Volunteer Firemen
To Return Sunday
For Fund Donation

Aetnans Seek $25,940
With Annual Fund Drive
In House-to-House Calls

Volunteer firemen of the Aetna, Hook and Ladder Co. will return to area homes this Sunday for contributions in the annual fund campaign for $25,940 to maintain fire protection standards in the Newark district.

Last Sunday, 114 Aetna volunteers distributed folders at homes in the Newark fire district—folders containing the 1965 budget and explaining the fund drive; pictures of Aetna's two fire stations; and business reply envelopes.

"The fund drive is needed to supplement money provided by the fire company through city, county, state, and insurance appropriations and from members dues and hall rentals," Aetna President Olan Thomas said today.

Aetna's equipment consists of 11 pieces of active apparatus, including a rescue truck, four pumps; a tank truck; an aerial ladder engine; two brush fire trucks, and two ambulances.

The Aetna fire district includes the City of Newark, Brookside, Chestnut Hill Estates, Delaplane Manor, Roseville Park, Milford Meadows, Newkirk, Redwood Estates, Redwood Manor and other building developments in the general Newark area.

Acknowledgements will be mailed for all contributions received, and Aetna Secretary Richard Shannon requests that names and addresses be included on all envelopes returned.

"These dollars help maintain and buy the apparatus and equipment necessary to help us protect our community," Treasurer Sam Gray stressed.

A new apparatus—a tanker-pumper—is planned for 1965, and it is estimated the cost will be about $25,000. It is important we reach our goal in order to maintain our high standard of fire protection for the area," the treasurer said.

Residents not at home or missed in the canvass are asked to mail their contributions during November.

Trusler To Direct
Choral Festival
At Mitchell Hall

The ninth annual Festival of Choral Music will be presented at the University of Delaware next Thursday at 8:15 p.m. in Mitchell Hall, and is open to the public without charge.

Featured works at this year's festival under the direction of Dr. Ivan Trusler, will be Verdi's "Quattro Pezzi Sacri" for chorus and orchestra, Di Lasso's "Lamentation of the Prophet Jeremiah" and "Ecco Sonno," and Norman Dello Joio's "Song of the Open Road" for chorus and trumpet solo.

The 60-voice University Concert Choir, augmented for one of Verdi's pieces by the Grace Church Choir of Wilmington, will sing, and Di Lasso's "Lamentation" will be sung by the Madrigal Singers, a group from the Concert Choir under the direction of student conductor Ruth Oatman, a junior from Newark.

The Nov. 5 festival will be first formal appearance of the choir on campus this year.

Future concerts will include annual Christmas performances on Dec. 10-12, a contemporary concert in April, and a "pops" concert in May.

Robt. G. Heckmann
Accepts Pastorate
For Our Redeemer

Missouri Minister Plans
Arrival Here Next Week
To Replace Duane P. Mehl

The Rev. Robert G. Heckmann of New Melle, Mo., has accepted a call to become pastor of Our Redeemer Lutheran Church, Chestnut Hill Estates, Newark. He will arrive with his family next week, and will reside temporarily at 31 Malvern Road, Chestnut Hill Estates.

The new pastor is a native of Riesel, Tex., and a 1951 graduate of Concordia Theological Seminary, St. Louis. Following graduation, he was pastor of two Lutheran congregations in the San Francisco Bay area from 1951 to 1959, leaving to do graduate work at Concordia Seminary and Washington University in St. Louis from 1960 to 1964.

He received a master's degree in sacred theology at Concordia in 1960, and while continuing post-graduate work in philosophy at Washington, accepted a call to be minister of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, New Melle. He plans to continue study at the University of Delaware.

The Rev. Heckmann married Marie Fickenscher of Sacramento, Calif., in 1952, and they have four children — two sets of twins, with boys 11 and girls nine, who will attend the Jennie E. Smith Elementary School, near Oglethorpe.

Both the Rev. and Mrs. Heckmann's fathers are Lutheran ministers.

Mr. Heckmann replaces the Rev. Duane P. Mehl, who organized Our Redeemer congregation in 1957 as a mission, meeting in a Chestnut Hill Estates residence. The congregation has since completed a church building adjoining the development. A building addition study is underway, with Richard P. Fox of Newark retained as architect to draw up preliminary plans for expansion.

The Rev. Mehl left the Newark congregation to become associate editor of Sunday School materials and editor of young adult materials for the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod at St. Louis, and the Rev. Herbert Plehn, retired, of West Knoll Apartments, Newark, has been serving as interim pastor for the congregation.

The Rev. Heckmann will be installed at a special service on Nov. 8.

Champion Sought
For Old Oak Tree
In Highway Path

"It's a shame to have that fine old oak tree destroyed," Mrs. Josephine Kuehnacker said this week in a telephone call to the Newark Post concerning the scheduled removal of the tree from the shoulder of Salem Church Road.

The fine old oak is scheduled to be cut down with widening of the road, and Mrs. Kuehnacker was informed by State Highway Department officials that they were powerless to prevent destruction of the tree unless some organized garden club intervened.

