Drop In Assessment Per Pupil Reported Annually For Decade

School Officials Report Decline Of Some 3 Per Cent Annually Of Fund Providing Basis For Expenditures; Growth Of Local District Cited As Penalized By State

In the Newark special school district, assessments per pupil—the basis on which the school system spends its money—have declined at the rate of about 3 per cent per year since 1955. The 1954-55 assessment per pupil in Newark schools was $16,155, however, in the school year 1964-65, pupil assessment has dropped to $12,277.

The per-pupil assessment is the money which "stands behind" each child in the school system, the basis on which school officials plan expenditures and quality programs.

Assessments in the district increase at the rate of about 7 per cent per year while enrollments increase at the rate of about 10 per cent.

Present Tax Rate

The present current expense tax of 60.5 cents per $100 of assessed valuation, would have yielded $97.73 per pupil in 1955. Last year it yielded only $74.27 per pupil.

The school district has the same facing the home-owner—inflation. "Probably the simplest way of stating it is that the Newark Board of Education cannot run a 10,500-student, 15-school-building system in 1965 for the proportionate amount of money it could run a one-school-building system with about 1,600 students in 1945," a board spokesman said.

"If we restrict ourselves simply to the last five years, we may observe that the cost of textbooks has jumped about 50 per cent, but monies to the schools to buy these textbooks and educational materials has not increased proportionately. The schools are trying to buy a $150 item with only $1, and this dollar has been deflated," the school official said.

To Hold Line

The 22-cent increase in the current expense tax rate which the Newark Board of Education is seeking for school children during fiscal 1967 with the referendum next Nov. 11, will be used simply to catch up and try to hold the line—not to greatly improve the program, a Newark school district spokesman said.

"Our school system has to run very fast just to stay where it is. Newark has constantly been penalized by the State of Delaware for its growth, and the only relief to come forth—Equalization Bill—was snatched from Newark residents this year.

"This bill would have provided money to carry on our programs, plus providing a substantial tax cut for Newark residents.

"With such treatment at the state level," the spokesman concluded, "we have no alternative but to turn to our people and ask them to help supply the education the children of Newark need so vitally."

Youngsters Visit University Farm To See And Learn

To youngsters who think milk comes from bottles and chicken is drumsticks in a package, a visit to a farm can be a revealing experience. More than 6,000 New Castle County children—most of whom live in the University of Delaware experiment-city and suburbs—are visiting the al farm this fall.

Here the children see cows and calves, baby chicks and broilers, ponies and other animals, farm crops and huge pieces of farm machinery.

As they watch a cow being milked, many realize for the first time where milk really comes from.

The children also see an incubator where baby chicks are hatching, and they have opportunity to pet the animals. Some of the experimental work under way at the Agricultural Experiment Station also is shown.

Each October, the university invites New Castle County elementary school teachers to bring their classes to visit the farm. This year, kindergarten classes also visited the farm during the last week in September.

The schedule is filled for this year's tours, and some teachers have already made arrangements to bring classes again next fall, according to Edward Schabinger, New Castle County agricultural agent in charge of tours.

Referred to as a "shot in the arm" for teachers, speakers at the convention are nationally known with important messages about education.

Coverdale To Resign Nov. 1; $1,000 Approved For C. of C.

Veteran 1st District Councilman Announces Resignation With Move From Area; Chamber Of Commerce Request For Subsidy Granted; Reapportionment Plans Weighed

Veteran Councilman William M. Coverdale announced his resignation to become effective next Nov. 1, at last Monday night's meeting of Newark City Council. Representative of the old eastern and now first district, Coverdale has served continuously since 1950 except for one term when he was defeated in a bid for the mayoralty.

"Having acquired a home in another district that will accommodate a growing family, I must forfeit my council seat..." Coverdale declared. He is planning to move to the second district which is represented by Fred Wakefield.

"I will leave this table without any bitterness to the local opposition. It has been a rich and rewarding experience..." the veteran councilman continued. "To the council, its committees, boards and commissions, the staff and every citizen of this community, including the opposition, thanks for your tolerant understanding. We are all working for a better Newark," Coverdale concluded.

