5-Yr. Capital Budget Program Presented For Council Review

City Manager Edward R. Stiff Offers Capital Budget Of $1,797,000 for 1970-74 At Council Workshop Study Session With Department Heads; No Changes Indicated

Newark City Council reviewed the $1,797,000 five-year capital budget for 1970-74 as submitted by City Manager Edward R. Stiff at a special workshop session last Tuesday night in the Academy Building. The proposed budget includes $978,000 in capital outlay for the electrical distribution system; $519,000 for the water program; $115,000, sewer, and $185,000 for the street program.

Finance Director Albert K. Martin reviewed the proposed capital budget with Mayor Norma B. Handoff, Councilmen William E. Frame, Jr., Arthur P. Mayer, and Frank J. Osborne, Jr., and department heads Benjamin J. Campagna, public works; James F. Hall, parks and recreation; and Dennis Smith, electrical, explained proposed capital projects and expenditures.

The 94-page budget proposal was reviewed page by page, with no significant changes proposed by the four council members present.

Proposed capital expenditures for the electrical distribution system total $216,000 for the year 1970, including extension of 12-KV lines, installation of substations, and $50,000 for service to new developments.

Martin reported 6,000 electricity customers — "almost doubled over the last six or seven years."

Capital expenditures for the water department over the five-year period will be influenced by decision concerning the White Clay Creek dam, Campagna said. With construction of the dam, water must be provided for the DuPont Lowers Building.

The dam is still questionable, Campagna added but will be operable four years from approval date.

All parks and recreation capital funds have been allocated for the current year, with no projection made beyond 1969.

Stiff Reports Municipal Work Force Aid; Parkland Purchase To Be Negotiated

Stiff announced a saving of $21,000 with use of the Newark municipal force in development of the New London Park, and at the regular meeting of Newark City Council last week, Stiff was authorized to use city equipment and employ five additional persons to expedite this work.

Stiff is to negotiate for purchase of 30 acres of parkland — 18 at the northeast corner of Casho Mill and Barksdale roads, and seven-aces beside New London Road, just south of Fairfield.

The city was quoted a price of $8,500 an acre for five acres of the 18-acre tract owned by John M. Singles.

A price of $65,000 has been quoted on the other site, known as the Vannoy Farm.

Council awarded a $50,856 contract to George & Lynch, Inc., for construction of seven tennis courts and one multi-purpose court Tennis courts will be at the Phillips Avenue, Lewis and Lumbrook parks, and the multi-purpose court at the New London Park.

Other contracts were awarded to Westinghouse Electric Supply Co. of Wilmington, for a substation unit at $51,228, and distribution transformer and conductors at $15,369.

Atwell Tractor of Concordville, Pa., was awarded the contract at $6,871 for an industrial tractor, and Bob's Men's Shop the contract for $4,306 for police winter uniforms.

Eastern States Construction Co. received the contracts for $47,903 extension of Bellevue Road.

Council passed four ordinances — two dealing with parking and other street problems — one curbing of litter on private property, and the fourth adding a category of limited commercial laboratory to central-business zoning.

John Moncreir In Camp As Cadet At West Point

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Moncreir, 307 Mason Drive, Newark.

Reelected President

"Special" Dropped In District Title For Local Schools

The Newark Board of Education reelected Albert H. Jones as president as the board reorganized itself in two ways preparing for the 1969-70 school year.

It was reorganized under the law because of consolidation of school districts throughout the state. Even though no territory was added to the Newark district, the board was "reorganized" on the basis of all other boards in the state.

The word "special" has been dropped from the name of the Newark school district as it has from the other 15 districts throughout the state.

Because of the new consolidation effective July 1, there are no more "special" school districts in Delaware.

Secondly, the board reorganized itself by electing officers for the 1969-70 school year.

In May, William B. Keene was reelected to a second term. Under law, the board elects officers and prepares for the next school year after the beginning of the fiscal year on July 1.

Dr. Frederick E. Williams of 717 Nottingham Road was reelected vice-president, and will also serve as chairman of the building commission.

Vice-president of the building commission is William H. Clark, and the fifth member of the Newark Board of Education is Elmer S. Monroe.

