Armory Well Under Way

To Be Complete By January First

Work is progressing rapidly on the new Armory now being erected on the south-west corner of Delaware avenue and Academy street by W. H. Jones and Co. of Wilmington. Mr. Jones in speaking of the work today stated that his aim is to turn the building over to the Armory Commission by January first. The brick for the building is being supplied from the Johnson yard, and wherever possible building materials have been purchased through local men. Newark workmen, also, are largely employed by the contractor.

The complete building, 63 by 106 feet, will be entirely of brick. The style is severe, following the type most frequently seen in the arsenals of large cities—battlements at the top, many windows, with little ornamentation to relieve the severity of four straight walls.

The basement, lighted by twenty-four windows, is cemented, and contains the kitchen with dumb waiter equipment, to take care of banquets and social affairs. A parlor and an officers' room are on the front of the first floor, all the remainder of which is thrown into the drill room. This room and the basement are finished with brick walls exactly as the exterior. The size when completed will be 60 by 80 feet. The second floor is divided into two parlors, each 18 by 14, and a library, 14 by 14. A drill floor occupies the remaining space. Bricklayers and carpenters have made a decided showing on the building this week, two sides of the wall being up to the first story.

FORMAL OPENING OF WOMEN'S COLLEGE

Inauguration Of New President

Saturday, October 10, 1914, will mark the beginning of a new epoch in the history and development of higher education in Delaware. On that date will be held the exercises which will formally open the Women's College of Delaware to the young women of the State, and also the exercises in connection with the installation of Dr. Samuel Chiles Mitchell as President of both Delaware College and the College for Women. It is hoped that every one in the State who is interested in any way in education will consider himself or herself personally invited and urged to attend these ceremonies. The committee in charge has nearly completed its plans, and they will be announced in a few days. All departments, class rooms, laboratories, dormitories, and offices of Delaware College and the Women's College will be open for inspection during the whole day. Guides will be provided free of charge for all visitors who wish them. There will probably be an exhibition drill by the cadet corps of Delaware College. The Delaware College Orchestra and the Band will take a prominent part in the exercises. In the afternoon there will be a foot-ball game on Joe Frazer Field.

Lecture For The Farmer

Among the new lectures announced by the Delaware College Extension Committee is one of Mr. Z. H. Strager, assistant professor of mechanical engineering, on "Gasoline Engines and the Farmer." This lecture will treat the principles underlying the construction and operation of gasoline engines, the best types of such engines for general use on the farm, and the most economical manner of getting the maximum amount of working efficiency from each type of engine. This lecture, together with Professor Short's lecture on "Good Roads and the Farmer," should prove of great value to the practical and up-to-date farmers of the State. The mechanical engineering department, will be glad to answer any questions in regard to farm machinery.

NEIGHBORHOOD MEETINGS START

A Welcome For Everyone

The first of the season's Community Meetings will be held in the High School building next Tuesday evening, October sixth, at eight o'clock. Dr. S. C. Mitchell, president of Delaware College, will talk on "Civic Patriotism." There will also be musical selections by Misses Alma and Mary Warren, and Miss Elizabeth McNeal. The meetings are intended to afford an opportunity for "getting together" and making a spirit of good fellowship pervade the community.

Following the regular meeting a short business session will be held, which all the members of the High School Alumni Association, under whose auspices the meetings are held, are urged to attend.

Contract For Fence Awarded

At a meeting of the Sewer Commission held last evening a contract for placing a fence around the disposal plant east of town, was awarded the Page Woven Wire Fence Co. of Adrian, Michigan. The order was placed through D. R. Pike of Pottstown, Pa.

CHURCH NOTES

Special Prayer Service

In response to the request of the President of the United States, Sunday, October 4th will be observed at St. Thomas' Church as a day of intercession for peace and for all sufferers in the European war. At the 11 a. m. service there will be used a special form of supplication and intercession for the restoration of the world's peace and for divine guidance for all men.

M. E. CHURCH

L. E. Poole, Minister
9.45 a. m. Sunday School and RALLY DAY.
11.00 a. m. Preaching and RETURN DAY; subject: "The Debt of Power."
3.00 p. m. Class Meeting.
6.30 p. m. Young Peoples Meeting; in this meeting Mr. and Mrs. Wilson of Wilmington will have charge. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson are active church workers.
7.30 p. m. Public worship with sermon; subject: "The Young Man and Jesus."

Since August, a revival of interest has been noted in both the Sunday School and Church Services. Unusual interest is looked for in the services of the coming Sunday, it being Rally Day in the Sunday School and Return Day in the Church and Young Peoples' Society. Interesting exercises at all the services.

Mr. Wilson and wife of Wilmington have consented to lead the Young Peoples' Service at 6.30 in the evening and will sing at both morning and evening service.

A rare treat await those who attend these services.
A Welcome For You
A Home-like Church

Special Services On Sunday

Rally Day will be observed next Sunday morning in the Newark Presbyterian Sabbath School. A special program of music and recitation arranged by the Board of Publication will be rendered. The exercise begins at 9.45 o'clock. In compliance with the request of President Wilson, the morning service at 1 o'clock will be devoted to prayer for peace among the warring nations of Europe. The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be administered.

New Curate Of St. Thomas

The Rev. William L. Haupt, son of the Rev. Walter Haupt, rector of St. Thomas' Episcopal Church, who was some time ago appointed curate of St. Thomas', officiated at the services on Sunday for the first time. He has been located in Seranton and arrived at the home of his parents only several days ago. Mr. Haupt is now a deacon, but will probably be ordained at St. Thomas' some time this year.

W. C. T. U. Meeting

W. C. T. U. will meet next Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Mary Cloud.

POST OFFICE MOVES TO NEW QUARTERS

Within the next week the United States Post Office will be moved from the quarters occupied for the last ten years, to the adjoining rooms, formerly occupied by the Newark Trust and Safe Deposit Co., on Academy street. The change was made necessary by the increased business of the office which demanded larger quarters for the postmaster and staff of assistants. The suite in the Opera House building to which the move will be made has been renovated and changed in a number of details to suit the needs of the new office. It is completely equipped with the latest and most approved post office furnishings, all owned by Newark Opera House Co., and leased to the government. The only piece of furniture to be removed from old office is the safe. Everything in evidence is new and designed for greater efficiency on the part of the employees of the office.

The new office contains 1740 sq. ft. of floor space as contrasted with 844 in the old quarters. The cabinet containing the boxes is 35 feet in length, an increase of 12 feet over the old one. Previously there were 207 private boxes at the disposal of the public. The new office supplies boxes for 462 subscribers. Instead of the old lettered combination lock which must be turned off every time it is closed, the cabinet is fitted with a new keyless automatic lock box which locks itself when closed. This entire equipment was purchased from the Federal Equipment Co. of Carlisle, Pa., which supplies the furnishings for all federal buildings. Mr. Plummer, post-office inspector for this district, has announced the new office the finest equipped on the peninsula, outside of a federal building.

The lobby, for the use of the public, has been made attractive by a combination of dark green felt paper and white paints. A new floor the work of the American Artistic Marble Co., adds largely to the general attractiveness of the building.

Special forms, to be used in free city delivery, which it is expected will be introduced in March, have also been provided. This free delivery service was promised to Newark should the total receipts of the office reach $10,000 annually for three successive years. The figures have exceeded that amount for two years, and there is little doubt will reach the figure a third time before March 1, 1915.

The office will be open to the public for inspection some time early next week.

Women's College Notes

Any one who visited the Women's College of Delaware two or three weeks ago would scarcely recognize it now. Most of the furniture has been placed in the dormitories and everything is attractive and homelike. Classes are running on schedule time. An extension course in Education, under the direction of Professor Mary E. Rich, is now offered, free of charge to teachers. This class is to meet on Saturday mornings once a month, at 11 o'clock, directly after Dr. Sypherd's extension course in English Composition. Professor Rich will be glad to hear from any one who desires to enter this class.

