

LOCAL SWIMMERS BEAT CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY

Natators Conquer Washingtonians By Overwhelming Score

By defeating Catholic University Friday night the University of Delaware made it four wins out of five dual meets they have been in so far this season.

Friday night Delaware easily won from the Catholic U. by the score of 43 to 23. The visitors won but two of the five events.

Delaware won the relay, diving, 150-yard backstroke and the 440 and 100 free style events.

HIGH SCHOOL CONFERENCE TO BE HELD HERE

Two Day Meeting Planned For Delaware Educators

The annual State High School Conference, which in past years has been held at the University in May, will be held here two months earlier this year.

The principle speaker will be Dr. William J. Cooper, U. S. Commissioner of Education, who will deliver an address at the banquet to be held that night.

The conference, which will last two days, will be attended by more than 150 high school teachers from all parts of the State.

UNIVERSITY ALUMNI SELECT SPEAKERS

Governor C. Doughlass Buck, U. S. Senator Daniel O. Hastings, and W. Fred Ford, of the Charles Warner Company, Philadelphia, will address the semi-annual meeting of the Alumni Association of the University of Delaware at the du Pont-Biltmore, Saturday night, February 22.

Senator John G. Townsend, Jr., and Congressman Robert G. Houston are also expected to be present.

Final preparations are being made by Harry G. Lawson, secretary of the organization and the committee on arrangements, which consist of J. Dankin Davis, Albin P. Shaw, Deputy Judge William Broughall, J. E. Murphy and Theodore Collins.

F. Courtland Houghton, of the University of Delaware, who has been ill at his home, is reported as improving.

NEW BUILDINGS NOW NEARING COMPLETION

Will Move Into Engineering Building Next Week

Within the past few weeks the new buildings on the University campus have progressed to a great extent. While work on the new heating plant seems to have been delayed unnecessarily, the auditorium and the engineering building have advanced with great rapidity.

The plastering in Mitchell Hall, the new auditorium, is nearly completed and should be entirely finished within another week. In the main auditorium the walls and ceiling are finished in soft gray. A special type of plaster, known as macustic, has been used; this plaster never becomes entirely hard and is a great aid to the acoustics.

A. S. M. E. HOLDS FEB. MEETING

Engineers Are Addressed By J. Hay Barnholt

The monthly meeting of the student branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers was held Thursday evening in the Lounge of Old College. In addition to the students of all the Engineering departments who availed themselves of the opportunity of hearing the distinguished speaker of the evening, Mr. J. Hay Barnholt, of the du Pont Company, there were several members of the faculty—Dean Spencer, Mr. Koerber, the head of the Electrical department, and Mr. Munger.

As a part of the regular business of the meeting John LeCarpentier read the report of his trip to the Power Show in New York recently, to which he was the official representative of the local Student Branch. Interesting to note among the facts of his report was that Delaware had the greatest attendance of any College.

The speaker of the evening, Mr. Barnholt of the Delaware Safety Council and of the du Pont Company, gave an inspiring and interesting address on "Safety in Industry." Mr. Barnholt has had as wide and successful safety engineering experience as almost anyone in this country. He is at the present time on the staff of the important Industrial Relations Department of the du Pont Company, having attained this position by his splendid work as head of the Safety Engineering Division of the great Dye Works Plant at Deepwater Point, New Jersey.

Mr. Barnholt, speaking from personal experience in safety engineering, declared that every Industrial "accident" was avoidable. Most of the accidents, even in a dye plant or chemical plant, are mechanical and are due to a faulty or careless design of the machinery. Mechanical Engineer are responsible for this "Age of Machinery," he claimed, and are also responsible for the accidents caused by the machines. Aside from the humanitarian point of view of accident prevention, it is necessary to look at the question from the economic point of view. Accidents cost money, and compensation for injury or death has put plants out of business. In pointing out the efficacy of organized safety work, Mr. Barnholt cited the example of the du Pont Company, which has been working on this problem for many years.

In commenting on the talk, Dean Spencer remarked that there is no longer such a thing in industry as an "accident." There are injuries caused by carelessness or improper design of machinery, but these do not "just happen." There are causes for every so-called accident and when these causes are removed the accident is eliminated. Therefore, the terms accident and accident prevention should no longer be used, and substituted in their stead should be injury and injury prevention.