Summer School Library Program Season Concluded

The Newark school district's successful summer library program concluded its eight weeks service to children last Friday, according to Patrick O'Donnell, supervisor of instructional media for Newark public schools.

All elementary schools in the Newark district were open shortly after the close of the regular school year in order that thousands of books would be available to all of the children in the Newark district for reading pleasure and profit during the summer.

The program operates for all children living within the district regardless of where they attend school. O'Donnell reported more use by children from other than public schools this year than in the past.

Summer library programs were approved in the Newark district in two referenda — one in 1965, the other in 1968.

This year, the staff was expended to provide more service in helping parents and children with summer reading.

Of special interest to young "readers" was the story-telling hour, daily from 1 to 1:30 p.m. in all district libraries.

R. C. Cobbs, Martin Gauger, May Leasure Honored In Naming Of Three New Schools

Ramond C. Cobbs

Three people with a long-time interest in the education of youth in the Newark area were honored by the Newark Board of Education at its regular monthly meeting last Tuesday evening, in the Administration Building at 83 East Main Street, as the Newark board named three schools — the Ramond C. Cobbs Lower School, the Martin J. Gauger Middle School, and the May B. Leasure Lower School.

The Cobbs and Gauger schools in the planning stages are due to open in the Scottfield development between Purgatory Swamp and Chestnut Hill roads in September, 1971. The Leasure Lower School is the new name for the Eden Elementary School in Bear.

Dr. Ramon C. Cobbs earned his bachelor's degree at Mt. Union College, his master of arts from Kent State University, and his doctor of education from Temple.

He began his teaching career in a one-room school in 1933, and joined the Newark school district in 1955 as principal of Brookside Elementary School. He was appointed administrative assistant in charge of curriculum and personnel in 1959, and in 1964 assumed his present duties as principal of the Joseph M. McVeigh School.

The expanded summer school program and experimental curriculum workshop were the result of the work done by Cobbs and Dr. Robert W. Mayer.

He wrote the original policy manual for the Newark Board of Education, the format of which remains the same.

Dr. Cobbs will retire next June 30.

Martin J. Gauger was born in Philadelphia and educated in the White Marsh public schools of Montgomery County. He is a graduate of

A certified public accountant, Gauger retired from Continental Diamond Fibre Co., now the Budd Polychem Division, where he was vice president.

Mrs. May B. Leasure began teaching in Salem, Del., in 1918; taught at Glasgow, and in 1930 came to Eden Elementary School which is being renamed for her.

After 46 years of service, Mrs. Leasure retired June 30, 1966.

She had been a teacher of grades five and six, and a teaching principal in the Newark District's Eden School.

Former Newark Superintendent of Schools Wilmer E. Shue summed up Mrs. Leasure's contributions to Newark and the children who came under her care with "Your career and the children is reflected in the fine general atmosphere that students and teachers in the school display."

Mrs. Leasure was honored many times during her teaching career, once with receipt of the Classroom Teacher's Medal by the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge.

Ex-Green Beret Sergeant, Vietnam Vet To Speak Monday Nite In Aetna Fire Hall

Alan Davidson, former sergeant in the Green Berets with the U.S. Special Forces in Vietnam, will speak on "The Plot To Surrender America" at the Aetna Fire Hall, on Ogletown Road next Monday at 8 p.m., with his speech open to the public, part of a three-week tour of the area sponsored locally by the New Castle TRAIN committee.

For the past three years, Davidson has crossed the United States, speaking in support of U.S. service men in Vietnam, and is one of the most sought-after anti-Communist speakers in the country.

The realization by Davidson that "our failure to defeat the Communists is simply a continuation of a policy that has consistently aided world-wide Communism" has brought him to the conclusion that "powerful interests throughout our country not only do not want to defeat Communism, but want to merge our country into a one-world system where the United States will in reality cease to exist."

In his current talk, Davidson will emphasize the history of covert and overt aid to Communists that has led to Communist takeovers in Europe, Asia and Latin America. Also he will discuss actual plans and policies of our present leaders to "scrap the sovereignty of the United States in favor of world government."

The New Castle TRAIN committee which is sponsoring Davidson's talk, was formed to support U.S. soldiers, insist our goal be victory in Vietnam, and demand a halt in all aid and trade with Communist enemies.