Several additional gifts have been received by the College during the past week. Among these gifts are a beautiful copy of the "Aurora," given by Mrs. Samuel Chiles Mitchell; two large mahogany chairs for the entrance hall, given by Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Warner, Jr., of Wilmington; a walnut triple bookcase, a Persian carved and inlaid cabinet, two large framed engravings, a bronze statuette of "Diana Goddess of Hunting," with pedestal, and some fine specimens of Japanese pottery and American Indian, Mexican, Alaskan, and Italian bric-a-brac.

The first Friday reception of the series to be given throughout the year by Dean Robinson, the faculty and the students of the Women's College, was held in the reception room of Residence Hall on afternoon and evening of September 25. Visitors were present from Wilmington and other parts of the State, in addition to friends of the students from Newark. Judging from the success of this first reception, it is altogether likely that the ensuing receptions will prove to be an interesting and pleasant feature of the student life of the new college.

A well attended meeting was held on Wednesday night in Stengles Hall, Seaford, to arrange for organizing a local company of Boy Scouts which will be completed as soon as a leader is obtained.

The effect, closely resembling a marble surface, is procured by a secret process brought to America by a company of Italian workmen, who alone practice it.

Large 500 candle power electric lights, of a style only two months on the market, make the office at night as light as by day.

The writer was permitted this morning to peep behind the scenes, into the private quarters of the employees, where the public is seldom allowed to go. A burglar-proof vault 5 by 6 1-2 feet contains the safe from the old post-office and plenty of shelf space for valuable matter. Lockers of a size specified by the government are provided for the belongings of the clerks. Rows of boxes, labeled with the renters' names line the front of the office, while a series of additional frames of boxes are lined along the rear walls. The room formerly used as the directors' room in the bank is fitted up for the rural delivery mail. A side door communicates with this room and a private yard where the rural carriers' teams are to be. The yard is to be graded and provided with hitching posts for the men. Across this driveway is a wash-room for the employees, as demanded by the government for all offices of the size of the local one. The little building is to be fitted with the latest plumbing fixtures for the accommodation of the force at the office.

Special forms, to be used in free city delivery, which it is expected will be introduced in March, have also been provided. This free delivery service was promised to Newark should the total receipts of the office reach $10,000 annually for three successive years. The figures have exceeded that amount for two years, and there is little doubt will reach the figure a third time before March 1, 1915.

The office will be open to the public for inspection some time early next week.

Heavy Loss By Fire

Fire at noon on Thursday destroyed all the outbuildings, 1800 bushels of wheat, 100 tons of hay and 40 tons of straw, on the Jacob B. Cazier farm, Samuel Austin, tenant, in the Mt. Pleasant section, near Middletown. Two fine draft horses and a pair of mules, worth $500, perished in the flames. The loss is put at $5,500, with but slight insurance, it is said. Several head of horses and mules and about a dozen cows were rescued. The tenant is unable to account for the fire which may have been caused by matches dropped by strange farm help that had been sleeping in the stable loft.

Athletic Council Extends Invitation

The Athletic Council of Delaware College in meeting last evening effected organization for the collegiate year as follows: Prof. E. L. Smith, president; Prof. C. A. McCue, vice-president; Dr. W. H. Steel, treasurer; G. O. Smith, secretary. The council is composed of two representatives of the faculty, two from the Alumni Association, and one from the Sophomore, the Junior and the Senior classes. The membership follows: Professors Smith and McCue; Dr. W. H. Steel and Joseph McVey, of the Alumni Association; Class 1915, G. W. Alderson; Class 1916, G. O. Smith; Class 1917, Harold W. Horsey. The Council last evening confirmed the election of T. L. Smith as captain of the track team for 1915, and Gerald Dougherty, captain of the baseball team for 1915. The football schedule for the season was discussed. It was decided to extend an invitation to all the high schools of the State and of Cecil Co., Md., to attend the Temple University versus Delaware game on October 17, as guests of the Athletic Association. A similar invitation is to be extended to the Chamber of Commerce of Wilmington, State officials, and members of the Council of Newark, for the game of November 7, between Catholic University and Delaware.

INTERNATIONAL EGG LAYING CONTEST

Preparations At College Farm

The plans for the International Egg Laying Competition which will begin at the College Farm on November 1 under the auspices of Delaware College, in co-operation with the State Board of Agriculture and the Philadelphia North American, are being rapidly worked out. Pipe for conveying water and also wire and post for fencing have been ordered. Ground has been plowed to prepare suitable range for the hens, and the old ice-house on the farm is being made into an office and egg room. The number of entries for this contest is already large, and it is probably that some new records in egg-production will be established during the coming year. A large sign-board advertising the Egg Laying Competition has been erected near the site of the poultry yards.

Are You Interested?

Workers interested in the development of community ideals are planning a big, real treat for the children at Christmas—a good time which can be shared by every child in the community. The committee in charge, preparatory to entering upon their role as Santa Claus, will be a picture benefit in the Opera House on Tuesday evening, October 13. Home-made candy will be for sale. Everyone interested in the idea—details of which will be announced later—is urged to help the plan along.

KILLED AT POST OF DUTY

Passengers In Peril

With his hand on the throttle of the 4.10 a. m. passenger train on the Pennsylvania Railroad from Baltimore to Philadelphia, Benjamin Redmiles, the engineer was swept out of his cab and instantly killed yesterday morning when the train "sideswiped" a derailed freight car near Orangeville. With half of the cab torn away and the engineer dead, the train, running slowly, went on for several hundred feet before the fireman could climb over to the throttle and cut off the steam.

There were only a few passengers on the train, most of whom were asleep and did not know of their peril. When the crash was heard, followed by the stopping of the train, they all hurried out into the darkness. Half of the cab had been split away, and under its wreckage the badly mangled body of the engineer was found.

Correct Date

Teachers' Institute which will be a State affair this year, including nearly 600 instructors from all parts of the State, will be held in Dover commencing Monday, Nov. 9 and continue five days. The date, November 2, as mentioned last week, was incorrect.

Fraternal Order In Action

Thomas C. Wilson of the Lewes section, was unable to gather his corn crop, owing to illness, but the 27 members of Cool Spring Grange went to his farm and promptly cut and shocked his field of 18 acres, and enjoyed a fine supper served by Mrs. Wilson when the work was finished.

Urge Purchase Of Canal

Governor Miller last week attended the Inland Waterways Convention held on the Hudson in New York State. Before adjourning the convention passed a resolution demanding the purchase and improvement of the Chesapeake & Delaware canal, the cutting of a canal across New Jersey, and the improvement of the upper Hudson in order to extend navigation above Troy. This latter resolution was "doing something" for the neighborhood in which the convention was held. The Association desires that the Delaware project shall be the next to be taken care of, and had it not been for the outbreak of the war in Europe, no doubt the early purchase of the canal would have been assured.

Program For Chautauqua

Entertainment and Instruction Combined

The program for the 1914 Lyceum Festival, to be held in the Opera House, Newark, November 5, 6, 7 was announced on Tuesday. The platform superintendent for the coming season will be Mrs. E. A. Yarnell, an expert lecturer on home economics. Mrs. Yarnell has devoted her life to a study of problems of the home, and especially to dietetics, and her lectures are popular everywhere.

Features Of Old Home Week

Wilmingtonians are working enthusiastically to make their Old Home Week celebration the greatest event of its kind in the history of the city. A feature of the week will be the military parade in which the entire student body from Delaware College, and the Organized Militia of the State, will march. The four companies of the U. S. Coast Artillery corps, with Band, stationed at Fort DuPont, will also be in line. The program for the week includes a chorus of 200 voices to sing at the opening of the program, at Washington Heights on Sunday of Old Home Week, a masquerade parade, a river carnival, and a parade of school children of the city.

WEDDING

WOODROW-THOMAS

Friends in Newark have received word of the marriage of Miss Edna Thomas and Mr. Albert Woodrow, in Elkton on Tuesday, September 29. Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow are spending two weeks with relatives in Oxford, Pa., after which they will live in Wilmington. Mr. Woodrow is an employee of the Pennsylvania railroad.

