Bear, Glasgow residents to incorporate?

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

A growing dissatisfaction with local developers dominated conversation at a lengthy meeting of the Bear/Glasgow Council of Civic Organizations Monday night.

The discussion about the possibility of Bear/Glasgow incorporating and becoming a town began with maintenance association problems; however, residents really got steamed when drainage problems were addressed.

One resident from Caravel Woods in Bear asked, "Where are all the sewers?....Where does the water go?" He continued, saying that the water rushes down his street, collects debris, and flows straight into Lums Pond. He also said his utilities were underwater and complained that a nearby drainage ditch without a fence was dangerous for his five-year-old son.

One way of solving drainage and construction woes would be to incorporate Bear/Glasgow.

Newark's city solicitor, Mark Sisk—who was at the meeting to answer legal questions—said if Bear/Glasgow were incorporated it could draft a stricter set of building codes similar to Newark's code.

Frank Deramo, a local contractor and homeowner in Oakwood development, located off Del. 72, said, "When you do it (construction) in Newark, you have to do it right, why do they (developers) get away with it here?"

Sisk said if Bear/Glasgow incorporates it could also provide services such as police, fire, utilities, trash removal and more, or it could "contract out" these services from other sources. If services were provided, then city taxes would be charged, but county taxes would decrease in direct relation to services the county didn't provide.

Some residents thought "creating a mechanism to deal with the problems" would only cause more. They believed the problems should be solved on the county level.

However, Chris Roberts, a New

Castle County council member said "things will never change in New Castle County."

"I fought for three years to get sewers for Melody Meadows (a housing development in Bear) and that was hardball politics, it got dirty," Roberts said.

Bear/Glasgow would need a 2/3 consensus from its residents in order to go to the general assembly, where another 2/3 majority would have to be reached in order for the area to become a municipality.

Church bids for senior center site

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The Newark Senior Center and the old Police Station on Main Street are for sale and two bids have been submitted to Newark City Council to vote on during their meeting Monday, Jan. 10 at 8 p.m.

New Ark United Church of Christ bid $377,000, $27,000 more than council required for the Senior Center property. KRAPFCANDOIT offered $625,000, council's minimum, for both properties.

The city planning department is recommending that council give a thumbs down to KRAPFCANDOIT's offer because of the "conditions" that go along with it.

Carl Luft city manager said the city's goal is to sell the properties "as is," and not to spend any money on the deal.

"The whole idea of selling the properties is to help pay for the new police station," said Luft.

ShopRite's sale to Pathmark not allowed

By JENNIFER L. RODGERS

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

ShopRite food store in Chestnut Plaza, Newark will remain a ShopRite after a New Jersey judge ruled the store could not be sold to Pathmark or Mayfair Supermarkets, Inc.

The owner of the ShopRite, Consolidated Supermarkets, is a member of Wakefern Food Corporation, a wholesale cooperative of companies that own and operate ShopRites.

Wakefern sued Consolidated

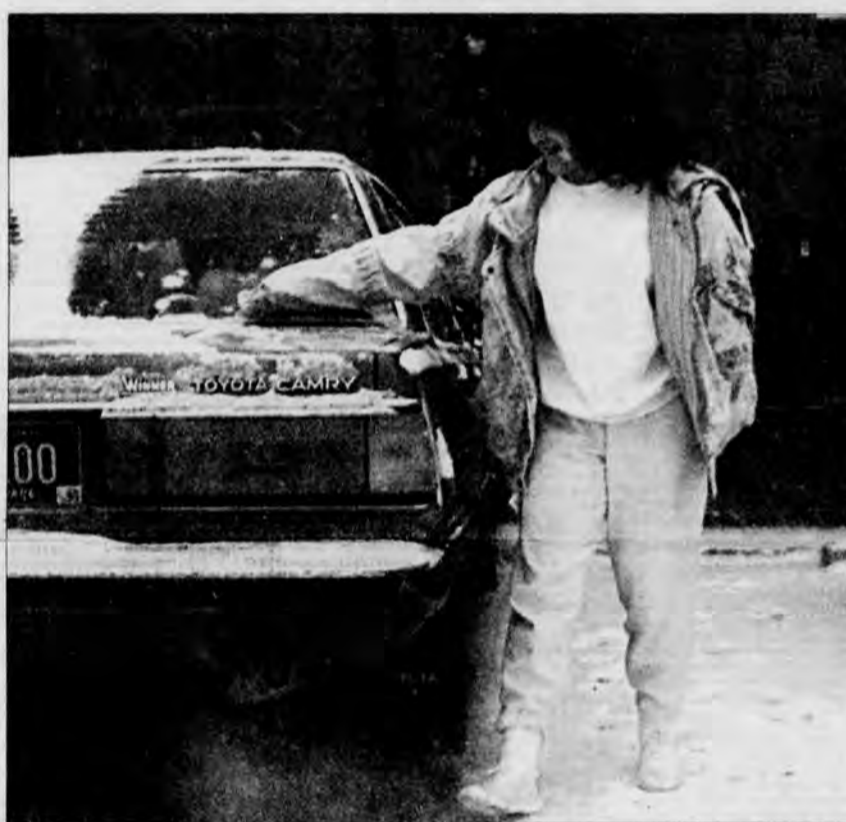

Supermarkets when they proposed selling their ShopRites (they own three more in New Jersey and Pennsylvania) to Pathmark or Mayfair Supermarkets—owners of Foodtown supermarkets.

Wakefern contended the proposed sale violated Consolidated's prior agreement to sell the stores to Wakefern and violated Wakefern's stockholders agreement.

Wakefern and Consolidated are in active negotiation now.

Nominees are Young, Bright

By TONJA CASTANEDA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Two Newarkers could be marching off to West Point Academy next fall.

Karen Young, nominated by Sen. William V. Roth Jr., and Nathan Bright, nominated by Sen. Joe Biden, were chosen to attend the military academy in West Point, N.Y., for fall of 1994.

Young, the daughter of Katherine and Phillip Young, is a senior at Christiana High School. She is active with the varsity tennis, swim and field hockey teams and has been selected the past four years as clarinetist in the All-State Band.

She is a drum major with the Christiana High School Marching band, is active in Spanish Club and National Honor Society and ranks fifth in a class of 286.

Young said she is not concerned about being a woman at the male-dominated academy. "There is a lot of tradition in the military and every once in a while there is prejudice toward women," said Young. "But the way to beat the prejudice is to have more women there."

She said the education was the biggest motivation for her to apply to go to West Point. "You can't beat a full scholarship," said Young.

Although for four free years at West Point and a degree, she will spend the next six years as an officer in the army. "It's hard planning the next 10 years of my life," she said.

She has been accepted by West Point, but will make her final

Christiana Fire Co. to build Bear station

By TONJA CASTANEDA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The Christiana Fire Company is adding a third station this year to meet the needs of the ever-growing Route 40 corridor.

The fire company services Christiana and most of Glasgow and Bear—an area of 35 square miles and the fastest growing region in Delaware.

The new Christiana Fire Station will cost approximately $500,000 and will be located at 600 Salem Church Road between Old Baltimore Pike and Route 40.

"We decided to build there because that area seems to be the largest part of the growth in our district," said Bob Bennett, Christiana Fire Company fire chief.

Presently, the company's two stations are on Main Street in Christiana and Porter Road in Bear.

When completed, the new station will house a new, $230,000 fire engine.

The all-volunteer fire company also recently purchased two new ambulances, at a cost of $91,000.

"We keep ambulances for so many miles," said Bennett, "and trade them in about every three years."

The Christiana Fire Company answered approximately 1,700 fire alarms and 3,000 ambulance calls in 1993, and members anticipate answering even more calls in 1994.

Bennett said the company is always in need of volunteer firefighters and ambulance personal.

For more information about volunteering, call 737-2433.

Newark Post Office handled hectic holiday season

By TONJA CASTANEDA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

In 1969, the Newark Weekly Newspaper wrote about the post office in Newark successfully handling over 3 million pieces of mail during the holidays.

In comparison to this holiday season—25 years later—the post office mailed over 4 million first-class letters. To be exact, 4,248,000 from Dec. 6 through Dec. 24.

The post office also handled approximately 65,000 parcel deliveries the three weeks before Christmas.

Although it seems that the Newark Post Office was extremely busy during the holidays, the reality is the volume of mail picks up enormously during January, according to Tony Dilorio, acting postmaster for the Newark Post Office.

Dilorio said while the front windows—where the public takes care of postal errands—were very busy during the holiday season, in the back—where the sorting and mailing takes place—it was slower because business third-class mail drops off.

He said the beginning of the year, the back of the post office is packed. "We have Ed McMahon, the JCPenney Catalog and state and federal tax forms ready to send out," said Dilorio.

