NEWARK MUSIC SOCIETY RE-ELECTS OFFICERS

Announces Interesting Curtis Concert for Thursday, Jan. 19

By The Newark Post

The annual business meeting of the Newark Music Society was held at the home of President and Mrs. Walter Hulten on January 10. The chief purpose of the business meeting was the election of officers for the coming year. This was quickly taken care of when Dr. Ryden, as chairman of the nominating committee, proposed that the officers for the past year be re-elected for the coming year. This is a splendid tribute to the work of the officers, who are as follows: Dr. W. Ryden, president; Mr. Frank Wilson, vice-president; Miss Freda Pitt, secretary; and Mrs. R. L. Spence, treasurer.

Following the election of officers, a motion was made of the gratifying increase in the membership for this year and a hearty welcome was accorded the new-comers. The number of new members received into the society is 40, bringing the enrollment to 125.

As there was no further business this part of the meeting was adjourned and the program for the evening followed.

The first selection was the Allegro from "Nacht Musik," by Mozart, performed by the Women's College Quintette. The quintette consists of three violinists, a cellist and a pianist. Members of the quintette are Misses Dorothy Hudson, Helen Eckert, Margaret Jones, Marjorie Slider and Helen Russell.

Next on the program was a solo by Dr. George H. Ryden, baritone, who pleased the audience very much with his interpretation of "Der Erlkönig."

by Schubert. Mrs. J. Charles D. Harding accompanied at the piano.

Following this Prof. Ned B. Allen gave some delightful readings which provided an agreeable variety to the program, otherwise entirely musical.

Miss Dorothy Hudson, a student from the Women's College, was next on the program. Miss Hudson, accompanied by Miss Marjorie Slider, played a violin solo—"Mazurka de Concert," by Ovide Musin.

A group of songs by Dr. Ryden concluded the program.

The remainder of the evening was devoted to a social time during which refreshments were served.

The people of this community are well acquainted with the good work of the Newark Music Society in sponsoring free concerts to which the public is invited. Within the near future three concerts of this kind will be held in Mitchell Hall. The first will be a Curtis Concert on Thursday, January 19, at 8:00 o'clock. At this concert there will be a vocalist, and a trio made up of a violin, viola and flute. Such a combination of instruments as found in the trio should make for an exceptionally interesting program. Everyone is invited to attend the concert and it is hoped that there will be a large audience. There will be no charge for admission.

On February 21, the Newark Music Society will present members of the Wilmington Music School in a concert at Mitchell Hall. Further notice will be given of the concert. Also, watch for further announcement of another Curtis Concert to be held on March 2nd.

ELMER J. ELLISON RE-ELECTED CHIEF OF AETNA H. H. & L. CO.

Company Has Good Record for 1932; Seventy-one Calls Last Year; Only One False Alarm; Other Officers Elected

Thirty fires in Newark during the past year to which the Aetna Home, Hook and Ladder Company was called caused a loss of but $658.20. This is probably about as good a record as any fire company in the country can boast of in a town of 4,000 population. This was an average of but $22 loss for each fire.

This excellent record is due largely to the efficiency and promptness of the local firemen and careful training in fire prevention. The report on the number of fires was made by the fire recorder at the annual meeting of the company Monday night.

The Aetna Company responded to 71 calls during the year. Of that number 30 were within the town limits where the loss was held to $658.20. Thirty-six were outside the town but within the district where the loss was $16,385 and there were five calls to Elktion and other places outside the district with a loss of $72.70.

The 71 calls last year were less than the company responded to in 1931 when there were 85 or 1930 with 101 calls. In 1931 the fire loss in Newark was also held to nominal figures the total loss in the town having been but $4,280 while the loss at those fires to which the company was called out of town totaled $73,000.

The report Monday night also showed that the company was called out on but one false alarm during the entire year.

Chief Elmer J. Ellison who has already served for a number of years was re-elected chief at the annual meeting last night. Other officers elected follow:

First assistant chief, Charles Tasker; second assistant, Edward Shakespear; fire recorder, Vernon Steele; chief pipeman, Euell Buckingham; assistant pipemen, Robert Cook, Nathan Davis, Charles Richards, Hubert Murphy and Vernon Steel; directors, Warren A. Singles, Charles Eisner and Clement Cannon.

The directors met later and re-elected George W. Rhodes, president; Daniel Stoll, vice-president and Warren A. Singles, treasurer.

Re-Dedication of Wesley Church at McClellandville

Rededication of the Wesley Church, Saturday and Sunday, marked an interesting reopening of this quaint old chapel. The services were well served to the throng that filled the historical beloved church.

Saturday afternoon service was conducted by Rev. Thomas Jones of Baltimore. Rev. Jones could not bare strong enough and complimented this rural community on the interest in which the committee in charge of reservation of this building was ably performed.

Saturday evening service applied to a variation of instructive talks, Lieut. Devesauro of Fort du Pont was most interesting and held the audience at attention. Rev. Thompson of Mt. Holly, N. J., ably pointed the way to better citizenship. Rev. Layton's, of Hollyoke M. E. Church, address on the future, was most inspiring.

A group of friends from Wilmington, presented a very creditable play-let that will be remembered by all.

Rev. Jones responded to requests at this period and delivered a powerful address on the understanding of the Bible, and what wonders can be promoted by thought and if studied sincerely.

Sunday afternoon service closed this series of worship by the Rev. E. E. Robbin, D. D. The sermon was on the "Lost Tribes, the Past, Present and Future."

The ladies served a most bountiful supper Saturday between the afternoon and evening services, in the dining room of the church, which will seat one hundred people.

Beginning with Sunday, January 15, it has been planned to hold Sunday School at 2:30 p. m. each Sunday throughout the year. Classes will be conducted for both adults and young people. Everyone is cordially invited.

While their wives were nursing injuries they received in an automobile collision on the du Pont Blvd. Monday night, Charles F. Walton, of Newark, and William C. Phillips, of 2105 Lancaster avenue, were in the court of Magistrate Cramer at New Castle, each charged with reckless driving and each fined $10 and costs.

The collision happened at the intersection of Basin Road and the du Pont Blvd. According to State Policeman Leisure, who made the arrests, Walton had started to pass the automobile driven by Phillips, when the latter made a left turn off the du Pont Boulevard, striking Walton's automobile and throwing it into the side of another automobile driven by Hamilton L. Stewart, -608 West Tenth street. All three automobiles were damaged.

Phillips was warned he should be more careful in the future in making turns on principal highways and look out for traffic behind him. Walton, on the other hand, was admonished about speeding.

Friendliness, Warm Love for Family, Flourished Beneath Silence of Man Whose Creed Was Honesty and Courage

By Charles W. Duke

Every American newspaperman who moves out along the trail of life, in high and low places, meeting the great and the near-great, knows his Presidents.

In a journalistic Odyssey of more than twenty-five years' metropolitan experience, I have known seven consecutive Presidents of the United States—met them face to face in intimate interview—starting with Roosevelt and coming now to another Roosevelt.

But Fate permitted me to know best of all the quiet, serious-faced little New England Yankee, more familiarly known as "Silent Cal," who has just stepped out into the mists to join the long line of American immortals. "Silent Cal"—but more eloquent in death than he was in life!