Tickets can be obtained at the door.

Gauger's service to education in the Newark area pre-dates elected school boards by some seven years. He was first appointed to the Newark Board of Education in 1953 by Judge Caleb R. Layton, III, to serve the remainder of a term ending June 30, 1966. He was reappointed by Judge Layton in 1956 to serve a term of four years.

When elected boards of education came to Delaware in 1960 Gauger was elected for a two-year term, and was reelected in 1962 for a four-year term.

He was president of the board of education for two years and ended his service to the school on June 30, 1966.

In 1957, Newark joined the Gold team with a new dividing line adding William Penn and Newark strength to the southern All-Stars. Yellowjacket All-Star Quarterback Bobby Conway won the Notre Dame Trophy as the outstanding player of the game in which the Blues edged the Golds 7-6; and Newark contributed All-Stars John Neckel, end; Dick Simpers, halfback; Wilson Cooper, fullback; and George Colbert, guard.

Wells, the state scoring champion, scored a TD and Subach drove over for the final touchdown in the 20-6 Gold victory.

The Gold team won again in 1962 with Newark All-State End Arnold Saunders snaring the winning touchdown pass for the 25-24 nod. And Yellowjackets Mike Sinclair at quarterback, and Jim Smith at end, played a lot of football for the victorious Golds.

In 1963, Newark Fullback Lee Hackney was co-captain for the Gold squad, with teammates Walt Jones end, and Mike Kubice, quarterback, playing in the All-Star game which the Blue team won 12-0.

EASY MAINTENANCE

We hear a lot about extra leisure these days, but with lawn-mowing, gardening, repairing, painting and other such jobs, the homeowner may wonder when his leisure will begin.

It's possible, however, to streamline some of the outdoor maintenance jobs, so they take less time.

Yard care can be simplified by the use of various pieces of equipment such as electric mowers, edgers and trimmers; by planting pachysandra or a similar care-free ground cover in some areas; by selecting easy-to-grow plants and shrubs; and by covering flower beds with peat moss, to discourage weeds.

Lazy gardeners also like to put their flowers in raised beds—not only does this trick save tedious edging, but the gardener doesn't have to bend over so far to do his weeding. A redwood deck adds outdoor living space, and cuts down on lawn mowing.

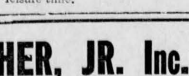

Window maintenance can also be streamlined. Self-storing storm and screen combinations eliminate seasonal switching, painting and storage.

Shutters, too, have been streamlined. Now in just six cities—Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Pittsburgh, Chicago and Detroit—larger department stores and lumber yards have nylon shutters, styled to look like wood.

They come in sizes from 14" x 35" to 16" x 80" and in 16 colors plus black, white and green. They come prefabricated from the factory and they are easy to install and remove. The shutters, made of DuPont nylon, are snapped onto fasteners which you nail to the outside of the house.

Decoratively speaking, these shutters add warmth, graciousness and color to the exterior of a home, and should be installed in the back as well as the front of the house, to make an attractive background for patio entertaining.

With minimum maintenance windows and speeded-up gardening, today's homeowner will be able to enjoy more leisure time.

Agronomist Bill Mitchell Offers Advice To Aid Growing Grass In Shaded Areas

Thousands of Delaware homeowners have difficulty in growing grass in shaded areas of their property, observes University of Delaware Agronomist Bill Mitchell. This, of course, is because grass, like other green plants, must have light to grow.

Perhaps the most celebrated instance of shade damaged grass occurred in the famous Houston Astrodome, he says. In this case, shade damage was the primary reason for installing the synthetic grass AstroTurf in the domed stadium.

Fortunately, Delaware lawn enthusiasts have a less expensive alternative than installing synthetic turf.

Many grasses are somewhat tolerant of moderate shade, explains Mitchell. In fact, light, intermittent shade is actually desirable for some varieties. Problems begin to develop, however, when shade is continuous and exceeds 75 per cent.

Shade tolerant grasses range from Cheeping's fescue, the most tolerant, to Pennlawn red fescue, Kentucky 31 tall fescue, Poa trivialis, Kentucky bluegrass and, finally, to the intolerant Zoysia and Bermuda grasses.