Dilorio said for the first time this year during the holidays, the Newark Post Office postmarked mail from Newark, Hockessin, Bear, Middletown, and Townsend going to other states and the rest of the world.

Three other post offices—Dover, Seaford and Georgetown—also postmarked mail.

Dilorio said the Hares Corner branch usually postmarks all of Delaware's mail before mailing letters out of state. He said this hub system was used for the first time in Delaware to keep mail from being slowed down.

Newark was chosen because the large size of the post office building could accommodate the machine used to mark the mail.

Besides volume of holiday mail, here are some examples of how the postal service has changed in Newark the past 25 years.

In 1969, Newark was a one-zip-code city—19711. In 1972, two zip codes—19713 and 19702—were added.

Twenty-five years ago the post office was making 16,000 deliveries to 39 city routes and three rural routes. It now makes 44,352 deliveries to 85 city routes and three-and-a-half rural routes.

Also, the cost of a postage stamp has gone up from 6 cents in 1969 to today's cost of 29 cents with talk of an increase to over 30 cents in the near future.

At Glasgow he participates in the student government association, the National Honor Society, the Academic Bowl and the varsity tennis team.

He is a member of Boy Scout Troop 56 currently working on his Eagle Scout badge and ranks 36th in a class of 264.

Bright has decided to attend West Point and is now awaiting the school's acceptance letter. "West Point has great education, discipline and tradition," said Bright. "Going to West Point is the biggest thing in life I ever wanted."

Bright was also chosen by Sen. Roth as an alternate to the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Co. and Merchant Marine Academy in Kings Point, N.Y.

Both senators chose other local students as alternate nominees to the four military academies.

Newarker Shannon Stiff of Christiana High School was chosen by Sen. Roth to be an alternate nominee for the Air Force Academy and for an alternate position by Sen. Biden to the Naval Academy in Annapolis, Md.

Steve Cunningham of Newark High School was named an alternate by both Roth and Biden to the Naval Academy.

Roth chose Michael DiStefano of Christiana High to be an alternate for the Naval and Merchant Marine Academies.

Biden chose Benjamin Krapf of Newark for an alternate position to the Air Force Academy and Newarker Andrew Claar to be an alternate to the West Point Military Academy.

according to Mary Ellen Gowin, a Wakefern representative. She said there are many issues to consider before an agreement can be made and money might not be the most important.

Gerry Kissinger, the store manager at ShopRite, said he barely has any product left and isn't sure if he'll still have a job tomorrow. According to Gowin, the negotiations could go on for months.

Among other things, the negotiations will determine how the store will be run, who will run it and what the legal ramifications for employees will be.

the city to fulfill the following conditions upon settlement: rezone the properties from a residential neighborhood to a business district; grant a special use permit to be used for a "commercial indoor entertainment facility with seating capacity of 1,962 seats;" grant a special use permit for a "fast food restaurant with drive-thru facilities;" and demolish the buildings and relocate electrical lines and other utilities running between the properties.