On my desk is a much-cherished letter, with the almost unintelligible scrawl that only those who knew him well would recognize as the signature of Calvin Coolidge. It was written under date of June 16, 1924, just after the Republican National Convention had nominated him for the full four-year term, following his completion of the Harding unexpired term. Please mark the last phrase of this letter:

Put Trust In Friends

"Much has transpired since you came to see me at the time of the police strike, and I am sincerely gratified that I have continued to deserve your support and confidence. I trust that the clovers may bring to me good fortune, but I think I shall place greater trust in the friendship of men like yourself."

At the time of the Boston police strike in September, 1919, I first met Calvin Coolidge. He was then Governor of Massachusetts and his laconic, "There is no right to strike against the public safety," caught the public fancy and made him a big man overnight. Right away the public at large began measuring him for more important office. Logical enough, too, in view of his sterling character and record that he should be nominated a few months later for Vice-President.

One night, in a bit of a Boston hotel room he occupied during his governorship, Marty Green, of the old New York Evening World, and I were interviewing "Silent Cal." He was not used to big-time publicity. What about the right to strike, collective bargaining and other national issues? The ordeal was painful. Suddenly swinging in his chair, he demanded: "Do I have to answer all these questions? And if so, why?" Then we had to explain to the taciturn little Puritan that he now belonged to the Nation—no longer the Commonwealth—and the public had the right to know all about him, and how he stood on important questions of the day.

Coldness Disproved

They said Calvin Coolidge was cold and hard to get under. I never found him so. Remembered well with this writer is a midwinter afternoon spent with him in 1921 just before he left the almost obscure New England environment, where he had grown up, to venture forth into the big league down in Washington.

It was that half double-frame house in Northampton for which he paid a $32.50 rent as Governor of a great State, and shared a two-party telephone wire. Friends and neighbors were dropping in at intervals to bid him farewell. Between times we sat in quiet conversation. Once he inquired if I smoked, and thereupon produced a pair of the pet stogies for which he had a predilection. Another time he came in bearing a plate of apples with silver paring knife. That droll New England nasal twang, "Try some of our New England apples, won't you?"

Cold—they called him. But not as I found him. After he had gone to Washington as Vice-President I dropped down to see him one day. Among other things I told him I was writing a book for the benefit of school teachers. Would the Vice-President consent to give me an introduction for the book? He did, and here it lives today on printed page, a typical Coolidge contribution, laconic as ever, a preface concluding with this statement:

"If the muster roll were to be called of the first line of defense of our country it would include a list of those who teach the young. They must be recognized. They must be appreciated. They must be paid. If this book proves to be helpful in securing that result it will perform a great public service."

Hard, Honest Work His Creed

Warren Harding died between the time "Silent Cal" gave me that message and the publication of the book. My man Coolidge was now President of the United States. Maybe it was not just right to put out the book with a foreword from the President under the circumstances. I'd ask him. I did. This was his reply: "If what I gave you at that time was right, and what you wanted, I guess it's still good."

Calvin Coolidge believed that the long, hard way of honest

The Food Calendar

THE calendar does much to keep life from becoming monotonous. Whether or no, we must change our eating habits for fur coats and our golf sticks for skis. Once upon a time we had to change our foods, whether or no—until canned foods came along and gave us our favorite strawberries in winter and oysters in summer.

All the same, it is just as well to have a food calendar and jot down, from the long list of food in cans, those that especially appeal for each season. Here are some suggestions.

Add Yours to These

Fall: Kidney beans, beets, okra with tomatoes, green peppers, pumpkin, cider, sweet potatoes, sauerkraut, apple butter, wine fruit salad, oysters, codfish, tuna, salmon, frankfurters, veal roast, mutton broth, apricots, pears.

Winter: Beans with pork, cabbage, whole kernel corn, hominy cranberry sauce, figs, prunes mackerel, oysters, chili con carne fruit cake, mince meat, popcorn fig pudding, plum pudding, spaghetti with tomato sauce, corned beef, beef stew, whole ham, Boston brown bread, turkey, nutmeg tawny soup, okra soup, vermicelli Irish stew, sausages with sauerkraut.

Spring: Artichokes, broccoli, carrots and peas, mushrooms, spinach, turnip greens, vegetable salad, rhubarb, shrimps, lobster, clam cakes, creamed white potatoes, sliced bacon, deviled chicken, tongue, veal roast, creamed chicken soup, pea soup.

Summer: Asparagus tips, Brussels sprouts, cauliflower, mustard greens, fruits for salad, berries, cherries, peaches, pineapple, clams, shad roe, crab meat, grapefruit juice, whole chicken, veal loaf, chicken broth, purée of celery soup.

The Home and That Boy of Yours

By F. H. CHELEY

LEISURE AND AMUSEMENT

PERHAPS the greatest problem which youth presents for solution is after all, the problems of leisure, made doubly complex by our vast, infinitely complicated modern scheme of commercialized amusements.

Play is action. It involves effort and struggle and is therefore physically tiring, demanding rest and relaxation. Amusement is passive, softening, often debilitating. Youth is in grave danger of becoming passive and soft and "spineless," because of the exposure to too much amusement. Bright lights, jazz music, emotion-exciting entertainment, combine to control leisure, so that vigorous outdoor play time is crowded out. Far too much of the leisure time of youth is filled with adultized amusement and the result is pre-matured young folks with the passions of adult and the self control of children.

There is a marked tendency to buy our amusement instead of creating it, and the result is that recreation at all, but a heavy tax on emotion and self control and poise.

As some one has so well pointed out to us youth's leisure is filled with interests, which makes them "fly to pieces," when it was designed to help them "pull themselves together." Their amusements are nervously exhausting instead of resulting in poise and power and peace of mind.

Youth has an abnormal hunger for pure, right-down excitement. It loves high festival and glamorous carnival, masquerade and hilarity, and within reason, should experience this exuberance of spirit, but when every minute of leisure calls for amusement, much which leisure ought to give by way of opportunity for integrating a personality, is lost.

It is largely because leisure is consumed with cheap, enervating amusement, that city youths at least so easily experience complete sophistication.

One of the never ending tasks of the modern home is to fill leisure with vigorous, purposeful play, especially outdoor play.

Keep your boys interested as long as possible in skating and tennis and swimming and in hiking and horsebacking and hunting and the like. Hook with these active pursuits as many constructive hobbies as possible. Fill leisure with money and what leisure is not used in the hobby itself will be used in earning the wherewithal with which to keep the hobby going, so that there is no leisure time which is not cared for constructively.

Boys who are consumed with interest in any one of a hundred leisure time activities, invariably turn out better than the loafer with time on his hands to kill. Beware of nothing to do hours.

work was the best and only way to attainment in any line.

His two boys were his treasures, and he truly loved them affectionately in his quiet way. But he made them earn what they got because he believed they should learn to dig for themselves at an early age. In that little Northampton house he told me of his philosophy. The boys were just coming home from school on their bicycles.

"You see those bicycles," he pointed out the window. "We could have bought them for the boys, but we didn't. They earned every penny themselves. Not a single contribution from their father and mother. And having learned the value of a dollar, and how hard it is to earn a dollar—you should see how they take care of their bicycles."

Devoted To Wife

Close beside him all the time—as he desired it—was the school teacher he first met and loved up in the hills of Vermont—Grace Goodhue, than whom a more gracious personality never entered the White House. It was always "What do you think, Grace?" and always, "Mrs. Coolidge joins me."

I have here a Coolidge note of November 11, 1924, just after his election as President: "Mrs. Coolidge joins me in the reciprocation of your good wishes to both of us, and of your congratulations on the result of the election." And another written later from the White House in acknowledgment of a note of sympathy following the untimely death of young Calvin, Jr. Again "Mrs. Coolidge joins me."

