City's 50th Halloween Parade scheduled

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

THERE'S STILL PLENTY of space for weird, wonderful and wacky characters who want to march in Newark's 50th anniversary Halloween Parade on Oct. 26.

According to parade organizer Jennifer Jones of the city parks and recreation department, costumed families and individuals wishing to march should come to George Reed Park to register before the parade begins at 2 p.m.

Groups or organizations must make arrangements with the parks and recreation department prior to Sunday.

The parade starts at the corner of Tyre Avenue and Main Street and ends at North College Avenue. A judges' booth will be set up at the corner of Academy and Main streets.

"This year we're going to have a live broadcast of the parade announced from the judges booth on WXCW at 103.7 FM," said Jones.

Also new this year, 10 volunteers from the city will be handing out 5,000 anniversary keepsakes to spectators along the parade route.

Among the groups already scheduled for the event as of press time were the Haunted Hearse, UDee, Ronald McDonald and the Big Pretzel. Scout troops, local legislators and automobile clubs will join community organizations Tigger and Batman may have overtaken the traditional ghosts and goblins but all will be present this week in Newark. The City will host its 50th Halloween Parade Sunday on Main Street. Along with the parade, the city also has Trick or Treat Main Street scheduled for Oct. 30 from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m.

THE DELDOT Organizational Review Task Force has only met five times and already one of the co-chairs is planning to ask for more time.

"We're supposed to complete the review and present our findings by January 31, 1998," said State Representative Stephanie Ulbrich, "but there is a very strong likelihood we will have to ask the legislature for an extension."

According to a joint legislative resolution, the group's focus was to be two main areas — road maintenance

ATHREATENED STRIKE by the Amtrak railway workers may take the bloom from commuting at the month-old Newark train station.

As of press time, a planned strike by the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees against Amtrak's commuter rail services had been delayed one week to 12:01 a.m. on Oct. 29. Negotiations were underway to further delay that deadline or reach a contract agreement.

Man found lying in road

Newark Police continue to investigate an incident involving a 25-year-old Newark man found lying in the road on South College Avenue around 7:10 p.m. on Oct. 19.

According to Sgt. Thomas Buglio, motorists found Darrell Whittaker, a resident of Southgate Apartments, unconscious and bleeding in the street and called police. "He was taken to Christiana Hospital where he is still listed in serious condition," said Buglio on Wednesday. "Doctors are considering the possibility of an epileptic seizure, a brain stem stroke or something else — like a severe assault."

Buglio said the investigation is ongoing and anyone who may have witnessed the incident is asked to call police at 366-7111.

Bicyclist charged

Newark Police report that on Oct. 17 around 9:50 a.m., a 22-year-old University of Delaware student was traveling on the sidewalk along South College Avenue when she attempted to cross Delaware Avenue in the crosswalk. She was struck by a Dodge Charger driven by 20-year-old Robert Avery, also a University of Delaware student. Police transported Suzuki to the Newark Emergency Center where she was treated for minor injuries and released. She was charged with disregarding a traffic control device. Avery was not charged.

Winner dealership burglarized

On Oct. 17 around 5 a.m., Newark Police responded to a report of a suspicious vehicle in the area of Winner Nissan on Ogletown Road. Officers discovered that several vehicles had been broken into and the dealership was burglarized.

Teresa Pate of Kayak Court in Newark was found with stolen merchandise in a vehicle. Two other suspects had fled the area. Pate was charged with burglary, theft, possession of burglary tools and conspiracy. Police are still investigating and charges against the other suspects are pending.

Guns and tools stolen

Sometime between Oct. 15 at 6:30 p.m. and Oct. 16 at 9:30 a.m., unknown persons entered a residence on Lark Drive and removed tools and guns valued at $2,255. Police said guns reported missing by the owner included a .22-caliber Western field weapon, a .22 Winchester, 300-caliber Savage, and a 12-gauge Remington shotgun. Also removed were 13 boxes of ammunition. Anyone with information is asked to call police at 366-7111.

Police officer assaulted

On Oct. 19 around 1:25 a.m., police responded to a report that a man refused to leave the parking lot behind the Stone Balloon after being told to do so. The man, identified as 21-year-old Arthur K. Eller Jr., attacked the police officer. He was charged with assaulting a police officer, resisting arrest, disorderly conduct, criminal contempt, public intoxication, loitering and criminal trespass.

New Castle County officer receives civil rights award

New Castle County Det. Sgt. W. Scott McLaren recently received the first International Association of Chiefs of Police Civil Rights Award. The recognition honors those who have strived to minimize the effects that hate crimes have on communities worldwide.

McLaren was assigned to investigate a hate crime in the Bear community of Lexington Green on Nov. 9, 1994. During his investigation, McLaren determined that an African-American male was racially taunted and threatened with a gun by three white males while the man was walking home with groceries.

The victim was not injured and was able to flee. The gun was recovered and racial hate literature was found in the suspects' vehicle when the three men were arrested a short time later.

In June 1995, Robert Hanulik was sentenced to 15 years imprisonment for conspiracy against civil rights and a firearms violation. Mark Hobbs was sentenced to 38 months in prison for conspiracy against civil rights. The third suspect testified for the prosecution against the other two.

McLaren, a county officer since 1988, has served in the patrol and detectives divisions both as an investigator and supervisor. Currently he is a supervisor in the Criminal Investigation Unit.

DP&L receiving fraud phone calls

Delaware State Police and Delmarva Power & Light Company officials are investigating reports that customers are receiving fraudulent phone calls regarding overdue bills and termination of service.

"Customers have reported receiving phone calls from unnamed individuals regarding overdue Delmarva Power bills and/or threatening the termination of electric service," said Vince Jacono, Delmarva Power spokesperson. "If customers receive calls of this nature we urge them to hang up and call Delmarva Power's Customer Service Center immediately to report the incident."

In addition, if someone claiming to be a Delmarva Power employee comes to your door, look for a marked Delmarva Power vehicle and ask to see an identification card. All Delmarva Power employees carry photo-identification and won't object to your asking. If your request is refused, don't let that person inside your home or business.

"Delmarva Power employees carry I.D. and expected to be asked to show identification," said Jacono.

If you have any doubt about the validity of a phone call from Delmarva Power or an employee I.D., call Delmarva Power immediately at 454-3000 from New Castle County, or 1-800-375-7117 from all other areas. The Company will verify the situation.

Chase's credit card operations in Delaware are based in Wilmington.

MBNA Hall opens on university campus

Built partly as a result of generous gifts from MBNA America, Hockessin resident Chaplin Tyler and numerous other local donors, the University of Delaware's newest classroom building was dedicated on Oct. 17.

Charles M. Cawley, chairman, president and CEO of MBNA and Tyler were among the honored guests at the dedication for MBNA America Hall, a 46,000 square-foot business and economics building on the University Mall.

Echoing the Georgian architecture of the Mall, the brick and concrete building also features a glass-walled atrium with skylights, four 70-seat case study classrooms, the dean's office, 39 faculty offices and three conference rooms.

The facility also has space for the Small business Development Center, the Center for Economic Education and Entrepreneurship, the MBA program and the Department of Business Administration.

A glass bridge across Orchard Road connects the atrium with the main level of Purnell Hall, also extensively renovated as part of the $15 million project.

Construction funds included $2.5 million from MBNA America and $1 million from Tyler as well as $11 million from the state. Another $.5 million in corporate and individual gifts came from Henri and Rhoda Bertuch of Oyster Cove, N.Y., Delmarva Power, the DuPont Co., the Jack Ingo family of Rehoboth Beach, J.P. Morgan & Co. Inc., PNC Bank and Wilmington Trust.

Commuters like Newark rail service

By ANITA WARNER

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

THE NEWARK train station off South College comes alive each weekday a little before daybreak. Two white shuttle buses enter the parking lot just as a silver streak comes to a halt at the platform entrance.

Commuters arrive by foot or car while those getting off the train prepare to board the shuttle for a ride to work.

Whether they are departing or arriving, all of the commuters on a recent Friday morning were happy with the month-old service.

"The service has been going great so far," said Terry Gray of Newark. "I have no complaints, and I go to Suburban Station (in Philadelphia) to work every morning."

Gray added, "The ride is nice and I don't have to worry about parking expenses." Gray has taken the train every morning since the service began in September. "Since I have been riding the train I have never experienced any problems."

Commuting by train is a family affair for the Adamses. "The service is great for our family," explained Pennsylvania resident John Adams while he and his daughter waited for the train. "Melanie goes to Archmere Academy in Claymont and my wife (used to) take her on her way to work."

The younger Adams was in agreement with her father, but for a totally different reason. "I get to sleep an extra hour every morning and that's great," she said. "I take the train to school in the morning and I get the bus after (volleyball) practice to go home."

According to Barry Todd, deputy director for the SEPTA R2 line, 94 percent of the 180 passengers responding to a recent survey indicated they were first time riders. "This is great," said Todd. "Even the first day of service was better than we expected, but the numbers appear to be improving."

