"AMERICA ALERT" PROGRAM

G. L. Baker Heads Local Committee

Local Legionnaires are mobilizing to launch the "America Alert" program in this community, which was adopted enthusiastically by the 25th national convention of the American Legion in Omaha, Neb.

The object of the "America Alert" program according to Commander Carl J. Rees of the J. Allison O'Daniel Post No. 10, of the American Legion, is to bring to the consciousness of the American people that:

"This is my War"—It is the individual obligation of every citizen that the war be won as speedily as is possible and the victory be complete.

"It Can Happen Here"—Without making any predictions Americans must be ready to meet all emergencies.

"The End of the War is NOT in Sight"—No Let Up Must Be Permitted Until Final and Complete Victory is Attained.

"Those at home must stay on the job just as the men and women 'over there' will stay on the firing line until it is all over."

To launch the local "America Alert" program, Commander Rees has named George L. Baker as chairman of this committee and others on the committee are George M. Haney, Robert C. Lewis and Fremont Loeffel.

One of the first jobs of the local committee will be to line up all local merchants and business firms to feature the campaign in all their advertisements.

RED CROSS ORGANIZES CLASSES

Home Nursing To Be Taught By Instructors

The Newark Branch of the Red Cross is organizing classes in Home Nursing. It is vital for people who have not had this training to take advantage of the opportunity offered by this course.

A healthy home is an important wartime responsibility of those who remain behind. The Home Nursing course, with registered nurses authorized by the Red Cross as instructors, teaches how to give simple nursing care, thereby relieving the pressure on local physicians and visiting nurses. Among subjects taught are recognition of symptoms of illness, giving comforts to the sick, diet for the patient, and administering treatments and medicine ordered by the doctor.

The instruction in Home Nursing requires no previous special training. The 24 hour course is divided into 12 weekly lessons of 2 hours each. A class is limited to 20 persons.

Those in the Newark area who are interested in joining such a class are asked to call the local Chairman of Home Nursing, Mrs. Howard K. Preston, Newark 4311, as soon as possible, so that suitable meeting times for the classes may be determined. Several people have already registered.

UNITED WAR FUND DRIVE STARTED

Committee Pleased With Cooperation

The Newark War Fund Committee reports that collections to date have been encouraging, in spite of the inclement weather last week.

Newark and the surrounding area, including Christiana, Cooch's Bridge, Glasgow, Ogletown and other nearby localities have been sub-divided into 32 separate zones. Each zone is in charge of a zone-captain who in turn is assisted by several volunteer solicitors.

Canvassing will be on a house-to-house basis, and residents of the area are urged to be ready to make their donations to the canvasser at the first call, in order to eliminate repeat trips.

Cooperation in this respect will be sincerely appreciated by the many workers who are giving so freely of their time to help make the campaign a success.

Robert C. Lewis and John R. Fader, co-chairmen of the drive have requested that all residents of this area who are employed in Wilmington or elsewhere subscribe through the Newark campaign.

CHILDREN CONTRIBUTE

$44.52 Raised For War Fund

School children in the elementary grades at the Newark Public Schools have donated $44.52 for the United War Fund Drive it was stated this week by M. James Parsons, assistant superintendent of local schools.

Mr. Parsons stated that the children gave the money that they had originally planned to use for Halloween parties in their school rooms for this worth while cause.

In previous years the children have brought money to the school to be used to purchase cider, cookies and candy for these parties, but this year due to the great increase in the price of both the cider and cookies it was decided to give the money for something useful.

Poultry Lecturer

A. E. Tomhave

TOMHAVE TO LECTURE AT GEORGIA ON BROILERS

U. of D. Poultry Head To Talk On Brooding, Production

The University of Georgia has recognized Delaware's position as the country's leading commercial broiler producing state by inviting Prof. A. E. Tomhave of the University of Delaware, to lecture at two short courses to be given by their Department of Poultry Husbandry next week.

As acting head of the Department of Animal and Poultry Industry at the University of Delaware, Prof. Tomhave supervises research work for the largest broiler industry in the United States—in 1942, Delaware alone produced 54,000,000, or 25 per cent of the Nation's total of 204,000,000 broilers, and the Delaware Peninsula as a whole produced 89,000,000 of them. This industry, which has grown up within the past fifteen years, chiefly in Sussex county but spreading to neighboring counties in Delaware, Maryland, and Virginia, brings in 62 per cent of the State's agricultural income.

