Student safety prompts angry exchange

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

A FATALITY and several serious injuries to students on the streets of Newark in recent months led to angry words between city and University officials on Monday night.

City council voted during the regular council meeting to send a letter to University President David Roselle requesting a crossing guard at the intersection of College Avenue and Main Street.

Rick Armitage, director for government and public relations at the University, said a crossing guard was used at the intersection last year but removed because of cost and manpower concerns. "It costs $100 an hour to have a trooper out there," said Armitage. "The (Elkton Road/Amstel Avenue) intersection where the recent fatality occurred is more dangerous."

Armitage suggested the city might have "wasted resources" and inefficiencies in the Newark Police Department which could be used.

This caused an angry outburst from city manager Carl Luft who accused Armitage of looking for excuses to avoid University responsibility. "I take offense at that," Luft told Armitage. "If we're going to study the police department it will take another year and a half - that's just another copout."

Councilmembers also reacted to Armitage's remarks. "Students are your customers and you need to service the customers better," said Harold Godwin. "Kids are getting killed on the street here."

District 4 councilmember Thomas Wampler agreed. "The University does this all the time - they create a problem and then avoid it," said Wampler. "You put the students there and now you want us to take care of it - the University has an enormous budget compared to (the city's)."

Council member Gerald Grant who uses the Main Street intersection daily proposed the University reconsider a crossing guard. "We have accidents at intersections where drivers are fairly polite," said Grant. "Shouldn't we have a crossing guard here where drivers are usually angry?"

Grant said students "clog" the crosswalk at College and Main while drivers with "horns honk

NEWARK POLICE are moving all available officers out of the administration complex to support the street patrols until six new officers arrive next Spring.

"Patrol will be as fully staffed as we can keep it," said Chief William Hogan. "We have maximized our ability to respond and increased the coverage on the street."

LOCAL RESIDENTS finally got a chance to voice their concerns and complaints about the work on the Casho Mill Road underpass. (See related story re accidents).

At a meeting held by the city of Newark and the Delaware Department of Transportation on Oct. 23, DelDOT officials and the residents discussed the efforts to make the road under the CSX railroad line safe for both pedestrians and vehicles.

A RESOLUTION first proposed to Newark city council by District 2 member Jerry Clifton on July 28, was tabled again on Monday night after another member said she had ethical concerns.

Councilmember Nancy Turner said she had "wrestled" with the question of whether she could vote on the proposal to stop councilmembers from serving on boards, committees, and commissions appointed by council itself. Turner chairs the Western

Police assist at fire

Newark Police responded with Aetna Hose Hook and Ladder Company to a fire in Building "B" of the Foxcroft Apartments on Oct. 23 shortly before midnight. Police said fire was seen coming from apartment three when they arrived. Substantial damage was caused by the fire which was brought under control after about an hour. No injuries were reported. The blaze is still under investigation by the city fire marshal.

Burglars arrested

New Castle County police arrested three men for burglary on Oct. 23 around 11:15 p.m. at a residence in the Village II apartments off Salem Church Road.

Police said when the resident answered a knock at his door, four men rushed in and began to remove stereo and electronic equipment. Two of the four were armed with handguns. The suspects fled but three were later seen driving through the Greenfield Manor area. Arrested and charged with burglary, robbery and conspiracy were 19-year-old Timothy Wheatley and 20-year-old Brian Canidate both of Greenfield Manor, and 18-year-old Deandre Redding of Brookmont Farms.

Police said Wheatley faces arrest for a similar incident which occurred on Oct. 20 at 11:50 p.m. in Glasgow Court. Five suspects were involved in that earlier incident but only Wheatley has been identified. The other four

Turner causes resolution to be tabled once again

► RESOLUTION, from 1

Newark Traffic Relief Committee.

According to Turner, she waited until this week to request an advisory opinion from the city's Board of Ethics as to whether she has a personal interest which precludes her from considering the matter in council.

Clifton asked her why she waited three months to consult the board, especially since she participated with the other six members in the earlier council discussion in July?

Turner replied that her concerns only arose recently after Clifton's original resolution was amended to exempt the Town and Gown Committee and allow the Mayor to serve as the designated town representative.

Other councilmembers expressed concern that any board decision would necessarily involve four councilmembers, including the mayor, now serving on various committees. "That would only leave three councilmembers to consider the resolution and we wouldn't have a quorum," said Gerald Grant.

Turner said that was not her concern. "I will abide by any decision of the ethics board in regard to myself," she said. "I don't speak for anyone else."

City solicitor Roger Akin said his initial impression is that the resolution involved a policy matter and not a personal interest issue. "But that is only a gut reaction without a lot of research," said Akin.

City councilmembers also serve on the Newark Memorial Day Parade Committee. Other city boards, committees and authorities include: Board of Building Appeals, Board of Business License Review, Community Development/Revenue Sharing Advisory Committee, Conservation Advisory Commission, Board of Ethics, Board of Health, Newark Public Housing Authority, Newark Parking Authority, Planning Commission, and Board of Sidewalk Appeals.

The regulations of three city agencies, the Board of Adjustment, the Election Board, and Personnel Review Committee, already prohibit elected officials or members of city council.

will be assigned to crime prevention, special investigations, criminal investigations and special operations for training.

"At that point we will ask our current people where they would like to go in 1998," said Hogan. "That will be taken into consideration when we reassign officers so there is not a concentration in one area."

Despite recent retirements, the city is only down one officer. "We're reviewing applications and will get that person into a police academy as soon as possible," said Hogan. "At that point, we will be up to full strength again."

Recruits are on the city payroll and part of the force while in the police academy, but not part of the duty roster. "The police academies are very generous about letting us put recruits into their scheduled classes," said Hogan. "But the recruits are not available for assignment for the six months of academy."

Transfers and reassignments announced by Hogan were:

Following the retirement of 28-year veteran Lt. Roy Clough, Lt. Gerald Conway has been named commander of the criminal investigations division.

Sgt. Thomas Buglio was moved from patrol specialist to administrative unit supervisor and also took over Conway's duties in the office of professional standards.

PFC Curt Davis, former media officer, was transferred to special operations which handle duties like surveillance and other concentrated assignments of limited duration. Media relations will now be handled by Buglio, Cpl. David Martin, and Hogan.

Cpl. Gerald Simpson, formerly in patrol platoon, has been moved into criminal investigations and, as needed, in special investigations.

PFC Andrew Markovitz was transferred from patrol platoon to the office of youth services.

Cpl. Brad Geesaman, most recently in patrol platoon, retired after 28 years with the department.

Sgt. John DeGhetto moved from the traffic division to patrol platoon supervisor.

Cpl. George Stanko moved to patrol platoon from special operations and Officer Mark Farrell also was assigned to patrol platoon.

Pathmark robbed

Newark Police report a man making a purchase at the Pathmark in College Square pushed the cashier aside from the register and reached into the cash drawer removing cash and food stamps. The suspect, described as a black male, 20-25 years of age, 5 foot, 8 inches to 5 feet 10 inches tall, 170 pounds, wearing a baseball cap pulled down over his eyes, a blue wind breaker with the number "32" and "Saunders" on the back, dark blue jeans and white sneakers, fled from the store. No one was injured in the incident. anyone with information about the robbery can call police at 366-7111.

CONFIDENCE

"I look forward to every day here. There's a real sense of community spirit and helpfulness among the staff."

Confidence is critical in long-term care. It's a two-way street. An exchange. Of communications. And understanding.

For patients, confidence involves belief. Belief that someone else's claims can be supported. With evidence. With positive outcomes. For providers, confidence involves knowledge. Knowing what one can, and cannot, do. Knowing one's ability. And experience.

In long-term care, confidence is what distinguishes the excellent from the marginal. There is no middle ground. There's no need for it. No one is willing to compromise their confidence. No one should have to.

You can see that confidence in the faces of the Arbors at New Castle. Take a closer look. Then decide. We invite you to come see us. Face to face.

Pylons provide 'false sense of security' week. According to Ryan, people's attitude needs to change and not the underpass.

"Not one person in 100 pays attention to the 15 mph speed limit," said Ryan, "and that includes city vehicles, police, everybody."

Ryan said he has seen children going to school walking in front of him in the underpass. "I yelled at drivers to slow down and they called me names," Ryan said. "One driver told me he paid taxes and I should get out of the road."

But Suzan Pini said children were not the problem. "If children walk through there alone, that's the parents fault," said Pini. "Children shouldn't be walking that distance to Downes School alone anyway."

Pini said her concern was the restricted width of the tunnel presently lined with traffic cones. "There's no room for driver error whatsoever," said Pini. "I've seen people scrape bumpers on walls and plenty of little pylons knocked down."

Pini added, "If we get a little bit of ice in the winter, it's gonna be bumper cars in there."

Other residents agree that the traffic comes setting off a walkway could contribute to the unsafe conditions.