DART plans alternate routes

► STRIKE, from 1

Delaware Transit Corporation (DTC) announced steps to get passengers to and from their destinations. In place of the daily R2 service, DART First State will provide substitute bus service connecting Newark with Wilmington and the Philadelphia area.

"We are very concerned about how our R2 riders will get to work during the strike," said Nancy Shevock, director of DTC. "This substitute bus service is intended to minimize the disruption and inconvenience for our customers."

The substitute schedule would include 21 weekday round trip peak period buses between Delaware commuter rail stations and Philadelphia.

Those holding weekly and monthly Septa Trailpasses will be able to use them for SEPTA and Delaware Transit Corporation officials hope that an Amtrak workers' strike will not discourage the momentum built up in the first month. DTC has made arrangements for alternate bus service through DART First State in the event a strike takes place. (See related story this issue.)

The last train to depart for the morning entered the station and among those waiting to board were two out-of-state travelers.

"I hope I didn't forget anything," said Jay Kichmore of Sandusky, Ohio.

Kichmore had stayed a week in Middletown and was using the Newark rail service for the first time. "I need to get to New York," he said.

According to Sgt. Noack of Wachenhut Security, gates close in the station parking lot at 7:30 p.m. "The service is great," Noack stated. "The (lot) allows people the comfort of parking their cars and knowing they're safe."

Philadelphia's Broad Street subway system.

All others will pay $1.50 one-way. Customers will pay standard train fares to ride the shuttle bus, but pre-purchased tickets for the train may be used on the buses.

Although there is no Saturday service from Newark, riders on other lines will have two Saturday round-trip buses between Wilmington and Philadelphia.

In the event of a strike, buses will leave the Newark train station for Wilmington and Philadelphia on weekdays starting at 6:15 a.m.

Additional buses in the morning will be at 6:35 a.m., 7 a.m., 7:45 a.m. and noon. There will also be a northbound evening bus at 6 p.m.

A morning bus for Delaware commuters from Wilmington to the Newark train station will leave at 7:15 a.m. Another bus enroute from Philadelphia will stop in Claymont at 7:45 a.m. before continuing on to arrive in Newark at 8:30 a.m.

Starting at 5:15 p.m., buses will leave Wilmington for the return to the Newark station with runs at 5:45 p.m., 6:05 p.m., 6:30 p.m., 6:35 p.m., 6:45 p.m. and 8 p.m.

Additional buses will pickup passengers in Claymont at 5:30 p.m. and 5:40 p.m. for a direct run to the Newark station.

This week, SEPTA and DART officials distributed flyers and other customer information on the R2 trains.

In the event of a strike, SEPTA and DART personnel will assist riders at Newark and other train stations and destinations during peak commuting times.

Winner recalls first parade

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

FOR Helen Kline Ritchie, the first Newark Halloween Parade in 1947 seems like only yesterday.

"Ethel Smith and I were shopping on Main Street and I found out there was going to be a Halloween Parade," the 83-year-old recalled this week. "I said let's find something to wear and go in the parade."

Ritchie said Smith had a trunkful of her parents' old clothes that the two used for their costumes. "I don't remember if we were supposed to both be men, or both be women, or one of each," said Ritchie between peals of laughter.

Ritchie jumped up to demonstrate her parade-marching technique. "I led the band for a while, conducting like this," Ritchie said. "Then I went along and shook hands with people watching. At one point I was way behind and had to run to catch up."

Whatever they wore, the duo walked off with third prize of $25 from the judges. "We went down to Frank Smith's Atlantic Gas Station at Chapel and Main to get change so we could split the money," said Ritchie. "I can tell you, $25 was a lot of money in those days — you could buy a whole outfit, shoes, dress, hat, everything for that."

Prizes in that first parade were $100, $50 and $25 for first, second and third place. "I don't know who won the other prizes," said Ritchie. "I would like to know."

For the irrepressible Ritchie, dressing up for Halloween was a lifelong tradition. "I always used to dress up and go out on Halloween," Ritchie said. "One time after my first husband died I put on a yellow men's bathrobe and some gloves and became a boxer."

Ritchie said when her neighbors opened their front door she bounced in punching. "They really laughed," said Ritchie. "I wish I had a picture."

Other memorable tricks and treats include the time she dressed up as a ghost and went to her dentist's office. "He didn't recognize me and said he was sorry but 'this was a business and not giving out treats,'" said Ritchie laughing again.

Ritchie's son, Neil Kline, recalled the time his mother dressed up and came into the El Sombbrero where he was working. "The waitress came up to me and asked if I knew who those people were dressed up as men," said Kline who did not recognize his mother or her friend. "I said I hadn't the slightest idea."

One of Kline's friends at Newark High School recently told him it took 40 years to get over one of Ritchie's disguises. "My friend ran up behind her on Haines Avenue on Halloween and grabbed her trick or treat bag, not knowing it was her," said Kline.

The next day when the boy came to the house as usual on his way to school, Ritchie told him she was "ashamed" of him for taking candy from trick-or-treaters. "My friend told me at a recent high school reunion that it was years before he could finally tell that story without being embarrassed," said Kline.

and school groups in costumes.

Jones said marching bands include groups from DelCastle, St. Mark's, Glasgow, Avon Grove, Christiana, and Newark high schools.

Starting at 1:30 p.m. on Sunday, Main Street will be closed from Tyre to College avenues. Part of Delaware Avenue will be closed from 1:45 to 2:45 p.m. while vehicles in the parade exit the Newark High School parking lot.

Newark Parking Authority lots 1, 3 and 4, and University of Delaware lots with gates open will be available for parking free of charge on Sunday.

As usual, the parade will march "if it just sprinkles a little," said Jones, but there is no raindate if it's canceled.

Information is available on parade day by calling the Park and Recreation Leisure Hotline at 366-7147.

Trick-or-Treat Main Street

Downtown Newark's annual Trick-or-Treat Main Street will be held on Thursday, Oct. 30, from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m.

This is the ninth year for Newark's variation on the Halloween night tradition.

According to Deirdre Peake, coordinator for Downtown Newark inc., most businesses in the downtown district are participating.

Children in costumes accompanied by their parents are welcome to trick or treat safely along Main Street and throughout the Newark Shopping Center.

A maze of scary sights and sounds waits in the Haunted Alley located to CVS Pharmacy. Admission into the haunted alley and pictures in the pumpkin patch will cost $1 each.

The city's department of parks and recreation will have tables on the Academy Building lawn for children to make Halloween crafts. There is no charge for this activity.

Crossing guards will help maintain safety along Main Street which is not closed to traffic for the event. Parents are advised to accompany their children throughout the evening.

Starting at 4:30 p.m. on Oct. 30, parking is free for the entire evening in Newark Parking Authority lots 1, 3 and 4.

New jewel in our crown

IF YOU ARE NOT a University of Delaware student, you may not know of a new jewel in our town's crown.

At the corner of Orchard Road and Amstel Avenue stands the new MBNA America Hall, which was dedicated last week.

Ninety-nine-year-old Chaplin Tyler, a UD benefactor, upstaged MBNA chairman Charles M. Cawley and president David P. Roselle with his heartfelt, spry outlook on the role he sees for the College of Business and Economics long after his time.

Cawley spoke of his company's early and rewarding relationship with UD and why MBNA donated $2.5 million to the $15 million project.

But the real star of the show last Friday was the building itself. Echoing the Georgian architecture of the UD mall and sans MBNA's trademark green awnings, the new classroom building is not only state of the art, but luxurious as well.

We urge Newarkers to pay a visit to MBNA America Hall and inspect its glass-walled atrium, the distinguished board room, and four 70-seat classrooms complete with "touch" panels that operate the lights and overhead projector.

Congratulations to the donors that made this new facility in Newark possible and to the UD for constructing the prestigious structure, one that surely will serve as a selling point to future business students.

A final note: We also tip our hat to Donald J. Puglisi, the longtime UD professor who received the university's highest award, the Medal of Distinction, last week.

A word about The Wedge

By ELBERT CHANCE

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

IF YOU'VE LIVED IN THE NEWARK area for any length of time, you've undoubtedly heard someone mention The Wedge. Most of us know that The Wedge is a small piece of land in western New Castle County, but we're not quite sure of its significance or its tangled history.

It's my guess that this relatively unimportant, 800-acre triangle of land has been the cause of more contentious legal battles over a longer period of time than any similar property in the nation.

The problem developed because successive British kings had a limited knowledge of the geography of their fledgling American colony, and awarded land grants to loyal subjects that often were vaguely defined and overlapping. Such was the case in the latter years of the 17th century when a bitter disagreement arose between

Chance

Charles Calvert, the third Lord Baltimore, and William Penn, the proprietor of Pennsylvania, over the boundary between their respective lands. Had Lord Baltimore's claim been honored, Philadelphia would be in Maryland; if Penn's original position had been supported, Baltimore would be in Pennsylvania!

