

Legislators Spent Yesterday At University; Dr. Hullihen Spoke At Luncheon

State Solons Seemed Favorably Impressed By Campus; Need Of Completing Engineering Building Stressed By Speakers

This morning at 10:30 the members of the General Assembly now in session paid a visit of inspection to the University of Delaware. They were greeted by a welcoming body, headed by Dr. Walter Hullihen, president of the University, the four Deans, A. G. Wilkinson, business administrator of the University, and a committee of faculty.

The legislators inspected the buildings at Old College and were particularly interested in the new addition to the gymnasium housing a swimming pool, which was built last year by funds raised by a student committee. After visiting Harter Hall, Wolf Hall and the old shacks used by the engineering department the law makers were shown the new engineering building, now in course of construction. Two years ago the Legislature appropriated money to construct this building, but cut the amount asked for by $100,000, so that only the first floor of the building could be completed. The University is now asking $110,000 to complete this much needed building.

The visitors were shown the site for the auditorium, the gift of Rodney Sharp and which will be named Mitchell Hall, in honor of Dr. Samuel C. Mitchell, a former president of the University.

After going through the Memorial Library, the grounds and buildings of the Women's College were inspected, particular attention being paid to the present inadequate gymnasium in the basement of Science Hall. The sites for the proposed new gymnasium and new building for classrooms and laboratories were shown. Bills are now in the Legislature asking for appropriations for these buildings.

Thursday during the course of a speech outlining the needs of the University, Dr. Walter Hullihen, the president of the institution, made the significant remark that, if we are to judge the future by the past history of the expansion of the University, there is every reason to believe that private gifts for buildings will still more than overbalance the State appropriations. If the State, however, does not support the University in the heartiest manner we cannot expect our private citizens to take much interest.

Women's College Crowded

The Women's College is especially crowded. When opened provision was made for fifty girls and this was regarded as a large number, but the institution is now taking care of 300. There is grave need of an administration building for this branch of the University and the room used as a gymnasium is entirely inadequate.

The last place visited was the experiment station and farm, where Dean McCue explained what was being done. The stock at the farm attracted much favorable comment.

Members of the Legislature and its attaches were the guests at luncheon of the University in the dining hall of the Women's College. Governor C. Douglass Buck joined the party just previous to the luncheon, and added words of praise for the University in a brief speech. Dr. Hullihen spoke of the needs of the college and also told how the various buildings had been erected. He pointed out, that the present value of the University property is $2,600,000, and of this amount the State paid for about $700,000. A large part of the land used as a campus between the two colleges which compose the University, was given by Pierre S. du Pont. The cost, he said, was not known, but it was somewhere about $250,000 in addition to the buildings given by Mr. du Pont. The swimming pool was added to the gymnasium at a cost of $50,000, which was raised by the Alumni, and the Memorial Library was paid for by subscriptions from 25,000 people, showing the influence of the University of Delaware.

Jobs for Graduates

Dr. Hullihen also alluded to the fact that the University stands high among others and related how he had been told at the big Westinghouse plant in Pittsburgh that they judged colleges and universities by the class of work done by alumni in their employ and ranked Delaware among the six leading engineering institutions. He also told how representatives of the great General Electric Company had visited the institution recently and offered positions to one-third of the members of the senior class.

A. Simonton, president pro tem of the Senate, declared that the Legislature would do the best it could for the University.

Dean Winifred Robinson of the Women's College made the hit of the day when she reminded the members of the Legislature that it was Saint Valentine's Day and that Saint Valentine was canonized because he aided poor women, which she said, applied at present to the Women's College.

Senator John W. Spicer spoke in the interests of the college and hoped the Legislature would aid it.

Representatives Wayne C. Brewer, Walter W. Hynson and George McIntire, all of whom are graduates of the University, made a plea for the institution.