In developing her own broiler industry to supply southern markets, Georgia is turning to the more experienced production sections of the eastern markets for counsel of efficient production practices.

Both of the short courses will be held in the producing section of northern Georgia so that growers will have an opportunity to attend. The first is scheduled at Gainesville for November 9 and 10, the second at Canton on November 11 and 12.

Prof. Tomhave will discuss "Brooding Methods," "The Production and Marketing of Broilers on the Eastern Shore," and "Improvement of Market Qualities in Broilers," and "Factors Effecting Efficiency of Production."

U OF D GROUP TO PRESENT COMEDY

To Benefit Boy Scouts, Visiting Nurse

The University Drama Group will produce the comedy "You Can't Take It With You" on the stage at Mitchell Hall in Newark November 25, 26 and 27.

Attendance Thanksgiving night will be restricted to the Trainees in the Army Specialized Training Program at the University of Delaware. These soldiers will be on duty all day and have promised enthusiastic support of the play in the evening.

The following Friday and Saturday nights, November 26 and 27, the play will be open to the public. Proceeds of these presentations will be divided equally between the Newark Visiting Nurse Association and the Boy Scouts. The Scouts will have charge of the ticket sale.

"You Can't Take It With You" is a hilarious account of the rocky course of true love when the Girl's family is definitely different—almost to the point of mild insanity—and the Boy's family is of the Upper Crust.

SCHUSTER COMMENDS 4-H CLUBS

Achievement
Program Big Factor In War

"The 4-H Victory Achievement program has been a big factor in getting this year's wartime farm job done," says Director George L. Schuster of the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service. "In recognition of the work these boys and girls have done, November 6 and 14 has been designated as National 4-H Achievement Week."

"Club members' records of project work completed during the year are evidence enough that they have been doing an all-out job of war production. They've raised a record number of gardens, and in spite of poor weather conditions in the State, have harvested good crops. The girls have outstanding canning records—and all from their own gardens.

"And there are numerous other projects which aid the war effort—live-stock and crop production; repair, care, and remodeling of farm and household equipment so that it will last for the duration; home sewing to save manufacturing facilities, and repair and remodeling of clothing to make it last longer; cooperation in all salvage drives, Red Cross work, and Civilian Defense jobs; and regular financial support through War Bond purchases, made mostly from earnings on club projects.

"But the records on project work do not tell the whole story. Our farm boys and girls have helped out on numerous farm jobs that could not have been done without them. They've filled in on the labor jobs which hired men used to do. They've worked long hours right along with the adults, and they've done their part in planning and carrying out all phases of the important war-time farm work.

"And they are not tired, not ready to give it up next year—their enthusiasm and energy is one of the things we can count on in planning next year's farm work. We know that they can and will be there to help."

Put Your Scrap Metal In The "Bank!"

Do You Know ??

That about 4 million tons of scrap metal are needed each month to keep our steel mills going? At the present time the National "SCRAP BANK" contains only two months supply.

The period from OCTOBER 1 to NOVEMBER 15 has been designated as a time for building a "surplus" of metal in the "SCRAP BANK" of the country. There must be many tons of scrap metal in cellars, sheds, barns, garages and other places around the house—please take an hour or so to collect it. If it is not convenient to take it to our "SCRAP BANK," on Elkton Road, let us know and it will be picked up before November 15. THIS IS URGENT.

BAGWORM DESTROYS MANY TREES

Control Measures Recommended

The spindle-shaped objects which hang down from branches, twigs, and leaves of trees are a serious threat to the life of the tree—they are the workrooms of bagworms. These worms have already stripped the foliage from many trees, especially evergreens, in Delaware. Severely stripped trees usually die, so control measures must be applied in order to save them, according to Harvey L. Chada, extension entomologist for the Delaware Agricultural Extension Service.

The bagworms often do much damage before they are discovered, since the shape of the bags and the fact that they are covered with dead leaves give them the appearance of a natural growth of the tree. The worms spend the winter in the egg stage inside the previous year's bag—these bags sometimes hold as many as 500 eggs. In the spring, the newly hatched worms leave their winter quarters, and almost immediately begin to feed and spin a silken sack or bag about themselves from which they feed, according to their good protection. They continue feeding and defoliating the trees during the summer.