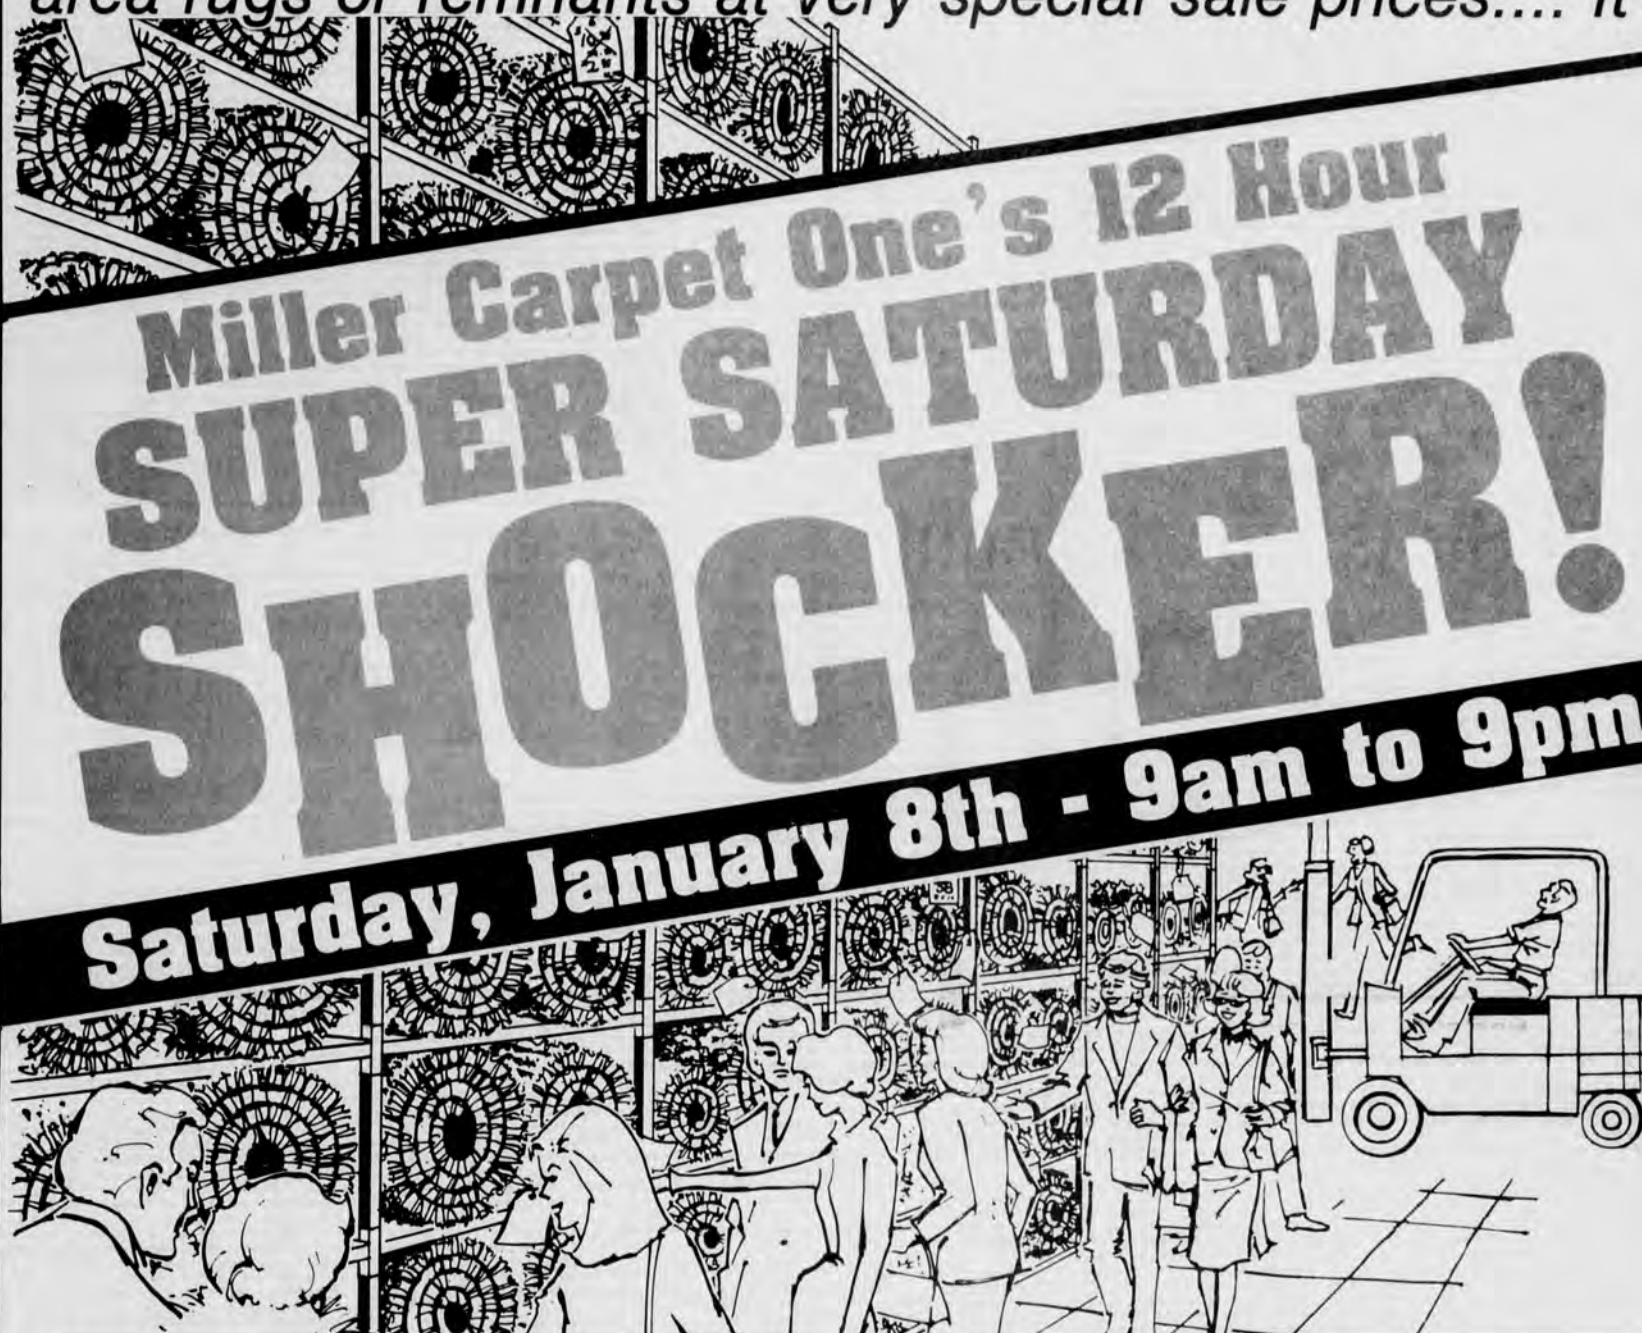

Luft said KRAPFCANDOIT didn't specify exactly what would be built on the properties.

New Ark United Church of Christ is requiring they be able to take possession of the Senior Center in four years, but Luft said the city would draft a stipulation saying the agreement would be canceled and the deposit returned if Newark Senior Center decides not to relocate.

Margaret Catts, a representative from Newark Senior Center said they hope to relocate to White Chapel Drive off Marrows Road by the summer of 1995.

Force fed metric unfair

If you have driven the new stretch of Del. 1 from Smyrna to Dover, you probably discovered that all the road signs are in metric. Everything from "Pay Toll 300m" to a mileage sign that reads "Shore Points 66" (meaning it's about 66 kilometers to Lewes) from where the sign is located. There are no familiar "English" equivalents given, except that the speed limit is still posted in miles per hour.

It would seem logical that a highway designed for fast-moving traffic would be marked with signs that are user friendly, but thanks to the federal government, it's not. Because of a federal law, new road construction done with federal dollars (Del. 1 falls into this category) comes with the stipulation that all signs are to be in metric.

And not only are the signs inconvenient, they also present a possible safety hazard. Imagine an out-of-state driver on Del. 1 looking for the North Dover exit. It's a foggy night, there's an 18-wheeler on one side of the car and another just inches away from the car's rear bumper. The driver is desperately searching. There was a sign a ways back that read "North Dover exit, 4km". If the sign had been in miles, the car's odometer would have given an accurate count-down in tenths of miles, and the driver would be able to judge when to slow down and spot the exit. But since cars sold in America don't have odometers calibrated for kilometers, the "4km" information is virtually useless. At the last second, the driver spots the exit, hits the brakes, gets clipped by the truck behind him and everyone gets taken away to the hospital.

The point here is that the feds are putting the cart before the horse — at the expense of motorists — to promote a political agenda.

If Americans ever accept the metric system, which seems doubtful in the near future, they should do so because they want to. It should not be force fed. Unfortunately, that's exactly what "our" government is trying to do, and that's wrong.

Ouch! Sir Isaac was right

About a year ago, Delawareans were hearing news reports about one of the burning issues of our times: should bungee jumping be banned at the beaches? It was.

Last week, Joan Lunden, host of ABC's "Good Morning America," appeared on my favorite TV show, "Late Show With David Letterman." During her slot, video of her bungee jumping was shown. I became queasy just watching the free fall!

Before coming to Newark, I was publisher of the Bar Harbor Times in Maine. I still receive the paper. A November issue told about a guy who jumped off one of the steep, jagged cliffs at Acadia National Park with a fancy parachute. If you have ever visited this part of the rocky Maine coast, the insanity of a jump is clear. Down Easters in Maine must still be shaking their heads at the stupidity of this act.

Do you recall the television commercial that shows a 4-wheel-drive vehicle bungee jumping off a bridge?

The trestle made famous by the TV spot is in West Virginia, where last year about 450 enthusiasts (notice that I restrained myself from using the term "rocket scientists") jumped off the perfectly good bridge into a 900-foot-deep gorge chiseled by the waters of a racing river.

West Virginia authorities have jurisdiction of the span and allowed "Bridge Day" participants to abandon ship via bungee cords, parachutes or by lowering themselves on ropes. Because New River Gorge below the bridge is national park property, federal officials had to hire outside contractors to rescue the kooks who messed up.

Apparently, what is often said about West Virginians may be true, as evidenced by the inability of any state authority to say "no" to crazy people. The state should not have encouraged the craziness by allowing the nuts to fall.

These jumpers, each in their own way, were conducting their own personal experiments with gravity. Science has long been full of theories regarding this elemental force.

Sir Isaac Newton discovered that if you drop an apple, it falls to the ground. Gravity is a force to be reckoned with, he deduced.

Speaking of gravity, consider the face of Dr. Albert Einstein with his wild hair and "basset hound" eyes.

Einstein knew and respected gravity. If he had been the West Virginia bridge commissioner, he would have turned thumbs down on Bridge Day.

Even I remember some of what I learned in high school physics. The 32-feet-per-second formula is used to neatly predict how fast something will fall.

However, anything tumbling outside of a vacuum must take resistance into account. Most objects, including bungee jumpers and out-of-luck parachutists, will accelerate to a speed where height is not a factor to the inevitable conclusion (read "crash").

For human beings, once you've fallen about 40 feet, it seems that things don't get any worse. You max out at about 180 miles per hour!

Today, people — including high-paid TV stars — line up to tease and tempt gravity. They accept its clutch and hope clever devices will pull them out of death's gripe at the last moment.

Not so for all at Bridge Day. Over 100 of the parachutists required rescue. One bungee jumper was seriously injured. Dozens of others were hurt as well. One of the rescuers had a finger removed Bobbit-style after it became caught in a parachute cord.

If you want to jump for joy, you may get more than the short-lived adrenalin rush you bargained for. The way I figure it, a failed chutist or broken bungee jumper has about three seconds at 180 miles per hour to contemplate this fact and realize that Newton was right — gravity is a force to be reckoned with!

Is IRS nasty notice a harbinger of government appointment?

By ELBERT N. CHANCE

NEWARK POST COLUMNIST

It may be premature to mention it, but the announcement of my appointment to a major governmental post appears to be right around the corner!

I have reached this conclusion because, like Zoe Baird, Kimba Wood, Christy Whitman and Bobby Ray Inman, I recently have had a tax problem involving a domestic employee — and that appears to be a sure sign that one is destined for high office.

My difficulty began in September when I received IRS Form 942 requesting payment of Social Security and Medicare taxes for a household employee who has worked for our family since the 1960s. When I began to complete this familiar form, I discovered that I had no file copy of the second quarter form that should have been submitted in late June or early July. A hasty search through my canceled checks produced no evidence of payment.

After completing and mailing my third quarter installment, I drove to the IRS Office in Elkton to pick up a copy of the second quarter form that, for some unfathomable reason, I had not received. The office was closed. By now thoroughly irritated and somewhat panicky, I called the Philadelphia IRS Office and explained the situation. A polite young woman promised that I would receive the appropriate document within 10 days, and she was true to her word. It arrived October 25 and, on that same day, I wrote and mailed the check for the amount normally due.

Six weeks later, demonstrating the zeal and efficiency that have endeared it to American taxpayers everywhere, the IRS notified me that I was a delinquent who owed a penalty of $5.79 and interest of 79 cents. Four pages of incomprehensible instructions were enclosed in the event that I might wish to contest the ruling and seek a removal for "reasonable cause". You may be assured that I fired off my $6.58 check immediately, knowing that my excuse that I did not receive the usual quarterly form would be unacceptable, even though it was true.

But I cannot help wondering. The IRS promptly and aggressively sought my payment of pittance, yet wealthy bigwigs like those being considered for Cabinet posts and the Governor-elect of New Jersey owed from hundreds to thousands of dollars and their "mistakes" were not discovered until their careers were subjected to close public scrutiny.

I hate to be skeptical, but how many other fat cats and potential political officeholders have eluded the IRS net while the little people are being quickly apprehended, punished and penalized?

Perhaps my late mother summarized it best when she told me, "Honey, it all depends on whose bull's being gored."

