CHAUTAUQUA FOR NEWARK

Enthusiasm Manifested—Fifty Citizens Act As Guarantors

That Newark will have an indoor Chautauqua is assured. The three day session known as the Lyceum Festival will be held in the Opera House, December first, second and third, and judging from the enthusiasm already manifested this, Newark's first Chautauqua, will be a great success.

Representatives of the Pennsylvania Chautauqua Association met with those interested at the High School last Wednesday evening, when the proposition was presented. According to the contract offered by the organization twenty guarantors were necessary to insure the financial end of the plan. After a thorough discussion of the agreement, several volunteered to call upon leading citizens and request them to act as guarantors. The plan was received with such favor everywhere that the solicitors received fifty instead of twenty signatures, a copy of which is given below:

S. J. Wright, T. F. Armstrong, R. S. Gallaher, N. N. Wright, Henry G. M. Kollock, Harvey Hoffecker, A. E. Grantham, C. B. Evans, H. Warner McNeal, E. V. Vaughn, J. H. Hossinger, Daniel Thompson, D. C. Rose, H. E. Tiffany, W. P. Wollaston, E. L. Richards, Wilbur T. Wilson, Eben B. Frazer, R. C. Reed, Bowen & Bro., Ernest Frazer, L. E. Poole, Harry Hayward, H. L. Bonham, E. B. Wright, Alfred A. The Chautauqua Association of Pennsylvania was organized over a year ago for the purpose of cultivating a lofty, pure and wholesome Americanism. The organization is philanthropic, and in its aims and ideals, is really a part of the educational system of the country. It carries the big, broad outlook to the rank and file who have perhaps missed the opportunity of gaining this viewpoint, as well as supplies subject for thought and entertainment to the most cultured of the community.

The contract signed by the guarantors was forwarded to headquar-

MODEL SCHOOL IN NEWARK

An Opportunity For Backward Pupils

Dr. Charles A. Wagner, Commissioner of Education in Delaware, met with the local Board of Education in regular meeting last Friday night. Dr. Wagner requested the use of a school room, to be used as a model school during the six weeks of the summer school at Delaware college, June-July, 1914. The Board granted the request, offering whatever part of their building best suited the purpose.

The school will be taught by one of the best teachers in the State for the observation of younger teachers in the Summer School. It is proposed to have about thirty-five pupils enrolled in all the grades from the first to the eighth. Those who desire to enroll as pupils will notify Principal Friedel, who will select the necessary number from the list. This will afford a splendid opportunity for those who have fallen behind their grade to make up the work during the summer months.

Prize-Winning Hen For Egg-Laying Contest

Mrs. L. F. Towson of Cleveland Avenue, is the proud owner of a mongrel hen that it is believed has broken all Delaware records for egg laying. This remarkable hen since December 8, of last year when she laid her first egg, up until the present time has produced 276 eggs. Although there is another month before the year will be up, Mrs. Towson is of the opinion that the hen is through laying for the season as she is shedding her feathers and has not layed for ten days, the longest time that she has missed during the eleven months. The fact that she layed 156 eggs before wanting to set makes her record all the more surprising. During the summer the hen wanted to set a number of times but on being shut up for several days would start right in to laying again.

This record breaking hen was one of two small chicks given to Mrs. Towson's little daughter by a neighbor in the spring of 1912. Until early last summer when she was taken sick the other hen, which is Plymouth Rock, had done equally as well as her sister. In six months and one week she produced just 150 eggs. These are the only two fowls that Mrs. Towson owns. The owner is unable to account for the great records that they have made. While the hens have been more or less pets yet they have received no special attention that would account for them laying so many eggs. Their food has consisted of table scraps and cracked corn.

Mrs. Towson has been very careful in keeping the record of the hens. Both of them layed in boxes on the back porch. Beginning with the first egg that was produced, she saw each hen every day that they got on their nest and on getting the egg marked it in a book to the credit of that particular hen. She could see the hens in their nests from the kitchen window while doing her work and declares there is no chance of her having made a mistake. Up until 10 days ago Mrs. Towson was in hopes that the mongrel hen would reach the 300 mark by the time the year would be up December 7, but is now satisfied she will lay no more for a time.

