Last January the commission sent the treasurer a check for $2,223.27, the unexpended portion of the 1939 appropriation.

Many Non-Resident Patrons

The report reveals the majority of the patrons of Delaware Park come from other states and explains that this is a natural in view of the geographical location of the state.

TO JUDGE LIGHTING CONTEST TONIGHT

Service Clubs Representatives To Select Winners

Judges in the Garden Club's Christmas Lighting Contest will have their work cut out for them tonight when they attempt to select winners in the four divisions.

Never before have so many Newark homes been lighted and decorated for the Yule Season and the contest must be given credit for influencing at least a large percentage of the increase.

Nearly every section of town has a large number of homes attractively bedecked in gay and colorful effects ranging from small wreaths to elaborate electrical displays. In many instances entire blocks are a continuous blaze of lights as each house reflects the spirit of the occasion.

The Aetna Hose, Hook and Ladder Company and Newark High School have the two most outstanding non-residential displays while so many homes are worthy of mention that it would be difficult to select any one to call the best.

Judges representing the service clubs of town will tour the community this evening and select winners in the four classes sponsored by the Garden Club. The classes are: most attractive doorway, most attractive window, most attractive yard and best general effect.

Awards are a floor lamp contributed by the Delaware Power & Light Company, two $5 cash prizes donated by the Newark Post and an unannounced electrical appliance from Jackson's Hardware Store.

FIELD FIRE ON FARM NEAR HERE

$500 Loss Is Suffered In Three Blazes

Members of the Aetna Hose, Hook and Ladder Company were called to three fires since last Thursday although serious damage resulted in only one instance.

The first occurred early last Friday morning although it was not necessary to bring the engine out.

A blazing box in the rear of the Newark Billiard Academy was spotted by a passerby who immediately turned in the alarm and then proceeded to carry the box from the building. Damage, which might have proved costly had the fire gone undetected, was slight.

One of those oddities, a field fire in December, took place late Saturday afternoon, on the farm of Edward Kozloski, two miles east of Newark. Usually confined to the dry months of summer, the blaze was extinguished before any loss was suffered.

Damages were estimated at $500 following the fire which started in a rear second-story room of the dwelling house on New London Avenue, resided in by Leroy Smith. The building is owned by the Misses Wilson. The fire was of unknown origin.

Rotarians Stage Annual Christmas Party Tuesday

More than 50 members of the Newark Rotary Club and their wives attended the organization's annual Christmas party at the Deer Park Hotel, Monday evening.

Carol singing was enjoyed under the direction of Allen Jones, after which Mr. Jones and Miss Ann Hamilton entertained with a guitar and piano duet.

Arrangements for the affair were made by the committee consisting of Russell Silk, chairman; James S. Thompson, George F. Jackson, and F. Allyn Cooch, Jr.

Officers of the service group are: President, Mr. Cooch; vice president, Mr. Jones; secretary, William S. Hamilton, and treasurer, Samuel E. Dameron.

NEWARK MAILING RECORDS BROKEN

129,172 Pieces Of Mail Handled During Holiday Postal Rush

Following the usual trend, all-time mailing records were broken at the Newark Post Office as the number of Christmas cards, letters, and packages skyrocketed to an unprecedented height. Figures on the holiday "deluge," which as capably handled by the regular staff and several "extras," prove it to be the biggest mailing season in postal history.

Doubters may scoff at the familiar phrase "Biggest rush in postal history," but figures don't lie and according to the information released yesterday by Postmaster Cyrus E. Rittenhouse, this year was just that.

On Dec. 20, 1939, a total of 29,007 pieces of mail passed through the cancellation machine to set an all-time mark, but the same date this year, this mark skyrocketed to 31,335. A total of 108,161 pieces of mail was cancelled during the period from Dec. 16-23 last year, while the 1940 total climbed to 129,172.

