANGED

The condition of Prof. R. W. Thoroughgood, who has been ill for the past two weeks, remains unchanged. Prof. Thoroughgood is at the Homeopathic Hospital, in Wilmington.

November 18 Home Day at Delaware

The annual home coming at the University of Delaware will be held Saturday, November 18, after the game between the University and St. Joseph's. Clifford C. Steele is in charge of arrangements for the dinner which will be served in Old College Hall. Speakers will be announced. Cards are being mailed to the members of the Alumni Association.

There is a memory fond and true,

There is a token of affection
And a heartache still for you.

Sadly missed by her granddaughter,

D. M. ASHBRIDGE NOW LIEUTENANT COLONEL

Popular Head Of Military Dept.
Receives Congratulations
On Promotion

Word has been received from the War Department that Donald M. Ashbridge has been promoted from the rank of Major to that of Lt. Colonel in the U. S. Army. The promotion took effect November 1.

Col. Ashbridge came to the University of Delaware in July, 1932, to become head of the Military Department. Since he has been here Col. Ashbridge has won many friends by his quiet and unassuming manner. Previous to his coming there has never been a co-ordinated artillery drill carried out by batteries at this University. Such a drill is now going to be held as part of the regular Thursday drills.

Col. Ashbridge was born February 1, 1886. He enlisted in the army April 26, 1906, as a 2d Lieutenant. He was a 1st Lieutenant on March 11, 1911, a Captain July 1, 1916, temporary Major May 9, 1918, and a permanent Major July 1, 1920.

He has served at Fort Du Pont, Fortress Monroe, Va., Jackson Barracks, New Orleans, Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., and Tobyhanna, Pa. During the World War he was in France from September, 1917, to October, 1918.

He was connected with the Military Intelligence Division of the War Department General Staff at Washington, D. C., 1919 to 1922. From there he went to Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas, Ft. Eustis, Pennsylvania, and the Army War College at Washington.

He was in the Philippine Islands at Ft. McKinley from 1925 to 1927. While there he took part in two major maneuvers of the Philippine Division in the Island of Luzon. He came here from the Bureau of Insular Affairs at the War Department at Washington, D. C.

"FOOTLIGHTS" CLUB TO GIVE 1-ACT PLAY

"Pot Boilers," Short Farce, To Be Presented At Next
College Hour

The Footlights Club, dramatic organization of the Men's College, will present a one-act farce by Alice Gerstenberg, at College Hour on Tuesday, November 14th. The title of the play is "The Pot Boilers," and it will be directed by Thomas Hannaway. The cast is as follows:

Thomas Pinkles Sund, the author, William Lawrence; Harold Woudby; the novice, John Veit; Mr. Ivory, the father, T. Willey Kelthay; Mr. Buler, the hero, David Sundberg; Miss Ivory, the heroine, Thomas Cooch; Mr. Inkwell, the villain, Thomas Hannaway; Mrs. Pencil, the vampire, Thomas Lascares.

The production staff consists of Thomas Rowe, electrician; Allison Manns, prompter, and William Wagamon, stage manager.

DIGNIFYING VOCATIONS

Ruskin raised the question: Should not the baker be as ready to sacrifice himself in providing bread for the community as the soldier or sailor in fighting for it? Should not every man look on his business or profession, not as a means of personal profit, but as a means of promoting the public good?—J. M. Conell in the November Rotarian.

SERGEANT E. DAVIS RETIRE FROM ARMY

Popular Military Instructor Rounds Out Three Decades Of Service Under U. S. Flag

Master Sergeant E. A. Davis, popular member of the Military Department of this college, was retired on October 31, 1933, per Special Order of the War Department, Washington, D. C., dated October 26, 1933.

General Orders No. 5, Department of Military Science and Tactics, University of Delaware, dated October 31, 1933, read as follows:

"The retirement of Master Sergeant Edward A. Davis, R-635742, D. E. M. L. (R. O. T. C.), in accordance with paragraph 8, Special Orders 250, War Department, dated October 26, 1933, upon completion of 30 years service is hereby announced. Sergeant Davis is placed on the retired list to rank as a Second Lieutenant, the grade held by him during the World War.

"Through his loyal devotion to duty Sergeant Davis advanced to the highest enlisted grade in the regular army of the United States and served his country well as a commissioned officer during the grave emergency of 1917-1918.

"There goes with Sergeant Davis upon his retirement the warmest good wishes of those with whom he has served. He leaves behind, for those who carry on, his record of thirty years of duty faithfully performed."

Sergeant Davis has had a long and admirable service with the United States government. He began his career in the U. S. Navy in 1899, where he served for four years. In 1905 Sergeant Davis entered the Army where he was active in many branches of the service. During the Great War he served as End Lieutenant, Q. M. C.

In 1922 Sergeant Davis assumed his duties with the R. O. T. C. Department in this University. Here he served until his retirement as Assistant Custodian of Government Property.

On last Thursday the entire R. O. T. C. unit gave Sergeant Davis a send-off by passing in review before him.

Both the members of the Military Department and the entire student body expressed greatest regrets in seeing the Sergeant leave. He was one of the most congenial men in the University and was liked by everyone with whom he came in contact. All of his friends wish him the best of luck.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad memory of our dear mother, Mattie Dobson, who departed his life November 6, 1932.

Two dear bright eyes, a tender smile,

A loving heart that knew no quite,

Deep trust in God that all was right,

Her joy to make the others bright,

If any sick or suffering one she knew,

Some gentle act of love she'd do.

No thought of self, but of "the other."

I know He said, "Well done, dear Mother."

Sadly missed but not forgotten by her son and family.

George Dobson and Family.

LESSENING CRIME

We can only lessen crime when we overcome the incentive to crime which, in the last analysis, is poverty, the dread of want and the desire to live. It may be difficult to trace all crime directly to poverty, for sometimes the connection is not direct or distinct, but almost all crime leads back to having known privation in the midst of plenty for others.—Clarence Darrow in the November Rotarian.

Twenty Snow Plows To Be Bought By State Highway Dept.

Preparing for any kind of winter that may appear in Delaware, the State Highway Department is preparing to purchase twenty blade plows to be used by small trucks, supplementing the work of the large snow plows on the State roads this year. In light snows or even in heavy snows following up the preliminary passage by a large plow, the small plows have been found to be very useful and much more economical than the constant use of the larger plows.

The construction of macadam drive ways to the various buildings in the grounds of the Delaware Colony at Stockley and at the State College for colored students at Dover, has been authorized and bids are expected to be asked in a short time on this work. These two will about complete work to be done on State Institutions as similar work has shortly been finished at the State Hospital at Farnhurst, the Welfare Home at Smyrna, the Ferris Industrial School, Edgemont Sanatorium, and Brandywine Sanatorium, near Wilmington.

The State Highway Department will very shortly begin the marking by numbers of seventeen of the more important State routes and have ordered four hundred sign numbers for installation. This beginning will bring about the eventual naming of all routes by numbers and instead of designating a road by the name of the towns along it such as the Dover-Hartly road, they will hereafter be known as State Route 10 or State Route 20. This action is in line with the policy of most other states in designating their roads.

Reorganization of NRA To Administer Codes

Washington.—In discussing the complete reorganization of the National Recovery Administration, Gen. Hugh S. Johnson explained that it provides permanent machinery for enforcing codes and hearing charges of violations. There were created four divisions, each headed by a deputy administrator, to be responsible for consideration of pending codes and administration of approved Presidential Agreements. To lend added effectiveness to enforcement, there was established also a compliance division, as well as a national compliance board and a trade association division. These are, of course, apart from the three advisory boards for industry, labor, and consumers. The four industry divisions to be in charge of code administration are divided as follows: No. 1, extractive industries, including metals, coal, automobiles, shipping, and related industries; No. 2, construction and machinery, including lumber and metal products; No. 3, chemicals, leather, and other manufactures; No. 4, trades and services, textiles, and clothing. A special division for all amusement industries will be attached to division 4. General Johnson will act as director of the compliance division pending appointment of a regular director, who also will be chairman of the National Compliance Board. Where adjustments are not possible, complaints will be delivered to either the Federal Trade Commission or the Attorney General. The law provides either course.

PEACOCK JEWELRY

Peacock feathers, with which many a Paris velvet hat is trimmed, have evoked the idea of peacock jewelry. In changeable green and blue, sometimes of the peacock opal, this jewelry as a rule takes the form of an ornamental clip fastened to the hat.

If the Governor of North Dakota is going to keep that State's wheat at home he ought to take measures to import a lot of wheat-eaters.

