Cooch Farm earns bicentennial recognition

by Cathy Thomas

The 242-year-old Newark farm of Edward Cooch has been recognized by the United States Department of Agriculture as a National Bicentennial Farm.

Wilmer D. Mizell, assistant secretary of agriculture, presented the Cooch family with a sign Monday granting the historical designation to the 230-acre farm.

"We are celebrating this week. It is entirely appropriate that we, who represent agriculture, should commence that celebration on a farm in Delaware," said Mizell. "These are not just ordinary farms, but they are farms that have been in the same family since before the signing of the Constitution over 200 years ago."

The Cooch farm, located along Old Baltimore Pike in south Newark, was settled by Thomas Cooch in 1746. It is one of about 700 farms to receive the National Bicentennial Farm designation.

"At least half of those farms will be in the original thirteen colonies," said Mizell.

The bicentennial farm signs depict the "revolution in American agriculture," according to Mizell.

"Everyone who passes by the farm should be made aware that these are very special farms."

Edward Cooch and his wife, Sarah, are the seventh generation of Cooch's to live on the farm.

"It's very gratifying to live in a place where my forebearers have lived since 1746," said Cooch. "I'm very pleased that the United States Department of Agriculture would recognize this farm as a bicentennial farm."

Located next to the farm is the Christina Creek. Cooch's Bridge, which spans the creek, was the site of the only battle on Delaware soil between the British and the American armies during the Revolution.

It has been claimed by some historians that the Stars and Stripes were first carried in battle at Cooch's Bridge.

Today, Cooch oversees the operation of his farm, which produces grains and fruits. He is optimistic about the future of the land.

"I have two children who both love the place and I have three grandchildren. They will have to take care of themselves in the future, but they're as devoted to this preservation as I am."

Police consider filing charges in alcohol death

by Cathy Thomas

Newark Police are considering filing criminal charges in connection with the alcohol-related death of a 19-year-old Newark teenager.

Brian Mulrooney, of Rankin Road, Meeting House Hill, died Sept. 3 following a party in the Paper Mill Apartments.

"The cause (of Mulrooney's death) has been determined to be alcohol intoxication," said Dr. Ali Z. Hameli, the state medical examiner, in a release issued by his office last week.

Mulrooney, a University of Delaware student, was discovered by friends following a party. They did not think he was breathing and notified authorities.

Mulrooney, a graduate of St. Mark's High School, was pronounced dead at Christiana Hospital.

Newark Police Chief William Hogan said detectives will investigate the incident further now that the cause of Mulrooney's death has been determined.

"We'll have to determine if there are any criminal charges associated with his death," said Hogan.

Mulrooney died just prior to the start of classes at the University. Alcohol consumption by minors has been a major concern in Newark because of the high population of students under the age of 21.

"Obviously, he (Mulrooney) consumed a significant amount of alcohol if it was the cause of his death," said Hogan. "Here's a kid who lost his life in an attempt to have too good of a time."

Newark festival Sunday

People will crowd onto to the University of Delaware Mall Sunday for Community Day, which has become a much-anticipated annual event in Newark.

Community Day offers Newarkers a chance to talk to their neighbors, meet new friends and renew old acquaintances.

"One of the things they (Newarkers) like is they see people they haven't seen all year long," said David Fitzgerald, city human services director. "There's a lot of strength in this community. Community Day is one place where you really get that sense."

Fitzgerald is expecting 15,000 people to attend the event, which will feature all kinds of entertainment.

"Within the bulk of Community Day, there are a whole range of activities," said Mary Ann Daly, event coordinator.

Dancing and musical entertainment will be a major attraction at the celebration. International folk dancing, Scottish country dancing and aerobic dancing will be demonstrated. Several local bands will perform in the University's Wolf Hall.

The fine arts exhibit will be judged by an official from a New York City art gallery. Visitors to the fine arts display will also have a chance to cast a ballot for a "people's choice" award among the artwork exhibited.

A popular part of Community Day has been the handicrafts and bazaar areas. The craftsmen will be displaying their

Chemical overcomes workers at UPS plant

Fourteen United Parcel Service employees were taken to Christiana Hospital Monday after a toxic chemical leaked from a package in the company's warehouse near Newark.

David Small, a Delaware Department of Natural Resources spokesman, said the employees were taken to the hospital for observation after being exposed to pyridine.

"Pyridine is a solvent," said Small. "It's used throughout the chemical industry. It's a toxic substance and is flammable as well."

Small said the workers at the warehouse on Ruthar Drive discovered the leaking package shortly after 5 a.m. Monday. Short-term exposure to the chemical causes nausea and dizziness.

Inside the package were four one-gallon glass containers of the chemical.

Newark hosts thousands of volunteers

The population of Newark swelled by several thousand people last week during the 68th annual convention of the Delaware Volunteer Firemen's Association.

"It (the convention) is the one time each year that the fire services are drawn together in one place," said Barry Beck, convention spokesman.

About 400 volunteer firefighters served as delegates to the annual convention. Also attending the convention were the families of the volunteer firefighters and representatives of fire equipment manufacturers.

The firefighter's convention was held in Newark this year in conjunction with the 100th anniversary of Aetna Hose, Hook and Ladder Company.

The convention began Thursday and concluded with a four-hour parade in downtown Newark Saturday.

During the convention, the firefighters discussed several topics ranging from state-of-the-art equipment to fire codes.

A constant issue troubling volunteer fire companies is the need to recruit more volunteers.

"There is an ongoing concern of attracting volunteers and keeping them," said Beck.

Despite the recruitment problems for some companies, Aetna fire company has more than 420 trained volunteers. The company responds to calls within a 25-mile radius, serving about 85,000 residents.

AT A GLANCE

The following volunteer fire companies received awards for their presentation in the Delaware Volunteer Firemen's Association Parade Saturday in Newark.

- Citizen's Hose Company, Smyrna, won the Governor's Cup in the category of best appearing musical marching unit with 20 men or more.
- Minquedale Fire Company won first place for the best appearance with 15 or more men.
- Wilmington Manor Fire Company won the award for best appearance, fire prevention float.

- Minquedale Fire Company won the Delaware Ladies Auxiliary best appearance trophy for units with ten or more ladies.
- Conrad Alumni High School Band won best overall musical marching unit.
- Odessa Fire Company won best appearance for Delaware fire apparatus.
- Collingdale, Pa. Fire Company won best appearance for an out-of-state fire company.

Hens fall

It was a tough week for the University of Delaware football team, which lost to lightly-regarded Rhode Island to start the 1988 season 0-2. Coach Tubby Raymond was none too pleased with his not-yet-Fighting Blue Hens, who helped Rhode Island snap a 12-game losing string. Delaware trudges back into action Saturday, traveling to the University of Richmond for yet another Yankee Conference scrap. See page 1b.

The cranks will be out in force during Hagley Museum and Gardens Family Day this weekend, watching their favorite ballists do battle. Cranks is the term given early-day baseball fans, and ballists are the players. Hagley will stage an old-fashioned ball game during the special event. See page 2c.

• A 19-year-old University of Delaware student was arrested last week after Newark Police charged that he assaulted two officers who tried to break up a party.

Matthew K. Shepard of Pearl River, N.Y., has been charged with two counts of second-degree assault, two counts of resisting arrest and underage consumption of alcohol.

According to police, officers Steve Fox and John Potts were attacked and injured when they responded to complaints of a large party Sept. 9 in the 600 block of Lehigh Road. The two officers were trying to arrest Shepard for underage consumption of alcohol when the alleged altercation took place.

Shepard fled the area following the altercation but was arrested last Thursday.

The two officers received minor injuries during the incident.

• Rhodes Pharmacy on Main Street, a Newark institution, is closed. Albert B. Grant Jr., owner, has sold the business and the store following a bout with kidney disease. The business has been sold to Happy Harry's, a drug store located several blocks east on Main Street, and the store, noted for its Gothic architecture and gargoyles, has been sold for use as offices and retail. The business was founded in the mid-19th century. Its namesake, George Rhodes, erected the current building in 1917. Grant had been owner since 1969.

• U.S. Senator Joseph R. Biden Jr. has introduced legislation that would enable the federal government to resume prosecution of corrupt state and local officials and white collar criminals.

The bill would overturn a June 1987 Supreme Court ruling that limited the ability of the federal government to prosecute such cases.

In McNally v. United States, the court ruled that the federal mail and wire fraud statutes protected only property and did not include "intangible rights" such as the right to honest government.

Biden, a Democrat, said the bill would correct what had been an "intolerable situation" during the past year.

"This bill will make it possible, once again, to prosecute and send to prison those public officials who corrupt their offices and betray the trust placed in them," Biden said. "This will restore the power of prosecutors to attack while collar crime involving bribes and kickbacks."

State seeks voice in county WRA

by Cathy Thomas

There may be some dramatic changes in store for the future operation of New Castle County's Water Resources Agency.

The Delaware Department of Natural Resources (DNREC) has expressed an interest in adding the state's voice to what has long been a New Castle County agency.

The Water Resources Agency (WRA) has operated since the early 1970s as a body of three governments, New Castle County, the city of Wilmington and the city of Newark. Primarily, WRA oversees the functions of the principal water suppliers in the county.

The county has been the largest contributor to WRA, supplying it with about $176,000 in operating funds and $95,000 in capital funds annually.

A proposal calling for DNREC to pick up the $176,000 operating expenditure is now before the governments involved in WRA.

In return for its contribution to WRA, the state would become a signatory and would have a vote in the WRA policy board.

WRA Administrator Bernard Dworsky is somewhat reluctant to see the state become involved in what has been a county organization.

"I still feel us (WRA) operating as an extension of local government is the best way to go," said Dworsky. "I'm leery of an arrangement that would tie us to a regulatory body."

Dworsky instead proposes the formation of a state Water Resources Development Authority, which would have the authority to raise revenues, develop and construct water projects.

Because land use decisions which affect water supplies are made at the local level, Dworsky feels WRA should remain a local government operation.

In a memo to Newark City Council, Newark Mayor William Redd has also expressed hesitancy about the state becoming involved in WRA. However, he said future concerns may necessitate state involvement.

