Dr. Abrams' Talk "Complete Success"

Second of Series Meets With Student Approval

Speaking before a smaller, but more satisfied audience than last week, Dr. Ray H. Abrams of the Sociology Department of the University of Pennsylvania spoke on "The Problems of Dating and Courtship" in the second of the marriage lectures. With the added advantage of "sixteen or eighteen years" of wedlock behind him, the doctor proved to be both a clever and amusing speaker. Obviously denying the existence of the hypocritical veneer of modesty, Dr. Abrams called "a spade a spade."

In comparing the two contemporary generations and their methods of dating the speaker projected the idea that the problem of "what to do about mother" is no longer as applicable today as it was yesterday. With the parking in cars more or less sanctioned, and in some cases even protected by the police, the problem is aptly handled both as a way to be "alone" and as a curtailment of sex crimes.

"There are," Dr. Abrams said, "approximately five - thousand couples being married a year with the aid of over four-hundred love-lorn agencies in the United States." He mentioned such periodicals as "The Saturday Review of Literature" which carry lonely-hearts columns. This condition, he suggested, is due, primarily, to the creation in America of a very strong sex stimulation.

With a good deal of humor the doctor, while speaking on the subject of cosmetics and beauty parlors, said, "A girl does everything in the world to look like she

Father O'Neill, a graduate of Catholic University, is presently the director of athletics at the Salesianum School. In this capacity he has become well known for the quality of basketball and football teams he has fielded.

Judge Picked For Writing Contest

Mr. George Henry, principal of the Dover High School and an eminent writer in the field of education, will be one of the three judges for the Creative Writing Contest sponsored by the English Department of the University in commemoration of the annual Festival of the Arts, which is held each spring throughout the United States.

Noted for his long service as a principal and teacher of English, Mr. Henry reached national prominence last month when an educational article, entitled "Can Your Child Really Read?", started a controversy among parents and educators that is still reverberating in the public press. The article, published originally in the February issue of Harper's magazine, has been reprinted in other periodicals, including Time magazine, which printed several excerpts.

The contest, which the English Department plans to develop into an annual literary enterprise, is open to all undergraduate students. The contributions may represent any type of fiction or non-fiction, since the three prizes offered by the department will be awarded on the basis of the quality of the entries, rather than the class of writing they exemplify. All contributions should be sent in triplicate copy, with the author's name on the outside cover instead of on the manuscript, to Mrs. Sara B. Rogers, chairman of the contest committee.

Friday, April 5, is the deadline for the acceptance of entries. The awards will be presented to the three winners at a special assembly program in May, during the Arts Festival. The other judges for the contest will be announced in the near future.

Attention Timberwolves

Lt. Col. Robert C. Ingalls, formerly of the 104th Division Artillery, at a recent inspection of the local R. O. T. C. - A. S. T. R. P. posts announced that former members of the 104th Infantry Division are forming a veterans organization to be known as the 104th Timberwolf Association. Any former member of the 104th Division is eligible for membership. Interested persons may contact Mr. Armin Kunde, 4345 Torwood Ave., Cleveland, Ohio, for further information.

ASME to Meet This Monday

Roger Fulling to Speak

An open meeting of the student branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers at the University of Delaware will be held at 7:00 p. m. in Room 308, Evans Hall on Monday, March 25.

The principle speaker at the meeting will be Roger W. Fulling, a graduate of the University of Delaware in 1932, who now is special assistant in the Department of Industrial Engineering of the DuPont Company.

The topic on which Mr. Fulling will speak is "What Industry Expects of a College Graduate."

John Ott, president of the student Government Association, as well as president of the ASME, will serve as chairman at the meeting.

Zionist Expresses Views in Assembly

Rabbi Unger Discusses Palestine Issue

Rabbi Jerome Unger, field director of the Committee on Unity for Palestine, presented the Zionist point of view with respect to Palestine at College Hour on Thursday, March 14. This was the second in a series of two lectures on Palestine. The first was given by Miss Nejla Izzeddin, who presented the Arab point of view.

The major problem, as pointed out by Rabbi Unger is not that of the Jews and Arabs living in Palestine, but of the Jews in that country and the Arab landowners. The heads of the Arab people have made their vast territories into veritable feudal holds. The control of Palestine by the Jewish population would throw this off balance, for they have raised the standard of living by building farms, harbors, roads, factories, hospitals, clinics, schools, and universities. They live and work

R. O. T. C. TO RETURN TO DELAWARE NEXT FALL

Tau Beta Pi To Hold Initiation

Delaware Alpha chapter of Tau Beta Pi, honorary engineering fraternity, will hold an initiation and banquet in the Hob Tea Room, Wilmington, on Friday, April 26, beginning at 6 p. m.

Dr. Claude L. Benner, vice-president of the Continental American Life Insurance Company, in Wilmington, and a member of the graduate school faculty at the University of Pennsylvania, will be the principle speaker. Prior to 1929, Dr. Benner was for several years head of the Department of Economics at the University of Delaware.