"People have knocked over the cones and every cone represents people who could be hit," said resident Dudley Willis. "Unless you put in a Jersey barrier, you will end up killing someone."

Tom Hannan, Engineer for DelDOT, said that the traffic cones may provide a false sense of security to walkers. He also noted that reducing the width of the tunnel to 11 feet for cars was acceptable but unusual.

"We are actually pushing the envelope here," said Hannan. "It's confining - no question about it."

Residents wanted to know why a tunnel noted for "some of the most polite drivers in the town" required changes for a questionable number of pedestrians.

Reeb said DelDOT is videotaping the tunnel to determine actual conditions there, including pedestrian usage. "People do walk through it," said Reeb. "I've seen people push baby strollers through there."

Ed Cairns of Christine Manor wanted to know why the 1996 recommendation of consultants KCI Engineering for a separate pedestrian tunnel was not followed.

Reeb said safety concerns like assaults and robberies could be a problem in the isolated space of a separate tunnel.

In addition the cost of such a project could reach over $900,000. "The bulk of the cost would be for stopping the rail traffic while the new tunnel was built," said Cairns.

Pini said another tunnel would be another eight-year road project. "Why not have a light for pedestrians to push to stop traffic while they walk through?" said Pini. "But get those pylons out of there because they are just providing a false sense of security."

Reeb said DelDOT's suggested alternative at present was a single lane and yield control with sidewalk, traffic calming and height detection devices. "We will analyze all the data from videotapes, accidents, and the public," said Reeb. "Then we will decide on a preferred alternative."

At least two more meetings will be held to review the alternative and a design, according to Reeb. "I can't give any date for construction right now," he said.

According to Newark Mayor Ronald Gardner, public input is required before any transportation funding can be authorized by the Wilmington Area Planning Council for use at the underpass.

Improvements not cause of accident

There have been 36 accidents at the Casho Mill Road railroad underpass since January 1993, but according to a New Castle County police officer, none have involved pedestrians and only one was fatal.

PFC Joseph Fitzgerald said the Maryland man killed when he drove into the underpass on Aug. 9, 1997, had been drinking all day. "Speed was also a factor, and the fact that he was not wearing a seatbelt," said Fitzgerald. "If he had been wearing a seatbelt, I believe he would be alive today."

In Fitzgerald's opinion, nothing about the underpass on that night contributed to the accident. "He hit the wall head-on," said

Fitzgerald. "He could have hit anything or anyone - it's just fortunate he didn't kill anyone else."

Fitzgerald said most accidents at the underpass occur late at night on weekends. And, not surprisingly, many others involve U-hauls during the months of May and September when students move in and out of town.

"There has only been one serious or fatal accident there in the two years I have been assigned to the traffic service unit," said PFC Joseph Fitzgerald. "There were nine accidents in 1996 with only one involving personal injury, and 10 accidents this year, including the fatal on Aug. 9."

"Roy Lopata and I looked at (the possibility of) moving the crosswalk button there," said Chief William Hogan. "But the reality is, the students don't use it — they don't push the button, they don't wait to cross on the light."

Rights & responsibilities

THIS WEEK, city and University of Delaware officials were at each others' throats over the need to escort students across an intersection in Newark.

In the past three months, one student was killed and two others injured in collisions between pedestrians/bicyclists and vehicles on Newark streets.

There is no doubt that the number of students and the number of cars negotiating in this city has increased in recent years. In addition, transportation officials are encouraging more walkers and more bikes as an alternative to the motor vehicles on the roads.

We are not endorsing the rights of any one group of road users here.

What we do see is a need for more careful adherence to the regulations that keep the complicated choreography of people and vehicles in balance.

At the recent public meeting for the Casho Mill Road underpass, a

New Castle County police officer asked how many people know the laws for pedestrians and bicyclists using the roadway? He indicated that many people the police see do not seem to follow them.

Pedestrians do not always have the right of way. Bicyclists riding in the street must travel with the flow of vehicular traffic and follow all the same rules as cars, trucks and motorcycles.

Too many times we have seen bicyclists maneuver between cars stopped at a light and then, barely slowing down, cross the intersection against the light.

If pedestrians and bicyclists refuse to follow the law, it merely gives angry and impatient motorists more reason to consider them intruders on the road.

Find out what your rights and your responsibilities are when you use the road and don't rely on the other guy, even a police officer, to smooth your way.

Rumors, downsizing make doing business tougher

By MARVIN HUMMEL

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

SOMETIMES YOU CAN just "smell" it — when you walk into a firm or business you've dealt with for years, you know something's wrong. You knew all along they were in business to make money; but until now you also had a personal relationship that you valued and enjoyed. And you used to think they did, too.

Up-close-and-personal has turned into uptight and impersonal; mistakes are made for the first time in your years of transactions with these people. They "sort of" apologize for the serious errors and shift the real guilt to the computers being "down" or overloaded.

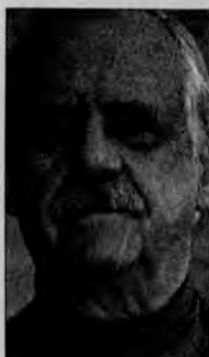

And it isn't just one place of business where you run into this — you come home from multiple downtown visits with social frostbite and several forms to complete so the errors they made can be removed from your accounts.

You call Charlie — there's a business he really likes dealing with and a special friend who handles his account. But Charlie says his friend's been down-sized, and the people who survived the first cut and are still there "act as if they're mad at you — they botch the account and then act as if it's your fault! I'm looking around."

You wonder if something like that could be going on where you do business. Then you hear the first rumor—word is that the firm's going to be bought out, the local offices closed, and the business moved out-of-state. Before you think out the implications of the first rumor, there's a second one—the business will stay here after the buyout, but the new owners are going to get rid of everybody from the manager to the stockroom boys.

Then there's a third rumor—and a fourth—and you're told that the manager walked into a meeting, was told he was fired, and then was escorted out by security guards right in front of all the employees and customers. "Talk about humiliation!" Yes—if it's true.

Hummel

Now you understand the situation a lot better. People are trying to function intelligently and usefully while the rumors about their lives and livelihoods swirl all around them. And these rumors cannot be dismissed — buyouts and selling-outs are so everyday they are no longer news, and bulls and bears and foxes and wolves and weasels and adders are running or slithering loose in the business jungle. Your favorite restaurant for entertaining clients, for instance, was alive and well on Monday and slammed shut closed on Wednesday. And in every mall there are failed businesses, their signs still there, but their windows soaped over.

And, actually, you can't complain — businesses grow or shrivel, upgrade or die — and, to change the metaphor, few of us are vegetarians at the dinner table or the office desk — there are necessary food chains to life, and we usually don't mind being carnivores. Usually.

Let us now praise the good men and women who give the best possible service in spite of rumors and facts about what will happen to them and their business today or tomorrow — or maybe not at all. They

Nov. 1, 1922 New road will soon be complete

After many months of waiting, residents of Newark and vicinity will soon be able to roll along in the family vehicle on solid concrete from the town limits all the way into Wilmington.

The Lincoln Highway section between Roseville and Newark was completed early in the summer. From that time on everything has been held up awaiting action by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Co. in removing the old bridge and placing a longer span across the tunnel cut through the embankment just this side of Lumbrook.

The only other work to be done is the laying of a 16-foot width of concrete under the new bridge and the removal on the temporary piling on each side.

Levy Court checking up labor

The Levy Court yesterday by vote of 3 to 2 voted down a resolution providing for a nine-hour day and five hours on Saturday for road workers.

The resolution was presented by Commissioner Jones. Commissioner McCoy asked for a yea and nay vote.

McCoy said he thought that most men were honest, that all were not crooks.

Jones said that the men were sending in bills for 10 hours labor daily when darkness prevents them from working that long.

Nov. 1, 1972 Students place 1-2 in national contest

Ronald E. Stroud, a senior at Newark's Christiana High School, has won an achievement award for excellence in writing from the National Council of teachers of English.

Stroud was selected on the basis of impromptu writing an autobiographical sketch, and a sample of work he submitted last year. His journalism teacher at Christiana was Harry Cool.

Named as runner up was Elizabeth E. Whallon, a senior at Newark High School.

Winners receive a certificate and recommendations for college scholarships.

Conference center provides broad range of services

John M. Clayton Hall, the University of Delaware's new continuing education conference center, is designed to provide an even broader range of services and educational opportunities for Delawareans.

The new home of the Division of Continuing Education was formally dedicated Nov. 5 in a free public ceremony.

In 1849 Clayton was appointed U.S. Secretary of State by President Zachary Taylor. In 1853 Clayton entered the U.S. Senate. He died in Dover in 1856.

Oct. 30, 1992 Barbara Bush draws a crowd

Thousands turned out to greet Barbara Bush during her visit to the Christiana Mall Tuesday.

"She's like everybody's grandmother — we love her!" said Lee Stevenson of Newark, who with his wife Marie, had an opportunity to shake hands with the First Lady.