DOCTOR WAGNER URGES CO-OPERATION

Grangers Hold Pomona At Georgetown

At a meeting of the Sussex County Pomona held at Georgetown last Thursday, State Commissioner of Education, Dr. Charles A. Wagner addressed the Grangers of lower Delaware. Dr. Wagner stated his mission to be to see if there can't be closer relation between the body of grangers throughout the State, and one of the departments of education of which he is the head. He expressed the belief that by the two working in a co-operative way, good results will be obtained. Dr. Wagner wishes for all the grangers of the state to map out a future policy; for the State Board to do the same; for the two bodies to then get together and see if they can work in harmony, for the advancement of educational interests throughout the Commonwealth.

"The school of modern times is not the school for greatest potency," said Dr. Wagner, "but it is the press; and when I say the press I wish to convey the idea that I mean the periodicals, magazines on agriculture and mechanical devices, and the daily and weekly papers."

"The daily and weekly papers," he said, "keep the public informed as to what is going on, or in other words, chronicle the history that is being made."

The school in Dr. Wagner's opinion, comes second in the educational agencies, for when their courses are completed the education is only begun. The school is merely a place to learn the alphabets upon which can be based the knowledge to be acquired after the prescribed courses are finished. Observation, strict application of what has been acquired, and a keeping pace with the times by reading make up a man's after-education.

In the list of secondary educational agencies Dr. Wagner placed the home first, and ventured the prediction that within the next twenty years a better solution as to the duties that are required of the home and those of the schools toward the children will be reached. Parents are not giving the attention to their children that they should, but are looking to the school teacher to do some of the things that should be taught in the homes. Organizations such as the granges and the lodges, the speaker classed as the second in the secondary lines of education.

Splendid Heating Plant Completed

Work on the new heating plant at Delaware College will be entirely completed this week. Heat has already been turned on in all the buildings, but the library. The work on the tunnel which conveys the pipe to this, the most distant building, will be complete within a few days. The new plant which is the finest of any institution in the State, was installed by the Manufacturers Contracting Co. of Wilmington for the sum of $15,000.

The plant is located at the northwest corner of the campus back of the dormitories. Four boilers of 150 horsepower each, built by the Erie City Iron Works, will generate the steam. They have been set in pairs ten feet apart, and each boiler is 16 feet long by 6 feet in diameter. They are externally fired and provided with shaking grates. The building in which the boilers have been installed is 70 feet long by 40 feet wide and 16 feet high to the top of the brick work. The walls of the building are 12 inches thick, of which thickness 6 inches on the inside is white fire brick. The walls are surmounted by a trussed structural steel gable roof.

A feature of the plant is the smoke stack, which is the largest in Newark. The foundation for the stack which is 120 feet above ground, starts 11 feet underground. Its first two feet is made of concrete reinforced by square twisted steel rods. This slab is 17 feet in diameter and has a bearing surface of 3 1/4 tons per square foot. The remaining 9 feet of the foundation is a hollow concrete cylinder 13 feet outside diameter and 6 feet 5 inches inside diameter, with two arched openings, lined with fire brick, into which the hot ashes from the boilers are drawn. The stack proper was built of custodis radial brick by the Alphons Custodis Chimney Construction Company of New York. It tapers from 11 feet in diameter at the bottom to 6 feet in diameter when the height of 120 feet is reached.

The tunnel which runs from the boiler house to the various buildings is large enough for a man to walk through and work in it in case any of the pipes need looking after. The tunnel is of concrete, 4 feet 6 inches wide and 6 feet high at the highest point, the roof being arched. The total length of the tunnel is 531 feet and at one point the floor is 15 feet underground. It is lined with asphalt and tar paper to insure it being waterproof. Starting at the boiler house, the tunnel runs straight for 128 feet and then 80 feet diagonally between the gymnasium and dormitories. It then continues straight for 116 feet to a point near the entrance to the experimental station.

