Kappa Alpha Gives Xmas House Party

Massey Gum, president of K. A., has recently returned from Richmond, Va., where he spent several days attending the National Kappa Alpha Convention.

The annual Christmas House Party took place on the evening of December 19, and was a great success. Madden's Second Orchestra furnished the music. When the spirit of the party was at its height a Santa Claus entered and presented each of the dancers with an appropriate gift. The entire house was beautifully decorated in holly, and red and green streamers with a lighted Christmas tree at the entrance.

Debaters Prepare For Match With Temple

The members of the Debating Squad, recently selected by Coach Matthews, are hard at work in preparation for the first match with Temple University on February 26, when the League of Nations question will be thrashed out. From the enthusiasm shown, the team has excellent prospects of upholding the undefeated record of the Freshman of last year in this, the first year of Varsity debating. A successful season will put the University of Delaware high up in the ranks of collegiate debating.

MID-YEAR SCHEDULE OF EXAMS. TO APPEAR SOON

Mid-year examinations will begin Friday, January 29 and continue until February 5. The schedule of exams has not been completed as yet, but it will be finished in a short time; possibly by the end of this week. So, it behooves many to burn much of the midnight electricity.

DR. PATTERSON APPOINTED TO IMPORTANT POST

Dr. William M. Patterson, head of the Modern Language Department at Delaware, has been appointed to organize a national committee in America for the "Oeuvre de la reconnaissance aux mères françaises," the philanthropic organization in France for giving help to the mothers of soldiers who died in the late war. The President is Monseigneur Touchet, the Bishop of Orleans, and the American committee is to be under the patronage of Ambassador Herrick.

Dr. Patterson has just returned from the meeting of the Modern Language Association at Chicago where he addressed the Association briefly on the three avenues which have been opened up to members of the association to give individual help to needy scholars and scientists in France. As a result of a suggestion contained in a communication in Dr. Patterson's possession from Gustave Lanson, the Head of the Ecole Normale Supérieure of the University of Paris, representatives from the University of

HISTORICAL MOVIES AT WOLF HALL ON SATURDAY

Stories of "Jamestown" and "Wolf and Montcalm" To Be Shown

The second installment of a series of eight historical motion pictures will be presented at Wolf Hall on Saturday, January 9, at 7.30 p. m. Four reels of "Jamestown" and three of "Wolf and Montcalm" are to be shown. Those who saw the first show on December 5, 1925, entitled "Columbus," were very much pleased with it.

The Jamestown film depicts the founding of the first English settlement in America, in the year 1607. The hardships these colonies underwent are graphically shown. The "Wolf and Montcalm" cinema illustrates

Open Night At Women's College A Belated Christmas Party

The Open Night Dance which was to have been given December 20, was postponed and will be given in the Hilarium of Residence Hall tonight. Johnny Ash's Orchestra will furnish the music. About one hundred and twenty-five couples are expected. Dean Robinson, Miss Parker and Eloise Rodney will receive the guests, and dancing will be enjoyed from seven-thirty until eleven.

MRS. FORBES-ROBERTSON HALE TO SPEAK AT COLLEGE HOUR

Eminent Englishwoman An Actress, Author, and Play- wright of Note

College Hour next week promises to be one of the most interesting of the series of lectures given at the University this year. Mrs. Forbes-Robertson Hale, of England, will be the speaker of the occasion. Mrs. Hale has won fame for herself as an actress, a writer, and a lecturer, and added to the fame of an already illustrious family. She is the daughter of Ian Forbes-Robertson, the niece of Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson, and the grandchild of John Forbes-Robertson.

She began her stage career at the age of seventeen, under Sir Henry Irving. She later played with Sir Charles Wyndham, Sir John Hare, Sir George Alexander, with Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson (as leading lady in many plays), with Sir Herbert Tree (as Ophelia); and in 1907 she came to America with Ellen Terry.

On her retirement from the stage in 1910, she began a career as champion of woman suffrage and feminism, and soon won popularity as a modern thinker on the relation of woman to society. Her article on "The History of the Woman's Movement" appeared in the "Current History Magazine" of the New York Times. She deals not only with the particular social problem at hand, but also with the relation of drama and poetry to social forces. She is moreover a playwright. While an actress she wrote two pastoral plays which were produced in London. She has written plays for children too. She intended these originally for the amusement of her own children only. But one of them—a Christmas play—has been published in McCall's Magazine, and two others are to appear soon. She is also the author of a most popular children's book called "The Little Allies."

