City ponders referendum

□ The City of Newark is considering including a $5.5 million bond referendum on the spring ballot. See page 2a.

Wisniewski heads NBA

□ For John Wisniewski, Main Street has been something of a home. The owner of Delaware Sporting Goods in the store founded by his parents. Now Wisniewski has an additional stake in the city's downtown business district as president of the Newark Business Association. See page 2a.

UD's African celebration

□ The University of Delaware is hosting a month-long celebration of African-American culture. The programs include plays, readings, a food festival and a career conference. For details, see page 6a.

U.S. needs scientists

□ If the United States is to keep pace in the global economy, it will need more scientists and engineers. There is grave concern that by early in the next century, the nation will be short an estimated 200,000 such specialists. See page 3a.

Hopkins Road permit issued

□ The state has issued a permit for reconstruction of the Hopkins Road bridge, which spans White Clay Creek. The bridge was damaged during 1989 floods. Just what to do with the bridge and surrounding roadways is an issue of concern to environmentalists. See page 3a.

Caravel's battlings Kelleys

□ The Kelley home drywall has suffered enough. Now the brothers have turned their wrestling prowess to the benefit of Caravel Academy, which has fielded a surprisingly strong team. See page 8a.

Musical Heritage

□ The Musical Heritage Society is offering a fine catalog, which includes classical, jazz and even music box works. See page 2b.

First Stage opens 'Angel'

□ The issue of faith in a technical world is being considered in the new First Stage production of the Drury Pifer play, "Anatomy of an Angel." See page 2b.

Will Medical Center sell pediatrics?

by Cathy Thomas

In the midst of celebrating Christiana Hospital's fifth anniversary, Medical Center of Delaware officials find themselves embroiled in a controversy surrounding the pediatrics department.

A newly-formed citizens group, the Committee for Family Health Care, is concerned about what it believes to be a Medical Center plan to sell off most of its pediatrics department to the Alfred I. duPont Institute, a children's hospital near Wilmington.

Medical Center officials deny reports that pediatrics will be moved out of the hospital.

"That is totally unfounded," said Christiana Hospital spokesman John Abood. "Whoever is behind the report has not really been fair."

Abood said the rumor may stem from a Dec. 14, 1988 announcement that the Medical Center, which operates Christiana Hospital, would enter an agreement with the Alfred I. duPont Institute in Wilmington for the consolidation of some services, including pediatrics.

"Nothing has been decided," said Abood. "The hospital...cannot fully divest itself of pediatrics."

But Dr. William T. Lloyd, a Newark pediatrician and president of the Greater Newark Medical Society, believes there is a basis for concern.

"I'm concerned about an (hospital) administration that would sell pediatrics," said Lloyd. "I'm concerned about budget deficits of the past two years."

Lloyd believes Christiana Hospital may be selling its pediatric beds to Alfred I. duPont Institute for as much as $15 million.

The medical center reported losses of $8.9 million for fiscal 1989.

The Greater Newark Medical Society released a position paper, stating that "closing a great majority of pediatric beds at the Christiana Hospital will deprive the community of basic hospital care."

The community is large enough to require and command local hospital and emergency care, the society states.

Valentine's Day treats

by Nancy Turner

"Delicious decadence" best describes the Valentine's Day fare at Ashley's restaurant in the Christiana Hilton Inn.

The Christiana Hilton does $2.5 million in food revenue and $1.2 million in banquets annually under the culinary direction of executive chef Jerry Neverman, who moved to Delaware from Minnesota in 1987.

The restaurant has earned a four-diamond rating from the American Automobile Association since its opening three years ago, with elegant sauces recognized as being among its strong points.

Neverman emphasizes the importance of food presentation. "We make our food present itself with quality ingredients, fresh herbs, accompaniments and functional garnishes," he said. "We are always thinking of color."

Attorney general won't prosecute UD assault case

by Cathy Thomas

No criminal charges will be filed in the alleged rape of a 17-year-old University of Delaware student last fall at the Kappa Alpha fraternity house.

"The victim does not want to pursue this case further," said Delaware Attorney General Charles M. Oberly III. "I think the victim is entitled to her right to privacy."

The university freshman told police last fall that she was assaulted by several males at the Kappa Alpha house during the early morning hours of Sunday, Sept. 10, 1989.

In a prepared statement, Oberly said the decision not to prosecute the four men — two are University of Delaware students — followed a four-month investigation.

The female student was given access to the investigative file before requesting that prosecution not be undertaken, he said.

"The decision made by the female student," said Oberly in the prepared statement, "is concurred with by the prosecutors assigned to the investigation and will be honored."

News of the reported rape stirred emotions on campus.

Two weeks after the incident, more than 500 people — community members, university administrators and students — gathered for a rally to protest sexual violence.

Newark police conducted the initial investigation but later turned the case over to the state attorney general's office.

"Based on our investigation and cooperation with the attorney general, we concur with the conclusion," said Chief William A. Hogan. "The elements to seek prosecution just weren't there."

"The incident, itself, is unfortunate," Hogan added.

Oberly said the investigation took several months because the victim did not know the men who assaulted her.

"Had students with knowledge of the identity of the participants come forward, the investigation could have been completed much sooner," said Oberly. "They did not come forward, and it took considerable time to ascertain the identity of those involved, all of whom were from out of state and two not even being students at the University."

Oberly said the decision not to file charges is based on 31 statements gathered by investigators.

"I have to hope the public will have faith that we've made the right decision," he said. "Since the incident first became public in September, the university community has been swept by wild rumors and unsubstantiated conclusions about what actually occurred at the Kappa Alpha house."

University Dean of Students Dr. Timothy Brooks met with Oberly to review the findings. He will decide whether the two male students violated any university policy.

In cases of sexual assault and sexual harassment in the past," said Brooks, "the (university) penalties have been quite severe."

The penalties could include expulsion from school.

Brooks said he hopes to reach a decision on the case and have it settled by the end of this week.

Guard trio threatens host of records

"Experience tells us that people will come along and replace the great players and break their records, but these three have left a mark on me as people as well as athletes," Newark High School basketball coach Jim Doody.

by Steve Canaday

Over the course of the last four years, the talented trio of guards at Newark High School — Devon Chambers, Anthony Southerland and Shannon McCants — has dominated Delaware high school basketball while re-writing the Yellow-jacket record book.

"Right from the very beginning they all contributed on the varsity level," said their coach, Jim Doody. "Devon ended up starting his freshman year, while Anthony, who was the first guard off the bench, got into all 26 games. Shannon played in 20 games that first year."

In their freshman season at Newark, the three guards helped the Yellowjackets to the state finals, where Newark defeated Woodbridge for the championship.

Newark Historical Society display

Items of local historical interest are on view Thursday evenings through March at the Newark Historical Society offices, located in the Newark train station off South College Avenue. Hours are 6:30 to 8 p.m.

Julian Bond lecture Feb. 11

Civil rights activist and politician Julian Bond will discuss his experiences in the national movement for equality during a lecture at 1:30 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 11 at the Historical Society of Delaware, 505 Market Street Mall, Wilmington.

The lecture is part of the Society's winter series, which this year is focusing on the struggle for freedom and equality from the Underground Railroad to the modern civil rights movement.

Following Bond, Darlene Clark Hine, a visiting scholar at the University of Delaware, will speak Sunday afternoon, Feb. 18.

Hine will focus on the role of key black lawyers in breaking down Jim Crow laws. She will give special attention to Louis Redding of Wilmington.

Child passenger safety is stressed

Delawareans for Safety Belt Use and the Delaware Division of Keystone AAA will celebrate National Child Passenger Safety Awareness Week by presenting free t-shirts to all babies born in the state Feb. 11-17.

U.S. Representative Thomas R. Carper and Gov. Michael N. Castle will open the campaign Friday, Feb. 9 with ceremonies at Christiana

Civic League plans meeting

Kenneth Mack, executive director of the Port of Wilmington, will speak at the Feb. 20 meeting of the Civic League for New Castle County.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the New Castle County Police Headquarters, 3606 DuPont Highway, New Castle.

Mack's topic will be "An Overview of the Port of Wilmington Activities." A question and answer period will follow his presentation.

The regular monthly meeting of the Civic League Board of Directors will then be held. The public is invited.

Newark Shopping Center landmark changes hands

Department Store is sold by the Handloff family

by Cathy Thomas

A Newark landmark changes hands this week.

The Handloff family sold the Newark Department Store to a real estate partnership, formed by the Krapfs.

James and Thomas Krapf, who are partners in J & T real estate purchased the Newark Shopping Center in July 1988. The Krapfs have since renovated the shopping center and added several new shops. They have purchased the department store under a partnership known as Newark Department Store, Inc.

Thomas Krapf said they are not planning any changes for the department store.

"It's too early to make any decisions," said Krapf. "Right now it's going to stay just like it is."

The sale of the business will close today, Feb. 8.

The Newark Department Store was co-owned by brother and sister: Jack Handloff and Frieda Weinberg. The two, along with other family members previously owned the shopping center.

A spokesperson for the Handloffs said it was a "very pleasant sale," and they are pleased that the Krapfs are not planning any major changes in the store.

The Handloff family, originally from Philadelphia, moved here in 1919 to open the department store. The store was first located in the 200 block of East Main Street and remained there until the shopping center was built in 1955.

One of the unique features of the department store is the pneumatic tube system, much like those used in drive-in banks. The tubes eliminate the need for cash registers. Clerks place payments into the tube which travels to the office. Change is made, and the tube is returned to the clerk.

Newarker promotes Main St.

by Nancy Turner

"I grew up on Main Street," says Newark native John S. Wisniewski, who was recently elected president of the Newark Business Association.

Wisniewski is manager of Delaware Sporting Goods, which recently relocated from 42 to 48 East Main Street.

Specializing in athletic footwear and soft goods tailored to individual sports, the store was opened in 1968 by his parents, Irvin — a long-time University of Delaware coach known around town as "Coach Wiz" — and Martha Wisniewski.

"We are an active organization," Wisniewski says of the Newark Business Association, "and I think we are strengthening."

"There was a time in the 1970s when most individual merchants kept to themselves and focused only on their own businesses. Now that is changing. We are realizing that although we are competitive, we must work together to make Main Street a unified shopping district."

The official purpose of the Newark Business Association is to encourage economic development in Newark through promotional activities, design marketing strategies, promote business retention and recruit new store owners.

The association helps organize such welcomed events as Newark Nite, the Summer Concert Series, the Children's Art Exhibit, an Easter egg hunt, Sidewalk Days and Trick or Treat Main Street.

So far the promotional activities have been a huge success, drawing additional thousands of shoppers to Main Street each year.

John Wisniewski in the family store.