The daily 1940 cancellation figures were as follows:

Dec. 16—8,707; 17—9,570; 18—13,358; 19—23,326; 20—31,335; 21—25,225; 22—19,631.

Daily cancellation figures for 1939 were:

Dec. 16—4,104; 17—16,473; 18—24,612; 19—29,007; 20—18,680; 21—11,365; 22—3,920.

Stamp sales also showed marked increase with the top amount being reached on Dec. 19 when 19,000 one and one-half cent stamps passed through the windows. During the period from Dec. 14-24, 93,100 one and one-half cent, 12,800 two-cent, and 32,100 three-cent, 12,800 two-cent, and 32,100 three-cent stamps were sold last week as compared to the 1939 total of 119,800.

With more than 25,000 parcels and hand-stamped packages handled during the rush, Postmaster Rittenhouse estimated that more than a quarter of a million pieces of mail had passed through the local postoffice.

Besides the postmaster, members of the force who worked overtime in an effort to make sure Christmas letters and packages were delivered on time were: Assistant Postmaster Corbett Crompton; Ralph Kee, Roy E. Reynolds, Woodrow Singles, Ott Widdows, and Edwin Shakespeare, clerks; Orville Little, Charles Hopkins, and Frank Springer, carriers; and Lee Lewis, Raymond Lewis, and Raymond V. Buckingham, rural delivery.

Members of the "extra" force were: Leo Moore, clerk; C. M. Lynch, parcel post; William Hancock, and Robert Kennard, carriers, and Harvey Robinson, special delivery.

Poultry Flock Testing On Increase

Delaware poultrymen are making rapid strides in reducing the amount of pullorum disease in their breeding flocks as shown by the fact that while 38 per cent of all flocks tested in the State were found free on the first test in 1939, more than 49 per cent were found free on the first test during the 1940 session.

H. L. Richardson states that "Interest in the testing work would also appear to be increasing as indicated by the fact that 560 flocks and 187,000 birds were tested for the season ending July 1, 1940, as compared with 442 flocks and 131,000 birds during the previous year." Richardson, poultry specialist for the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service, says that Sussex County had the largest number of flocks tested for the 1940 period, but that New Castle County had the highest percentage of pullorum-free flocks.

OPEN NEW EDGEWOOD SANATORIUM

Will Accommodate Twice As Many Colored Patients

Formal opening of the new $125,000 Edgewood Sanatorium will be held at 1:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, Dec. 29, the State Board of Health stated in its invitation to the public, issued this week.

The new building, which can accommodate twice as many Negro patients as the frame structure now used is a unit of Brandywine Sanatorium. It is a brick-and-concrete oblong building, three stories high, with glass bricked walls and modern horizontal planes. Ground was broken for the unit in February.

Plans call for a staff of 30, including 10 nurses and a resident physician, to take charge of the new sanatorium. After patients have been transferred from the hold hospital unit, new cases recommended for admittance will find room.

The second and third floors of the sanatorium have 68 beds. On the second floor are two private rooms, and ward space for women and children patients, while the third floor has similar facilities for men. Six children can be accommodated in the new unit, and there will be a classroom and resident teacher.

DELAWARE BANKS LOAN $43,000,000 IN 1940

Survey Shows Nineteen State Banks Make 36,000 Loans

Thirty-five per cent of Delaware's commercial banks made more than 36,000 loans totaling $43,000,000 to business firms and individuals throughout the state during the first six months of 1940, according to the semi-annual survey of bank lending activity made by the American Bankers Association.

The A. B. A. loan survey was participated in by 19 Delaware banks, or 35.8 per cent of the commercial banks in the state.

These 19 banks reported that they made between January 1 and June 30, 1940: 8,286 new loans totaling $17,598,284; 27,805 renewals of loans totaling 24,775,587; 190 new mortgage loans totaling 1,559,950; for a total of 36,261 loans aggregating $43,933,821.

