Women Voters' Tour To Halt at Newark On Next Wednesday

25 Autos, Comprising "Caravan" of Delaware League, to Bring Guests Here

On Wednesday, October 8th, at noon hour the "Caravan" of the Delaware League of Women Voters will stop in Newark.

Twenty-five automobiles will leave Wilmington at eleven-thirty, coming directly to Newark. They will be met on the outskirts of town by the local committee on arrangements, who will escort them to the band-stand on the Academy lawn, where the meeting will be held.

The object of the tour, which is state-wide, is to interest the people in "getting out the vote." Speakers of opposing political parties will be heard, among them our local candidates. Mrs. Carnell, of Philadelphia, well-known to many Newark people as a most interesting speaker, will accompany the party on the entire tour and will speak in Newark.

President Hulihan of the University of Delaware, will greet the visitors in the absence of Mayor Frazer and will preside over the meeting. The local committee is: Mrs. Everett Johnson, Miss Winifred Robinson, Miss Lena Evans, Mrs. William H. Evans, Mrs. R. W. Heim, Miss Eleanor Todd, Mrs. George Rhodes, Mrs. Mary Donnell, Mrs. George L. Townsend and Mrs. W. A. Wilkinson.

The public is urged to attend this interesting meeting. In case of bad weather, the New Century Club Room has been offered for the use of the audience.

ODD FELLOWS PREPARE FOR BUSY SEASON

Election Held by Local Lodge. Installation Thursday

At a recent meeting of Oriental Lodge, No. 12, I. O. O. F., the following officers were elected for the ensuing term: N. G. Henry Schaefer; V. G., John S. Hopkins; Rec. Sec., William A. Morris; Per Sec., Charles W. Colmery; Treasurer, R. J. Colbert; Trustees, Fred W. Henning, Isaac Vansant, C. W. Colmery.

W. F. Silvers and staff will be present on Thursday night, October 9th, and install the above officers. All members of the order are requested to be present on this occasion.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL STARTS

Blue and Gold Warriors Tackle St. Joseph's Saturday

The football season at the University gets under way next Saturday afternoon here when the Blue and Gold arrays itself against the strong St. Joseph's College team. The game starts at 2:30 p. m. on Frazer Field.

Coch McAvoy has no predictions to make about the outcome of the game. He has a tight team, as Delaware teams go, this year, and in some positions, an untied one. It is certain, however, that Delaware will give the Pennsylvanians a hard fight.

DAHLIA GROWERS TO HAVE LOCAL SHOW

Dahlia growers of Newark and the surrounding community will have a public exhibition of this popular fall bloom in Room 108, Wolf Hall, on Monday and Tuesday, October 6th and 7th.

Everybody who grows dahlias is invited to bring in specimens of the various varieties which they grow, in order to make this first exhibition a success. The exhibit is being arranged by local dahlia enthusiasts as a means of comparing varieties and arranging for the exchange of tubers. No attempt is being made to offer premiums, but merit cards may be awarded to the best specimens of the several types, and for the best vases of six or more specimens of one variety.

Everybody is invited to exhibit any variety, size or type of dahlia, whether they know the name or not. The public is invited to visit the exhibit at any time and learn more about this beautiful fall flower. Blooms should be sent to Room 108 in Wolf Hall not later than noon on Monday, October 6th. Details and arrangement of the exhibit will be supervised by A. D. Cobb, who will be glad to give further information to interested persons.

OLD HENLOPEN LIGHT CAN BE SAVED; DELAWARE SERVICE CLUB COMMITTEE IN WASHINGTON CONFERENCE TUESDAY

Light Turned Out As Precaution For Lives of Old Keepers; Federal Bureau Guarantees Care Pending Local Action; May Acquire Site For State

While the Federal Government will turn out Henlopen Light tonight, it will not disturb the Lighthouse, and has agreed to provide for a caretaker of the buildings against the ruthless relic seeker until such time as the local committee, representing the State Service Clubs, prepare and present a report to the Lighthouse Commission to protect it from the encroaching sea.

Further, the Government, according to Commissioner Conway under the Department of Commerce, headed by Secretary Hoover, would consider very favorably some plan whereby the buildings and Government tract could be entrusted to the care of a Citizen Committee of this State, that they might proceed locally for its preservation until the meeting of Congress, when legislation could be proposed and enacted.

Still further, Commissioner Conway assured the Committee yesterday that any old records, which are understood to be in the buildings, might be entrusted to some official archives of the State, such as the State Archives, Wilmington Library, or University Memorial Library. It was his opinion that any reasonable request by the citizens of the State would be given not only careful but very sympathetic and favorable consideration.

These facts represent the outstanding features of the conference held yesterday with the Lighthouse Commission before F. J. Conway, Deputy of United States Lighthouse Service, Senator Bayard who, at the request of Mr. Cornelius, Secretary of the local committee, had made the engagement, met the Committee at the station and proceeded with them to the Department, and in the conference became very much interested in the whole project. It came out very clearly that the Commission had for twelve or fifteen years recommended annually the preservation of this historic tower. What has actually happened is that Delaware herself has not given the attention deserved. Senator Bayard not only was interested but showed a particular fund of information on the history and conditions surrounding the old building.

The Committee asked for a fifteen day extension of the order that they might present their Engineer's report. Mr. Conway was sympathetic and seriously considered the granting of this request, but said that the lives (Continued on Page 5.)

Delaware Graduate Is Helping Local Doctor

Dr. John Pierson Taking Over Dr. Steel's Practice During Latter's Illness

Dr. John Pierson, of St. Luke's Hospital, Philadelphia, a graduate of the pre-medical course at Delaware in 1919, and well known to many Newark people, today takes over the practice of Dr. Walt H. Steel, pending the latter's recovery from his illness.

Word from the bedside of Dr. Steel, early this week, indicates little change in his condition. He is believed to be suffering from a form of malaria. At times his fever jumps to dangerous heights, but mostly falls again to normal. Mrs. Steel, who is a daily visitor at his bedside, stated that there was a slight change for the better on Sunday.

Dr. Pierson, better known during his college days as "Johnny," is a native of Wilmington, where he graduated from the High School. He entered Delaware, taking the pre-medical course. While in college, he played football, basketball and baseball, making his letter in each sport. He was a very popular member of the student body, and reports from Philadelphia during the last two years, indicate that he has made a splendid start in his chosen profession. He was graduated from Hahnemann Medical College and joined the staff of St. Luke's hospital in that city. At present he is on a month's vacation. He consented to take over Dr. Steel's work here for a time, after which it is reported he will join the staff of the Homeopathic Hospital in Wilmington. Dr. Pierson is a member of the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity.

W. C. D. FOUNDERS' DAY SET FOR OCTOBER 11th

Extensive Program Planned For Tenth Anniversary

The tenth anniversary of the founding of the Women's College of Delaware will be celebrated on the college campus on Thursday afternoon, October 11th.

According to plans now being perfected by Dean Robinson and college and alumnae officials, Founder's Day this year will be an important event in the history of the institution. The customary procession, and investiture of Senior Cap and Gown, will take place in Wolf Hall. In addition to this ceremony, a presentation exercise will be held in Residence Hall, and tree planting will take place on the campus. Sports and a baseball game between parents and students will close the afternoon's program.

The townspeople of Newark and the vicinity are cordially invited to attend the exercises, and are urged to take part in Founders' Day.

Collins Beaten Out For Assembly Choice

Robert J. Crow Springs Surprise in Local Primaries Saturday

One of the biggest surprises in the ranks of local Democrats in recent years took place at the Primary elections here Saturday, when Robert J. Crow defeated Frank Collins for the party's Representative choice. Mr. Crow polled 188 votes in the three districts of White Clay Hundred. Mr. Collins' total was 177.

While the strength of Mr. Crow was not belittled, it was generally felt in Democratic and Republican circles alike that Mr. Collins would win.

The latter carried the two Newark districts with a majority of 37 votes. He was beaten badly in the Christiana district, however, and thereby lost the fight.

Mr. Crow is president of the Aetna Hose, Hook and Ladder Co. and has always been prominently identified with Democratic politics. He ran for the same office against Mr. Collins two years ago, but was defeated. The detailed vote:

Crow, First district, 44; Second, 80; Third, 64; total, 188. Collins, First district, 108; Second, 53; Third, 16; total, 177; Crow's majority, 11.

In the fight for the nomination for Levy Court Commissioner Quigley polled 285 votes in the hundred while the other three candidates polled only 79 votes between them. Holcomb was second with 47 votes, Montgomery 28, and Hunter 4.

Elkton Boy Dies From Lockjaw Attack

As the result of running a large splinter in his hand from which lockjaw developed, Paul Bracken, aged 12 years, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Bracken, of Elkton, died at the home of his parents early this morning.

The unfortunate boy ran the splinter in his hand while playing with some companions a couple of weeks ago. It was not until late last week that the condition of the boy became serious.

GRAND LODGE MEETS

The one hundred and nineteenth annual communication of the M. W. Grand Lodge, A. F. & A. M. of Delaware opened in the Masonic Temple, Wilmington, at 11 o'clock today, with a number of distinguished visitors in attendance from other jurisdictions, and about 200 members from Delaware.

Grand Master Edward W. Cooch, of Newark, presided.

TO PREACH TONIGHT

Rev. James H. Beale, of Wilmington, will preach tonight in the Presbyterian Church at the Preparatory Service, held in connection with Communion Sunday. The service tonight starts at 7.45.

Freight Conductor Is Badly Hurt Near Here

Carson Philips Has Leg Crushed in Accident at Dayett's Mill

While attempting to stop two cars on the siding of the J. Irvin Dayett mill at Cooch's Bridge about 11 a. m. Monday morning, Carson Philips, a P. R. R. freight conductor, living on West Thirtieth street, Wilmington, had his right leg crushed between the top of a car and the wall of the Dayett mill.