And there is no assurance, even then, that the tree will be spared. Mr. Kuehnacker said this week in a telephone call to the Newark Post concerning the scheduled removal of the tree from the shoulder of Salem Church Road.

Students Pictures
Slated Next Week
In Public Schools

Student pictures will be taken in all of the Newark district school buildings next week.

"This is done once every three years in the Newark school district," Supt. Wilmer E. Shue explained, "so that we may have a photo of every student for our cumulative record files."

"These pictures are taken exclusively for student folders, and even though prints in color, and in black and white, will be sent home to parents, they are under no obligation to purchase any of these pictures," Shue said.

J. N. Rasbach Photo Service, Inc., will take pictures for the cumulative record folders, with the following schedule:

Monday — Joseph M. McVey, Brookside, Robert S. Gallaher, and E. Frances Medill elementary schools.

Wednesday — West Park Place Elementary School, Central Junior High, and Newark High School.

Thursday — Newark High, Central and Oglethorpe junior high schools, Jennie E. Smith Elementary, Christiana junior and senior high schools.

Friday — Christiana junior and senior high schools, Christiana, Salem, Eden and Central elementary schools.

Pictures will be returned to students before Christmas.

UDG To Present
"Cretan Woman"

The University Drama Group will present "The Cretan Woman" in its production of the Greek tragedy — as its first major production of the 1964-65 season, Nov. 19-21, at the Central Junior High School auditorium at 8:15 p.m.

Bob Cornelius will direct the play.

Donald Ell, last seen with the UDG in "Angel Street," will play King Thebesus, and Barbara Intemann will be featured as his wife Phaedra.

City Not Liable For NHA Debt
Solicitor Lewis Rules - - But

Responsibility For $172,000 In Public Housing Costs Could Rest With City Upon Council Block Of Progress; Move To Terminate Interference With NHA Stymied 3-3

The City of Newark is not responsible for the $172,000 in federal funds expended by the Newark Housing Authority, City Solicitor Kenneth W. Lewis said last Monday night at the regular meeting of Newark City Council, providing that council "make no effort to stop or impede progress" of the housing authority. Otherwise, Lewis said, the city may be liable for the indebtedness. And in a vote to "desist efforts" that may incur such liability for the city, the measure was defeated in a 3-3 deadlock.

Newark Boy Enrolled At Girard School Founded By Philadelphia Philanthropist

For the 116th year, Sept. 14, marked the official opening of classes at Girard in Philadelphia.

Among new boys enrolled at this internationally known free private boarding school for elementary and secondary education, was Ralph E. Thompson, Jr., son of Mrs. Mary E. Thompson, 701 Donald Drive, Birchwood Park, Newark.

Ralph and his mother were entertained by the department of admissions at a luncheon in the ballroom of Founder's Hall, the principal building on the 42-acre campus, which was opened in 1848 for first students.

After luncheon, Emil Zarella, director of admissions and student relations, welcomed the group and explained some history and tradition of the school.

Dr. Karl Friedmann, president of Girard, stressed the importance of their boys' future, opportunities that could be theirs, and the close relationship between the boys and their families.

Mothers, sons and guests were escorted on a tour of the campus, including the 100,000-volume library, the 2,500-seat chapel and other facilities. Introduction of students to their supervisors concluded the afternoon program.

Girard was created by the will of Stephen Girard in 1831. French-born, he came to Philadelphia in 1775 as a young sea captain trying to escape the British blockade set up against the rebellious American Colonies.

Success came quickly to Captain Girard and during the next 50 years he became the wealthiest man in the new United States.

In gratitude for success that he had enjoyed as a mariner, merchant banker and financier, he decided to create the school which bears his name.

Since there was no free public education in his time, but only the expensive private school, his desire was to offer a free private boarding school education, which would surpass any school then available, to those who could not afford or otherwise obtain an education.

Since that time, the school has supplied over 17,000 graduates with food, clothing, medical and dental care, at no charge to the boy's family.

Bray Offers Hope For Alfalfa Crop By Weevil Control

Recent difficulties with control of alfalfa weevil and identification of insecticide residues on alfalfa, have created an atmosphere of doubt and concern about the future of this crop. But a University of Delaware entomologist says there is every reason for optimism in the alfalfa production picture.

Dr. Dale Bray, chairman of the department of entomology at the university, says the much publicized pesticide residue problem stems from the use of two chemicals, heptachlor and dieldrin. Both chemicals were labeled for use on alfalfa with practically the same application dates and rates recommended.

Both chemicals were registered for use on the basis that such usage would leave no residue on first cuttings of the alfalfa crop. This type of registration is usually termed zero tolerance according to the entomologist, but technically speaking zero cannot be defined, even with the most sensitive methods of chemical analysis. This is where the problem developed.

After the chemicals had been used on farms, detection methods were refined and improved to the point where traces of chemical residues could be found in hay that was once thought to be insecticide free. When the same refined testing method was applied to dairy products, the chances of finding residue in the milk were multiplied many times.

