VOL. 90 NO. 41

UNIVERSITY OF DELAWARE, NEWARK, DEL.

MARCH 26, 1968

U Of D Business Team Wins Second Place

Business students from the university walked off with second place awards in Atlanta, Georgia at Emory University's third annual Intercollegiate Business Games on March 9. Forty colleges and universities participated.

Each school represented a single company. The 40 were divided into five industries, with eight companies in each. The Delaware trio won a plaque for finishing first in their industry and a trophy for finishing second in overall competition.

Members of the Delaware team were Lisa Featherer, BE8, Pennsville, N.J., Robert S. Taylor, BE8, Wilmington, and Thomas D. Whittington, BE8, Bear, Del.

FIRST TRY

It was Delaware's first participation and the three seniors parlayed astute business knowledge into projected earnings of $222,000 over two and a half years. While this played a part in their victory, the student's strategy and procedure carried more weight.

Delaware's representatives with faculty advisor James R.

Krum, Asst. Prof., made decisions twice each week for five weeks, with each decision covering a quarter of a year. Their judgments of the price of the product, the amount of advertising and the kind of research necessary to develop or improve the product in an attempt to capture the market were fed in a computer, which contained an optimum solution.

During the last phase of the program the three students, accompanied by Dr. Gordon Bonner, associate professor, went to Atlanta for three days this month to present their case to a board of judges, composed of business executives and Emory faculty members.

BUSINESS SPEECHES

Also during the three-day session speeches were given by business men. Among them were Colston Warne of Amherst and Fred Dickson, president of the newly created Coca-Cola, U.S.A.

The games, which have created national attention, are run by graduate students in Emory's Business School in accord with the university and the Atlanta chapter of Sales and Marketing Executives.

Candidate Shortage: Deadline Extended

Due to the lack of candidates for Student Government Association offices the Elections Committee has extended the deadline for petitions for the second time this spring. The new deadline is Friday at 5 p.m.

According to Cheryl Yeager, SGA vice-president, there are six offices which have not reached the needed number of candidates. In addition to vacancies for Class of 1969 president and Interfraternity Senator, there are four seats open for commuters--two men and two women.

Petitions may be picked up in the SGA office or in the Office of Student Services this week and all petitions must be completed and returned to the OSS by the Friday deadline.

CANDIDATE MEETING

There will be a meeting of all candidates tonight at 6 p.m. in 131 Sharp Lab and any candidate who needs photographs should make an appointment with Fred Binter, 115 Harrington E.

All offices with the exceptions noted above have been closed to any other candidates. There are 13 offices with no competition. The unopposed SGA Senate offices are: SGA secretary, Pat P'ile, ASO; SGA treasurer, Ick Jolly, ASO; Men's district #2, Thomas Molitor, BEO; Women's districts #4, Virginia Strand, ASO, #5, Marilyn Thomas, ASO, and #6, Lynn Ericson, HEO. Mike Sherman, ASO, is unopposed for Men's Residence Hall Association president.

Class offices were spotted with unopposed candidates. The present freshman class secretary, Sabina Bobzin, ASIP, is assured of reelection. All four Class of 1970 positions are without opposition. Bill Witham, ASO, Kathy Trickey, ASO, Pat Hirschy, ASO, and Rita Hayman, ASO were the candidates for president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer respectively.

Kent Kast, AS9, is unopposed for Senior Class treasurer.

CONTESTED OFFICES

The rest of the offices are contested. Running for SGA president are four juniors, Gary Aber, BE9, Spotwood Foster, AS9P, Jeff Hammond, EG9, and Dee Lafferty, AS9. Hammond and Miss Lafferty are SGA Senators, Foster is MRHA president, and Aber is in the SGA Cabinet.

There are three candidates for SGA vice-president, Lewis Bennett, AS9P, David Bent, ED9, and Debby Stehley, AS9. Sandy Martorelli, AS9, Mary Otteni, ED9, and Gail Paraslo, ED9, are running for Association of Women Students president.

U. Of D. Role Questioned

Constable At Drug School

A member of the university security division attended a one-week federal course in drug abuse control last week.

The course, designed for university security personnel, was given by the Federal Drug Abuse Control Bureau at their school in Arlington, Va. as a part of their program for state and local police.

Attending the course was Capt. Rodney Reeder.