Footlights Club To Present One Of Mr. Conkle's Plays

Four One-Act Plays Will Be Given
In Wolf Hall Next Friday Evening

The Footlights Club is now holding rehearsals almost every night and, judging from the work being done, the production will be the best group of one act plays ever produced here at Delaware.

"The Dark Lady of the Sonnets," by Shaw, deals with the clandestine meeting of Shakespeare and the dark lady, who is Queen Elizabeth's lady in waiting. The cast chosen for this play is composed of the following students: Dorothy Baylis, Roselle Covey, Paul Smith, and Stanley Salsburg. Professor Blair is the faculty coach and Richard Long, student director.

"Minnie Field," written by Professor E. P. Conkle, of our own English department, is one of the five Crick Bottom plays, recently published by Samuel French. The play which the Club is producing was put on by Yale players and met with great success. Those taking part in this play are: Frank Sasse, Gus Caras, John McVaugh, Richard Manns, and William Kirk. Edgar Hare is the student director; Professor Conkle, faculty coach.

"Two Crooks and a Lady," by Eugene Pillot, is one of the most popular, one-act plays. It is an exceptionally clever little drama. The situation is that of an invalid old lady who outwits two crooks in their attempts to deprive her of a very dear possession. W. Emerson Wilson is coaching the drama and has selected the following characters for it: Nellie Moore, Virginia Swain, Theresa Teahan, Philip Blank, Jimmie Hill, and John Walker.

"Moonshine," by Arthur Hopkins, is a thrilling drama laid in the moonshine district of the mountains. A revenue officer introduces himself to the very midst of a dangerous band of moonshiners, and beats them at their own game. The play is tense from beginning to end. Frank Gladstone as a revenue officer, and Charlie Jackson as the moonshiner are doing excellent work. They are the only two characters in the play. Leon de Valinger, Jr., president of the Club, is coaching this play.

Both production and business staff are working very hard and it is hoped that the student body will respond in proportion to the great effort being expended.

BLANK REPRESENTS REVIEW ON COUNCIL

Takes Place of Ralph Robinson Who Has Completed His College Course

Philip G. Blank, the business manager of The Review, now represents the college weekly on the Student Council. He takes the place of Ralph W. Robinson, a former editor of The Review, who has completed his college course. Blank was automatically appointed to the position since he was the only Senior on the Staff who was eligible. Since he has served for four years on the staff and is the only remaining unsuccessful candidate for that position in the election held in May, 1928.

Curtis Concert In Wolf Hall Monday

Noted Music Students Will Give Interesting Program; Free To All Students

Responding to the invitation of the Newark Music Society, the Curtis Institute of Music has generously supplied the talent for a concert at Wolf Hall on Monday evening next, February 18, at 8:00 o'clock. The artists will be Miss Helen Jepson, soprano and Tibor de Machula, violinist. Mr. Sylvan Levin will be Miss Jepson's accompanist and Mr. Earl Fox will accompany Mr. de Machula. The Institute will send its own piano, a Steinway Grand, with a tuner to insure its perfect condition for the concert.

The program includes four numbers—two groups of songs by Miss Jepson and a concerto and a group of four lighter selections by Mr. de Machula.

Music lovers will appreciate the opportunity to hear the works of composers, some of whom, at least, are still unfamiliar. The program covers a wide range of selections and will afford an evening of unusual pleasure.

This is an experiment that is being tried by the Curtis Institute and the Music Society of Newark. The Institute is now sending some of its more talented students to various places, free of charge to give the students practice in playing in public and to help increase the appreciation of good music throughout this section of the country. It is hoped by Dr. Ryden, President of the Newark Music Society and by the society that this concert will be patronized by the students of the University. It is a fine opportunity to hear music and is entirely free of charge to all who wish to attend.

It is hoped that this is only the first of a series of similar concerts that will not only be a joy to present lovers of music, but will also attract others to an appreciation of it.

