Mrs. Cooper is being assisted by Mrs. Keith Binnerley, Ethel Terrill, Paul Belgiano, Page Buckley, William DeLong, Peter Cooper, Jack Gerster, B. A. Richardson, Mark Plungian, Bruno Schuler, Victor Thayer, Cuthbert Webber, and John Wigall.

"Because of inadequate training in some high schools in the South," Mrs. Cooper reports, "colleges for which the UNCF drive is conducted, must provide high school along with college curricula, and because of the Negro need for financial aid, must provide jobs for many of their students."

"Funds obtained in this drive are necessary for continued operation of these colleges," Mrs. Cooper concluded.

Teacher Training
For "Head Start"
Scheduled At U.D.

Camille Schiffman Heads
Training Program To Aid
Culturally-Deprived Child

The University of Delaware will play a key role in the U.S. Office of Economic Opportunity's "Head Start" program by training most of the head teachers for Delaware.

University personnel also will train teachers from neighboring states who live in communities easily accessible to the campus.

Two training sessions for about 50 teachers each will be held at the university June 20-26, and June 27-July 2. All community Head Start programs must be in operation by July 8, and will continue for eight weeks.

Purpose of Head Start is to give culturally deprived children a better chance to succeed when they enter school in the fall. A number of Delaware school districts and community organizations already have applied for assistance under the program.

Directing the training of head teachers at the university will be Camille Schiffman, ass't professor of child development in the school of home economics, and Dr. Howard E. Lamb, ass't professor of education.

Miss Schiffman has been a consultant to communities planning Head Start operations in Delaware, Georgia and Virginia and has attended regional planning sessions in Washington and at the University of Maryland.

Other Delaware faculty members involved will be Dr. Mary Jane Stratton, associate professor of child development, and Mrs. Mary Ellen Hitchcock, instructor in home economics, who will train a demonstration group of underprivileged children.

According to Miss Schiffman, "An amazing amount of organization and planning has been devoted to this undertaking in a comparatively short time. We are doing everything possible to see that this worthwhile project will be supported and it needs to produce beneficial results this summer."

Head teachers prepared in the university's program will be assigned to community centers on the basis of one to 15 children. Assistant teachers will work with them as needed.

It is hoped that Head Start classes will assist 300,000 children in at least 2,000 communities throughout the nation this summer. Plans already are being formulated to establish a year-round $150 million operation next year.

The National University Extension Association has a master contract with the Office of Economic Opportunity to train Head Start teachers. Delaware's extension division will administer the funds and coordinate arrangements for the two training sessions on the local campus.

Newark Chief Of Police
Offers Preventive Steps
For Homeowners To Take

This is the time of the year when burglars and prowlers are most active, Newark Police Chief Arthur S. Haussler warned today, with many people going away on weekends or vacations, and virtually abandoning their homes to burglars.

June 20-26 has been declared by the International Association of Chiefs of Police as Burglary Prevention Week, a period during which Chief Haussler hopes to make all Newark homeowners more aware of precautions they may take to frustrate the attempts of would-be burglars this summer.

A stroll around the neighborhood will tell at a glance what's afoot. Their porches will be cluttered with circulars; an accumulation of milk bottles on the stoop; an unkempt lawn; an empty garage with the door open; or a bulging mailbox.

In the evening, most empty homes can be spotted by the dark houses. Light is one of the best deterrents to crime, yet most homeowners go out for an evening and leave their homes completely dark. Or, they'll go off for a weekend or vacation and leave the same light burning day and night.

No light at all, or a light burning continuously is a good giveaway "no one is home," Haussler warns.

A simple but effective means of having light in your home every evening is by connecting an automatic timing device to one or two lamps.

By observing a few simple precautionary steps, you can reduce the possibility of a burglar selecting your dwelling as his target next time you're away, Chief Haussler said.

1. Connect a lamp to an automatic timer to turn lights in the home on and off each evening.

2. Close and lock all doors, including porch, basement and garage. Use pin-tumbler cylinder locks on outside entrances and safety latches on the windows.

