League of Nations Absolutely Workable

Says C. L. Ward before League of Nations Club Meeting

Addressing a mixed audience of students, faculty members, and townspeople at Old College Hall on Thursday night at the opening meeting of the League of Nations Club, Christopher L. Ward of Wilmington, lawyer, publicist, and man of affairs delivered the most logical and comprehensive address on "The League of Nations" that has as yet been heard in this state. A Republican in his political affiliations, and one who does not hesitate to criticize the president for what some people may term his autocratic methods, Mr. Ward "cut the wings" of the opposition to the League of Nations by showing its absolute practicability and its effectiveness in eliminating war. He criticized the draft of the League of Nations as we know it now, but predicted with certainty that, even as he spoke, the document was amended.

In speaking of the most vociferous opposition in the Senate of the United States, Mr. Ward said in part:

"You may be quite sure that what Senators Lodge and Knox have found objectionable in the document is all that they could find objectionable and that their criticisms very fully cover the ground which is open to criticism.

"Neither Senator Lodge nor Senator Knox," continued Mr. Ward, "has said that he is opposed to the whole idea of the League of Nations. Both have carefully reserved their decision in the matter. Their arguments were directed against the points in the first draft of the constitution to which they object. Senator Lodge did caution the people of the United States against lightly entering into entangling alliances; against lightly guaranteeing the territorial integrity of the nations of the earth; against lightly accepting the principle that each nation in the league should have one vote thus equalizing in power in the decisions of the body of delegates such widely different states as the United States of America and the Kingdom of Siam. But he did not say that alliances should not be entered into nor that territorial integrity should not be guaranteed, nor did he propose any other method of voting."

In concluding he warned his audience that unless the United States enters into the League of Nations, the scheme will fail. "If America rejects the league," said he, "if the Senate at last fail to adopt the revised and completed plan as finally settled by the Peace Conference, the league will fail—it will die. And what then? Why, chaos. The world will awake from its dream of peace and rub its eyes and see chaos—no less—international chaos."

"If a League of Nations be not formed, the world will be ripe as never before for a conflagration—a new world's war. And shall we be in that war? We shall. We cannot keep out of it. One may talk as one pleases about the desirability of our former isolation. That isolation is over, done, ended forever. Or about the undesirability of entangling alliances.

Do we want another war? Do we want to see the young men march away again and to know that so many of them will never come back? We do not. Then we must do all that we can to prevent it. We must accept the League of Nations in its final form as, under the circumstances the best possible safeguard against war."

Despite the numerous examinations that were scheduled for Friday and the consequent "burning of the midnight oil," quite a number of students, especially those of the Arts and Science department were on hand. Following the meeting, Ward was entertained by members of the faculty in the Lodge for more than an hour. Previous to Mr. Ward's address at the Men's College, the speaker accompanied by Dr. K. R. Greenfield and E. S. Cannon, president pro tem of the League of Nations Club were entertained at dinner at the Women's College.

Alderson '15, Honored in Italy

William H. Alderson, son of Dr. and Mrs. G. T. Alderson and a member of the class of 1915, who has been with the ambulance section of the United States Army in Italy, has been awarded the Italian Cross of War, according to a message received by his parents, for meritorious conduct during the last drive against the Austrians. The decoration is the same as the same as that conferred upon the King of Italy.

Word came to Dr. Alderson and his wife in a letter from their son at Wipbach, where he was stationed at the time of the signing of the armistice. Alderson wrote that he was at the front the entire time of his assignment for service with the Italian army after his journey overseas, in June, 1918. He enlisted earlier in the year. Dr. and Mrs. Alderson have another son in the regular army who was in service at the outbreak of the war.

Dr. Mitchell Entertains Basketball Team

On Friday evening Dr. S. C. Mitchell entertained the basketball team at an informal dance at the Knoll. The team this year made a very enviable record and it was in appreciation of their good work that the men were entertained. The time was enjoyably spent with music and dancing after which delicious refreshments were served. Several townfolks were present including several young ladies from the Women's College. Among those present were: Grace Yates, Mildred Carter, Ruth Guyer, Justine Armstrong, Ann Van Sant, Mary Wright, Margaret Reynolds, Helen Fisher, Louise Francis, Katherine Woodman, Katherine Robbins, Madeline Dixon, Mary Mitchell, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. LeCato, Broadus Mitchell, Morris Mitchell, George Mitchell, Mr. LeCato, Coach Shipley and eight members of the basketball team, McCaughan, Lord, Marston (Captain), Alexander, Pierson, F. B. Carter, Gray Carter, and Barnard.