Also attending the initiation and banquet will be Charles Hill Spencer, of Washington, D. C., National President of Tau Beta Pi. He will be accompanied by A. G. Allen, National vice-president of the fraternity and a member of the School of Engineering faculty at the University of Maryland.

The list of men to be initiated into this honorary engineering fraternity is to be announced later, it was stated.

All members of Tau Beta Pi are invited to attend this meeting but reservations must be made in advance through Thomas Griffin, secretary of Delaware Alpha Chapter at the University of Delaware.

Inspecting Team Drafts For Reactivation

An inspection team consisting of Lt. Col. Robert C. Ingalls and Capt. Gaines Gwathmey representing the First Army with headquarters at Ft. Bragg, N. C., visited the University of Delaware on March 11 in connection with the drafting of plans for expanding Corps and reactivating an ad-hoc Reserve Officers Training vanced R. O. T. C. Unit at the University next fall.

Accompanying the inspecting officers was Lt. Col. Charles O. Buckland of the Adjutant General's Department representing the Second Service Command at Governor's Island, New York.

The purpose of the inspection team was to study the facilities, equipment, course of instruction, and broad training program as they now exist so that the size and scope of future military training here may be determined.

The inspecting officers were also interested in determining the qualifications of the officers enlisted men now assigned to duty at the University and the wishes of University authorities with respect to future R. O. T. C. programs and activities.

Colonel Ingalls and Captain Gwathmey will make similar tours of inspection at approximately 130 institutions along the Atlantic Seaboard, all of which are under the jurisdiction of the First Army.

Women's Affairs Committee Meets

On Thursday, March 14, Lucy Rumpstich presided over a meeting of the Women's Affairs Committee at University Hall to draw up a set of permanent rules for Freshmen men and women.

Starting in September, all new freshmen will arrive on campus one week before school begins. At this time they will be issued, and requested to have with them at all times, the following articles:

1. Freshman hat, consisting of a blue and gold beanie.
2. Button with name and year.
3. Handbook which will be a replica of the old one but containing the new rules.

Such privileges as sitting on the wall and cutting campus will be taboo and restricted to upperclassmen. During the week Freshmen will hear talks given by the Deans of the different schools and by the officers of the S. G. A. An informal dance, held the night before school opens, will end the week.

It was decided that the activities of Hell Week would also be a joint affair to be supervised by sophomore men and women, who will make up plans for initiation and submit them to the Deans and the S. G. A. for approval. After careful consideration, the general consensus of opinion was that Hell Week must in one way differ for men and women, namely, in attire. The traditional football game and Freshman Formal will officially bring this week to a close.

When all the rules concerning new Freshmen have been completed, they will be submitted to Deans Crawford and Daugherty for approval.

Curtain Call

The curtain rises at 8:15 p. m. tomorrow night on the first act of Thornton Wilder's Pulitzer Prize Play, The Skin of Our Teeth. All the first nighters will be at Mitchell Hall at this time to see this E-52 Players production, and there will be a second performance on Friday night, March 22. Student tickets are free of charge.

Inter-Fraternity Informal

This Saturday night at 8:30 o'clock, the Inter-Fraternity Informal Dance will be held in the Women's College Gym.

The chaperones for the evening will be Dr. and Mrs. Rees, Mr. and Mrs. William Martin, Doc Blumberg, Mr. and Mrs. Jack McDowell, and Dr. and Mrs. Palmer. The Deans of both schools have also been cordially invited.

The music for the dance will be provided by the West Chester State Teachers Band and all fraternity men and their girls are invited.

Is Honor On The Decline?

The REVIEW, "an independent newspaper," has adhered to one of the primary ideals of a human society, namely, truthfulness.

In the issue of March 6, an article pertaining to a Student Union contains a very significant statement. It is "with the approval of the S. G. A." Words contained in this article were the truth. Permission had been granted by the President of the S. G. A. to the Editor of the REVIEW, in an interview, to put into effect plans for a Student Union. The President of the S. G. A. had as much authority to grant this permission as the heads of two committees, who by a few words, decided the Honor System is no longer desirable here at Delaware. Ordinarily when two people do business in an honorable way, no signed statements are required. Consequently there is no such statement as a record. This being the case, the foregoing statements will naturally be denied.

Another article appearing as a notice, stated the time and place of future S. G. A. meetings. This also was the truth, but for some unpublished reason the next meeting was secretly held one day ahead of time. The students demand to know what their representatives are deciding. To follow a regular schedule of meetings and post a copy of the minutes of each meeting, as exemplified by the former Women's Student Council, will do much to restore confidence in our elected leaders.

Misunderstandings afflict people in all walks of life. Everyone can make a mistake. It is desirable that in the future all students in all their dealings will display the dignity that should be a distinguishing characteristic of every college student.