PRICELESS

The modern farm home needs a telephone. Tell us to install one on your farm. • In times of urgent need it will serve you instantly. Over its wires you send your voice to doctor, veterinarian, neighbor. You use it to reassure and comfort an absent member of the family. It takes a hand in many business transactions.

Useful every day—priceless in emergencies—a telephone is invaluable on the farm.

DR. J. S. GOULD GETS FEDERAL APPOINTMENT

Placed On Leave By Authorities;
To Be Succeeded By Dr. F.
M. Thurston

Dr. Joseph Sidney Gould, head of the Economics Department, has been appointed technical advisor to the Advisory Labor Board of the N. R. A. He has been granted a leave of absence by the University authorities until such time as he will no longer be needed at Washington.

Dr. Gould is a native of Motir, Russia. He took his B. A. degree at Clark University of Massachusetts, and after several years of graduate work at various institutions from Brookings Institute of Washington, D. C. He has been at Delaware for several years as first assistant and later associate professor of Economics. He is considered one of the most popular professors on the campus and leaves a vacancy that will be hard to fill.

The President's office has just announced the appointment of F. M. Thurston, Ph. D. (Cornell), a former instructor of Economics at Cornell, as a member of the faculty to fill the vacancy caused by Dr. Gould's departure. Dr. Thurston will arrive Thursday. He is coming from Howell, Michigan, where he has been doing work for the government.

Advance In Retail Sales Noted In All Districts

Washington.—Steady increases in retail sales were reported from all of the 12 Federal Reserve districts during mid-October. The current Dun and Bradstreet weekly report for the second week in October states: "Due chiefly to the campaign of NRA, most of the department and chain stores report an increase in volume as compared with the preceding week. Certain barometer trades, even after allowing for decreases since July, are still running 22 per cent ahead of last year. The commercial reporting agencies are agreed that business in recent weeks has been firming in what they regard as an exceptionally active winter. The drygoods market is described as being the broadest since 1929, with sales often 70 to 100 per cent above October, 1932. Reports to NRA from local boards of the Recovery Administration indicate that the buying is steadily improving as cold weather sets in, and forward orders to manufacturers are increasing rapidly."

YOUR CHILD, HIS NUTRITION, HIS TEETH AND HIS HEALTH

"The one big asset—no matter how bad the times—is health. Good health and bad teeth can never be partners," quotes Miss Pearl MacDonald, Extensive Service, University of Delaware.

Everyone is familiar with the fact that studies of the condition of the teeth of school children show that more than ninety children out of every hundred have some trouble with their teeth—it may be decayed teeth, or defects in the closing of teeth when chewing food, abscesses in teeth, tender gums. Many of the repeaters in our schools, we are told, are made re-peaters because of bad teeth.

Bad teeth cause a great deal of pain and suffering, are responsible for much loss of time from school and work, interfere with the chewing of food and, therefore, with digestion, and cause other attendant ills.

Teeth become bad from many reasons—improper food, bad living habits, indulgence in sweets, neglect, lack of cleanliness, abscesses.

For too long a time, continues Miss MacDonald, attention has been fixed on the correction of tooth troubles; that is, filling the tooth when it has decayed or extracting it if the decay has gone too far, or straightening the teeth if they have come in crooked.

On the other hand, if proper preventive measures were understood and followed, there would be much less need for corrective work.

What are the most important preventive measures?

First, the most important factor in preventing tooth trouble is, no doubt, proper food.

Teeth often look well at first, but wear badly (that is, break down in decay), "because there is something lacking in the raw stuff of which they are made or with which they are kept in repair." "Good bricks cannot be made of mere mud; nor can such marvelous structures as good teeth be made of everything or anything we attempt to use for the purpose."

"Tooth-making tissue must receive through the blood stream sufficient calcium, phosphorus, and other essentials (vitamins, etc.) if they are to turn out teeth which will not only look well but last a lifetime."

Teeth are alive and active like the rest of the body, and, therefore, food must be continuously supplied in order to make up for daily wear and tear.

For good teeth, three essentials are needed in the diet: (1) sufficient minerals (especially calcium and phosphorus); (2) vitamins D, C and possibly B; (3) hard foods (like Zwie-back, raw vegetables, etc.) for jaw and tooth exercise.

Our next question is: In what foods can these essentials be found?

One quart of milk a day for each child and the expectant and nursing mother and one pint for other adults will provide a safe margin for calcium. Milk, buttermilk, cheese, eggs, meat, fish and vegetables, will make safe the supply of phosphorus. The diet should also include some dark breads and breakfast foods made from the whole grain.

Calcium and phosphorus, even when present in the right amount and proper proportion, will not unite and harden into good bone and tooth structure unless there is enough vitamin D present.

Foods that contain vitamin D are:
cream, whole milk, butter, and egg yolk. However, these foods do not contain a sufficient amount to fully meet the needs of the body.

Cod-liver oil and other fish oils are rich in vitamin D.

Sunshine on the body (due to the ultra-violet rays) produce vitamin D in the body. However, modern methods of living, prevent us from getting the full benefit of sunshine. Indoor living, style of dressing, dust laden air, cloudy weather all interfere with the sunshine.

Therefore, it is wise for people of all ages (in the winter months) to supplement the diet with cod or other fish oil.

Vitamin C, also, is one of the essentials in the diet for good teeth. Best sources of supply are citrus fruits and juices (orange, lemon, grapefruit); tomatoes and green leafy vegetables (cabbage, romaine, lettuce, turnip greens, kale, etc.).

That is why two vegetables beside potatoes and two fruits a day are recommended. If you cannot have two fruits, have another vegetable.

Since vitamin C is easily effected by heat (except in the case of cooked or canned tomatoes), some uncooked food should be eaten each day.

Dentists seem to be convinced that too much candy and sweets are detrimental to good growth and maintenance of teeth, for the chief reason that they crowd out of the diet the foods that furnish minerals and vitamins and other essentials.

Dentists and physicians have an increasing amount of clinical evidence among children and adults to show that the food a person eats has a very definite effect upon the growth of his teeth and their continuance in good condition.

To sum up the problem, the diet which will insure proper nutrition for the teeth will contain:

(1) A quart of milk each day for the child and the expectant mother and a pint a day for other adults.

(2) Two vegetables besides potatoes and two fruits each day, including tomatoes, or the citrus fruits (oranges, grapefruit or lemons), and leafy vegetables (like cabbage, turnip top greens, lettuce, escarole, etc.) and, also, including some uncooked vegetable or fruit each day.

(3) One or two servings of: eggs, cheese, meat, fish or other sea food.

(4) Some fats (butter and cream) and bread and breakfast foods made from the whole grains.

With these foods, the diet should be adequate for good nutrition.

The second important factor in preventing tooth decay is care of the teeth. This includes daily brushing of the teeth, visiting the dentist regularly to have the teeth cleaned and any cavities filled.

In addition to the above, there must be plenty of rest and sleep, fresh air, sunshine and exercise—all of which are essential to good health and the teeth claim their full share of benefits from good living.

School Notes

Next Wednesday night, November 15, the regular monthly meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association will be held in the school room at 8 o'clock.

A splendid treat is in store for everyone. Professor Gilbert Nickel, who is conducting public affairs classes every Wednesday evening, will be with us to discuss the "N. R.
A." He is anxious to have a large group present. Let's have a record attendance to greet him.

Visiting Day

We were happy to have Mrs. Clifford Ayars, Mrs. Artie Brown, Mrs.
Allan Reed and Mrs. Joseph Brown, parents of the school, visit us on Tuesday.

Moving

We shall miss Howard Lloyd, second grade, who has moved to Newark. We wish him every success in the Newark Special District.

Choral Club

Within the past two weeks eleven new members have joined the Milford Cross Roads Choral Club. It isn't too late for you to start your good time week. Meet with us next Tuesday evening, November 14, at 7:30 o'clock. You'll receive a hearty welcome.

JOIN

The Red Cross Roll Call will open on Armistice Day, November 11, and continue until Thanksgiving, November 30.

Newark has always done its share in Red Cross activities, and it is hoped this year will be no exception.

It costs but one dollar to enroll. Let's put Newark over the top this time.

Dr. Downes and Assistants Seeking To Stop Diphtheria Spread

Recently two cases of diphtheria developed in the Newark district and in both instances the persons who became ill, it is said, had not been immunized against the disease. Superintendent Ira S. Brinser, superintendent of local schools, is sending the following notice to parents:

Dr. J. R. Downes, of the State Board of Health, finds it possible and believes it advisable to take the following precautionary measures regarding diphtheria in this community:

1. All pupils in the first and fourth grades who have not already been immunized against diphtheria will be given the opportunity to start those treatments at the Newark School, Monday, November 13.

