The St. Mark's High School volleyball team celebrated last Saturday night at the University of Delaware's Bob Carpenter Center after winning its second consecutive state championship and fourth in five years. The Spartans, who finished with a 23-0 record, beat Ursuline Academy 15-9, 15-7. See story, page 21.

Anti-busing coalition formed Christina parents want children closer to home

By SHARON R. COLE

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

A group of Christina School District parents have joined forces to eliminate busing and reinstate neighborhood schools.

During the Nov. 9 school board meeting, two parents representing a group called Coalition for Neighborhood Schools (CNS) confronted board members with the disadvantages of student busing and requested that they take steps to redistribute children back to schools closest to their home.

The coalition was formed when a group of parents with third graders at Maclary Elementary School became concerned about their children being separated and bused for grades five and six.

After learning that parents within the Red Clay School District founded a coalition for such a cause last March, the Maclary group decided to follow their lead.

As presented by CNS member, Michelle Hersh, the group's goals are to eliminate long bus rides and increase parent involvement and accountability which should strengthen the effectiveness of public education.

"(The Red Clay School District Board) has attached annexes to accommodate students at local schools and recently opened the new Brandywine Springs Elementary School," she said.

According to Susan Dickson, CNS representative for Red Clay, district officials and board members have been very responsive to their efforts and are now working to add grades three and four to community schools that currently service grades K-2.

In the late 1970s, the Christina School District abided by mandatory state regulations to implement a busing system only intended to integrate city and suburban area students that would create of a melting pot of children with differing socioeconomic backgrounds, cultures and ethnicity.

As a result, students have been transported from their community to receive an education from grades four to six for the past 20 years.

The mandatory restrictions of that law, however, were lifted three years ago.

Investigation continues at auto assembly plant

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Following nine arrests, Newark Police continued their investigation into drug activity at the DaimlerChrysler Assembly this week.

According to Newark Police Chief Gerald Conway, those arrested were selling to others at the plant. "They sold drugs to our undercover officers who were working at the plant," said Conway. "They probably sold drugs to other employees who have not been charged."

In a joint press conference, police and plant officials announced eight employees and one other person were charged

Landlords fulfill threat

Suit filed to enjoin student home provisions

By MARY E. PETZAK

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Members of the Newark Landlord Association announced this week they have filed a lawsuit challenging the legality of the city of Newark's "Student Home" zoning provisions.

A copy of the unfilled Chancery Court Complaint was hand-delivered to the offices of the Newark Post on Monday. The lawsuit seeks a declaratory judgment that the city's zoning provisions under the ordinance passed in May 1999 are prohibited under the Delaware Fair Housing Act and the Delaware Landlord Tenant Code.

According to the statement released by the Association, "the definition of Student Home singles out post-secondary students, unrelated by blood, marriage, or legal adoption attending or about to attend a college or university for unique and less favorable

POLICE REPORTS

Bank robbery at College Square

Newark Police are investigating a robbery which occurred on Nov. 16 around 10 a.m. at the WSFS Bank in College Square Shopping Center. A suspect described as a black male in his mid-20s, approximately 5 feet, 7 inches tall, 170 pounds, with facial stubble or a chin strap beard, wearing a light-colored knit ski cap, denim-colored sweatshirt, dark pants, construction-type boots and dark sunglasses with oval-shaped lenses, gave the teller a demand note indicating he had a gun. The suspect fled after receiving an undisclosed amount of cash. As he ran across the parking lot toward Pep Boys, a red-dye pack exploded which may have left a distinct red dye on his clothing, skin or in his vehicle. Police believe this suspect is responsible for at least three other bank robberies in New Castle County. Anyone with information is asked to call 366-7111 or Delaware Crimestoppers at TIP-3333.

Pair arrested for shoplifting at Acme

On Nov. 8 around 8:20 p.m., Newark Police arrested Thomas

Stoops, 19, of Newark and Christopher Wilson, 19, of Bear, on charges of shoplifting and conspiracy at Acme in Suburban Plaza.

According to employees, Wilson entered the store and removed 11 bottles of Advil, 20 bottles of Aleve, two bottles of Bayer Aspirin, seven bottles of Tylenol from shelves and put them in a carrier which he covered with two posterboards. He then walked out of the store without paying. A car driven by Stoops was waiting outside the store but it stalled and the pair were chased and detained until police arrived.

Rape charges in motel incident

Charges of statutory rape are pending against an unnamed 19-year-old male after Newark police responded to the Travelodge to assist a mother in picking up her 15-year-old daughter who stayed out all night. Police found the daughter and another 15-year-old girl in the motel room with three 19-20-year-old males.

During the investigation, police determined the second girl had sex with the 19-year-old male who was not present when officers arrived. He was located a short distance away on Ogletown

Road and detained pending further investigation. One of the other males in the room, John Bracy of Prides Court Apartments, was found to be wanted in Pennsylvania on theft charges.

Man seized with marijuana plants

On Nov. 12 around 3:15 a.m., New Castle County Police charged Matthew Erwin, 21, of Town Court Apartments for drug violations.

While investigating a call about disorderly conduct, police observed a glowing light and what appeared to be marijuana in a closet. Police seized four marijuana plants and drug paraphernalia from the home.

Police seek armed robber

Newark Police are seeking a suspect described as a white male, 30-35 years old, 5 feet, 10 inches to 6 feet tall, with a thin build, a beard and mustache, wearing blue jeans and a gray-hooded sweatshirt, who robbed Horton's Mobil, South College Avenue, on Nov. 13 around 7:25 p.m. A 38-year-old female employee told police the man entered the Mobil station and made a purchase. He then demanded money from the clerk and displayed a handgun. He fled after receiving an undisclosed amount of money.

Newark Police, a Cecil County Canine unit, and a Delaware State Police helicopter were used to search the area with negative results. Anyone with information about this incident can call police at 366-7110, ext. 132, or Delaware Crimestoppers at TIP-3333.

Man assaulted during robbery

Newark Police are investigating a robbery which occurred in the 100 block of Winslow Road on Nov. 10 around midnight. The 21-year-old University of Delaware student told police he was walking when a four-door, possibly tan vehicle pulled up beside him. Three unknown suspects, described as males in their mid-to-late teens wearing white tank undershirts, exited the car and assaulted him with wooden clubs. They took his wallet and an undisclosed amount of cash before fleeing.

The victim was taken to Christiana Emergency Room where he was treated and released for cuts to his nose and bruised ribs. Anyone with information about this incident, can call police at 366-7110, ext. 132, or Delaware Crimestoppers at TIP-3333.

For the Record

The Christina School District spent a total of $52,000 for ID tags for students and teachers in all facilities where the tags are presently required. This number was incorrect in last week's Newark Post.

Extension specialist gives scholarship to University

Special to the Newark Post

The first joint agricultural and athletic scholarship at the University of Delaware was announced recently by the College of Agriculture and Natural Resources.

Given by Ed Kee, University of Delaware Cooperative Extension specialist for vegetables, the scholarship will be awarded to a Delaware high school graduate. A student participating in an inter-collegiate sport will receive first consideration.

Kee says he and his wife, Debbie, also a University of Delaware graduate, will contribute $25,000 over the next five years to endow this scholarship.

"Debbie and I wanted to encourage some young person to look at how much this college has to offer, and then to help that person pay their bills," Kee said. "When we decided to give a scholarship to the college, we thought about our personal ties to university sports and realized how few athletes major in agriculture and related fields."

Kee traces his earliest interest in farming and food production to New Castle County where he grew up. While he lived in a typical World War II housing development in town, his dad worked as a food purchaser for the Hotel DuPont.

"Dad would take me along when he bought produce, meats and seafood, and it just intrigued me," he recalled. "How could a box of apples come all the way from Washington, I would wonder. I thought it was so neat!"

By the time Kee was a teenager, he was working on a farm. At the University he majored in plant and soil sciences, earning a bachelor's degree in 1973 and a master's in 1975.

My greatest influence in the College of Agriculture and Natural Resources was Dr. Vernon Fisher, who is now retired and living in California," said Kee. "When I was in my senior year, he had an opening in grad school, and he offered it to me. That opportunity made a huge difference to me professionally because of the doors it opened afterwards."

Kee worked as farm manager for Nassau Orchards outside Lewes, before signing on as Kent County agricultural extension agent in 1978. He moved into his current position as extension specialist for vegetable crops in 1982, working out of the University's Research and Education Center in Georgetown.

"My background at the college, followed by my working as a farm manager and then as county agent, couldn't have scripted me better to be the extension vegetable specialist in Delaware," Kee said.

When J.G. Townsends Jr. & Co., a family-owned, Delaware-based farming, timber, and vegetable-processing company in Georgetown, learned of Kee's scholarship, they pledged a total of $100,000 over the next five years.

"Vice president Roger Townsend said, 'Our company has worked with university folks for three generations now, and this is an opportunity to say thank you,'" said an amazed Kee.

Local women set up fund for Martinez family in Mexico

Special to the Newark Post

The tragic train/car crash in Newark of last July, in which Pedro Martinez was killed, left his wife and five children in Mexico without a means of support. This fact weighed heavily on the minds of some Newark women who have requested in their churches that special collections be held on behalf of the family.

Marie Ruszkay, a member of St. John's/Holy Angels Parish, and Ruth Miller and Helen Vincent of the First Presbyterian Church of Newark, unknown to each other, contacted State Representative Joseph E. Miro (R-Pike Creek), attempting to find out if he knew of any such collections. Miro suggested that they should get in contact with each other.

The women met and decided on a plan of action. At the legislative hearing held at Clayton Hall on Nov. 4, they announced their proposal and, before the meeting was over, had received contributions.

Since that time, the congregations at First Presbyterian Church, St. John's/Holy Angels

Roman Catholic Church, St. Catherine of Siena Roman Catholic Church, and Newark United Methodist Church have all approved collections for the family.

Several other churches have been approached with hopes that contributions will be coming soon. Local parish clergy are contacting the parish priest in Mexico about overseeing the fund when it arrives there.

"I just couldn't sleep at night, thinking of that little family down there," said Miller. "This happened practically in our own back yard, and we need to respond to them, just as we respond to others who are hungry and without support."

Vincent agreed. "Even as far south as that part of Mexico is, it gets cold in the mountains," she said. "We hope the people of Newark will express their compassion by generosity to this fund."

A bank account has been established at Wilmington Trust Co., in the name "Pedro Martinez Family Fund." Contributions may be sent to any branch of Wilmington Trust, or mailed to First Presbyterian Church of Newark, 292 West Main

New safe bike routes in Newark

Special to the Newark Post

Cycling around the campus and Newark area is the favored form of transportation for many students, staff, faculty and others living in the area. To assist cyclists, the city of Newark has prepared a City Bicycle Map showing bike routes throughout the city and offering reminders about bicycle safety and traffic laws.

A team of University of Delaware and city of Newark staff worked with Steven Spindler Cartology of Philadelphia to create the map.

"Bicycle safety is a major concern for city residents and University students and faculty," said project coordinator Lisa Moreland of the UD Institute of Public Administration.

The bicycle routes are keyed so cyclists can see if there is a bike lane, a paved or unpaved off-the-road bike path or a road shared with other vehicles. Caution areas also are designated.

The map also includes rules of the road, what bike equipment is needed and the common causes of accidents, plus the names of bike repair shops. It also points out where there are bike lockers and bike-friendly rail service.

