NEW POST OFFICE AGAIN AGITATED

Reported That Plans Are Being Drawn for Building in Newark

ARGUE OVER LOTS

Councilmen Again Consider Exchange Offer From University

The perennial post office bubble has again assumed large proportions in Newark, and reports are flying thick and fast concerning this very important problem.

For some months, in fact for a year or more, the steady growth of the postal business in Newark has rendered the present building almost unfit for the proper handling of mail. Lack of room was felt several years ago, according to members of the force here, and now with the great growth of the town the quarters are pitifully inadequate.

At Council meeting Monday night, Mayor Frazer reported that he had received upon good authority the news that the Post Office Department in Washington has ordered its engineering personnel to begin work at once on plans for all proposed post offices in towns where the ground has been bought and paid for. This, of course, includes Newark.

The present government lot is situated on the Northeast corner of South College and Delaware Avenues, directly opposite The Knoll. It has a frontage on both streets of about 150 feet.

Mayor Frazer brought up the question of exchanging the lot for either of two other available sites, one on Delaware Avenue, next to Wolf Hall, and the other on Academy Street near the site of the new school. The proposal accompanied by plans was made at the instance of the University officials, who desire the present post office lot in order to preserve their permanent development project. The proposal was refused when offered before, on July 2nd of this year.

When brought up again last Monday night, considerable objection was again made by the Councilmen present. It was the opinion of the Mayor that the Delaware Avenue lot would be as desirable a location as the present site, and would tend to make that street a more prominent thoroughfare. His views were shared by some members of Council, while others stood pat on their decision of two months past.

No definite word was taken to the University as a result of the discussion.

The present lot was purchased many years ago, according to the Mayor, by Government agents, through Samuel M. Donnell. The purchase price was $4600, the Government allowing $5000 if necessary. That, of course, was before the University began its development project.

The question of the proper situation of a post office is a matter of great importance, according to the views of the Councilmen, and it is necessary to make it as convenient for residents of the town as possible. It was the contention Monday night that the new Government site is entirely too far away from the "center of things."

Meanwhile, the patrons of the local office are becoming more than passively interested in the possibilities of a new Federal building in Newark.

RECRUITING FORCE HERE

Detachment From Crack 16th Infantry Camped In Newark

Making this their last stop on a trip which covered most of the principal towns in southern New Jersey and lower Delaware, a detachment of the 16th Infantry, Regular Army, commanded by Captain Wilson, encamped on the Academy grounds Thursday evening last and stayed in Newark until early Sunday morning.

While here they gave a demonstration of machine guns, radio, range finding and automatic rifle for the benefit of students at the University on the upper campus.

It is reported that one or two local men were recruited during their visit. Part of the detachment spent Saturday evening in Elkton.

FIXED DEPOT ROAD

County Road Repair Gang Patches Dangerous Shoulders

A group of county road men working out from Engineer Grubb's office, repaired on Monday of this week, the shoulders on each side of Depot Road, just below the Infirmary corner. In doing so, a real danger has been eliminated, as the shoulders were exceedingly ragged.

The condition of lower Depot Road, where the extremely high crown is a continual menace, especially in wet weather, remains unchanged. Citizens living along that portion are anxious to have the repair gang come down their way.

CROSSINGS BAD

B. & O. and Newark Center Crossings Must Be Permanently Fixed

Despite frequent and expensive repairs made by the railroad maintenance crews, the two Main Street graded crossings, Newark Center and at the B. & O. Station are again in bad condition.

At Council meeting Monday night it was ordered that Pennsylvania and the B. & O. Companies be notified that they put a permanent crossover of planks or other material and keep it in repair in the future.

SALESMEN CONVENE HERE

Continental Fibre Company Representatives In Newark

Salesmen from all parts of the United States are guests this week of the home office of the Continental Fibre Company. The visitors come to Newark each year for business conferences, inspection of the plant and a general get-together.

Monday evening the group of about 15 were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Bonham, at their home on Amstel Avenue. They were there serenaded by the Continental Band.

As has been the custom the last two years, a number of the guests will be given the freedom of the Country Club golf course, and many hot matches will be played.

CLEVER PLAY IN ELKTON OCT. 16-17

"The Wishing Ring" To Be Given For Library
Fund

"The Wishing Ring," which is to be presented in Elkton, on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, October 16th and 17th, as a benefit for the Town Library, under the auspices of The Elkton Women's Club, promises to be one of the most brilliant musical extravaganzas ever given by amateurs in this town. Rehearsals have been in progress for several days past, under the direction of Miss Lora Gene Musick. The play is a most unusual one, combining as it does, all of the brilliancy of the professional production and the personality of local favorites.

The advance sale of the tickets will open on Friday, October 5th. These tickets may be exchanged for reserved seats at J. Frank Frazier's Drug Store on Friday, October 12th.

ATTENDING ANNIVERSARY

A. F. Fader, of this place, left today for Reading, Pa., where he will attend the celebrations of the 175th anniversary of the founding of the city and the 150th anniversary of the founding of the Reading Fire Department.

COLLEGE LAYING NEW PAVEMENT

South Side of Delaware Ave.
Along Their Property
Started This Week

Contractor Hutchison has a force of men busy this week laying a six-foot pavement along the south side of Delaware Avenue from the intersection with Depot Road to the row of houses east of Wolf Hall. The University of Delaware, upon whose property the pavement lies, is bearing the entire expense.

After several consultations between Mayor Frazer and A. G. Wilkinson, business administrator, in which the Mayor urged the completion of the work this fall, action was taken and the contract let.

It is understood that the north side of the street will also be paved this fall.

TOWN LIBRARY DRIVE PLANNED

October 8th is Opening Day of Two Week's Campaign for New Members

MANY BOOKS PLACED

Few people there are indeed, who realize the great good the old Town Library in the Academy building is doing the young folks and the old folks of Newark. While appearing to be deserted most of the time, it is in fact one of the most popular places in town, especially among the children. Here are books galore, suitable for every taste, not as many as most libraries, it's true, but enough to give a suitable variety.

The Library is starting a drive for members, beginning next Monday, October 8th, and last exactly two weeks. It was announced that the drive, as in former years, will be in the form of a Membership Campaign, with any one eligible for enrollment as members upon the payment of $1.00.

The Library is financed and managed by the New Century Club of Newark. Each year a committee is appointed to take care of this work, and a small fund set aside for general running expenses. However, in order to keep new books on the shelves it becomes necessary to raise additional funds.

The Century Club Committee in charge of the Library this year is:

Mrs. F. M. K. Foster, chairman, Mrs. Earl Dougherty, Mrs. Eastman, and Miss Edith Spencer.

These ladies will have entire charge of the campaign. The town will be "disturbed" and workers appointed to help canvass the residents.

In order to show the real progress made by the library during the past year, a complete list of books placed on the shelves in 1923 is published in this issue of The Post. The progress of the campaign and the final results will be published later.

YEARLY MEETING TO BE HELD AT OLD WELSH TRACT CHURCH OCT. 20

Announcement is Also Made the Historic Institution Will be Scene of Meeting of Delaware
Association Next Spring

EXPECT MANY VISITORS IN NEWARK

The Yearly Meeting of the Old School Baptist Church will be held at Welsh Tract, south of Newark, on Saturday and Sunday, October 20th and 21st, inclusive.

This announcement, made by John B. Miller, leading worker in the church, further states that the two-day session will no doubt be attended by a number of Baptist ministers, enroute from the Virginia Corresponding meeting, held prior to October 17th, at Herndon, Va. These ministers generally stop over in Newark at this time, as the next important church conference takes place at Salisbury, Md., on October 24th.

It is understood that Elders C. W. Vaughn and C. V. Hill, of Hopewell, Va., will be here for the two-day session. Newark members of the old church are planning for the reception of the visitors and another large attendance is expected this year.

STRIKE OF TUBE WORKERS AT NATIONAL FIBRE MILL BROKEN, IS REPORT

Officials Have Full Crew of Workmen on Job This Week
After Walkout Last Friday—Dissatisfaction Given as Cause

About thirty employees of the National Vulcanized Fibre Company went on strike at the local mill last Friday, and tied up several departments of the plant.

The workers who struck were members of the tube mill force, and most of them experienced and skilled workmen.

News of the strike spread throughout the town, and to avoid any trouble, it was reported that precautions, in the form of a policeman, were taken. Nothing developed, however.

The reasons given for the strike, according to the men out, were a general dissatisfaction with the wages being paid and the working conditions.