In caring for shaded areas, cut grass higher than you would under full sun conditions, says Mitchell. High shade means low light intensity and, of course, low food production rates by grass. The more top growth, the more grass can utilize small amounts of light.

Never over-fertilize shaded grass with nitrogen, he adds. This may further reduce food storage capabilities.

Clip low tree limbs as high as possible to allow light to reach grass from the side. This practice is often the difference between success and failure in shaded lawns. Remember to provide plenty of water in shaded areas since grass must compete with extensive tree roots for moisture.

Since shade and high moisture are excellent conditions for many fungus diseases, Mitchell recommends regular use of a broad spectrum fungicide during the June through August growing season.

If the shade level is continuous and over 75 per cent, you may wish to use one of several ground covers in place of grass, he adds.

Among easily established ground covers requiring minimum care are bugle, pachysandra, ivy and myrtle.

Safeguard Summer Foods Miss Krackhardt Warns

If picnics, barbecues, cookouts and camping are part of your summer plans, safeguard the food you'll eat. Don't let careless handling of perishable foods ruin your fun.

Bacteria, yeast and molds can grow rapidly in hot, humid Delaware weather, warns Marguerite Krackhardt, extension foods and nutrition specialist at the University of Delaware. These can cause food spoilage unless you take some precautions.

It's easier to keep foods safe these days.

New thermal containers help keep hot food hot and cold food cold.

First, collect all of your medicines in one place. Be methodical. Check each package, bottle, jar, vial, box or tube.

Discard all prescription medicines left over from previous illnesses, no matter how much is in the containers, unless your doctor has advised keeping them. Medicines should be discarded down the drain.

Discard medicine that has changed color, separated or otherwise changed composition. Some medicines change with age, becoming either stronger or weaker, or deteriorating in a way that makes the medicine ineffective or even dangerous.

Dispose of any medicines with labels missing or labels so damaged they cannot be clearly read.

After you have flushed away unwanted medicines, wash out the empty containers before discarding them.

Materials: One Canada Dry can, Styrofoam ball for head.

Pieces of red cloth for mouth, buttons for eyes and yarn for hair. One large wooden spool from thread for neck. Two 9 in. lengths of syringe tubing. Two quarter-inch dowels, each 9 in. long. Bonding glue. Pink spray paint.

Turn can upside down (Fig. 1). Make holes for arms 3/4 in. from rim. Pouring slot will be used for one leg. Make hole for the other leg alongside, near rim.

Insert rubber tube (A) through arm holes (Fig. 2). Cut fingers.

Cut second piece of rubber tube in two. Place over dowels (B). Insert dowels into leg holes as shown in Fig. 3. Leave 3/4 in. piece of tubing overlapping end of each dowel for feet. Press dowels down on nails tapped up through board stand. Cut toes in tube ends, glue and tack down to board (Fig. 4). Glue spool in place for neck. (Fig. 5). Glue head on neck.

Spray paint entire doll. Glue woven strands of yarn for hair. Add features. Glue cloth to can for blouse. Put on skirt with yarn waist band.

Order In Medicines Is Order Of The Day

Is there confusion in your medicine cabinet? Are there old and leftover medicines tucked away in the pantry, stashed in the glove compartment of your car, forgotten on a shelf in the laundry room, on top of a bureau or in a drawer of the night table?

You can bring order out of confusion by a thorough cleanup at least twice a year, says the Council on Family Health. The Council is a non-profit organization sponsored as a public service by leading members of the drug industry.

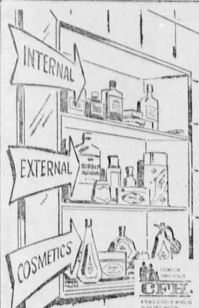

First, collect all of your medicines in one place. Be methodical. Check each package, bottle, jar, vial, box or tube.