3. Be sure all screens are fastened from the inside.

4. Never leave valuables lying around; keep them in a safety deposit box.

5. Notify your police department when you'll be leaving and how long you expect to be away.

6. Cancel all deliveries, and have a neighbor, or your post office hold all mail until you return.

7. Arrange with a friend to mow the lawn and sweep your sidewalk once a week. Also ask if he'll pick up any circulars or handbills that may be left on your porch.

8. Leave your shades and blinds as you normally do; closed blinds keep the sun out, but also make an effective screen for the burglar.

9. Never advertise your departure with an item in the local paper. Give the story about your vacation to the newspapers after you've returned.

Council Approves Assessments With Rolls To Be On Display

Assessor Charles D. Long Reports $55,427,650 Taxable Assessment For $415,707.37 City Revenue For Fiscal Year; Kells Avenue Residents Oppose Fraternity House

Property assessment rolls in the amount of $94,973,280 for the tax year July 1, 1965 to June 30, 1966, were approved at the regular meeting of Newark City Council last Monday night, as presented by City Secretary-Assessor Charles D. Long, and are to be publicly displayed from June 1 through June 10. Tax exempt assessment of $29,545,630—an increase of $518,400 over the previous year—leaves a taxable assessment balance of $55,427,650 to provide the City of Newark with a gross property tax revenue of $415,707.37 for the coming year at the current rate of 75 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

Assessment rolls are to be displayed at Rhodes Drug Store, June 1-6, and at Neighbors Pharmacy, June 7-10.

Annual Appeal Day was scheduled for June 11, with appeals on assessments to be heard from 1 to 8 p.m. at the council office in the Academy Building.

Tax exempt property acquired by the University of Delaware during the previous tax year was assessed at $481,000. Other property deleted from the tax rolls includes that acquired by the Newark Housing Authority and assessed at $6,300; property on West Park Place assessed at $5,000 and acquired by the city; and demolition of NVF property on Annabelle Street with an assessment of $26,000.

Reassessment Steps
"I am willing to approve the rolls this year if we immediately take steps for reassessment for next year," Councilman William M. Coverdale—long-time advocate for a more equitable assessment—said.

"Bill is exactly right," Councilman David H. Doehrlert declared. "There are inequities."

Long advised council not to "expect to receive expenses of reassessment in one year," and Acting-Mayor Henry R. Folsom, Jr., asked "Do you recommend reassessment?" And Long replied "I do."

Folsom said that "enough inequities have been disclosed by spot check to indicate need for reassessment," and added that "our prime purpose here is to remove inequities. The rolls were approved unanimously, along with the proposal for reassessment. Use the new assessment figures to be compiled by the city."

Two ordinances were passed at final readings, reestablishing a 35 mph speed limit on Kirkwood Highway from the B&O Railroad north to the city limits, and providing for a fee of $30 to be paid for each hearing before the Board of Building Appeals.

Three letters were read, objecting to the purchase of property on Wolston Avenue for use as a Theta Chi fraternity house.

Objections
"Since this has been a nice residential section of town, and one fraternity has been permitted on Academy Street," Kells Avenue couple wrote to council, "it seems we would be subjecting ourselves to more traffic, inadequate parking space, and noise from parties which would in turn depreciate our property."

Another couple wrote, "... such a move would seriously threaten the close proximity which has a decided personal and financial affect on the present home owners of the area."

And in the third letter, also from residents of Kells Avenue, it was stated, "... Although we feel that fraternities serve a useful and happy part of a young man's college experience, and we would like to see them prosper, we did not buy our homes on only to find ourselves forced out by the noise and traffic that such fraternities necessarily bring. Property values are often lowered when fraternities move into a neighborhood."

All three letters advised that the university has land available for fraternities houses, and proposed that Theta Chi establish their proposed home on such property.

Concerning plans for the fraternity house on Williston Avenue, Councilman Fred Wakefield said "that is my district, and I will vigorously oppose such proposal."