He was rushed to the Physicians and Surgeons Hospital, Wilmington, after the accident, and doctors there immediately ordered his leg amputated a few inches below the knee. It is reported that Philips, while still in a serious condition from shock and loss of blood, will recover.

Car Went Over Bumper

Philips was directing the shunting of two cars on the Dayett siding when the accident occurred. He was riding on top of one of them, working the handbrake. The momentum of the cars caused them to go over the bumper at the end of the siding. The sudden lurch threw Philips from his perch to the roof of the car, and his leg became wedged between the car and the brick wall of the mill. He was in a semi-conscious condition when rescued by his comrades.

The train was a "way freight" working out from Wilmington and makes daily trips over the local routes.

A wreck train was dispatched to the scene of the accident later in the day and lifted the car back on the tracks.

NEW OFFICERS ELECTED BY LOCAL RED MEN

Install New Chiefs At Meeting Next Tuesday Night

At a meeting of the Minnehaha Tribe, No. 23, I. O. R. M., last evening, the following officers were elected for the next six months:

Prophet, Frank W. Smith; Sachem, J. Frederick Davis; Senior Sagamore, Frederick Strickland; Junior Sagamore, Willy Von Ehren; Representative in Great Council, Frank M. Smith; Trustee, 18 months, Lewis Krapp.

Deputy Great Sachem McDowell and his staff will visit the Minnehaha Tribe next Tuesday evening, at which time the newly elected Chiefs of the local lodge will be raised. Every member is urged to be present that night, as the committee in charge promises an interesting entertainment.

Aeroplane Comes Down

A large Navy biplane landed on a plowed field belonging to M. F. Whitten, along the Lincoln Highway four miles east of Newark, about noon, Monday. The pilot immediately left the machine and could not be found that afternoon. It is believed that the heavy downpour Monday morning caused his engine to miss or blinded him, so that he was forced to land. Observers say he was headed eastward when he suddenly turned and circled twice for a landing.

NEWARK GIRL CARRIES OFF HIGH HONORS

Miss Harriet Ferguson Stars For Delaware Team At Springfield

The eight Delaware boys and girls who returned last week from Camp Vail at the Eastern States Exposition, at Springfield, Mass., again demonstrated the ability of Delaware's Boys' and Girls' Club members to hold their own in any sort of competition.

In addition to the honors won by the teams, Harriet Ferguson, twelve-year-old member of the Rose Bud Sewing Club of Newark, won first individual honors in clothing judging, making a score of 95 points, the highest score made by any member from any state in all the contests. This is the most remarkable attainment of any Delaware Club member at Camp Vail, because Harriet has been a club member only since last spring and has just completed her first year's work. Her team-mate, Martha Jaquette, also a first-year clothing club member, placed fifth. Competing against them were twenty-one girls representing the champions of the twelve Eastern States.

University Juniors 100% In R. O. T. C.

Create Record For Delaware, According To Report From Upper Campus

Out of the sixty-seven members of the Junior Class at the Men's College this Fall, every eligible man has entered the two-year advanced course in the R. O. T. C., according to a report from Major Arthur W. Underwood, commandant, issued late last week.

A few members of the class, because of physical unfitness, have been barred from taking the course which leads to a reserve commission in the United States Army upon graduation. It is the first time since the inauguration of the R. O. T. C. at Delaware in 1919 that the enrollment of the third year men has been 100 per cent.

The two under classes are required to take military training, as are the upper classesmen, but the R. O. T. C. course itself is an elective one, and not required.

The list of appointments made by Major Underwood which perfect the student organization for the ensuing year is as follows:

LAY LAST OF CONCRETE

Kemblesville Road May Be Open In Three Weeks

The Lincoln Highway Construction Co. laid the last block of concrete on the Newark-Kemblesville road last Saturday, and it is no wonder going the "seasoning" process. The road will be open for traffic in about three weeks.

In the meantime, county workmen under the direction of Engineer Grubb, will be busy repairing the macadam road from the Pennsylvania line to Newark. This stretch has been under a severe strain during the building of the concrete road.

Newark Post Office Faces Rush Seasons Under Big Handicap

Prospects For New Home In Few Years Fade. Lease Expires This Month; Move To Renew It

The situation regarding the crying need for more space to properly carry on the work of the Newark Post Office remains unchanged, according to Postmaster William H. Evans.

The much talked of new home for the office is declared to be an impossible venture, as far as the Department at Washington is concerned, for several years at least. The only course open now, according to Mr. Evans, is the enlargement of what space is now available in the Opera House building.

A representative of the Post Office Department spent several days with Mr. Evans last week, going over the situation here thoroughly. At the first conference it became known that the Department could not possibly authorize the erection of a new building.

Other conferences were then aimed at the solution of the existing space problem at the local office.

Need 1800 Square Feet

A post office handling the quantity of mail that Newark does, must have, according to the Department representative, at least 1800 square feet of space. The local office is operating in about half that space.

A proposal is expected to be placed before S. J. Wright, owner of the building, asking that the old vault in the Post Office be removed, and the floor of the rural delivery room be lowered to a level with the main floor. This and other minor changes will place the working floor space at 1220 square feet, 600 square feet less than the requirements laid down. This, in the opinion of Mr. Evans, is the only temporary solution of the problem.

Some decision regarding the remodeling of the office is expected to be reached in a few weeks.

Facing the annual Christmas rush in its present condition is causing grave concern to Postmaster Evans, his staff, and those who know the situation. It will be nearly impossible to handle the steadily growing Christmas mail in the cramped quarters.

Monday morning's parcel post mail this week totalled over 250 separate pieces. When the bags were emptied, the entire rear part of the office was filled with mail.

School Roofs Leak

During the heavy rainstorm Monday and Tuesday of this week, roofs in the High School and Primary School here began to leak, and made it very uncomfortable for the pupils. Arrangements are being made, said Mr. Owens, superintendent of schools, to have the leaks repaired. Wind also blew down a chimney Tuesday evening on the temporary building in the rear of the Primary School, and the children quartered there were sent home this morning.

THE SICK

Mrs. Letitia Pretko is seriously ill with heart trouble at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wid Lloyd.

Mrs. Robert Campbell, who has been suffering severely for several days with a badly infected eyelid, is reported to be greatly improved at this time, and no serious results are expected.

Murder Cases, Involving Newark Negroes, Continued To Next Term Of Court

Two cases in the Court of Oyer and Terminer at Wilmington were continued Monday until the November term by Chief Justice Pennell and Judges Richards and Rodney.

The case of State vs. Samuel Parker, 14-year-old Negro lad of Newark, charged with the fatal stabbing of Jesse Stevenson, old Negro resident of Corbit street, was continued upon application of Parker's counsel, David J. Reinhardt. Parker was indicted by the Grand Jury, before which several Newark people testified.

The stabbing occurred in front of Stevenson's home on May 20th last, during an attempt by the dead man to stop a quarrel between Parker and another boy. Stevenson was janitor of Purnell Hall, and was a respected old resident of the town.

Due to the fact that he was not represented by counsel, notwithstanding his previous statement that he had a lawyer to defend him, the Judges ordered the case of State vs. Herman Christopher, 30 years old, a Negro, to be continued to the next court term. Christopher is charged with first degree murder. It is alleged that he killed Anna Dorsey, also a Negro, in a workmen's camp near the P. R. R. tracks, a mile north of the station here, on May 31st last. The Dorsey woman was assistant cook at the commissary shanty in the camp. A sister of the dead woman was released from custody as a material witness yesterday.

Another first degree murder case, in which James Bird, alias James Byrd, Negro, is the defendant, it is understood may also be continued until the next term of court.

Bird, who is charged with fatally stabbing Samuel Turner, Negro, during a crap game at Eighth and Locust streets, Wilmington, has not yet been apprehended.

Bird was hiding in a house on New London avenue, Newark, just after the alleged murder, and outwitted Wilmington police a few days later here. The fugitive leaped aboard an afternoon train at the B. and O. station and has been at large since that day.

THE COMING WEEK IN HISTORY

October 2 (1889)—Meeting of the first Pan-American Conference in Washington, participated in by ten republics, whose representatives signed an arbitration treaty.

October 7 (1765)—Anti-Stamp Act Congress, the first Congress of the American colonies, met in New York. Nine colonies were represented.

October 7 (1777)—Battle of Saratoga in the Revolution, resulting in the surrender of the British General Burgoyne. Considered one of the decisive battles of world history.

WHAT FERTILIZER SHALL I USE FOR WHEAT?

That question is often asked and answered at this season of the year. The answer will not be the same in every instance because of the differences in soil management, crop rotations, etc. Investigations conducted by George L. Schuster, Agronomist at the University of Delaware Experiment Station and published in Bulletin No. 138 shows that potash is very essential for economic wheat production. The average net returns from wheat unfertilized is $10.68 per acre. Where potash has been added the net returns are $20.08 per acre. The use of acid phosphate with the potash give a net return of $32.10 per acre. The prices used in making these calculations represent the average cost of fertilizers and the average selling price of wheat for the last fifteen years.

Where barnyard manure has been used the net returns are $22.00 per acre. Nitrates do not seem to produce any profit when used alone. When used with acid phosphate and potash the net returns are $36.61 per acre. Potash seems to be the controlling factor in wheat production. It also influences the quality of wheat. The weight per bushel of wheat grown without fertilizer is 51.6 lbs. Grown with potash it is 56.7. Grown with potash and acid phosphate it is 58 lbs.

Where the nitrogen can be supplied by legumes or manure it would seem then that an 0-10-4 or 0-12-6 fertilizer would be a very economical fertilizer for wheat. If it is necessary to supply the nitrogen in the fertilizer a 2-12-4 or a 3-10-6 may be used to advantage.

HOLD JEWISH NEW YEAR

Business Men Here Close Shops During Annual Fast

The Jewish New Year season, Rosh Hoshana, began at sundown Sunday evening last, and continued until Tuesday night of this week.