Swimmers Meet Lafayette Tomorrow

Meet To Be Called At 4 P. M. In Delaware Pool; Team Makes
Southern Trip Soon

Delaware's natators are again busy preparing for approaching meets. The different members of the team are rapidly rounding into mid-season form and vast improvement has been shown in the times turned in by the mermen in practice sessions. Bill Brown, our outstanding backstroke swimmer, has bettered his time of 1:52.3 seconds for the 150-yard backstroke. It is to be presumed that Brown will shatter this mark during one of the coming meets. Bill Reynolds also has tied his time of 25 1/4 seconds for 50 yards in practice. He is expected to beat this mark in competition. Sortman, our representative on the bouncing board, is rounding out in great shape and much can be expected of him in the future. The other members of the team are all improving and Delaware assures her supporters a well balanced team.

Tomorrow afternoon, at 4 p. m., Delaware plays host to the strong Lafayette team. This team lost to Lehigh by the score of 42-20, while Delaware won from the same school by the tune of 34-28. However, the team expects stiff competition and the meet should prove most interesting. As an added attraction, Frank Holt will swim against time in an attempt to break a record in his favorite event—the 100-yard free style.

On February 21, the team leaves for Charlottesville, where they engage the University of Virginia in a watery battle on February 21. Delaware should annex this meet with little trouble. From Charlottesville, the Blue Hens travel to Williamsburg, where William and Mary waits to test the swimming ability of Taylor's men. This meet also should fall to Delaware.

Following this Southern invasion, two more home meets remain. The first, on March 8, is with Franklin and Marshall, and the second, on March 19, with Temple. Little doubt is entertained concerning the outcome of either of these meets.

INTER-FRAT DANCE

The annual inter-fraternity dance will be held on the ninth of March. The dance will be held in the Armory, with either George Duddy and his Moulton Rouge Revelers or Jack Jacobs and his Baltimoreans furnishing the symphony. This dance is unique in the fact that it is restricted to fraternity men and pledges. This promises to be a good dance and especially attractive to fraternity men. Virgil Street and Jack Hofferker compose a committee in charge of arrangements for the affair.

Delaware To Have Finest College Organ; Mr. du Pont's Gift For Auditorium

Former Longwood Organ, One Of The Best In The Country, Has Been Donated To University; Mr. du Pont Also Promises
Organist When Needed

Dr. Hullihen has recently announced that Mr. Pierre S. du Pont will donate the organ which he has in his conservatory at Longwood Gardens to the new auditorium which is being given to the University by Mr. H. Rodney Sharp. Mr. du Pont is planning the purchase of a larger organ for his own home, which action has been necessitated by the recent enlargement of his conservatory.

This organ will be without exception the finest organ in any college in the country. Complete, including installation, it will represent an outlay of over one hundred thousand dollars. It is one of the finest organs anywhere in the east, and it is something of which Delaware may well be proud.

Mr. du Pont has also stated that he will send his own organist to play the organ quite often. He hopes to increase the popularity of good music at Delaware. The organist, Mr.

Swinnan, is one of the most noted organists in this part of the country, and the fact that he will be at the University quite often will be an attraction which will draw attention quite widely.

This announcement is one of the most important ones which has been made since the college was informed that Mr. Sharp had given the auditorium. The acquisition of this organ will draw attention from all over the country and the University may well be proud of the fact that she has two such loyal friends as Mr. Sharp and Mr. du Pont.

Phi Kappa Phi Picks Twenty-Two Seniors

Three Faculty Members, Nine Women And Thirteen Men Elected
To Honorary Scholastic Fraternity

At the annual elections of the local chapter of Phi Kappa Phi, the following were elected to the chapter for this year: From Delaware College—Robert E. Burton, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; Howard W. Bennett, Frankford; Samuel Cohen, Wilmington; Willard W. Crossgrove, Roanoke, Virginia; Ellis P. Cordray, Harrington; Lawrence C. Elliot, Bridgeville; Richard W. French, Richardson Park; Linden C. Jones, Middletown; Nathan Jacobson, Wilmington; Harry E. McCune, Wilmington; John B. McCue, Newark; Clyde E. McGurk, Kilton, Pennsylvania; and Christopher P. Frommer, Jr., New Castle.