Wounded Soldier Visits Newark

Lieutenant Loomis Reflects Indomitable Spirit of American Soldier

Newark entertained a visitor of unusual interest on Thursday evening of last week when Stanley S. Loomis, the first Delaware's wounded soldiers to return, visited Newark friends. He landed in New York on Monday, Dec. 30, from the Mauretania and was sent to St. Joseph's Hospital, New York City, but was granted a brief furlough before being assigned elsewhere by the War Department.

All who had the privilege of conversing with Lieut. Loomis were impressed with the splendid spirit of the man. Although he has lost his right leg and is compelled at present to use crutches, the indomitable spirit of cheerfulness that characterizes the American soldier under all circumstances was the dominant note of his whole conversation. In view of what he had seen other soldiers endure and the losses they had sustained he considered himself lucky to have lost only a leg. Not a suggestion of bitterness or regret was manifest but a deep sense of gratitude that he fared no worse and that he was able to do something for the cause of humanity and yet to be spared to see his friends again.

"America's Most Typical American" Buried Today

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, 26th President of the United States, who died at his home on Sagamore Hill on Monday will be laid to rest without pomp or ceremony in Young's Memorial Cemetery in Oyster Bay Wednesday afternoon. He will be buried on a knoll overlooking Long Island Sound, a plot which he and Mrs. Roosevelt selected soon after he left the White House.

In the words of the clergyman who will conduct the funeral service, "America's most typical American," known in every corner of the earth, will go to his grave as a "quiet, democratic, Christian..."

Red Cross Makes Good December Record

Mrs. Cora Thompson, acting chairman of the local branch of the Red Cross has been advised through a letter from Charles S. Scott, Jr., division manager of the Red Cross, that no more knitting is needed for American soldiers and sailors. It has been carefully estimated that there are now enough knitted articles on hand to care for the needs of all men now in camps and abroad. There is particular need for the prompt completion of nurse's sweaters.

No more yarn will be given out but all articles now in the hands of knitters are to be finished and turned in next Monday, January 13, in order that warehouse records may be completed and in order that the articles may be distributed in time to meet the cold of the remaining winter months.

Newark Police Turn Back Pension Package

Newark's men in blue have rejected a pension plan offered by the city. Last week, members of Lodge No. 4, Fraternal Order of Police met with city manager Ed Stiff telling him of the lodge's dissatisfaction with the proposal.

The city had sent affidavits to all employees which, if signed, would authorize 2% be deducted by the city from their pay checks towards the pension fund.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Respect should rule the public arena

Editor:

The Issue: All spaces everywhere are for the respect and growth of everyone.

The Illustrating Situation: While having lunch at a Cafe on Main Street, before noon a few days before Christmas, I overheard a black man addressing the waitress regarding his service. Upset at the slow pace at which he was served, he escalated his confrontation to a verbal attack on the waitress, calling her a racist expletive. This transpired within the course of a few sentences in a raised voice from him, and not allowing any meaningful response from her. Furthermore his body language was invading her space, and she was obviously physically intimidated as well. At this point I stood up and addressed him, indicating that "I think you're out of line." He turned to me and three times indicated his intention to physically harm me with increasing levels of explicitness each time if I didn't stop talking to him. I was not interested in his threats, and tried to explain to him that as I saw it the cafe was short staffed and everyone was getting slow service. The cafe staff encouraged me not to pursue it while we were face to face, presumably to diffuse the situation and expedite his departure. I made a final statement to him before he left, saying "Everyone here knows you were out of line." He disagreed, collected the monetary compensation he felt due him and left.

This confrontation obviously should not have developed, but certain things about this situation are clear. Firstly I cannot claim to know or account for this man's experience, either his life before he entered the cafe or once there. It was apparent though this man was angry about a perceived injustice, that he felt compelled to address. Where he crossed the line of inappropriate behavior, and was counterproductive was when he implicitly intimidated the waitress who tried to respond to him, and explicitly threatened myself because I tried to address him. His intention when he approached the waitress was one of taking an intimidating command of the restaurant, including the staff and any patron who may be in his way, to insure his sway. He certainly wasn't interested in listening to anyone, much less engaging a meaningful dialogue. There are many direct and indirect implications that surfaced during this emotionally charged encounter, including for the children who were present. I'm thankful mine were not there. As I reflect on my actions that day, they were the most pressing reason I felt compelled to intervene, even though they weren't present.

The Message: Regardless of our point of view, whether in a situation of privacy or in a public place, everyone deserves to be treated in a way that fosters respect and the opportunity to grow. This is an important message for people to consider when they find themselves in the midst of a personal or social struggle with others. What issues surface and when it presents itself are not always in our control. Whether it is an issue of: respect for ethnicity or race; countering separatism or alleged supremacy; accepting differing religious beliefs and cultural traditions; addressing gender or sexual orientation bias; or nurturing healthy family or personal relationships; we must in every case give people the right to dialogue and relating with dignity. How can we teach our children to be good citizens and caring people and have those lessons accepted, if they see belligerent people in public degrading others in the name of a cause?

How can progress be made and society become a better place if everyone is at best timidly defensive, or at worst a seriously compromised victim? We must learn to address these issues in our homes, among friends and acquaintances, as well as with strangers in public in a forthright manner, but always allowing dignity for everyone.

Catholic's New School Is St. Mark's

St. Mark's High School will be the official name of the new diocesan high school that is presently being constructed on the Kirkwood Highway. The name was announced by Most Rev. Thomas J. Mardaga, Bishop of Wilmington.

"I wanted to place the school under the patronage of a saint," stated Bishop Mardaga in announcing the school's name.

The 2,000 pupil facility plans to open in September of 1969.

borhoods of Windy Hills, Stafford and Lumbrook criticized the latest Christina School District redistricting proposal Tuesday night.

In the first series of public hearings posted by the New School Redistricting Task Force, parents complained that the new plan takes children out of neighborhood schools.

The redistricting plan, which was applauded by parents at a meeting last month, is based on Christina's current feeder system.

The public school district must redraw boundaries to accommodate the opening of two new schools during the 1989-90 academic year, Brader Elementary in Four Seasons and Elbert-Palmer in Wilmington.

Fire Causes $125,000 in Damages to Newark High

Fire caused an estimated $125,000 damage to a storage room at Newark High School Wednesday night and forced the temporary closure of the school's day care center.

Damage to the day care center was minimal, but work crews have not yet restored heat to the facility.

Dr. Michael Walls, Christina School District superintendent, said smoke and water caused some damage to the carpeting in the center, which is located in the northeast corner of the high school.

The facility was opened this year to provide day care services to teenage mothers, who wished to continue their education.

Newarkers can now hail taxis

For the first time in years, Newarkers are able to hail a taxi.

City Cab, a Dover-based taxicab company, has started operations here, offering service 24 hours a day.

Although the taxi service is available to anyone, it is targeted to senior citizens.

The S.A.A.D. chapters from Christiana, Glasgow, and Newark high schools have received a donation from Bob Foard, owner of Robert T. Jones & Foard funeral home in Newark, for their consistent and well structured efforts to enhance awareness among high school students that drinking and driving are a fatal combination of activities.

Foard told the S.A.A.D. officers that, "... One poor decision can often be made by even the most cautious student during this time of increased leisure due to the holidays. Unlike a test or a course that can be taken over due to a bad grade, driving drunk rarely allows for a second chance."

The donation was presented on Dec. 27 by Foard at the funeral home on West Main Street.

The statistics are in: Newark crimes, parking violations were down in 1993

By TONJA CASTANEDA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Crime in Newark decreased in 1993, according to Newark Police Department statistics.

As did the number of parking tickets—by almost 8,000—given by police.

Serious police crimes—those committed directly against people—such as aggravated assault and rape, were down 33 last year from 39 in 1992.

Although there was one murder last year to 1992's none, both attempted murder—none in 1993—and rape with sexual intercourse, decreasing by 80 percent, were down.

Less serious crimes—those not committed directly against people—such as receiving stolen property, weapons, drugs and disorderly conduct violations, decreased last year.

Crimes increasing in 1993 included unlawful sexual contact—touching someone's genitalia—increased from none to 12 incidents.

Auto theft, alcohol violations and criminal mischief—intentionally damaging property—rose slightly last year.

For trespassing, police investigated less cases in 1993 but made more arrests.

And in the traffic division, the number of parking and meter citations given by police decreased by over 7,500 tickets.

Police Chief William Hogan said the major drop in tickets was due to the sidewalk reconstruction on Main Street during the summer months. He said the meters were covered up during the day and the no parking at night signs were taken out, so officers could not enforce the no parking rule.

Hogan said there was also one less meter maid giving tickets—instead the officer was filling in for the animal control officer who was on maternity leave.

In 1993, Driving Under the Influence arrests were up 368 from 304 in 1992.