Institute director Jerome Lewis headed up the behind-the-scenes technical support group that included: Cindy Genau of the University's Cooperative Extension; Tom Hughes Lampros, senior research technician, University Institute for Energy Conversion;

James Grimes, assistant director, University of Delaware Public Safety; doctoral precandidate Christian Schlosser, University School of Urban Affairs; and Moreland.

Other persons who provided support were: Rick Armitage, University director of government and community relations; Willett Kempton, associate professor of marine studies; Tony Wexler, professor of mechanical engineering;

Elizabeth Holloway of the Delaware Department of Transportation; Newark resident Anita Puglisi; Linda Dixon, city of Gainesville public works department; and Albert Loyola, city of Newark planning department.

Funding was provided by Delaware State Representatives Roger Roy (R-Limestone Hills), Timothy Boulden (R-Newark) and Stephanie Ulbrich (R-Newark South). The bicycle map is available on line at www.bikemap.com. Printed copies are available by calling Moreland at 831-4955.

City council to hear WILMAPCO's 2025 MTP

Representatives of the Wilmington Metropolitan Planning Council will present the 2025 Metropolitan Transportation Plan at the Newark city council meeting on Monday, Nov. 22.

Among the investments listed in the plan in the next 25 years for the Newark-Elkton area are $2.5 million to make the Christina Parkway consistently four-lane, $1.44 million for improving the "Deer Park" intersection, and $394,000 for the Casho Mill underpass.

Other improvements under consideration for the area include widening Route 72 one lane in each direction from Route 4 to Wyoming Road and adding an additional left turn lane at the Ogletown Road/Main Street intersection. An additional right hand turn into the Post Office is also proposed.

The draft 2025 MTP is scheduled for review and public comment until Dec. 10, with a public workshop presently planned for Dec. 1 at the Embassy Suites Hotel, Route 896 and 4, Newark.

Copies of the draft are also on the WILMAPCO website at wilmaco.wilmaco.org and available in libraries as well as at the WILMAPCO office on Library Avenue.

Organizations interested in a discussion and 20-minute presentation of the 2025 MTP, can call 737-6205. WILMAPCO expects to adopt the final version of the 2025 MTP on Jan. 6, 2000.

UD skaters rally in support of injured Binnebose

In the aftermath of a Sept. 29 skating accident that interrupted the career of pairs skaters Paul Binnebose and Laura Handy, who train at the University of Delaware's Ice Skating Arena, skaters across the country have rallied in support of Binnebose.

The skater faces a long road to recovery after a near-fatal fall that resulted in a severe brain injury.

Skaters who train at UD as well as friends are wearing and selling ribbons to help raise money to help pay Binnebose's hospital bills. The ribbons are navy blue and purple — the colors Binnebose and Handy wore last year when they placed third in the nation in pairs figure skating and became part of the U.S. Senior World Team.

The ice arena is accepting donations to a Binnebose fund, administered by the Delaware Amateur Skating Foundation.

Binnebose's coach, Tracy Poletis, said that cards and letters have been pouring in, and young skaters across the country have sent drawings. Internet chat-rooms, like one maintained by Figure Skating World OnLine, are full of get-well wishes for Binnebose.

"We're all very close. It's been hard on everybody," Poletis said. "Right now, we all just want him to get as healthy as possible. It's tough. He has a lot to face. Whether or not he skates again will have to be his decision. We're not worrying about that now, we're just hoping for a 100 percent recovery."

"He's a big strong kid with a strong mind. He's had to fight to get this far and he'll continue to fight," Poletis said. "When you think that the two of them have only skated together for two years and that they made the U.S. team — well, that's determination, that's pretty unheard of."

Coach Ron Ludington, who was working with the pair at the time of the accident, agreed. "He's very determined. He has all the qualities going for a great comeback," Ludington said.

Poletis said she hopes to get Handy, who has been at Binnebose' bedside daily, back on the ice, perhaps, for a start, helping her teach young children.

"Laura got a double whammy. Paul's not just her partner, he's her boyfriend, too," Ludington said.

When UD skaters participated in Skate America '99 last month in Colorado Springs, they wore blue and gold ribbons in support of Binnebose and Handy.

The purple and navy ribbons worn by almost all the other skaters, especially those on the U.S. National Team, were designed by Audrey Wesiger, coach of 1999 men's national champion and world bronze medalist Michael Weiss.

To find out more about purchasing a ribbon or making a donation to the Binnebose fund, contact Poletis at the arena, telephone 831-2868.

House bill proposes neighborhood schools

► COALITION, from 1

Since then, no notable actions have been taken to terminate busing until State Representative Wayne Smith (R-Brandywine Hundred) proposed H.B. 300.

If passed, the bill would call for the reinstatement of K-5 or K-6 schools and the distribution of students to schools located closest to them.

"The terrible legacy of forced busing has made public schools and inferior form of education," said Smith.

Smith, who is a product of Delaware's busing, said that he witnessed many parents turn away from public schooling because of this issue and hopes that H.B. 300 will regain their faith.

"Right now kids are being bused up to an hour and 15 minutes in both the morning and afternoon hours which is a tremendous waste of time and it interferes with family activities," said Smith.

Smith also believes that some school boards have been very hesitant and afraid to address neighborhood schooling because of the difficulty involved with reorganization and the possibility of being accused of segregation.

"The race card still has an impact on board members," said Smith. "They are afraid of the notion that some schools will be race identifiable, but this is not segregation because the reasons for wanting to go back to neighborhoods schools is not race related."

Although Christina board-members have not yet publicly responded to the coalition's plans, district public information officer, John Holton, said that the district takes into consideration all ideas put before the board.

"We listen to all members of the public and consider their point of view," Holton said.

Members of CNS emphasized that they will continue to address the board each month while offering suggestions and strategies for making a transition to neighborhood schools. In addition the group plans to conduct a petition drive and meet with Christina administrators on Dec. 15.

Newark business used fraudulent practices

In an opinion issued Oct. 21, the Delaware Superior Court affirmed a lower court award of $24,228 owed to the Attorney General by the operator of a now defunct Newark car repair shop. James D. "Nick" Fallon, trading as Chapel Street Service Center, was previously found in violation of the Consumer Fraud Act, and the Deceptive Trade Practices Act while operating the repair shop. It was found he willfully violated consumers rights and engaged in a pattern of deceptive trade practices.

The case was brought as a result of the Attorney General's sting operations conducted against several Delaware car repair shops. Evidence produced at trial showed that Fallon charged for repairs he did not do, charged for unnecessary repairs, and attempted to withhold customers cars when estimates were exceeded without permission of the customers. The repair facility has ceased operations.

The $24,228 is the total in penalties, fines, treble damages and attorneys fees leveled against Fallon in the Court of Common Pleas. The Superior Court has now affirmed that award on appeal.

Plant officials say drug use had no effect on production with a total of 30 felonies as a result of a seven-month investigation.

"Late last year, Chrysler approached the Newark Police about a joint drug investigation which culminated in the arrests on Nov. 11," said Conway.

Employees charged include: Bryan Scott Adams, 23, Carrie Sue Adams, 25, William Matthew Swyka, 20, and Curtis Edward Brown, 23, all of Elkton; Thomas Ray Smith, 49, and William J. Cline Jr., 24, both of Newark; Jeffrey Earl Riggs, 30, of Bear; and Mark Wayne Games, 30, of Middletown.

A girlfriend of one employee, Hope M. Mathis-lancu, 20, of Newark was also charged.

Conway said the charges ranged from delivery of marijuana to trafficking in cocaine. Other controlled substances sold were Methamphetamine, and the prescription drugs Skelaxin, Percocet, Darvocet and Valium.

"We don't know how long this was happening prior to when plant officials were notified about it by another employee," said Conway. "We know they were selling in the parking lot and around the plant."

According to Conway, these were individuals selling "consumable amounts" independent of each other. "This wasn't a real organized gang working together," he said.

Police also seized a vehicle which they report was used in transporting drugs. "The activity appears localized within the plant," said Conway. "The employees were arrested at the plant and no problems were encountered."

Archie Williams, human resources manager at the plant, said the company did not want the behavior of a few people to tarnish the reputations of most of the approximately 3,200 employees at the plant who are hard working and honest.

Williams said all the arrested employees worked on the line. "But there were no injuries as a result of the drug use," stated Williams, "and no impact on production, as far as is known."

Similar zoning in Pa. for 10 years treatment than any other renters. These provisions constitute a form of invidious discrimination against students on the basis of their age, marital status and occupation."

The ordinance passed by Newark city council established a definition for a "student home" category of rentals in which more than one, but no more than three, unrelated college students reside. Under the city code, student home rentals are permitted only on a lot which is "no closer to any portion of another lot lawfully used for another student home" than 10 times the required lot width for a single-family dwelling in the particular district in which the home is located.

The exact distance will vary since the lot widths vary in the six city zoning districts affected. Rental permits still are required as with all other rentals.

Association president John Bauscher said the landlords' attempted to find a workable solution in hope of avoiding litigation but were rebuffed by the City. "Newark City Council was warned that the Student Home zoning ordinance was in direct violation of Delaware law, yet chose to enact it anyway," stated Bauscher. "It is unfortunate that we have been forced to take legal action to vindicate civil rights that the City owes equally to all its residents regardless of their age, marital status or education."

The lawsuit is captioned "Newark Landlord Association; John Bauscher; Earl F. Anderson Jr.; Robert Bruner; John Redden; Rosane M. Corullon; Bruce Harvey and Susan Heagy, Plaintiffs v. City of Newark."

Newark's ordinance is patterned after one used in Lower Merion, Pa., since 1989. The Pennsylvania ordinance limits new student rentals to within 1,000 square feet, 20 times the lot width, of an existing one.

City of Newark staff said on Monday that they were unaware of any suit filed although they had received phone calls about it from reporters.

The Newark Landlord Association is a non-profit corporation which meets the second Thursday of each month at the Blue Hen Diner, Route 896.

My friends, there is a way of Hope. There is a way into the Light. That simple way lies through brotherhood and love.

Public invited to discuss tobacco settlement

The Delaware Health Fund Advisory Committee recently held a meeting with state officials to discuss the national tobacco settlement, estimated at $775 million over the next 25 years.

The Committee will also hold public hearings to allow for input by citizens around the state.

There will be a public hearing held on Nov. 30 at Glasgow High School Auditorium, Rt. 896, Newark, from 7-9 p.m.

Counseling services offered at Lutheran Church,

Dr. William Shearer, pastoral counselor with Lutheran Counseling and Family Ministry, will be speaking at the 10 a.m. service at Our Redeemer Lutheran Church on Sunday, Nov. 28.

Low fees are a hallmark of Lutheran Counseling and Family Ministry. Appointments may now be made with Shearer by calling the office at 762-5992. Our Redeemer Lutheran Church is located on Johnson Road in Chestnut Hill Estates in East Newark.

Shearer has taught clinical psychology at State University of New York in Potsdam for 23 years. In 1999 he completed seminary training at Drew University, Madison, N.J. A native of Wilmington, Dr. Shearer and his family reside in Newark. He also serves as sports counselor at the University of Delaware.

American Heart Association seeks volunteers

The American Heart Association currently has volunteer opportunities for motivated individuals who enjoy working with people of all ages in a casual, yet educational setting.

Opportunities exist for Heart Education Center guides, guest speakers, Health Fair representatives, as well as student nurses, practical and registered nurses, active or retired, for Blood Pressure screeners. Volunteers must be willing to travel to work, community and school sites within New Castle County.