The Review was first informed of Capt. Reeder's attendance by sources who were concerned that the university might plan to conduct its own investigation of drug abuse on campus at cross-purposes with Newark police.

FEARS ALLAYED

The presence of Capt. Reeder at the class was confirmed Friday by the security division. Norman F. Seymour, superintendent of Security at the university, denied, however, that the course carried any significance.

He pointed out that Capt. Reeder has applied for the course prior to the recent drug arrests. "We go to many sessions of this sort," he said.

The security division, said the chief, is a member of the National Association of Security Directors which involves about 200 campus security divisions all over the country.

SECURITY'S ROLE

When asked about the role of the university security division in the current drug investigation by Newark police, Seymour said "Read the article in the Newark Weekly. It was put in there by the Newark police."

The article, which appeared March 13 after the original narcotics arrests, said that the drug problem was first brought to the attention of Newark police by individual members of cam-

One-Man New York Exhibit For Art Department Head

Julio Acuna, acting chairman of the university's art department, will present his fourth one-man show in New York City today at the Zegri Gallery, 10 East 8th St.

The exhibit, featuring 26 new drawings and paintings, is titled "The Bagatelles" which means trifles. Acuna explained that it means trifles in the sense that these are somewhat smaller in size than usual, but no less complex in technique, idea and color.

Many themes are present in Acuna's work, but a large number of the paintings were influenced by the "Leda-and-the-Swan" image from Greek Mythology. Acuna said a second opening will be held next Saturday especially for Delawareans who are unable to attend the Tuesday opening.

Acuna's last one-man New York show "Les Figures Fantastiques" will be displayed concurrently in the 1912 Room of the Student Center. Many of the paintings from that show have been sold since it was presented in Nov. 1966, but most of the owners have loaned them for the April 1 opening.

Barber To Talk On Hypnotism

Dr. Theodore X. Barber, nationally known authority on the experimental investigation of hypnotism will lecture at the university on Wednesday, at 4 p.m. in Wolf Hall Auditorium.

His discussion, "A Scientific Approach to Hypnotism," is being sponsored by the psychology department.

Dr. Barber has been engaged in full-time study of hypnotism since 1955 at American University, Harvard University, the Boston University Medical School and the Medfield Research Foundation. He has published over 75 articles in scientific journals.

A book which summarizes his work on hypnosis is now in press. Barber's research has been supported continuously by the National Institute of Mental Health.

America, Acuna is the son of Luis Alberto Acuna, a painter of international reputation.

Professor Acuna was educated at the School of Architecture, National University, Bogota, Columbia, at the School of Architecture of the University of Florida, and at Cranbrooke Academy of Art, Bloomfield Hills, Michigan. He holds a Bachelor of Architecture degree from the University of Florida and a Master of Fine Arts degree from Cranbrooke Academy of Art.

Grads To Drop 70 Percent

Draft Law To Deplete Grad Schools

WASHINGTON (CPS)-- The number of men entering graduate school as full-time students next fall will be 70 per cent lower than it was last fall, if the government doesn't change its current draft policy, according to a recent report.

The report, based on a survey conducted by the Council of Graduate Schools and the Scientific Manpower Commission (a private research organization), also indicated that the total enrollment of first-year students in graduate school next fall will be 50 per cent lower than it was last fall.

It went on to say that during the next academic year, there will be more women than men in first-year graduate classes for the first time since World War II.

A total of 122 graduate schools, representing about 40 per cent of the total graduate enrollment in the country, were included in the survey on which the report is based. The graduate school officials were asked to give detailed estimates of what their enrollments would be if no draft-eligible men are enrolled next year.

Although the Defense Department has said that not all graduate students and college seniors eligible for the draft will be taken, Mrs. Betty Vetter, executive director of the Scientific Manpower Commission, says that "almost all" of them will be.

According to Mrs. Vetter, the Defense Department projections are based on the assumption that men under 20 will continue to volunteer for the services to the same extent they have in the past. She believes, though, that when 18 and 19-year-olds learn that there's little chance they'll be drafted, fewer will volunteer than in the past.

According to the report, the greatest damage done by the draft will be to next year's entering graduate classes. Second-year classes, however, will also suffer.

The report said next year's second-year classes will have 31 per cent fewer men than they would normally have. Overall, the report indicated, second-year graduate enroll-

Temple Madrigals AWS Names Fran DiPasquantonio Ambassador

To Sing On Campus

Lovers of music for small vocal ensembles will be rewarded when the University of Delaware Madrigal and Chamber Singers join the Madrigal Singers of Wilmington for a Mitchell Hall concert.