2. All persons in those two grades who have been immunized but not tested will be offered the Schick Test at the same time.

Those two plans are available on the above date only to pupils of grades one and four.

In order to cooperate fully with the State Board of Health in the interest of the health of your child, will you please signify your consent to having this done by signing and returning the attached slip to the home room teacher of your child? If you do not wish to have it done please so state on the slip and return it with your objections and signature.

TO MAKE DRIVE FOR NEW AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY MEMBERS

"Relief work for the victims of the economic crisis, Americanism endeavors to check radical trends developing from the current unrest, and welfare activities for the war disabled, widows and orphans, continue to be a major part of the program of the American Legion Auxiliary." announced Miss Helen L. Jones, vice-president and membership chairman of the Department of Delaware. "Our responsibilities increase each year. The call for more women to march under our peace-time banner of service 'for God and country' becomes clearer and more urgent."

Enrollment of a large membership to carry forward the civic, patriotic and welfare work of the American Legion Auxiliary in Newark and vicinity during the coming year will be the objective of J. A. O'Daniel Unit No. 10 in a nation-wide membership effort to be conducted the week preceding Armistice Day.

Membership in the American Legion Auxiliary is an honor reserved solely for the women members of the families which sent men to defend the country during the World War. There is a special need for such work at this time when our country is facing many problems similar to those of war.

Re-enrollment of all present members of the Auxiliary for 1934 will receive the first attention of the local Unit during this drive. Mothers, wives, sisters and daughters of Legionnaires and of deceased veterans, and women who served with the armed forces during the World War are eligible and are invited to join J. A. O'Daniel Unit No. 10. A wide variety of activities which will provide work of interest for all members is being planned by the local Unit.

EXHIBIT OF ART WORK FROM DELAWARE SCHOOLS

Ready for Convention of Delaware State Education Association; Public Invited to Attend

The large new gymnasium of the Newark Schools is housing during this week art work from over 100 schools. The space is divided so that exhibits from the Wilmington Schools may be found in the northern half of the room and those from the Special District, consolidated and one and two room schools throughout the State in the other.

There are drawings, paintings, friezes, wall hangings, posters, textiles, rugs, stage sets, puppets, pieces of pottery, etc., too numerous to mention, but representative of much worthwhile work.

The whole exhibit reflects the real interests of children from the first grade through the high school and is representative of their own thinking and reactions. Formerly too much emphasis in our schools has been put on technique and adult standards. Today educators realize as never before that if boys and girls are to be prepared for successful living in this ever-changing world they must develop largely through their own activities. A child becomes strong physically only by using his own muscles. A child develops ability to think only through practice in thinking, in solving problems that are on the level of his own ability and interests.

Some visitors who attend the exhibit may from force of habit still measure the work by adult standards, may feel some of it is unfinished or careless in its appearance. All will agree, however, that the Art work of today is making the other school subjects such as history and geography much more real and interesting to the child. They will also be impressed with the fact that children who are acquiring as many worthwhile interests and learning to do as many interesting things as are represented by the exhibits are at least being well equipped to enjoy day by day living. The individual who grows up with an appreciation of the beauty that is all about him and that has an ever-widening circle of impersonal interests is an asset to any community. He keeps his balance when the strains of life come to him; he shares of his own richness when they come to others.

Saturday Armistice Day

Saturday, November 11, will be Armistice Day, the fifteenth anniversary of the ending of the World War. It will be a legal holiday, and banks and public offices will be closed.

One hopes that those who are profiting on NRA will get what is coming to them as surely as they are getting what is coming to everybody else.—Norfolk Virginian.

"WITHER GOEST THOU?" TOPIC OF ADDRESS BY GEO. T. MACKLIN

President of Delaware State Education Association Addresses Large Gathering at Mitchell Hall

As in ancient times it was the custom of the Children of Israel to come up to the Temple each year to renew their vows and pledge anew their allegiance to Almighty God, so we gather today for our yearly convocation, to restore our faith and renew our consecration to the task which God has given us.

Under such conditions it is then fitting that we should review the past, evaluate the present, and adjust our course for the future.

We are meeting today for the fifteenth time as members of this organization. Let us look back for a moment upon the scene of the organization of our present association. On November 21, 1919, there met in the Presbyterian Church of Dover, a body of serious-minded men and women, teachers and educators of the State of Delaware, seriously contemplating the formation of a body which should be the means of perfecting the ideals which they held for the future of education in Delaware. The first General Session was there called to order and the Delaware State Teachers' Association was born. Superintendent W. B. Thornburgh was chairman of that first meeting at which the proposed constitution and by-laws were read by Professor W. A. Wilkinson. Commissioner A. R. Spade introduced Dr. George D. Strayer, who gave the address of the evening. The chairman announced the appointment of the following nominating committee: Miss Esther Maxwell, Smyrna; Miss Sarah Tomlinson, Wilmington; Miss Lillian Sudler, Bridgeville; Miss Annie Newman, Monteban; Mr. H. E. Stahl, Seaford; Miss L. Maude Lodge, Dover; Mrs. Maud Reynolds, Felton; and the minutes were signed by Miss Agnes Snyder, secretary pro tem.

At the second General Session on November 22 the following officers were elected: President, Mr. W. B. Thornburgh, Dover; vice-president, Miss Anna Beckett, Smyrna; directors—Mark E. Stine, Laurel; M. L. Hydon, Frederica; and Miss Agnes Snyder, Newark. At a later meeting of the Board of Directors, Miss Agnes Snyder was elected secretary. At this meeting, Mr. H. E. Stahl urged the need for a school building program. He stated that four schools out of four hundred were fit for remodeling—the others should be torn down.

From the days of 1919 to the days of 1933, kaleidoscopic changes have been wrought. From a small group our membership has increased to more than fourteen hundred. From the modest program of 1919, we have evolved to the elaborate and complicated program of today. From a perspective shut in by inadequate school buildings, poor transportation, indifferently-trained teachers, and public apathy toward public education, we have emerged into a new day. A new day characterized by modern school buildings, transportation of more than 20 per cent of the pupils of the State, a personnel of trained teachers equal to the best in the land, and a public convinced that education of the youth is the best investment that the State can make of its resources! From the meager curriculum of 1919 we have progressed to the modern comprehensive school curricula where the individual needs of our pupils may be adequately met, where vocational agriculture, vocational home economics, commercial subjects, music, art, and physical education are the offerings; from an 8-4 to a 6-6 plan of organization; from a large number of one-room schools to the modern consolidation units.

You will note, however, my friends, that all of this progress is in the material realm, and of which we may justly be proud. I have come before you today, however, with a message whose burden is not hymns of praise for that which has passed, but to urge you toward vistas of an educational scheme which seems to be beckoning us from the horizon. And, my friends, this educational scheme deals not with material improvement, but with spiritual accomplishments. I do not believe that I am making a radical statement when I say that progress toward the goal of spiritual attainments, toward the goal of impressing upon the minds of our boys and girls the eternal truths of life, small progress has been made.

Since we may not measure the success of our individual lives by physical stature, we may not measure success of an educational program by new buildings, improved curricula, better-trained teachers, and more adequate pupil attendance. Aroused by the finds of the White House Conference, by our own Delaware White House Conference on child conservation, thoughtful men and women are turning their mind's eye upon the pictures delineated by that great humanitarian investigation. In it we see the finer things of childhood neglected by an institution which must assume those responsibilities. If we are to realize the slogan of the late

Theodore Roosevelt, "Every home a happy and contented family," then let us burden our hearts with the consciousness that the spirit and content of both educational and vocational guidance must become a part of the educational structure of the State of Delaware.

Let us then visualize the school of tomorrow as one in which the objectives of honesty, industry, cooperation, courtesy, and moral integrity will take precedence over attainments along academic lines—where the child is the center of interest—where everything conducive to citizenship is the goal of attainment. This school will be manned by teachers trained in the fundamentals of character building and who themselves possess them. In that school the meal-ticket teacher will be conspicuous by her absence. Only those who possess the spirit of service will be present. In the school of tomorrow the principals that education is a duty of the State because citizenship is its product will be realized. Today we see the products of our school seriously deficient in training of character and citizenship. Is it any wonder then that we must sometimes defend our schools against the charge of extravagance and waste in the matter of spiritual attainments?

We have met today under the slogan of the three C's—"The Community, the Curriculum, and the Child." Until the teachers, principals, and superintendents in the State of Delaware become conscious that educational and vocational guidance is the weak link in the chain which binds us into a unit, we will not have fulfilled our destiny. Until the teachers, principals, and the superintendents of the State of Delaware consciously realize that through the channels of educational and vocational guidance character can be formed, lives can be shaped toward the ultimate goal—toward which we all strive—that of happiness—we are destined to a halting progress.