Remember The Supper Date

Ladies of the congregation of the Presbyterian church, Newark, will give their annual supper in the Opera House on Thursday evening, October 22nd.

NEWARK WINS FROM BANCROFT— EXCITING GAME NEXT WEEK

Jake Hogan was the hero in the third of the series of games with Bancroft for the amateur championship of the State on Saturday. After pitching a fine article of ball for the entire game it remained for Hogan to make the single with two out in the ninth inning which scored Charlie Beatty and gave Newark the game, 4 to 3. The series now stands, Bancroft, 2, and Newark, 1, and the fourth game will be played at the Front and Union street grounds, Wilmington, next Saturday.

In the early innings both teams played a poor fielding game but settled down and for the last few innings played like professionals. With perfect support Hogan would have scored a shutout, while but one run was earned off Morley. Notwithstanding the fact that he lost his game Morley pitched better ball for Bancroft than Crouch did in the two previous games but the breaks went against him.

There was much dissatisfaction on the part of many fans because of Spence being sent in to catch in place of Marney who has probably done more to keep baseball going in Newark during the last few years than any other person and who had caught every game during the regular Tri-County League season. Marney, however, relieved Spence in the middle of the game and caught the last four innings and Hogan seemed to do much better work with Marney back of the bat. There is no disputing the fact that Spence is a good little catcher and may develop into a star if he has the opportunity. At the present time, however, when every point of the game is considered it is hard to see how he has a thing on Marney and under all the circumstances is surely not as valuable a man to the team in such an important series.

Newark got away to a good lead scoring two runs in the opening inning, a hit batsman, a sacrifice, Morris' triple and Gregg's single. Bancroft tied up in the third, scoring two runs on a double, two singles and errors by Willis and Gregg. A single, a hit batsman, and Proud's error gave Newark another in the third and Bancroft again tied the score in the fifth on a pass, an infield out and Bonner's single. The game was won in the ninth inning. Beatty lead off with a single, was sacrificed to second and scored on Hogan's single to left.

The play by innings follows:

First Inning—Smith, who featured the first game of the series here by his hitting, was first up for Bancroft and fanned; Vernon and Proud both waited Hogan out and each was walked. Hogan having much trouble in locating the plate; Bonner was a victim to Hogan's speed and fanned, while Duncan grounded to Gregg; no runs. After getting the count three and two, Scanlon stopped one of Morley's spitters with his ribs; Jackson dumped the ball, sacrificing Scanlon to second, Morley to Vernon; Captain Morris picked out a nice one which he drove over. Cloud's head for three bases, scoring Scanlon; Gregg hit the first ball pitched to left for a sack, scoring Morris; Willis fanned and Duncan and Vernon looked after C. Beatty; two runs.

Second Inning—Vernon made a pretty single to left center and went to second when Morris juggled the ball; A. Beatty threw Cloud out at first; Morley struck out; no runs. Vernon took care of Spence's grounder unassisted; A. Beatty singled to left and stole second; Hogan was out, Proud to Vernon and Scanlon went down by the Bonner-Vernon route; no runs.

Third Inning—Morris failed to reach Smith's fly and it was good for two sacks; Vernon lifted a high one to right and Willis after misjudging the ball got his hands on it but failed to hold it, but when Smith tried to score from second he was thrown out at the plate; Proud hit a hot one to Gregg and was out; Bonner's single down the right field foul line scored Vernon; Bonner was anxious to steal and Hogan by a quick throw caught him cold off first; Bonner continued to second and came on home when Gregg's heave went to left field; Duncan singled and stole second; Hogan threw Austin out; two runs. Jackson singled but was forced at second by Morris, Morley to Austin; Gregg was hit with a pitched ball; Willis hit a hot one to Bonner and the clever little third sacked threw to Proud, getting Gregg. Proud, in trying to complete the double play threw over Vernon's head and Morris scored; C. Beatty was out, Duncan to Vernon; one run.

Fourth Inning—Hogan pitched but six balls in the fourth. Edler went down, A. Beatty to Gregg; Jackson threw Cloud out at first and the same player got Morley's fly; no runs. Proud and Vernon looked after Spence; A. Beatty lined one to Smith and Hogan was out, Proud to Vernon; no runs.

Fifth Inning—Smith fanned; Vernon walked and went to second when Hogan threw Proud out at first; Bonner singled over first base, scoring Vernon; Duncan was out, Jackson to Gregg; one run. Proud threw Scanlon out at first by a hair; Morley and Vernon disposed of Jackson; Morris walked, stole second and went to third on Austin's poor peg; Duncan threw Gregg out at first; no runs.

Sixth Inning—Al Beatty fumbled Austin's grounder but recovered in time to get the runner at first; Edler walked, stole second and went to third on a wild pitch; Cloud fled to Jackson; Morley walked and was caught between first and second, Hogan to Gregg to Jackson; no runs. Willis fanned; C. Beatty singled but was caught trying to steal Austin to Duncan; Marney replaced Spence and fanned; no runs.

Seventh Inning—Smith hit to A. Beatty who got the runner at first; Hogan hit Vernon on the arm; Proud was out, A. Beatty to Vernon; Bonner fled to Jackson; no runs. A. Beatty was a strike-out victim; Hogan was out, Vernon to Proud; Scanlon beat out an infield hit and went to second on Duncan's poor throw to first; Jackson went down, Duncan to Vernon; no runs.

Eighth Inning—Duncan skied to Morris; A. Beatty and Gregg sent Austin back and C. Beatty threw Edler out at first; no runs. Morris hit a fly to Cloud and was out; Gregg fled to Bonner and Ferguson who took Willis' place was out on a fly to Smith; no runs.

Ninth Inning—Cloud dumped the ball in front of the plate and as Marney was slow in fielding the ball easily beat it out; Morley sacrificed, Hogan to Gregg; Hogan's throw to Jackson to catch Cloud off the bag was low and went to center field, the runner taking third; Smith relieved matters by fanning and Vernon fled to Jackson; no runs. Although Duncan made a great one-hand stop of C. Beatty's grounder he could not get the ball in to first in time to catch the runner; Marney made a neat sacrifice down the first base line and while he looked to be safe Empire Cunningham called him out, Vernon to Proud; A. Beatty fanned but Hogan came across with a nice single to left which scored C. Beatty and won the game; one run.

To Drive The Wrinkles Away
Let us try to be sensible; let us try to be good-natured; let us try to be fair.

"It is almost always when things are all blocked up and impossible, that a happening comes. It has to. A dead block can't last, anymore than a vacuum."

"Be a good comrade. Learn the secret of good comradeship. Many men do not know it at all. Be just, strong, frank, fearless, independent, but add your strength to the strength of your fellows. Do not stand aloof, or sulk, or be unsocial. Do not jeer at other men and find fault with them. Learn to do "team work," learn to co-operate. Give and take in friendly conversation. Be generous."

"You were made for enjoyment and the world was filled with things which you will enjoy, unless you are too proud to be pleased by them, or too grasping to care for what you cannot turn to other account than mere delight."

"For ages, happiness has been represented as a huge, precious stone, impossible to find, which people seek for hopelessly. It is not so; happiness is a mosaic, composed of a thousand little stones, which separately and of themselves have little value, but which united with art form a graceful design."

"He has achieved success who has lived well, laughed often and loved much; who has gained the respect of intelligent men and the love of little children; who has filled his niche and accomplished his task; who has left the world better than he found it, whether by an improved poppy, a perfect poem, or a rescued soul; who has never lacked appreciation of earth's beauty, or failed to express it; who has always looked for the best in others and given the best he had; whose life was an inspiration; whose memory a benediction."

For Relief Of War Sufferers

A Red Cross station has been established in the Eleventh street lobby of the Hotel duPont for the purpose of raising funds for the relief of the wounded soldiers in the European war. It will be conducted under the direction of the Women's Committee of Delaware Opposed to Women's Suffrage. Two sewing machines, furnished by the Singer Sewing Machine Company, will be located at the same place, and garments will be made for the wounded soldiers.