Student Petition Backs Review

The wave of criticism against the Student Government reached a climax during the past week, as Joe (and Jane) College voiced a resounding reply to the S. G. A.'s "Formal Protest" published in the last issue of the REVIEW. Fed up with what many termed "the high-handed policies" of the Student Government, the students formulated a protest of their own—a petition addressed to John Ott, president of the S. G. A. and signed by an overwhelming majority of the resident students.

The S. G. A.'s original protest criticized the REVIEW'S attempt to open the Commuters' Room in Robinson Hall as temporary Student Union. It accused the REVIEW of "meddling" in matters outside its sphere of activities.

The answering petitions gave unqualified support to the REVIEW'S actions and demanded a retraction of the S. G. A. protest. It accused the Student Government of ignoring the interests and desires of the student body, and of unnecessary delay in arranging for a Student Union Building.

The petition reads as follows: "To John Ott, President S. G. A. Henry L. Maxwell, Chairman Student Publication Committee

As students of the University of Delaware and members of the Student Government Association, we wish to express our opinions in regard to establishing a Student Union Building—temporary or otherwise.

First, we are completely in favor of a Student Union Building. We feel that such a place is necessary and should be set up as quickly as possible, even if this means by passing of Committees and elimination of red tape.

Second, we feel that the opinions stated above are shared by a majority of the members of the student body, and, consequently, that they should be considered in the actions taken by our duly elected representatives.

Third, we feel that it is a recognized duty of any newspaper to fight for improvements that will be of general benefit to the majority of its readers. Consequently, we believe that the members of the REVIEW staff were performing a journalistic duty in attempting to set up a temporary Student Union Building, and that they should be praised rather than censured for their efforts.

Accordingly, we demand that our representatives in the S. G. A. withdraw their formal protest against the REVIEW, and that in the future they devote more of their time and energy to working for the benefit of the student body, and less of their time and energy to hindering the efforts of independent groups who are working for the same benefits."

Old College Speaks

Food being served in old college is from an Army menu. Can a sensible explanation be given why over 400 men have to submit to 30 A. S. T. P. fellows and eat Army chow? I can assure you the vet is getting tired of eating out of the same stew pot for the past three or four years. When we were given that freedom certificate we were under the impression we were out from under the Army's thumb, but now we find that same joker in Washington is telling us what we will have for tomorrow's lunch.

I have eaten in old college (mess hall) since enrolling in February every meal since breakfast and week-end meals and have as yet to be served coffee. Milk con half a pint at a time—grade B. Someone is always standing guard ready to promptly break your arm if you dare reach for a second bottle. On some lucky days we have a half pint for lunch and another for dinner, but believe me this is rare. We usually have tea.

There are not enough benches to seat everyone at one time, but fortunately by the time the last few get in the first few are leaving so the tables can be reused. If the fellow ahead of you has spilt beans and tea you eat in a puddle of beans and tea. As the situation stands now we have all the disadvantages of having to eat from a Army prepared menu, off Army benches, out of metal trays; having to sweat out a chow line and cleaning off our trays when finished plus all the disadvantages of having the food prepared by a civilian who can't get butter, sugar for coffee, nor coffee and someone who is working for a profit and refuses to give you all you want of what they do have.

Its pretty sad. Though the rumor has it that the food will improve in April with the leaving of the A. S. T. P., these meals we have had for the first couple months are leaving a bad taste in my mouth.

Suggestion of the Week: That someone paint a large sign on the outside of the library door reading PUSH.

Prediction of the Week: The drunk standing on the corner singing "Amapola" is going to get wet—when the dog walks by.

NOTICE

There will be a Sophomore-Junior class meeting on Thursday, March 21, at 12:45 p. m., to elect co-chairman for the Junior Prom which will be held May 11.

At a meeting held in Mitchell Hall the Freshman class elected Miss Joanne Marshall and Mr. Wayne Grier to serve as a committee to make plans and necessary arrangements for the Freshman dance to be held later on this term.

The Weather Angle— A Weekly Forecast

March 20th will be cold with a low of 20 degrees. March 21-22 will have a light snow which will change to rain as the wind changes from northeast to easterly and thence to south.

March 23rd will be clearing with rising temperatures. A warm, pleasant period will prevail from the 24-27th, yielding a maximum temperature of 75 degrees on the 25th.

Dear Editor:

As a member of the S. G. A. I would like to protest against the strange attitude of our representatives in the student government toward the people they are supposed to represent. Apparently these officers think that all we are entitled to know about their meetings is the final decision reached on the few subjects they care to tell us about. This secrecy is extremely distasteful to me, as was the occasion last week when an S. G. A. meeting which was to be open to the student body was called for 4:30 Tuesday afternoon, but was held at 7:00 Monday night. Only when such practices are discontinued, and all secrecy abolished will we know just what does go on behind the scenes in the S. G. A.

Certainly if our elected officers are acting in our best interests, they have no need for such secrecy, and if they are not acting in our interests then we want to know that too. It's now up to the students to decide whether they want to be represented or ruled, for only through their protests can the present conditions be improved, and true representation for all students be brought about.

Sincerely

John A. Rothrock

An Open Letter to The S. G. A.