Jews in Newark closed their business houses and observed the season, most of them going to synagogues in Wilmington or Philadelphia.

The celebration of the Jewish New Year will be continued two days in orthodox congregations and one day in liberal synagogues. The two-day custom in the orthodox makes a distinction between the Jews scattered throughout the world and those in Palestine, where the ancient practice of observing a single day still is observed.

The stability of this government and the unity of this nation depend solely on the cordial support and earnest loyalty of the people.—Ulysses S. Grant.

552 STUDENTS ENTER UNIVERSITY THIS YEAR

241 at Women's College and 311 at Men's College.

Official Report

Three hundred and eleven men and two hundred and forty-one women are enrolled in the various courses at the University of Delaware for the term of 1924-25, according to authoritative figures from the offices of Dean Dutton and Dean Robinson.

In the Men's College, 271 students are from this state, and the balance scattered over eight other states, Pennsylvania being the next highest with 15. The Women's College proportion is about the same.

Seventy-six students at the Women's College are taking the two-year course in Education, preparatory to teaching careers.

A few girls, heretofore classed with Freshmen, have been entered in the Sophomore Class, leaving the Freshman class enrollment at 93. One hundred and ten Freshmen are entered at the Men's College.

Among the men Arts and Science seems to be the preferred course, with 152 enrolled. In the Engineering School, the heaviest enrollment is in the course in electrical engineering, with 62 men entered.

Prof. W. A. Wilkinson reports over forty students taking his courses in the Education department at the Men's College, and 70 or more in the same courses at the Women's College.

NOW FOR THE ARGUMENT!

P. R. R. Claims To Be Older Railroad Than B. and O. Who Is Right?

The claim of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad of being the oldest railroad in America is being disputed by officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

In a letter to Samuel Rea, president of the Pennsylvania System, Samuel Harden, assistant secretary of the company and president of the Carnegie Institute, declares that he has traced the Pennsylvania Railroad corporate name back to a charter granted 101 years ago by the Pennsylvania Legislature.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad was chartered in Maryland ninety-seven years ago.

"If the Pennsylvania is the oldest railroad, it took them a long while to find it out," said R. J. Hayes, division passenger agent of the B. and O. "The Baltimore and Ohio has always advertised itself as the oldest railroad in the world and for a half century or more it has been undisputed."

Mail Bag From France

Post office workers here were the recipients Monday of a large canvas bag, marked "Postes, France, 7," containing several packages of books for college professors.

The French mail bag is built along stronger lines than the U. S. bag, is bound at the mouth with heavy cord and sealed, instead of our locking device. There is little difference in size between the two types of bags.

ELKTON PLAYGROUND IN NEED OF FUNDS

Report Venture of Methodist Church There Must Have Additional Support

Rumors current for the past week or two that the Community Playground in Elkton was in need of additional funds for maintenance, appear to be credited by the announcement last week that a committee of the M. E. Church will start a canvass of the town shortly, to raise money to keep the institution going next year.

The playground, in connection with the new church house, was opened late last summer and proved a very popular feature with the children of the town. The property on East Main street formerly occupied by the late Dr. Mitchell, has been remodelled to meet the needs of the church.

An active campaign for more funds is being contemplated by the church committee, it is reported.

An officer of the State Highway Department was stationed at the canal bridge here all day Sunday and directed traffic over the narrow bridge, proving a great aid to the congestion that occurs at this point on account of the canal bridge being drawn so frequently and holding up traffic on the State road on both sides of the bridge.

Drive to Aid Elkton Band Recalls Its 50 Years Of Splendid Service

Wherein Is Told The Legend Of The Floating Drum Off Turkey Point; J. C. Dunbar Taught Nearly Everybody In The Band

The Elkton Band started two weeks ago on its first drive for funds in recent years.

The boys have ambition, there is no doubt of that. Eight new instruments and uniforms for an organization of at least 25 pieces is the goal. In return, they offer their services for weekly concerts on the Court House Plaza in Elkton once each week during next summer.

It's a sporting proposition with them, and they are carrying their campaign to the rank and file of the people of Elkton.

Few knew that this band is over 50 years old; has played at everything from church suppers to receptions for high official of State and Nation, has hung together through fair weather and foul all these years.

About That Bass Drum

As far as can be learned, the band was organized about 51 years ago by a group of young men of the town. Some were musicians, others could play a little, and the balance were willing to learn.

Henry Bell took them in charge and headed the outfit for many years. It wasn't long before sweet tones came from horns that a few months previous had merely exuded wild and raucous sounds. The band grew and prospered, not particularly in money matters, but prospered in the eyes of the community. They played then as they play now—anywhere in the county.

In particular reference to these early days, there is one strange tale which cannot be omitted. It's the story of that first fateful excursion down Elk River, which nearly ruined the organization.

It seems that Henry and his musical prodigies essayed such a trip, and boarded a boat at Elkton. Many friends and visitors went along.

Now from this point until they finally landed at home, the tale becomes greatly confused. Some say the bay got terribly rough that afternoon; others that "it must have been something they ate." Far be it for a member of a generation then unborn, to concur or disagree.

But it remains a legend of old Cecil, that the band got into a terribly confused state aboard the boat, and further states that as the voyagers rounded Turkey Point, someone threw the big bass drum and three horns overboard.

"They might just have well thrown the whole band over as the bass drum," said the story teller, "and besides that, the only silver plated cornet in the outfit, the one that always found its place in the front rank where the sun could hit it just right, went over too. It was indeed a sad day for the Elkton Band."

And would you believe it—to this day, the legend holds that that old bass drum is still floating off Turkey Point, and in the darkness of the night, if you are in the proper condition, you can hear it thumping away for dear life—"Boom, Boom, Boom."

And the biggest crab in all the waters of Cecil County lives under the silver plated cornet! That's the story. We question neither its veracity or the spirit in which it was told. Suffice to say, it re-creates a bit of history, for all early history is founded on legend.

He Blew All The Horns

Coming down into the later history of Elkton Band, it is found that J. C. Dunbar, the early ancestor of most of the musical Dunbars of Elkton, taught practically everyone in the band how to play his instrument. It was said that he could jump from the mouthpiece of the baritone to that of the E-flat cornet, and not miss a beat. He was uncanny.

"If you had any music in you," said one band man, "Old J. C. could bring it down the bell of a horn for you."

Between "J. C." and John Dunbar, the leader, the band carried on through the years. When they relinquished the reins, others stepped in and kept them taut. Teachers and pupils played side by side. They rarely got paid—in fact, rarely expected it. But by their willingness to "help out," their good sportsmanship,

Americanization Not a Catch Word

Americanization is a much used, much abused and much misunderstood word. With the appeal given to it during the war, it became, in our enthusiasm, a catch phrase and slogan, which endangers the merit and truth in any word or phrase. Such the case with Americanization; for faddists of sentiment, propagandists, and impractical orators and writers have so misused it that its worth and meaning, too, have in many instances produced failure. Not so in Delaware. Americanization as formulated and practiced in Delaware is worthy of its initial meaning—and it is practical. The work here has attracted National attention. But more than that, it has and is rendering a service, impressive and real in actual American life.

Below we are giving the address of Judge Morris before the eighty-one New Citizens on last Monday evening. No reader, not even a son of the Fathers of our Nation, but can benefit by reading this address. To know the work of Miss Burnett and her associates who have charge of the work in Delaware is, in itself, a lesson in citizenship that is worthy of any one's time and attention. The sympathy, interest and practical service of Judge Morris is generally known. This address is another confirmation.

Tonight it is my privilege and pleasure to grant to you on behalf of the United States the great honor and distinction of American citizenship. I find pleasure in sharing with you the honor of American citizenship because you have today shown a clear understanding of the plan of government that was established here by the founders of this Republic. You have done more. You have labored and toiled and striven and made sacrifices in order that you might arrive at that understanding. Aye, you have promised—in fact you have sworn—that you will support and defend the fundamental law of this Republic—the Constitution—against all enemies whether those enemies be foreign or whether they be found upon our own soil and among our own people. We hope and we pray that you will not find it necessary ever to defend that Constitution against a foreign foe but from this day forward you will find frequent occasion to protect and preserve it against the attacks of enemies within our own borders for there are those who, though understanding our government and its principles, are opposed to government of any kind or any form and in the pursuit of an Utopian will-o'-the-wisp would destroy this and all other governments. The purpose and efforts of such persons it is your duty to oppose and thwart. But there is another class of persons, and they are much more numerous, who, through a lack of proper application to the task or otherwise, have no conception of the principles of the Constitution that has made us a great and free people. Consequently they seek to supplant the Constitution, or parts of it, with visionary schemes or principles many of which have been tried from time to time through the ages and have invariably been productive only of disaster. As to such persons your duty is plain. You must teach them those things that you have learned. You must make clear to them that the draftsmen of the Constitution were men who had studied the governments of the past. They knew what were the erroneous principles that had caused the decadence, the fall, the destruction of governments from the dawn of civilization. They knew the principles the observance of which had caused governments of the past to thrive and flourish. For the fundamental law of their own government the draftsmen of the Constitution selected only those principles which, through the actual experience of mankind, it had been demonstrated would best establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, promote the general welfare and secure the blessings of liberty to themselves and their posterity. The Constitution so framed was voluntarily adopted by the people themselves. For their own protection and security the people made it their fundamental law. In order that the Constitution might afford to the people that degree of security and protection from oppression by the government which they themselves were creating they assigned the exercise of the powers of government to different departments. To prevent the assumption of autocratic powers by any of those departments the people limited the powers with which each department was entrusted. That the government of their creation might not deprive the people of rights and liberties which the people desired to have and possess wholly free from governmental interference or control they enumerated the rights that were withheld from the government and retained by the people. Consequently, the rights which civilized man throughout the world holds most dear are guaranteed to American citizens by America's Constitution. The purpose of each of these guarantees is to guard and protect the rights, the freedom, the liberty which you and I enjoy. The preservation of these guarantees is necessary to make secure to us our freedom of person and thought, our homes and our lives. These guarantees are found throughout the Constitution. Some of them are:

"Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances."