Therefore, my friends, as you go out into the meetings of this afternoon, this evening, and tomorrow, to gain information, to form judgments, and make resolutions, view what you see and what you hear with the qualification that unless the spiritual values of education are more deeply entrenched in the lives of our leaders, then progress has not been adequate.

LIONS CLUB WILL OBSERVE CHARTER NIGHT

In the absence of A. D. Cobb, who is attending a convention in Chicago, Weldon C. Waples, vice-president of the Newark Lions Club, presided at the weekly luncheon meeting of the club at the Deer Park Hotel, Tuesday night.

Plans were discussed for the fifth annual Charter Night to be held next Tuesday night. Professor T. A. Baker is arranging the program and Paul Lovett will be toastmaster. Speakers will include District Governor Arthur C. Smith, of Washington, D. C., and William C. Grace, from the same city.

Vote 4 to 1 To End Delaware College Honor System

By a majority of 4 to 1 the student body of Delaware College has signified that it wants the portions of the Honor System which deal with the conduct of examinations at the school abolished, the Student Council announced yesterday afternoon. The recommendation, which student leaders claim will be accepted by the faculty, will be presented to the authorities at a meeting on Monday.

The abolition of the Honor System, it is pointed out, does not mean the elimination of student government at the school. The undergraduates will insist upon the right to try any possible cases of violations of the system that will be substituted that may arise.

Voting was held last week in all the fraternities and was finished early this week among the non-fraternity students.

Newark New Century Club News

Motion pictures will be the subject presented before the Newark New Century Club next Monday afternoon, Mrs. R. L. Cooch, chairman will be in charge. Some of the recent motion pictures will be reviewed. There will also be special music. Miss Mary Challenger from New Castle will play.

The Reception Committee for the month of November will be composed of Mrs. William R. Lynam, Mrs. James MacKenzie, Mrs. C. E. Ewing and Mrs. A. C. Huston.

Miss Amy Rextrew, Women's College, has accepted club membership.

The Welfare Committee report that more than $145 was made on the Benefit Card Party given at the club house last Tuesday afternoon. Several members who were unable to attend expect to turn in their $1 so the Welfare Committee will be able to start their winter relief work with a goodly sum.

The painting fund has been brought up to $31.25 by means of several benefit card parties and the food sales at the club. There will be another food sale at the club Monday.

Mrs. Harvey Steele and Mrs. S. A. Slack will be in charge of the sale. Many club members have spoken of the increase in friendliness and cordiality at the club house in recent months. Much credit is due to the large Hospitality Committee composed of some 21 members. This committee is always on hand at each meeting to welcome members and has been responsible for the many nice teas and luncheons. A new effort will be made to look after the welfare of members. Mrs. Barnard wishes to be informed of the illness of any club member so that the club member may be remembered with a card or in some other way. Mrs. L. A. Stearns and Mrs. Harvey Hofferker have been ill the past week. Ventilators have long been needed for the club house windows. This committee hopes to have these installed soon.

The Civics and Conservation Committee is having great difficulty in getting the lots across from the club house cleaned. Mr. Hauber has agreed to pay for the cleaning but the Town Council has refused to take action until they receive the money.

The Ways and Means Committee will sponsor a movie benefit on December 4 and 5. Slim Summerville and Zasu Pitts will be seen in "Her First Mate." Mrs. J. Q. Smith will be in charge of the benefit.

A joint meeting of the Executive Committee and the Corporation Board was held at the home of Mrs. F. A. Wheelless on Monday evening.

Thirty-six subscriptions were sent in to the "Delaware Club Woman" this week. Copies of this magazine should be in the hands of members within the next few days.

FAVOR BASIC SURPLUS PLAN NOW IN EFFECT

Present Plan Wins 4 to 3 in Poll of Dairymen

Dairymen in the Philadelphia Milk Shed are in favor of the basic-surplus plan as now in effect, according to a poll of members of the Inter-State Milk Producers' Association. The question was put to every member of that organization now shipping milk; 68 per cent of those who expressed themselves prefer the present arrangements.

The returns were well distributed from all parts of the Philadelphia Milk Shed and inspection of records show that large and small producers expressed themselves substantially as did the majority.

The marketing agreement approved by the A. A. A. uses the basic-surplus plan as a means of keeping production under control and preventing any undue increase in milk supply. It specifically provides that basic production for 1934 shall be found by adding the present established monthly basic, the July and November, 1933, production and dividing this total by three, but that no basic amount can be increased by more than 15 per cent over the present basic.

The alternative plan provided that the monthly average of 1933 production records be used as the established monthly basic for 1934. This plan is similar in certain respects to one that has been proposed by opponents of the present marketing agreement.

Milk producers are paid a price of about five cents a quart for Class 1 milk while in b.m.c., milk which in October and November includes 85 per cent of their established basic quantities. The price of all milk above this amount shipped by each distributor is determined according to butter markets.

Distinctive "Speedstream" Styling in Latest Nash Models

Throughout the week and during the month to come, The Nash Motors Company is formally presenting to American motorists the three entirely new and different series of 1934 motor cars.

All models of the 1934 Nash line, which includes a new twin ignition big six series on 116-inch wheelbase; a new advanced twin-ignition eight series on 121-inch wheelbase, and a new Ambassador twin-ignition eight series on wheelbases of 133 and 142 inches, introduce a distinctive "Speedstream" styling making them the most noticeable cars on the road.

Twin ignition, a costly feature to manufacture, provides many advantages to the owner not found in conventional single ignition motors. Two spark plugs simultaneously ignite the gasoline in the cylinders. This not only provides greater smoothness of operation, but also 22 per cent more power, 5 miles per hour more top speed, and two extra miles per gallon of gasoline, than a motor of equal size with only single ignition. It is one of the important reasons why Nash cars accelerate so responsively.

All models have coincidental clutch starting. The motor is started when the car is put in gear. All have new tri-beam headlamps, new upward-action, positive gear-driven windshield wipers, providing maximum vision at eye level. New Synchro-Shift transmissions provide surprisingly smooth and quiet operation in all speeds.

The new advanced eight models are powered by the Nash twin-ignition, 100 horsepower engine with 3-1-8 inch bore, 4-1-4 inch stroke and has 260.8 cubic inch displacement. The new twin-ignition big six engine, with a 3-3-8 inch bore and 4-3-8 inch stroke has 234 cubic inches of piston displacement and develops 88 horsepower.

The Dennison Motor Company are Nash distributors in Newark.

NEWARK SCHOOL NEWS

Wm. K. Gillespie, Famous Mentor of Newark High Gridiron, Develops A New Type of Teaching Unit In Chemistry

By presenting a plan for a new type of teaching unit in Chemistry Principal Gillespie of the Newark Senior High School, has developed what seems to be a real departure from the stereotyped and formal presentation of the subject of Chemistry. With this plan there seems to be in the offering units for life and units for college preparation, which brings nearer the day of applying the psychology or individual differences in school work.

Mr. Gillespie's paper was presented to the Science Section of the Delaware State Education Association and was as follows:

Chemistry In and About Home Foreword

Every teacher of high school Chemistry is confronted with a mixed group of pupils. Some anxious to learn of the mysteries of Chemistry and to be able to tell parents and friends that they are taking a course in Chemistry; but yet not willing to sacrifice the time and effort to learn all the necessary fundamental laws, theories and mechanics of the course, in other words we have one group taking the course, who do not plan to attend college and are in the course to get what they can out of it and to receive the credit toward a diploma; while the other group is taking the course so that they will be better able to study Chemistry in college. It is for the benefit of the first group, chiefly that this outline has been prepared. It is an attempt to include for them something most practical, something which will hold more interest for them and something that will help to motivate this type of study, for them.

It has always been the desire of the writer to include such a unit as this or some similar unit in the regular high school course which is commonly given throughout the State; which would be of some direct benefit to those boys and girls of the first group, who are needed by the parents to assist them on the farm and in the home, as well as the other members of the class. In all probability these people will not be fortunate enough to have an opportunity to study or read under guidance again and so it is hoped that such a unit might stimulate the desire to adopt some part of the unit, or some phase of Chemistry and develop it as a hobby. Such a unit if carefully planned for by the teacher and presented in accordance with Morrison's Mastery Technique or Unit Plan, should not only serve as a stimulus for further knowledge of the subject; but help to establish safe, efficient and economic practices in their everyday living.

The writer realizes that the Unit here outlined is only scratching the surface, since entire course of study is devoted to the subject; but if a unit is made short with practicability in mind it is possible to include in the usual Chemistry course offered in our high schools. At least it will form a nucleus around which a Unit can be developed to best meet the situation which confronts you.