In line with Mr. Ott's request for suggestions as to a solution to the extreme unrest among the students in regard to the administration of the S. G. A., I suggest that a by-law be incorporated with the association to the affect that meetings be held, say every four to six weeks, which will be open to the entire membership of the association.

The meetings would be held in an assembly period when everyone is free to attend, and notice of the meeting dates would be given in the REVIEW the preceding week. Mr. Loudis and Mr. Bohning, faculty members in charge of assemblies, have assured me that such meetings could be worked into the assembly schedule.

Such a by-law as this would be in line with practices of such organizations and would afford a time at which the Treasurer's report could be heard as well as reports from the various committees; the students would then know just what is going on and could make suggestions in the form of motions to be voted on and decided.

Any dis-knowledge of associations activities would then seem to rest on the student members themselves, and such articles on S. G. A. administration as those appearing in the March fourth issue of the REVIEW would be eliminated.

Sincerely yours,
Charles W. Stockly.

New Column To Appear Soon

"GRIPES," a new column to be fashioned after the B-Bag of "Stars and Stripes," will make its appearance in the REVIEW as soon as enough GRIPES are received. Any suggestions, questions, compliments, adverse compliments, requests for information of a general nature and concerning the welfare of the University and Student body will be published. The following rules will have to be followed for publication.

Personal grudges will not be accepted.

All letters will have to be signed, but on the writer's request the signature will be withheld from the published letter.

All letters will have to be acceptable in style and vocabulary and must conform to the standards of a college newspaper.

Letters should be sent to Box 482 University Hall.

You are talking about these things all the time, so let's get 'em in print.

doesn't.—And the men love it." Emphasizing the need for a better type of sex education before marriage he suggested that the women remember that men are more easily stimulated than they are.

Concluding his lecture, Dr. Abrams, answered any question that was asked of him. Foremost among the queries was the epic, "Just what do you consider petting?"

"No dictionary," he replied, "gives the answer. My interpretation would be—a degree of familiarity."

From all available sources it is believed that this lecture was just what many students have been waiting for. It has answered many of the questions that have been interminably cropping up. The only sorry thing was that it was too bad that there were not more of the student body there. However, with the apparent success of the second lecture it is believed that the third one will find a larger group present.

Music Assembly

On Thursday, March 21, at 11 a. m., in Mitchell Hall, the Music Department will present another in the series of music assemblies which are under the direction of Mr. Loudis and Miss Short. This program will consist of music rendered by both students and by an outside guest.

Mrs. Kurt Wohl will open the assembly with several piano selections. Mrs. Wohl is the wife of Dr. Kurt Wohl of the Department of Chemical Engineering, both of whom are newcomers to the campus. This will be a splendid opportunity for all students to hear some exceptionally fine music. Mrs. Wohl is a former student of Egon Petri, artist and pianist who appeared at the most recent of the concert series. Her program will consist of Scherzo in C Sharp Minor by Chopin, and the 11th Rhapsody by Liszt.

Following this portion of the program there will be community singing. The Choral and Singing groups of the campus will join with the students in singing a large variety of songs. It is hoped that this community singing will encourage group singing at other times and lead to a real "singing campus."

All students of the University are urged to attend this assembly. It is a rare opportunity to hear a fine pianist and to participate in group singing within the same hour.

Attention Crooners!

The Music Department is badly in need of more students, especially men, to sing in a University Choral group. You need not be a Nelson Eddy or Lauritz Melchior to be eligible to sing in this group. All one needs is to be able to carry a tune with reasonable facility. Of course, it helps if you can read notes a little bit. But this is not essential as sight reading is gained by practice.

A very interesting future program of choral music is being planned by the ones in charge. It contains such things as arrangements by Fred Waring of many different types of American Music from the classics to the modern popular numbers. It is certain that a quite enjoyable experience in Music can be had by most anyone who is interested in joining this group. Practices are held every Monday night from 7 to 9 p. m. in the Music Building.

Alumnae Notes

Lt. Adelta Dawson, U. S. N. R., '40, was recently released from the Navy in Hawaii. For about a year she has been stationed at a Communications Center there. Prior to that time she was located at a center in Miami, Florida, after receiving her officer's training at Smith College, Northampton, Massachusetts, in 1943. She has now gone to Tokyo, Japan, where she will serve as a civilian with the United States Army, assigned to work similar to that which she was doing in the Navy.

Lt. Cecelia E. Osowski, X-'29, who has served in the United States Navy Nurse Corps since February, 1943, was recently released from the service in Washington, D. C. From December, 1943, to July, 1945, she was stationed at the Base Hospital, Oahu, Hawaii. During the fall and winter, she has been a member of the staff of the U. S. Naval Hospital, Bainbridge, Maryland.

Theta Chi News

Theta Chi held its annual election of officers up on Quality Hill last week. Frank (Snookums) Wilkins was reelected president, and the shylock of them all, Russ Rowland, was reelected treasurer. Frank Thomas and Hugh George were elected to the positions of vice-president and secretary, respectively.