"The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated, and no Warrants shall issue, but upon probable cause, supported by Oath or Affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, and the persons or things to be seized."

"No person shall be held to answer for a capital, or otherwise infamous crime, unless on a presentment or indictment of a Grand Jury, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the Militia, when in actual service in time of war or public danger; nor shall any person be subject for the same offense to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb; nor shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation."

"In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury of the State and district wherein the crime shall have been committed, which district shall have been previously ascertained by law, and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor, and to have the assistance of counsel for his defense."

"In suits at common law, where the value in controversy shall exceed twenty dollars, the right of trial by jury shall be preserved, and no fact tried by a jury shall be otherwise re-examined in any Court of the United States, than according to the rules of the common law."

"Excessive bail shall not be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishments inflicted."

"The enumeration in the Constitution, of certain rights, shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people."

"The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people."

"All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the State wherein they reside. No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws."

"The privilege of the Writ of Habeas Corpus shall not be suspended, unless when in cases of Rebellion or Invasion, the public safety may require it."

"No Bill of Attainder or ex post facto law shall be passed."

"The trial of all crimes except in cases of impeachment, shall be by jury, and such trial shall be held in the State where the said crimes shall have been committed; but when not committed within any State, the trial shall be at such place or places as the Congress may by law have directed."

"Treason against the United States, shall consist only in levying war against them, or in adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort. No persons shall be convicted of treason unless on the testimony of two witnesses to the same overt act or on confession in open court."

"The Congress shall have power to declare the punishment of treason, but no attainder of treason shall work corruption of blood, or forfeiture except during the life of the person attainted."

"The citizens of each State shall be entitled to all privileges and immunities of citizens in the several States."

"No religious test shall ever be required as a qualification to any office or public trust under the United States."

Is there an American citizen who does not cherish and value each of those rights? Is there an American citizen who would lose a single one of them? Where is the man or woman who would be deprived of his or her religious freedom? What person is there who does not prize for himself that security of person, house, papers and effects against unreasonable searches and seizures? Where is the person who would change the guaranty with respect to treason and render himself subject to arrest, imprisonment and death for criticism of the officers of government? Do those who would destroy the Constitution realize that the rights which they so highly prize are secure only so long as the Constitution remains secure? The rights reserved to the citizens by the Constitution are the greatest and most valuable rights with which a people may be endowed. They cannot remain to bless us unless they are preserved by a government strong enough to enforce them but so constituted that it cannot take them away. Such is the government created by the fathers. The structure of that government as outlined in the Constitution, in short the principles of the Constitution, cannot be destroyed or altered without putting in jeopardy the individual rights which you and I now have and which it was the primary purpose of our charter of government as set out in the Constitution to make secure. We cannot destroy the foundations of a building and still hope that the structure will remain unimpaired. We cannot destroy the tree or its roots and hope for it still to bear for us its fruit. These things you know. But the rights without which we would not be a free people cannot be retained and preserved unless the great mass of the citizens of America know how to preserve and retain them—know when those rights are endangered and know how to circumvent and thwart those who would destroy them. Your great duty in supporting and defending the Constitution which gives you freedom will be in teaching to your fellow citizens and having them understand these fundamental truths. You must create in them a realization of the fact that no government or form of government has yet been created that insures to the people greater freedom or greater opportunities than that which came from the minds and pen of Washington and his associates. If Washington actually were now amongst us, and if he could draw around him the shades of the great public men of his own day, patriots and warriors, orators and statesmen, and were to address us in their presence, would he not say to us:

"Ye men of this generation, I rejoice and thank God for being able to see that our labors, and toils, and sacrifices, were not in vain. You are prosperous, you are happy, you are grateful. The fire of liberty burns brightly and steadily in your hearts, while duty and the law restrain it from bursting forth, in wild and destructive conflagration."

"Cherish liberty, as you love it; cherish its securities, as you wish to preserve it. Maintain the Constitution, which we labored so painfully to establish, and which has been to you such a source of inestimable blessings. Preserve the Union of the States, cemented as it was by our prayers, our tears, and our blood."

"Be true to God, to your country, and to your duty. So shall the whole Eastern world follow the morning sun, to contemplate you as a nation; so shall all generations honor you, as they honor us; and so shall that Almighty power which so graciously protected us, and which now protects you, shower its everlasting blessings upon you and your posterity!"—(Webster.)

Washington, great father of our great nation, we heed your words. That which you would advise shall be done.

At the Americanization Meeting

Speech of Presentation

Tonight it becomes our privilege and duty to pass on to you, our successors and Petitioners for Naturalization of the December Class, the flag of the Caesar Rodney Citizenship School. We ask you to take this flag and cherish it as the emblem of the American nation, the symbol of the divine right of liberty and brotherhood of man.

One hundred and thirty-seven years ago, the founders of this republic gave to the people of America and to the world, the Constitution of the United States. From that time until now this Constitution has been the surest and safest foundation for a free government that the mind of man has ever prepared.

Tonight we have renounced allegiance to the country that gave us birth, and taken a solemn oath to support and defend this Constitution, knowing it to be the foundation of a government of the people, by the people, for the people; established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice, and humanity for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes. This is a solemn obligation. May we ever be true to it, and feel responsible to the full extent of our power for the preservation of the principles contained in this Constitution and the government of which they are the foundation. Then, indeed, will we be worthy citi-

Old Henlopen Light

Old Cape Henlopen Light goes out tonight. To any one with reverence for the Past, this is sad. Nor is the sadness mere sentiment. Tradition whispers, History calls, Gratitude bows before us—and more than all, Service speaks in a language only understood by those of the Sea. Service is a big word today and the story of Henlopen and its keepers is dramatic as are all stories of Lights at Sea. Harbor beams flashing out over dark waters truly serve!

But enough. Our story found and known of Henlopen, later—not tonight.

Sad as is the Event of the darkening Tower, older than our Government and Flag, to be replaced by a tripod lantern of short-lived mechanical structure, so typical of today's rush, it is sadder still, that to ourselves—citizens of Delaware—this has occurred. Those in charge of Lighthouse Service at Washington have for years appealed to Congress for the saving and maintenance of this historic, beautifully constructed Tower—and without avail. They today see and feel its worth and interest more than we have expressed. This Federal Board, without State Associations such as ours, has given time and voice for its preservation where in Delaware, Silence has reigned.

Henlopen Light goes out—and the fault is ours.

The Tower can be saved—mayhap even the Light restored if nautically safe and serviceable.—Shall we do it?

The future of Henlopen Light depends upon the citizens of Delaware. And in the decision, our character and reverence will be portrayed. What has this Day done to us that we forget so often the Men and Services of Yesterday? Shall we keep this Monument as a Memory showing reverence to the Past and giving inspiration to the Future?

No, this is not mere sentiment, either, men. Nor do not laugh to furnish excuse for indolence and neglect. It is, by actual engineering statistics, practical, which so much appeals to those who oppose.

Our action in this either portrays or betrays our manhood. Old Henlopen Light can be saved.

zens of this great Republic and contributors to the forces that will make it endure.

John Joseph Connel,
1325 Cedar Street.

Speech of Acceptance
New Citizens and Graduates:

We, of the December Class, accept with pride this flag which tonight you give into our keeping. It will be to us as it has been to you a symbol of the noblest and best of America's laws, America's ideals, America's traditions, the emblem of freedom, justice, and the brotherhood of man.

Natives of many lands who seek the blessed rights and privileges of citizenship beneath its folds, we promise to be ever loyal to it and the country for which it stands. It will be to us a flag to be cherished by all our hearts, and to be upheld by all our hands.

Arban Rybachak,
1209 Lobdell Street.

A Party of Humanity

The Republican Party is proposing humanitarian legislation to build up character, to establish independence, not pauperism; it will in the future, as in the past, ever stand opposed to the establishment of one class who shall live on the Government, and another class who shall pay taxes. To those who fear we are turning Socialists, and to those who think we are withholding just and desirable public aid and support, I say that government under the Republican Party will continue in the future to be so administered as to breed not mendicants, but men. Humanitarian legislation is going to be the handmaid of character.—Calvin Coolidge in an Address Before the Norfolk Republican Club, Boston, Mass.

WEDDINGS

Creswell-Lindsay

Rock Presbyterian Church, at Providence, Md., was the scene of an autumn wedding at 3:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon, when Miss Violet Creswell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo B. Creswell, of Providence, became the bride of Walter David Lindsay, of Pittsburgh, Pa., son of Mr. and Mrs. David Lindsay, until the past few months of Providence, but now residing in Wilmington. Mr. Lindsay being general superintendent of the Jessup & Moore mills. The ceremony was performed by the pastor, the Rev. D. Stockbridge, in the presence of a large number of relatives and guests of the contracting parties. The groom is a graduate of the University of Delaware, and is now in business in Pittsburgh. A reception followed the wedding at the home of the bride's parents, after which the happy couple left on a northern trip.

Frown On Mailing Of Tiny Missives

Postmaster William Evans on Monday again called attention to the practice of sending tiny letters and cards through the mails. Although there is no law to prohibit such practices on the part of post office patrons, it makes for confusion, delay, and in many cases, loss of mail.

The local office has been advised by the Department to again urge patrons to send mail in standard sized envelopes, and on standard cards, and to cut to a minimum the tiny greeting cards.

HENLOPEN LIGHT CAN BE SAVED

(Continued from Page 1.) of the keepers of the Old Light were in jeopardy, and that "even, men, while we are standing here in this terrific storm, that tower may be slipping into the sea. It is a grave responsibility which we have carried for many months, and we have erected this temporary light on a steel structure tripod which can be moved at will. The turning out of the light is only a human life precaution and does not mean at all that it is not possible that with the safe-guarding of the old tower the light might again shine from the old tower." It is probable, however, that the Service will heighten the tower on the end of Breakwater Wall, thus making navigation more secure and probably abandon any light where the tower now stands.