"The average individual does not realize how very intimately our everyday activities are tied up with chemical phenomena, that probably the action of every organ of our body is accompanied by some one or more chemical changes, that, whether in motion or at rest, asleep or awake every one of us is in a very true sense, a chemical laboratory or factory."

Much material can be found to enrich the unit from Science books, magazines and newspapers. If each student keeps and builds up a scrap book for the unit, the class will not lack material for discussion.

The following reference material is suggested:

1. First Principles of Chemistry—Brownlee, Fuller, Sohon, Hancock, Whit.
2. The Journal of Chemical Education—American Chemical Society.
3. The Chemistry Leaflet—American Chemical Society.
4. Popular Science Talks—Pamphlets, Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and Science.

ELEMENTARY SCHOOL NEWS OUR TRIP TO THE WOODS

We went to the woods to get logs. We went across two fields to find the woods. On our way we saw milkweeds, daisies, tall weeds and grasses, some dried-up clover, golden rod, and a wheat field. It looked like a forest with small trees. We cut down some trees. We brought back all the logs we could carry and the girls helped to find them.

We had such a good time we wish the other third grades were with us. Class, Grade 3. Miss Appar's Room.

WHY THE PILGRIMS CAME TO AMERICA

The Pilgrims came to America because they liked to read the Bible and pray to God in their own way. The King of England made them go to his church and pray his way. The Pilgrims had heard of America, so they came here.

JUNIOR HIGH STUDENTS PRESENT PLAY ILLUSTRATING MISUSE OF BOOKS

Junior High School students presented play illustrating theme.

An assembly of the Newark High School in the school auditorium Wednesday, November 1, was for the purpose of showing the pupils who misuse books that they are doing the wrong thing. John L. Phillips, whose home room presented the play, read the Bible.

The pupils were told that there was just a little bit of inspiration necessary to write a book, but that there

F. F. A. BOYS ORGANIZE

At the first evening meeting of the F. F. A. their organization for the coming year was completed. The following boys were elected to hold the offices for the coming year, President, James Hewes; Vice-President, Norman Dempsey; Secretary, Charles Lynch; Treasurer, Niles Sylvester; Reporter Charles Gifford; State Representative, James Hewes; Watch Dog, William Hoover.

Objectives for the coming year were drawn up and acted upon by the chapter. Committees are to be appointed to work out plans for each objective and present plans for the same to the chapter upon completion of objective. Reporter Charles Gifford.

AGRICULTURE BOYS HOLDING COMMUNITY EXHIBIT

Keeping in step with Education Week and the State Educational Meeting which is being held in Newark this week, the Newark F. F. A. boys are holding a community Farm Crops Exhibit. The exhibits are the result of a year's work on the farm, as all products on exhibit were raised on the home farm.

The exhibit will be open to the public from Wednesday evening until Friday evening, and everyone is invited to attend the exhibit. The exhibit is being held in the club room, (Portable Building) of the F. F. A. Chapter.

combined carbon (90), little hydrocarbon, some ash. Bituminous, composition, uncombined carbon (less than Anthracite) hydrocarbons (20% volatile matter), ash. Canned coal (rich in hydrocarbons), peat (much volatile matter and ash). Gases, Natural gas, coal gas, water gas, acetylene, chief elements present are hydrogen and hydrocarbons. Liquid fuels, petroleum, gasoline, kerosene (coal oil), alcohol, coke, charcoal, wood, candle flames.

Discussion: The history and formation of coal. Trace development from Carboniferous period to present state develop the chemistry of the formation. Work out percentage composition tables to show the fuel values of the various kinds of coal and other fuels. Show reactions that take place in the ordinary furnaces using these fuels and explain the dangers involved in each case. The methods of firing furnaces, keeping same and regulating draft to save fuel.

In the gaseous and liquid fuels, hydrogen and carbon.

Stress the importance of always having lighted taper ready to "off" gas when turned on from a burner. Account of gas and its causes serious explosions. Starting fires with kerosene is a very dangerous practice. Heat smoldering embers will vaporize fuel and the gases set free will catch with air and cause an explosion take place.

The manufacture of candles is the chemistry of the burning gas be included in this topic and the history of illumination, if time will permit.

COACH ROGERS PUTTING BOYS THROUGH PACES FOR P. M. C. GAME

Expect Large Crowd to Follow Team to Atlantic City Saturday

Coach Rogers is making several shifts in the University of Delaware line in an effort to strengthen the team for the game with P. M. C. at Atlantic City Saturday night. Last season Delaware defeated the Cadets in the night game at the shore by the narrow margin of one point.

Stretch Pohl, who was injured in the Lebanon Valley game was out for practice Tuesday and was used in his old position on the Varsity, left end, during the signal drill. Pohl suffered an injured knee but will be in shape to start against P. M. C.

John Carey will be shifted from guard to the other end position in place of Hurley and Kirshner will take his place at guard. It is also likely Worrall, the Newark boy who played tackle in place of Nigels most of last Saturday's game with Drexel will be used in that position again.

Palmer will play the other tackle and Russo the other guard position. George Thompson will be at center and the starting backs will be Green, quarterback; Kemske and Ed Thompson, halfbacks and Captain Branner, fullback.

Jack Glover, the Wilmington boy who has been developing fast as a back had his foot injured in the Drexel game and may be out for the season.

Coaches Rogers and Ziegler used a new backfield shift in the practice Tuesday that is being developed for the P. M. C. game. While Delaware has played fair football the last two games, the coaches are dissatisfied over the fact the team in both contests lacked a scoring punch when a touchdown would have meant victory. A stronger attack is what the coaches are aiming for the P. M. C. game.

Rural Education Department Meeting of the D. S. E. A.

Two outstanding features are slated for the program of the Rural Education Department of the Delaware State Education Association to be held in Newark, November 9th and 10th. On Thursday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock, Miss Mildred English, Assistant Superintendent of Schools of Raleigh, N. C., will give an illustrated lecture on "Fitting the Elementary Curriculum to the Elementary School Child." At 2.15 on the same afternoon the nationally known Dr. Florence Hale, past president of the N. E. A., and editor of "The Grade Teacher," will talk upon the very vital topic, "The Rural Teacher's Part in the N. E. A."

Friday morning will be devoted to election of officers, demonstrations, and discussions. All of the participants are teachers or supervisors in the State Board School Unit. For this reason the demonstration in the practical use of the dictionary as applied to the rural school situation and the discussions on unit planning should be most practical and useful to teachers.

As an added feature to the Nature Study program, Miss Violet Findlay, supervisor of Health and Nature Instruction in the Public Schools of Wilmington, has arranged a most unusual exhibit. This same display presented in New York caused much favorable comment.

A Tale With A Moral

A story is told of a medieval village that decided to hold a great feast. To insure its success, a huge cask was built into which each participant agreed to pour a bottle of wine.

"If I fill my bottle with water," soliloquized one, "and empty it into the barrel with the others, surely it won't be noticed."

The big day arrived, as days inevitably do, and with all the villagers assembled the great cask was tapped. And lo! only water flowed forth. Each of the villagers also had reasoned, "My bit will not be missed."

Community feasts have gone out of style, but not the moral of this tale. It becomes particularly appropriate in

Believe Teachers Learn By Doing and Seeing

The Primary Department, D. S. E. A., under the direction of David McMenamin, principal of the Alfred I. du Pont School, Wilmington, Delaware, believes that teachers learn to do by doing and seeing, as well as by pupils.

With this in mind the Sectional Programs are arranged to provide the maximum of representative activity which will beneficially influence the class room work, of those observing.

The Department feels that the use of the mother tongue is the keystone to the child's school career and has focused its eyes on Language in the first and third grade sections, and the chairmanship of Miss Hazel Mahan, Newark, and Miss Elizabeth C. Martin, Smyrna.

The teachers of grade two, feel that music is to be an integral part of the child's future being, have invited Miss Helen Martin, rural supervisor of music, New Castle County, to show them the way by a demonstration lesson.

It is the hope that these studies the curriculum for the child will be crowned by a product which will rise to glorious communities of the future.

this season of community chests and welfare relief drives.—Editorial, Rotarian Magazine.

Those Wise Ants

Long has the ant, with its organized insect social activities, been held up as a great example of wisdom in nature. But according to the London correspondent of "The Christian Century," Julian Huxley, famous scientist, regards the ant as no example for mankind. The ant shares no qualities with man—he keeps his he has domestic servants, he is forth to war—but the ants seem to have finished their evolution; 200,000 years ago ants were as they are today. But man is only a few hundreds of thousands of years old; is only beginning. All other ants are merely blind products of evolution; man is the conscious trustee of the evolutionary process and can take it further in his own person.