"Federal funds for both counties and municipalities are diminishing drastically. This will increase our dependency on the state," said Redd in the memo. "WRA hopes to enter into agreements with Chester County, Pennsylvania and Cecil County, Maryland. These interstate agreements must obviously be made through state agencies."

The city of Newark has not taken any action on the proposal, awaiting New Castle County Council consideration of the proposal.

EPA: Water quality is local issue

DOVER — State and local governments must develop their own programs to protect groundwater supplies, according to a U.S. Environmental Protection Agency official.

"The implementation (of groundwater protection plans) lies at the state and local levels," said Stuart Kerzner, EPA groundwater protection chief, during a Delaware Nature Society water seminar here last week.

"The EPA will be there providing whatever funding we can and technical guidance, helping where we can," he said.

Kerzner said local governments are ultimately the ones that can protect groundwater.

"The federal and state governments can just take it so far. We clean up Superfund sites. We can even go so far as regulating underground storage tanks. But there are some things we cannot do such as septic tank management, land use zoning. Those have to be taken care of by the local municipalities."

Reauthorization of the Safe Drinking Water Act in 1986 established a nationwide program to encourage states to develop comprehensive programs to protect public water supply wells from contamination.

Under that act, the EPA provides leadership but has no strict regulations on groundwater protection programs.

"The state and local governments can come up with flexible programs that suit their needs," said Kerzner.

Encouraging groundwater protection is a program that differs from other EPA efforts in that it aims to prevent problems rather than correct existing situations.

"People don't react until there's a problem. It's too late," said Kerzner. "By the time they're doing something, the wells are already contaminated."

Groundwater protection plans are already in place in northern New Castle County. The local plans are used to guide other governments.

"The New Castle County Water Resources Authority has developed their own wellhead protection plan. It's excellent," said Kerzner. "They're by far the most progressive in our five-state region."

Rittenhouse land plan lauded

Newark City Council support of plans to add land to Rittenhouse Park is being praised by those who have pushed for the proposal.

"I'm sure glad it got support because I know there's community support," said State Senator James Neal, R-Newark.

Neal plans to submit a bill to the state legislature next year which would allow the state to sell the land to the city for the token price of $1.

Last week, Council voted to pursue purchase of the 32 acres of state-owned land along the Christina Parkway. The land, which would be left as open space, would serve as an addition to Rittenhouse Park.

Neal presented a similar proposal to the city several years ago, but there was little interest because of concern over high maintenance cost.

Councilman Ed Miller brought the matter to Council's attention again last spring. He has been pushing for acquisition of the land in order to ensure open space in the city.

"I think the first hurdle has been cleared," said Miller. "(When) we have it (the land), we have the use of it, we have control of it. You can't change it later to put in a subdivision."

Maintenance costs have remained a concern in the proposed purchase. If the city maintains the right-of-way along the Christina Parkway, costs may run anywhere from $10,000 to $15,000 during the first year.

"I think the value of the land, the value the people will get out of it, will far exceed the cost of maintenance," said Al Licata, chairman of Newark's Conservation Advisory Commission.

The state purchased the 32 acres of land from the Chrysler Corporation several years ago when the Christina Parkway was built. The new road separated the land from the main assembly plant, rendering it useless to Chrysler.

Much of the land lies in a floodplain so future development is not likely. However, there have been concerns that a developer would build on the land.

Before the land purchase can be finalized, there must be negotiations between the city and the Delaware Department of Transportation on maintenance of the right-of-way.

The legislature must also approve the sale. Actual purchase of the land may occur sometime in spring 1989.

Greater Newark traffic study delayed

Completion of a report recommending long-term solutions to Newark's traffic problems has been delayed about one month, and the document will not be finalized until October.

Larry Klepner, Delaware Department of Transportation systems planning manager, said the consulting firm conducting the Greater Newark Area Transportation Study required additional information in preparing the recommendations.

"We're still in the analysis stage and not ready to make the recommendations public," said Klepner.

The Boston consulting firm of Vanesse, Hangen and Brustlen has asked transportation officials to do more testing on several highways in the area. The testing should give the consultants a better indication as to what kind of long-term improvements will be needed.

Several short-term solutions to ease traffic flow around the city were recommended by the consultants in July. Those recommendations included the coordination of traffic signals and the formation of a Transportation Management Association to address traffic concerns.

The traffic study began about a year ago following citizen complaints about traffic flow in the Newark area.

• A fundraiser for Linda Forshey, the Republican candidate for the 11th Senatorial District, will be held 6:30-9:30 p.m. Friday, Sept. 30 aboard the Lady Christina.

• A victim's assistance office within the New Castle County Police Department has been proposed by Dennis Greenhouse, the Democratic candidate for county executive.

"At present, there is no such program at the county level," said Greenhouse, who currently serves as the Delaware state auditor. "Given the fact that county officers respond in probably the majority of cases of domestic violence, crimes against the elderly, assaults and sex crimes, to have a victim's assistance officer available would provide for immediate aid to people in need."

Greenhouse said the program will make available specially trained personnel who will visit the scene of a violent crime and will offer follow-up assistance to the victims.

"Sometimes intervention will be necessary, sometimes medical care or counseling are needed, sometimes victims have to be removed from the scene and will need shelter. The special officers will have the training and the resources to cope with these situations."

When crime victims need help in getting their life back in order, they can be referred to appropriate state agencies or private facilities according to Greenhouse.

"Whether they need long-term counseling, financial assistance or even help in locating someone to repair property damage, they should be able to call us if they don't know where else to turn."

Greenhouse said the program should be staffed at the operations level by uniformed personnel.

County election changes considered

by Cathy Thomas

New Castle County's election system is being scrutinized following problems in the Sept. 10 primary.

A clerical mistake made it appear that Samuel S. Beard won the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senate. A recount last week revealed that Lt. Gov. S.B. Woo had actually won the race by 81 votes.

"Fundamentally, our election process is in very good working order," said Michael Ratchford, chief of staff for Gov. Michael Castle. "The immediate focus here is to identify whatever problems we experienced in the recent primary."

Under the direction of Castle, Ratchford met earlier this week with Paul T. Hart, administrative director of the New Castle County elections department. The county elections department handles primary elections. The Delaware Elections Commission handles general elections.

Ratchford said the review of the county's election procedures would be informal. "We want to approach this in a very cooperative nature," said Ratchford.

Specific recommendations to improve the system might include automation of the election process, improvements in equipment and generating increased interest in poll workers.

Hart said his office has already reviewed ways to prevent the same mistakes from happening again in 1990. He called the mistake in this year's primary a "keyboarding error" in which 28 votes were called in for Beard but the figure 2,828 was entered.

If the election system were to be centralized, the state would take over primary elections and handle them as they do general elections. Hart feels that is not necessary.

"I feel like the local (elections) department is capable of rectifying the error," said Hart. "I feel that the local elections department ought to handle the reporting of the results."

Hart said his department has already planned for a new computer program, which would make it impossible to record more votes than there are voters in a district.

John Davis, state elections commissioner, said his department would be able to handle the primaries if necessary.

"We could do it (tabulate results) for the primaries," said Davis. "We've got 20 years of experience in tabulating results. We don't have to re-invent the wheel. We can do the job if that's what they (the legislature) wants to have done."

Davis said tabulating errors do not happen in general elections.

"We have auditors the night of the election checking our results. We have a team of approximately 30 auditors."

State Rep. William Oberle, R-Newark, believes the responsibility for primary elections should remain with the county.

However, Oberle said the primary is scheduled too close to the November general election, creating confusion for the election department.

"I think the problem is the last minute rush," said Oberle. "I just don't think it creates the sort of environment that lends itself to accuracy."

Oberle plans to propose legislation moving the primaries to June and scheduling them on a weekday when turnout might be higher.

Voter registration deadlines near

Just how many people will register to vote in the general election this fall will depend on how much interest political candidates can generate.

Paul Hart, administrative director for the New Castle County Elections Department, expects about 225,000 people to register for the upcoming election.

"As of Aug. 20, we had 209,996," said Hart. "It's down a little bit from what it was a couple of years ago."

In 1986, more than 230,000 people were registered to vote in the county.

For those people who want to vote in the general election, registration deadlines are nearing. "October 15 is the deadline to register (in person)," said Hart.

The county Department of Elections is in the Carvel State Office Building in Wilmington. Prospective voters should have some form of identification with their address on it when registering in person.

If going to the state office building is not convenient, the elections department will offer several mobile registration sites around the county during the next few weeks.

There will be a voter registration site Sunday, Sept. 25 at Newark Community Day.

Besides registering in person or at a mobile station, there is another option for someone who wants to register to vote. The whole process can be done by mail, but it must be done quickly. Registration applications must be postmarked no later than Oct. 1. Applications can be received by contacting the elections department.

Voters who want to cast absentee ballots in the Nov. 8 election must do so before noon on Nov. 7.

NEWS FILE

• A University of Delaware student was injured last week when she was struck by a car at Delaware Avenue and Main Street, Newark. Police said Melissa Goldstein of Oradell, N.J., was listed in fair condition Wednesday at Christiana Hospital.

According to police, two vehicles collided in the intersection and one of the vehicles spun around, striking Goldstein and pinning her against a fire hydrant.

Goldstein and a friend were walking on the sidewalk when the accident happened. Her friend was not injured.

• The body of a woman was discovered floating in the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal west of the Summit Bridge Tuesday, according to State Police.

The body of a white female was found about 10 a.m. Tuesday morning less than a mile west of Del. 896. The woman is described as 20 to 35 years old, 5 feet, 4 inches tall, 116 pounds with brown hair.

The state medical examiner responded to the scene and the body was turned over to his office for identification and to determine the cause of death.

• Volunteers are now being sought by the Delaware Chapter of the American Red Cross to join the Disaster Action Team.

The Disaster Action Team provides aid to disaster victims and workers in the event of a major disaster in New Castle County.

The Red Cross provides immediate urgent needs like shelter, food, clothing, first aid and other personal services.

Free training is provided for the volunteers. For more information contact Red Cross Emergency Services at 656-6620.