Mr. Chada says there are several different effective methods of control. On small trees the bags may be removed by hand, with good care to miss none. They should be burned immediately, since any which are not destroyed may live through the winter. Large trees should be sprayed with arsenate of lead. For early season spraying, the recommended formula is 5 pounds of arsenate of lead, 4 ounces of soybean flour or wheat flour, and 100 gallons of water. For spraying at the present time, 8 pounds of arsenate of lead should be used, since the full grown worms are more difficult to control.

How About That!

By Ruth Safran

From my friend Paul in Algiers—whose queries about war workers inspired the last two columns, came the following note:

"I appreciate very much your little notes about war work and workers. God knows the soldiers still misunderstand them. Soldiers are so darn homesick that they think the people in the States should be willing to work for nothing for that privilege."

Prisoner of War Train
With people bobbing up like corks in unexpected places, I found myself taking the same train recently with a fellow Perth Amboy, a Captain in the army.

"One of the most lasting experiences to date," he said, "was taking a trainful of Axis prisoners to the midwest."

"All that they say about Germans not wishing to associate with Italians was perfectly true during that trip. Both groups kept their distance. The Italians were quite young and their military bearing once on the train was largely discarded."

"But the Germans didn't forget for a moment. The discipline was kept intact through the trip. In fact one of the men—a Major who had fought under Rommel—kept giving them instructions which they carried out immediately. He was an arrogant chap. For quite a long time, he sat in his chair and spouted forth his rights under international law. He had to be put in his place quite a few times."

Building a New City
There hasn't been much about AMG—Allied Military Government—in the papers. (AMG had a longer name at first—AMGOT—but the combination had a bad meaning in Turkish and the German propaganda made use of the more undignified translation.)

Ralph Marlin writes how AMG caused the rebirth of Marsala, Sicily—a story repeated in villages, towns and cities all over Sicily after the occupation.

"Marsala died at noon on Garibaldi Day, May 11, 1943, when several hundred of our big bombers swept in low from across the Mediterranean Sea. . . . When they left, Marsala looked like a squashed tomato."

There had been ample warning to the population to evacuate.

Two months later, a British AMG official appeared with American troops. "For four days, all alone and without communications, transportation or the assistance of MPs, Capt. Jequire tried to shape order out of the chaos. His job was doubly tough because the people of Marsala had spread out in a semicircle as far as 15 miles from the city when they fled from the threat of an Allied blitz."

"As soon as they heard that American troops had taken over Marsala, they began to drift back in. They all acted like a bunch of spoiled brats," the captain said. "Somehow they had gotten the idea that the Americans would come marching in loaded down with clothes and food. They were expecting new donkey carts, cigarettes, even new homes. It took a while before they understood."

"But the Sicilian children finally did understand. Under the captain's direction they began to clear away the decaying bodies of the dead and fill in the bomb craters in the roads. They tied together broken bridges and pulled down the tottering, lonely walls of blasted buildings."

"But the hungry had to be fed and the homeless had to be housed. For the 10,000 Sicilians who were without shelter, Capt. Jequire requisitioned every building that was still standing. "When trucks came into town with grain, Capt. Jequire found that there was no electric power to run the mills and make flour. He went on a scavenger hunt and finally came up with two old Diesel engines. . . .

The Captain stepped in to crush the black market.

"They (the offenders) were not given summary sentences, but stood trial before a regular court established by the captain to allow for a full hearing in each case."

"Five hundred people lined up outside the captain's office every day with their problems. Some wanted passes to go to a different city, others wanted more simple things, such as instructions on mailing a letter to the United States. And of course some wanted to be sent to the States themselves."

"Today the people of Marsala are building a new city, and everywhere you can sense the new feeling of peace and order. The people know that no one will be punished without a fair trial. They know that any one of them can go to the captain with his complaints or problems. This simple fact of democracy continually amazes them. They are a contented people now, these people of Marsala."

Mrs. F. Allyn Cooch, Jr., was presented with a $25 War Bond Monday night on the "Salute to Heroes" program presented over Radio Station WDEL by the Diamond State Brewery, Inc.

The award was presented to Mrs. Cooch on the recommendation of the State Council of Defense, for services rendered on the home front.