Nefosky said the D.U.I. money received from the department of highway safety was spent wisely this year. "We increased roadblocks during the holidays," he said, "and anytime there was usually an increase in alcohol use."

Hogan said the department's roadblocks were very successful last year.

Community turns out to discuss future of desegregation

By TONJA CASTANEDA
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Approximately 200 people braved weather warnings of icy roads Tuesday night to attend a community meeting about desegregation.

Gov. Thomas Carper, the Christina School Board and the Delaware Board of Education listened to parent and resident complaints that the agreement being discussed was not available to the public until the meeting.

The agreement, recently made between the state board of education and The Coalition to Save Our Children, is an effort to settle the desegregation case out of court and relieve the districts — Christina, Brandywine, Colonial and Red Clay — from federal court supervision. The coalition represents the interests of black students.

Most people who addressed the board were against the plan, some were concerned about public education in Delaware and others simply wanted more information about the agreement.

Donna Price, a former member of the Christina District, said she was angry. "You represent all the children. You should have listened to we, the people— what we wanted— and then gone back to negotiations," said Price. "I have no choice but to go along with the agreement or have four more years of litigation."

At the meeting, Gov. Carper emphasized his support for the agreement. He said while the agreement is not perfect, it would avoid spending the next 3-4 years in court wasting money on lawyers' fees that should be spent on education.

He said desegregation has divided people for too long and a settlement means there are no winners and no losers.

Also, he said the agreement would make for safer schools because the plan proposes spending money for discipline by putting disruptive students in special programs.

Money is also budgeted to increase the availability of minority teachers by establishing Future Teachers of America clubs in middle and high schools. Currently in the district, minorities— black and Hispanic— represent about 16 percent of teachers and 35 percent of students.

Carper said his final reason for supporting the agreement is its flexibility. "Without this agreement, not much will change student assignments," he said. "But as soon as this is accepted, the 9-3 plan goes away almost immediately. Busing won't go away but the requirements to achieve a racial balance will be diminished," he said.

The 9-3 plan dictates by court order that suburban students must spend three years in city schools and the city students are required to attend school in the suburbs for nine years.

Carper said the state board of education has approved the plan and now the four school boards, the Delaware General Assembly and the federal judge on the case have to decide whether to accept or reject it.

If the agreement is adopted eventually each local school board would decide whether to return to a community school system, leave the schools as they are or have a magnet school program, according to Leo Strine, legal counsel to the governor.

Magnet schools offer a special curriculum concentration: the medical or music profession, for example.

Christina Superintendent Iris Metts said whether the agreement passes or not, the next step for the district is to decide where education should be going.

A Christina School District citizen and parent task force is being formed to discuss and decide what should be the first step for change in the schools. For information about the task force, contact the Christina Administrative offices at 454-2000.

Felicia to run against Ulbrich for House seat

- Examine possibility of enlarging county council in order to have a stronger voice.
- Proceed with status quo and work with current government.
- Find a way to re-work the current county building codes.
- Draft a list for potential buyers in the area that illustrates problems to look for.
- Research possibility of enacting a regional planning board.

These issues will be discussed further at the next meeting Feb. 7 at 7 p.m. in room 209 of the Glasgow Medical Center.

Christina District to explore new school sites

By TONJA CASTANEDA
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The Christina School Board voted to work with the New Castle County Department of Planning and the state to decide locations of future school sites in the Bear/Glasgow area.

The district also decided to ask county planners and the Delaware Department of Transportation to be sensitive, especially concerning safety issues, when building around existing schools.

Dr. Capes Riley, planning and development director for the Christina District, brought attention to these issues in regard to the Central Pencader Land Use Study at the December school board meeting.

The study will be a guide for New Castle County on how to evaluate future development in the region bordered by Old Baltimore Pike, the Maryland state line, Del. 7 and the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal.

The Pencader Study reports the population in the study area is projected to grow by about 72 percent by the year 2010.

Riley said in the study there were no recommendations for future school sites.

Women do battle with Newark Police

Classes open door to self defense

Defense classes can give women a sense of empowerment.

Most women take the classes out of fear and learn if attacked they can fight back, escape and possibly save their life.

The techniques taught at that Rape, Aggression, Defense (R.A.D.) classes, by Newark police officers, emphasize awareness and prevention.

It is a hand-on class which teaches women where to punch and kick an attacker to flee the situation.

Newarker Kay Foster said she took the class because of the increase of violence in society. "I learned I have more power that I thought I had," said Foster. "I really feel empowered from the class. It has changed my sense of fear to anger and given me the tools to deal with that."

The class teaches participants to look threatening when walking down the street and how to scream, "No," to possibly scare off an attacker.

During the four classes, officers build up to the final class when they wear padding for their bodies and heads and simulate attacking each woman so the women can try out the techniques they learned.

Some of the women who participated in the last R.A.D. class ranged in ages 20-60. Some had back problems.

But they all had one thing in common—a need to take control over the fear of being victimized.

Newarker Ann Wollenberg took the class because all the crime scares her. "I want to be able to protect myself," she said. "I think every woman should learn how to do this."

Wollenberg took the class with her daughter, Tracy Wollenberg. "It's worth the time to learn all the different techniques to defend yourself," said Tracy.

Glasgow resident Gloria Dickerson said the class has given her self-confidence. "My house was broken into twice, so I want to learn to protect myself," said Dickerson. She practices her moves on her husband and told her daughters about the class.

"When you scream no, it makes the adrenaline start to flow," said Dickerson.

Midge Harmer of Glasgow said she took the class to learn what to do if she was attacked. "They tell you to look under your car for attackers when walking towards it," she said.

"The class is fun," said Harmer, "but who knows what would happen under real circumstances."

Barbara Gunther of Newark said it is important to keep practicing moves taught in the class even if only mentally. "You aren't going to beat up someone three sizes bigger but if you hit in certain places it might give you a chance to get away," she said.

Kitty Mills of Haddonfield, N.J. said the classes teach very specific moves and body language which says no.

manual, which students can take to other classes and go through refresher courses free.

The classes will be offered in March on the 7, 14, 21 and 28 and again in May on the 4, 12, 18 and 25. Classes will be held from 7 to 9:30 p.m. at the George Wilson Center in Newark. Registration for the classes, which cost $16 for Newark residents and $21 for non-residents, begins in January. For more information, call the Newark Department of Parks and Recreation at 366-7060.

YOU ASKED

A feature devoted to discovering the answers to curious questions about people and places in Greater Newark.

BY NANCY TURNER

Why does Newark have two post offices so close together?

The answer is directly connected to Newark's rapid population growth during the past century and the U.S. Postal Service's efforts to keep up with it.

"Main Street station was the original branch post office," said Anthony DiIorio, acting postmaster for the Newark division of the U.S. Postal Service.

"The first post master of what is now Newark, Delaware was appointed in 1807. His name was John Macbeth.

"In 1929 the main post office for Newark was built at 110 East Main Street. A second office was established in 1955 at Newark Shopping Center and by 1973, additional growth demanded yet a third post office. By 1975, the 1929 post office, also known as the Federal Station, was completely remodeled. The two other buildings were abandoned and a new 31,500 sq. ft. building at the corner of Kirkwood Hwy. and Ogletown Rd. was ready for occupancy."

Newark has 85 postal service routes. And according to DiIorio, Ogletown Rd. building is already getting cramped and "we're probably on the verge of out-growing it."

Seventy-five routes are handled at Ogletown and ten are handled from Federal Station on Main Street.

"Newark is growing," said DiIorio, "but I think that people around town like the old Post Office on Main Street. I'm sure that there are a few of them, like the historians, who would probably scream if we tried to close it. That is my guess as to why it is still here."

Whether you have a question about people or places in Greater Newark or are just plain curious about something, staff writer Nancy Turner might just be able to find an answer for you. Send your question to Nancy, in care of the Newark Post, 153 East Chestnut Hill Road, Newark DE 19713. Be sure to include a daytime telephone number where you can be reached.

Investigate a charity before opening your wallet

Don't be intimidated when you receive unordered greeting cards, stationery or other trinkets in the mail, with a message that implies you must pay for them through a "donation." You are not responsible for paying for any unordered item. You may use it, give it away, or throw it away and not be obligated to pay for it. It is totally your decision whether or not you wish to contribute to the charity listed on the merchandise.

Always contribute money by using a check written to the charity—not to an individual. If you are told that the check is to be written to the name of the solicitor ask permission to send it directly to the charity. If this is not granted, you should question the policies and procedures of the charity and ask why it cannot receive donations directly from the giver. If you donate time or talent ask for a receipt signed by someone from the charity. It should list specific contributions and if possible the market value of these donations.

