Student Committee Chosen To Formulate Scheme for Honor System At University

Will Suggest Plan To Faculty Comm.

On Thursday, April 29, a mass meeting of the student body was held in Mitchell Hall for the purpose of discussing the installation of the honor system at the University of Delaware.

A group representing a cross-section of University students was primarily responsible for bringing this challenging question to a prominent position in student thought.

The meeting was opened by members of this committee. A brief outline of the severe cheating problem and possible means of its elimination was presented; and the meeting was then left open to comments, criticisms, and suggestions.

Among the comments and suggestions made were the following:

De-emphasis of finals will help; if a student's work does not greatly depend on the final, he will be less inclined to cheat.

The present method of treating those who cheat is satisfactory; if a few more students are expelled it should prove sufficient warning.

Fair exams are necessary. Those which require real thought are not conducive to cheating. If we are to eliminate cheating we've got to have good exams.

Improving of student-faculty relations is to be desired—but not necessarily effective in the elimination of cheating.

The biggest question seemed to be the matter of turning in friends. Several students suggested that warnings through social pressure might be a good solution. At Johns Hopkins this is met by standing up to warn the student that his cheating has been seen, and at Ohio State a little pencil-tapping has been known to do the trick.

At the conclusion of the meeting, students volunteered for membership on the student committee which will formulate a plan and present their suggestions to a volunteer faculty group.

The members of the committee are: A. J. Brandon, Anthony Fauerback, Howard Hindelman, Louise Hickman, A. Jones, C. Franklin, R. Kennard, E. Lent. (Continued on Page 8)

Language Tests To Be Given on May 20

Friday, May 20, at 4:10 p. m., has been chosen as the time for this semester's administration of the reading-knowledge tests in French (220 U. H.), German (Chem. Aud.) and Spanish (W. Aud.). Students who are prevented by conflict from taking the test at this hour should leave their names with Miss Carr in Room 214 University Hall by Wednesday, May 18.

Admission to the test is open to students enrolled in intermediate courses (104) and to others considered qualified by the Modern Language Department for special reasons. Passing a reading-knowledge test in one modern foreign language is a graduation requirement for all students in Arts and Science or Secondary Education except those who entered an accredited college before September, 1945.

Any student claiming exemption from this test because of matriculation before September, 1945, should request written confirmation of his exemption in the Registrar's Office.

These tests will next be given on September 17, the Saturday preceding first semester registration.

Bob McFann answers a question at meeting held last Thursday to discuss the cheating problem at the University.

Sechler Returns To Delaware Faculty

Dr. Robert P. Sechler, former member of the English Department at the University of Delaware, will return to Newark to teach during the University's Summer Session this year. Dr. N. B. Allen, chairman of the department, has announced.

During the second term of summer school, July 25 to Sept. 2, Dr. Sechler will teach a course in the "Nineteenth Century Essay," which he also taught at Delaware three summers ago. Now a member of the faculty at Marshall College, Huntington, W. Va., Dr. Sechler was at Delaware for some years prior to leaving there in 1938.

The second term also will be marked by the offering of a new course to be taught by Dr. Augustus H. Able of the Delaware faculty in "Short Fiction."

The first term, which will begin June 13 and continue to July 22, will include four advanced courses in the field of English literature and composition. Mrs. Sarah B. Rogers will teach "Contemporary American and British Poetry" and "American Literature." Dr. Arthur R. Dunlap will teach "Literature of the English Renaissance," and Edwin C. Heinle will be the instructor for "Business English."

Kappa Delta Pi Is Introduced Here

A chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, an Honorary Society in Education, is being introduced on the University of Delaware campus. This chapter consists of undergraduate students whose eligibility is based upon scholastic index and interest in education.

The aims of this organization are to further interest in education and to raise the standards of educational principles.

The official installation of this chapter will take place in the middle of May. At the same time the charter members will be initiated into this honorary organization. The present temporary officers are: President, Thelma Thompson; Secretary, Mary Frances Gordy; Treasurer, Leonard Hitch. Permanent officers will be elected after the formal installation.

Pastor and Gordon Offer Continuous Dance Music

Final Balloting For S. G. A. Elections

Friday, May 6, is the second and last day on which you can vote for Student Government Association and class officers. Voting will take place between 9 a. m. and 3 p. m. in Mitchell Hall lobby.

It is important to keep in mind the purpose of S.G.A. while voting for its officers. The purpose of the S.G.A. is to enact and enforce such regulations that are necessary and to promote activities which will better the student social life.

Therefore, its membership should consist of a cross-section of the student body who are willing to work for the benefit of the campus as a whole. The duties of the Student Government Association in addition to those already implied are to:

1. Conduct Student Body and Class elections.
 2. Approve all appointments specified in the constitution.
 3. Allocate and supervise expenditures of all money received by the Student Body.
 4. Have sole power of impeachment against any officer or member of this organization.
 5. Enact by-laws which will supplement the constitution in all respects necessary in order to insure full force and effect of the constitution.
 6. Supervise and control the operation of the Student Union.
 7. Have all powers which its function as the supreme executive body of the student body requires.
- Meeting of S.G.A. conform to parliamentary procedure and in order to constitute a quorum two-thirds of membership must be present at all meetings. Any student of the University may attend regular meetings of the S.G.A. and present matters for its consideration.

Annual May Dance Festivities' Finale

Two bands have been secured by the S. G. A. to provide music for the annual semiformal May Day Dance, May 14. Continuous music for dancing will be offered by the bands of Tony Pastor and Chuck Gordon at the dance, which will conclude a full day of May Day festivities.

Tony Pastor got his first start as a vocalist with Vincent Lopez, another top-flight leader who has appeared on the Delaware Campus. However, he did not really begin to come into his own until he joined the Artie Shaw aggregation and made the "Indian Love Call" with them. Even Pastor's press agents are forced to admit that part of the phenomenal popularity of this record is due to the fact that it is backed by that all time favorite "Begin The Beguine." This platter gave Pastor his first real big break, and when Shaw became ill during an engagement at the Hotel Statler, (the Pennsylvania) Pastor fronted the band temporarily. Soon afterwards he formed his own band and began the long climb which has brought him to the high position in the popular music world which he now enjoys.

He was immediately signed to contracts for R.C.A. and Bluebird records. Currently affiliated with Columbia Records, his records in the past two years have reached the five million mark. In addition to his popularity on platters, Pastor has toured the country appearing at such places as the Lincoln and Statler Hotels in New York, as well as at the Paramount Theater on Broadway. He has had bookings at Virginia Beach and the Casa Manana in California.

Chuck Gordon, who will also play for the dance, is a graduate of the Music School of West Chester State Teachers College, and upon (Continued on Page 8)

E-52 Closes Season With Production of 'Menagerie'

"THE GLASS MENAGERIE," the poignant drama which has won acclaim for its author, Tennessee Williams, will be presented by the E-52 Players as their last major production of the season on next Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings, May 12, 13 and 14. The play ran for over a year and a half on Broadway and was Tennessee Williams' stepping-stone to recognition by the American play-going audience. It is an imaginative story of a mother's efforts to marry off a daughter as fragile as the glass animals she collects and is a very touching drama.