BLUE HEN PROGRESSING

Board Hard at Work on Annual

The Blue Hen Board now has its work well under way. A plan or dummy of the book has been prepared and the board has already received estimates on this plan. With this definite basis for a start, the board is collecting material and working out the smaller matter of detail that arise.

The Hen this year will contain several notable features. The art department expects to have a number of large cuts which shall combine both novelty and attractiveness. The board has decided on an arrangement for the Faculty section that is a decided departure from the last few Hens. The military section, which will comprise a retrospect of the S.A.T.C. days as well as an account of the new R.O.T.C. unit, will be one of the most interesting sections. Combined with this section will be a complete honor roll of the Delaware College men who have been in the service.

One of the main features of the book will be the Athletics. Not only will there be the usual group pictures of the teams, but there will be characteristic pictures for each sport, showing the team and the players in action. Along with this picture work will be accounts of what each team has accomplished.

The main object of the board in all their planning has been to make the 1919 Blue Hen a real Delaware College Annual,—not merely a Junior book. To achieve this object, the board requires the help and support of every college man. Any suggestions or any contributions of material will be welcomed by the board at any time, and they urge that any man who has material will make it available.

McKay '19, Writes From France

February 12, 1919
Tours, Indre-et-Loire
Delaware College:

You are probably aware that recently an opportunity has been offered to officers and soldiers to attend, as students, prominent French and English universities. If I may be relieved from my present duties, I shall enter my application for such a course. Soldiers will receive commutation of subsistence at two dollars per day, and reimbursement for actual cost of room rent, not to exceed one dollar per day. Total fees for the full number of courses, amounting to approximately 250 francs, are to be paid by the student officer or soldier. A letter stating my qualifications for taking a course of this nature, together with the possible benefit to be derived from it, might prove of no little worth when it comes to the final selection of candidates. May I not request such a letter from you at the earliest possible moment?

It was my great privilege to be sent over here in the early part of July, 1918. Since then I have been laboring in the office of the Chief Signal Officer of the A. E. F., at Tours. Although the work has never been inspiring, and the routine often deadly, the experience has proved invaluable. However, I am as anxious as nearly two million other lads are to receive my sailing orders.

Trusting that the present session at "Delaware" may be highly successful, and that I may be permitted to return for the opening of the Fall term, I remain

Sincerely yours,

Herman M. McKay,

Dramatic Club To Meet

At 6.30 this evening the Dramatic Club will hold its meeting in the society's room in Old College Hall. At this meeting, the president and vice-president of the club will be elected and the details of organization will be completed. A resolution adopted at the last meeting of the club provides that any student who joins before the meeting tonight, shall be a charter member of the club. After this week election to membership is required before any candidate can join the club. Moreover, plans for the club's first production may be started this evening, and the character of that production will depend to a certain extent upon the interest shown tonight. For these reasons, every student interested is urged to join the club today. Come out and show that you believe there is a real place for dramatics at Delaware.

Noted Artists at College Concert

Faculty Club Arranges Concert for March 21st at Wolf Hall

What promises to be the best musical "treat" that this college has enjoyed for many years is the recital of J. Heffestein Mason, basso profundo, assisted by Helen Penrose Donlevy, harpist, Bertrand A. Austin, cellist and William Silvano Thunder, pianist to be given on the evening of Friday, March 21st at Wolf Hall. A native of this town, Mr. Mason has climbed to the pinnacle of a notable career in the musical world. He is undoubtedly one of the great American artists; and the Faculty Club under whose auspices the concert will be held may congratulate themselves on their success in procuring the notable quartet for the concert. Mr. Mason possesses a Basso Profundo voice remarkable for its beautiful quality and resonant richness. His distinction of enunciation combined with an artistic phrasing makes his singing a delight. He sings in five languages and is praised for his wonderful diction in all. Besides being a linguist, he is a poet, pianist and composer. Mr. Mason has studied with this country's best teachers and has appeared in both concert and recitation in many of the leading cities, having been received everywhere with enthusiasm.

