Preston Lea Called By Death

Deceased Was Ex-President Of Board Of Trustees
And Former Governor Of State

Former Governor Preston Lea, aged 75 years, one of the best-known men in Delaware, and prominent in banking and industrial circles, died at his home, No. 909 Delaware avenue, Wilmington, at 2.20 o'clock Monday morning following a lingering illness. While he had been in failing health for more than two years, his condition did not become critical until late on election night, when he was stricken with congestion of the lungs, which with complications, caused his death. Mr. Lea's condition had shown improvement early last week but a turn for the worse came the latter part of the week.

Preston Lea, the fifty-second Governor of Delaware, serving from 1905 to 1909, was born in Brandywine village, now a part of the city of Wilmington, November 12, 1841. He was the son of William Lea and Jane (Lovett) Lea. His grandfather, Thomas Lea, was a native of Chester county, Pa., being a descendant of John Lea, who came from England to America in the latter part of the seventeenth century as a follower of William Penn. Thomas Lea, the grandfather of the Governor, was the first of the name to settle in Delaware. He became a partner with Edward Tatnall in the milling business on the Brandywine, and in 1785 married Sarah Tatnall, the oldest daughter of Edward Tatnall. The succeeding generations of Leas in the male line continued in the milling business.

In the death of Victor du Pont in 1888, Mr. Lea was elected president of the Union National Bank, which position he occupied until 1912, when he retired as president, but continued as director. He had served as a director of the institution since the death of his father in 1876. On the organization of the Equitable Guarantee and Trust Company, in 1899, Mr. Lea became a director, and two years later was elected president, serving until 1902. For several years he was an active director of the Wilmington City Railway Company. He had also been a director for many years and was vice-president of the Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company.

The Leas were originally members of the Society of Friends, and Preston Lea was trained in the anti-slavery school and became a Republican on the nomination of Lincoln in 1861. He never took an active interest in politics, but in the fall of 1904, when the Republican party was eager to find a candidate for Governor who could unite the support of both factions of the party, Mr. Lea was agreed upon and his election followed. In his administration of State affairs he made a splendid record, applying sound business principles to the office.

Alumnus Of Class Of 1903 Visits College

Captain Eugene Reybold, a member of class of '03, stationed with the Coast Artillery at Fortress Monroe, visited the College last Friday.

Captain Reybold, formerly of Delaware City, took his degree in Civil Engineering.

Bulletin On Bible Issued

The first number of a new series of bulletins published quarterly at Delaware College has recently come from the press. It contains a list of readings from the English Bible; certain parts which for one reason or another might well be read by every one. It is hoped that the list will be of especial service to teachers in the public schools who wish to follow a systematic plan in their daily Bible readings.

Dr. Sypherd has given much time and thought to the study of the Bible and has concluded that these selected passages truly represent the subject matter, style and significance.

Plans For Fraterni- ties Discussed

Mr. Rodney Sharp, chairman of the Development Committee recently called a meeting of those who were interested in the development of the Fraternities as a part of the immense program for enlarging the College. Plans for the fraternity buildings on the campus were discussed including the ways of financing the undertaking. Those present were: Mr. Rodney Sharp, Dean E. L. Smith, Prof. Koerber, Prof. Srager, W. F. Francis, '08, and Dr. W. O. Sypherd.

Death of James L. Ziegler

James L. Ziegler, a talented civil engineer who graduated from Delaware College in 1896 and had been engaged in the Wilmington Street and Sewer Departments service and the City Surveying Department for ten years past, died on Friday night, after a lingering illness at the home of his father, James A. Ziegler, 241 N. Broome street. He was 44 years of age and unmarried. His father, a brother and three sisters survive him. He had a wide circle of friends by whom he was highly esteemed.

AMATEUR PLAY TO BE GIVEN

Local Stars Make Up The Cast

The cast of "Dandy Dick" which is to be given in the Newark Opera House Friday evening, December 15th, and which was postponed from last spring, has been greatly strengthened by the addition to it of Mr. Alexander Blair, Jr., and Mr. A. Bailey Thomas.