Proud of her? More than the world ever knew. Well I remember that midwinter afternoon just twelve years ago, when I sat with him paring apples and smoking stogies. After three hours of interview, I made ready to leave.

"Just a few minutes more," he urged. Mrs. Coolidge has been at a tea. She will be here soon—and I want you to meet her."

And I'll never forget the boyish joy with which he introduced her when she swept into the room, all smiles and vivacity.

Over the mantelpiece in that quaint little New England home in Northampton—it sticks out in memory—is a lacquered wooden plaque, a tiny imitation owl on each side of it, and down the center this verse:

There was an owl lived in an oak.
The more he saw, the less he spoke.
The less he spoke, the more he heard—
Can't we be like this wise old bird?

I wondered whether "Silent Cal" was intentionally copying the owl. The secret of that placard was more easily understood later when I found that Calvin Coolidge, while in college, became a member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity; that the Phi Gammas have an owl in their ritualistic symbolism, and that similar plaques were to be found in the frat houses and homes of many more Phi Gammas.

But now "Silent Cal" is gone, and I—with millions of my fellow Americans—have only our memories and our cherished mementos.

They say it was heart disease. I believe I know what troubled his heart and brought along his demise. He worried about you and me—and our Nation. In his strangely, quiet way he loved us all affectionately. It grieved him to see us all perplexed with depression problems. He wanted to help us, but couldn't do anything about it.

But he has done something about it. He has left us the golden heritage of an exemplary life; a man who started from rock bottom and ascended to the highest place by sheer force of character and quiet determination.

"Silent Cal" no more—but "Eloquent Cal" for all time.—Public Ledger.

January Issue of "Signposts" Interesting

Various needs felt by those responsible for the health and education of Delaware children are presented in the January issue of "Signposts," the State Bulletin of Education.

Local health committees are urged to co-operate in the State-wide campaign for diphtheria immunization of children of all ages. Such action is necessary if the State is to equal Wilmington's record. There was no death from diphtheria in the city last year until December 30.

The activities of the Oral Hygiene Committee of the State Dental Society are described by the Chairman, Dr. C. R. Jefferis.

As part of the follow-up work of the Delaware White House Conference on Child Health and Protection various Parent-Teacher Associations are taking the initiative in the dental care of school children. Among these Cedar Grove No. 117, Harrington, Port Penn and Richardson Park are cited.

The need for a demonstration school on the campus of the University of Delaware is emphasized in a review of the State's teacher training program by Prof. W. A. Wilkinson.

Of vital importance to Wilmington parents are the high school building plans outlined in an interview with Superintendent S. M. Stouffer.

This issue also includes a brief write-up of the work of Wilmington teachers who are constructing a Social Science curriculum as part of their in-service training.

The story of an excursion taken by Selbyville pupils is contributed by two high school students, Ada Baker and Vaughan Moore.

Delaware Gun and Fish Protective Association Holding Meeting at Dover Today

Today will mark one of the most interesting days in the history of sportsmen throughout the State of Delaware, if plans for a two session meeting at Dover made by the Delaware Game and Fish Protective Association are an indication.

As a feature of the sessions, John J. Parsons, secretary of the association, announces that two prominent and nationally known authorities in game and fish work have accepted an invitation to attend and will deliver addresses on subjects of special interest to Delawareans. These men are Seth Gordon, president of the American Game Association, of Washington, D. C., and E. Lee LeCompte, chief warden of the State of Maryland.

The afternoon session convened at 2 o'clock and was devoted to an informal discussion among all sportsmen present. They were asked to give their views and opinions on any branch of sport in which they were interested. Their suggestions were discussed and taken under consideration as steps which may bring benefit to game and sport in Delaware.

Four pages are devoted to the Physical and Health Education Department, edited by George F. Hendricks, State director.

JAMES M. KELLEY COMMITTED TO WORKHOUSE

James M. Kelley, of Rising Sun, Md., an autoist whose car on Sunday night, November 8, ran amuck with him at the wheel on Main Street, just beyond the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and did considerable damage was sent to the Workhouse January 7, to serve a short sentence in lieu of payment of $200 fine. On being fined by Magistrate Daniel Thompson, Kelley appealed the case and provided bail. He came to Newark and gave himself up having decided to abandon the appeal and serve the time rather than pay the fine.

The car driven by Kelley on the Sunday night in question got beyond control while passing over the railroad tracks, broke a fire hydrant and letter box, ran into and damaged the automobile of J. Clifford Willis parked nearby, then ran up on the sidewalk and wrecked a stairway leading from the street to an apartment over the Richards store. Persons in the apartment at the time had to be taken down by means of a ladder as the stairway was the only means of entrance and exit to the apartment.

SUAVE SWINDLERS PREY ON SOCIETY, BAIT RICH WIDOWS
Ernst Lubitsch's "Trouble in Paradise," which is said to establish an entirely new technique for motion pictures, has been booked for the State Theater, where it will open Monday and Tuesday.

Miriam Hopkins, Kay Francis, Herbert Marshall, Charlie Ruggles and Edward Everett Horton play leading roles in the picture, a witty farce adapted from the play by Laszlo Adalar, Viennese playwright.

With easy good humor, the picture first shows the establishment of business, social and emotional rapport between Miss Hopkins and Marshall, two super-super crooks who prey in suave fashion upon European society. Then it follows them through their most exciting adventure—the bamboozling of Miss Francis, avante Frenchwoman who possesses more money than the Bank of France.

It is in this adventure that Marshall is almost tempted to turn from paths of wickedness into respectability, for his victim displays charms to which he is easily susceptible.

Newark Fire Company Still Leads In Bowling Tournament

By defeating the Presbyterian Church team three games straight, the Newark Fire Company team forced ahead in their drive to win the bowling tournament held this winter at the Continental alleys.

At the end of a series of three games, the Fire Company have only lost one game. Their next match is with the strong Methodist Church team and following that, they tackle the American Legion team who is in second place. With these two strong teams in front of them, the possibilities are that they will not be able to keep up the pace they have set for themselves in this tournament, and as it stands now, the Legion is running them a close second for league honors.

Following is the standing of the teams in the contest and the individual averages of the members of the various teams given at the end of the third match:

Newark Fire Co.—Won 8, lost 1, per cent .888.
American Legion—Won 6, lost 3, per cent .666.
Office—Won 5, lost 4, per cent .555.
Methodist Church—Won 4, lost 5, per cent .444.
Plant—Won 3, lost 6, per cent .333.
Presbyterian Church—Won 1, lost 8, per cent .111.

Newark New Century Club News

Mrs. Newman Rose gave an informal talk about the social life of Shanghai before the Newark New Century Club on Monday afternoon. She said that the homes where the American Colony lives are modern, with high walls around them. All face the south due to the excessive heat. Much entertaining is done due to the fact that servants are cheap and plentiful and that life would otherwise become quite monotonous. To break the monotony of Shanghai city life, houseboating and river trips are resorted to. Sports are very popular. Before returning to the United States, Mrs. Rose visited Suex Canal, India, Egypt and Europe.

At the next meeting, on January 16, Dr. Tarumian, Delaware State Hospital, will speak on "The prevention, care and treatment of the mentally ill of Delaware." Mrs. William Holton and Mrs. Robert Price will have charge of the music. The Club hostesses will be Mrs. R. L. Cooch, Mrs. Allyn Cooch, Mrs. A. B. Eastman, Mrs. R. L. Spencer.