Probably the greatest change in the oyster industry, second only to the modern method of cultivation by artificial means in "beds" far removed from all danger of sewage contamination, is in the method of packing and shipping. Formerly, oysters were shipped with ice directly upon them, the ice melting and diluting the "liquor." Today, after the oysters have been shucked and carefully graded, they are put into cans, sealed and ice packed around. No salt or other preservative is used. The result is, the oysters reach their destination no matter how far inland, in perfect condition.

Equal Suffrage Convention Convenes Tomorrow

The seventeenth annual Convention of the Equal Suffrage Association of Delaware will be held in the New Century Club Parlors on Thursday, November 6, 1913. E. church, Wilmington; Mr. Irving Warner and Mrs. Mary Ware Dennett, National Corresponding Secretary. Fraternal delegates will be present from the W. C. T. U., Consumers' League and Juvenile Court of Delaware.

While there will not be need of all of the 600 horse power that the four boilers are capable of generating at this time, should electric generators be installed and additional buildings erected in the future the extra horse power would then be needed.

Call To The Forty-Fifth National Suffrage Convention

For the forty-fifth time in its history the National American Woman Suffrage Association summons its members together in council. By thus assembling, one more united step toward the final emancipation of the women of this country is made practicable. It is part of the destiny of those who are laboring actively in the cause of any reform, that they cannot fully discern the extent of the changes they are accomplishing. It is only after their work is finished, when the new ideal is established, and when the widely distributed effects of it are made tangible, that it is possible to realize how world-changing was the initial work. Let us try to appreciate this fact today in order not only that we may get inspiration, but that seeing clearly whither we go we may take our last steps swiftly, surely and unitedly.

To the wise and courageous, to those not fearful of the changes demanded by the vital needs of growing humanity, this call is sent, for such only can it be received. For them it will have two meanings; first, it will speak of loyalty to work and to comrade-workers; of large undertakings worthily begun and to be worthily finished; the stimulus of difficulty; of joy in the exercise of talents and strength of the self control and ability required for co-operation. Second, and with deeper meaning, it will, being the age-old call of woman to woman, not only for counsel and comfort, but for better preservation of what she holds most high,—speak of the struggle for development which individual women have made; of the opportunities they have made for each other; of the unequivocal demand for the best which the few have made upon the many. It will tell of the stifled but ever present desire for the great impersonal fields of human activity—fields in which the individual can achieve largely as well as fell deeply—where the hurt of generations of intensive living will be assuaged as life forces are turned into the wide, purposeful channels of helpful endeavor.

To you who grasp the underlying meaning of this struggle, to you who know yourselves akin to those who will follow us, to you who are daily making this ideal a reality, this call is sent.

Delays are Especially Dangerous Where Defective Plumbing is Concerned

In the interests of your own and your family's health you positively cannot afford to neglect the smallest defect in your sanitary equipment.

Apart from the question of comfort and convenience—and that is important to you—a sanitary equipment that is not entirely efficient is a continual menace. Whatever the fault, it should be remedied immediately.

If you are not quite sure about your plumbing system, let us examine it and report upon its condition; it will cost you nothing and may save money.

Should it be necessary, we will install a genuine "Standard" Guaranteed Fixture at a minimum cost, and guarantee the workmanship employed in installing it. Illustrated literature always on hand.

HOSPITAL CAMPAIGN UNDER WAY

Local Workers Attend Banquet

Money given to a Hospital is not charity—it's an investment. It is a business proposition, where you make provisions for better service when you or your friends are sick. A Hospital is not only a public asset but an institution in which every citizen should have an interest. In this campaign, it is hoped that Newark will perform per duty—as is her custom.

The campaign for $150,000 for the Homeopathic Hospital, Wilmington, opened on Monday night with a banquet at the Hotel Du Pont, Wilmington. Dr. Walt H. Steel, Mrs. M. C. Kilgore, Mrs. L. B. Jacobs, Miss Elizabeth Grimes and Mr. C. D. Grant, representatives of the local team attended. Covers were laid for four hundred guests. Among the speakers were Governor C. R. Miller, Mayor Howell, former congressman C. P. Landis of Indiana, W. N. Barnard, Jr., and Mr. Honey, manager of the campaign.

The workers in Newark have been appointed to certain districts, each member of the committee being limited to one section of the town. They began the work of canvassing the town on Tuesday.