Mr. Blair is a native of Scotland and has had considerable experience in amateur theatricals. He is taking the part of Major Tarver, an English Army officer, to which part he is especially fitted. He is considered by the Agricultural Club to be a great find, and is showing great cleverness and dramatic ability in rehearsals.

FRESHIES HOLD SOPHS SCORELESS

Class Teams Stage Stiff Battle Ends In 0-0 Tie

The football teams of the Freshmen and Sophomore classes of Delaware College last Tuesday fought to a scoreless tie in a stubborn, bitterly fought game on Joe Frazer field before a large crowd. The Sophomore eleven last year, while in its first year, won over the then Sophomore class, and it was a big surprise to see the first year men hold the higher classmen scoreless.

The Sophomore team had the advantage of weight, but the Freshmen fought stubbornly and despite this handicap held their opponents down. Twice the Sophomores had the ball on the Freshies' five-yard line, but the first year men braced in each instance and held the Sophs to downs.

In a scrimmage, Dougherty, the Freshman half back, was thrown upon his shoulder and badly injured. While the extent of his injuries have not been determined, it is believed that his collar bone was broken. The lineup:

Freshmen	Sophomores

At the meeting of the Athletic Council tonight plans will probably be discussed for the annual banquet to the football squad which will be held in Wilmington. The football captain will be elected at the banquet.

Professor M. E. Rich of the Women's College and Dr. G. E. Counts, head of the department of education of Delaware College, were among the speakers at the Teachers' Institute held in the Rose Room of the Hotel du Pont last Wednesday.

Sigma Nu Holds Annual Dance

Last Friday evening Delta Kappa Chapter of Sigma Nu Fraternity, held its sixth annual dance in the state armory. About 170 persons were present including the chapter and guests.

This dance, which is the local chapter's biggest social event of the season, was successful beyond the season, was very much of a success.

The decorations, which were rather unique, consisted of the fraternity colors—black, gold, and white—draped from the rafters of the hall. The lights were covered with gold paper, and cast a dull glow over the dancers.

The orchestra, which was placed in the centre of the floor, consisted of nine pieces, and provided music of the finest quality. Refreshments were served in the basement of the armory between the halves of the program.

In addition to the chapter and local guests, including members of the faculty of the College, and the patronesses, a large number of guests from all parts of the state and surrounding counties were present.

Many of those present were:

COST OF PRO- GRESS DISCUSSED

Urges Need Of Strong Men

"Develop a breadth of view and know something well rather than a little about a great many things; develop the kind of a man who is in no danger of going to the devil, instead of resorting to all sorts of panaceas whether under the name of nation-wide prohibition, single tax, socialism, or woman suffrage," was the advice given by Professor Carl Kelsey, of the University of Pennsylvania, in the second of the series of historical lectures given at Delaware College last evening. "There are two types of man," the speaker declared, "in every community; the conservative of under forty is certain to come of one of the old and well-established families. He is well fed, and comfortable; he knows the Lord has been good to him in the past and expects him to be in the future. He is perfectly sure the old system is so good it is not well to change it. The man who suggests change he calls something ending in an 'ist,' and the thing itself he calls something ending in an 'ism.' When met by argument this man dodges; he throws mud; he doesn't think it worth while to use his wits for this purpose. Folks have the habit of thinking they are mentally brilliant when they have thrown some mud. The radical as a type is energetic, crude, rough, raw, of an uncultured family. Things have not worked well for him or his folks. He says, 'Let's have a change.' He's not afraid of a change, things are bad for him already. And he may become dangerous. He doesn't consider balance. There is some good in the present social order,—in our education, our industrial program, and every change does invite danger. But you can have no change without progress. The radical is (Continued on Page 4)

DECEMBER 12, 1916

At a Democratic mass meeting held last week it was suggested that the students of Delaware get together and urge Legislature to appropriate enough money to cover the expenses of the battalion to Washington for the coming presidential inauguration. The militia has been given a trip to Washington by the state every four years, and the fact that in all probability the militia will be on the Mexican border at that time seems to indicate that our chances for the trip are very good.

In order to obtain the appropriation from the Legislature it is necessary that members of the legislature, which meets in January, should be interested in the case of the Delaware College battalion. Each fellow who knows a member should put the case squarely up to him.

