Chrysler Tank Plant Future Output Continues Undecided

Negotiations Underway For $50,000,000 T-51 Tank
Recovery Vehicle Contract For Detroit Plant Only;
Successful Bid To Have No Effect On Newark Plant

With the end of the Chrysler tank assembly line in Newark scheduled for April, plans for future use of the Detroit Tank Plant continue to remain a matter of conjecture. Some 3,000 employees and others concerned with cessation of local activity within the next seven months.

Defense Department officials in Washington have announced that the Fisher Body plant of General Motors, as the result of competitive bidding, will supply all medium and heavy tanks regardless of Newark's ability to produce them.

Secretary Charles E. Wilson, in a statement, said that the Detroit Tank Plant will be used for the production of the T-51 tank.

Under the terms of the contract, the Detroit Tank Plant will produce 1,000 T-51 tanks.

The contract will involve production of these tanks at the Detroit Tank Plant and not at Newark.

It is expected that the Detroit Tank Plant will be used for the production of the T-51 tank.

Hullihen Portrait Of College Leader Hung In U.D. Hall

New Painting Of Former President Of Delaware
Commissioned By School

A new portrait of Dr. Walter Hullihen, president of the University of Delaware from 1929 until his death in 1944, has been commissioned by the university and hung in Hullihen Hall on the Newark campus.

Painted by Frank C. Benson, of New York City's Grand Central Art Galleries, the new portrait of Dr. Hullihen has been placed close to that of Dr. W. O. Syphard, his close friend and colleague who assumed the acting presidency of the university when Dr. Hullihen died.

Under Dr. Hullihen, the University of Delaware made its greatest progress. A relatively small student body increased to a present enrollment of nearly 1,000, and 11 buildings were remodeled or erected.

Shortly after he was named to the presidency, Delaware College and the Women's College were united to form the university, and in 1924, the university was accredited by the Association of American Universities.

With the assistance of Prof. Raymond W. Kirkbride, and funds donated by Pierre S. duPont, Dr. Hullihen in 1923 developed the foreign study plan.

The plan earned the university international prestige, and has since been adopted by several colleges and universities. Dr. Hullihen was awarded the rank of Chevalier of the Legion of Honor by the French government in 1929 for this work.

Dr. Hullihen was a graduate of the University of Virginia, received his doctor's degree from the Johns Hopkins University, and studied at the University of Leipzig, Munich, and Rome. He was a distinguished classicist, and taught at the University of Chattanooga and at the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn.

He was a member of the vestry of St. Thomas' Episcopal Church in Newark and an active sportsman. Dr. Hullihen is survived by his wife, who resides at 170 West Main Street, Newark, and by two daughters, Mrs. Charles Leon Walker, Jr., and Mrs. John Wooley, of Wilmington.

The portrait was unveiled in Hullihen Hall, named in honor of the former president who passed away in 1944.

Standing before the new portrait of Dr. Walter Hullihen, former president of the University of Delaware, Prof. Quasita C. Drake (left) and Dean Francis H. Squire, of the university faculty, recall memories of their distinguished colleague. The portrait was recently placed in the foyer of Hullihen Hall, named in honor of the former president who passed away in 1944.

1907 Bottled Record Obtained From Delaware Ave. School

A strip of yellowed newspaper, torn from the top of a page of the Philadelphia Record on December 5, 1907 was turned over to Wilmer Shue, superintendent of the Newark schools, this week by the workmen dismantling the old Delaware Avenue School building.

Sealed in a bottle and placed within the walls of the historic school by the builders, the paper bears the penciled signatures of the contractor, G. W. Griffin, and of Wm. B. Johnston, Baran Griffin, and John Hanna.

Headlines from the Record of 46 years ago stated "Burns To Fight Jack Johnson;" "Federal Pensioners Here To Stay;" and "Good Sleight-Of-Hand Trick."

Of these, only federal pensions remain, and the other two are of the past.

And so is the old Delaware Avenue School with its memories.

WHEREAS the citizens of Newark are vitally interested in our youth and recognize the importance of adult participation in matters pertaining to the welfare of our children.

WHEREAS one of the principal tasks facing our nation and our community today is the building of our youth into useful and honorable citizens.