LETTER TO EDITOR

An Alumnus Speaks

To The Editor of "The Review."
Sir:—

The gentleman with the taffy stick and heliotrope bottle whose weekly perorations clutter your editorial page has sorely offended me again. I quote from your issue of December 4:

"But it must not be forgotten—and here is the crux of the thesis—that the present is just and has as much value as the past."

And, further along, this:

"Therefore when the oil begins to squirt about the 'good ole days,' put your tongue in your cheek."

And as a merciful conclusion, we read:

"... the Senior Class should be given some public demonstration in honor of the hard battle they have run up against in trying to live up to—etc., etc., etc."

In between these gems, little can be extracted save the rhythmic twaddle of Senior backs being slapped. I was quite breath-

ORPHEUS RECITAL NEXT THURSDAY NIGHT

Next Thursday evening the students and townspeople of Newark will have the opportunity of attending the best musical event of the season. At that time the Orpheus Club of Wilmington offers a program of classical and modern music. Seventy voices make up the club, the largest male singing organization in the state. Its popularity was attested at its recent Wilmington recital when every seat in the Playhouse was occupied.

Dr. H. Alexander Mathews will direct the program, with Stuart Gracey as assisting artist. Frederick Stanley Smith will be the accompanist.

The Sophomore Class of the Women's College is sponsoring the recital as a benefit for "The Review." In bringing this club to Newark, the class wishes to establish a tradition that each year the Sophomores sponsor a worthwhile musical concert.

RHODES SCHOLARSHIP GOES TO TILGHMAN

Cornelius A. Tilghman, who was graduated from this college in the class of 1925, has been signally honored by receiving an appointment to Oxford University of England. He is now pursuing a literary course at Yale through which school he was selected to be a student at Oxford.

"COLLEGIATE TRIO" BROADCASTS FROM WLIT

Famous Artists Make Debut "On The Air"

On the 22nd of December the famous Collegiate Trio, made up of K. D. Given, Clayton Hesselburg, and Herbert Clark, pianist, saxophone artist, and banjoist, respectively, broadcasted from WLIT, Lit Brothers' radio station, in Philadelphia. Given reports that the exhibition was a success. The trio has received letters of praise for its work and has been practically engaged for another concert in the very near future.

The group is already well-known in college through carrying away first honors with a skit in the Freshmen Parade. The Trio will carry on its activity during the winter and spring, though no definite program has been formed. It is certain, however, that they will figure in the Spring Show of the Footlights Club. The chief aim of the musicians in their outside playing is to aid the college and the Footlights Club through any publicity that they can give them.

Forum Hears Mormonism Discussed by Mrs. Shepherd

The weekly meeting of the Forum of the Women's College was entertained by Mrs. Lulu L. Shepherd, who gave a most interesting talk on "Mormanism." Mrs. Shepherd has been a resident of Salt Lake City, Utah for twenty-eight years. For the last few years she has devoted her time to lecturing over the

Baseball Prospects Rosy For Coming Season

Southern Trip Part Of Tip-Top Schedule

Although very early in the year and many days before it will be suitable to don a uniform for first practice on the diamond, devotees at the University of Delaware of the great American game are looking forward to one of Delaware's most prosperous baseball seasons. Beaten last year by scores which would discourage any team but fighting desperately to the end, prospects did not look very bright for this coming year, but it is with this same sticking, never give up spirit that the Blue and Gold boys hope to erase last year's record. Pryor, the pitching ace for the last two years, can be counted on for doing some more of his good work; Captain Mannix can always be depended upon to deliver both with the stick and in the field. Lichenstein, who gave such a

Walter D. Smith Addresses Engineers

Walter D. Smith gave a very interesting talk on "The Opportunities and Responsibilities of the Safety Engineer" to the Delaware's successful engineers, and as such is in a good position to talk to students about engineering.

In this talk, Mr. Smith pointed out first the scope of safety engineering, and then the responsibilities connected with this phase of the profession. A safety engineer needs engineering training, medical ability, organizing ability, and legal understanding. Then he must work hard to acquire additional knowledge to meet future opportunities.

As regards the opportunities offered in safety engineering, this branch of engineering is in its infancy. In such a case there is always a new trail to be blazed or an old one to be made more conspicuous. And even over a short period of years, safety engineering has justified its existence in that it has produced profits in a great many places.