DEAN FOR WOMEN'S COLLEGE CONSIDERED

Dr. Harter Interviews Several Applicants

The building committee of the Affiliated College Commission is still giving considerable time to the search for a woman dean to take charge of the Delaware College for Women to be erected near Newark and opened next September. The members of the committee have consulted with several applicants during the past few days.

While the new college which will be affiliated with Delaware College is not to be opened before next September, it is understood that it is the intention of the commission to recommend a dean to the Trustees as soon as one can be found whom the commission thinks will be the right woman for the position, so as to get the benefit of her knowledge in the many details of the work preparatory to opening the school.

On Saturday Miss Winifred J. Robinson, who is one of the applicants, was in Newark to meet Dr. George A. Harter, president of the building several of the larger road shows, that ordinarily play only the large cities. Chief among them is Whaples & Hilbert's elaborate production of "The Girl of Eagle Ranch". That the play is from the pen of Bartley Campbell is sufficient to warrant it a Western play of merit, for no American writer of today is as well able to deal with the West as Mr. Campbell, the author of "The Girl of Eagle Ranch." Under the direction of Whaples & Hilbert a firm of producers noted for the merit of their attractions, "The Girl of Eagle Ranch" in all its splendor of scenic equipment and selected cast of actors will be presented in Newark this season for the first time. In offering this attraction to the public on next Monday, November 10, the arrangement feels that it is providing a real treat. Reserved seats on sale at Weller's Ten Cent Store.

The Feast of All Saints was celebrated as usual on Saturday, November first, by mass in the Catholic church.

KENNARD & CO.Fur Garments

For years, by reason of the increasing demand and the corresponding decrease in the number of fur-bearing animals trapped, there has been a steady advance in the price of all desirable furs. Fortunately this year's styles in Fur Coats have reacted in favor of the customer, as all the most favored models are about 45 inches long, thus curtailing the quantity required. Believing that the demand for fur coats will be large we have selected an unusually large assortment, all of which we offer our customers with the fullest guarantee as to quality and price. Excellent grade of black Russian Pony, $45.00 each.

Blended Marmot, $75.00 each.

THE LANGUAGE OF COMMON FOLK

HEREAFTER TO FEATURE AGRICULTURAL PUBLICATIONS

Secretary Houston is trying out a new stunt with the Department of Agriculture. He wants to popularize the government's work to aid farmers.

The immediate fruit of his new plan is that high-brow literature doesn't go at the department any more. Scientific sharps who used to delight in five-syllable jaw-crackers and revel in Latin terminology for insects that the farmers knew as just plain bugs, are being curbed. Plain United States language is taking the place of scientific verbiage. Moreover, the department's bulletins have been "dressed up" with new covers. Up to the time Houston took over the job of bossing the Agricultural Department, all Federal employees thought the government publications ought to be fixed up in the same way—a plain cover and title page with no trimmings. They looked dull even if they weren't. But Houston has devised decorative little headings and tail pieces for the agricultural bulletins. It makes them look more like the farmers' literature supplied by the commercial publishing firms.

Moreover, Houston has hired a press agent. Of course, he isn't carried on the rolls under that title, because Congress has an antipathy for publicity agents. He is designated as the chief of the information bureau. His job is to spread information. He is supposed to keep newspapers full of little items about the work of the department.

Houston himself came out with a request the other day for advice. He wants farmers and their wives to tell him how to make his department more valuable to them. It was a happy thought, that inclusion of the farmer's wife.

That is popularizing a dry-as-dust department, and putting Uncle Sammy strong with the ladies—and incidentally making it possible to have a lot of voting support either by way of the would-be voters themselves or through their husbands.

But that isn't all. Secretary Houston is no piker. He isn't cursing for favor. Rather he is altruistic.

Now here's John Jones out in Pajunk Creek. He employs a lot of men. Maybe they're working long hours and apparently not producing quite the result that John expected. Right there, the Department of Agriculture steps in. You're working them beyond the point of maximum efficiency, says a bulletin made up in attractive and readable fashion. Then it starts to prove why and wherefore. In simple, direct language, with ample illustrations provided to a mathematical nicety, the bulletin demonstrates to John that he could really accomplish more if he put a scientific system into his day's work.