STUDENT COUNCIL AIDS CAMPUS ORGANIZATIONS

Gives Donations to Footlights Club, Debaters, and Library

At the regular meeting of the Student Council, held in the Council rooms in Old College on Monday evening, a number of important matters were discussed. Plans for the work of the Council during the spring were discussed, and a number of actions were taken on important matters.

The Council unanimously voted a donation of thirty dollars to the Footlights Club to help defray the expenses on the plays to be given in the Inter-Fraternity play contest. Leon deValinger, President of the Footlights Club was present and explained in detail how the contest was to be carried out. The contest promises to be a very interesting one and if successful should prove a great aid to dramatics on the Delaware campus.

The Council has also donated money to the Debate Club, the Band and several other organizations on the campus.

The Book-of-the-Month Club to which the Council subscribes for the library was renewed for another year, by a unanimous vote of those present.

The Council wishes to call the attention of the Student Body to the fact that this was the first mid-year examination period, during which no violation of the Honor System was reported, either by a member of the faculty or a member of the student body.

It was decided that the elections for Freshman Class President, and Freshman representative to the Student Council be held within the next ten days.

COOK INJURES WRIST

William K. Cook, a Senior, severely sprained his right wrist while practicing for a basketball game in the gymnasium on Monday evening. Although completely within another month, within ten days, Cook is enjoying his respite from labors.

SUMMER SCHOOL TEACHERS FOR UNIVERSITY NAMED

Dr. Allan Hulsizer, Director of Demonstration School to be Member of Staff; Term is June 23 to August 1

The University of Delaware Summer School, it is announced by Professor W. A. Wilkinson, who is in charge, will be held this year from June 23 to August 1, inclusive. Plans now fairly complete, include features which it is believed will make this the most profitable summer session ever held at the State University.

Attention should be called, in the first place, to the very definite purposes for which the Summer School is maintained: (1) to make it possible for every teacher in the State who has the required amount of high school preparation to obtain a first grade elementary teacher's certificate, (2) to enable experienced teachers to meet the State Board's requirements for an elementary principal's certificate, (3) to give all teachers and others who may desire it an opportunity to work for a college degree, and (4) to offer to high school teachers an opportunity to do special work along the line of some of the policies now being emphasized by the State Department of Education.

All Subjects Covered

Every subject or course offered in the summer school is intended to serve one or more of these purposes. For elementary teachers the program of studies will include every subject now required by the State Department for a first grade certificate and students will be able to complete the additional requirements for an elementary principal's certificate in two consecutive summer sessions. For those who have set graduation from college as their goal the summer school program offers practically all of the courses definitely required and a considerable number that may be used as electives for the Baccalaureate degree. All of this means that the summer school is trying to make it possible for teachers to progress from the certificate they now hold to the possession of a college degree with the least outlay of time and expense on their part.

Enlarged Program

For the forthcoming session, the program of studies has been considerably enlarged and several new names will appear on the faculty roll. John Shilling, assistant State superintendent in charge of high schools,

MRS. B. K. LANDIS TO ADDRESS COLLEGE HOUR

First Woman Mayor to Speak at Assembly

"College Hour" has something different in store for the students of the three upper classes this week. Something that happened only once last year and will happen but once this year. A woman, far-famed as the first woman mayor in this country, will be the speaker of the day.

This lady is Mrs. Bertha Knight Landis, not only a former mayor of one of the foremost cities of this country—Seattle, Washington—but a personality, possessing a broad knowledge of the affairs of youth; a citizen, interested in the well-being of her community and country, and a mother with a successful home. She is, in short, a woman doing her share to make the world a better place in which to live. The story of her life is in itself sufficiently interesting to motivate any speech whatsoever and our College Hour Committee may well be complimented on their good fortune in securing such a speaker.

Mrs. Landis will speak to us on the subject, "The Challenge of the City." This is one of her most popular lectures and a topic upon which she is, as has been pointed out, particularly well qualified to speak.

No matter what your opinion may be concerning the part women should take in politics, if you miss this chance to become acquainted with Mrs. Bertha Knight Landis you will make a grave mistake.

FACULTY CLUB HAS CARD PARTY

On Monday evening the Faculty Club Valentine Card Party was held in the Lounge of Old College. There were twenty tables of bridge. Dr. Skinner, chairman of the Social Committee of the Club was in charge of the affair. Prizes were awarded, and refreshments were served.