Congratulations are being extended to Mr. and Mrs. William Todd, 75 E. Delaware Avenue, on the birth of a daughter on November 2, at the Memorial Hospital.

DELAWARE'S FARM FRONT THIS WEEK

Embargo Lifted On Turkey Sales To Civilians

Applications for payment on October milk and butterfat deliveries under the Dairy Feed Payment Program should be made to County AAA Committees at Newark, Dover, and Georgetown, between November 1 and 30, according to a recent announcement from C. E. Ocheltree, chairman of the Delaware AAA Committee. Assistance will be available in these county offices for preparing the applications.

To apply for payment, the milk producer has to present evidence of his sales in the form of sales slips, receipts, stubs obtained from the milk purchaser, or if necessary, some other form acceptable to the county committee. Evidence of feed purchases will not be required. After receiving the application with satisfactory evidence of milk deliveries the county committee will write a draft on the Commodity Credit Corporation in favor of the producer. The draft can be cashed at any bank.

The current Dairy Feed Payment Program of the WFA, designed to partially offset increased costs of feed, covers and period from October 1 through December 31, 1943. Applications for payments on November and December deliveries will be made during January, but applications for October deliveries must be made between November 1 and 30.

Until recently, a farmer was required to get a purchase certificate from his county farm rationing committee before he could buy even one milk can. Now he can buy two cans in each quarter of the calendar year without a purchase certificate. He simply signs a form statement and gives it to the dealer. If he needs to buy more than two milk cans during any one quarter of a year, he will need to get a purchase certificate as in the past from his county farm rationing committee.

With enough turkey on its way overseas for the holiday dinners of all U. S. military forces and with part of the requirements for military forces here at home already met, the WFA has lifted the embargo on sale of turkeys to consumers. The entire turkey needs of the armed forces are less than 10 per cent of the total U. S. supply, so there will be plenty left for civilians, and they can start buying it now.

Orderly marketing of hogs is imperative to avoid a collapse of marketing, processing, and distribution machinery. It is probable that during December and January the number of hogs offered for sale will exceed the capacity of plants to handle them and that transportation facilities may be inadequate to move all hogs to market when they are offered for sale.

The help of farmers will be needed to maintain the Government support price for hogs in the present situation. If hogs are marketed faster than packing plants can process them, it would be useless for the Government to purchase live hogs to hold the price because the only place the Government could turn for processing would be the already overtaxed packing plants. The farmer must help maintain the support price by helping regulate the flow of hogs to market. Government licenses commit packers to pay not less than support price for hogs, but packers cannot be required to buy hogs faster than they can handle them.

The Government will buy adequate quantities at prices sufficiently high to reflect the support price or higher. If hogs arrive at markets faster than they can be processed, farmers must withhold them until the glut is cleared. Best way for farmers to proceed in marketing is to be sure they have an outlet before they send hogs to market. If facilities are over-taxed and packers have to hold hogs indefinitely, they must deduct carrying charges.

Coffee Coupon In Book No. 4 Has No Meaning

Consumers who have already received copies of War Ration Book Four were told today by OPA not to be concerned by the fact that certain stamps in the new book bear the word "coffee".

In some areas of OPA Region 2 — New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland and the District of Columbia — consumers have construed the appearance of stamps marked "Coffee" in Book Four as an indication that coffee is to be put back on rationing.

James M. Gillen, Regional OPA Rationing Executive, explained that "Appearance of stamps marked 'coffee' in Book Four has no significance. Book Four was printed before coffee was removed from rationing and because the stamp shows up in the new ration book being distributed now does not mean that OPA is planning to ration coffee again.

"In fact, supplies of coffee are increasing and stocks in the country are vastly greater than they have been in many months."

LESSON-SERMON

"Adam and Fallen Man" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon of First Church of Christ, Scientist, at Park Place and Van Buren Street, Wilmington, on Sunday, Nov. 7, 1943.

Hamburger Ration Point Value Raised

The OPA boosted the ration point value of hamburger from seven to eight points a pound this week and announced that lower and "tougher" grades of beef may be used in its manufacture.

The newest addition to hamburger, OPA said, will be "cuts generally too tough to be sold in any other form." Meanwhile, the War Food Administration announced civilians will be able to buy—if they have the ration points—2,790,000 cases of canned peaches, peas and tomato catsup to be released soon from stocks held by the government.