The Committee returned very much delighted with the sympathy and interest expressed by Mr. Conway and delighted, too, with the rare courtesy shown by Senator Bayard, both to the Committee and especially to the preservation of this monument. Many interesting details and stories of the Light—Past, Present and Future—have come to the notice of the Committee in the last week, all of which will be presented in their final report.

"Childhood and motherhood, cherished, honored, rescued from the grasp of all selfishness and rededicated to the noblest aspirations of the race, are the mark of advancing American civilization which it is our solemn duty to maintain."—President Coolidge.

PLAN LARGE CONCERT

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Newark Music Society, held last evening, it was decided to hold a large concert sometime the latter part of November or the first week in December, the proceeds from which will be used to pay the expenses of the erection of the new band stand on the Academy lawn. It is planned to feature an out of town soloist, well known to music lovers, at this concert.

NEW CENTURY CLUB

Call Issued For First Meeting Of the Current Year

The Newark New Century Club will open its new club year on Monday, October 6. (Note carefully the change from Tuesday to Monday.)

The meeting will begin promptly at 2:30 p. m. All the members will want to be in attendance at that hour to hear Mrs. Paine's excellent review of the newest things in Education; the reports from both the State and National Federation meetings. We were fortunate to have had one of our own club members represent us at that great gathering of women in San Francisco. Come out to hear the report she brings back to us.

Then, too, there will be music and a social good time which you will not want to miss.

The printed programs for the club year will be distributed. It will be quite in order to hand your club dues to the treasurer at this meeting.

Come out on Monday, October 6, at 2:30 p. m. to encourage the new President and let her see who are the members of the Newark New Century Club.

Grace S. Wilkinson, Rec. Sec.

First Football Parade

Newark residents caught their first glimpse of the football season here Saturday afternoon when the two contending teams marched through the streets on their way to the grounds for the game.

A street parade had been arranged to start the season, but on Friday evening the Continental Band notified the management they could not be present. So the parade took a setback. But undaunted, Mr. I. N.

Shaeffer, president of the club, painted some signs, tacked them on his big truck, loaded it with children with horns, whistles, etc., and used that as a band. Led by Coach Holton with Iverton Crow, the mascot, all dolled up in his uniform, the parade left the Armory on time. The squad of the 18th Airship Company held the place of honor with the entire company, who were to march, following in Army Packards. Newark's squad with their new red and gold uniforms and above all, their good playing, they won for themselves the admiration of the whole town and county.

And it is true to this day. The men who now comprise the band, some 18 strong, are always ready to aid a worthy cause. They play every year at one church supper just for the big meal they get. Never ask a cent, never expect a cent. They'll likely be playing at that little church for years to come, status quo. The firemen help them at the Carnivals, and so does the ball team; in return they head the firemen whenever and wherever they parade. It just wouldn't seem natural for the Singers to march down any street without the blue and white of their band in front.

And it is not pure sentiment that prompts the good will of the band's following. They play mighty well. Of particular interest is the statement of one listener at a recent carnival when he said:

"I tell you, that Elkton Band can play popular airs better than any organization in this section."

Sterling Dunbar is leader of the band. He's been with the boys ever since he could blow a horn, and he knows the game from top to bottom. He played overseas with the Maryland Regimental Band, one of the finest in the A. E. F. Mr. Dunbar is leading the drive for more money to maintain the organization, and his mates are working hand in glove with him.

A week or two ago the ladies of the town sent cakes and pies to a bake held by the band. $31.00 was cleared. It's not every organization that can get that cooperation.

Last Saturday over $40.00 was cleared at another bake.

"One thing is sure," said a bandman the other day, "we'll keep on playing for the folks as long as there's wind in the horns and money to buy a little new music now and then. But what we want is a real band, turned out in approved style, and up to the minute in every way."

"WHERE IS MY WANDERING CAR TONIGHT?"

While Bayard Miller, well-known Newark garage man was chatting with friends at the home of William Fraumon on Elkton Road Sunday evening, his Overland car suddenly disappeared from its position along the road outside. Mr. Miller at once started a thorough search of New Castle and Cecil Counties, but returned at daybreak the next morning, reporting no progress. His anxiety was short-lived, however, for a friend reported the car parked near the Dolinger creamery, west of town. The question now confronting Mr. Miller involves the fine point of whether the car was really stolen or driven away as a practical joke. It is believed he is leaning towards the latter explanation.

Helps A Great Cause

Assistance to the International Institute of Agriculture at Rome, Italy.

has recently been pledged by the Grange organization of this country, not only with a money appropriation, but by other offers of support through American Grange. The founder of this great agricultural institution at Rome was a California Grange member, David Lubin, and there has always been keen interest in the project, in which 62 nations of the world are now enlisted under treaty compact.

Grange participation in the Rome Institute is further seen in the fact that one of the earliest American delegates thereto was William F. Hill, then master of the Pennsylvania State Grange, and a prominent leader in the national organization.

NEWARK POST OFFICE FACES RUSH SEASON

"With this as an example of the average incoming mail on an average day," said Mr. Evans, "one can readily see what it will be just prior to Christmas."

Lease Expires Soon

Postmaster Evans said Monday that the Post Office lease in the Opera House Building expires this month.

As far as can be learned, it appears that the lease will be renewed upon expiration, on a strictly monthly basis. The Department at Washington in all its leases requires that it cannot be held liable for vacating prior to expiration. Thus, many property owners demur when asked to lease their buildings, since there can be no long term agreement made.

In the final analysis, Newark's post office for the present will remain in the same quarters for several years at least, despite the fact that the Government already owns a lot in the town. Mr. Evans said that similar situations are prevalent in hundreds of towns. The Department, however, is expending every possible effort and dollar to correct the serious congestion in the large cities, principally New York, Baltimore and Philadelphia.

It is expected then, that the coming holiday mail rush will be handled as well as the facilities here will permit.

SCHOOL TEACHER FOUND DEAD IN WILMINGTON WELL KNOWN TO MANY NEWARK PEOPLE

Miss Anna B. Newman, aged 56 years, who was found dead in a mill race along the Brandywine Creek, in Wilmington, early Friday morning, had many friends in Newark, it was learned following the tragedy.

Miss Newman was graduated from Newark Academy in the class of 1892, having taken the regular academic course here. She immediately entered upon a teaching career, and, for several years, taught in the public schools of Newark.

One of her warmest friends here is Miss Frances Medill. Miss Medill was greatly shocked to hear of her friend's untimely death. Mrs. Angie B. Perkins, a classmate of the dead woman at Newark Academy, was also a friend of many years standing.

Lost Life's Savings

One of Miss Newman's friends here, on Saturday last, scouted the theory put forward by Wilmington police that the death came to the teacher by suicide. It was pointed out that Miss Newman was unaccustomed to be walking out in the night, and that she had always been afraid of the water. It is believed that she was suffering keenly the loss of her life's savings in an unwise investment recently and, while brooding over the misfortune, became bewildered and fell into the race.

The dead woman boarded at the home of J. M. Woodrow, in Wilmington, and was teaching in the Claymont, Del., schools. A sister, Mrs. T. H. Stewart, of Buffalo, was immediately notified of the death and she will take charge of the funeral arrangements.

DUPLEX — a new name
—for a new type car you have never seen before!

A closed and open car combined — the advantages of both at an open car price!

STANDARD SIX DUPLEX-PHAETON

$1145

f. o. b. factories

No other car in its price-range has this combination of features:

New Duplex Body.
Real Balloon Tires.
Inclined valve engine.
Crankshaft and connecting rods machined on all surfaces for vibrationless balance.
Genuine chrome tanned Spanish leather.
All the usual equipment—plus a high grade clock, a dash gas gauge, automatic windshield wiper and lighting switch on steering wheel.
New Studebaker 4-Wheel Hydraulic Brakes—optional equipment. Automatic braking power.

ONE minute the DUPLEX is a comfortable, weather-tight closed car — deeply cushioned and richly appointed. In less than thirty seconds it becomes a delightful open car, with all the unhindered freedom every motorist likes and enjoys. Its double utility satisfied a most urgent need—it is as revolutionary as the self-starter and electric lights.

And the price is the same as that of the open car — with advantages in finish, fittings, room and comfort no open car could ever give!

Framed and shaped in steel, the upper part of the Duplex Body is built integrally with the lower part—it functions perfectly with the lower part—it is permanently beautiful. But even without the "double-value" of the Duplex Body the new Standard Six would still be the same great Studebaker success. For its introduction marks the beginning of an era in the automobile industry when fine cars of real quality, plenty of room and comfort, impressive appearance, splendid power and performance may be had at a price the average buyer can afford to pay.

Surpassing mechanical superiority is obvious in every mile you drive it. Power, smoothness, silence you expect in any good six-cylinder car; but in this great car your expectations will be exceeded. You cannot anticipate such performance-perfection in any car even within hundreds of dollars of the new Studebaker Standard Six price.

The proof is easy to establish — drive it yourself, try it out on your favorite hill, test its speed on the straight-away. Sense what "ease of operation" really means in terms of effortless steering, velvety clutch action, easy gear shifting and instant brake application.

Experience what real comfort means in plenty of room, soft deep cushions; genuine balloon tires; long, supple springs.

The new Standard Six will tell you a story as it has never been told before by any other car at the Standard Six price.

Whether you are in the market now or next year—you should see this new Studebaker. It is a car that will revolutionize values in the automobile industry!

A CHIP FROM THE OLD BLOCK

A New York Newspaper's Analysis of Theodore Roosevelt's Path in the Footsteps of His Father

The following article was taken from a New York daily, under date of September 29th:

"Delighted!" Once more the famous Roosevelt grin; once more the famous Roosevelt declaration are to stalk abroad seeking the ballots of the people.