Civic Leader To Resign

There was some confusion over the procedure for selecting Coverdale's successor, with a variation in recorded ordinances concerning interim appointment and special elections. Solicitor Clyde M. England, Jr., and former City Solicitor Samuel Handoff, chairman of the charter commission, are to confer and present a ruling. Francis E. B. McCann in the audience, stressed that in last April's municipal vote, the requirement for a special election was approved.

Council authorized city appropriation of $1,000 in granting a request by the Greater Newark Chamber of Commerce for funds for the year to help defray chamber expenses for municipal business transacted. The appropriation was approved in a 4-1 vote with Councilman David H. Doehrlert dissenting.

Harlan C. Williams, vice-president of the Greater Newark Chamber of Commerce, presented a report to justify the chamber's request.

"I have followed this very closely," Councilman Wakefield said, "and feel it is very cheap advertising."

Doehrlert pointed out that Councilmen Albert P. Chittenden and Henry R. Folsom, Jr., who had questioned the chamber request, were absent, and urged deferring action until their return. "We should be very careful to disperse taxpayers' money with the utmost caution," Doehrlert said, citing the chamber of commerce as "designated beneficiaries" and indicating that with the appropriation "we would be opening the door to a great many other worthy organizations."

"Insignificant" Sum Coverdale declared the "sum is insignificant," and that there was no reason why other groups could not come before council. He said that the city had requested chamber help.

Mayor Joseph A. Shields said that if the city were "transferring municipal business conducted by the chamber" it would cost us five times as much. "I think it's a bargain," he said. And the measure was approved.

Council authorized retention of Clarence Taylor as attorney for the Newark Planning Commission, and McCann volunteered to assist the municipal staff which is proceeding with revision of zoning and subdivision ordinances.

Concerning reapportionment of Newark districts, the mayor requested a report from Planning Director John J. Griesbaum on anticipated population shifts with the thought that "within a year or two they may balance themselves out."

Doehrlert urged immediate reapportionment, scoring the mayor with "I am really quite surprised that you want to delay what the charter requires." And Shields objected to Doehrlert's putting "words in my mouth."

Speaking of money . . .

"Is there a dream mortgage for your dream home?"

John Buchanan

"If there is, it must be the one right mortgage for you and your circumstances . . . yet one that will give you and your family as much home as it is possible to provide. We have people at the Savings Fund—our mortgage counselors—whose sole job is to arrange right mortgages. They will guide, advise, explain and recommend . . . and above all listen to your plans and needs. We treat these confidences as exactly that, and you are under no obligation to act on our suggestions. "Here are a few ideas that we can discuss with you.

Loans of up to 90% of appraised value are being made. Terms to 25 years, or interest as low as 5 1/4% are available. To establish your dream home on solid ground, the important thing is to get the down-to-earth facts on mortgages.

"First, talk to your realtor, then . . . we cordially invite you to drop by the Savings Fund, and become acquainted with our mortgage counselors. Let us help you into your new home."

EMPHYSEMA
Emphysema is a disease which causes the lungs to become inefficient. It is thought that this disease is often a result of chronic infection or irritation of the bronchial tubes—tubes which connect the windpipe and lungs.

When bronchi become irritated, some of the airways become clogged, and the air spaces, which are trapped in the lungs. If the infection or irritation continues or is repeated often, this continuing stretching and destruction of walls of the air spaces, the lungs as a whole may become over-stretched.

Emphysema may start as only a slight inconvenience in breathing in the mornings and evenings. This inconvenience grows until even a short walk may bring on an attack of breathlessness. If treatment is not started promptly, a continual struggle to keep the lungs working can develop. Every breath may require a major effort and the lungs may be permanently damaged.

Doctors can help emphysema patients by different treatments which include the use of some of the "wonder drugs."

Attacks of breathlessness can be relieved and often the patient can continue to work provided it does not require heavy physical labor.

NATIONAL BIBLE WEEK

Delawareans are urged to participate in observance of National Bible Week, Oct. 18-24, in a statement issued by Gov. Charles L. Terry, Jr.

The governor cited establishment of National Bible Week on Dec. 7, 1941 as "a memorable date in our history, when we were confronted by a challenge to our continued existence as a free nation."

"Today, we are faced by a serious challenge from a Godless ideology that threatens our existence as a nation and as a people," the governor said, urging citizens of Delaware "to give additional recognition to this important event as 1965 will mark the 25th anniversary of this observance—truly a milestone."