Officials of the plant, when reached yesterday, confirmed the strike, but stated that the force in the tube mill had been brought up to full strength by the addition of several new men. Some of the strikers returned to work again Monday, according to the officials. All the places have been filled and no effort will be made to get the other dissatisfied workers back into

NEW DELAWARE AVE. NEARING COMPLETION

Stone All In and Rolled; Expect
To Top Dress It
This Fall

Progress on the re-paving of Delaware Avenue, east from Academy Street to Continental Avenue, has been carried along almost to the point of completion during the last two weeks.

Contractor Lovett has filled it with two sizes of stones on a carefully graded bottom, and is ready to apply the top dressing, with which to bind the stones, and also to enable the street to be opened.

Council, due to the expenditure of so much money during the summer for street repair, is placed in the embarrassing position of having a street nearly done and the money running out at the same time.

It is believed, however, that the street will be finished before cold weather.

An application of a light top dressing upon Delaware Avenue from Elkton Road to Academy Street is also deemed necessary by Councilmen.

CHESAPEAKE CITY MAN DIES SUDDENLY

Joseph Schaffer, Related to Several Newark People;
Prominent Merchant

Joseph Schaffer, a prominent merchant of Chesapeake City, Md., died suddenly while at his place of business Saturday afternoon. Earlier in the day he had complained to his associates that he was not feeling well, but none thought his ailment was serious. Late in the afternoon, he fell without warning to the floor of the store. Death came instantaneously, according to attending physicians.

Mr. Schaffer was the senior partner in the firm of Joseph Schaffer and Son, merchants of the Maryland town. He was sixty-five years of age.

He is survived by his wife and two sons and a daughter, Joseph, John, and Miss Catherine.

Mr. Schaffer was well known in Newark, he being an uncle of the Misses Fader, and brother-in-law of William Smith of this town.

BAD ACCIDENT ON ELKTON ROAD SAT.

Touring Car Overturns Twice,
Pinning Two Men
Underneath

A duPont touring car, obviously a new model, overturned between the Riley farm and the Samuel Murray farm along Elkton road last Saturday morning about ten o'clock.

Word was received in Newark a few minutes later of the accident and Dr. Pearson rushed to the scene. The two men occupying the car had been pinned underneath, and were badly hurt. Loading them into a passing car, Dr. Pearson sent them to the Delaware Hospital in Wilmington. The extent of their injuries is not known, nor are their names, as they were too badly hurt to talk at the time. It was reported that day that they both had been killed outright, but this was in error.

The car was from Philadelphia, and was towed back later in the day. The top was crushed and severe damage done to the fenders and body.

Officer Lewis reached the scene a few minutes after it happened and the man had been sent to the hospital. There was nothing further to be done. The rescue car was allowed to tow the wreck home without an investigation.

Inquiry at Delaware Hospital failed to get any satisfaction in regards to the smash-up.

The total of auto accidents from Friday night to Monday morning reached five, resulting, however, in no deaths. These five accidents happened within two miles of Newark. The terrific amount of traffic to and from the races in Havre de Grace resulted in at least two of the wrecks.

FLYING SQUADRON COMING HERE

Law Enforcement and Prohibition
Main Topics of Group on October 18, 19, 20

TO USE WOLF HALL

Dr. Manns Chairman of Local Committee on Arrangements

The Flying Squadron, a group of prominent orators gathered together in the interests of Prohibition and Law Enforcement, will visit Newark on October 18th, 19th and 20th.

This Squadron has been touring all the principal towns of the East and in their novel arrangements, endeavor to get the most good out of a short stay.

They will be in Elkton next week, and from there come to Newark.

The meetings will be held both afternoon and evening on these three days in Wolf Hall. The public is cordially invited to be present. A different speaker is scheduled for each meeting. Dr. Thomas F. Manns is in charge of making arrangements for the reception of the visitors.

It is understood that the subjects will also range through taxes, woman's suffrage and other important topics of the day.

Included among the speakers are: Dr. D. Leighton Colvin, formerly head of the Collegiate Prohibition Movement and a prominent author and historian.

Hon. Frank S. Rogan, a cartoonist lecturer, with 23 years experience, will talk on the reduction of taxes, and will illustrate his points on the blackboard.

Norma C. Brown, a noted woman orator, who has talked to audiences all over the country, will speak on the woman as a factor in national political life.

Oliver Wayne Stewart, president of the Flying Squadron Foundation and a former member of the Illinois Legislature will bring the visit here to a close on Saturday, the 20th, with a lecture in the evening.

The Flying Squadron, while an entirely new thing for Newark, has met with great successes in the East and Middle West, and the local committee is expecting large crowds to hear the talented speakers.

REV. FRANK HERSON CALLED FOR 7th YEAR

Third Quarterly Conference
Invites Pastor To Return;
Rev. Colona Presides

The third Quarterly Conference of the Newark M. E. Church was held in the building here last Thursday evening. This conference is the last before the opening of the church year in April, 1924.

The Rev. J. W. Colona, District Superintendent, presided over the meeting of church officials and later addressed them, complimenting the church on the great progress it has made during the past year.

A feature of the Quarterly Conference was the unanimous invitation which was extended Rev. Frank Herson, asking him to return next year as pastor of the local church. The invitation, according to church rules, will be repeated next March, and decision made at the annual Conference.

It is almost certain that Rev. Herson will return here, thus creating a new record for continuous pastorage in the local church. It will make the seventh consecutive year he has been in charge.

After hearing reports from the various church officers and committees, the building program was again brought up. Several tangles have been reported in the project and these were in a measure again straightened out. No decision was made, however, last Thursday, and another conference among church officials of the district is expected this week. At that time, it is believed certain that some action will be taken to insure the congregation here a new church next year.

It is reported that the church has in mind the purchase of the Maxwell lot on Delaware Avenue, but nothing has been heard of a transfer.

KIDDIES FLOCK TO NEW PLAYGROUND

Long Waiting Lines About
Kelly Slide And Big Swings

That a playground has been needed for many years in Newark was brought out conclusively during the past few days, when the apparatus installed by the Chamber of Commerce, under the direction of J. C. Hastings, was thrown open to the children of the town.

Visitors at the grounds, immediately fronting the Armory on Delaware Avenue, were of the opinion that they never knew there were so many kids in town.

Girls and boys, big and little, the quiet ones and the boisterous ones, all gathered there Monday afternoon, and for two or three hours there was a continual stream of young "Sliders" and scores awaiting their America coming down the wavy "Kelly Slide." Over in the corner a pocket edition of the big slide was in action for the little tots. See-saws, with safety handles attached also came in for their share of punishment.

The noisy chatter and shouting of many kids kept up until supper time. If there was any evidence needed to show the value of the playground, the kids supplied it.

A. D. Jester, custodian of the Armory, was on hand in the afternoon. Mr. Jester takes quite an interest in the kids and aided in erecting the apparatus.

Boy Scouts Help

For the proper safeguarding of the children while at play, the local troop of Boy Scouts have voluntarily offered their services.

Each afternoon a Scout is detailed to the playground from school hours until dark. He watches carefully the progress of the kids down the slide, watching for overcrowding on the swings, and sees that each and every tot gets a share of the fun.

There is no doubt that the playground will prove a popular feature in the life of Newark's young blood.

The regular matinee races held on Coweview Farms at Glasgow, Saturday, resulted in several fast heats. In the first event Timbrook finished second in the first heat but came across first in the next two heats.

Capt. Guy Axworthy had the second event all to himself taking it in two heats.

Brama J. S. made the fastest time in the afternoon doing the first heat in 2.24 1/4 and doing the second heat in 2.26 1/4.

AUTO DEMOLISHES MULE

Not Satisfied With That, Machine
Tears Down Panel Of Fence

While cruising along the Newark-Elkton Road near the Samuel Murray farm, Saturday evening last, a Pennsylvania touring car, operated and occupied by negroes, among whom was one Samuel Anderson of Newark, ran afoul of a mule wandering in the roadway without lights.

The mule, according to one story of the affair, ascended into space when struck a broadside blow, and was never again seen by the party. The force of the impact threw the car around in the road and before it came to rest two panels of fence were torn down along the roadside. The car was pretty badly damaged but none of the occupants hurt.

The unfortunate mule, the property of George "Shorty" Cullen, managed to stagger quite a distance away from the scene of the crash before it collapsed. It died several hours later.