Teaching standards scheduled for discussion

Beginning last January, a special Task Force comprised of more than 41 Delaware educators set out to describe what teachers should know and be able to do to teach effectively in today's classroom.

The result was 12 teaching standards designed to ensure that both teachers and their students are prepared to master the curriculum in the core content areas of English language arts, science, mathematics, and social studies, as well as other content areas to be adopted. In addition, each of the 12 categories has a "knowledge" and "performance" component that defines the standard in greater detail.

During the Fall of 1997, a number of small focus groups will meet to discuss the standards in detail, and three separate hearings will be held in each county. The next hearing for New Castle County will be 7 to 8 p.m. on Nov. 3, at Wallace Wallin Learning Center, 713 E. Basin Road, New Castle.

All hearings are jointly sponsored by the Department of Education and the Delaware Professional Standards Council.

The first draft of the standards was circulated to all Delaware educators and interested members of the general public for review and comment in January, 1997. All survey responses to the initial draft were analyzed by the Research and Development Center at the University of Delaware and changes to the initial draft were made as a result of the comments.

Keep Halloween and hayrides safe for kids

■ This weekly feature on the Lifestyle page is authored by the staff of the Newark-based Cooperative Extension Service.

THOUSANDS of trick-or-treaters will take to the streets tonight in hopes of gathering up enough goodies to satisfy their sweet teeth for weeks to come. Every year we hear about accidents and injuries related to Halloween activities.

A few precautions taken now can prevent these mishaps. Trick-or-treat only in your own neighborhood or a neighborhood that you're familiar with. Parents should accompany smaller children, always keeping them in sight, even if that means walking up to the door with them. Older children may resist having parents along, so have them travel together in groups of four or more. Set a time limit.

By Mark Manno

Most trick or treating is over by 9 p.m. Advise children not to trick-or-treat at houses that are completely dark and ones without an outside light on. This is a sign the residents aren't welcoming trick-or-treaters. Costumes can cause accidents or injuries.

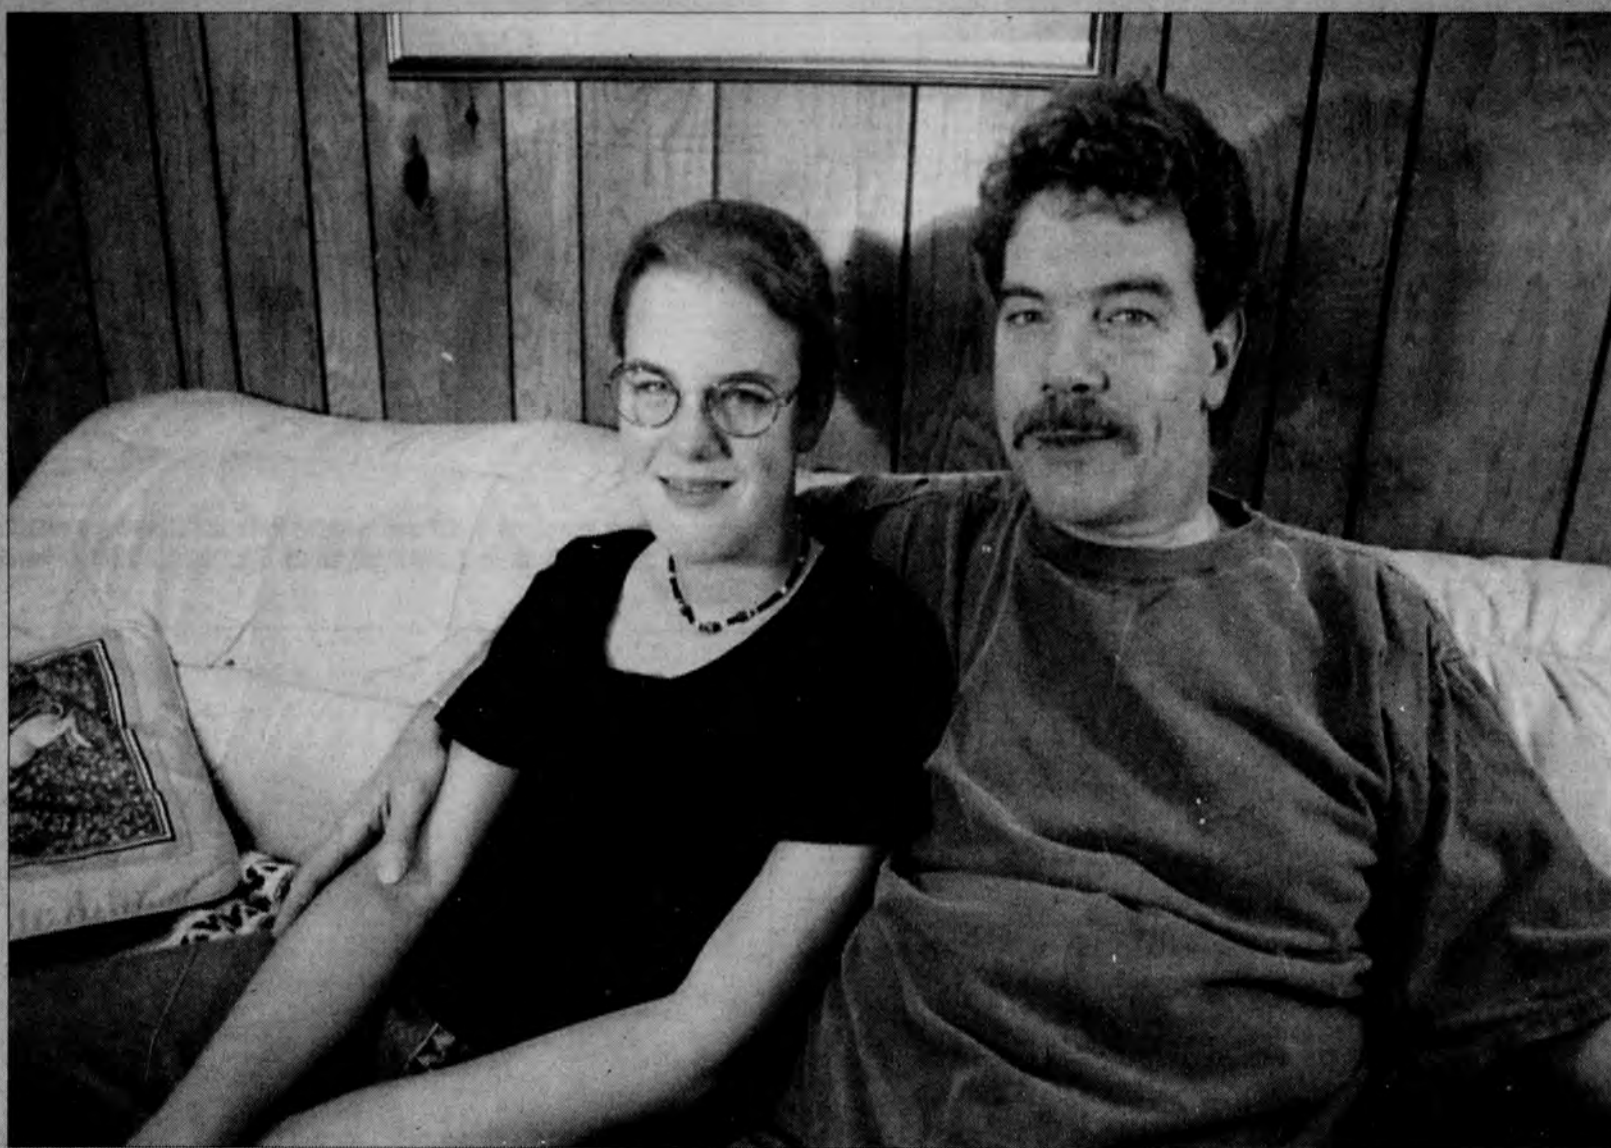

This year I've noticed that masks that you place completely over your head are quite the rage for older kids. Avoid using masks for children of any age. Masks impair vision and may cause children to trip or to bump into objects and each other. Face painting is a much safer alternative.

Most of the general merchandise stores around Newark carry face painting kits. Make sure the costume fits properly. Children can trip on costumes that are too long. And make sure the costume is fireproof. Sometimes porches and steps are decorated with jack-o'-lanterns containing burning candles.

Fireproof costumes could avert a tragedy. Make sure children can be seen. Even though the streets of Newark are well lit, some areas are darker because of overgrown shrubbery.

Drivers may not remember it's Halloween and won't be alert to trick or treaters, and tonight the roads will be full of out of town guests in Newark for the big U of D Homecoming Weekend. Putting reflector tape on the back of costumes is a good idea. So is having children

Multiple Sclerosis through the eyes of children

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

AN ESSAY AND a painting by Elyse Mitchell, a seventh-grader at Shue-Medill Middle School, are featured in "MS Through the Eyes of a Child," an exhibit being shown across the United States.