There will be a volunteer orientation program on Dec. 1 or Dec. 2, from 9 a.m. until noon at the AHA Heart Education Center in Newark.

For more information or to register please contact Chris Manning at 633-0200.

Health Fund Advisory Committee to have hearing

The Delaware Health Fund Advisory Committee has announced its public hearing schedule. The 12-member panel, chaired by Delaware Health & Social Services Secretary, Gregg C. Sylvester, M.D. will hold public hearings to get input on how Delaware should spend the money it receives as part of the national tobacco settlement. The panel will then make recommendations to the Governor and Legislature.

In Newark, a public hearing will be held on Nov. 30 from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the Glasgow High School Auditorium, Rt. 896, Newark.

Free exercise program being offered at YWCA

The YWCA Newark Center is offering a free exercise class to introduce people to The New Face of Fitness, an exercise program designed for people who are inactive, overweight, or under medical supervision. From now until Dec. 31, anyone may participate by attending one of the classes held Monday and Wednesday evenings from 6:30-7:30 p.m., or on Wednesday morning, from 10-11 a.m.

The program includes a combination of exercise, lifestyle modification, and support groups. For more information, call 368-9173.

Power wheelchairs available

Durable Medical Equipment makes available electric wheelchairs to persons at least 65-years-old, usually at no out-of-pocket expense if they qualify. No deposit required.

The electric wheelchairs are provided only to those who can not walk and can not self-propel a manual wheelchair in their home or independent living quarters and who meet the additional qualifications of the program. This service may also be available to the permanently disabled of any age.

Cecil County gets new heroin clinic

Recent trends indicate that heroin addiction is on the increase. According to the Office of National Drug Policy Control, the quality and availability of heroin is growing across the country and especially in the Mid-Atlantic region.

Cecil County now has a program specializing in the treatment of this health problem. Advanced Treatment Systems, Inc., located in Elkton, Md. will begin accepting patients on Nov. 15, 1999.

"Opening a Clinic is not as simple as hanging a shingle on the door" according to Jeff Kegley, ATS Executive Vice President. Kegley, formerly Executive Director of the inpatient chemical dependency program at Bowling Green in Kennett Square, PA, has been working with the Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA), Food and Drug Administration (FDA), the State of Maryland, and local authorities for nearly a year to acquire all necessary licenses and approvals.

As the availability of heroin increased in our area, the number of people using it has also increased. The "purity" of the street heroin, reported by the DEA to be in the range of 90 percent, has altered how many begin its use. In the past users typically injected the drug directly into their veins.

Now many begin the use by sniffing the drug to experience an immediate "high". Sadly, many youthful users believe that the drug is not addicting when taken in this fashion. "Not so" says Kegley. Heroin, especially in the concentrations available on the street, is addicting no matter how it is taken."

Once addicted to heroin, an individual experiences increasingly severe drug craving and withdrawal symptoms which send them back to the street for more. Over time the addiction grows and more of the drug is needed to stave off withdrawal symptoms. Some addicts resort to crime to support habits which may cost between $150 to $250 a day or more.

The National Institute on Health has issued a statement indicating that the most effective approach for the treatment of heroin addiction includes methadone maintenance therapy. This medication, combined with counseling and therapy is considered to be the treatment of choice for chronic addicts. This is exactly the approach which will be taken by Advanced Treatment Systems.

The opening of Advanced Treatment Systems is of significant benefit to the chronic addict, his or her family, and the community. ATS will provide treatment seven days per week, and operates a 24-hour "hotline".

For more information call ATS at (877) 620-6077.

November 30 is last day for enrollment with Principal

Pincipal Health Care of Delaware Inc., a subsidiary of Coventry Health Care Inc., is holding an annual enrollment period beginning Nov. 1 through Nov. 30 for its new Medicare-Choice product called Advantra.

Advantra will be offered to Medicare beneficiaries in New Castle, Kent, and Sussex counties in Delaware. Medicare beneficiaries enrolled during this annual enrollment period will receive Advantra coverage effective Jan. 1, 2000.

"We are pleased to offer Advantra to serve the needs of Medicare beneficiaries in the state of Delaware," said Ron Chaffin, CEO. "Our focus is on expanding the level and type of care to suit the needs of all Delawareans."

To educate Medicare beneficiaries about Advantra and distribute open enrollment information, Principal is holding a series of community meetings throughout the state of Delaware. A sales representative will be present with information and applications. The meetings will take place on the dates and times listed below. To attend a community meeting, please call (877) 227-3521 (TDD for the deaf: 1-800-207-1262).

If not student homes zoning, then what?

The landlords in Newark have carried through on an oft-repeated threat to sue the city over the issue of zoning for student homes. But let's face it, this is not about the rights of the maligned students. This is about money in the pockets of landlords. Student homes, after all, are rentals which provide income to landlords.

Claiming that the reason for the lawsuit is because this zoning is discriminating is a specious argument for other reasons. All zoning, by its very nature, is discriminating, excluding, and limiting.

Some things are permitted in a location and some things are not. Some people can build there and some cannot. Some businesses can operate there and some cannot.

So the discriminating nature of the matter is not the sole issue. What a governing body has to consider, is whether the purpose for the zoning is valid and reasonable.

Newark city council spent years listening to complaints from residents about problems in neighborhoods with students living in rentals. Months and months of hearings were held in council before the ordinance was finally passed in May 1999.

City staff, councilmembers and residents studied similar laws and plans in other locales with high student populations.

This was not an overnight, reactionary decision.

Council members, elected by the very people who live in those neighborhoods, believe they had valid reasons to pass this ordinance.

The voters, in the last election, conclusively said they support this council's decisions when they defeated three landlords who openly ran on this and related issues.

The students, (remember, this is who are getting the raw deal here) did not care enough about the issue to participate in the political process and vote for those who profess to have their interests paramount.

Since the election, and since the ordinance has passed, residents in one neighborhood say the situation has gotten worse. From periodic noisy parties and occasional problems with individual renters, they have gone to daily barrages of noise, abuse, vandalism and personal cost in dealing with it all.

Who is being discriminated against here?

Now the Chancery Court will have to decide. We hope it can be done expediently at least. The city doesn't need any more legal costs to add to taxpayers' budgets.

And if this ordinance isn't the answer to the problem, then city council has to get back to the legal research as soon as possible.

Because the people who elected them have indicated they want it that way.

Seeing problems from another's point of view

One measure of intelligence, I once was told, is the ability to see an issue from someone else's point of view as well as your own. If that's true, I should be measurably smarter today than I was six months ago, when I first sat in on a meeting of the Robert Wood Johnson project concerning student alcohol abuse at the University of Delaware. (Family and friends might argue that I wasn't all that smart before the meeting, but be that as it may.)

For much of the past 10 years I've been active in my immediate neighborhood, promoting it, defending it, hearing from it, and occasionally, I hope, helping inform it. Some of those efforts, in part, apparently brought me an invitation to sit on the Coordinating Council of "Building Responsibility: A Campus/Community Coalition." The Council meets three or four times a year to share information about the University of Delaware's campaign to curb student alcohol abuse, a campaign funded in part by a grant from the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation.

The 20 members of the Council represent an array of UD staff, faculty, and students; municipal and state agencies, private citizens, and representatives from businesses, service organizations, and churches.

The Coalition's contact list of more than 100 individuals represents an even broader spectrum of interests and responsibilities. Finally, the Coalition's current workplan carries no fewer than 34 specific objectives - from increasing the efficiency of adjudicating violations of the alcohol code, to developing a media campaign that "deglorifies" high-risk drinking.

Sitting on the Coordinating Council offers an ultimate opportunity to see things from points of view other than my own. I've learned that grappling with the overall problem of student alcohol abuse is like squeezing a balloon full of water. Poke it here and it bulges there.

For instance, the University's successful sweep of tailgating cleared the pregame Homecoming crowd of students from the stadium area. But, it also drove unprecedented numbers of all-day party-goers across nearby neighborhood lawns and into the streets.

The University's bold new policy of notifying parents of students convicted of alcohol violations gained network interviews and national applause. But it brought little decrease in local skepticism about the strength of the University's resolve concerning off-campus parties and extended campus-community relationships.

The University's "three-strikes-and-you're-out policy" is generally approved by adults both on and off campus. But, a

Predict turkey prices will be low this year

Newark citizens may find solace in recent reports from large turkey markets, wherein it is set forth that the Thanksgiving birds may be lower than usual in price.

Last week, live birds were offered at 70 and 75 cents; reports this week show that the price is dropping off.

Freak snow Saturday earliest since 1910

Saturday Newark and community was visited by every imaginable sort of weather with the exception of "95 in the shade."

It was the worst early November day in the memory of many old residents. Sleet, hail, snow and rain fell here between noon and dark.

That it was the earliest snow in several years is attested by a bulletin from the Weather Bureau issued Sunday: "In 1910 there was a four-inch fall on the first of November. Since then no heavy snowfall this early in the year has been recorded," the weather bureau announced.

Chamber misses on bid for auto plant

A campaign to convince Japanese auto manufacturers to build an assembly plant in the Newark area, a move that could create several thousand jobs, has temporarily failed.

City Council passes bypass resolution

Newark officials are meeting with Delaware Department of Transportation (DelDOT) representatives Monday to discuss a bypass around Newark, according to City Council member Jane Tripp.

The meeting is in addition to a resolution council unanimously passed Monday evening declaring their support of a bypass between Elkton and Nottingham roads. It will be forwarded to DelDOT and WILMAPCO representatives, according to Mayor Ronald Gardner.

Reservation confirmed

Newark City Council will not appeal New Castle county Court of Chancery's decision to allow construction of a 97-room Sleep-Inn Hotel across the street from the University of Delaware's Bob Carpenter Center.

The decision will end Five-T Associates' five-year struggle to build a hotel.

Council granted a special-use permit in February 1989 and September 1991 but financing and water supply problems forced Five-T, the landowners, to postpone building.

When the developers went to reapply for a special-use permit in December 1993, council turned them down.

Topiary for holiday giving

Topiary is the art of shaping a plant into something beyond its ordinary growth habit. Gardeners who shear or prune hedges and trees to make harmonious sizes and forms in the landscape practice a form of topiary. The highest forms of topiary are found in formal gardens, where shrubs and plants through artful shaping are made into fanciful creatures, ocean waves, chess pieces and anything else imaginable. Whether the result is simple or elaborate, the procedure is much the same. A gardener takes a plant, tolerant of pruning and reasonably flexible, and trains it onto a supporting structure. She then uses judicious pruning and tying to encourage it to grow in the desired directions.

Simple indoor topiaries are easy to create from semi-woody plants such as rosemary, thyme and elfin herb. These herb plants adapt well to indoor culture and have small leaves that complement the small scale of the topiary. Rosemary and thyme provide the added bonus of delightful fragrance. Elfin herb and rosemary both are prolific bloomers. It may be difficult to find local sources for herb plants in the fall, but there are plenty of mail-order sources that will ship until the weather gets too cold.