CRITICALLY INJURED

Word received from the bedside of George Herman, a Junior in the University of Delaware, who is lying in a Philadelphia hospital stricken with paralysis, remains unchanged. Word was brought here by Mr. Albert Schaffte, a friend of the injured boy.

The accident occurred a few days before George was to leave for Newark to enroll in his courses here. He was driving his father's small truck in West Philadelphia, when it was hit by a passing car. The young driver was seriously injured about the neck and shortly afterwards became paralyzed from the waist down.

Doctors say he has a fair chance for recovery. The accident called forth many messages of sympathy from his many Newark friends.

M. E. RALLY DAY

October 15th Set For Annual Event
In Newark Church

The annual Rally Day in the Sunday School of the Methodist Episcopal Church here will be held on Sunday, October 15th, according to an announcement made yesterday. The affair will be held in the room of the Intermediate and Junior Departments. A lecture, accompanied by lantern slides will feature Rally Day this year, the subject of the lecture to be announced later. Mrs. Howard P. Williams is general chairman of Rally Day.

A somewhat similar program is being arranged for the Bible School at the church, which is under the direction of Clarence A. Short.

THE MARCO COMPANY

All of us enjoy a good magician, no matter whether we are seven or seventy. It is doubtful if any form of entertainment is more universally popular. All of us flock to see the magician display his "bag of tricks." It is always interesting to watch and see if one cannot discover "how it is done" and catch the man of mysteries in a fumble.

Marco and his capable assistant will show their dexterity many times over and prove again that "the hand is quicker than the eye" in the cleverest lot of sleight-of-hand offerings and illusions seen in many years.

Not only is Marco a clever illusionist, but he is a delightful talker, and his original comments keep his audience holding its sides, as it sits open-mouthed watching his tricks. His is a program of clean fun and mystery—one to be enjoyed by old and young alike.

TYSON IN THE SOUTH

Newark Driver In The Carolinas For Fall Racing

Herman Tyson, Newark's own representative on the fast harness circuits, has his string of trotters and pacers in the south now and beginning this week, will race through North and South Carolina until cold weather calls a halt.

Mr. Tyson has had a fairly successful year, and his two prizes, Cherry Willis and Mary Rose, the latter a promising three-year-old with several victories to her credit on nearby tracks.

Lord Gale is another performer in the Tyson string which has scored for his driver. This horse carried away a $1000 race in Reading two weeks ago.

ARMISTICE DAY

Although Armistice Day comes on Sunday this year, it is believed that Newark will again have a celebration of some kind to commemorate the great day.

The Chamber of Commerce Committee, headed by Dr. Walter Steel, will no doubt lay plans this week for a parade or other feature to be held on Monday the 12th, or Saturday the 10th.

In the meantime, the veterans who live in Newark, are making plans for the sale of poppies during those three days. It is understood that an effort is being made to change the name of Armistice Day to "National Forget-Me-Not Day."

Armistice Day observance in the past year or two have brought credit to Newark, and many people are of the opinion that the observance should be continued.

ADDED CONTRIBUTORS

Names Of Japan Relief Donors Which
Failed To Get In Big List

Due to an oversight in compiling the list of donors to the recent Japan Relief Fund drive instituted by the Red Cross, and to which Newark gave about $620.00, two names were left out. They are Mrs. Creswell and Miss Edna Chambers.

The Presbyterian Sunday School took up a special offering last Sunday week, and a tidy sum was turned over to the Red Cross chairman here.

Merchants and Farmers build and own Railroads

The Hall Mark

of Service

Samuel Harden Church, President of the Carnegie Institute, in a recent statement, says:

"The railroads were not built by railroad men, and they are not owned by railroad men. They were built by the merchants and farmers of the United States, and they are now owned indirectly by all the people of the United States."

"The whole splendid system of railroads as it exists today was built with capital, energy and brains furnished by American business men and American farmers with the high purpose of developing the commercial and agricultural interests of the country."

Every one knows that as soon as the iron horse drew his shadow across the land the farms which the Government could scarcely give away suddenly jumped in value to fifty or a hundred dollars an acre, because the railroads had supplied them with the means of development, production and distribution.

"When the railroads are making plenty of money every shop is humming a song of happiness and every farm is growing rich."

The Rev. Frederick J. Virgin, of Kingwood, Md., moved to Elkton with his family last week, and took up the duties of rector of Trinity parish on West Main Street.

Rev. Virgin had charge of both services at the church last Sunday and is rapidly making friends among the parish and townspeople in general.

After several months of depression, the little church group believe that with the coming of the new rector, efforts will be made to increase the membership, and to outline a more vigorous program for the ensuing year.

CECILTON BAND REVIVES

Prof. Charles Edwards In Charge Of New Organization

Professor Charles Edwards, of Wilmington, one of the most gifted band leaders in this section, is hard at work developing a new band at Cecilton, Md.

The town has for some time past had a very creditable band and it has played at many nearby towns. Of late, interest has died out.

The new band will, it is understood, be composed of strictly home players. Under the watchful eye of Edwards, it is believed that the movement will be a great success.

The instructor is engaged by the Continental Band of Newark regularly. He is also the composer of many band selections of note.

They stopped at the Fairview School near here for lunch, later calling on Mrs. William Little.

Later in the day they visited the old Whiteman homestead. They walked around the old house, and over the farm where they had spent so many happy days. At the same time they realized the many changes that had taken place.

BIG BARN ON W. P. PEACH FARM DESTROYED BY FIRE MONDAY NIGHT

Loss in Disastrous Blaze Estimated at Close to $12,000—Newark Firemen Aid in Saving House—Live Stock Saved—No Cause Given for Blaze

BIG BARN WAS LANDMARK FOR SURROUNDING COUNTRY

One of the most disastrous fires in the neighborhood for some months, but, fortunately one in which there was no loss of life, occurred Monday evening last, when the big "double decker" barn on the farm of William P. Peach, between the Mermaid and Hockessin, on Harmony Hill, was completely destroyed, and an adjoining garage burned to the ground.

The fire broke out shortly after 10 o'clock, and no cause has as yet been given for the start of the blaze. Hurred calls for help brought the Newark firemen to the scene along with the fighters from Cranston Heights. The firemen managed to save the fine old residence on the place, and several smaller buildings, but the barn was doomed before they reached the scene.

There were said to be four companies on the scene at one time, in a vain effort to save the building.

A huge crowd of people, attracted by the blaze, watched the fire-fighters at work.

Four horses and a number of pigs were driven to safety, and as far as is known now there was no loss of livestock whatever.

The residence, one of the old sturdy farmhouses now so rare, was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Peach and two children at the time. Neighbors rushed to the scene immediately after the alarm was given and aided in getting the stock out of the barn. It was thought for a time that nothing could save the house, but heroic efforts on the part of the firemen made this possible.

Was Old Landmark

The Peach farm on Harmony Hill is one of the real landmarks of this section. It stands high up on the hill,

The Light Bearers of Rock Church will hold a Bake and Festival at Providence, Saturday afternoon and evening, October 6, 1923. Home-made cake, pies and candy for sale. Everybody welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Spence, of Cleveland Avenue, Newark, Del., are receiving congratulations on the arrival of a son, September 23rd, at the Homeopathic Hospital, Wilmington. Mrs. Spence was Miss Sara Kite, of Providence, Md.

LEAKING GASOLINE CAUSED BIG FIRE

The fire which destroyed the barn on the William P. Peach Farm, Monday evening, was caused by gasoline leaking from cans through the floor of the Peach automobile while enroute home from a garage on the Lincoln Highway.

The gas was to be used in running a small engine for grinding feed. When the car was driven into the garage and the cans unloaded from the back seat, gasoline dripped down through the saturated floor board and struck the hot exhaust pipe. In an instant the car was a mass of flames.

Traffic officer Jones was on hand early at the blaze and did heroic work in keeping back the crowds while the firemen fought the blaze.

commanding a view several miles in three directions.

Several years ago, a large quarry was in operation at the foot of the hill upon which the house is situated. The farm has been in the Peach family for many years.

Another distressing fact is that all the grain and feed in the barn was consumed by the flames, amounting to several hundred dollars in value.

Twelve tons of straw, 390 bushels of wheat and 75 bushels of corn were destroyed.

LIFE ACCIDENT HEALTH

It is odd to relate, but every man after a serious accident or term of sickness is a firm believer in Accident and Health Insurance. It is also strange to say, but most serious accidents happen when the man is not covered by insurance, and after the accident it is too late to get this form of coverage.