• Delaware Crime Stoppers is asking for help in locating a man involved in a March robbery.

Just before 5 a.m. Friday, March 25, a man entered the Cumberland Farms store on West Newport Pike, Wilmington. The man threatened the store clerk and banged on the counter with a hatchet and yelled, "Give me all your money." He fled the store with a small amount of currency.

He is described as a black male in his early 20s, of light complexion with an Afro-style haircut and a mustache.

He is also believed responsible for the robbery of the Admiral's Inn on Foulk Road in January and the Cumberland Farms store on Miller Road in February.

Persons with information should call 1-800-TIP-3333 inside Delaware or 302-674-8226 outside Delaware.

The Delaware Symphony Orchestra performs in Mitchell Hall on the University of Delaware campus Friday as part of a special event opening the University's musical season. The concert, which featured University faculty members, was followed by an ice cream social on the Mall.

University plans hearing on its alcohol policies

In the wake of Brian Mulrooney's death, the University of Delaware will host a discussion of its policy on alcohol use by students.

The meeting will be held at 2 p.m. Monday, Oct. 3 in the Rodney Room of the University's Perkins Student Center on Academy Street.

It will be sponsored by the Ad Hoc Committee on Student Use of Alcohol, which was formed to study the effectiveness of the University's alcohol policy.

University Trustee Charles E. Welch, who chairs the committee, said the University's policy is a "good, effective one."

"The purpose of this committee is to try to make it better," said Welch.

Trustee J. Bruce Bredin appointed members to the committee in June. The committee has already heard testimony from experts in the field of alcohol abuse.

The committee is expected to give a final report and possible recommendations for policy changes at the Trustees meeting in December.

"The recent incident involving the death of Brian H. Mulrooney Jr. in Newark is a matter of concern to the committee," said Welch.

Welch noted, however, that Mulrooney was "a continuing education student registered for two classes and was living with his parents. The incident occurred before the semester had begun at an off-campus location where the University has no jurisdiction."

Whittington named to UD position

Ronald F. Whittington, a University of Delaware alumnus and a member of the professional staff since 1979, has been named acting Affirmative Action officer at the University, effective immediately, according to University President Russel C. Jones.

Whittington, who will report directly to the president, will take a leave from his current position as director of cooperative education and assistant to the dean of the College of Business and Economics.

As acting Affirmative Action officer, Whittington will assist in improving the diversity of racial and cultural experiences on the campus and will oversee the implementation of the University's Affirmative Action plan, President Jones said.

He will work closely with Employee Relations and the Office of the Provost on effective personnel recruitment programs and on monitoring search committee procedures.

A national search for the position is expected to take about six months, lasting into the spring, the president said. The deadline for applications is Sept. 30. A screening committee for applicants will be appointed.

In the College of Business and Economics, Whittington works closely with students, faculty and business and industry, overseeing the placement of students in the private sector to gain career experience. He joined the staff there in 1985.

From 1979-85, he was assistant director of admissions at the University, working to attract students from across the country to the University.

Whittington, who holds a master's degree in business from Central Michigan University, was athletic director for the Newark School District for a year before joining the University staff.

He also has held positions at Maclary Elementary School in Newark, and, during four years spent in the Virgin Islands, at St. Croix Country Day School. Before that, he was administrative assistant and assistant to the manager of employee relations at Martin Marrietta Aluminum Corp. in St. Croix.

Whittington is a member of the National Association of Admissions Officers and Counselors, the Cooperative Education Association and the National Association for Personnel Administrators.

OPINION

EDITORIALS

UD must toughen
its alcohol policies

The University of Delaware trustees no doubt see in their institution a pillar of academia. And with good cause. The University offers excellent programs in a variety of areas, from engineering to marine studies, and has earned national recognition for its research efforts.

There is another University of Delaware, however. It is the University as seen by all too many students, an institution the trustees would find more akin to the mythical Faber College of "Animal House" fame than to, say, Harvard or Yale.

For many students, the University is a "party school" first and foremost.

That is something trustees and administrators alike must keep in mind when dealing with alcohol and drug abuse on and off campus.

All too often, alcohol and drugs are poisoning the relationship between the University and the Newark community. Many a weekend, students living in off-campus housing become sotted, noisy and abusive, in lesser cases disturbing neighbors and in more serious ones assaulting police.

Most recently, a young University student died as the result of drinking more alcohol than his body could tolerate.

It is a sad situation, and a serious one.

And it is not a situation the trustees can afford to take lightly because the reputation of the University and its relationship with the community are clearly at stake.

The trustees, through the administration, must take a hard line on alcohol and drug-related problems caused by students.

The Olympic spirit lives

It is hard to watch the opening ceremonies of the Olympic Games without being deeply moved.

As the torch passes from hand to hand, as the doves of peace are released, as the flame is lit, the Olympics speak to us of the best of human nature.

They speak to us of what we could be, of what we should be. They speak to us of friendship, of dedication, of courage, of our humanity.

Sometimes, it is true, they speak to us through the muffling effect of human misdeeds.

Some athletes cheat, using drugs to enhance their performances. Some governments seek to use the Games for purposes of propaganda, attempting to cover their own faults and frailties with a veneer of gold, or silver or bronze.

But still, through it all, the flame lit by Baron Pierre de

by Neil Thomas

POSTSCRIPT

Coubertin still shines. Through amateurism and shamateurism, professionalism, propaganda and political boycott, the ideals of the Olympics remain clear to our hearts if not always our minds.

Athletes and nations which seek to circumvent those ideals only tarnish themselves, not the Games.

No, the call of de Coubertin is too noble to be ignored. He urged us all to run faster, to jump higher, to be stronger, to be better people and to compete in a spirit of goodwill.

What could be more basic? What could be more beautiful?

This week we were all treated to a spectacular show of courage when diver Greg Louganis cracked his head on the springboard, took four stitches then kept on diving.

He not only continued but went on to win the gold medal.

In fact, the ever-humble Louganis went on the air to apologize to viewers who had to watch the incident.

Speaking of the airwaves, NBC-TV is to be congratulated for its excellent coverage of the Olympics, coverage which is much more in keeping with the spirit of the Games than that provided in the past by ABC.

ABC has always been long on boosterism, if not outright jingoism. Its narrow focus on United States athletes has often been to the exclusion of the hundreds of other compelling stories of athletes of other nations. There are, after all, a thousand stories in the Olympic Village.

Here's three cheers for the Olympics, for champions like Louganis, and also for NBC's coverage.

BIDEN REPORT

It's good to be back

It's good to be back! After recovering from surgery, I am happy to be back at work full-time representing the people of Delaware in the United States Senate.

My doctors have confirmed that I have no further health problems whatsoever, and there are no restrictions on my activity or limitations on my ability to serve our State. The good news is that I can do anything I did before. The bad news is that I can't do anything better.

The doctors said that I came through these last months — in their words — "unscathed." I came through unscathed, but not ungrateful; unscathed, but not unaffected by what happened. Hopefully, I am a little bit stronger, a little bit tougher and a little bit wiser.

I've learned that one of the great things that occurs difficult times is that people rally around. I am especially grateful to my friends here in Delaware who rallied around when things got tough. It has been a long haul for me and my family, but it would have been much tougher without the support and understanding of the people at home.

If you don't love them, we'll buy them back.

Happy Harry's offers free ID

Vital statistics are essential to finding missing children, and Happy Harry Discount Drugs has announced a new program to help parents keep such information on hand.

"We will photograph, fingerprint, weigh, measure and record other pertinent data about the child that a parent gives us," said Alan Levin, Happy Harry president, during a press conference last week at the company's Newark headquarters.

"At the conclusion of all this," Levin continued, "we will give the parent a laminated ID card of their child that we hope they will carry with them at all times."

The card can be used to provide necessary information to authorities should the child be missing.

Levin said the program is targeted at children three years of age and older.

The identification process will take place over the next few weeks at the various Happy Harry stores. Levin expects about 10,000 children to receive the cards.

The cards are free, but a parent or guardian must be present when information for the card is compiled.

Council to take up noise ordinance

Newark Police will be able to crack down on noise violators under a proposal now before City Council.

Council is expected to approve amendments to toughen the current noise ordinance during its meeting Monday night.

Police Chief William Hogan said the amendments make the ordinance easier for officers to enforce.

Hogan has proposed a no-warning policy between the hours of 9 p.m. and 7 a.m. when officers can ticket noise violators. Currently, officers must give violators verbal warnings until 11 p.m.

Officers are also being encouraged to use the "reasonable man standard" rather than relying on noise meters to determine if a violation has occurred.

The amendments create a uniform time in which all noise violations are prohibited. Right now, construction noise is prohibited at different times than other types of noise. Hogan said the uniform time will be easier for officers to remember while on duty.

Council members have received several complaints from residents about noise from loud parties or construction. The police department's special operations unit has been concentrating on loud parties and other noise violations in the neighborhoods.

FEST

talents and some will sell their creations. In the bazaar area, unique collectibles will be sold.

A health fair will be part of the celebration this year. A three-mile walk will begin at 1 p.m. Sunday. There will also be several experts talking about health-related issues.

Children will find a lot to interest them with an artist's corner, a potter's wheel, carnival games and a pie-eating contest.

Ethnic dishes, sandwiches and desserts will be sold all day long.

Last year, Community Day had to be postponed for a week because of rain. Officials are hoping that doesn't happen this year, but announcements will be made on local radio stations if bad weather causes a postponement.

Community Day festivities begin at 10 a.m. and continue until 5 p.m.

UPS

Christiana Fire Company and state environmental officials responded to the scene later in the morning. A private company cleaned up the spill.

"The materials, the broken containers and the package were placed in a sealed drum and taken outside," said Small.

The building was ventilated and workers were allowed to re-enter the warehouse late in the day.

There has been no decision as to whether there will be a follow-up investigation of the spill.

"It still isn't real clear as to how the containers were broken," said Small. "There is some question if the amount of pyridine was allowable (for shipping) under federal regulations. That's one of the questions that needs to be clarified. We may be pursuing that."