"Our activities are important to get people to know we are here," said Wisniewski. "It's fun just to stroll Main Street. There's variety and different architecture. There are so many unique places, like GrassRoots, The Science Fair and Blue Parrot Antiques. You can't find that in the malls."

"Yes, downtown has changed, but Newark will always have a special flavor of its own."

Wisniewski believes that good business is "getting a good quality product out at a fair price and offering service behind it."

"It's getting to know the customer individually. That's what our family business has been doing for nearly 21 years. It's all part of being an owner-operator. That's what most of the businesses are on Main Street."

"We (the association) had a campaign three years ago called 'The Buck Stops Here,'" Wisniewski says. "We used posters of about five merchants with Harry Truman for our advertisement. The point is that with about 65 percent of the stores on Main Street being owner operated, the old saying really is true."

City proposes $5.5 million referendum

by Cathy Thomas

Newark City Council will take steps Monday night to put a $5.5 million bond referendum on the April ballot.

Council will consider a resolution scheduling a public hearing for the Feb. 26 meeting. The referendum will be split into three questions. It has been proposed to fund the following projects:

□ $1 million to partially fund construction of the water treatment plant.

□ $1.6 million to fund police facility improvements

□ $2.9 million to fund open space acquisition.

In a memo to city council, City Manager Carl Luft expresses concern over preliminary cost estimates for the police station.

A final consultant's report on police facility needs is due shortly. The study will recommend whether the city should renovate the current police station or build a new facility and the cost estimate.

"It is certain that the statement of probable costs compiled by H. Wendell Mounce and Associates (consultants) will exceed our preliminary estimate," Luft wrote in the memo. "I am not recommending that the total sum of the bond referendum be changed as a result."

"When facility improvements are actually designed, I feel we can supplement available funds with additional financing sources over the next two budget years along with cost reduction alternatives."

Luft said cost estimates on the water system improvements may also exceed the amount of funds available.

The 1990 city budget included a three percent property tax increase to fund the bond issue debt service. A similar tax increase is expected in 1991 to continue funding the debt service.

Residents will have an opportunity to comment on the bond issue proposal during the public hearing. Following the hearing, council will decide whether to place the bond issues on the April 10 ballot.

Residents must be registered to vote by March 17 to consider the bond issue and vote on a council representative if they live in Districts 3, 5, and 6.

Godwin faces charges

Newark City Councilman Harold F. "Hal" Godwin faces misdemeanor charges following a dispute last month with a former employee.

City police charged Godwin with terroristic threatening and offensive touching based on a report filed by Charlene Taylor, 17, of North East, Md.

Taylor, a part-time cashier, told police that Godwin threatened and shoved her during a Jan. 15 dispute.

Materials scientists a must if U.S. is to meet economic challenge

by Cathy Thomas

Scientists and engineers must receive adequate education in the material sciences to meet worldwide economic challenges, according to a retired DuPont Co. engineer.

Worldwide competition in materials is already well established.

"Even in high technology fields, it is safe to predict increasingly intense competition," said Dr. Rudolph Pariser, speaking Thursday during the Materials Research Symposium at the University of Delaware. "No physics, chemistry, or engineering graduate can afford to enter the world of the future without at least a basic rudimentary understanding of what materials and material systems are all about."

The number of bachelors degrees awarded to students in the natural sciences and engineering peaked at 200,000 in the mid-1980s, according to Pariser.

The awarding of such degrees has now dropped to about 150,000, and it appears the downward trend will continue.

"This trend is reinforced by a declining interest in science in U.S. primary and secondary schools, as well as by the demographics of the passing baby boom," he said. "It is projected that there will be a cumulative shortage of 200,000 engineers and scientists in the United States by the year 2000."

Industry has coped with the shrinking number of materials scientists by hiring from two groups of people, according to Pariser.

"The first group involved the classical disciplines, such as organic chemistry or theoretical physics. By necessity, this group needs to learn about materials 'on the job,'" said Pariser. "The second and much smaller group involves those graduates with specific expertise in materials. These graduates often hit the deck running and their contributions can be of immediate value."

Pariser said universities can take several steps to enhance the quality of material science graduates:

□ Universities should offer core courses, such as mathematics, chemistry, and physics, that introduce modern materials concepts as examples into their exercises and texts.

□ No major university should be without a resource of courses devoted principally to the study of materials.

□ Materials programs, once established, should interact strongly with other science and engineering departments to develop interdisciplinary materials-related educational programs.

□ Continuing education programs should be expanded.

State issues Hopkins Road permit

State environmental officials issued a permit Thursday for construction of the controversial Hopkins Road Bridge.

The permit allows the Delaware Department of Transportation (DELDOT) to replace and enlarge the bridge which spans White Clay Creek.

Environmentalists and nearby residents opposed construction of the bridge over concerns that it would damage the environment.

Construction of the 125-foot-long bridge will cost around $1.5 million.

The old single-lane bridge was closed last July due to deterioration caused by high storm waters.

"People were very interested in this application because of the natural beauty of White Clay Creek," Wetland and Aquatic Protection Branch Manager William Moyer said in a prepared statement. "We've managed to add ten conditions to the permit that will make sure that the new bridge doesn't harm what is a really nice wooded stream bed."

"Those conditions are based on the concerns we heard from people at the public hearing on this application."

The conditions include provisions requiring that aquatic vegetation be planted under the new bridge, that the same type of grass that is on the site now be replanted, that only those trees that absolutely must be lost to the right of way be cut down, that power lines run underground at the site, and that a walkway be maintained along the bank under the bridge.

Senator James P. Neal, R-Newark, said Hopkins Road needs a two-lane bridge over the creek. He expects environmental damage to be minimal.

"I think it (environmental damage) will be temporary," he said. "The nature of the environment there is that it will repair itself."

A trout pool is located near the bridge, but Moyer said he doesn't expect any adverse impacts.

"DELDOT has agreed to hold off construction during March, April, and May, when the fish head upstream to spawn," he said. "They'll also be looking at closing the bridge during some key weekends during the trout fishing season."

The bridge lies in the White Clay Creek Preserve, a 1,700-acre nature preserve.

Chrysler shifts LeBaron production

Chrysler Corporation has announced that it will shift production of the Chrysler LeBaron coupe to Newark from its St. Louis, Mo. assembly plant.

In a press release issued last week, Chrysler said it will close the St. Louis plant on Sept. 21, 1990 following the expiration of the current labor agreement.

The St. Louis plant also produces the Dodge Daytona sports car.

Production of that vehicle will be transferred to Chrysler's Sterling Heights, Mich. plant.

In the prepared statement, Chrysler officials said moving the production lines "enables the company to better utilize its assembly plant capacity."

Production of the LeBaron coupe and convertible will be transferred to the Newark assembly plant where the Dodge Spirit, Plymouth Acclaim, and new Chrysler LeBaron sedans are currently produced.

LeBaron coupe and convertible production will begin in early December, after a three-week changeover period.

With the resumption of normal production levels in Newark, the company anticipates that job openings for several hundred hourly employees.

Oberly failed to set moral tone

It is the duty of a state attorney general not just to prosecute cases worthy of the state's interest, but also to set a moral tone through his decisions and pronouncements.

In regard to the latter responsibility, Delaware Attorney General Charles M. Oberly has failed miserably in his most recent test.

Oberly was given custody of a Newark Police Department case against University of Delaware students alleged to have sexually assaulted a young woman in a fraternity house.

Last week, Oberly announced that he could make no case.

Although many in this community find that in and of itself offensive, we must give the attorney general the benefit of the doubt.

It was a difficult case to make, an even more difficult case to prove, and the young woman involved wanted to be done with the matter.

What is confusing, however, is the manner in which Oberly chose to announce this finding.

He did not simply report that the case would not be pursued but used the opportunity to berate the police — presumably the Newark Police — and the media for sensationalizing the case.

Here, Oberly was way off the mark.

It was his duty to set the moral tone, not to pass off blame on ancillary targets.

The act, whether legal or illegal, was reprehensible.

By shifting emphasis away from the real issue — the sexual abuse of women by men on college campuses, and at the University of Delaware in particular — Oberly did a great disservice to the citizens of this community.

Pediatrics decision of public interest

Although it is a private institution, the Medical Center of Delaware has taken an aggressive approach in marketing itself as the primary health service provider not only in northern Delaware but in the tri-state region.

Therefore it would seem that the Medical Center has some obligation to open major decisions to public debate.

What is of particular concern at the moment is the pending decision — or, as Medical Center officials deny that any decision is near being made, the "alleged" pending decision — concerning the pediatrics department at Christiana Hospital.

Area residents are concerned that the Medical Center is about to sell the bulk of that department to the Alfred I. duPont Institute, a hospital for children near Wilmington.

The Medical Center may well have good reasons for making such a proposal.

Local residents certainly have good reasons for opposing it.

Thus, there needs to be a thorough public debate before any action is taken.

Cub Scouts: Leaders of the pack

Having been a complete washout in Boy Scouts (it took me three years to reach the second rank, and they virtually give you the first), I wasn't about to push my son into the wild world of neckerchiefs and merit badges.

On the other hand, when he expressed an interest in joining Cub Scouts, I didn't object.

I thought it would help Noah to have some structured activities outside sports.

And I thought he would look pretty good in the gold on blue uniform, which makes the kids look like junior members of Custer's 7th Cavalry. (I contend they should replace the gold and blue ballcaps with blue cavalry hats, maybe even with plumes, but that's just me.)

What I didn't expect was that his participation in scouting would bring the family that much closer together.

But it has.

POSTSCRIPT

Neil Thomas

The program requires a great deal of parental involvement to assist the child in various activities which lead to higher ranks (Bobcat to Wolf to Bear) or awards of recognition (arrow points).

And that's good, because sometimes it's just too tempting to let the kids vegetate in front of the Nintendo screen while I read. Or snack. Or vegetate someplace else.

Scouting has forced us to adopt a certain discipline in making time for Noah's work.

A few hours each weekend are set aside to help him win points.

And the work has been educational.

Through his Wolf handbook, Noah has learned about the traditional scouting subjects — citizenship, the flag, etc. — but also about bicycle safety, nutrition, wood-working, animal care, and sign language.

He even knows where to find the water cutoff valve and circuit breaker box in our house.

(Heck, I wasn't sure until I showed him.)

Recently, his den leader hosted a birdhouse building party for dads and sons.

It wasn't something I was looking forward to, I'm sad to admit.

I did about as well in wood shop as I did in Boy Scouts, and I didn't want the other fathers to see that Noah was carrying the workload for me.

Which he did, but I didn't mind because he loved it so.

In fact, he set me straight when I started to put the six-piece unit together wrong. (Only six pieces and I still had trouble!)

It was great to watch the sheer joy on his face as he hammered nails straight into the wood and the six wood sticks gradually turned into something valuable.