INTER-FRAT COUNCIL WILL GIVE DANCE

Greek Society Men Will Convene In Local Armory

through the injury should be healed Council Dance will be held next Saturday night, February 22, in the Newark Armory, and will last from 8.00 p. m. until midnight. This is the only social event of the year which is exclusively for fraternity men and which all fraternity men may attend.

The music will be furnished by Art Sells' Orchestra, which the members of the Council recommended as being well able to enliven any dance, either fraternity or non-fraternity. As the dance is a Washington's birthday affair, the decorations will be appropriate to the occasion, although the rumor that hatchets would be given as favors has been vigorously denied.

The price of admission to the dance, which as has been stated is exclusively for fraternity men and pledges, is two dollars, and tickets for the affair may be procured from any member of the Inter-Fraternity Council.

PHI KAPPA PHI ELECTIONS TO BE HELD SOON

Choosing of Members of Honorary Society To Be Made As Soon As Grades Are Compiled

Election of members of the class of 1930 to Phi Kappa Phi, national honorary scholastic fraternity, will be held as soon after computation of grades as possible. Professor W. A. Wilkinson, who is in charge of this matter, stated yesterday.

The computation of grades, which will be completed some time next week is delayed this year because all of the members of the faculty concerned are unable to leave their regular work long enough to complete it.

If the grades are computed by next Wednesday, it is likely, Professor Wilkinson told The Review, that the election will be held on the following day and the list of names be ready for publication by next Friday.

DEAN SPENCER WILL ATTEND AIR CONFERENCE

Will Also Visit International Aircraft Exposition

Looking forward to the time when the citizens of Delaware will demand and funds will be made available for the establishment of a course in Aeronautical Engineering at the University of Delaware, Dean Spencer will be in St. Louis, February 17 to 19, attending the National Conference on Aeronautical Education.

This Conference is called by the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America and is held at the same time that the International Aircraft Exposition is held in St. Louis.

There will be a number of men prominent in Aeronautical Education on the program, including Mr. Roland H. Spaulding, Chairman of Educational Committee of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce and a member of the Daniel Guggenheim Fund Committee; Dr. John W. Withers, another member of the Daniel Guggenheim Fund Committee; Professor Earl W. Hill, prominent in Aeronautical Education in California; Mr. Andrew D. Althouse, Head of the Aerial Departments of Case School; and Mr. J. S. Marriott, Chief Inspector of Service of the United States Department of Commerce.

By close personal conversation with these gentlemen and other men of experience in Aeronautical Education, Dean Spencer looks forward to learning the proper steps to be taken to establish an Aeronautical course at the University of Delaware, the curriculum which should be included in such a course, and the cost of starting and operating such a course.

The University of Delaware is particularly well favored for the establishment of an Aeronautical course with the Bellanca and du Pont Flying Fields only a few miles from the University, and the Bellanca Aircraft Corp. Factory, one of the largest airplane factories in the world, situated close to the University.

CAGE TEAM LOSES CLOSE GAME TO P. M. C.

Blue And Gold Passers Show Real Fight In Close Cage Clash

Although University of Delaware lost to P. M. C., Wednesday night, by the score of 29 to 28 the Blue and Gold gave the best exhibition of the season for a Delaware team. Holding the Chester cadets to the narrow margin of a one point victory when it was generally believed before the game that Delaware would be defeated by a two to one score gave the Delaware rooters plenty to root for during the game. However, this made the twelfth straight defeat for the Delaware team without a victory this season.

The Blue and Gold team showed more "pep" and team work than at any time this year. At the end of the first half the score was 12 to 8 in favor of P. M. C. Within one minute after starting the second half the cadets had scored two field goals, making the score 16 to 8. After this Delaware braced and by the time the period was half over had tied up the score at 22 to 22. Delaware then for the first time during the game forged ahead 24 to 23 but held the lead only a short time. A field goal by Brennan in the last minute of play gave P. M. C. the victory.

Coach Rothrock shifted his team around for this game moving Taylor to center. This was done to have "Ace" guard Brennan, the P. M. C. star who recently scored 23 points against Swarthmore. The move was a good one as Brennan was held to

THE SAME SITUATION

Since The Review appeared last week, we have received a number of comments, both commendatory and adverse, regarding our editorial concerning the coaching and alumni direction of athletics. We have learned, also, that the Athletic Council had already approved Mr. A. B. Zeigler as coach of football for the coming year. Their approval has been forwarded to the Governing Board for action.