Delaware's chief executive added that "This challenge that we as a free people must continue to face, presents a greater need for increased faith, wisdom and courage that can only be derived from reading the Holy Bible and practicing its teachings in our everyday lives."

Hospital Service Membership Rate Changes Reported

Group Hospital Service has announced rate changes including an increase of about 12.41 per cent in membership rates for the most widely held contract.

However rates for extended benefits plans will be lowered and some benefits were boosted.

Changes will be effective next Jan. 1.

Rates were increased July 1, 1962, almost three and one-half years ago.

Ordinarily rates are geared to a two-year period, because of the history of gradual increases in hospital charges. The plan pays certain hospital bills, so its rates are therefore tied to hospital rates.

Group Hospital Service absorbed increases in charges of Delaware hospitals made earlier this year.

Trustees decided to use some of the non-profit organization's reserves to meet losses which have since ensued, and to put off making rate changes until the impact of Medicare legislation was clear. Further delay was ordered, when it appeared the hospitals would have to make further increases in charges to adjust pay scales to comply with minimum wage requirements and in some instances new rates for nursing services.

This 12.41 per cent increase in Group Hospital rates is for a family holding a contract with standard semi-private hospital plan, surgical-medical plan B, and extended benefits.

The new rates reflect the impact of the Medicare program to start next July 1.

Medicare will result in a saving to the Blue Cross plan, but that saving will be enough to take up only a small part of the increased cost already being encountered.

Without the Medicare program, the rate increase would have had to be greater.

H. V. Maybee, managing director of Group Hospital Service, explained its costs are determined by two factors—or a combination of them. They are charges and utilization of benefits by members.

In recent years, due to cooperation of members and Delaware physicians, utilization has changed very little, he said.

Maybee said operating costs are not a factor in rate changes. Group Hospital Service, he said, managed to use only 6.6 per cent of its income for operating costs last year, while using 9.1 per cent to pay bills of its members and putting 2.3 per cent in reserve.

Maybee also announced details of the boost in benefits. "While the over-riding factor involved in the change in rates is the cost of hospital care, certain increases in benefits have been necessary to meet present day needs arising principally from changes in medical practice."

Nervous and mental coverage in Delaware hospitals will be more adequate.

Maternity care will be increased, and the $7 limit on accident coverage in the hospitals' emergency outpatient departments has been removed.

The Delaware Blue Cross Plan had 347,159 members at the end of August, about 70 per cent of the state's population.

Rates and benefit changes will not affect members in special groups, or those who have membership in Contracts 65-Limited, 65-Extended, and 65-National.

Former Teacher Mrs. Emma Kirk Succumbs At 89

A former teacher, Mrs. Emma D. Kirk, 89, of 310 Woodlawn Avenue, Newark, widow of John L. Kirk, died Oct. 13, in Wilmington General Hospital after a short illness.

A graduate of Shippensburg State Normal School in 1896, Mrs. Kirk taught school for seven years in Pennsylvania before coming to Delaware to live in 1916 near Bear. She has resided in Newark since 1920, and was first president and a charter member of the Three-in-One Home Demonstration Club.

Surviving are three sons, Samuel D. and James A. of Newark and John H. of Wilmington; two daughters, Mrs. Mary Maroney of Avondale, Pa., and Miss Bertha Kirk, at home; seven grandchildren; five great-grandchildren; and a sister, Miss May Dietz, Chester, Pa.

Funeral services were conducted Sunday afternoon at Ebenezer Methodist Church, Polly Drummond Hill, Newark, with interment in the adjoining cemetery.

Friends called Saturday night at the Robert T. Jones & Son Funeral Home, Newark.

In RS zoning, and action on Architect Richard P. Fox's proposal for a municipal building was deferred pending Councilman Chittenden's return.

At Coverdale's suggestion, Solicitor England is to seek city recovery of constable fees from cases heard before the local magistrate.

Proposed air conditioning of police cars was rejected with Chief Haussler's comments that gas mileage and car space would be reduced with such installation.

England ruled that the city "regrettably" cannot provide water for the new Little League diamond on Possum Park Road beyond the city limits with waiving of installation costs, but Doehliert said "there is a way." He said the Little League could make a request similar to requests approved for the Greater Newark Recreation Association.

Doehliert urged public explanation of reasons for electricity rate changes.

