FINAL FOUR

Newark to host NCAA lacrosse championships this weekend

by Bruce
Johnson

Were American Indians of 500 years ago to be invited to this weekend's national collegiate lacrosse championship at Delaware Stadium, they might be just a bit surprised at how their tribal game of "baggataway" has progressed.

Played as early as the 15th century, the game was used by Indians as a test for braves and in preparation for war with other tribes. Whereas today's game is played on a field that stretches for 110 yards, the Indians would often place goals several miles apart and utilize anywhere from 100 to 1,000 braves per team. Games would last from daybreak to sunset and would often stretch over the course of three days.

The white man did not discover the game until the 17th century when a French missionary named Jean de Brebeuf watched in amazement a game being played by the Hurons. Brebeuf was fascinated by the stick skills of the Indians and likened the Indian stick to the "crosier" carried by the bishop during religious ceremonies, thus the name "la crosse."

It wasn't until the 19th century that the French began playing competitively. It was at this time that they adapted new rules and field dimensions that were the genesis of today's game.

"I think the Indians would have found today's game much more confining," said University of Delaware lacrosse coach Bob Shillinglaw. "But I think they would have been in awe of our stick skills."

Maryland, which downed Delaware earlier this season, narrowly missed the Final Four.

Hopkins to win title?

And then there were four. After a season of countless goals, bruised bodies, reactivated ulcers and tailgate parties, the NCAA Division I lacrosse field has been narrowed to just four teams: Johns Hopkins, Syracuse, Virginia and North Carolina.

All are making final preparations for this weekend's national collegiate lacrosse championship, which will be held at the University of Delaware for the second time in three years.

Semi-final games will be held on Saturday, with top seeded Johns Hopkins pitted against North Carolina at midday and second seeded Syracuse against the number three seed Virginia at 4 p.m.

Hopkins (10-1) advanced to the semi-final round by blasting Massachusetts 13-6 while the Tar Heels (9-3) upset Atlantic Coast Conference rival Maryland 12-10. In the other tournament bracket, Syracuse (14-2) easily disposed of Rutgers 17-5 while Virginia scuttled Navy 12-9.

Although opinions and predictions will be a dime a dozen this weekend, Newark's local lacrosse expert is pulling for his alma mater. "Yes, I'd like to see that," said the University of Delaware lacrosse coach and North Carolina alumnus Bob Shillinglaw. "I think they've got a chance, too, but they've been bumped up and they have some major injuries. I'd like to see them come on strong and they've had a couple of weeks to heal themselves, so you never know."

When cornered to make a few predictions, Shillinglaw leaned towards Syracuse and Hopkins in the final on Monday, with Hopkins the victor.

"Hopkins is strong in every category except goalie, which is their weakest area," said Shillinglaw. "They've got some great athletes and defensively I was very impressed. They mark up very well."

'Hands' event Sunday

Newarkers join nation to assist needy

by John McWhorter

This Sunday afternoon, in a unique show of togetherness, an estimated 7,500 Newarkers will join with more than five million countrymen in the nationwide Hands Across America effort to benefit the needy.

Hands will be linked for 15 minutes beginning at 3 p.m. Participants are being urged to take their places along the route by 2:30 p.m.

The Newark section of the route is from Delaware Park west on Chestnut Hill Road (Del. 4) onto Christina Parkway, and then west on Elkton Road (Del. 2) to the Delaware-Maryland state line.

The newly-formed Newark Civic Council, which represents communities along Chestnut Hill Road, is busy drumming up support for Hands Across America, according to President Linda Forshey.

"We're trying to get everyone out to participate," Forshey said, "because this is an event for Americans to benefit other Americans."

Forshey said that despite what some have heard about contributions, they aren't mandatory for participation. "If you want to give something, that's fine, but you can set the amount based on your ability (to pay)," she said.

The whole idea is to get residents out in force, Forshey said, and the neighborhoods along the route are all participating. "Americans know that when the chips are down, they can be counted on to help," she said.

In Scotfield, Frank Hann said his goal of more than 100 residents has nearly been met, with 90 already signed-up.

Also, the University of Delaware will have about one and one-half miles along the route and Hands Across America organizer Steven Aibel said everyone from students to faculty are getting involved.

The big parade!

Newarkers brave heat to honor veterans

"It's paying tribute to the people who served their country and were willing to give their lives for it."

—Col. Daniel N. Sundt

by Bruce Johnson

The crowd drew 'round the Main Street reviewing stand and grew deathly silent. Suddenly shots rang out. Seconds passed and another round of shots were fired, which were soon followed by a third and final set. In the waning moments, the lonely sound of a solitary trumpet could be heard playing a symbolic tribute to those who had fallen protecting our country.

It was a somber moment that reached to the heart of many who circled the reviewing stand, and was in direct contrast to the happy sounds of the Newark Memorial Day Parade that had preceded it. It signified the true meaning of Memorial Day, for long after the sounds of the trumpet had drifted off with the wind, the memory of those who gave their lives remains.

But just as Memorial Day is set aside for remembrance and homage, it is also a day of celebration. Sunday marked a special celebration for Newark, as the State of Delaware honored the city's own 78-year-old Col. Daniel N. Sundt, who has stood as grand marshal of the Memorial Day parade for 30 years.

In honor of Sundt's hard work and dedication, Sunday's parade was briefly interrupted to pay tribute to the retired colonel. Mayor William Redd presented Sundt with a plaque of recognition and promoted Sundt to "general" of the Newark Memorial Day Parade. Letters of commendation from U.S. Senators William Roth and Joseph Biden, Congressman Tom Carper and Gov. Michael N. Castle were presented as well.

"I really didn't expect it," said the soft-spoken Sundt. "It makes me feel very good."

"I think the State of Delaware is lucky to have a man like this," said Carper, while shaking Sundt's hand. "Out of the goodness of his heart and his sense of patriotism he spends countless hours of his time to pull this thing together. I go to parades all over the state and this is always one of the most impressive and remarkable ones I go to year in and year out. Col. Sundt is the sparkplug that makes it happen, and we're indebted to him."

The parade went off without a hitch and residents of all ages and sizes turned out in large numbers. Although the heat proved to be a minor hindrance to the 80 military and community units marching in the parade, most of the spectators coped by finding shady spots.

Walking up and down Main Street, one couldn't help but notice how the scene resembled a Norman Rockwell painting of small town America. There were children waving American flags in one hand and feeling the security of daddy in the other. Veterans donned nostalgic uniforms and stood proud as they saluted every time Old Glory passed. Sidewalk vendors provided America's favorite culinary item, the hot dog, and balloons graced the horizon, floating effortlessly towards the heavens.

"It's just a good parade and the kids really enjoy it," said Newark resident Pat Campbell, whose daughter Courtney stood close by, waving the American flag at veterans passing by. "It's one of the advantages of living in a small town and we really enjoy it."

For those who spent time in a foxhole, the true advantage of the parade is the public recognition for a job well done and the sacrifices they made. "It's nice to see someone appreciate the military and Newark is one of the few cities to preserve the tradition," said Chris Brown of the First Delaware Regiment, who has participated in the parade for more than 20 years. "Most just turn it into a big holiday without any remembrance. It's really a nice feeling to see so many people turn out to honor the fallen veterans."

Winning awards at Sunday's parade were the following:

• Twirlers — First place, Newarkettes; second place, Delawareettes; third place, Spirelles.

• Middle school bands — First place, William Chipman Junior High, Harrington.

• High school bands, first division — First place, William Penn High School; second place, Christiana High School; third place, Glasgow High School.

• High school bands, second division — First place, Dickinson High School; second place, Wilmington High School.

Newark state troopers earn promotions

Gov. Michael N. Castle announced last week that he will appoint Major Clifford M. Graviet as the next superintendent of the Delaware State Police, and Capt. Robert C. McDonald as the Division's new operations officer.

Both men live in Caravel Farms near Newark.

Castle made the announcement during a press conference in his Dover office.

Graviet, 37, will be promoted to lieutenant colonel and assume the post as acting superintendent on July 1, 1986. He will be promoted to colonel and become superintendent on a permanent basis on Jan. 1, 1987. He replaces Colonel Daniel L. Simpson, the retiring superintendent.

McDonald, also 37, will become acting operations officer at the beginning of July. He will be promoted to major effective January 1, 1987, and will replace Lt. Colonel John L. Lingo in July 1987 as deputy superintendent.

"I am extremely pleased to be able to make these two appointments," Castle said. "Both men have demonstrated a great deal of ability and leadership during their careers in the Delaware State Police. They bring broad experience in police work to their new assignments, and I am confident that they will maintain the high standards we have come to expect from the State Police."

Castle also praised the present superintendent. "While I expect first-class performances from Major Graviet and Capt. McDonald, all of us realize that Dan Simpson will be a tough act to follow," he said. "The colonel epitomizes dedication to duty and respect for the law, and he deserves a great deal of praise for the work he has done throughout his career."

Base pay for the superintendent is presently $48,500, and $44,500 for the deputy superintendent.

Simpson begins extended leave in July and retires at the end of January 1987.

Trabant

Plans to retire

E.A. Trabant

University of Delaware President E.A. Trabant surprised the executive committee of the board of trustees last Thursday by informing them that he intends to retire at the end of the next school year.

Trabant, 66, told the committee that he wants to retire as president on June 30, 1987. He has been president of the U. of D. since 1968.

J. Bruce Bredin, chairman of the board of trustees, said in a prepared statement following the announcement that the committee "expressed profound regret" Trabant would be stepping down.

"President Trabant has served the University with distinction for 18 years, one of the longest presidencies of a major university in modern times," Bredin said.

"Under his leadership, the University of Delaware has increased in national recognition," he added.

June 7

Newark Night set

Newark Night, a special event during which part of Main Street will be turned into a pedestrian mall, will be held Saturday, June 7.

If the event proves popular additional Newark Nights may be scheduled in July and August, according to Dr. Jeff Miller, who is spearheading the project. Miller is a University of Delaware economics professor who is on a public service fellowship with the City of Newark.

Miller said the June 7 Newark Night will feature bands, balloons and a Jazzercise demonstration. There will also be a children's theater troupe and perhaps a clown.

Musical entertainment will be provided by the Christiana High School Band, the Newark Community Band and the First State Symphonic Band.

The idea behind Newark Night, City Manager Peter Marshall said in unveiling the program two months ago, is to attract families to the downtown business district and break up the pattern of cruising through the city.

Clean & Green

U.D. students unveil long-range activities plan

Eyes peeled for stray litter, Newark City Councilman Betty Hutchinson led a brigade of broom toting officials down Main Street Friday morning to dramatize the city's comprehensive new Clean and Green public awareness campaign.

The campaign, which includes a Tippy the Trashcan mascot, was drafted by a University of Delaware communications class taught by Dr. Philip A. Toman. It was presented to city officials Wednesday and unveiled to the public Friday.

University student Christy Bailly said the campaign is aimed at reaching all segments of the diverse Newark Community through a variety of promotional activities, including school contests and a 5-kilometer run.

She said the class, which worked closely with the Newark Clean and Green Committee, broke the city into six audiences with events designed to appeal to each. They are:

- Elementary and middle school age children — Litter awareness was promoted in the schools by presentations and, at McVey Elementary School, a pilot slogan and drawing contest. The winners there were Jay Huss and Sasha Tamko. It is hoped that other schools will get involved in the contest in coming years.

- High school students — It was recommended that Newark area high schools be encouraged to enter Clean and Green floats in the city's annual Halloween parade. Athletic teams could be asked to handle the post-parade clean up.

- College students — The class recommended heavy publicity at the University's annual Spring Fling, with the giveaway of Clean and Green painter's hats. Also, it was suggested that sororities and fraternities could get involved in a trash clean up contest in which they collect pledges based on the number of bags filled.

- Adults — It was suggested that Newark area adults could be involved through a 5-kilometer run. Clean and Green t-shirts and litter bags could be given away as run prizes.

- Businesses — Students recommended that Clean and Green posters and brochures be provided local businesses to provide their customers. Also, it was suggested that realtors could be given Clean and Green grab bags to present potential residents.

- Visitors — It was recommended that promotional brochures could be placed in key stores and hotels.

Promoting Newark's Clean and Green campaign will be a mascot named Tippy the Trashcan, a life-size can. Tippy will appear in advertisements and in person at Clean and Green events.

Laurie Fennimore, vice president of the University students' public relations "company," said the class aided the Clean and Green Committee because "they needed a long-range plan."

Bailly said the Committee's reaction to the plan Wednesday was "absolutely fantastic."

"They were very enthusiastic throughout our presentation," she said. "They were excited that we designed a plan to reach everyone in the community. The biggest smiles on their faces was when Tippy came out."

Newark Mayor William Redd said Friday. "This is obviously a very professional job and represents an important contribution to Clean and Green by the University community."

Redd also went on to praise other groups active in the Clean and Green campaign, citing the Christina School District, merchants, civic associations, service organizations and city residents.

Wearing a Clean and Green visor, Christy Bailly studies anti-litter posters created by McVey Elementary School students.

Saving the American Chestnut tree

Newarker launches campaign to establish groves, end blight

"Under the spreading chestnut tree the village smithy stands," wrote Henry Wadsworth Longfellow in his 1842 work "The Village Blacksmith."

Had Longfellow written that poem in modern America, however, he would have had to have substituted some other two-syllable tree because the chestnut, like the village smithy, is a rare find.

The American chestnut stopped spreading and has been on the downside since about 1900 when a fungus commonly known as the Chestnut blight began wiping out the tree which once dominated the East coast.

Hoping to turn the tide and stabilize the American chestnut before it is too late is Frank Snyder of Kenilworth Avenue in Newark.

Snyder has been contacting government officials and scientific organizations to rally support for a proposed Save the American Chestnut Tree foundation.

"It's such a valuable wood it should be brought back," said Snyder. "My idea is that the trees have to come back to be the multimillion dollar (lumber) business they once were."

Snyder said the American chestnut is a wood prized by craftsmen because it is light, workable and resistant to rot.

To save the tree, Snyder proposes raising funds for mass plantings on public or private lands. In that way the tree can survive until scientists can find a means of fighting the blight.

U.S. Sen. Joseph Biden Jr. recently wrote Snyder a letter stating that it may be possible to use federal or state lands to cultivate chestnut groves. He plans to contact officials of the federal Department of the Interior to explore the issue.

However, Biden wrote that given current budget restraints it is unlikely that the federal government will provide major funding for a research effort to save the tree.

Snyder has been in contact with Thomas L. Merryweather, manager of Maryland's natural resources management area at Fair Hill, to see if land there can be used for the proposed chestnut groves. He has not yet received a reply.

For Snyder, time is of the essence. "This is an eleventh hour effort to save the tree," he said, "and we've got to get a crash program going."

Area residents interested in joining Snyder's effort should write him at his home, 906 Kenilworth Ave., Newark, Del. 19711.

Hopkins candidate in 26th

Candidate Robert Hopkins

Democrat Robert Hopkins of Crofton announced Tuesday morning that he is a candidate for state representative in the 26th District.

The District, which takes in the southeastern portion of Greater Newark, is currently represented by Republican Richard F. Davis of Sherwood Forest.