WHEREAS it is fitting that we make every effort to keep all children from being prey to any form of delinquency and to foster all good and proper endeavors aimed at helping our youth to achieve the benefits offered by the American way of life.

WHEREAS through the joint efforts of Kiwanis International and the National Kiwanis Day Foundation as represented by our local Kiwanis club, a day has been set aside to focus attention upon the problems and the accomplishments of youth through the forty-eight states (or ten provinces) at both a national and community level.

WHEREAS the purpose of the day is to provide wherever possible, assistance in helping underprivileged children to enjoy some of the benefits normally accruing to boys and girls in more fortunate circumstances.

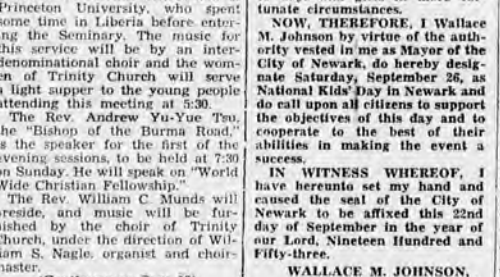

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Wallace M. Johnson by virtue of the authority vested in me as Mayor of the City of Newark, do hereby designate Saturday, September 26, as National Kiwanis Day in Newark and do call upon all citizens to support the objectives of this day and to cooperate to the best of their abilities in making the event a success.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the City of Newark to be affixed this 22nd day of September in the year of our Lord, Nineteen Hundred and Fifty-three.

WALLACE M. JOHNSON,
Mayor, City of Newark

Mrs. Wm. Wideman Dies In Collision On Way To Newark

State Game Warden's Wife
Killed Monday on Capital
Trail In Head-On Crash

Mrs. Elsie Betts Wideman, of Newark, wife of State Game Warden William Wideman, was killed early Monday morning when the automobile she was driving collided head-on with another car on Capital Trail, three miles southwest of Marlinton.

Warden Wideman was at the scene of the accident before state police. He heard of the accident on Monday morning when the automobile she was driving collided head-on with another car on Capital Trail, three miles southwest of Marlinton.

Charles J. Wilson, 23, of near Montebello, driver of the other car, was taken to the Wilmington General Hospital, where he is under treatment for several fractures, and a possible puncture of the heart from a fractured rib.

State police said Mrs. Wideman was driving south on Capital Trail at 12:30 a.m. during a rain storm, and Wilson was going north.

Police believe that Wilson's car crossed the center of the road into the path of Mrs. Wideman's car.

Coroner C. Everett Kelley, who assisted in the investigation, said Mrs. Wideman died of a fractured skull.

Mr. Wideman said that his wife had been to Wilmington to visit friends and was returning home when the accident occurred.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Wideman is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Leonard Dougherty, Silver Springs, Md.; a son, Robert W. Wideman, Billings, Mont.; four grandchildren; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Betts, Frederick, two brothers, Willard and Robert Betts, also of Frederick, and a sister, Mrs. Clifford Moore, Newark.

Funeral services for Mrs. Wideman were held this afternoon at the R. T. Jones Funeral Parlor in Newark. Interment was in Newark cemetery.

Perkins Welcomes Students At University Convocation

University of Delaware President Stresses Student Responsibility To Parents, University, Taxpayers; Warns Against High Percentage Of Scholastic Failures

In convocation exercises, officially opening the school year at the University of Delaware on Tuesday, President John A. Perkins urged the assembled students to make the best of their opportunities, particularly in view of the established fact that one-fifth of the most promising intellectual young people fail to complete high school, and nearly 50% of those entering college fail to graduate.

Outlining for the students the waste of "our greatest natural resource—the brains of our talented young people," Dr. Perkins said too few ever get to college.

"It has been reliably estimated that of the top 500,000 young people of intellectual promise about 100,000 never finish high school," he said, also pointing out that only 40 percent of the top quarter go to college.

The university president charged primary and secondary schools with the "major responsibility" for motivating youth to go to college.

Dr. Perkins told the students they must also be concerned with the "waste of money, time and effort" when they do not graduate or do not use their abilities fully.