Wakefield cited the need to repair holes in Delaware and College avenues; Thomas requested control of weeds "that have grown into trees" along the B&O Railroad within the city limits; and Coverdale is to receive report at the next meeting on the state's meeting Casho Mill Road to avoid difficulty with proposed blocking of this road to serve resident Robert H. Osterloh with a driveway to his home.

Francis McCann in the audience urged that subdivision regulations be "gotten in order," and said that they were not being enforced. And Doehliert urged an audit to determine enforcement.

Announcement new rates and benefit changes Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Delaware effective January 1, 1966

Dear Member:

As you know, the cost of your Blue Cross and Blue Shield coverage directly reflects the cost of the benefits supplied to members. So, as hospital charges increase, Blue Cross rates must, of necessity, rise. Such is now the case.

Our last adjustment of rates was made on July 1, 1962. At that time, this increase was expected to cover the following two years. Thus, another rate increase would become necessary by July 1964. Fortunately, however, more careful use by our members enabled us to maintain the 1962 rates for an additional year and one-half. But now, new rates must go into effect January 1, 1966.

By the end of this year, the Plan will have drawn approximately $500,000 from its reserves to cover losses caused by the increased hospital charges which took place last January 1. And, the Plan will use even more than this when the recently announced adjustment in hospital charges takes effect. These dramatic increases in charges are estimated to cost approximately 34% more than the Plan was paying for a day of hospital care in 1962. Consequently, the Plan would also have faced a drastic rate increase were it not for the fact that the financial burden of providing hospital care for 20,000 individuals over 65 will be removed beginning July 1, 1966. Medicare, at its inception, will provide substantial savings for all Delaware Blue Cross and Blue Shield members.

While the overriding factor involved in the change in rates is the cost of hospital care, certain increases in benefits have been necessary to meet present-day needs arising principally from changes in medical practice. Nervous and mental coverage will be made more adequate. Maternity care will be increased, this being, in effect, a "keeping step" with the increases in hospital care. Our $7 limit on accident coverage in the hospitals' emergency outpatient departments has been removed. The age limit for enrollment of incapacitated child dependents has been removed so long as these children are unemployed and dependent upon their parents or guardians for support. As we have said, these changes are relatively minor in cost.

We in the Plan are proud indeed of our record over the past several years. The number of people who have been served, and the breadth of the service rendered have never been greater. But much of the success in the past, and that which we anticipate in the future, can be attributed to the cooperation of hospitals, doctors and members in making more careful use of the Plan's benefits. Thanks to this cooperation, what might otherwise have been a very large rate increase has been minimized.

You appreciate, I know, that with hospital costs as they now exist, Blue Cross and Blue Shield are not only the best buy, but an essential buy for your health protection.

Sincerely,

H. V. Maybee
Managing Director

4 hospitals hike rates

All four Wilmington general hospitals yesterday announced an increase of about $1 per day in average room charges, effective November 1, 1965.

The rate was taken in the face of rapidly mounting operating costs resulting from substantial increases in medical and other services, costs, medical supplies and other hospital expenses.

The charge, discussed by Dr. Gerald A. Barry, president of the Delaware Medical Society, in the Newark Post, said the hospitals' rates are not excessive in view of the fact that Delaware hospitals are not receiving the same level of service as other hospitals in the state.

Hospitals On Rate Boosts

From the News-Journal (Newark): "Reports that four Wilmington general hospitals are raising rates by $1 a day for average room charges, effective November 1, 1965, are being met with a mixture of surprise and understanding by the public. The rate was taken in the face of rapidly mounting operating costs resulting from substantial increases in medical and other services, costs, medical supplies and other hospital expenses."

Chrysler Aid Chief Cites Newspapers As Selling Points

Newspapers provide an unequalled opportunity to localize selling messages and talk to the consumer on his home ground, Chrysler Corporation's director of advertising said in Boston last Monday night.

"Chrysler Corporation believes newspaper advertising provides the local retail advertising — the where to buy — as the final link in a chain of advertising messages that will provoke a showroom visit, and hopefully a car sale," Richard E. Forbes, director of advertising said in Boston last Monday night.

About $18 million has been spent by Chrysler Corporation in each of the past five years for newspaper advertising, Forbes reported. The auto industry spent between $80 and $90 million annually during that period, he added.