Why not let me show you how you can get this coverage—thus insuring a steady income for life, if necessary, and at a surprisingly low cost to you.

Country vs. Ambition

"Think nothing of me; take no thought for the political fate of any man whomsoever, but come back to the truths that are in the Declaration of Independence. You may do anything with me you choose, if you will but heed these sacred principles. You may not only defeat me for the Senate, but you may take me and put me to death. While pretending no indifference to earthly honors, I do claim to be actuated in this contest by something higher than an anxiety for office. I charge you to drop every paltry and insignificant thought for any man's success. It is nothing; I am nothing; Judge Douglas is nothing. But do not destroy the immortal emblem of humanity—the Declaration of Independence."

"Almost Persuaded"

"It is a pity, in the circumstances, that the present occupant of the White House is tied to Republican principles. He might be elected next year, if he were not."

The above is from the Every Evening, in which they had commended the action of President Coolidge for declining to leave the White House to speak at the Harding Birthday Memorial. The President has already spoken of what he thought of his former chief and will no doubt speak again when he addresses Congress.

The Every Evening has been very much attracted to our President and we are glad to note their expressions of approval. Their position is amusing but their expression of "pity" is pitiful. The President would not be in the White House now if he were not a Republican. Nor would he be "Cal" Coolidge—the two go together. Republican principles and Coolidge, the man, are expressions of the same thing. The Ideal and The Man have met and an approving public confidently faces the future.

The words of commendation by the Every Evening show generosity and breadth of view that speaks encouragingly for an Independent Press.

Our Political Critics

"Whenever I meet the political kicker I ask what election and assembly district he lives in and who are the committeemen of his own election district. It is not once in fifty times that a citizen can answer the question, and it is very, very seldom that I meet a man or woman who takes an active interest in this basic political proposition. No one has a right to be a kicker unless he or she has exhausted full duties of citizenship."—Wilbur F. Wake-man.

Here is summed up in a paragraph the cause of all the political unrest, dissatisfaction and inefficiencies of our political and civic affairs. Let the reader ask himself the question. Who are the committeemen of your district? Who is being proposed as delegates to the next convention and for whom will they vote? Who is being lined up for your next representative in the State's General Assembly, for Congress, for Senator, for Governor? Who for Attorney General?

Dissatisfied you are with conditions, perhaps disgusted. But what are you doing? Those who made possible the present are thoroughly organized and secretly active, planning for the next campaign. Yet you and the great rank and file sit idly by and criticize when by just a little thought, a little time, and cooperation, we could do so much. One man, one institution, or one organization cannot do it, but by cooperation and a getting together it can be done.

If we can't do that, let our silence be supreme. Either pick your representatives or accept gracefully those picked for you. Who are the members of your hundred committee? Ask yourself. That is the test of your part in affairs of state—and your right to criticize.

Another View of a Newspaper

"The newspaper, like a hotel, is a private enterprise dependent on the public for support, but notwithstanding this, like the hotel, it has the right to exercise selection; like the church, each newspaper ministers to its own constituency and makes little effort to please all. The Presbyterian clergyman does not expect Episcopalians to attend his services, and his sermons presumably do not meet the wishes and beliefs of Roman Catholics. One newspaper constituency clamors for one kind of news and another is grossly offended by its publication; like the college it is free to admit what conforms to its standards and, like the college, its standards are multifarious; like the private school it may exclude certain sects, races, or occupations from its corps of teachers as well as from its body of pupils. The newspaper has the universal prerogative of selection; the public has the right to know what concerns the moral welfare, but it has no right to compel the press to be the medium through which it acquires this knowledge. If the newspaper selects its news wisely, the public supports it; if it makes an injudicious selection, if it suppresses what ought to be printed in the interests of public welfare, the public withdraws its support and the newspaper goes to the wall. Wherever the evil exists, it quickly cures itself without the exercise of compulsion."—Professor Salmon of Vassar.

A STUDY IN HEREDITY

An Irishman was seated in a train beside a pompous individual who was accompanied by a dog.

"Foine dog ye have," said the Irishman. "Puhat kind is it?"

"A cross between an Irishman and an ape," the man replied.

"Shure an' it's related to both of us," the Irishman rejoined.

HARDING NOT A HUNTER

I heard Prof. Burris of Cincinnati, in reminiscences of President Harding, say that he called upon him on official business in Washington in the hunting season.

Prof. Burris said, "President Harding, I thought you might be out shooting rabbits today."

"No," said the President, "I cannot shoot a rabbit, I cannot shoot anything that has eyes to look at me."

Surely "the bravest are the tenderest."

AN OLD FRIEND IN PARIS

E. N. Vallandigham Remembers Us and Writes
Interestingly of Life Abroad

Paris, Sept. 22.—This is not the traditional "gay Paree" to which good Americans, it used to be said, hoped to go when they died. It is not even the Paris that I saw ten years ago, and although it is still a crowded, bustling, busy, and inexpressibly magnificent city, its merriment is largely that of the stranger who spends dollars where most Parisians can afford to spend only francs. Today a franc is worth in United States money, almost precisely six cents; it has recently been worth not much above five cents; it ought to be worth, and used to be worth, about nineteen-and-one-half cents. That is why Paris is gay for the stranger and a comparatively few lucky or incorrigibly optimistic natives, but gray rather than gay for the ordinary Parisian. I've watched the Parisians, men, women and children going to work at early morning manifestly oppressed with the weight of personal care and the day's labor ahead. Wages are higher in francs than they used to be, and few are idle, but prices are higher than ever before in half a century, and most Parisians keep moderately fed, rather meanly housed, and in winter far from sufficiently clothed, by the closest economy. Men and women in the cheaper restaurants look like the sordid folk of Maupassant's grim tales; and the widows with young children are pathetic.

Meanwhile the strangers amuse themselves and spend freely for what seems a trifle compared with prices at home in America or in England. We are lodged in a decent, clean, well ordered hotel, with two rooms provided with two beds each, and one with a bath, and the price for lodging is less than a dollar apiece. We breakfasted an hour ago at a delightfully neat table in a huge grocery next door to our hotel, with a pound or more of grapes bought on the street, delicious coffee with milk, perfect fresh rolls, excellent butter, for sixteen cents apiece, tip included. Last night we dined, three of us, at a restaurant, a three-minutes' walk from the great Opera House, and had half a chicken for two of us, another meat dish for the third, lobster salad sufficient for two, three vegetables and a pint of sparkling Burgundy for seventy cents each, which sum included a tip that brought a smile and a dimple to the face of the waitress, though it was only 18 cents. I could write you a column of comparative prices like this—and the disparity runs through everything. For a cent-and-a-quarter you may ride miles in an autobus; for twenty-five cents you may ride miles in a taxi and receive a grateful smile from the chauffeur when you give him a tip of less than ten cents. Yet you see marketing women buying with the utmost care, and I saw one such stoop in the street and pick up a cabbage leaf, fold it, and stow it in the bag with her purchases. As to the cooking, it is perfect, and the service is of like kind.

But what a city of splendor, antiquity and strangely picturesque spots. I had to see the Spanish Consul General, and found the consulate in a sufficiently quaint part of old Paris, called La Cité de Malherbe; but next it was such a place as only Paris can show. It was a "private way" off the confluence, so to say, of the Rue Victor Massé, the Avenue Frochot, and the Rue Frochot. A huge double iron gate admits to the place, and within is a steep, roughly paved way, with heavy, narrow stone sidewalks. This way winds for several hundred feet flanked on either side by fascinating rather large old stone houses, each with its front garden with trees and plants, and its inner court, with some sort of greenery glimpsed now and again through a door agape. The way branched at a point near the handsomest and largest of these houses, and one branch opened upon a busy and picturesque thoroughfare. A plaque on the wall of the house No. 1 announced that here died in 1884 "Victor Masse, composer of music," in honor of whom the street outside was named. The concierge, a fat woman in black, who could not understand my French, called her friends to look on as I copied the inscription, and seemed to find something to amuse in my face or figure. Paris, by the way, in spite of what has been said of its cosmopolitan detachment in the presence of the strange, does stare rather hard at an oldish gent in an out of season Panama hat.

Campus Stroller

Last June at the Commencement Exercises, the orchestra played the "March of the Wooden Soldiers" as the Faculty, Trustees and Graduates entered the Hall. At the recent Convocation, returning from Vacation to a new year of work, the procession marched in to the old Civil War Medley—"Drink ourselves stone blind—Jonny" fill up the bowl."

Such a little thing and amusing. Certainly with that Classic Procession it was not by request nor meant to be suggestive.