If earning power is a measure of success, safety work is a good field for an engineer or anyone else interested in this activity, as in two years, a large percentage of safety men have increased their salaries from three hundred to a thousand per cent.

CONGRATULATIONS!

When Cornelius A. Tilghman, '25, erstwhile author of this column, was awarded the Rhode's Scholarship appointment from Delaware for this year, he showered himself with honors, and added something to the prestige of this institution. No doubt, Tilghman's pen which proved itself so vigorous and brilliant here, will, after undergoing a foreign influence, make itself felt in the field of American letters.

Here's wishing our former Editor the best of success in his work.

THE MILITARY BUGABOO

A wave of sentiment against compulsory military training in colleges appears to be sweeping over the United States. We say "appears" because we are rather inclined to believe that the anti-militarism movement is not so widespread and pronounced as it appears to be. The reading public today is very prone to swallow gullibly newspaper talk on a topic as glamorous as this one. Consequently the whole matter may be merely a bubble magnified to a size capable of attracting attention, and to be pricked by the pin point of common sense sooner or later.

Rather notable efforts to scrap compulsory military training have been made recently. The leaders of the movement insist that military training fosters the desire to fight and to kill, that it makes young men belligerently inclined, and that its precepts are contrary to the laws of humaneness and sportsmanship. The person who has had military training can best understand how superficial and asinine these presumptions are. Military training does not make men ferocious nor blood-thirsty. It does, however, fit them to do a man's part in defending their native land in national emergencies. The man who has learned from experience or study what war means—what its nightmarish horrors are—can most intelligently conduct himself as a citizen to keep it in abeyance. Military training teaches the supreme lesson of discipline and obedience. It helps to give men strong bodies, active, quick thinking minds, and a certain preciseness and mechanical exactness—if you will—which is the despair of the layman.

The colleges which include military training in their curricula are yearly turning out a picked body of young men with sufficient military training to make them the officers and nucleus of a great army in the event of war. These same young men are not to be seen on July 4 parading the streets to the time of the goose-step. They are not, moreover, as a rule, blood-thirsty, swashbuckling fellows anxious to incite wars. But rather they disappear into the maze of civilian life, and are no more to be heard of unless their country needs them. Can anyone suppose that men such as these have a desire for the "glories" of war or its "honors"?

Are we to be a nation of milk-sops, depending on the inclination of other Powers to let us live in peace? Will we never learn that we can best stave off war by keeping ourselves prepared to meet it? Can the attitude of a handful of malcontents undermine the best system of non-militaristic military training this country ever had? We ask you!

WHAT'S WRONG WITH EDUCATION? ?

We should not criticize the educational system of our colleges with fear and mistrust, but with inborn confidence and high hopes based on accomplishment. Many of our "moderns," with worried expressions on their faces, ask, "What is wrong with education?" just as if our present system were "headed" straight for the "rocks," and possessed no steering mechanism. Well, the situation isn't that bad—lack of sleep and failing health often causes such lamentable comment. The college of today doesn't need to be revolutionized any more than does many of our other institutions which entirely escape such sorrowful "nagging."

We have only to cite a few statistics to prove the worth of the college, or university. About one per cent of American men are college graduates, yet this one per cent has furnished:

55 per cent of our Presidents.
54 per cent of our Vice-Presidents.
36 per cent of our Members of Congress.
62 per cent of our Secretaries of State.
50 per cent of our Secretaries of Treasury.
65 per cent of our Attorneys General.
69 per cent of our Supreme Court Justices.

Although we do not deny that the educational system needs constructive criticism, and wise changes in order to meet the growing needs; we doubt if it should be turned upside down. The modern college is built on sound principals; it is a sound institution; and it needs only to steadily advance with the conditions. Let us criticize our colleges not with the idea of changing bad to good, but with the purpose of developing further something already good.

A RANDOM EDITORIAL

A commonplace editorial seemed rather useless, especially when the return to school had just been effected and all the weakness and short comings had been lost or overlooked during the sweet ten days of fond oblivion. There seems no social or academic wrong which would cause one to harangue violently or no desperate situation which should be changed. Indeed, our humble brains have relaxed, forsooth grown squashy; and we realize that our strutting wisdom needs "pruning" rather than "priming." In such moments, realizing that greater brains have lived and worked, we offer a few gleamings which will bring forth more thought than we could call forth in many articles beginning, "Hear ye O Students."