The program will begin promptly at 8:15 p.m. tomorrow.

The university madrigals, a select group of 22 freshmen voices, will be making their debut performance with six madrigals.

The Wilmington Madrigal Singers under the direction of Donald Rittenhouse will be featured in three madrigals by Emma Loue Diemer with words by William Shakespeare and the "Liebeslieder Waltzer," by Johannes Brahms.

pus security apparently not acting through university channels.

The Newark Weekly article referred to a "cloud" existing over relations between the university and Newark police since last year's controversy concerning "several indecent exposure offenses which went unreported to police by the university until it was too late to launch an effective investigation."

At that time, according to the article, a reading of an Attorney General's ruling disclosed that criminal investigation was a sole responsibility of local police. University constables, therefore, do not have a right to conduct investigations or to withhold information from police.

Also, The Review has learned from confidential sources that relations between the university and the Newark police had indeed deteriorated again prior to this month's marijuana arrests.

More recently, however, the university and the Newark police are believed to have reached a new understanding.

The university, it is said, has agreed on advice of legal counsel that it cannot conduct any investigation into or question any students in regard to drug abuse as such action would interfere with the continuing police investigation.

Piano accompaniment will be provided by Sue Armstrong and George Broske.

The Association of Women Students has chosen Francesca DiPasquantonio, Hel, as its first ambassador for the "Experiment in International Living." The experiment sends students to other countries for a living and working experience during the summer.

Miss DiPasquantonio was selected from the group of applicants on the basis of outstanding leadership and scholarship, and, according to the AWS selection committee, her "quality of sincere concern for others."

The international program will provide Miss DiPasquantonio with six weeks in a Mexican town. She will live with a family part of the time and later work with other ambassadors in "Operation Vision" in surrounding areas. A social service project, the operation will test for glaucoma, and eye disease which could lead to blindness.

It might be said, instead, that we specialize in people, for we believe that people are a most important reason for our company's success. We act on that belief.

We select our engineers and scientists carefully. Motivate them well. Give them the equipment and facilities only a leader can provide. Offer them company-paid, graduate-education opportunities. Encourage them to push into fields that have not been explored before. Keep them reaching for a little bit more responsibility than they can manage. Reward them well when they do manage it.

Duffers Set For Debut Despite Bad Weather

Coach Scotty Duncan is satisfied with the progress of the golf team thus far this spring, but, he, too, laments recent weather conditions.

Duncan has twelve good prospects out for this year's team, with only seven major positions available. Rainy and cold weather has made it difficult for any of the seven to stand out above the others.

The Hens begin their season this Thursday when they travel to West Chester for a 1:30 p.m. match. Then they begin their annual southern trip at the start of spring vacation. The trip will begin with a match against American University at the Washingtonian Country Club in Washington, D.C., next Monday.

Delaware's golfers will be attempting to improve on a 42-18 won-lost record in four years under Duncan. After the American meet, they will spend the next three days sharpening their games at Virginia Beach.

Team captain John Riley, a senior from Wilmington, will be the number one player for the Hens again this year. Riley was 15-2 in match play last year and is 29-7 for his two years at Delaware. Duncan looks for Riley to be a unifying influence for the team.

Other returning regulars from last season are juniors Charley Pinto and Jim Powell. Pinto was 13-4 last season and Powell had a 14-3 mark. The other letterman on the roster is junior Steve Fox.

Two sophomores could easily break into the top seven. They are Dave Otteni, a former state junior champion from Wilmington, and John Stinson from Ventnor, New Jersey.

Four other very promising golfers are junior Greg Carney, sophomore Phil Hutton, junior Bob Patton, and junior Rich Robinson. Carney is a former state junior titlist from East Hartford, Connecticut.

DELAWARE STICKMAN and opponent seem set for a head to head challenge in scrimmage action of last week. The university dropped their second scrimmage last Saturday, losing to Hobart, 6-4.

Meet Monmouth Thursday

Hen Mound Staff Strong In Depth

If pitching is the most important ingredient to a winning baseball team then Delaware should be set for a successful spring.