News is picking up—Card Clubs, three week-end dances, football—Serious strain on one of flippant disposition.

An observer who attended the Faculty reception said he was pleased to note that they were just folks like the rest of us.

Dr. Bevan is back. Has forgotten when he arrived but recalls leaving Florence about three weeks ago.

Looking over a Dictionary of names, we find Walter means, "Leader of the Host," Winifred, a "Lover of Peace," while George is the "Ploughman."

It is understood that there will not be any extended Artist Series this year. Fraternity dances, card clubs, jazz activities have voted that Lectures and Music are effeminate in University circles.

Freshman Class at Women's College voted by the town as the best looking, best behaved class yet; Delaware College running true to form and tradition.

The Paines arrived. Wilkinson put them in the Infirmary for a few days. Found out they were not contagious and sent them on Orchard Ridge. Depend on A. G.

although still held under bail, will no doubt be cleared of all blame in the tragedy.

Sam and his family were crossing Thirty-eighth Street, when a runaway horse, carrying on its back Miss Edwina Smith, a University Hospital nurse, came careening down that street.

Before Sam could get his car out of the way, the horse crashed headlong into it, throwing the girl several feet against a nearby curb. She was rushed to the hospital, but physicians said that death was instantaneous.

Although badly frightened and shocked by the accident, the Bell family escaped without serious injury. The car, however, suffered a smashed windshield and several other damages.

Police from a nearby station house took Sam into custody and held him for the Coroner's inquest. They believe, however, that the local man had nothing whatever to do with the fatal crash.

Sam stated, after arriving home, that he did all in his power to avert the accident. Witnesses corroborated this statement.

Miss Smith was one of the most popular nurses in the large staff. Her home was in Sellersville, Pa.

Interesting Work at Kells. Everyday something new, something that challenges thought and attention. The last was a piece of Four Color work just off the Press. First a photograph of an Oil Painting, then plates made on copper. Then came the inks and blending of colors. Each form to hair register, with increasing eagerness for final results. Then the finish. There it was, a perfect blend. And still not satisfied, by experimenting we produced the effect of the brush strokes of the Artist. A perfect Gem. Even the Artist was struck with unqualified approval. A little Masterpiece—Yes. And done

G. Bond Brown, Instructor In Rose Valley Sanitarium, Burned Out Sunday

Twenty-five patients in the Rose Valley Sanitarium, near Media, Pa., were rescued from certain death early Sunday morning when fire swept the fine old mansion and additions.

Several of the patients were bedfast when the alarm was given, and attendants did heroic work in taking them from the burning building. The loss is estimated at $45,000. The Administration building was completely destroyed.

G. Bond Brown, formerly of Newark, and an instructor at the institution, was said to have escaped without a scratch and helped many of the patients to points of safety.

The fire was said to have started from an over-heated fireplace.

The sanitarium building was erected by the late Thomas Yarnall, one of Delaware county's old families. Later it was occupied by the family of the late Col. Joseph H. Hawley. When the sanitarium corporation purchased the big mansion a large frame addition was erected.

Edward Webb Injured When Car Is Wrecked Near Wilmington

An automobile owned and operated by Edward Webb, of Port Penn, was badly smashed up early Saturday night at the intersection of Lancaster Avenue and the Baltimore Pike. The occupants of the car were hurled to the road and lay there until picked up by Parker Phillips, of Wilmington, and taken to the Delaware Hospital.

Mr. Webb suffered lacerations of the forehead, but was soon able to leave the hospital. Eugene Bendler, also of Port Penn, suffered injuries to the chest as well as a number of contusions. He is kept at the hospital until the full extent of his injuries is determined. Miss Eva Truitt, of 517 West Street, suffered lacerations of the scalp, and a number of bruises about the body and limbs. While her condition is not regarded as serious it was decided to keep her in the hospital overnight.

Mr. Webb told the physicians at the hospital that he was unable to say just what had happened but that he believed that his car had been struck by another machine at the intersection of the two roads.

On the evening, the services will again start with song service at 7.30, followed by a sermon by the Rev. Thomas R. Vandyke.

The occasion will mark the opening of the busy church season of the year and it is expected that a large congregation will be on hand next Sunday at the old church.

The State Board of Agriculture is furnishing the serum while the inoculation is being done by a veterinarian employed by the owner. Dr. Eves, veterinarian, Wilmington, who has been giving medical attention to the stock, says the disease is due to fly stings, and is in many cases fatal to man or beast.

A number of the infected parts of dead animals have been sent to the State Laboratory. It is said the test has shown they died of anthrax.

Lack of Funds Stops Plans for General Display

There will be no state exhibit of apples at the Eastern Apple Exposition and Fruit Show in Grand Central Palace, New York City, November 3rd to 10th. This is a severe disappointment to Delaware apple growers but it is unavoidable this season.

The Legislature was asked last year to defray part of the expenses of an exhibit of Delaware fruit in the exposition. The Legislature, however, did not find it wise in their opinion to make such an appropriation. The cost of such an exhibit would be about $5,000, but if the Legislature had decided to appropriate part of the sum it is expected that the growers would have combined and paid the balance. But they do not feel that the returns justify a great outlay and consequently the plan for a state exhibit is off.

This does not mean that because there will be no state show of apples and canned goods that Delaware will not be represented. It is expected that one of the larger apple growers will arrange to end an exhibit to the exposition. If they do, it will be purely an individual exhibit and not representative of the state's apple growers.

OLD LETITIA MANOR
PENN'S CHOICEST LAND

Tract of 15,000 Acres Included Small Part of New Castle County

Kennett Square, which was engaged during part of last week in celebrating Old Home Week, was once marked out as part of the great manorial estate which William Penn provided for the permanent possession of his heirs. Settlement of the fertile lands at the head of the Toughkenamon Valley, where Kennett lies, had followed almost immediately upon the founding of Philadelphia. The name of Kennett, as it was spelled originally and for many years thereafter, was given to that section, according to tradition, by Francis Smith, a settler who came there in 1686 from Wiltshire, England, where there was a village of similar name. But the greater part of the pleasant region of hill and dale that lies just beyond the historic banks of the Brandywine was included in the grant of fifty thousand acres which William Penn made to Sir John Fagg, of Sussex, England, in trust, for the benefit of his first wife, Guilielma Maria Penn and her children.

Letitia, or "Tish" as her father called her, and William Penn, Jr., were the sole survivors of this union and, after their mother's death, the interest of the trust, vested in them. At the close of 1699 more than thirty thousand acres of land, in what is now New Garden Township, the larger part of Kennett and a small part of New Castle County, in Delaware, was surveyed as part of this gift.

There, according to the terms of the transfer, there was to be established the Manor of Stening, or Stansing, as it is sometimes called, with the right to have and to hold a Court Baron. The lands which went to "Tish," containing about fifteen thousand five hundred acres, however, soon became known as Letitia Manor.

On the 3rd of November, 1701, Letitia set sail for England and on the day of her departure authorized James Logan and Edward Pennington to manage her property in what are now the Chester County hills. In the following year she married William Aubrey, "a scraping man" as his father-in-law termed him, who was always anxious to see his wife's land holdings turned into cash. Pennington and Logan were kept in hot water by the demands of the pair for more part of her city lands into cash by disposing of the southwest corner of Front and Market Streets, the best lot then on the market, to Charles Read, the merchant, who afterwards became the holder of many offices and one of the early Mayors of Philadelphia.

A prime favorite with her father, Letitia accompanied him here on his second visit, and in 1701 he gave her the land along the south side of High, or Market Street, between Front and Second, Philadelphia, a memorial of which transaction remains in the name of Letitia Street. She was then a comely and sprightly young miss, not at all Quakerish in her ways, according to accounts, and with a will of her own. She proceeded promptly to turn money from their lands. After Pennington's death Logan alone took charge, until 1711 when Letitia and her husband authorized Samuel Carpenter and Logan as joint-managers of the manor. Before her death, in 1746, when she disposed of the rest of her holdings by will to her nephew and his daughter, most of the Kennett section had been sold off in farm lots. —Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

Cod On Bank Notes

In the earlier history of this country the codfish was thought to be of enough importance to have his replica appear on the colonial seal of Massachusetts, says Nature Magazine. Years ago the bank notes of Nova Scotia had a codfish engraved on them, and also this pretty tribute, "Success to the Fisheries."