The play has four characters and the parts will be ably filled by four of the most outstanding Mitchell performers in recent years: Verda Vane will play the blowsy, impoverished mother living on memories, Amanda Wingfield; Margaret Guenver will be seen as Amanda's daughter, Laura, the lame and retiring girl who cannot bear to mix with people, but whose heart cries out for affection and understanding, like the kind she lavishes on her collection of glass animals; the relentless son who Amanda fears will, like his father, throw up his bread-winning warehouse job and "fall in love with long distance" will be played by Robert Niemeyer; and completing the quartet of the drama's characters will be Howard Hitchens portraying the part of the gentleman caller, the man who comes to dinner and tries to get Laura over her inferiority complex, but disappoints Amanda because he's already engaged.

From a strictly dramatic point of view, this play promises to be one of the severest tests of the Player's ability to present top-notch theatre entertainment to its audiences. Being of a psychological and ethereal nature, the play is a challenge to the director and cast alike.

The box office is now open in Mitchell Hall and will be open every week day from 3:30 until 5:00 and 7:30 'til 9:00 p. m. until the last day of the show. In order to get the best possible seats, it is advisable to get your reservations early. Student theatre tickets may be used, but reservations for all E-52 major productions must be made in advance.

The Thursday and Friday evening performances will be at 8:15 p. m. and the Saturday performance at 8:30 p. m.

The play will be under the direction of Dr. C. Robert Kase, Director of the Players, and Robert Niemeyer is the Assistant Director. Mr. Harry Bidlake will be the Technical Director.

Bookstore and Dining Halls

There has been a great deal of discussion about campus regarding the University's annual financial report, especially in regard to the University Bookstore and the Dining Halls. It seems that some students have been entertaining some misconceptions that should be straightened out.

The financial report of the University is prepared annually by a certified public accounting firm, chosen by the State Auditor, which examines the books and records of the University and prepares the report. University officials have nothing to do with its compilation. Copies of the report are open to every student at the Library.

The Bookstore, it must be stressed, does not solicit trade, nor is any student required to buy his books there. Prices are held wherever possible at list price, so that no independent operator can accuse the University of underselling him. Paid for out of the general fund, and under the direction of the Bookstore manager also is the University Post Office. Both of these are places of service and convenience to the student. They are not designed as money-making institutions.

The situation is fundamentally the same with the Dining Halls, which are a corporate enterprise, operated for one year and then observed with a view for the next year. Prices of meals are adjusted on current observations.

Any profit which is made—during the year 1947-48, a $3,738.50 excess of income over expenditures existed—is thrown back into the Dining Hall Fund for use in improvements. These improvements include such things as the new floor laid in Kent Hall during last summer.

The Dining Halls are not trying to rob the students. The total income of the two last year was $21,522.40, the expenditures $207,783.90, leaving a surplus of 1.7674 per cent of income. This is very little when one stops to realize that the food cannot be bought before the term starts, but that trends in food prices must be estimated.

Letters To The Editor

To the Editor:

We think that the campaign of one of the candidates for president of the S. G. A. merits a compliment. The effect of such an energetic campaign is important not only as a device for gaining office, but also for its bolstering effect on school spirit which, here at the U. of D. at least, cuts more classes and activities than any student. Moreover, this campaign in particular seems to be a timely reply to your editorial in the last issue of the REVIEW in which you reprimanded the "independents" for their laxity in school elections; perhaps it is an attempt to make up for this laxity. But regardless of its designs or aims, its potential results are well worth mention.

To the Editor:

It is quite apparent that there is a great deal of misunderstanding on this campus as to what an Honor System consists of, what it would entail on the part of the students, and what the benefits accruing to both students and faculty alike would be.

When an Honor System is mentioned, the usual reaction runs something like this, "Oh, I'd never turn in a Buddy of mine for cheating. That would make me a 'heel'." Now, let's take a school where they have an Honor System —Johns Hopkins University—and see how it works there.

The Honor System has worked for many years at Hopkins and the students would probably rebel if anyone were to suggest changing to any other system. Under their system, every student upon entering the University has the Honor Code explained to him and is required to sign a pledge which in effect places him on his honor not to cheat and to report any breach of the Honor Code to the Honor Court. Even if you don't sign the pledge, you are still under the Honor System.

That's bad, you say. O. K. then, let's see how the students there look at it. The system works on the principle that "Every man is his brother's keeper." That is, I am responsible for your welfare and you are responsible for mine. Therefore, if both of us sign the same pledge, giving our word of honor that we will both abide by the rules of the game (Honor Code in this case), and I should see you violate the Code, I would be guilty of a breach of honor if I were not to do something about it.

What should be done, you ask? The first thing that is done under the Hopkins Code is to warn the person seen violating the Code, reminding him that he has signed the same pledge that you have signed. If the violator continues cheating, the person who first sees the violation calls the attention of two other students to the violation and the three students report the student to any member of the Honor Court. If convicted, the offending student is given an "F" in the

THE LESS SAID . . .

By LESLIE C. RIGGS

Is my face red? Wow! Last week the printer must have been out on a binge or had a healthy battle with his wife for he sure did louse up this epistle. This printer, not I, dear chillun, has Dick Wells engaged to Joan Carey, when it really should be Dick Williams. That one about Cole should have been Hughes and the last paragraph about the Splashy Lassies they changed completely, besides, a rather odd contraction of who are. I apologize to all my newly made foes.

I see B. J. Kinder is going flakey on us. Those last few jokes of hers she must have said just for the halibut. My cod! I'll clam up after that one, so stop crabbing. Everyone says I'm making a perfect bass of myself.

I.F.C. playbill showed some real talent both in singing and acting. Monday night, Sigma Nu and ATO choruses really did a bang-up job with PIKA's giving a funny representation of the life of a Harter Hall Engineer.

Here's hoping that All-Fraternity Chorus that's being talked up will actually go through. With the showing the boys made of their vocal attributes, they should be able to put Fred Waring to shame.

Looks as if the honor system will be a reality, next year, with most people bubbling over with virtue it should work thus imbibing the fair play spirit into the incoming freshmen. While we're in the subject of better education and such another thought arises—the quarter system. A good number of schools that have the Honor System also have the eight-week term.

It is like a term of summer school; i.e., you only carry 7 or 8 credit hours per term, have the class every day and have four terms per school year. In a lot of schools where this system was used, the scholastic index of the students all rose a point or two—maybe this would be something else to campaign for.

A Report From The Student Committee

In an effort to answer some questions that obviously went unanswered and to clarify certain issues that were obviously obscured, at last week's Student Mass Meeting in Mitchell Hall the student committee working on the problem of "cheating" would like to bring the following points to the attention of the student body as a whole:

A. We are proceeding upon the assumption—which by sentiment indicated at the mass meeting seems, if not unanimous, at least in the majority—that the present system of proctoring exams is not working, and that some remedy in the form of an "Honor System" is needed and desired.