The daughter of Newark-area residents Peter and Susan

Mitchell, Mitchell is one of six Delaware students whose works of art are included in the exhibit. Her essay and painting express her feelings about her father's battle with multiple sclerosis.

The exhibit features artworks and essays by children ages 5 to 15 whose parent or another loved one has multiple sclerosis. It was organized by the National Multiple Sclerosis Society and eloquently demonstrates through the children's pictures and words that multiple sclerosis is an adult disease that deeply affects children.

The full exhibit includes more than 80 pieces of art from all across the U.S. and 14 international MS societies. With each work of art there is a moving story that can fascinate and enlighten an audience about love and adapting to chronic illness.

The 12-year-old Mitchell wrote the following essay to accompany her watercolor painting:

"My dad used to travel all over the world including Africa, China, Mexico, Canada, Italy and Spain. Whenever he told me he was going somewhere, I'd always ask him to bring me something.

"I remember when he would come home and my mom and I went to the airport to pick him up and he'd sweep me up in his arms. He can't really do that anymore. I think his MS has affected the whole family. It's sad that he can't do what he used to do, but it's brought the whole family closer. I guess in a way, his MS isn't that bad."

Elyse Mitchell's watercolor drawing expresses her feelings about her father's battle with multiple sclerosis.

Pottery exhibit displayed at the University of Pennsylvania

A NEW EXHIBIT at the University of Pennsylvania Museum is not only interesting and beautiful, it is a change in presenting the subject matter of the exhibit itself. Called "Roman Glass: Reflections on Cultural Change," the show features more than 200 delicate glass vessels — bowls, bottles, cups and jugs — dating from the late second century B. C. to the early seventh century A. D.

The exhibition takes an in-depth look at the rapidly changing craft of glass making influenced by major historical events and reflective of changing social values. As the museum's PR Director Pam Kosty put it, "Daily life in the ancient Roman Empire, from a woman's early morning applications of gale-na eye-finer to a community's evening funerary processions, is explored through the special 'window' of glass."

The change in presentation I referred to earlier centers around breaking with the tradition of exhibiting ancient glassware as an exceptional art form and placing it in the more normal setting of a Roman household. Glass, like pottery, came to be used in everyday Roman life. Beginning with the changing technology, this exhibition provides information and insight into culture and lifestyle in the Roman Empire. Art, history and technical advances are all rolled into one for the new exhibit.

Remember, the Romans did not invent glass. That occurred in Mesopotamia around 2200 B. C. As a matter of fact, the Romans showed little interest at all in glass until near the end of the first century B. C. It was at that time that emperor Augustus decided to increase production of various crafts on the Italian mainland. Slaves from Judea and Syria were brought with their traditional Hellenistic casting techniques and the then novel idea of glass blowing.

THE ARTS

By PHIL TOMAN

It seems clear that the emperor was more interested in a production facility than in creating art, but both flourished and may be seen in the University Museum at 33rd and Spruce Streets in Philadelphia. There was some standardization of product lines and good use was made of the system of Roman roads for distribution.

You can see both cast and blown glass in the show. Among the castings, my favorites are the monochromes of emerald green and the mixture made by swirling amber and white. But it is in the free blown glass that some of the great art occurs, even if its purpose was very utilitarian.

This free blown glass did what Augustus wanted. With it Rome began to dominate the markets actually setting the pattern for our glass industry today which now produces close to 60,000,000 tons per year for our everyday needs.

But it was when the Roman craftsmen perfected blowing glass into molds around 45 A. D. that the industry moved into high gear.

Not only did this provide a great deal of business for the Roman owners, the techniques offered a new aesthetic for vessel decoration that found its greatest expression in religious imagery of every variety. More delicate blowing led to a whole new jewelry industry. Then, when facet cutting came along, well, a visit to most inexpensive — and some not so inexpensive — jewelry counters today can speak for itself.

Just about every use for Roman glass one can imagine is there for us to see and enjoy. There are containers for spices, cosmetics, medicines. Tableware and items for funerary rituals are very much in evidence as well.

This is one of those exhibitions about which it can be said there is something for everyone and for so many different interests. While I tend to look at the beauty of the works, the industrial and commercial aspects of the works cannot be overlooked. I enjoy exhibits where there is beauty and where I can learn as well. Both are present in "Roman Glass: Reflections on Cultural Change."

The museum is easily accessible by car, Amtrak or SEPTA. If you take the regional rail service, there is a station right at the University of Pennsylvania so you no longer have to walk from Pennsylvania Station at 30th Street. Remember, SEPTA now has service DIRECTLY to and from Newark and the University of Pennsylvania Museum.

The University Museum is open Tuesday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and on Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m. Admission for adults is $5, $2.50 for seniors and students with valid ID. For more information, 215-898-4000.

Black Cat in moonlight,
A sight sure to fright,
With monsters and broom-mounted Witch.
Trick-and-treaters haunt darkness;
It's a time of grim starkness;
Yet, oldsters with youngsters would switch.

A grim English Muffin
Dismayed by much stuffin'
By little folks, grandpas and grannies,
Postponed his demise
And those dreaded "Oh Mys!"
By closing up famed nooks and crannies.

When was the plumber's wrenching experience?
When he was drained and tapped for funds.

Why did a depressed boozier dislike a rainstorm?
He hoped it wouldn't dampen his spirits.

Halloween happenings need never deter one from happy thoughts.

It is awesome to contemplate the destructive intentions of folks tempted by the Devil.

■ Author's note: Lunacies like these have been inflicted on my poor wife, children and colleagues for years. They have been greeted by both groans and guffaws — the latter, perhaps, to pacify the punster and offset a further barrage. To its victims, punning can be seen as a disease, since any laughter, however sparse, can be contagious. I hope Newark Post readers will tackle this word-play nonsense with zest, thereby assuring them Eternal Joy and a letter from Ed McMahon.

Newark resident exhibits international talent

Spellbinding images of Anwar Sadat, the King and Queen of Jordan, and Yassar Arafat seem to leap from the pages of Lily Bandak's portfolio.

The Newark resident's photographs of a land unchanged since the days of Christ will be on display at Clayton Hall on the University of Delaware campus, Nov. 5 to 28.

Representatives from the Saudi Arabian Embassy, the Egyptian Embassy, the Embassy of Bahrain, as well as the Ambassador of the Arab League and other representatives from Middle Eastern Embassies and the U.S. Arab Chamber of Commerce will be attending the opening reception.

Bandak was born in Amman, Jordan, but has lived in the United States since 1960.

In 1975, Bandak was invited by Egypt's government to chronicle its people and monuments in photographs.

Glasgow gets road to call its own

South College Avenue from Newark no longer ends in the heart of Glasgow after a resolution passed this week by New Castle County Council.

According to councilmember Karen Venezky, council president Stephanie Hansen proposed changing the name of the road through downtown Glasgow at the request of members of the Bear/Glasgow Council of Civic Organizations.

The change affects that portion of South College Avenue from U.S. Route 40 to the Route 896 bypass. That former piece of South College will now be called Glasgow Road.

"Residents there felt they needed to keep the name Glasgow on something after the loss of the Glasgow Arms," said Venezky. "All the residents on that road agreed to the change except one."

Other changes under this resolution included changing the name of the Route 896 bypass to South College Avenue from present South College Avenue to Route 40, and then, to Summit Bridge Road, from Route 40 to the present Summit Bridge Road.

The road running between Peoples Plaza and Hodgson Vo-Tech, currently called Summit Bridge Road from Route 40 to the Route 896 bypass south, will also be renamed Glasgow Road.

"There was also an issue of whether residents in that area can put Glasgow as their address instead of Newark," said Venezky. "Postal officials told us they don't care what people put — they go by the zip code."

Halloween is a time for taking extra precautions carry light sticks or flashlights. Of course kids will want to sort through their loot and eat it as soon as they get home.

► OUTLOOK, from 8

While it's not necessary to have everything X-rayed at the hospital, parents should inspect each item before allowing children to eat it. Throw out any item that has a torn wrapping.

Wash and cut any fruit before eating. Hayrides, another popular fall activity, continue in the Newark area up until hanksgiving. But hayrides have a down side: Up to 47 percent of all accidents involving farm wagons on public roads are during recreational use. If you plan to accompany a group on a hayride, take some precautions to ensure a safe time.

Arrange for plenty of supervision on each wagon to keep horseplay to a minimum. Throwing straw from the wagon at passing cars can cause an accident. If you supervise a hayride, plan plenty of fun activities such as songs and games. Busy kids stay out of trouble.

Before the wagon begins its journey, make sure that riders are evenly distributed around the wagon. Wagons were not designed to carry people and may tip over if not properly loaded.

Warn passengers not to dangle arms or legs over the edge of the wagon and tell them to stay seated while the wagon is in motion. Passing cars could cause serious injury.