Public Hearing Required
Council pointed out that the establishment of a fraternity house in the area would be subject to public hearing before the Board of Adjustment, with two weeks notice.

Wakefield said that his constituents were concerned that the fraternity would purchase the property, and later obtain permission for its use as a fraternity house site.

A proposed ordinance to provide a penalty from $50 to $500 for the alderman's failure to keep required records was approved at the first of two required readings, and a resolution was adopted, approving the play for Fairfield Section III with 53 lots complying with RS zoning.

Polly Drummond Hill Civic Association Praises, Protests 4th Pike Creek Plat

The Polly Drummond Hill Civic Association both praised and protested the fourth and latest subdivision plan for Pike Creek Valley, last Thursday.

Although the Association said it is pleased in general with proposals for Pike Creek Valley, and in particular with willingness of developers to provide land for widening Polly Drummond Hill Road, it raised three objections to the latest plan.

Appearing before the New Castle County Regional Planning Commission meeting, John T. Gallagher, attorney for the association, contended the layout of Meeting House Hills—a 261-lot subdivision—does not conform to the master plan for the Pike Creek development.

The subdivision will be on Polly Drummond Hill Road in the western part of the development. The road is to be widened to an 80-ft right-of-way.

Frank A. Robino Jr., developer of Meeting House Hill, replied that the layout does conform to the master plan.

The commission found the plan acceptable and granted it tentative approval.

The three objections were: The 261 lots proposed for Meeting House Hill are 25 per cent more than the updated master plan indicated. Robino said the master plan is schematic only, and that the density limitation applies to over-all development. It will contain no more than 4,500 dwellings.

The master plan proposed an irregular and interesting arrangement of building lots more or less in keeping with the clustering concept, but that the Meeting House Hill plat seems to be in a traditional grid pattern. Robino replied that because the land is hilly, the lot layout will turn out to be an interesting one and will not resemble a grid.

While 5.5 acres of open space not required by the master plan have

Memo from your Doctor

DIABETES

Since most diabetes is easily controlled today, early detection is most important for proper protection.

Diabetes can start at any age, which is an important reason for having regular physical check-ups by your physician. Although diabetes is still not completely curable, it is possible for the diabetic to lead a completely normal life by following the program that his physician has recommended.

When a person has diabetes his body is unable to store and use sugar and carbohydrates normally, and so extra amounts of glucose are found in the blood and may be present in the urine. If this condition is neglected, it can lead to serious complications such as eye trouble, arteriosclerosis and kidney disease.

The most common symptoms of diabetes are thirst, frequent urination, itching and weight loss.

To control diabetes it is necessary to keep the blood sugar at a normal or near normal level and the urine sugar-free. In order to accomplish this it is necessary to follow one or more of the following programs: control your weight by following a diet prescribed especially for you by your doctor; take insulin or an insulin-like substance; test your urine for sugar; relate your exercise to the amount of food you eat and vice versa, and observe faithfully the rules for personal hygiene.

Your doctor will be able to determine the best regimen for you. When diabetes is well controlled, you may fully expect to live a long, useful and normal life. Diabetes work in every occupation and some even participate in many kinds of sports.

If you have diabetes you can control it and live an active, useful and normal life by cooperating fully with your doctor and by faithfully following the regimen that he prescribes for you.

This column is a service of your doctor through the Medical Society of Delaware.

Bulletin Offered To Help In Wood Furniture Choice

Wood furniture is available in a confusing wide range of styles and prices, but well-chosen furniture does not become outdated, says Corral Morris, extension home management specialist at the University of Delaware, in the new publication "Buying Wood Furniture."

Your furniture must be fitted to your home, she says. Before you shop, consider your overall room and house plan. Decide whether colonial, traditional or modern furniture suits you best. If you enjoy mixing styles, pick one to predominate, and use another as contrast.

"Buying Wood Furniture" is available free from the Department of Rural Communications, University of Delaware, Newark.