Jo Mercer

If you have the opportunity to hand-pick your plant, look for one that is growing in a pot slightly smaller than your topiary pot. Choose a specimen that is rather stringy, but otherwise healthy-looking. This will give you a plant with branches long enough to start tying onto the frame. Plant your specimen in the topiary pot filled with a good quality commercial potting mix. Make sure the pot has a drain hole. Do not put any stones in the bottom of the pot. Use a clay or stoneware pot for your topiary project. You are creating a structure with a high center of gravity. Lightweight plastic pots would be too unstable. A pleasing proportion for frame height to pot height is about one to one. Taller, narrower forms can be in the range of two or three (plant height) to one (pot height), but be more careful that the width of the topiary stays nears the width of the pot. The frame to support the plant can be medium-weight wire, much like coat hanger wire. In fact, an intact metal coat hanger is about the right size for the proportions of a six-inch diameter pot. Simply straighten out the hook of the hanger. Pull and bend the remainder of the coat hanger into the desired shape. Push the straightened hook of the hanger into the soil near the trunk of the plant. A simple circle is fine, but a star, a diamond or oval is an option. Try a triangle that suggests the outline of an evergreen tree. Use large diameter soft cotton twine or yarn to tie the branches onto the frame. Avoid abrading or crushing tender stems. At first, snip off stray side branches only, to let the tips grow around the entire frame. When the longest branches nearly touch from either side the frame length is covered, pinch the tips to encourage side shoots. As the side shoots grow and fill in, pinch and prune them as needed to further define the form and camouflage the frame. Follow good cultural practices of water, fertilizer and light to get fast healthy growth. Rosemary, thyme and elfin herb like bright light and even, but not soggy, soil moisture. Check the ties frequently to prevent girdling. Give the pot a one-quarter turn every week to keep the growth symmetrical. Carefully snip off ties that become too tight. As the stems become woody, stiff and self-supporting, further ties won't be necessary. As your topiary takes shape, consider the possibilities of dressing it up or special occasions. A circle can become a holiday wreath with the addition of miniature battery-powered lights and a bright bow. Crafts stores offer plenty of tiny ornaments for all occasions — birthdays, religious and secular holidays, anniversaries and others.

METHODISTS CELEBRATE 175 YEARS ON THE HILL

Congregants of Ebenezer United Methodist Church, including Norris Greenplate, celebrated its 175th anniversary by erecting an historical marker on the site of the original church on a hill overlooking Newark.

By DANIEL HALPRIN

SPECIAL TO THE NEWARK POST

Ebenezer United Methodist Church celebrated its 175th anniversary on Oct. 24 with the unveiling of an historic marker on the site of the original church building.

The marker, which recounts the history of the Ebenezer community up to the present, was erected by the Delaware Historical Society at the request of Church members.

A representative for the Delaware Historical Society was on hand for the unveiling. He noted that requests for historical markers have risen dramatically over the past few years and he hoped that this was a sign that Delawareans were beginning to cherish their history.

The congregation also rededicated the stained-glass windows, now restored and on display in the chapel of the current church hall, from the original church on Polly Drummond Hill Road.

The congregation outgrew this small, stone structure erected in 1824 and it was replaced by a one-story frame structure in 1859. A hundred years later, additional membership resulted in continued construction, and during 1975-76, the present Ebenezer United Methodist Church was built.

Services and receptions moved to the new building, but the old frame church from the 1800's was still an active place of worship and learning throughout most of the 1990's, according to congregation members.

Sunday School classes were held there, and for a time it served as the meeting place for the local Korean United Methodist congregation. In 1998, the old structure was demolished to make way for road construction.

Speakers at the morning services expressed the hope that the stained-glass windows from the old church will connect the current congregation of Ebenezer United Methodist Church to its past. The morning speakers also discussed the importance of looking forward and recognizing the changes in the religious face of Delaware over the past 175 years.

The "Anniversary Sunday," as it was called, also focused on the history of Church members, past and present. Many former members came out for the event, and a former pastor of the church, the Rev. Dr. Willard Robinson, delivered the sermon.

All current members who had been part of the church for 50 or more years were given crosses carved out of the wood beams from the old church building.

Norris Greenplate, who served as the restoration chairperson for the stained-glass windows and who also wrote the inscription on the historical marker, was especially honored for his devotion to the Ebenezer community.

Start 'turkey day' with breakfast on the town

Looking for somewhere to spend Thanksgiving Day morning? Newark Parks and Recreation Department and MBNA would like to invite you to join Newark neighbors and friends for a hearty breakfast and a little fellowship at the 13th Annual Thanksgiving Day Breakfast.

For the past 12 years the City of Newark, area merchants, and many volunteers have come together to offer this very special breakfast each Thanksgiving. The goal of this breakfast has been to encourage a warm and caring atmosphere among community members, older adults and area students who are unable to share the holiday with family members or friends.

In addition to all of the traditional breakfast favorites, participants also enjoy wonderful entertainment and get a chance to win some spectacular door prizes!

Unfortunately, there are some people who can not make it to the breakfast on site. However, this does not stop them from participating. With the help of supplies from Meals on Wheels, volunteers are able to deliver hot breakfast plates to those participants homes.

This event could not be possible without the donations of many sponsors. This years sponsors include: A.C. Moore, B&B Industries, Bing's Bakery, The Emerson Family, Entenmann's Bakery Outlet, Flowerama, Gamble's Florist, Jazzercise-Carol Dayton, Jazzercise-Diana Clark-

Padham, Kinko's, Kirk's Flowers, Prayer Temple C.O.G.I.C., Steel Contractors Assoc. of DE, and Super G Food and Discount Drug.

The Thanksgiving Day Breakfast is held at the George Wilson Community Center, located across from the University of Delaware's Clayton Hall at 303 New London Rd. It will start at 8 a.m. and end at 11:30 a.m. Persons age 60 and over participate for free. Persons under the age of 60 will be charged $2 in advance and $3 at the door.

If you are interested in participating, pre-registration will be accepted at the Newark Parks and Recreation Department, located at 220 Elkton Rd.

Tellabration tomorrow at University of Delaware

Tellabration 1999, an evening of storytelling for adults, will be presented at 7 p.m., tomorrow in Bayard Sharp Hall, corner of Delaware Avenue and Elkton Road, on the University of Delaware's campus in Newark.

Admission is $5 for adults and $3 for students with a University ID. Seating is limited and tickets will be sold at the door on a first-come, first-seat basis.

UD's Tellabration is being held along with similar programs at hundreds of sites around the world during an international evening of storytelling.

The event, featuring current UD students and recent graduates of the "Storytelling for Beginners" course, will include tales ranging from ghost and folk tales to jokes and original family heritage stories. There also will be refreshments and door prizes at a social hour following the program.

Selected student storytellers include: Stephanie Bair, Karl Chalabala, Ken Cressman, Beth Demyan, Alison Ferguson, Brenda Foraker, Sharon Gaudino, Dana Goldhar, Jennifer Greenly, Greg Hall, Julie Horleman, Paul Long, Erin Motley, Christopher Quinn, Getchen Thompson, Megan Weimar and Cory Wellman.

This first-ever campus Tellabration is sponsored by the Zeta Omicron Chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, an international honor society in education.

For more information, call 831-2319.

Historic Coverdale Farm will be center for nature programs

Special to the Newark Post

The Delaware Nature Society has received a two-year grant of $82,500 from the William Penn Foundation to develop and implement a new farm education program at the historic Coverdale Farm at its Burrows Run Preserve near Greenville.

In 1998, the Society was entrusted with 229.7 acres from the estate of the late Crawford and Margaretta Greenewalt. This gift included Coverdale Farm, an 18th century farm complex complete with stone bank barn, farm house, idyllic ponds, outbuildings, springhouse, cultivated fields, woodlands, and farm machinery and increased the total property at the Burrows Run Preserve to 352 acres.

Conservation easements by surrounding property owners increase the amount of protected land to 440 acres.

The Society will hire a farm manager and a farm education program coordinator in January, 2000. For the past fifteen years the Society has conducted a small-scale farm program from a barn on Old Wilmington Road in Hockessin.

This operation will be moved to the Coverdale Farm site off Way Road in September, 2000, for a three month period.

The program will be greatly expanded over the next four years until it operates year-round for schools, public groups and Society members.

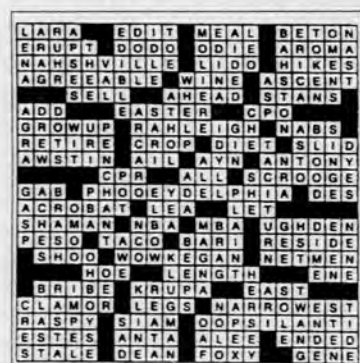

The Society created a board level committee chaired by retired DuPont agronomist Clyde Roberts to oversee the management of the farm and the development of the educational programs.

The committee includes farmers and representatives of the New Castle County Farm Bureau, state Department of Education, University of Delaware College of Agriculture & Natural Resources, and the University of Pennsylvania School of Veterinary Medicine at New Bolton Center.

Others helping include state 4-H, Rodale Institute, Delaware Agriculture Museum, Natural Resources Conservation Service, State Division of Parks & Recreation, DuPont and AstraZeneca Agricultural Product Departments, garden centers, farm equipment dealers, and Delaware Nature Society staff.

As part of the celebration of its 35th anniversary, 1999-2000, the Delaware Nature Society will conduct a series of historic tours of the Coverdale Farm.

FRIENDS GATHER

SPECIAL TO THE NEWARK POST

Middle school students who are members of the Society of Friends from the Newark area were among those attending the annual Fall gathering called "Finding the Light," held in Burlington, N.J. The teens with adult volunteers participated in group activities, worship sharing, a haunted house, and bedtime stories during the weekend event. A highlight was a visit to the John Woolman (1720-1772) Memorial to learn about the Quaker who worked on equality and freedom for slaves a hundred years before the Civil War.

NEWARK POST ♦ COMMUNITY

Thanksgiving Service at Our Redeemer

A Community Thanksgiving Service will be held on Thanksgiving Day at Our Redeemer Lutheran Church, 10 Johnson Rd., Chestnut Hill Estates in Newark, at 9 a.m.

This is an opportunity to express gratitude for family, religious faith, good health and friends. Persons in the community with no church connection are invited to attend.

GHS hosts 'Choice'

Glasgow High School will host a special "Choice" Open House to interested eighth graders on Nov. 22 in Center 1. All department chairs are asked to prepare a booth. The Open House will coincide with the P.T.S.O.'s College Night-located in Center 2, from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

All of Kirk and Gauger students will be invited.

Holiday Sale at Newark Senior Ctr

The Newark Senior Center, White Chapel Drive in Newark, will have a Holiday Sale today from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., featuring Christmas gifts and jewelry. For more information call 737-2336.

'Angel Tree' for children of inmates

"Angel Tree", a ministry of Prison Fellowship's volunteers, needs help for children of prison inmates to have a happy Christmas. The gifts purchased by church members, clubs and/or organizations are given to the children in the name of their parent or parents in jail.

Delaware helped over 2,800 children last year through the generosity of volunteers. For additional information on Angel Tree project '99 in New Castle County, please call Peg Laird at 286-0202.

Annual Turkey Trot to be held

Newark's 26th Annual Turkey Trot will be held tomorrow at Handloff Park starting at 9 a.m. Runners can register at 8 a.m. on race day. For more information please call the Newark Parks and Recreation office at 366-7060.

GS 'Construction' adult teams needed

The Chesapeake Bay Girl Scout Council is currently planning the 5th Annual Under Construction Events. Under Construction is a unique competition that joins Girl Scouts with design professionals in teams to race against the clock to construct art and architecture from 200 empty cookie boxes.

The event will be held at the Concord Mall in Wilmington on Jan. 22, 2000, from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. Each participating team will have four hours of building time.