Often the best part of the hayride is the cookout at the end. Make sure that all supplies are stored safely, especially matches and lighter fluid. Needless to say, smoking of, any kind on a hayride is dangerous.

Fall, fun and kids go together. The cool, crisp nights are ideal for hayrides and trick or treating. Several years ago I took my son to the emergency room on Halloween with what turned out to be a severe stomachache—this was even before any trick or treating.

Being in the emergency room on Halloween was an eye-opening experience, but not one I would recommend to any parent. Plan a safe and entertaining Halloween for your kids.

Newark raises a roof at the Municipal Building

NEWARK'S Municipal Building on Elkton Road is sporting a friendlier front since the completion of a new bus shelter for riders of the Unicity and DART lines that stop there.

"We had the bench there since the building opened in 1975," said public works supervisor Pat Bartling. "The city manager (Carl Luft) thought it would be a good idea to put a roof on it."

Bartling said the new 40-year shingled roof with supports was the creation of three city workers: Steve Wilson in the parks and recreation department, and Bob Moon and John Bello in public works. "I'm extremely impressed," said Bartling, "especially since they only had a vague print to work with."

The design for the shelter, which Bartling estimated cost about $2,500 in materials, was "improvised" from a sketch the workers found in a parks and recreation magazine. "The three of them designed and built it themselves," explained Bartling. "It won't keep the wind out, but it's a whole lot better than what was there for keeping the rain out."

Asked whether such shelters could be out at other locations in the city, Bartling replied, "Probably not, you need a lot of space for that which we had here, but it wouldn't work on sidewalks along Main Street, for instance."

Colonial has state teacher of the year

Colonial School District teacher Harry Kutch has been named 1998 Delaware Teacher of the Year.

A mathematics teacher at William Penn High School in New Castle, Kutch believes that probability, rather than planning, brought him to the teaching profession.

His father wanted his children to graduate from high school and not to have to face a life in the coal mines. An offer of a basketball scholarship, which did not materialize, planted the idea of college in his head. He took his first job after college as a math teacher so he could coach basketball. He never left that first job and is in his 37th year at William Penn High School. Kutch, who holds a masters degree in education from the University of Delaware. In addition to his high school position, Kutch has developed and taught classes at the University of Delaware.

Climbing the wall at Wilson

A CLIMBING WALL installed the second week of school at Wilson Elementary School in Newark has already seen plenty of action.

"I've started training the fourth grade in lateral climbing and spotting," said teacher Diane Scobi. "In the future, every class in the school except the kindergartners will use it — it's not recommended for kindergarten age."

Scobi, an elementary physical education teacher, said she saw a climbing wall in a school near where she lives in North Wilmington. "This is the first one in the Christina District, though," said Scobi, adding that there are only two others in Delaware elementary schools.

According to Scobi, the wall was installed by George Watson of Rock Solid Adventures. "He does adventure playgrounds throughout New Castle County," said Scobi.

Although the experience is exciting for the children, Scobi said it is not dangerous. "The climb is only eight to 10 feet high and we use mats while the children are climbing," Scobi explained. "No one has fallen and I don't expect them to."

Healing Mass scheduled

The Catholic Diocese of Wilmington will hold their monthly Healing Mass at St. Mary of the Assumption Church, Hockessin, Friday, Nov. 7, at 8 p.m.

The presider and homilist for the mass will be Rev. David A. Baumgartel, associate pastor of St. John-Holy Angels Parish, Newark. The music will be provided by Kevin & Clare Sarkissian of Holy Rosary Parish, Claymont.

There will be a reserved seating area for the aged and infirm. Ushers will be on hand to provide needed assistance.

After the service there will be individual private prayer for all those who wish to remain, to have prayer teams pray with them.

For information contact Jeanne Casey at 239-5982.

Monthly healing service

A monthly service of healing prayer will be held at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, 701 South College Ave., Newark, on the first Saturday of each month at 6:30 p.m. The next service will be Nov. 1 at 6:30 p.m. All are invited to attend.

For information call the church at 368-0064.

Christiana knocks off William Penn

Vikings back in playoff hunt

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

IT COULD NOT HAVE been a better weekend for the Christiana High football team. Before the Vikings took the field against Flight A rival William Penn, they knew that St. Mark's and Sussex Central — two contenders for the state playoffs — both lost Friday night. When the Vikings left the field after an emotional 12-8 come-from-behind victory over the Colonials, they knew they were right back in the state tournament picture.

Trailing 8-6 with just six minutes to play in Saturday's game at Coder Field, Christiana sophomore Virgil Rush came up with a big interception to give the Vikings a first down at the William Penn 37-yard line.

After a one-yard rush and two incomplete passes, the Vikings faced a critical fourth down play — for the game and the season — with just 5:03 to play in the game.

Up stepped Rush again. The sophomore wrestled a Jimmy Murphy pass away from a William Penn defensive back and had at least part of the ball when the two hit the ground. The completion was good for 22 yards and a Vikings' first down at the 14-yard line.

"That was a big-league catch there," said Christiana coach Bill Muehleisen. "I was looking for the ball to be bouncing around on the ground."

"It was a play we were looking to get the ball to Virgil the whole way."

The ground game took over from that point as Calvin Carr burst 13 yards to get within inches of the goal line. Big fullback Dave Anderson then pounded the ball into the endzone on the next play to give Christiana the 12-8 lead and send the Homecoming crowd into a frenzy.

With still 4:40 to play in the game the Vikings needed to stop the Colonials as they had on every possession since the game's first. William Penn mustered only a short run and three incomplete passes and Christiana took over and ran all but a few seconds of the clock out to secure the victory and improve its record to 4-2-1 overall, 2-2 Flight A. William Penn dropped to 5-2, 2-2.

Despite the big fourth-quarter effort from the Vikings' offense that

Flight A champ Glasgow preps for tourney

By CHRIS DONAHUE

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

When it came to volleyball competition this season in Blue Hen Conference Flight A play, nobody did it better than Glasgow, Newark and Christiana. Glasgow led the charge of those Newark-area teams by posting a 14-0 conference mark and a 15-2 overall record under first-year coach Robin Dunlap.

The Dragons' two defeats occurred in an early-season tournament against Newark, which finished second at 12-2, and end-of-season match against Ursuline. Christiana, meanwhile, was third at 10-4. All three teams are guaranteed state tournament berths because the top four finishers in Flight A receive automatic selections.

Glasgow finished its season Monday against Ursuline, while Christiana played St. Mark's, which beat the Vikings in last year's state tournament and will probably get the tournament's top seed.

"I'm still sort of in a state of shock," said Dunlap, whose daughter, Natalie, was once again one of the Dragons' key players this season. In addition to some key returning players, Dunlap cited the efforts of two others for stepping up to give the Dragons depth. They included sophomore Lashanda Simpson, who helped as a middle blocker, and senior Erin Anderson, who provided timely power hitting. The Dragons were also aided by the return of two injured players during the course of the season — Jamie Sassaman, a back-row specialist who had to recover from kidney stones, and Chelesha Harding, who missed time because of a sprained ankle.

Dunlap said he isn't sure if his team will continue its dominance under the pressure of state tournament conditions. When asked if he'll seek any coaching tips from his daughter, who was a first team all state selection last season, Dunlap replied with a laugh: "My daughter believes she should be coach anyway."

Christiana coach Kim Huggins, who plays 10 seniors, said it's up to her players to determine how far

Newark rolls by Mt. Pleasant

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

With the upset affliction hitting some of the state's best football teams last weekend, top-ranked Newark High made extra sure the bug wouldn't hit it.

The Yellowjackets jumped on out-manned Mount Pleasant early and often on their way to a 34-10 victory Saturday morning at Mount Pleasant.

After a penalty stalled Newark's first drive of the day, quarterback Bobby Johnson began the second with a 34-yard touchdown pass to Corey Wallace, who out-jumped a Green Knight defender to catch the ball at the five yard line and trotted into the end zone.

After the defense quickly forced a Mount Pleasant punt, Johnson was back at it again, connecting with end Chris Adams for a 21-yard strike over the middle. The pass and catch gave the Jackets a first down at the four-yard line. Wallace made easy work of the last four yards, jogging untouched on sweep around left end for the score.

Glasgow thumped as tournament nears

HIGH SCHOOL SOCCER

By CHRIS DONAHUE

GLASGOW HIGH'S hopes of gaining a tie for the Blue Hen Conference Flight A soccer championship with Newark came crashing down in a hail of goals Tuesday night as the Dragons fell 6-0 to host Alexis I. du Pont.

Glasgow and AI, who are both assured of berths in the state tournament by virtue of their overall records, both entered the match with 5-1 Flight A marks. With the Tigers holding a 1-0 lead courtesy of a first-half goal by John Posatko, the match turned three minutes into the second half when AI's Alvin Brunswick stripped Glasgow defender Jeff Goff of the ball and buried a shot past Glasgow goalie David Scuggs.