MEMORIAL DAY WEEKEND HOPE

Newark's annual Memorial Day program last Sunday was an impressive success, thanks to wonderful weather and the many dedicated persons working with Chairman C. Vernon Steele for the presentation of this tribute to America's fighting men who gave their lives for their country.

We most fervently hope that this coming Memorial Day weekend will prove as successful in tribute to the living—that this national holiday will be unmarred by unnecessary death and injury with the heavy holiday traffic—and that in Newark, at least, we all will be safe and sound next Tuesday.

Letters To The Editor

VFW Post 475
May 24, 1965.

Lorraine Dalton, Buddy Poppy Queen for the Veterans of Foreign Wars and Ladies Auxiliary of Post 475, Newark, wishes to express her sincere thanks to the people who responded so generously by wearing the traditional Buddy Poppy.

We citizens of Newark, can be proud of our city which dedicates so much to the memory of our war dead each year.

Again, our sincere thanks.
In behalf of VFW Post 475, Lorraine Dalton and John Sadot.

City Council

Councilman Olan R. Thomas, chairman of the utilities committee, presented two proposed ordinances amending water and electric service rates, which are to be discussed at the June 1 meeting of the finance committee. Thomas said water rate revisions were intended to place Newark in a more competitive position with commercial companies. Both proposals were approved at initial readings.

Folsom, chairman of the finance committee, said that possibilities for financing the proposed mall were to be discussed informally at the June 1 meeting.

Weekly Meetings?
Doehliert proposed that council meetings be scheduled weekly on Tuesdays to eliminate special meetings, and to permit councilmen to contact municipal staff members with an extra day lapse after the week-end.

"By holding regular meetings more frequently," he said, "we can eliminate the difficulty of scheduling special meetings." He added that the public has difficulty in keeping informed on the scheduling of special sessions.

"It is demanding enough to meet twice a month," Coverdale objected. "After all, we do have our own lives to live, and we are not getting paid on a meeting basis." And Councilman Thomas said that he would prefer to meet "twice a month."

Doehliert declared that council had held more than four meetings a month.

"You will more than double the number of meetings," City Manager J. Francis Neide commented on the proposal, "with five Tuesday meetings every third month—from 24 to 53."

No action was taken on Doehliert's proposal.

Solicitor Clyde M. England, Jr., is to confer with Alderman Richard McCann on city conformance with the state criminal code and England is to cooperate with the city manager in the collection of delinquent taxes with the solicitor's observation that the city would "waste money filing across the board for the collection of delinquent liens"—the expense in some cases, exceeding return.

"I am looking—frantically!" Solicitor England said when asked for an opinion on the legality of paying a week's parking meter fee for the storage of bricks by a contractor with construction work on the school building at 83 East Main Street.

And Contractor Paul Hawthorne's request was denied when England's search revealed that use of parking meter space for "public work" was limited to 72 hours.

The city is to send a letter supporting Dover passage of House Bill 243 to increase the municipal aid fund from $1,200,000 to $2,000,000, with an increase of $49,000 in Newark's share of this fund, and England was instructed to appear at the State Legislature in city opposition to HB-179 proposing protection for investor-owned utilities in areas that may be annexed.

City Planning Director John J. Crisbush presented proposals from the Public Works Department for improvement of the western area drainage ditch, with the Newark Planning Commission recommendation that a buried box culvert for a 10-year storm capacity be constructed at a cost of $70,700.

"I don't cotton to a buried concrete box," Councilman Albert P. Chittenden said. "I can foresee a lot of trouble."

Coverdale asked if the proposals were predicated on the professional survey conducted by Whitman, Requardt, and City Manager Neide replied that the Public Works Department had presented its own proposals in "trying to do the job more economically."

Coverdale said that the State Highway Department, Chrysler, the Pennsylvania Railroad, and the city were all concerned with this drainage ditch, and asked "what are they going to do?"

Folsom urged "More Public Works Department thinking with relation to the Whitman-Requardt report," and Neide said that he would try to have such information for the next council meeting with Public Works Director Ben Campagna present.