From the Women's College—S. Elizabeth Beatty, Wilmington; Eleanor B. Edge, Wilmington; Molly Elizabeth Ellis, Delmar; E. Rebecca Hobson, Smyrna; Edith A. Nunn, Milford; Mildred Phillips, Wilmington; Carmen Thomaschewski, Wilmington; G. Estelle Wheelis, Newark; and Elizabeth Watters, Perry Point, Maryland.

From the faculty—Dr. George H. Ryden, Professor of History; Dr. David O. Evans, Professor of Modern Language; and Miss Rachel Taylor, Director of Fine Arts.

The initiation will be held on March 15 and will be followed by a dinner in Old College. The speakers for the affair and other details have not as yet been arranged.

The local Phi Kappa Phi society is a chapter of the national honor society, membership in which is one of the highest scholastic honors which can be conferred on any man in a University. The fraternity has chapters in a great many colleges all over the country. Since the foundation of the Delaware chapter some years ago, a great number of men and women have received the honor. To be eligible for membership a student must rank within the first group in his class during the six semesters beginning with the second term of his Freshman year and ending with the end of the first term of his Senior year. The election is based solely on scholarship, although it is not entirely on the basis of marks. Of course the marks play an important part in deciding a man's fitness for membership, but the chapter also takes into account the courses a candidate has taken and also his intellectual and scholastic leadership.

Mechanical Engineers To Be Investigated

Dean Prentice Will Inspect Local
Campus Preparatory to Establishment of A. S. M. E.

Delaware College is to be visited in the near future by Dean Prentice of Lafayette College. This visit is in connection with the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, a chapter of which Delaware desires to have on campus.

Dean Prentice, who is appointed by the American Society of Mechanical Engineers Committee on relation with colleges, will inspect the teaching personnel, the teaching methods, and the equipment facilities of the Mechanical Engineering Department.

If Dean Prentice's reactions toward Delaware are favorable it is probable that the A. S. M. E. will grant the petition of the local group to found a chapter of that organization on the local campus.

Blue and Gold Fencers Beaten by Y Men

Will Compete With Lehigh Swordsmen Tomorrow Night In Gym

On last Saturday, February 16, the Delaware fencers lost to Philadelphia Central Y. M. C. A. in a foil and sabre match by a score of 13 to 5. This defeat is, however, excusable because of the crippled condition of the Blue and Gold team. Rodney, Frisbie, Adams and Potts were the only regulars who competed in the meet. Several new men were entered so that they could gain experience. These were Sasse, Gibney, and Blum. Adams was Delaware's star, winning 2 of his 3 sabre bouts. Potts, Rodney, and Sasse were Delaware's other winners, each taking one bout. Gibney and Blum, although they were not winners, showed-up well for their first competition. Groff and Robbins of Central Y each won all of their bouts, and Schwartz of Central Y won all his bouts with the sabre. Delaware meets this team again on March 16.

Tomorrow a meet which promises to be one of the season's best is to be held in Taylor gym at 7 p. m., against the strong Lehigh aggregation. The Delawareans hope to give the Bethlehemites a battle which they will not soon forget. Ed Williams, Delaware's premier swordsman, will fence in this meet along with Captain Rodney and Hare in the foils, and with Hare in the duelling sword. The sabre team will probably be composed of Potts, Adams and Frisbie. Sasse is showing up well in practice, and may be placed on the sabre team later in the season.