- Ten young adults from Northern Ireland arrived in Wilmington earlier this month to serve as volunteers at local social service agencies.
- They are part of Volunteer Service Exchange International, a two-way exchange program run jointly by Pacem in Terris in Wilmington and the Phoenix Community Center in Lurgan, Northern Ireland.
- The Northern Irish adults are reciprocating the volunteer service that a group of eight Americans performed in Lurgan earlier this summer.
- Delaware Congressman Tom Carper has been named a "champion" of clean air by the Sierra Club for his efforts to pass a clean air bill during the closing days of the 100th Congress.
- Carper and other House colleagues are pushing for swift action on five clean air problems including acid rain, ozone depletion, the greenhouse effect, airborne toxics and carbon monoxide and ozone nonattainment.
- New Castle and Kent Counties are currently exceeding federal ozone level standards. Wilmington's highest ozone reading in 1988 so far was .21 parts per million, 75 percent higher than the national standard of .12 parts per million.

Rhode Island stuns UD in 23-17 upset

by David Woolman

The Rhode Island Rams once again found the Delaware football team a mark for a win, defeating the hapless Hens 23-17 at Delaware Stadium Saturday. Delaware was the last team the Rams defeated before going on a 12-game losing streak.

It was less of an improvement in Rhode Island's play than a disappointing performance by the Hens that was the root cause of the outcome, as well as the root cause of coach Tubby Raymond's consternation.

"I can summerize by saying we were just awful, just horrendous," said Raymond. "Our offense was inadequate today. We didn't execute well. (Quarterback David) Sierier didn't take control and make the plays when he needed to. We showed our greatest ineptness when we had pressure on us and we had to come up with the big play, and we made negative plays.

"I expected to move the ball, and I expected to move the ball on the ground and inside, and we were unable to do that. We had to go outside, and we made a few plays, but not enough to accomplish anything.

"We didn't block well enough. I thought our line would be better than it is. It's a very sad thing to have worked as hard as we have at something and feel inept at what we are doing."

Though the Hens showed early on that they could not implement the running game, and thus control the ball in traditional Delaware fashion, they performed somewhat effectively at the start. Delaware drove 50 yards after the opening kick before a penalty stalled the drive. Don O'Brien's 38-yard field goal attempt was wide.

Delaware's defense caused the first score, as lineman Mike Renna sacked Ram quarterback Steve Monoco who coughed up the football. Delaware lineman Mike Miller recovered in the endzone for the touchdown.

Rhode Island drove the ball 33 yards on its next possession, and settled for a field goal to make the score 7-3.

Renna and Miller combined again to sack Monoco and recover a fumble, which once again led to a score. Delaware got possession of the ball on the Rhode Island 45 yard line, and drove 28 yards to set up a 34 yard field goal by O'Brien.

Rhode Island tied the score on their next possession with a 64

Spartans rebound for win

Just about the only thing that can bring a team back from an 18 point deficit at the half is a remarkable amount of confidence. St. Mark's High School, losing 21-3 to Delcastle at the half, won Saturday morning's game 23-21.

"They're really a group that believes in themselves," said St. Mark's coach Jack Smiley. "It would have been easy to go through the motions the second half, but that's just not in their nature."

"We felt that if we could tighten up defensively, we could move the ball. We thought we had a physical advantage that we could use."

Delcastle used its passing game to score three touchdowns

Concord powers past St. Mark's

The St. Mark's High School volleyball team got off to a slow start in last Wednesday's match with Blue Hen Conference Flight A power Concord and paid dearly for it.

After falling 3-15 in the first set, the Spartans acquitted themselves quite well and took the second 15-7 before losing 9-15 in the deciding third set.

"This year, our big trouble has been getting started the first game," said St. Mark's coach Dave Stover. "Almost every scrimmage we played in, we lost the first game. In the opening game against Brandywine, we had to come back in the first game."

"We just don't get off to good starts. I don't know why."

The first game lasted one rotation, with St. Mark's staying in the game early but being quickly disposed of with service runs by Concord's Jill Graber, Eleni Doukakis and Jocelyn Robbins. Passing, particularly on service return, was the downfall of the Spartans, among other things.

"We were overly aggressive on defense," said Stover. "People were trying to play other people's positions and didn't

Riders nip spirited 'Jackets

by David Woolman

Newark High School had eight points and 68 yards to make up with 3:43 to go. Now it was Caesar Rodney's turn to make critical errors, just as Newark had for the previous 45 minutes of the game, played under the lights Friday night at Hoffman Stadium.

With a little help from the favored downstate team and fine execution of the two minute drill, the Yellowjackets made up 67 of those yards. But in the end, Bill Dilenno's diving catch of Rob Callahan's hurried pass left him one yard short of the endzone as time ran out. Caesar Rodney won 18-10.

"I'm very proud of their effort," said Newark coach Butch Simpson. "I came into the game very hesitant and anxious about what our effort would be. I have nothing but pride in that."

"As long as we kept our hearts in, I knew we could play with them," said Dilenno, a fullback and defensive back. "We play more experienced than we really are. Everyone gave it their best try."

Newark was in the game, scoring on its first drive after Tony Hall intercepted a Caesar Rodney pass on the Riders' 39 yard line.

It took seven plays, runs by halfbacks Ron Jones and Steve Thompson and a pass reception by Tony Soligo to reach the six yard line.

Quarterback Rob Callahan then was dropped for a three yard loss while scrambling on third and five, and Dave Gwinn kicked a 25-yard field goal to give Newark a 3-0 lead seven minutes into the game.

The Riders drove 58 yards on their next possession to the Newark 18 yard line before Dilenno intercepted a pass on the eight yard line.

Newark moved the ball somewhat effectively from deep in their own territory, but every gain seemed to be matched by a penalty, and the 'Jackets finally had to punt from inside their own 10 yard line. CR took over on the Newark 42, and drove to the four yard line before stalling, a Dilenno tackle saving a touchdown along the way.

CR's Pete Angstadt kicked a 21-yard field goal to tie the game with 2:30 left in the half.

A penalty killed Newark's subsequent drive, but the Yellowjackets picked up the ball at midfield on a fumble to have one more chance in the half. On fourth down with seconds remaining, Callahan found Dilenno open on a deep slant. Dilenno broke towards the sideline and was knocked out of bounds by Brian Bukevich on the five yard line to end the half.

Two penalties stymied Newark's first possession in the second half. The Riders took over on their 36 yard line, and three plays later halfback Mike Clark ran off tackle right, and outran Dilenno while skimming the sideline 66 yards for the score. Anthony Dubolino's point after attempt was good to give Caesar Rodney a 10-3 lead with 7:58 remaining in the third quarter.

Newark drove 58 yards on nine plays to reach the CR 17 yard line on the next drive. On third and two, Callahan rolled and scrambled left before finding Ken Jackson wide open in the right corner of the endzone. Gwinn kicked the extra point to

St. Mark's blanks William Penn, 6-0

Despite a great loss of players to graduation, there is a definite similarity between the 1988 St. Mark's High School soccer team and that which won the 1987 state title — the easier the situation, the harder they make it for themselves.

Which is not to say that the Spartans were not unimpressive in their 6-0 victory over William Penn last Friday. They could do little better than the opening of the game, in which they scored two quick goals and rarely relinquished possession. But thereafter, even given a man up situation, they could not maintain that dominance, which bothered coach Tom DeMatteis.

"We let down," said DeMatteis. "This is the third time since I've been coach that's happened to us, as you might recall the Christiana game last year. As soon as we get up a man, for some reason we relax, no matter how much they hear from me, no matter how much they say to each other. We scored as many goals against them even as we did a man up."

"I think we should have dominated more. We were coming off a tough opener against the top team in the state right

Dickinson jolts Glasgow

Rams score 40 points, hand Dragons season-opening loss

The Dickinson High School football team gave David Scott a rather rude welcome into the state's head coaching ranks Saturday morning, defeating his Glasgow team 40-14 at Dickinson.

"That's a good football team out there," said Scott of Dickinson. "They have a lot of speed, and matched up with us really well, and created the problems we thought they would."

Dickinson nullified Glasgow's main asset, speed, and took advantage of the relatively small, young and inexperienced front lines fielded by the Dragons on both offense and defense.

The Rams ran to the inside productively, while preventing the Dragons from doing the same.

"We knew we'd be in for a fight there," said Scott. "We thought our backers would do a little better job than they did."

"The thing we didn't think we had to worry about was our defense. I guess we go back to the drawing board and really work on that."

"But overall defensively, we weren't that upset. They really only took the ball downfield once."

Stan Szczepanek set the tone for the day by taking the opening kickoff 70 yards to the Glasgow nine, setting up Dickinson's first score. The Rams drove 66 yards on their next possession to score and take a 14 point lead nine minutes into the game.

Glasgow put together a drive of their own on the next possession, moving 84 yards, mostly through the efforts of tailback Pat Williams (93 yards total rushing). A 21-yard pass from Bob Aehart to Pat's brother Paul helped keep the drive going, and Paul's reception in the corner of the endzone cut the Dickinson lead to seven, after Aehart's conversion.

Dickinson scored twice in the second quarter, on a 55-yard drive and a 24-yard drive, the latter set up by a Paul Caldwell interception. Paul Williams blocked the extra point on the latter, and the Rams took a 27-7 lead into halftime.

Glasgow earned seven first downs in the second half, but turnovers prevented the Dragons from cashing in, and provided Dickinson with scoring opportunities. The Rams needed only a 23 and a 16 yard drive to score their two second half touchdowns.

Glasgow scored their last touchdown on a 48 yard drive late in the game. Pat Williams' 21-yard run after cutting against the grain of the play keyed the score.

Williams, suffering from a lingering groin pull, did not expect to be made the keystone of the offense that afternoon.

"I didn't know they were going to give me the ball that much, because I didn't practice the past two days," said the junior tailback. "They came to me, and I just kept going. If I have to, I'll keep right on doing it."

"We didn't play much defense, that's what killed our offense. If we could have stopped their offense from driving like they did and get the ball on offense...we were driving the ball pretty well...."

"We need the big play. We can drive the ball, but if we don't get the points...."

"The kickoff really killed us," said Scott. "You come out in your first game ready to play, and they're in your endzone already. We're not fielding kicks, and we're not covering kicks. We really have to go back to the drawing board with the special teams and the offensive line."