We hope that the Governing Board will ignore the approval of the Council in regard to the matter of a coach, and will refrain from inviting Mr. Zeigler back for another year. As far as we have been able to observe, both the Student Body and the faculty are opposed to Mr. Zeigler, on various grounds, the nature of which we noted in our editorial last week. With very few exceptions the only people who favor him are a number of alumni.

If athletics at Delaware are to be run for the benefit of the students, the directors of the athletics should be men in whom the students can put confidence and faith, men who are interested in the students and their affairs. Whether or not the man knows everything there is to know about the subject he is coaching is not so important as whether he tries his best to promote the welfare of the students. Men who are interested only in their particular sport are needed by professional teams—but colleges have no use for them and do not want them.

Of course if athletics are to be run merely for the benefit of giving the alumni another toy with which to play, there is no necessity of the students being consulted in the matter of a coach. All they have to do, in such a situation is to go out day after day, train, scrimmage, accept the injuries they receive, and go out on the field to play for the edification of the spectators. But such should not be the case.

Athletics are for the students, and the students should be consulted to some extent in the selection of the men who are to direct them. If the alumni are really interested in seeing athletics progress at the University of Delaware, they will continue to support them, whether their own pet man is made coach of football, or whether a man is chosen who is competent to teach the players the things which they should get out of that sport, regardless of whether they win or not. If they are unwilling to assist athletics in this fashion, we believe that they are wasting their money in vain, and that the students of the University would prefer that they keep out entirely. The men that support the other departments of the University do not issue orders as to who shall be in charge; why should he men who support athletics?

With these facts in mind, we hope that the Governing Board will refuse to recall Mr. Zeigler for another year. There are members of the faculty who know of men competent to coach the various sports, and who are willing to give their services in the obtaining of such men. If a committee of such members were appointed to secure a coach, we believe that an able man could be secured who would have the support of the student body, and this quarrel between the students and alumni would be rapidly ended.

FENCERS LOSE CLOSE MATCH TO RUTGERS

New Jerseyites Beat Duelers 8 to 7

The Fencing team of the University of Delaware lost a hotly contested match by a margin of one point to the Rutgers University Fencing Squad last Saturday afternoon. The final outcome of the meet was in doubt up until the last two bouts. With the score at 7-6 for Rutgers and two bouts to go, either team had an opportunity to annex the meet. Those final bouts were split, Blum winning and Hare losing, both in the foils, thus making the Rutgers aggregation victor by a count of 8-7.

Frank Sassé was Delaware's chief point winner, taking three of his four bouts. Sassé made a clean sweep of the sabres, taking both Ordorico and Shuster into camp, but not without stiff opposition as both bouts went to four all before the winning touch was made. In the foils Sassé split his two bouts, winning from Ordorico in easy fashion, 5-1, but losing to Shultz, 3-5. Captain Hare and Blum accounted for two wins apiece for Delaware. In the épée Hare made a beautiful touch on Shultz to win, but he and Maravalia touched each other simultaneously, both forfeiting the bout. In the foils, Hare had an off day, winning from Rosenberg, but losing to Ordorico and Shultz. Blum fenced three foil bouts and managed to secure the decision in two of them. He won from Rosenberg and Shultz, and lost a close one, 5-4, to Ordorico. This was Delaware's first home meet of the season, and it was gratifying to note a goodly sized crowd in attendance. The squad spends a good many hours daily from almost the beginning of the year in practice for this sport which requires the highest precision, accuracy, and form. It is only just that their efforts should be appreciated by attendance at the home meets.

This week-end the squad makes a trip north. They will meet Rutgers and have a chance for revenge on Friday and then returning will meet Princeton on Saturday.

The team's showing in this Rutgers meet was indeed excellent when one considers the summary. Delaware broke even in both the sabre and épée, and lost five bouts to four won in the foil.

Hare, Delaware, won from Rosenberg, Rutgers, 5-3; and lost to Ordorico, Rutgers, 4-5, and Shultz, Rutgers, 0-5.

Blum, Delaware, won from Rosenberg, Rutgers, 5-2, and Shultz, Rutgers, 5-4; and lost to Ordorico, Rutgers, 4-5.

Sassé, Delaware, won from Ordorico, Rutgers, 5-1; and lost to Shultz, Rutgers, 3-5.