Unfortunately these new methods were not perfected until after a great deal of heptachlor and dieldrin had been applied in the fall of 1963. Since then, labels for both chemicals have been canceled for use on alfalfa.

Malathion and methoxychlor have been registered with a defined tolerance on alfalfa hay and are recommended in Delaware. This indicates that cows getting less than the allowed amount of insecticide will not pass residues on to milk. It also means that testing methods can detect these levels and further refinements will not alter minimum tolerance, according to Bray.

While these chemicals are recommended only for spring application, they can give satisfactory control of alfalfa weevil if applications are carefully timed. Bray says research on alfalfa weevil control is continuing, and researchers are studying insecticides and residues; biological and cultural control; breeding resistant alfalfa varieties; weevil attractants to the repellents; weevil genetics, physiology and environmental influences. While the problem is complex and progress slow, the outlook for controlling this alfalfa weevil pest is good according to Bray.

In the meantime, control of alfalfa weevil is difficult, but alfalfa is an important forage crop and should not be discarded. COLLEGE UNIONS The Association of College Unions will hold its annual conference at the Florham-Madison campus of Fairleigh Dickinson University this Friday and Saturday at Madison, N. J., and students from the University of Delaware will attend with staff members Lynn Tallman and J. C. Stargell.

a Dog's Life

RECOGNIZE EAR TROUBLE

By Dr. Phillip M. Hinz, Director Friskies Pet Foods Research Center

If your dog scratches behind his ears, shakes his head a lot or rubs it with his paw, don't just pass it off as a possible flea. Investigate. Dogs are very susceptible to ear trouble, particularly those with long pendant ears or those with a heavy hair growth within the ear canal. The lack of ventilation provides a nice moist place for bacteria to develop.

Chief causes of common trouble are weed seeds, grass awns, or other foreign matter and accumulations of wax, so it's important to keep your pet's ears clean. This can be accomplished by wiping them out with a cotton swab. But don't probe and don't go any further than you can see. Many owners injure their dog's ears by indiscriminate probing or home treatment with oils and ointments that only tend to aggravate the existing condition.

Ear mites are the most common cause of ear problems and are extremely irritating to the dog when present. These mites spread readily from dog to dog and also between cats and dogs. Diagnosis and treatment should be done only by a professional person.

So if the problem appears to be one involving more than just cleaning to remove wax or foreign matter, it's one for the veterinarian.

And, speaking of ears, here's a trick used by professional handlers to get a dog to relinquish his hold on something he's not supposed to have. Blow in his ears. He'll drop it. Feeding tip: The recommended routine in puppy feeding is that you give him as much as he'll eat, three times a day. It's well, for the sake of his early growth, to give him a top-grade of commercially prepared dog food such as Friskies Puppy Food.

The oldest church in Mill Creek Hundred—St. James Episcopal near Stanton—celebrated its 250th anniversary last weekend with open house and special services.

Speakers were the Rev. Brooke Mosley, bishop of the Delaware diocese, the Rev. Arthur R. McKinstry, retired bishop, and the Rev. Gordon T. Charlton, Jr., rector of St. Andrew's Church.

Early papers were on display in the parish house.

The present edifice—considered to be one of the finest examples of early churches—was built about 1820, replacing the frame building built in 1716. While the church has undergone extensive restoration, it has retained its simplicity. The cemetery surrounding the church has many old gravestones in the 1700's.

A surprise reception was held in Old Fellows Hall at Hockessin last Saturday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Burns of Landenberg, Pa., who were celebrating their 25th wedding anniversary. There were over 100 guests present.

The Burns have one daughter, Mrs. William A. Worth of Landenberg, and one grandson, Jerome K. Worth. Before her marriage, Mrs. Burns was Mary Liethorn of Newark.

A Halloween party last Monday night preceded the business meeting. Prizes for costumes were awarded by Judges Steel Atwell, Sallie Evans,

The guidance department of Newark High School has reminded parents of all juniors who rank in the upper 5 per cent of their class, of the Telluride summer program to be held at Cornell and Princeton universities from June 27 to Aug. 6, 1965.

Room and board, tuition, and textbooks are furnished free to anyone selected for the program.

Preliminary scholastic aptitude tests are required for eligibility. The guidance department also urges students wishing part-time employment, to register with the guidance secretary. Such jobs frequently are available throughout the school year, according to Mrs. Jeanette Wertz and Russell Williams, counselors.

Managing work for many homemakers was discussed by Mrs. Loretta Spiegler and Mrs. Louise Hitchens.

Mrs. Allen Lindsay was named to arrange for the annual Christmas party and luncheon.

Over the CLOVER

At the recent state livestock show and sale, some New Castle County 4-H'ers came away very happy and richer. This show and sale was held at the Harrington Fair Grounds.

The show was quite large considering it was the first of its kind. Don Burton, associate livestock specialist at the university, has been working on this idea for several years. There were 30 sheep, 12 hogs and seven beef animals.

The sheep fitting and showing contest was won by Leo Tammi, of Newark; and Roberta Hopkins of Newark, won fifth place.