Hopkins, who ran unsuccessfully in the 1983 special election, said he is making another bid for the seat because the District is facing three key issues which he believes "have not been addressed adequately during the last four years."

Those issues are land use planning, pollution and education, Hopkins said.

"It's no secret that we live in the fastest growing community in southern New Castle County," he said. "We need good land use planning and road improvement and maintenance."

Hopkins pointed out that a recent report by the Delaware Department of Transportation showed that of the state's eight most congested intersections, two — Harmony Road and Old Baltimore Pike — are in the 26th District.

"I drive through the District every day on my way to work," said Hopkins, director of business development for Tetra Tech Richardson in Newark, "and the traffic problems are an aggravation for all of us."

"My background in the engineering field ... gives the expertise to see the problems and come up with solutions."

Hopkins called for the recruitment of quality teachers and retention of those presently in the classroom by providing competitive salaries. "We need an action plan to address educational needs," he said.

Air and groundwater pollution are also key issues in the 26th District, Hopkins said. "We are adjacent to one of the most industrialized areas in the state," he said. "From most living room windows in the District we can see the towers of the Delaware City area."

The accountability of industry and the effects on the quality of life in the District must be addressed, he said.

Sam Shipley, chairman of the State Democratic Party, attended Hopkins' press conference, held in the Newark Sheraton. He wished Hopkins well and said, "With a 2-to-1 Democratic registration in the District, we should have a Democratic representative in the Assembly."

A resident of Crofton for eight years, Hopkins has been active in the Crofton Civic Association, the New Castle County Department of Parks and Recreation baseball program, Junior Achievement and the Delaware State Chamber of Commerce.

He is treasurer of the 26th District Democratic Committee and has been active in campaigns for U.S. Senator Joseph Biden, Congressman Tom Carper and local candidates.

Carper

Urges hearings

Delaware Congressman Tom Carper last week requested that oversight hearings be held prior to the Environmental Protection Agency's final decision on the proposed one-time test burn of hazardous wastes on a ship 140 miles off the mid-Atlantic coast.

In a joint letter from Carper and U.S. Rep. William J. Hughes, D of New Jersey, to U.S. Rep. Barbara Mikulski, D-MD, chairman of the Merchant Marine and Fisheries Subcommittee on Oceanography, the congressman maintained that a May 2 EPA hearing officer's report "raised a number of major questions which need to be addressed prior to a decision being made to issue the research permit."

"As members of the Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee and representatives from coastal districts which could be adversely affected in the event of a spill or the release of materials in the marine environment, we are concerned over the prospect that the Agency may move ahead with the research burn despite its own hearing officer's recommendations," the congressman wrote in their May 12 letter to Mikulski requesting the hearings.

The EPA hearing officer's report — based on EPA information, comments from public hearings and the opinions of members of Congress — conditioned issuance of the research permit on resolving extensive concerns and questions surrounding the technology. Carper, though he has not to date opposed the single test burn, has insisted on almost all of these conditions being met since the EPA first revived its push for ocean incineration in 1983.

Carper has consistently called for, among other things:

- A ban on any test burn during the summer tourist months or hurricane season.

- Extensive environmental investigation into the loading and transportation risks on the Delaware River and Bay.

- Use of regional wastes over the currently proposed use of wastes transported from Alabama.

- Strict liability standards.
- Testing with wastes other than those containing the highly toxic PCB's.

Nearly all of these reservations were shared by the EPA hearing officer.

"The hearing officer's report indicates that EPA has been listening to our very significant concerns," Carper said. "They clearly have a lot of work to do and many questions to answer before making a final decision on ocean incineration. I believe that a Congressional oversight hearing should be a vital hurdle to clear before that decision is reached."

Pops concert

Fresh off an award-winning trip to Toronto, Canada, Christiana High School musicians will hold their annual pops concert at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, May 22 in the school auditorium.

The concert will feature small musical groups, the jazz and rock ensemble and various choral groups. Admission is free.

While in Canada, the Christiana bands and band front won four awards in the 26-band Toronto Festival of Music. Christiana captured first place in jazz and rock with a superior rating; second in indoor guard with an excellent rating; fourth in concert with a good rating; and fifth in parade with a good rating.

The bands were under the direction of Dale Burkhard and the band fronts were coordinated by Lisa Muldoon and Linda Pawlyk.

Students visited Niagara Falls, Canada's Wonderland Park and the Casa Loma Castle in Toronto.

Monaco

Top teacher

Donald Monaco, chemical laboratory instructor at Delcastle High School, has been selected the high school chemistry teacher of the year by the Delaware Section of the American Chemical Society.

Monaco was commended by the ACS for his teaching excellence and for his deep concern for his students' personal development. He will be formally recognized and receive the ACS award at the Society's dinner meeting on May 21.

ACS representative Marge Christoph told Monaco his award was well deserved and that the community was fortunate to have him as a teacher.

Student Travel Schools is seeking Newark area families to host Scandinavian exchange students.

Participating families will share their home and family life during the next school year with a Scandinavian teenager interested in learning more about American society. A teenaged member of the host family will then have an opportunity to visit Scandinavia the following summer.

For information, call Student Travel Schools representative Johnna Burroughs at 328-2639.

Newark

Pops concert

The Newark High School band will present a pops concert at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, May 27 in the school auditorium.

The concert will feature Newark High's symphonic band, wind ensemble and jazz ensemble.

There will also be several special groups and soloists in the program. One of the groups is the jazz combo Inversions, which includes several members of the jazz band. Soloists include Chip Vagenas and Katy High.

Directing will be Lloyd H. Ross, Newark High director of bands, and student teacher Pam Start, a senior at the University of Delaware.

The concert is free and open to the public.

Ninth grade sports

Christina board votes to resume instruction-oriented program

by Neil Thomas

After a three-year absence, ninth grade athletic programs will return to Christina School District high schools this fall.

The Christina Board of Education voted 5-1 at a meeting May 13 in Newark to resume the freshmen programs for one year with continuation beyond the 1986-87 school year dependent on available money.

Superintendent Michael W. Walls, who recommended approval of the program, told the Board it would be instructional rather than competitive in nature. "The focus will be on involvement, teamwork and skill building," he said. "Games will just be the icing on the cake."

Christina dropped ninth grade athletics three years ago during a severe budget crisis. Walls told the Board that finances are still very tight but said Christina has received a windfall of $25,000 in the 1986-87 budget through the pending disbandment of a Wilmington-based organization to which the school system paid annual dues.

"I do not want to send the wrong message to the community," he said. "This District has some very serious budgeting needs and at some point the residents of the Christina School District have got to come to grips with the need for quality education and whether or not they want to pay for it."

Walls said Christina athletic directors believe the eight-sport program will cost about $32,000 to operate, but added that it can survive on just the $25,000 by cutting back the number of scheduled games. The sports are soccer, football and volleyball in the fall; wrestling and boys and girls basketball in the winter; and baseball and softball in the spring.

Although Walls expects some criticism for recommending the resumption of ninth grade athletics, he said he supports the program because it has "benefits both athletically and academically by promoting school spirit and the involvement of students."

In discussions with high school upperclassmen, Walls said he found that many believe freshmen do not feel a part of their schools because of the lack of a sports program designed for them.

Bill Conley, athletic director at Glasgow High School, said the new ninth grade athletic program will be much different than that dropped three years ago.

"We proposed a brand new program, one which never existed before," he said. "It is a program with a philosophical base, a ninth grade sports program with the emphasis on sportsmanship and basic skills."

The former program had no such base, Conley said, and some teachers and parents questioned the value of freshmen coaches pushing teams to win. "Some people thought we had gotten off the track," he said, "because achieving an 18-0 record had become more important than teaching skills and values."

Conley said coaches will be hired "with the charge of producing teams which exhibit sportsmanship and teamwork."

The eight sports will have eight-week seasons, as opposed to the 12-week varsity seasons. The first three weeks will be reserved for instruction, with the last five weeks highlighted by contests with freshman teams from other schools.

Currently, Conley said, freshmen are allowed to try out for and compete on junior varsity and varsity teams. However, he added that the practice is unfair because most ninth graders do not have the physical stature or technical skills of the upperclassmen against whom they are competing for positions on the rosters.

"This way," he said, "they can be on their own team, with their own age group, competing with kids on their own skill level."

Board member Georgia Wampler voted against the proposal. "Personally, I would rather see the money spent in the academic field," she said.

Bus driver Rutledge Roy was honored last week by the Christina School District Board of Education for saving the life of a student.

Roy acted quickly and prevented a serious accident when a motorist failed to stop for the flashing red lights of his bus on April 23.

Roy's "quick thinking and proper action" saved the life of Michael Coleman, a student at Eta J. Wilson Elementary School in Newark, the board said.

SCHOOLS

Students whoop it up after receiving high school diplomas through the James H. Groves evening program.

Groves grads !

Evening school students take pride in their diplomas

by John McWhorter

Amidst the cries of children and the cheers of friends and families, 63 students of the James H. Groves Evening Adult High School received their diplomas in a ceremony last Wednesday night at Newark High School.

To some of the graduates, the night was just a make-up for the graduations they missed last spring but for many others the ceremony signified a personal achievement they had waited years to complete.

For one couple, Robert and Barbara Ann Pruitt, the ceremony was special because they were finishing something they both postponed more than 20 years ago. The two left high school to get married and begin a family, but finally decided to come back for what Mr. Pruitt termed "self-satisfaction."

"I did things backwards," Mrs. Pruitt said, "I had the kids first, and then I graduated."

She then added that she had been wanting to get her diploma for a long time and that it was as much a personal achievement as an academic accomplishment. "It's something I've wanted to do for myself. It's a great feeling," she said.

Those were just the feelings of two people, and there were as many sentiments as there were graduates present. To some, this was the end of a long journey while for others it was just the beginning.

"I plan to go on to nursing school," said Patricia A. Strickland Jenkins, "and I have to have my diploma before I can be admitted to college."

L. Jeanne Abbott felt much the same way. After raising two children, she decided that she wanted to go to college and pursue a degree in computer technology. "If you want to go to college, you have to have a diploma first," Abbott said, wringing her hands in anticipation of yet another walk down the aisle.

But while Abbott and Jenkins had the goal of college in mind, Robert I. Annand had other reasons. "I hadn't turned a page in a textbook for 23 years and right now my 17 year old son is thinking about quitting school. He feels that since I didn't graduate, why should he. But now that I'm graduating, maybe he will too."

During the ceremony, in which Dr. William B. Keenen, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, encouraged the students to continue on to additional education and greater achievements, there was a definite feeling of unity displayed by the students.

Every time one of their names were called, the class would erupt with cheers and applause and a show of brotherhood rare at many commencements.

All of the students knew the commitments necessary to achieve their respective goals, and neither they nor the approximately 300 other people in attendance let anyone go by without being recognized.

That outpouring of support was probably due to the involvement that the families had in their graduates. The time the grads used for studying and attending class had to be taken from other family activities, and it seems the efforts were richly rewarded.

"I'm proud as heck," said Brian Williams of his wife Judith's drive and dedication. "It's tough trying to keep a family, go to work and attend school all at the same time."

Victoria A. Visnovski said that without the encouragement she received from her husband, she may never have even made it to the school's front door, much less go on to graduate. "He made me do it," Visnovski said, pointing an accusing finger at her husband and smiling all the while, "and getting here was the hardest part."

Jenkins also agreed with Visnovski about the difficulty of making that first step and said all the grads had to "really hang in there" to make their goals.

In addition, most of the grads were also in agreement over the importance of their diplomas. Jenkins said that besides being able to go to college, the diploma was important in just getting a job. "Even if I had the same skills, those with the diploma would get chosen before me," Jenkins said. "But not any more!"

Jenkins said she once didn't realize the importance of a diploma. Now that she has found out, she recommended that no one leave school without their sheepskin. She advised that anyone thinking about quitting school should think again. "Don't drop out, and if you did, go back!" she exclaimed.

By the looks of it, that's pretty good advice because just seeing all those smiling faces makes you realize the value and importance of an education.

St. Mark's win 'High School Bowl' championship

For the second consecutive year, St. Mark's High School captured first place in the "High School Bowl," a television quiz show aired weekly on WNS-TV, Cable Channel 2.

The final round of competition, held May 12 and broadcast May 19, matched St. Mark's against Archmere Academy. It was the second year these two schools faced each other in the finals.

Patterned after the popular "College Bowl" program, the "High School Bowl" featured a series of weekly TV matches. Thirty-two local Catholic, public and independent high schools faced each other in a single elimination tournament which began in the fall of 1985.

When a team wins, it advances to the next round of competition. Having won the competition in 1985 and 1986, St. Mark's has won 10 consecutive matches.

St. Mark's Bowl team members are captain David Holmes of Chapel Hill, a senior; John Paul Schmit, a senior; Gene Lin of Newark, a junior; and James Courtney, a junior. Their coach is John Hannagan, assistant principal at St. Mark's.

For winning, St. Mark's receives the "High School Bowl" trophy which will be kept on display in the school throughout the year.

Six colleges and universities made awards to the school's general scholarship fund. The funds will be awarded to St. Mark's students who plan to attend these institutions.

Widener University awarded a four-year scholarship of $1,000 per year. The University of Delaware awarded a $1,000 academic incentive scholarship, and Goldey Beacom College awarded a $1,000 scholarship, as did Wesley College.

Delaware Technical and Community College awarded a one-year full tuition scholarship valued at $800, and Glassboro State College awarded a $500 scholarship.

The program's public service sponsors are the New Castle Rotary Club and WNS-TV, Cable Channel 2.

Three of St. Mark's four Bowl team members are also members of the school's Science Olympiad team. For the second consecutive year St. Mark's also took first place in the Delaware Science Olympiad. The school represented Delaware in national science competition May 17 at Michigan State University.

Christina considering pulling out of state organization

by Neil Thomas

Unhappy over the lack of services provided by the Delaware School Boards Association, the Christina School District Board of Education is seriously considering pulling out of the state-wide organization.

The Christina Board voted at its May 13 meeting to send a letter to DSBA expressing its concerns and informing the organization of its possible withdrawal.

Top DSBA officials will be asked to attend the Christina Board's June meeting to discuss the situation. The Board is expected to vote on remaining or withdrawing during that meeting, which will be held at 7:30 p.m.

Christina Board President Carole A. Boyd brought the issue before the Board, saying "At this point, we need to examine what are the benefits of membership." She said Christina's dues for the 1986-87 school year will be $9,100, which is about 16 percent of the entire DSBA budget.

Boyd said DSBA has not assisted Christina with important issues which face the school system, specifically citing lack of support for a bill which would have enabled the District to raise taxes to purchase portable classrooms. Christina is faced with a serious space crunch.

Boyd added that DSBA was made aware of Christina's concern in August 1985, but has made little movement toward increasing contact with the local school board since that time.

Board member Georgia Wampler, who has served on the DSBA Legislative committee, said she learned no more about General Assembly activities through DSBA than she learned on her own initiative.

However, other Board members expressed concern that Christina would isolate itself by pulling out.

"I have two concerns," said Board Vice President Cynthia E. Oates. "One is the amount of money we do pay for the kind of service we receive. But I also have concern that our Board would be isolating itself from the cooperation of other boards in the state."