For instance listen to the advice which every social aspirant should learn of Lavatar:

"If you wish to appear agreeable in society you must consent to be taught many things which you know already."

Again, perhaps you will agree and practice with P. G. Hamerton in his remark: "The only hope of preserving what is best, lies in the practice of an immense charity, a nude tolerance, a sincere respect for opinions that are not ours."

And Rabbi Ben Azai aids in this thought of tolerance by saying: "Despise not any man, and do not spurn any thing; for there is no man that has not his hour nor is there anything that has not its place."

Last, with Ouid, rejoice that "God gave man an upright countenance to survey the heavens and to look upward to the stars."

Thus we offer these remarks, knowing full well that none of our own "bon mots" could ring as true.

Druid Dance Tomorrow Night

The annual dance of the Druids will be held this Saturday night in Old College. The price of admission is $2 per couple. The dance will start promptly at 8 o'clock, in order that there might be four full hours of dancing. No refreshments will be served, but every ounce of energy is being concentrated on the securing of good music and a fine program. George Madden's Orchestra will furnish the music. The Druid dance is really given in honor of the Freshmen, so that they might be brought in closer contact socially with the Upper classmen and Sophomores. Everyone is assured of an enjoyable evening, one that will be well worth giving a full space in your memory book.

a Cabaret Dance at the New Century Club in Wilmington to usher in the New Year, which began at 11 p. m. Thursday, December 31, and which ended at 4 a. m. Friday, January 1. At this affair were engaged several members of the Keith's Circuit, whose performances were considered entirely successful. Also, members of the fraternity who possessed an innate ability at dramatic work, but on several skits, which threw the audience into an uproar of laughter. The New Year was greeted by the tuneful syncopation of Johnny Ash's "Collegians" and the clattering of heels produced by the numerous joyous "Charlestonians," mingled with the shouts of joy and merriment, the raucous toots of horns, the whining and melancholy note of fog whistles, the throwing of confetti, balloons, and all the rest of the joyful appurtenances designed to welcome in a Happy New Year.

On Friday, the members of the Fraternity were guests of Mr. Nathan Miller, of Wilmington, at a luncheon held at the University Commons. Dr. Ralph Hirshon, of the Beth Shalom Temple of Wilmington, opened the luncheon by giving the invocation. Short talks were given by Mr. Miller, Dr. Walter Hulihan, President of the University of Delaware, A. G. Wilkinson, Business Administrator of the University, Dean George E. Dutton and Dean Charles A. McCue. Many members of the University faculty and their wives, and several of the prominent business men of Wilmington attended this affair as guests of Mr. Nathan Miller. The affair was closed with a benediction by Dr. Mishkin of the Temple of Truth, Wilmington, Delaware.

Following this luncheon, the ladies of the party were the guests of Mrs. Nathan Miller at a tea in the Faculty Club Rooms. There are indications that the convention next year will be held either in Atlantic City or Philadelphia, under the auspices of the Alpha Chapter at the University of Pennsylvania. At a meeting on Friday, the following men were elected to office: Tobias E. Levy, Supreme Chancellor; Sydney Jelink, Supreme Vice-Chancellor; James E. Gellman, Supreme Scribe; Harry Pikus, Supreme Burser; and Sydney C. Jellinek, Supreme Recorder. The Supreme Chancellor, Tobias E. Levy, and the Supreme Vice-Chancellor, Sydney Jelink, succeeded themselves to office. Harry Pikus, a Delta alumni, who was graduated from the University of Delaware with the 1925 class, was unanimously elected Supreme Burser.

The Saturday afternoon feature was a fast basketball tilt at the University Gym between the University of Delaware and the University of Pennsylvania Chapter teams, resulting in a score of 16 to 14, respectively. Then tenseness and excitement of the scrappy game thrilled the spectators and held their interest throughout the entire time of play. Joe Pikus' fast work on the floor during which he wrestled the ball time and time again from his opponents is to be highly praised. Lew Jacobson's shooting ability was the feature of the game. Herman Reitzes, a graduate of the 1925 class of the University of Delaware, was in evidence all over the floor.

The Formal Banquet was held at the Commons of the Old College on Saturday evening from 6 to 9 p. m. Benjamin Shlein, of Philadelphia, an alumni member of the University of Pennsylvania, acted as toastmaster. Short talks were given by the newly elected officers of the Supreme Chapter, by Max Sline, of Delta Chapter; Lewis Jacobson, Chancellor of Delta Chapter; Mr. Nathan Miller; and Mr. A. G. Wilkinson, Business Administrator of the University of Delaware. Dr. J. Feld, a noted New York Engineer, spoke interestingly on the subject of "Fellowship."