Mary Ann Foster, Newark, won first place with her market ewe lamb and wether lamb. She also had the champion and reserve lamb of the show.

Mary Ann also won the best pen of three lambs.

Helen McQuill won second with her pen of three; Leo Tammi, third, and Roberta Hopkins, fourth.

In the swine show, Ralph Jones, Townsend, won every class.

In the beef show Jay King, Georgetown, won the medium-weight class and Ken Horeis, Elmore, won the heavy-weight class. Jim Higdon, Townsend, won the medium-weight Angus class.

Ken Horeis came back to win the beef championship and the fitting and showmanship contest.

Jay King won the reserve champion steer and second place for fitting and showmanship.

It was a very interesting show and I hope any interested people will try and attend next year.

Ebenezer Church 140th Anniversary Services Planned

The founding of Ebenezer Methodist Church in Mill Creek Hundred 140 years ago will be celebrated at annual homecoming services this Sunday at 9 and 11 a.m.

The Rev. Edward J. Hemphill, Ebenezer pastor from 1942 to 1944, and currently serving in the Chaplain Corps research team of the U. S. Navy at Washington, D. C., will be the guest speaker. Mr. Hemphill has served continuously in the Naval Chaplain Corps since leaving Ebenezer 20 years ago. He has served on aircraft carriers, transports, and cruisers spending 10 years at sea, and for two years was with the Southern NATO Council at Naples, Italy.

There will be special music by the choir directed by Mrs. Kenneth Knight, with Mrs. Norman Hitchens, organist.

This year, the congregation is asked to contribute one cent for each year the church is old—a former tradition.

A fellowship hour will follow the 11 a.m. service, with Mr. and Mrs. Russell Brelsford, Mr. and Mrs. George Lynch, and Mr. and Mrs. Darrel Neidigh the anniversary committee.

Ebenezer Church on Polly Drummond Hill Road, Pleasant Hill, was founded by Alexander Guthrie in 1824. He obtained the property and received permission to build a small church. It was a stone edifice, 24x28, and one-story high. Mr. Guthrie conducted class meetings, as circuit riders were the only preachers.

The present edifice erected in 1859, cost $2,500, with stones from the first church for its foundation. A parsonage was built in 1897. Growth through the years has brought many improvements to Ebenezer. Last January, a $90,000 educational building—first part of a three-unit building program for Ebenezer—was consecrated.

There is a cemetery at the back of the church where names of old families connected with Ebenezer, may be found. The oldest tombstone is dated 1819.

Forty-four pastors have served here, many of whom were students at the University of Delaware. The present pastor is the Rev. Charles D. Davis, a native Delawarean.

Descendants of Alexander Guthrie are still active at Ebenezer which has a present membership of 333.

Christiana High Students Attend Science Symposium

Juniors are Mary Beth Dickey, Jon Hall, Robert Halstead, Allen Mullen, Joe Outlaw, Dan Sundt, and Al Varady.

BACKACHE

The misery of backache is one that many of us have endured at one time or another. The majority of backaches are due to strain and fatigue and could be avoided by observing and following a few simple rules.

When we bend over from the waist in order to lift an object from the ground, we put unnecessary strain upon back muscles. The correct way to lift is by using the relatively stronger leg muscles. The feet should be placed close to the object to be lifted, knees bent, and the object raised as legs are straightened.

Bad posture, overweight and over-exertion are other causes which can contribute to backaches.

Stand erect with your weight distributed evenly on both feet, and sit squarely in your chair with your back against the chair back.

Make sure the table, desk, or counter at which you work, is the correct height for ease and comfort. Try sleeping on a firm mattress or place a bedboard (a piece of plywood or a no-longer-used door or

Sanitary Laundry Measures Offered By Suzanne Tattall

When Grandma boiled her clothes to get them clean, she did a king-size job of sanitizing them as well.

Today's modern automatic washers have reduced the elbow work on laundry day, but neither the water temperature nor the detergents generally used will kill all disease-causing bacteria. Mrs. Suzanne Tattall, New Castle County home economics extension agent says.

When there is illness or skin infection in the family, troublesome bacteria can stay alive in the washer. They are then passed from one load of wash to the next.

This fact is especially important if you do your laundry at communal washing facilities such as coin-operated laundries or apartment house washers, Mrs. Tattall emphasizes.

It is here that laundry disinfectants come into the picture. Under ordinary conditions of home laundering, hot water and detergent will give adequate sanitation. But if there is illness or infection in the family, or if the laundry is done at communal facilities, then there is a need for a disinfectant, Mrs. Tattall says.

There are four types of products available for use as sanitizers in home laundering.

Liquid chlorine bleaches do a good job on certain fabrics, but they will damage wool, silk, spandex, or certain dyed and finished fabrics.

Phenolic disinfectants can be added to either the wash or rinse water. Follow directions on the label.

Pine oil disinfectants should be at least 80 per cent pine oil to be effective. They are added at the beginning of the wash cycle.