"There will be ill will from our not being part of DSBA," said Board member Alfred I. Daniel. "We have to work within the system to make the changes."

Board member George Evans said, "The concept of working in a vacuum concerns me."

While DSBA might not assist Christina with problems specific to the school system, Evans said it does provide service in dealing with state-wide issues which have an impact on the system. "We have more muscle through that organization" in dealing with such pressing issues as teachers' salaries, he said.

Blue-Gold

Queen candidates

Eight Newark area students have been named candidates for queens of the annual Blue-Gold All-Star Football Game, which benefits Delaware's mentally retarded citizens.

Gold queen candidates are Krystal Keiser and Alicia Watson, both of Newark High School; Erin Jenkins of Christiana High School; and Marisa Cutroneo and Tracey M. Flynn, both of St. Mark's High School.

Blue queen candidates are Gayle A. Garza and Tessa Stanley, both of Caravel Academy, and Anita L. Jablonski of Delcastle High School.

The queen contests and fashion shows will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, June 11 at Boscov's in Dover Mall and at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, June 12 in Pomeroy's in Concord Mall.

This year's Blue-Gold All-Star game will be played at 2 p.m. Saturday, June 28 at Delaware Stadium in Newark. Pre-game festivities will begin at 11 a.m.

Newark Lions name top teens

The Newark Lions Club honored the 1986 winners of its Newark Teen-ager-of-the-Year contest on Tuesday, May 10. Cash awards of $150 and certificates of honor were presented to Jaimee S. Urell and W. Scott Tinney IV at the annual awards dinner at the Iron Hill Inn.

Urell is the daughter of Mrs. Sharon E. Urell of Newark and was sponsored by John E. Cater of Newark. She is a student at Caravel Academy where she is a member of the marching and concert bands, a cheerleader and an excellent student.

Urell is an acolyte at the Newark United Methodist Church and plays in the Bell Choir. She also is a member of Bethel 3 of the International Order of Jobs Daughters.

Tinney is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W.S. Tinney of Sherwood Forest, Newark, and was sponsored by Mrs. C.H. Calvert III of Sherwood Forest. He attends Christiana High School where he is a member of the Christiana High School Student Council, plays varsity soccer and is a member of the varsity wrestling team. He also maintains an excellent scholastic record.

Tinney is an Acolyte at St. Thomas Episcopal Church in Newark and a Life Scout.

These winners were chosen from a field of 11 candidates, all residing in the Newark area. The candidates were judged on the basis of five criteria: attitude toward others; general behavior pattern in the home, school, neighborhood, and community; church or synagogue participation; school record in scholastics; and extra-curricular and community activities.

Elizabeth Torvik

AAUW honors Torvik

Two named gift awards honoring Elizabeth Torvik and the charter members of the Newark branch of the American Association of University Women were announced at the annual dinner on Monday night, May 19.

Each award is a $500 contribution in the name of the person or persons honored, to be sent to the Educational Foundation of the American Association of University Women in Washington, D.C. The foundation uses the money for graduate project grants to women across the country.

Elizabeth Torvik has served six years as editor of the branch newsletter and two years as program chairman. She also has worked on many committees and service projects.

Torvik also edits the Devon Civic Association newsletter and is an active volunteer at Luther Towers in Wilmington. She is a substitute school teacher in the Christina School District.

Newark branch was organized on July 21, 1947, in the Lounge at Old College on the University of Delaware campus. Preliminary meetings had been held for about one year. Newark was the third Delaware branch after Wilmington and Dover. The first official branch meeting was October 13, 1947.

Nine of the charter group are still active members. They are Dot Borchardt, Camilla Day, Evelyn Dew, Elizabeth Dyer, and Bernita Gerster. Also included are Eleanor Mosher, Dorothy Munroe, Lorraine Olson, and Marjorie Tilghman.

In addition to the Newark branch organization, the charter women have made significant contributions to the educational, cultural, and political life of the community.

Markell 'Woman of Year'

The University of Delaware Women's Club has named Leni Markell as their Woman of the Year for 1986. She was honored at the annual spring luncheon May 21 at Olivers.

Markell is currently state director and coordinator of the Sudden Infant Death Syndrome program and has organized a support program for SIDS parents.

She is in a private practice partnership as a licensed clinical case worker in family therapy and counseling.

Markell is a member of the cleft-palate team at Alexis I. duPont Institute and has also lectured extensively in the field of geriatrics.

Markell has been actively involved in Jewish Family Services and many synagogue activities. She was a board member of the Newark League of Women Voters and past president of both the Newark Day Nursery and UDW.

In honor of the woman of the year achievement, a gift was given to Markell. She chose to donate it to the Division of Public Health Special Projects.

STORBURN INCINERATOR TOILETS

solve disposal problems where conventional toilets cannot be installed.

A comparison of STORBURN and other types of waterless toilets will reveal that STORBURN costs more. Please do not buy on basis of price alone. Consider these features:

1. Quality of construction. Compare STORBURN to any other unit. We believe you will agree it is built better.
2. STORBURN is the highest capacity unit of its kind on the market.
3. Freezing temperatures do not stop STORBURN. It can be left in an unheated building and still be ready for use instantly when needed.
4. All manufacturers provide some form of standard product warranty. STORBURN is the ONLY manufacturer that provides an additional written performance guarantee. It states:

"MODEL 60K GIVES OFF NO FOUL ODORS INDOORS OR OUTDOORS"

If cheaper units are equal in performance, does it not follow that they should be equally guaranteed?

Protect your investment. Insist on a written performance guarantee.

NSO cruise features prizes

Supporters of the 20 year old Newark Symphony Orchestra will cast off for a special fund raising dinner cruise aboard the "Lady Christina" on Saturday evening June 7.

A special part of the $25-per-person cruise will be the door prizes. The Newark Symphony Society plans to give away two albums by the Ciesinski sisters, a painting by artist Jeffrey Liu and a work of sculpture by Marilyn Minster.

Gail Griskowitz of the Symphony Society said the cruise is the first such event ever hosted by the organization. It will replace the annual dance held for the past 10 years.

"We just decided to do something different," said Minster. "We wanted to do something different, and this appealed to everybody."

The Symphony Society hopes to get 125 passengers. As of Monday afternoon, about 90 seats had been booked.

To register for the event, call Griskowitz at 731-0670 or Dorothy Keim at 737-6141.

Artwork by Marilyn Minster and Jeffrey Liu are among items which will be given away during a Newark Symphony Society cruise.

The Pennsylvania Opera Theater will conclude its 10th anniversary season with the staging of Gioacchino Rossini's delectable comic opera, "Cinderella." The story is a bit different from the version we use as a children's tale in this country. There isn't even an evil step-mother; a bumbling, foppish stepfather, yes, but not very evil and certainly unable to be cunning!

"Cinderella" will open at the home of the Pennsylvania Opera Theater, the Walnut Street Theater in Philadelphia, on Saturday, May 31, at 8 p.m. There will be two more performances, Friday, June 6, and Saturday, June 7. Curtain both evenings is at 8.

Artistic director Barbara Silverstein, who will conduct the opera, said, "We presented 'Cinderella' in its Philadelphia premiere during our first season. Since then, we have presented seven Delaware Valley premieres, one American premiere and two world premieres. As part of our 10th anniversary season we will begin our second decade with a new production of our earliest popular success."

Singing the title role in this comedic opus is Wendy Hillhouse, who will make her Metropolitan Opera debut when the Met opens its 1986-87 season with the first of a new series of "Ring" productions, "Die Walkure." She will also appear in "I Puritani" this season.

Before coming to the Pennsylvania Opera Theater she performed with the San Francisco Opera and many symphony orchestras. Wendy was the first place winner of the prestigious NATS Artist Award.

Her Prince Charming, known in this opera as Ramiro, will be Marcus Haddock. The tenor first gained national recognition with

THE ARTS

by Phil Toman

his radio broadcast as a National Metropolitan Opera Audition winner. "Cinderella" marks his Pennsylvania Opera Theater debut. He has appeared with many American companies including Miami Opera, Dallas Civic Opera, Lake George Opera Festival and others.

His orchestral work has been with the Boston Symphony, the Minnesota Orchestra, St. Louis Symphony and the Baltimore Symphony.

Returning to the POT in the role of Don Magnifico, the stepfather I mentioned above, is one of my favorites, Stanley Wexler. Earlier this season Wexler played all four of the villains in "Tales of Hoffmann." He did them brilliantly. This is not an easy role. His machinations never seem to get off the ground; he must try to be serious, but play the audience for all the comedy in the role. He will do it, you can depend on that.

As far as pure comedy is concerned, James Busterud will portray Dandini. The wicked step-sisters and Diane Mari Opatz and Marian Stieber. The philosopher (fairy godmother), Alidoro, is sung by Robert Honeysucker.

In addition to being the founder and music director of the POT, Barbara Silverstein had been the leader is good English translations of opera. The operative word there is GOOD. Before she came upon the scene, such sentences as "Prevent thee me not to the door," were forced upon us.

This is a fun opera for all members of the family. It would be a super way to introduce the younger person to opera. Tickets for all three performances range from $10 to $35. There is plenty of parking next door to and across the street from the Walnut Street Theater, 9th and Walnut in Philadelphia. For more information, call (215) 972-0904.

DSO

'86-'87 season

The Delaware Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Stephen Gunzenhauser will present a classical, pops, and chamber series featuring some of the greatest orchestral works and internationally renowned guest soloists as it begins its 58th season this fall.

The Merrill Lynch Opening Night Series of seven Thursday evening concerts and the seven-concerts Friday and Saturday Classical Series will feature well known orchestral selections such as Tchaikovsky's Symphony No. 4, Beethoven's "Eroica" Symphony, Stravinsky's "Firebird" Suite, Bach's Brandenburg Concerto No. 2, and Rimsky-Korsakov's "Scheherazade."

Soloists include the internationally acclaimed violin-cello duo Jaime Laredo and Sharon Robinson performing Brahms' Double Concerto; leading American pianist Sequiera Costa performing Schumann's Piano Concerto.

Other soloists include Jose Feghali, gold medalist of the 1985 Van Cliburn International Piano Competition and violinist Stephanie Chase, leading American medalist in Moscow's Tchaikovsky Competition.

Judy Collins, one of America's greatest contemporary pop singers, headlines the three-concert Chase Manhattan Friday Pops Series and Saturday Pops Series. Also on the series are a concert version of "Fiddler on the Roof" and an appearance by the piano and vibes jazz group Pendulum.

The Champagne Chamber Series of four concerts at the Hotel Du Pont Gold Ballroom has been expanded to both Monday and Tuesday series due to popular demand. Ticket holders receive champagne, wine, hors d'oeuvres and pastries at intermission. The concerts include performances by the Delaware Symphony Brass Quintet and String Quartet, and Vivaldi's "Four Seasons."

Season tickets for the Merrill Lynch Opening Night Series, Friday and Saturday Classical Series, Chase Manhattan Friday Pops Series, Saturday Pops Series and Champagne Chamber Series are currently available through the Delaware Symphony Box Office, 206 W. 10th St., Wilmington, telephone 656-7374. Box office hours are 10 a.m. - 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Trip

NYC art museums

The Delaware Art Museum will offer a bus trip to New York City on Tuesday, June 3 to visit the Museum of Modern Art and the Whitney Museum of American Art.

The bus will leave the Museum, located on Kentmere Parkway in Wilmington, at 8:30 a.m.

The first stop will be the Museum of Modern Art to see the Jasper Jones retrospective. The exhibit includes 175 lithographs, etchings, silkscreens and monotypes by one of the leading figures in American printmaking today. Participants will have from 11:45 a.m. to 3 p.m. to explore the Museum and have lunch.

The trip will continue on to the Whitney at 3 p.m. to view the Alex Katz retrospective which includes 75 major paintings from the mid-1950s to the present. An installation by Red Grooms will be in the Lobby Gallery.

The cost of the trip is $43 ($38 for Museum members) which includes transportation, museum admissions and refreshments. For reservations and information, contact Carolyn Lester at the Museum, telephone 571-9590.

Winterthur

Bright outlook

The financial outlook for Winterthur Museum and Gardens, known for its outstanding collection of early American decorative arts and "naturalized" landscapes, appears the brightest in several years.

"To our great satisfaction, 1985 was the most encouraging period financially in many years. Gifts to Winterthur increased spectacularly over last year; operating receipts exceeded expenditures for the first time since 1981; and our youthful marketing program showed a profit ahead of schedule," said Winterthur Director Thomas A. Graves Jr., who further discussed Winterthur's finances in the recently released 1985 annual report.

Fund raising efforts reached record highs in 1985 as overall giving increased 61 percent over the previous year. Gifts of cash and securities in 1985 totaled $1,766,600, with $960,000 coming from individuals, $619,000 from foundations and public agencies, and $187,400 from corporations.

The Winterthur Fund, the museum's annual appeal which was led by Mrs. Lamont du Pont Copeland and John T. Dorrance Jr., ended the year with $540,000, a 165 percent increase over 1984. Under the chairmanship of J. Bruce Bredin, the Henry Francis du Pont Collectors Circle, the museum's leadership giving group, raised $195,400 for the institution in 1985, 40 percent of which is designated for accessions for the collection.

Both of the programs were greatly aided by challenge gifts from two anonymous benefactors totaling almost $250,000.

The Winterthur Corporate Council, in its third year and under the chairmanship of David D. Wakefield, boasted 93 member companies who contributed $128,500 in 1985.

Winterthur's grant-seeking program brought 16 awards totaling $90,000 from local and national foundations and government agencies, including the Institute of Museum Services, the National Endowment for the Arts, the National Endowment for the Humanities, and the National Historical Publications and Records Commission.

Grants from nonpublic foundations included $160,000 from the Longwood Foundation for one-time garden needs, and $120,000 from the Henry Luce Foundation for the production and publication of a book on the museum's silver collection. The Fair Play Foundation donated $80,000 for the support of the Winterthur Point-to-Point races and for gardens maintenance.

Korber

Watercolors

Watercolors by artist Louise Korber will be on display through

May 31 at the Newark Free Library, 750 Library Ave.

The works can be viewed during regular library hours, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. weekdays and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturdays.

Camp

Del. Theatre Co.

Registration is underway for Delaware Theatre Company's third annual theatre arts summer day camp.

Two three-week sessions will be offered to children ages 8-14 and will take place on the Sanford School campus in Hockessin. Session I will take place June 16-July 2, weekdays from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Session II begins July 14 and is completed on July 30.

The day camp provides opportunity for young individuals to learn about theatre, team effort and their own self-awareness. Mornings will be devoted to a broad theatre curriculum including acting, vocal expression, character development, ensemble technique, scene study, costume design, and appreciation and awareness.

Afternoons will be spent in supervised recreational activities including swimming, team sports and nature lore. Each session will culminate in a final performing presentation by the student company.

Student Outreach Coordinator Charles J. Conway will direct the day camp. "We offer our students the opportunity to become involved in a discipline that is rarely offered in the school system. Our students learn skills that are not only applicable to the stage, but to other areas where communications is important as well," Conway said.

"The summer camp program is a wonderful chance for students to learn theatre appreciation and round out their education," he added.

Cost for each session is $210. For information and registration, contact Conway at the Delaware Theatre Company at 594-1104.