Chrysler's newspaper spending pattern during the 1965 model year showed a change, Forbes reported, with factory-placed advertising decreasing and lineages placed by dealer advertising associations increasing.

"Our dealer groups spend about 60 per cent of their media dollars in newspapers. And they spent almost $20 million in newspapers during

Bob Hubbard, Dick Kelley Score TD's As Cole Colonials Upset Yellowjackets

Upset 20-13 by Coach Billy Cole's Colonials at New Castle last Saturday, Coach Bob Hoffman's Yellowjackets are still very much in the running for the Blue Hen Conference crown in sharing a 3-1 second place with William Penn behind the 4-0 Red Devils of Wilmington High School.

Wilmington handed William Penn its lone loss, and Newark was a crucial clash with the Devils coming up.

As Hoffman says, however, "we play 'em one at a time" and this Saturday the Yellowjackets play their homecoming game here at 1:30 p.m. with the conference champion Brandywine Bulldogs who have a 2-2 season record.

Co-Capt. Dick Fulton was stopped last Saturday from scoring a touchdown, but Newark's star halfback kicked an extra point to boost his season's total to 54, retaining the scoring lead in the state.

End Bobby Hubbard and Halfback Dick Kelley scored touchdowns last week, with Hubbard taking Quarterback Lou Stengari's pass for Newark against William Penn for a 55-yard scoring play in the first quarter.

Fulton kicked the point, and the Yellowjackets led 7-0 at the quarter.

Fullback Jim Early plunged three yards in the second quarter for a Colonial TD; Mitchell kicked the conversion; and it was 7-7 at the half.

The Yellowjackets moved out with a 13-7 lead when Kelley plunged for one yard and a touchdown in the third quarter, but the Colonials held a 14-13 edge at the end of the period after Tom Leonard took Ron Profit's pass for a 35-yard touchdown play, and Mitchell again converted.

Bob Burton Faces Comets With Annapolis Sailors

Newark's Bob Burton, who was turned down in a tryout with the Wilmington Comets, and now is a linebacker for the Annapolis Sailors, will play in Baynard Stadium this Saturday night to prove that the Comets should have signed him.

There also is a personal battle involved there. Burton stated at the time he was seeking a tryout with the Comets, that he could beat out Jim Keenan at his linebacker job.

Keenan, a starting line-backer with the Comets, will be out to prove that Burton was wrong.

Keenan and Burton played together at the University of Maryland.

BIG WIN!
Coach Dave Nelson's Fighting Blue Hens played one of the great ones last Saturday—a game that will long be remembered by Delaware fans, and one which the Villanova Wildcats will be happy to forget.

Playing one of the big league teams in the Wildcats, the Delaware Hens put on a major league performance to hold a 21-7 edge at the half. And with Villanova scoring a pair of third period touchdowns to tie the score, Delaware refused to play dead, but played football instead—kicked a story book field goal—and won the big day.

No pot of gold could have pleased Jim Hall much more than the 14½ in. rainbow he tangled with in a West Virginia trout stream near Franklin last weekend.

Jim, assistant director of the Greater Newark Recreation Association, caught the beautiful trout with a spinner—and Jim Hall's friend since boyhood—Jack Leesburg—bagged a wild trout while hunting in the same area.

At the mouth of Cabin John's Creek in the upper Chesapeake last Saturday, the Post's Harold Wilkins and a pair of juvenile sportsfishing companions, caught 10 pan-sized rock over the legal size limit, and some dozen more that were returned to swim and grow for another day.

Harold's 13-year-old son George, and 12-year-old nephew Wendell, shared in the pan rock fishing with bloodworms—and Wendell hooked the fish of the day.

Casting off to one side against his uncle's advice, Wendell's lure suddenly struck by something big and powerful that flashed astern of the boat in a sizzling semi-circular surge—and broke the line.

"A big rock, I think," Uncle Harold said with regret.

Far off over the golden salt marshes something startled the birds, and Delaware's brilliant blue autumn sky is suddenly smoky with skeins of ducks and geese. Close by, a hunting marsh hawk skims the grasses, and a snowy egret hides by a clump of reeds near the dike. The fresh-water ponds are almost invisible—the water is low this year—as floating flocks of geese cover the surface.

In the upland area, feeding geese gabble out of the car's path, and in a clearing among trees a dozen or more flickers have gathered for the flight south.