We are looking for teams of adults for the event. Teams consist of up to four adults working at a time and at least one older Girl Scout. Last year's winning teams were Team TNT/Newark United Methodist Church and Eastern Shore Uniforms. Second places went to Mitchell Associates and City Florist. For more information, please call Denise Eberspacher at 410-742-5107 or 1-800-374-9811.

Tri-State bird rescue fundraiser planned

Tri-State Bird Rescue and Research Inc. is having a Giant Yard Sale tomorrow from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Aetna Fire Hall in Newark. All proceeds go toward providing medicine, food and support for the wild birds in Tri-State's care. For more information, call 737-9543.

Photo classes for ages 14 and up

The Newark Arts Alliance is offering intermediate photography classes for ages 14 and up. The classes will take place at the Art Warehouse in Newark. The Photography in One Weekend class will meet on Nov. 20 and 21 from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. and on Nov. 22 and 23 from 6:30 p.m. until 10 p.m. The cost for the class is $125 for members and $145 for non-members. The class is being offered for students who have had some darkroom experience. Preregistration is required. For more information and a com-

Call out for Christmas turkeys

The Newark Area Welfare Committee needs an estimated 325 turkeys (10 to 15 pounds) for the food baskets they expect to assemble between Dec. 15 and 18. Turkeys can be delivered to Newark United Methodist Church, 69 E. Main St., Newark, by 10 a.m. on Saturday, Dec. 18. Anyone who would like to help collect, sort, assemble and/or assist with pickups, please contact Beverly Stoudt at the Newark

Senior Center, 737-2336.

Church seeks coat donations

Donations for the Coat Drive sponsored by St. Margaret of Scotland Roman Catholic Church in cooperation with the Salvation Army will be accepted through Nov. 21. Donations can be dropped off at the St. Margaret Parish, 230 Executive Drive, Suite 8, Newark, in the Pencader Corporate Commons.

Donations are accepted Monday through Friday between the hours of 9 a.m. and 4 p.m.; Saturdays from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m.; and Sundays from 8 a.m. until noon.

Used coats in good condition and ready for immediate use or newly purchased coats are suggested, all sizes and ages. Any support you can give will be greatly appreciated. For further information, you may contact St. Margaret Parish at 369-8100.

Fast Credit Decisions • Flexible Terms
No Toasters

When you apply for a real estate-secured loan from Travelers Bank & Trust, fsb, you'll find a selection of loan plans to meet a wide range of credit circumstances. The rates and repayment amounts make the cash you need affordable. You won't have a loan committee decision to wait for. We make our credit decisions locally, by loan professionals who have the lending authority to say "yes" in just a day or two.

But we don't stop there...

We know applying for a real estate-secured loan and selecting the right company is a big decision. We have the experience to guide you - even if you don't eventually borrow from us. We care about you and our community. So we're everything you'd expect from a bank, and more, except the toaster!

October 13, 1999

When starting our business Oct. 20, 1993 we automatically went to the Bell Atlantic Yellow Pages to advertise our new business especially in Cecil County.

After 5 years of advertising in the Bell Atlantic Yellow Pages we found that not too many people mentioned finding us in the Yellow Pages.

Then last year along came the Chesapeake Directories Easy to Read Directory published by the CECIL WHIG, serving Cecil County which we advertised in. It was the best money Cecil County Glass ever spent on advertising. We soon found our Cecil County customers mentioned finding us in the EASY TO READ CHESAPEAKE DIRECTORIES Because it is just that, EASY TO READ, EASY TO FIND US AND MUCH BETTER FOR OUR BUSINESS.

Thanks, Chesapeake Publishing for helping our business grow, by helping us to save money. Keep up the good work.

Abayasekara

Abayasekara is director for Toastmaster Intl

Dilip R. Abayasekara, a former Newark resident, now residing in Camp Hill, Pa., has been elected to the board of directors of Toastmasters International, a worldwide, non-profit organization teaching public speaking and leadership skills. A Toastmaster for 13 years, Abayasekara is a former member of the Greater Newark Area Toastmasters Club, the Gore-Talks Toastmasters Club, the Greater Elkton Area Toastmasters Club, and the Extra Mile Toastmasters Club. He held leadership positions ranging from club president to Governor of District 18, an area that includes 86 clubs in Delaware, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and West Virginia.

Ashley to head DE-NAHRO

Newark resident Marguerite Ashley was recently elected president of the Delaware Chapter of the National Association of Housing and Redevelopment Officials. Ashley works for the New Castle County Department of Community Services.

DE-NAHRO is a professional membership organization for those who develop and administer housing and community development programs in Delaware.

Local students among poster contest winners

Brader Elementary students Joey Alessia and Kirsten Valania were first place winners in the Delaware Wildlife Exposition's first annual Kids for Conservation Poster Contest. Joshua Teoli, also from Brader, received Honorable Mention.

Protecting wildlife, conserving habitat, reducing pollution, and encouraging recycling were several of the themes included in posters entered. There were 367 Delaware school children in kindergarten through 12th grades who submitted artwork with 1999's general theme of "Wonderful Wildlife". Students combined their artistic talents with their thoughts on conservation by submitting a slogan or message along with their posters.

Caravel students commended for achievement

Two students from Caravel Academy have been named Commended Students by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation.

Jessica Love, daughter of William and Mary Ann Love of Bear, and Nathaniel Beers, son of Ernest and Katherine Beers of Bear, were presented with the official Letters of Commendation by P. Carl Rice, principal of Caravel Academy. Both students have maintained an A average and have been placed on Founder's Honor Roll for their entire high school careers.

Ashley

These students scored among the top five percent of the one million students who took the 1998 Preliminary SAT/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test.

Area students at Syracuse University

The following area residents were among the approximately 2,700 new first-year and transfer students who have enrolled at Syracuse University, Syracuse, N.Y., for the 1999-2000 academic year: Julie VanDeusen, Bear; Clifton Smith, Sarah Kearns, and Amanda Santare, all of Newark; and Philip Robino, and Jian-Ming Yan, both of Hockessin.

Mellon recognized

Kelly Mellon, daughter of Michael and Kathleen Mellon of Newark, will be included in the 2000 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

Mellon is a 1996 graduate of Newark High School and is a senior nursing major at Lynchburg College, Lynchburg, Va.

Roth nominees for Military Academies

Senator William V. Roth Jr. (R-DE) announced his nominees to the United States military service academies.

Jessica Spears, Air Force Academy Principal Nominee, is the daughter of H. Dean and Meri Ann Spears of Newark. She is a senior at Sanford School, where she is secretary of her class council, secretary of the language club, and vice president of the Key Club. She is the captain of the varsity tennis team and also plays volleyball. She is active in the school chorus, band and newspaper as well as her church.

Emily McConnell, Naval Academy Principal Nominee, is the daughter of Edward and Jeanne McConnell of Wilmington. She is a senior at Tower Hill School, where she is a member of the varsity indoor and outdoor track teams. She is a lieutenant for the New Castle County Police Explorer Post 905, and a member of the Wilmington College Aviation Explorer Post. Her volunteer efforts include the 4-H Handicapped Riding Program and her church.

Army Private Brian Palmer has graduated from basic military training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo. He is now receiving advanced combat engineering training at the same base.

Palmer is the son of Jeff and Laurie Palmer of Bear. He is a 1999 graduate of Glasgow High School.

St. Mark's seniors recognized

Four St. Mark's students from the Class of 2000 have been recognized as scholar finalists in the National Hispanic Recognition Program.

Jennifer Brielmaier, Daniel Gonzalez, Min Kim and Denise Woodward were all chosen in the college board program that provides national recognition for exceptional academic achievements of Hispanic high school seniors.

Christiana teams earn silver medals at FFA Convention

This year Christiana High School sent four teams to represent Delaware at the National FFA Convention. The teams competed against the state winners in all 50 states and Puerto Rico. They had the best finish in the school's history as each team placed silver in their respective competitions.

Teammembers included: Nursery/Landscape-Andrea Leventry and Jacquie Clement; Dairy Food Products-Alyssa Clark, Heather O'Neill, and Christine Pollinger; Forestry-Jayne Baker and Christina Turner; and Floriculture-Andrew Kelczewski, Sun Cho, and Regina Cho.

Two students placed gold:

Volleyball royalty was on full display Saturday night as St. Mark's High won its second consecutive state championship with 15-9, 15-7 victories over Ursuline Academy at the Bob Carpenter Center.

The win marks the fourth state title for the Spartans in the past five years, with the only other title in that time period going to Ursuline in 1997. The Raiders also tacked on state titles in 1993 and 1994, so by the time these two teams faced off, both were familiar with success.

"This was one of the better games we played all year," said second-year Spartan head coach Nancy Griskowitz. "It's always a little intimidating playing at the Bob, but our serving and passing was great tonight."

The win also ensured back to back undefeated seasons for the Spartans (23-0), whose last lost came in the '97 finals to Ursuline, where incredibly they had entered that game undefeated as well. The motto on their warm-up shirts - "We Don't Rebuild, We Just Reload" - was never more evident as they started only two seniors, Missy Smith and Erin McNulty, and appear to be well prepared for the future as well.

The Spartans attack was spearheaded by junior Kelly Papili who had nine kills, junior Laura Colosi who had a balanced game with five kills, nine digs and nine perfect passes, and co-captain Smith, whose two kills and five digs tell only half the tale of her role in the win.

"I'm very proud of how we played tonight," said Smith, whose five foot, five inch frame appeared to play about a foot taller throughout the game. "We played hard tonight and showed just how much heart we had."

Ursuline (13-7), which defeated William Penn to get to the finals, fought hard throughout both games but found too

Newark clinches berth in football tournament

By JOE NYE

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

Newark High took its best shot from a Blue Hen Conference Flight A opponent last Saturday, but like the heavyweight champ it is, held its ground and delivered a knockout blow to Brandywine, 34-19, at John D. Modica Field.

The victory guaranteed yet another trip to the state tournament for the Yellowjackets as the two-time defending Division I state champions improved to a Flight A best 6-0 and 8-1 overall, ensuring at the very least a share of the conference A title.

The Bulldogs dropped to 7-2 overall and 5-2 in the conference and will need a victory this week over Salesianum to keep their playoff hopes alive.

The Jackets' running combination of Brandon Haman and Seth Montgomery once again powered the Newark offense as they combined for 352 yards and four touchdowns. The Yellowjacket defense, which had allowed only one touchdown to a Flight A opponent all year, hung in against a very advanced Bulldog passing attack, and managed to record a key sack or interception when needed.

"By far, their quarterback and wideouts were the best we had seen all year," said cornerback Ian Deptula, who chipped in with an interception, broke up a key two-point conversion, and chased the Brandywine receivers across the field all day.

Spartans and Vikings clash in semifinals

By CHRIS DONAHUE

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

Three-time defending state soccer champion St. Mark's High roared into the semifinal round of the State Soccer Tournament with a clinical 7-1 dismantling of Caesar Rodney last Saturday night in a double-header at Alexis I. du Pont.

In the second game, Greg Victor scored his second goal of the game 15 minutes into the 20-minute overtime session to lift Christiana to a 2-1 victory over St. Andrew's.

The victories set up a showdown between St. Mark's (18-0) and Christiana (12-4-2) on Wednesday.

Nicola Chicco scored three times, including twice in the first five minutes, and Adam Flanigan netted a pair of goals and an assist for St. Mark's. Adam Stuller and Ryan Edwards also scored, while Nolan Dzielak had two assists and Stuller had one.