The Delaware Theatre Company is not-for-profit organization and just completed its seventh season as the state's only resident professional theatre.

OPINION

Remembering days of WWII

The United States having been involved in a great many wars in this century, Memorial Day is a holiday which stirs very personal thoughts for many. Here, Stan Wiener of Anahelm, Calif., shares his thoughts on service during World War II with a Newark resident, Dr. Jack Warren.

by Stan Wiener

I still get a chill. I still feel the thrill. When I see our National Emblem raised and too-blocked (secured), I know that this is my country.

Even when the stars and stripes are flying high on the big or little screen, I am impressed. I admit that I stand erect. Mentally, I stand erect even if I am sitting.

On the television, the reruns of grade B movies keep me alert and awake.

The calvary which roamed the vast plains of the West always maintained perfect two by two position. I never knew that soldiers of that era could be dressed so immaculately. After days of patrol, they would arrive at the fort, dismount and pass field inspection. Seldom would the horses even sweat; never did the rider break rank no matter how long a ride there had been.

More exciting than the old, old wars were the reenactments of the war of the Forties. This one has always been fascinating to our generations of misfits. We were in that war.

Imagine how the elder statesmen of today single hand-ly won the battles on the screen. A few of the more adept actors fought and won in both the Pacific and European wars.

Some of the screen heroes who fought so valiantly are still alive to see themselves as brave men. Few appear capable of ever having been even a pseudo hero.

For that matter, not one living military man who served "in the trenches" could be there now.

Most of us who are of the Big War's vintage can do little more than relive the celluloid wars which we watch from the comfort of our reclining chairs. Mentally and spiritually, real live veterans now see themselves as part of John Wayne's infantry, Clark Gable's Navy, and John Garfield's air force. Every one knew Cagney was a real Yankee Doodle Dandy. Weren't we all? These old time films are a marvelous way to embellish personal deeds of valor.

Those of us who served in World War II were a part of Eisenhower's European armada or MacArthur's jungle fighters. Now, 40 some years after the fact, we stop to pay tribute to our comrades on another Memorial Day.

I often sit and reflect. I have fond recollections of my old shipmates.

On the Landing Ship Tank 1025 there actually was a Lt. Roberts. He was the executive officer. He was second in command. He knew not how to command. Roberts was not a military man, although he looked good in dress whites. His executive punishments were classic. Unusually, they consisted of a stern lecture, a promise from the offender not to do it again, and then Roberts would seal the bargain by giving the chastised one a stale cigar.

The exec managed to sit next to the C.O. at breakfast so he could butter our leader's toast. He spread it on thick for the benefit of the ship's top man. This top man came up through the ranks. He lived and breathed Navy. Captain Curfman also resented his staff of college bred reserve officers.

Just as that World War II armada has been scattered so have the legendary heroes scattered far and wide. Now, some 40 years after the fact, I know of the whereabouts of only a few of that courageous crew of the Landing Ship Tank 1025.

I know that Jack Warren lives in your town. When Jack was placed on inactive duty, he did an outburst and joined the peace time Army. By doing this, he allowed the military to put him through dental school. To be most proper, I should refer to the man as Doctor Warren. Years ago, he was one of our better deck officers. Now, he must be one of your better dentists. Like all good doctors of dental surgery, by the time he masters the art of dentistry, he'll be ready to retire.

I have not seen Jack or his wife, Helen, for years. The last time was on our honeymoon. That was 40 years ago this June. We still remember how gracious the two of them were. They not only gave the newlyweds a bedroom, they gave us the whole apartment. We think they spent that night at his folk's house. Actually, we were too busy to wonder if they had paid for a hotel or not.

When I tracked Jack down a few years ago, I scared the hell out of him and Helen. I don't believe any of his war experiences could have been more of a shock. One night, I decided to call him. Ma Bell advertises how cheap and convenient it is to call old friends. Old shipmates are old friends. Jack picked up his receiver and a voice said, "Hi, this is Stan. What have you been doing for the last 35 years?"

He proceeded to tell me. That call may have been convenient, but it sure was not cheap. For a few minutes we relived a life time.

We had lived together but a few months, but we do share together for a life time.

Memorial Day is 41 years after the World War II armistice. Most of us who served during that war came home in '45 or '46. Think of it — my shipmates and I are now the older generation. I dare believe that most of them still thrill to see the flag, hear the roll of drums and blare of bugles.

I know each of my compatriots can close their eyes and see our crew which assembled on deck for 0800 orders of the day. The real life sailors never looked as sharp as did the movie heroes. Their faded jeans were mixed and matched as well as GI issued. The men on our ship stood not at ram rod attention as on TV. Some men wore hats; others did not. On film, even the work clothes were immaculate. Our ship's laundry never came back pure white. We always hoped the dirt was out of the dark colored work clothes.

Shipmates, wherever you are on this day, I do believe you and I still share. I have to believe you are proud of our war time duty. I have to believe you relive with me the adventures we shared everytime you see a flick on TV about the war in the Pacific. Each invasion was our invasion. With or without bloodshed, those were good days. Because of those good days, we stand together when we stand for the National Anthem. When we salute the flag of the USA, we truly salute each other. We, who still live, live with the memories of our fallen brothers. Memorial Day is but one day to remember; it is a must day to remember.

Mates, I thank you for sharing with me those few days out of our lives. For us the LST 1025 was a bond which will last from year to year — from one Memorial Day to the next.

OPINION

I couldn't help but smile as I watched my young son Noah watching his first Newark Memorial Day parade. He looked so amazed as he sat on the curb, Phillies cap shading his eyes, at times laughing and at times plugging his ears with his fingers to filter the roar of the bands.

When the dust of the 80-plus units had finally settled, I asked him what he liked most. It wasn't the marching soldiers with their flashing bayonets, or even the impressive helicopter fly-over. Rather, it was the Nur Temple Shriners with their motorcycles and mini-Corvettes that drew his eye.

And that pleased me, because I am glad this particular 4-year-old doesn't have to memorialize a father gone off to some distant land to fight and perhaps die. I'm glad I can be here to watch him grow up.

Lord knows the last 45 years have given us plenty of cause — too much so — to memorialize lost fathers. And grandfathers. And uncles. And cousins.

Those of us in the crowd who were a bit older than my son knew well what Memorial Day is all about. It is about war and remembrance.

Memorial Day is a time to remember those who gave their lives to preserve the world for

POSTSCRIPT

by Neil Thomas

democracy, and to thank them for their efforts.

Memorial Day is a time to remember those who, though they fought just as bravely, gave their lives for causes much more confusing, and to thank them, too, for their efforts.

But Memorial Day should also be a time to remember that war is a horrible thing. It kills and maims bodies and psyches, and tears families apart.

Who, while saluting the few World War I veterans remaining, could not stop but think of the terror of trench warfare and mustard gas, of modern machine guns turned loose on the ancient frontal assault tactics of the day?

Who, while applauding the World War II veterans, could not look back at the blood and agony of beachheads, firestorms and atomic weapons?

Who, while cheering the Vietnam veterans, could not recall the nightmare of jungle battles and street riots which tore this nation apart?

War is a very personal thing because the people it takes from us are ours, then ours no more.

My prayer is that as my son grows to manhood, Memorial Day will be for him more remote and less personal than it is for many of the people who turned out in Newark on Sunday. That, of course, will have meant that his generation was spared the pain which has gripped so much of this 20th century.

ASSEMBLY VIEWS

by Rep. William A. Oberle Jr.

Though the future of the mandatory seat belt bill is still uncertain, (it must now be passed by the Senate) I must say I was pleased to have helped it pass in the House. My "yes" vote was a matter of conscience.

I fully realize that a mandatory seat belt law means that motorists must surrender some of their personal freedoms, but I also realize that the roads we drive on are public roads, not private roads. A mandatory seat belt law, like the 55 mile per hour speed limit and the Driving Under the Influence Law, requires us as individuals to make sacrifices for the common good.

In the case of wearing seat belts we are being asked to balance our private right to travel with our public responsibility to those sharing the road with us. Modern life is full of such compromises, which promote order and predictability in society.

This year, 40 people will die on Delaware roads in the absence of a seat belt law. Some will be motorists exercising their "freedom" to drive unbuckled. Some will be innocent passengers who may have been wearing their belts but were killed by the body of the unbuckled driver thrown around the car after impact.

Furthermore, until this bill is signed into law, Delawareans will lose $50 million each year in accident and related medical and legal costs.

The present mandatory seat belt bill was not drafted so tightly as to give the police the authority to pull you over for not being buckled up. They will have to have another good reason for stopping you. But, I am convinced that wearing seat belts is a social responsibility of every motorist.

The amount we will be sacrificing in terms of personal freedom will be minimal when compared to the safety we will be promoting.

William A. Oberle Jr., R-24th District, is the majority leader of the Delaware House of Representatives. He is a resident of Scottfield.

CAPITOL COMMENT

by Rep. Tom Carper

If you've ever helped someone, even someone in need, and later found out they lied to you and abused your generosity, you probably felt a frustration not altogether unlike that of administrators of public housing assistance programs who uncover cheating and abuse of their financial assistance.

In their minds is the single fact that every dollar that goes to someone who does not deserve it, is one dollar less that could go to the estimated 16.7 million households who are eligible but not receiving assistance for decent, affordable housing. This includes an estimated two to three million homeless who never apply.

In their minds is the fact that the Reagan Administration continues to slash housing programs — by 68 percent since 1981. In their minds is the frustration that in just rental assistance programs alone, an estimated 12 percent of the tenants under-report income. And over-payments for all subsidy programs approximate $100 million annually.

As a member of the Congressional Housing and Community Development subcommittee, I introduced legislation recently that would help combat this problem. My bill, the Housing Income Verification Act of 1988, is really a simple, straightforward solution that has worked well in uncovering fraud in the Food Stamp and the Aid to Families with Dependent Children programs.

My bill would authorize the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to require the Social Security numbers of applicants and tenants of public housing assistance programs. These Social Security numbers could then be computer matched with wage and benefit data bases, notably those at state unemployment agencies, generally considered to be the best wage information for verification of things like family composition, personal assets and other public benefits received.

The information would be used to verify recipients; reports of their circumstances, and help housing officials determine eligibility and the appropriate level of housing assistance. In the few states where computer matching has been tried, it has worked well.

I have been diligent to include in my bill protections against computer error and against privacy violations.

Program abuse by a few deprives our government and housing authorities throughout America of funds that could be provided for those truly in need of assistance. If a proven tool like computer matching can fix this problem, then I say let's use it.

COVER STORY

LAX/ from 1a

In the past 10 years, lacrosse has seen a growth in local interest that has exceeded many other major sports.

"The game is a lot more exciting than it was 10 years ago," said Shillinglaw. "The skill level has improved and the kids are playing at a younger age and gaining experience. The better athletes are getting involved in it, too."

This weekend, area fans will be treated to the creme de la creme of lacrosse competition. Brilliant athletic skills and punishing body checks will highlight the competition on the stadium turf.

But for those who have never experienced the sheer excitement of lacrosse, complexities of the game may appear overwhelming.

"For the person who has never seen the game before, the easiest thing to do is to sit back and watch the ball more than anything else," said Shillinglaw. "I think the most fun would be to watch the flow of the game and what the individuals are doing with the ball."

***

The beginner should not feel overwhelmed by the sport. The basic strategies and rules are quite simple to understand. Many fans draw similarities with field and ice hockey.

Ten athletes per team take the field and penalties leave the teams short-handed for various amounts of time depending on the seriousness of the crime. As in any sport, there is a fine line between legal and illegal play.

The playing field is divided up into several sections with the overall length being 110 yards and the width varying from 53-1/2 to 60 yards. The field is divided in half by a midfield strip.

Teams must always have three men before the line at the attack end and four players behind the line at the defensive end. Three mid fielders may roam from side to side.

Play is initiated at the face off circle at the center of the field at the beginning of each quarter and after every goal. Only three players from each team participate in the face off while the rest of the athletes must remain in a restraining area 20 yards away until one team gains control of the loose ball and the referee signals free play.

There are four major positions on a lacrosse team with the mid-fielders and attackmen using short sticks and the defensemen using long sticks. The fourth position is goalie, and it is this player's task to stop a small spherical rubber ball traveling at speeds up to 90 mph.

Not blessed with the wealth of equipment given to those who tend goal in ice hockey, the goalie must defend a goal which is six feet high and six feet wide at the base.

Often facing more than 40 shots a game, the goalie must keep his concentration amidst the congested area in front of the goal.

The goalie is allocated an 18-foot circle surrounding the goal called a crease in which no offensive player can step.

Offensively, much action will take place behind the net. A strip of field there stretches 15 yards behind the goal.

There are four basic offenses run during the course of the game, although you can rest assured you will see many different variations.

With the first number indicating the number of players located behind the net, those offenses are the 2-1-3, 1-3-2, 2-2-2, and the 1-4-1.

Defenses will usually counteract offenses with either man-to-man or zone defense's, which are very similar to those in basketball.

A ball tossed out of bounds goes to the opposition except on shots, when the ball will be given to the team member closest to the ball as it leaves the playing surface. That is why you will see the athletes take off after a ball that is beyond their reach.

If all this seems confusing, don't be alarmed. Lacrosse is such a fast paced, wide open game that it can be enjoyed without a great knowledge of its rules and strategy.

As well, providing that the sun is shining and you are an expert tailgater, the day will prove more than satisfactory. You may even find yourself, at the competition's end, much like the American Indian — a lacrosse loyalist.

Abel said he expects 1,500 people to participate. He said that many fraternities and sororities, in addition to dormitories, are getting involved.

Tonight, the Down Under restaurant will be hosting Hands Night in which buttons, t-shirts and other items will be distributed to people who sign up.

In addition, various members of Glasgow High School's track team have joined together to find sponsors for their participation. Coach Sally Craig said that so far, 25 students have raised $625 for the benefit and that more is likely.

The proceeds of Hands Across America, according to it's organizers, will go to feed and house America's needy, whose numbers have been increasing recently. The organization estimates that 2.5 million Americans are homeless and that millions also experience hunger sometime each month.

Of the $50 million expected to be raised, organizers said 10 percent will go toward emergency relief funds that directly address the needs of the poor and homeless. Fifty percent will benefit existing programs that help the needy and 40 percent will be used for long term development to get at the root of America's hunger problem.

Peter Tovar, the Delaware director, said that to receive any of the funds, an organization must first complete an application form available from the Wilmington HAA office or by writing HAA at 1900 Avenue of the Stars, Suite 900, Los Angeles Calif. 90067.

Tovar also said the money will be distributed on a national basis to programs that have proven their effectiveness and that the aid given to a state will not necessarily be proportional to its donation.

St. Mark's streaks to third place

by Bruce Johnson

St. Mark's High School's Mike Benefield looked out at the last group of runners that would cross the finish line at the 1986 State Championship Track Meet in Dover. The setting sun reflected off his face and one couldn't help but wonder what thoughts were going through his mind.

"I'm a little sad because it's all coming to an end," said the likeable Benefield with a smile. "It's a little rough because this is the last track meet but you know by leaving it gives other guys a chance to rise up and shine."