The survey showed that business firms in the state used only 48 per cent of the "confirmed open lines of credit" maintained for their use on the books of banks. A total of eight banks in the larger centers of the state reported that they carried on their books $10,397,250 in "open lines of credit" offered to and kept available for regular borrowers for use as needed by them. Of this amount $5,041,037 or 48.5 per cent was used.

The average number of new loans made per bank during the six months period under review was 435 and the average size of loan was $2,129.

The average number of loans renewed per bank was 1,463 and the average renewal was for $991.

The average number of new mortgage loans made per bank was 10 and the average new mortgage made was for $8,210.

ORCHIDS TO GARDEN CLUB

Orchids to the Newark Garden Club for the first Home Lighting Contest conducted in this community during the Christmas season.

This is a highly commendable project and one that reflects much credit on the community as well as the individual home owners who cooperated so splendidly by decorating their residences in the spirit of the occasion.

We sincerely hope that more homes will be decorated in the years to come as a result of this initial contest until Newark's residential district is one solid glow of Christmas lights and decorations.

No one project can more effectively spread the spirit of cheer at Christmas time than the sight of residences brilliantly lighted with candles, electrical effects, trees, etc., when motorists ride through the town or pedestrians walk past. The very sight of the lights and the thought that people everywhere are celebrating the birth of Christ is many times worth the effort it costs.

More power to the Garden Club for its interest and foresight-ness in sponsoring this project. We hope they will make it an annual affair and pledge the facilities and columns of this newspaper in whole hearted cooperation.

AVERT AN ACCIDENT

It won't be long now 'til the strains of Auld Lang Syne ring across the nation. Through the blare of whistles and horns and garlands of confetti, we'll join in greeting the new year.

That magic stroke of midnight will mark another milestone in our lives, and the hope for even happier and more prosperous years to come.

The Delaware Safety Council asks you to resolve TODAY to do —every day in '41—the things that will help reduce Needless Human Suffering and Slaughter.

A few worthwhile resolutions to make are . . .

1. To keep your mind on your driving.
2. To obey all traffic and parking regulations.
3. To signal for stops and turns.
4. To check your brakes.
5. To keep to the right while driving.
6. To slow down, for crossings, schools, and any other place that looks dangerous.
7. To keep your car under control at all times, and not to drive "60" in a "30" zone.
8. To check your lights, your tires, your engine and yourself.
9. To watch the weather and to drive accordingly.
10. To refrain from drinking while operating a car.
11. To stop driving when drowsiness threatens sleep.

Remember at all times how you would feel if a friend or relative of yours were killed in an accident. Most accidents aren't necessary and obedience to law, courtesy, and proper care will prevent accidents.

Shortly before H. G. Wells lectured in Birmingham, Ala., recently a man called at the public library and asked for a book on Wells. The librarian inquired whether he wanted an autobiography.
The patron looked puzzled for a moment, and then said: "No, lady, I want a book on how to dig 'em."

Agricultural Program Earlier Closing Date

Delaware farmers are urged to make all possible headway on their 1941 Agricultural Conservation Program this winter, and plan ahead for speedy carrying out of soil-building practices in the spring by R. O. Steltzer, state executive officer of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

Steltzer says that the 1941 program year will end June 30, 1941, two months earlier than the 1940 closing date.

In the past, the later closing date has allowed farmers to defer completion of their conservation programs until after harvest. They have earned credit in the late summer and fall by applying lime and phosphate and by seeding legumes and winter cover crops.

But late legume and grass seeding practices will not be possible this program year. So a larger percentage of the soil-building payments must be earned through other practices. This is another reason for an early start on the 1941 ACP program.

BIRTH OF A SONG

"Over There"
by George M. Cohan

GEORGE MICHAEL COHAN was born in Providence, R. I., July 4th, 1878, son of Jerry John and Helen Frances Costigan Cohan. He was born to the theatre.