"We ran the option a lot better than I thought we would. Bobby Aehart ran the ball well. We need to develop an inside game. We need some linemen who can block and open up holes."

"I thought Paul (Williams) ran well at the beginning of the second half. We really worked on the line at halftime, to try to get them to get a little pride."

"I saw some real positives out there, but there's a lot of negatives that outweigh them. We're disappointed. We thought we'd do a lot better today."

Elks top Christiana, 35-14

The Christiana High School football team simply had a bad first half and never fully recovered last week in Elkton, Md., losing to the Golden Elks 35-14.

"We played very unemotionally in the first half, and we made some major turnovers," said Christiana coach Marty Cross. "I think we were a little mentally flat in the first half because of last week's emotional game (a 7-0 loss to St. Mark's)."

Christiana turned the ball over three times in the first half. The first two turnovers were on the Vikings' first drives, and led to Elkton touchdowns. The Elks never had to drive more than 30 yards to score any of their four first half touchdowns.

Christiana played significantly better in the second half, scoring on their first two possessions, with drives of 47 and 78 yards.

Christiana produced 273 yards of total offense, with quarterback Adam Weber completing 13 of 24 passes for 173 yards. Cross also credited linebacker Harry Metcalf and the offensive line with fine performances.

"The bottom line is we're not as good as all the pre-season hoopla had us, nor are we as bad as the score might indicate," said Cross. "We just have to put four quarters together, and we can play with anybody."

Christiana travels to Dover Friday evening to play the Senators.

St. Mark's rips Caesar Rodney, 3-1

The Spartans' Julie Lygate pushes ball upfield against Caesar Rodney.

St. Mark's High School had a little trouble playing defense against Caesar Rodney in their non-conference field hockey match Thursday, but in the end it did not matter because the Spartan offense controlled the ball much of the game en route to a 3-1 victory.

"This was the kind of game that I perceived us having this season," said St. Mark's coach Bill Eichenger. "We're much stronger offensively than last year, and a little younger on defense. A few times we scrambled on defensive situations, but we recovered with some good goal tending (from Colleen Geisen). We expect a strong offensive performance this year."

"We are as strong as we've been in a long time, four across (Monica Brubaker and Jen Ross at wing, and Krista Giuliani and Marianne Harper inside), and we have a couple of people who can come off the bench."

One Spartan problem early on in the game was the link, which had a difficult time moving the ball up to attack; four of the five midfield players are new to the varsity. As a result, the action centered around both goals in the first half, though neither team was blessed with many clear scoring opportunities.

St. Mark's took advantage of one of the first, which came from the inability of Caesar Rodney to clear the ball after a penalty corner. Harper knocked one in from six feet off a rebound 6:45 into the game to give the Spartans the lead.

Ross scored the first of her two goals four minutes later, also knocking in a rebound from close range, to give St. Mark's a 2-0 lead they took into halftime. The offense took some responsibility for the link's problems in the first half.

"Sometimes we have a lack of communication as to whether they should come up to the ball, or we should cut back," said Harper. The problem grew less as the game went on.

"The more we were together, the more our confidence grew," said Ross.

"Especially after the first goal," said Giuliani. "Then everything really started working and we all started hustling."

St. Mark's controlled the ball masterfully for the first 20 minutes of the second half, not scoring until Ross put in a rebound off a breakaway with 12 minutes remaining but giving the Riders little chance to attack.

The Caesar Rodney score came on a penalty stroke by Caroline Nichols at 22:00. Geisen made a leg save on the shot, but moved before the stroke was taken, and the Riders were credited with the goal, marring an otherwise superlative game in the net for the senior.

CR seemed to find its stride belatedly, keeping the ball in St.

Mark's circle for the better part of the last eight minutes, but they failed to score, or worry Eichenger.

"We had some subs in there at the time. They put some pressure on us, but with the amount of time left and a two goal cushion, we weren't too worried. We have confidence in everyone on the team."

"They were a lot tougher last year," said Ross. "Last year, we beat them in double overtime."

"We were mentally prepared for a better team," said Harper. That might have also had something to do with the Spartans' opening day loss to Kennett Square, Pa. earlier in the week.

"We played this well in our first game against Kennett, but they were a much stronger team," said Eichenger.

In the CR game, two goals came from a somewhat unexpected source in Ross, but that served to exemplify the Spartan style of play.

"I usually don't score at all," admitted Ross. "I usually bring the ball up."

"It doesn't matter who scores," said Giuliani. "We work to get anybody to put it in."

Caravel downs Perryville, 22-13

Caravel Academy football coach Larry Cyle was a little worried going into Friday night's game against Perryville, Md., what with the Bucs' first home night game ever to put his team on edge and last week's blowout victory to make them complacent.

And then Perryville struck first, scoring on a touchdown set up by an interception on the first Cavavel drive. It could have gotten as bad as Cyle imagined, but it didn't, and the Bucs won 22-13.

"There were a lot of different feelings on opening night," said Cyle. "We were real excited about opening night under the lights."

Then came the first score. "We had to grow up, or wake up fast. It was nice to see that we settled down to play a solid football game."

Broderick Barnhart scored the first Caravel points on a safety, and quarterback Macadoo Harrison-Dixon (6-11, 122 yards) hit Shawn Nesbit for three touchdown passes, two in the second quarter and one in the last. Halfback Derek Shaw ran for 202 yards on 19 carries.

Caravel racked up over 500 yards of total offense, while holding Perryville to less than 100 yards. Critical penalties totaling 80 yards kept the score as close as it was.

"I'm just going to hope that the mood and the excitement of the night had something to do with it. I'm hoping we shake it off next time."

"I'm very pleased up to this point. The kids have confidence and they're playing well."

The Bucs get a week off, and then host Perkiomen and Oxford.

Hodgson outscores Richardson, 44-32

Hodgson Vocational-Technical School rebounded from last week's shutout loss with an offensive barrage to defeat Colonel Richardson 44-32 in a game played at Delcastle High School Saturday afternoon. The win was the fourth varsity victory in the history of the program, and the third over Colonel Richardson.

"We had some offense, but we didn't have much defense," said Hodgson coach Bill Billings. "They were a little better than they were last year, but so were we."

Billings said his team executed well while scoring a school-high six touchdowns. Quarterback-defensive back

Wayne Wilson ran back a kickoff and an interception for touchdowns, and threw for another, to Eric Needham.

Halfback Lamont Murray ran for two touchdowns, and halfback Kabana Perkins ran in the other one.

"Lamont Murray and Wayne Wilson played great on both offense and defense," said Billings. "They came back this year in great condition."

"We had some good practices this week on offense. We're going to have to get better on defense if we're going to improve. We're going to work on it."

Hodgson plays at Perryville Saturday at 2 p.m.

Gene Lowe creates power for thousands of homes and a home for thousands of fish.

Gene Lowe and his co-workers at the Delmarva Power plant in Vienna, Maryland produce electricity for thousands of homes. But on their lunch hour they're involved in a different kind of production. They're helping to restore the Striped Bass population by breeding them right at the plant and releasing them into the Nanticoke River.

Gene's been fishing the river since he was a boy. So he took a personal interest when Delmarva Power helped the Delmarva Ecological Laboratory set up a shore side spawning facility. Concerned about the declining Striped Bass population, Gene and his plant buddy Ed Larmore suggested building an on-site breeding pond for the fish to grow in. In just three years, Gene, Ed and other Delmarva Power volunteers, have helped raise over 42,000 fish to restock the Chesapeake Bay.

Conserving our ecology is just one way Delmarva Power people like Gene are working to make life better for all of us today and tomorrow. We're also building new power plants and finding other ways to meet your growing energy needs. Because the Delmarva Peninsula is more than where Gene works. It's the special place he calls home.

looking for them to come out with as much intensity as they had against Tower Hill, but I don't know if that was there."

Center Mike McFarland headed in a pass from right halfback Kevin Heitzenroder at 2:44 to give St. Mark's the lead, and Heitzenroder kicked in a pass from McFarland 45 seconds later, for his first varsity goal.

William Penn could never mount an attack in the first half and when key player Andrew Jones was ejected halfway through for abusive language, they lost all chance.

St. Mark's left halfback Kyle Mayhew put one in from the top of the box at 26:11 and McFarland scored on a breakaway, assisted by Doug Deveney and Nick Papanicholas, at 38:59 to give the Spartans a 4-0 lead going into the half.

McFarland completed his hat trick 14 seconds into the second half, stealing the ball on the kickoff and bringing it straight down for the score. Deveney completed the scoring with an unassisted goal at 11:00.

Penn took advantage of the sagging Spartans to mount some attacks within the box, but there were few serious threats. Scott Vann took over for Mike Manelski halfway through in goal to share in the shutout. They had a combined five saves.

"It feels better, for me, that I can just sit back there, let the defense do the work, and I'm just there to help and just point," said Manelski, who had a shutout for the varsity last year as the third string goalie. "Wednesday, I had a lot to do. It had its advantages. It gave them the feeling that they had a keeper back there."

McFarland has stepped into the role of offensive leader with little problem, and should build a reputation of his own if he continues that level of play.

"I didn't expect it, but I did want them to look for me," said McFarland of his role. "I enjoy that."

"I did expect that from him," said DeMatteis. "He's our lone returning All-Stater, and while I tell everybody we can't depend on Mike for everything, they naturally look for him. He did a good job."

Taken as a whole, this week has given DeMatteis a good look as his team, its strengths as well as what it needs to work on.

"We realize that we did a pretty good job against Tower Hill, particularly defensively," said DeMatteis. "They scored on two set pieces (indirect kicks).

"We did do some things better (against William Penn) then we did against Tower Hill, but we still need to do them a lot better as the season progresses. It's just a matter of playing together and getting confidence in each other. Things will come together."

Janicki. "I wanted the responsibility to try and pick everybody up."

The second game featured an entirely different performance by the Spartans, who passed more than enough to show off the hitters. Mia Papas and Katie Lindsay each had runs of five on serve to put St. Mark's up 10-2. Alison Fry ran off three points before Graber put Concord back in with a run of five. Danielle O'Brien served two more points for the win, 15-7.