The following is what the Philadelphia Ledger Musical Critic says of Mr. Mason:

"Mr. Mason has a voice of very large volume and one that has not a harsh note in its profundities. His tone qualities is suave and sweet and his method of tone production efficient. One of the fine features of his work is the clearness of enunciation."

Delaware Will Send Students at Oxford

With the resumption of the election of Rhodes scholars from this country, to attend British universities, Delaware will again select its candidates. According to an announcement made by Professor Frank Aydelotte, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, American secretary to the Rhodes trustees, Delaware will be entitled to select students for the 1918 year, during which no students were sent to England from this state on account of the war. An interesting feature of the method of selecting students will be the elimination of qualifying examinations. Candidates will be selected on the basis of their collegiate or university records.

Chess Club Meets

At its regular meeting last Wednesday, the Chess Club met for the first time in its new quarters—the room in Old College Hall that has been given to the club. The meeting was most interesting. Doctors Moore and Foster, the faculty members of the club, played and won a handicap match in which each professor played four opponents at the same time. In the interclass contests, which are still in progress, the three upper classes are now tied, while the Freshmen have yet to gain a place for themselves.

The Lounge—Our Home

THERE is a feeling on the part of many students that the men are not conducting themselves properly while in the lounge. With the exception of the day on which it is cleaned, the room, to a visitor, is anything but tidy. There is entirely too much paper scattered carelessly about the floor, and cigarette butts often fail to find their way into the proper receptacles. Such a condition is entirely inconsistent with the architectural character of the room. The general untidiness of the lounge detracts in a large degree from the beauty of the room.

The Student Council, it is understood, has a committee whose duty it is to supervise in general the life in Old College Hall. Either this committee should get on the job and see that the men treat the Lounge with proper dignity and consideration, or the upper-classmen should take it upon themselves to reprimand any man violating the rules of the building. Unless some steps are taken to remedy matters, there will be an utter absence of respect toward the Lounge on the part of the men who are to follow.

The Lounge, in its present capacity, is intended to be a place in which the men can meet, talk, and smoke in their spare moments. The furniture was placed there to be used in the proper manner, and under no consideration should it be used for general rough-house or occasional naps.

We are forced to admit that the Lounge is one of the most attractive features we have to offer visitors who come to the college. But if we, ourselves do not know how to act while we are there, its attractiveness will soon be lost.

The League of Nations Club

THE League of Nations Club at Delaware College is not only timely but essential to an interpretation of the events of the day. Such an organization deserves the support of every student on the campus. For be one's political beliefs what they may, and be he as strongly opposed to the new panacea against war as Woodrow Wilson is for it, the necessity for a forum from which the subject could be discussed in the light of our knowledge and experiences is too obvious to be overlooked. Only by an intelligent consideration of the problems now before the peace conference can we as college men arrive at an understanding above the street corner gossip.

The mere suggestion of such an organization is but a sign of the new responsibilities which college students are to assume. Time was when the chief qualifications of a college man were a thorough knowledge of track records, a compilation of extraordinary "cuss words," and a detestation of the "grind." But a mild appreciation of those qualities represents the wholesome development of a college man, only if in addition to that appreciation he is also moved to a search for truth and knowledge to be applied in his daily thinking. And it is the growing prominence of the intellectual phase of college life that finds expression in the League of Nations Club at Delaware.

There's a distinct demand for an application of college learning to the practical affairs of life. At present, the most prominent of all, is the League of Nations proposal. Everything that will be achieved in national or international affairs will revolve mainly on the feasibility and practicability of the League of Nations. As college men we can not isolate ourselves and keep aloof from a matter so vital to ourselves and the world. Our learning must be of social good, lest it be selfish and worthless. As Delaware students we have a task to perform in breaking the "barbed wire" fence of narrow-mindedness in our own little state. A League of Nations Club here would serve as a nucleus from which light could be thrown on the subject to all who look to the college for the torch of light.

Delaware College—1856

The following extract was taken from the Delaware College paper for the year 1856, known as "Our Sunbeam." It is the college advertisement. See if you can recognize any of it.