He trouped with his family, and at the age of ten got special billing as "Master Georgie." He played the violin, and got six dollars a week for his efforts.

The family was world famous as "The Four Cohans." George's father wrote their material, and young George began to show an interest in songwriting.

From 1895, when May Irwin scored with one of his songs, his career as a writer was only rivalled by his career as a playwright-actor-manager. But George always referred to himself as a "song-and-dance man."

"Over There" was inspired by a bugle call. Cohan had been trying to find an inspiration for a patriotic song, and the inspiration came as he was sitting in a taxi, which had been stopped by marching troops.

"Over There" was first sung by Charles King at a Red Cross benefit at the New York Hippodrome in the autumn of 1917. The audience response was instantaneous.

At least five hundred Cohan songs are in print, and almost as many more in manuscript are in the possession of entertainers for whom Cohan wrote. He also wrote and produced about forty of his own plays.

His membership in the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers dates back twenty-five years when the Society was organized, and all of his copyrighted songs are in the repertoire of ASCAP.

RAINY DAYS

"Oh dear," wailed Bobby. "It's raining."

"Bad rain," said Bets. "Nice rain," laughed Mother. "Think of the thirsty plants and flowers and trees."

"But we can't go out to play."

"No. But I know a lot of nice things you can do inside."

She soon had them busy and happy. First, she gave to each a large square of heavy Manila paper she had saved. Then pictures of houses, together with flower catalogs and scissors and paste, were brought out. Each arranged his own home, drawing in the walks with colored crayon.

Rainy days always come. It will save friction and worry to be ready for them. Shut-in children are apt to be restless and exacting unless they have something interesting to do. A busy child is generally happy, and so of little trouble. Here are a few suggestions.

In good weather, go on foraging expedition with children. Gather cockle burrs, burdock burrs, joints of corn-stalks, long chicken feathers. Should you be coloring anything, dip some of the feathers and burrs; if not, they will do as they are.

Let it be distinctly understood that all these treasures are to be saved for rainy days. The children will then look forward to such days with pleasant anticipation, instead of with irritation.

The feathers suggest Indians. Cut strips of crepe paper or cambric; double them lengthwise. Even little fingers can sew three or four pockets in front, in which to stick feathers; this forms a headdress. Thus decked out, the children will invent their own entertainment.

With the burrs they can make dolls, baskets, picture frames and so forth, by sticking them one to another in shapes desired.

With short lengths of pith from corn-stalks, some toothpicks and a few raisins or cranberries for heads, they can form a menagerie, and stake a parade. They'll want some musical instruments for the parade, such as a steppan and stick, a comb, a jew's-harp, or a harmonica.

Save all good colored pictures of birds and animals and large flowers. Paste them on light weight cardboard and cut them into picture puzzles, putting each into a separate envelope. This will provide happy entertainment, when it is desirable for the children to be quiet.

So much for physical rainy days. Mental rainy days will also come sometimes to little children, as they do to our older folks. Be prepared for them, too. Perhaps a playmate has moved away, a loved pet died, a disappointment arisen.

It may break into your schedule to stop what you are doing to play with the children on such occasions, or to tell them funny stories to take their minds off their troubles, but you will do it, if you remember that their troubles are as serious to them as yours are to you. Sometimes, in the case of a little child, the best thing will be simply to sit down and cuddle him and let him tell you all his sorrow.

This "rainy day" effort will pay in the closer relationships you can thus establish. If you show an understanding of your children's troubles now, when they get older, they will still turn to you with their difficulties, knowing you will be sympathetic and prepared to help.

BECAUSE A LIST OF NEW YEAR'S resolutions always results in a wretched match with our conscience, we cast aside the annual ritual of writing down a list of "don'ts" and elect to live the first few hours of 1941 in peace.

Our decision to shy from these binding ties which usually result in sheer misery until, one by one, they have been cast aside, came last January, when we found shattered at our feet, only a few moments after the stroke of twelve on the first day of the new year, the remnants of what had once been a set of perfectly good resolutions.