COOKING FOR PLEASURE

FELIPE ROJAS-LOMBARDI

HOT WEATHER poses an added burden for the best of cooks, but there is a way out, and no pun intended—cook outdoors. Too many people associate outdoor cooking with hamburgers and hot dogs, but with a little imagination it can be a gourmet's delight. For example, spareribs are truly a tasty dish charcoal-broiled. You must take care to cook them very slowly, and turn continually because of their high fat content. The secret of making especially appetizing spareribs is to have them crisp on the outside, but not charred, and the meat must be juicy and tender. You may broil them by leaving the ribs in a whole strip and woven on the spit. If you do not use a spit it is most important that the ribs be turned and turned. This recipe for eating out is sure to please.

Spareribs With Red Wine—5 pounds of spareribs marinated for at least 12 hours, in 2 cups of red wine, 1 tablespoon of salt, 1 cup of tomato puree, 3 cloves of garlic crushed, ½ teaspoon of freshly ground black pepper, 1 teaspoon of thyme, and 2 tablespoons of wine vinegar. Wipe dry and broil until done, using the marinade, which has been reduced one half, to baste the ribs. If you wish, you may sprinkle them with granulated sugar 5 minutes before re-

LAMB & GREEN BEANS
1½ pounds ground lamb
1½ tps. salt
½ tsp. pepper
½ cup tomato juice
¼ cup basil
¼ tsp. thyme
1 package (10½ ozs.) frozen french green beans, cooked.

Mix together lamb, pepper, salt, thyme, basil and tomato juice. Place on waxed paper and shape into a 10x12 inch rectangle. Spread green beans over meat. Starting with a 10-inch side, roll as if for a jelly roll. Cut into 10 slices, each 1-inch thick. Place on broiler rack. Insert broiler pan so the top surface of the lamb roll is 2 to 3 inches from the heat. Broil until brown on first side, about 8 to 10 minutes. Turn and broil on second side, about 2 to 3 minutes.

Superb Steak For Labor Day Festivities

America sets aside the first Monday in September to honor the importance and dignity of work. Labor Day has come to mark the climax of summer and the beginning of fall strenuous activities. It's a time for relaxing with family and friends.

Canned mushroom gravy sauces steak for a superb and laborless meal. Brown steak, then drible with rich and smooth gravy. For the festive touch add crushed chervil, green onions, and chopped tomatoes to the gravy.

Easy go-alongs include mashed potatoes from a box mix and a big bowl of crisp salad greens. Instead of serving potatoes in a dish, try piling them attractively around steak or use your pastry bag to make potato rosettes.

For dessert...canned French vanilla and Dutch chocolate pudding make a pretty and easy parfait.

SUPERB STEAK
2-pound sirloin steak
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 tablespoon oil
¼ cup sliced green onion
½ teaspoon chervil, crushed
1 can (10½ ounces) mushroom gravy
¼ cup chopped canned tomatoes, drained

The Working World

By Neil R. Cronin

Neil R. Cronin is Director of Temporaries, Business Schools, Victor Comptometer Corp.

Once the public school season has begun, mothers will have plenty of free errands to use profitably. The changing, expanding office world will eagerly pay high salaries for this time.

New technology has caused changes in procedures which could discourage the woman who has been away for awhile, but for those who are willing to make some preparations, the change holds new opportunity.

The best way to ease back into the action is to take a short refresher course from a local, reputable business school.

A business school can increase ability and build self confidence. The school can bring the office worker up to date on the newest calculators, keypunch or key-to-tape models currently in wide use. New office techniques and manners can be learned. Skills can be speeded up in classes on dictation, typing or business machines.

Automation Creates Jobs
One of the causes of the increased demand for employees in the office today is automation. Computers require a huge input from a variety of smaller business machines which require skilled operators.

Automation has even opened a new career for women who have the aptitude and willingness to learn. The career—computer programming—formerly a male-dominated segment of business has recently risen from five to 13.8 per cent female. Eventually, 50 per cent of all programmers will be women.

Women Are Logical
Contrary to popular opinion, the female mind is extremely logical, and a logical mind is a prime prerequisite for programming.

Management has learned that patience and indecision, attention to detail, a character of most women, is an important trait for this profession. Schools, of course, first must test the applicant's aptitude before starting her off in the profession. Courses in programming are more complicated than those for business machine skills or general office skills, but the salary is much higher.

Food For Thought
The main points to consider before enrolling in a course are: Be sure the school will provide you with free job placement assistance for either temporary or permanent positions. Make sure your aptitude and desire is right for the subject you choose to study.