The boundary battle continued well into the 18th century, but in 1732, an agreement was made as a result of compromise by all of the principals. Lord Baltimore abandoned his claim to the lower counties (later Delaware) and a line was established across the peninsula from Fenwick Island to the Chesapeake Bay as the southernmost part of the Penn brothers' land. Maryland's northern boundary, extending to the west, was to begin 15 miles south of Philadelphia. From the midpoint of the southern line, another line

ONE PARENT'S PERSPECTIVE

One way to close the gap

By RUTH KELLY

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

THERE IS MUCH to be said by this parent on the recent remarks published by Secretary of Education, Dr. Iris Metts and her declaration of war on the achievement gaps that exist between the state's student groups.

I agree that Delaware, along with the rest of the nation, has "lost its way" in how to better educate children. More personally to me is the educational success to our black children in the system.

It is disheartening to see the numbers showing the differences in SAT scores between white and black children, with black students falling behind considerably. There are a few realities that need to be acknowledged to attain Delaware's mission of helping all students to succeed.

One way to close the gap is the complete realization by teachers that all children are capable of learning. The difference in my mind between the exceptional teacher and the average one is that the exceptional teacher will work hard at finding innovative ways to reach the student who is really struggling.

I am a black parent with an average student doing well in school. Much of her success is due in part to the support she receives at home. A child cannot and should not go through the education system alone without parental involvement. It is unfair and cruel to the child. It is also not fair to place full accountability on the teachers.

I feel it very important to state the reality of the disadvantages faced by black children

Newark citizens flock to register

The importance of the coming campaign, the weather, or maybe it was just plain eagerness to join the ranks of real citizens that drew 525 residents of this town to the polling places Saturday to place their names upon the eligibility lists of registered voters.

The women of the two districts surprised party leaders by their heavy registration.

The best part of it all is the fact that the men and women of Newark and vicinity rallied to the issues and expressed in no small figures their right to full citizenship.

University joins in big parade

The students of the University of Delaware, both men and women, and accompanied by a large portion of the Faculty, left Newark this morning at 9:40 a.m. by special train on the B and O Railroad, to take part in the big Memorial Library parade in Wilmington.

Upon arrival in that city they will be joined by 20,000 school children in a great parade and mass meeting.

All arrangements were made and plans perfected yesterday afternoon and Wilmington is in holiday attire this afternoon. It is the first time that the men and women students of the university have paraded together in their full strength.

Veterans Benefits Increase Approved

President Nixon signed, into effect yesterday, a bill giving veterans a 25.7 percent increase in educational assistance benefits.

The bill which is retroactive to Sept. 1 will increase educational assistance payments for full time students to $220 a month for single veterans, $261 a month for a married veteran, and $298 for a married veteran with one child with each additional dependent receiving an additional $18.

GM Honors Employees' Achievements

GM employees will be honored in a special recognition ceremony at the Boxwood Road site. Nine employees will receive their high school equivalency diploma at this time. They join 24 other GM employees who have completed their high school education through a special company program.

They comprise the third group of students who have achieved the final step in a company program aimed specifically towards self-betterment and increased opportunity for GM employees. Currently there are about 30 students in the program according to Richard Ward GM Supervisor of Education and Training.

The students attend classes at the plant twice a week for approximately three hours each.

Concern draws crowd to rape talk

The women were unsettled at a rape discussion at Clayton Hall in Newark Sunday night, held in light of eight rapes recently committed in the area by someone police believe to be a serial rapist.

Some of them sighed heavily and kept fidgeting in their seats while others just stared up at the podium in a type of disbelief and fear.

And then there were many who were angry and ready to fight.

Glasgow girls down Newark 2-0

Newark — It was only the first time the two teams played, but it was already a rivalry.

Glasgow downed Newark 2-0 in a Delaware/Pennsylvania (DEPA) Womens Soccer League game on a cold and blustery Monday afternoon at McVey Elementary School. Even though it was the first time the teams met, the schools have had plenty of intense meetings over the years and these teams picked right up on the rivalry.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

'It ain't over 'til it's over'

To: The editor

From: Shirley Tarrant
Newark

The Oct. 17 Newark Post quotes Mayor Ronald Gardner as saying at the last city council meeting (10/13/97), "I'm not one to sweep things under the rug, but that's the place most people sweep dirt and that's what we have here."

When I heard first hand this statement by the mayor, I could not believe my ears. Given the mayor's penchant for mumbling and muddled imagery, what on earth (no pun intended) is the "dirt" he is talking about?

Is he referring to:

a) My right as a citizen to file an ethics complaint against Councilman Hal Godwin?

b) My right to due process at the June 19 Board of Ethics hearing on my complaint against Godwin?

c) My right to urge city council not to accept the Board of Ethics decision for the same lack of due process?

d) My right to invoke the Freedom of Information Act, to obtain a verbatim transcript of the Board of Ethics' executive session at which the board's decision was made?

e) My right to petition city council to rescind its acceptance of the Board of Ethics' decision, once a review of the transcript revealed grossly improper participation by the city solicitor and city secretary in the Board's deliberations?

Or is the mayor, in the final analysis, referring to my audacity in questioning certain actions of a sacrosanct city government?

The group of "most people," to whom the mayor referred, must be offended by his opinion that they sweep dirt under the rug. Now we know it is not a red carpet that's rolled out by the mayor - for city residents - it's a dirty carpet.

As for members of Newark city council, the "group (which) hopes subject now closed," I remind them of a Yogi Berra quote: "It ain't over 'til it's over!"

From: Amy Lovett Fad
Newark

My family history in Newark and environs goes back over 200 years so I am interested in the restoration and development of Main Street.

I am baffled by the actions of councils, committees, etc. in Newark. The original school that was in the parking lot behind WSFS was allowed to be torn down. That disgusting, eye-sore diner was saved. Part of the grey stone Presbyterian Church was torn down. Now you want to "save" the Farm and Home building when the old part is admittedly not salvageable. That building has more history than the State Theatre? A lovely old home was demolished across the street there year after year to make way for the bank. Mr. Lang's plans for the Farm and Home site sound better than any other and certainly better than an empty building sitting there year after year.

The policy appears to be eenie, meenie, minie, mo!

was to be drawn directly north to make a tangent with the 12-mile arc from its center in New Castle. This line had been established in 1701 by surveyors employed by William Penn and was later reaffirmed by Charles Mason and Jeremiah Dixon in the 1760s when they were engaged to survey the long east-west boundary between the two states.

One small problem arose. The boundary line running north did not precisely meet the curved line of Delaware's northern boundary at the post marked "West", which Mason and Dixon had placed just north of today's Milford Cross Roads. That post was to be the latitudinal point from which the northern border of Maryland was to begin. To correct this problem, the northern line was extended, thereby creating a small additional triangle of land.

Mason and Dixon and a Lt. Col. Graham, who conducted a survey for the U. S. Engineers in 1849, considered The Wedge to be a part of Pennsylvania, but Delaware authorities did not share that view and continued to claim the land. In 1893, a joint commission representing both states awarded the land to Delaware, an action ratified by Pennsylvania in 1897 and by the State of Delaware and the U. S. Congress in 1921.

Two decades later, there was an amusing postscript to this long dispute. It was discovered that the Delaware map in the 1940 Congressional Directory incorrectly showed the boundary of The Wedge. Delaware Sen. John G. Townsend, Jr., reported the error to Ansel Wold, clerk of the Congressional Printing Office, who replied that the map had been supplied by the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics. He promised that an accurate map would appear in future editions of the directory.

Thus, after a struggle extending through four centuries, The Wedge was at last assigned to its proper owner.

Safety is no trick

■ This weekly feature on the Lifestyle page is authored by the staff of the Newark-based Cooperative Extension Service.

AS I DRIVE around Newark, I see families out raking leaves, planting mums, and decorating their homes with witches, ghosts, monsters and spider webs. Everyone seems to enjoy the preparations for that scariest of nights, when children parade the neighborhood to collect goodies.

Halloween is a fun time for children, but it can be a dangerous night. It also may be a nightmare for motorists. Last year at this time, a boy in Wilmington was struck by a motor vehicle as he darted across the street to his next stop. The majority of injuries occurring on Halloween are caused by falls and impacts with motor vehicles. It is important for parents and caregivers to review important safety tips with children before they venture out on Halloween night.

By Cindy Genau

To avoid your children ending up the victim of a crash or injury, talk to them about their responsibility to be safe. In all the excitement of dressing up, children must be extra careful not to take risks crossing the road, because their costumes make them less visible to drivers. Remind your children to exit and enter the road from the curbside and to cross at intersections. Tell them to be wary of cars and not to dart into the street without looking first. The most important point to emphasize is that before crossing the street, STOP, look left, right, left, listen for cars and yield to any oncoming vehicle.

It is not safe for children under 10 to trick or treat alone. A parent or older sibling should accompany children to supervise their Halloween route—one away from a busy highway—and assist them in crossing streets safely. Give your children a flashlight to carry or have a group leader carry one for them. And add retro-reflective tape to their costume to make them more visible to motorists.