NUMBERED AMONG THESE SOLID resolutions were: Do not smoke; do not drink; do not utter profane words; and do not keep late hours.

We didn't have a chance. One was tossed by the wayside even before the new year clamored in for words faltered as we attempted to bang out this column. As sentences refused to cooperate and paragraphs thumbed their noses at us, we became more and more disgusted and the clock ticked merrily on. We lit a cigarette and another resolution went by the boards.

We uttered a "pish tosh," then an "oh, fudge," finally, after "blinky-blank" failed to help, we cut loose with a "—#—" and the third of our sincere resolutions were shattered. The rest of the story is easy. Less complex problems have been known to drive a man to drink and we hit the bottle with all the gusto of a camel after a three-year trip through the Sahara.

SO YOU CAN SEE WHY WE HAVE cast aside the idea this year. If you'll forgive us, however, we present for your approval, the following resolutions made by a few of our citizens.

George C. Price (town engineer): "I hereby firmly resolve to pave the lane leading into the Newark Post building and if funds are not available from other sources, I shall draw from my own funds, the necessary cabbage."

(The word "cabbage," as used by Mr. Price, may be interpreted "dough, clink, mazuma, or money."—Ed. Note.)

William K. Gillespie (Self-styled table tennis champion of all men over 50—only the fact that his wife can take him over limits the sex in his claim): "I, not so firmly, resolve to keep my manly figure by long hikes every Sunday. I am also determined to whip my basketball team into shape so that at least one victory will be on the slate before the season has been completed and just to make it hard for me, I further resolve to refrain from punishing my dog 'Ceasar,' either verbally or bodily." (That last resolution is to be expected—"Ceasar's" getting too big to kick around anyway.—Ed. Note.)

BILL MURRAY: "VICTORIES ON the gridiron have been too scarce in this section—if Santa Claus is good to me next fall, I shall at least turn in an undefeated season in 1941. If he isn't, I resolve to do it anyway. (Boy, am I glad resolutions were made to be broken.)"

Dean George E. Dutton: "In order to make things happier for everyone concerned, to bring joy to the hearts of parents and students and an era of prosperity for coaches, I hereby resolve that not one athlete will be forced to bear the shame of flunking out. (You're talking Fletcher, and I can hardly wait to splinter that resolution into a thousand pieces.)"

Carty Douglass: "Whereas, I am the tallest man on the University of Delaware basketball squad; and, whereas, I am physically equipped to drop the ball into the basket without so much as reaching, I hereby resolve to stop mugging shots under the basket. (Try it, yourself, you big chump, you couldn't hit a barn with a scattershot.)"

Flucie Stewart—(Ditto Mrs. Murray's resolution.)

Flucie Stewart: "Victories on the basketball court have been too scarce in this section. If Santa Claus is good to me next winter, I shall at least turn in an undefeated season in 1941. If he isn't, I resolve to do it anyway. (Boy am I glad resolutions were made to be broken.)"

SADOWSKI SETS PACE

Coming through with some accurate long-range firing against Philadelphia Textile, Conrad Sadowski added 17 points to the three gained against Loyola in the opener, to forge into the lead for University of Delaware cage scoring honors. He leads the pack with 9 field goals and a pair of fouls for 20 points.

Freddy Mitchell, the pace-setter against Loyola, trails closely in second place with eight double-deckers and two fouls for 18 points, while Carty Douglass has racked up seven action goals and two penalty conversions for 16.

Other scorers are: George Barlow, six field tosses and 2 fouls, 14 points; Capt. Bill Gerow, six scores from the court and one foul, 13 points; Benny Crescenzi, one field and one foul, three points; Howard Jarvis, one action shot, two points, and Lew Selby, one penalty conversion.