PAUL IN MACEDONIA

LESSON TEXT—Acts 14:19-20, 25-26.
GOLDEN TEXT—And they said, Believe in the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved, and thy house.

PRIMER TOPIC—A Happy Preaching.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Ambassadors for Christ.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOP-IC—Following and Following God's Way.
ADULT TOPIC—THE GOSPEL AND WORLD PEACE.

Forbidden to Preach in Asia (vv.
19-20).

The limitation of the missionaries was to preach in Asia Minor, preaching the Word, but they were hurried along, and to this inclination—a fine example of divine guidance. The Holy Spirit is just as active and faithful in the church as in opening them. "The church as well as the steps of a good man are ordered of the Lord."

The Call to Macedonia (v. 9-12).

The time had now come for the gospel to begin its conquest of another continent. The crossing of the gospel from Asia to Europe determined the future history of the church. Instead of being in a remote, isolated place, it became a world movement.

The vision (v. 9). Paul being blinded in on all sides, experienced a vision of a man of Macedonia pleading for help. This made clear the meaning of the closed doors about him.

The advance (v. 10-12). As soon as the divine way was known they went forward.

The First European Convert
(v. 12).

The Jewish element in Philippi was a small group who were unable to affect a synagogue. Therefore, the demonstrate were accustomed to worship by the river side. To this humble place Paul came and preached.
A business woman of Thyatira, Lydia, heard his message and was bat-tized. The steps in her conversion were strikingly typical—

1. Attendance at the place of worship (v. 12). Usually those whom God is calling are found in the place of worship.

2. Listening to the preaching of the Word of God (v. 13, 14). The instrument used in the conversion of sinners is God's Word. "Faith cometh by hearing and hearing by the word of God" (Rom. 10:17).

3. Her heart was opened by the Word (v. 14). When the gospel is preached the Spirit of God opens the heart for the reception of Christ.

4. She was baptized (v. 15). Confession of Christ in baptism is the natural desire of those whose hearts the Lord has opened.

5. Hospitality practiced (v. 15).
Those who experience God's saving grace are disposed to have part in his work by aiding his ministers.

6. Paul and Silas in a Roman Prison (vv. 16-18).

1. The occasion (vv. 16-24). As the missionaries went to the place of prayer they were accosted by a young man who possessed a spirit of divination. In the name of Jesus Christ, Paul commanded the evil spirit to come out of her. With the casting out of this evil spirit went the supernatural power which was a source of reverence to the syndicate of men who served her. This so enraged her owners that they brought Paul and Silas before the magistrates on a false charge. Without opportunity to defend themselves Paul and Silas were stripped, beaten by the angry mob, re-banded to jail, and were made fast by stocks in the inner prison.

2. Their behavior in jail (v. 25).
They prayed and sang hymns to God.
In spite of circumstances their hearts went up to God in joyful gratitude.

3. Their deliverance (v. 26). The Lord wrought deliverance by sending a great earthquake which opened the jail doors and removed the chains from off their hands.

4. The conversion of the jailer (v.
27). What he heard of Paul's prayer and through his present experience, made the jailer a humble inquirer after salvation. Paul clearly pointed out the way of salvation.

5. The magistrates humbled (v. 28-30).

6. The prisoners ordered released
(v. 30, 31). The earthquake produced in them a moving them to order the prisoners' release.

7. Paul's refusal to go (v. 32). The ground of his refusal was that their rights as Roman citizens had been violated.

8. Officially brought out of prison
(v. 34, 35). Because these were Roman citizens, the officers removed them with fear for what they had done.

Power.

When a man receives the Lord Jesus Christ he is to realize that he has received the power of God to pass through all his trials, and to be exalted in the world for the glory of God and for the salvation of others.

Never Mind How Many!

It is fatal to all courage and energy to begin with counting our foes, instead of realizing the strength of our ally. Greater is he that is for us than they that are against us.—Dr. Al-tizer MacLaren.

TEETH AND HEALTH

By Samuel M. Fink, D. D. S.

DENTAL MASSAGE

The dentist, even with his most skillful efforts, often cannot prevent the loss of teeth unless you assist him by observing the proper rules for home care. A tooth is no better than the tissue which supports it. The gums must be kept healthy, or a perfectly sound tooth will be lost because of Pyorrhea. There has long been an idea that the gums will recede if they are brushed. An incorrect brushing will in time injure the teeth, so also can it injure the gums. Gums may be greatly benefited by massage with the toothbrush or with the finger. If the brush is used for this purpose, it can be employed alone or with the use of a stimulating dentifrice on the surface of the bristles. The brush should be used with a circular motion, whereby the brush approaches the gum margin from the gum and not from the teeth. This prevents much of the recession due to the mechanical action of brushing back the gum edges. Then the finger is used to mas- sage the gums, the ball of the index finger is used against the gum, avoiding the scratching of the gums with the finger nail. A better way, in fact, is to wrap a piece of gauze about the index finger and lubricate it with an astringent dentifrice. The massage with the finger should be in a circular direction with end of the stroke push- ing the gums toward the biting edge of the teeth.

Q.—I have several abscessed teeth in my mouth, the X-ray showing some bone destruction around their roots can this be treated in any satisfac- tory manner and will new bone grow back within the abscess cavity?

A.—Yes.

There are other kinds of infection besides bacterial infection, one may be infected with a non-bacterial disease, or with joy or enthusiasm for that matter. Judging from the manner in which some writers use the word infection, I would say they very frequently mean simply contamination with disease producing germs and their products. For example, the phrase, "infected instrument" could mean nothing more. However, when one speaks of an infected tooth, one usually means infected with bacteria and disease. By disease I mean various destructive tissue changes; again investigators who have recovered bacteria from new bone built in periapical abscess cavities have said that they have found "infection" in the new bone. They have found infection with bacteria, but they have not found infection with disease, that is, diseased destructive tissue change.

P. S.—All Dental questions will be answered in this column by address- ing Dr. Samuel M. Fink, Dentist, 162 West Main Street, Elkton, Maryland.

APPLETON

The following children were present every day during October at Union School:

Mary Hobson, Louise Lake, Mary Martens, Betty Lou Jauney, Jimmie Martens, Norman Hall, Charles Miles, Robert Street, John Hobson, Ralph Smith.

The November meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association, of Union School, was held on November 2, with 35 persons present. After the business meeting a very interesting liter- ary program was given, with Miss Anna Scott as chairman.

Recitations and songs given by the school children were followed by a play entitled "Let the Wedding Bells Ring."

The cast included Mr. and Mrs. Webster, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Jan- ney, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Martens, Mr. and Mrs. Shaw, Misses Anna Scott and Betty Burke, Messrs. William Scott, John Finnegan, James Strahorn and Leonard Strahorn.

The members of the cast took their respective parts exceptionally well.

Mr. Stewart Pryor, president of the Parent-Teacher Association furnished music, Miss Lillie Scott and Mr. John Finnegan sang solos, accompanied by Mr. Pryor. After the program re- freshments were served.

The next meeting will be on De- cember 18. At this time a Christmas party will be given to the school chil- dren.

MOVEMENT AGAINST DEAD BALL STARTED

Indications that the football rules committee of the National Collegiate Athletic Association is willing to erase the "dead ball" fumble rule from its code came Sunday when its New England representative, William J. Bingham, Harvard athletic director, sent the following questionnaire to coaches in this section:

"Would you favor a return to the old rule allowing the kicking team to advance a legally recovered kicked ball either behind or beyond the line of scrimmage?"

"Would you allow the defensive team to advance a fumble recovered either in the air or after striking the ground?"

"Would you allow a recovered lateral pass to be advanced regardless of whether it is recovered in the air or on the ground?"

WILMINGTON DAY

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 15

Wednesday, November 15th, has been designated by the Mercantile Section of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce as the date of the Official Fall "Wilmington Day" when more than one hundred of Wilming- ton's leading merchants will combine their efforts in a great community-wide event in offering to the shoppers of Delaware, Eastern Shore Counties of Maryland and adjacent counties of Pennsylvania and New Jersey a wide variety of bargains in dependable, reasonable wearing apparel, merchan- dize for the home and practically all other lines.

In addition to the fact that the event offers to shoppers an opportu- nity to buy at bargain prices it also offers these shoppers an opportunity to see, as a result of the combined effort of the Wilmington merchants, the very latest Fall and Winter crea- tions in wearing apparel for men, women and children and furnishings for their homes.