Motorists have to take responsibility on this night, too. Slow down for all the ghosts in the night. Don't speed through residential neighborhoods, and obey all signals and signs. Keep your eyes open for children. Be prepared to stop quickly. Stay alert especially in driveways and alleyways—300 children nationwide die in driveways every year.

To make sure your children come home on Halloween with a bag full of treats to share (I always hope I can conjure up my favorite) and not a bundle of injuries, teach them how to be good pedestrians. There is no trick to that!

MEN of NOTE

CHRISTIANA High School's first drum major, 1967 graduate Fred Dawson, is accustomed to performing. A personable "ham" since his youth, donning a homemade uniform and waving a cheap baton that often would fall apart, he would enthrall early CHS football fans when he would lean so far back that the tip of his furry hat would touch the ground.

Then, for 13 years, as a member of a Newark-based garage band, during the late 1960s and early 70s Dawson toured the mid-Atlantic region, playing bars, union halls and Holiday Inn lounges. The group once even entertained at the prestigious Red Velvet Supper Club on the Sunset Strip in Los Angeles, however, bragging rights was all the band received for compensation.

Today, as a successful financial and investment consultant and vice president of Bassett, Brosius & Dawson, his face is familiar both to newspaper readers and television viewers. He frequently authors advice columns in the New Castle Business Ledger, the News Journal's Business Monday section and other regional publications. He has been an "expert" commentator on CNBC's New York-based financial shows and gives the stock market report each Friday on Suburban Cable's Channel 2 news.

But this extensive performing background, the hundreds of presentations he has made to clients through his 17 years as a finance consultant, his 52 appearances at the podium of the Newark Rotary Club when he served at its president in 1993-94, and his recent saxophone solo playing the national anthem at Frawley stadium all pale in comparison to his appearance this month on the stage of the Grand Opera House.

It was then, in just nine short minutes, that this Newark resident lived a fantasy he had as a beginning saxophonist—to one day play along side one of the musical "greats."

On Oct. 12, Dawson actually surpassed his childhood dream. Not only did he perform three pieces with the headlining Boots Randolph, the saxophone legend turned center stage over to Dawson and backed him up on a special arrangement of the Bert Kaempfert hit, "Wonderland By Night."

Dawson's admiration of Randolph, who is worshiped worldwide by saxophone enthusiasts and is familiar to pop music audiences for his hit "Yakety Sax," began shortly after he began music lessons while a fourth grader at Jennie Smith Elementary School.

"My mother brought home to me a Boots Randolph record," Dawson recalls, "and I played it so much that I wore it out!"

Years later, at age 26, after quitting the band, his job and his first marriage, Dawson and a friend went to the Delaware State Fair, where the Nashville-based Randolph was performing. "After the show, we jumped the fence. I knocked on Boots' camper door and I met my idol," he smiles.

That was in 1976 and Dawson forgot about Boots and music while he concentrated on fatherhood and building a "real world" career.

■ No parental support

THAT DAWSON even learned how to play an instrument at all is amazing.

At age 11, as a fourth grader at Jennie Smith, Dawson started taking clarinet lessons, an action that his mother okayed without his father's permission.

"My father threatened bodily harm if I brought my instrument out around him," Dawson remembers.

With the blessings of his fourth and fifth grade teachers who understood Dawson's domestic situation, he was allowed to practice in the janitor's room at Jennie Smith.

At age 13, Dawson easily switched to alto sax, the fingering of which is similar to that of the clarinet.

Still living in Todd Estates, his parents divorced and Dawson joined the band at Ogletown Junior High.

"I was a latch key kid. I was home alone in the afternoon so, day after day, I'd practice my saxophone," he recalls.

A brand new tenor sax was waiting for Dawson when he entered the portals of Christiana High School. He joined the stage band and, for the first time, was exposed to big band music. Instead of simple, repetitive exercises, suddenly he was playing challenging, melodic and interesting pieces.

"I was thrilled. I had band the first and last periods of the school day.

All my friends were musicians. I never cut school, because I wanted to play music," Dawson remembers.

Near the end of his sophomore year, a friend, Eddie Stevenson asked Dawson to join his small rock-and-roll band. The group was managed by Stevenson's father, who had a limited background in show business.

Dawson agreed and began a 13-year

'Double bill' at Delaware Art Museum

BEING AN OPERA BUFF, whenever anyone says "double bill" to me I immediately think of the most famous operatic double bill of all time, "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "I Pagliacci."

But some things have been happening at the Delaware Art Museum to make my old "connection" at bit less certain. DAM has been offering a series of "double bills," two fine shows of different artists at the same time at their 2301 Kentmere Parkway galleries.

Both shows opened this month. Running now through Nov. 30 is "The Gist of Drawing: Works on Paper by John Sloan." Continuing on through Dec. 7 is "Albert Bloch: The American Blue Rider."

For the most mundane of reasons (my Bloch notes are on top of my Sloan notes) I would begin with the Albert Bloch exhibit. Missouri born Bloch is the only American artist to be a part of "The Blue Rider," one of Germany's most important group of artists in this century. This retrospective includes 50 paintings and 30 watercolors, drawings and prints. They all come together to reveal a largely untold story of the artist's life and work.

Young Albert began his career creating illustrations for St. Louis newspapers and the literary weekly, "The Mirror." In 1908, at the age of 26, he went to Germany for more formal studies. It was there he met Wassily Kandinsky and Franz Marc. His life was never to be the same.

"For members of 'The Blue Rider' group, line, color, space and movement — rather than literal representations of observed nature — combined to express their spiritual and psychological state," commented DAM's Isabelle Farrell. Members of this group were among the first to break away from accepted artistic styles and move into the bold colors and abstractions of Expressionism.

This show includes works covering the entire range of his career. It helped me to see his evolving style as an artist. It is interesting to see his brilliantly colored harlequins and pierrots from his years in Germany and then see his almost ghostly, delicately toned works of his later years when he returned to his homeland.

The Bloch exhibit is a traveling one and, by contrast, the Sloan is the home grown variety. It is the first survey exhibition of drawings by John Sloan and includes just over 100 works drawn from DAM's permanent collection which includes over 2,000 drawings by the artist. It is the start of a series of exhibits over the next five years of Sloan's works planned by the museum.

The works in this show are arranged by themes in categories including illustration, figure studies, landscapes and cityscapes and preparatory drawings. His works, all on paper, reveal the remarkable range of the artist's works which he produced in a variety of styles for a multitude of reasons.

Like Bloch, Sloan was a rebel and a member of an important American group of rebels in the art world. He was a member of "The Eight," a group of American artists who in 1908 rebelled against what they saw as "The tyrannical conservatism of the nation's leading arts organizations."

He, too, began his work illustrating for a newspaper, the Philadelphia Inquirer. From those days through his famous New York scenes (I really liked some of them) into landscaping and nudes, the artist tried to mediate between nature and expression. How well did he do in his task? You have to decide that after you see the exhibit.

The catalog for the Bloch exhibit is a massive tome, a work of art in its own right. It could really be an art text book. I have learned a lot from it and enjoyed it as well.

The color illustrations are superb. There is a 16-page catalog for the Sloan exhibit and, while it is much simpler, it is interesting in a different way. It is a series of three essays which highlight specific works by Sloan related to historical and critical issues.

Both are available from the Museum Store.

The new hours at DAM are Tuesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.; Wednesday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Sunday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

There is free admission to the museum on Wednesdays from 4 to 9 p.m. and Saturdays 9 a.m. to noon. Regular admission is $5 for adults, $3 for senior citizens, $2.50 for students with valid ID and children six and under are free.

For more information you may call 302-571-9590.

Playing out a childhood dream

► DAWSON, from 8

relationship that included coast-to-coast touring, several records releases that garnered local airplay on WAMS-AM, playing to crowds as large as 110,000, and opening for such name acts of the time as Redbone, Eric Carmen, Chicago, Poco and Dr. Hook.

The Fabulous Pharaohs took off immediately. Their first gig, at the Elkton armory, each band member earned $10. For high schoolers of the late 1960s, this was big money. "I couldn't believe it," Dawson says. "I was playing my music and getting paid. Too cool!"

The younger Stevenson encouraged Dawson to switch to the keyboard. Dawson bought a Doric organ and taught himself to play. Then he stepped up to a Hammond BV and finally to the mammoth Hammond B3, complete with its bulky wooden cabinet and twirling Leslie speakers. Finally, Dawson could imitate the 60s organ sound made famous by the Young Rascals. (The B3 sits in the basement of Dawson's Silverwood home today.)

While Dawson was acquiring near-room size organ equipment, the rest of the band was piling up amplifiers, synthesizers and other electronic paraphernalia. The band bought a series of vehicles that included four hearses, an ambulance, a limo and 18-foot diesel truck.

In 1967, their manager arranged for them to play gratis at the Red Velvet Supper Club on Beverly Hills' Sunset Strip. The band piled into their hearse and drove cross country.