Quaternary disinfectants are not generally available in grocery stores, but may be purchased at janitor, dairy, and poultry supply houses.

What in the WORLD! by TED

Good Deeds at Halloween

The gap between the life of an American child and one from an underdeveloped country is vastly greater than the few hundred miles that separate their homelands.

To the first, being "hungry" means bringing a health appetite to the dinner table; to the second, it means never having had enough to eat—from the day of his birth.

"Sickness" to an American youngster usually means nothing worse than measles or a cold. But too often, it means malaria, yaws or a permanently crippling or lethal disease to an African or Asian child.

Fifteen years ago a few Philadelphia children decided to help bridge the gap. On Halloween they trick-or-treated for pennies instead of candy—and then gave the money to the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF).

This Halloween, 3 million youngsters across the land will be door-to-door campaigning for UNICEF, and for what President Johnson calls "a better life for more of the world's children."

HALLOWE'EN PROGRESS

One and two generations ago, Halloween was a time of real trial for most adults with young mischief-makers very much on the loose.

Despite publicity devoted to juvenile delinquency—and there are many, many more young people around today than a generation ago—the youth of Newark is to be commended for their Halloween behavior—and in fact, for generally good behavior throughout the year.

Commendation is due, also, to the Greater Newark Recreation Association and the cooperating groups for their efforts in staging the annual Halloween parade and program, and to the churches for their sponsorship of trick or treat collections for UNICEF.

Today in Newark, Halloween is no misnomer—thanks to our young people and interested older folk.

School Enrollment In Red Cross Plan To Begin Monday

The annual High School and Junior Red Cross enrollment in Delaware public, private and parochial schools will begin next Monday, and Mrs. George A. Zurkow, chairman of the office of educational relations for the Delaware chapter, announced that during the first two weeks in November, students in schools throughout the state will be given opportunity to join a community service program which bands together the nation's young people in a humanitarian service providing a variety of good citizenship building activities on local, national and international levels.

A total of 30,129 students enrolled in the program in Delaware in the 1963-64 school year.

"Programs for young people in Red Cross are so designed that the goals in community service aid youth in achieving their goals in education," Mrs. Zurkow said.

"Aiding people in need is a job of the Red Cross," she declared, "and students will be learning to be responsible citizens through time spent in community service programs."

"Many of the High School and Junior Red Cross programs are part of regular school work; others are carried into the community, giving additional meaning to classroom study," Mrs. Zurkow concluded.

HOW TO GLORIFY YOUR HAIR

In order to look its best, your hair must be clean and shining. Shampoo at least once a week, more if your hair is oily or if hot weather makes it go limp.

Use a shampoo that is gentle to your hair and one that does the best cleaning job for you. Try one of the many shampoos with a lanolin base if you have a dry-hair problem.

Stay away from tints and bleaches. Mother Nature blessed you with hair coloring that blends with your complexion and eyes.

Brushes and bobby-pins can bring out the color highlights of their hair by adding a half-cup of vinegar in the final rinsing. Blondes can bring out golden highlights by using as a final rinse a cup of water in which two tea bags have been allowed to steep. Prepare the tea solution before starting your shampoo, and it will be ready when you need it.

Brush your hair briskly every night for about two minutes, starting at the nape of the neck and brushing forward over your face. This distributes the natural oil in your hair evenly, making it easier to manage, and removes the daily accumulation of dirt and dust.

Keep your brush and comb fresh by washing them once a week in mild soap and rinsing with warm water.

Olé! Red Beans, Mexico-Way!

Down Mexico-Way, surprising things are done with dried beans—the addition of a tablespoon of grated unsweetened chocolate, for instance, to a pot of simmering red beans. Unbelievable, this alliance with the robust seasonings of chili powder, herbs, and the like, but unbelievably good. P.S. You won't know it's there as far as chocolate flavor goes.

Serve this whole-meat dish—so good made with Idaho's unusual colorful red beans—with corn chips or squares of corn bread, and a salad of greens, thin-sliced oranges, sweet onion rings, and wedges of avocado. Or let the beans be an extender-partner to barbecued meats.

Red Beans, Mexico-Way
 1 pound (2 and 1/2 cups) Idaho dried red beans
 6 cups cold water
 1 cup coarsely-chopped onion
 1/2 cup coarsely-chopped green pepper
 1 fat clove garlic crushed or minced
 1 8 ounce can tomato sauce
 2 teaspoons salt
 2 to 3 teaspoons chili powder
 1/2 teaspoon crushed dried rosemary or oregano
 1 teaspoon monosodium glutamate
 5 drops liquid hot pepper sauce
 1 tablespoon grated unsweetened chocolate
 Add washed beans to water in heavy kettle. Bring to boiling point over high heat. Boil 2 minutes only. Remove from heat. Add 1/4 teaspoon soda to soften water. Cover. Let stand 1 hour. Or, soak beans overnight in measured amount of water and soda. To cook, add 2 tablespoons butter, oil, or meat drippings to beans and soaking water. Bring to boiling point. Reduce heat. Cover, and simmer 1 hour. Then add remaining ingredients. Simmer, covered, for 1 and 1/2 hours or until beans are tender. Taste for added chili powder.
 To serve, turn beans into a heated serving dish or casserole. Garnish top with green pepper rings or with little squares of Monterey cheese. Makes 6 hearty servings of really Good Eating!