The station is decorated with flags of all nations, with two Red Cross flags which were sent from Washington. Red and white bunting also add to the attractiveness of the station. A card party was held at the hotel Monday night for the benefit of the soldiers and refreshments were served during the evening.

Engineers Lead Enrollment In College

The registration in the engineering courses at Delaware College this year is greater than ever before in the history of the College. Out of a total enrollment of 200 students, 86 (or 43 per cent) are taking an engineering course leading to a degree. And out of the 98 new students admitted to the Freshman class, 40 (or 40.8 per cent) are registered as students of engineering.

The College now offers courses in Civil, Mechanical, Electrical, and Chemical Engineering, the last named being a new course established by the Board of Trustees this year. Each of these courses require four full years' work for its completion. The College is provided with several well-equipped laboratories for work in connection with the engineering courses; but with an ever-increasing number of students, it will not be long before new quarters will have to be found.

Among the graduates of the engineering courses at Delaware College are numbered some of the most successful engineers in practice today.

In speaking of the work of the engineering department at the College, Professor M. V. Smith, head of the department of mechanical and electrical engineering, said recently: "The purpose of the several courses in engineering is primarily to teach young men the fundamental principles of engineering and to train them to comprehend the elements which underlie engineering problems. The courses aim to develop trained minds rather than merely to impart knowledge. Therefore, besides offering instruction in purely technical subjects, these courses also provide the elements of a liberal education; for, as is generally known, a liberal education is indispensable to the engineer nowadays. For this reason, such subjects as English composition and literature, history, public speaking, French or German, physics, and chemistry—in addition to the technical subjects—are included in the curricula of the engineering courses. In short, the courses are so designed that if a young man complete any one of them he will have acquired an education which will at once be useful to him and also help him to be a better citizen of the State."

Circus Day

Children—little and big—were happy last Saturday, when La Tena's wild animal show struck town. About eleven o'clock the herald's bugle sounded merrily and crowds lined up on Main street to witness the widely advertised parade. Bands, elephants, leopards, lions, much-bespangled ladies and prancing horses, cunning little ponies and plodding mules—everything of happy circus memory was in the procession that filed by. The show was pronounced good by the many who attended.

We Have a Crop of Late Sugar Corn

just coming in,—very tender and large ears. We always pull our Corn in the morning. If we sell out, we pull more, so you are sure to get fresh Corn from us. 20 cents a dozen.

We still have plenty of the improved Lima Beans. Everybody says they are the best. 20 cents a quart.

Spinach is seasonable now and should be eaten often. It is very healthful and will keep you in good condition through the fall and winter. Cut fresh daily. 15 cents 1-2 peck.

Tomatoes will soon be over but we have plenty of good ones yet, 12 cents 1-2 peck.

OPTOMETRY—The science of prescribing and fitting glasses to correct defective vision without the use of drugs.

OPTOMETRIST—One skilled in optometry, an expert in measuring eye defects. A physical Eye Specialist.

Concerning Your Eyes

Good eyesight is essential to health and comfort. Eye strain uncorrected leads to nervous disorders and is a factor in causing many reflex disturbances.

Tired, aching eyes, frequent pain over the eyes or heads aches are some of the indications of eye strain. At other times the eyes give no indication themselves of strain, but endeavor to keep up the demand upon them, by using the reserve accommodative power until they give out.

GLASSES RELIEVE EYE STRAIN

Success in relieving eye strain depends entirely upon the skill of the practitioner who prescribes the glasses. Our Optometrists are experienced and capable.

THE INDEPENDENT VOTER THE QUESTION

Leaving out the question of political preference and looking toward a practical business service, whom would you vote for as the next Congressman from Delaware?

THE ANSWER

Thomas W. Miller.

THE QUESTION

Why Mr. Miller in preference to Mr. Brockson or Dr. Reed?

THE ANSWER

Mr. Miller is a young man, educated, full of ambition, blessed with a wholesome energy. He has had an experience far beyond his years. He has his career before him and has sensed public opinion knowing that efficiency is today one of the important factors demanded of public servants. He is a master of details. He is not an orator of a generation ago but is a forceful speaker. He makes a decision and is an interesting fighter. It is generally conceded that he knows Congressional Washington as well or better than Mr. Brockson. As Secretary of State he has surprised his staunchest admirers, while those who opposed him for this office from a standpoint of political expediency, are loud in their praise of his work. He has made his office of more than routine work and political honor. He has acquainted himself with the minutest business details and made this department of the State government one of real service.

Again, this office has brought him in contact with all sections of the State. He is conversant with the different views as represented by our different phases of life.

Mr. Brockson was an accident. His own party admits this and his term at Washington has proven the truth of the assertion. Political complications of his party, made his first nomination a matter of secondary consideration. He was named on the spur of the moment. His second nomination was opposed by the rank and file of his party and he was named only by force of party leaders to save the appearance of party disruption. His activity in Congress has been a lengthy speech defending the whipping post and a series of family quarrels over post office appointments. His vote as was to be expected, has been prompted from the White House. This phase cannot be discussed now, however, as this is not a political interpretation. But aside from this phase, what has Mr. Brockson done in the interests of Delaware? Where has he made his influence felt in all our new movements for better things? He is not known outside his home community. In Sussex he is a stranger while in Wilmington, he is not a recognized force. He is not acquainted with the business views of our fast growing city, nor apparently is he interested in them. There is no record of his participation in all our projected improvements. Outside of party councils, he is not in working practical sympathy with the idea of Greater Delaware. Not an old man, he is looked upon (and his actions prove it) as a member of that old school of politics.—Let things be as they are. He dwells on Delaware's past greatness rather than make the effort or create the antagonism always engendered in change. Understand in this instance we are not discussing his party affiliation or his party record. But as our representative in Congress, Mr. Brockson has not taken the active part in the life of our State that these crowding new conditions demand.

On the other hand Mr. Miller has made himself a part of the life of the people. He views with interest the ambitions of our rural sections and is intimately acquainted with the business activities of Wilmington. He is enthusiastic over our wonderful possibilities. He stands for and is working for a greater Delaware. He is capable of presenting these not by the old stump methods of yesterday but in the clear concise manner, as endorsed by practical men of the day.

While fortunate in an already wide experience, Mr. Miller's career lies before him. Mr. Brockson has one but as a public man it is just at its close.

Looking at the candidates from a non-partisan standpoint, as an independent voter who leans to the business idea rather than the political side, we should strongly advocate Mr. Miller as best qualified to represent the interests of Delaware.

How about Dr. Reed?

He has refused the nomination. To vote for the Progressive candidate (should one be named) in this State would make the influence of your vote void. At least your voice in this election would become indirect. There is no possibility of electing the Progressive candidate. Rather would we advocate an independent vote in one of the two dominant parties. Here at least you would have a direct influence, where a progressive vote is only a protest against political conditions. We grant you a protest may be needed but such as is here proposed, is void of force. A protest without possibility of effect is ill-spent energy and weakens rather than strengthens the power for civic betterment. For the independent voter in Delaware, the progressive party this year offers nothing more than an ineffective rebuke to the other parties—and for results will count nil.

DELAWARE ATHLETICS

FRESHMEN—Yes, the Football team lost on Saturday. She often loses—and gamely, too.

This defeat on Saturday opens the way for a little talk to you about Delaware Sportsmanship. The game as it is fostered here is for sport. Sport, you know, is to win if you can by hard, honest play. Clean Athletics is the spirit of Delaware. Trustees, Faculty, Coach MacAvoy—and even the students today—from on anything that smacks of winning at any cost.

You may not know it yet but there is no institution in the country where more rigid rules are in force than here. The proudest moment of our association with Delaware College was when we heard a strange college man say: "there is a little college down in Delaware that knows the secret of sportsmanship. She has pep, plays hard, loses gamely but she plays honest ball all the time."

We feel sure you Freshmen will enter into the spirit of our athletic contests. Too oft we are prone to criticize. Here is where we make a slip in our loyalty. Side line foot ball is easy to play. But to make the best team possible, the side lines have a very definite work to do. There is a very distinctive part of the game. Team work here is as necessary as it is on the field.