Thanks to the folks with Pack 346, and thanks to all scout leaders — Cub, Brownie, Boy and Girl — for showing such an interest in our kids.

POSTBOX

Medical Center pediatrics stand is disturbing

Shirley M. Tarrant
Old Oak Road
Newark

As president of the Suburban County Hospital Task Force from 1975 to 1982, I am very concerned about the "rumors" regarding the closing of the Pediatrics Department at Christiana Hospital and the moving of that department to Alfred I. duPont Institute.

Countless hours and indefatigable efforts expended by the Task Force determined the reality of Plan Omega, which resulted in the construction of Christiana Hospital.

Personally, I shall never forget Plan Omega! In fact, the vanity tag on my car is "Omega 1," my boat is named "Omega" and I wear "Omega" sneakers.

The Christiana Hospital is a monument to our Hospital Task Force.

The Medical Center of Delaware, the state's major teaching hospital, has approximately 150 doctors in residency training each year in a variety of areas, including pediatrics. Will they go to the Institute?

In the Center's "To Honor and Remember" brochure during the capital campaign to build Christiana Hospital, memorial gifts were described as "...a tribute to someone you wish to honor...a person or persons who...become a part of this important project."

I ask, a "part of" or "a-part from"?

The memorial gifts to the New Horizons of Care Campaign, which paid for construction of Christiana Hospital's Pediatrics Department on the fourth floor, were designated contributions as follows: $10,000 for patient rooms, $25,000 for elevator lobby, $50,000 for pediatrics quadrant, and $300,000 for pediatrics floor.

Donations were designated gifts to the Pediatrics Department's building location on the fourth floor, not at the A.I. duPont Institute.

The Medical Center's special issue (July 1977) of The Center View, "Building Blocks...To Live By," asserted that "Plan Omega is designed to preserve and strengthen the Medical Center's resources and to assure its continuation as a community and primary care center, a tertiary care center, and an education center."

To dishonor this commitment is to betray the faith and trust places in the Medical Center of Delaware by the members and supporters of the Suburban County Hospital Task Group.

Our organization fought seven long, bitter years for a major, full-service, acute-care hospital — and for nothing less.

Who unearthed that "doggie-bone"?

Creating one of the desserts at Christiana Hilton.

"I encourage people to come out, take their time and enjoy a three or four hour experience in fine dining," Neverman said of Valentine's dinners. "It's a special night that people need to appreciate."

While this year's "pour deux" sweetheart specialties, which include exciting entrees like Norwegian salmon and chateaubriand with fresh herbed tomatoes, are superb, the finale, a sensuous selection of chocolate and fresh fruit desserts is irresistible.

White chocolate pie with kiwis, sweetheart cake and chocolate genoise are just a few of the Valentine's Day 1990 creations taking shape at the Christiana Hilton.

Sous chef Jerome Gerochoki's white chocolate pie is a delightful combination of white chocolate and layers of strawberries and kiwis in an Oreo cookie crust, garnished with dark chocolate leaves and chocolate dipped strawberries.

While it is a very elegant dessert, "anyone could make it," says Gerochoki modestly. "Everything is layered with a white chocolate cream that is easily made from 12 ounces of white chocolate, one-half cup of heavy cream and two ounces of butter."

"I melt down the chocolate, heat up the cream, mix it all together and pour it on top. The crust is a mixture of chopped Oreos and two ounces of butter pressed into a shell. We have this at my house."

To make the chocolate leaves, simply paint a good quality semi-sweet chocolate on a real leaf that has been sprayed with a non-stick agent, cool and peel it off.

Sous chef James Bryant's creation of a white chocolate sweetheart cake for two is a light sponge cake layered with chocolate and vanilla butter, sprinkled with Gran Mariner, and encased in white chocolate. It is decorated with chocolate roses, raspberries and a lattice woven chocolate lid.

Bryant made the interesting lid by piping semi-sweet chocolate onto parchment paper in a heart design, chilling it, then gently removing the paper.

Neverman created a chocolate genoise, a thick chocolate cake that is filled with raspberry mousse and studded with fresh raspberries. After being drizzled with chocolate, it is garnished with mint and served with cream anglaise sauce with raspberry puree.

On any given day, guests at the Christiana Hilton will find chocolate oblivion, toll house cake, pastel cheese cakes, tangerine tortes and strawberry flans on the dessert cart.

When asked, in celebration of Valentine's Day, what makes certain foods sensuous and romantic, Neverman said, "The richer, more fattening it looks, the more tempting, the more you will sell."

"It's a combination of sinful and forbidden that people will go for every time."

HOSPITAL

Lloyd said the hospital may only keep a few pediatric beds to care for severely ill infants and children.

"I admit good pediatric care is needed on the other side of town," he said. "I'd hate to see all of our (pediatric) care go over there."

A newly-formed group, the Committee for Family Health Care, plans to fight any attempts to move pediatrics. The group will meet at 7 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 11 in the Newark Senior Center.

Shirley Tarrant, a medical center trustee and a leader in the fight to get Christiana Hospital built, said she has been concerned about the move of pediatrics for more than a year.

"I want to know what's going on. I'm very upset about this," said Tarrant. "I'm not going to stand by and watch the pediatrics department dissolve into nothing over at Christiana."

Tarrant said residents in the southern part of the county are not familiar with the Institute.

"People don't know where that hospital is," said Tarrant. "They don't have a way to get there."

Tarrant said pediatricians are

The Committee for Family Hospital Care has formed over concerns that pediatric care may be taken out of Christiana Hospital.

The goal of the committee is to assure that pediatric services with pediatric resident coverage continue at Christiana hospital.

Officers for the committee include: Barbara Daugherty and Patty Alfieri, co-chairpersons; Ellen Fanjoy, secretary; Mary Grace Kayatta, treasurer.

Persons interested in the committee should call Barbara Daugherty at 738-3387 or Patty Alfieri at 738-5880.

being wooed to sign on with the Alfred I. duPont Institute.

Theresa Heavens, director of public affairs for the Institute, said no decisions have been made concerning its relationship with the Medical Center of Delaware.

"There's nothing definite," she said. "We've agreed to consolidate services. What that means, we don't know at this point."

5 reasons why I recommend the Urgent Care Center

Kids are different. We get sick fast and more often than grown-ups. We don't have much patience when we have to wait to get better. Sometimes hospitals scare us... and even make us feel worse!

That's why I go to The Urgent Care Center when I get sick and need quick care. The doctors and nurses there make me feel just right. Here are five good reasons why your kids should go there, too, when they get sick:

1. ALWAYS OPEN/EASY ACCESS

The Urgent Care Center at the Institute is open 24-hours a day, seven days a week. It's always there for your children. And it's easy to get to... right off I-95 and Rt. 202. There's plenty of free parking.

2. QUICK CARE

When your child is sick, minutes seem like hours. Staff at The Urgent Care Center will treat your child promptly... because when your child needs urgent care, the last place you want to be is in the waiting room.

3. SPECIALIZING IN KIDS

The Urgent Care Center doctors and nurses have years of special training in pediatrics. They're professionals who like children... and really understand them. They know how to talk to kids about what's important to them... from why they need a blood test... to the latest adventures of their favorite cartoon characters.

4. KID SIZED FEATURES

The Urgent Care Center is ready for almost any pediatric situation. It has the latest medical equipment... sized and designed for children. It has special devices to monitor even the tiniest child's blood pressure and thermometers that can take a temperature in seconds! Let's not forget those Garfield Band-Aids and Super Girl stickers!

5. IT MAKES PARENTS FEEL BETTER, TOO!

The happier the child, the happier the parents! The Urgent Care Center, on the first floor of the Alfred I. duPont Institute children's hospital, is designed to eliminate children's fear of hospitals. It's bright and cheerful, with toys and books and special visitors (like clowns!). And staff explain all medical procedures... to the child... as well as to moms and dads. Every effort is made to involve the parents in their child's care, too.

'African Legacy' celebration opens

The University of Delaware is hosting a month-long African Consciousness Celebration, which features lectures, music, a food festival and a career conference.

The celebration will open Friday, Feb. 9 with a gospel musical performance of "The Sermon," a play written and directed by Warren A. Rhodes.

The program, presented by the Calvary Baptist Church, will be held at 7 p.m. in Loudis Recital Hall of the Amy E. duPont Music Building on Amstel Avenue. Admission is $3.

Bruce Bridges, author of "The Ghetto Mind" and host of the popular Durham, N.C. radio talk show "The Cultural Awareness Seminar" will present a lecture at 5 p.m. Monday, Feb. 12 in the Center for Black Culture, 192 S. College Ave.

Area residents can enjoy a taste of African during the Pan-African food festival to be held at 5 p.m. Friday, Feb. 16 at the center for Black Culture. African dress is suggested.

A minority career conference will be held all day Saturday, Feb. 17 in Clayton Hall.

Entitled "Workforce 2000: Preparing the Minority Manager for the Challenge of Diversity in a Global Economy," the conference will focus on diversity and the effect of a global economy as it relates to the new manager.

Its goal is to challenge and prepare students for the job market of the 1990s.

Keynote speaker will be Diane L. Johnson, executive vice president of TelSpan International Inc., a video production company in Washington, D.C.

Other conference speakers include Robert C. Landsiedel, executive director of special events at Drexel University and president of EMX (Executive Manners eXpert), and Justin McNeill III, a 1988 University of Delaware graduate now working as a software engineer with the California Institute of Technology's Jet Propulsion Laboratories.

Registration is $15 for the general public, free for UD students. Deadline is Feb. 9. Call

'Barnacle Jill' visits Christiana

By Suzanne Sczubelek

"Barnacle Jill" Watkins didn't expect to have anything to do with Russia when she set off for England in April 1988 to take part in the Carlsberg Single-Handed Transatlantic Race.

Then again, she also didn't expect to damage a rudder during a storm with 25-foot waves 1,000 miles off the U.S. coast, damage that would eventually cause her trimaran to become helpless.

The 36-year-old Roanoke, Va. native told a group in Christiana High School auditorium Monday night of how a Russian satellite picked up the signals from her Emergency Position Indicating Radio Beacon (EPIRB) and bounced them back down to a ground station in Halifax, the first step that led to her rescue.

Watkins was featured at Project Extend's celebration of America's 32 years of space exploration to give living proof of the efficiency of the space program.

"It was less than one hour from the time the ground station heard the signal until the time a plane was in the air," Watkins explained. She waited five hours between the time the signal went up until she climbed aboard a 600-foot cargo ship that had to maneuver its way up to her 40-foot boat.

On her $80,000 trimaran, called the Heart of Maryland because of the support Watkins received from that state in her venture, one of the most useful pieces of equipment was the $250 EPIRB.