Far-famed Sagamore Hill, at Oyster Bay, is to resound with the halloos of the populace and the politicians.

Young "T. R." has decided to be notified of his nomination as Governor of the State of New York at the old family home, amid the scenes followed by his distinguished father and not from where that father sleeps.

This in itself is a token of the coming campaign. Young "T. R." has dreamed dreams, and his friends have dreamed dreams for him. There is no constitutional inhibition to restrain the son of a President from eventually succeeding his father in the White House and that is the goal which lies in front of the "younger generation."

Yet the young Colonel ("Ted," his father always called him) has a political path ahead of him as rough as rider ever negotiated. He has the task of being himself. Already he has been accused by his political antagonists of trying to wear the mantle which once fitted the broad shoulders of his father; already he has been pictured in boots far too big for him; already he has been shown in a vain endeavor to lift the big stick from the ground.

There is evidence on every hand that his moves will be watched with keen eyes and that no matter how natural may come to him some of the better known mannerisms of his father, there will be those to say that these are merely assumed for the purposes of politics.

Young Roosevelt has inherited much from his father. His manner of speech is the same. Young "T. R." has his father's habit of talking through his teeth. It was this habit that made the Roosevelt grin so much in evidence. The son also has that falsetto note in his voice which was of so much service to the elder Roosevelt in making a point and drawing a laugh from his hearers.

Young Roosevelt has not the rugged features of his father, but the contour of the face is virtually the same and as the one-time president developed into sturdier frame, so will the son. Young "T. R." is like the Prince of Wales, however, in that thus far he has resisted all efforts to emulate the hirsute adornment of his father. The Prince shudders every time he looks at King George's whiskers. Young "T. R." has no such aversion to the well-known Roosevelt mustache, but he has made no move in the direction of raising one.

Nor has he yet adopted the well-known Roosevelt glasses. All that may come in time. The young man feels he is just starting on his career.

The parallel to his father's life thus far is the most striking American history ever has known. Roosevelt the elder rose by way of the State Legislature, became Assistant Secretary of the Navy, passed through the Spanish-American War, was elected Governor of New York, was made Vice-President against his will, and stepped into the White House. Young "T. R." has been in the Legislature, has been through the World War, has been Assistant Secretary of the Navy and now has come his test.

The task ahead of the young man is more difficult than that his father faced. The "Rough Rider" rode into the Governor's mansion at Albany on the height of a post-war wave of popularity. He had been in a war which was largely personal. Everybody at home knew what everybody in Cuba was doing. "T. R." had signed a "round robin" and was the hero of San Juan Hill.

Young "T. R." goes before the people at a time when the fires of the World War enthusiasm are ashes. He had a splendid record, saw far more fighting than his father ever did, emerged with two wound stripes on his sleeve, but the World War was an impersonal war. It was fought 3,000 miles away. There was a strict censorship. There was no place in it for "Rough Riders."

Naturally young Roosevelt has not the forceful speech of his father. He faces the difficulty of being compared at thirty-seven to the father the world came to know more fully in his fifties. It is an awkward position. He must go before the people as the opponent of the most popular man who has ever been Governor. Al Smith has a hold on the people which is freely admitted by the Republicans. If young "T. R." can break that hold, his future steps may be easy. Little "T. R." will tackle it with typical Roosevelt gusto.

P. T. ASSOCIATIONS OPEN SEASON

On Wednesday evening, September 24th, there was held in the Commodore MacDonough School at St. Georges, the first meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association for this year. The association now comprises parents and patrons from the three districts—St. Georges, Hickory Grove and Red Lion. Mr. George S. Williams, of Millsboro, who is acting as assistant to the State P. T. A. president, helped in reorganizing the association, besides giving a very helpful talk to those present. It was announced that the school library should be kept open every Wednesday evening between seven and eight, with the principal, Mr. J. A. Willis, acting as librarian. This will give everyone in the neighborhood an opportunity to make use of the many books that are on the shelves of the new consolidated school. A sand table was given by the association to the primary department. A very enjoyable reception was held for the teachers, and the work for the year seems to be starting in a most promising manner.

Officers were elected for the coming year, as follows: President, Mrs. Fred Sutton; first vice-president, Mrs. Alfred J. Davidson; second vice-president, Mrs. F. Lee Reynolds; secretary, Mrs. Horace Simmons; treasurer, Mrs. Maud Sartin; and publicity secretary, Miss Gertrude E. Ratledge, one of the teachers.

Eden Branch Meets

The Parent-Teacher Association of Eden School met on Tuesday evening, September 23rd, in the schoolhouse for election of officers and a pleasant social hour, during which the parents could get acquainted with the new teacher. The officers chosen were: President, Mrs. Walter Alfrie, of Porter; vice-president, Mrs. George Matthews; secretary, Miss Anne Ralston; and treasurer, Mrs. Charles Diehl, with Mrs. S. D. Moody as publicity chairman. The next meeting will be held on Tuesday, October 21st, and will be in the form of a Halloween Party.

Giving Lecture Courses

Prof. James A. Barkley, of Wilmington High School, and Miss Davis, of Tower Hill School, Wilmington, are giving regular lecture courses at the Women's College this term.

Prof. Barkley is lecturing on History to the two-year Education students, while Miss Davis is giving a course on "Primary Methods" to the same group. She is temporarily filling the position recently resigned by Miss Krackowizer.

M. E. RALLY DAY

The annual Sunday School Rally Day of the M. E. Church here was held last Sunday. The event was a complete success in every way, most of the classes turning out a large percentage of their members. Prof. Short's Bible Class made a particularly good showing.

NINE DAYS A YEAR

The wage earners of America lose an average of nine days a year through sickness.

Think of the millions of wage earners. Then think of each one losing nine days a year. Then multiply millions of earners by nine, and multiply this sum by an average daily wage.

It is easy to see that wages lost every year because of sickness total well up above the billion mark.

Then add to the billion or more all the other expenses that go with sickness.

If you care to figure further, figure the loss to industry, through every man being off the job nine days a year.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS IN THE THIEF OF BAGDAD

Douglas Fairbanks amazingly romantic and dramatic story, heretofore thought impossible of achievement on the screen, "The Thief of Bagdad," will be the attraction at the Playhouse for a week, beginning Monday night, October 6, with matinees every day thereafter. This is the same company that ran last spring at the Forrest Theatre, Philadelphia, and at Atlantic City last summer with the identical, wonderful symphony orchestra which will play the score here. There is said to be in this story a wonderful love tale to set your pulses going; a wealth of adventurous incidents that stir audiences to a rousing pitch of excitement.

It will be a new experience to you to see a Magic Rug soar above the house-tops and off into the sky, bearing the Thief and the beautiful Princess. A winged horse fly up to and through the clouds, bearing the Thief of Bagdad, of whom all nations for hundreds of years, have been reading about in the tales of the Arabian Nights. You may have read about the Invisible Cloak, but you surely have not seen it unless you have viewed Douglas Fairbanks in "The Thief of Bagdad." Born of a poet's dream in Araby, this remarkable story was developed into a beautiful reality. Nothing like it

These statements may seem exaggerated; but when compared with the criticisms of this picture wherever it has been presented, cause them to appear to lack in justifiable enthusiasm. The Critic of the "New York

Urges Winter Crops
For Soil Improvement

M. O. Pence, Experiment Station Official, Gives Views on Important Problem

A mixture of rye or wheat and winter vetch, sown after summer truck or field crops, is in all probability one of the best cover crops for most Delaware farms, according to M. O. Pence, Extension Agronomist, University of Delaware. Experience of practical and successful farmers together with work done by the Department of Agronomy emphasizes this statement. The term "cover crops" refers to all crops which, when seeded in the fall, live over winter and can be used either for plowing down in the spring or utilized for hay or feed where stock is kept. Rye and vetch work well together as the latter, a twining legume, needs the support of the rye. Rye alone is often used, but it is inferior to the mixture since the vetch, a legume when inoculated utilizes the nitrogen from the air and is able to add much of that element to the soil. This mixture not only prevents plain food from leaving out of the soil during the open part of winter, but it also adds humus to the soil which makes it more retentive of moisture and thereby more productive. Many farmers of lower Delaware are finding that cover crops such as rye and vetch or crimson clover take the place of manure to a considerable extent, especially where supplemented with fertilizer carrying potash and phosphoric acid.

Time and Rate of Seeding

Seeding should be done as early as possible, but good stands may be secured of this combination as late as mid-October—after that time it will be risky to use vetch in the mixture. Following early potatoes, tomatoes, cantaloupes and even soy beans or cowpeas, this combination fits in well. At present prices of vetch 15 to 20 pounds of seed and one bushel to one and one-half bushels of rye, mixed, should be seeded per acre, using the ordinary grain drill. Putting on a light application of fertilizer such as 12 per cent phosphoric acid and 5 per cent potash mixture will not only stimulate larger fall and spring growth, but will be beneficial to cash crops which are grown after the cover crop next spring.

Utilizing the crop

The crop may be plowed under in the spring, when a foot to eighteen inches high, or utilized as a green food or hay crop for live stock. The mixture should not be allowed to become too rank on light soils or it will be detrimental to succeeding crops when plowed under by affecting the moisture supply. However, if the mixture is plowed down very early in the spring the vetch will not have time to make very much growth and in such cases rye alone might give almost as good results, considering the extra cost of the vetch seed. Such a mixture could also be used as an early spring pasture which would give the regular pasture time to get well started before turning in on it.

More winter crops for soil improvement will have to be used in Delaware to help keep up soil fertility and produce satisfactory cash crops, as time goes on. Wherever farmers are not growing clover and grasses regularly in the rotation as a means of soil improvement these recommendations are particularly useful. Keeping every idle acre covered by crops over winter, especially legumes, is a sure means of preparing for larger cash crops which should be produced at less cost per unit.