On Saturday at Dover High School, Benefield took one last moment to shine in the Delaware sun as he captured the state title in the shot put for the second consecutive year. He also participated in the 4 x 100-meter relay which recorded a fifth place finish to help lead the Spartans to a third place finish in the team competition.

Although the team had higher aspirations, Benefield was not disheartened by the results. "I'm not really disappointed because everyone tried to do their personal best," said Benefield, who will be attending the University of North Carolina next fall on a football scholarship.

Other Spartans faring well were Eric Shearon, who won second place in the high jump and fifth place in the triple jump. John Dzik followed Benefield in the shot put, gaining a second place medal, while James Fletcher finished in third place in the 3,200-meter run. Ernie Amoss finished third in the 400-meter run, Jim Lazarski finished fifth in the 300-meter intermediate hurdles and Martin Brans recorded a fifth place finish in the 1,600-meter run.

The Spartans completed a season in which they finished second in the state indoor track championship, second in the New Castle County track championship and a third in the states.

"There's no doubt we had a good year," said Spartan head coach Joe O'Neill. "I'm a little disappointed right now because I'd like to have finished as high as possible, but that's the highest finish for us ever in the championships. I had hopes that we'd be able to knock one of the bigger teams out but that wasn't to be. When I sit back and look at it, I'll see what a great distance we've come."

Among local teams, Christiana fared well, gaining sixth place. The Vikings were led by the talents of junior Lee Sylvester, who claimed the state title in the 110-meter high hurdles.

Sylvester had never run track prior to this season and only joined at the suggestion of his guidance counselor. For Viking head coach Paul Ramseur, the thought of Sylvester becoming a state champion as a junior walk-on seemed an impossible dream.

"I had no idea he could even run the hurdles when I first saw him," said Ramseur with a smile.

"I told him that we needed a hurdler and I watched him three step a couple of hurdles and then I knew we had a talent."

Sylvester teamed with Ken Pierce, Ed Hammond and Mike Medley for a second place finish in the 4 x 100-meter relay.

Other Vikings performing well were Ben Martin, who recorded a third place finish in the triple jump, and Ed Hammond who recorded a fourth place finish in the 200-meter run. The 4x200 meter relay team recorded a third place finish.

Newark took ninth place. Asbury Wilkens recorded a third place finish in the 100-meter dash, and Loren Barton recorded a fourth place finish in the 300-meter intermediate hurdles and a fifth place finish in the 110-meter high hurdles.

Glasgow proved to be the 11th best team in the state. Dwayne Ashantit led the Dragons with a second place finish in the 110-meter high hurdles while teammate Greg Hastings recorded a third place finish in the discus. Robert Sipple scored fourth place points for the Dragons in the high jump.

Mike Medley of Christiana streaks across finish line as Vikings take second in the state 4 x 100-meter relay championship. At left, Bob Sipple of Glasgow clears bar en route to fourth place finish in the high jump.

'Jacket jumper just misses state record

by Bruce Johnson

Newark High School's Tawana Williams peered over several men applying the tape measure to her jump and heard the distance of 37 feet, 5 inches. Letting out a scream of delight, she darted off and did a double round off that would have made Mary Lou Retton proud.

However, Williams' celebration of a new state record in the triple jump proved a bit premature. A second measurement showed that Williams had actually jumped 37' 4-1/2", just shy of the state record.

Still, the distance was enough to give the bubbly junior a state championship and lead her team to a third place finish at Saturday's Delaware State Track Meet at Dover High School.

"I'm happy that I won the states because that was my goal, but my other goal was to get the state record. I'm not disappointed because I've always got next year," said Williams, who admitted that she would undoubtedly replay the jump in her mind.

"You know, if I had just stuck my toe out a little further I would have gotten it," she said with a smile.

Newark's Lisa Mayer also gained a state championship medal for her throw of 119' 9-1/2" in the discus, a personal best for this year. It was Mayer's second state championship in the discus as she became the only 'Jacket athlete to win two state titles.

The 'Jackets, third place finish proved even more remarkable when considering that they were rebounding from a disappointing fifth place showing in the New Castle County Championship Meet. Arriving at Dover, the 'Jackets wanted to prove to themselves and the state their true potential.

Securing third place was the result of many of the 'Jackets athletes recording personal bests, including Nada Haman who broke a school record in the shot put with a throw of 33' 9-3/4", which was good enough for a third place finish. The distance crew chalked up third place points in the 4 x 800 meter relay and Gillian Haskell recorded sixth place finishes in the 1,600-meter and 3,200-meter runs.

Carol Barton received a third place medal in the triple jump and gained a sixth place finish in the long jump while teammate Jacqueline Crawford gained a fifth place finish in the long jump.

Another team that performed well on Saturday was Christiana. The Vikings finished in eighth place with 28 points despite having only four athletes competing. Teri Norris recorded second place finishes in the shot put and the discus while twin sister Sheri gained fourth place points in the same events.

"I was really hoping for second this year. That's been my dream for three years," said Teri Norris. "For three years I've been trying to get it and I finally did my senior year. I'm very happy."

Laura Copeland also fared well for the Vikings, scoring a fourth place finish in the 200-meter dash.

Glasgow finished right behind the Vikings in ninth place with 25 points. Tricia McDermont produced a surprise second place finish in the high jump with a personal best of 5'0". Michele Johnson also fared well, recording third place finishes in the 100-meter hurdles and the 300-meter intermediate hurdles. Teammate Tina Walley recorded a fifth place finish in the 100-meter intermediate hurdles.

St. Mark's finished in 12th place with a team total of 12 points. Angel Valentine scored a fourth place finish in the 400-meter run.

Tawana Williams of Newark had plenty of reason to celebrate, taking first and nearly setting a state record in the long jump.

Christiana's Teri Norris prepares to launch shot.

Jim Norris survives — and wins — the 15-kilometer Pike Creek Classic run Sunday.

Norris captures Pike Creek

by Bruce Johnson

Before the gun sounded signaling the start of the Bud Lite-Pike Creek Classic 15-kilometer race Sunday, conversations centered around the $3,700 available in prize money and the stellar field, one of the most competitive in Delaware road racing history.

An hour later all that changed as the 481 runners who finished forgot about everything but the sauna-like conditions that entombed the hilly Pike Creek terrain.

"It's unbelievable," said Mark Beaumont, who was the first to cross the finish line in the Classic 5-kilometer race in a time of 16 minutes, 53 seconds. "On a day like this you should get a 30-second handicap because of the heat. I feel sorry for the people in the 15K."

With morning temperatures flirting with 80 and the humidity intensifying the conditions, dehydrated runners crossed the finish line gasping for water. Most of the precious fluid was poured over the overheated bodies, although plenty found it's way down into the body.

The heat affected everyone, including pre-race favorites Kevin McGary, ranked eighth in the country among 10K runners, and Gonzalo Huggins, who competed in the 1980 Summer Olympics representing his home country of Venezuela and finished 14th at this year's Boston Marathon.

In the end, it was St. Joseph's graduate Jim Norris who outlasted everyone, crossing the finish line at 47:30.

"At the eight-mile mark I was just worrying about finishing," said Norris, who claimed $550 in prize money for his efforts. "That's the longest road race I've ever seen."

Actually Norris had competed in a half-marathon while in high school but the conditions on Sunday must have made the 15K seem longer.

A track athlete who is training for the Olympics, Norris has competed in only three road races. He picked the Pike Creek Classic because of its prize money but grew apprehensive when he heard about the presence of Gonzales and McGary.

"It's different when you get in against guys who are experienced road racers," said Norris. "I'm not a road racer so I was a little tentative early, but once we got to the five-mile mark I realized that nobody wanted to run under 50 minutes and I knew I could do that."

Norris led throughout the race. Competition came from Huggins, who ultimately had to drop out at the six-mile mark. McGary never challenged Norris and complained of track burn out after the race.

"The heat didn't bother me at all but I just couldn't turn my legs over," said McGary, who finished second and collected $300 in prize money. "I was full of energy but I just couldn't make my legs stay up with me."

Going into the race, Norris anticipated an advantage considering that some of the top runners were still suffering from the effects of the Boston Marathon held almost a month ago.

"I knew that some of the guys had run the Boston Marathon and they've got to be still recovering," said Norris. "So I wasn't too worried and I felt that if I could stay with them for seven miles, I'd have a chance."

The women's winner in the 15K was Villanova University assistant basketball coach Maureen Shields. Shields was clocked at 55:47 and admitted to doubts about finishing the race, much less winning.

"It's awfully hot and humid out there and the hills are tough," said Shields. "It really wiped me out and I had some questions at the three-mile mark, but I caught my second wind at the seven-mile mark and made it home."

The women's winner in the 5K race was Wilmington's Denise Marini, who finished with a time of 18:14. Marini finished 11th overall in a field of 238.

Spartans need win

Team must bounce back to have shot at Catholic title

by Bruce Johnson

Needing only one Catholic Conference victory to secure at least a tie for first place in the conference, the St. Mark's High School softball team traveled to Wilmington Thursday to take on struggling Padua Academy.

While there, they encountered strong armed Kathy Boughton who pitched a no-hitter and handed the Spartans their first conference setback, 4-2.

"It was a disappointing loss but not devastating," said Spartan skipper Tom Parkins, whose team's record dropped to 7-1 in conference play and 15-2 overall. "We're still assured of a least a second place finish in the conference. It's just disappointing from the standpoint that we didn't hit the ball and I thought we could hit the ball this time against her. She pitched a great game."

The Spartans had defeated Padua and Boughton 1-0 in an earlier contest.

The Spartans have two games remaining, both against Catholic Conference foes. They will face Holy Cross and St. Elizabeth, which is in second place with a record of 6-2. A victory over St. Elizabeth would insure sole ownership of the conference title and a victory over Holy Cross would insure at least a tie.

Regardless of the outcomes, the Spartans will be tournament bound.

"If we lose both games we would finish in second place but we'll still go to the tournament because they take two Catholic teams," said Parkins.

The Spartans looked impressive entering the Padua contest, riding a 12-game win streak. Earlier in the week the Spartans had disposed of Holy Cross 23-3, with senior Lois Bukowski contributing five hits and four RBIs.

With the two make up games remaining, the Spartans have a chance to get back on the winning track before the tournament begins next week.

"I was hoping that the team would peak at the end of the season," said Parkins. "This is a mild setback but it also might wake them up and show them that they're not invincible."

While the Spartans are guaranteed a spot in the 12-team state tournament, which begins May 28, Glasgow is fighting the battle of numbers for an invitation.

Currently ranked second in Blue Hen Conference Flight A with William Penn and Brandywine, behind front runner Delcastle, the Dragons have to win their two remaining games against Christiana and Concord to insure at least a second place finish and consideration for a tournament bid.

"On paper it looks like the tie might hold up," said Glasgow head coach Nancy Pierce.

"If it does then the first two teams from Flight A will go and then the other team would hope to be considered for an at-large berth."

The Dragons had a chance to make matters much simpler on Thursday but were upended 15-6 by Delcastle in a battle for first place. Fielding errors with runners in scoring position broke the game open and the Dragons were unable to come back, although they mounted several rallies.

Earlier in the week, the Dragons defeated McKean 13-3 behind Mary Kate McDonald's one hitter. Norma Stoddard paved the offense with four RBIs.

In other action, Newark recorded one victory against two defeats. The 'Jackets upended McKean 7-2 on the strength of Jackie West's pitching. However, McKean bounced right back and defeated the 'Jackets 17-4 on Thursday. The 'Jackets were also upended by Brandywine 5-2 despite a strong performance from Lisa Roberson, who had two hits and two RBIs for the 'Jackets.

Christiana suffered another disappointing week, losing three games. The Vikings were upended by Concord 13-6, Brandywine 15-2 and Claymont 10-2. Kathy Aiello, Lori Kline and Rena Michels had a productive week in the losing efforts. The Vikings are 1-13.

St. Mark's pitcher Terre Alessandrini prepares to sling one to Padua batter.

Bowman, Tasha capture state disc-catching title

by Bruce Johnson

With the enthusiasm of youngsters, the gracefulness of skaters, the athletic talent of gymnasts and the charm of so many Shirley Temples, a baker's dozen of various breeds of dogs descended upon Barksdale Park Saturday for the fourth annual Gaines Cycle Ashley Whippet Invitational Delaware state disc-catching championships.

Russ Bowman teamed with his best friend Tasha and walked away with the first place trophy and state title with some dazzling displays of acrobatics. Richard Pierson teamed with Sheeba as first runner-up and Tim Karschner and Toby were awarded second runner-up.

"When I first came out here I didn't know what to expect because you can go to any park and see a dog catch a Frisbee," said meet director Sherry Emerson. "But it's really great to see what type of talent these dogs have. It's a lot of fun and it's just a nice special event to have."

Competition was divided into two events in which dog and trainer tried to score as many points as possible.

The first event was the disc throwing contest in which trainers tried to get their dogs airborne while catching the disc. The second event was the free flight which allowed for more creative moves in which dogs were judged on execution, showmanship, leaping ability and degree of difficulty.

About half of the teams were seasoned competitors, with some having more than six years on the tour. The rest were inexperienced first timers who were unaccustomed to competition. This made for some interesting situations as the attention of several dogs drifted towards things other than the competition.

"We expect the situations," said Emerson with a smile. "There's always people who come out here for the first time and they don't know what to expect. You always get your nature breaks and dogs running around, but it just adds to the competition. It's a little humorous and the spectators enjoy it."

For state champion Bowman, the sight of curious dogs roaming around and inspecting the new surroundings is just part of the competition. "I have another dog that will catch the Frisbee and then take it into the crowd, and then that's the end of the competition," he said. "I don't know why Tasha doesn't react that way, but she doesn't. So I can relate to the trainers."

On Saturday, the competition boiled down to the acrobatic talents of Bowman's Tasha and Pierson's Sheeba. Both trainers tour the East Coast, Bowman has five state titles to his credit and competed in the world championships last year at the Houston Astrodome.

Pierson has competed with

Sheeba for the past six years and enjoys the camaraderie of the competition. "It's a strange sport but all the people involved are really good people," said Pierson as he petted Sheeba. "They're good, hearted and kind to animals and enjoy being around them."

Pierson, who competed in high school sports, said that the feelings of competition are similar in the Ashley Whippet competition. "The thrill is the same," he said. "It's exciting and I really want her (Sheeba) to reach the world finals because she's just a great dog and really deserves it. If anything, it's my Frisbee ability that's stopping her."

Pierson added that the dogs usually remain consistent when performing and a good or bad round depends on the trainer's ability.

Rainwater... It seems pure- but is it?

Not always! As rainwater falls through the atmosphere and filters down through the soil, it absorbs tiny particles of chemicals and minerals. Carbonic acid is one chemical readily absorbed by rainwater. These chemicals are then carried by the rainwater directly into your well, and eventually into your home's water system!

ACID WATER COULD BE DESTROYING YOUR PLUMBING SYSTEM!

Carbonic acid is extremely corrosive when in contact w. copper or iron pipes. Blue-green stains in your sink and tub? That's just one indicator of copper corrosion from acid water. It can eventually eat up your water heater, and damage your dishwasher and washing machine. And the acid content in your water can increase in intensity as the years go on!