With two experienced seniors, Gene Waldman and Tom Palmer, heading the staff, the Hens appear to be long on quality. Add two more right-handers in Steve Tisot and Len Fischer, and Delaware should be deep enough to have a solid pitcher on the hill virtually every inning of every game.

Palmer was given the starting nod for the Hens' home opener yesterday against Syracuse. He was also Delaware's number one hurler last year, appearing in 15 of the Hens' 19 contests. The durable right-hander had a team leading 2.12 earned run average, but finished with a deceptively mediocre 3-4 record. Many of his defeats were partly due to lack of defensive support.

Coach Bob Hannah figures on Palmer to be even sharper this season. He has looked good in practice and did well both in fall baseball and in a summer league a year ago.

The remainder of Hannah's hill staff is more of a question mark, despite the fact that they appear to be very promising. All three were out of action for all or much of last spring for a variety of reasons. However all three hopefully will be ready to work this week.

Waldman missed last year for a hitch of military service. Two years ago the big left-hander was one of the key pitchers for Delaware.

Hannah feels that Waldman is improving and hopes that he will reach top form early in the season. Waldman is also a durable worker who "takes control of a game." Both Fischer and Tisot are expected to make their first appearances when the Hens meet Monmouth in New Jersey on Thursday. Fischer had an outstanding 3-1 mark a year ago when he compiled a 2.91 earned run average. A knee injury last year limited his duty to just a few games. Fischer's knee is now completely healed.

Tisot has had even more difficulty than the other two in getting into some spring action. The fireballing right-hander missed almost all of last season with a sore arm. Sickness has kept him from working out in practice sessions most of this spring.

Charlie Pesce Guides Hen Nine From Behind A Catcher's Mask

When Charlie Pesce donned the catchers' tools of ignorance yesterday in the season's opener against Syracuse, it marked the seventh season of interscholastic baseball for Delaware's star backstop.

Pesce, a native of Delaware, went to Salesianum High School and played three years of high school ball before deciding to come to the university. Here at Delaware, Chuck has earned a place of honor for himself among the ranks of collegiate baseball.

"We have the best catcher in the conference and maybe one of the best collegiate catchers in the country in Chuck," Coach Bob Hannah remarked on his star Captain, "but I don't know what we would do without him."

STELLAR FROSH

During his frosh year here at the university, Charlie played behind the plate for a stellar yearling team that boasted a 6-2 record. Pesce himself contributed a fine .278 average at the plate.

As a sophomore, he was relegated to the varsity bench mainly due to the presence of senior All-MAC catcher Lou DiGeorgia, who had the inside track on the backstop slot. All in all, Charlie made an appearance in about six games during the season, gaining vital experience for his coming years.

Last year, with DiGeorgia gone, Pesce had the catching burden all to himself, and proceeded to tear the league apart with his hot bat earning for himself the All-MAC catcher position.

SECOND IN MAC

Hitting fifth in a power-packed Delaware lineup, Chuck batted at a phenomenal .347 pace overall and an unbelievable .522 in Middle Atlantic conference competition. In the MAC batting race, Charlie finished second, four percentage points behind the batting leader, Temple's Les Roos, who hit at a .526 clip.

Last summer, mainly due to the concentrated efforts of Coach Hannah, Pesce and some of his teammates were given the opportunity to travel around the country playing in college summer leagues.

Pesce, Lenny Fischer, Dave Cathcart, and Tom Palmer all trekked to Virginia to play in the Shenandoah League and then Chuck traveled out to South Dakota to play in the Basin League. During the summer Pesce's bat continued to sizzle against college competition as he batted .300.

What this season lies in store for Charlie Pesce no one knows. A team man in the true sense, Charlie hopes that he can have a consistent season and help the team in as many ways as possible.

GOOD PROSPECTS

Speaking about this year's Delaware nine, Pesce thinks that it is an excellent team with a lot of potential winning power. He also said that this year's team is in the class of Temple and Rider, the MAC's top two teams last season, and that Delaware definitely has a good chance of finishing on top of the MAC standings.

Charlie's future in baseball appears as a question mark at the moment. Based on last season's performance, he definitely has a good shot at making it in professional baseball. But, this season still has to be played and Pesce's future successes or failures may very well be decided by its outcome.

Good major league catchers are a hard lot to come by nowadays, and backstops with the abilities of Chuck Pesce cannot be overlooked. By the time Charlie Pesce has hung up his Delaware spikes for the last time, the major leagues should be beating a path to his door.