And then there's Bill Smith out in the Lost Creek region. The insects are eating up his trees and crops.

Again Secretary Houston comes to the rescue. He doesn't preach. No, he sends out another pamphlet called the Weekly Letter to Crop Correspondents. It makes an appeal such as "How the farmer can use facilities of the United States Department of Agriculture" and proceeds to let Bill Smith know that he has a great big friend down in Washington, who wants to see the crops flourish and have Bill prosper.

Uncle Sam scores again, and gets a lot of friends.

One more thing. Uncle Sam isn't entirely satisfied with his efforts. He wants to get right close to the farmer's hearts, so he's planning to publish a magazine—pictures and stories—with a useful lesson, but above all else, popular with his country cousins.

Middletown Transcript.

Words of Commendation

Delaware sets an admirable example in offering prizes to the farmers for corn and potato-growing. The sweepstakes prize for the best acre in the Diamond State gives the successful corn-grower the chance of adding $60 to the returns from his crop. In each of the three counties there are three minor prizes aggregating $70 for the same cereal. In addition five prizes are offered for the best acre of white potatoes.

Nowhere are the farmers more eager to profit from the improved methods of agriculture developed at the experiment farm than in Delaware. Frequent lectures in various parts of the State make known the results of patient and intelligent investigation by experts. It was believed that previous prizes had sufficiently encouraged the improvement of the corn and potato crops, but the farmers have persuaded the State Board of Agriculture to continue the desirable awards.

This course is commendable and wise, because the spirit of emulation promoted by the contests and the natural graftification and prestige of the prize winners are certain to stimulate the farmers to their best efforts. Delaware goes quietly along progressive paths, and no one need make a pilgrimage half way across the continent to sit up in admiration of "the Wisconsin idea," while our immediate neighbors are applying the same principles to the enlightenment of the rural population.

Local Society Represented At C. E. Convention

Every Endeavorer in Delaware has been notified of the 24th annual convention of the Delaware Christian Endeavor Union, to be held in St. Paul's M. E. Church on Thursday and Friday. The local committee appointed to properly entertain the convention has sent a letter of greeting, under date of October 10, to all societies in the State, numbering about 80, inviting them to visit the city during the convention.

More recently an official poster has been delivered to each society, announcing the convention, the speakers and the special features.

The theme of the convention is "The Effective Society." This will be handled under three sub-headings: Organization, Administration and Compensation, which will be the respective themes for Thursday afternoon, Friday morning and Friday afternoon. Prominent En-

Learning To Read

(Extract from minutes read at annual meeting of the Dover Alumni Association held last June. From report of the Committee on Self-Culture.)

It is a common saying that pleasure is to be gained from the reading of good books but many persons act as if they believed that this pleasure was purely imaginary. As a matter of fact it is quite as real and as substantial as that which is had from a good meal or an interesting game. It is also much more. It is the cheapest and one of the greatest and most permanent of the pleasures which life affords.

Some one may say that his experience proves the contrary so far as he is concerned; that he has tried reading some of the so-called good books and has found very little pleasure in them. Doubtless this is the experience of many. The important thing to bear in mind is that, as in many instances, the pleasure comes only after it has been cultivated. A certain time each day should be devoted to it. Thirty minutes a day will bring the reward if devoted systematically. The reading of poor books is, however, like the eating of unwholesome food—it blunts the appetite, yet leaves us un nourished.

There is a good deal in knowing how to read. The reader should not be a mere passive listener. He has a part to play if he is to get the full pleasure from the books. With fiction he should make living beings of the personages presented. He should make mental pictures of them in the different situations in which they appear so that he may be able to close his eyes and see them as vividly as he can the flesh and blood of his acquaintances. He should note how their characters are made to develop by the authors. He should wonder at what they do and what they may do just as he does with real people. He should never try to repress any emotion aroused by the book but on the contrary should make a conscious effort to feel the emotion which he will readily see should result from reading certain portions of the book. After a time all this becomes second nature to a reader, but at first it requires a real systematic effort on his part. In the end the effort is richly rewarded. With all classes of books that are worth the reading the reader should think about what he reads. It is the thinking about what he has read when the book is laid aside that counts for so much. If the reader owns the book he should not hesitate to mark every passage that strikes him as unusual, whether because it is particularly good or particularly bad, and he should note the number of each page marked in a blank leaf at the end of the book. When he has finished reading, he should re-read the pages so marked. If he does not own the book he should note the number of the pages on which the unusual passages occur in a blank book kept for the purpose and this will enable him to turn to them and reread many passages.