"In another week the birds will really start to come in. They're not many now," says Gordon Nightingale, manager of one of Delaware's wonders, the Bombay Hook National Wildlife Refuge.

Birdwatchers know Bombay Hook well, but it's also a wonderful discovery for any nature lover, for amateur photographers, and for just spending beautiful autumn hours outdoors.

The entrance is three miles east of Delaware Route 9, just north of Leipsic, about nine miles southeast of Smyrna, and less than an hour's drive from Newark. Signs on local roads make it easy to find the refuge headquarters and entrance.

Bombay Hook was established in 1937 by the Federal Government as part of the chain of waterfowl refuges along the Atlantic Flyway from the Gulf of Mexico to Canada, and is administered by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

Planned primarily as a refuge for migrating and wintering ducks and geese, it also is a haven for great numbers of land and shorebirds, with 303 species recorded on or near the refuge—and 251 of these are regular visitors. Most interesting are the great concentrations of various waterfowl, especially Canada geese, black ducks, mallards, and pintails in spring and fall. About 25,000 Canada geese have been counted at the refuge in recent seasons.

Many other creatures share the refuge. White-tailed deer live in the timbered areas and may often be seen in the refuge fields just before sunset.

Sharp-eyed visitors may catch glimpses of smaller mammals—red and gray foxes, raccoons, opossums, squirrels, rabbits, skunks, and woodchucks. Many muskrats are trapped in the salt marshes each winter.

Much may be seen from a car, and visitors may use all of the roads within the 16,000 acres. It is even more rewarding to stroll the nature trails, woodlands, and field borders. The refuge is open from dawn until dusk; there is a picnic area; and maps and literature are available at the information office.

For the hunter, Bombay Hook provides wonderful opportunities at this time of year. Deer may be hunted with bow and arrow on the first four Saturdays in October.

During the duck season, government-built blinds are available in the south public hunting area, with headquarters at Port Mahon.

The west public hunting area, reached from refuge headquarters, will be open Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Saturdays from sunrise until noon during the goose hunting season. Reservations must be made for blinds.

For historians, the Delaware Public Archives Commission is restoring the Allee House, an early 18th-century brick farmhouse on Dutch Neck road in the refuge, and expects to open it to visitors next year.

National Retriever Club field trials will be held at Bombay Hook next month.

The flame of autumn foliage—the gold of the salt marshes—sparkling glimpses of blue Delaware Bay and dark pool waters—all these make Bombay Hook a refuge for man as well as for wildfowl. It's a wonder to discover in wonderful Delaware, the State Development Department advises—and well said!

Lazarski Scores 66-Yd. Touchdown For Chick Victory

Delaware's undefeated freshman football team won its second straight game by defeating Lafayette 6-0 last Friday at Frazer Field on Jim Lazarski's 66-yard third-period touchdown.

The Blue Chicks' offense was stalled time and time again until Lazarski, native of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., broke away for his long TD run.

The winner's defense was brilliant, preventing the Leopards from crossing their 40-yard line.

Chuck McCallion, former De La Warr High quarterback, intercepted three passes for Coach Jimmy Flynn's Blue Chicks.

It was a costly Delaware victory, as Linebacker Bill Laughlin of Pittsburgh dislocated a shoulder and will be out for the rest of the season, while Halfback John Baumann of Royal Oak, Mich., suffered a severe rib injury and will be out indefinitely.

Earlier in the week, Halfback Jack Holland of Netcong, N. J., fractured a leg in practice and is through for the year.

Flynn's fresh face Bordentown Prep here at home this Friday at 4 p.m.

Jackets, Vikings Suffer Setbacks In Cross Country

Christiania's Vikings were defeated 25-23 by DeLaWarr, and Newark High School's Yellowjackets suffered their eighth straight setback with a 17-12 loss to William Penn in cross country meets yesterday afternoon in Rockford Park.

John Curtis of Christiania led the field home, with Vikings Tim Herman, Monte Baldwin, and Jerry McCarns taking 4th, 6th, and 10th places.

Co-Capt. Mark Hill finished fourth for Newark against the Colonials, with Bill Barb and Bruce Jones of the Yellowjackets taking 8th and 10th places.

Christiania is 3-4, and Newark 8-0 for the season.

Hens Escape Serious Injury With Upset Of Wildcats; Face Lehigh This Saturday

Delaware's football team came through its upset 24-21 victory over Villanova without any serious injuries.