Summary of Central Y meet:
Sabre: Frisbie, Delaware, lost to Quigley 5-2, to Robbins 5-2, and to Schwartz 5-3. Potts, Delaware, defeated Quigley 5-4, lost to Robbins 5-4, and lost to Schwartz 5-3. Adams, Delaware, defeated Quigley 5-4, Robbins 5-3, and lost to Schwartz 5-0.
Foil: Rodney, Delaware, lost to Groff 5-1, defeated Asher 5-2, and lost to Robbins 5-4. Sasse, Delaware, defeated Asher 5-1, lost to Robbins 5-3. Blum, Delaware, lost to Groff 5-0, and to Asher 5-1. Gibney, Delaware, lost to Groff 5-3, and to Robbins 5-0.

Season's First Debate To Be Held Next Week

Wright and Conaway Will Represent Delaware Against Gettysburg in the Lounge Next Thursday

Delaware's premier debate will be held with Gettysburg College at 8:30 on the twenty-first of February, in the Lounge of Old College. The question to be discussed is: Resolved, "That the present jury system be abolished." The Blue and Gold orators will uphold the affirmative.

Delaware's debating team consists of able and experienced material in both Caleb Wright and Howard Conaway. Each man will be allowed 12 minutes for his constructive speech, and eight minutes for his rebuttal.

The probable judges will be the Reverend Doctor Mathews, of Newark; Edward Cannon, Esquire, of Wilmington, and Miss Millikan, instructress of debate at Wilmington High School.

As the topic to be debated is a very important and a very interesting subject, it is expected to draw a large audience, who will be favored with cigarettes. Every one is invited to attend. Bring your friends and hear Delaware out-talk Gettysburg!

LIBRARY HOURS SLIGHTLY CHANGED

Will Be Open On Saturday Afternoon and Night; Interfrat Year-Book Received

The hours of the Library have been changed slightly. The building is open on Saturday from 8 to 5, and from 7 to 10, the same as on week days. It is open on Sunday from 2 to 5. Over night books taken out on Saturday night at 9 must be returned by Sunday at 2.

The use of the slot in the basement door of the Library has been discontinued since several of the books have been damaged by their slide to the box. As classes do not start until 8:10 and as the Library opens at 8:00, there is plenty of time to return them to the desk.

A copy of the Inter-Fraternity Year Book of 1928 has been received by the Library. It contains the proceedings of the twentieth annual session of the Inter-Fraternity Conference held at New York City on November 30 and December 1, 1928. This book will be of much interest to fraternity men on the campus because it tells of the Inter-Fraternity Conference, which is now an association of about sixty-five men's national fraternities. This book may be taken out for a short duration of time.

THE FRESHMAN ISSUE

The Freshman Class will take charge of the next issue of the Review. The whole responsibility for the editing and publishing of the paper will be placed upon them. They will have full away and are subject only to the censorship of the present Editor-in-Chief. No one should get the impression, however, that this issue will contain anything to which other classes might take offense. It is merely an experiment on the part of the present editorial staff for the purpose of exciting more interest in the Review among the Freshmen and as a means of showing those Freshmen already out for the staff how the paper is run. We do not expect next week's Review to be radically different from the one issued this week. We do, however, hope that the Freshmen will unearth some new ideas that may be used in our regular issues and that some hitherto unknown journalistic talent among the Freshmen may be brought to light.

ANOTHER GIFT

Elsewhere in this issue we note the announcement of the presentation, by Mr. Pierre S. du Pont, of his Longwood organ to the University, to be installed in Mitchell Hall upon its completion. This announcement will be welcomed, we feel, by a large number of students as well as other music lovers and other friends of the University.

Such a gift is only a sample of Mr. du Pont's unceasing generosity to Delaware. Since plans were first made for the enlargement of the University, he has been constantly giving bountifully to foster the plans which have been made for the furthering of the institution. The donation of several buildings, the remodeling of Old College, the financing of the Foreign Study Plan, and many other things which, though important, fade in comparison to these, are examples of this munificence.