B. That as a means towards this end the question of a solution falls under three main headings, namely:

1. Adoption of some variation of the "Honor System."
2. Reduction of emphasis on exams.
3. Improve Student-Faculty relations.

By way of clarification of certain aspects of these issues the following break-down is offered:

1. "Some variation of the Honor System:" (This question is taken up in detail in an article devoted solely to it, which reference is hereby made.)

2. "Reduction of emphasis on exams:" The principle, as stated, seems valid. However, in "deemphasizing" the exam—more particularly "Finals"—it is obvious that the "slack" must be taken up somewhere. Adjustment along the following lines has been suggested:

a. Lessening "lecture" time—in courses where this pertains—and increasing general class discussion in all courses; and evaluating the student on a basis of class participation under fixed values for such participation. Discussion groups, outside reading, specific assignments, and oral and written reports are suggested to implement this program.

b. More and shorter exams or "quizzes."

c. Improved scheduling of exams to eliminate "crowding" of several different courses into a relatively short period, i.e., one week; and more judicious scheduling of last exam or "quiz" to prevent conflict with "Finals," thus eliminating necessity of studying for both at same time.

d. Elimination of comprehensive final.

The above suggestions have no special relationship to each other, and may be used separately or in any combination that is conducive to the desired end.

3. Improved Student-Faculty Relations: This item, we believe, is more a matter of "state of mind" than anything else.—And it works both ways, for student as well as faculty member, and vice-versa. It is not the sort of thing that can be legislated or ruled upon. It must come of itself, spontaneously—or not at all. We believe, however, that there are certain steps that could be taken towards "inducing" such a "state of mind." We repeat our basic premise, however: Unless all—repeat all—concerned are willing to enter the program with the attitude of desiring, and working towards, making it succeed the cause is doomed from the start.

The following suggestions have been made towards improving relations between Faculty and Student Body:

a. Any program of this nature must start in the classroom, for with unsatisfactory conditions here, all the "extra-curricular" activity in the world would be sheer wasted time. In this direction it is suggested that frequent exchange of views take place between instructor and class as a whole in regard to the problems of each and possible means of overcoming them.

b. More frequent conferences between instructor and student individually.

c. More active student and faculty participation in campus activities, such as University Hour, Smoke Talk, Athletic events, etc.

The above is an attempted synthesis of the general basic plan plus what came out of the Mass Meeting last week—on the affirmative side, of course, which, as we have said,

Spring is here. Everything is turning green, including the Christmas jewelry. Have you seen the lovely women's campus furnishings? They'll get a suntan if it kills them. I'm a fascinating shade of purple, myself.

The mass meeting concerning the honor system was a good one, but the idea wasn't as some people took it. I overheard one say, after reading the pamphlet, "Gee, I never thought of doing THAT."

Tsk, tsk, that ain't the idea—besides, it's better to type them on Kleenex. (TO FACULTY—That's a joke, I have to write something.)

Many girls, including myself, have been corrected recently when we call fraternity men "frat" men. Just to keep things even, from now on call the women "co-educational students"—none of this coed business any more.

There was a big bad mistake in last week's "Less Said." Dick Wells is NOT ringed to Joan Carey. It's Dick Williams. That was a real shock for all concerned. Can't you picture it? Dick Wells waiting at the altar for Joan—introductions have to be made—then the ceremony goes on. So Wells says to Williams, "You can have her, go on." Poor Wells, he doesn't know what he's missing.

Passing Thoughts—The notice posted on the Dean's bulletin board is headed "Scholastic indexes by living groups." What about the dead ones? Why do orchestras play so many be-bop numbers at formal? It's rough on the gals. And I imagine that the boys don't like being swirled into a bunch of net and landing on the floor, too. When is the path that leads over to U Hall going to be paved? I'm tired of cinders. They hurt. If it isn't paved soon, will we be given special lates to get into classes for the extra time it takes to empty out our shoes. Why do the shorties (not I) always get the way-up-high mail boxes, and the tall ones get the go-ahead-get-down-on-your-knees boxes? When you see a fellow groveling in the floor of the post office, he hasn't been drinking elderberry wine with a dash of strychnine in it, he's just trying to see what's in the darned box. And OOOhhh the language! I should think it would be to the moral advancement of the University to build the mail boxes at decent heights.

Latest crack—(thanks to Bob Neimeyer)—Joan of Arc fought for France because the dolphin had a porpoise in life. He had to fish for that one. I think it's mighty shady, but don't flounder.

How corny can you get? The answer is—quite.

Well, it's been rough, see you next week.

The Honor System or

"My Best Friend Turned Stoolie"

Why is it that just about this time of year a few pious souls decide that there is too much sharing of knowledge between bosom buddies? Could they possibly be a wee bit afraid of final exams? Are they trying to get rid of finals under the guise of the Honor System?

Exams will not be dropped like hot cakes; exams are a necessary evil to judge an individual's assimilation powers. If an individual's merits were judged on a test to test basis, everybody would be an "A" student. The only possible way is to have a comprehensive exam which covers a little of what one should really know. If the exam does happen to be overwhelming, it is because of lack of knowledge or maybe it was made too stiff. However, exams are based on the class average and besides they more than likely are marked on a curve. The "A" student still comes out on top.

I don't see where any exam leads to cheating. Cheating is a basic quality bestowed by a poor environment. Any individual who

Univ. Alumnae To Hold Elections

Mrs. Elsie Stapleton, nationally-known budget adviser, will be the principal speaker on May 14 at the reunion banquet of the University of Delaware's Alumnae Association. Miss M. Gertrude Holloway, reunion chairman, announced today.

The banquet at which Mrs. Stapleton will speak, climaxing the annual May Day and Alumnae Day activities for former women students at Delaware, will be held at 6:30 p.m. in Kent Hall at Newark. Reservations are being received at the alumnae office, Purnell Hall, by Mina Press Brown, alumnae executive secretary.

Mrs. Stapleton, a lecturer and writer of wide experience, is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin who has been consulted by thousands of families throughout the country for advice on handling incomes from very small to large, according to Miss Holloway. Her talk to the alumnae, "Spending for Happiness," also is the title of her most recent book, which will be published two days earlier.

Miss Holloway announced members of the committees who are assisting with arrangements for individual class reunions.

The committees are in charge of the several luncheons and a tea which classes will hold during the day's program, which also will include a banquet and alumnae attendance at May Day festivities, a reception, an E52 performance of "The Glass Menagerie," and the May Day dance.