St. Mark's is trying to become the first team to win four consecutive state soccer titles. The Spartans have won three in a row twice and are the only team to accomplish that feat since the tournament began in 1970.

"(St. Mark's) come at you so fast, so hard and with numbers, you're constantly playing defense," said Caesar Rodney Coach Darrell Gravatt, whose

ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

ST. MARK'S GIRLS CROSS COUNTRY TEAM - STATE CHAMPIONS

By CHRIS DONAHUE

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

The St. Mark's High reached the summit of girls cross country in Delaware by conquering hills. Lots and lots of hills.

Strengthened by daily practices on the undulating topography around their school, the Spartans were obviously in peak condition when it came time to race in the Division I State Championship meet last Saturday at the demanding Brandywine Creek State Park course.

Led by junior Katie Park's fifth-place finish in 21 minutes, 37 seconds, the Spartans combined to edge out Brandywine 57-59 to win the title.

Behind Park, freshman Mandy Hewes finished ninth

(21:46), sophomore Kristen Sullivan 12th (21:59), freshman Jackie Justison 14th (22:14), and Stefanie Lazorick, the Spartans' only senior starter, 17th (22:41).

The week before, St. Mark's had finished 49 points behind Brandywine at the New Castle County Meet. But the course, at Bellevue State Park, was flat compared to Brandywine Creek State Park, and not the best venue to showcase the Spartans' talents, according to St. Mark's Coach Joe O'Neill.

Two other Spartans, sophomore Nora Miller (30th) and freshman Lisa Brothwood-Goldfarb (37th) also competed in the state championship.

O'Neill also cited the running during the season of tri-captains Brianna Albano and Anne Ogden, and Erin Kennedy, all seniors. Lazorick was also a captain.

"(Lazorick) beat about 12 kids who beat her in the New Castle County meet and that was the key for us," O'Neill said.

Winning the school's fourth girls crown was also impressive considering the Spartans lost two all-state runners to graduation and another starter, sophomore Stefanie Gerety, an all-county and all-state selection last year, was sidelined for the season after the second meet because of a hip injury.

"I knew that we had some promising freshmen who were going to join us, so I had reason to believe we'd be pretty competitive," said O'Neill, who's coached the Spartans for 31 years.

"There were a lot of unknowns, but I tend to be pretty optimistic.

"Once we got started, we lost Stefanie and that hurt us. And it took some freshmen some time to get used to it. It took a while for us to get together, but we had a lot of good meets."

The Spartans lost two close dual meets, but O'Neill said he stressed getting to the point where everyone would have a good day on the same day. That occurred last Saturday.

"It was really fun," O'Neill said. "The other times we won (state titles), I was pretty sure we could win. But this one, I was hoping we could win and the kids really came through well."

The St. Mark's boys team, meanwhile, finished second to Salesianum (37-51) buoyed by the efforts of junior Kyle Berseth, who finished third (17:29), and senior Josh MacPherson, who was fourth (17:34).

"The 51 points we got is certainly a small enough amount to win the meet most years," O'Neill said.

"I have no second thoughts or complaints. We did the best we could in that race and (Sallies) just had a little better team than us this year."

The Spartans' other top 20 finishers were juniors Chris Coyne, seventh (17:47), and Mike Lahm, 11th (18:06).

O'Neill also lauded the efforts of Matt Griffith, and Chad Darlington, both freshmen, and seniors Matt McConnell and Jeff Dawson.

St. Mark's knocks off Sallies

By CHRIS DONAHUE

NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

Re-energized by a week off, St. Mark's High kept its hopes alive for a berth in the state football tournament by overpowering Salesianum 21-7 last Friday night.

Before a standing-room only crowd of more than 6,000 at Baynard Stadium, the Spartans forged a 14-0 in the first quarter en route to improving their record to 7-2.

St. Mark's will have another chance to decide its fate in its final game of the season Nov. 19 when it plays Sussex Central, another team seeking a Division I berth, at Baynard.

In addition to beating its arch-rival for the second consecutive season, the Spartans also succeeded in eliminating Salesianum (5-4) from the Division I playoff hunt.

St. Mark's Coach Vinnie Scott said the week off definitely helped his team against a team as big and talented as Salesianum, which was hurt by the loss of halfback Ryan Majchrzak with a broken collarbone near halftime.

Scott, whose team was coming off a last-second 14-13 loss to St. Elizabeth on the same field two weeks ago, said the week off helped his team have its best practice week of the season.

"We were so sharp and everybody looked quicker and the enthusiasm was there, too," Scott said.

"And I think it showed tonight. They played really one of their better games of the year if not their best."

After both teams traded possessions to start the game, St. Mark's quarterback Jerry Denney led his team on a four-play, 55-yard scoring drive.

Running back Steve Rogers began the drive with an 11-yard run, fellow backfielder Louis Wright ran for a seven-yard gain, and Rogers picked up 11 more. Wright then capped the drive with a 26-yard run by weaving his way through heavy traffic.

Kevin Maloney's point-after attempt, however, went wide to the right.

After Salesianum was forced to punt on its next possession, Denney went to work again, this time leading his team on an eight-play, 60-yard scoring drive.

Key plays in the drive included a pass from Denney to Corey Ingram that gained 45 yards to the Sals' 12. After a one-yard run by Rogers and an incompletion, Denney rifled a pass to Geoff Ashton at the left-front corner of the end zone for a touchdown.

Denney then hit Larry Zeccola with a pass for the two-point conversion to make it 14-0.

The second quarter was scoreless, and St. Mark's would finish the first half with 98 yards rushing and 53 passing, while Salesianum was held to 34 yards rushing and 10 passing.

Neither team scored in the third quarter, when Salesianum's best drive of the game, which began with a 39-yard passing play from quarterback Chris Warrick to Nicholas Davisson that moved the ball to the Spartans' 35, stalled on downs at the 35.

The Spartans began their final scoring drive from midfield on the last play of the third quarter.

Eight plays later, Wright burst over the left side for an 18-yard touchdown run and Maloney's PAT made it 21-0.

With 39 seconds left in the game, Warrick capped a four-play, 52-yard drive by finding Davisson with a pass in the back of the end zone to avert a shutout.

"We had two weeks to think about a game that was in our hands that we let go in St. Elizabeth," said Wright. "We had the taste of a loss in our mouths and we didn't like that too much. Our tournament hopes are still alive. We knew had to win tonight in order to even be considered."

"Sallies is a good team. They're a real good team. I think we rose to the challenge and proved that we were just a little better."

Wright, who also plays strong safety on defense, also said the bye week came at a good time.

"With our schedule, early in the season, we were taking some lumps early. It's hard to go through a schedule like that and the week off definitely rejuvenated us. We weren't playing real good football for a couple-game stretch. We were winning - until St. Elizabeth came along."

"I think the week off really helped us out physically and mentally. We knew what we had to do coming in. The line played really well, the defense really rose to the occasion. It's almost like we had the defense we had the first four games of the season."

Spartans win title

many of their spikes being dug back to them by the balanced Spartans attack and fell to St. Mark's for the third time this season.

The raucous crowd that filled the Bob Carpenter Center was evenly divided between the two schools, with some fans left over from the earlier Third Place Consolation game between Glasgow and William Penn. The fans were treated to a pair of high level games that saw only five bad serves combined between the two teams.

The Spartans took a 5-0 lead in the first game behind the serving of McNulty and Leah Denhoed and two early kills by Papili, which electrified the crowd. The Raiders staged a mini-comeback, but after a dink shot from junior Lindsay McDonough was sandwiched between kills by Papili and Smith, St. Mark's opened a 10-3 lead.

The action was then blistering on both sides of the net as the Spartans opened a 14-6 lead before the Raiders drew a line in the sand and gamely held back numerous St. Mark's attempt to win the first game, before finally succumbing 15-9 on Denhoed's first of two aces on the day.

Denhoed's play highlighted a suffocating back line defense for the Spartans as she contributed 20 assists and six digs on the day to go along with Kayte Hall's 10 digs as well, thwarting the taller

Ursuline's attempts to score.

The Raider's drew first blood in the second game, going up 1-0, which would prove to be their only lead of the evening. The Spartans came storming back using a key block from Liz Hubbard, a left-handed kill from Colosi, a kill from Hubbard and then another block from the 6-0 sophomore to pace St. Mark's to an 8-1 lead.

Ursuline then fought back behind the big hitting of Alex Nowlin and Sarah Stroh to draw within 11-7, but a key block by Smith stopped the Raiders run and St. Mark's drew to within a point of the championship at 14-7.

With the Spartan crowd of students, parents and ex-players anticipating yet another title, Colosi's left-handed kill gave St. Mark's possession. On the ensuing serve, Colosi put the ball in play and Papili capped her evening with one final kill shot to give the Spartans the crown, 15-7.

"We played well tonight, we really played a complete game," said Colosi. "It feels great, because all the practice and work really paid off tonight."

With the audio system playing "We are the Champions" in the background and their own coach taking more pictures than the photographers present, the Spartans hoisted yet another championship trophy, honoring their past and keeping one eye on the future.

Christiana soccer team advances to state semifinals team finished 12-4-2.

"They're just constantly on attack. We didn't have a lot of opportunities. They run off the ball very well. They got a lot of numbers against our defense. We would have three backs and a sweeper trying to play against six, seven and it's tough.

"They're a very good team. They deserve their (No. 1) ranking."

Christiana, meanwhile, kept the ball in the St. Andrew's defensive half of the field for virtually the entire first half. However, St. Andrew's took a 1-0 lead in the 27th minute when Scott Kennedy blasted home a free kick from about 25 yards out.

Christiana's relentless attacking finally paid off five minutes before halftime when Victor was tripped in the penalty area and was awarded a penalty kick. He converted the chance for his 13th goal of the season.

Shortly after Christiana's Dan Bull had fired a shot off the crossbar in overtime, Bull fed Victor, who notched the game-winner.

"I saw a (defender) behind me and I just turned on him," Victor said. "I didn't see him again. I guess I got him on the first step and then I just saw all goal."

them all year, but their constant throwing kept our heads in the game all day."

In fact, the Bulldogs opened the game with a no-huddle, four wide receiver format that let the fans in attendance know this would be a wide open game from the start, matching two of the most exciting offenses in the state. However, after an exchange of opening punts, Haman picked off Bulldog QB Jace Carletti on a deep pass at Newark's 35. Showing the moves he displayed all day on offense, Haman returned the ball 41 yards to the Brandywine 24.

After two short runs by Montgomery and Haman, senior co-captain John Brennan made the most of a rare running opportunity and followed the right side of his line 18 yards to paydirt to open the scoring. Junior John Brayman tacked on the extra point and the Jackets were up 7-0.

The two teams exchanged punts once again and after safety Dennis Williams defended a deep pass, he took the ensuing punt return back 10 yards to give the Jackets the ball at midfield.

After three short runs, Montgomery took a pitch on fourth and one, stumbled at the first down mark, caught his balance and rambled 40 yards untouched to the end zone. The snap on the extra point was high and had to be covered up by Brayman, but Newark was up 13-0, early in the second quarter.

"This was a tough game, but we stuck it out," said Montgomery. "When I run, I try to keep a low center of gravity, but keep my head up and on that touchdown run, I was able to keep my balance."

On the ensuing kick-off, the Bulldog offense began to come to life. On a third and seven from his own 36, junior tailback Ishmael Lewis took a pitch to the right, broke one tackle at the line, and scampered 64 yards down the sideline to pull the Bulldogs within seven. Dan Santobianco tacked on the extra point and the Jackets lead was cut to 13-7.