UNIVERSITY PROFESSOR'S VIEWS ON EUROPEAN MESS

Dr. George H. Ryden, Head of the Department of History at Delaware, Speaks Particularly of Russia's Plight and of Her Future—
Spent 13 Months as Red Cross Worker There

The Russian situation as it now stands, an analysis of France's invasion of the Ruhr, in short, a gathering together of facts and opinions gathered from many months observation at the seat of trouble form the basis for the following opinions from Dr. George H. Ryden, head of the Department of History at the University of Delaware, and living in Newark.

Dr. Ryden spent thirteen months in southern Russia as head of the Red Cross district there located. He gathered a first-hand glimpse of the Soviet Government at work, and is well informed on the language, customs and ideals of the Russians.

The occupation of the Ruhr District of Germany by France involves an intricate economic tangle and has many sides of argument. The main problems confronting Europe today are outlined in the interview and a United States of Europe is suggested as a possible remedy for the ills.

Dr. Ryden's opinions on the European mess from the Jamestown, N. Y., Journal, follow:

"All three of the nations concerned with the invasion and occupation of the Ruhr valley by the French, namely, France, England and Germany, have been acting, correctly speaking, from a purely nationalistic standpoint. France on the one hand is entitled to her reparations. Germany should pay if she can, but, facing the actual facts, there seems to be considerable doubt as to whether or not Germany is in a position to comply with France's demands. England's position can be easily understood when it is remembered that one of her principal markets before the war was Germany. With more than a million men and women in England's army of unemployed she is correct in her position that a quickly restored Germany will mean a quickly restored market and a revival of industry in her own country. The question of unemployment and England's position in the Ruhr invasion are undoubtedly closely related.

"The invasion of the Ruhr by France in my opinion, was probably due more directly to her desire for protection against a restored Germany than an eagerness to collect reparations, for I believe that her statesmen and business men understand as well as we do that Germany is unable to pay all that is demanded at present.

"When the United States failed to ratify the alliance suggested by France, in which the United States, England and France would take the responsibility and guarantee to defend France against Germany's aggression until such a time as the League of Nations began to function efficiently and could insure France's protection from Germany, an agreement as a matter of fact which France suggested only in substitute for a plan of direct annexation of the Rhine country, a scheme which had been strongly urged by certain nationalists, France immediately began considering measures to protect herself. The Rhine invasion, like the occupation of Frankfurt, was her answer to our failure to join with her for her own protection.

"So far as Russia is concerned, there are many things to be said about the country, things that many Americans have not taken the trouble to find out. The Bolshevik-Communist system developed by various leaders in the years 1918, 1919 and 1920 was wrecked on the rocks of peasant resistance some time ago. The Soviet authorities were obliged in the spring of 1921 to permit peasants to sell their surplus products after a tax on the same products had been paid the government. Since 80 per cent of the Russian population is made up of country folk this concession meant that private trade and bartering would spring up. In many of the cities we find small shops doing a brisk business. However, the Bolsheviks have not recognized the right of private ownership of property, for thus far peasants have received no titles for lands seized from land holders prior to the Bolshevik revolution in 1917. Nor have the Bolsheviks returned the real estate property of city residents.

"All of the larger economic corporations are controlled by the Soviets. Transportation lines, mines, oil wells, manufacturing and foreign trade are all under Bolshevik control. A compromise has been effected with the capitalistic system in one respect, for smaller factories are operated by private individuals under the development of the 99 year lease system. This system gives private companies the right to operate small industries with the condition that part of the profits are paid to the government.

"No great improvement in trade can be looked for until the currency systems of Europe are stabilized. The fact that nearly every country in Europe, with the possible exception of Sweden and England, is enmeshed in the vicious practice of paper money printing seems to indicate no immediate solution of the problem Europe faces. A uniform system of currency, backed by a gold reserve built up with a certain quota sent from each country or guaranteed by other strong securities from each nation, is what Europe needs.

"We know from history that the various countries of Germany had united economically 40 years before the founding of the German empire in 1871. The establishment of the customs union in Germany, which obliterated all tariff trouble between the nations of Germany, provided for only one tariff wall around all of the states, and permitted free trade within and among them.

"Europe presents no greater variety of climate and products of the soils than the United States. Each nation furnishes peculiar products for the welfare of Europe as a whole, just as in this country certain states furnish peculiar products for consumption of the people of the United States as a whole. As soon as the people of the various nations of Europe realize that the economic needs of their continent and countries outweigh any purely nationalistic interests, political, religious or cultural, an economic union of the European states, like that of the German states, might follow. A political union under the name of the United States of Europe might also follow, but not of necessity. What Europe must first agree on is a uniform currency system and the elimination of the purely selfish tariff law, however."

SUNSET LAKE GETS BUNCH OF FISH

First Stock Placed In New Dam Last Friday By Local
Members of Club

Sunset Lake received its first consignment of fish for stocking purposes Friday evening, September 28. About one hundred pounds of white and yellow perch and catfish were transported from one of the tributaries of the Chesapeake Bay by Mr. R. T. Jones and J. B. Miller, members of the Newark Anglers Association and to the organization. Another consignment is promised by them next week. They have also contracted to purchase bass in large quantities from one pound to the larger sizes, such as would be desirable, at the standing wholesale market value per pounds for food, about October 20th. The lake can be immediately stocked with grown fish at a very low cost, providing there are enough members interested to assist financially in this movement, as they have an option on any number of pounds required.

The Association believes that if enough financial aid be forthcoming from members for the purchase of more bass and other fish, the lake will be ready for rod and reel in the course of a year. The fish will be

WILL YOUR ROAD STAY OPEN THIS WINTER?

Cold and Wet Weather Brings
Yearly Transportation Problem

A good road with a boulder blocking it is of no more value than if it did not exist. For "boulder" read "snow" and get the problem which the middle and northern half of the United States has to face every year. A good road covered with deep snow is of no more value than if it did not exist!

The Bureau of Public Roads of the Department of Agriculture makes a definite effort each year to try to interest more and more highway officials in the matter of keeping snow-bound roads open to traffic. More and more every year both State highway departments and county road officials are seeing the wisdom of spending some money for snow removal.

Experiment has proved that a snow plough attached to a wagon and pulled by two or four horses, can clear, inexpensively, enough of a highway of snow to enable it to be used. On very well traveled roads a complete snow removal is necessary, but for many highways a partial snow shoveling meets the demands of the traffic naturally lowered in amount by cold weather.

It is slowly but surely becoming recognized that the main roads are as much needed to keep down the cost of living and keep up the doing of business as are the main streets of cities and towns. The individual shovels his own snow path from door to street;

FRATERNITIES IN JOLLY HOUSE PARTIES

Sigma Phi and Theta Xi Open Social Season At College

Two fraternity parties were held Saturday evening last. The Sigma Phi Epsilon house members were hosts to a number of young people from Newark, Wilmington and Philadelphia here for the Delaware-St. Joseph's game in the afternoon. There were also a large number of alumni back for the opening party. The chaperones were Mrs. Harold E. Tiffany, and Miss Taylor of the Women's College.

Dancing consumed most of the evening. Light refreshment were served later.

The newly established Theta Xi house on West Main Street, formerly the Omega Alpha, opened the social season with a large dance in the house Saturday evening.

In its last analysis it is up to the voter; if he wants open roads he can have them by saying so. If he wants to save money by being snowed up, he is the greatest sufferer!

WATCH THE COMMUNITY'S HEALTH

October 21st to 27th is National Good Health Week. How will it find Newark? Every community should provide public comfort stations. There's no other sure means of avoiding unsanitary nuisances. Public comfort stations can be made practically self-supporting by the use of coin operated locks and soap and towel vending machines. Most anyone will be willing to pay a few cents for the use of toilet facilities that are sanitary. We will be glad to help in planning comfort station facilities in Newark.

MRS. WALLER ADDRESSES LOCAL CENTURY CLUB

First Meeting of Year Yesterday Well Attended by Members

The first meeting of the Newark New Century Club was held on Tuesday afternoon, October 2. There was a large and enthusiastic attendance, and the whole meeting was a most enjoyable affair.

After the business of the Club was transacted the entertainment committee took charge. Miss Eleanor Duffy sang two solos, "Until," by Wilfred Sanderson, and "Rose in the Bud," by Dorothy Forster. The president, Mrs. Manns, gave a delightful address. She welcomed the Club, and said that everything she had attempted in Club work they had always stood by her and she could not ask for more hearty cooperation, and this had encouraged her to accept the position she now occupied. That she was looking to them for support, and knew that she would not be disappointed. She said, "loyal consistency," and then quoted, "Consistency thou art a jewel." Do we possess this jewel? Then she spoke of criticism. The sort of criticism she liked she would call helpfulness, but there was a deadly criticism that killed all effort. It was easier to tear down than to build up. Let us make our organization an avenue of service.