The class of 1919, which will have a luncheon at 1 p.m. at the home of Mrs. R. O. Bausman, 91 West Park Place, Newark, has Dr. Mary C. Dennison as chairman of arrangements. She is assisted by Miss Elizabeth M. Jones. Other class plans, and their committees are: Class of 1924 (tea, 3 to 5 p.m., Sussex Hall) Miss Greta McKinsey, Chairman; Miss Marjorie Burns, Mrs. Harold W. Clift, Miss C. Louise Jackson, and Mrs. Eugene L. Lynam; Class of 1929 (luncheon, 1 p.m., home of Miss Estelle Wheelless, 232 Orchard Road, Newark) Mrs. William F. Adams, Jr., Chairman; Mrs. Charles Bicking, Miss Estelle Wheelless, and Mrs. Louis Levinson; Class of 1934 (luncheon, 1 p.m., Alchemists Corner, Hotel DuPont) Mrs. J. NOTICE FOR THE REVIEW

At the request of the Trade Book Staff, the Student Government Association has submitted a list of books which they consider worth stocking. We appreciate this cooperation, for after all, this bookstore is here to serve the students, and their interests and desires are worth consideration. We will order all suggested books not now on the shelves.

Many students come in and browse a bit, and we want more to come. There are a large number of books reasonably priced which are worth buying, reading, and keeping for future reference. The Art prints are also reasonably priced, and are by old Masters as well as the modern ones. Come in and look around and if you have constructive criticism, give it. This store is for your use. Help us to make it useful to you.

Industrialists See Normalcy Nearing

Five industrialists were guests of Delaware's Student Branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers at the monthly dinner meeting on April 26, for a panel discussion of "What Lies Ahead?" The guests were Newlin T. Booth, president of Deemer Steel Casting Company; Frederick C. Evans, plant manager of Edge Moor Plant, Pigments Department, Du Pont Company; Alfred L. Glaeser, Power Plant Engineer, Engineering Department, Hercules Powder Company; LeRoy A. Grettum, vice-president and general manager, Pusey and Jones Corporation; and Nathaniel L. Moyer, Personnel Department, Diamond State Telephone Company. Dean David L. Arm was moderator for the evening's discussion relative to employment prospects for the graduating engineers.

In answer to the student members' questions, the industrialists indicated that the current trend of business in general, construction, and employment was approaching normalcy. Mr. Grettum felt that graduates should realize that the past few years were unusual and that in normal times the majority of students do not immediately step into job of their first choice. He emphasized the importance of the engineer developing his ability of self-expression.

Mr. Evans discussed the value of the fundamentals of public speaking in contacts with individual people and importance of observing reactions. Mr. Booth felt that self-analysis is of great value and far too often not practiced by the graduate.

The group indicated that an engineering education provides an excellent background for forms of business other than professional engineering. Emphasis was placed on the graduate knowing what he wants to do. Mr. Moyer indicated the success of engineers engaged in non-engineering work with his company. He commented on the value of training in fundamentals of economics, elementary accounting, statistics, and human relations for engineers entering the profession or other business.

Mr. Glaeser started the discussion with remarks on the stress currently placed on education to gain material wealth. He indicated we also attend college to gain spiritually and morally. He said "What comes to us is not because of education but in spite of it."

Dean Arm in summarizing, indicated to the students that they must develop their ability to get along with their fellow men.

During the business session prior to the discussion, Edward H. Elliott, 57 Thomas Circle, Newark, was elected chairman of the branch for the next term. He is a member of the class of 1950. Other members of next year's senior class elected to offices were: Vice-Chairman, Albert G. McCauley Jr., 117 Curtis Avenue, Woodcrest, Wilmington; Secretary, Richard C. Higgins, Seaford, and Treasurer, Benjamin E. Herring, 250 Pennside, New Castle. Edward C. Lawson Jr., assistant professor of Mechanical Engineering, was re-elected honorary chairman.

19 Delegates Attend Convention

To the Middle Atlantic Province Newman Club Convention, which was held on April 29, 30 and May 1, in the Willard Hotel in Washington, D. C., nineteen delegates were sent from the University of Delaware. Ed Valkiyes, a former president of the Newman Club and former editor of the Review, was elected by unanimous vote to the office of chairman of the province for the next year. Mary Grant, the former recording secretary of the club, was elected to the position of corresponding secretary for the province.

Colleges and universities in Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware, Virginia, and Washington, D. C., are included in the Middle Atlantic Province. Sessions included addresses by the Very Rev. Msgr. John S. Spence, educational director for the archdiocese of Washington; Dr. Harry C. Byrd, President of the University of Maryland; the Rev. Joseph E. Schieder, youth director of the National Catholic Welfare Conference; the Rev. Leonard P. Cowley, national chaplain of the Newman Clubs; and Dr. Francis J. O'Connor, professor of history at Georgetown University. At the many panel meetings, problems of the various clubs were discussed.

At the meeting of the Newman Club which was held on May 3 the following officers were elected for the coming semester: Stan Bliski, president; Gene Dougherty, vice-president; Marie Hutchison, corresponding secretary; Marge Nuding, recording secretary; Jim McFadden, treasurer. Plans are being made for the club picnic which will be held on the afternoon of Sunday, May 15.

The next meeting of the Newman Club will be held on May 17 at 7:45 in the Lounge of Old College.

Hugh Dougherty, a member of the Sigma Nu Fraternity, has been elected President of the Inter-Fraternity Council for the coming year. The Council, the representative regulatory body for the nine national fraternities on campus, also elected Wray Hushbeck, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Vice President; Andy Korenyi, Phi Kappa Tau, Secretary; and Gary Greenstein, Alpha Epsilon Pi, Treasurer.

Dougherty succeeds Harry Smith, of Kappa Alpha. Other retiring officers include: Jim Clements, Sigma Nu, Vice President; Frank Balling, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Secretary; and Frank Wasik, Phi Kappa Tau, Treasurer.

Sigma Nu

The Sigma Nu's have been working feverishly to clear the field for the scholastic drive which must follow in the oncoming weeks. Under a comprehensive spring cleaning program, instigated by House Manager Dick Prettyman, floors are being waxed, screens are being installed, strategic parts of the house have been painted, and a general clean-up is under way.

Cy Clements and his choir finished up a busy week of practice on Sunday night in order that they might put on a good showing at the interfraternity song fest. Howard Hitchens, sacrificing some sleep and what little spare time he had, whipped the Sigma Nu players into shape for the big performance on Monday night.

The slugging Sigma Nu "A" baseball team marked up their first victory in their initial game of the season. Coach Bill Gordon and his men have made a good start in their defense of the interfraternity baseball championship which we won last year.

Our "A" volleyball team has so far maintained a perfect score of three wins and no losses. Under Hugh Dougherty's coaching, the team has turned into a smooth running, well coordinated group.

M. M. Carpenter Wins Eng. Award

A paper by Marshall M. Carpenter, Jr., of 400 Rodman Road, Gordon Heights, Wilmington, a senior electrical engineering student at the University of Delaware, has won first prize in a competition held among engineers of several colleges of this area, under auspices of the Philadelphia Section, American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

Carpenter's paper, which was written as a result of work in the senior electrical engineering courses at Delaware, was on "Methods of Indicating Phase Displacement Between Periodic Electric Waves." He will receive the AIEE award on May 9 at a meeting of the section at the Engineers Club, Philadelphia.