Watkins plans another transatlantic voyage in the spring, but says she won't go solo for awhile. Another shock she had during her mishap was discovering she was counting on a radar detector to warn her of bigger ships nearby while she took her three hours of sleep at intervals. Watkins said she was told by sailors on the cargo ship that big ships only put out their radar in bad weather or in small harbors.

Nevertheless, Watkins still has two solo trips from Bermuda under her belt, and says she has a "penchant for multi-hull ships."

A computer software engineer, Watkins received a bachelor's degree in computer technology from Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

Watkins said that after she had lost the rig, which fell, narrowly missing her, during the storm, she was "very, very scared," but didn't panic.

When she heard the plane overhead, she said she was ecstatic to know she was going to be saved.

"But after awhile, all the same neuroses come back," she says.

Watkins says she got into sailing for an adventure and went through a five-year intensive training period prior to embarking on her ill-fated voyage.

Next on her list of adventures—"I think I want to be an astronaut."

IT'S YOUR MONEY

SHOULD YOU REFINANCE

When interest rates go down, home refinancings go up. People want to lock in a lower rate on their home mortgages.

Mortgage rates usually decline in winter, when demand is low, and rates near 10 percent can be found for fixed-rate loans. A number of financial advisors call that an optimum rate over the near term, especially if your current interest rate is more than two or three percentage points higher.

But refinancing involves extra costs, like points on the new loan, lawyer's fees, a new appraisal, perhaps, and other fees. Lower interest payments will mean lower tax deductions, too; this may serve to limit the savings per month. Each homeowner will have to measure the cost advantages of refinancing against tax considerations and the number of years the family expects to remain in the house.

Many refinancers take the opportunity to draw on built-up equity for a larger loan, which may have tax-deductible interest, to pay off some of their debts.

Let's go over the dollars-and-cents figures together at School counselors celebrate week

□ National School Counseling Week is being celebrated through Feb. 10, according to Mary Maslar, president-elect of the Delaware School Counselors Association.

Theme of the week is "Charting New Directions for the 21st Century."

The Delaware association held an appreciation dinner for counselors and administrators Wednesday night at Wilmington College.

Howard Center open house

□ The New Castle County Vocational Technical School District will hold an open house 1-4 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 11 at the Howard Career Center in Wilmington.

Wilkes cites

Ronald Rainey

□ Ronald D. Rainey of Newark, a student at Wilkes University in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., has been named to the dean's list for the fall semester.

Barlow, Basalla are honored

□ Two Newark area students have been named to the fall semester dean's list at Bucknell University.

Honored were Jennifer Barlow and Susan Basalla. Barlow is the daughter of David and Jean Barlow of Balantrae Drive, and Basalla is the daughter of George and Carolyn Basalla of Alexandria Drive.

Scranton honors Newark student

□ Harry J. West of Van Sant Road, Newark, has been named to the fall semester dean's list at the University of Scranton.

St. Mark's High awards scholarships

□ St. Mark's High School has awarded 34 academic scholarships to area students who scored in the 96th through 99th percentiles on its placement/scholarship test.

Recipients from Newark area schools are: Jaime Arruda, Michael Bruner, Grant Burton and Amy Burzon, all of The Independence School in Newark; Tami Hutchison of Kirk Middle School in Newark; and Aneel Alvares, Sarah Palermo and Joseph Spitz, all of Holy Angels School in Newark.

Each student receives a four-year scholarship valued from $2,000 to $4,800. Additional grants are awarded based both on academic ability and financial need.

Downes School winter carnival

□ Downes Elementary School will hold a winter carnival from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 10.

The school is located on Casho Mill Road in Newark.

'Cafe Smith' dress up day

□ The Jennie E. Smith Elementary School PTA will sponsor dress up day at Cafe Smith at noon Wednesday, Feb. 14.

Cafe Smith is a monthly event in which parents are invited to join students during their lunch hour in an informal cafe atmosphere.

The February event is special because the PTA has invited local legislators, and Christina School District board members and administrators.

It sounds too good to be true... "Lose up to 20 pounds in 3 weeks." What's more, this quick "fat fix" promises you can do it lying down!

"There is no magic here," says Deborah McCamie, owner of Deborah McCamie Beauté, Wilmington's exclusive European slimming and body treatment salon. "We offer safe and scientifically proven ways of losing pounds and inches."

The three basic weight loss methods combined with personal diet plans practiced at the salon are: electronic muscle stimulation, detoxification, and emulsification. For women who hate to exercise, or for those with stubborn figure problems like saddlebags.

EXERCISE WITHOUT PAIN

Electronic massages contract the muscles and burn off unwanted fat. In 45 minutes you get a complete workout equal to an 8-hour jog.

"Now women can get help for their individual figure problems just by letting my machines zero in on specific areas where they want to lose inches or pounds," McCamie says.

DETOXIFICATION UNCLOGS YOUR SYSTEM Detoxification, a popular weight loss treatment in Europe, uses seaweed preparations, deep massages and sea salts to extract unwanted body fluids and fats.

"Ladies just love being pampered with the massages and special oils," McCamie says, "and they really go wild when they realize this method helps them drop pounds and inches in no time at all."

EMULSIFICATION LIQUEFIES FAT

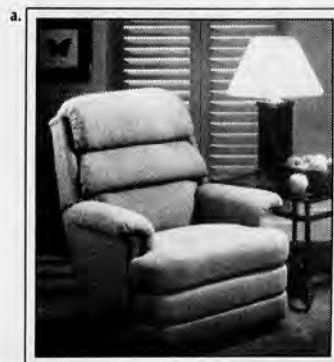

"Take a hardened piece of butter and melt it in a warm oven, emulsification breaks down and liquefies the fat in your body in much the same way," says McCamie.

BEAUTÉ OFFERS RESULTS

"My average client drops 2 or 3 dress sizes," McCamie says, "and yes, it can happen in just three weeks!"

Battling Kelleys boost Caravel team

"We go through drywall a lot." — Matt Kelley on wrestling his younger brother, Fran, in the living room.

by Steve Canaday

If you first met them in the Caravel Academy wrestling room, you might think Matt and Fran Kelley were mortal enemies instead of brothers.

"When they get on the wrestling mat, it's all business," Buccaneer head coach Tom Murphy said of the Caravel brother tandem. "They push each other really hard in practice, and once in a while they'll almost want to fight each other. But when they leave the wrestling room, they're back to being brothers again."

Fran, and his older brother, Matt, are two big reasons that Caravel is 8-2-1, and off to its best start in school wrestling history.

A sophomore, Fran has one of this year's top records in the state at 130 pounds at 17-1. In his senior season at Caravel, Matt has compiled an impressive 15-2 record in the 152 weight class.

If the Kelley brothers are tough on opponents, they're even tougher on themselves. They think of each other as year-round wrestling partners, and according to Fran, it can cause problems — especially at home.

"That's all we do is wrestle," the younger Kelley said. "We end up breaking things at home all the time. I really don't understand how we ever became wrestlers, because our Mom and Dad hate it when we wrestle in the house."

Despite all the damage that Matt and Fran might have done to the Kelley livingroom, it's on the wrestling mat where they're the most dangerous.

Although he's only a sophomore, Fran is working on his third trip to the state tournament. He was one of the rare wrestlers who make the state tournament as an eighth grader, and last year, after an 18-2 regular season and a second place conference finish as a 119-pound freshman, Fran finished sixth in the state.

Matt, who transferred to Caravel from Wilmington High in the middle of his tenth grade wrestling season, made the state tournament in his first eligible season last year as a junior, and finished the year with an 18-6 record.

Each of the Kelley brothers is a fierce competitor, and when they square off against each other, the sparks are guaranteed to fly. Still, when it's time for a Caravel wrestling match, you can be sure that Matt and Fran are each other's biggest supporters.

"I love to wrestle (Fran) and to try to beat up on him," Matt said, "but during a match, I hate to see him lose. I'm right up on the edge of the mat screaming if he's ever in a close match. Sometimes, I think I'd rather lose than see Fran lose."

Caravel assistant coach Mark Farmer said that the Kelley brothers know how to motivate each other and instruct each other.

"One's like a coach to the other," he said. "They listen to each other more than they listen to us at a match. They seem to know pretty much what each other can do."

For all the time they spend wrestling each other, the two brothers have very different styles according to head coach Murphy.

"They're really entirely different on the mat," Murphy said.

"Frannie's more structured as a wrestler. He works the moves and he's more of a serious, disciplined wrestler. He'd rather work for the technical (fall). Frannie disciplines himself. That's all he thinks about is wrestling. He's usually on weight, he gives 100 percent at practice, he makes all the practices, and he goes to different matches and watches his competition. He's really motivated himself, and his goal is to eventually be a state champ."

"Matt, on the other hand, pretty much hot dogs it," he said. "He'll toy with his opponents, play with them. I think Matt is naturally gifted. He might not work on technique as much as Frannie, but he puts in a lot of time too."

Matt and Fran Kelley both say they wrestle for the challenge. Matt called a wrestling match "the toughest six minutes in the world," and it's the challenge of lasting those six minutes that draws both brothers to the sport.

"There's nothing to compare with wrestling," Matt said, "and I've got a wrestling partner year round — my brother."

When asked what he wanted to accomplish this year, Fran said two state champs in the family would sure be a nice tribute.

"That's how I want Matt to go out in his senior year," he said.

University ice skaters set record

As far as anyone can tell, University of Delaware skaters have set a new record at the national championships in Salt Lake City — and that's before any of them have even touched blade to ice.

"We think we've set a record with the United States Figure Skating Association Championships," said Cyndi Haley, assistant to the director of recreational and intramural programs at the University of Delaware. "We believe we have the most people from one place to ever go to the Nationals."

Although the USFSA doesn't keep any sort of official records on the number of Nationals competitors from each skating club, no one, including Delaware skating guru Ron Ludington, can remember any other organization sending 43 skaters to the annual competition.

When the 43 skaters took to the ice on January 21 to perform their competitive routines for a send-off exhibition, the packed house saw one performance that will not represent upcoming competition at the National competition which began on Monday.

Elaine Asanakis, Joel McKeever, Calla Urbanski, and Jay Freeman performed as a foursome — a category not currently accepted by the USFSA, but under consideration. The quartet will perform their routine again for organization officials this week in Utah.

Representing the University at the Nationals are:

Novice Ladies, Amanda Ramsay; Junior Ladies, Geremi Weiss; Novice Men, John Frederiksen, Michael Weiss; Junior Men, Phillip Dulebohn; Junior Dance, Jocelyn Cox and Brad Cox, Katie Williamson and Ben Williamson, Cheryl Demkowski and Jeff Czarnecki, and Rachel Lane and Eric Meier.

Senior Dance, John Millier and Hilary Olney.