Plans were made to have a gala time at the Theta Chi convention, which is to be held at Drexel Institute on April 13; and a tentative date was set for the traditional Bowery Ball. Guess which date it is.

This fraternity is expected to turn-out en masse to witness the debut of Harry "It's Cold" Huxford as Freddy in the coming dramatic production. He will be prompted by the Honorable Ozark, F. Wilburforce Wilkins.

U. of D. Enters Bridge Tournament

The University of Delaware will take part in the 4th annual inter-collegiate bridge tournament to be played off on April 26 and 27, it was announced by Dean Daugherty yesterday.

The tournament finals to be held at the Ritz arlton Hotel in New York will be composed of students from colleges throughout the United States selected on the basis of bridge-playing ability.

First, a team of eight players will be chosen from each college participating. Then, this group of eight will be sent 18 bridge "hands" by a group of bridge specialists in New York who are sponsoring the contest. The "hands" of bridge will then be sent back to New York to be graded.

Two pairs of players will be selected from each of several regions throughout the country. Delaware is in Region 4 which also takes in New Jersey, Maryland, and the District of Columbia. No College is allowed more than 1 pair of players to enter the finals in New York.

There will be a meeting of all those interested probably sometime next week. Watch the bulletin boards for further announcements!

Home Economics News

Miss Mary Lynch, managing editor of the magazine "Modern Miss," will speak to the Home Economics Club on Thursday, March 21, at 4:15 p. m., in the Home Management House. Miss Lynch's topic will be "The Joys of Teaching." Refreshments will be served to the group. The committee in charge of the meeting consists of Peggy Reynolds, Eleanor Robie, Jewel Horsey and Hannah Parsons.

The National Victory Collection of Canned Food for Overseas Relief is being sponsored throughout the week of March 25 through the 30th. The purpose of the collection is to secure as many cans of food as possible throughout the United States to be sent overseas for the relief of the people who have been struck by the horrors of war. These people need relief now more than ever. The Home Economics Club is joining in this drive but it appears more satisfactory to collect money rather than canned goods. Everyone is asked to contribute and your 15 cents or more will buy a can of food which will be greatly appreciated by those less fortunate than you. Give whatever you can but don't neglect to give.

Sig Ep News

During the intermission of the dance last Saturday night, a party was held at the Sig Ep House for members and their dates. Punch and cookies were served for those who wanted to refuel between halves. The chaparones were Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Levis.

Lots of old brothers down last week to visit the house and campus, including Nick Judge, Albie Tigani, Charlie Miller, Stew Ashby, Harold Burdick and Harkie Burns. Harkie expects to trade O. D.'s for "civvies" in a couple of months and will return to U. of D. Another Sig Ep, Horace Ginn, an Ensign in the Naval Air Corps, has been dropping down every week-end lately "to see the boys"—he sez, but spends most of his time with a certain blonde up Quality Hill way.

Some of you old men on campus will remember Roland Reed, alias "The Deacon." A recent communique from him in Japan reveals that he should be back in circulation come next September.

together with the Palestinian Arabs, to whom they offer advantages such as the free clinics.

The reason for choosing Palestine as a refuge for the more than a million Jews left in Europe is that the Jews seek to be in a land which will be theirs, one where they will not be subject to oppression, declassification or total extermination. They are not certain of security in America, and, a subject of difference between Rabbi Unger and Miss Izze-din, would not want to seek refuge in South America.

Before 1930 there were approximately fifteen million Jews in the world. Now there are under ten million. Almost six million were ruthlessly destroyed by Hitler between those years. The Germans were clever in destroying the youngest generation, which means that in another twenty-five years there will be comparatively few in the older generation.

The Arabs have vast territories in the Middle East. Palestine, a land of only ten thousand square miles, is only a fraction of these lands. In 1920 there were only a half million Arabs in Palestine. Since the Jews began the development of that country, the number of Arabs has increased to 1,350,000. The Arabs, subjected by rule of Arab leaders in other countries, found a new lease on life in Palestine, new opportunities, and better living conditions.

Ward, charter member at the University of Utah; and Francis Owens.

The undergraduates who received the "Five Armed Star" were: Wayne Grier, Lowell Ward, Joseph McVey, Albert Northwood, Richard Wolf, George Wolf, James Mays, James Longacre, Jack Kinter, William Maloney, Edward Maloney, William Bodley, David Scott, Robert Eissner, Edward Parvis, and Jack Coyle. Ward and McVey were pinned by their fathers, while Grier was pinned by his brother, George. Wayne, incidentally, is the tenth Grier to become a member of the Delaware chapter of Sigma Nu.

Following the pinning ceremony, Brother Cherpak congratulated the new members on their achievement, and the chapter on reaching the prewar strength of thirty-five collegiate members.

Proudly sporting their newly acquired emblems of honor, the new brothers celebrated the occasion at a house party that evening, and at the informal bridge and indoor picnic session on Sunday. This first Sunday social went off very successfully, and leaves the SN's with bright hopes for future week-ends. Dean Crawford and Lt. Art Millman ably chaperoned the gathering, if such a word must be used.