Anna E. Richards Dies At Age Of 67

Mrs. Anna Elizabeth Richards, 67, wife of John W. Richards of Elbow Lane near Newark, died Saturday night in the Jennersville (Pa.) Hospital.

She suffered a cerebral hemorrhage.

Mrs. Richards is survived in addition to her husband, by a son, Alexander F. Richards of Newark; her mother, Mrs. Carrie McCann, and her sister, Mrs. Andrew Campbell, of Newark.

A native of Maryland, Mrs. Richards had lived in the Newark area for the past 25 years.

Services were conducted Tuesday afternoon from the Robert T. Jones & Son Funeral Home.

Interment was in Head of Christiana Cemetery.

Griesbaum recommended that the zoning ordinance be amended to provide more strict definition of "open area," with minimum parking space of 200 sq. ft. to be provided for each family apartment, and Folsom said that he had "encountered lack of parking space in visiting apartment dwellers."

Councilman Chittenden observed that apartment projects can't provide parking space for all visitors.

Doehliert's proposal to have Mrs. Elizabeth Ronkin fill the unexpired term of E. L. Raun as a member of the planning commission, until next Sept. 15, was approved by acclamation. And then the appointment was deferred with Solicitor England's observation "I don't know whether I should bring this up," but two engineers were required on the commission. Raun's resignation leaves but one engineer as a member—George Pinto.

"You should bring these things up," Acting-Mayor Folsom said. Neide reported that school crossing guards were to be employed at three additional sites — on Route 896 between Old Chestnut Hill Road and Park Drive, Silverbrook; at South College Avenue and Park Place; and on Casho Mill Road.

A resolution was introduced to install a stop sign on West Park Place for traffic turning south on College Avenue, was approved at its first reading.

The city manager's recommendation that present one-way traffic on Elkton Road between Main Street and Delaware Avenue be maintained, was approved in a 5-1 vote. In view of cost of reconstruction and reduced traffic when Hillside Road is extended, a change to two-way routing was not justified, Neide said.

Concerning construction of the new university dormitory complex west of the B&O Railroad, Folsom said that it did not agree with city zoning. And the solicitor replied that state agencies "are exempt from local zoning regulations."

Coverdale asked Neide for a report on rumors of resignation threat from municipal electrical crews working on Delaware Avenue. Chittenden reported complaint of speeding on Bent Lane, and Neide is to report on the possibility of installing a stop sign on Bent Lane at the Briar Lane intersection "to break up this long stretch for speeding," as Chittenden suggested.

A special meeting was scheduled for June 2 at 8 p.m. to consider Neide's recommended salary and wage schedule, and employment of additional civil and electrical engineers.

Wakefield reported complaint of Courtney Street residents with high grass in back of their properties, and Morris Adams, a Courtney Street resident requesting parking prohibition to eliminate motor scooters in the street in front of his house, presented photos of parked scooters in the area.

The "no parking" regulation, Adams said, would "take away space for two cars—cars currently parked by people who work at the university."

Leonard Dukart, manager of McDonald's drive-in restaurants in Newark and on Kirkwood Highway, protested city charges for electricity for the Newark unit as "way out of line" with 176 McDonald's stores. Dukart said that he had asked for an adjustment on March 15, 1960, and that an adjustment was not made until last November.

"If you were assigned the proper electric rate and your meter was checked as correct," Folsom said, "Mr. Neide has done all that he can do by law." He termed Dukart's electric bill as "unfortunately, the cost of doing business in Newark."

Extended from the 10:30 deadline to clear the agenda, the council meeting was adjourned last Monday at 11:50 p.m.

Plan Memorial Day Radio Program

Newark Central Junior High School Principal H. Nelson Friedly (left), host on the weekly radio program "Newark Schools On Parade," which is broadcast Sundays at 12:30 p.m. over station WNRK, and Philip A. Toman, assistant to the superintendent for information services in the Newark school district, prepare the Memorial Day program "In Memoriam" to be aired this Sunday over the local radio station at 12:30.