Sue Thursby (five kills total) and Julie Orpneck (eight kills) each had three kills in the game, as Katie Lindsay (six kills) and Monica Williams each pitched in two for a well-rounded attack.

Jennifer Outten and Jerelyn Lawson combined to give Concord a 7-0 early lead in the third game. St. Mark's continued to fight, and serve alternated between the teams. Lindsay ran off five points to bring the Spartans within three, at 8-11, but service failures killed off any hopes of a St. Mark's rally and Concord won the deciding game 15-9.

"Last year, our biggest trouble was missing serves," said Stover. "This year, we're serving much better percentage-wise but we missed first serves in the third game and that dug us in a hole. I think if we had gotten those serves in, we would have won."

"We're a lot better serving," said Janicki, "but it's still not where it has to be. We have to serve a lot better, and not get down on ourselves. We haven't really worked together long. It will come along."

"I told my kids they did a couple of things well, and never gave up," said Stover. "Another thing we did better was hitting. The Brandywine game, we only had eight or nine kills."

"Jhlie Orpneck played an outstanding game hitting (hitting all 25 spike attempts cleanly, for eight kills). She has extremely good form for a young player."

Outside of starting better and passing better, Stover can think of little his team needs to improve. Those are not minor tasks, but neither is taking Concord to three games.

tie the game with two minutes remaining in the third quarter.

Caesar Rodney summarily marched right back up field, driving 68 yards in nine plays to score, utilizing the skills of halfback Mike Clark and fullback James Mickens on the ground. The snap for the point after was mishandled, but Dubolino picked up the ball and ran it in for a two point conversion, to make the score 18-10 with 10 minutes remaining.

Dilenno received the kickoff, cut back and forth looking for room, broke free, stumbled, kept going, and was slowed down by the last defender just long enough to be caught on the CR 36 yard line after a 44 yard run.

The Yellowjackets used a trick play, a short pass from Callahan to Siligo who pitched to trailer Jones, to pick up 18 yards and get the drive moving.

However, the next trick play, with third and nine on the 10 yard line, backfired. Jones took a pitchout and threw an interception on a option pass play. Caesar Rodney had the ball on their own twenty with 6:30 to play, but Newark forced a punt, and took over on their own 32 with 3:43 remaining.

After two failed running plays, the 'Jackets went right to the two minute drill and obtained immediate success, with Dilenno receiving a ball for a 20 yard gain, and Siligo catching one for 11 yards. A procedure penalty wiped out another Dilenno reception, but the next play found Dilenno ripping the ball out a defender's hands for an eight yard reception. An incomplete pass brought Newark to third and seven with 41 seconds remaining.

Bucevitz picked off the next pass, but it was called pass interference, and Newark had the ball on the 20 yard line with 33 seconds remaining.

Dilenno caught an out pass but fumbled, with Angstadt running the ball to the CR 30 yard line. A roughing the passer penalty put the ball on the 10 yard line for the Yellowjackets with 14 seconds remaining.

Callahan was sacked on the next play, leaving Newark with eight seconds and 19 yards to go. Callahan then scrambled and finally found Dilenno open on a crossing pattern, but Dilenno had to dive for the ball, and landed on the one yard line when time ran out.

"The penalties killed us," said Simpson. "That hurt us in the first half. We also had bad field position in the first half. We had our backs to the wall, but I'm proud of the fact that we didn't pack it in early."

"They (Caesar Rodney) did exactly what we felt they were good at doing, and they did it to us no matter how much we tried to prepare for it. We got beat by some of the things we hoped to defend."

On the positive side, Callahan was 10 for 16 for 181 yards passing, with Dilenno receiving for 92 of those yards. Callahan played the final quarter in a bit of a daze from a mild concussion, which makes his performance on the final drive that much more impressive.

"I think Callahan is as consistently good a quarterback as I could ask for, and he can do numerous things," said Simpson. "He can run the option, and he can throw the ball. He's very bright man on the field."

"He's so smart on the field it's incredible," said Dilenno. "He's a competitor, and I love him for it."

"Tonight, we played with our hearts," said Simpson. "Hopefully, we'll play with our hearts again. If we do, we'll get some nice things to happen."

"It was the best house for the money in the area!"

"So we grabbed it. We were the first on the block to move in, but the neighborhood was soon full of friendly people who know a good thing when they see it."

"Since I work in real estate, we were able to watch everything that came on the market. We wanted plenty of living space, including a large kitchen and a room for an office. Country Hills gave us all this and more."

"Come join us — you'll be glad you did!"

"The price range was very comfortable too — it was by far the best value we saw. And since the area's growing, we know that the value of our home will appreciate strongly as well. We're living our investment — and loving it!"

Come join us and discover for yourself the tremendous benefits of owning a single family, semi-detached home. Two exciting, spacious floorplans are available, with standard features including 2½ baths, two car garages, cathedral-style ceilings, first floor master bedroom suites, large walk-in closets and much more — all from only $119,700.

For your convenience, our Sales Center is open 7 days a week — Sat. & Sun. 12-5 pm, Mon-Fri 1-6 pm. Call Country Hills 731-1402.

HENS

yard drive keyed by an 18-yard run and a 22-yard pass reception by fullback Tony Lowe.

Gil Knight brought the Hens right back by taking the kickoff to the Ram 25 yard line. Five plays later, fullback Tim Healy carried the ball 13 yards up the middle for the score.

Rhode Island subsequently drove 38 yards to set up a 46 yard field goal by Chris Cassara, which ended the half, leaving Delaware with a 17-13 lead.

Neither team could maintain drives in the third quarter, with the Rams scoring 11 minutes in, after Sierer threw an interception in Delaware territory. Rhode Island scored once more in the fourth quarter, with Cassara kicking a field goal after a 69 yard, time eating drive. The Rams led 23-17 with 2:27 remaining.

Delaware got as far as the Ram 42 yard line before Sierer threw another interception. Rhode Island sat on the ball for 1:15 for the win.

The Rams' Chris Poirer helped his team gain more yards on the ground in this game than in the last two combined with 106 yards of his own. He was by no means Rhode Island's only source of offense.

"We're balanced," said the junior tailback from Narragansett. "It doesn't matter if I came in or out — we still have a powerful offense in there."

"What really helped us in the second half was control (the Rams had the ball seven minutes more than the Hens in the second half, and eleven more in the whole game). We dominated the second half. That was it, the key."

"Everybody was up for this game," said Hen fullback and co-captain Tim Healy. "We didn't put it together. Our defense got us the ball sometimes and we didn't move it and we didn't score."

"They were stunting, confusing us with their defense. We have a lot of young guys."

On the positive side, Raymond lauded the performance of Randy Holmes, who ran 42 of the Hen's 72 yards rushing, and returned four kicks for 130 yards. Raymond also saw some improvement in the defense over last week and seemed satisfied with his young secondary. But that was about all the good news.

"We have a lot left, and we have an awful lot of work to do," said Raymond. "We're going to reassess our offense, and reassess our situation. 'We're much further away from making a football team than I envisioned in preseason practice.'"

Delaware travels to Richmond, Yankee Conference preseason favorites, this Saturday. Game time is 1 p.m.

Delaware fullback Tim Healy finds little room to run against stubborn Rhode Island.

• Newark (1-0) defeated William Penn 26-31 Tuesday. Brian Conley was the high finisher for the 'Jackets. Finished fourth at the Lake Forest Invitational.

• Glasgow (1-1) lost to Delcastle 15-48 Tuesday. Rob Riley was the top finisher for Glasgow.

• Christiana (1-0) defeated Concord 16-49 Wednesday. Dan Farren was the top finisher, with Christiana taking the first four places in the meet.

• St. Mark's finished fifth at the Lake Forest Invitational.

SPARTANS

in the first half. St. Mark's, somewhat drained after last week's emotional win at Christiana, was not on top of its game and suffered some bad luck as well.

In the second half, St. Mark's was able to put pressure on defensively to stymie the Delcastle passing game, and control the ball offensively. Mike Ambler carried for two touchdowns, and Mike Smyth rushed for the other in the second half.

"Offensively, we cut down on a lot of mistakes we made in the first game," said Smiley.

Freeze, turkey!

About a month ago I discussed Freezer Roulette. That's the exciting game of culinary chance where, while allowing cubic yards of icy air to escape, a befuddled housewife stands in front of the open freezer door trying to figure out how she is going to come up with sort-of-nutritious meal. The challenge lies in divining what is inside the dozens of unlabelled packages wrapped wrinkled aluminum foil and crinkled brown paper — not to mention frost-covered plastic containers.

Esther, who is very competitive and believes in family togetherness, has refined the game of Freezer Roulette. Just last week she dropped off the rules, hoping that I would publish them. And I am. She wants to get a Freezer Roulette League started — complete with satin shirts with the team names on the back. If that happens, I want to be captain of the Cold Culinary Queens, and the shirts will be ice-blue with frosty white stitching. Lydia plans to captain the Frigidettes who will don lilac shirts with purple words, while Patrice, who has subtle taste, wants her team, the Ice-airs to wear white on white shirts.

If you're interested in joining up, read on.

The basic equipment includes, not surprisingly, a freezer — either free-standing or attached to a refrigerator; a stove; an oven; a sink; a knife, fork, spoon, napkin, plate, and glass for each player; a table to put the plates and silverware on; chairs to pull up to the table; salt, pepper, and enough ketchup and chocolate syrup to cover any disasters; assorted hot pads and serving utensils; and dice.

Those wishing to play Snob Appeal Freezer Roulette must have an antique mahogany table, chairs with needle-pointed seats, a linen table cloth, fresh flowers in a crystal vase, fine china, sterling silver flatware, a genuine wooden pepper mill, a string quartet (live naturally), ornate candelabras, and imported wine. Butlers and maids are optional.

Anyone old enough to reach into the bottom shelf of the freezer for a cherry-flavored Stickee Sweet 'Nicy PopUp can play.

1. Each player rolls the dice. The one receiving the highest score picks food from the freezer first. The remaining players pick in the order of his/her score going from highest to lowest. In case of a tie, there is a roll-off.