Davis, Delaware, lost to Okrim, Rutgers, 3-5.

Totals: Delaware, 4; Rutgers, 5.

Sabre

Sassé, Delaware, won from Ordorico, Rutgers, 5-4, and Shuster, Rutgers, 5-4.

Frisbie, Delaware, lost to Ordorico,

Rutgers, 3-5, and Shuster, Rutgers, 1-5.

Totals: Delaware, 2; Rutgers, 2.

Épée

Hare, Delaware, won from Shultz, Rutgers, and had a double defeat with Maravalia, Rutgers.

Davis, Delaware, lost to Maravalia, Rutgers; and had a double defeat with Shultz, Rutgers.

Totals: Delaware, 1; Rutgers, 1. Final score: Delaware, 7; Rutgers, 8.

Let It Stand

Writing about athletics seems to be in vogue again—as it is so often around here—and, not to be entirely out of the swim, we shall dip our pen, ever so lightly, into the controversy. "Ye Editor" of our paper has stirred up quite a bit of comment in the last week, and we believe that Don Quixote intends to contribute his bit this week—if he has any space left after slapping us around—and we want to make it unanimous. We are hoping, of course, that the Moon Worshipers will come through to our support.

We don't want to take sides because we are not among the best informed in athletic questions. We have our ideals and ideas about college athletics, but they are a little too airy to be brought into the present discussion. What we want is to see somebody who knows what he is talking about give the public the low down on the athletic situation here—we want a football story from a football man, a coach, or a manager, and we want a similar story about basketball. We don't want one which will be filled with fraternity prejudice or personal bias. We want the truth as nearly as we can get it, told impartially, no matter who it slams or praises. As we said above, we want the low down.

We've seen the teams play, we've heard all kinds of talk, we've observed the coaches and players, but still we don't know what lies at the heart of the trouble and dissatisfaction. Furthermore, we've read what the close observers and critics on the campus have had to say. We like and agree with some of their ideas, but as for getting at—or even near—the real facts as they exist here we think they are pure bunk! These theorists and close observers no doubt mean well (maybe not), and they think they are well informed, but we know them personally, and we know that they can't give the kind of writing and criticism that is needed, because they are not close enough to the actual conditions, and as non-athletes, which they are, they never will get close enough. Editorials and Quixotic criticisms may stir up opinion for a while, but their real worth is practically negligible.

For the very reasons which we have just given we refrain from directly discussing the athletic situation, but we are interested, and we would very much like to see some articles on the subject published which are written not by theorist who don't know what they are talking about, but by men who are on the inside and know the situation as it actually exists.

Windmills

Since ye worthy and most eminent ed has come forth with an excellently written discourse on athletics, perhaps this column is even more superfluous than usual. But you ed might appreciate my usual, logically written pearls of wisdom. And, since one week is far too short a time to think up a new topic, here 'tis.

Ye ed has inquired by what right do the alumni interest themselves in Delaware athletics. But he not taken the trouble to ask why. To my way of thinking, the answer is obvious. An alumnus of this university realizes that he has been graduated from—well, let's say—a not too well known institution. Football is recognized as the most effective means of advertising a college or university. Ergo, the Delaware alumnus wishes this university to have a good football team and he is often willing to support the team financially.

My contention is that a good football team is an excellent advertising medium for the alumni of a college, but that it is not the best form of advertising for the college itself. This university, for example, doesn't need advertising; we have more applicants for the freshman class now than we can handle. And, until our legislators awake to the fact that more buildings are needed here, we don't need that kind of advertising. Our excellent Foreign Study Plan, in the seven years of its existence, has been better and more effective advertising than forty years of collegiate football.

Therefore, to my way of thinking, it is the alumni who are interested in a successful football team because they profit by the advertising power thereof. Since I have come to Delaware, I have changed my attitude toward football. When I was a freshman and the team lost, I felt pretty bad about it. It usually ruined the week-end for me. But, since then, I have changed and now whether the team wins or loses matters little to me. Of course, I like to see the team win. But I watch the game for the game's sake.

I don't know whether many students agree with me about this change in the attitude during four years in college. I merely cite my own personal reaction toward football. And I really don't think the fact that the team has lost a majority of its games each season, has influenced my attitude.