Brunswick went on to score twice more, giving him 23 goals for the season, although his final two goals came after Glasgow coach Bob Bussiere had cleared his bench.

"We were outplayed, outthrust and out-classed," said Bussiere, whose team had a week to collect itself before the state tournament began.

As it had in its previous three losses this season, Glasgow exhibited a lack of ball control, but maybe even worse, enough emotion, Bussiere said. Correcting that problem will be up to his players, he added.

"I told them that I think you're capable of going to the final again, but you're also capable of losing in the first round," Bussiere said. "We just have to decide that that's just not going to happen."

"I think the talent is there. I think everything is in place. It's just a matter of desire and heart. The things that we take for granted, and from game to game, you just don't know."

Newark, meanwhile, which underwent massive lineup changes this season, is possibly the success story of the season. Having been blessed with numerous all-stars in the past, coach Hugh Mitchell came through perhaps his most difficult job of coaching in his nine-year tenure with flying colors. However, with one game remaining against Indian River, he declined to take any credit for his team's 12-3 overall record.

Mitchell admitted he probably had to work harder than he ever had, but added that his players also had to work harder than players on his previous teams.

"The kids deserve all the credit," Mitchell said. "They proved to a lot of people, even though we don't have any big names, that we should be taken seriously."

Pat McKay, with eight goals, and David Sylvester, with seven, led a balanced scoring attack in which 13 different Yellowjackets scored goals and 12 different players had assists. Eight different players notched game-winning goals.

"I think if you were looking for one word to describe this team it would be adaptable," Mitchell said. "It may have been a style of play. It may have been a formation, the flow of play we had to play; whether it was uptem-

ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

BRIAN LENZ - ST. MARK'S

SCORING a goal in a soccer match is always cause for celebration. Scoring four is an unbelievable accomplishment.

That, however, is exactly what St. Mark's senior Brian Lenz did last week in the Spartans' 10-0 victory over Archmere.

Lenz, in fact, scored four goals in the first half, including three in a row. He also added an assist to his totals for the night.

"It just seemed like everything was going my way," said Lenz, who has 12 goals and seven assists for the season. "My teammates got me the ball right on my foot. We were just executing great."

No one is any happier for Lenz than St. Mark's coach Tom DeMatteis.

"Brian missed just about all of last year because of a bad back," DeMatteis explained. "And then he put on like 30 pounds over the winter. But he worked hard to lose all that weight and get ready for the preseason. I'm really happy for him."

"Missing last year was a big disappointment," Lenz said. "I'm happy to be back and playing."

DeMatteis also feels good that Lenz provides the Spartans with a significant scoring threat opposite teammate Jason Dzielak.

"He really helps take some of the attention away from Dzielak," the coach said. "Plus, he's so good at distributing the ball. He really forces other teams to play him."

That should make the defending state champion Spartans tough to beat when the state tournament comes around.

"I feel we're prepared for the state tournament," Lenz said.

"The team's coming around. I think our loss to Sallies showed us that now we're going to have to play tough competition to win. It was a good test for us."

St. Mark's suffers football loss to rival St. Elizabeth

By STEPHEN WESTRICK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

On a rain soaked field at Baynard Stadium St. Elizabeth pulled off a major upset by shutting out third ranked St. Mark's 14-0 Friday.

The St. Elizabeth defense was helped by Spartan mistakes. Five times St. Mark's found itself deep in Vikings territory and came away with no points. Three times the Spartans were unable to convert a first down and two times they fumbled the ball.

St. Elizabeth opened the game with an impressive drive. The Vikings drove 60 yards on 12 plays while using over half the first quarter clock. Halfback Brian Granger finished the drive with a six yard touchdown run to give St.

Elizabeth a 7-0 lead.

After St. Mark's first trip into Vikings territory, when it was unable to convert a fourth and eleven from the 29, St. Elizabeth put together its second long touchdown drive.

This time the Vikings used six plays to go 71-yards. Granger again scored the touchdown, with a 31-yard scamper. Equally important on the drive was the combination of quarterback Shawn McCarthy and wideout Tim Murphy. After an offensive holding call, the Vikings faced a second and fourteen from their own 25. However, McCarthy found Murphy on two consecutive passes totaling 17 yards.

"Our quarterback had some key passes, he made the big plays," St. Elizabeth coach Joe Hemphill said.

Coach Hemphill was also pleased with his offensive line and defense. "We came up with the big defensive play all night," he said. "I think this team arrived and matured with this win."

St. Mark's defense stiffened in the second half, allowing only two first downs. However, the Spartans' offense, which seemed to abandon the running game in favor of the pass, was ineffective.

St. Mark's quarterback Dan Basara completed 8-of-26 passes for 76 yards and two interceptions. The Spartans Steve Rodgers also suffered gaining only 15 yards on 8 carries.

Justin Jackson led the Spartans' offense with 90 yards on 16 carries.

St. Mark's will play at William Penn Saturday afternoon at 2.

Kirkwood Twisters win, tie to stay undefeated

The KSC Twisters defeated Downingtown 3-2 Saturday and tied Lower Merion 1-1 Sunday to improve their record to 6-0-1 on the season.

Kate Attenberger scored twice while Danielle Weaver had the other goal in the Twisters' win over Downingtown. Megan Watson picked up an assist.

Ashley Fogelman, Allison Olewine, Jennifer Piechowski and Katie Thomaides helped contribute to the Twisters' offensive attack. The defense was led by Anna Lewis, Heather Richardson, Erin Konrad and Beth Kitchen. Michele Betty and Stephanie shared goal-keeping duties.

The Twisters also tied Lower Merion, in a match played in a driving rain.

Attenberger scored the lone Twisters' goal.

Watson, Weaver, Fogelman, Olewine, Thomaides and Piechowski led the offense. Lewis, Konrad, Richardson, Kitchen and Betty led a strong defense. Goalkeeper Kappler held Lower Merion to just one goal.

KSC Lightning stay unbeaten

The KSC Lightning, an under-13 girls team, defeated Nether Providence 3-2 to stay undefeated in Tri-County play.

Lauren Douglas, Paige Guilfoyle and Amanda Robert each scored once for the Lightning, now 6-0-2.

Jaime Wallace's cross set up the first goal of the game while Danielle Unflat provided midfield support. Alice McDermott and Anna Rousk contributed strong defensive play while Janette Terry was solid in goal.

Third ranked Hens face test in W&M

Homecoming win could seal playoff berth

By MARTY VALANIA
NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Another win, another move upward in the national rankings.

That's right the Blue Hens pounded Massachusetts 40-9 last week and moved up a notch from fourth to third in this week's NCAA I-AA poll. Atlantic-10 rival Villanova, after a 20-13 come-from-behind win over William & Mary, remained number one.

Speaking of William & Mary, guess who comes to Delaware Stadium for the Blue Hens' homecoming game Saturday afternoon? Yes, none other than the Tribe, who will be fighting for its postseason life.

The loss to Villanova dropped William & Mary's record to 6-3 on the season. With three losses it will be very difficult to make the playoffs; with four it will be impossible.

"We played hard against a very good Villanova team," said William & Mary coach Jimmie Laycock, who holds a 7-9 record against Delaware. "We had our chances but couldn't take advantage."

Laycock, however, isn't worried about the playoffs.

"We try to block those things out of our minds and get ready for each game the same way," he said.

One big positive the Tribe may have going for it this week is the possible return of All-American quarterback Mike Cook, who tore knee ligaments in September.

"It was a big setback for us," Laycock said of the injury to the Tribe's star player. "It took us awhile to get back."

"I don't know if he'll be able to play or not. He did practice this week but we'll probably wait until the last moment to decide who will start."

If Cook doesn't start junior Steve Fill will.

"He has really played well the last three weeks," Laycock said of Fill. "He's been solid and has done a good job."

As for Delaware, Laycock feels this team is much more balanced than past Blue Hen offenses.

"They threw the ball 40 times against us last year," said the William & Mary coach. "They won't want to do that this year. They seemed to be able to do a lot more things."

On the Delaware side coach Tubby Raymond is concerned about the William & Mary offense, no matter who starts at quarterback.

"We'll have to put pressure on whomever is at quarterback," Raymond said. "I expect we'll see some of Cook but I don't know how he'll play after six weeks on the shelf."

What concerns Raymond most is how the Tribe defense will react to the Hens' offense.

William & Mary has done different things in each of the past three seasons. However, this year the Tribe did play against Georgia Southern, which runs an offense similar to the Wing-T.

"We feel we got a good look at what they'll do by watching their game against Georgia Southern," Raymond said. "Hopefully, we'll be ready."

BU mess causes 1998 schedule problem

With Boston University dropping football at the end of this season, there is now an opening in the Blue Hens' schedule next fall.

That opening is Delaware's scheduled Homecoming game.