For the past month the various committees representing the Mercan- tile Section as well as those mer- chants who will participate in the forthcoming event have been exerting every effort to make this "Wilmington Day" the premier event since its in- ception two years ago.

The event is being given an unusual amount of publicity not only in Wil- mington, but throughout the entire Del-Mar-Va Peninsula and adjoining counties of Pennsylvania and New Jersey which undoubtedly will bring an overwhelming public response. Anticipating a great influx of shop- pers the more than one hundred mer- chants have made unusual prepara- tions for the occasion. Purchasing authorities of these stores have been combing the wholesale and manufac- turing markets for additions to their already widely diversified stocks, and have arranged to employ several hun- dred extra sales persons so that they may render the best possible service to "Wilmington Day" shoppers.

Arrangements have also been made to see that shoppers from out-of-town are shown every possible courtesy by members of the Bureau of Police. All members of the Bureau have been in- structed by the Superintendent of Public Safety, Bureau of Police, to do their utmost to show every possible courtesy to visitors, as is the cus- tom of the Bureau, and also to be prepared to render any service possi- ble to expedite the shopping of visi- tors. Several of the mid-city gar- ages are cooperating also by offering parking service at reduced rates for the occasion.

RECOGNIZE RESPONSIBILITY IN LIQUOR CONTROL PROGRAM

Mrs. Alice Belin du Pont, wife of Pierre S. du Pont, chairman of the Delaware branch, Women's Organiza- tion for National Prohibition Reform, said Wednesday she is gratified that the States voting so quickly have jus- tified the belief of the organization that prohibition would be abolished if the voters were given a direct method of expressing their opinion on the question.

Mrs. du Pont said: "The Delaware branch of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform is gratified that the several States by voting so quick- ly for repeal have justified the belief of this organization that Federal pro- hibition would be abolished if the vot- ers were given a direct method of ex- pressing their opinion. As an organi- zation we are proud of our part in removing from public and private life one of the gravest causes of hypocrisy and evil from which this country has ever suffered.

"The Delaware Women's Organiza- tion for National Reform, as a branch of the national organization whose specific purposes have been achieved, will disband when the thirty-sixth State has ratified in convention the resolution of Congress to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment to the Federal Constitution.

"This does not mean we are under the illusion that the liquor control problem is solved. We recognize and accept our responsibilities as indi- viduals to the community at large in each State for continuous and con- structive effort toward working out increasingly effective measures of lo- cal control, and our responsibility for contributing wherever individual in- fluence may avail, to the type of en- vironment and education that fosters self-control and temperate living."

"YOUTH IN A SOCIAL CRISIS" THEME FOR MEETINGS PLANNED BY DEL. CITIZENS ASSOCIATION

"Youth in a Social Crisis" is the theme of four luncheon meetings planned by the Delaware Citizens As- sociation, which will carry on an in- tensive membership campaign during American Education Week, November 6th to 12th. The nationwide wave of retrenchment has not yet seriously affected the Delaware school system.

An effort will be made at these meet- ings to bring the truth about the needs of the schools to the attention of large numbers of thinking people. The school's responsibility is greater than ever before. Attendance has increased, due to the present lack of employment for older pupils. The curriculum has been broadened, to keep pace with progress in other fields. Unemployment and reduced in- comes have affected many children. It has been necessary, in some in- stances, for the school, through its teachers, to provide health protection for these children. Many Delaware teachers, with the aid of public ag- encies, have taken upon themselves the responsibility of seeing that the chil- dren in their care have proper food and clothing. Seriousminded citizens, realizing the continued necessity for careful budgeting of the State's re- sources, are asking themselves how the efficiency of the educational sys- tem may be maintained.

The committee of the Delaware Cit- izens Association, of which the Hon. Hugh M. Morris is president, has planned the meetings with this prob- lem in mind. One luncheon will be held in each county. Each will be featured by an address on a different phase of the problem, followed by discussion developed by a leader fa- miliar with the local situation.

The other officers of the Association are: Vice-presidents, Lamont du Pont, Burton P. Fowler, Wm. H. Boyce, Frank M. Jones; treasurer, H. Fletcher Brown; secretary, Miss Etta J. Wilson; Executive Committee, Hugh M. Morris, Robert H. Richards, H. Fletcher Brown, J. E. Goslee, Mrs. J. Thompson Brown.

The membership fee has been re- duced to one dollar in order that large numbers of people may become fami- liar with the critical situation con- fronting educators today. The sub- ject of the first meeting will be "Mo- bilizing for the Protection of Dela- ware Youth." Watch the papers for the name of the speaker and the date.

COMMITTEE FOR CARE OF TRANSIENTS TO BE ORGANIZED

A Citizens Committee for the care of transients will be organized in De- laware within the next few days. Mem- bers of the clergy, heads of welfare and relief bodies and other organiza- tions that may in some way contact transients will comprise the personnel of this committee, whose object is to from time to time, furnish advice con- cerning the handling of transients.

Mrs. W. R. Gawthrop, member of the State Temporary Emergency Re- lief Commission, and director of relief for New Castle county, who was se- lected by the Federal Relief Commis- sion to supervise the transient work, will not be able to announce the per- sonnel of this committee until accept- ances have been received and announce- ment of the committee will be followed by a conference to be held in Wil- mington which will be addressed by Morris Lewis, chief of the transient bureau of the Federal Relief Adminis- tration.

Mr. Lewis will explain to the com- mittee what the Federal authorities are planning for transient work, many of the details not having been fully decided upon, it is stated, but which will result within the next two months in the formation of transient bureaus in 300 sections of the United States. When that time arrives and with all bureaux cognizant of the wishes of the government along this line, they will start functioning at once.

Headquarters of the Transient Bu- reau will be in Wilmington, with con- tact centers at the regular relief centers of the State Relief Commis- sion. However, they will not be a part of the Relief Commission but will cooperate in the handling of cases. They are being financed by a separate appropriation by the Federal authori- ties and do not conflict with the regu- lar relief work. Aside from Wilming- ton the relief contact centers, and not camps, will be at Dover and Laurel.

The Transient Bureau in Delaware will provide food, shelter, medical treatment, educational and recrea- tional facilities as well as work. Twenty-five cases of transients have been handled through the Wilmington headquarters within the past fifteen days.

Through reduction of hours from 48 to 40 per week, employment is increased 28 per cent. Adoption of the 40-hour week last March in the second industry mentioned resulted in 45 per cent increase in employment between April 1 and September 1. Estimated increase of workers in the third industry is 20 per cent, through hour reduction from about 50 average to 40, and the minimum rate increases range from 20 to 100 per cent. Sales of these industries during the first 6 months of 1933 averaged one-third of sales for the same period in 1929.

Representative Elliott, of Wilming- ton, has had prepared and probably will introduce it this week, a bill to aid the small home owner from losing his property because of inability to pay his taxes—either State, county or municipal.

Representative Favors State Loan for Taxes

The measure would authorize the State to issue bonds to the extent of $500,000, the money to be placed in the hands of the State Bank Commis- sioner for the relief of delinquent tax- payers who have been unable to pay the taxes because of the depression.

The bill will provide that a taxpay- er in arrears could make application for the payment of his taxes out of this fund. The money would be paid by the State Bank Commissioner and the taxable would be required to re- pay it in ten installments, one falling due every six months, with six per cent interest. The money would only be loaned to those delinquents whose equity in the property is sufficient to safeguard the loan.

Mr. Elliott says his plan would not only save the homes of many taxpay- ers out of work because of the de- pression but would be a great aid to counties, cities and towns now handi- capped because of outstanding taxes.

Milk Codes Place Tax On Poverty

The milk codes which are being put into operation in various cities mak- ing the price of cash-and-carry milk in stories the same as delivered-and- charged milk, place a tax on poverty without benefit to the farmers, Cal Lewis, secretary of the Protest League Against Unfair Milk Codes, asserts. Pointing out that many agri- cultural stations have studied milk delivery costs and have found that it costs two or three cents more to de- liver a quart of milk by wagon than to sell it through a store, Mr. Lewis says that the removal of the differ- tial in price causes people, usually poor, who buy their milk at stores, to pay for an expensive service which they do not get. This is unfair, he says, and is to all effects a tax on poverty. The farmers do not get any more for their milk whether it is sold through the expensive wagon system of distribution, or through the more economical distribution through stores. He asserts that the policy of elimi- nating the one or two cent differential in price will reduce consumption, and thus will curtail the market for dairy farmers.

Senator Reed's refusal to attend a dinner to a new Pittsburgh postmas- ter whose appointment he disapproved meant he was too mad to be hungry.