SCHAGRINGAS Co. RECOMMENDS:

★ Water Conditioning By Miracle Water®! ★

- Fully Automated System will halt corrosion as it neutralizes acids. It cannot repair damage already done, but it will prevent further damage.

McGrail new U.D. captain

Joe McGrail, a 6-3, 271-pound senior defensive tackle from Glendora, N.J., has been selected as captain of the 1986 University of Delaware football team, head coach Harold R. "Tubby" Raymond announced Thursday.

McGrail, a two-year standout on the defensive line for the Blue Hens, becomes the 97th captain in the University of Delaware's 94-year history. Each year's captain is selected through a vote of his teammates.

"Joe is an outstanding football player and one of the best we have ever had at his position," said Raymond, who will begin his 21st season this fall when the Blue Hens enter their first campaign as a member of the Yankee Conference. "At a time when we were rebuilding our defensive front, he arrived at just the right time. He is an outstanding young man and should be a good leader for us."

Playing alongside 1985 captain and defensive end Vaughn Dickinson, defensive tackle Chuck Brice, and defensive end Gary Cannon, McGrail became known as one of the members of Delaware's "Diamond Wall," the Hens' front four which held opponents to an average of just 292 yards per game over the last two seasons.

As the defensive front's lone underclassmen last season, McGrail started all 11 games and helped the Hens put together a 7-4 mark that included wins over Navy and Temple. In the process, McGrail led the squad with eight quarterback sacks for a loss of 48 yards and ranked sixth in tackles with a total of 77. He also anchored a defensive front that allowed just 294 total yards per game and 126.9 yards rushing per game against some of the nation's top runners, including All-Americans Napoleon McCallum of Navy and Paul Palmer of Temple.

As a sophomore, McGrail recorded 57 tackles to rank fourth on the squad and also picked up six sacks for a loss of 23 yards and 109.4 yards rushing per game that season.

McGrail, a business major, came to Delaware from Pope Paul VI High School where he served as captain and led the team to a 10-0 record and the State Parochial A title. While at Pope Paul VI, he was named to the All-South Jersey, All-Delaware Valley, and All-Suburban teams.

This fall McGrail will be counted on to lead a young defensive front that lost three starters from last year — Dickinson, Brice, and Cannon — to graduation. The Hens will open their 1986 season Sept. 6 when they host Rhode Island to begin an 11-game slate that includes battles with seven Yankee Conference opponents.

Bill Dinardo will guide Caravel gridders.

Dinardo named Caravel coach

Caravel Academy has announced that Bill Dinardo is the school's new head football coach.

Caravel, located in Bear, will be competing in football on the varsity level for the fourth year.

Carl Rice, the school's boys' athletic director, made the announcement, saying "We are extremely happy to have someone with Bill's high personal standards, and teaching and coaching experience join Caravel's staff. We were very fortunate to have many very qualified candidates apply for the position. Bill fits the teaching and coaching goals established by the school."

A graduate of Archmere Academy and West Chester University, Dinardo has been an integral part of two of the top athletic programs in Delaware.

For nine years Dinardo was on the coaching staff of Archmere Academy and for the last three years he was the defensive coorinator for the program. While at Archmere, he served under two fine coaches, Bill Doyle and Larry Cyle.

Dinardo also served as assistant baseball coach at Concord High School under head coach Jim Thompson.

Rice said Caravel has put together "a very competitive football schedule" for 1986-87. The schedule includes games with Tower Hill, Tatnall, Middletown, Howard, Oxford, Pa., Unionville, Pa., Jenkintown, Pa., Chincoteague, Va., West Nottingham, Md. Academy and Pocomoke City, Md.

"I am certain that once the parents, students and staff at Caravel get to know Bill, they will be very impressed with him as a person, teacher and coach," Rice said.

Dinardo is married to the former Maria Panico and they are expecting their first child in June.

Newark golfers add two victories

The Newark High school golf team had a successful week, recording victories over Glasgow (8½-½) and Brandywine (7-2).

Against the Dragons, Newark's Bill Stritzinger was the medalist, shooting a 40 at Newark Country Club. Gaining victories for the 'Jackets were Ray Grehofsky (2 up), Harold Land (3-2), Curtis Davis (4-2), Jay Baxter (forfeit) and Stritzinger (3-2).

Against Brandywine, the 'Jackets were paced by Geiger, who shot a 38 at Porky Oliver's Country Club. Gaining victories for the 'Jackets were Geiger (2-1), Grehofsky (1 up), Baxter (3-2), Land (1 up) and Davis (1 up).

In other action, Christiana defeated Delcastle (8½-½) but were upended by Concord (4½-½). Against the Cougars, the Vikings were led by Ron Rainey's 40 at Louvier's DuPont Country Club. Gaining victories for the Vikings were Rainey (1 up), Frank Hackett (1 up), Steve Sywy (4-3), Pat Evancho (5-4), Joe Yount (1 up) and Joe Beaudet (3-2).

St. Mark's had one match during the week, drawing a tie with archrival Salesianum. Mike Walker was the medalist recording a 34 at Rock Manor Country Club. Gaining victories for the Spartans were Walker (2-1), Dan Kempinski (1 up), Steve Prusak (1 up), and Tim Abrams (2-1).

Besides losing to Newark, the Glasgow golf team had matches against McKean, falling 8½-½, and William Penn, winning 5½-3½.

Gaining victories for the Dragons in the match against the Colonials were Mike Miller (2-1), Reid Hubbard (2 up), and Kyle Spaulding (2-1).

Braves 9, Indians 8
Steve Murphy recorded three hits including a triple to lead the Braves over the Indians 9-8 on May 14. Dan DelCello pitched well in relief to pick up the victory aided by the defensive play of Joe Chaplow. Adam Schuman and Mike Johnston both recorded two hits for the Braves.

Braves 12, Dodgers 8
Led by the offensive production of Rob Collins and Butch Singleton, who both recorded three hits, the Braves upended the Dodgers 12-8 on May 12. Singleton also picked up the save for the Braves. Chris Dunn played a fine game for the Dodgers recording three hits in a losing effort.

Orioles 6, Cubs 5
Behind the strong arm of Eric Leininger, the Orioles were able to sneak by the determined Cubs 6-5 on Wednesday May 15. Leininger recorded five strikeouts but needed some relief help from Dave Telep, who struck out four. Ken Raffel played good defense for the Orioles. The game was also highlighted by the pitching of the Cub's Theron Hutton who struck out nine.

Orioles 4, Astros 3
The Orioles won their seventh consecutive game without a loss, defeating the Astros 4-3 on Friday, May 17. Mike Gerhart picked up the victory striking out nine batters with Dave Telep recording the save. Gerhart also contributed a single and a triple and two runs scored. Eric Leininger had a fine day at the plate, collecting two singles including scoring the winning run. Leininger was knocked in on Kenny Raffel's game winning single in the fifth inning. The game was highlighted by Orioles centerfielder Jeff Permar, who ended the game with a fine running catch and then doubled the Astro runner off first base. The Astros were led by Kevin McCullough, who recorded two hits, and the fine pitching of Jack DeMika.

Indians 6, Cubs 1
Behind the pitching of Mike Johnston, the Indians defeated the Cubs 6-1 on Saturday, May 17. Rob Dessenberger recorded the save for the Indians. Offensively, the Indians were led by Johnston's double and Randy Faraabaugh who recorded two hits.

'Jackets have key showdown with William Penn Thursday

The Newark High School baseball team which was chopping down conference opponents like a chainsaw through balsa wood has suddenly found itself in a battle for first place.

Losing two of their last three games, the 'Jackets will most likely battle William Penn for the Blue Hen conference Flight A title this Thursday in their season finale.

The conference battle was set up by Newark's loss to McKean 6-5 on Thursday. The loss dropped the 'Jacket record to 10-2 in conference play and breathed new life into William Penn, which is 9-3 in conference play. If both teams win on Tuesday, the season finale will be for the ownership of the conference title and the all-important automatic berth in the state tournament, which begins next week.

Earlier in the week, Newark defeated Brandywine 8-2 behind the pitching of Craig Callahn, who scattered eight hits and struck out nine. John Slack had a two-run triple and Bob Soncheon recorded the game winning hit in the second inning. Scott Gee and Derrick May also produced RBIs.

In other action, St. Mark's continues to look impressive, gaining victories over A.I. duPont (5-3) and highly touted Tower Hill (8-6).

Against A.I. duPont, the Spartans were led by Chuck Fisher's game winning RBI single in the fifth inning. Pitcher Mark Hoffman retained a spotless record, gaining his fourth victory on the year.

Against the Hillers, left handed Rich McFarland recorded his seventh victory without a loss despite yielding 15 hits. John Mangan paced the offense with a two-run triple and Mark Mazick recorded two hits including a triple and two RBIs.

In other action, Glasgow split a pair of games this week, defeating Delcastle 21-3, on Thursday after being upended by McKean 8-1 on Tuesday.

Against the Cougars, the Dragons were led by Donny Davis, who drove in eight runs with four hits.

Christiana bounced back after losing to Brandywine (1-0) and Concord (4-1) to defeat Claymont 11-5 on Saturday. The Vikings were led by Ed Oliver, who had three hits — including a home run — while knocking home four runs. Alex Lardani recorded two doubles and teammates Randy Dawson and Darren Quillen each contributed a single and a double. The victory pushed the Vikings' record to 5-11.

LIFESTYLE

When people look at me, they assume — quite rightly — that I enjoy eating. Just because a person enjoys eating does not mean that a person enjoys cooking. Yet most people leap to the conclusion that since I think eating is a praiseworthy pastime, then I think cooking is a valuable vocation. In actual fact, I do think cooking is an admirable and, indeed, a commendable occupation, but it's simply not for me.

We don't presume that people who attend football games want to play against the Chicago Bears or even with them for that matter. Nor do I believe people who watch bobsledding want to do it. Most of us have much too much sense to go careening down an icy chute at 120 miles per hour protected only by optimism and a flimsy piece of metal.

All mothers of teenage daughters know that they love to dress in the latest fashions, but woe to the mother who assumes that her daughter wants to make those same fashions. As one daughter succinctly pointed out to her mother, "Just because you like wearing pearls and sapphires does not mean that you want to a) dive for them; b) mine them; c) cut them." Finally, even though I like a neat and clean house, it does not mean that I look forward to housework.

So how come those of us who are endowed by nature with the kinds of cells that expand and multiply when dreaming of chocolate cream pies are expected to be Cordon Bleu chefs or, at the very least, adequate cooks?

My family knows what kind of a chef I am, and anyone with an ear for reading between the lines could figure it out when they hear my husband say not with pride, but with awe, "This is a good meal."

If push comes to shove, and I know that the future of the world depends upon it, I can make several things — one of which is every housewife's standby, a casserole made of noodles, hamburger and tomato sauce. My family has affectionately and honestly named it Mediocore Casserole.

There is also my meatloaf, which I used to do "free form" because I believed that anyone who baked meatloaf in a meatloaf pan cheated and was of low moral character. Of course, when I removed it from the oven, my meatloaf resembled nothing quite so much as a large amoeba topped with lightly charred Velveeta cheese. My family, in an attempt to be kind, labeled it Meatlump. They never quite managed to finish it at one sitting, and being Scottish both by heritage and nature, I could neither toss it nor give it to the dog. Thus the following night, the family dined on Meatlump diced and disguised as spaghetti and meatcubes.

Never let it be said that I am not an adventurous cook, especially with hamburger. One time I made spaghetti and meatballs with mashed nacho chips in them. My family voted unanimously to go back to plain meatcubes. Even the dog turned up his nose at my Mexicali spaghetti.

When it comes to all-time least favorites, my family is split. My husband and eldest vote for the meatloaf with the chili dog hidden in the middle, and my two youngest and the dog vote for the steamed halibut on a bed of sauerkraut.

I suppose no one is surprised that my husband has agreed that as soon as we are rich or are through educating our children (whichever comes first) the kitchen will undergo a thorough renovation. Current plans call for turning it into a solar greenhouse with a phone for ordering meals.

Course

Blood pressure

The course "Blood Pressure: Its Control and Measurement" will be presented at Union Hospital of Cecil County, Elkton, Md., on Thursday, May 29, in the hospital's cafeteria.

The course is sponsored by the American Heart Association and will be taught by two registered nurses.

The program is a one-day course that instructs the participant in the latest concepts in blood pressure control including measurement techniques, referral methodology and patient education.

Participants are expected to demonstrate accurate measurement techniques during practice and testing sessions and an in-depth understanding of blood pressure measurement and referral procedures. Visual, audio, written and skill tests are included.

Participants who meet the course requirements are certified by the American Heart Association as having successfully completed the course.

To register, send a check made out to Union Hospital of Cecil County to Meta Little, Union Hospital Nursing Office, Bow Street, Elkton, Md. 21921. Include name, address and phone number. Fee is $10. The session will be held from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

For more information, call Meta Little at 731-0743, extension 5600.

Tests

Canner gauges

Delaware Cooperative Extension will be testing pressure canner gauges 1:30-4 p.m. Thursday, May 22 at its office in Townsend Hall on South College Avenue.

Pressure canners with a dial gauge or weight with a sliding core type gauge should be tested each year before used to preserve food.

The program is free and open to the public.

Fresh Air

Hosts sought

"It's boring in the city in the summertime. There's nothing to do. I like going to the country because it's quiet. I go horseback riding, swimming and meet new people."

That's how one Fresh Air Fund child described the difference between her summer in New York City and one spent in Newark.

Fresh Air children are 6 to 12-years-old, and volunteer host families may request the age and sex of their visitors. The Friendly Town program is so successful that 60 percent of all Fresh Air children are invited to visit the same families, year after year.

The organization is looking for volunteers to become host families in the Newark area. For information on becoming a volunteer host, call Cathy Peoples at 239-4200.

Hearing loss

Sensory changes can be emotionally upsetting

"Changes in hearing often affect a person socially as well as physically," says Debbie Amsden, University of Delaware extension home economist. "Even a slight hearing loss can be emotionally upsetting, particularly if it interferes with understanding family, friends or television."

Amsden says that hearing loss can lead to isolation, depression and anxiety. People with impaired hearing may withdraw from group situations because listening is a chore. They may quit traveling by public transportation if they can no longer hear announcements over the public address system. Some may equate hearing loss with inadequacy; others become suspicious of what is being said.

Too often, older, hard-of-hearing people who appear confused or give inappropriate responses are labeled "senile," "stubborn" or "dull," while the hearing loss goes undetected.

University extension family specialist Dr. Patricia Tanner Nelson says hearing loss affects more people than any other chronic condition. From age 20 to 60, the rate of hearing impairments rises from 10 to 75 per thousand. By age 50, most people begin to experience a gradual hearing loss. Approximately 30 percent to 50 percent of all older people suffer a significant loss that affects their ability to communicate and their relationships with others.

An individual may be reluctant to admit a hearing impairment for a variety of reasons, and may not even be aware of the loss if it has been gradual. But family and friends can help identify a loss by noting certain telltale signs. People with impaired hearing may speak unusually loudly or softly, and their voices may sound monotonous or strange.