What at first looked like a major problem in having only 10 games on the schedule at this late date (football schedules are normally made 5-10 years in advance), will probably not be that big of a problem.

There are eight other Atlantic-10 teams on the Terriers' 1998 schedule with the same problem. Most will probably just pair up and play each other.

The Hens' problem is getting either Maine or Rhode Island (the two most likely opponents) to come to Delaware Stadium. Fat chance!

It will be a hard sell for any football coach who was going to have a pitiful BU team at home to try and get that game replaced with a game at Delaware. Nevertheless, the Hens won't be in much of a position to turn it down.

Looks like another five-game home schedule (the Hens have only five home games this year too) after years and years of playing at least six.

Holy Angels stays undefeated

The Holy Angels JV CYO volleyball team completed its regular season with a 15-11, 15-9 win over St. Elizabeth and a 16-18, 15-9, 15-5 victory over Ursuline.

The win improved Holy Angels' record to 11-0, making it the most successful fourth, fifth and sixth grade team in CYO.

the leading scorers in last week's matches were Jenna Stayton, Michelle Criel, Stephanie Stayton, Natalie Pochomus and Stephanie McPhee.

Holy Angels will be playing in the Mount Aviat Invitational tournament his weekend.

POST PICKS OF THE WEEK

Last week was full of upsets which really shook up the Division I playoff picture.

Christiana, with its 12-8 win over William Penn, got right back into hunt. St. Mark's, with its 14-0 loss to St. Elizabeth, severely hurt its chances. Those games also gave last week's picks a beating. The two losses, to go along with three wins, brought the season record to 25-9-1 - a .729 winning percentage.

There are six more games this week to try and up that percentage. Here's a look at them.

NEWARK (7-0) VS. DELCASTLE (0-6-1) - Friday night at Newark's Hoffman Stadium, 7. The Yellowjackets are still unbeaten on the field of play and with an appeal on their forfeit pending, will keep them undefeated. That shouldn't change at all this week as the Cougars come to Newark. Newark has showed in the past two weeks that it will be ready to play against the weaker teams. The Jackets have too much talent and intensity for Delcastle. The Pick: Newark 42, Delcastle 6.

CHRISTIANA (4-2-1) VS. ALEXIS I. DUPONT (1-6) - Friday night at AI, 8. Halloween night shouldn't provide any spooks to the Vikings. Earlier in the season, after an emotional game against Newark, Christiana was upset by Brandywine. The thought here is that the Vikings learned from that and won't let it happen against the Tigers. Two differences in Christiana's favor are that it beat William Penn (as opposed to losing to Newark) and AI is not as good as Brandywine. Plus, the state tournament is again a possibility. The Pick: Christiana 20, AI 0.

CARAVEL (5-1) VS. MOUNT PLEASANT (3-4) - Friday night at Caravel's Bob Peoples Stadium, 7:30. Caravel is still very much apart of the Division II playoff picture. The Bucs, however, can't afford a slip up. Last year they beat the Green Knights on the road. This year the game's at home. Mount Pleasant, though, is a bit tougher than it was last year and Caravel showed some vulnerability against Tatnall. Caravel, though, needs the game more. The Pick: Caravel 24, Mount Pleasant 21.

GLASGOW (3-4) VS.

BRANDYWINE (4-3) - Saturday afternoon at Brandywine, 1:30. The Dragons are coming off a solid win over AI last week. They have shown great improvement from the beginning of the season. Brandywine, after losing all three of its non-conference games, has ripped off four straight Flight A wins, including an upset of Christiana. The Bulldogs still have a shot at the Flight A title and games with Newark and William Penn left on their schedule. However, a loss to Glasgow will mean that shot will go out the window. The Pick: Glasgow 28, Brandywine 27.

ST. MARK'S (4-2-1) VS. WILLIAM PENN (5-2) - Saturday afternoon at William Penn, 2. The Spartans are stinging from an upset loss to rival St. Elizabeth last week. They may have had their post-season hopes squashed. This, however, is a chance to prove how good a team they have. William Penn fell to Christiana last week and needs to beat St. Mark's to stay in the state tournament hunt. William Penn, though, has more to lose with a loss. That could be a determining factor.

The Pick: William Penn 16, St. Mark's 14.

HODGSON (3-4) VS. CONCORD (6-1) - Saturday afternoon at Hodgson, 2. It's Homecoming for the Silver Eagles and that's a great time to play spoiler against the Raiders, who hope to enter next week's showdown for the Flight B championship with Middletown undefeated in the conference.

The Pick: Concord 21, Hodgson 14.

Jackets rip Mount Pleasant goal to cut the lead to 14-3 with 9:43 to play in the second quarter. Newark struck again.

The Jackets marched 74 yards on nine plays with Richie Parson capping the drive with a three-yard touchdown run. It was fitting that Parson got the score on the drive in which he carried the ball five times for 40 of the yards.

Ty Broomer closed out the first half scoring with a 55-yard touchdown run, giving Newark an insurmountable 27-3 halftime lead.

Broomer would end up as the Jackets' leading rusher with 91 yards.

While the game was still a contest, the Jackets allowed the Green Knights just 34 total yards in the first half.

Parson added another touchdown with a 40-yard scoring run in the fourth quarter.

"Right now, everyone wants to go out and play hard every game," Parson said. "We don't want to go out and overlook anyone. Christiana got stunned [by Brandywine] and St. Mark's got stunned [by St.

Elizabeth] and we didn't want that to happen to us."

In addition, previously unbeaten Sussex Central was upset by Dover last weekend.

"I think our offensive line was the key," said Newark coach Butch Simpson, who saw his team stay unbeaten on the field this season. "We didn't expect to control the ball as much as we did because Mount Pleasant has played good defensive all year."

Newark will host Delcastle Friday night at 7 p.m. in another Flight A game.

Vikings rally past William Penn

► CHRISTIANA, from 19

got the winning points, it was the Vikings' defense that was the key to the win.

William Penn opened the game with a methodical 10-play, 69-yard touchdown drive to grab a quick 8-0 lead.

"The thing that was upsetting about that drive," Muehleisen said. "Is that they didn't do anything we didn't expect. We practiced against everything they did. We just had to play football."

"After that we made some adjustments and I think we held our own."

Indeed. From that point on the Christiana defense allowed just 91 total yards and only three first downs.

Another key to the Vikings' victory was how quickly they responded to the Colonials' fast touchdown.

On Christiana's second offensive play Murphy connected with Ron Nickles on a 65-yard touchdown pass. The conversion failed but the Vikings had pulled to within 8-6 with less than eight minutes gone in the game.

The defenses, though, took over from that point and that's how the scoreboard remained until Anderson's winning TD.

"We're back in the hunt," Muehleisen said of the ever-changing state playoff picture. "It really was an exciting game for the fans. It was just a great game."

"We have a great respect for William Penn and I think they have a respect for us. We've beaten them five times now since I've been here. I don't think there's too many other teams in the state that can say that."

In fact, there's none.

Glasgow High gridgers earn shutout win over Alexis I.

Dragons still eye good season

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

THE GLASGOW HIGH football team refused to let its season go down the drain.

The Dragons, after suffering a heartbreaking loss to Christiana two weeks ago, bounced back to shutout Alexis I. DuPont 17-0 in their soggy Homecoming game Friday night. The win improved Glasgow's record to 3-4 on the season and got it back on the winning track in time for Saturday's big game at Flight A contender Brandywine.

"Our [preseason] goals went out the window with that loss to Christiana," said Glasgow coach Dave Scott. "But now we've changed our goals and this was the first step. We didn't play great and it was hard to get that intensity back that we had [against Christiana], but we did get the win and the defense got a shutout.

"It's a good win after what happened and I think it shows we're now focused on our new goals of beating Brandywine and Mount Pleasant to get to 5-4 and then we have Newark at the end of the season. That'll be like our bowl game."

Glasgow took a 6-0 lead late in the second quarter as Isaac Allen recovered a Tiger fumble in the end zone.

The Dragons added to the lead before halftime as Kevin Krevchuck kicked a 28-yard field goal on the final play of the second quarter. The kick lifted Glasgow to a 9-0 lead at the intermission.

"I can't say enough about the play of Kevin Krevchuck," Scott said. "He kicked the ball deep all day and punted the ball real well in terrible conditions and then he made that field goal."

Vinnie Giles scored on a 17-yard run late in the third quarter to stretch the Dragons' lead to 15-0. Ike Wilson then fired a pass to Allen for the two-point conversion to provide the final margin.

"It's really a good win," Scott said. "We can still have a good season."

What turned out to be an easy victory didn't start out that way.

AI took the opening drive of the game and moved the ball deep into Glasgow territory. The Dragons, however, stiffened and stopped the Tigers.

"That set the tone for the game," Scott said. "Once we stopped them on that drive in the first quarter, I think our defense told them that we weren't going to let them beat us tonight. And they didn't."

AI never got close to scoring the rest of the game.