The Club Chorus will meet as usual at 1:30 to practice for the February program. Due to the illness of Mrs. Spencer, Mrs. S. Paul Wiers will manage the Chorus temporarily.

At the business meeting, it was decided that the club sponsor an educational moving picture. The Electrical Research Products, Inc., have a number of talking picture dealing with various interesting subjects available which they are willing to send to the Club free of charge providing the club guarantees an audience of 200. Mrs. Henry C. Harris was appointed chairman to work with Dean Robinson, Women's College, in selecting the pictures and a date. Wolf Hall has been offered the Club by President Huihien. These talking pictures are unusual, thought creating and entertaining. There is a teacher's training series and a music series. In the music appreciation series, the choir of an orchestra is explained in detail. The brass choir, the woodwind choir, the string choir and the percussion group show the functions of the various instruments in a symphony orchestra. Natural Science and industrial films are also available. Members are invited to express their wishes in this matter.

Mrs. William Wilson, chairman of Welfare, gave a very interesting report of the work which her committee did during the holidays: "The children brought to school at Christmas a most liberal supply of groceries and fruit which was packed by the teachers in baskets for our distribution. To these were added the potatoes, fruit and provision received at the movie benefit. Chickens and potatoes were bought with the money donated by the Student Council of the University. Bread was furnished by the Huber and Freihofer Bakeries. Dresses for the women and girls were made from Red Cross materials. Blouses for the boys were purchased by us. Some of the churches, the Sunday School classes, Degree of Pocahontas, the Ogletown School and the State Highway Department gave baskets, making a total of 75. Twenty-two of these were sent to colored people. Previous to Christmas, the Home Economics Class of Women's College collected over 20 dollars which they spent for evaporated milk and groceries. They furnished menus for the use of these. One of our members is giving two quarts of milk daily to a family of 8 children whose father has been out of work for months. The Newark New Century Club sent a check of $25 to the Mayor's Committee; $188 was made on the movie benefit sponsored by the Welfare group. Checks have been received by the Mayor's committee from several individuals, but not as much as usual due to the depression. Most of our bills are being paid by the State from the $2,000,000 appropriation and it is necessary for us to end them 20 per cent of the amount received. Work on the sidewalks to Roseville and Academy street have been started. The men on the job receive cash, those working for the town receive orders for food and clothing."

The amendment to change the meeting from the first and third Monday of each month to every other Monday will be voted upon at the next meeting.

"ME AND MY GAL" IS STORY OF REAL FOLKS

The story of how a fresh New York plain clothes man wins the affections of a pretty shop girl, experienced in the more artificial phases of life, is related in "Me And My Gal," the Fox picture coming to the State Theatre next Wednesday and Thursday.

The leading roles are portrayed by Joan Bennett, who scored one of the biggest successes of her screen career in "Wild Girl," and Spencer Tracy, recently seen in "Disorderly Conduct," "Young America" and "The Painted Woman."

The picture was directed by Raoul Walsh, who transferred to the screen such successes as "The Cock Eyed World," "The Man Who Came Back" and "The Yellow Ticket."

To Make Good Pies

IT'S a gift, some say. It's luck, say others. It's a good recipe—and a little care, say we. People differ as to what constitutes a good soup, a good salad or a good sweet, but they seem to be pretty generally agreed that good pies should have tender, flaky crust that stays crisp, and an interior which melts in your mouth.

The Why of Pie

Flakiness of crust is the result of alternate layers of flour and fat and depends on the amount of cutting one does when mixing the fat into the flour. To make the crust tender, only enough water should be used — ice water is preferable — to hold the shortening and flour together. You will be pleased with this recipe for Apple Sauce Pie: To make the pastry, put two cups pastry flour and one-half teaspoon salt through a flour sifter into a bowl. Add one cup lard, chopping it into the flour with a sharp knife. Then add ice-water—just enough to hold the flour and lard together—very slowly, mixing all the time lightly with your hand. Roll the paste into a lump. Cover it with cheesecloth and place in refrigerator over night. The next day roll out and bake immediately in a hot oven.

For the filling, mix the contents of a No. 2 can of apple sauce, two tablespoons melted butter, one teaspoon lemon juice and one-fourth teaspoon allspice. Fill the previously baked pastry with this mixture. Sprinkle cheese over the top and serve.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Special to The Newark Post.
Mr. and Mrs. Lee Rose, 16 Kells avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Dorothea Helen, to Mr. Conrad Boek, of Wilmington. This announcement comes as a surprise to their many friends. No date has been set for the wedding.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

A PERTINENT QUESTION

What would happen if all our debtor nations gathered up their gold and shipped it here as a payment on the war debts owing to this country—and then announced: "We are through with gold. We will use something else as a basis for our money?"
At the present time, three-fourths of the people of the world do not have their money based on gold. It would not be a difficult thing for the rest of the world to leave the United States commercially isolated, and "holding the bag" of gold in its treasury—holding a lot of gold which would then be worth no more than a pile of brick-bats.
Frank H. Shakespeare, Dover, Del.

The Editor.
In the past two days, five people have stopped me on the street and suggested that I write something regarding the action of the Legislature in donating to its individual members the old House and Senate desks and chairs. No doubt this old furniture has little or no intrinsic value, and no doubt there is considerable sentiment in the desire of some of the old members to possess their old desks and chairs.

No doubt, also, there is a very questionable principle attached to this action of the Legislature in appropriating property of the state to the individual members. With this as a precedent, why can't the Legislature divide up the State's land south of Rehoboth and give each member a beach front estate? Or perhaps some day the State might move the Capitol and donate the present buildings and land to the members of the Legislature.

Since the special session of the Legislature was for the purpose of helping the unemployed, the question has been asked why the members did not donate their services and let their respective salaries go to the relief fund.

POLITICS OR PROSPERITY

We have had many years of politics with little or no regard for economics. We have had widespread spending of taxpayer's money with little or no regard for how the people could get the money with which to pay the taxes. We have had governmental interference with the economic law of supply and demand through attempted control of the wheat and cotton markets, through pressure on the money markets, through punitive surtaxes on incomes, through juggling of tariffs, and through trying to legislate a great moral question.

We have invented much labor saving machinery but instead of saving labor by giving workers the same wage with more leisure in which to consume the goods produced, we have merely created unemployment that is unable to consume much of anything. By so doing, we have thrown our price system "out of joint" and are holding it that way by our political system.

We have a gold standard with which to measure the value of our money. Money is supposed to represent the "stored up" results of human effort—yet we measure it by gold, which of itself, is of almost no earthly use. Gold, itself, will neither feed, clothe, shelter, nor transport anyone, nor will it add materially to the comforts of life. In so far as national trade and commerce is concerned, why can't we fix the value of gold in terms of a lot of useful raw materials and commodities—perhaps by means of a ratio between five-year gold production and commodity production, with adjustments at regular intervals. Then let international gold values be regulated by tariffs. At present we have merely created an un-natural demand for gold.

What is the result? Depression and disaster. Just the same result that always will follow an interference with natural laws.

For some fifty per cent of the time, American business is upset by political agitation and uncertainty, both before and after elections. About four per cent of the people are active politicians; twenty per cent of the people are more or less active politically at election times—the other eighty per cent of the people are too busy trying to make a living to do much more than just vote for candidates who have been nominated by the professional politicians.