They may accuse others of mumbling or not speaking clearly, or ask someone to repeat what has just been said. They may give inappropriate responses to questions, or fail to follow directions or respond to sounds altogether. Someone who frequently displays these signs should be checked by a physician who specializes in hearing problems.

Nelson says there are two general categories of hearing impairment: conductive loss and sensory-neural loss. In the first, sound waves are not properly conducted to the inner ear and all sounds seem muffled. This may be caused by an obstruction in the outer ear such as an accumulation of wax, or a blockage caused by swelling and pus. But more often it is a middle ear problem.

In sensory-neural loss, sound waves reach the inner ear, but are not properly transmitted to the brain. The sufferer generally hears low tones, but the high frequency sounds of speech are distorted. Vowel sounds a, e, i, o and u are low pitched. Consonants such as th, s, sh, f and p, are high pitched and more difficult to hear. Thus the person can't discriminate among words that sound similar, and consequently has difficulty following a conversation.

For example, "fifty cents" and "fifteen cents" may sound the same. Other words easily confused are "dead" and "bed," "choose" and "juice," "fill" and "pill." Although some high tone loss is universal in old age, Nelson says there are marked differences in degree.

The effectiveness of hearing aids also varies among individuals. Some people find these devices annoying because they amplify all sound, not just the human voice. Wearing an aid for a short time (15 to 60 minutes) during quiet periods and gradually increasing to 10 to 12 hours a day makes the adjustment easier.

Amsden suggests several ways to make yourself understood when speaking to someone who has trouble hearing. Speak clearly in a moderate voice. Shouting creates a booming effect that accentuates vowel sounds and muffles consonants, especially for those who wear hearing aids. Lowering a high pitched voice can also help.

Get the attention of the person before speaking, and use facial expressions, gestures and objects to further illustrate your verbal message. Speak slowly and distinctly without exaggerating the lips, which distorts the mouth and the words being spoken. Remove objects such as gum and cigarettes from your mouth when speaking.

This is the second article in a three-part series on sensory changes in the elderly.

Factors influence fruit trees

Many factors influence the quality and quantity of fruit a tree bears. Home gardeners sometimes wonder why their trees don't produce. Delaware extension agent Glenn Layton says the following are some of the possible reasons:

•Age — Fruit trees purchased from a nursery are usually one to two years old. Depending on the species and variety, they require an additional two to seven years after planting to mature. Bearing ages for some of the most common fruit trees are: apple (two to five years), peach (two to four years), sweet cherry (four to seven years) and pear (four to six years). Dwarf apple and pear trees usually start to bear one to two years earlier than standard size trees, Layton says.

•Health — Good health is essential for quality fruit production. Insects and diseases are the two main problems of fruit trees. Through a regular spray program, these problems can be controlled.

•Winter weather — Most hardy fruit trees need a certain amount of cold weather to end their dormancy and promote spring growth. When winters are too mild, Layton says, spring growth is delayed, irregular and slow. These factors extend the period of blooming, and thereby increase the possibility of frost injury.

On the other hand, extreme cold during winter dormancy kills the fruit buds on some trees. Winter weather rarely threatens hardy apple, pear, plum, and sour cherry varieties. Sweet cherry trees, however, are relatively sensitive to cold until they become dormant, while peach trees are very vulnerable to cold weather. Their buds can be killed by mid-winter temperatures of minus 10 degrees F.

•Frost damage — As fruit buds grow and open in the spring, they become increasingly susceptible to injury from frost. Exposed buds can usually withstand temperatures near 24 degrees F. However, Layton says the open blossoms of practically all fruit trees may be killed if the temperature drops below 27 degrees F.

When a heavy frost is expected, covering trees sometimes prevents bud or blossom injury, provided temperatures do not fall too low and the cold is of short duration. Cheesecloth, old bed sheets or similar protective coverings may be used.

During spring frosts, some commercial growers heat their orchards, but this is impractical for most home gardeners, Layton says. After a hard freeze, injured blossoms may appear normal, but if the pistils (center parts of the blossoms) are killed, the tree will not bear fruit.

•Pollination — Without sufficient pollination, a tree may bloom but develop no fruits. Some species have what are called perfect flowers. That is, both the anthers (which contain pollen) and the pistils (which develop into fruit), are located in the same blossom. Trees that bear fruit through self-pollination are called self-fruitful.

However, there are many tree types with perfect flowers that can't produce fruit from their own pollen. These are called self-unfruitful and require pollen from another variety.

UNIVERSITY

Munson to direct Honors

Dr. Burnaby Munson will head Honors Program.

Dr. Burnaby Munson, a member of the University of Delaware Department of Chemistry faculty since 1967, has been named director of the University Honors Program, Dr. L. Leon Campbell, provost and vice president for academic affairs, announced last week.

The appointment follows a national search. Munson has been serving as acting director of the Honors Program since the departure of Dr. Gary Reichard last spring.

"Dr. Munson brings a special blend of qualities to this position," Campbell said. "Not only is he an internationally known scholar and proven administrator, but he also has demonstrated a dedication to the University of Delaware and to the concept of honors education, and he has an admirable record of concern for and interest in undergraduate students."

A native of Wharton, Texas, Munson came to Delaware as an associate professor after serving as a research chemist for the Esso Research and Engineering Co. for several years.

In the Department of Chemistry, he was promoted to full professor in 1972 and served as acting chairperson from 1973-75. He also was acting director of the University Honors Program in the fall of 1981 and 1982.

Munson earned his bachelor's degree with highest honors, his master's degree and doctorate from the University of Texas, Austin. All are in chemistry.

He is a member of numerous professional societies, including the American Institute of Chemists, the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science, the Delaware Academy of Science, the Society for Applied Spectroscopy and Sigma Xi and Phi Kappa Phi honoraries.

Munson is past president of the Delaware chapter of Phi Beta Kappa and the American Society for Mass Spectrometry and past chairman of the Delaware Section of the American Chemical Society. He was named Spectroscopist of the Year in 1979 by the Delaware chapter of the Society for Applied Spectroscopy.

Recipient of an excellence-in-teaching award from the University in 1973, Munson has taught general chemistry for science and engineering majors. He also has received grants from the University's Center for Teaching Effectiveness, to enhance classroom and laboratory experiences for students.

In addition, Munson has been awarded grants for research from the National Science Foundation, the Office of Naval Research, the Petroleum Research Foundation of the American Chemical Society and the University of Delaware Research Foundation. He has been a frequent consultant to industry.

The author or coauthor of more than 80 articles in scholarly and technical journals, he holds a patent with F.H. Field for a process for chemical ionization for intended use in mass spectrometry.

The University Honors Program began in 1976 with a small group of entering freshmen. Today, that program has evolved into one of the most successful academic programs in the country.

Summer computer camps offered

The Department of Individual and Family Studies at the University of Delaware, in conjunction with the University's Office of Computer Based Instruction, is offering a summer computer camp for children ages four through nine in Newark and Lewes.

The first computer camp is scheduled from June 24-July 11 in Newark and the second computer camp is scheduled from July 29-Aug. 15 in Lewes.

Emphasis of the computer camp will be placed on basic computer literacy and using the computer as a tool for creative expression. The use of computer-generated music, graphics, animation and logo programming also will be explored.

The cost of each three-week camp is $90 and a limited number of scholarships are available.

Registration deadline for the June 24-July 11 computer camp is Sunday, June 1, and deadline for the July 29-Aug. 15 computer camp is Tuesday, July 1.

For more information, contact Michael Nesterak at 451-8563 or Nancy Pegan at 451-2304.

UNIVERSITY FILE

Dreams

'Cleveland Avenue'

"Cleveland Avenue," an exhibition of photographs of Newark's "Avenue of Dreams," will be on display Wednesday-Friday, May 21-23 at Gallery 20, 20 Orchard Rd.

The exhibition is sponsored by the University of Delaware's Department of Art. It is free and open to the public.

The exhibition, featuring 12 advanced students from Byron Shurtleff's applied photographic documentation class, includes photos from automobile row at Kirkwood Highway to the Elk's Club at Del. 896, along Cleveland Avenue.

Shurtleff, a professor of art at the University, calls it "a group project resulting in an often witty examination of a vernacular landscape quintessentially American in character."

Gallery 20 hours are 7-9 p.m., Wednesday, and from 2-5 and 7-9 p.m., Thursday and Friday, May 22-23.

Seymour

General, artist

More than 125 years after the carnage of the American Civil War, the art of a Union general will be exhibited at the University of Delaware. "The Drawings and Watercolors by Truman Seymour (1824-1891)" will be on free public display from May 23-Aug. 15 at the University Gallery in Old College on the University campus in Newark.

A free public opening reception will be held from 3:30-6 p.m., Friday May 23, in the Gallery.

An 1846 graduate of the U.S. Military Academy, Seymour received art instruction at West Point, where he later taught as assistant professor of drawing. Following an army career of 30 years during which he served at Fort Sumter, the battle of Antietam and a number of other engagements, Seymour retired to Europe to study the art of the old masters and to paint landscapes.

Traveling extensively, he produced sketches and watercolors depicting scenes in numerous countries. He was especially fond of Spain and Italy, but also painted in other regions — from Tangiers to Switzerland.

Seymour considered himself an amateur and never sold his work, but his vivid watercolors and draftsmanship reflected the skill of a professional artist. After his death, Seymour's work was left to his family and not shown publicly until the 1970s when West Point opened an exhibition of his art.

The exhibit presents the most comprehensive showing of the artist's work to date. The watercolor "View from Seymour's Window, Hotel Suiza, Cordova, 1885" is included in the exhibit. It is a good illustration of his artistic skill and sensitivity.

The University Gallery is open from 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m., Mondays-Fridays. For more information, call the University's Museum Studies Program, telephone 451-1251.

Ceramics

Open house

The University of Delaware ceramics studio will hold an open house and exhibition from 7-10 p.m. Wednesday, May 21. The studio is located at the corner of North College Avenue and Cleveland Avenue.

The event is an informal opportunity for the public to see the University's facilities and meet instructors and students who work in the studio. A selection of work by graduate and undergraduate students will be on display.

University honors Jack & Anne Levis

C. Jackson "Jack" and Anne Swain Levis of Bethany Beach were honored as the University of Delaware's Outstanding Alumni of the Year for 1986, at the annual spring reunion luncheon held May 3 on the University's Newark campus.

The announcement was made at the reunion by Paul Seitz, chairperson of the 1986 Alumni Association Awards Committee. Making reference to the Kentucky Derby, which was to begin later that day, Seitz called Mr. and Mrs. Levis "two Blue and Gold thoroughbreds."

Levis, who earned his bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering at the University in 1950, served with Fisher & Porter Co. of Philadelphia for 34 years, before he retired in 1984.

His alumni activities have included serving as president, vice president and a member of the board of the Alumni Association, as a class of 1950 agent for the fund campaign, as president of the Western New York State chapter, and as a member of the Philadelphia chapter.

Mr. Levis, a native of Georgetown who received her bachelor's degree in chemistry at the University in 1946, was a science teacher and has served her alma mater in a number of ways. She has served as a member of the Alumni Association's Board of Directors, was active in the Philadelphia chapter and was planning committee coordinator for the Western New York State chapter.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Levis are active in the Alumni Association's Sussex County chapter, are supporters of the lacrosse program and are members of the World War II Alumni Scholarship Endowment Fund Steering Committee.

At the reunion, University President E.A. Trabant presented Mr. and Mrs. Levis with University of Delaware wristwatches.

Mrs. Levis noted that the work she had done on behalf of the University was enjoyable and satisfying. "Any of those committees I served on," she concluded, "I did with pride and total joy. I felt I was returning or giving back a little of what the University had given me."

Mr. Levis stressed the strong influence of his parents, also Delaware alumni. "Even before I attended the University of Delaware, I had Blue Henitis," he said. "...I owe to the University, as Anne mentioned, an awful lot. It still means a lot to me, and I am extremely pleased and proud to receive the honor you have given me."

Their four sons also were graduated from the University. They are Charles "Stretch," class of 1971; Lee, class of 1973; Scotton "Scott," class of 1976; and Linden "Win," class of 1981. All were associated with the University's lacrosse team.

Two sons married University graduates: Lee's wife is Mary Edcombe Levis, class of 1973, and Win's wife is Ann McCubbin Levis, class of 1980.

University of Delaware President E.A. Trabant (center) congratulates Anne and Jack Levis, who received the Outstanding Alumni Awards for 1986.

Summer Alumni College deadline near

"Discovering Regional Americana" will be the theme of the University of Delaware's new Summer Alumni College, an extended weekend vacation learning experience set July 16-20 on the Newark campus and in the area.

Although the Alumni College was designed primarily for University alumni, others interested in the University and the program also may attend.

This summer's inaugural program will explore the diversity of America's historical and cultural heritage from coast to coast, as well as critical social, economic and political issues affecting the lives of all Americans. The program will feature topics as diverse as American music, architecture, literature, dance, folk art, cuisine, urban revitalization, ecological challenges and U.S. Constitutional analysis.

Through lectures, debates, costume dramatization, workshops, campus and museum tours, and even a batter of meals representing many areas of the country, distinguished University faculty will analyze and interpret American life of yesterday, today and tomorrow and bring participants up-to-date on many fields they may or may not have studied during their college years.

Although participants will be treated to a full schedule of academic activities, they also will have a choice of regional museums to visit, and such optional activities as introductory computer experiences, workshops in home landscaping, wildlife studies, swimming and other sports, theatre/music production and free time just to stroll about the campus, take independent excursions or use as they wish.

Both overnight and commuter rates are available, as well as special rates of boarding teenagers who attend all programs with their parents.

Free booklets with full program details are now available by calling the University's Division of Continuing Education, telephone 451-8842, or the University's Office of Alumni Relations, telephone 451-2341. Booklets also are available at Clayton Hall or Alumni Hall in Newark, the Wilcastle and Goodstay centers in Wilmington, the Virden Center in Lewes and libraries throughout the state.

Deadline for initial registration deposits is Saturday, May 31, and final registrations are due June 20.

Specific questions may be directed to the program's coordinator, Patricia C. Kent, 210 Clayton Hall, telephone 451-8841.

Migrants

Ministry Day

Migrant Ministry Day, an event to benefit the Delmarva Rural Ministries, will be held Friday morning, May 23 at First Presbyterian Church, 292 W. Main St.

Gaila Stevens, director of health services for Delmarva Rural Ministries, will be the guest speaker. She will address the meeting at 9:30 a.m.

A bake sale and coffee hour will follow at 10:30 a.m. Participants should bring baked goods priced for sale.

Also, those attending are asked to bring "kleen aid" kits containing: wash cloth, soap, toothbrush, toothpaste, and comb wrapped in bath towel and tied with ribbon or shoelaces.

Migrant Ministry Day is sponsored by Church Women United for Newark and Wilmington.

Mormons

Open house

The Newark area ward of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints (the Mormons) will hold an open house at its chapel at 601 Elkton Blvd., Elkton, Md., from 7-9 p.m. Friday, June 6.

Bishop Douglass Taber of Newark, the church leader, said the open house will feature two films, "Families Are Forever" and "Man's Search for Happiness." Ward elders will be on hand to answer questions.

Refreshments will be served. The open house is free and open to the public.