Carpenter presented the same paper recently at a district meeting of student AIEE branches at Pittsburgh, where he represented the U. of D. student branch. His paper had been judged best in the Delaware branch after local competition.

Frosh Stickmen Thumped In Opener by Penn State

Coach Rawstrom's yearling lacrosse team went down fighting before an experienced Penn State Frosh team, April 27. The Blue Chicks were completely out-manned as State threw in one Frosh team after another while our boys had to rely on our five reserves. At the end of the first quarter, the Hens were on the short end of a 3-1 score as a result of their tallies by the red hot attack man Bill Reed of State.

The Chick goal came as a result of midfielder Don Cherr's sizzling bounce shot into the net. Cherr played an outstanding game at mid-field all afternoon as he led the scorers with 2 goals. Paul Catts and Klaus Drobeck contributed to the cause by one tally each.

Scorers: Del.: Cherr 2, Drobeck, Catts. Penn State: Reed 4, Eagle 4, Bigony 2, Price 2, Roberts.

Coach Martin's Hen nine dropped the gang from Johns Hopkins last week for their fifth conference win without a set back, to maintain a substantial lead for the league play. For an overall record the team boasts ten wins and three losses, which holds prediction for a fine season. Keep it up gang and let's bounce Bucknell on Saturday.

THE SPORTSMAN

The Baseball Hens continue to dominate Southern Middle Atlantic Conference competition. Saturday's 8-1 shellacking of Johns Hopkins brought their conference record to 5 and 0 and their overall season record of 10 wins and three losses. Stingy hurling by Doc Green, Claymont alumnus, and circuit blows by Ted Youngling and George Frederick were too much for the Baltimore invaders. Green fanned 10 Jays and limited them to six safeties and one run, while his mates totaled nine hits for eight runs.

Ken Steers' trackmen were slowed to a gallop by a well-balanced Franklin and Marshall track team at Lancaster. In bowling 90-36 the Hens collected only two firsts out of the 14 events. Jim Holden, only Hen to remain unbeaten this year, nevertheless produced one of the top performances of the day with a 185' 8 1/2" javelin heave. Jack Gallagher supplied the other five-pointer with a 40' 9" mark in the shot put. Bilski and Cofer notched second and third places in the event to give Delaware its lone sweep of the day.

On the Swarthmore cinders Tuesday the thinclads bowed 71 1/2 to 44 1/2. Frank Lanza was a double winner, taking firsts in the century and 220 yard dashes. His 23.4 seconds time in the latter was excellent on the soggy track. Before the meet the squad elected Gallagher and Lanza co-captains for next year's team. Both have featured themselves among top Delaware performers for the past two seasons.

The Blue and Gold was represented in the Penn Relays by the freshman mile relay team which placed fourth behind Villanova, Fordham, and Cornell in the first of two heats. Frosh from Temple, Centre, Penn State, and Swarthmore trailed in that order behind the Chicks. The Delaware quartet was composed of Dutch Harper, Tom McKenna, Len Clapp, and Tom Baylis.

Coach Brunansky's golfers defeated once in six outings, completely outclassed their Drexel visitors at the Newark Country club Saturday to win easily, 8 1/2 to 1 1/2—Golf class is most any afternoon.

The Lacrosse men won their first official victory at West Chester, 6-3. Phil Genthner, Bob Kelleher, Don Swan, George Bailey, Frank Guthridge, and Dick Dantel netted goals for the conquering Hens. Their next home battle is set for May 7 when they will wrap sticks with the University of Virginia.

Also winners over the weekend were the Jones racketeers who out-manuevered Ursinus in tennis 7-2. Bob Kirkland, John Hovesepian, Dick Ryan, Bob Dunlap, and Ed Clark won in singles competition while Tom Runk was the only loser. Kirkland and Hovesepian teamed to win their doubles match as did Ryan and Dunlap. Clark and Runk dropped a close number three doubles as the Bears gained their second point.

Notes on baseball include several about Bob Hoch, peppery port-sider, who is mixing his education at Delaware with professional baseball during the summer. Last year with the Fresno (Cal.) Cardinals he won a total of 15 mound victories against only three losses. "Hooch" was especially effective in his club's successful pennant drive as he repeatedly beat their chief contenders. Cool, conscientious work and sportsmanlike conduct won the respect of his player mates as well as the loop's fans. This appreciation was shown when his backers sponsored a "Hoch Night" which netted him many valuable gifts, the best of which was an expenses paid trip for his parents, who live in Bridgeville, so that they could share in his glory hour.

This year Hoch will pitch for the Allentown Cardinals in the Inter-State League. He cites this as the test which will make or delay his future plans, since the critical and expecting eye of local fans will be on his every pitch. Have it your way Bob; we're wishing you the best of luck. He'll join his new club immediately after the shackles are taken off in June.

Hens Score Victory In Lacrosse Battle

It was a real Delhen squad that defeated Franklin and Marshall 5 to 2 on April 29 on the Diplomats' field. This is the same F & M team that Delaware beat last year 10 to 1 and 11 to 2. The Hens seemed to be working in a daze all afternoon. Delaware controlled the ball throughout the game, but they just couldn't start any scoring spree. Maybe this will help tell the story: Delaware took 46 shots at the goal while the Dip goalie made only fifteen saves. The Hens played alternately good and bad ball all afternoon, not the consistent type of play we would like to see. Delaware started hot in the first quarter with goals by Thistlewaite and Swain, but that was all the scoring by Delaware until in the third quarter when the Blue Hen defense made two miscues that resulted in the two Dip goals. Gordy Bierman quickly retaliated by burning in a hard shot to put the Hens ahead again. Don Swain led the attack with these tallies which clinched scoring honors. Ace Hoffstein entered his first lacrosse fray.

Hopkins and Gettysburg Bow; Give Del. Perfect Record

The University of Delaware baseball team defeated two more opponents last week giving themselves a perfect record so far in the Southern Division of the Middle Atlantic States Conference with five wins and no losses. Altogether, the Hens have won 10 and lost 3, during the season.

Last Wednesday on Frazer Field, the Delaware nine tripped the Gettysburg Bullets, 3-2, after the visitors had taken a 2-0 lead. The Bullets scored their first run in the third inning when Huntzinger doubled, reached third on a fielder's choice, and crossed the plate on a single. They scored again in the fourth with a walk, fielder's choice, and a high throw to second by Thorpe, Coach Martin's boys fought back in the fifth to tie the score on a pair of bunts by Joe Helm and Joe Pennock. Helm was allowed to score on Pennock's sacrifice. Then Al Thorpe grounded out and Pennock scored the tying marker, coming home on George Frederick's single. With the score knotted until the seventh, Delaware scored the winning run with two outs against them, Thorpe and Frederick had both singled and a hit to center field by Joe Higgins was all that was necessary to bring Thorpe across.