CONRAD SADOWSKI LEADS HENS IN 53-29 VICTORY OVER PHILADELPHIA TEAM

Pre-Christmas Record Closed At Par With One Win Against Single Defeat; Blue And Gold Guard Fires From Long Range To Roll Up 17 Points

With Conrad Sadowski showing the way, the University of Delaware basketball team rolled up a 53-29 victory over Philadelphia Textile last week to wind up the pre-Christmas schedule with one defeat and one conquest.

Off to a slow start, the Blue Hens, who sported a 19-10 edge at the end of the first half, increased their margin by two points in the third period, and then concluded the evening with a 20-point scoring spree in the final stanza while the invaders were held to three field tosses and a charity conversion.

Capt. Bill Gerow handed the locals a lead in the first minute of play when he dropped in a two-pointer and Sadowski racked up a foul to increase the margin. At this point, the Philadelphians forged into a brief lead when Bill Bertoleto and Bob Pickens scored successive field goals and Capt. Whitey Karp scored from the free-throw mark to make the score 5-3 at the end of the first five minutes of play.

Gunning from a long range all evening, however, Sadowski hit the mark for the first of his eight field goals to tie the score, and Gerow and Carty Douglass connected to hand the Hens a 9-5 edge at the end of the first period.

As the second period opened, Douglass and Gerow scored double deckers and Freddie Mitchell dropped in a pair from the field to boost the locals' lead to 16-5 before Norm Ruff and Joe Tarranella snatched the invaders out of the standstill with a couple of bulls-eyes. George Barlow converted a foul shot, however, and Mitchell came through with a double-decker for the Hens, and Ray Feinstein made good on a charity toss for Philadelphia to close the first half at 19-10.

During the first five minutes of the second half, the visitors staged a mild rally to close the count down to 21-16 but at this point, Sadowski opened his bombardment to keep the Hens in front.

He dropped two in rapid succession from out past the back court line to hand the Hens their first-half margin, and from that point to the end of the third period, the locals held their own and added a couple more points.

It was the fourth quarter that told the story. Still within striking distance, the invaders trailed by 11 points, but during the next five minutes, they found the range for only a single charity point, while the Hens were rolling up their total to 44.

Sadowski opened the spree as Mitchell, then Barlow, then Sadowski again and finally Gerow with a foul thrown in for good measure and Flucie Stewart's charges led by a 44-23 score.

In the final five minutes, it was Douglass once, and Barlow and Sadowski, twice each, as Karp, Pickens, and Tarranella countered for the Philadelphians in a slightly anemic effort to get back into the running.

Sadowski blasted out a total of eight field goals and a foul for 17 points to lead the scoring for the evening, while Karp was best for the visitors with nine.

Cue Battle To Start After Jan. 1; Prizes To Be Awarded

Thirty-two local cue wielders are expected to vie for billiard honors and cash prizes in the annual championship tournament and treasure hunt to be staged by Jimmy Martin at the State parlor. With 28 already lined up for the competition, this list of aspirants is expected to swell to 32 before the tourney gets underway after the first of the year.

Dick Tweed and Bill Trigalet, judged the best of the crop by Mr. Martin, will play from scratch in the handicap affair. The handicaps have been assigned according to the sponsor's judgement of the player's ability in the 100-ball match.

Newt Sheaffer, Ernie Spence, and Walter Martin, rated second for the tournament, will draw the next lowest handicap of 15 balls, while ratings of 20 were handed Charles (Spike) Dally last year's champion; Jack Sanders, Leslie Eklund, Bayard Robinson, Pink Graver, and Jake Hogan.

RETAILERS SIGN UP FOR FOOD STAMP PLAN

Curbstone Operators Urged To Participate

Operating a Food Trade Advisory Service during the preliminary stages of the Food Stamp Plan in New Castle County, Louis Bessemer, Acting Program Supervisor of the Surplus Marketing Administration, declared today that 248 retail food dealers learned about the plan during the past week.