2. Players may only pick unidentifiable food from the freezer — for the purposes of this game unidentifiable means that the picker hasn't a clue about what might be inside the package/lump/dish/clump/blob that has been chosen.

3. Each player is limited to 90 seconds per turn.

4. Any player who cannot remove food that is stuck to the freezer shelf by frozen goo gets another 90-second chance.

5. Once the food is removed, every one guesses the contents. The correct answer earns 5 points. If there is more than one correct answer, the 5 points are divided evenly. If there is no correct answer, the points are added to the next item.

6. Players who pick foods that turn out complement already-picked frozen items accumulate 3 bonus points. Examples of this include finding a slice of frozen ham which teams up quite nicely with the previously discovered frozen macaroni and cheese casserole, and unearthing some frozen strawberries to top frozen pound cake.

7. Any player who picks brussel sprouts, zucchini or liver loses all his or her points. It goes without saying that the person who purchased those items loses is ejected from the game forthwith.

The accumulator of the most points wins. First prize is an all expenses paid round trip to the nearest MacDonalds the next time the family plays Freezer Roulette.

A tempting taste of Germany

by Nancy Turner

There is an old saying that too many cooks spoil the broth. That's true, unless you are one of the Delaware Saengerbund's 800 members who tackled the mammoth task of feeding more than 15,000 people during the weekend's three-day Oktoberfest.

Historically, the German Oktoberfest dates from 1810 when the Princess Therese of Saxe-Hildburghausen and the Bavarian Crown Prince Ludwig were married. A horse race was staged as part of the ceremonial, and more than 40,000 Bavarians looked on with merriment and feasting.

The event evolved into today's world famous 16-day folk festival in Munich, a festival on which the Newark celebration is patterned.

In a given year, the Munich Oktoberfest may draw up to 10 million visitors. They will consume more than one million gallons of beer, 400,000 roasted chickens, scores of whole oxen roasted on spits, 50 tons of fish and a million sausages.

Only the best of the wurst is good enough for Delaware Saengerbund cooks, who opened their premier feast of fall to the public in 1982.

Two hundred members helped with the food preparation this year alone. During the past six years, after serving thousands of guests, the Saengerbund has indeed proven that "die liebe geht durch den magen" ("love goes through the stomach").

Although the club's bright yellow Oktoberfest tent, tucked behind a Bavarian-style clubhouse at 49 Salem Church Road, is miles from Munich, during Oktoberfest it overflows with Bavarian merriment and the delicious aromas of the Old Country drift in the autumn air for miles around.

No other food is more readily identified with German than sauerkraut. Last year, the ladies of the Delaware Saengerbund prepared 1,400 pounds of sauerkraut for the festival and before the event has closed they had sold out.

Cabbage is the major crop of farms in the Scutgart area of Germany, and it is sold mainly to large kraut factories. Some housewives continue to make their own.

In rural Germany of years past, fall was the season for making Newark's Oktoberfest features the best of the wurst.

sauerkraut. The technique has changed little since it was first recorded by the ancient Romans, after making its way from the Orient.

Sauerkraut, meaning "sour plant," did not come to Germany until after the 13th century.

German farmers, who lived in small villages, would sometimes share large community grates. A family of four might shred 200 pounds of cabbage in a single day for a batch of sauerkraut.

Cabbage is a cool weather crop, and the pickling process for making sauerkraut required a cool cellar of no more than about 50 degrees and a large earthenware crock, wooden tub or barrel.

About four inches of shredded cabbage was placed in the bottom of the crock and sprinkled with salt. The mixture was then pressed down with a wooden paddle or the farmer's feet until a liquid formed over the cabbage.

The process was repeated until the crock was full. It was then covered with a white linen cloth and by a wooden lid, weighted with a large stone.

The pickling took about three weeks, during which time foam would form on top of the lid so the linen, rock and lid would have to be washed frequently.

The 200-pound crock of fresh sauerkraut could feed a family of four for a year or at least, as tradition has it, "during the months with an 'r' in them."

In southern Germany, as well as in many other areas, when the sauerkraut is finally ready for table it is rinsed and cooked with chunks of apple, apple sauce or pineapple in a broth of pork, beer or wine. The cooks also add a dash of sugar to "take the sharp bite out."

Sausages and wursts also play an important role in any German feast, although few German cooks make them from scratch anymore.

Those at the Newark feast are purchased from a reputable Philadelphia distributor, although "you really don't know what seasonings a butcher puts in their wursts because none of them will tell you," says Anne Marie McNeil, food chairman for the Delaware Saengerbund event. "Every butcher has his own recipe and it is a secret."

The most common of these foods are the bratwurst and the weisswurst, both of which are considered mild to the palette in comparison with Italian, Mexican or Greek cuisine. Generally, most German sausages and wursts are seasoned with little more than basic majoram, salt and pepper.

Bratwurst is made of pork and while Americanized versions can be quite large, the original Nuremberg version is not much larger than a person's finger. Weisswurst, or "white sausages," are made from veal.

"When we cook our sausages at Oktoberfest, we drop them in boiling water first, just to get them hot inside," says McNeil. "Then we put them on the grill."

"When I am in Germany, there are many times when we will eat weisswurst for breakfast," she says. Her family boils the thin, long sausages and then dips them in sweet mustard in keeping with the old Munich tradition that "weisswurst had to be made in the morning and eaten by noon."

And what Oktoberfest would be complete without German potato salad? This year, a handful of Saengerbund members peeled, cooked and sliced 2,000 pounds of potatoes day and night throughout Oktoberfest, insuring that the favorite salad was never prepared more than just a few hours before being eaten.

It has been said that it is easier to take a tuba from a Bavarian musician than it is to get a potato salad recipe from a good German cook.

They're walking, yes indeed

by Nancy Turner

Being told to "Walk! Don't Run!" is nothing unusual when you are very young. You read it on signs at the swimming pool; you hear it from school crossing guards.

When you are older and you fail, isn't there always someone who is more than willing to say, "Now dear, you have to learn to walk before you can learn to run?"

Folks have been taking walks for years, but not always taking them seriously.

It is about as difficult to convince a "stroller" that he isn't aerobically benefiting from meandering through the neighborhood as it is to convince a distance runner that walking is "real exercise."

Walking can be an excellent form of exercise and it seems that in recent years an increasing number of people are discovering its virtues.

Walking can be done anytime, anywhere. It can be performed at any age to reduce stress, aid in weight loss, increase heart and lung capacities and lower blood pressure.

A moderate pace, say three miles per hour, burns 300-360 calories per hour for an average person. According to information published by the American Heart Association, on the average a person weighing 150 pounds can burn 240 calories during an hour-long walk over two miles. The same person walking three miles per hour will burn 320 calories; four miles per hour burns 440 calories.

While conditioned runners achieve excellent cardiovascular workouts, many persons prefer walking because it has been proven to be one of the safest methods of exercising and usually does not cause problems like sprains, tendon injuries, foot problems, muscle strains and back pain.

Walking is a completely natural motion. "It is probably the easiest thing for anyone to get involved in," said Sue Schmitt, the health and fitness director of the Newark Center YWCA.

"But the benefits of walking depend on how you approach it," she

AT A GLANCE

- Newark Community Day's White Clay Classic Walk will be held 1-2:30 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 25. Walkers will meet at the Health Fair area near Mitchell Hall on the University of Delaware Mall, then walk to Barksdale Park. There Dr. Robert Neeves will give a presentation on walking and cardiovascular fitness. Walkers will return to the Mall, covering a total of three miles during the event. There will be t-shirts and prizes. The walk is free. Registration forms are available at the Newark Food Cooperative, the NewArk Post, Storm's shoe stores and sporting goods stores.

- American Heart Association 10-kilometer Turkeywalk at 10 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 1 in Bellevue State Park. For details, call 654-5269.

- CROP Walk to feed the hungry, a 10-kilometer event to be held Sunday, Oct. 16 at Limestone Presbyterian Church. Call 994-5646.

- Newark Center YWCA Walking Club meets 9-10 a.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays and has two ongoing instructional programs. One features aerobic monitoring and a planned walk with an instructor, and has a $15 membership fee. The other is free. For details, call 368-9173.

continued. "If you go into any kind of exercise program and you turn your mind off and don't pay any attention to what you are doing, you can aimlessly go through the motions and not get the full benefit possible."

"It's the same with walking. If you are not thinking about holding your tummy in or standing up tall and keeping your posture straight, you won't get the same benefits. You may be walking for cardiovascular fitness, but it will also trim down your legs, buttocks, and abdominals if you concentrate on your posture and those muscles."

Schmitt described good posture for walking as "bones landing directly on top of bones." The knees should be directly under the hips, the hips should be directly under the shoulders. You should be straight or slightly tilted forward with your arms in a relaxed position that is slightly bent so they can pump forward and back. And nice long strides are more efficient than quick, little fast ones.

Schmitt cautioned about the use of hand weights, saying while they can sometimes be beneficial, the walker should be careful that they do not "throw-off" his stride by changing his center of alignment. She didn't encourage the use of leg weights.

Like any exercise, a warm-up and cool-down is important for walkers. "If you are going to walk casually, you don't need to stretch," said Schmitt. "If you are going to walk briskly for cardiovascular endurance, then you should stretch."

"You should walk slowly for the first 3-5 minutes at a nice normal pace and then gradually increase your walking. When you are finishing your walk, you should slow down at the end."

According to Schmitt, unless there are health complications involved, a walker has reached a good pace when he begins to feel a little "winded," i.e., when carrying on a conversation with a walking companion becomes slightly difficult. If a walker feels dizzy, light headed, nauseous, or is sweating profusely, he has exercised too hard.

First Stage opens with 'Zig Zag'

First Stage, a new professional theater production company in Delaware, will present its premiere production of Drury Pifer's "Zig Zag Zelda" Oct. 7-15 in the Delaware Art Museum Auditorium, 2301 Kentmere Parkway, Wilmington.

Curtain time is 8 p.m. and show dates are Friday and Saturday, Oct. 7-8 and 14-15.