Freshman Sports

Coach Marty Pierson's Frosh baseball team was rained out of its opener against West Nottingham Academy last Monday, May 2. Because of heavy showers in the last half of the third inning, the game was postponed until Thursday afternoon.

Jack Cordrey, a southpaw from Laurel, Delaware, started on the mound for Delaware and was still in action when precipitation ended the contest. Although allowing but four hits, he was tagged for a home run by West Nottingham's very first batter. Al Broadhag worked behind the plate. At the end of three and one-half innings, the score was 4 to 4, but this, of course, does not count as a regular game.

The Freshmen will meet their next rival on Saturday afternoon when they journey to meet the West Chester Teachers' J.V. aggregation. On Monday they take on Penn State Freshmen from Swarthmore here on Frazer Field. Their schedule has been extended to seven games by the addition of a pair of contests.

LACROSSE—

The Freshman Lacrosse team lost its initial attempt last week at the hands of the Penn State Frosh at Swarthmore by a score of 13-4. They met the Swarthmore J.V. today at home. Dick Foster has been elected team captain.

TRACK—

A mile relay team representing Delaware's Freshman class traveled up to the Penn Relays last Saturday. The team, which consisted of Bob Harper, Tom McKenna, Leonard Clapp, and Tom Baylis (running in that order), came in fourth in their heat, which was won by Villanova with a time of 3 minutes, 22 seconds. Two heats were run.

The Freshman mile relay was won by the Seton Hall quartet who covered the distance in 3:20. Their anchor man, a Negro named Charlie Slade, covered his 440 in no more than 48:30, which is phenomenal, to say the least.

The Frosh thinclads meet their next opponent, Johns-Hopkins, on May 11.

Long Dead Coeds Donate Old Tomes

For the first time since the old Pestalozzi Literary Society of Delaware College expired with the end of the college's early co-education period sixty-four years ago, books from the society's library have passed into the possession of a "successor," the Memorial Library of the University of Delaware.

William D. Lewis, librarian for the University, said that two books which once were in the Pestalozzi library, had been received from the estate of Miss Lena Evans. Miss Evans, a lifelong resident of Newark, who died January 1, was a member of the society during her own Delaware College student days.

The books are "Men and Manners in America One Hundred Years Ago," edited by H. E. Scudder, published by Scribners in 1876, and "A Compendium of Grecian Antiquities," by C. D. Cleveland, published by Hilliard in 1838.

The Pestalozzi Society, named to honor Johann Heinrich Pestalozzi, Swiss educational reformer, was a young woman's literary group which for about a decade paralleled the Delta Phi and Athenaeon societies, the better-known organizations of men students. Pestalozzi existed from approximately 1876 to 1885, when the co-education experiment was abandoned, according to Mr. Lewis.

In addition, the Memorial Library received a manuscript catalog of all books which constituted the Pestalozzi library, together with the names of all students who borrowed volumes. There also is the manuscript copy of the society's constitution. The various books and papers apparently were left with Miss Evans when the society was disbanded, in the vain hope that she, as a Newark resident, might be able to help it reorganize if co-education ever returned.

Other material received from Miss Evans' estate includes thirty-four small manuscript volumes of notations made by her father, George G. Evans, in account books and other business records as long as a century ago.

Records of a brickyard operated in the 1840's by Mr. Evans on a site where the Knoll now is situated, show that bricks were made there for St. Thomas' Episcopal church and for the old Presbyterian church, which was on East Main street where St. John's Catholic church now stands. They also indicate that among the other buildings in Newark made with bricks from the Evans yard included the present College Inn structure. The library also acquired a dozen account books of the Evans' general store which was in that building, where the Poffenberger photographic studio now is located.

cheats at exams will be found to cheat at anything. Pick up any newspaper and you will see cheating at its best. That is why society needs a police force. There will always be cheating. The only way to stop it is to have a proctor for each student.

As for the paradox of the Honor System, it approximates too closely the methods used by the one-time hero of Germany. Not knowing who turned you in, smacks of a low order of rottenness. I have absolutely nothing but contempt for the individual seen cheating, but I still wouldn't turn him in on the sly. There are two low characters that don't have any excuse whatsoever, a thief who steals personal belongings and a squealer. However, there isn't anything wrong with an instructor turning in somebody found cheating. In the first place, it is his job and secondly it is in the open.

In concluding, I wish to state that I have nothing against the Honor System. There are more ways than one to skin a cat and so here is my solution:

For those who feel that exams are unfair I would like to propose open book exams. In working with a group of engineers a while back, I had trouble in not tripping over all sorts of manuals lying around.

As for cheating; there is only one solution—MORE PROCTORS!

According to statistics, in the majority of state universities, it was found to be a failure. The Panel can also verify the fact that the Honor System was dropped at Delaware back in the 30's.

Afterthought: Some of you people wearing those rose-colored glasses take them off and stamp on them so that you can see and avoid the people with knives in their hands and smiles on their faces.

Next week—Girls on the Campus.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

course and is warned that if he is ever convicted for violation of the Code again he will be immediately expelled from the University.

The above is only a brief picture of the structure on which the Hopkins System rests. The System is entirely in the hands of the student as is practically every working Honor System.

Now, you wonder, what benefit does the student get from all this? First of all, the Honor System eliminates the necessity of having proctors and the resulting feeling of tension and strain caused by their presence. A student is placed entirely on his honor and is treated as any lady or gentleman would expect to be treated—not like potential criminals who cannot be trusted alone as under the proctor system. A student may take the full three hours he needs to complete the final exam and is not high-pressured into cramming three hours work into a fifty minute period. Pressure and tension are reduced to a minimum. No proctors stand over you like the spell of doom.

The advent of an Honor System will almost immediately bring about better student-faculty relations. No longer are you the suspected cheat, thief, or skulking prowler that you are automatically considered to be under the Proctor System. How could you be treated otherwise by the Faculty when it is known that the Head of one of the schools here at Delaware is forced to remind all the Faculty members of his Departments not to leave any copies of exams around their offices but to bring them in to the Dean's office to be locked in a safe because there are duplicate keys to practically every office in the Department in the hands of students who periodically raid and ransack offices at Examination time? How could there be any trust or confidence on the part of either students or Faculty when such conditions exist?

Another thing that should be made clear here is that the Honor System can be the one unifying force on any campus. No matter how diverse or how far apart each School in the University is otherwise, we each will have one thing that we will share in common with every other student—no matter what School of the University he may be in.

In conclusion, I would like to say that no one expects an Honor System to be a cure-all or to completely change the campus overnight. There are Honor Systems that work and those that don't work. The main reason for an Honor System not working seems to be Faculty interference of one kind or another or apathy on the part of the students. Therefore, for a successful System to be installed here, the Faculty will have to cooperate in every way and the students will have to accept wholeheartedly the responsibility which will be theirs. So, in view of the obvious and evident failure of the Proctor System on this campus, it certainly seems that the adoption of some form of an Honor System would be a step in the right direction.