Let us who watch the game play our part. The inspiration from a cheer has often carried the ball over the goal. No quarter ever made a fumble of such disastrous results as a sarcastic remark made by some parlor artist watching the game. Cheer when they win, of course. But cheer, too, when they lose.

Delaware's athletics will soon be in your keeping. See to it that the Gold and Blue has a loyal, an honest support—and that her record will be ever clean.

Rah! Rah! Rah!

Hurrah for Delaware.

Rah! Rah! Rah!

Her name and fame so fair.

Rah! Rah! Rah!

Hurrah for Delaware!

Boys, let's cheer that name so dear Rah for Delaware!

RAILROAD CROSSING DANGERS

THE many recent accidents at railroad crossings prompt a mention to the dangers at Pencader. This crossing is at the junction of the Delaware City Road, Center Branch and Main line. The increasing freight traffic from down the peninsula necessitates considerable shifting. While complaints have done away with the blocking of the crossing, the trains and shifting engines apparently waiting orders, stand within a few feet of the crossing. During the past week, there have been several narrow escapes from runaways at this point. Last Friday a horse became frightened at escaping steam from an engine standing, it is reported, less than ten feet from the driveway. The horse reared and fell on the track. Several complaints and our own observations lead us to strongly advise more caution at this point.

It is understood that there is a rule that trains shall stand at least 60 feet from road crossings. If so, it is being violated at this point daily and authorities are urged to better protect the public.

SQUIBS

"Whatever is, is right." That is the creed of the Conservative. "Whatever is, is wrong." That is the religion of the radical. Whatever is, is right or wrong as it squares with the well recognized rules of reason. That is the platform of the progressive citizen of today.

"Infinite Purpose, Eternal. Thou who has placed me Firm on the gravestones of ages; strong my foundation; Take me, hand, brain, nerve and sinew and use me, yea, crush me, Grant that I leave to the future some mite of my doing In trust and forever."
—U. S. Representative Kent.

In the last number of the "Good Housekeeping" magazine the question is raised "How many of the leaders in the women's organizations of your community are college women?" And again—after your mind has viewed the situation—the more interesting query, "Why is it so?"

Shop Talk

In every piece of printing done at this Shop, it is our aim to follow

RIGHTS OF CHILDHOOD

To the Readers of Newark Post:

We need your interest and help. For every ten days of school, Delaware children are in school only six days. During the month of October an effort will be made to set people thinking about this condition. Talk the facts over with your friends and neighbors. Every newspaper, every public forum of the State, will say something about this matter and will urge attention to it upon parents. Childhood, too, has its 'inalienable' rights: one of them is to be sent to school. We ask for help in getting this 'inalienable' right for every child.

An appeal for increased appropriations to add so-called "new" studies might look more attractive or seem more progressive. For solid and lasting benefit to schools and children, however, there is no substitute for entire, regular attendance for the full term. Improve the school all you can, and many improvements are admittedly needed, if the children are not in school they cannot benefit by the improvements, and our waste is so much greater. In 1912 we wasted $111,504 by poor attendance; we can make our schools $100,000 worth better, more efficient, without the outlay of an additional dollar!

When this wrong to helpless childhood, this neglect of solemn duty, shall be made plain to our people and fastened upon their consciences, there will be born a state-wide public opinion that shall correct this state of affairs. How satisfied you will feel, and quite properly so, to think, "I did my share in that job." We trust you may share that enjoyment with us, hence we repeat, we need your help.

In this appeal for a hearty effort that, forgetting divisions of opinion and action in other matters, shall arouse a single, united resolve to "better school attendance this year," I remain,

Very faithfully yours,

Chas. A. Wagner

Secretary of the State Board of Education.

A series of tableaux supplemented by recitative parts will be given under the title of Jerusha Dow's Family Album. Tickets now on sale. A cordial invitation to everyone.

Football At Delaware

Delaware College, in its first game of the season, played at Easton last Saturday, was defeated by Lafayette by the score of 41 to 0.

The play with Lafayette was not, however, so one-sided as the score would indicate. Delaware defended well at times and the Lafayette interference, which was not so good prevented many gains. Most of the play was near the center of the field and Lafayette ran up her big score because long plays succeeded when the Maroon and White team was within striking distance of the goal. It was only in the third period that Lafayette consistently tore the Delaware team to pieces on straight football.

The Lafayette rooters felt a peculiar interest in the Delaware team because it is coached by "Bill" McAvoy, a former Lafayette star. Fidence was the star of the Delaware team and most of their strength centered in him. Taylor played a good kicking game and the work of Handy possessed much merit. The line-up:

Lafayette Delaware
Toll..... l. e.....Groff
Gulick..... l. g.....Pepper
Luh..... c.....Crothers
Woodward..... r. g.....Grievess
Maxfield..... r. t.....Cann
D. Diamond..... r. e.....Loomis
J. Diamond..... q. b.....Fidence
Kennedy..... l. h. b.....T. Wilson
Brown..... r. h. b.....Taylor
Kelly..... f. b.....Mandy Touchdowns—Lafayette: Toll, Kennedy, Brown, Maxfield, D. Diamond, Furry; goals from touchdowns, Maxfield, 5; substitutes—Lafayette: Taylor for J. Diamond, Lerch for Brown, Cochran for Toll, Thomas for Woodward, Blackburn for Kennedy, Kline for Kelly, Weldon for Kline, Pardee for D. Diamond, Hartman for Pardee, Gagnor for Cochran; Delaware: Mitchell for Pepper, O'Daniel, for Fi-dance, Smart for Loomis; referee, Gillender, Penn; umpire, Moffatt, Princeton; linesman, Mulford, Penn; time of quarters, 8 minutes.

Coach McAvoy is putting the team through hard practice this week preparatory to the first home game of the season next Saturday, with Baltimore Polytechnic Institute. All the players returned from the Lafayette game of last Saturday in good physical condition and wiser for the experience gained from the game. Bratton, a promising freshman, who was hurt in scrimmage last week, is again in the game.

Trophy Goes To Dover

Captain John P. LeFevre of Company G, of Dover, Organized Militia of Delaware, has been presented with Wilmington Morning News trophy, a large loving cup, which was won by First Sergeant W. H. Abbott, for the best record in inside rifle range practice.

For several years this trophy has been competed for by the different companies comprising the First Infantry of the State Militia, and that it has served to stimulate interest in rifle practice on the part of the guardsmen is conceded by the officers.

Question Of Eligibility

Delays Business

The report of Attorney General J. O. Wolcott, Herbert H. Ward, and T. Bayard Heisel, the members of the Revised Code Commission, to which the special session of the Legislature has referred the question of the eligibility of six of the members, is awaited with interest.

The members referred to are Senator Harris, Speaker of the House Holcomb and Representatives Cooper, McDonald, Swan and Stoekel. The report was to be made today.

The attorney general and code commissioners were in conference the greater part of yesterday, but last night, in advance of the presentation of their report, they would not make the nature of their report public, declaring it would not be fair to the Legislature.

In their consideration of the subjects the attorneys have before them two precedents, each of which covers two of the points raised in this instance. One is that of M. Howard Jester, who resigned the postmastership of Wilmington and went to Dover and participated in the special session of 1906, at which Colonel H. A. duPont was elected United States Senator, Mr. Jester having been elected representative from the Third district of Wilmington at the preceding general election. Following the adjournment of the special session Mr. Jester was reinstated as postmaster. While his eligibility to sit as a member of the Legislature at the special session was widely discussed, it does not appear to have been formally questioned by the Legislature. If this can be regarded as a tenable precedent it will probably have a bearing on the case of Dr. Cooper, who resigned his federal office some days ago.

Another precedent is found in case of Granville P. Alexander, who though elected as the representative from the First district of Wilmington, moved into the Third district, and, while living there, served as a member of the "Little Legislature" to settle with the state officers in 1912.