"What is causing the apparent lack of interest in basketball practice?" is a question asked every evening. The fellows are surely not turning out as they should. This year we have an exceptionally hard schedule and it is going to take a great deal of enthusiasm and "pep" on the part of the players to win. There may have been an excuse for so few coming to the first practice when it was held in the New Armory; but now that we have our gymnasium in shape let's have a big bunch out and lots of enthusiasm.

Professor Counts To Speak To Freshmen Engineers

Tomorrow (Wednesday) afternoon Professor Counts will speak to the Freshmen Engineers in Room 2 on "How to Study."

The Engineer's Society

A splendid meeting of the Engineers' Society was held last Tuesday evening. Mr. Lang described with the help of a black-board drawing his father's carpet cleaning plant in Wilmington. The carpet, he explained, is placed in a large octagonal wheel which lifts and drops the carpet as it revolves. In this way the dust is beaten out of the carpet and is stored in a box underneath the wheel. All floating dust is drawn off by a suction fan and expelled thru a pipe extending above the roof. The greatest possible care is taken of the carpets, and all holes and torn places are firmly patched before the carpet is placed in the wheel. The plant is as up-to-date as any in existence. Its only rival is the vacuum cleaner, and that does not clean underneath the carpet.

Mr. Cantwell explained graphically the manufacture of fibre. By means of a drawing he showed how the paper is run over a series of rollers and thru acid bath and is finally wound around a drum. The fibre is pressed or molded into the various shapes in which it is to be used. It is tough, strong, and the finest kind of insulator; but it swells and warps when it comes in contact with water. It is used for various kinds of screws and washers, and for insulation for rail bonding.

Mr. Meyers gave an extremely interesting and instructive description of the Diesel engine. Starting with its inception, he told about the difficulties which attended its early development. It has reached its greatest efficiency in Germany. It is an internal combustion engine in which air is compressed to 500 pounds per square inch. A fine spray of oil is introduced into the cylinder of air which at this pressure has a temperature of over 1000° C. and ignition instantly takes place. The advantage of the Diesel engine is that it can operate successfully with a very poor grade of oil. Crude oil can be robbed of a great many by-products and still be used in the Diesel engine. At present engineers are trying to adapt the Diesel engine to automobiles, but so far no one has been able to make it run at the variable speed required of automobiles.

Mr. Terry Mitchell talked on amateur astronomy. He first mentioned the benefit a man could get from becoming interested in some outside subject, and showed how a hobby might develop into a life work. He explained the facts about the interesting stars of the constellations of the "Big Dipper" and "Orion," now in the eastern sky. By the use of black-board drawings he pointed out the positions of the double stars and nebulae of those groups which can be seen to advantage with a small telescope.

Dr. Vaughn Reports On Conference At Springfield

In chapel on Friday morning, Dr. E. V. Vaughn reported on the conference of the City Municipal League, which met at Springfield last week. Springfield, according to Dr. Vaughn, was a splendid place to hold such a convention, because it is just now struggling to institute the city manager system. The most important feature of the convention was the meeting of city managers. The address of Henry M. Waite, the city manager of Dayton, Ohio, was very instructive. George W. Perkins spoke on the subject: "What will happen to America after the War?" He outlined the industrial changes which have taken place during the war, and showed how these conditions were likely to change at the close of the war. Morris L. Cooke made a plea for government courses in our colleges, and stated that he believed that all college men, even those of the "pink sock" variety, would be interested in government if it were forced upon them. The speech of Mr. Lawson Purdy, the president of the Municipal League, was of the most importance. Professor Beard of Columbia University and Professor Hatton of Western Reserve University had a lively debate over the question of partisanship. In this debate several interesting facts were brought out, and among them the fact that partisanship is probably not only a good, but even an essential, part of government. Another significant point brought out by the convention was the fact that during the last 18 months the commission form of city government has been marking time, while the city manager plan has been steadily going forward. The New York "zone law" was discussed by the convention. It was generally argued that this zoning law was one of the greatest things New York has ever done. This law limits the height of the buildings to a certain size, as determined by the width of the streets and the amount of free air space. The convention held that this law should be seriously considered by all cities.