When the next house party comes around, additional entertainment has been insured, in the form of that pair of Wolves, George and Dick, more popularly known as the "Lakeside Duet." Truly, it will be an event worth seeing and hearing.

Before going into Mitchell Hall to watch a costume rehearsal of S. O. O. T., I had to stop and listen to Bill Colonna, out on the steps, practicing his trumpet calls for the Chairman of Sound Effects, Nancy McQuaid. The boy is really good, and since I am very partial to the sound of a sweet trumpet, it was with great reluctance that I went inside.

In the lobby I was met with the very refreshing sight of golden haired Ann Scannell flitting about in a white skirt and middy blouse. She didn't look over twelve years old, but I guess she must be. Ann's home is in dear old Wilmington, and she is a graduate of Ursuline Academy. Naturally she was very active in dramatics there; while at Delaware she has appeared in "The Cradle Song," and "The Christmas Pageant of '44". You will see her as the daughter, Gladys, in the coming production of S. O. O. T.

After hearing all about the colossal problems confronting the Production Staff from Production Manager Astrid Delitzsch, I thought I had better get acquainted with Jim Riley who has been so ably solving many of these difficulties in his capacity of Stage Manager. Sure enough, there he was sweating it out over a drawing board down in the basement with bloodshot eyes and several millimeters of beard. He is the boy who has to supervise the technical end of the show, see that the set gets built, etc., etc. To keep Jimmy company were Rosamund Foster, Lila Baker, and Roberta Anderson, industriously wallowing in paint as they decorated scenery. I understand there was a little trouble in that department during the afternoon when the glue got mixed up with the paint powder, but, I guess, that's all in a days work.

Going upstairs I waited backstage to catch Adele Flanzer who plays the part of the Fortune Teller. She is not only an active member of the Makeup Committee, but has appeared in the "Cradle Song," "The Christmas Pageant," and "I'm a Fool."

I hope the foregoing information is correct because it was a little hard to hear over the voices of the actors on the stage, and the banging of hammers in the rear. The hammer banger turned out to be little Bob Herold from Atlantic City who takes the part of the Chair Pusher as well as the Telegraph boy. You'll like his acting.

About this time I decided to go out front and see what was going on on the stage. It was really worth seeing too. The night was warm and humid, but darned if people weren't huddling around on the stage, and shivering as if it were the Ice Age or something. I was beginning to feel rather chilly myself until Mr. Antrobus burst in that queer looking opening that's supposed to be a door, all dressed up in a raccoon coat. Whew!!

After the first act was over, Dr. Kase called the cast on stage to give his criticisms, but all of a sudden, calamity really did descend, and it wasn't in the script either. As a matter of fact it was Layton Mabrey who very ungracefully sat down hard on the floor wildly clutching a huge vase, and nearly taking all the scenery with him. Fortunately, no one was killed.

Unique Student Gov't. Devised Faculty Granted Right Of Campus Suffrage

After months of study and work, faculty and student groups of North Carolina State College have established a new type of Campus government and Honor System. Educators here agree that the government based upon a new constitution is "no doubt unique among American colleges in comprehensiveness, logical simplicity, and potential promise."

Prof. W. N. Hicks, head of the State College Department of Ethics and Religion and leader of the faculty group which worked with the students in the formulation of the new governmental unit, explaining the philosophy, principles, and organization of the new setup emphasized that the impact of college upon the boy or girl is far more than classroom lectures, formal courses, and academic processions. It is student organizations, social functions, dormitory life, the attitude of teachers, and a wide and exciting assortment of so-called extra-curricular activities.

"The student government organization on the American college or university campus is recognized today as the indispensable and capstone extra-curricular activity. Both faculty and administration realize today that the complex life and manifold activities of the modern college or university campus, with concern for housing, health, social, recreational, and religious needs, in addition to things academic, add up to something of such fundamental significance that the mere academic becomes abortive in nature without these other things as base and foundation. These manifold campus activities must be handled democratically, if they are to be handled best . . ." Prof. Hicks declares.

"The faculty here has been granted the right of campus suffrage, active membership on the Council of Campus Government, and representation on the departmental and school honor committees. However, there is no intention that the faculty shall be allowed to control the campus government by weight of professional authority alone; therefore, faculty representation has been limited in such a way as to keep the Campus Government and

Home Ec's Sponsor "Victory Food Collection"

This is the week that the Home Economics Club has set for the "Victory Food Collection" drive to be held here on campus. The purpose of this drive is to help the starving families overseas to survive through the coming year. Because of seasonal as well as economic reasons, food production in Europe is lower this year than at any time during the war. These families are facing serious reconstruction problems and greatly need our help.