Wendy Millette and James Curtis, Mimi Wacholder and Bruce Montemayor, Lisa Grove and Scott Myers, Elizabeth McLean and Ari Leib, Suzanne Semanick and Ron Kravette, and April Sargent and Rusty Witherby.

Junior Pairs, Laura Labarca and Ken Benson, Aimee Offner and Brian Holgenberg, Kara Paxton and Brad Cox; Senior Pairs, Vanessa Moore and Todd Reynolds, Maria Lako and Rocky Marval, Karen Courtland and David Goodman, Elaine Asanakis and Joel McKeever, Jennifer Heurlin and John Frederiksen, Calla Urbanski and Mark Naylor.

THE GREAT AM 1260

GIRLS BASKETBALL

□ Caravel — (12-3 overall) The Buccaneers withstood a fourth quarter rally by Perryville (Md.) and escaped with a 47-35 win to open last week. Amanda Woolford led the Buc's with nine rebounds while teammate Veronica Homiak added eight. Caravel wasn't as fortunate later in the week when they ran into a buzzsaw named Archmere Academy. The Buc's dropped a 62-39 decision to the Auks despite Mo Querey's 18 points.

□ Newark — (9-1 in BHC Flight A, 10-4 overall) The Yellowjackets dumped conference rival Christiana 64-23 as Kim Burke and Marie Roundtree each tossed in 16 points to lead Newark. Roundtree also pulled down eight rebounds in the game. In later action, the lady 'Jackets stopped A.I. duPont as Burke and Roundtree again led the charge. Burke had 16, while Roundtree added 14 to lead seventh-ranked Newark to a 44-23 win.

□ St. Mark's — (1-3 in Catholic Conference, 10-4 overall) The Spartans dropped a heartbreaker to Catholic Conference rival St. Elizabeth last week 39-37. The sixth-ranked St. Mark's squad squandered several opportunities to score in the waning seconds to let second-ranked St. E escape with the win. Missy Burris led Spartan scorers with a dozen points, while Monica Williams and Suzie Rowlyk had 10 a piece. The Spartans got some conference revenge when they drubbed Archmere 50-29 later in the week. Burris led all scorers with 25 points, and Rowlyk added 14.

□ Glasgow — (4-6 in the BHC Flight A, 8-7 overall) Despite 13 rebounds from Donna James and 10 points from Stacia Salvucci, the Dragons bowed to conference foe A.I. duPont 46-24 to start last week. But the ladies from Glasgow rebounded in fine fashion with a convincing 52-20 lacquering of Delcastle to round out the week. Nikki Tarantino was the offensive hero for Glasgow as she ripped the nets for 17 points. Salvucci and Jones added 14 and 12 points respectively.

□ Christiana — (2-8 in BHC Flight A, 4-11 overall) The Vikings faced a tough week with both Newark and Concord on the schedule last week. Christiana dropped both contests, falling to Newark 64-23 and to Concord 65-29. Amy Garbacz scored eight points in the Newark game, while Kelly Mozee pulled down 11 boards. Heidi Plotzer cracked double digits with 10 points against the Raiders.

□ Hodgson — (2-8 in BHC Flight B, 3-10 overall) Hodgson fell twice last week as well, as the lady Silver Eagles came out on the short end of two conference games. Wilmington edged Hodgson 49-41 to begin the week, and the Silver Eagles fell to Dickinson 52-43 to end it. Elaine Russell scored 16, while Doreen Fields added 14 against Wilmington. Despite Russell's 20 points and Hope Archie's 10, the Silver Eagles were unable to hold off the Rams of Dickinson

WRESTLING

□ Caravel — (8-2 overall) The Buccaneers took two of three matches in a busy week, defeating both A.I. duPont and St. Andrew's while losing to Mt. Pleasant. Caravel downed A.I. 42-22 behind pins by Britt Evans (103), Fran Kelley (130), Chad Poultnery (160), and Damen Moore (189). Against St. Andrew's, Chad Poultnery (171) picked up a pin while Scott Merrill (112) earned a technical fall as both wrestlers moved to 15-0 on the year. The Buc's took the match 56-13. Caravel ran into an upset minded Mt. Pleasant team and fell 39-34. Merrill, Poultnery, and Kelley, as well as Pete Scacheri (119), and heavyweight Rich Zoeltzsch had pins for Caravel in the losing cause.

□ Hodgson — (4-1 in BHC Flight B, 9-3 overall) The Silver Eagles of Hodgson destroyed both opponents they faced last week. In their first match, the Eagles ran over Howard by a score of 69-4. Recording pins for Hodgson were Eric Moore (130), Eric Fetterman (140), Ed Meeds (145), and Brent Biddle (160). Hodgson obliterated Sanford in other action last week. Jeff Smith went to 12-0 on the year at 103 pounds with a pin.

□ Newark — (4-1 in BHC Flight A, 5-3 overall) The Yellowjackets dropped two tough matches last week as they fell to top-ranked William Penn 48-6 and to seventh-ranked Dover 47-20. Only Newark's "Hitman" Bobby Hart (119) and Brian Conley (125) were able to gain points with decisions against the Colonials. Against Dover, Conley registered a pin for the 'Jackets at 125, while teammate Spencer Melby recorded a pin at 160.

□ Glasgow — (3-2 in BHC Flight A, 5-3 overall) The Dragons won two of three matches last week, topping Delcastle and Claymont, while falling to Concord. The loss to Concord was a heartbreaker for the Dragons as they fell by a single point 36-35. Shaun Valiant (145) and Tyler Keith (152) picked up pins in the losing effort for the Dragons. Glasgow had little problem with its other two opponents as the Dragons defeated Delcastle 48-20, and downed Claymont 57-12. Mike Thompson (103), Randy Granger (125), Valiant, and heavyweight Skip Thorp had pins against Delcastle, while Aldwyn Doyle (112), Granger, Bryan Thorp (135), Valiant, Bret Icenogle (160), and Curtis Allen (171) had pins in the Claymont match.

□ Christiana — (3-2 in BHC Flight A, 4-2 overall) The Vikings found success three times last week, dumping Delcastle and Wilmington in dual meets and winning a four team mini-tournament held at Christiana. Five Vikes recorded pins to lift Christiana to an easy 46-23 win over Delcastle.

□ St. Mark's — (2-5 overall) The Spartans record is deceiving because they are ranked among the best teams in the state. It's just that they've wrestled a rigorous schedule against the area's elite teams. Last week was no exception as St. Mark's wrestled the state's number one and number two ranked teams in William Penn and Salesianum. The Spartans fell to the Sals 34-19 despite pins by defending state champ Sheldon Thomas (103), and Dan Rosas (119). Salesianum came from behind to take the match, winning the final five bouts en route to victory. It was more of the same last weekend when the Spartans took on the Colonials of William Penn.

TOP GUNS

In each of their four years, all three have been an integral part of what is arguably Delaware's most successful boys basketball program over the past decade.

From their freshman season, the three Newark guards have led their team to an overall record of 74-17 and a Blue Hen Conference Flight A record of 48-4.

Individually, each member of the trio is mounting a charge on the Newark High record books.

The 6-foot 2-inch Chambers has been the most prolific scorer of the bunch. Earlier this season, he became only the second Yellowjacket to score 1,000 points. Currently, Chambers has more than 1,200 career points, and has a realistic shot at breaking the all-time Newark scoring record of 1,450 points set by the legendary Bunny Blaney in the 1940s.

Because he missed his entire sophomore season with a broken leg, Chambers will try to accomplish in three years what Blaney managed in four.

In addition, Chambers is on track to break the single season scoring record at Newark of 529 points set by Vince Garlick in 1982. Currently, he's averaging almost three points a game more than Garlick did in his record setting year.

Chambers, who is already the all-time school leader in steals, will also hold the all-time Newark rebounding record with more than 400 career boards by the time he graduates.

According to his coach, Chambers' development has come both on and off the court.

"Devon has really matured as a student since his first year," Doody said. "I know now that he has the chance to make it at the next level academically."

As far as Chambers' basketball talent is concerned, Doody has never harbored any doubts.

"I feel more confident about Devon being a big-time Division I basketball player than I did about Terence Stansbury (the Newark graduate who played for Temple University and eventually made it to the NBA). Without a doubt, Devon can play at the highest level of collegiate competition."

Chambers' cohort, Anthony Southerland, who also stands 6-2, will hold the school mark for the most varsity games in a career when he graduates.

In his four years at Newark, Southerland will have played in nearly 100 varsity games, a staggering statistic.

Southerland will finish as the third all-time leading scorer (behind Chambers and Blaney). He currently has more than 800 points and could possibly make a run at 1,000 by season's end.

With more than 270 current career assists, Southerland will likely finish second on the all-time list behind another teammate, Shannon McCants.

"There probably isn't a bigger practical joker anywhere than Anthony Southerland," Doody said of his senior guard.

"As a student, Anthony has already fulfilled his goal to pass the college boards. As a basketball player, I believe that Anthony has what it takes to fit into Division I."

At 5-feet 9-inches, McCants is the shortest of the three senior guards, but probably the quickest. The ball handler and assist leader for the 'Jackets, McCants currently has more than 300 career assists, and each one he gets this season adds to his Newark record.

"Shannon is an accomplished student," his coach said, "and there isn't anybody who loves the game of basketball more than Shannon McCants."

"The amazing thing to me," their coach said, "is that they're setting all these individual records but it's not like they're playing in a losing program or against poor teams."

For three friends, and for three of the best guards to pass this way, the only remaining accomplishment is a state title for their senior memory book.

Special kids, special care

by Beth Thomas

The room is bright and cheerful, a toddler's delight. It holds what has to be the world's largest ball, colorful mats for tumbling, and a series of neat boxes just right for climbing into and out of.

At the center of it all, a bright young teacher smiles, laughs and gives encouragement.

At first glance, it's the ideal preschool. A closer look reveals what is not immediately obvious — lots of this "fun stuff" is adaptive equipment in disguise, designed for special children with special needs.

The chairs have seatbelts to help hold unsteady young bodies in place. There is a "prone stander" to help a child into an upright position. There are instruments to help a child who is afraid of being touched.

Over the years, some of the children who have benefitted from this classroom have had cerebral palsy. Some have had orthopedic handicaps, and others attention deficits. Some have had learning disabilities, some are deaf, some are blind. Many have had to cope with more than one of those problems.

Many others like them cannot enter the classroom at all, because there is a waiting list.

What is this haven, a place that gives hope and a guaranteed best start in life for children from birth to age three? It's the Christina School District's Early Intervention Program, housed at Maclary Elementary School in Chapel Hill.

It's coordinator until earlier this year was Mary Ann Duggan.

With seemingly endless energy and enthusiasm, Duggan spent her mornings in the classroom with four or five students and her afternoons in follow-up home visits to ensure maximum parental involvement in each child's individualized education plan.