"Only 50 to 60 percent of all those who enter college complete their work and graduate," he said. He pointed out that the student is responsible not only to himself and his family but to the university because endowments and state funds pay two-thirds of the cost of his education.

"Assuredly," he said, "you have heard enough complaints in your own homes about taxes to impress upon you your responsibility to respect the tax money provided for your education."

Turning to the task before the students, Dr. Perkins warned that they would find "no royal road to learning."

But he assured them that would bring happiness and "should provide you with gaiety and laughter as well."

Regarding the student's life at the university, Dr. Perkins said, "There are but two areas in which every human being ought to know the first-rate. First, one must know the first-rate in his job in life, his occupation. Second, one must know the first-rate in the job of living. This is much harder for you to learn."

The faculty procession at today's convocation was led by Dr. G. Cuthbert, chairman of the mathematics department and chief marshal of the university. The convocation was given by the Rev. Howard S. Huggs, pastor of the Newark Lutheran Church.

The procession and recessional were played by the university band under the direction of Prof. J. Robert King.

New Golf Course To Be Built Here For duPont Club

18-Hole Course Planned At Louviers Bldg. Site For Country Club Golfers

A new 18-hole golf course for members of the duPont Country Club will be constructed next to the Louviers Building, near Newark, the club's board of governors announced this week. Construction is to begin at once.

The new Louviers course will help relieve pressure on the club's present courses, which have become overcrowded, despite the fact that the duPont Country Club now has two 18-hole golf courses and one nine-hole course. Its present membership is more than 8,000 of whom 4,000 are active golfers.

The decision to locate the new golf course at Louviers was based on several considerations. In the first place, the club does not have enough ground adjoining its Rockland location for an additional 18-hole course. On the other hand, more than enough land, extremely well suited for a golf course, is now available at the Louviers Building site.

In addition, the number of duPont employees who live to the south and west of Wilmington and who therefore could use the Louviers course easily is steadily increasing.

It is estimated the new course will be ready for use sometime in 1955.

SERMON OF THE WEEK

Checks Have To Be Cashed
In reading an old magazine we came across an amusing story about a farmer, unable to read or write, who worked for nine months in a defense plant during the war before discovering he was getting paid for the job.

He had taken on the work for patriotic reasons and did not find out that his contribution to the war effort was being rewarded until his financial circumstances became such that he had to get a paying job in order to meet his bills. He had been living on the proceeds from his farm, but it had been a bad year for crops. He went to his foreman.

The foreman, remembering the man had received two promotions since starting work and had been earning overtime besides, was puzzled. He asked the farmer what had become of his regular pay.

"What pay?" was his response. "Questioning brought out that the worker had been receiving 'little slips of paper' all along, but didn't know they were checks. He had kept them all, however, and was delighted when the foreman told him they were convertible into money. He went home after them, endorsed them and cashed them at a nearby bank.

Are you amazed at a worker who regarded checks as mere slips of paper? He had access to the money they represented, but as long as he did nothing about them they were of no value to him. He had to do something in order to receive the money. . . he had to endorse and cash them. But what about us?

God has given us many great promises . . . all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge . . . including salvation, eternal life and complete peace of mind. These promises are to every individual, and "the Lord is not slack concerning his promise" (1 Peter 4:10). But in order to benefit from them we must "do something."

These we will have cashed in on God's promises . . . we will have placed the endorsement of faith on the checks . . . and all these treasures will be ours.

These promises are to every individual, and "the Lord is not slack concerning his promise" (1 Peter 4:10). But in order to benefit from them we must "do something."

These we will have cashed in on God's promises . . . we will have placed the endorsement of faith on the checks . . . and all these treasures will be ours.

Specialist Advises On Sweater Buying For Family Warmth

Cool weather just ahead means sweaters in the family wardrobe, observes Miss Ruth E. Pearce, extension clothing specialist at the University of Delaware.

If you must shop for a new sweater, it pays to know how that sweater is constructed, says the specialist. One factor affecting wearability is the gauge, or the number of stitches within a space of 1 1/2 inches. The higher the gauge, the finer the knit. For example, a 21-gauge sweater is fine-knit while a 6-gauge is coarse.