Contributions to the "Victory Food Collection" may take either of two forms: actual cans of food or money with which to buy canned food. When the contributions take the form of money the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration act as the purchasing agent. No deductions are made from the contribution for operating costs. All expenses involved in buying and shipping the food are paid by UNRRA. Every cent of the contribution goes entirely for the purchase of additional supplies. For convenience the Home Economics Club is sponsoring the drive by money contributions.

During the week of March 25-29, cans will be placed in various buildings on campus in order that students, faculty, and employees may make their contributions. The women's dorms will be canvassed by members of the Home Economics Club. The quota set for each student is 15 cents. LET'S GIVE OUR HELP AND PUT THIS DRIVE OVER.

Through the Smoke

Ann Furth

Dottie Davis, Dottie Long and Barbara Mitchell just came in to celebrate and the girls really have something to celebrate, for they're members of the freshman girls' basketball team which just defeated the girls from down Dover way at Wesley Junior College. They're also part of a large group on campus asking for intercollegiate sports for women. In hopes that something will be done about this we submit to the powers that be, the opinions of some of the students on this question.

The girls who were out there on the floor, and in Dottie Long's case it was usually flat on the floor, are probably the most qualified to talk. Davis and Long are enthusiastic about the prospect. They claim that in that way they could get to know the girls from the other colleges who are interested in the same sports they are. They say it would give the girls another extra-curricular activity and help to build up that school spirit which is still somewhat lacking. Barbara Mitchell wants it "so that we can show others that there is such a place as the University of Delaware." It would be a relief not to have people give you a blank, where-the-hell-is-that, stare, when you tell them where you go.

Many of the men were also strongly in favor of it. William Buckworth asserted that "There should be more women sports. The boys would be interested in coming down to watch and it would get the girls to know each other better." Robert J. McFann thinks "it would be real nice." And looking at it from a purely masculine angle, W. F. Crowney says, "it would take down a few hips."

Harold Peto says, "there definitely should be intercollegiate sports for women. All better colleges have them. But I wouldn't be interested. They're good not from a spectator point of view, but only from a physical fitness point of view." Bob Muhler also thinks, "it's a good idea but I'd never go to see them."

At about this time I spotted Al Lieb across the way and so with paper and pad (borrowed from the table in the Harter Hall Common Room) I tripped over. Before I had a chance to pop the question Herbie Schaeffer said, "a cherry phosphate, please." "She's not the new waitress," Al replied. Mr. Schaeffer still looked a bit doubtful and started, "But I thought—" Never mind what you thought, I can't take care of your order—not even for a cherry phosphate. I could and did take his answer to the question though. "It would improve both the spirit and the body and it would give the girls something to do at night besides coming up to DeLuxe." Al agreed that we should have them "because they have them at N. Y. U. which is one of the biggest schools in the country, and at all other universities. It helps to develop a competitive spirit." It was at this table that I received the only completely negative answer. "Not enough interest in it" was Eddie Goldberg's reason for saying "No."

Ruth Stasosky, who played a noisy game from the bench thinks "it would encourage more girls to come out for sports and it would promote good health and sportsmanship. Besides it would be fun." Pat Lawson says "Yes, we should have them because the boys have the fun of playing other schools. Why shouldn't we?" There's that old cry of equality for women popping up again.

There it is. It's quite evident that both boys and girls want intercollegiate sports for women, so how about letting us give it a try. We have nothing to lose, and if it's successful a whole new field of activity will be opened to women students. Maybe next year we'll be carrying out Dick Wolfe's suggestion that "the girls play preliminary games to the big events over in the Field House." A few years after that the boys may even be playing prelims to the girls' big games.

Why can't we have Friday night dances lasting from 9 p. m. until 1 a. m. instead of Saturday night affairs lasting only until midnight? A lot of students have complained that the dances end all too soon especially when the starting time is 9 and the gals have to be locked in their dorms at 12:30 (excluding seniors). A dance on Saturday nights must end by midnight according to a Delaware state law but a Friday night dance could last until 1 a. m. with the approval of the SGA. This is no "one horse" college—and it is a college and the students should be judged as such; not as high schoolers.—We don't have so many big parties or dances that everyone would become a "night-owl" if the girls were allowed to stay out until 2 a. m. those nights—and that includes all Delaware U. girls, not just the seniors. I grant the fact that upper classmen, especially seniors, inherit certain privileges—and rightly so—but when it comes to some special social affair, why not allow all women students to be on an equal footing? To me, this seems only fair! With the approval of the majority plus the approval of the faculty, the Student Government Constitution could be revised to meet changing demands FOR THE BENEFIT OF ALL STUDENTS!—I'm just suggesting these changes in policy. If you, as active members of Delaware U. want them, you can get them!

ROOM MATES ARE BUDDIES—There's a local blade around here who lives in the Training House who is gracious enough to run a wardrobe loan-shop for his room-mate to squire one of the Newark lassies!—All the world loves a lover!