Progressives Name County Ticket

The Progressive party of New Castle county in convention Saturday at A. O. U. Hall, Wilmington nominated a straight ticket for county officers. While they set themselves early in the convention as opposed to "flirting" with the candidates of any other party, no action was taken by the convention on this subject and before it ended several Democratic and Republican candidates had been nominated, it being considered better political wisdom to do this. The ticket nominated was as follows:

Recorder of Deeds—J. S. Litzenberg.

Register of Wills—George W. Pierson.

Clerk of the Orphans' Court—William R. Patterson.

Sheriff—Frank F. Haley.

Senators—First district, Dr. S. M. Morgan; Third district, deferred; Fifth district, Thomas J. Whiteman; Seventh district, Dr. Philip M. Money.

Representatives—First district, Oscar C. Welsh; Second, Stephen D. Jackson; Third, William M. Hooven; Fourth, deferred; Fifth, Robert Vallon; Sixth, Charles Simons, Jr.; Seventh, Harry L. Conner; Eighth, Ferris J. Yearsley (candidate on the Democratic ticket for the same office); Ninth, Clarence M. Evans; Tenth, Eleventh, deferred; Twelfth, William P. McConnell; Thirteenth and Fourteenth, deferred; Fifteenth, William Anderson, Jr.

Levy Court—Second district, Jas. M. Smyth; Fourth, John Nivin; Sixth, deferred.

Assessors—First district, William J. Faulkner; Second, Harry Bromall; Third district, W. W. Moore; Fourth, R. W. Plumley; Fifth, William E. Gibney; Sixth, Joseph W. Casey; Seventh, David S. Klair; Eighth, Frank H. Buckingham (Republican candidate for same office); Ninth, Tenth, and Eleventh, deferred; Twelfth Frank Irons (Democratic nominee for that office); Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Fifteenth, deferred.

The convention re-elected the following as members of the county committee: John T. Guyer, first district; Charles W. Hughes, third district; A. T. Culhoun, fifth district; James B. Vernon, sixth district; Harry L. Conner, seventh district; Edward Sharpless, eighth district; R. L. Cofer, twelfth district; William Anderson, Jr., fifteenth district. The convention referred to the county committee the power to fill the existing vacancies in the Second, Ninth, Tenth, Eleventh, Thirteenth and Fourteenth districts.

Petit Jury Named

The following petit jury was drawn at the Prothonotary's office yesterday morning to serve at the Court of General Sessions and Superior Court beginning October 5.

First Representative district—Jacob N. Minker, Samuel S. Lloyd, Albert J. Curran, John C. Horsey. Second—William B. Eldridge, Charles R. Anderson, Robert L. Poord, James M. Agnew.

Third—George W. Cox, Pierce Gould, Alex F. Crichton, Melvin S. Charles.

The Living Room For Books; Lesson From The World War

An interesting series of articles on "The Family Library" is begun in the September number of "Good Housekeeping." The first article by S. M. Crothers, discusses "The Living Room For Books." The writer charmingly defines books as our guests and urges the creation of a sunny, comfortable living-room atmosphere for them, rather than the best-room suffocation that surrounded the guest chamber of a generation ago. The idea of a living room for books comes in happy contrast to the picture so many of us recall—of irreproachable glass cases, filled with row after of beautifully bound "sets."

Alas! Should one really fond of these glances their way, and stop to "browse" for a happy moment, he finds their immaculate uncut leaves as fresh as the day they were released by the publisher. These unhappy books have failed to make their way into a hospitable home. Where we find a living-room for books the idea is quite different. "Only dead books," Mr. Crothers tells us, "will 'stay put.' You may arrange them in ornamental rows, or make them into a frieze that will be an excellent substitute for wallpaper. But living books are incorrigible truants. They have a way of getting off the shelves. They follow the members of the family about, after the fashion of Mary's little lamb."

Just as in travel abroad, one continually runs into acquaintances in all the great capitals of Europe—for all visitors are bound for the same places—in literature there are books which serve as intellectual exchanges and spiritual trysting places. And there it is not merely the authors whom you meet, but the multitude of readers of many generations.

"To get acquainted with Dickens is like joining a secret society. You given the grip and the password which introduces you to many a new acquaintance with whom, otherwise, you might have had nothing in common. Meet me at Bunyan's 'Pilgrim's Progress,'" Mr. Crothers says. "If you keep the appointment you will meet a great many people besides John Bunyan. You will meet the people who have been brought up on Bunyan, and you will recognize them when they mention the Hill Difficulty, and Vanity Fair, and the Slough of Despond, and the Delectable Mountains. If you know your Bunyan, you will recognize his style when you come across it. You will know Abraham Lincoln and how he came to write the Gettysburg address."

The series promises to be immensely interesting. The remaining articles by Montrose J. Moses will be suggestions of what should find its way into our libraries and what books should remain unread. The authors' ideal is to develop a real home library, where an affection for book friends is gained, in a fashion seldom approached by the formal training of later years.

"The Outlook of September 23, contains an article by Theodore Roosevelt on 'The World War: Its Tragedies and Its Lessons.' Mr. Roosevelt believes the duty of the United States to be twofold: to read aright the lesson which the awful war teaches; to stand ready to act as an instrument to achieve a just peace, and to work for some international agreement whereby the chances of such a world-wide disaster shall be at least minimized. We quote the following pertinent paragraphs:

"To serve these various ends we, all of us, without regard to party differences, must stand ready loyally to support the administration, asking nothing except that the policy be one that in truth and in fact tells for the honor and interest of our Nation, and in truth and in fact is helpful to the cause of a permanent and righteous world peace."

"In particular, she (England) is entitled to the praise of all true lovers of peace, for it is only by action such as she took that neutrality treaties and treaties guaranteeing the rights of small powers will ever be given any value."

"One (lesson) is how complicated instead of how simple it is to decide what course we ought to follow as regards any given action supposed to be in the interest of peace."

"Until some method is devised of putting effective force behind arbitration and neutrality treaties neither these treaties nor the vague and elastic body of custom which is misleadingly termed international law will have any real effect in any serious crisis between us and any save perhaps one or two of the Great Powers."

"One of the main lessons to learn from this war is embodied in the homely proverb, 'Speak softly and carry a big stick.' Persistently only half of this proverb has been quoted in deriding the men who wish to safeguard our national interest and honor. Persistently the effort has been made to insist that those who advocate keeping our country able to defend its rights are merely adopting 'the policy of the big stick.' In reality, we lay equal emphasis on the fact that it is necessary to speak softly; in other words, that it is necessary to be respectful toward all people and scrupulously to refrain from wronging them, while at the same time keeping ourselves in condition to prevent wrong being done to us. If a nation does not in this sense speak softly, then sooner or later the policy of the big stick is certain to result in war. But what befell Luxemburg six weeks ago, what has befallen China again and again during the past quarter of a century, shows that no amount of speaking softly will save any people which does not carry a big stick."

"Every public man, every writer who speaks with wanton offensiveness of a foreign power or a foreign people, whether he attacks England or France or Germany, whether he assails the Russians or the Japanese, is doing an injury to the whole American body politic."

"The most important lesson for us to learn from Belgium's fate is that, as things in the world now are, we must in any great crisis trust for our national safety to our ability and willingness to defend ourselves by our own trained strength and courage. We must not wrong others; and for our own safety we must trust, not to worthless bits of paper backed by power, and to treaties that are fundamentally foolish, but to our own manliness and clear-sighted willingness to face facts."

"World peace will not come save in some such manner as that whereby we obtain peace within the borders of each nation; that is, by the creation of reasonably impartial judges and by putting an efficient police power—that is, by putting force in an efficient fashion—behind the decrees of the judges. At present each nation must in the last resort trust to its own strength if it is to preserve all that makes life worth having. At present this is imperative. This state of things can be abolished only when we put force, when we put the collective armed power of civilization, behind some body which shall with reasonable justice and equity represent the collective determination of civilization to do what is right."

Christian People To The Relief Of War Victims

"The needs of Europe are going to make unparalleled demands on American beneficence," says a writer in a recent issue of the Philadelphia North American. "This country will doubtless give within the next twelve months an exhibition of international philanthropy that is without a precedent in history, and that would have been impossible a few years ago."