FORCES

Malloch

OSUT training

Army Private Todd Malloch, son of Jeffrey and Janis E. Malloch of Flamingo Drive, Newark, has completed one station unit training (OSUT) at the U.S. Army Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

OSUT is a 12-week period which combines basic combat training and advanced individual training. The training included weapons qualifications, squad tactics, patrolling, landmine warfare, field communications and combat operations. Completion of this course qualifies the soldier as a light-weapons Infantryman and as an indirect-fire crewman.

Malloch is a 1984 graduate of Glasgow High School.

Faber

Team Spirit '86

Army Private First Class Michael E. Faber, son of Dale K. and Maryann Faber of Flamingo Drive, Newark, has participated in Team Spirit '86, a Republic of Korea-United States Combines forces Command-sponsored exercise held in South Korea.

Team Spirit '86 was the 11th in an annual series of joint field training exercises staged to increase the defensive posture of Republic of Korea and U.S. combat and support forces.

The exercise involved forces stationed in South Korea, as well as U.S. forces from other locations within the Pacific Command and the continental United States.

Faber is an infantryman with the United Nations Command Honor Guard in South Korea. He is a 1984 graduate of Glasgow High School.

Magan

Ft. Leonard Wood

Private First Class William E. Magan, son of William E. and Gail R. Magan of Springlake Drive, Newark, has completed basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo.

During the training, students received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid, and Army history and traditions.

The private is a 1984 graduate of Christiana High School.

Thompson

Parris Island

Marine Pvt. Mark W. Thompson, son of Tom J. and Shirleen G. Reitz of Ironwood Drive, Newark, has completed recruit training at Marine Corps Recruit Depot Parris Island, SC.

During the 11-week training cycle, Thompson was taught the basics of battlefield survival. He was introduced to the typical daily routine that he will experience during his enlistment and studied the personal and professional standards traditionally exhibited by Marines.

Thompson is a 1985 graduate of Newark High School.

Christian

Ft. Dix basic

Army National Guard Private First Class Christopher L. Christian, son of Clarence E. Christian and stepson of Mary Christian of Chaucer Drive, Newark, has completed basic training at Fort Dix, N.J.

During the training, students received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid, and Army history and traditions.

Christian is a 1983 graduate of James H. Groves High School, Newark.

McAlees

Completes basic

Army National Guard Pvt. Thomas W. McAlees, son of Thomas McAlees Jr. and stepson of Cindy McAlees of Tunney Court, Newark, has completed basic training at Fort Jackson, S.C.

During the training, students received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid, and Army history and traditions.

He is a 1985 graduate of Christiana High School, Newark.

Lackford

Ft. Jackson basic

Army National Guard Private James L. Lackford, son of James L. and Joanne N. Lackford of Longview Drive, Newark, has completed basic training at Fort Jackson, S.C.

During the training, students received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid, and Army history and traditions.

Lackford is a 1985 graduate of Christiana High School.

Potter

Chanute grad

Senior Airman Clarence A. Potter Jr., son of Gloria Williams of Sanford Drive, Newark, has graduated from the U.S. Air Force maintenance analysis course at Chanute Air Force Base, Ill.

During the course, students were taught to analyze maintenance data and to incorporate procedures for maintaining and correcting data systems. They also earned credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

Potter is a 1982 graduate of Glasgow High School.

Loring

Completes training

Navy Seaman Recruit Kelly A. Loring, daughter of Richard L. and Jacqueline H. Loring of Nottingham Road, Newark, has completed recruit training at Recruit Training Command in Orlando, Fla.

During Loring's eight-week training cycle, she studied general military subjects designed to prepare her for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic fields.

Loring's studies included seamanship, close order drill, Naval history and first aid. Personnel who complete this course of instruction are eligible for three hours of college credit in Physical Education and Hygiene.

A 1977 graduate of Newark High School, Loring joined the Navy in October 1985.

Martin Delivers a new deal for Delaware

The Martin dealership group comes to Newark

Martin Oldsmobile is the newest addition to the Martin family of dealerships - one of the nation's largest automotive retailers.

Martin delivers a first: service customer satisfaction guarantee

Sonny Owens, general manager of Martin Honda and Martin Oldsmobile in Newark, today announced a service satisfaction policy for the Martin dealerships in Delaware.

"In a nutshell, our policy states that our service department won't be satisfied until you are," he says. "We feel that our obligation to the customer doesn't end with the sale, no matter how good a deal the customer may have received. We have an obligation to the customer for as long as he or she owns the car, and we intend to fulfill that obligation."

The elements of the Martin Service Satisfaction Guarantee are as follows:

- Prompt processing of factory warranty claims. At some dealerships, warranty service work receives a low priority, because payment rates are usually set at the factory. Not so at Martin Honda and Martin Oldsmobile. "Warranty work receives a special priority at our dealerships, because we feel obligated to stand behind the quality and workmanship of the cars we sell," Owens says. "We take great pride in being quality Oldsmobile and Quality Honda dealers, and we are committed to maintaining the quality image our products have earned. That's why warranty work comes first, to fulfill our obligation to our customers."
- Signed service orders - in advance and in detail. At Martin Oldsmobile and Martin Honda, service customers will receive a detailed description of work to be performed and prices to be charged, in advance and signed by the service manager. Customers can be assured that their service bill will not exceed the estimate, unless he or she has been contracted in advance for a detailed explanation of additional work to be performed and additional cost, and their approval is given. "There are no good surprises in service work," Owens says, "and we don't want any of our customers to be surprised."

Replacement parts available for inspection.

"If a customer is told that an oil filter needed to be replaced, he is entitled to inspect the old filter so he can see the problem for himself," Owens says, "and that applies to any part that needs to be replaced. Because we run a legitimate service operation, we have no qualms about giving our customers access to everything we do. Peace of mind is important to our customers, so it's important to us."

• Commitment to quality parts. The Martin dealerships are committed to quality service, and that means using only factory-authorized parts. "When we service a customer's car, we're responsible for the proper performance of the vehicle," Owens says. "For that reason, we don't look for shortcuts or ways of cutting our costs by using replacement parts of questionable quality. We use only genuine Honda and genuine Oldsmobile parts, to ensure that we maintain the quality that our manufacturers have worked so hard to establish."

• We're only happy when you are. The Martin dealerships guarantee that no service customer will leave the service department until he or she feels that the problem has been corrected. In the event that the problem re-occurs within 90 days, due to the failure of the part replaced or the workmanship of the mechanic, Martin Oldsmobile and Martin Honda will correct the failure at no additional charge.

"We stand behind the quality of our service work, because we have confidence in the ability of our technicians and the workmanship of the products we sell," Owens says. "Our service customers deserve complete satisfaction, and Martin will deliver it."

Complete details on the Martin Service Satisfaction Guarantee are available at the service departments of Martin Oldsmobile and Martin Honda, on Cleveland Avenue in Newark.

Just a few of the sales & service personnel waiting to serve you at Martin Honda & Martin Oldsmobile, the newest members of the Martin family of dealerships.

Used cars: no lemons at Martin Oldsmobile and Martin Honda

Sonny Owens has a good sense of humor, but it doesn't extend to jokes about used car salesmen. Owens, general manager of Martin Oldsmobile and Martin Honda in Newark, takes used car sales very seriously.

"Used cars represent an important part of our business, because they're important to many of our customers," Owens says. "For many people, reliable used cars are the only means of transportation they can afford; for others, used cars are ideal for second family cars, commuting, and many other purposes. These people need and expect the same level of quality and dependability as new car customers, and we intend to deliver it."

Owens points out that his Honda and Oldsmobile dealerships are in an advantageous position in securing good used cars. "With our type of dealerships, we generally get trade-ins that are a cut above the norm," he says. "As a result, we have a better selection of solid used car product to offer our shoppers from our own stock of trades."

Owens emphasizes that his used car selection doesn't end there. "As part of the Martin organization, we have access to a tremendous pool of used cars from all of our dealerships."

The bottom line in the Martin used car philosophy, as in everything else, is quality. "We keep only the best of our trades," Owens says. We want to offer our customers the widest possible selection so they can find the used car or truck they want. But we look at quality first, to ensure that we deliver value for every used car dollar."

Owens sums up his used car philosophy by saying, "I think lemons belong in the grocery store, not at car dealerships!"

For the first time, new car buyers in the Wilmington - Newark area will have access to one of America's largest automotive sales and service companies. Effective May 12, the Martin organization (based in Philadelphia) is open for business at two locations on the automotive row on Cleveland Avenue in Newark.

Martin Honda and Martin Oldsmobile will be the twelfth and thirteenth dealerships, respectively, of the Martin chain. In the past nine years, the Martin family of dealerships has grown to include 11 makes of cars and trucks, with total sales of more than 20,000 vehicles annually.

The Martin philosophy for success is simple, and is summarized in the corporate theme: "Martin Delivers." Every Martin dealership is oriented toward one goal - customer satisfaction. How that goal is achieved depends on what the customer needs; a new car, a used car, service, financing, or any combination of the above. The Martin theory of customer satisfaction is based on identification of customer priorities, and immediate action to meet his needs.

However, as most consumers are made aware at one time or another, good intentions are not always enough. That's where the resources of the Martin family of dealerships comes into play. With 13 dealerships, the Martin organization is able to offer a wider selection of new and used cars, more financial power and financing options, and more management expertise than any single dealership could possibly offer.

Martin Honda and Martin Oldsmobile represent the company's first ventures into the Delaware market, and the organization has committed itself to complete customer satisfaction from day one. Company executives stress that their method of operation is not a "formula," but a philosophy of successful consumer sales. They intend to tailor their method of operation to the needs of Delaware consumers, and feel strongly that Delaware is a unique market area with unique needs.

"As we identify the specific needs and desires of the car buyers in the Wilmington - Newark area, we will arrange our priorities to meet theirs," says a company spokesman. "We welcome the opportunity to do business with the people of Delaware, and now Martin delivers in Delaware."

The new Martin Honda is now open on Cleveland Avenue in Newark.

Sonny Owens: local boy comes home as general manager of Martin Honda and Martin Oldsmobile

Sonny Owens is a lucky guy. As general manager of Martin Honda and Martin Oldsmobile in Newark, he has been able to combine his professional goals with his strongest personal desire - to come home to Delaware.

Sonny, a native of Wilmington, left Delaware to pursue his career in the automotive industry. After fifteen years of automotive sales and management experience, most recently as General Manager of Martin Main Line Honda in Ardmore, Pennsylvania, Sonny is coming home to Newark to run the Martin organizations' first Delaware dealerships.

"It's like a dream come true," Sonny says. "I was born and raised here, my wife Mary and I are both graduates of the University of Delaware, and now we're coming home and bringing our three children with us. When I was asked to take charge of our first Delaware Dealerships, I felt like a kid at Christmas. And when you consider the fact that it's the job of a lifetime, the whole situation becomes pretty incredible!"

Incredible certainly seems like the right word. Martin Honda and Martin Oldsmobile on Cleveland Avenue in Newark represent an important expansion for the Philadelphia-based Martin family of dealerships.

"I suppose a lot of managers would feel pressured in this situation, but I'm so excited by the opportunity to come home that I haven't had time to notice," Sonny says. "I can't wait to get settled back in, start doing business with my old friends and neighbors, and start making new friends. The best part is that my family is looking forward to living here as much as I am."

Sonny feels a lot of pride in the Martin organization, and is confident that consumers in Delaware will share his enthusiasm for the Martin style of business. "Our theme is 'Martin Delivers,'" Sonny says, "and it's more than just words." At every Martin dealership with which I've been associated, the customer and his needs come first. Whatever is important to the customer is important to us."

To Sonny, the "Martin Delivers" theme covers a wide range of services. "First, we deliver value, in terms of the best car for the least amount of money. Fortunately, in Newark that's not a problem. We're selling Hondas and Oldsmobiles, so we offer our customers the best of the imports and the best of the American-made cars. As General Manager, I can assure you that our prices will be the most competitive in the Delaware Valley, so delivering value is no problem."

"But 'Martin Delivers' goes way beyond price and quality. We deliver customer satisfaction on service, reliable used cars at very affordable prices, and professionalism at every level of our sales and service personnel. Because we are part of such a large chain of dealerships, we can offer the widest possible selection from which our customers can choose, even on hard to find models like Preludes. We want our customers to buy the car they want, equipped the way they want, in the color they want. And because we have access to such a large pool of cars, we can deliver. The same principle applies to financing. We have access to more financing options than any single dealership could command, and all of our financial clout is at the service of our customers."

"But most of all, 'Martin Delivers' reflects an attitude," according to Sonny. "It's hard to put into words," he says, "but I guess you could call it a philosophy of doing business. I want to make friends, by satisfying people's needs. If I make enough friends, I'll sell more than enough cars. I'm going to make good deals on great cars, and do my best to be a good member of the Delaware community. Martin is here to stay, and personally I couldn't be happier about it."

Buy or lease?

The decision to buy or lease your next car depends on your individual needs, according to Sonny Owens, general manager of Martin Honda and Martin Oldsmobile in Newark.

"There are several advantages to leasing," Owens says, "depending on your personal circumstances and financial goals." He lists several advantages to leasing a vehicle:

- Leasing saves cash. Ordinarily, the security deposit and first monthly payment require far less cash than a down payment on a new car purchase. In most cases, the monthly lease payment is also less than normal monthly purchase payments.
- The result, according to Owens, "is that you have cash to invest or use for other purchases."

• Leasing preserves your credit. Since you don't borrow money when you lease, you have in effect expanded your credit limits by the amount of the purchase price.

"By not borrowing to buy a car, you have freed up your borrowing power for other purchases or investments that can in turn make you money," Owens says.

- Leasing simplifies your budget and book-keeping. When you lease, the majority of your automotive expenses are covered by one payment.

"This is particularly important for businesses for tracking company vehicle expenses and taxes," Owens points out.

- Leasing limits hassles. With a typical "closed-end" lease, you walk away from the vehicle at the end of the lease term with no worries about trade-in value, depreciation, etc. The lease car reverts to the leasing dealer at the end of the lease term.

Owens points out that any make or model automobile can be leased. "The important thing is to discuss your situation with a dealer who understands the pros and cons of leasing," Owens says. "At Martin Honda and Martin Oldsmobile, we don't push customers into buying or leasing. We look at their individual situation, and then advise each customer of the option that we feel makes the most sense for his or her circumstances."

"But at Martin," Owens says, "whether you buy or lease, we'll deliver the best value for your money."

Exhibit

'Oceans of Promise'

"Oceans of Promise," a new, major exhibit about the present and future uses of the world's oceans, will be on exhibit at the Delaware Museum of Natural History, Del. 52, Greenville, through Sunday, June 1.

The exhibit, which was underwritten by Delaware-based Conoco Inc., a subsidiary of the DuPont Company, illustrates how the seas are already providing some of the earth's needs for energy, food, water, minerals and medicines. It also indicates how research is expanding the potential of the seas to meet the world's growing requirements for food and fuel.

The exhibit includes a short video program featuring footage from aboard the submersible research vessel Alvin, which can dive deeper than 13,000 feet.

Delaware Museum of Natural History hours are 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday. Admission is $2.50 for adults and $1.75 for senior citizens, students, and children six and over. Children under six are admitted free of charge.

For details call 658-9111.