The loss of a majority of each season's games has been blamed by the coach on poor material, by the players on poor coaching, and by both on the lack of school spirit. This last accusation is a campus catch word—the most popular and prevalent manifestation of school spirit at Delaware usually consists in booing the adverse decisions of the referee or umpire—the other two I cannot discuss on account of the lack of knowledge. It is my opinion that the failure of the football teams of this university is, partially at least, the result of the attitude of the students. I don't mean that the lack of school spirit is responsible; I mean that too much school spirit is responsible. In other words, the provincial, Mid-Western, and very high school adoration and adulation that has been heaped upon the football players, unsuccessful as they have been, is a serious drawback to a successful season any time in the future. The football men are the big men on this campus; they are the little tin gods before whom we all salam like so many slaves.

And, in conclusion, I personally believe that we at Delaware must honestly decide whether we want to go in for professional athletics on a larger scale or whether we want to give up football entirely. I believe, for reasons which I have endeavored to set forth in this column, that the latter is the better of the two alternatives. To actually impress anyone—oh goodness gracious, gracious goodness, goodness gracious, gracious me, I've gone and split an infinitive—which is probably an extremely serious violation of the student's personal and unwritten code of ethics. Angels and ministers of grace defend us!

Till next week you must wait, gentle reader, to hear my words omercing the cafeteria-commons situation and my wise advice to Mr. Wilkinson, Esq.

Don Quixote.

Juniata Eats!

A student at Juniata wondering just how much food was consumed each day found upon investigation that the results were startling. When she discovered that 10 pounds of roast veal, four bushels of potatoes, 50 loaves of bread, 14 pounds of butter, 15 gallons of milk, etc., etc., were used for one meal alone, the magnitude of responsibility involved in planning many such meals caused her to urge the students to appreciate that which they accept too trivially.

Over the Horizon

HERE they come—the nucleus of an all-electric merchant marine. Yesterday, they were a dream. To-day, they are well over the horizon, linking the ports of the east and west coasts with fortnightly service. The goal of the Panama Pacific Line is to build three more turbine-electric ships, thus enabling weekly New York-Frisco sailings.

Even now, the three liners, California, Virginia, and Pennsylvania, constitute the largest fleet of turbine-electric commercial ships in the world.

Besides propelling these ships, electricity hoists freight, raises anchors, mans pumps, turns rudders, drives winches, and warps the vessels into their berths. It lights lamps, spins fans, operates elevators, cools and cooks food. Its magic touch is apparent on every deck.

The planning, production, and distribution of such equipment has been largely the responsibility of college-trained men who are working with General Electric and who have aided in bringing these ships over the horizon.

HI-Y CLUB HAS U. OF D. NIGHT

University To Stage Program For Wilmingtonians

On Thursday, February 20, a University of Delaware program will be presented in the new Y. M. C. A. building in Wilmington. The object of this meeting is to familiarize High School boys with the University of Delaware. There will be in attendance at this meeting approximately two hundred boys invited from the three Hi-Y clubs present or represented, two Junior Hi-Y clubs, and boys from the following high schools: Salem, Penns Grove, Coatesville, Chester, West Chester, Unionville, Downingtown, New Castle, Du Pont, and Claymont. In addition it is expected that some older boys from some other schools will be present as will Mr. M. Channing Wagner, Assistant Superintendent of Schools, and Mr. Talbot, Principal of Wilmington High School.

Mr. Groesbeck, with the cooperation of members of the University of Delaware, has arranged an evening's entertainment which should prove interesting as well as informative. At six o'clock a banquet will be served. Souvenir copies of the "Review" will mark each place. After the dinner the President of the Wilmington Hi-Y Club will call the meeting to order, after which it will be turned over to Allen Barton, President of the Student Council, University of Delaware. Following a short explanation of the general features of the University, Mr. Barton will introduce Dr. Walter Hullihen, President of the University of Delaware, the principal speaker of the evening. At the conclusion of this talk by the President the Varsity rector Lattomus, J. Henry Smith, J. rene Lattomus, J. Henry Smith, J. Reed Galley, James Caulk, and James Brannon, accompanist, will offer several selections. Then Leon de Vallinger, Jr., President of the Footlights Club will tell of the work of this club and will present some of the players in the one-act play, "Moonshine," written by Arthur Hopkins. The scene of this play is laid in the hut of a moonshiner in the mountain wilds of North Carolina.