The momentum continued to turn against the Jackets as on their first play from scrimmage at their own 32, Haman fumbled and Brandywine's Sean Sandora pounced on it to put the Bulldogs in scoring territory. On first down, Newark defensive tackle Orien Harris sacked Carletti for a four-yard loss, but the senior QB hit his next two passes to get to the Jackets 17. After a bad hand-off and an incompleteness, the Bulldogs went for it on a fourth and seven, but once again Harris stormed in and sacked Carletti, giving the ball back to Newark at their own 30.

Newark then marched down the field, highlighted by a pass from QB Eric Spiess to tight end Steve Selk who outjumped his man for a key reception down to the Bulldog seven. On second down, Montgomery then took it in for what appeared to be a touchdown, but was ruled just short of the end zone. Two cracks later at the goal line came up short and the gritty Bulldog defensive line had held. The half ran down with the Jackets clinging to their 13-7 lead.

The third quarter belonged totally to Newark as they took the second half kick-off and marched 80 yards downfield, spearheaded by three separate runs by Haman of 22, 23 and 22 yards before he culminated the drive with a three-yard run around the right side to stake the Jackets to a 19-7 lead. The steady Brayman again hit the extra point and Newark was up 20-7.

The Jacket defense stiffened again as sophomore Austin Kisner broke up a Carletti pass on third down, forcing a Bulldogs punt that pinned Newark deep in its own territory. Three plays later, Haman took another pitch left, broke a tackle at the line of scrimmage, and tipped his way down the left sideline 84 yards to give the Jackets a commanding 27-7 lead.

The vaunted Brandywine passing attack began to wake up after that as Carletti drove the team 50 yards and then took it in from the one on a quarterback sneak to cut the Jackets lead to 27-13. The extra point was blocked.

After a Newark drive was thwarted by a Montgomery fumble deep in Brandywine territory, the Bulldogs drove back to their own 38 and their on a third and 19, Carletti hit Ivan Schmidt deep on a 62-yard touchdown pass to cut the Newark lead to 27-19. The ever present Deptula, who opened the season as the Jackets quarterback but has contributed to the team's success in many other facets this year, knocked down the two-point conversion attempt to keep the lead at eight.

It would be the closest Brandywine would come as the Jackets took the ensuing kick-off and drove the length of the field, culminated in Montgomery's 36-yard touchdown run which capped the scoring.

The Bulldogs mounted one final drive of the game but Deptula intercepted a pass in the end zone.

Hens hope win over Nova earns tourney berth

Wildcats coming off tough loss

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

Now that Villanova has taken its rightful place at the end of the Delaware football schedule, it's the Hens' hopes that the anticipated ramifications of such a matchup come to fruition.

The Blue Hens, 7-3 and fighting for their postseason life, visit Villanova (6-4) Saturday afternoon at 1.

Since returning to the football field, Villanova has always been the most intense rival of Blue Hens' schedule. However, in recent years the game has been played early in the season — sometimes as the first conference game.

"It's a lot better now," said

Delaware coach Tubby Raymond of the game's position on the schedule. "It's especially better than playing the first week of the season."

In addition to the natural rivalry, both teams have almost always had conference championship and/or NCAA playoff hopes. Playing at the end of the season raises the stakes of an already intense contest.

"To play at the end of the season is better," agreed Villanova coach Andy Talley. "It's more exciting than at the beginning of the year. I'm not sure where we are in the playoff picture but I know an 8-3 Delaware team will definitely be under consideration."

How much consideration is up for debate. In all likelihood, Delaware will need some teams ranked ahead of it to lose.

"Our job is to play as well as we can, win the football game and let the powers that be decide," Raymond said. "We've had 8-3 records before and not gotten in and we've qualified with 8-3 records."

One thing in the Hens' favor is the fact that their three losses are all to probable playoff teams. James Madison already locked up the Atlantic-10's automatic berth. Lehigh, if it beats Lafayette Saturday, will gain the Patriot League's berth and a UMass victory over UConn will most likely get the defending national champions in the tournament.

"I'm not sure the A-10 is getting the right respect nationally," Raymond said. "Every week there are teams that can beat anybody. In other conferences there are one or two teams that beat up on everybody else. That's not the case in our conference."

Emotional edge

If there's any team that has an emotional edge heading in Saturday, it should be Delaware.

The Hens have lost three straight games to Villanova. That alone should be enough motivation in a rivalry like this. In addition,

Delaware still has playoff hopes.

Villanova, on the other hand, lost a heartbreaker to Youngstown State last week. Trailing 28-21, the Wildcats appeared poised to tie the game and send it to overtime when running back Ducarmel Augustin lost a fumble on the Penguins' one-yard line.

That fumble sealed Villanova's fourth loss of the season and practically eliminated it from playoff contention.

Talley admitted he was concerned about his team's readiness.

"We lost to William & Mary (Oct. 9) and knew we had to go out and win five straight games," the Villanova coach said. "We had to go to three overtimes to beat Connecticut and we had a very tough game with New Hampshire. Then came last week. It's really taken a lot out of us."

"How much emotion do we have left? To be perfectly candid, we're really banged up and I don't know if we'll have the package we'll need to beat Delaware."

Pressey banged up

Newark High's Butter Pressey sat out the Hens' win over Rhode Island with bursitis in his knee.

His backup Derrick Downs rushed for 169 yards and two touchdowns to lead the Hens' rushing attack.

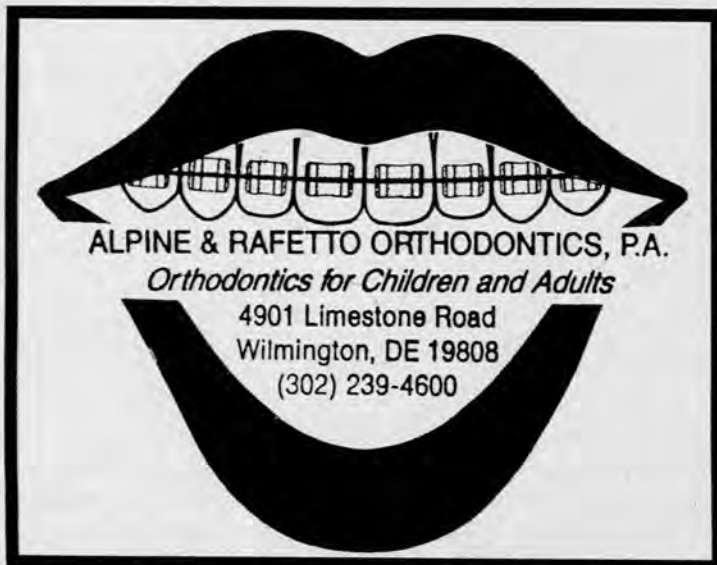

"I assume Pressey will be back," Raymond said. "But certainly you'll see Downs a lot."

Raymond also expects to play Matt Nagy to see some time at quarterback along with starter Brian Ginn.

Local connection

As always seems to be the case, Villanova will have a local player making big contributions.

This season it's sophomore punter Chris Birch. Birch, who played at St. Mark's High, has a 40.3 yards per punt average this season. Birch also handles the kickoff duties for the Wildcats.

Watershed Boundaries

Boundary lines for the 16 Maryland and Delaware watersheds, which drain into Chesapeake Bay, are shown on the Stream Map.

The entire Chesapeake Bay watershed covers 64,000 square miles in 6 states. Almost every drop of anything that falls on or spills in the watershed eventually ends up in the Bay.

Success in restoring the Bay begins with each individual protecting his or her own watershed.

You can also help by becoming a member of the Chesapeake Bay Foundation, and supporting its efforts to reduce pollution, protect and restore habitat, restore fisheries, and educate and involve more citizens. The Bay belongs to each of us. Its survival depends on our actions today.

V-BALL

Although there is no official "Public School State Championship" in volleyball, the coaches and players of William Penn were fairly certain they won it Saturday night when they defeated Glasgow 2-0 (15-10, 15-13) in the consolation game of the State Volleyball Tournament.

The tournament has been so dominated by this year's finalists, St. Mark's and Ursuline, who have combined to win the last seven state titles, that it's no wonder the Colonials (14-5) viewed their victory in the third place game as much more than just a nice trophy.

"My father joked with me and said this was sort of the 'Public School State Championship,'" said Colonials' head coach Loriann Minka, who guided this William Penn team to their highest finish in the school's history. "I'm very proud of this team. They could have lost to Ursuline and hung their heads, but they came back and battled hard all evening."

The Colonials offered a balanced attack that featured three different players, juniors Lindsay Miller and Sarah Booth and senior tri-captain Michelle Whalen, with six kills on the evening. Senior tri-captain Melissa Zebley anchored the back line for William Penn with 17 assists and five digs. Additionally, they drew the defensive assignment of trying to stop, or at least slow down, Glasgow sensation LaShanda Simpson, who led the Dragon attack all year.

Glasgow (17-6) took a 1-0 lead in the opener, but behind the serving of Kim Knollenberg and the kills of Booth and senior tri-captain Brianne Sullivan, the Colonials raced out to a 6-1 lead.

Despite the strong play of Simpson and freshman Kamilah Salaam, the Dragons slipped farther behind and found themselves facing a first game loss at 14-7, before clawing back to 14-10. However, Whalen brought the crowd to its feet with a thundering kill to gain possession, and then served up a bullet that was returned out to give William Penn the opening game.

The second game featured more of the skills that had garnered the Dragons the Flight A championship with a 13-1 record including a split with the Colonials. They took an early lead and held on to it behind the serving of Teri Mangini and tri-captain Leanne Karr, and the overall play of Simpson, whose warm-up jersey reading "Air Simpson" was no understatement. The junior tri-captain, who garnered six kills of her own on the evening, invited a triple team of sorts every time she looked at the net, but to her credit was able to go to a variety of dinks and spikes to keep her defenders guessing.

"They had two big hitters (Simpson and Salaam) out there tonight," said Minka. "But we were very sound defensively at the net and our first line of defense played great all night."

The Colonials trailed 13-12 but with Miller serving for them, and Booth and Sullivan providing one final block on Simpson at 13-13, the junior served out to give William Penn the game, match and Third Place trophy.

"I think we just wanted it more," said Miller. "People are so used to seeing the private schools in these games and we wanted to go out and prove that we're just as good and could have been Flight A champs."

Both teams will have their chances again next year as both return a healthy amount of their starting line-ups in their quest to shake St. Mark's from the top of the heap.

Dragons fall to St. Mark's

By CHRIS DONAHUE

NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

Glasgow High battled hard to the final point of its semifinal-round match of the Girls State Volleyball Tournament last Thursday against top-ranked St. Mark's.

But in the end, the Dragons became one more victim of a St. Mark's team that wears opponents down with aggressiveness, talent and depth.

The result was a 15-5, 15-5 Spartans victory that sent the defending state champion into the finals against Ursuline Academy.

At least four St. Mark's players had at least four kills or more - Lindsay McDonough, Leah Denhoed, Elizabeth Hubbard and Kelly Papili. Erin McNulty added four kills.

Denhoed also finished with 21 assists, seven digs, two blocks, and three aces; McDonough had six digs, four perfect passes, and two blocks, and Smith had six digs, two kills and two perfect passes.

"We were on a pretty big high from our (quarter-final round) win over Archmere because it was the first time we'd done it in two games," said McDonough, a senior who missed much of last season with a badly injured ankle, but returned in time to play in the tournament.