Mrs. Waller, president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, was a guest of the Newark Club, and the members felt it an honor and a privilege to have her. She complimented the Club, and brought greetings from the Federation. She urged the Club to always cooperate with the Federation as it is a part of the Federation. She suggested many lines of work for the coming year. The study of citizenship, fighting the dope evil before it makes any greater headway in our State; trying to curb the habit of evil.

WELL, WE WOULDN'T QUITE SAY THAT!

The following was clipped from the Milford Chronicle:

"Many Live Happenings Reported. From Milton"

"Coroner Dickerson, of Milton, was called to Cokesbury Church on Saturday to hold an inquest over the body of Albert E. Goodrick, who was found by his neighbors hanging by the neck in his corn crib."

LAYFIELD'S HOME

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Layfield returned to Newark Wednesday evening last from New York, where they landed after a six weeks' trip through Europe.

Both look very well and were delighted with the trip. Both passages across the ocean were thoroughly enjoyed.

thinking among children, not all children, but wherever it is found. Some one has said that there will be no illiteracy in the United States in 1930. What a fine line of Club work it would be to do away with all illiteracy in our own State. She advised that we study the laws of our state.

Some clubs have Junior Clubs, where young people are instructed in all lines of club work. They have an instructor and a chaperon, and sometimes the Juniors have dances.

Mrs. Waller urged that the Club send the chairmen of its committees to the District Convention which meets three times during the year, and where many lines of interesting work are laid out.

Following this Mrs. Sparks played two piano solos, "Humoresque" and "C Sharp Minor Prelude" by Rachmaninoff.

The silhouettes were well drawn and guessing as to who they were created much fun.

The hospitality committee served ice cream, cake and coffee.

The Club feels that the outlook for the coming year is very bright.

PROVIDENCE CLAIMS FIRST LITTLE GAME

Violation of League Rule By Charlestown Is Charged

Providence and Charlestown played the first game of the post-season series to decide the pennant winners of the Cecil County League, at Charlestown last Saturday. Charlestown winning the game by bunting hits in the eighth inning, score, 12-7.

The game was played under protest from the beginning on a ruling made by President Campbell before the game that Carter Simpers of the Elk Mills team of the Susquehanna League, who covered short-stop for Charlestown, was ineligible to play in any game of this series.

The management of the Charlestown ignored Mr. Campbell's decision and allowed Simpers to take part in the game, Providence claiming the game in accordance with rule 17, of the Constitution of the League.

DR. EDGAR JONES LEAVES PARISH

Preached Last Sermon Sunday Morning Last; Will Assume New Duties At Once

The old St. Thomas P. E. Church was crowded last Sunday morning with members and friends of the parish, come to say farewell to the Rev. Edgar Jones, rector of the parish for over two years, who, with his family have moved to Cincinnati, there to become Dean of the Cathedral in that city.

Dr. Jones played a glowing tribute to those who in the two years just past had helped to bring the church up to its present high standard.

He expressed his thanks for every kindness bestowed upon him, and further stated that he was sorry to leave his many warm friends in this town.

After the services, members of the parish gathered in the church and bade the Jones family farewell.

At the present writing nothing has been heard from Rev. Matthews, of Snow Hill, who was called by the Newark vestry last week. It is understood that a decision will be made in the matter before the end of the week.

The Millers lived on West Main Street and took a great interest in local affairs. Dr. Miller's mother lived here with them. When the home was broken up following his death, Mrs. Miller moved to Wallingford with her daughter-in-law and young

COMPARE

The Maximum of Proved vs. Many Extravagant Claims
Intrinsic Value of Superiority

So many announcements of new model cars come out every year that it is difficult for the buyer to know which value is real and which is only a claim. This year the issue has been confused by the introduction of mechanical changes, some of which have been rushed into production while still in the experimental stage—and then immediately given wide publicity.

Important considerations have been overlooked and great stress placed upon unimportant details.

But the man who intends to buy a motor car need not let this confusion or the glamour of publicity lead him to make a mistake or risk satisfaction in his purchase. The automobiles themselves are available for comparison.

See and be convinced. Riding is believing.

As an aid to intelligent buying we offer the following suggestions:

Place the 1924 model Studebaker Light-Six Touring Car at $995 alongside any car you may select as belonging in the same class. Every car looks well in the pictures—most cars make a good impression in their own show windows. The Studebaker Light-Six looks a winner along side the best-looking competitor you can find. And it's larger, more substantial, roomier, more comfortable looking—and is more

CONTINENTAL FIBRE FOOTBALL TEAM DISBANDS

DELAWARE DOWNED ON OPENING DAY BY ST. JOSEPH'S COLLEGE, 6-1

Blue and Gold Shows Weak Offense Before Big Crowd on Frazer Field—Klen Races Fifty Yards for Alien Score—Kramer, Akin and Williams Star

ONLY ONE FIRST DOWN MADE BY DELAWARE

Before a crowd of several hundred spectators, most of them loyal Delaware rooters and the balance made up of visitors from Wilmington, Philadelphia and many nearby towns, Delaware's 1923 football season was inaugurated in a most unseasonably warm day when the guests of honor, St. Joseph's, were allowed not only to the hospitality of Frazer Field, but also upon carrying away most of the credit for the afternoon's performance. This, from a Delaware team, was entirely uncalled for and mainly not polite. St. Joseph's, however, assumed the attitude that an afternoon party was merely another day of scrimmaging and failed to appreciate the sentiment Delawareans attach to a football game. Thus, did Philadelphia players take home the honor and they took it home because they were the better team—not in a wide margin, mind you, but just a few points better.

The score was six to nothing and the opinion of many spectators was that still be battling had it not been for the timekeeper and a long delay by Cragin, St. Joe's quarterback, who the two teams for about seven minutes of the game tugged back and forth across the field like two dogs at their teeth out. Plain old plays were used, and neither had an attack of such a nature.

Delaware Disappointing

It was perfectly frank, Delaware's back was completely absent. True, the backfield man would carry the usually ahead, but he rarely led more than five yards before gave up the ghost, and said "no."

Delaware was evidently outweighed by the red and grey clad warriors of the Main Line, but that handicap was not reason for the showing. When Williams called a play the play went through as it fully should, ground was always made. On the other hand, a great majority of the plays found someone of the eleven men not doing his duty. That man is put there to do that particular job.

Plays were missed by the dozen. Calls were called on several occasions and when the ball was snapped runner stood with it in his hands, knowing where to run. Forward passes to the total of two or three were completed, none for an appreciable gain, by either team.

St. Joe team, coached by the late Heine Miller and including six freshmen in its lineup, was also weak on its offense, and it was a consensus of opinion that the game under ordinary circumstances would most surely have been a score-tie.

Kalen's Long Run

Shortly after the kickoff in the first quarter, the fans were treated to the real thrill of the entire farcical line punted to midfield after Delaware failed to gain.

ELKTON CHAMPIONS LOSE LISTLESS GAME TO ALL-STAR AGGREGATION, 9-2

Large Crowd Disappointed in Showing of Favorites in Saturday's Game—Shanner Put Out of Game—Local Pitchers Pounded Hard

OLD FLAG RAISING BEFORE START OF GAME

The Susquehanna All-Stars, a selection of players from seven other clubs in the league, made recently by the president of the league, proved too strong for the Elkton champions Saturday last and administered the city Seaters one of the worst defeats of the season.

Withstanding the imposing flag-raising ceremonies held before the start of the game, when Elkton was greeted with the pennant signifying complete mastery over the other teams, the home team were forced to swallow a bitter pill right before the eyes of their loyal supporters.

In winning the game, the All-Stars netted a total of seventeen hits, the deliveries of Shanner and Man Finn, who succeeded him, were man on the variety team got for more safeties except Allen, who fielded.

In the meantime, Elkton gathered only two hits, and only two runs. They held safe by the visitors whenaware had failed twice at the St. Joe line. Kalen, a freshman quarterback, on the visiting team, caught the ball at midfield and started for the sidelines. He brushed off two Delaware tacklers, one of them an end who overran the receiver.