High gauges are best suited to fine yarns, low gauges to heavy yarns. When the gauge is right for the size of the yarn, the fabric is firm, thus protecting against pulled or snagged yarns and loss of shape by stretching or shrinking.

In bandings, look for a firm, close knit that will stand strain without losing shape or elasticity. As a test, stretch the banding between your hands, then let it spring back. A firm rib-knit will spring back closely to its original shape. A banding that fails to do this will lose its shape after a few washings. For best elasticity a ribbed banding should be knit with a higher gauge than the body of the sweater.

You'll find additional tips on sweater selection in a booklet, "Buying Sweaters for the Family," which is available from the mailing room, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, or from county extension offices in Newark, Dover, and Georgetown.

Coffee Cup Comments Concerning Newark From a New Point of View

by
ROBERT T. WILSON

How does Newark impress the newcomer? This could be called the topic of a coffee-cup session recently held at a local gathering place. Most of the participants could be called "new arrivals".

Since we know approximately what to expect when we moved into the city, we sort of leaned back and let the other people talk. The somewhat traditional remarks came forth. They were the sort of comments which such a discussion might produce in any town—complaints of aloofness by some long-time residents; a lack of conveniences such as inter-city bus services.

But, among these unsurprising comments were others not so expected. We sized them up in comparison with our own experience and came up with the following as food for thought for those people who are accustomed to Newark and may not think these things unusual:

The lack of neighborhood stores in some areas. Apparently the disinclination on the part of town planners to allow even one grocery store in a section which would be zoned as a residential area is not typical of other communities. Come to think of it we do recall having seen corner groceries in residential sections in many cities. However, looking around in Newark, we note there are stores among houses but they seem to be lacking in the south end.

The lack of a formal visit on the part of service organizations—particularly veterans' groups—which have an open membership policy when a newcomer is a potential name for the books.

The same, some said, carries over to churches, but we can't agree, having heard of pastoral calls where the local minister had learned of the new residents' affiliations.

All of those in the discussion seemed to agree the Welcome Wag on has helped to bridge this gap by telling when organizations meet and leaving it up to the individual to look up groups in which he or she is interested.

The toughest hurdle for any newcomer is to get acquainted. The upshot of the banter over the java seemed to be that Newark could do more to orient its newcomers.

Suggested were the following: A formal card from Council on trash and garbage collection schedules; and the railroad's on transportation departure times for shoppers and commuters to Wilmington; a monthly reminder from the university on coming events which are open to the public with enough advance notice to include those of interest in a schedule and, if necessary, to contact a baby sitter; the circulation of a city map including more recently developed streets; a listing of town officials, doctors, dentists, and school faculty for those people who are the concern of all residents.

By and large the big attractions of Newark were summarized in praise for its beauty, cleanliness, rigid adherence to zoning and cultural offerings. The complaints were the ones you would expect: its traffic, lack of traffic lights, its tendency to refer buyers to Wilmington for goods and services it does not supply, and its low water pressure in some areas at some times.

The balance sheet came out in favor of the city, as far as we could determine. Most potential skeptics gave every evidence of becoming potential boosters for "Delaware's fastest growing community."

But one thing seemed worth noting. Those in this group, as doubtless those in others in homes, clubs and gathering places, were of a type that gave approval with reservations, only after honest questioning. That type, we submit, will eventually make the best citizens anyway.

TRIPLE PENALTY

Arguments over tax reduction never end. But there is much less discussion than there should be over another major phase of the tax problem—and that is the elimination of gross inequalities now inflicted on certain kinds of taxpayers. The investor—the man whose savings pay for the costly tools that provide employment and make our incredible production of goods and services possible—is in this category. As Keith Funston, president of the New York Stock Exchange recently pointed out, he is subjected to a "triple penalty" when it comes to paying taxes.

It works out this way. First of all, his earnings—the money he uses to buy stocks or anything else—are taxed. Second, when the corporation in which he invests earns a profit, that profit is taxed. Third, he must pay still another tax on whatever he receives in dividends. To quote Mr. Funston, "Now we Americans enjoy a triple play in baseball; applaud the triple threat football player. I'm sure I'm on safe ground, though, when I question our enthusiasm for the triple penalty on the United States investor."