"The fire was still there and we wanted to go to the BOB (Bob Carpenter Center for the finals)."

Another key to the Spartans' success is that five of their players play on the same winter league team - McDonough, Denhoed, Papili, Laura Colosi, and Kayte Hall.

"There's a chemistry there," McDonough said. "And when you're best friends, it helps a lot."

In the first game, St. Mark's took a 1-0 lead amid the service changing sides 12 times. The teams then battled to a 2-2 tie before St. Mark's began to assert itself sparked by a kill from Colosi and an ace by Hall.

The Spartans built a 7-2 lead before Glasgow stopped the bleeding on a kill by Lisa Scanlon.

St. Mark's then forged an 11-3 lead before Glasgow scored again on an ace by LaShanda Simpson.

St. Mark's then increased its lead to 14-4 on kills by Leesa DegliObizzi, Hubbard and Denhoed, before Glasgow could score again. A mishit by Glasgow ended the match.

Glasgow played hard in the second game, but the Spartans built a 10-0 lead before Glasgow ended the run on two consecutive kills by Kamilah Salaam and one by Simpson.

The service then changed sides nine times before St. Mark's took a 13-3 lead. Glasgow was able to close to within 13-5 before St. Mark's ended the match.

Simpson paced Glasgow with 16 kills, one ace and one block. Teammate Leanne Karr finished with 15 assists, while Salaam had six kills and one block.

"(St. Mark's) doesn't have any weak links and they just keep coming at you," said Glasgow Coach Robin Dunlap, whose team won the Blue Hen Conference Flight A title.

"They serve well and they just have a slew of talent."

"And, we made some serving errors. But they pass the ball so well, it doesn't really matter what you do, they're tough. We played about as well as we could possibly play and we came back, but they're just that much stronger."

"They've been very focussed this whole tournament week," said St. Mark's Coach Nancy Griskowitz about her team, which had to replace seven seniors from last season.

"They play one match at a time and they want to get to the BOB. And now that they've got to that championship match, they're not going to sit down now. Push even harder now."

"I only have four seniors, but they're a very mature team. We knew it would take time to replace those players and we thought we might start the season a little slower than we did. But they were determined to start the season strong and continue going along the whole season with that determination."

Softball players unite for cause

By CHRIS DONAHUE

NEWARK POST STAFF WRITER

It was a rare November day - temperatures hovered in the mid 60's and blue skies were streaked with high autumn clouds.

And on a day where most people might have used the precious day off to work in the yard or around the house, about 200 softball players and their families and friends gave of their time so that some children probably less fortunate than their own could have a merrier Christmas.

What they came for was the second annual "Toys for Tots Softball Tournament" sponsored by the Newark Department of Parks and Recreation.

The one-pitch, double-elimination tournament, which has grown from five teams last year to 14, provides toys for Emmaus House in Newark.

Each player had to donate a toy worth at least $10 and more than 200 were collected.

Emmaus House is an emergency shelter for families with children. About 50 families are served each year by the agency, which is sponsored by Homeward Bound, Inc., said the organization's executive director, Mary Ellen Green.

"We're very pleased, especially during the holidays and birthdays, the families really cannot afford to get presents for their children. It makes us happy to provide this opportunity to the families."

"I came out to help the kids," said Hedda Loose of Wilmington, who played for Bear Insulation in the seven-team Co-Ed Division.

"We were just looking for a tournament, and Toys for Tots, that's a pretty good cause," said David Brinton of Wilmington, who plays for the Diamond Boyz. "Everybody decided to play one more tournament before the end of the year."

"It's a great idea," said Diamond Boyz Manager Mike Gravenor, also of Wilmington.

Gravenor also brought his wife and children along and they each donated extra toys.

"It was only $25 to get into the tournament and it helps support kids," Gravenor added. "It helps kids get toys who may not be able to get them. It's our last tournament of the year, and we play in just about every one of them."

The Diamond Boyz came out of the loser's bracket to win the Men's Division title by beating

No Spouse Tour 1999, 16-1 and 10-5.

In the Co-Ed Division, Harvey & Harvey came out of the loser's bracket to beat D. Henderson Hake/Remax in the first game 3-2. D. Henderson Hake/Remax then clinched the title with a 3-2 victory.

Pete Trotto, the tournament's coordinator and a first-grade teacher at Cedar Lane Elementary School in Middletown, said word-of-mouth helped the event expand.

"It seemed after last year the reaction from a lot of the teams was very positive, so I guess they must have talked to a lot of people and it got around over the summer," Trotto said.

Trotto was especially happy with the weather for this year's two-day event because it rained last year when it was held on one day.

Two of the teams in this year's event came from as far away as Dover. And in addition to players making contributions, many of their family members and friends and co-workers also contributed toys, Trotto said.

Recreation Superintendent Joe Spadafino, who started the tournament last year, said he had read about a similar tournament in Utah.

"We have a newsletter exchange program with different parks and recreation organizations around the country," Spadafino said. "I thought that was a great cause and called the Emmaus House and they were real excited about us doing it. It's been a real success and I expect it to keep on growing."

"All the players, everyone one of them has told me they're just out here for the kids and to donate toys and have fun. They're not worried about winning. I think what we're finding is that a lot of softball players in Delaware and this area in general all have big hearts. This is more of an excuse for them to come out and donate a gift than play softball and that was our goal."

To make a donation, call the Emmaus House at 737-2241.

Possible river pollution prompts trial

Two environmental groups are demanding a trial to decide whether an oil refinery is meeting a judge's order to monitor its pollution of the Delaware River.

The Natural Resources Defense Council and the Delaware Audubon Society claim in court papers that the Motiva Enterprises refinery is an ongoing source of pollution in the Delaware River, and hasn't adequately studied that waste's impact on the waterway as directed by a judge.

Jan Morrill, a spokeswoman for Motiva, said the company's waste-water study is adequate. "The NRDC claims that this study is deficient, and therefore we're back in court to let the court decide what type of study needs to be done," Morrill said.

This is the latest move in an 11-year saga that began when the two environmental groups filed a lawsuit against the Delaware City refinery under the umbrella of the Clean Water Act. That federal law allows citizens to enforce the water standards when government regulators do not prevent pollution.

The NRDC and the local Audubon Society claimed in their 1988 lawsuit that the refinery had violated its waste-water permit hundreds of times. The plant, then owned by Texaco and Star Enterprise, lost a series of trials and ended up paying fines of more than $2 million.

Last year, in a landmark decision, U.S. District Court Judge Joseph Longobardi ordered the refinery to conduct costly monitoring and studies of damage caused when oil, grease and other pollutants are dumped into the river.

The cost of that monitoring is expected to be as much as $700,000.

"It's a shame, because if they would follow the order, they'd probably spend less than they would by fighting," said Grace Pierce-Beck, a lobbyist for the Audubon Society.

Environmental lawyers say the ruling by Longobardi broke new ground because it required polluters to document the environmental damage caused by violations of the Clean Water Act.

A trial is set to begin Dec. 1. Motiva Enterprises is a joint operation of Texaco, Shell and Saudi Aramco.

NuCar Hummer earns national award

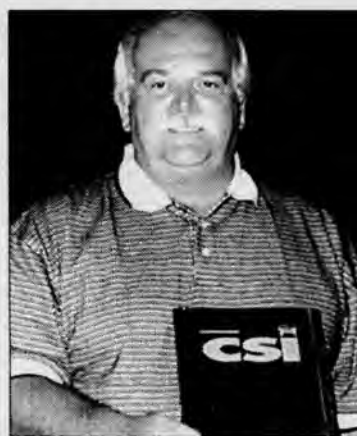

NuCar Hummer of New Castle has received the Consumer Standard Index Distinguished Service Dealer award for 1999 from AM General, manufacturer of the off-road vehicle.

The national award that is presented only to dealers who have been in the top 10 percent in customer satisfaction for the entire year.

"We pride ourselves in delivering outstanding customer service," said NuCar Dealer principal, Dave Greytak. "We're always looking for ways to better serve our customers."

NuCar, located at 174 N. DuPont Highway in New Castle since 1993, carries a full line of new and used Hummer vehicles.

Artesian Resources earnings announced

Artesian Resources Corporation recently announced that basic and diluted earnings per share for the nine months ended Sept. 30 were $1.10 and $1.08, respectively, as compared to $1.13 and $1.12 for the same period in 1998. Earnings available to common shareholders for the nine months ended Sept. 30 were $2,143,151, up from $2,026,939 for the same period in 1998, an increase of 5.1 percent.

Earnings per share in 1999 was reduced as a result of the issuance of additional shares of common stock in the second quarter to finance water infrastructure improvements.

Third quarter results reflect a $198,000 reduction in purchased water expense as Artesian reduced its use of Chester Water Authority's surface water supply during this summer's drought, increased number of customers served and increased water consumption during dry weather conditions. Earnings available to common shareholders for the third quarter of 1999 were $1,126,037, up from $728,707 in the third quarter of 1998. Basic and diluted earnings per share were $0.56 and $0.55, respectively, for the quarter, as compared to $0.40 for the same period last year.

Flights from Wilmington to Boston now available from county airport

Shuttle America, the only commercial airline serving New Castle County Airport, is now offering flights between Wilmington and Boston.

The new route has five daily round trips, including a stop at Trenton, N.J., at a cost of about $120. "We will ultimately make the flights nonstops," said Mark Cestari, a Shuttle spokesman.

Shuttle America offers low fares for business and leisure travel on 50-seat, Dash-8-300 turboprops. Based in Connecticut, the company currently employs over 300 people. The airline now ferries passengers to Hartford, Conn., Buffalo, N.Y., Norfolk, Va., and Trenton.

CITY OF NEWARK DELAWARE BOARD OF ADJUSTMENT PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE

NOVEMBER 30, 1999, 7:30 PM

Pursuant to Chapter 32, Article XIX of the Code of the City of Newark, Delaware, notice is hereby given of a public hearing of the Board of Adjustment on Tuesday, November 30, 1999 at 7:30 p.m. in the Council Chamber, Newark Municipal Building, 220 Elkton Road, Newark, Delaware, to hear the following appeals:

1. The appeal of Dolores M. Stearrett, 137 Woodlawn Avenue, for a variance to Ch. 32, Sec. 32-9(c)(2), which allows lot coverage to be no more than 20%. Plan to build a two-car garage shows lot coverage of 25.98%.

ZONING CLASSIFICATION: RS

2. The appeal of John and Jacqueline Haas, 110 Radcliffe Drive, for a variance to Ch. 32, Section 32-9(c)(7)(2), which requires a minimum side yard setback of ten feet. Plan to build a porch indicates a setback of seven feet.

ZONING CLASSIFICATION: RS

3. The appeal of Newark Toyota, for the property located at 400 Ogletown Road, for variances to Chapter 32, Section 32-60(a)(2), which allows instructional signs to be no larger than two square feet in area and permits one ground sign with a maximum height of 18 feet and a maximum area of 60 square feet. Applicant has requested the following:

One ground sign that exceeds the height requirement by seven feet and area requirement by 50.5 square feet;

One instructional sign that exceeds the area requirement by 1.75 square feet.

ZONING CLASSIFICATION: BC

(THIS APPEAL WAS TABLED ON OCTOBER 21, 1999)

Any questions regarding the above appeals may be directed to the City Secretary's Office at 366-7070 prior to the meeting.