Keep records of the donation, such as receipts, canceled checks, and bank statements, so you can document the gift(s) at tax time. Designate a record book for keeping track of miles driven, hours, dollars and items donated.

If you would like to be of help to others join an organization dedicated to volunteer service. Now, while you are thinking about resolutions and goals for yourself and your family in 1994, investigate worthy causes in your community. Look forward eagerly to the new year by

Christian women's clubs hold gatherings

By TONJA CASTANEDA
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Women can get together for fun, fellowship and a good food once each month at meetings sponsored by the Christian Business and Professional Women.

Locally two groups meet— one for a luncheon every second Monday at 11 a.m. and the other, the After Five Club, meets for dinner at 6:30 p.m. on the third Monday of each month.

Both clubs meet at the Best Western in Newark.

This month, the luncheon group meets Jan. 10 and the After Five group meets Jan. 17.

The January luncheon theme is "Winter Wonderland" and will feature making flower bouquets out of candy.

The After Five Club theme is "Comfort VS. Elegance in 1994" and features a fashion show presented by Sears, Roebuck & Co.

Boths meetings include a feature of special interest such as crafts, cooking or fashion.

"We want to offer a relaxing and fun evening which appeals to all kinds of women," said Nancy Neeves, representative for the After Five Club of Newark.

She said the meetings also includes music during dessert, an inspirational speaker, holiday or theme name tags and centerpieces for each table.

Neeves said the luncheon club averages 100 women at the monthly meeting and approximately 50 women attend the dinner meeting.

Neeves said the clubs are part of an international organization involved with domestic missionary work.

Luncheons are $8, dinner meetings $10. To make reservations for the luncheon club call 737-4382. For the After Five Club, call 366-8236.

Savor sensational sausages with a link to Italy

Sausages are everywhere in Italy. Every meat shop prepares its own and they are all very proud of them. The number of ingredients that can be put into a sausage is simply startling, and the flavors vary from region to region, of course.

Please do not think that making your own sausages is too much work. It is not, and the rewards are worth the minor effort. Your kids will get a kick out of helping and if you have a sausage machine, you will be having sausage parties every so often. All of these recipes work well and are delicious.

ON MAKING SAUSAGE

1. The casings: Your butcher can tell you of a source for the casings.

You will need the size for Italian sausage or garlic sausage for all of these recipes except for the small-style Italian, which requires breakfast-sausage-size casings.

The casings will probably be packed in salt. They must be rinsed well and the inside rinsed of the salt before use.

2. Test out the mixture for proper seasoning by cooking a tiny amount first.

Pan-fry a little patty. Then correct the seasonings to your taste and proceed to stuff the casings.

3. Stuff the filling into the casings using a sausage-stuffing funnel—found in gourmet shops—or a sausage-stuffing tube on your meat grinder.

Do not pack the meat in too tightly as the sausages will expand a bit when cooking.

4. Tie into individual sausages using kitchen string or twist them into shape but be careful as they will pop.

5. Prick the casings in several places before cooking. This will prevent them from exploding. I use a little corn-on-the-cob holder for this job.

6. Cook the sausages slowly. High heat will make them pop.

7. A pound of filling will fill about one yard of casing.

8. Cure the sausages in the refrigerator 1 day before cooking and serving them.

Do not attempt to keep these sausages longer than 3 to 4 days as they contain no chemicals, with the exception of the dried Italian. It will keep a bit longer.

If a sausage feels slippery or slimy, it has gone to sausage heaven. Discard the body!

9. Each person will eat about 1/2 pound of sausage at dinner.

ITALIAN DRIED SAUSAGE (Makes 2 pounds)

This is great fun to make. Please remember that salt and saltpeter are common preservatives in meat.

Italians do not like sausage that is wet and filled with water.

In order to dry them out and to improve the flavor, I offer the following:

Prepare a batch of Italian

THE FRUGAL GOURMET

By JEFF SMITH

Sausage, Sicilian Style (recipe below) and add 1/2 teaspoon salt-peter—found in any drugstore—to the mixture.

Stuff into casings and hang in a cool place.

Hang them in such a way that they are not touching one another. Each one must have free air circulating around it.

I hang a batch in the pantry and then aim an electric oscillating fan at them.

Use this drying method for 2 or 3 days, depending on how hard you want the sausages to be.

When they are dry, you can put them into plastic sacks in the refrigerator.

They will keep for at least an additional week, but they are best cooked upon drying.

To cook, prick each sausage and simmer in fresh or bottled tomato sauce.

Be prepared for a very rich dish as the drying concentrates all flavors.

Serve over pasta or polenta.

ITALIAN SAUSAGE, SICILIAN STYLE (Makes 2 pounds)

This will be better than any sausage you can find in a market. Fresh-made sausage, homemade, is a forgotten thing in our culture and

I think that's a shame.

2 pounds lean pork butt, coarsely ground

1/4 pound pork fat, coarsely ground

1 tablespoon coarsely ground fennel seed

2 bay leaves, crushed

1 tablespoon dried parsley

3 cloves garlic, crushed

1/8 teaspoon dried hot red pepper flakes

1 teaspoon salt

1/4 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper

4 tablespoons dry white wine

Mix all the ingredients and let stand for 1 hour.

Mix again and then stuff into casings.

ITALIAN SAUSAGE WITH LEMON (Makes a little over 2 pounds)

Lemon is just great with pork, and this sausage with lemon is delightful. It is not heavy but rather very refreshing.

2 pounds pork butt, coarsely ground

1/4 pound pork fat, coarsely ground

1 tablespoon dried parsley

3 cloves garlic, crushed

1 teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons dry white wine
2 tablespoons freshly grated lemon peel

Mix all the ingredients together. Let stand for 1 hour and mix again. Stuff into casings.

ITALIAN SAUSAGE WITH PARSLEY AND CHEESE (Makes a little over 2 pounds)

These little sausages are a bit more delicate than those above, and they are also much smaller. These are great for breakfast or for a summer luncheon party. The parsley really does quiet the flavors.

2 pounds pork butt, ground medium
1/4 pound pork fat, ground medium
1/2 cup chopped fresh parsley
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
4 tablespoons white wine
2 cloves garlic, crushed

Mix all the ingredients together well and let stand for one hour. Mix again and stuff into breakfast-sausage-size casings.

ITALIAN SAUSAGE WITH CHEESE AND WINE

This is great for pasta dishes. It is not strong in flavor but it is bright in flavor. The wine always has a cleansing effect on meat.

Make the recipe for Sausage with Parsley and Cheese (recipe above) but omit the parsley and the white wine.

Substitute 1/2 cup of dry red wine and proceed with the recipe. Terrific!

The great Count Basie Orchestra under the direction of Frank Foster will be at Glasgow High School for one concert next month.

Count Basie Orchestra coming to Glasgow High

HAPPY NEW YEAR! I may be a few days late but this is the first edition of the paper since 1994 began. I hope this year is one of good times and peace for you.

I can help you with the good times, musically that is. I can also help you to have a good time without depleting your finances any worse than Christmas already has. I can also keep you close to home. How's that for a good start to your new year?

The Glasgow High Band and music director Joe Lofland are bringing to Post Country one of the best jazz ensembles in the world, the Count Basie Orchestra. They are due down on South College Avenue on Wednesday, February 2, for an 8 p.m. concert. Mark your calendars now. More importantly, order your tickets now!

If I may borrow a line from a commercial to speak about the group, "You've come a long way, baby!" The long way began in Kansas City in 1935. The guys were so great that within a few months they were playing at KC's

THE ARTS

Reno Club from which they made their first radio broadcast. Jazz critic John Hammond heard them and was so impressed he got MCA to sign them to a contract and Manhattan was the next stop. After Manhattan, the world.

Next came a recording contract with Decca records. Remember that label? Then, with a combination of recordings and radio shows, the orchestra became popular from sea to shining sea. They played at the 1939 World's Fair. The 1940s saw them with bigger and bigger demand. Then came World War II. After the war the band got back on track with film appearances added to their laurels. With the advent of the 33 1/3 RPM LPs, top soloists began to record albums with the Basie aggregation — Ella Fitzgerald, Sarah Vaughn, Frank Sinatra, Joe Williams and Tony Bennett, just to name a few.

As the big band era went into decline in the 50's, the Basie Orchestra did not. They spent quite a bit of time on the other side of the Atlantic and found themselves giving a Command Performance for the Queen of England. This led to a sold-out 13 week Waldorf-Astoria engagement.

By the 60's, pundits declared the big bands dead. Someone forgot to tell Basie the news! There were more European tours, one to the orient, then back for several stints in Las Vegas. With the arrival of television, the Count and his group were well established and have stayed in the forefront of American music. Its founder and leader passed away in 1984.