Pifer describes the show, a play within a play, as "an intense comedy" about Scott and Zelda Fitzgerald and about two actors playing them.

"Zig Zag Zelda" is set in the dazzling world of 1930s Paris and in the dimmer off-off Broadway scene of 1988.

The First Stage production features Peter DeLaurier and Ceal Phelan, who have worked in professional regional theaters around the country and off Broadway in New York.

The husband-wife team were co-founders of the Delaware Theatre Company in Wilmington.

Most recently, they appeared in "Mrs. California" with the People's Light and Theatre Company in Malvern, Pa.

Pifer, one of the founders of Berkeley Stage in California, has been awarded grants from the National Endowment for the Arts and the Delaware State Arts Council.

His one-act play "A Day at the Zoo" was produced at the Quai Theatre and Westside Cafe Theatre this summer, and his "Down the Spiral Stair" is slated for fall production at Stage Two in Chicago.

Tickets for "Zig Zag Zelda" cost $15 for reserved, $10 for unreserved and $7 for senior citizens and students. Call B and B Tickettown at 656-9797.

Newarker McFann to autograph novel

Jane McFann, a Newark author whose work is meeting with growing success, has published her second novel, "One More Chance."

To celebrate, McMahon Books in the Christiana Mall will host a book signing 7-9 p.m. Friday, Sept. 30.

"One More Chance" is the story of a teenage girl trying to deal with a new boy in her school, wishing for one more chance to understand his problems.

McFann's first novel, "Maybe By Then I'll Understand," is currently into its second printing. It was honored by the International Reading Association as one of its 1988 Children's Choices.

The book signing for "Maybe By Then I'll Understand" was held in June 1987 at McMahon Books, and sold out 250 copies in two hours.

McFann is a graduate of Newark High School and the University of Delaware. She teaches English at Glasgow High School.

Society plans brunch

The Newark Symphony Society will crack open its 1988-89 season with an omelet brunch 11 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 2 in the W.L. Gore and Associates pavilion, 555 Paper Mill Rd.

The brunch will mark the beginning of the membership year of the Society, as well as the 23rd concert season of the Newark Symphony Orchestra.

Current Society members and their guests, and the public are invited to attend. A special invitation is extended to prospective members.

Cost is $10 per person, and checks should be sent by Friday, Sept. 23 to Annette Gruber, 27 Old Oak Rd., Newark, DE 19711. Or call 731-1136 for reservations.

Additional Society activities planned for the season include:

- An open membership dinner at 6 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 4 at the University of Delaware's Blue and Gold Club.

- Dinner and theater party Sunday, Nov. 13. Dinner at 6 p.m. at T'Adelphia in the Newark Shopping Center followed by the Chapel Street Players' production of "Deathtrap."

- "Messiah" sing-along in December, co-sponsored by the University of Delaware Women's Club.

- Open membership dinner Jan. 3 at the Blue and Gold Club.

- Art auction in February.

- Casino night in March to benefit the orchestra.

- Open membership dinner April 3 at the Blue and Gold Club.

- Membership and President's Luncheon May 23 at the Newark Country Club.

- Elizabeth O'Grady Memorial Concert in August.

Family fun at the Hagley Museum

What a wonderful family day is in store for area residents this Saturday as one of Delaware's most important museums will offer its second annual Family Day.

Hagley Museum and Library will be open for Family Day from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. this Saturday. The museum grounds will be filled with activities and demonstrations for all ages.

Hagley, for those of you new to the area, is the site of the original du Pont mills, estate and gardens. It takes up 230 acres along the Brandywine River. You may enter through the main museum entrance off Del. 141 near St. Joseph's on the Brandywine.

Hagley has recreated many important parts of our industrial and artistic past over the years, but never in such a fun-filled way as Family Day. All family members are welcome and it would be a wonderful way to introduce some youngsters to this important community resource.

As an example, and new this year, there will be an unusual lecture and dramatic demonstration by a "professor" of phrenology, Donald Pettifer. Though crystal balls and palm reading are well known tools of fortune tellers, the 19th century phrenologist used the contours of a person's head to analyze personality traits and offer guidance. Phrenology was popular during the 1830s and 1840s and is one of the things being revived for the Hagley Family Day.

Children will be more interested in wheelbarrow races,

by Phil Toman

THE ARTS

19th century toymaking and hayrides. But, there is something at Hagley for everyone during Family Day. There will be carriage rides, flower arranging, needleworking classes and a fashion show also from the last century.

Sports fans will enjoy the recreation of a 19th century baseball game. Hagley PR manager Jill MacKenzie showed an ad for games of the era, "Cranks, be sure to come and see your favorite striker meet a dew drop delivered by the thrower for an ace!" Honest, that's what it said. Probably wouldn't pack the Vet. Jill, being the kind person she is, also supplied the translation, "Fans, be sure to see your favorite batter hit a slow pitch delivered by the pitcher for a run."

A "gentleman umpire" (oxymoron?) will even explain the Knickerbocker rules. Since the Knickerbocker rules will be in effect, be warned that "Fines will be levied by the gentlemen umpires for unbecoming conduct such as spitting or swearing!"

A Civil War encampment will be featured at Hagley Family

Day, complete with soldiers and their families. The encampment will feature marching and firing drills.

There will be homemade ice cream, hot dogs and "19th century pizza" to sustain the time travelers on the museum grounds. An old fashioned band concert on the banks of the Brandywine will highlight closing time activities.

Family Day really does have something for everyone. Not only will the day be fun, a lot of learning can take place, too.

What else do you need for a Family Day?

Admission is $6 for adults. Children 2 to 14 years are $2, under 2 are free. If you do want to take the whole family, there is a special price of only $15.

If you would like more information about Family Day at Hagley, you may call 658-2400. Enjoy!

WEDDINGS

Wendalyn Hunsinger Lunt.

Hunsinger, Lunt are married

Wendalyn Sue Hunsinger of Newark and George Colby Lunt III of Deerfield, Mass. were married Saturday, Aug. 27 in St. Stephen's Lutheran Church, Wilmington.

Rev. David P. Wasgatt officiated at the double-ring ceremony. A reception followed at the Mendenhall Inn.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Willard Lewis Hunsinger of Newark, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Colby Lunt II of Deerfield.

The bride wore a white silk shantung gown trimmed with alencon lace and pearls with a chapel train. Her headpiece featured a full-length veil. She carried a bouquet of white lilies and roses, and wore a pair of diamond earrings originally worn by her mother and her great-grandmother.

Heather L. Keare of Boston, Mass. was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Nora E. Bianchi of Los Gatos, Calif., Sheila A. Heffron of New York City, Elizabeth C. Lunt, sister of the groom, of Deerfield, Kathleen H. Parke of Arlington, Va. and Clare M. Sullivan of Galveston, Texas.

Best man was John C. Lunt of Boston, brother of the groom. Groomsmen were Hileary C. Hoskinson of Washington, D.C., Tobin M. Hunsinger, brother of the bride, of Boston, Richard M. McKelvey of Ayer, Mass., Steven M. McKelvey of Jersey City, N.J. and William L. Robbins of New York City.

The bride is a graduate of the Tatnall School and Dartmouth College, having also studied at the University of Salamanca, Spain. She is a buyer for Tiffany and Co. of New York City.

The groom is a graduate of Deerfield Academy and Dartmouth College. He holds a master of business administration degree from Columbia University, and is employed as an assistant manager with American Express in New York City.

After a wedding trip to Bermuda, the couple will reside in New York City.

TASTE

"It just depends on who is making it," says McNeil. "Some use a little more of this or that. There is really nothing that you can write down."

The Newark Oktoberfest potato salad is from no set recipe. Rather, it features potatoes, onions and bacon cooked in oil, vinegar, salt, pepper and beef bullion. Forget the mayonnaise. You won't find a dollop in the kitchen. And every ingredient is absolutely fresh.

In Germany, the cuisine is quite regional, and comparing the food of the Black Forest region with that of northern Germany is like comparing Southern fried chicken to New England clam chowder. Bavaria boasts potato dumplings and balls, the Black Forest its spaetzle.

Feeding half the population of Newark each year is a big job that can only be handled with teamwork, according to McNeil. "We have members who come here from all over Germany and each brings his or her own customs, and we all work hard together. We are glad to be Americans. We are glad to share and celebrate our heritage."

Donald E. and Margaret Rasmussen Olson, shown during Sunday ceremony, have been called as pastors by the congregation of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church in Newark. The Olsons are the church's first husband-wife pastoral team.

St. Paul's issues call to the Olsons

Husband-wife pastoral team

The congregation of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church has issued a three-year term call to pastors Donald E. Olson and Margaret Rasmussen Olson.

The husband-wife pastoral team will replace the Rev. Richard F. Batman, who resigned his office as pastor on July 1.

Although unique to St. Paul's, the sharing of a pastoral call by a husband-wife team is a growing phenomenon throughout Protestant churches in the United States.

In Newark, the husband-wife team of Grant and Nancy Gillard as associate pastors at White Clay Creek Presbyterian Church.

The Olsons bring a variety of experiences to St. Paul's. Donald Olson has served several churches in the northeast, has been part of a mission church in South America, and has served on the Central Pennsylvania Synodical staff.

Margaret Rasmussen Olson has degrees in music and education. She was an educator in Michigan before enrolling at the Gettysburg, Pa. Lutheran Seminary.

The Revs. Olson will be installed as pastors during a special service at 7 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 25 at St. Paul's, 701 South College Ave.

Rev. Carl Sachtleben of St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Wilmington, dean of the Delmarva Conference Maryland Synod, will officiate at the service.

Rev. Jane O'Hara Shields of Hope Lutheran Church in New Castle will preside, with the sermon to be delivered by Rev. Richard Olson of Hanover, Pa.

CHURCH CALENDAR

• A fall family fashion show to benefit the Interfaith Housing Task Force will be held at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Sept. 23 in Kirk Middle School by the Lutheran Brotherhood Branch 8008, assisted by Lutheran Community Services. There will be fashions, music, door prizes and refreshments. Tickets cost $5, and are available from Lutheran Community Services, Lutheran churches in the county, the Salty Fisherman bookstore and at the door.