W. C. D. NOTES

Monday evening, Miss Haywood of the Girls' International School in Spain gave a talk at the Women's College. She illustrated her lecture by many interesting and beautiful slides. Miss Haywood told about life in Spain and especially about the condition of women there. She spoke of the founding of the Girls' International School by an American college woman, and mentioned some of the results that the school has achieved. Later in the evening, when quiet hours were over, Miss Haywood gave the girls an informal talk on Spanish customs, particularly courtship.

Washwoman (going into Ruth Clendaniel's room)—"Miss Proctor here are your clothes."

Ruth—"Why those aren't mine. I am not Miss Proctor."

Washwoman, (indignantly)—"Well, what you got her name on your door for?"

Dean Robinson (ascertaining the character of candidates for the dance)—"Now, about this young gentleman. What is his father's business? What does he do?"

Frightened Freshie—"I-I don't know. He's dead."

St. Peter—"Well, now before I let you in, tell me what sort of a job you want up here. You were a pretty good sort down on Earth."

Victoria—"I think I'd like to manage the choir."

St. Peter—"Very well. What material will you need?"

Victoria—"Oh, about ten thousand basses, eight thousand tenors, and twelve thousand altos."

St. Peter—"Er-er, don't you want any sopranos?"

Victoria—"Oh, I'll sing soprano myself."

Dr. Sypherd (excitedly)—"What's the use of going home?"

We wonder why he stooped there. Didn't he know the rest of the song?

LARGE SQUAD OF CANDIDATES REPORTS TO COACH McAVOY FOR BASKETBALL

Season Opens At Pratt Next Week

Delaware College basketball candidates held their first practice of the season in the gymnasium yesterday afternoon under the direction of Coach McAvoy. Donald P. Horsey, the only remaining member of last year's varsity has been elected captain of the team for the coming season. He succeeds "Tom" Wilson, the student who was injured last summer and is now confined at the Delaware Hospital. Wilson was elected captain for this season by the varsity men at the close of last season.

A large squad of candidates was out yesterday and there is some promising material among the freshmen.

There remains but one week for Coach McAvoy to get a team in shape for the first game. This will be played at Brooklyn on Friday night of next week against Pratt. The first home game will not be until after the holidays on January 6th with Philadelphia College of Pharmacy. Delaware has an unusually hard basketball schedule this season including games with Lafayette, Penn State, Johns Hopkins, Susquehanna, Albright and Ursinus.

St. John's Debate Postponed

A meeting was held on Monday, for the St. John's College debate. The meeting was taken in charge by Mr. Terry Mitchell who is chairman of the committee appointed jointly by the two societies to arrange the time and question as well as all necessary details in connection with the debate.

He read a letter received from Prof. S. S. Handy, head of the department of English at St. John's. Prof. Handy proposed the question: "Resolved, That labor unions are a benefit to this country." He suggested December 14th as the date for the contest.

The judgment of those present was that the question was much too broad considering the short time allotted for preparation on the subject. They accordingly requested that an attempt be made to change the date to the latter part of February and that the question be limited, rather by definitions or restricting clauses.

About twenty-five men expressed their desire to go out for the debate. In order to pick a team from so many men it may be necessary to have two or even more preliminary contests. It was decided that for the present Dr. Greenfield give a definition to the terms "labor union" and "benefit to this country" for purposes of temporary work and that the preliminaries be held as soon as word is received from St. John's.

It is expected that this will be the best prepared debate held recently. Accordingly as many as possible should prepare themselves for the tryouts the dates of which will be announced.