Headed by Frank Foster, the Count Basie Orchestra is 19 performers committed to upholding and advancing this "American institution." Some members are new, but the majority of sound still swings from musicians hand picked by Basie himself. They are in demand for concerts, films and television so when Joe Lofland was able to get them to come here for a concert, many happy people applauded. Getting a chance to hear this great group so close to home is really exciting.

Frank Foster is a man dedicated to keeping the Basie tradition alive. He was recruited by the Count in 1953 as tenor sax soloist. Foster began his big band career at the age of 13 in his hometown of Cincinnati. He was leading his own 17 piece band by his senior year in high school and played throughout his college career. He holds and honorary Ph. D. in music from his alma mater, Central State University in Ohio.

Nearly every evening somewhere in the world Count Basie fans assemble for live performances. Next month the fans can do it at 1901 South College Avenue in the fine Glasgow High School auditorium. The talent on the Glasgow stage will blend the best elements of blues and swing. In this age of over amplified megacore, an evening with this group will be refreshing. The tradition that William "Count" Basie established lives on and you can see for yourself next month.

As exciting and as good as the news is, there is a downside too. Only a limited number of tickets is available. You need to act quickly to get yours for that Wednesday evening. Tickets are $15 for adults and $12 for senior citizens and students. To order your tickets you should send a check or money order for the correct amount together with a self-addressed, stamped envelope to The Glasgow High School Band, 1901 South College Avenue, Newark, DE 19702. If you would like more information you may call the band office at 302-454-2381, extension 128.

Enjoy!

Blue Hens knock off Richmond

Delaware sophomore center Matt Strine has averaged over 11 points and eight rebounds per game this season for the Blue Hens.

NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

The University of Delaware basketball team took one big step toward showing itself and its fans that it's capable of another fine season.

The Blue Hens knocked off Richmond 58-51 Wednesday night before 3,229 fans at the Carpenter Center. The win, the team's third straight, improved the Hens record to 7-4 with a trip to Rutgers ahead on Saturday and North Atlantic Conference play starting next week. Richmond fell to 4-5.

Playing their most refined game of the year, the spirited Hens did many of the fundamental things necessary to win a big game. Things such as rebounding, protecting the basketball, grabbing loose balls, hitting the open man and playing good team defense were sometimes missing from Delaware's play during the early parts of the season. That wasn't the case Wednesday as everything came together for a fine win over a well-respected basketball program.

"I was really pleased with the way we played," said Delaware Coach Steve Steinwedel. "We played like the team I thought

The loss of a Spencer Dunkley would hurt any basketball program in the country.

The University of Delaware is no exception. However, sophomore center Matt Strine has taken his first few small steps toward surging up the center position.

Strine, from Shippensburg, Pa., averaged just 1.3 points and 1.1 rebounds per game last season. Already this season, those numbers have improved to 11.3 points and 8.0 rebounds per game. Numbers that are, in fact, far superior to Dunkley's as a sophomore.

In Monday's 77-65 win over

Loyola (Md.) Strine scored 18 points and grabbed 16 rebounds — one of his best overall efforts yet. The win improved the Blue Hens' record to 5-4. Delaware played Richmond Wednesday night and has a game with Atlantic 10 power Rutgers still to play Saturday night before starting North Atlantic Conference play next week.

"I thought Matt played real good," said Delaware Coach Steve Steinwedel of Strine's play in the Loyola game. "It was a real good effort."

Strine came out of Shippensburg as one of the top-rated big men in central Pennsylvania. The 6-foot, 8-inch center averaged 22.5 points and

Newark girls rally to beat Concord in Flight A opener

By JOHN HOLOWKA
NEWARK POST SPORTS WRITER

Tyra Webster and Teresa Donovan combined for 31 points, including 20 in the final two periods to help resurgent Newark High rally and beat Concord 44-36 Wednesday afternoon in a Flight A girls basketball game.

Webster scored a game-high 16 points and Donovan put the Yellowjackets into the lead 20-19 for the first time in the third quarter and then hit three straight baskets from beyond the arc in the final period to stake Newark to a 37-24 lead with 4:15 left.

"I wanted (Webster and Donovan) to come through for us," said first-year Coach Dave Simpson, after watching his team win their conference opener. "We were beating the first layer of their double-team but when we got to the halfcourt line and over the 10-second line then we were throwing it away."

Newark (1-0, 3-5) fell behind 12-6 after the first period, but rallied near the end of the first half behind Donovan's basket at 1:14 and Denise Heller's layup with 17 seconds remaining to close the gap to 18-16 despite 18 first-half turnovers.

"All day Monday that's what we worked on and that's the frustrating part of coaching," Simpson said. "We just didn't execute. Our December schedule has been brutal; we've played a lot of the top-ranked teams in the state. But little by little they're learning to play at that level and are beginning to understand what must be done to be successful."

"I think we've learned to be smart and play successfully at that level, and I thought we benefited from the schedule in the second half. We had a better idea of what we were doing."

Newark outscored Concord 10-3 in the third period behind Webster's six points and then buried the Raiders (1-1, 2-5) after Donovan canned her third three-pointer with just over four minutes remaining. The Yellowjackets extended their lead to 40-26 with 2:15 to go and Concord scored the majority of its final points off one-on-one situations against Newark's second team.

"I was really pleased with the second half," Simpson said. "We talked at halftime about the three-point opportunities and we got them; (Donovan) was really effective she must have had three or four. This is my first year so we'll take some time to get used to each other, but I think we're making progress."

Slam Dunk to the Beach a fabulous tourney

By MARTY VALANIA
NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

If there's a better run high school event anywhere than the Slam Dunk to the Beach Tournament, I haven't seen it.

The annual basketball festival at Cape Henlopen High has turned into one of the premiere high school basketball tournaments in the country. And more importantly, it's great for high school basketball in the state of Delaware.

All the out-of-state teams get treated with the utmost respect and more hospitality than any college team could get in the NCAA Tournament. Delaware teams get a chance to display their wares against the best in the country and in doing so draw much-needed attention to Delaware players.

POST GAME

Many of the teams in the tourney have been to other premiere tournaments around the country. In fact, Philadelphia's Franklin Learning Center — a participant this year — had just been to a tournament in Las Vegas within a week of coming to Delaware.

"We got treated with more hospitality here in two hours than we got in a week out in Vegas," said Franklin Learning Center Coach Pete Merlino. "We never played before more than 200 fans out there. This is a great tournament."

Fans weren't a problem at Slam Dunk to the Beach. The stands were full all week. Even on a snowy Tuesday afternoon there were more than 1,200 hoop fans in the gym.

St. Mark's wins Governor's Trophy at Slam Dunk to the Beach Tournament

By MARTY VALANIA
NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

The St. Mark's High basketball team turned a potentially rugged week into a great one in winning the Governor's Trophy at the prestigious Slam Dunk to the Beach Tournament at Lewes' Cape Henlopen High.

The Spartans ripped Sanford 54-37 and topped Indian River 54-43 to win the Trophy. They also lost 66-50 to Lake Clifton — which entered last week as the number five ranked team in Baltimore — in a game much closer than the final score indicated.

The two wins improved St. Mark's record to 8-2 and left the Spartans in good shape entering the second half of their season.

"We won two of three games and played well against Lake Clifton," said St. Mark's Coach Lee Sibley. "Considering the competition, we could've played well and lost three games, so we're very happy."

In the final of the four-team Governor's Trophy Brian August led the Spartans to victory over the Indians with 16 points and 18 rebounds. Junior guard Alex Karlson also added 16 points.

"Our defense and Brian August were what won the Indian River game for us," Sibley said. "He had a great game inside."

The week got off to a great start for St. Mark's with a big win over Sanford.

The third quarter, in which the Spartans outscored the Warriors 20-2, was the key to the win.

St. Mark's reeled off the first eight points of the quarter and then scored 12 straight over the last 4:24 to close out the quarter and, essentially, seal the victory.

"That third quarter was about as good as we can play," Sibley said. "We played well offensively and great defensively."

Junior guard John Gordon led the Spartans with 19 points including including 13 in the first

ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

JOHN GORDON - ST. MARK'S

One of the big reasons that the St. Mark's High basketball team is off to an 8-2 start is the play of junior guard John Gordon.

Gordon scored 55 points in the Spartans' three games at the Slam Dunk to the Beach Tournament in which they captured the Governor's Trophy bracket of the draw.

Gordon scored 19 points in the opening win over Sanford, 25 in a loss to Baltimore powerhouse Lake Clifton and 11 in the Governor's Trophy championship victory over Indian River.

"John did a great job for us," said St. Mark's Coach Lee Sibley. "He not only played well offensively, he played great on defense."