"Delaware College—It is pleasantly situated at Newark, Delaware about one mile from the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore Railroad, and only about two hours ride from Baltimore or Philadelphia. Newark, in which the College is situated, is a beautiful village of about fifteen hundred inhabitants, lying in a delightful and healthy section of the country, about twelve miles southwest of Wilmington. The College was established here in 1834, and has been in successful operation ever since. In the College there are three distinct courses, viz: the regular classical, occupying four years—Freshman, Sophomore, Junior, and Senior. A scientific course occupying three years—Junior, Middle, and Senior. Also a complete engineering course occupying one year. Candidates for admission to the Freshman Class, must be at least 14 years of age, must give satisfactory evidence of good moral studies, viz: Arithmetic, Elements of Algebra, Latin and Greek Grammar, Greek Reader and the first two books of Xenophon's Anabasis, Latin Reader, Sallust or Caesar, Cicero's Select Orations, and Virgil, or what shall be deemed equivalent. Candidates for admission to the scientific course must sustain an examination in such branches as form the basis of a good English education, without which no student can reap the proper advantages of this course. At the close of each study, or branch of study, the members of the class are carefully examined in the presence of the Faculty, and at the close of the year they are examined in all the studies of the year. The College is provided with a complete Philosophical Apparatus, that furnishes ample means of experimental illustration in all the different branches of Natural Philosophy. It possesses, also, an extensive cabinet of Natural History, and a large library. The students can obtain board in the College, at a table with the Professors, or in the village. For further particulars concerning courses, expenses, &c., consult catalogue. The present session commenced Wednesday, January 2d, 1856, and will close Wednesday, March 26. The next session will commence Wednesday, April 9th.

"Daniel Kirkwood, President."

FOOTBALL SCHEDULE
WELL UNDER WAY

Game With Penn October 11

W. Wilson Lattomus, Manager of the Delaware College Football Team the Season of 1919, has practically completed an excellent schedule. For the first time, a team representing the Blue and Gold will meet the University of Pennsylvania on Franklin Field, October 11, and Georgetown University at Washington on November 1. The season on Frazer Field will open with Franklin and Marshall as the attraction. A team representing this institution has not appeared here for several years. It is felt by the athletic management that the game with the University of Pennsylvania will meet with the hearty approval of Delaware alumni and that they will go to Franklin Field in large numbers to support their team. The schedule follows:

Mr. George Morgan '17,
Writing Life of Lafayette

The letter which follows from Mr. George Morgan, class of 1875 carries a suggestion that we trust will invite action by the Alumni. Mr. Morgan is the editor of the Philadelphia Sunday Record. In the midst of his busy life he finds time to write valuable books and keep up his interest in his Alma Mater.

March 2, 1919

Delaware College:

I greatly appreciated the letter with reference to the Alumni banquet. To me it seemed a thorough success. We of the older classes all felt good to be back at the old college in the old hall. Dr. Holmes expressed the feeling that prevailed among us on the evening of the 22d.

I am attempting to write a life of Lafayette (companion to my Patrick Henry) and hope to have it ready for publication by September. My copy must be in by May 1.

In looking up Lafayette's Delaware record, I was struck with the importance to the College of his incursion into Pencader Hundred. Washington, Lafayette and Greene rode together to Iron Hill—a memorable conjunction of heroes; and I saw in my mind's eye a group (equestrian) of the Three Generals on the top of Iron Hill looking over towards Newark. "Let us dig a little iron from Iron Hill," said I, "make a pedestal and cause somebody with money enough to set up a group worthy of this theme, the height, the College, the State, and this greatest of republics."

Sincerely,
George Morgan.

statement after he has completed his paper:

"I have neither given nor received aid in this examination, or test, and if I have seen any one act dishonorably I will report the fact to the Student Council."

Section 2. Violations of Honor:

(a) Violations of honor in examinations and tests shall consist of any attempt to get assistance from written aids or from any person or paper, and in any attempt to give assistance, whether the one doing so has completed his paper or not. This rule holds both within and without the examination room during the entire time in which the examination is in progress—that is, until all papers have been handed in.

(b) Violations shall also consist in obtaining or attempting to obtain previous to any examinations, copies of the examination papers, or the questions to appear thereon, or to gain any illegal knowledge of those questions.

(c) Any man not signing the pledge placed upon the examination paper will be notified by the professor holding the examination, and if unable then to sign he will be reported to the Student Council for investigation.