Observe a class in operation before signing up to be sure you know what to expect. Find out how much money you stand to lose if you should have to drop out of class for any reason.

COOCH'S BRIDGE LADY

Mrs. Eleanor Bedford Wilkins Cooch was a symbol of all fine American patriotic tradition, and her efforts in organizing and perpetuating the so worthwhile activities of societies devoted to making us aware of America's glorious past, and to insuring our country's fine future, won the Lady of Cooch's Bridge national recognition.

Widow of Lt. Gov. Edward Webb Cooch, distinguished Delaware statesman, barrister and historian, Mrs. Cooch lived most appropriately on a site near Newark that is rich in colorful colonial history and heroism.

The "Governor" and his Lady resided in a lovely home at their Cooch's Bridge estate where historians cite the Stars and Stripes were first flown when the mighty men of the fledgling Continental Army met the British in the one battle of the Revolutionary War to be fought on Delaware soil.

America owes a real debt of gratitude to the Lady of Cooch's Bridge who provided much needed inspiration in cherishing the colonial past of this great nation when it was very young and wonderful.

chicken, and a multitude of hot vegetables with corn bread transported smoking from the cottage kitchen and outdoor grill. And the friendly companionship of a fine family ranging from grandparents to tiny tots, featured a perfect evening.

On Thursday, after a free ferry ride across Hatteras Inlet to the stronghold of legendary pirate Blackbeard Teach on Ocracoke Island, we returned to the beach where a rising tide was roaring into a great slough — and after a quick, first flounder taken on the spinning rod, put in some frantic, fine fishing with big blues rattling the heavy Calcutta pole momentarily untended in a sandspike.

We beached a pair of two-pound bluefish in some swift shuffling of rods — blues that jumped time and again despite a trailing three-ounce pyramid sinker — bluefish that flashed mirror-bright while digging into the walls of water with waves cresting to break on the beach — and then lost the biggest blue when it shook free, flopping on the wet sand — and disappeared forever in the following crash of a white-floaming sea.

A last cast at dusk with the Hatteras light in full flash, was met by a solid strike from a three-pound flounder that shook the hook just beyond a foaming sea on the sand — and with both hands in some frenzied scooping, we flipped this prize high and dry above the reaching fingers of the sea to wind up a perfect day.

On Friday at the same stand, we took a nice blue, a flounder, and a big kingfish with the Calcutta and Squidder while the spinning tackle drew a blank — and missed the fish of the week when the heavy line snapped in setting back against a terrific strike.

The next day was Saturday, and we were on our way home — with memories of a wonderful vacation and new friends — and treasuring a new, razor-sharp fishknife bought by a five-year-old boy with his own money and presented by Phil King to his motel neighbor across the court.

LEAVE THE COUNTRY.

Of all the ways America can grow, one way is by learning from others.

There are things you can learn in the Peace Corps you can't learn anywhere else.

You could start an irrigation program. And find that crabgrass and front lawns look a little ridiculous. When there isn't enough wheat to go around in Nepal.

You could be the outsider who helps bring a Jamaican fishing village to life, for the first time in three hundred years. And you could wonder if your country has outsiders enough. In Watts. In Detroit. In Appalachia. On its Indian reservations.

Last year, for the first time, Peace Corps alumni outnumbered Volunteers who are now out at work overseas.

By 1980, 200,000 Peace Corps alumni will be living their lives in every part of America.

There are those who think you can't change the world in the Peace Corps.

On the other hand, maybe it's not just what you do in the Peace Corps that counts.

But what you do when you get back.

Banquet From The Grill

—by Martha Logan

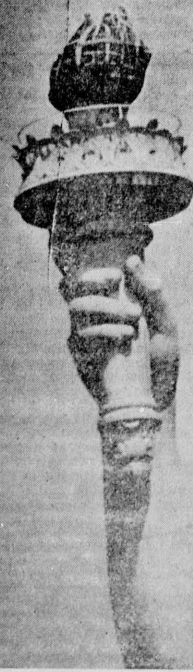

It is banquet time on the patio when you cook a turkey on the covered grill. The cooking is easy and outdoors where everyone likes to be in the summertime. The roasting time is shortened and the tender, juicy, golden brown turkey is a delicacy to be enjoyed.