In L.A., naive and star struck, they pulled their hearse into the driveways of stars' home. Elvis had left his building but Pat Boone, who was hosting a nationally telecast afternoon show at the time, answered the knock at his door, dressed only in swim trunks. The boys hustled him out to their hearse for some quick pictures.

Their performance on stage at the Red Velvet was less noteworthy and the boys headed 3,000 miles back to Delaware.

During their 13 years together, the Pharaohs cut records but never inked a deal with a major label. They toured around the east coast and appeared on local TV dance shows, like Jerry Blavat's in Philly and Kirby Scott's in Baltimore.

Dawson says they performed at many car shows, surrounded by dancing go-go girls, in such exotic places as Columbus, Ohio, Lake George, N.Y., and Pittsburgh.

With Dawson pounding the keyboards of his B3, the Newark-based band never was able to break into the big time and disbanded in 1976.

■ Boots revisited

WHEN DAWSON made his career change from musician to financial adviser, he forgot about music and Boots. Then, at a 1992 meeting of the Newark Rotary Club, a friend, Greg Warren mentioned that he had visited Boots Randolph's new club in Nashville.

Within two weeks, Dawson and his wife, Louise, were in the club. Soon, Louise bought her husband a "dream" saxophone, a $3,000 Selmer. Dawson was back playing the instrument he loves.

Looking for a scheme to meet his idol again, Dawson offered to do an article on Boots for Windplayer magazine. On a second trip south, he found himself and Louise at the Randolphs' 117-acre ranch outside Nashville for the weekend.

Fred Dawson stands alongside Pat Boone. Dawson and the Fabulous Pharaohs drove their band hearse up Boone's driveway in Beverly Hills and knocked on the singer's door. Boone posed for photos with the aspiring Newark musicians clad only in a bathing suit.

The article was published and a friendship between the Dawsons and the Randolphs was born.

"From the beginning of this relationship, I tried to get Boots to Wilmington," Dawson says. Finally, with a promise to "fill seats," Dawson was able to get Randolph to appear at the Grand Opera House on Oct. 12.

The deal was struck in January and Boots called his friend and said, "Warm up your sax. I'm going to call you up on stage." Dawson was disbelieving but nonetheless immediately called his sax teacher.

A second call from Randolph confirmed that Dawson would play with him on the stage of the Grand.

For three months, Dawson stepped up his lessons and intensified his practice, even taking off the final days before his duet with Randolph to practice.

Randolph had "talked a lot of saxophone" with Dawson through the years but never heard him play until rehearsal on Oct. 12.

Boots had little reaction to Dawson's nervous presentation except to command "don't play that."

"I couldn't believe it. What I had practiced for three months was out. Boots told me to improvise," Dawson remembers. Randolph also instructed Dawson to play "pretty."

They played their three pieces two times and Randolph asked Dawson if he wanted a third rehearsal. "Boots, it ain't gonna get any better" was Dawson's reply.

Hours later before an enthusiastic packed house, Randolph called Dawson on stage for a presentation of "Night Train," a Dawson solo during "Wonderland By Night," and a closing duet, a medley of "Amazing Grace," the Isley Brothers' "Amen," and "When The Saints Go Marching In."

It was a dream that was never dreamed come true for Dawson when Randolph backed him up on "Wonderland." "It was the most incredible feeling I've ever had," Dawson says. "When I was a kid, I dreamed of playing with Boots, but never that he might someday back me up."

It was Dawson, not Randolph, who received the standing ovation that night.

Last week, Randolph called his friend in Newark. Dawson endured some idle chat, then nervously asked for an assessment of his Oct. 12 performance. Boots' answer was simple. "You did a real nice job."

"I can die now," Dawson chuckles.

'Problems in classroom go hand in hand with societal problems'

► KELLY, from 6

before they even enter the educational system. All children, even in the best of families, come to school with some baggage, i.e., turmoil in the home, divorce, financial or health problems of a family member, etc. The black child, no matter the economic status, enters school with the extra heavy burden of being a black child. He or she enters school often times having to fight outright racism. Just as deadly, is the more prevalent insidious, cloaked form of racism.

In reality, there is the belief held by some teachers, even without their consciously awareness, of having a negative perception of black children. They believe through past experience, perhaps, that black children are not as bright and are intellectually inferior in knowledge and in substance compared to white children. You may find in many cases that these are excellent teachers who abhor racism. These educators are dedicated, truly love their work and sincerely love the children no matter what their ethnic background.

These beliefs of innate inferiority that get in the way of teaching black children may have been deeply etched long before they became teachers. These same educators may tend to be either too tough or too

66

I challenge these teachers to search deep within themselves and their approach to teaching a diverse group of students."

lenient with a student. Some, sadly will give up on a student and have low expectations from day one, dismissing that student as a "lost cause."

It is also wearisome to me that some children are judged by where they live, i.e. city vs. suburb, development vs. development. I challenge these teachers to search deep within themselves and their approach to teaching a diverse group of students. For some educators a heightened awareness may be all that is needed to change these perceptions.

Each year I hold my breath with the fear that my daughter will be assigned to that teacher whose belief will be "try as I may, this kid is doomed not to meet the standards no matter what I do" and write her off. Thankfully, I have had wonderful teachers who keep my child excited about school.

I made a promise when my child entered school that she will succeed in school with my help and support. Each school year I gear up to "do battle" by donning my advocacy armor to fight for her success in school. I am ever watchful and careful in this role. Sometimes involved parents are unfairly viewed suspiciously by teachers. As a parent one must be careful not to cross that line of involvement opposed to interference.

Each year, I work hard and successfully at communication with my daughter's teachers. They are always accessible to me and keep me informed. I feel it necessary to have the teacher get to know me and my daughter at the beginning of the school year by sharing information in the form of a letter that will be helpful to her in teaching my child. This introductory letter helps the teacher better know my daughter and also lets her or she know that I care about my child's performance in school.

The problems in the classroom go hand in hand with societal problems.

I agree that reducing class size and increasing teacher training are both essential in helping teachers do a better job educating children.

I am convinced that support from home is the single most important element that parents must be accountable for.

I expect teachers to be held just as accountable by keeping any biases or prejudices out of the classroom and acknowledging that every child is capable of learning and doing all they can in helping that student to succeed.

DelDOT task force needs more time to study issues

and construction, and acquisition and disposition of properties acquired for rights-of-way. "Because of all the publicity surrounding the real estate, we decided to focus on that first," said Ulbrich.

Ulbrich said the four-month review process seemed adequate before starting. "We wanted to meet every two weeks but went to every three weeks so we would have time to submit questions in advance," explained the Newark legislator. "We have fewer meetings, but this effectively gives the task force the option to get the agency's answers and cross-examine them."

Ulbrich said 20-30 people from DelDOT, including Transportation Secretary Anne Canby, attend each task force meeting in order to field the questions. "We don't always get the complete answer or exactly what the task force member wanted to know, but we get answers," said Ulbrich. "Secretary Canby attends every meeting and it's obvious that her involvement in the department is extensive. Very little happens of which she doesn't have at least a cursory knowledge."

Ulbrich said the group has already seen where some problems exist. "Many of the real estate properties presently held by DelDOT cannot be disposed of without notifying the two most previous owners," said Ulbrich. "They also have to sell at the appraised value which may not be the market value in the eyes of a willing purchaser."

Other states permit sale at 85 percent of appraised value and Ulbrich noted that in the case of very small parcels held by DelDOT, the real value may be non-existent.

Another concern to the task force is the fact that DelDOT has purchased much more property than was apparently needed when roads were finally built. "It's not clear why that is — it's a real can of worms," said Ulbrich. "Two or three people make the decisions to spend hundreds of thousands of dollars at the agency but the state legislature needs a resolution to spend tax dollars."

Ulbrich said she can't emphasize enough that the group was created as a result of legislators' failure to get answers to questions put to the agency in the past. "If that had been done, we would not have this task force now," she said.

The group may have to examine management at DelDOT from the top down, according to Ulbrich. "People from all over the state have written to me and other legislators expressing concerns about DelDOT," she said. "A group of DelDOT employees put together a whole packet of information which I now have."

Ulbrich said the task force has asked the assistance of the state auditor who has also attended every meeting. "We're considering asking for a full financial audit of the department of transportation," she said.

"If we just keep asking questions," she concluded, "eventually (DelDOT) will hang themselves no matter what."

Ulbrich also said the governor's office had asked about joining in the task force's investigation. "I suggested that to Governor Carper before the task force started to meet," said Ulbrich. "He laughed, but now they want to talk about it."

Epic film coming to Brookside

A major motion picture that has been translated into more than 410 different languages is coming to the local area.

"Jesus" was originally distributed by Warner Brothers to theaters throughout the United States. Now, the epic film is being shown as a gift to the community through the efforts of two churches in Brookside.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian and Kingswood United Methodist, standing side-by-side a block from Brookside School, are jointly sponsoring the free presentation on Saturday, Nov. 1, at 7 p.m. in the Brookside Elementary School on Marrows Road. Doors open at 6:30 p.m.