Du Pont Man To Show New Chem.

A demonstration to have been given on Monday night, May 2, at the University of Delaware, by Larry F. Livingston, manager of the extension division of the Du Pont Company, has been postponed until May 16.

The meeting, at 8 p. m., in the auditorium of the chemistry building, will be open to students and the public, as well as to members of the men's faculty club, which is sponsoring the program.

Mr. Livingston will demonstrate developments some of which are so new that they are still in the experimental or evaluation stage. His emphasis will be on the products as they affect the consumer. He will discuss some of the things yet to come, and also tell the story of nylon, lucite and other chemical discoveries.

We are mature people even though we are students, and most of us learned long ago that anything really worth having comes at a high price, and to cut down the price only cuts down the quality of the product in proportion.

PRODUCING METALLIC TITANIUM FOR INDUSTRIAL EVALUATION

Du Pont group research developed a pilot plant with daily capacity of 100 pounds

Du Pont research has just made available to industry what may become one of America's key structural materials, titanium metal. Midway in density between aluminum and iron and with an especially high melting point, silvery-white titanium offers an extraordinary combination of strength, lightness, corrosion resistance and hardness.

Titanium is the ninth most common element. But it has been slow in coming into its own as a metal because of the difficulty of separating it in pure form from its ores.

Du Pont scientists first began to probe the possibilities of metallic titanium in the course of their long experience with the titanium oxide pigments. Their research was interrupted by World War II. Meanwhile, the U.S. Bureau of Mines laboratories succeeded in producing the metal for research purposes.

After the war, Du Pont scientists developed a process for the production of ductile titanium metal that can be scaled up to meet commercial demands. The research team that mastered the complex problem consisted of chemical engineers specializing in design and production, as well as chemists and a metallurgist. In September 1948, a pilot plant was opened with a daily capacity of 100 pounds. Titanium metal is now being produced in sponge and ingot form. Samples are available to industrial and college laboratories with research projects in related fields. Studies of methods for forming, machining and alloying are under way.

Exhaustive studies will be necessary before the many possibilities of titanium metal can be known. Because of its high ratio of strength to weight, early uses may be in airplane power plants and structural parts. Its hardness and rust-resistance recommend it for railroad transportation equipment, marine power plants and propellers, and food packaging equipment. Its high melting point suggests use in pistons, and its resistance to electric currents points to electronics. Titanium wire may be used for springs and titanium sheet for such highly stressed parts as microphone diaphragms.

Your Opportunity in Research

The commercial development of titanium metal is a typical example of Du Pont research in action. However, the Pigments Department, which worked out the process, is but one of the ten Du Pont manufacturing departments. Each conducts continuous research. Each is operated much like a separate company. Within these "companies"—whose interests range from heavy

Alpha Tau Omega

The Alpha Taus took great pleasure in serenading Miss Jane Kitchen after Brother Dan Tynan pinned her at the picnic held on the 24th of April. What an effect that weekend must have had!

After weeks of rehearsing for the L.F.C. Playbill and Songfest, the A.T.O.'s are going to do their best to bring victory! It has been decided unanimously that Pledge-Brother Clark MacWright should have been a girl! What a ravishing beauty he'd have made. Forceful Bob Hoch was a natural for the hero of the A.T.O. "epic." Brother Bob Hopkins did a lion's share of the work required to make a success of our production. Brother George Long has shots ringing in his ears.

Johnny Wells has also pinned Kitty Hughes! Congratulations, pal! Tex Franklin and Roland Mills have recently assumed their new duties as L.F.C. delegate and alternate respectively. Plans are being laid for the final social function presented with the Maryland Psi Award to the most outstanding member of the Delaware Epsilon Rho Chapter.

Dela Tau Delta

The Delts will hold a buffet supper and dance at the Shelter this Saturday night. A four piece combo has been contracted from Wilmington and will supply the music for the Delts and their guests. Weather permitting the supper will be served outside on the spacious lawn surrounding the D.T.D. Chateau.

On Sunday, May 15th Brother Jack Christfield is giving a picnic and all the Brothers and pledges have been cordially invited. Brother "Chris" hasn't as yet received any refusals to his kind invitation.

Brother Harv Day is to be awarded The General J. Ernest Smith Prize for excellence in Military Science and Tactics as the outstanding student in the first year advanced class of ROTC. Brother Day is candidate for Senior Class President. He served as Chapter President during the 48-49 term.

Brother Leon B. Stayton Jr. will be awarded one of the Reserve Officers Association Medals, presented by the Wilmington Reserve Officers Association to the students of ROTC graduating who have been designated by the PMS&T, with concurrence of the President of the University, as Distinguished Military Students. Brother Stayton served two terms as Chapter Treasurer.

Recently the Delts pledged three men:

Thomas F. O'Donnell, a freshman in the School of Arts and Science, who hails from Wilmington. Tom is very active in the E-52 Players and in sports. Edward A. Milligan, a freshman in the School of Engineering, hails from Wilmington and is assistant manager of the Tennis Team. Robert Johnson, a junior in the School of Arts and Science majoring in Business Administration. He is a party boy like the rest of us—no talent, but we enjoy ourselves.

Phi Kappa Tau

Friday evening, April 29, opened the Phi Kappa Tau week-end at the DuPont Country Club, near Wilmington. Pleasant atmosphere was effected by the smooth music of Stan Barton and his "Royalists," plus the opportunity to chat and relax in the very spacious lounges and club rooms where refreshments were served. One of the highlights of the dance was the work of our own Charlie Lebegern in the vocal department.

Saturday evening featured a scavenger hunt from 8 'til 10 and dancing at the house from 10 'til 12. The hunt was divided into teams of three couples each who hunted for such items as: inner tubes, 1932 nickels, magazine subscriptions, and locks of curly hair. The winning team was composed of: Charlie Lebegern and Esther Rawleigh; Jim Maxwell and Kae Fretz; and Pie Schiltz and Johnnie Potts. Each of the winning ladies received a Fifth Avenue compact as an award for winning.

Although the weather tried to say "no" the picnic still went on at White Clay Creek. All types of recreation (including swimming in full dress) and plenty of food and drinks were enjoyed by all. By 10 o'clock everyone had returned to his respective quarters where the recent events became fond memories.

Phi Kappa Tau expresses deep appreciation to: Dr. and Mrs. Fischer, Dr. and Mrs. Lane, Professor and Mrs. Zozzora, and Mr. and Mrs. Weiksel for a fine job in chaperoning over the week-end. Phi Tau also is very grateful for the fine response of the other fraternities in being represented at the dance, house party, and picnic.

Phi Kappa Tau expresses its thanks to Francis Hammond for a fine job in directing our part of the play and sing fest on Monday and Wednesday evening of this week.