Stores were visited by Jacob Dorfman and Charles M. Cochran, Jr. in Wilmington and in rural areas for the past two weeks and only 282 stores remain to be visited for instruction purposes, the Program Supervisor said.

"Since the Food Stamp Plan opened November 11 in this County, over 500 retailers have signed up with the plan and, it appears now, those who have not signed are entirely outside of the low-income areas and do not anticipate Bessemer said.

He called attention to the fact that records of non-compliance have already been made of the operations of 36 food retailers who signed up with the Plan.

There will be no legitimate reason left for either misunderstanding or violating the simple formula on which the program operates, the local representative declared. "Any retailer can be certain that his clerks or his associates know the plan and we will gladly answer questions about the food distribution program by telephone or give instruction direct at our headquarters, or in food stores as we visit these stores."

Stamp Plan headquarters are at 412 Citizens Bank Building; telephone, Wilmington 2-8667. It is from this office that retailers obtain redemption cards on which to place their stamps before passing them on to food wholesalers. These cards are furnished by the Surplus Marketing Administration without charge.

Curbstone farmers are encouraged to participate in the program on equal terms with retail food stores, it was pointed out. "Practically every curbstone operator was called on during the past week," Bessemer said. One instructor for the Stamp Plan traveled more than 400 miles throughout the County in order to visit retail food dealers outside of Wilmington.

BREEDING HOUSE ENLARGED

Add Three Pens To Pedigreed Unit At U. of D.

Three breeding pens have been added to the pedigree breeding unit at the University farm of the Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station. Six pens are now available for the poultry breeding work underway in the Station's department of animal industry. Breeding pens are 10 feet square and will accommodate 12 to 16 breeding birds. Plans to enlarge this breeding house still more are being considered so that 10 units will eventually be available for the poultry breeding research.

Facilities provided by the breeding house addition will make present experimental work more effective and will allow for some expansion of the poultry breeding research program. Many problems arising in the rapidly developing Delaware poultry industry demand continued and increased efforts in poultry breeding research.

Inquiry among broiler producers in Delaware reveals that one of the pressing needs of the industry is an improvement in the quality of broiler chicks.

"High-quality chicks may be produced by superior methods of feeding and management of the breeders, but real improvement in the quality of baby chicks must come from the improvement of the strains of birds used to produce the chicks," says A. E. Tomhave, acting head of the animal industry department at the Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station. "This improvement of strains must be brought about through careful breeding. The facilities offered by the breeding pens just completed will make possible research work to determine principles and practices which must be followed to bring out improvements in strains of birds through breeding."

Experimental poultry breeding work at the Delaware Station covers both laying and meat strains of birds. Research to determine methods of improving strains of birds used in the production of broilers has been in progress for two years and the research workers state that results obtained to date are promising.

PLANNING ADVISED

Farm families in Delaware can look forward to higher gross incomes in 1941. Miss Louise R. Whitcomb, home management specialist for the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service of the University of Delaware, predicts that the increase in industrial activity, stimulated by the war abroad and the defense program at home, will create greater demand for many farm products.

"There is one side to this picture of Delaware farm family living in 1941 which cannot be ignored," says Miss Whitcomb. "With higher urban wages rates in sight, there will be higher bills for farm labor. And farm operating expenses will undoubtedly rise too."

The farm family that studies price trends will make its dollars go further next year. Probably but little more than usual needs to be budgeted for the table since only small increases are expected in the prices of the staple foods farm families buy. Ready-made garments will be from five to 10 per cent higher in price next year. Costs of wool materials and leather goods will rise considerably because of the demand for them in defense programs. Price increases are expected for building materials, transportation, amusements and toilet articles.

By being aware of the anticipated economic changes, farm families will be able to meet them with intelligent planning. If there should be an increase of farm income, a family would do well to start building toward more security for itself perhaps by paying up back debts, fixing up the home, improving food habits and by getting delayed medical and dental attention.