Why must the business of all the people suffer for fifty per cent of the time in order to give employment to four per cent who are professional politicians, and to help out the interests for which they usually work? It is the agitation and uncertainty that hurts business—not the difference between parties and party platforms. Present day politics all sifts down to a sort of "dog fight" between Political Bosses. There is a lot of barking and snarling and growling that just upsets business more and more. Politics always does more harm than good—no matter which side wins. In the end it is business, both big business and little business, that suffers and loses.

Likewise it is the uncertainty of values that prolongs the depression. Wheat, corn, cotton, steel, oil, and other commodities are just as useful and valuable to human life as they ever were; but in terms of perfectly useless gold, they have a very uncertain and much changing value. This uncertainty is the one great thing that causes financial fear with the resultant prolonging of this great depression in business. There is no lack of money. Our government is able to borrow at a fraction of one per cent interest—yet industry continues to stagnate. The government will pay in producing useful commodities. It seems almost ridiculous for a civilized nation to be tied up by this uncertain relationship between useless gold and useful commodities.

Why do we need political agitation and political parties anyhow?

Why can't we always vote for the man—not for the party?

Why can't we have a few statesmen instead of so many politicians?

Why must we have so many uncertainties to upset business?

Why don't we "save labor" instead of creating unemployment?

Why can't we fix the value of gold in terms of commodities?

Frank H. Shakespeare.

Clothes for the Needy

Women volunteers sewing for the needy under direction of the Red Cross produced 206,000 garments last year, and will produce millions of garments in the winter of 1932-33. These will be from the millions of yards of cotton cloth distributed by the national Red Cross from the 500,000 bales of cotton turned over to the organization by Congress. Cloth was sent to all chapters requesting it, and later it was proposed to send some simple ready-made garments, including trousers, overalls, underwear, stockings and socks.

Louise Hubert, Member of Marshallton 4-H Club Wins B. & O. $100 Scholarship Prize

Special to Newark Post

The Baltimore and Ohio Scholarship of $100.00, awarded for efficiency in 4-H Club Work in Delaware during 1932, has been awarded to Louise Hubert, a member of the Marshallton 4-H Clothing Club. The announcement of this award was made today by County Club Agent, G. M. Worrlow, and approved by A. D. Cobb, assistant director of Agricultural Extension work of the University of Delaware.

This 4-H Club prize of $100.00 has been made available each year to the club member, either boy or girl, doing the most efficient 4-H project work in the State. This award comes through the Agricultural Development Department of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad in charge of O. K. Quivey, general agricultural agent.

The scholarship money must be used by the winner to help defray college expenses or for an educational trip.

The 1932 scholarship winner is especially deserving of this honor, as you may judge from this summary of her 4-H Club career.

Louise Hubert is 17 years old, and has been a 4-H Club member for six years, completing six clothing projects and one canning project.

Her project work has always returned a profit, and her interest in 4-H Club work has been the best.

In addition to carrying on her regular project work, Louise has served as president, vice-president, secretary of her local club, and during the past year has been the active leader of the clothing club project members in the Marshallton Club who were doing first year work. This outstanding club girl has not confined her club activities to her home community alone, but has represented her club at three Junior 4-H Club Short Courses held each year at the University of Delaware, and represented Delaware 4-H Club work as a delegate to Camp Vail, Springfield, Massachusetts, and the National 4-H Club camp at Washington, D. C.

During 1932, the scholarship winner completed her sixth year of clothing club work and her project record shows a net profit of $25.13. She also completed a canning club project, and her project record shows a net profit of $24.52, and nearly 200 quarts of home canned vegetables, fruits, and jellies on the pantry shelf.

4-H'er Hubert says, "My 4-H Club work is helping me to plan my future, and this work has meant more to me than any other activity I have ever been interested in. I have learned many valuable lessons; one in particular, to rely on one's self and to help others. I try to live up to our 4-H Club motto—'To Make the Best Better.'"

Delaware Safety Council Urges Safety First on Ice

Skating and other winter sports are one of the great compensations for the long winter months. They help one to think clearly, to work hard and to enjoy life and you cannot forget they provide pure fun in and of themselves.

According to the Delaware Safety Council the toll of accidental injuries and deaths where these sports exist is by no means inevitable nor is it condoned by an alert community. The rules of safety in sports are very simple and can be observed by anybody without depriving him of any real fun.

Here is a simple jingle regarding ice safety in which there is more reason than rhyme: One inch keep off; two inches one may; three inches small group; four inches okay.

Many minor injuries to small children on skating ponds are caused by the carelessness of their elders. It is always necessary to watch out for the youngsters because their balance is not good nor are their ankles strong.

Every real sportsman knows how to rescue a person who has fallen through the ice. He knows, for instance, that the first rule is for the would-be rescuer to take no chances on falling through the ice himself. The best thing to do is to throw a pole or ladder, or long stick, to the victim so he can lay it on the ice or by the sides of the hole and cling to it until a rescue is effected. It gives him security so that he can collect his wits and conserve his strength.

Then, if a rope is available, throw that to him and have him tie it around his body under his arms. If no rope is available don't walk out to the hole. It is safer to distribute your weight over a wider surface of ice by crawling out on your stomach. If possible, have a companion hold your feet to reduce the danger of sliding in with the victim. Above all, don't yield to panic which might easily result in a double or triple tragedy.

MILFORD CROSS ROADS SCHOOL NOTES

The children at Milford Cross Roads are showing a steady gain in weight. We believe that the hot lunch served at the school daily is helping to bring about this desired condition. Agnes Kwiatkowski, Carolyn Guthrie and Kathleen Starkey are proving their ability as cooks this week.

Lillard Brown and Charles Nelson are most efficient dishwashers. If mothers were only privileged to see their sons' speed and care in the washing of dishes, they would have no fear in allowing them to handle the best family china.

Don't forget the January meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association to be held in the school room next Wednesday evening, January 18, at 8 o'clock. Mrs. James Cunningham, program chairman, has promised us a good speaker and free motion pictures.

A few of the children will present a playlet, "The Teeth That Jack Built."

Let us show our guest speaker how well our community attends its Parent-Teacher Association meetings. Remember the date and hour, January 18, at 8 o'clock.

Adult Education

Milford Cross Roads began its winter term of music last Tuesday evening. Despite much sickness in the community, there were thirty-three present on the opening night.

Plan to be with Miss Martin and the class next Tuesday evening, January 17, at 7.30 o'clock. We hope to have all our members well by that time. All music lovers are invited to join the class.

Personals

Miss Pearl MacDonald spoke to the 4-H Club on Friday afternoon. Mrs. Leonard Nelson, one of our mothers, was a Friday visitor at the school.

Alumnae Meet

The Newark Chapter of Women's College Alumnae will meet next Monday evening, January 16, at 8 o'clock, at the home of Miss Anne Gallaher, 150 West Main Street.

Mrs. Newman Rose, who has come from China recently, will speak to the club.

Every member of the chapter is urged to be present to hear the plans formulated by the Ways and Means Chairman, Mrs. F. Allyn Cooh.

Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company Broadcasting Booth Tarkington's Sketches

Announcement, which a goodly number of radio fans will appreciate we believe has been made by the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company that they have completed arrangements for a series of Booth Tarkington Sketches "Maud and Cousin Bill," which are now being broadcast every Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday over Station WJZ at 6 P. M.

As might be expected, those who are familiar with the writings which won for Mr. Tarkington the title, "Dean of American Authors," the adventures of "Maud and Cousin Bill" concern the lives of two typical small town children.