The movie, considered the most accurate ever made about arguably the most influential man in history, has been translated and distributed worldwide by Campus Crusade for Christ. More than one billion people in over 219 countries are believed to have watched "Jesus," eclipsing films like "Gone With the Wind," "E.T." and "Star Wars."

Jack Valenti, president of the Motion Picture Association, said that "Jesus" is the most translated film in the movie industry. Based exclusively on the Gospel of Luke, "Jesus" was filmed entirely in Israel with a cast of 5,000 actors.

For more information about the Brookside showing, call Bill Cooke at 738-6194 or either of the two churches.

Bear Library still needs funding

Donna Draper, of the Friends of the Bear Library, said persons passing the site of the long-awaited Bear Library, at Route 7 and 40 during October & November will see workmen pouring the cement slab, finishing utilities and installing building steel.

Fundraising, however, is on-going. Draper said the group still needs $650,000. "The monies we are now raising will go toward the materials collection," said Draper. "The things we come to the library for: computers, books, reference, etc."

On Nov. 16, the Friends plan a Kenny Rogers Chicken/ Beef Dinner at the Christiana Fire Hall, Main Street, Christiana. Tickets are available by calling the Bussiere family at 325-9936 or Marlyne Dick at 432-0872.

Draper said persons who belong to a club or group which would like to join in the fun and help raise money for the community library should call her at 322-1465.

Christiana sneaks by Glasgow

Vikings get fourth quarter TD
hold off Dragons

By STEPHEN WESTRICK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

WITH TEAMMATES HUDDLED together on the sideline, each on one knee, the Glasgow High kicking team took the field to try a 27-yard field goal that would give the Dragons the lead with just 3:33 left in the game.

The snap was good, the hold was bobbled and the ball sailed below the crossbar. The missed field goal enabled Christiana to hold on to a 13-12 victory over Glasgow.

Following the missed field goal, the Dragons had one more opportunity to pull out a win. Christiana was unable to get a first down, allowing Glasgow to get the ball at midfield with 43 seconds left and no time outs.

However, the Dragons' offensive line was ineffective on the final drive, being called for a holding penalty and twice allowing pressure which forced quarterback Ike Wilson to scramble.

This pressure was also the main reason Wilson launched a desperation pass down field, which was picked off by the Vikings' junior defensive back Dennis Scott. The interception, Wilson's second, sealed the Christiana victory.

The Vikings took the lead on an impressive drive in the fourth quarter. Midway through the final period Christiana found itself trailing 12-7 and on its own eight yard-line. After three carries by David Anderson, senior wide-out Ron Nickles beat defenders down the middle of the field for a 48-yard catch from quarterback Jimmy Murphy.

Three plays later Lincoln Caldwell capped a seven-play, 92-yard drive with a 22-yard touchdown run on a sweep around left end. Christiana went for the two-point conversion, but Murphy's pass fell incomplete.

Both coaches' plan entering the game was to run the ball. It showed as each used a two-back attack. Anderson and Calvin Carr combined for 130 yards on 26 carries for Christiana. Glasgow countered with its combo of John Adams and Eddie Thompson, who together totaled 195 yards on 37 carries.

"Our game plan was to run and keep the ball out of Ike's [Wilson] hands," said Christiana coach Bill Muehleisen. "And to keep it away from all those track guys they have."

Although both teams had success on the ground, the respective coaches each said they felt their backs were one broken tackle away from a big play. Such a big play could have changed the face of the game.

Glasgow coach Dave Scott felt there should have been a penalty for roughing the kicker called on the field goal attempt because, although the ball was never tipped, his kicker was run into by the Christiana

Newark continues to win

By STEPHEN WESTRICK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

"I felt our focus and intensity was still there," said Newark football coach Butch Simpson immediately after watching his Yellowjackets defeat host and Flight A rival Alexis I. DuPont 39-8 Friday night.

Junior running back Richie Parson led the charge with three touchdown runs. The first of which came when he dashed through a huge hole on a 36-yard run. The score, combined with Rob Brennan's PAT kick, gave Newark a 7-0 lead with 5:58 left in the first quarter.

Quarterback Bobby Johnson had a 32-yard touchdown run and Parson added another to give the Yellowjackets a 20-0 halftime lead.

Simpson admitted to being worried about a let down of intensity before the game. After playing five consecutive highly ranked opponents and learning earlier in the week they would have to forfeit their first win due to an ineligible player, there seemed to be plenty of reason for the Jackets to lose their focus.

However, this was not the case as the Yellowjackets continued to be intense and focused in the second half. Ty Broomer, Parson and Brendon McClellon all scored rushing touchdowns in the third quarter to give Newark a 39-0 lead.

"This team has some goals," Simpson said. "One is to win a Flight A championship. We have to take care of business at hand and that is winning football games right now."

The game, which was sloppy at times, had 21 penalties for 140 yards called.

Most of the game was played in AI's half of the field. The Tigers did not enter Newark's territory until they recovered a fumble at the Yellowjackets' 48-yard line with 8:35 left in the fourth quarter.

The loan AI touchdown was scored when quarterback Antoon

Local players start for Blue Hens' soccer team

By CHRIS DONAHUE

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

AT A PLACE WHERE THE GOAL is higher learning, a few Delaware high school soccer players have found a "home away from home" to gain knowledge - the University of Delaware.

At least two of them - freshmen Todd Everett, a graduate of Newark High, and Chris Ricevuto, a graduate of St. Mark's High - have used their knowledge and ability by becoming starters for the Blue Hens.

Unfortunately for Everett and Ricevuto, both freshmen and roommates who were accustomed to success at the high school and club-ball levels, their soccer education as Blue Hens has been a "learning experience" of a different kind.

Through Delaware's first 13 games, they've been a part of a team that had a 2-10-1 overall record before Wednesday's game against Lehigh University. What makes it more frustrating for Everett, a center-midfielder, and Ricevuto, a forward, is that nine of the losses have been by one goal.

The record wasn't quite expected from a team that finished 9-8-1 overall and in third place with a 6-3 record in AMERICA EAST play last season under coach Marc Samonisky.

Despite the record, Everett and Ricevuto, who had been teammates at the club level since they were five years old, said their primary reason for attending Delaware was the quality of education they could receive.

As for the lessons they've learned on the soccer field regarding the transition from high school to college, they're universal.

"It's a lot quicker, a lot faster, a lot more physical," said Everett, who's started every game and has one assist.

Both players said one benefit of playing so close to home is having family and friends be able to attend their games.

In addition to a season they both called disappointing record-wise, the travelling required for conference play is also something they've had to get used to. Road trips by plane or bus sometimes require two games to be played in three days.

"(Travelling's) good at first, but it can wear you out," said Ricevuto, who has started six games and has scored twice. "It takes a lot of time from your studying, and it's hard to get caught up on your classes. And it takes a lot out of you physically."

Samonisky said he didn't plan on either player playing prominent roles before the season began. "I knew Everett was going to be a good player, but I didn't think he was going to be able to contribute to this program like he has," Samonisky said. "We just kind of put him in there and we left him there. I told him he'd have his ups and downs, and so far he's had more ups than downs."

"He's a little bit laid-back in his play," Samonisky added. "He sometimes looks like he's not aggressive...he wants to play like a defensive midfielder who can get the ball and distribute it from there, not because he wants to defend. But he's just played really well."

"Todd has a chance to be an outstanding college soccer player. I think it's really a little bit up to him. If he wants to work at his game and become a little bit more vocal and a little bit more of a team leader, he can be a great player for us."

Ricevuto wasn't sought by Samonisky until later in his senior year at St. Mark's, but scouting and input from assistant coach Chris Morgan helped sway his opinion. Morgan told Samonisky of Ricevuto's play as a member of Kirkwood Soccer Club's Wildcats, which twice reached the Region I semifinals. Morgan also coached both Ricevuto and

ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

JUSTIN CASERTA - NEWARK

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

THE NEWARK HIGH football team has attained the state's number one ranking because of great play from many different players.

One of the most steady of those players has been junior linebacker Justin Caserta. Caserta leads the Newark defense in overall tackles this season with 58. In fact, he has led the Jackets in tackles in five of their six games including last Friday's win over Alexis I DuPont in which he had 11.

Entering this year, the Newark coaching staff wasn't even counting on Caserta to do anything. That's because he spent his freshman and sophomore years at Delcastle.

"When we learned he was coming here we went back and looked at the tape of last year's Delcastle game," Newark coach Butch Simpson said. "We were amazed to see he had about 13 tackles, a sack and forced a fumble.

"We knew then we were getting a good player - one that played against a Flight A schedule as a sophomore. What we didn't realize was how much of an impact he'd have in our locker room and our practice field. He's been a strong personality and has added a great presence."

Caserta went to Delcastle to play with his older brother. When he graduated, Justin knew he would probably transfer.