HUNDREDS PLANNING TO MAKE TRIP SATURDAY TO ATLANTIC CITY

Special Train Leaves Newark Late Saturday Afternoon

Hundreds of students, faculty members and other followers of the Blue and Gold are planning to make the trip to Atlantic City on Saturday of this week when the University of Delaware and P. M. C. of Chester play their annual Armistice Day football game. This game will be played Saturday night in the mammoth convention hall at the seashore resort.

A special train will leave Newark late Saturday afternoon stopping at Wilmington and will return immediately after the game over the Pennsylvania Railroad. This will be the most colorful game of the year. In addition to its being played at night and indoors the P. M. C. cadets will put on a mounted drill inside the big hall. Delaware College rooters will be accompanied by the R. O. T. C. band.

Last year the Delaware-P. M. C. game was also played at night at Atlantic City and Delaware won by a narrow margin. The Chester Cadets are anxious to even up for that defeat and the game should be one of the best of the Blue and Gold schedule.

Last Saturday Delaware lost a hard fought game to Drexel in Philadelphia 6 to 0. After Saturday there will remain but two games on Delaware's 1933 schedule. They play St. Joseph's on Frazer Field, Newark, on Saturday of next week and Juniata on Saturday, November 25, also on Frazer Field.

SIXTY-SEVEN WOMEN'S COLLEGE STUDENTS ON HONOR ROLL

Newark Students Have High Average

The following report for the academic year 1932-1933 indicates the quality of work done by the students at the Women's College, University of Delaware. The average scholastic standing of the entire student body for the year 1932-1933 was 1.39 as compared with 1.34 for the academic year 1931-1932. Sixty-seven students earned an average grade of B or better during 1932-1933 as compared with fifty-seven during 1931-1932.

The index numbers used in this report compiled by Miss Sturges, Registrar of the Women's College, have the following significance; the number 3 denotes an average of A (the highest possible average); the number 2 denotes an average of B; the number 1 denotes an average of C.

The average for students from Delaware secondary schools was 1.36; the average for students from out-of-State secondary schools was 1.49. The sixty-seven students on the Honor Roll came from the following high schools and preparatory schools: Wilmington 16; Newark 9; Laurel 4;

Milford 3; Bridgeville 2; Friends School 2; Harrington 2; Tower Hill 2; Claymont 1; Dover 1; Greenwood 1; Middletown 1; New Castle 1; Rehoboth 1; Seaford 1; out-of-State 20. Of these students 45 were in the School of Arts and Science; 10 were in the School of Education; and 12 were in the School of Home Economics. They were classified as follows: Seniors 25; Juniors 14; Sophomores 16; Freshmen 13. Twenty-three percent of the entire student body were on the Honor Roll. Of the students who entered college from Delaware secondary schools twenty-two percent were on the Honor Roll. Of the students who entered college from out-of-State secondary schools twenty-six percent were on this Roll.

Note: Students who were graduated from a four-year high school and attended another preparatory school for one year before entering the Women's College are classified as representing the school from which they were first graduated.

NEWARK HIGH SCORES 12-0 VICTORY OVER CHURCH FARM

Last Saturday a wide-awake Newark aggregation upset Church Farm to the tune of 12-0. The scoring was done in the first and fourth quarters.

Brimjoin, flashy Newark tackle, blocked a kick, which was recovered by the equally flashy Perry. A triple reverse sent the ball to the 6-yard line and an off-tackle spinner sent Maxwell across the line.

With one minute left to play, Ferris Wharton threw a pass to Guy Wharton, which netted fifteen yards and took the ball to the 15-yard line. Another pass from Wharton to Smith, scored the second touchdown as the whistle ended the game. The lineup: Daly..... L. E. J. McMahon Egner..... L. T. S. Tryke Beers..... L. G. Frazier

Newark Wins From Parkside A. C., 6-0

A first period touchdown gave Newark Yellowjackets a 6 to 0 victory over Parkside A. C., of Chester County, Pa., on the John R. Richards field at Newark Sunday.

Sheaffer, Newark halfback, dashed off tackle for the lone score. The attempt for the extra point failed when a plunge through center was halted. The Yellowjackets had the better of the going during the major portion of the struggle, but Parkside put up a stubborn defense.

Manager Bill Wideman, of the Jackets who is confined to the Wilmington General Hospital, is expected to leave Monday.

Delaware Suffers Last Quarter Defeat

Saturday last the University of Delaware football team lost a very even contest in the final quarter to the Drexel Dragons by a score of 6 to 0, the game being played on Drexel's field in Philadelphia. Picked to lose by all the "experts," Delaware came close to upsetting the dope, but when within scoring distance, failed to produce the punch to cross the scoring line. Twice during the game Delaware was within the Drexel ten-yard line and twice failed to advance.

Out playing the Drexel eleven in the first half by a slight margin, the Hens entered the final period to face

UNCLE EZRA'S LETTER

Bear, Delaware
Toosday, Nov. 7.

My dear Mr. Edjor:

I nows before I starts that I won't be likely to rite you all that transacted since I last writ you. One night last weak I sorta was huntin up some eggs to take to market and went past the Green Lantern and I heerd a fella tryin to play taps, and I sorta felt that I sorta nowed the fella back of the bugle so I stopped Bessie, which I gess you no is my hosses name, and went and peeped in the winder and thar was me frend "Snap" tellin the foks around the table which looked like they was feelin happy like that he usta lead the home town band. I heerd that the magican fello that done a spechal like act in the "Pirate Gold" walked home with my old mailcarrier frend Orville and when he got home by granny he had no pants and he swore mad like and sed that blamed magican musta took them pants off him while he was walkin up the street. After heerin the magican could do things like that to me frend Orville I decided then and thar that Maria and me had to see that show but not havin any redy cash we gathered up a few eggs and put them in a basket and tuk them up to the winder and had a argumint like with the fella sellin tickets who agreed to trade us a couple a tickets fer the eggs. Maria tried to impress on him that they was fresh eggs but he looked sorta sorry like as if he wiaht they was stale ones, as I sorta herd on the side that he was to tend a big affar tomorrer nite so we gives little pieces of paste bord to the fella inside and he makes us go up stairs which I thot was the ladies department but when Maria and me gets up thar we finds most everybody settin in the setts way back and after while a fella starts playing a pianner and everybody makes a grand rush for them front seats. Me frend Frank was usherin but when he sees Maria swingin them thar elbows around he new there was no place fer him and he backed up and Uncle Ezra don't blame him fer he has felt them elbows hisself. Well, sir, the magican fella musta been rite in that bldin cause I was settin thar looking at the front of the theatre when all of a sudden she opens up in front and by golly there was a heck of a lot of pretty gurls, Maria begun to brette hard and I allowed she was beginnin to get excited like. But some of the gurls looked alright to Ezra. And then they begun to play with the kartin from then on and they had all kinds of things. They tried my old frend Doc Downens and by golly the judge "Ira" found him guilty but I gess the judge and Doc was pretty good frens and the judge musta suspended the sentence fer I saw Doc walkin around after the show and he couldn't a been locked up by big Bill. And then they had something they called vaudville with this magican like guy had with two of the prettiest gurls I seed hereabouts. Maria thot maybe she better go home but I wanted to stay cause I wanted to see if the magican would do the same trick on the gurls as he done on my frend Orville. At first I kinda thot they had forgotten that they was going to be thar as they didn't have any dress on but the rest of the foks didn't seem to mind it and by granny I didn't ether. And I still claims that thet fella Hurley musta been some fella cause I seed a fella dead like thar on the stage wid me own eyes with a nerse and doctor right thar and the doctor says its all over now and he looked dead, but by granny as Maria and me was leavin we bunged right into the corpse walkin and he was just as live as could be. They jugled the kartin some more and the little fella I inquired about and they tell me his name is Eugene Monaha. You seed this name is ritten different like cause I couldn't rite this little shavers name but he was the cutest little rascal thet ever shook a toe. And then a lade come out and got right up on her toes with the band of feathers around her waste and dun a dance which I dont no whether the boys call the oo-la-la or not but in my opinion she was dard good and I wasnt able to milk the cows in the mornin cause I clapped so hard I sprained my rist. I no I can kure that dog that me baker frend John had of them worms if he gets in tuch with me. Maria has just come in from milkin Ethel, thats me cows name and shes lookin daggers at me as she rekons I am downright foolish to rite you.

So long

UNCLE EZRA.

P. S. Dont tell Maria but I would give two duzen eggs anytime to see the little shaver and that Vassallo gal agin and I am trying to get a job as the Magican assistant.

a rejuvenated Drexel team, and Potter battered his way through their forward wall consistently. After holding for three downs Delaware allowed Wright to take Potter's pass from the seven-yard line over the goal.