Schools On Parade To Offer Program For Memorial Day

On Memorial Day this Sunday, "Newark Schools On Parade" will feature a special broadcast "In Memoriam," at 12:30 p.m. on WNRK. Newark school children will participate in the program designed to express in words and music, feelings of Americans for their land, and it is dedicated to those who gave their lives for their country, and to those who now carry the torch of liberty for future generations.

As Host H. Nelson Friedly put it: "Newark Schools On Parade" will do its best to honor the men and the idea which began at Lexington and Concord—the men and their principle at Valley Forge and Yorktown, at Vicksburg and Gettysburg; at San Juan Hill — the Ardennes, Belleau Woods; in the skies over Europe and Asia — at Anzio — at Normandy — at Bastogne — at two Jima and Midway — and in the Coral Sea, Korea — and most recently, in Vietnam — wherever a precious drop of American blood has been spilled to preserve the precious heritage of American democracy."

Featured musical groups on the program include the Newark High School A-Cappella Choir and Concert Band under the direction of Harley S. Hastings; the West Park Place Elementary School Fifth Grade Chorus directed by Mrs. Jeannette R. Woodhouse; the Christiana-Salem Elementary School "Harmonics" directed by Edward C. Bittenbender; the Christiana High School A-Cappella Choir with soloist Randy Wimberly; the eighth grade music class of Ogletown Junior High, directed by Mrs. Hazel J. Painter; and the E. Francis Medill Elementary School Band under the baton of Ernest Wilder.

Diet's Relationship To Physical Fitness Stressed By Food Expert At University

Life is more fun when you feel it, not want to eat the same amount each day, nor even want to eat a steadily increasing amount of food as it grows older.

Unfortunately, bad eating habits seem to be a problem at all age levels, from the very young to the very old. Feeding problems often start with infants who worry mothers by eating less than the mother believes necessary.

Miss Coblenz says that nearly one-quarter of the teenagers tested in a recent study had inadequate diets. The same proportion of people over 65 who were tested, also had markedly poor diets.

As chief cook and menu-planner, mother must cultivate better food habits for her family. The attitude of children toward specific foods is largely determined by the mother, and in some cases, father. The foods mother cooks and serves in the home are most acceptable. Children are more apt to react with dislike to an unfamiliar food never served at home.

Mothers can help develop a taste for the new foods she serves by not insisting children eat too large a portion the first time, says Miss Coblenz.

A baby's refusal to eat is not a personal insult to the mother, nor is it necessarily a sign of illness. A healthy baby will eat enough to maintain a natural growth pattern.

Every mother of a teenage boy knows they eat constantly; their appetite is never satisfied. Because of rapid physical development, teenage boys need more protein, vitamins and minerals than their fathers, says Miss Coblenz.

Teenagers eat one-quarter of their food as snacks, so it is especially important to have nutritious, appetizing snacks readily available. Try to substitute fresh fruit, meat and milk for the high-calorie, low-nutrition snacks usually grabbed.

Teenage girls are probably the poorest-fed members of the American family, says Miss Coblenz. Only four out of ten teenage girls have an adequate diet, recent studies show.

Improved Driving Program Offered By Safety Council

"There are more than 250,000 licensed drivers in Delaware and just about everyone thinks he is an excellent driver," according to James T. Ferri, president of the Delaware Safety Council.

"But just in case we really are not quite as good at driving as we ought to be, there is a way to make sure," Ferri said, "and that is to take the National Safety Council's Driver Improvement Course."

The course is intended to reverse the spiraling traffic accident rate in Delaware and across the country. The National Safety Council puts the immediate situation right on the line—bluntly saying that, beginning Memorial Day, this nation will enter the most hazardous driving period of a year already breaking all records for traffic fatalities.

"More Americans will drive to their deaths this summer than in any three-month period in the history of the organized safety movement—unless something extra is done," Ferri said.

"You must realize that we are talking about you and me—and our families," he pointed out, "and that this is our right here to live."

"Fortunately, much is being done," Ferri said, "Action is being taken all along the line to improve our roads, to increase enforcement of our laws, and to educate both new and older drivers so they can drive safely."