YIPPEE! Western Steak Sandwich!

Out of the tender, succulent, shredded iceberg lettuce comes a lullapalooza of a "Cowboy Steak Sandwich."

With its tender, economical cubed steak, crackling lettuce and seasoned butter, all riding herd on toasted sour dough (or French) bread, this bronco-buster has everything a he-man sandwich needs. Better "break" it with a knife and fork, pardner!

Western iceberg lettuce, from either California or Arizona, is sold year-round in markets throughout the land. Fresh, crisp, and springy, it gives a lift to a vast range of sandwiches, salads and appetizers any day of the year.

COWBOY STEAK SANDWICH

1 small head western iceberg lettuce
 1/2 cup butter or margarine, softened
 1 small clove garlic, minced
 1/2 teaspoon dried basil or 1 teaspoon chopped fresh basil
 Salt
 Pepper
 6 cubed steaks (4 to 5 oz. each)
 Shortening
 6 slices sour dough or other French bread

Core, rinse and drain lettuce; store in plastic wrap in refrigerator. Mix butter, garlic and basil. Salt and pepper steaks; brown quickly in small amount heated shortening until done as desired, turning only once. Meanwhile, spread each slice bread with 1 teaspoon seasoned butter; toast under broiler. Spread lettuce; heap on toasted bread. Place steaks on lettuce; top each with mounded teaspoon seasoned butter. Serve at once. Makes 6 servings.

Humanities Center Seminar Scheduled For This Weekend

Should there be a National Humanities Foundation financed by the federal government?

Educators, government officials and businessmen are considering this question, and more than 100 of them will exchange ideas during a Humanities Center Seminar at the University of Delaware this weekend.

Theme of the conference will be "Education for Human Competence in the Face of Technological Change."

While aspects of technological change and its effects on society will be considered during the three-day session, one of the key topics will be "Plans and Prospects for a National Humanities Foundation," presented by Robert L. Muncy, professor of English at Duke University and chairman of the board of directors of the American Council of Learned Societies.

The ACLU, the Council of Graduate Schools in the United States, and the United Chapters of Phi Beta Kappa are sponsors of the National Commission on the Humanities, which earlier this year proposed establishment of an independent National Humanities Foundation comparable in structure and function to the National Science Foundation.

Among those who have accepted invitations to participate in the program are Lamont D. Post, president of the University of Delaware; Fred Hechinger, education editor of the New York Times; and James Donovan, U. S. Advisory Commission on International Education and Cultural Affairs.

The public is invited to attend the opening session in the Student Center at 8:30 p.m. Friday, when Hechinger will speak on "Competence, Consequences and Compassion."

Saturday and Sunday sessions will be limited to invited participants.

City Council

Neide recommended extending the municipal water line on Chestnut Hill Road with "this area will be developed," and recommended that the request for water main extension on Paper Mill Road be denied on the basis of inadequate return. The city manager suggested that the developer install a small main to serve the two houses in the area.

Councilman Polson presented a map with present and potential park sites indicated by the municipal parks and recreation committee, and the county planner is to be advised that such areas are to be reserved.

Awarding of contracts for purchase of a municipal street sweeper, a new well in the south basin; a refuse collection pumper truck; an automobile; and for electrical transformers and conductors, were deferred with Chittenden's observation that "I don't think we can take action on any of these because of bidding procedure."

Solicitor Lowndes said that "proceedures should be reviewed by council."

An extension of the meeting to 10:45 p.m. was approved, and concerning procedure for municipal purchase of real estate, it was decided that the responsibility for purchase be that of the city manager and city solicitor as a savings measure; that two appraisals of proposed sites be required; and that if a purchase agreement cannot be obtained, condemnation be the alternative.

Concerning Rufus Roberts' request for city assistance with a drainage problem, Neide said that this was a civil matter between private property owners, but that the owner was welcome to tie in his drainage with the city sewer.

Neide is to present actual costs concerning city paving of Darlington Lane, and Wayne C. Brewer's request for more adequate city water pressure in the Nottingham Road area was referred to the utilities committee.

A request for a city appropriation of $1,000 was received from the Newark Chamber of Commerce to help provide the chamber with an adequate budget for the next year with its work on behalf of the City of Newark, and Mayor Shields reported that such municipal subsidies were not uncommon. The appropriation is to be considered for inclusion in the next municipal budget.

The mayor expressed regret at the death of George M. Neighbors, and an official letter is to be sent to the former councilman's widow.

H. Gerald Quigg Named To Juniata College Position

H. Gerald Quigg, 102 Tamara Circle, Newark, and campaign division director for the United Community Fund of Northern Delaware, has been appointed associate director of development at Juniata College, beginning Nov. 1.