Article 3

If any person believes another is acting dishonorably, he shall either (1) ask for an explanation and, should such explanation be unsatisfactory, present the case to the Council, or (2) report the case directly to the Council.

Article 4—Trial

Section 1. Ample opportunity shall be given a student charged with dishonor to defend himself in person and through witnesses.

Section 2. The Council, acting as an Honor Court, shall have power to try all men suspected of violating the honor system.

Section 3. The Council shall have power to summon any student as witness.

Section 4. The Council shall conduct the trial secretly unless a public trial is requested by the accused student.

Section 5. Five votes out of seven shall be necessary to convict a student charged with a breach of the honor pledge. A majority vote shall be sufficient to decide all other cases arising under the rules of the Honor System.

Section 6. The proceedings and record of the Council when it is acting as a court, shall be secret.

Section 7. If an accused student shall be adjudged innocent, the records of his case shall be destroyed in the presence of the assembled court, and he shall be exonerated in the presence of the Student Government Association if he so desires.

Section 8. If a member of the Student Council is accused of a breach of honor, he shall be relieved from service on the Council until his case is decided.

Article 5

Section 1. The penalty for breach of the honor-pledge in examinations, and tests, shall be separation from the college.

Section 2. The penalty for violation of rules of the Honor System other than the honor-pledge shall be set by the Student Council.

Article 6

Section 1. Every student upon registration shall sign an agreement to abide by the rules of the Student Government Association and of the Honor Court; and shall be presented with copies of the constitution of the Association and the Honor Court.

Section 2. At the meeting of the Freshman class on the day on which classes are organized at the beginning of the first term, the constitution of the Student Government Association and the obligations assumed by the student under the Honor System shall be explained by a member of the Student Council, whom it shall appoint for the purpose, and also by the president of the College or his representative. A second meeting of the entering class shall be called two weeks later to discuss the Honor System thoroughly and completely.

Rules Governing Conduct of Examinations and Tests

1. No student shall smoke in the examination room.

2. No student shall speak in a loud tone of voice, or in any other way attract attention which shall be unnecessary or a hindrance to the other students in the room.

3. No student shall leave the room during the examination without an excuse which is deemed sufficient by the representative of the Student Council who is present. His exit from the room without such excuse before the completion of his paper shall be judged a violation of these rules and punished accordingly.

4. No student not taking examinations given in a room shall enter that room without an excuse which in the judgment of the representative of the Student Council who is present is a sufficient one. The entry of a student into an examination room without such excuse shall be deemed a violation of these rules, and he shall be punished accordingly.

5. Any student, who, in the judgment of the Student Council, shall have wilfully violated any of these rules shall be subject to a penalty imposed by the Council, or shall be debarred from having his paper accepted, or both.

6. To facilitate the operation of the Honor System, and for the convenience of students taking examinations, the Student Council shall appoint a representative in each examination room who shall be present solely to distribute papers, to provide for the notification of the instructors when their presence is required, and interpret the rules of the Honor System. His presence shall not be taken as relieving any student of full responsibility for the orderly and honorable conduct of the examination.

7. In all examinations and tests

Live Clothes for Live Young Men

LET us give you an earful. There is a certain type of Snappy Young Men who'd rather be dead than look like "dead ones." They want suits and overcoats with lots of snap in 'em. Style stunts and patterns that look more like Broadway on New Year's Eve at 12, than at 5 o'clock church tea in Sussex. You might laugh all over your face at them—but they want 'em. D'ye get us?

For that young man you must sell clothes that wouldn't be fit exactly for an undertaker. You got to give them value also, 'cause most of 'em haft'a dress on less than a thousand a week.

Our Twenty-fifth year.

What Would You Give Us

if we should place in your hands a first-class Security containing a pledge to pay you the face value thereof, within a specified time with a good rate of interest, payable semi-annually; or, in the event of your death, to immediately pay the principal and interest to your wife, your children, or any one else you may name. What would you give us? Why, of course, you would give us the full value of the Security. WELL, our Four Per Cent Trust Certificate is just the kind of Security we have described, and we can let you have any number you may desire at par and accrued interest. This certificate is what you have been looking for, and we hope to have the pleasure of issuing one or more to you during the New Year. Denominations: $100, $200, $500.