"All the intensive cultivation of the spirit and practice of giving which has been going on for many years past in the churches will be turned in the channels of relief for the suffering of the varied victims of war. Only a beginning has thus far been made. Merely the first faint echoes of the sufferings of the war have percolated into the consciousness of the American people."

Conversations with a great many persons in touch with the thought of the day reveals that there is in general contemplation a widespread and generous response to the inevitable calls from Europe. War relief will bulk larger and larger in the budgets of systematic Christian givers. In this emergency as in all the calls from flood and famine in the past, it is the church folk who are the trained givers to altruistic objects who are to be counted on most.

"One leader of Christian thought has expressed privately a plan which will find an echo in many minds. It is that as a matter of high principle, and for the sake of promoting American neutrality and the ideals of international brotherhood, each American should make some relief gift to the nations which have not his especial sympathy. Thus the loftiest conception of charity would be carried out."

It is easy for the pro-German to give to German sufferers, and the pro-British to give to British sufferers. By this plan the American of German birth and affiliations would, as a matter of principle, make an offering to the relief work in Great Britain; a French born American would send his donation to Austria; a British-American to Germany, and so through all the contending countries. Human need knows no racial, national or political boundaries. This plan would promote the idealism of neutrality and hold givers to the loftiest motives.

"That the peace and brotherhood propaganda of the church has not been in vain, despite the clash of nations, is being shown in many ways at the present time. The dominant thought of America, as of the world is for the human values concerned. The valor and splendor of war seem to make little appeal; instead of exulting in the brilliance of charges of cavalry and infantry, the readers of the dispatches are thinking first of the waste of lives involved."

No more significant revelation of the new social service passion which animates our people has ever been seen than this which has been brought out by the war. Whatever they may think about the inevitableness of the conflict, the American people at least are a unit in considering the case first of all from the side of its cost in human lives, and then as an agency for ultimate peace. The prediction is general that this will be the last war. The amazing outburst of a spirit of horrified humanitarianism is clear evidence that the Christian spirit of the twentieth century is against war.

"Appeals for aid have scarcely begun to come to America, altho thoughtful persons are making up their winter budgets with war relief gifts in view. On many sides it becomes evident that to an astonishing extent people are planning to practice economy this winter in order to indulge in the luxury of charity."

Because of the many existing international relationships, relief will go through varied channels, in addition to the Red Cross. Catholic churches in America, for instance, will be called upon to help restore the ruined edifices in Belgium and France. American Methodists have already been appealed to in behalf of their fellow Methodists in Europe. The close affiliations of Lutherans and Moravians with Europe will result in special appeals to them.

Through such popular religious agencies as the Sunday School, the Young Men's Christian Association, the Christian Endeavor Societies and other international organizations, similar calls to their members on this side of the water will be made. There will be specific religious needs to be met, as well as those that are more strictly elementary. The mission work of the continent must largely be taken over. Every day adds to the magnitude of the blow that has fallen upon the world-wide Christian missions. Nevertheless, many leaders are optimistic, pointing out that the figures show that after the Crimean and Boer wars there was an era of unusual religious prosperity in Great Britain.

"What totals may be reached by the aggregate of small sums is shown by the statement of investigators that the present contributions of the American churches to religious work reach the staggering total of more than $250,000,000 a year. This means that more than $5,000,000 a week—some authorities say more than seven million dollars a week—is given by the churches of the United States for religious purposes, aside from education. The educational work of the Church consumes annually another colossal sum."

Unless the present mood of the church people should greatly change, many millions of dollars will this year go to the relief of war sufferers. America will attain a new position as the world's chief almoner. Such revelation of the solidarity of the human race and of the reality of brotherhood will be a fitting contrast to the present war's awful antagonisms."

Dr. Reed Declines

Congressional Nomination

Dr. George Edward Reed of Grace M. E. Church of Wilmington and former president of Dickinson College, who was nominated for Congress at the recent State convention of the Progressive party at Dover will not serve as Congressional nominee.

Dr. Reed has sent a letter to State Chairman Houston declining and giving the reason that acceptance would involve retirement from the position which he now holds and that under existing circumstances this would neither be just to himself nor to the organization which he serves. His letter follows:

"Wilmington, Sept. 26, 1914. 'To Col. R. G. Houston, Chairman State Committee, Progressive Party of Delaware, Georgetown, Del.

"My Dear Sir: Having received through the committee appointed for the purpose, Messrs. Irving Warner, H. G. Eastburn, and Henry Thompson formal notification of my nomination at the convention recently held in Dover—a convention at which I was not present—as the candidate of the Progressive party of Delaware for the position of Congressman from the district of Delaware permit me to say, in reply, that while my sympathies, politically, are largely with the Progressive party, while I highly appreciate the unsolicited and entirely unexpected honor of the nomination, and while further I regard the admirable platform adopted by the convention as one on which any thinking man might be proud to stand, especially the plank on the tariff, the anti-liquor and the suffrage questions, fidelity to my engagement as the active minister of a prominent and influential church—a church in which all shades of political opinion are represented—compels me to decline a service which under different circumstances I might be willing to accept. Acceptance would, of course, involve active participation in the campaign about to be waged, which participation would involve prompt retirement on my part from the position I now hold, and this, under existing circumstances, would be just neither to myself nor to the organization I have the honor to serve. I must, therefore, make respectful but positive request that my name be withdrawn from the ticket, to the end that the State committee, in whose hands the matter now rests, may have the opportunity to select in my place some gentleman better fitted for the service required than I could hope to be."

"With sentiments of high regard I remain, dear sir,

Sincerely yours
George Edward Reed."

Two Deaths From Automobile Accident

Orville G. Gooden, aged 39 years, a well-known real estate agent of Wilmington, and his wife, aged 30, formerly Miss Florence M. Cann of Wilmington, were thrown out of their automobile last Tuesday when it was struck by a train on the Short Line crossing near State Road station. Mr. Gooden was killed instantly and Mrs. Gooden was fatally injured and died soon after reaching Delaware Hospital whither she was hurried in his automobile by James McCallister and his daughter, of State Road, who witnessed the accident. Two brothers, George, of Woodside, and Eugene, of Colorado, and a half-brother, Gove S., of Wyoming, formerly of Delaware City, survive Mr. Gooden.

veiled threat of the Democratic party to disfranchise the negro in Delaware whenever it can get the opportunity. It has been incorporated in the Democratic platform at one or more times, as it purposes to enact a "Jim Crow" law for Delaware. The Democratic party of Delaware would certainly do something for the negro as a voter, if it had the power to carry into effect its desires, and that's as true as the Book of Luke.

Statistics Of The Stu- dent Body At Delaware

The following statistics of the student body at Delaware College compiled by the secretary of the faculty, should be of keen interest to every one interested in the College. The total number of students in the three departments of agriculture, arts and science, and engineering, is 200. This number comprises only those who are now actually reciting; it omits all those who for any reason left college. Of these 200, 56 are in agriculture, 58 in arts and science, and 86 in engineering. Fifty-seven come from Wilmington, 100 from New Castle, Kent and Sussex counties, and 43 from outside the state. There are 98 now in the Freshman class. Of these 29 are in the agricultural course (this includes 10 in the 2 year course, admission to which does not require the passing of any examinations), 29 in the arts and science course, and 40 in the engineering courses.

"Refused"

"Refused Notice." Every editor has received them. The postmaster sends them to the editor.
 For instance, there is a man by the name of John Blank, who refused to take his paper out of the postoffice. He did not want it any longer, and we wondered what was the matter. Upon investigation of our subscription book we found that John was short $5.70. He stopped the paper as a matter of economy to us. One evening we went to church, and John's melodious voice rang out loud and clear in that soul stirring song, "Jesus Paid It All."
 We might have been mistaken, but his earnestness impressed us. The next day we sent him a receipt in full, begging his pardon for not knowing he had made arrangements for his liabilities in that manner.