Glasgow, Newark and Christiana ready for v-ball tourney they advance. "We're still inconsistent in terms of mistakes we're making," said Huggins, whose team's only four defeats going into the St. Mark's match came at the hands of Glasgow and Newark. Despite the presence of so many seniors, blown leads caused by a lack of concentration were the major reason for each defeat, Huggins said.

"I think we've picked our game up since the beginning of the year,"

Huggins said. "The nice thing about the state tournament is that everybody pretty much knows it's all or nothing, and it puts a little more emphasis on every match. I think we're progressing where hopefully it will fall together at right time."

Dragons fall to Ursuline

Glasgow High closed out its regular season with three straight Flight A wins to clinch its first ever conference championship.

The Dragons completed their Flight A schedule with a 14-0 record, it's best ever.

“I think we've picked our game up.”

KIM HUGGINS
CHRISTIANA VOLLEYBALL COACH

Glasgow fell to Ursuline in the final regular season match of the season but will begin the state tournament Saturday night with a second or third seed. "We played a little tentative and that's what happens when you play tentatively," said Glasgow coach Robin Dunlap after the Ursuline match.

"You always want to win but it really didn't hurt us all that much as long as we don't slip down to the fourth seed.

"This may be good right before the tournament because it will show the players what happens if we play that way."

Delaware Ducks slip twice in youth hockey action

After opening their season with a win, the Delaware Ducks lost to the Haverford Hawks of Havertown, PA at the Skatium Rink on Saturday, October 26, 1997 by a score of 6-5, and to the PA Quakers by a score of 6-3 on Sunday, October 27, 1997.

In the first contest, the Ducks surrendered 6 goals after just two periods of play before storming back with 5 unanswered goals, one late in the second period and four in the third period. Eric Moore and Ian King led the Ducks comeback with two goals and an assist each. Richard Campbell had another strong game with a goal and three assists. Stephen Hughes, the Duck goal tender faced a whopping 42 shots on goal, saving 36 of them!

At home on Sunday, October 27, 1997 at the Pond the Ducks played a physical game vs. the Quakers.

Despite the loss they held the Quakers to only 24 shots on goal. Pee-wee Duck scoring in this game came from Eric Moore with assists coming from Ian King and Richard Campbell at 11:16 of the second period.

Chris Tyczkowski notched his first goal of the 1997-98 DVHL season after a beautiful centering pass from Andrew Cassidy at 10:45 of the second period.

Richard Campbell finished the Duck scoring at 6:47 of the second period with an assist from Eric Moore.

The Pee-wee Ducks have only one game on tap this week, on Sunday, November 10, 1997 at The Pond at 11:15 am vs. Wissahickon, PA.

Newark rallies for great season po or not, I told them what they accomplished was harder than the (Newark) teams who went to the state championship games."

"He's my candidate for coach of the year," Bussiere said. "To come back like they did after hitting some bumps in the road, it's really a credit to him."

"From the talent he had, I thought he did a hell of a job," said AI coach Joe Brown.

Christiana, meanwhile, which finished 1-5-1 in Flight A play, was fighting for its tournament life with an 8-6-1 overall record after a disastrous set of late-season losses. Vikings coach John Kendall said the defeats were sparked by the absence of two unnamed players for disciplinary reasons and an unhappy starter - forward Marlon Jones - who quit for one game. Jones later rejoined the team, apologized to his teammates, then went out and notched a goal in a 3-0 win over Hodgson (9-6) on Tuesday.

The Vikings had one game left on the road Thursday at Caesar Rodney. "We've shown signs of reviving," said Christiana coach John Kendall, whose team reached the semifinals of last year's state tournament.

St. Mark's (13-1-1) entered its final game Thursday against Brandywine with only the top seed in the state tournament to fight for. The Spartans' only loss was a 2-0 defeat to Salesianum, which is also vying for the top seed.

Before its season-finale, the defending state champion Spartans were paced by Jason Dzielak's 17 goals and 11 assists, Brian Lenz' 12 goals and eight assists, and Dan Keane's seven goals and 12 assists.

Fourth generation at Brosius-Eliason store

James E. Englehart was recently elected president and treasurer of Brosius-Eliason Co. making him the fourth generation to hold this position.

The lumber and building materials company founded in 1882 by Englehart's great-grandfather, James T. Eliason, remains a key supplier to local builders and contractors with retail sites in New Castle, Glasgow, Wilmington and Claymont.

Englehart is a graduate of Washington & Lee University in Lexington, Va., and joined Brosius-Eliason in 1978. After serving numerous positions with the company including assistant store manager, store manager, advertising manager and buyer, secretary/treasurer and administrative general manager was promoted to president.

Englehart said the company he calls "Delaware's hometown lumberyard," supplies materials and service to professional builders and contractors in the area with an emphasis on lumber and millwork, kitchen and bath cabinetry and fixtures, door, and windows, custom orders and one-to-one client relations. "We also provide for homeowners who recognize and appreciate the quality of our products and services at competitive prices," Englehart said.

Brosius-Eliason shareholders departed from traditional by electing Kathleen A. Gallo, CPA and former controller of Mellon Bank DE and Xavier Teixido, owner of Harry's Savoy Grill in Wilmington, as the first non-family, non-shareholders to the board of directors. The other directors elected to the board were James T. Eliason, III, chairman, Louise R. Eliason, vice chairman, Barbara R. Eliason, James E. Englehart, Charles G. Shoemaker, Joseph H. Shoemaker, and Frank Hewlett Jr.

Low-interest loan workshop

The Delaware State Housing Authority in cooperation with New Castle County Department and the city of Wilmington is hosting a home improvement loan workshop for persons looking for a low-interest loan to make repairs to their home or rental property.

Loans are made available through the Housing Rehabilitation Loan Program which provides home improvement loans at three percent interest to low- and moderate-income homeowners or landlords renting to low-income families.

The workshop will be held Tuesday, Oct. 21 at 6:30 p.m., at Conference Room B, 3rd Floor, Carvel State Office Building, 820 North French Street, Wilmington. Homeowners, investors and real estate agents are encouraged to attend. Call 577-3720 for more information.

REAL ESTATE BRIEFS

Paul Pruitt Certified as National Trainer for C21

Karen Gelineau, National Training Manager of Century 21 Real Estate Corporation announced today that Paul Pruitt of Century 21 Towne Centre in Newark, has become a Certified Century 21 National Trainer. Pruitt is the only person in the state of Delaware to get this certification.

The training he can provide will assist new agents in getting off to a fast start, and it will also help experienced agents reach the next level. "Gelineau said at a recent workshop in Hershey, Pa.

Paul H. Pruitt, Jr. has been one of the areas top agents for the past 5 years. He has been assisting with in-office training with Century 21 Towne Centre the past two years, and recently was spotlighted at Century 21's International Convention where he spoke on Real Estate Technology and the future.

This certification will allow Pruitt to conduct Century 21 Training programs anywhere in the United States for Century 21 Agents and Brokers. "This is a very exciting step towards the future for our company. Now I have the ability to combine our in-office training with Century 21 Corporations which will allow me to better train all of our agents as well as others in the Century 21 system," Pruitt said. "I haven't seen a better organized training system than this, and I am excited to be a part of it all.

Patterson-Schwartz joins referral network

Patterson-Schwartz realty company has become a charter member of Reliance Relocation Services, a new international referral network and relocation services company.

The new organization will serve transferees, corporations and member real estate firms with complete, state-of-the-art relocation-related services.

Reliance, headquartered in New Jersey, is the result of a merger of Genesis Relocation Services, which supports a broker network or more than 400 real estate firms in North America represented by 41,000 sales associates, and The Realty Alliance, an association of 50 of the nation's largest full-service residential real estate firms represented by more than 50,000 sales associates.

Dick Christopher, president of Patterson-Schwartz, is confident that Reliance Relocation will provide a boost in the quality and timeliness of services for customers needing relocation assistance.

"Because Reliance Relocation will be realtor-owned and realtor-controlled, it will be more responsive to the needs of our customers - individuals and corporations alike," Dick said. "It will 'shorten the distance' between realtor and customer and will better satisfy their needs."

Double S Companies collecting Toys for Tots

DDOUBLE S Companies will kick off this year's Toys for Tots drive during the grand opening celebration of their new model home, the "Dynasty" in the Norwegian Woods community on Old Baltimore Pike between Route 273 and Walther Road.

"Last year we raised over $9,000 for the foundation and we look to break that number this year," said Double S vice president Leo McMahon.

According to McMahon, last year's total was the largest single donation the Marine Corps has ever received in the state of Delaware.

The grand opening is scheduled for 11:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday, Nov. 1. Prizes and other give-a-ways are planned for the event, as well as refreshments and snacks. Passengers can ride around the community in a Marine HumVee and Santa Claus will arrive in a fire truck at 1 p.m. Ariel the Mermaid will be there also for face painting.