Now that Duggan has entered graduate school in Florida, her successor Sharon Lyons carries on the job.

Duggan, Lyons and the rest of the Early Intervention team all go much further than just taking care of the endless paperwork that naturally seems to follow a child with special needs.

Duggan, who spearheaded the Early Intervention pilot program four years ago, built her own special brand of caring into the day-to-day operations.

There is a parents' support group and the home visits are less like bureaucratic interviews than visits with friends. Holidays are celebrated with big family get-togethers and parents of "alumni" still keep in touch. Many of them lament the loss of personal support and encouragement once the children grow too old for the program.

Technically, the parental involvement is part of the program's mandate to be "home and center based." All the love and concern is an extra.

"We really try to be advocates for the parents," Duggan said. "We try to help them adjust to what's going on. In many cases, the parents are still coming to grips with the fact that their child has a problem. We try to empower them with expectations for their child and give them emotional support."

See KIDS/12b

Seeking early intervention

Specifically, the Christina School District's Early Intervention Program is a multi-disciplinary program for developmentally delayed or at-risk infants and toddlers.

Children are referred to the program through the school district's Childfind Office. Referrals are made to Childfind from parents, private physicians, nurses, therapists, public health personnel and other agencies.

Once a referral has been made, a team diagnostic assessment and clinical observation is completed. There is a home visitation and more observation, an initial home visit and a parent meeting. An individualized education plan is then developed for children admitted to the program.

The early childhood special education teacher develops play activities to improve cognition, self-help and socialization.

Components of speech and language therapy include the ability to receive a message, understand language and the ability to send a message and express language.

The physical therapist provides programming for children who present delays in gross motor development. Play activities to strengthen balance and gross motor skills are emphasized.

Children who are accepted must be residents of the Christina School District between the ages of birth and three. For details, call the Childfind Office at 454-2300.

For Duggan, the emotional strains of her work are outweighed by the feelings of satisfaction.

New Castle man lands role in 'Rocky V'

by Nancy Turner

Ronnie Branch of New Castle has landed small acting roles in both "Rocky V," now being filmed by Sylvester Stallone in Philadelphia, and "The Awakening."

And he is scheduled to appear in "Godfather III," currently being shot on location in Rome.

Branch, 42, is a newcomer to the movie business. He just started in July 1989, so no one is particularly surprised to hear that he regularly earns his living as a millwright at the Chrysler Corporation's Newark assembly plant.

But let him start talking about his career as a former welterweight boxer and the conversation heats up.

Branch had his first amateur fight in 1962 at Delaware Park and in 1968 won the Mid-Atlantic Golden Gloves title.

He began working with Angelo Dundee, Muhammad Ali's trainer, in Pennsylvania in 1973 and turned professional a year later with Dundee as his manager.

"The set (of "Rocky V") brought back a few memories," said Branch, who fought his last round about 15 years ago. "About 300-400 people were set in the stands and the energy was there, just like a real fight."

"Rocky V" will be filming in Philadelphia for an estimated six weeks.

In the film, Branch plays a corner trainer and a ringside fan.

In real life, Branch has trained with Ali and was in camp when Ali fought George Foreman and Ken Norton. He knows Joe Frazier well and has met Sugar Ray Leonard.

So how does a stunt boxing match match up with the real thing?

Branch looked up at the ceiling, shaking his head in good humored exasperation.

"I'll be honest with you," he said. "I was up there (in Philadelphia) watching the fight scenes with those stunt guys and they weren't even close to getting hit. If I were in charge, for the money they're getting paid, I'd make them take a few of those punches.

"A good fighter can roll with the punches and not get hurt. And in a real fight, if you do get a beating, you don't just go down and then get right back up. It just doesn't happen."

On one occasion, Branch did suffer a bad cut to his eye in a bout in Baltimore. On his way back to the dressing room, a fan who also happened to be a brain surgeon, came running after him and said, "Hey, Ron, let me see that cut."

The surgeon grabbed his bag and said, "Boy, don't go over there to that hospital. Since your fight was so good, I'm gonna sew you up right here for free."

And he did.

Branch has lots of stories about his boxing career. He loves boxing and says he will always keep a hand in it by training, managing or at least being an avid spectator.

Maestro, a drum roll, please.

No, make it a drum roll. With trumpet fanfares.

Wait a minute. There'd better be cymbals and a chord or two from the Mighty Wurlitzer organ, as well.

Are you ready for the announcement of the decade and possibly the century?

Pay attention. Here it comes: Ladies and gentlemen, not more than 10 minutes ago I got a haircut. And I like the way my hair looks. Correction. I think my hair looks positively fabulous.

Isn't that an amazing statement? How many times in one lifetime can a person expect to be satisfied with a haircut, perm or set?

So far in this person's life, it's twice.

The other time happened just after I turned 13 and the beautician convinced my mother that I had, at last, outgrown my Dutch boy bob.

At this rate, the third time should occur just about the time I am looking for the latch on St. Peter's gate.

What is it about hair and the way it looks? Or at least the way we think our own hair looks? I'd bet my microware that most people are just like me — after spending $8 to $85 at the beauty parlor we can hardly wait to rush home, run to the mirror and rearrange our hair.

I can't count the number of times I have genuinely complimented a fellow worker's newly done hair only to be told that even though I am an intelligent and nice person, I am a lousy liar and a wretched judge of hair color, style and condition.

A scientific poll conducted by a prestigious Midwestern research institute confirmed that most people hate their hair most of the time. Moreover, at the drop of a brush, they will fault their tresses in at least nine of the following categories:

Too thin, too shiny, too thick, too curly, too straight, too long, too limp, too dark, too flyaway, too dull, too short, too gray, too dry, too stringy, too wavy, too colorless, too shaggy, too dry, too heavy, too layered, too blah, too oily, too light, too streaky.

When we're little, hair isn't actually hated. It's merely considered a nuisance, something that must be washed when one is cornered in the bathtub.

Additionally, it's not a good place to stick chewing gum.

Little boys eventually develop the courage to face the barber and his menacing tools which, with a single slip, could leave a boy earless or worse.

Little girls tolerate trips to Grandmom's, where their hair is tortured into ringlets and bedecked with bows.

By the time a child is an adolescent, hair is a major issue. Perhaps even THE major issue.

There are some experts who believe that hair is more of a problem to teens than sex is. While I am not willing to go that far, I do sincerely hope that the time spent on hair far exceeds that spent on sex.

Musical Heritage Society offers a sound catalog

Many years ago when the LP was still king and record clubs flourished, I was a member of the Musical Heritage Society. Even then it was not fair to really classify it as a "record club." It was more,

For some reason or other, the MHS and I drifted apart. It was never the quality of their recordings and, in truth, I am not sure why I gave up my membership, but I did.

Just before Christmas I got a letter from their president, Albert Nissim, asking me if I would be interested in reviewing their CDs on my WNRK broadcasts. He included quite a list of titles, but with the rush of the holidays, I didn't act.

Then in January, another list arrived from MHS headquarters in Ocean, N.J. I really read this one carefully, and took a good look at their magazine, Musical Heritage Review. A quick note back and some of the most interesting and exciting CDs I have ever heard arrived.

I selected jazz, opera, symphonies, a Broadway show and a CD made from a priceless music box. That's how broad the society has become. In earlier years, it offered mainly classical and baroque orchestral and solo works.

My opera selection is the first recording I ever had of Stefano Landi's "La Morte d'Orfeo." The composer calls it a "Tragicommedia Pastorale."

Landi was born in 1587 and this reference was obviously to "Il pastor fido," a masterpiece of the genre by Guarini.

This very old opera is brought alive by John Elwes, Johanna Koslowsky, David Cordier, Michael Chance and Harry Van der Kamp with the vocal and instrumental ensembles under the baton of Stephen Stubbs. It is like a musical time machine and really does allow us all to share in the heritage of music which is ours.

Another musical heritage which is ours is jazz, and MHS doesn't overlook this truly American art form. I have relished "New Orleans Jazz Echoes" with Waldo's Gutbucket Syncopators! There is some well known material, like "Tiger Rag" and my all-time favorite "A Closer Walk With Thee," and some more rarely heard works in the more than 55 minutes of joy on this CD.

From the Great White Way, we have Cameron MacIntosh's presentation of Sandy Wilson's "The Boy Friend." All the fun of the girls finishing school, etc. comes back to us on this disc. The show first opened at the Old Vic in August 1984 and in this country at the Albrey the following month. The hilarious numbers brought back a veritable flood of pleasant memories.

One of the most charming CDs is "Music Box Opera," superb recordings from the Rita Ford Collection.

Many youngsters today think of music boxes as trinkets from the shore which play "Over The Waves" or Christmas gifts with truncated versions of "Jingle Bells."

What a surprise they are in for, and for those of us who have experienced real music box music, what joy!

This disc includes music from "Rigoletto," "Die Walkure," "Don Giovanni," "La Traviata," "Carmen" and many more.

Symphonies of Joseph Haydn, his Nos. 80, 83, 84, 87, 88 and 89, are on a two CD set with superior performances by The London Mozart Players under Jane Glover. This is more "traditional" fare for the Musical Heritage Society and provided well over two hours of listening pleasure, as symphonies of Papa Haydn should.

The Musical Heritage Review offers interesting articles and serves as an update of the organization's huge catalog. Prices from the society are substantially below those of retail stores, beginning at the $5 and $6 range. The CDs are under $13 for first quality, top of the line recordings.

If you would like more information, you may write the Musical Heritage Society, 1710 Highway 35, Ocean, NJ 07712-2996. Enjoy!

First Stage, in preparation for the opening of "Anatomy of an Angel." At left, in rehearsal, are actors Ceal Phelan, Stephen Novelli and Elizabeth Soukup. Keeping careful watch are playwright Drury Pifer and director Peter DeLaurier.

'Angel' explores faith in the modern age

by Neil Thomas

Since Copernicus, science and religion have fought a long and philosophically taxing cold war.

It's a war which during the 20th century would seem to have slipped the way of the scientists.

The modern world is so steeped in technology that faith in anything but that technology can be made to appear naive.

The subject of science and religion is central to our being but so emotionally charged that the issue is often overlooked.

But it is a subject that Delaware playwright Drury Pifer tackles head-on in First Stage's new production, "Anatomy of an Angel."

The show will play at 8 p.m. Thursdays through Saturdays, Feb. 15-17 and 22-24 at Wilmington Friends School, 101 School Rd., Alapocas.

Tickets cost $10 to $15 and are available at B & B Tickettown or by calling First Stage at (215) 644-2973.

According to Pifer, "Angel" tells the story of Mavel Pirelli, a successful ex-Catholic inventor whose life is rocked by a series of seemingly random events.