Mr. Funston offered a series of proposals which would at least partially do away with this injustice—proposals based on the Canadian system, which has worked with outstanding success. And the importance of this matter is certainly not limited to the people who own shares in business. The good effects of tax reform here would be felt by everyone, in the form of expanded industrial activity, in increased investment, in more and better jobs—in short, in a stronger, more vital economy.

Letter To Editor

309 Delaware Circle
Newark, Delaware
September 22, 1953

Dear Sir:

Newark's Registration and Election ordinance is being amended. (Why don't you let your councilmen know whether you approve or disapprove?) The proposed law has had its first reading. This amendment passed at the first reading before council with two members voting against the measure. It must come up again for final reading and passage.

The amendment was prompted by the possibility that considerable expense might be involved by notifying those removed from voting lists by registered mail. However, it has since been determined that messenger service will be just as binding as registered mail. (The League of Women Voters volunteered to act as messengers.) This is an excellent example of civic interest. Therefore, to claim expense as a reason for not amending is not justifiable.

The present ordinance, to me, is a sound one. In abstract, the present law reads: "Compile the names of all registered voters who have failed to vote in two successive preceding elections"—strike out the names of said voters from the registration books—"thereupon said voter shall forthwith lose his status as a registered voter." This merely means that (you must vote at election or suffer the possibility of being removed from the voting list. Removal will result if you do not continue to vote.

This may sound unreasonable, but consider the purpose behind this law. It is to awaken in the people of Newark a sense of their responsibility to the community. Leaving the privilege to vote to someone else will not discharge the duties of citizenship. City government depends on you. In America's early history, it required a bloody, bitter struggle and almost bankruptcy to establish God-given rights. Today, when we fail to register and vote, these same rights are thrown away.

This is the first time that we have had an opportunity to see if the two year requirement will arouse interest in local government. Now, instead, the amendment will be four years and it appears to me that the amendment will defeat the purpose.

You are paying increased taxes on property, increased water rents, and a sewage rental for Newark's debt of $500,000.00. Do you know how many people approved and disapproved of this debt? Two hundred and forty-one voted against such bonding. A vital question, yet a mere handful voted in this special election. I think it is time that we come to grips with the problem of public apathy. Encouraging the neglect to vote by increasing the time element in this case from two to four years to me is not the answer.

Wake up Newark, it's up to you. Should this law be changed? Remember, local government affects you whether you realize it or not.

Councilman

Tuesday Meetings Urged For Women Of Church Council

The first meeting of the new Council of the United Church Women of Newark was held Monday at the home of Mrs. F. William Johns, council president.

The church women of this area were urged to hold Tuesday meetings for their denominational meetings, an arrangement tried in 1951-52 which proved very successful.

The Council again expressed the hope that all member churches will cooperate, and that civic organizations planning events for the winter months will remember that on Tuesdays the church women's organizations will be meeting.

Beginning Sunday, for three days through September 29, the Eighth Fall Conference on the "World Mission of the Church," sponsored by the Wilmington Council of Churches and the United Church Women of Delaware, will be held at Trinity Episcopal Church in Wilmington.

During his pastorate—he taught the classical school which had been founded at New London by the Synod of Philadelphia, but which was removed to his residence about a mile southwest of Lewisville in 1752.

This school was moved to Newark in 1767, and chartered by the Pennsylvania legislature. It was the school from which Delaware College sprang.

It has been stated that the school was moved from New London to Elkton, but to the home of Rev. Stedwell, a mile southwest of Lewisville, is the nearest it ever came to Elkton. This information is from Johnson's History of Cecil County, published in 1831.

at Trinity Episcopal Church in Wilmington.

A workshop for Newark church women to enable better program planning for this year's theme, "The Life and Task of the Church Around the World," will be held in the Social Hall of the Newark Methodist Church on Monday, October 12 at 2 p.m.

World Community Day will be Friday, November 6th, with the time and place to be announced a little later. Contributions of new or usable household items including towels, sheets, pillowcases, blankets, curtains, etc. for world church service are asked for this meeting.