During the banquet in the West-Wing dining-room on Saturday evening, Miss Marion E. Skewis, dietician at the Men's College, was presented with a beautiful hand-carved ivory combined clock and jewel case by Lewis Jacobson, Chancellor of Delta Chapter.

The Formal Dance was held from 9 p. m. Saturday night to 1 a. m. Sunday morning. The dancers yielded themselves up to the syncopation and symphony of George Madden's Orchestra. Beautiful favors of silver cigarette cases for the men and silver vases for the ladies were presented at this affair. The decorations were entirely in fraternity colors, blue and gold.

Where motorized power is virtually unknown, men toil yet accomplish little. The United States has over one-quarter electrical horsepower installed per capita. Japan, leading country of the Orient, has but 04 horsepower. Electric shovel and storage battery locomotive are shown at a completely electrified open-pit coal mine, at Colstrip, Montana.

Work without Toil

Ten or twelve hours a day toils the coolie. If he carries all he can, he moves one ton one mile in one day. For that he receives twenty cents.

Cheap labor! Yet compared with our American worker, receiving at least twenty-five times as much for an eight-hour day, the coolie is expensive labor. In America we move one ton one mile for less than one cent. The coolie, working by hand, accomplishes little; while the American, with electricity's aid, accomplishes much.

Plenty of electricity and cheap electricity—these are two great advantages which America enjoys over the rest of the world. While our present generating capacity is 20,600,000 kilowatts, new developments call for 3,000,000 kilowatts more per year.

To college men and women—potential leaders—will fall the duty of finding more and still more work for electricity, with less and still less toil for our workers. For the task is but begun!

Delawareans

By EZEKIEL BARTENDER, ESQ.

No worry folks that odor of cows, horses and chickens, together with the smell of Milford fried sauerkraut, will soon leave the campus after the boys are here for a few weeks. We always have this sensation after the return from the holidays.

A burlesque show will be given by the Y. M. C. A. sometime next month. Lena Haley and "Bubbles" Dora have already been engaged. There will be a prancing chorus of seven gorgeous maidens, presenting the "Birth of Heliogofus." Givans will appear as "Little Mister 1926."

That three hundred page edition of "The Review" was suppressed just before Christmas. There was a sentence alluding to a warmer place than Pennsglove Hotel.

The Dear Bark Hotel will soon give way (?) to a million-dollar stadium to be used for pool rooms, showers, wedding showers, examinations in the dissection of a fried prune and the performance of the Glee Club. A certain man is financing the project and at present is summering in the Coral Cables of New Castle Bounty-Barnhurst.

The Plu Si Ki Phi fraternity held their formal dance last year. Six thousand couples were present including ex-President Taft, William Lyon Phelps, Joe Cheeseman, Brothers Jackson, Johnson ex-89, and Hon. Brother Joseph Cheeseman. The room was decorated in the colors of the fraternity-drooping vaseline and soiled mince pie. Music was furnished by the Glass Blowers from Iceland. The patrons were the patron Saints of Ireland, East Newark and Iron Hill. At the meeting after the dance it was decided to annex sixty-six new chapters, bringing the grand total up to sixty-seven chapters. So there! No, folks—Hennie Clest is not the phantom of the Opera!

The cost of the Spring Show of the Footlights Club will be actually no more than thirty-five cents. This will be a gigantic production. This will be a tremendous production. Worthy of Ziefeld. Will it? Or what have you? Just then my maiden Aunt threw a pitcher of hot fish gravy into my wrist watch and after that the child never cried anymore. And to think anybody would wear a monocle and carry a cane down here where men aren't men and women are three-chinned.

Some of the new cracks the Footlighters will use:

Janowitz—Whose that lady I saw you with last nite?

Taylor—That wasn't any lady. She's my wife.

Hobbs—What did the governor of North Carolina say to the governor of South Carolina?

Tremaine—Show me the way to go home.

FORUM HEARS MORMANISM DISCUSSED BY MRS. SHEPHERD

entire United States on the Mormon Church and its menace to the country.