NEW BUILDINGS NOW NEARING COMPLETION

by a skylight, will be very beautiful. Outside of the building workmen have begun to lay the stone steps to the front entrance. This work cannot progress very rapidly, but it is being pushed to completion with the greatest possible speed. It is the hope of the contractors to turn the building over to the college authorities by the end of March.

The engineering building, likewise, is rapidly approaching completion. The plastering is entirely completed and the concrete finished floor is practically finished. In some of the rooms the trim has been finished and the blackboards erected. Workmen are now engaged in cleaning up some of the rooms and stairhalls so that they may be occupied immediately.

Next week the surveying instruments will be moved over into the room prepared for them in the new building. It is also expected that the anchor bolts for the chairs in the lecture rooms will be installed next week, and that the material for Professor Koerber's laboratory will be moved into the new building. It is hoped that this building will be entered by the first annual Inter-Fraternity

On Other Campuses

The Washington and Lee Calyx and Ring Tum Phi have been awarded silver loving cups for being the best college annual and newspaper respectively in the Class A publication in Virginia. Publications were entered from nearly every college in Virginia and in all seven cups were given in the different classes. The fact is that Washington and Lee won the two most coveted awards in State Journalism.—The Ring-Tum Phi, Washington and Lee University.

Silence and suspense hover over Campus as Fraternity rush season comes to an end. So another rush season is over, another pledge day has come and gone, bringing with it some sorrows, many joys and perhaps a bit of envy; but through it all we see the thread of brotherly feeling which binds the hearts of all men into one big fraternity.—The Diamond-back, University of Maryland.

For over a decade Montana State athletes have struggled for State supremacy in football. Many times they have almost but not quite attained their goal. Always there has been some little thing against their doing. Call it luck or what you may. This year the tide has turned despite all to the contrary. Montana State is football champions of Montana for the first time in many years.—The Weekly Exponent, Montana State University.

The present four-year B. A. degree course has been under fire in many educational circles for some time and the prediction has been made that before many years it will pass into the world of the has-beens. There is a tendency in this age of mis-placed emphasis to let examinations and grades be the measure of knowledge. The ability to pass many examinations may be merely a matter of memory work calling for little or no mental exercise and hence of little educational value. Are they not by-products of the lecture system, and together to be blamed for a certain deadening of interest in learning on the part of the youthful student.—The College Topics, University of Virginia.

Editorial Staff At Breakfast

An innovation in college daily staff meetings was made at Southern California when the editor of the "Daily Trojan," called a breakfast meeting of the entire staff at seven o'clock one morning in a tea room. Evidently Mr. Flynn, the editor, believes in combining food for both body and mind.

WORK ON FRAT PLAYS ADVANCES

All Fraternities Now Busy Preparing Dramatic Presentations

According to Leon de Vallinger, President of the Footlights Club, all the fraternities are busy working on their one-act plays to be given on March fifth and sixth in competition for the Footlights Club Perpetual Trophy. At the present time the men of the various houses have selected their plays, which for the most part are so well chosen that the judges will, no doubt, have difficulty in determining the winner. In every case, the play of each fraternity is under the immediate direction of one of its members who has previously shown proficiency in dramatics. These directors are Frank M. Sasse, Theta Chi; Frank M. Gladden, Sigma Phi Epsilon; John S. Walker, Kappa Alpha; Edgar Hare, Jr., Sigma Nu; Marshall McCully, Phi Kappa Tau; and Stanly Salasburg, Sigma Tau Phi. These men are responsible for the selection of the play, choosing of the cast, stage design, and production. According to the reports made by these men, to the Inter-Fraternity Play Contest Committee, work on all plays is progressing very well and in two weeks' time we shall all see the results of their preparation in a series of plays which will be presented in support of the Inter-Fraternity Relay Races in interest and speculation as to the winner, and as every one knows, this is a rather exciting collegiate affair. These plays will be very well attended, for it is expected that the fraternities will turn out en masse to support their actors. Besides that fact, we have had news to the effect that the Women's College will be present to cheer, shall we say their—friends, and to see the latest in female impersonation. A large attendance is assured, as well as a well-planned and diversified series of six plays. Don't miss the contest. There will not be another until next year.

CURTIS ARTISTS RETURN FOR NEWARK MUSIC SOCIETY CONCERT

The second concert of artist students of the Curtis Institute of Music will be given at the University of Delaware on Thursday evening, February 20, under the auspices of the Newark Music Society. Admission will be free.