Open the vents on the bottom and the cover of the drum-style grill for even cooking and browning. Arrange 25 to 30 briquettes on each side of a heavy duty foil drip pan in the center of the grill. When the briquettes have burned 15 to 20 minutes and are white in color, put the rack in place.

Prepare the turkey for roasting as usual by thawing and removing the neck and giblets from the body cavity. The cooking time is less if you choose to cook the turkey unstuffed. Stuffing may be cooked in a disposable foil pan on the rack beside the turkey. Retack the legs. Brush the turkey with melted fat for beautiful browning and place it on the rack. Cover the grill and your work is over except to add 8 to 10 briquettes for each additional hour of cooking. No hasting is necessary when you use special juices placed deep inside beside the turkey as it roasts.

Be sure to check a 14 pound unstuffed turkey for doneness in the thickest portion of the thigh next to the body cavity should register 180° to 185°F for the turkey to be done. Or, pinch the thigh. If it is soft the turkey is ready to remove from the grill for the patio banquet.

Invest in the air you breathe.

THE WORLD AROUND US

SINGLE FLIGHT OF LOCUSTS (GRASSHOPPERS) MAY WEIGH AS MUCH AS 250 FULLY LOADED B-52 BOMBERS AND TAKE THE FOOD IN ONE DAY OF 5 MILLION HUMANS... THERE ARE MANY, MANY TIMES THIS NUMBER EATING AWAY IN THE U.S. TODAY!

IN LESS THAN A YEAR THE OFFSPRING OF ONE PAIR OF HOUSEFLIES IF ALL LIVED AND REPRODUCED NORMALLY WOULD TOTAL 191,000,000,000,000,000,000!

BECAUSE OUR FARMERS USE SUCH SAFE AND EFFECTIVE WAYS TO CONTROL PESTS, FOOD IS BETTER AND MORE ABUNDANT IN THE U.S. THAN ANYWHERE ELSE IN THE WORLD.

Banquet From The Grill

—by Martha Logan

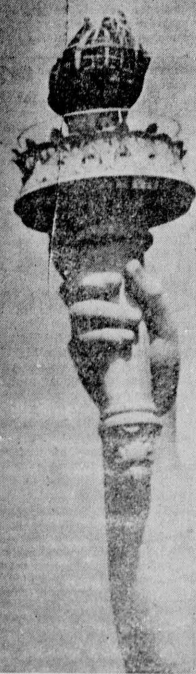

It is banquet time on the patio when you cook a turkey on the covered grill. The cooking is easy and outdoors where everyone likes to be in the summertime. The roasting time is shortened and the tender, juicy, golden brown turkey is a delicacy to be enjoyed.

Open the vents on the bottom and the cover of the drum-style grill for even cooking and browning. Arrange 25 to 30 briquettes on each side of a heavy duty foil drip pan in the center of the grill. When the briquettes have burned 15 to 20 minutes and are white in color, put the rack in place.

Prepare the turkey for roasting as usual by thawing and removing the neck and giblets from the body cavity. The cooking time is less if you choose to cook the turkey unstuffed. Stuffing may be cooked in a disposable foil pan on the rack beside the turkey. Retack the legs. Brush the turkey with melted fat for beautiful browning and place it on the rack. Cover the grill and your work is over except to add 8 to 10 briquettes for each additional hour of cooking. No hasting is necessary when you use special juices placed deep inside haste the turkey as it roasts.

Be sure to check a 14 pound unstuffed turkey for doneness in about 2 1/2 hours. The roast meat thermometer inserted into the thickest portion of the thigh next to the body cavity should register 180° to 185°F for the turkey to be done. Or, pinch the thigh. If it is soft the turkey is ready to remove from the grill for the patio banquet.

What do you give the guy who has nothing?

You get him off to a good start. With U.S. Savings Bonds. On his first birthday. On his first Christmas. As he grows, the Bonds grow. When he's ready for college, the Bonds can help put him through. And if everybody in the family gave him Savings Bonds, someday he'd be a very tough guy to buy anything for. Because what can you give a guy who has everything?