Mrs. Shepherd, during her talk, stated that the "Church of Jesus Christ," which is the Mormon Church, has grown more in the last ten years than all the other Catholic and Protestant Churches combined. Not only in the religious fields is the Mormon faith gaining, but also in the political field. The Mormons control eleven western states and need the control of only two more to prevent the passing of bills which would prove annoying to Mormons. Their power is also felt in the major industries and is most powerful in Wall Street. The Church itself, controls over 65 per cent of railroad in the country.

Among other things, Mrs. Shepherd told of the Morman temples, their curious beliefs, their doctrines, their polygamous practices and family life. The speaker was exceedingly interesting and gave very animated and vivid accounts of her many experiences with Mormons and their faith.

Tie a tin to trouble

A TIDY red tin of Prince Albert, to be exact. There's the greatest little trouble-chaser in the known world. Smoke P. A. and pipe-grouches choose the nearest exit.

Yes, Sir, P. A. is right there with the Pollyanna stuff. Sunshine, gladness, the light heart, the bright smile. Because Prince Albert is the cheeriest, chummiest tobacco that ever tumbled into a briar or corncob.

Smoke P. A.—and smile. Cool, comfortable P. A. Fragrant, friendly P. A. Not a tongue-bite or throat-parch in a ton of it. The Prince Albert process hung the "No Admittance" sign on Bite and Parch the day the factory opened.

Get a tidy red tin of P. A. today and give pipe-worries the gate.

PRINCE ALBERT
—no other tobacco is like it!

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

Theta Chi Informal A Bang-Up Success

The Theta Chi informal dance, which was held in Old College Saturday night, December 12, was a huge success. The dancers started to Charleston at eight o'clock, after going through the receiving line, and they stopped only when the patronesses said that it was time to take the showers at twelve.

The light was cut down considerably by the red and green paper which covered the bulbs and gave the jubilee an atmosphere of Christmas. Holly wreaths were hung on the panels of the walls and they were placed in the windows. The electrically equipped emblem hung over the entrance, and was lighted for the last dance which was a waltz. The floor was not crowded, and the dancers were able to do the twenty-six different steps of the Charleston without bumping into each other.

The fellows of the Chapter at Delaware were honored by the presence of C. B. Kass and W. H. Stevens, Jr., who are from the Chapter at the University of Pennsylvania. Many alumni came back to do their stuff once more on the floors of Old College. Each fraternity on the campus was represented by two men.

The patronesses were: Mrs. C. O. Houghton, Mrs. J. G. Lewis, Mrs. C. E. Dutton, Miss A. Clarke, Miss L. M. Richardson, Mrs. J. Rowan.

Jonnie Ash's Collegians furnished the music.

ney, and Randolph-Macon. This Southern trip will tend to bring the boys into better shape for their northern rivals and upon their return it is expected that they will add increased prestige to Delaware's reputation on the diamond with victory after victory.

Michigan, the University of Wisconsin, and other institutions have agreed to take up the matter of adding to their libraries the recently published work of Raoul Allier, "La psychologie de la conversion des peuples non-civilisés." This is one of the simple forms in which an individual author can be assisted, and the University of Delaware, through the recommendation of our orders for new books, will thus have a simple and inexpensive way of helping a righteous cause.

good account of himself at short last year, will no doubt be at his old position. Ash, who was never given an adequate opportunity to show his wares behind the bat last season, will make a strong bid for the position this year. If rumors amount to anything there is some good material in the Freshman class and with coaching it will make the Varsity "step around." Le-Cates, Draper, and Wood made fine records twirling the pill in high school and although college competition is entirely out of the class of that of high schools, it is hoped that these men can come through and deliver the goods. Last year there was only one pitcher that could be depended upon and he pitched nearly every game.

Much credit is due the manager for the schedule which has been arranged. All the contracts for the games to be played have not as yet been closed and because of this the complete schedule will not be announced until one or two weeks from now. Manager Hobbs has succeeded in arranging a Southern trip for the team during the Easter vacation. It has been four or five years since a Delaware team has been given this privilege and it is due to the manager's untiring efforts that this was finally brought about. The trip will take in V. M. Lab Lightning

Douglas F. Miner

SOME of the men at Clark University mentioned it first. "Doug surely lives in the Lab," they remarked. Later, too, at Worcester Polytechnic Institute, instructors made the same comment. And Douglas F. Miner, himself, agrees that he did—and does. That makes it unanimous.

"Big league lab work" was his aim as he turned to Westinghouse after graduation in 1917. But not until his return from overseas service two years later could he settle down to the lab. Now—at thirty-three—he's in charge of experiments at our Engineering, High Power, and High Voltage Laboratories, with a staff of twenty-five to direct.