Although Mr. Tarkington has long been famous for his novels, plays and stories, writing for radio production is entirely new to him. He is the first of our leading authors to write a series of sketches especially for broadcasting.

Mr. Tarkington's decision to make his portrayals of child life a permanent feature of the air was not arrived at, however, until considerable experimentation and study convinced him that the radio could be adapted to his talents.

THE NEWARK POST

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for January 15
JESUS AT WORK

Mark 1:1-13. Jesus answered golden rule, which is the basis of all ethics, and which is the basis of all religion. Jesus said: "If you will, thou shalt be clean." Jesus said: "If you will, thou shalt be clean." Jesus said: "If you will, thou shalt be clean."

Mark's purpose in writing his treatise should be borne in mind; namely, the presentation of Jesus Christ as the divine Servant energetically performing the will of God. The purpose in this section is to show the divine Servant bearing God's message to the world, and to show the divine Servant bearing God's message to the world, and to show the divine Servant bearing God's message to the world.

1. Jesus Teaching With Authority (v. 22). It was in the synagogue in Capernaum to which he with four disciples repaired "straightway" he availed himself of the regular channel of instruction. Though many abuses had crept into the synagogue service, he chose to associate the new with the old order.

2. The time (v. 21). It was on the Sabbath day. His faithfulness in observing the Sabbath brought him to the place where the people assembled to worship and to hear the Scriptures expounded. He came not to destroy but to fulfill the law, even the law of the Sabbath day.

3. The impression made (v. 22). The people were astonished. Two things about his teaching impressed his hearers.

a. The substance of his message.
b. The authority of its deliverance. The scribes, the professional teachers of the law, merely quoted the authorities but Jesus with first hand knowledge set forth the truth with the enthusiasm of freshness and personal conviction.

4. Jesus Conquering Demons (vv. 23-26).
1. The outcry of the demon-possessed man (v. 23). When the power of God is manifested in the presence of evil spirits, there is bound to be an outcry from them.

2. The demon's confession (v. 24). "Thou art the Holy One of God." The one whose chief business it was to waste and destroy human life was in such miserable state as to desire to have nothing to do with Christ, and yet was forced to confess him as the Holy One.

3. Christ's attitude toward the demon (v. 25). Christ neither asked for nor accepted testimony from the demon, but sternly rebuked and cast out the foul spirit. Christ is not only himself pure, but is also able to deliver others from impurity.

4. The obedience of the demon (v. 26). The evil spirit was reluctant to leave the man and displayed his maliciousness to the very end, for he tore the man whom he was forced to leave.

5. The impression made upon the people (vv. 27, 28). The news of Christ's power spread rapidly over Galilee. The people were startled by two things:

a. The new doctrine which he taught.
b. The authority over demons.

III. Jesus Heals Peter's Mother-in-Law of Fever (vv. 29-31). Jesus went home with Simon and Andrew. While at that home he learned of the condition of Peter's mother-in-law. He came at once and lifted her up and the fever departed. Divine healing is characterized by completeness and immediacy. Divine healing is, in this respect, to be contrasted with so-called faith healing, which is merely the exercise of the power of mind over the body.

IV. Jesus Ministering to Many (vv. 32-34). Though the day was strenuous in its labor, he came unwearied even when the sun had set, to meet the needs of the multitudes who had gathered from all parts of the city. He healed many of diseases, and cast out many demons. The demons knew him, but the poor blind people knew him not.

V. Jesus Cleansing a Leper (vv. 35-38). As Jesus preached in the synagogues of Galilee and cast out demons, his power became widely known. A leper therefore came to him saying, "If thou wilt, thou canst make me clean." Jesus put forth his hand and touched him saying, "I will, be thou clean." And immediately the leprosy departed and he was cleansed.

Look for His Leading. As a general rule, those truths which we highly revere, and which shed a degree of practical light upon the things which we are required to give up for God, are leadings of Divine grace, which we should follow without hesitation—Fenelon.

Thy Kingdom Come. If you do not wish his kingdom, don't pray for it. But if you do, you must work for it.—John Ruskin.

School News

Unusual Assembly Program

Junior-Senior High, January 6

On Friday morning, January 6, the Junior-Senior High School witnessed a mock radio-television broadcast. The program was given by the members of Room 202 and was directed by Miss Stauter. The entertainment was in the form of a one act comedy, entitled, "Mixed Wave Lengths." In a radio-television program, the radio fan sees what he hears. There was no exception in the program. However, the sound and television wave lengths became confused and an enjoyable comedy resulted.

The cast included Jack Geist, Kent Preston, Eugene White, Doris Strahorn, Ruth Peel, Wilson Worrall, Marian Wood, Thomas Campbell, Thomas Cooch, and Louise Dameron. Technicalities were directed by Claude Galyen and Homer Malcom.

At the end of this program, a memorial service was held in honor of the late Calvin Coolidge. In his honor, "Taps" were played by Joseph Maxwell on the cornet. An answer was given by Burton Cole on the trombone. This was answered by the six violinists of the school orchestra, Mr. Mohr, Mr. Phillips, Leah Truitt, Valentine Nardo, Eugene Smith, and Robert Hoffman.

Alden Collins, 12.

Literature Program for Assembly

The assembly program for January 9 was given by Miss Smithers home room. The subject of the program was "Selections for Memorization from Literature." It was the wish of the home room to present something worth while in the field of literature and selections which contain some valuable thought. These selections were given to students with voice adaptable to stage recitation. "How Did You Die" by Edmund Vance Cooke was given by Charlotte Johnson. "Each in His Own Tongue" by William Herbert Carruth was recited by Edna Lee. "Opportunity" by John James Ingalls given by Lillian Danby. The song for the program was "Love's Old Sweet Song."

High School Students Remember Calvin Coolidge

In honor and memory of the late Calvin Coolidge, who now lies asleep in a Vermont cemetery, the Newark High assembly held a memorial service on January 6. After the usual program Mr. Brinser gave a talk on the life of Mr. Coolidge. There was a moment of silence followed by taps. Mr. Coolidge will always be remembered in the hearts of boys and girls for his truthfulness, his ability to rule over a nation, his good citizenship and character.

Christmas Eve at Our House

Bed time didn't come quick enough for me. At last at half-past six the smaller children went to bed. I helped to trim the tree. Then came the fun. I went upstairs to find the presents which were hidden. Some were in back of their bed. I had almost gotten them, when one package dropped, and one of the children awoke. I didn't know what to do. Finally she went back to sleep. When everything was ready I went to bed myself, thinking of the fun to be had the next day.

Awake when morning comes the ground is all white.

Our Library

The elementary department has made a library out of the boys' locker room. The manual training boys painted tables for it. The teachers made curtains for our library. We can take books out after school and bring them back in the morning, or after school at night. There are over 500 books in the library. We like them very much.

Just before Christmas, Mr. R. T. Jones of Newark, Delaware, sent pencils to children of Newark Public School. They were made like a cane. They were very bright colors. We put them under the Christmas tree. We got the pencils when we were going home for our Christmas vacation. We like them very much.

'Tis 'Unpardonable' Makeup Error, Girls

Powdered Arms Leave Smudge on Dance-Partner's Coat—Use Liquid Whitener

We are on the verge of the formal fall and winter season and so, once again, are faced with the need of preventing the "unpardonable" make-up error of leaving a smudge of arm powder on the dark clothes of our dancing partners.