To be a true lover of reading one must own some books. It is surprising at what small expense a good private library can be secured. The way to do this is to put aside so much month for the purchase of books. Twenty-five cents a week or even less will bring together a number of volumes at the end of the year.

Abandoned Kansas Churches

A state conference of pastors and teachers in Kansas has brought to public notice that there are upward of a thousand abandoned houses of worship in that State. It is reported that in the conference an opinion prevailed that the decline of popular interest in church services is due mainly to fondness for motoring.

The facts are of more than passing interest. Kansas was founded hardly more than fifty years ago by men and women to whom religion was as the breath of their nostrils. Zealots in the cause of abolition and of Christianity as they understood it, the Bible was a household book and worship something more than a Sunday observance. Their spirit was that of Puritans going to Armageddon to battle for the Lord. Their songs were all hymns. Their piety had ever a fighting edge to it.

Behold now their grandchildren scoff at worship, abandon churches and take to Sunday joyriding!

This is the progress of bumper crops and high prices. Too much fat in the land, too much milk and honey in the streams, too many chicken dinners for harvest hands, too many wayside inns where forbidden waters are sweet, and though secret are abundant, too many good roads for swift riding where the corn grows and the riders can't be seen, too many motors for the farmers' sons and also for the farmers' daughters. With these impulses pressing through the week, Kansas can't sit still on Sunday.

Delaware Loses To Stevens

Delaware lost to Stevens last Saturday at Hoboken, N. J., by the score of 14 to 0. Although Delaware played fast and clean ball, her line failed to hold the heavier team. The Delaware men had the chance of scoring but once during the entire game, when they were near the receiving goal on the twenty-yard line in the last half.

Delaware's punt to Captain Stretch of Stevens, was blocked and a touchdown scored by the captain. Kent kicked goal. The other touchdown was made by Seiler and Kent the second time goal. Delaware was outweighed 15 to 20 pounds.

The line-up follows:

Stevens

Although Delaware has failed to make those spectacular scores upon which the Alumni are often too prone to judge her, she is winning by her adherence to a high standard of clean athletics, laurels of far more worth. Compliments on her sportsmanship have been repeated often in these columns, yet every game brings a new report that reflects honor, on coach, men and institution. Illustrative of this is the side line remark at Hoboken—"look at the team work of those men—that's pluck for you." Again comes the following from the Washington Star in its comments on Catholic University and Delaware game:

"Catholic University and Delaware went through a scoreless game yesterday on University Field. The locals, for the first time this year, played true to their form and showed signs of ability. The game was the fastest and cleanest played on University field for many a year. There was but one penalty, and not once was time taken out.

"Delaware College is a fast team, and even when its goal was in danger, which was five times during the period of play, they played one of the cleanest games of the year. The two teams were evenly matched."

GHOSTS VIEW NEW CASTLE PARADE

A weird and white-robed procession of "shades" wended their way to the home of the Misses Fader early last Friday evening. When the entire conclave had assembled, they proceeded to three large cars, and continued their journey, fast and furious, through the night. Only when they reached New Castle and found themselves in the midst of other odd-looking creatures were they willing to rest. Promptly at the appointed time they reached their destination, for the parade of masqueraders was falling into line when the newcomers arrived. They watched with delight the pranks of the devils and clowns, witches and fairies, devils and minstrels. Four bands, playing lively tunes, added to the enthusiasm of the occasion. The fire devils, in their scarlet coats, surrounding the big red auto engine with its clanging bell, seemed familiar to the "shades" and they laughed and hallooed and shouted in appreciation.

After covering the old town as a part of the procession, the supposed shades made a dash for Newark where the ghostly garments were laid aside for the more comfortable garb of everyday.