He can unleash artificial lightning of 5,000,000 horsepower in 5/1000 of a second. At his bidding the world's largest single-unit transformer will step current up to a million and a quarter volts.

He has demonstrated the greatest artificial arc on record—fifty-five feet in length. To further his experiments a single generating plant, capable of producing on short circuit a million horsepower, has been erected.

There is a practical reason for these super-tests—for this equipment in advance of what the world uses now in its daily work. This, for instance, is frequently the attitude of a Central Station customer: "Of course your apparatus meets our needs today—takes every test to which we can put it now. But what of 1950? Will this insulation stand the load we will

The question is sometimes asked: Where do young men get when they enter a large industrial organization? Have they opportunity to exercise creative talents, or are they forced into narrow grooves?

This series of advertisements throws light on these questions. Each advertisement takes up the record of a college man who came with the Westinghouse Company within the past ten years, after graduation.

use them? And how many volts will these arresters bear?"

They come to Miner for the answer. He gets it from the laboratories. He produces under a roof the same conditions which nature, or time, may be holding in store for Westinghouse equipment.

Such is the pioneering of Westinghouse Laboratory Engineers. They are "experimenting in the tomorrow"—the step between research and application. They are finding growth, reward, congenial work, while following a bent for trying things out.

LETTER TO EDITOR

less at the conclusion. But more particularly, I was amazed at the small boy thoughts which drove words, such as they are, down the writer's pen.

Strangely enough, this is the first Senior Class, to my wide knowledge, that has employed horn-blowers and cymbal beaters to attract attention. At that, the sounds are dull and smack of a cheap band in a honky-tonk cafe. I do not rise in noble defense of Senior classes gone before, but I do venture an opinion that no editor since Don McMillan has omitted news in favor of this sort of thing.

Each year sees its new heroes; each class reaches the final lap content with a wholesome, though somewhat lathered opinion of itself. That is a part of college life. It is beautiful to see. Despite, however, the atrocious albeit heroic English in the first quotation above, things at Delaware this year are emphatically not of the same fineness as in the past. The very fervidness of the taffy-stick gentleman must be disconcerting, even to a Freshman. I am sorry, but I cannot subscribe to his wailing from the housetops. As for the "public demonstration" I hope somebody will invite me out for Roquefort cheese and highballs that night.

My first reaction to this editorial, I confess, was an urge to conjure up some Senior classes of the past and make a tidy little argument out of it. Being calmer, now, I waive the privilege. Content that the editor will continue his pretty pieces regardless of tender sensibilities, I can only hope that some of my hot-headed associates in the days at Delaware when ballyhoo methods bowed to actual achievements are not subscribers to "The Review." All for your sake, dear Editor.

Yours kindly enough,
T. R. Dantz, '22.

P. S.—Now don't bother hunting for "indulgence in personalities" with which to castigate me. We are not discussing the World Court.

S. P. E. NEWS

Sigma Phi Epsilon's Christmas House Party on the Saturday before the holidays was a grand success. Revelry reigned until midnight, when Saint Nick appeared on the scene and distributed "appropriate" presents.

Cornelius A. Tilghman, 1926 Rhodes Scholar, who is doing graduate work in English at Yale, was a guest over the weekend.

Low Jones, former Delaware student, who is now a star forward on Yale's varsity basketball team, was also down to see his former classmates.

Sig Ep men are jubilant over the acquisition and taming of the fiercest type. The captures were made in the wilds of Second and Market Streets, at Wilmington, by the justly famed explorers and big hunters—Kirck Kramer, Johnny Robins, and Mark Donohue. It has been rumored in certain quarters that the big catch was more or less accidental and that the party had originally gone in search of "nick."

Most of the boys at the house have taken a great interest in the derbies and several blemishes on the new headgear have already been recorded.

A Foolish Fragment

Editor's Note.—The campus is quite safe. We put the author of this away, the moment this was read.)

"Tis the voice of my double," I heard him denounce.

"You have stepped on my toes,

I must give you a bounce. As a cat with his whiskers, so he with his beak Turns a somersault sadly, and utters a shriek.

When the moon is all blue, and the cows have turned pink,
He calmly but surely rolls up in a kink.

But, when the sea sighs, and the pebbles all moan
He announces quite shrilly,

"Come on, let's go home.