"I was looking for a school that was best for me both academically and for football," Caserta said. "I want to go to college and I thought this was the best place for me. I had a lot of respect for their players."

One difference football wise for the junior has been playing meaningful games this late in the season.

"It's a winning tradition here," he said. "It's more organized and the whole attitude is different. It's work hard, practice hard, play hard and we'll win.

"I just love to play and I get psyched and want to have fun on the field. I thought I could have some impact but not as much as I have."

Caserta hasn't been part of the last two Newark teams that advanced to the state championship game before being beat by William Penn, but he knows that's a sore spot still for the team.

It didn't take long for that desire to overtake him as well.

"The only goal we have this year is to win the state championship," he said. "Everyone knows that and everyone is working toward that."

Fourth ranked Blue Hens to take on Massachusetts

By MARTY VALANIA
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

DON'T LOOK NOW, but guess who's the fourth ranked team in the nation. That's right, the University of Delaware football team, after knocking off James Madison last weekend, has quietly recorded a 6-1 record and is now ranked fourth in the latest NCAA I-AA football poll. Moreover, the Blue Hens only loss came at the hands of No. 1 — that's right No. 1 — Villanova — that's right Villanova. And the Hens had control of that game, leading by 10 points late in the third quarter. "It's great to have our conference recognized as being number one in the country," said Delaware coach Tubby Raymond of the latest poll. "I just wish we had that fourth quarter to play over again." After Delaware's loss to Villanova and then a string of key injuries, many thought the Hens would be an average football team the rest of the season. That certainly hasn't turned out to be the case. So while Blue Hen fans dream of NCAA semifinal or final rematch against the Wildcats, the Hens' players and coaches are focusing on this week's opponent — Massachusetts. The Minutemen enter the contest — Saturday at 1 p.m. at UMass — with just a 2-5 mark overall. That, however, scares Raymond a bit. "In our position of being number two in the conference," Raymond said of the game's importance. "If we have any aspirations of being in the tournament, then we have to win it — and the rest of our games." "It always concerns me, and I know you've heard this a thousand times, but it's scary when an opponent is better than it's record. "Their defense is tough; their running game is tough. That can make things tough, particularly if the team is not ready to play. "The difference between all the teams in the league is not very much and if you don't come to play you'll get beat. UMass is capable of beating anyone in the conference." Another twist to this game is that, although UMass is an Atlantic-10 team, this game will not count in the standings. "I'd rather play somebody within the conference than outside it,"

Raymond said. "Although I think we should be playing it at home." That's especially a good point this year since this is the first time in a very long time that the Hens have just five home games instead of the customary six. What rushing problems? Delaware's running game pounded out an incredible 461 yards last Saturday against JMU. It was a season high and its best output in two years. Andre Thompson rushed for a season-high 120 yards while Greg McGraw had a career high 109 yards. Even quarterback Brian Ginn rushed for 70. "I thought our offense came to life," Raymond said of the effort.

"Our offensive line — much maligned, stomped on and screamed at all year — really came to fruition. The effort boosted Delaware to second in the league in rushing offense — just behind the option offense of Boston U. Delaware also is now atop the conference in scoring defense, allowing just 16.7 points per game. NOTES — Villanova's number one ranking is the first ever for the school and the conference. . . Saturday's game against UMass will be televised beginning at 1 p.m. on Suburban Cable's channel 2. . . Besides Villanova being undefeated and Delaware having one loss, every other team in the Atlantic-10 has at least two league defeats. That means if Delaware wins the rest of its games, it will be virtually assured of a berth in the playoffs.

Glasgow soccer rolls towards another state tournament

Dragons rip Mt. Pleasant

By CHRIS DONAHUE

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

GLASGOW HIGH'S boys soccer team began a season-ending stretch of three difficult matches that began Thursday night against Salesianum.

But the Dragons couldn't have entered it on a more positive note, as they won their fifth consecutive game Tuesday night by beating Mount Pleasant 5-1 in a Blue Hen Conference Flight A game.

After Salesianum, which handed St. Mark's its only defeat of the season last week, the Dragons face Wilmington Christian on Saturday and Alexis I. du Pont on Tuesday, the latter match possibly determining who wins Flight A.

After Tuesday, Glasgow, AI and Newark all had 5-1 conference marks. The conference winner gets an automatic state tournament bid, although with an 11-2 overall mark, Glasgow is almost certain to get in anyway.

Tuesday's effort by Glasgow was especially positive - even though the Dragons were facing a vastly inferior side in Mount Pleasant - because they did it without the services of its leading goal scorer, David Hudson, and the midfield wizardry of Ivan Vidanovic, who played only about 18 minutes of the second half.

Glasgow coach Bob Bussiere sat both players to rest them for the Salesianum game. The rest was also in light of a nagging ankle injury to Vidanovic and a groin pull for Hudson, who was available if necessary.

"I was pleased tonight," said Bussiere, whose team has outscored the opposition 18-5 during its winning streak. "I told them that I was going to play everyone no matter what and it's just the next step toward getting ready for Salesianum."

"We've really been coming along, gaining confidence, and I think we've been playing with more enthusiasm. But it's also that time of year - the weather's getting colder and in the last couple years, at this time we've really been coming on and looking forward to the tournament, where we've had some success."

Paul Ramos and Justin Iocono each scored goals in the first 16 minutes of the game to give the Dragons a 2-0 lead against Mount Pleasant, with brothers Brett and Brian Scholl each contributing assists.

The goal for Iocono, who is a sophomore, was his fifth of the season, which is a pleasant surprise for Bussiere considering he didn't see any playing time until the fourth game of the season, when he contributed an assist in a victory against Dover.

With Vidanovic starting the second half, Glasgow broke the game open seven minutes in when Jody Martin finished off a nice baseline run by Brandon Walker.

Vidanovic, who leads the team with 14 assists, notched his seventh goal of the season 25 minutes in on an assist from Iocono. Tommy Sengphachanh made it 5-0 with four minutes left on an assist from Victor Okonkwo.

Mount Pleasant's James Haggerty completed the scoring. Glasgow's defense, meanwhile, was playing in a combined zone and man-to-man coverage for the first time this season, and it resulted in perhaps its most cohesive effort of the season.

"They did a good job on (the defensive schemes) and our sweeper and are two marking backs are playing with more confidence and I think the team overall is just feeling good about themselves," Bussiere said.

"We've really been working hard the last couple weeks in practice," said Vidanovic. "Ever since that one week when we lost two games (3-2 to Newark and Garnet Valley, Pa.), we started evolving, picking things up and clicking. It seems like we've got more depth on the bench now."

Delaware Ducks open season

The Delaware Ducks Pee-wee Traveling Team successfully opened their 1997-1998 Ice Hockey Season in the Delaware Valley Hockey League (DVHL) on Sunday, October 19, 1997 at their Newark, DE home rink, The Pond, with a hard fought 4-2 win over the visiting Lancaster Pennsylvania Firebirds.

Center Richard Campbell of the Ducks came out flying scoring a Hat Trick in his first game of the season. Campbell had two unassisted goals in the contest, his first goal coming at 3 minutes 54 seconds of the first period.

His second unassisted goal occurred at 14 minutes and 33 seconds of the third period. His Hat Trick was completed at 2 minutes 39 seconds left in the final period, thanks to a beautiful pass/assist from Eric Moore. Ian King tallied the other goal for the Ducks at 7 minutes 54 seconds of the second period, with an assist from Campbell. Eric Warrington played a strong game in goal, stopping 31 of the Firebird's 33 shots.

Next weekend the Pee-Wee Ducks travel to Havertown, PA to play the Haverford Hawks on Saturday, October 25th. They will host the Quakers on POND ice Sunday, the 26th at 11:15 am.

Everett earlier at the club level.

"A year ago, I didn't think he (Ricevuto) was going to make our team," Samonisky said. "But I like him a lot and he's gotten a lot of playing time, and he should easily earn a letter."

"(Ricevuto's) consistently proved people wrong," Morgan said. In addition to Everett and Ricevuto, the Blue Hens also have Glasgow High graduates Brooks Buckingham, a freshman, and David Owens, a sophomore and backup goaltender, and Mat Dunbar, a freshman from McKean High, on the varsity roster.

POST PICKS OF THE WEEK

LAST WEEK WAS a tough one for the old prognostication record. We won just two of four games to drop the overall season record to 22-7-1. That's still a respectable .750 winning percentage – but not quite as gaudy as the over .800 percentage we sported earlier in the season.

The good news is that there are five more games this week to take a look at. Hopefully, we can get back on the winning track.

ST. MARK'S (4-1-1) VS. ST. ELIZABETH (3-3) – Friday night at Baynard Stadium, 7:30. The Vikings have given the Spartans all they can handle in recent years. St. E, however, isn't quite as strong as it has been in the past years. The Spartans are on a quest to make the state tournament and need every win they can get. That shouldn't be a problem this week.

The Pick: St. Mark's 22, St. Elizabeth 6.