Theta Chi

Last Friday night, Theta Chi held its annual formal dance at the Newark Country Club, and with perfect weather for a change, the evening was a wonderful success. Woody Leigh and his orchestra supplied the appropriately dreamy music with an occasional digression into Dixieland Jazz that really sent our brothers from the South-Sussex County, that is. The highlight of the evening came at intermission when President Bill Dolby announced that Miss Ann Kuhn was chosen as the "Sweetheart of Theta Chi" by the brothers. As the members gathered around singing Sammy Kay's Dream Girl of Theta Chi, Ann was presented with a Sweetheart Pin and then her escort Walter Ellis waltzed her to the center of the dance floor, as other couples gradually joined in. After the dance, parties at various locations, including Brandywine Tavern and at Brother George Lindenkohl's furnished the perfect end to a perfect evening.

The following night a house party was held making sure no one suffered from lack of exposure to a good time. On hand to keep everyone entertained were the "Iron-Hill Mountain Boys" featuring Bill Dolby, Bob Schenck, Bob Hunter, and Bob Downing. Freddy "Peter Lorre" Hartmann, M. C.'d and succeeded in scaring the daylights out of the weaker guests with some excellent imitations. When Ray McCarthy made his inevitable appearance, Hank Paris almost stole the show by adding a few punch lines of his own to Ray's repertoire.

Next week-end a group of stout-hearted Theta Chi's will be "Down to the Sea in Ships" on a fishing trip. Watch out Lewes here we come.

Sigma Phi Epsilon

The III District Convention of SPE is being held here this week-end, May 7 and 8. Approximately fifty-four representatives from Johns Hopkins University, Lehigh University, Muhlenberg College, University of Pennsylvania, and Temple University will be present. President Joe Baldwin will begin the convention with an address of welcome and then a delegate from each chapter will present a paper and lead the discussion on the various subjects to be handled. These subjects will be discussed: Rushing and Pledging by delegate of the Muhlenberg chapter; Pledge Training by delegate of the Temple chapter; Chapter House Management and Administration by delegate of the U. of P. chapter; Alumni Relations by Slim Mullin of this chapter; Internal Dissension by delegate of the Lehigh chapter; Inter-Chapter Relations by delegates of the U. of P. chapter and Temple chapter. Dean J. Fenton Daugherty, National Scholarship Chairman, Phi Kappa Psi Fraternity will give an address on Scholarship, and Charles S. Thompson, Grand Vice-President, Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity, will conclude the program by giving an address on Fraternity Ideals.

It is the purpose of this annual convention to hear how the chapters in this district handle the various subjects, so that each chapter will formulate ideas to overcome certain difficulties and put these ideas into practice in the coming year. This convention is also an excellent chance for the fraternity members of Sig Ep to become acquainted with one another thus binding the district unit closer together.

Saturday night there will be a house party for all the Convention representatives and their dates. There will be entertainment under the direction of Dick Heitmiller, Social Chairman.

Congratulations to Bob Burk for doing a good job as director of the fraternity play, "Death Calls for the Doctor."

Alpha Epsilon Pi

The AEPI men have fully recuperated from their week-end—with a few exceptions. We got together to put on an entry in the Interfraternity Playbill and Song Fest under the direction of Stan Rosen and Dave Bunin. The play presented was Eugene O'Neill's "Bound East for Cardiff." The cast included Stan Rosen, Gary Greenstein, Arnie Greenhouse, Bob Herold, Norm Glassman, Larry Lipstien, Eddie Engel, Dave Bunin, Armand Braiger, Joe Yucht, and Bob Silverman.

The chorus presented the "Whiffenpoof Song," "When Day Is Done," and "The Sweetheart of AEPI." Appearing in the chorus were Jack Herrmann, Al Bellak, Eddie Engel, Stan Rosen, Bob Silverman, and Joe Horowitz.

Quite a few of the brothers are looking forward to the May Day Dance which will be well attended by the A. E. P.'s.

One of the hottest of the oldies, "Crazy Rhythm", comes back with a sock, the way Skitch and his band revive it! Skitch Henderson is great at putting a smooth-modern touch on an old favorite. Hansel and Gretel Set for May 7th

"Hansel and Gretel," children's classic, will be presented in Mitchell Hall on Friday, May 6, at 7 p.m., and on Saturday, May 7, at 2:30 p.m., by the E-52 Players.

Complete with the gingerbread house, witch's oven, and a candy cage, the play features Ellen McQuaid as Gretel, and Robert Niemeyer as Hansel. Others in the cast are: the stepmother, Margaret Guenveur; father, Howard Hitchens; witch, Amanda Abbott; and sandman, William Whedbee. Mrs. Elizabeth Kase is directing the play, which has already been performed in seven schools throughout the state.

The unaffected acclaim of children, from among more than 4,000 who saw "Hansel and Gretel" when the University of Delaware's E-52 Players presented it at seven schools recently, still is being received by the Players as they rehearse for two final performances of the play at Newark this weekend. In neat, painstaking scripts or careful, inch-high block letters, pupils of most of the schools are writing their thanks to the Players, according to Mrs. Case. In each case, the "thank-you" letters have included invitations to return next year with another play for children.

Music from the score for "Hansel and Gretel" by Humperdinck is also featured during the performance. There will be no reserved seats, but tickets bought in advance will preclude waiting in line. Tickets are available by mail from the box office, at the Newark High school and at the Newark Department Store.

The first meeting of the Honor System Committee was held on Monday, May 2. The committee was found to be in agreement on these points:

1. That some type of honor system should be enforced.
2. There is a need to adopt a definite set of regulations.
3. There should be an improvement of student-faculty relations.
4. There should be a de-emphasis of finals.

The major portion of the meeting was spent in analyzing the honor systems of other schools. The committee hopes to incorporate the best features of various systems into the one that they will present.

The University Hour on May 12 will be devoted to the Honor System. At that time, it is hoped that it will be possible to have members of the honor committees of other schools present as speakers. Let's show growing interest in this program that will benefit the entire University.

SUPERSTITIOUS?

Do you have a pet superstition that Friday, the thirteenth, is a jinxed date? On Friday, May 13, the Allison Association will prove to you that it doesn't pay to be superstitious by showing you the best time you ever had for a quarter.

On that date, the Allison Associates are having a picnic supper. We can't tell you where, but we guarantee that there'll be lots of room to play softball, volleyball, and to build a fire. Cars will leave the Presbyterian Church on West Main Street, just off campus at 4:30 p. m. All Presbyterian students and their friends are invited. If you're one of those people who have been meaning to come to an Allison Association Meeting all year, be sure to come to this one.

If you plan to come and haven't been confronted by a contact manager by May 6, get in touch with Arlene McGee, box 829.

O'Neill's Play Will Be Shown at State

"Mourning Becomes Electra," starring Rosalind Russell in the movie version of Eugene O'Neill's theatre classic, will play two nights at the State Theater, Monday and Tuesday, May 9 and 10.

Students and faculty members of the University are requested to buy tickets from members of the Newark Chapter of the Alumnae Association, which is sponsoring this film as a benefit.