Against Sanford, Gordon scored 13 of his 19 points in the first half when the Spartans had a tough time scoring. With Gordon's offense, St. Mark's managed to take a 20-16 lead into halftime before blowing the game open in the third quarter.

"John was the only offense we had in the first half," Sibley said. "He also did a great job in defending Tyson Waterman [Sanford's best player]."

Gordon followed up that performance with a 25-point outburst against Lake Clifton.

"John really played well against a great team," Sibley said of Gordon's performance against Lake Clifton. "They had some legitimate Division I players out there and Gordon looked like he definitely belonged out there."

Chiefs remain unbeaten with 7-2 victory

The Delaware Chiefs Ice Hockey Club improved their record to 4-0 after beating Moose Jaw 7-2 at General Washington Ice Arena in Audobon, Pa. Sunday.

Leading the Chiefs in scoring was team captain Charlie Pens with two goals. Also contributing to the Chiefs' victory were Pete Bovankovich, Rich Yusko, Matt Milano and Terry Lough, each with one goal and one assist. Supporting the Chiefs effort with three assists was Mike Bourchard.

Goaltenders Lew Hines and Pat Diossi split the shutout. Hines stopped 15 of 17 shots while Diossi entered the game in the third period and stopped all eight shots he faced.

The Chiefs' next game is Jan. 9 at Chester County Skating Club.

SPARE THOUGHTS

A bowling column contributed by Blue Hen Lanes

Most bowlers dream of having one perfect game in their career. Ron Messer of Blue Hen Lanes has three to his credit now.

Bowling in the Blue Hen Men's League last Tuesday Ron wasted no time getting down to business and laid down 12 straight strikes for the 300 score.

Bowling is business for the 28-year-old Messer in more ways than one.

A well-respected football player in high school, Messer started bowling after graduation at the suggestion of a friend.

For a few years he regarded bowling as something fun to do, but soon discovered that with practice and coaching it was something important to him. His goal became to become a professional bowler.

Ron took his first step to obtaining that goal this year by becoming a Regional member of the Professional Bowlers Association and has competed in events in New York, New Jersey and Maryland. In order to become a Resident member of the PBA, one must attend the PBA School and Ron will do so this year.

The 205 average bowler made a career change two years ago and is in the bowling business as well, being both Night Supervisor at Blue Hen Lanes and Pro Shop Operator. His dedication to the sport is so serious that when he broke his hand last spring, he started bowling left handed and averaged 150 with his "wrong" hand - not a small achievement.

In addition to his trio of 300s, his other career accomplishments included two games of 298 and a 799 series. When asked what one thing as you approach a 300 game, Messer said "When I have a big game or a big series going, I still just concentrate on each frame as an individual. For me concentration is the key to this game."

Congratulations Ron, and we all look forward to watching you compete in nationally televised tournaments in the future.

half which saw St. Mark's hold a slim 20-16 lead at intermission.

The Spartans only loss came at the hands of powerful Lake Clifton.

St. Mark's trailed by just four midway through the fourth quarter but three quick three-point shots enabled the Lakers to pull away down the stretch.

The Spartans, who play only four games in January, have another big game Friday night at archrival Salesianum.

"It's a time [January] where we can get a lot of practice in," Sibley said. "We're going to turn it into a positive - go back to fundamentals and basics and get ready for our big games in February."

Tough week for Glasgow

Glasgow High experienced the other end of the spectrum in its trip to the Slam Dunk to the Beach Tournament.

The highly-touted Dragons lost all three of its games (Lake Clifton, Indian River and Sanford) last week; lost Antoine Haman and Wayne Richardson to ankle injuries and lost All-Stater Corey Curtis due to disciplinary suspension.

All three players are expected to return to the Dragons' lineup.

With the loss to Chester preceding the tournament, Glasgow now finds itself in the unfamiliar situation of having lost four consecutive games with Slam Dunk champion William Penn and Christina rival Christiana up next.

ball. The Colonials -with the impressive tournament victory - found themselves ranked ninth in the East region of the country this week by USA Today. It's a great honor.

Now a team that, perhaps, can upset William Penn will get noticed as will its players.

According to coaches and scouts at the beach last week, the Colonials are good enough to play with anyone in the country.

It's dangerous to compare scores but we'll do it anyway. Penn downed defending AAAA Pennsylvania state champion Erie Cathedral Prep 63-52 in the championship. Prep lost earlier this season in a close game to defending national champion Simon Gratz (Philadelphia), who knocked off this season's top-ranked team - Crenshaw (from Los Angeles) - in another Holiday tournament last week.

Hopefully, this is a tournament that will be a fixture in this state for many years to come.

Big wrestling weekend

High school basketball fans had their fill last week; this weekend wrestling has a similar event.

The wrestling officials association is sponsoring a big wrestling tournament at St. Mark's this weekend. The tournament will consist of some of the top teams in the East including Delaware's St. Mark's, William Penn (ranked 23rd nationally by USA Today), Dover and Sussex Central. Other teams will come from New Jersey and Maryland.

It should be a great event.

There's also another unique wrestling event at Dickinson High.

Coach Paul Joyce has set up a collegiate match between Navy and Drexel to be held at Dickinson following the Rams morning match with Radnor (Pa.). The match should start at 12:30 Saturday afternoon.

Real wrestling fans can see the Mid-Atlantic semifinals at St. Mark's; shoot over to Dickinson for the Navy-Drexel match and then back to St. Mark's for the rest of the high school tourney.

Should be a great weekend.

Newark girls rally to win

► NEWARK, from 1B

"(Webster and Donovan) made some nice shots; you can't really do anything with something like that," said Concord Coach George Kosanovich. "You just do the best you can with what you've got on your own team."

"We started out very well, but it seemed like we didn't score as much the rest of the game as we did in the first quarter. Some days you see it and other days you don't."

That's the way it goes. This year Flight A is very even. Once we settle down and play a little basketball I think we'll be right there."

Amy Monaghan added six points for Newark, LaTonya Washington and Heller chipped in with two each and Bev Elliot, Julie Marx and Becky Sachser scored one point apiece.

Ishia Watson led Concord with 12 points and Brandi Cain led all players with 13 rebounds.

Pearl, Anderson lead Hens over Richmond

► HENS, from 1B

We would be all year.

"Everyone played their role well. We did a lot of the little things well. It's a good win."

Along with a great effort from Brian Pearl (21 points, six assists and four rebounds in 40 minutes), the Hens received a welcomed strong performance from center Darrin Anderson. Anderson, a 6-foot, 7-inch, 235 pound sophomore transfer from Independence (Kan.) Junior College, turned in his best effort of the year - scoring 13 points and grabbing six rebounds in 22 minutes of play.

"It's taken me awhile to get into the flow," said Anderson, who entered the game averaging 4.7 points and 4.6 rebounds in 14 minutes per game. "But someone has to step up; [Wednesday night] it was me."

"We really needed this win - needed it badly. We needed some momentum going into league play. Some Philadelphia papers picked us sixth in the league and we really wanted to show we can play better."

Playing before the most enthusiastic turnout of the year, the Hens led the tight game most of the second half. The Spiders cut the lead to 50-48 with 1:56 remaining in the contest but Anderson scored seven straight points to help preserve the victory.

"Darrin played a great game off the bench," said Pearl, who is averaging 16.7 points per game. "We've been trying to get him out of his shell and become the player he is in practice everyday."

In addition to Pearl and Anderson, point guard Rob Garner added four points, 10 rebounds, six assists and no turnovers to the Hens' effort.

"We had a little team talk before the Loyola game (a 77-65 win Monday night)," Garner said. "We wanted to start a streak. It was a big game before the conference. We had to prove to ourselves and everyone else that we can play with anyone."

Strine's improved play helps Hens to victories

► STRINE, from 1B

14.8 rebounds per game his senior year in high school.

Last year, though, he spent most of the year getting banged around by Dunkley in practice.

"Playing against Spencer everyday in practice was the best preparation anyone can have," said Strine of how he spent a good part of his freshman season. "I got more beat up last year just from practice than any other year I've ever played."

The sophomore took his freshman season as a learning experience.

Strine worked as hard as he ever had in the off season to get ready for this year.

"I approached it like I was on the bottom of the barrel," Strine said.

"Everyday I worked on trying to improve. I worked with my old high school coach back home."

"We knew we'd have to work hard to try and fill the void left by Spencer."

Despite the improved numbers, Coach Steinwedel expected a little more. That was evident when Strine went from the starting lineup to the bench for one game during the Toledo Holiday Tournament last week.

"He put his point across very clearly," Strine said of the one-game bench role.

For Delaware to have any chance at heading to a third straight NCAA Tournament the continued strong inside play of Matt Strine will be needed.