State W. C. T. U. Convention

The thirty-fifth annual convention of the Delaware Woman's Christiana Temperance Union will be held in Wesley M. E. Church, Georgetown, on October 7, 8, and 9.
 On Wednesday evening Edwin J.
 Reinke will be the speaker, while on Thursday evening Dr. Mitchell, of Delaware College, will address the convention. Miss Roberta Marshall of Lewes, graduate of Emerson College, will give readings during the convention. Mrs. Florence Bayard Hilles of Wilmington, will speak on the enfranchisement of women.

For the first day a box luncheon will be taken by all delegates in order to aid the hostesses in making their arrangements.

Prof. Rich Visits

Rural Schools
 In order to make herself familiar with the needs of the rural schools of the State Miss Mary E. Rich, professor of Education in the Women's College of Delaware, visited a number of schools in rural New Castle county on September 25. It is the purpose of the department of education of the new college to become familiar with the needs of the public schools throughout the state and render help wherever possible.
 The schools in the two lower counties will be visited in the near future. These visits are a part of the work planned by the Extension Department. Teachers are urged to write to the Department in regard to any problems that may come up in connection with their work. Among the schools visited by Miss Rich were the following:
 Stanton, Summit Bridge, Red Lion,
 Glasgow, Kirkwood, Christiana, Sunnyside.

Chairman Mitchell Re-elected

Members of the Republican State Committee at their meeting at Dover last week re-elected State Chairman Edmund Mitchell who had wished to retire but agreed to continue in service. Thomas S.
 Lewis was re-elected Secretary and
 A. R. Benson of Dover, treasurer.
 Candidate for Congress Thomas W. Miller, gave an address. No action was taken upon the tendered resignation of General T. Coleman duPont as Delaware member of the National Committee. It was decided to meet at Dover on October 6 and in Georgetown on October 13.

Democrats And The Negro

Yes, it's true that the colored men of Delaware do vote, and that they generally vote the Republican ticket, exactly as the Dover Index says in its comments upon the action of the Republican State Convention when it gave the colored race additional representatives on the State Central Committee; but, we ask the Dover Index the question, and we would like to have a truthful answer: How long would the negro have a vote in Delaware if the Democratic party were in absolute control of all parts of the State government? It is now the

INTERESTING PLANS FOR OCTOBER TENTH

Distinguished Guests To Be Present

While none of the facts have been made public, it is understood that the program of the College exercises on October 10th will be of surprising interest. It is rumored that the Committee in charge have some interesting surprises in the way of the program of exercises. It is to be regretted that the program was not given out this week for the benefit of the rural weeklies down-State. As it now stands, no definite announcement will be able to be made before that day.

Distinguished guests from other states will be present. From Delaware, it is expected that the Governor and staff, the Judiciary, the members of the General Assembly and the different State Boards. Other organizations will probably be represented.

The Junior Order of American Mechanics will have a large delegation. They will present the flag to the College. It is understood that the Masonic order will officiate in the laying of the corner stone. The names of the speakers have not been released by the Committee, but it has leaked out that a Wisconsin educator will make the address at the dedication exercises. The speaker in the morning will probably be one of Delaware's great.

Lieutenant Herman of the College will be the Marshall of a proposed parade from Delaware College to the Women's College. Altogether it promises to be a big day in Delaware History.

Agricultural Notes

The work of filling the tile silos on the College Farm has just been completed. These silos hold approximately 200 tons each. The corn used in filling these silos was grown on the south field of the farm. Although this field was formerly considered too poor to be utilized in the production of crops, it produced this year an average yield of approximately 10 tons per acre.

Mr. M. O. Pence of Converse, Indiana, is taking up his work as County Agent in Kent County this week. Mr. Pence, who was formerly assistant agronomist and instructor in agronomy at Delaware College, comes to his work in Kent county with additional farm experience which should help him greatly in his work of aiding the farmers in making their land more productive and their crops more remunerative. In his work he will probably follow to a great extent the plans and methods that are being successfully carried out in New Castle county by Agent L. H. Cooch.

The New Castle County Farm Bureau, under the leadership of County Agent L. H. Cooch, has been organized and its work begun under very favorable auspices.

Professor Harry Hayward spent last Wednesday in Cambridge, Maryland; last Thursday he judged cattle at the Chester County Fair; on September 29 he will judge Guernseys at Brockton, Mass. and at Trenton, N. J., on September 30.

Miss Lottie W. Baker, for seven years secretary at the Experiment Station, but now in departmental service at Washington, has returned to the Experiment Station temporarily. Her return was made necessary by the increased activities of the Agricultural Department.

The Inter-collegiate Dairy Judging Team is now being trained for the contest to be held at Chicago the last week of October. Mr. F. B. Hills, instructor in Animal Husbandry, is in charge of this work. He will go to Chicago with the team, and will serve on the Board of Judges of the contest.

Among the visitors to the Agricultural Department recently were Mr. J. M. Okie of Philadelphia; Mr. William Okie of Wilmington; Mr. Irey of Douglassville, Pa., and Mr. Pollard, who will have charge of the International Egg Laying Competition.

A new farrowing pen has been added to the equipment of the pig department of the College Farm. There are present more than 100 pigs in the herd. The number will be increased as conditions warrant.

Neighboring County Honors Famous Son

The annual historic commemoration of the Chester County Historical Society of Pennsylvania was held on Monday at the old Wayne homestead, at "Waynesboro," near Paoli, when was formally dedicated a bronze marker erected in honor of General Anthony Wayne.

This marker or tablet is placed on the front wall of the old house in which Gen. Wayne was born in 1745; it is thirty by fifty-two inches in size and contains this inscription:

"The Home of General Anthony Wayne.
Born in this House, January 1, 1745.
Died at Erie, Pennsylvania, December 15, 1796.

A Leader of the American Revolution in Pennsylvania and a Soldier Distinguished his services at Brandywine, Germantown, Valley Forge, Monmouth, Stony Point and Yorktown.

Subdued the Indians in Ohio, 1794
Commander-in-Chief of the United States Army, 1793-1796

Marked by the Chester County Historical Society, 1914."

The exercises were held on the lawn in front of the ancient mansion.

Popular Star At Playhouse

The sale of seats for the engagement of Miss Grace George at the Playhouse, Wilmington, on Friday evening of this week in "The Truth" is large and there is no doubt about this capable actress being greeted by the largest house which has greeted a star at The Playhouse this season. There is every reason why Miss George should have a large audience, for there is no actress who has a firmer hold on the affections of the theatre-going public. There is always a finish, an intelligent conception of a part and an ability to live it and make it real about Miss George which is seldom found.

In the present instance the public will not only get the pleasure and the benefit of Miss George's splendid acting, but it will also have the advantage of seeing her in the play which is accounted the masterpiece of Clyde Fitch, who probably wrote more successes than any other modern author, and a play in which Miss George has probably achieved the greatest success of her life. Added to this will

THAT CHRISTMAS GIFT

I know it is not in keeping with the weather to think of Christmas. But a little time and attention given now to your Cards or Gift Calendars will repay you more than you realize.

At the holiday season, you rush off and buy some stock card or calendar. Time demands something and that is the best you can do.

While now, a little thought and talk with the Printer will result in something Original—Individual. Express Yourself to your friends at Christmas tide.

We are going to do some real original Christmas printing this summer. Shall we do calendars for you? Perhaps there is some scene, some quotation from your reading that you would like to share with your good friends. Let us talk it over with you.

be the fact that she comes here direct from New York with her original company and her original production. The entire production is under the direction of Winthrop Ames, director of the famous Little Theatre in New York, the theatre where nothing but artistic productions are made and which has a name and a reputation which is peculiarly and particularly its own. There should be no doubt of the play and the capable actress who will appear as the star, repeating in Wilmington the unqualified success which they have achieved in New York and which later in the season they are bound to achieve in other large cities.

Local theatregoers have for some time been demanding something out of the ordinary and the Playhouse management in the present instance has been able to secure something which is entirely out of the ordinary and something which cannot fail to meet the approval of the most critical. There are a number of good seats left, but the sale is large and steady, and they will not remain for long.