It has always seemed to me that women are unnecessarily and unforgivably careless about this. It is so easy to use preparations for whitening the neck, shoulders and arms which won't rub off.

Besides soiling the men's coats, it also means that, dance by dance, your own make-up is being wiped away, leaving your arms more or less exposed in their less attractive coloring.

If you are fortunate enough to have the clear, white skin which is accepted as the standard for neck, shoulder and arm beauty you will need no power at all.

But if you do, protect your own loveliness and preserve the immaculate appearance of the masculine sex by using a preparation which won't rub off.

Liquid Whiteners

Then, too, properly applied, these preparations enable you to blend your facial make-up more carefully and attractively than when trying to blend the lighter shade of powder necessary for the arms, shoulders and throat at evening time with the powder used on the face.

BUY QUALITY CHICKS

By Prof. W. B. Krueck

No man ever built a substantial building on a poor foundation. No business man ever built a substantial business on a weak foundation. No live-stock breeder ever made constructive progress by starting with a poor class of stock for a foundation herd.

These facts should be kept in mind when considering the purchase of baby chicks this year. With a shortage of cash in a great many cases, and low prices for general farm grains and farm commodities, there undoubtedly will be a tendency to resort to the purchase of low priced chicks. In most cases, low priced chicks have been a disappointment to the people who bought them. Look around in your community and ask your neighbors what their results have been with cheap chicks. I think you will find that the majority of them were badly disappointed, while those who bought quality chicks from reliable hatcheries, endeavoring to do a job of improving poultry for the poultrymen, have made some profit and have been successful in the poultry business.

John Ruskin once said that there was nothing in the world that could not be built cheaper and sold for less, but that purchasers who bought upon that basis were usually disappointed in the end. Last spring a poultryman in the neighborhood of Peoria, Illinois, bought some chicks at 15 cents apiece. A few days later he saw an opportunity to buy some chicks of the Leghorn breed for 6 cents apiece, and figured that he would be able to lower his average cost per chick and per pullet by buying some additional chicks. Along in November this year, the 16-cent chicks were producing on a 60 per cent basis and making him some real money. They were vigorous, good type, splendidly developed, and capable of continuing on a profitable basis. The 6-cent chicks had produced a lot of pullets that were low in vitality, small in size, had never reached 15 per cent production, were low in vigor and had never made any profit. The feeder remarked that it was a lesson to him and that he saw the importance of producing good quality pullets by starting with good chicks.

In Nebraska recently, a farmer who had purchased so-called "cheap chicks" said he had purchased the lower priced chicks at a saving of 3 cents per chick. He sold a lot of poultry from both lots of chicks in November, but the chicks that had cost him 3 cents more brought him an average return of 13 cents more per bird when placed upon the market. The chicks had been grown in the same brooder house, under the same brooder stove, were exactly the same age, and had been handled in a similar way throughout the season. He furthermore remarked that his mortality had been considerably greater on the so-called "cheap chicks" and that it had been a real lesson to him.

If folks are going to be limited in the amount of finance that they are going to invest in the poultry business this year, they will do well to give consideration to the purchase of fewer chicks and the purchase of quality chicks. The quality chicks will mature into the type of pullets that will make them some money next fall. Whether they are looking at it from a meat production basis or from an egg production basis, they will be happier and more successful in the poultry business.

Equality Under Law

There is no finer example of equality under law than that which occurs when the weak are given equal protection with the strong. It has often been charged that there is one law for the rich and another for the poor. This certainly is not true literally, for the law itself is no respecter of persons. It may or may not be true as to the application or administration of the law, depending, of course, on the jurisdiction or on the integrity of enforcement officials.

In practice, there may appear to be one law for the strong and another for the weak. But if good government is to be maintained, this divergence between theory and practice must be drawn to a minimum. Our nation has rested on the principle that there shall be only masses, not classes, under the law. Our courts have stood as a bulwark against the encroachments of the powerful few in opposition to the unfortified many, and to protect the rights of the law-abiding citizens of the country. These are beautiful conceptions of liberty, and in the main, we believe that they have been put into action more times than they have been violated.

Equal rights suggest equal wrongs. Equal privileges suggest equal obligations. Whenever the people detect a wavering of policy in any branch of government—executive, legislative or judicial—whether in municipality, county, state or nation, there will be a proportionate disrespect for law, especially when the truth of the matter simmers down to the action of officerholders.

It may not be so much a disrespect for law that we hear so much about; it is a growing disregard of the efforts at enforcement. This attitude does not always emanate from the criminally minded. The majority of us are more or less inclined to speak too lightly at times of the necessity for the well-regulated community so far as is concerned the question of peace, order and protection of persons and property.

SIDNEY "SID" KAUFMAN

Sidney Kaufman came to Delaware, a product of Atlantic City High School and Temple High School, Philadelphia. At the latter school he was a member of the Varsity basketball squad and after his matriculation to Delaware he proceeded to "burn the court." He gained the position of Varsity forward and immediately began to emulate the former scoring greats of this institution. For three years, he has been at the top or just below in the point column.

Besides playing at forward, "Sid" has alternated at guard and center, playing all with excellent ability. At present he "holds down" the guard position and his floor play has created quite a sensation.

The popularity of this erstwhile basketball star has stretched into other fields causing his selection as a Blue Key and Derelict. His election as treasurer of the Student Council rounds out a well-balanced career.

Captain Sidney Kaufman is a member of the Sigma Tau Phi Fraternity. Without a doubt, future generations of this University will place his name among the great—as an example of good sportsmanship, an exponent of fair play—and as a superior athlete.

President Hullihen to Attend Convention

President Hullihen will attend the Nineteenth Annual Meeting of the Association of American Colleges, which is to be held at the Hotel Chelsea, Atlantic City, on Thursday and Friday, January 12 and 13, 1933.

Technocracy Dr. Hullihen's Theme At College Hour

Students Presented With Claims Made By Technocrats And Urged To Ponder Their Importance

At the College Hour held Tuesday morning in Mitchell Hall, the claims of Technocracy were presented to the students of the college by President Hullihen. The President stated that he was not prepared to give any opinions concerning the startling facts set forth by the Technocrats but wished only to present to the students the subject which is engrossing some of the best minds in the country.

Some of Technocracy's claims quoted by Dr. Hullihen were: "that physical wealth is not measured in terms of labor, goods, or money, but in terms of energy." "The machine, under our price system, has made and is making at an accelerating pace the labor of man less and less necessary." Dr. Hullihen illustrated this last statement with figures and examples presented by the Technocrats, such as: "in 130 years the rate of output of a man has been multiplied by 75 on the average, in single instances by nine million. Three-fourths of this increase has occurred in the last 30 years."

Technocracy's estimate is that

FRANCIS V. J. "BUD" HAGGERTY

Francis Haggerty, better known as "Bud," came to Delaware as a Freshman in the fall of 1929, from Salesianum School of Wilmington, where he established himself as an athlete of no mean ability, outstanding in football and basketball. It was in the former sport where he showed his greatest promise, however.

A diminutive boy, weighing only 150 pounds, "Bud" held the Varsity quarterback position on the football team throughout the season. The following year found him much huskier and he was shifted to a vacated center position; he rapidly became acclimated to the new job and played valiantly. The next year he was elected to the captaincy of the football team as was he the last season. This is perhaps the first time that a Delaware man has ever been bestowed with such an honor.