Quigg, a graduate of the University of Delaware, will assist Harold B. Brumbaugh, vice-president for development, in carrying out the Juniata College campaign for $3,350,000.

One of his first assignments will be to organize and support a fund drive in the Juniata Valley to launch the second phase of the long-range program. More than $3,000,000 has been raised since 1961.

After obtaining a BA degree in history from the University of Delaware in 1959, Quigg was employed by the Bell Telephone Company as a trainee, staff assistant and service foreman from 1960 to 1962. He worked in Lancaster, Harrisburg and Hazleton, Pa.

Quigg joined the United Community Fund staff in Wilmington in 1962, and has been coordinating fund-raising activities in employee, professional and individual solicitation in the $285,000 program for 37 agencies.

$20,000 Maryland 'Cap' Slated For Laurel Grass

Laurel turns attention to its grass course this week when some of the country's best turf racers are expected to compete in the one-mile $20,000 Maryland Handicap on Saturday. Barclay Stables' Turbo Jet II, winner of the Laurel Turf Cup two weeks ago, and a leading candidate for grass horse of the year, heads the 52 nominations for the Maryland Handicap, a new stakes race on the Laurel schedule.

With 23 days of racing this fall instead of the usual 12, Laurel has expanded its stakes agenda, which ends Nov. 11, with the Washington D. C. International — to include the Maryland Handicap and one other new race, the $20,000 Mason-Dixon on Nov. 7.

Laurel's nine race card begins at 1 p.m.

New "Lunch Box Magic" Bulletin Offers Tasty, Balanced Meals Away From Home

A packed lunch for the school child or employed adult can be a good, nutritious meal instead of just a "sack of snacks," Janet Coblenz, extension food and nutrition specialist at the University of Delaware, says in a new publication "Lunch Box Magic."

In addition to foods with needed nutrients, Miss Coblenz' formula for a good, packed lunch includes a "surprise" of some kind, as well as variety in foods.

"Everyone gets tired of eating the same kind of food every day," she says, "and of course, there's no reason a packed lunch can't be just as interesting and nutritious as a meal served at home. And a good packed lunch needn't take any longer to prepare than an unspiced one."

Any meal—including a packed lunch—should contain foods with essential nutrients, Miss Coblenz points out. Select lunch box foods from the daily requirements of four or more servings of fruit and vegetables and of breads and cereals, and two or more servings of meat, poultry or eggs and of milk or cheese.

Sandwiches are not the only fare suitable for the lunch box, she says. Vacuum bottles make all kinds of main dishes adaptable to the packed lunch, and salads and desserts, too, can be included.

UD Coeds To Hear Experts Discuss Job Opportunities

Career Conference Slated Saturday For Information On College Women's Jobs

University of Delaware coeds will hear of opportunities open in personal service occupations at their women's career conference this Saturday.

Speaking at one of three concurrent sessions will be Mrs. Herbert E. Dobbs, head of the Delaware Council on Aging for five years, and Dr. Virginia J. Harris, director of nurses at Delaware State Hospital, with their topic "Mental Health."

Other sessions taking place at the same time will deal with the general topics of public service, science, and research.

Dr. A. Harry Passow, professor of education at the teachers college of Columbia University, will present his topic "Education of Gifted Children."

The program, arranged by a committee of Delaware students, faculty and staff members, is to provide women students with specific information about various careers from people working in those fields.

Mrs. Dobbs graduated from Oberlin College and the New York School of Social Work. She is on the board of directors of the Wilmington Senior Center.

Dr. Harris became director of nurses at Delaware State Hospital last year. For seven years prior to that, she was coordinator of the practical nursing program for the Wilmington Board of Education.

She received her RN degree in 1946 from Delaware Hospital; a bachelor of arts degree in psychology in 1949 from the University of Delaware; a master of science degree in nursing administration from the University of Pennsylvania; and in 1961 received her doctorate in education from Penn., specializing in guidance and counseling.

Dr. Passow has been in educational positions for 22 years, starting as a high school science teacher in New York in 1942. He served as an officer in the Air Force during World War II, and has been a Columbia University professor of education since 1952.

Agriculture Grads Face Opportunities In Related Fields

Agriculture is much more than farming, and those students who pursue a college education in the agricultural sciences at the University of Delaware are finding job opportunities in many agriculturally-oriented industries.

While there are thousands of jobs in the area known as production agriculture, Dr. William E. McDaniel, director of resident instruction, says that college graduates in agriculture are most often employed in areas that supply agricultural producers with feed, chemicals, fertilizer, machinery, power and other needs.

These industries, along with marketing firms, agricultural financing institutions and similar industries, are employing more than half the graduates from the university's school of agriculture.

The university is planning a high school careers day in agricultural sciences for Nov. 7.

The program which starts at 10 a.m. in Agricultural Hall, includes a tour of the departments of the university, and opportunity for students to see demonstrations and exhibits on application of science to agriculture.

Careers Day is aimed at high school juniors and seniors. Other high school students, high school administrators, teachers and parents of those students attending also are invited.