He receives death threats, his wild teenage daughter announces plans to enter a convent, which causes his Jewish wife to become incensed, and he copes with a dangerous attraction to a mysterious and volatile young nun.

As Pirelli attempts to find a pattern behind the events, Pifer explores the question of religion in the modern age.

"The attraction is the theme of the play," said Peter DeLaurier, Pifer's First Stage partner and director of "Angel."

"The idea is elusive, but it really is the sort of question at the core of our being. You wake up in the middle of the night and wonder about the world, where it came from and where it is going.

"It has a lot to do with faith, the fact that we find ourselves in a world that on the surface of it is totally undirected, governed by chance events.

"But if you step back, even modern physicists say there is something that underlies this chance."

Pifer wrote the first draft of "Angel" about 10 years ago, then put it aside.

"It always read pretty well," he said, "but I think people were afraid of the subject because it goes into areas most modern plays don't."

And yet, said DeLaurier, it is not essentially a religious play any more than "Master Harold and the Boys" is essentially a political play.

Rather, he said, it is a play about a human being coping with complex problems through which religious issues can be raised.

Pifer, who attended Catholic school and whose mother was a lapsed Catholic, said that unlike many modern plays, "Angel" does not poke fun at the church.

"I have tried to write about characters who are Catholic, but who are serious and complex," he said.

DeLaurier and wife Ceal Phelan, the third partner in First Stage, first saw "Angel" in 1981 and took an immediate interest.

"I'm drawn to it," said DeLaurier, "because, like everyone who thinks, I would ask some of the same questions as Marvel asks."

The cast includes Phelan, Stephen Novelli, Elizabeth Soukup, Molly Jackson and Pearce Bunting, and Pifer is thrilled with their work.

And he is pleased with the early success of First Stage.

"Both Peter and I are feeling the gods are smiling on us."

OperaDelaware presents 'Witch'

The American premiere of "The Lion, the Witch, and the Wardrobe" will be staged next month at the Grand Opera House in Wilmington.

The presentation is part of OperaDelaware's Family Opera Theater series.

Written by British composer John McCabe after the classic children's book by C.S. Lewis, the fairy tale follows four children as they find their way through a magic wardrobe into a land of eternal winter enslaved by the evil White Witch.

They join freedom fighters led by Aslan, a heroic lion. The story resolves after a struggle between good and evil.

The production will be directed by Leland Kimball and conducted by Evelyn Swenson. Leading players include soprano Lisa Helmel as the Witch and baritone Alan Wagner as the Lion.

Young performers include Regina McCann of Wilmington Christian School, Michael Dumin of Hanby Junior High School, Matthew Swank of Shiloh, N.J., and Stefanie Lord of West Chester University.

Also in the cast are Cal Brackin, Carol Denenberg, David Sprekel, Robert Dumin, Duane McDevitt and Greg Longenhagen.

Twenty area students representing 15 schools will join 20 adults to form a chorus of mythical beasts, goblins and forest spirits.

OperaDelaware will bring McCabe, the composer, from London a week before opening night. He will give lectures and master classes, one scheduled at the University of Delaware.

Performances are scheduled at 8 p.m. Friday, March 9 and 1 p.m. Saturday, March 10 at the Grand. Tickets cost $16, $8 for students. Call 652-5577.

Also on stage:

□ "The Nerd," a comedy by Larry Shue, will be performed Feb. 9-24 by Newark's Chapel Street Players. For ticket information, call 368-2248.

□ The Harrington Theatre Arts Company at the University of Delaware will produce a series of one-act plays, entitled "Collage," at 8 p.m. Feb. 9-10 and 16-17 in Room 100 Wolf Hall. The plays include Guy De Maupassant's classic "The Necklace," a cutting from Neil Simon's "Plaza Suite," and "Sometimes You Just Want a Beer," by former University student Michael Quigley. Tickets cost $3 in advance, $4 at the door.

□ "The Fourposter," a comedy by Jan de Hartog, will be produced weekends Feb. 9 through March 4 by the Stepping-Stone Theatre Company in The Upper Room Theatre at Grace Church, 9th and West streets, Wilmington. Tickets cost $10. For reservations, call B&B Tickettown at 656-9797 or (215) 459-3283.

DSAC shows books, scratchboard

Monotypes and handmade books by Elaine Ippolito and works in scratchboard by Jane Quartarone Platz are on display through February in the Delaware State Arts Council galleries in the Carvel State Building, Wilmington.

"Current Sensations" is the title of the Ippolito exhibition, housed in Gallery II.

Ippolito is a graduate of University of Delaware and holds a master's in art education from West Virginia University. She has exhibited extensively in the Mid-Atlantic region.

In her work, Ippolito emphasizes the elements of color relationships, surface texture and spontaneous plate markings.

These elements are used to communicate her interpretations of the environment, often realistic landscapes or sea-related scenes.

The Platz exhibition, in Gallery I, is titled "Revolution" and expresses the artist's concern over mankind's destruction of the environment.

Working primarily in scratchboard with bright dyes, Platz meticulously produces pieces which serve as a therapeutic way for her to deal with her feelings of helplessness in global issues.

Unraveled fibers are used as symbols of the fragile, unraveling planet on which she lives.

Also on view at area galleries and museums:

□ A display of children's art work from around the world provided by UNICEF will be shown through March 1 at the Newark Free Library, Library Ave., Newark. The work can be seen during regular library hours, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. weekdays and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturdays.

□ "Trompe L'oeil" works are being exhibited through March 11 at the Brandywine River Museum, Chadds Ford, Pa. The style, which means "fool the eye," creates an illusion of three dimensional forms on two dimensional surfaces. Artists to be shown include William Michael Harnett, the father of the style in America, and George Cope, John Haberle and John Frederick Peto.

□ Works by Roy Blakenhip, Jean Diver, Anne Boysen, Matthew Reinert and Carol Horgan are on view through March 15 at Hardcastles Gallery, 217 W. 9th St. Plaza, Wilmington. A reception for the artists will be held 5-8 p.m. Friday, Feb. 23.

□ "Highlights From the Collection" are being exhibited through March 11 at the Brandywine River Museum, U.S. 1, Chadds Ford, Pa.

287th Army Band plans free concert

The 287th Army Band of the Delaware National Guard, a much-honored unit, will present a free concert at 3 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 11 at the historic Everett Theatre in Middletown.

The concert program includes a variety of works for band by P.D.Q. Bach, Alfred Reed, Gustav Holst, John Williams and, of course, John Philip Sousa.

The 287th has a long and proud heritage of service. It has performed for the inaugurations of presidents and served in the South Pacific during World War II and in the Korean conflict.

It also performed during Boston's 300th anniversary festival and for the Virgin Islands' veterans' ceremonies.

The band, under the direction of Charles "Ed" Hockersmith and Larry C. Hirsch, has recently returned from Walt Disney World, where it represented Delaware during a veterans' celebration.

Also on stage:

□ The Green Willow Folk Club will host a concert featuring Mick Moloney, Robbie O'Connell and Jimmy Keane at 8 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 10 at Immanuel Episcopal Church, 17th Street and Riverview Avenue, Wilmington. Tickets cost $9 in advance, $10 at the door. Call 994-0495 or (215) 444-0446.

Newark spring concert series

□ The Newark Department of Parks and Recreation will sponsor a spring concert series and is seeking interested musicians.

Concerts will be held on the lawn of the Academy Building downtown from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. Wednesdays during the months of May and June.

If you are interested in performing, contact Kristin Foltz at 366-7060.

'Cupid's Arrow' tour at DAM

□ The Delaware Art Museum will offer a special "Cupid's Arrow" gallery tour at 6 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 13.

The free tour will be led by senior docent Sheryl Ennis Craig, who will set the mood for Valentine's Day with a tour of the museum's Pre-Raphaelite collection.

The tour is part of the museum's ARTiculations program. For information, call 571-9594.

ALA offers pizza card

□ The American Lung Association and Pizza Hut are joining forces to issue the fund raising Pizza Privilege Card.

Cards will be available through Feb. 16 and last three months. A $20 purchase entitles the buyer to three medium-size pizzas at any of the nine participating Pizza Huts.

The cards are available locally at Winner Ford and Winner Nissan in Newark, Bridal and Tuxedo Outlet in Newark, Jaycees in Newark and New Castle, and Alpha Xi Delta sorority at the University of Delaware.

For information, call 655-7258.

Newark Senior Center trip

□ The Newark Senior Center will offer an eight-day, seven-night trip to Savannah and Jekyll Island, Ga. from March 30 through April 6.

For details, call My World Travel at 655-4770.

Home gardener lecture series

□ A series of five lectures for home gardeners will be offered this spring by the Wilmington Garden Center.

The first lecture Tuesday, Feb. 13, will be "Trouble Shooting in the Garden" with Dr. David Frey. It and all other lectures will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Delaware Museum of Natural History, Greenville.

"Gardening in Small Places" with Marnie Flook will be offered Feb. 20, "Square Foot Vegetable Gardening" with Nancy Frederick on March 13, "Naturalistic Gardening" with Richard Lighty on March 20 and "Perennial Combinations" with Charles Cresson on April 10.

Admission is $10 per lecture or $40 for the series. Call 658-1913.

Newark Lions induct members

□ The Newark Lions Club inducted two new members, Margaret S. Catts and Robert C. South, during its meeting Jan. 16.

Catts is executive director of the Newark Senior Center, and South is a chiropractic physician who wanted to join an active community service organization even before moving to the Newark area.

Catts' membership was sponsored by Lion Gene G. Danoff and South's by H. Alfred Tarrant Jr.

Catts was guest speaker at the meeting, discussing "Needs of the Newark Senior Center." Newark City Police Chief William A. Hogan will discuss "Newark Police Facilities" during the Feb. 20 meeting.

The Newark Lions Club, in its 60th year of service to the community, is now meeting at the Sheraton Inn-Newark at 6:15 p.m. the first and third Tuesdays of each month.

It is currently raising funds through a Taste of the Brandywine coupon book sale. Books can be obtained at Angie's Sub Shop or by calling Angelo Cataldi at 737-1253 or Marilyn Gleber at 731-1487.

Art auction benefits Newark Orchestra

Gala event Friday night at the Hilton

It's art for art's sake when the Newark Symphony Society hosts a fund raising art auction Friday, Feb. 9 in the ballroom of the Christiana Hilton Inn.

Proceeds will benefit the Newark Symphony Orchestra.

This year's event will mark the eighth time that the musical society has successfully joined forces with the illustrative art world to raise money for the city symphony. The 1989 auction was attended by more than 200 people and raised several thousand dollars.

Guest arriving at 7 p.m. for the preview will enjoy informally browsing through the 200 original works scheduled for sale, getting acquainted with society members and guests, and sampling from a delightful wine and cheese board.