Brother of Former Delaware Student Still Has Wanderlust

Clifford Hastings, of Delmar, Del., 35-year-old brother of M. Francis Hastings, well known to many Newark people as a student at the University, has again struck out from his home in search of adventure. He returned about ten days ago from another wandering. Saturday night he started out again and with him went two other boys about his own age, one, Charles Hussey, the son of Mrs. Blanche Hussey, and another, John Beach, a country boy. Nothing has yet been heard of the boys, but their anxious parents are making every effort to locate them.

PRESBYTERIANS PLAN
S. S. "RALLY DAY" HERE

Sunday Morning Next Is Set
For Exercises; Special
Music Planned

The annual Rally Day of the Sunday School of the First Presbyterian Church, will be held next Sunday morning in the lecture room promptly at 9.45.

About 30 pupils will have at that time passed requirements for promotions and diplomas will be awarded by officials of the Sunday School.

Special music is being arranged for the occasion, numerous solos, duets and quartets being planned. A large attendance of pupils, parents and friends is expected to witness the program.

Addresses will be made by H. K. Preston, superintendent of the Sunday School, by the pastor, Rev. H. Everett Hallman, and by Miss Jennie Smith, who will speak on "Organization of the Sunday School." R. W. Heim is chairman of the program committee for Rally Day.

SUMMIT BRIDGE "CUT"
DELAYS CANAL BOATS

Jams Occur Almost Daily
During Operations; Ericsson
Line Held Up

For the past several days the routing of canal traffic through the "cut" at Summit Bridge has been greatly hindered. The extreme narrowness of the channel has caused many jams. The Ericsson Line boats have been hours late for the last few days, and the boat due at Delaware City about three o'clock Sunday morning did not reach there until nearly dark Sunday evening.

The tugs Corinthia and Columbia with a tow of barges ran aground near Summit, and as the canal is so narrow at that point they blocked all passage practically, especially when other tugs were endeavoring to get them off the mud. They were successful in freeing the barges late Sunday afternoon, and about fifty boats of all kinds that had been held up there were permitted to come through and pass out.

Rotarians Make Merry As Guests
Of Women's College Here Saturday

Push Ball, Baseball Game and Horseshoe Pitching, Followed By Picnic Supper, Comprises Program

It was Rotary Day at the Women's College again Saturday last.

About sixty members of the Wilmington service club, accompanied by their wives and friends, played hard all afternoon, ate heartily as evening approached and then enjoyed a clever little playlet given by students of the college in Residence Hall, later in the evening.

Dean W. J. Robinson and President Walter Hurlbush welcomed the guests on behalf of the University.

Sports Cause Laughter

The Rotarians always have a high old time on their outings, and the Saturday jamboree was no exception.

Cheered on by a good sized group of guests and students of the college, the business men engaged in a push-ball contest, in which they gave a realistic dramatization of a Freshman-Sophomore class fight.

Then followed a session with the horseshoes. Barnyard golfers seemed to be in abundance, for the shoes brought in for use by A. D. Cobb were insufficient to supply the demand. D. Lee Rose was then dispatched post haste to bring on more "fingers." Finally everybody had enough and the games waxed fast and furious. Many ladies joined in the fun.

The baseball game provoked much laughter from the "bleachers," as the Rotarians battled nobly against the W. C. D. team. Several riotous innings were played. Hits, runs, errors, overthrows, slides, and verbal attacks on the umpire—all were mixed up in the fun. To untangle them at the end of the "game" caused several judges some anxiety. However, it was unofficially reported that the girls' team won the struggle.

Rotarian Frank Mason sang several fine selections after the regatta. His powerful baritone has been heard several times by Newark people. Mr. Mason sings for his fellow Rotarians whenever they ask him, and his songs were roundly applauded by the gathering on the campus Saturday. Rotarian Will White led the group in old favorite songs in his usual hearty manner.

Dean Robinson, hostess to the visitors, then invited the party to the

Two Nearby Divisions, Is Report

It was reported this week that a number of track foremen on both the Maryland and Delaware Divisions of the P. R. R. are to be demoted to the rank of assistant foremen, but assurance is given that the track forces will not be decreased. Several present assistant foremen will become laborers or work foremen. This is in line with an effort to lessen expenses without endangering efficiency. Foremen will have supervision of more men and more miles of tracks.

SOMETHING WRONG
WHEN CLOVER FAILS

When Earl Jones, extension soil specialist at Ohio State University, made a careful inspection of 80 hay fields in northeastern Ohio and found only 5 good, uniform stands of clover, he was sure that something was wrong with the soil. And yet, his experience was not at all unusual, since the same situation might easily have been found to exist in many sections of practically every middlewestern and eastern state.

Mr. Jones says, "There is a serious soil problem involved when the new seedlings do not show good, uniform stands of clover." He further states, "An important problem before the farmers in northwestern Ohio is not one of deciding whether fertilizers are also essential, but as to how to use them most effectively. Failure to use limestone is ordinarily the important reason for clover failures, but plenty of phosphorus, a liberal supply of organic matter, and good drainage are also necessary for good clover crops."

Delaware Graduate, Now School Principal,
Finds Himself In Evolution Tanglefoot

Prof Willard McMullen, Class Of 1921 Of Delaware,
Stirs The Souls And Pens Of Oxford, Pa., Folks,
By Lecture In Schoolroom

A bright and lively controversy is on in Oxford, Pa., just over the Chester County line. In the middle, no doubt a bit puzzled by all the furor, stands Prof. Willard McMullen, of near Kemblesville, and a graduate of Delaware College, class of 1921.

"Mac," as he was known to many Newark people, was a football player and track man while at college. Becoming connected with Oxford High School as instructor upon graduation, he has now assumed the role of Principal for this year.

The following editorial from the Oxford "News," more or less explains the tempestuous situation caused by a reported lecture by "Mac" to his pupils on the all-embracing subject "Evolution." It is headed "WAS GRANNY A MONK?"

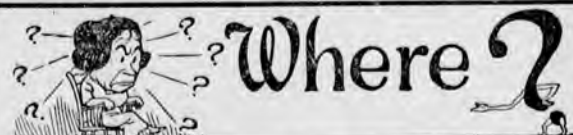

"One day last week, Professor McMullen sat down on a hornet's nest and began picking his teeth with a stick of dynamite. There was a 12-ton safe hanging over his head by a small rope, in which three strands had already parted and one of his companions had bubonic plague and the other Asiatic cholera. In plain language, Professor McMullen began talking about Evolution to the scholars in the High School. The children listened to his story of Darwin's hypothesis and immediately went home and asked, 'Say, Mom, was grandpap an ape and did your ancestors hang by their tails as they picked fleas out of their long hair and eat them as if they were a relish?' Naturally, Mom flew up and told Pop, Pop got mad and told the preacher that McMullen was trying to put greased skids under the whole garden of Eden and then the war started. Unfortunately, the preachers took it seriously, and McMullen was kept busy explaining just what he meant when he attempted to insist that Evolution was a scientific fact.

"The writer of these paragraphs speaks very feelings upon this subject. In a misguided effort to become familiar with the Evolutionary Hypothesis, he read some half a hundred books, beginning with Darwin's Descent of Man and the Origin of Species, down to Davenport's Scientific Artificial Selection. The net result of this effort was the discovery that a man with an adequate sense of the shortness of human life wouldn't waste time worrying whether one of his ancestors, a million years ago, scratched himself and liked peanuts or not. Given a few hours time, we believe we can refer both Professor McMullen and the preachers too, to ponderous volumes that will absolutely prove that Evolution is true, that Evolution is false, that Evolution and Christianity are distinctly contradictory and that Evolution and Christianity are entirely compatible. Pay your money and take your choice.

"Personally it is a matter of indifference to the writer whether his distant ancestry were monkeys or not. When he was young he insisted upon following every hand organ that came into the neighborhood, which might possibly be construed as an atavistic tendency toward Simianism. However, if his ancestors have to be species of monkeys he hopes they were Chimpanzees, because they are the most intelligent. Most likely they

Scarlet Clad Local Team Loses Decision on Forward Pass Near End of Saturday's Game

Newark's football season opened with all the glamour and color of old last Saturday. They had a parade, the entire team trotted on the field clad in flaming scarlet jerseys and stockings. The crowd turned out strong—a good Newark crowd, too. In fact, everything was conducive to a happy ending.

However, the fact remains that the visiting hosts from the 18th Aero Squadron, Aberdeen, Md., carried off the game, score 7-0. Therefore, all the ceremonials went for naught. There was gnashing of teeth, where shouts of joy might have been.

The "red birds" had two good chances to score, both in the first half of the game, but the final punch and drive of the backfield was lacking and the ball went over on downs.

It happened thuswise, Aberdeen had the ball about midfield, essayed a forward pass, and Harper threw the ball right into the arms of P. Cornog, center for the Newarkers. Cornog sprinted for the goal in a clear field, and in two more strides would have been safe. But he was nailed from behind after a heartbreaking race for the final chalk mark. There the ball waited for someone to take it over. Nothing doing, and Aberdeen had it again.

Teams Lack Speed

For the entire first half the two teams wrestled and tugged up and down the field, with neither in much danger of scoring, saving in the instance narrated above. Newark out-weighted the visitors, but the backfield was slow in starting plays, the line stood up, when it should have been down, and although they gained more yardage per quarter than their opponents, they could not deliver the gains in a pinch.

On the other hand, Aberdeen, with a lighter team, used poor head work on numerous occasions, and their line was even less formidable than Newark's. It could be readily seen, however, that the soldier team was in better physical shape than Newark.

The deciding play of the game came in the last five minutes.

Following a march down the field, Harper tossed a long forward to Socias and the latter went over for the score. Harper kicked the goal for the extra point.

Cornog, Sanborn and Hopkins played hard football for the home team. Rupp, entering the game in the second quarter, handled punts nicely and got off several good ones himself.