"When it is all said and done, there is one person who has the big say about traffic safety," Ferri continued. "You and I see him every time we look in the mirror."

Ferri encourages all Delawareans to enroll in the Driver Improvement Course being conducted throughout the state by the Delaware Safety Council, 2092 DuPont Building, Wilmington.

H-J Waitresses To Appear In House Of Dior Garb

Mention the House of Dior and women begin to dream of Paris and glamorous fashion. For most women the dream rarely becomes reality.

However, it will become a reality for 7,500 women in 35 states, including 150 in Delaware—waitresses in 718 Howard Johnson's Restaurants for whom the House of Dior is designing a new uniform.

The public—and the "Johnson Girls" as they are called—will see the first picture of the new uniform in an autumn issue of Vogue Magazine.

Home Accidents Claim 11 Lives During April

Home accidents claimed 11 lives during the past month of April, and Mrs. Ruth N. Cann, Delaware Safety Council vice-president for home safety, stresses that this is a sharp increase over any month this year. Four deaths were caused by falls, four by fire and three from mechanical suffocation.

"This is the time of year when extra care should be exercised in the home," Mrs. Cann cautioned. "Spring housecleaning, rearranging furniture, and the incense normal increase in seasonal activities in the home can cause accidents."

EVERY 20 SECONDS Another American becomes a senior citizen, joining the nearly 19 million men and women now over 65, and each year, this total increases by 1.5 million people. May has been designated as Senior Citizens Month by President Johnson to recognize accomplishments and needs of this rapidly growing segment of the population.

Crash diets, skipped breakfasts and improper snacks are major factors in their poor diet habits. Bad eating habits are unfortunate for several reasons besides the ill effects on the girls themselves. Nearly half the brides in the United States today are teenagers, and one out of three first children is born to a teenager. Many girls will establish the eating habits for their families without themselves understanding the importance of good nutrition or what constitutes a well-balanced diet.

Mothers can help, emphasizes Miss Coblenz. Identify your daughter's eating habits with the trim figure and alert personality she wants so much. Do not allow your daughter to go on a crash diet—and set her a good example by refusing to go on one yourself. Crash diets are notoriously unhealthy—as well as ineffective for long range figure control.

Teach your daughter to follow a daily food guide such as the Basic Four—a food guide that recommends two glasses of milk, two servings of meat, fish, poultry or eggs, four servings of fruits and vegetables, one in the city group and another in the green leafy group, and four servings of bread and cereals for each person every day.

Spanish War Vet, Native Of Newark John Lloyd Dies

A native of Newark, John W. Lloyd, one of six remaining Wilmington area Spanish-American War veterans, died May 19, after a brief illness.

Mr. Lloyd, 87, served with the 1st Delaware Regiment from 1898 to 1900. He was active in, and past commander of Delaware's George Paul Farrell Camp 1, United Spanish War Veterans.

He died in Brandywine Springs Nursing and Convalescent Home, Wilmington, where he had resided for two weeks.

Only recently, Mr. Lloyd had informed officials he would be unable to join four colleagues in the camp's annual participation in Newark's Memorial Day observance last Sunday.

After last year's observance, he was awarded a certificate of appreciation for many years of participation in the event.

A widower, he made his home with his son-in-law and only daughter, the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. A. H. Kleffman of 1406 Shipley Road, Shipley Heights.

Lloyd retired 10 years ago from civilian service with the Navy that spanned World Wars I and II.

He was a master mechanic who also had worked for the Harlan and Hollingsworth Co., Pusey & Jones Corp., Bethlehem Steel Corp., and the DuPont Co.

Interviewed before Memorial Day two years ago, Mr. Lloyd recalled his days as a Camp Mead (Pa.) horseback courier during the Spanish-American War.

"The Army wasn't like it is today," he said then. "We slept on the ground on blankets."

Services were conducted Saturday morning from the Beeson Funeral Home, Penny Hill. Interment was in Riverview Cemetery.