There will also be musical entertainment during the preview hour, with Ray Braun on classical guitar and Carolyn Braun on violin.

The 8 p.m. auction will boast an impressive assortment of framed, original oils, acrylics, watercolors, prints and lithographs, all of which are being provided by the Ardmore Fine Arts Gallery of Ardmore, Pa.

For the discriminating collector, the gallery will offer a Collector's Corner featuring well-known artists. In the past, that has included works by masters Calder and Delacroix.

Newark Symphony Society members Marilyn Stritzinger and Marilyn Minster are co-chairing the event and hope to fill the Hilton's 200-person capacity ballroom.

"It's going to be a marvelous evening," said Stritzinger. "People like auctions and it's such a good way to begin collecting. We hope to appeal to Newark's new home buyers and have visions of people with a lot of empty walls and office space that needs art work."

"The dealers at Ardmore Gallery are very knowledgeable about the types of art that are popular, so there is sure to be something suitable for Newarkers of any collecting level and taste," she said.

Stritzinger added, "Of the 200 items coming to the show, some can start at a price of $50 and it is very possible to get an excellent buy."

In years past, Stritzinger said Newark residents had been able to purchase very reasonably priced paintings by little known artist, some of whom later gained enough notoriety to command premium prices for their work.

Terms of sale are cash, check or major credit card. The Ardmore Gallery has an unconditional five-year guarantee on all artwork and framing and will grant exchange credit on any auction purchase that is returned to its Ardmore location for any reason.

Tickets cost $5 and will be available from symphony society members or at the door.

Survival skills for single parents series

Are you a single parent struggling to bring some order to a chaotic life?

A four-part series entitled "Survival Skills for Single Parents" being offered Thursday evenings at Calvary Baptist Church, 215 E. Delaware Ave., Newark, is designed to help.

The series, developed by home economist Debbie Amsden, will open Feb. 15 and will run through March 8. It is sponsored by the Newark Center YWCA and NewArk United Church of Christ.

The programs will help single parents and their children deal with family values and goals, financial management, time management, and communication in conflict situations.

Sessions will begin at 6 p.m. with dinner, which will be provided.

Weekly programs will begin at 6:30, with child care, homework help and activities for the children. Child care is offered by the YWCA and Gamma Sigma Sigma sorority.

Fee is $5 made payable to YWCA/Newark Network and the deadline for registration is Monday, Feb. 12. Send check and note with your name, daytime telephone number and the ages of the children who will be attending to the Newark Center YWCA, 318 S. College Ave., Newark, DE 19711.

The program is for single parent mothers and fathers, and custodial and non-custodial parents.

Families who have been involved in the series say that they learned new skills for living together and gained confidence in their ability to handle challenges.

For more information, call Karen Rucker at 368-9173 or Debbie Amsden at 731-9058.

Great outdoors: Newark offers various classes

The groundhog didn't see his shadow Friday. He came out and romped about, letting us know that spring will soon be here.

The Newark Department of Parks and Recreation is already preparing for the warming season, with a variety of courses and activities geared to enjoying the great outdoors.

Yard work will be the focus of a spring pruning workshop 7-8:30 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 27 at the Newark Senior Center, 300 E. Main St. Fee is $3 for city residents, $5 for the general public.

A fishing rod repair clinic will be held 7-9 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 28 at the senior center. Again, fee is $3 for city residents, $5 for the general public.

For the mariner, a one-night boater safety check-off class will meet 7:30-9 p.m. Tuesday, March 6, also at the senior center. Fee is $3 for city residents, $5 for the general public.

A basic sailing class will be offered Thursday evenings, June 7 through July 5. There will be in the water instruction Saturdays, June 9 through June 30. Fee is $38 for city residents, $40 for the general public.

The city will begin registration for its youth baseball and softball leagues on Wednesday, Feb. 28.

Registration will be held 5:30-7:30 p.m. in the Newark Municipal Building, 220 Elton Rd. After Feb. 28, registration will be accepted 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays in the municipal building.

All returning players must register by March 17 to guarantee placement on the team for which they played last year.

The city offers four different leagues: t-ball, for children ages 6-7; Colt League, for youths ages 8-9; Pony League, for youths ages 10-12; and Ponytail League, a softball league for girls ages 9-13.

All participants must meet the age requirements by July 1, and all must show proof of age at registration.

Fee is $24 for city residents, $26 for the general public.

For additional information on Newark recreation programs, call 366-7060.

TRESSES

In the 1960s, many establishment types condemned long-haired men, forgetting the such luminaries as George Washington, Louis XIV and Samson sported long locks.

While I never took a political stand on hair, I was tickled to see men in the hair care section of the drugstore weighing the virtues of rinses versus conditioners.

As far as I am concerned, equality of the sexes has arrived. When I got my most recent perm, the man in the next chair was getting one, too.

"I'm half the man I used to be since I lost 74 lbs. with Nutri/System."

As people vary, so does an individual's weight loss.

Our client, Matt Decker, lost 74 lbs.

Thanks to Nutri/System, I've got a great new body. And a very active life. I bowl, I play racketball — things I could never do before. Nutri/System showed me how important it is to be active and how to incorporate activity into my lifestyle. I did it. Now I'm a new man. And I love it!

CHURCH FILE

Seton Church
Mardi Gras

St. Elizabeth Ann Seton Catholic Church in Bear is planning a gala Mardi Gras to benefit the new church building effort.

The event will be held 8 p.m. to midnight Friday, Feb. 23 in the church hall on Del. 7.

There will be food, drink, dancing and a casino. Costumes are optional.

Donation is $15 per person, and tickets will be available after all Sunday Masses and at the church office 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. weekdays.

'Jewish Music:
Myth or Reality'

A five-part series, "Jewish Music: Myth or Reality," will be offered this spring at the Jewish Community Center, 101 Garden of Eden Rd., Wilmington.

Sessions will address Jewish music in the Diaspora, Jewish and Israeli folk music, great Jewish names in the concert hall and Jewish music in the 20th century.

Ora Ben-Amots, doctoral candidate at the University of Pennsylvania, will be the lecturer and discussion leader and Prof. Frederick Kaufman will be guest lecturer and presenter.

The series will open March 6 and run Tuesdays through April 3. For details, call 478-5660.

Pacem in Terris seeks volunteers for Ulster Project

Pacem in Terris is seeking area youths ages 14 to 16 to join its Ulster Project Delaware as hosts of teenagers from Coleraine, Northern Ireland.

Interviews to fill openings for teen hosts are now under way, and additional applications from Catholic and Protestant boys are especially needed.

As participants in Ulster Project Delaware, local teens will open their homes to teens from Coleraine during the month of July. The Americans will join their Northern Irish visitors in social and learning experiences designed to foster tolerance, understanding and friendship.

Travel expenses and activity fees are paid by Ulster Project Delaware.

Beginning its 15th year, the project provides an opportunity for Catholics and Protestants to build bridges of understanding.

To date, it has served more than 600 young people from Northern Ireland and Delaware.

For information, contact Sally Milbury-Stuen at Pacem in Terris, telephone 656-2721.

While Pacem in Terris promotes understanding, Delaware chefs are planning to help the state's hungry.

The national Share Our Strength organization and Bon Appetit are co-sponsoring the event, "Taste of the Nation," to be held locally March 29 at the Radisson Hotel in Wilmington.

Fifteen of the state's finest chefs will participate. Tickets cost $45. Call 571-1492.

Money raised will assist the Ministry of Caring, which runs Emmanuel Dining Room, Food Conservers, and international relief and development agencies.

Participants are: The Silk Purse, The Columbus Inn, Harry's Savoy Grill, Carucci, Positano, Sal's Petite Marmite, Shipley Grill, Mirage, Tiffin, Movable Feast, Gallagher & Gallagher, John B. Haddock Custom Catering, the Radisson, the Hotel duPont, Delaware Beverage, Delaware Importers, Century Wine & Spirits and Chaddsford Winery.

Conservers on road again

Food Conservers Inc. of Newark will be able to continue its effort to feed the hungry without interruption thanks to a refurbished over-the-road tractor given to the organization by Conoco.

The tractor, which replaces a vehicle that is beyond repair, will be used to distribute an estimated $4 million in canned goods and produce to more than 170 agencies in Delaware and adjacent communities in New Jersey, Maryland and Pennsylvania.

Conoco is a subsidiary of DuPont Company, which has contributed $100,000 to Food Conservers' capital program. The contribution was made in installments over a two-year period.

"As one of Conoco's primary business hubs for transportation and marketing of our products, Delaware makes a sizeable contribution to our success," said James Nokes, Conoco manager of operations for supply and transportation. "In return, we want to give something back to the community as an expression of our appreciation. Food Conservers is a productive organization that touches the lives of many."

Food Conservers, a non-profit organization, collects food from local donors and food banks and delivers it to organizations such as the Salvation Army, Emmanuel Dining Room and area churches.

Those organizations, in turn, prepare meals for thousands of area people who are in need.

Beneficiaries include senior citizens, the homeless and displaced youths.

The program also uses the resources of the Food Warehouse program, Education and Advocacy, Delaware Food Bank, Food Closet Network and Second Harvest.

The tractor is needed to deliver goods to nearby Maryland cities of Elkton, Chestertown and North East, as well as Bridgeton, N.J. and West Chester, Pa.

WEDDINGS & ENGAGEMENTS

Valdiserri, Symonds are married

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel L. Symonds.

Paige Valdiserri of Malvern, Pa. and Daniel L. Symonds of Newark were married Oct. 21, 1989 at St. Peter & Paul Church in West Chester, Pa.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H.J. Valdiserri of Malvern, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Symonds of Newark.

The bride wore an antique satin gown trimmed in heirloom lace. She carried the same sapphire in her shoe that her mother had carried at her wedding, and the traditional Scottish white heather was tucked in her bridal bouquet.

Maid of honor was Tina Sickles. Bridesmaids were Rita Hollingsworth; Lisa Fiore, sister of the groom; Stephanie Reardon and Valerie Strecker.

Best man was Glen Ernie. Ushers were Brian Valdiserri, brother of the bride; Joseph Fiore, brother-in-law of the groom; Don Finch and John Pedicone.

Ring bearers were Shea and Colin O'Neill, nephews of the bride. The boys carried the same prayer book and ring pillow that had been carried in their grandparents' wedding.

Readings were given by Di O'Neill, sister of the bride; Linda Valdiserri, sister-in-law of the bride; and Ken Hardy.

A reception was held at The Radnor Hunt Club, and the newlyweds took a wedding trip to Aruba.

The bride is a graduate of Millersville University and teaches fourth grade at St. Matthews School in Woodcrest.

The groom is a graduate of the University of Delaware and is an assistant vice president of MBNA American in Newark.

The couple is residing in Newark.