A warm, welcoming glow from the twentieth century electric lights made the guests, chilled from the long ride, glad to be back in the land of reality. After making merry over the usual tricks of Hallowe'en, a bounteous spread was served by the ladies of the party. The large table with its attractive decorations of pumpkin heads and witches fairly groaned with the time-honored homely goodies of Hallowe'en.

Among unique features were the menu cards. From a solid black background on the cover, the big harvest moon shone over a cornfield, revealing the shocks and yellow pumpkins and the zigzag fence.

The guests departed declaring they had had a jolly time. The number included: Misses Lydia, Winnie, Laura, Helen, Violette and Eleanor Fader; Misses Nellie Wilson, Etta Wilson, Myrtle Steele, Katherine Heiser, Alberta Heiser, Agnes Medill, Dora Law, Mrs. A. F. Fader, Mrs. J. M. Conner of Baltimore; Messes. Alfred Scott, Clarence Scott, Raymond Fader, Philip Chilas, V. A. Hastings, J. E. Watts, Frank Fader, Charles Grubb, Sam Heiser, J. R. Shultz.

Potts Hardware Store

NEWARK'S NOVELTY

THIS is a word of explanation who and what we are—and an invitation to you, to visit our new store.

This Store is a Novelty Store. It bears the same relation to the General Hardware Store as a Delicatessen does to a Butcher Shop. We specialize in the dainties of Hardware. We have a Department Store of Hardware Novelties—we deal in the Showcase Goods. We do not handle plow shares, nor fodder twine; we sell no farm wagons or mowing machines. We Specialize.

No man knows it all—and only a few think they do. Just as the Hardware Store is an outgrowth and improvement of the old General Merchandise—so the Novelty is an advance of the Hardware Store.

By this specializing, we can buy better, know how to buy. We can study the quality with the result of more business, better service. Illustrative of this—take Dry Cell Batteries, we can sell retail at usual wholesale prices. Why? We know, how, when, and where, to buy. We buy direct from factory, deliveries made at our call.

WHY WE CAME TO NEWARK TO STAY

Why did you come? Who are you? How long are you going to stay?—all are natural questions. All questions every new business has to face.

This store is a branch of a large Hardware establishment of many years standing. Also in connection is run a large Mail Order Department. We came to Newark because of business. We are after business. We are doing business. Our sales are about doubling every week—and more coming.

Whether we make good, depends on our ability to attract your attention sufficiently to get you to visit this Store. Your presence here is all we want. We are sure of the rest. We know we can make good.

To tell the Simple Facts is all the thunder we need in our Advertising. The Facts are surprising enough.

QUALITY

We know Quality. Years of experience have taught us.

Price is not everything—Quality is a very serious consideration to the customer of today.

We have that—and more. Variety is a drawing card in a Novelty Store. Take for instance the GUNS. We carry in stock, Seven different makes of Guns. To suit the fancy of the Sporting Man, we carry such as WINCHESTER, REMINGTON, PARKER, L. C. SMITH, ITHACA—and others. All the gunning outfits—not just one kind but many—it's the City Department Store Idea.

Take again, in our Stationery Novelties, like Fountain Pens. We don't handle just one kind. Come in and try a Waterman. No? Then here's a Parker. And so on—all through the many different lines.

Take Camera Supplies—that's simply got to be an "Eastman or it isn't a Kodak." We carry a complete line. The Amateur or Professional can be served here as well as if he went to a regular supply house.

We simply specialize in these little necessities, usually found only in the Department Store.

We can deliver the goods. A visit to our Store—that will prove every statement made here.

Cofer, Price & Co. Stiltz Building MAIN STREET, NEWARK

NOTE: Our Sporting Goods Department brings us in touch with many Young Men—thus the suggestion.

THE BACHELOR'S FRIEND TURNER'S LAUNDRY

To prove this—Contrary to lost buttons, torn garments, etc.—you've all seen them when they came back from the laundry—if they all came back—

We sew on buttons, repair garments, pay for lost articles—and Guarantee Service with the Best—and the price? Just ask us. Give us a trial, Bachelors, on that laundry.