Just Desserts For Fathers Slated At Chicken Festival

The Delaware Chicken Festival committee will see to it that fathers get their just desserts at Salisbury, Md., next month during this year's Festival.

"Because Father's Day will be celebrated nationally on Sunday, June 20, and because the National Father's Day Council specifies chicken as the official dish for Father's Day, we proclaim Saturday, June 19, as Father's Day-at-the-Festival this year," reports George Wolf, of Salisbury, this year's general festival chairman.

Two outstanding students have been chosen by the University of Delaware Alumni Association to hold the Edith A. McDougle and Samuel Chiles Mitchell scholarships when they enter the freshman class in September.

The Alumni Association awards up to $750 per year, renewable for four years if academic and citizenship records of recipients are satisfactory.

Diseases Menace Bluegrass Lawns For Delawareans

Two prominent diseases have been found on Kentucky bluegrass lawns in Delaware this spring, according to Dr. J. W. Heuberger, extension plant pathologist, and W. J. Manning, research fellow at the University of Delaware.

Leafspot and foot rot disease, and stripe smut affect several varieties of Kentucky bluegrass.

Symptoms of leafspot and foot rot are easily recognized by the appearance of numerous reddish-brown, purple or black spots on leaves, researchers explain. Eventually, the leaves and stems shrivel and turn brown, and patches of the lawn appear to "melt out."

Merion is a resistant variety of Kentucky bluegrass. While some leafspots may develop on it, it is seldom killed by the fungus.

Chemical control of the disease consists of spraying the lawn at 10-day intervals in the spring and fall with either 3-oz of captan or zineb in 5-gal of water. This will treat 1,000 sq. ft. of lawn area.

Plant pathologists caution that organic mercury fungicides should never be used on Merion bluegrass.

Stripe smut disease of Kentucky bluegrass is caused by a fungus that grows internally throughout the leaves and stems of the grass plants.

Heuberger and Manning point out that the disease is usually first noticed when black, sooty deposits that rub off easily are found on the leaves. Later the leaves whither, turn brown and die.

Merion, Troy and common Kentucky bluegrass are all susceptible to the fungus, but the Park, Newport, K-34 and K-1 are quite resistant.

Chemical control attempts are usually not very satisfactory because of the systemic nature of the disease and the large number of spores present, researchers explain.

Spores of the fungus survive on grass seed, but it can be treated before planting with an organic mercury fungicide such as Ceresan. This can be done by shaking both the seed and the fungicide in a paper bag, taking care not to inhale the fungicide.

Heuberger and Manning also point out that spraying for leaf spot and foot rot disease may reduce stripe smut damage.

"American" Strawberries Date To Times Of Romans—But Are Better Than Ever

Strawberries and shortcake seem as thoroughly American as fried chicken and apple pie, yet people have enjoyed strawberries since Roman times.

Small, sweet varieties grow wild throughout the world, and they were growing when colonists first came to the eastern shores of the United States. However, these wild berries were a far cry from the large, luscious fruit we enjoy today, says Janet Coblenz, extension food and nutrition specialist at the University of Delaware.

Each year, strawberries seem to be bigger, more beautiful and better tasting. They not only taste good, but strawberries also are an excellent source of vitamin C. One cup will give you more than the daily requirement. They also supply small amounts of other vitamins and some minerals.

Look for fresh strawberries that are dry and glossy, solid red in color, free from white, green or hard tips, and free from moisture, dirt or decay spots. Strawberries without caps may be over-ripe. Size is no indication of flavor, Miss Coblenz says.

Buy or pick berries as you are ready to use them, she advises. Fresh strawberries are very perishable and should be used within a day or two. Store them uncapped in the refrigerator, not in the crisper.

Too much moisture in the air around the berries encourages mold. Wash the berries gently in cold water and remove the green caps when you are ready to use them.

Strawberries can be a boon to calorie counters; one cup contains only 54 calories. Unfortunately, by the time you add the sugar and whipped cream many recipes call for, the calorie count is astronomical.