NEWARK (6-0) VS. MOUNT PLEASANT (3-3) – Saturday morning at Mount Pleasant, 10:30. We'll leave the Yellowjackets undefeated until their appeal is heard. Everybody knows what happened on the field that night. This week shouldn't be a whole lot different. Newark is still on a mission to win the conference and this is a game it must have. The Green Knights are a tougher than in years past but still shouldn't prove to be a tough test for the Jackets.

The Pick: Newark 34, Mount 7.

GLASGOW (2-4) VS. ALEXIS DUPONT (1-5) – Friday night at Glasgow, 7. The Dragons, despite their record, are a far better team now than they were at the beginning of the season. They played a good Christiana team very tough last week before falling by one point. AI is not as good as the Vikings and there's a good chance Glasgow will be looking to take out some of its frustration. The Dragons can still make things miserable for some of Flight A's better teams and they'll start this weekend.

The Pick: Glasgow 27, AI 14.

CHRISTIANA (3-2-1) VS. WILLIAM PENN (5-1) – Saturday afternoon at Christiana's, Coder Field, 1. Three weeks ago Christiana looked like one of the state's best football teams. Then came an upset loss to Brandywine and a squeaker win over Glasgow.

The Vikings still have a winning record and still are a very good football team. This is their chance to show everyone they're still one of the elite teams in the state. It should be a great football game.

The Pick: William Penn 15, Christiana 14.

CARAVEL (4-1) VS. TOWER HILL (0-7) – Saturday morning at Tower Hill, 10:30. The Bucs looked like whirlbeaters the first four games of the season. Then came an untimely two straight weeks off. The layoff showed in last week's loss to Tatnall. The feeling here is that the Bucs will bounce back strong against the winless Hillers. A playoff berth is still within grasp. Caravel won't let that slip away.

The Pick: Caravel 35, Tower Hill 6.

KSC Avalanche triumph

The Kirkwood Avalanche under-14 girls soccer team defeated the Concord Panthers 3-0 Saturday to improve their overall record to 6-2 and to stay undefeated in its division.

The first goal was scored by Erin Ringstrom, who received a perfect pass from center fullback Kristen Ross, who crossed the ball from the left corner.

The second goal came with another accurate pass from Kristen Perry to Rachel Soper, who volleyed the ball into the net. This movement was created by leftback Laura Cox and left half Maria Metcalfe. Sunday's game against Lower Merion was won by the Avalanche 2-0.

Area tutoring service growing quickly

BACK TO BASICS Tutoring Service, Inc., recently celebrated its 12th anniversary serving educational needs in Delaware, Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

The company founded by University of Delaware graduate Beverly Stewart Cox has been named to the Philadelphia Top 100 as one of the fastest growing companies in the tri-state area and featured in such national publications as Entrepreneur Magazine.

Most recently, Cox was nominated for the Presidential Citation for Outstanding Achievement Award given by the office of alumni & university relations at the University of Delaware.

Back to Basics provides one-on-one tutoring in over 40 subjects for kindergarten through college-aged students and adults. "We have preschoolers and our oldest student was 85," said Cox.

The company also serves the needs of the learning disabled and hearing impaired as well as children with attention deficit disorder and homebound students.

Beverly Stewart Cox founded Back to Basics.

"We have professionals that go to homes throughout the area and teach students in the privacy of their home," said Cox. "That's what we are all about - educating in a comfortable and productive environment."

The company also provides corporate training and instruction. Subjects range from highly technical math and science to English As A Second Language for foreign transferees. Back to Basics also provides foreign language instruction to small groups. Seminars and workshops for "soft skills" such as time management, organization, customer service and public speaking are also offered.

The Wilmington-based company was founded in 1985 by Cox who is the president and director. Cox holds a master's degree in special education and a bachelor's degree in elementary education.

Cox and her staff of 80 professional tutors provide instruction to anyone who wants to learn. "We at Back to Basics are dedicated to providing an encouraging, positive atmosphere where learning is pleasurable and rewarding," she said.

SDI expands its market place

Newark-based Strategic Diagnostics announced record financial results for the third quarter and nine months ended Sept. 30, 1997.

The company develops and manufactures test kits that detect toxic and other substances.

Total revenues for the third quarter increased 24 percent to a record $4,313,000 from pro forma $3,471,000 for the third quarter ended Sept. 30, 1996.

Net income for the period was a record $722,000, or 5 cents per share, compared to a pro forma net loss of $300,000, or $0.02 per share.

Total net revenues for the nine months ended September 30, 1997 increased to a record $10,584,000 from $10,097,000 for the comparable year ago period. Net income for the first nine months of 1997 was a record $1,182,000, or 8 cents per share, compared to a pro forma net loss of $2,434,000, or $0.19 per share, based on 13,007,000 weighted average shares outstanding, for the nine months ended September 30, 1996.

The company noted that certain events during the past quarter had a positive impact on revenue growth, including the company's recently announced agreement to supply Rohm and Haas Co. with test kits for proprietary water-treatment polymers to be marketed by Rohm and Haas. SDI expects to ship the remaining pre-commercial kits under the agreement during the fourth quarter.

Additionally, revenues for the period were positively affected by the continued shipment of product under SDI's supply agreement with Delta Pine Land Co. for tests to be used in seed production and processing.

A considerable increase in product margins is a result of operating efficiencies achieved as a result of the merger with EnSys Environmental products in December 1996.

The company anticipates that product margins for the fourth quarter will remain steady. Commenting on the record results, Richard C. Birkmeyer, President and Chief Executive Officer of SDI, said, "We are pleased to note that the company has now reported three consecutive quarters of profitability since its merger with EnSys."

The merger of the two companies that produce test products resulted in costs reductions and a broader product line.

SDI continues to successfully meet its strategic goals and objectives regarding revenue and earnings growth, strengthening product lines and commercialization of new products, he said.

Iron Hill Brewery wins gold

Iron Hill Brewery & Restaurant took home a gold medal from the 1997 Great American Beer Festival in Denver, Colorado.

The microbrewery's Lodestone Lager won the award in the Munchener Helles (German for Munich Pale) category.

According to co-owner, Mark Edelson, the Main Street brewpub is the first brewery in Delaware to win a medal at the prestigious festival.

"From the beginning, we made a commitment as a brewpub to brew a lager beer, when most small breweries were brewing primarily ales," said Edelson, who is also Iron Hill's head brewer.

The Great American Beer Festival is America's oldest and largest beer festival. Over 1,800 beers were poured from more than 400 American breweries. As many as 30,000 beer lovers from around the world attended the festival.

In a blind taste test, industry professionals judged each beer in 50 categories, ultimately identifying three beers (gold, silver and bronze) that best represented each beer style as described by the Festival.

Since its opening a year ago, Iron Hill has won several awards. In March, Iron Hill's Pig Iron Porter was given the Peoples' Choice Award, becoming "Philadelphia's Favorite Beer" in a blind tasting of 28 local breweries from the Philadelphia area. Iron Hill was also named "Best Brewpub 1997" by Delaware Today.

Flood insurance cost drops in Newark

Newark property owners are among those in 92 communities across the United States who are paying less for flood insurance as of this month.

Thanks to special efforts by local officials to reduce future flood damage, policyholders are getting a reduction of at least five percent in premiums for new and existing flood insurance policies.

Under the National Flood Insurance Program administered by the Federal Emergency Management Agency, a rating system rewards communities that voluntarily take steps to reduce the risk of flooding and increase the effectiveness of flood insurance protection.

Such activities can fall under one or more of the following categories: mapping and regulations; flood damage reduction; flood preparedness; and public awareness.

Premium reductions can range in five percent increments from five percent to 45 percent. Newark, rated Class Eight, will have premiums reduced ten percent.

FEMA Director James Lee Witt praised the communities, saying, "They have earned the lower flood insurance premiums as well as peace of mind. Thanks to the efforts of their local officials, they should experience less flood damage in the future."

Nearly 3.8 million flood insurance policies are currently in force in the more than 18,700 communities that participate in the NFIP, representing over $413 billion worth of coverage. More than 900 communities now benefit from the community rating system.

Nursery school expands

Newark Day Nursery cut the ribbon on Oct. 16 following completion of construction of two additional wings as well as renovations of the existing building on Barksdale Road.

Newly-opened after six months of construction at the 36-year-old school are three new classrooms, a multipurpose room, and a small computer room. According to executive director Dale Sampson-Levin, the new facility includes Newark's first Head Start classrooms.

Children in Head Start, a federal program for preschool children from low-income families, receive free medical and dental care, vision and hearing screening in addition to preschool and meals.

Funding for the $1,076,000 expansion came from major foundations in the state, community redevelopment monies, and donations from businesses, individuals, and parents of children at the school.

Newarkers John Eldridge and Charles Eastman originally started the nursery school in the First Presbyterian Church across from the Deer Park Hotel after they noticed single women in that neighborhood who could not go to work because they didn't have childcare.

The school only takes children of working parents or parents who are attending school to train for work.