NOTES FROM A CAMPUS NEWSBOY—Applause and cheers to the Social Committee (and especially to Frannie Cox) for their fine selection of a band for St. Patrick's Day dance. Bob Shelbe and his boys did a grand job . . . Tom Mulrooney, making his initial appearance at a U. of D. social function, was seen bearhugging his gal around the ballroom—and I do mean bearhugging! . . . Joe "I'm an Independent" Skura's remark of the week: "They have new beds down at Warner Hall, now!" How the devil do you know, Joseph?—Incidentally, I hear that several senior gals like them so well that they won't be leaving them this coming week-end . . . "Jabo" Jarvis's column, "Jolts by Jarvis" is a welcome addition to the sport page and adds color to the sheet, me thinks. The lad gets off some right witty remarks about the star athletes—all in good fun! . . . There are a few men on campus who are contemplating organizing a new frat. Watch for future developments . . . Frannie Pettyjohn exhibiting a pair of bright red arm-length gloves at the St. Pat celebration . . . And it looks like Bobbie Kirk has joined the 5th AF judging from the officer's shirt she's been wearing recently—or does it really belong to Johnny Stopyra? . . . Carl Lasker's jitterbugging in the spotlight at the Women's Gym while Angie Cataldi and Harry Huxford put on a private exhibition over in the corner . . . Big brawl at a local eatery Friday night between the "sophisticated college guys" and some local talent. The town law broke it up fast . . . From where I sit, Carl Stalloni has really got it bad for Betty Jo Banks—and who can blame him, say I?

The new blonde sec't up at Dean Daugherty's office, Linnea Winckler, had the misfortune (or good fortune, I don't know which) to have a flat tire on the outskirts of Wilmington while driving a certain college lad in to see the music teacher. They were held up for about two hours until the garage man came . . . After doing my English reading (like all good college boys should) it seems to me that the play "Journey's End" would be worthwhile for the E-52 Players to consider. It has simple scenery and a strong, dramatic punch.

THE MUSIC BOX—"The Dark Town Poker Club" done in the typical Phil Harris fashion is one of the best he's done in months. The lyrics are side-splitters . . . Sammy Kaye has a new novelty on record now, "I'm A Big Girl, Now" . . . "Seems Like Old Times" is a sentimental ballad done prettily by Vaughn Monroe and Guy Lombardo, both featuring the vocal . . . Benny Goodman digs it solid while Peggy Lee vocalizes the chorus on an old Jewish ballad, "My Little Cousin."

The Men May Rant And Rave But It Is Always The Women Who Have The Last Word

Sure and begorra if St. Paddy's Day hasn't rolled around once again. The U. of D. celebrated with the annual St. Patrick's Dance. Saturday night all the dorms were to be found in a slightly deserted condition and who could blame the occupants with such an event going on. To take one look at the dance floor one would have thought that nearly all the women on campus were in attendance and they were. At intermission time Sussex held a VERY successful party with Boletus likewise holding one. From all reports everyone had a wonderful time. A few of the beauties seen floating gracefully around the floor were Tish Trainer, Nan Fouracre, Betty Hutchinson, Jane Platt and—well just everyone that could be thought of Kay Blades visited the campus over the week-end and had a wonderful time in spite of a few mishaps. It was really swell seeing her again.

What's this we hear about a certain young lady in New Castle receiving a phone call at one-ten in the morning? Must have been important.

Question of the week. How did Polly McCabe break her tooth one night last week? Maybe you can help us solve this problem.

Mandy Abbott had a super time last week when her sailor dropped in to see her one evening. Surprised, Mandy?

"Poets now all welcome spring While winter leaves with scanty praise,

Yet give a thought to winter too—

At least it's full of holidays." So does Spring or at least that is what we are all finding out.

Student Gov't.

Honor System definitely a government of the students.

"Faculty participation will mean new faculty interest in the full life of students, wise guidance and friendly counsel for student government leaders, and a much-needed continuity in the progressive development of the Campus Government over the years."

A second significant characteristic of the new Campus Government is the definite allocation of fundamental functions through the simple expedient of five standing committees of the Campus Government Council, with formal written charters that define specific responsibilities and suggest general plans of action. These committees are Campus Welfare, Investigation, Promotion, Rules and Faculty Advisory. Prof. Hicks pointed out.

"The third unique characteristic of the Campus Government and Honor System is the establishment of departmental and school honor committees as an integral part of the Campus Government, with the student chairman of each of the school honor committees having a seat on the campus Government Council by virtue of election to the above chairmanship.

"With reference to the persistent problem of honesty on examinations, which is a facet of the larger problem of honesty, the By-Laws of the new Campus Government state that while the faculty and student body cannot condone cheating in any form and cases of the same shall be dealt with forthrightly and firmly, nevertheless, it shall be fundamental responsibility of the Campus Government Council through its standing committees and school honor committees, and in cooperation with the college faculty and administration, to do all in its power to eradicate the fundamental causes of cheating on quizzes and examinations.

"To this end certain reforms in the conventional system of grading, the policy of piecemeal accumulation of credits as a basis for degrees, and the faculty philosophy that would make 'appearing to know' as important as 'knowing,' will be seriously urged in due time."