A substitute his first year on the basketball team, his dexterity increased with his bodily growth and he became a stalwart varsity guard, and was elected co-captain his last year. As a demonstration of his versatility in athletics, he captured the Sigma Phi Epsilon Ping-pong Championship in 1932 and swam in that fraternity's water-polo team his first and second years at Delaware.

Socially he is similarly active. He was elected to the Druids, the Honorary Sophomore Society, and the Blue Key, the Honorary Junior Society. He is president of the Officers' Club, and a member of the Scabbard and Blade. "Bud" was the vice-president of his Junior Class.

Fraternally he is a Sigma Phi Epsilon and was elected vice-president of that society his Senior year.

Marionettes Give Enjoyable Entertainment

"Sinbad, The Sailor," Produced By Tony Sarg's Puppeteers For University Hour

Tony Sarg, ingenious master of puppetry, delighted a capacity house at Mitchell Hall last Thursday evening, presenting his world-famous Marionettes in a tale of Arabian Nights, "Sinbad the Sailor." The University Hour Committee deserves commendation for its successful efforts to bring to our campus such a notable attraction.

Adjectives such as beautiful—gorgeous—magnificent, in no measure describe the brilliant setting of "Sinbad"—twelve lavish scenes rivaling one another in ingenuity and beauty, and a cast of twenty-five twenty-inch dolls. Mr. Sarg and his aides, two young ladies and five young men, drew rounds of applause for their vocal work and clever manipulation of the myriads of strings. Everything on the miniature stage is in harmony with the stature of the Marionettes, so that, at the end of the performance, the audience is amusingly disillusioned with the appearance of a normal adult.

"Sinbad the Sailor" is Mr. Sarg's most recent production, having made its initial bow in New York on October 18, 1932. From here, the troupe travels southward, Baltimore and Washington being the next two stops. Everywhere, "Sinbad" has been well received and critics have been justly generous in their praise for the talented creator of this unusual type of entertainment. Mr. Charles E. Seales, Mr. Sarg's manager, remarked after the performance that he was "more than pleased with the reception given 'Sinbad' by the friends and students of the University of Delaware."

W. Chester Noses Out Delaware Five 22-20

O'Connell Stars For Home Team

Trailing by 10 points at the end of the first half, the U. of D. courtmen barely missed tying the score in the last minute of play when they were defeated by West Chester Teachers College in West Chester last night, 22-20. A field goal by "Irish" O'Connell in the last few seconds of play which would have tied the score was disallowed by the officials. This decision was a heart-breaker for the Blue and Gold cagemen.

The beginning of the game saw the "Teachers" begin to pile up a big lead against Doherty's courtmen. When the greater part of the first half had been played the score was 10-0 in favor of West Chester. Kaufman scored his only field goal of the game shortly after this which, incidentally, was the only score from the field made by Delaware in the first half.

After the second half had started, the Blue Hen cagers began to creep up on their opponents. "Irish" O'Connell was the big noise in this rally. With the score 22-20, O'Connell sank a beautiful shot from the side of the court which barely touched the net as it passed through. The whistle sounded as the ball was passing through the ring and it was ruled out. The referee ruled that "Irish" had taken too many steps. As the game had only a few seconds to go, Delaware did not get possession of the ball thereafter. Earle of W. C. T. C. was the leading scorer of the game with 11 points, closely followed by O'Connell with 10.

J. V.'s Also Lose

In a fast game in which 15 players scored, Delaware J. V. team was nose out by W. C. T. C. J. V.'s, 31-25. Kurtzman led the scoring for West Chester, while Hurley and Jeffers counted heavily for Delaware.

SCHOOL NOTES

Tony Sarg's Marionettes

In the High School assembly on Thursday, January 5, Tony Sarg's marionettes entertained all the school. These colorful little mites are America's first and the world's greatest marionettes. They are very popular. For thirteen years they have been acclaimed as New York's chief attraction. The admission was 15c for children, 50c for adults. The matinee was called "Merry-Go-Round," which included a series of numbers from "The Rose and the Ring," "Alice in Wonderland" and "Sinbad the Sailor." "Alice in Wonderland" was the most important, being the longest. It was about Alice coming in contact with different animals, such as the turtle, who sang songs to Alice. Then later her neck grew. A few sketches were given from "Sinbad the Sailor" in his castle. The entertainment was thoroughly enjoyed by all who had the opportunity of attending.

Why School?

The reasons for going to school may be roughly classified as follows:

1. Because of necessity—those who go because they must.

2. Because of the desire to learn, to get an education.

3. Because of the "fun" of going to school. Does anyone go to school because he enjoys it?

What is the real purpose of education? In attempting to secure an answer to this question we find that some definite form of system for educating the younger generation has been characteristic of all progressive historic civilization. In all cases the purpose has been the same, to preserve for the coming generation and all posterity all the good that has been gained in knowledge and experience in order that their lives might be happier, richer and more free and prosperous.

As a new year begins we should keep this in mind and making it our purpose let us make the best use possible of the wonderful facilities which have been placed at our disposal to prepare better times and conditions.

Charles A. Gifford.

Basketball

The Senior and Sophomore girls played an exciting game of basketball on Thursday, December 21, during the sixth period. The score at the end of the game was Seniors, 16; Sophomores, 6.

Clean-Up Day
Wednesday, January 18

The Junior and Sophomore girls played Friday night, January 6, at 7.15. It proved to be a very exciting game although the Sophomores did not score very well. Mary Burnett starred for the Junior team. The score was: Juniors, 22; Sophomores, 4.

The first big basketball game of this year was held in our new gymnasium Friday night, January 6, between our Newark team and Wilmington High School. The line-up for Newark was: Daily, forward; Wharton, forward; Holloway, center; Jackson, guard; Dean, guard; Roberts, guard and forward. Wharton starred for Newark and Minatella for Wilmington High.

An Early Roman Law

A law of ancient Rome allowed a man to avoid civil damages, when insulting another, by handing the injured one a sum equal to twenty-five cents. One rich Roman, to show his contempt for this law, used to go through the streets slapping his purses, bearing, rushing after him would quickly pay each embarrased citizen the legal amount.

My Test In General Science
As I sit thinking I wonder
What can oxidation mean?
As I ponder and ponder
Finally I see a gleam.

I write on my paper slowly.
The question as given to me.
Quickly it appears.
That oxygen uniting with another substance,
Is the answer to the question I see.

Just Heat and Eat

EVERYONE is familiar with the canned foods which are ready to heat and eat such as Beef à la Mada, Chicken à la King, Chop Suey, Hungarian Goulash and Lobster Newburg, but did you know that a whole new line of succulent stews, curried dishes and other ready dishes have recently been put on the market, and are now purchasable in most places at the majority of chain and independent stores?

Variety Available

The first of these new products were Lamb Stew, Irish Stew and Beef Stew, and these were followed by Curried Beef with rice and vegetables, Corned Beef Hash and Kiney Stew. There were a Chicken Curry and Irish Stew already on the market, but otherwise these curries and stews are new.

All the preparation of these new ready dishes is carried out, of course, under the inspection of the United States Government. The vegetables are thoroughly washed in water, peeled and cut by machine, and the ingredients for each can are weighed and measured separately to insure uniformity of contents. Thus, carrots, potatoes, celery, onions, and a rich creamy sauce from meats, stock and bones, all form part of these delicious stews. While the stews are ready to serve without any additions, up to fifty per cent of water can be added if desired. In fact, if the contents of the cans are removed before heating, the addition of some water is probably an improvement.