Following tours of the various departments, Dr. George M. Worriow, dean of the school of agriculture and vice-president of the university, will discuss the sciences and their application to agriculture.

Those interested in attending should contact McDaniel at the University of Delaware school of agriculture, Newark.

Dorothy W. Curtiss Honored As Guest Of Library Group

Dorothy W. Curtiss, recently retired librarian of the Laurel Public Library, was guest of honor at the Delaware Library Association's fall meeting last Saturday at the University of Delaware.

Some 100 librarians heard Dr. John M. Dawson, director of university libraries and president of the association, read and present a framed citation recording the Library Association's appreciation of Miss Curtiss' many contributions to the library field during 40 years of service.

Miss Curtiss was especially commended for her work with children and young adults during her 10 years at the Laurel Public Library; for the creation of a model public library in Laurel; and for her work to strengthen library service in Delaware.

At a luncheon following the morning meeting, the Library Association heard Dr. Irving Ribner, University of Delaware English department, talk on Shakespeare's comedies.

Safe Haunting Measures Advised For Halloween

"See and be seen on Halloween!" is the prescription for safe "haunting" given to young adults by their parents yesterday by Richard H. McMullen, president of the Delaware Safety Council.

"Make-believe spooks and other pranks who venture out in traffic at night wearing dark costumes are running a risk of becoming honest-to-goodness ghosts," McMullen said. "Dark objects blend with the dark background and cannot be seen by motorists."

Suggestions For Home-Freezing Of Food Offered By Nutritionist Janet Coblenz

More and more homemakers are taking advantage of the convenient method of preserving food by freezing, judging from the number of questions asked of Janet Coblenz, food and nutrition specialist at the University of Delaware.

Miss Coblenz says she is most frequently asked whether it is really necessary to blanch or slightly pre-cook all vegetables before freezing them. Her answer is an unqualified "yes." Blanching is necessary, she explains, to stop the action of enzymes, molds and yeasts in the vegetables. Flavors and textures of frozen vegetables are best if the product is blanched, and in addition, blanching stabilizes color and shrinks the vegetable somewhat, providing a more attractive and compact pack.

The usual method of blanching is to place vegetables in boiling water for a few minutes, then cool quickly in ice water and drain thoroughly before packing in freezer containers.

Miss Coblenz says some homemakers object to blanching corn on the cob in the belief that it makes the cob soggy; however, flavor is improved with blanching.

For freezing corn on the cob, she recommends steam blanching rather than immersing completely in water. This is done by placing a few ears vertically in a basket or cheese cloth bag suspended above the surface of boiling water. Steam five or six minutes and then chill quickly in ice cubes rather than ice water. Dry thoroughly and package. This method reduces the amount of additional moisture and helps eliminate soggy. However, many women agree that corn is best if it is cut off the cob for freezing, Miss Coblenz notes.

Another misconception many homemakers have is that tomatoes may not be frozen, Miss Coblenz says. It is true that whole raw tomatoes cannot be frozen satisfactorily for such uses as salads, but stewed tomatoes and tomato juice can be frozen quite successfully.

Uncooked tomato pulp also may be frozen, but it can be stored only a few months without flavor loss. For longer storage, she recommends cooking peeled, quartered tomatoes for 10 to 20 minutes. Then place the pan of tomatoes in cold water to cool. Pack in containers, allowing recommended head space, seal and freeze.

Small cubes of the meaty part of fresh tomatoes can be frozen for use as salad garnishes, but they should be served while still frozen, since complete thawing will give a soft, mushy product.

Green tomato slices should be dipped in cornmeal before freezing, Miss Coblenz says. To serve, pan or deep fry without thawing.

Another problem of concern to many homemakers is the length of time food can be kept frozen beyond the recommended period. Miss Coblenz says if the food is kept solidly frozen at below-zero temperatures, it will not spoil, but it may not maintain best possible flavor and texture.

Additional information on home freezing may be found in a "Chart for Freezing Fruits and Vegetables," available free from the Department of Rural Communications, University of Delaware, Newark.

State VFW Offers National Election Non-Partisan Aid

Election information, transportation to polls and other services—on a free and non-partisan basis—will be provided by Delaware members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars as part of the organization's nationwide "Get Out the Vote" campaign on Nov. 3, according to State Commander Clement J. Nevin.

In a recent communication sent to commanders and Americanism chairmen of the state's 30 VFW posts, Commander Nevin pointed out that "as patriots who have fought in the far-flung corners of this world in defense of democracy and the American way of life, and as members of a great American patriotic organization, we rightfully place great emphasis upon the need of preserving and extending those freedoms for which we fought and for which many of our comrades bled and died."

Commander Nevin advised that "It is the wish of your VFW leaders—at national, department and district levels—that every eligible American shall enjoy the opportunity on Nov. 3, of going to the polls and making a free choice of those who are to govern us at national, state and county levels, and I urge all officers and other active members of the Department of Delaware, Veterans of Foreign Wars, to immediately begin planning programs that will serve to accomplish this goal."