The program will be given by Charlotte Simons, soprano; Clarence Reinert, baritone, and Celia Gomborg, violinist. Miss Simons has already having made her debut last fall with won distinction in opera and concert, the Philadelphia Grand Opera Company, singing with great success the role of Micaela in "Garmen." She has appeared as soloist in the Christmas oratorio given by the Appollo Club of Chicago, and has sung frequently in radio concerts. She is completing her training with Mme. Marcella Sembrich at the Institute.

Clarence Reinert is likewise a member of the Philadelphia Grand Opera Company, and has appeared in concerts and broadcasting programs. Miss Gomborg is a violin student of Mme. Lea Luboshutz at the Curtis Institute.

FEW FRESHMEN ARE DROPPED AT THE UNIVERSITY

Fewer freshmen than ever before in the history of the college were forced to drop their studies at the University of Delaware this year because they failed in their mid-year examinations, Dr. Walter Hullihen, president of the University, said last week.

Dr. Hullihen's statement quashed rumors that the mid-year examinations had taken a heavy toll this year, especially among the first year students.

With the largest freshmen class ever registered at the men's college, the number of freshmen dropped was exceedingly small, Dr. Hullihen declared. He said that he did not have figures available for the women's college, but that he had been informed that the number of students dropped there was no larger proportionately than in the men's college.

Fifteen students in all have left the men's college following the mid-year examinations, Dr. Hullihen said. These are divided as follows: Seven freshmen, one of whom turned in blank examination papers; five sophomores, three of whom expect to reenter the college next fall; two juniors and one senior.

R. SNOWBERGER DEFENDS LAURELS

Ralph Snowberger, our expert marksmen, was asked by Mr. W. R. Powell, the local restaurant owner, the meaning of the "little tin medals" which Snowberger had earned at camp last summer. During the course of the explanation the combination ice cream merchant and restaurant owner challenged our "crack shot" to a shooting match. Now nothing pleases "Snowie" more than competition, so under the jurisdiction of Lieut. Meyers and with Sergeant Waters and Officer Cunningham, of the local constabulary, as score keepers, the great event took place. The contestants were given their choice of firing positions, and each man chose the same position, firing in the prone, in the sitting, and in the standing positions. Knowing the ability of Snowie, we were not surprised when the final results were given out, showing that Mr. Powell had been defeated by a score of 257 to 205, leaving Ralph our champion, who is willing to take on all comers.

An ambitious book agent suffered profound defeat in Harter Hall during the mid-year exams, which is news. Scene was in one of those rooms in Section B which serves as a sort of common lounge for a group of surrounding rooms. Students had taken a couple of minutes respite from cramming and were collected in a group talking.

In walked a gentleman bearing an asbestos lined brief case laden with literary wares of the sort in which college students should normally be interested. No sooner had he explained his mission than he found himself alone, all students having taken to their respective rooms. He beat a quick retreat.

Faculty members learning he was around, declared they wished they could get hold of him. Interested in literature!

SNAKES BEAT K. A.'s

The Sigma Nu basketball combine trounced the Kappa Alpha quintet by a 26 to 11 score last night, and although the score indicates otherwise, the game was hard fought.
In the opening quarter, Gebhart and Sloan teamed up to total seven points at the end of the first period. This same pair remained active in the second quarter, dividing the scoring honors for the first half. In the meantime the Kappa Alpha cagers were unable to split the cords for a single point and the half ended with Sigma Nu on the long end of a 14 to 0 score.
An inspired Kappa Alpha team came back in the second half to score five points in short order. At this point Sigma Nu took affairs into their own hands and began looping them through the cords with Gebhart doing most of the shooting. "Gebby" was later injured in a scrimmage and forced to retire from the game.
In the last quarter Sigma Nu rushed in their substitutes. K. A. took advantage of this shift in line-up to bring their score up to 11 points while S. N. totaled 26 points. Score:

Plans for the formation of the Service Club will be decided on and drawn up at a meeting of all the Cadet Officers in the R. O. T. C. unit at the University. The purpose of the club is to promote and maintain interest in R. O. T. C., on the Campus. The club is being sponsored by the Scabbard and Blade, honorary military society. Membership will be limited to Cadet Officers, who upon becoming officers, will automatically attain membership in the Service Club.—The Johns Hopkins News Letter, Johns Hopkins University.