Chapel Talk By Secretary Of Consumer's League

During the chapel hour on Wednesday, December 6th, Mrs. Florence Kelley, secretary of the Consumer's League, spoke to the student-body concerning the aims and purposes of the league. According to Mrs. Kelley, the league had its beginning in a small group of men and women in New York City, who, out of pity for the young people in the shops at Christmas time, decided to make out a list of those merchants who treated their employees most humanely. Twenty-five years have now gone by, and from that small group of people a large National society has developed. The society has now the same ideals as in the beginning, but they have been broadened so as to aid not only the employees in the shops, but also the employees in the factories where Christmas goods are made. When the spender buys an article he has the right to set the standard by which that article is manufactured. The Consumer's League is an organization of men and women which aims to set the standard of conscience for the spender. The league has done much to aid the employees in the shops, and especially the women and children who are forced to work overtime at the holiday seasons. The Court of Appeals has recently decided that laws may be passed to limit the working hours for women and children. It is now the intention of the league to see that these laws are enforced, particularly at this time.

Miss Brady Speaks In Chapel

During the chapel period on Tuesday Miss Brady, instructor in English at the Women's College, gave a short talk on the value of English literature. Miss Brady limited her discussion to "Mother Goose Rhymes," to which she made several references during the course of her speech. She showed in a very interesting and instructive manner how these little verses reflect the conditions of that time.

from all parts of the State. He entertained annually during his tenure of office in honor of the officers of the Delaware Militia, in which organization he took a deep interest, and he donated a valuable trophy for annual competition in marksmanship.

Mr. Lea at one time was president of the Wilmington City Railway Company. He also was a director of the P. B. & W. Railroad Company. He was a member of the Union League of Philadelphia, and of many other organizations.

Mr. Lea, for several years, was president of the Board of Trustees of Delaware College. At the meeting last week a letter was sent by the Board expressing appreciation of the deep interest Mr. Lea had always shown in the institution and hoping for his speedy recovery.

Mr. Lea had a beautiful country home, The Orchards, between New Castle and Delaware City, where he spent the summer months, and he took an active interest in his farming and dairying enterprise there.

right when he says you must have the change even if somebody does lose prestige and position."

The most forceful part of Professor Kelsey's lecture came at the close when he said: "Good men are helping to create problems just as much as bad men. Our problems grow out of conditions and not from any action of either the capitalist or the laborer. What are the great fundamental problems that confront us? Is there not a great need for an international law, the development of an international conscience, which will prevent international murder and suicide on a larger scale than any of which the world ever dreamed? Is it not a great pressing problem to weed out the mentally unfit, and insane from the ranks of parents in order that the race stock in generations to come may be sound? Do you recognize that insanity is costing the state of New York 1-6 of the entire expenditure and Pennsylvania over 1-10; that it is increasing at the rate of 100 per cent in ten years? Can anyone say that one of our great jobs is not to understand our fellowman regardless of race or color? Is it not a problem to train our boys and girls so that everyone may go as far as innate ability will permit them? Do we not need to substitute a social spirit for a selfish spirit? World power means responsibility, and at present we are not measuring up through cowardly selfishness. Do we not need a work ideal to replace a play ideal? Is it the present ideal to give genuine labor for fair returns or to give as little as one can for the greatest returns? Is the laborer less selfish than the employer? Don't we need a vision of the possibilities of human achievement; of that power in us which has carried us thus far? Is not that faith after all the essence of the religious? That is the spirit in which I would have us approach these problems of social relations."

Address On The General Service Board

In chapel on Monday, December 4th, Miss Jennie Eckman gave an explanation of the purposes of the General Service Board of Delaware. Miss Eckman, who is secretary of the board, stated that it was first formed with the idea that, since Delaware is such a small state, there must be a definite plan in which all the citizens of the state can co-operate before the state can ever assume national prominence. The idea has taken firm hold, and the board, which started from a small group of college people, now has several hundred members. The General Service Board is trying to find out what legislation will come before the state Legislature during the next session. The board will then try to determine whether or not such legislation is worth while. If worth while, the board will then support the measures in the Legislature.

DIRECTORY OF ADVERTISERS

We believe in reciprocity. "If you deal with us, we will deal with you" is a fair and square business proposition.

The Review is dependent upon its advertisers. Without their help in the form of advertisements it could not be published. Therefore it is only right and proper that the students and entire constituency of the College should patronize those concerns which patronize the Review. Your trade and business dealings should preferably go to them.

Below is a classified list of those advertisements which appear in "Our" paper and "Your" paper. Look it over and then follow that doctrine of Reciprocity.