Kalen then reversed his field, after drawing the entire Delaware team over to the side. The fleet runner cut straight across in the other direction and thence down the middle for a touchdown. At least four Blue and Gold tacklers missed him cleanly, being fooled by his side-stepping and change of pace. Dixon failed at the attempt at goal. Score, St. Joseph's 6, Delaware 0.

Rest of the Game Slow

There was nothing of real interest in the balance of the struggle. Delaware uncorked a spurt in the third period which was productive of their only first down. The stands took on new life and bright prospects were ahead, but a fifteen yard penalty for holding ruined the drive and forced Garvine to punt.

For Delaware the all round work of Leo Kramer stood out prominently. Although suffering for the most of last week from a sprained shoulder, the big tackle played a whale of a defensive game throughout. Cherub Akin and Torbert were powers of strength in the line, and Weggenman, Williams and Garvine gave a good account of themselves.

Scoop Hubert, the Newark High luminary, played his first game for the Blue and Gold, and distinguished himself. While not carrying the ball very much, he was in the fighting every minute and greatly pleased the many Newark fans by his work.

For St. Joe, Kalen, Dineen and McElroy were the real stars. The former ran the team in bang-up style and was the ever present danger when carrying the ball. After the touchdown, he was covered continually by two Delaware defensive men.

Considering the heat, both teams came through the game in fair shape. Delaware's aggregation showed the effects of the hard struggle. The team is not in the best of condition by any means. The score:

NEWARK HIGH READY

Play Smyrna Saturday In Opening Game of Season

Coach Joe Wilson's Newark High eleven opens the season next Saturday afternoon on the High School Field, with Smyrna High furnishing the opposition.

The local aggregation is a more or less uncertain quantity, and to use Wilson's words, "we will tell more about them after the game." Which is truly coach-like.

The loss of several Varsity men by graduation last June has severely handicapped the team in the matter of experience and weight.

Captain Hopkins and Grant are the only remaining regulars. Steel, Townsend, Chalmers, Mamm, Riley, Armstrong and several other candidates have been showing up well, however.

The team this year looks to have plenty of speed, but lacks weight.

The Smyrna game, of course, will be a means for Joe to get a line on his charges under fire. The down-staters are also playing their first game. A real battle is expected.

GALLAHER'S UNASSISTED TRIPLE PLAY FEATURES FIVE POINTS WIN, 9-5

New Castle Center Fielder Makes Unusual Play, But Pointers Carry Off First Game of Titular Series

TWO BIG INNINGS SUFFICIENT TO WIN

The first game of the past season series for the championship of the New Castle County baseball league found Five Points, second half winners, on top after nine hectic innings with Gallagher's New Castle aggregation. The final score was 9-5.

About 1200 fans gathered at Battery Park to witness the game, most of whom rooted for their home team, New Castle.

Lewis for Five Points pitched a steady dependable game until the seventh inning, when he weakened and New Castle got three runs. Fearing a catastrophe, Manager Naylor ordered Vannort to the hill to stem the tide. This he did with neatness and despatch.

On the other glove, A. Miller was nicked for 13 hits during the fray, nearly all of them coming at the proper time for a score. In the seventh inning, four singles in a row scored four runs.

Doug Proud, Worth and Johnny Naylor were the leading hitters when his meant runs, and starred by their all round work.

The game was played under ideal conditions, the field being dry and fast and the weather overhead almost perfect. The big crowd, while of course disappointed in the outcome of the fracas, showed that it enjoyed the game hugely.

The two champion teams play the second game of the series next Saturday afternoon at the Five Points field. The same lineups will be used. The score:

MIKE ELLIOTT RETURNS

Big Halfback Likely To Enter Muhlenberg Game Saturday

The stock of the University's football team took a decided jump upwards this week when Ike Elliott, star halfback of the past two or three seasons, appeared in a uniform on Frazer Field ready for work.

The return of Elliott greatly strengthens the backfield. As a result, Scoop Hubert, the local pride, will be paced at tackle, and Torbert shifted to guard, replacing Lohman. Hubert has all the earmarks of a good linesman, although his forte is backfield work.

The game Saturday next promises to be one of the hardest of the season for the Blue and Gold. Muhlenberg always places a heavy, powerful team on the field. Last Saturday they held Lafayette's big aggregation to a small score.

The same lineup, with the exception of the changes noted above, as started Saturday last will again take the field this week.

First Triple Play Of League Season

In the Five Points-New Castle game Saturday last, Alexander Gallagher, New Castle center fielder, engineered one of the rarest plays in baseball, the unassisted triple play. It was the first one to be uncovered during the current season of the New Castle County League. Here's how it happened. John Naylor at bat hit a short fly to center field, which was dropped by Gallagher, after recovering the ball he tagged Lewis who was off second, touched second base forcing "Ike" Kern out who occupied first and touched first which Naylor failed to reach. "Alec" also featured in a running one-hand catch of a drive by "Chuckie" McDaniel, retiring the side in the fifth inning leaving Worth on third.

CONTINENTAL FOOTBALL TEAM DISBANDS

The football team of the Continental Fibre Company disbanded officially Monday, when Coach Proud announced that the Company would not further back the team.

The Coach felt very keenly the disappointment and it was shared by the entire group of athletes.

The cause was said to have been the failure of three of the players to report for practice last Saturday afternoon. Learning of this officials in the firm decided to withdraw their support.

It is understood that a movement is on foot to organize a town team for the season. There are many more players now available than there were last year.

FRAGMENTS

by
The Wanderer

ON CHEERFULNESS

WHAT a blessing it is that a wise Providence ordained that everything in the universe should have its antithesis! For the warm sunshine we have the cooling rain; the summer for the winter; after the weary toil of the day the soothing hours of God's blessed sleep; for the miserly, the generous; and, perhaps best of all, for the grouches, the sunny, even-tempered, lovable people who exude the very essence of cheerfulness and good humor wherever they go! The very atmosphere seems to change for the better under their unconscious, happy influence.

Watch these pleasant, jovial folks—see how the crowd gathers 'round them—with their merry little jokes and good-humored quips for everyone. Observe the ease with which they perform their daily tasks—nothing is too much trouble; they are never too busy to lend a helping hand—everything runs as smoothly as a well-oiled piece of machinery with these happy individuals; and when trials and tribulations come upon them they have stored within them an inexhaustible fountain of optimism that carries them over the rough places without souring the milk of human kindness in their breasts, or making them lose faith in their fellowmen.

Ever notice that the cheerful person is usually found in good company? Nothing strange in that! Not a bit of it! Cheerfulness, being a cardinal virtue in itself, as naturally as water finds its own level attracts, and is attracted by, its kindred spirits—Generosity, Fair-Mindedness and Friendliness. Whoever found a cheerful person habitually associating with narrow, mean or vicious companions? Like the fragrant rose suddenly deprived of God's wondrous air and sunshine and confined between the covers of a book, if forced to endure such company for any appreciable length of time, every sweet and innocent thought, every smile—Ay! the joy of Life itself—would be quickly squeezed out of their very soul! But the same wise Providence has decreed that the divine gift shall not be lost to mankind, and so the cheerful individual goes blithely along the pathway of life; welcome everywhere, scattering sunshine and hope to the weary, lightening the load, spreading the gospel of optimism.

"Life is short and Time is fleeting"—seek the company of cheerful folks wherever you are, for with them will be found the secret of happiness, tranquility and success.

JEST A WORD O'CHEER

Times IS hard: on ev'ry han',
Thar's oneasiness an' fear;
'Pears like th' hull world's sufferin',
Fer jest a word o' cheer.

Things IS bad: no doubt o' that,
We've heerd it fur an' near—
So it mus' be trew—but 'spite th' fac',
Le's hev a word o' cheer.

O, th' world is full o' pessymists,
An' fokes what sneer an' jeer,
But th' thing thet routs 'em, ev'ry time,
Is a simple word o' cheer.

No one c'n keep a sullen face,
When an aptymist is near,

Fer th' thing that counts most in Life's race,
Is jest a word o' cheer.

An' when we reach th' goldin shore,
Whar all is brite an' cleer,
Th' Lord'll not fergit us—EF
We've spoke a word o' cheer.

The Water Works "Gang" Does Some Overtime Housecleaning

Residents of the lower Depot section, one night last week, were attracted by strange sounds and twinkling lights heard and seen in the vicinity of the town water station.

Upon closer investigation, the cause of foul play quickly disappeared. Water Committeeman E. C. Wilson, Jacob Shew and two or three others were industriously scrubbing down the sides of the emergency reservoir, after all had done a full day's work at their respective businesses.