Sheaffer, Robinson, Smith and Keeley formed a veteran line of two seasons. All showed the need of more practice, but will, as in the past, surely improve with more work. They are good linemen, and should show up much better in the next few games.

President Sheaffer of the Football Association, and Manager Jester handled the details of the game in good shape, and although the home team lost, the battle was a good one, and kept the crowd on their toes all the way. The score:

"BOB" WATKINS LOST TO FOOTBALL TEAM

"Bobby" Watkins, football and baseball player of great ability and counted on to be a tower of strength for the "Red Birds" this season, was seriously injured early in the first quarter of the game Saturday. In tackling an Aberdeen runner, his left leg became twisted in some manner, and he suffered torn tendons and a dislocated knee-cap.

He was carried off the field by his comrades, and, still in great pain, was rushed to the Delaware Hospital. It was feared at the time that he had a broken leg. It is reported that he is resting easier now. The severity of his injuries, however, preclude any possibility of him entering the game again this Fall.

"Bobby" is a popular member of the team and his loss will be keenly felt by his comrades.

Newark High Opens Season With Victory Over Elkton Gridders

Marylanders Put Up Plucky Fight Against Coach Nunn's Huskies. Final Score 13-0

Several hundred rooters for both teams turned out Friday afternoon to witness the opening of the football season in Newark. That the home folks were pleased with the afternoon's work can be easily deduced from the fact that Newark High beat Elkton High 13-0.

For the initial effort of both teams, it was a good contest all the way. All the players showed early season mistakes and none were in the pink of condition. But it was a mighty good game, for all that.

Coach Nunn was forced to keep his regulars in the game to the last, for want of strong second string men, and because Elkton showed a surprising spurt in the last quarter, threatening to score. Fortunately none of the local boys were hurt. Captain Doordan played the whole game on a twisted ankle, suffered when he turned in before the game.

Elkton's team was in a trifle poorer condition, and as a result they lost a husky backfield man in the person of Crothers for the last quarter.

Break Comes Toward End

With two touchdowns safely tucked away, Newark was playing a careful safe game in the last half. The two teams battled up and down the field with surprising strength.

Finally Elkton received the ball at midfield and started a determined march to the goal. They lost the ball on downs, but took up the march again after receiving Rose's kick. Again they struck, and sent play after play through the center of Newark's line for steady gains.

Then Crothers fumbled, the ball squirted far back of the line and Riley recovered for Newark. That break seemed to take the heart out of the visitors, and they were submissive thereafter.

With the exception of a weakness in the line of defense, Newark showed a well balanced team, capable of doing great things when they get hardened and have a little more experience. Patchell, Davis, Chalmers and Doordan played rattling good football for the winners.

On the Elkton side of the scrimmage line, the work of young "Bill" Smith, captain and quarterback, stood out as perhaps the best on the field. In addition to running the team, he carried the ball 70 per cent of the time, mostly for good gains. He was right there on the defense, too. He and Crothers bore the brunt of the offensive attack, and acquitted themselves well. This Smith youngster is one of the best little High School football players to be seen by local fans in some time.

Newark went right through to a touchdown in the first quarter on straight football, with two passes mixed in. In the last few minutes of the first half, Elkton was within fifteen yards of a score, when the whistle blew. To open the second half, Newark again pushed the ball over for a score, and a pass, Patchell to Chalmers added the extra point, score 13-0.

Safety Or Touchback?

Considerable difference of opinion existed through and after the game regarding a play in the second quarter, which Referee France ruled a touchback. The Newark center passed the ball beyond his own goal line, where it was captured by a teammate. Under the strict reading of the rules at a conference of the officials between halves, it was found that the play constituted a safety, giving Elkton two points, because the impetus given the ball came from a member of the defending team. Referee France, however, had ruled it a touchback and could not change his decision. As it turned out, the safety had no bearing on the ultimate score. The official result then is Newark 13, Elkton 0. The lineup:

were Gorillas, which have the most pronounced bowlers. Anyway, he would just as leave have a monkey for an ancestor as Jacob, whose greatest feat was cheating his dying father and trimming his hungry brother.

"In conclusion, we offer this advice to Prof. McMullen: Let him confine his teaching of evolution and all other philosophical theories to simple explanations of their salient points, such as the immature minds of his pupils may easily grasp. Likewise, he should not let his pupils cut too many monkey shins.

"As to the preachers, our advice would be that they should not get over excited for fear something might be discovered that will upset all Christian teachings, turn the churches into theatres, and make them lose their jobs. For nineteen hundred years, the old time religion has stood fairly steadfast in the face of all sorts of revolutionary scientific discoveries. With ordinary care, it will probably last another two thousand years or so."

NEWARK

EVERY winter you waste a lot of money—shovel it up the flue, so to speak. And you will keep on wasting money until you regulate your heating plant.

In a ton of coal there are about 250 fair-sized shovelfuls. Well, every day that your heating plant is without a regulator, you waste three shovels of coal.

Figure what this means in dollars and cents. A ton of coal costs, says, $16. At this rate each of the 250 shovelfuls costs a little more than six cents. Three shovels of coal a day wasted is nineteen cents a day wasted—lost, thrown away.

Can you afford to waste nineteen cents worth of coal every winter's day? Of course you can't.

Stop the waste with a Heat Regulator. The Regulator will pay for itself with the waste. But that isn't all. A Heat Regulator will give you just the heat you want at the time you want it—not too much and not too little.

What Constitutes Citizenship

BUSINESS and TAXES make a Town grow. Citizenship is not mere legal residence—Citizenship is interest in the town from a business, tax-paying standpoint. The History and Growth of Newark is written from the business-man's desk, the cash register, the tax receipts, and gross sales for the week. Every improvement we have come from the cash contribution of our business men. Their money put the Idea over the top and without their money, Newark would not be Newark as we know it.

Admitting that, it is only business, only square, only fair, that we buy from them, or order through them. The best-dressed man in Newark buys on Chestnut Street, but it isn't necessary. Nor is it fair, when Main Street Business Men gave him the improved surroundings of his home.

"FOOLS AT THE WHEELS"

As The Milford Chronicle Sees The Growth Of Reckless Driving In The State

Once more an automobile horror has aroused public interest in the reckless driving by men and women, on the highways of Delaware. The plunging of an automobile into the canal at St. Georges last Sunday, and the drowning of four persons, was the direct result of incompetence of the man to properly drive an automobile on the highways of any state. Had that car been going at a moderate rate of speed when it approached the bridge, it could have been controlled and either guided safely, or stopped before the calamity occurred. The car ran for thirty or more feet alongside the canal with a fence intervening between it and the water before making the final plunge. It was after midnight and no obstruction to prevent the driver from seeing the bridge and the canal. There was no traffic approaching him at that time, so it is self-evident that the driver was incompetent to drive an automobile, which incompetency may have been the result of lack of judgment caused by drunkenness or lack of common sense. In either case an incompetent person to trust with an automobile on the highways. The claim that the woman grabbed the steering wheel may or may not be true, and there is no way to corroborate or disprove the claim, as the woman is dead. The main fact in which the public is directly interested, is that means to prevent the same class of people driving cars on the highways of Delaware, shall be organized and enforced. Unfortunately the laws of Delaware can not apply to citizens of other states; but, the laws of Delaware can be made to vigorously punish all who break the laws when using the highways of the state. Make the laws so drastic that there will be a general outcry against their harshness, on the part of those who would use Delaware highways in either disorderly or illegal traffic and then enforce them. People of the class who are careless Delaware with either automobiles or reckless drivers, who come into trucks, are undesirable and we want none of them. The law abiding men and women, the men and women who respect the laws of God and man, have no fear of harsh laws in any state. It is the reckless fools and ill-bred people who disgrace their own state, who need to be dealt with harshly. At St. Georges Bridge, where the United States Government is now having a large bridge built to carry traffic over the canal, is one of three points where all north and south bound traffic must cross the canal to get to and from the lower peninsula cities and towns. It is congested at times and for that reason it requires careful driving at all times by those using the state highway. Several accidents have occurred at and on the approaches to the bridge, within the past two years. In each case lives have been sacrificed. In one a mother was killed with her son driving the machine at a high rate of speed while entering the town of St. Georges, and the last is the case of a family of four persons being wiped out. In each case the cars were from neighboring states and the victims all near kin to the drivers. Everybody knows that an automobile can be driven at from forty to seventy miles per hour, and everybody should know, that a safe rate of speed varies according to the place, traffic and weather conditions. Ten miles an hour might be careless driving, while thirty would be safe speed under other conditions. There are plenty of laws and officers to enforce the laws, but the fools sitting behind the steering wheels of automobiles are not only numerous, but are increasing in number rapidly. It is time to devise some method for protecting the public against destruction and suffering from this source—the results to the fool drivers themselves is helpful, when one of them is killed, for public safety.

Constitution Must Be Upheld

The people are the rightful masters of both Congress and the courts,—not to overthrow the Constitution, but to overthrow the men who prevent it. Legislation and adjudication must follow and conform to the progress of society. Is it unreasonable to expect that some man, possessed of the loftiest genius coupled with ambition sufficient to push it to the utmost stretch, will at some time spring up among us? And when such a one does, it will require the people to be united with each other, attached to the government and laws, and generally intelligent, to successfully frustrate his designs. — Abraham Lincoln.

IT'S THE CUT OF YOUR CLOTHES THAT COUNTS

What's new in Clothes for Fall

The easy fitting suit is more acceptable than ever this fall. There are changes, of course, from last season. Trousers are longer and a trifle wider. The low, soft lapel is now universal. The soft front coat, too, is more generally worn.

You can take your choice between the straight line coat and the coat with a suggestion of the shaped back. One is as good as the other, if they're correctly cut.

You will find this season's style correctly carried out in all Society Brand Clothes. They're properly cut. The question for you is only which model looks best: you will be equally well dressed, whichever you prefer.