"We got the normal bumps and bruises," Coach Dave Nelson said, "but we should have everybody ready by Saturday."

Not quite! It was disclosed this morning that Hero Mike Zauzig, who kicked the 30-yard and winning field goal in the final period, suffered separation of bones in his left leg, and may be out for the season.

The 3-1 Blue Hens travel to Bethlehem, Pa., to meet the 0-4 Lehigh Engineers in a Middle Atlantic Conference game this Saturday at 1:30 p.m.

The Hens have wins over Gettysburg, Lafayette and Villanova after a season-opening loss to Hofstra.

Crusaders Defeat Vet Champs 20-19 To Take 1st Place

In senior division play, the Crusaders edged the VFW champions 20-19 last Sunday to take a 3-0 first place in the Capitol Trail Junior Football League, and Stanton stopped the Green Raiders 13-0.

The Crusaders scored first with a pass from Steve Ferguson to Paul Watson; Richard Arimoto scored for the Vets on a 35-yard romp and the Vets took the lead with Ronnie Jackson's 18-yard touchdown.

The Crusaders went ahead after Steve Ferguson's one-yard TD plunge and Watson's reception of Ferguson's 60-yard touchdown pass, and Earl Rosado's conversion made the difference.

Arimoto drove five yards for the final VFW touchdown.

In Stanton's win over the Raiders, Bill Eubank picked up a fumble and ran 35 yards for a touchdown, and Kent Norris scored the second on a 60-yard pass play.

In the junior division, the VFW stopped the Crusaders 18-6 with Don McElwee running five and seven yards for two TD's, and Jon Bidison rambling for a 20-yard score.

Robert Turnerberger intercepted a VFW pass and ran 60 yards for the Crusader touchdown.

Stanton stopped the Raiders 27-0 with James Louie, Bill Rumph, Greg Dambach, and Darrell Dunn scoring touchdowns, and Dambach running for three extra points.

The Crusaders face Stanton at Kells Avenue, and the Green Raiders meet Central at Stanton this Sunday at 1:30 p.m.

Comet GM Stern Cites Big League Bid For Saunders

Arnold Saunders, split end for the Wilmington Comets, and former All-State star for the Newark High School Yellowjackets, "should have a good shot at the big leagues in the next two years," General Manager Marty Stern of the North American Football League Comets said in addressing last Monday's luncheon meeting of the Newark Touchdown Club.

Stern cited Saunders as the youngest player on the Comet roster which he said includes two types of football athletes — "those who just like to pay football, and those who want to move up" in professional class.

Wally Hill, former Newark resident and tanker for Southern Methodist, was named the "outstanding" football player in the Armed Services," Stern said of the Comet halfback, who served in the U. S. Air Force.

Stern expressed optimism for the future of the Comets and the league which includes four teams in each of two divisions, and plans for five-team divisions.

Wilmington leads the league in attendance with their games at Baynard Stadium, Stern said, averaging crowds of 4,500.

Concerning former Delaware Halfback Mike Brown, the Comet GM said Brown has the speed and size, but lacks the moves for a starting role at present.

The Comets practice four nights a week in 2½-hour sessions at Ridley Township, Pa., and 40 squad members share in a $3,000 weekly player payroll.

"No one on the Comets is being paid by a big league club," Stern said, expressing regret with no "taxi" squad from the assigned Philadelphia Eagles. Players sent to a minor league for seasoning are paid $200 per week by the major club.

The second place Comets play their final home game of the season this Saturday in Wilmington against the first place Annapolis Sailors.

Vikings Face Winless Lions For Chance To Leave Georgetown With Setback Tie

Coach Bill Horney's Christiania High School griders face a last chance this Saturday to leave Georgetown High tied with a 21-game losing streak record for the state, as the Vikings meet winless DeLaWarr at 1:30 p.m. on the Lions' field.

Christiania has had some near wins over the past three seasons—the entire football history of the new high school in the Newark district—but that first victory has been just out of reach. This Saturday may be the big day. Dickinson (2-1-1) walloped DeLaWarr 27-0 last week.

Roger Hunt, Greg Kracher, Gray, Spinks, Belcher and Rust played ends; Boyer, Garry Lloyd, Tom Mauriello, Chuck Garber and Al