This gift is a notable addition to the debts we owe to him. There is little that would be or should be more appreciated by the students, both those here now and those who will come in the future, than an opportunity to hear at any time good music from a fine organ. Delaware will soon possess Freshmen will unearth some new ideas that may be used in our regular probably the finest organ of any college in the country. Just what this may mean to Delaware one can hardly predict—hardly even surmise, but it is safe to assume that it will have a far-reaching effect, both in advertising the University throughout the country, and in increasing the appreciation of music among the student body.

Our thanks go out to Mr. du Pont—and also to Mr. Sharp who, continuing his own remarkable generosity, has made Mitchell Hall possible. For two such loyal friends, Delaware may be indeed grateful.

In the Editor's Mail

Dear Editor:

The gymnasium, we understand from various notices in and about the building, is for the exclusive use of University students. There are a few athletically inclined members of the undergraduate body who like to take their exercise in the evening, and we were led to believe that the gymnasium was kept open for this purpose. A student receives pay to maintain order and safety during the hours of seven to nine.

But with our usual gullibility, we have allowed ourselves to be misled; the Newark basketball team has a monopoly on the playing floor on any or every evening they desire, and the student desiring to cavort on these precincts can either wait for the floor or use the cellar.

Now just as a nice touch to those interested in making themselves more virile, how about a few minutes each evening that is really dedicated to the University students?

Manfully yours,
Burlap Bag.

MAJOR UNDERWOOD TO BE TRANSFERRED

Major Arthur R. Underwood, professor of Military Science and Tactics, has received word from the War Department at Washington that he will be transferred to the Sixth Infantry, which is stationed at Jefferson Barracks, Missouri. However, he will continue with his services at Delaware until the end of the collegiate year, for his new duties begin after the twenty-fifth of June.

Major Underwood will complete his fifth year at Delaware this June, having been a professor here since June, 1924. He is the last of the Infantry officers to be appointed here.

A great interest in all student and collegiate activities has been taken by Major Underwood. At one time he served as chairman of the Social Committee and is at present coach of the Rifle Team. It will be with the greatest regret that the Delawareans will see the departure of one of their most popular and active professors.

Book Review:

When you get that "detective story feeling" try a Biggers mystery story. Earl Derr Biggers is the author of the famous "Charlie Chan" stories. In his new book of essays, "Off the Deep End," Christopher Morley puts Mr. Biggers among the few remaining authors "who understand the old enchantments." Mr. Biggers' latest story is BEHIND THAT CURTAIN. Others of the "Charlie Chan" series are THE HOUSE WITHOUT A KEY and THE CHINESE PARROT. If you like mystery stories you will like these. They are published by the Bobs Merrill Company.

Cleopatra is always an alluring figure for men and colleagues are no exception. The popular idea of her attraction is that it lay in her sex-appeal, something of an ancient Greta Garbo. However a new theory is now advanced concerning her. This is not surprising considering the great numbers of revelations of great characters which are something of a rage just now. QUEEN CLEOPATRA by Talbot Mundy is the vehicle for this new light on our favorite siren. It is a little disappointing to find out that Cleo seduced Caesar not by gleaming curves and overflow of IT, but by her intellectual attainments. It seems she could speak all known languages and was "learned in all the wisdom of the Egyptians." Caesar was attracted to her because she was the only person with whom he could converse on equal terms. Read it for yourself and see what you believe. It is published by the same company as the above book. One of those books which must not be missed by all readers of good books is JOSEPH AND HIS BRETHREN by H. W. Freeman. It is a powerful novel of English rural life. It might well be compared with some of Hardy's novels. It is published by Henry Holt and Company.

Once upon a time there was a fraternity man. He was a fine fraternity man, didn't drink a drop. He didn't like liquor in any shape or form. Hey, where you goin'? Come back; there's more to this story. Hey!—Green Goat.

Social Notes

JUNIOR PROM

Oh, Elisande! Another Prom has passed away in a spirit of revelry, and it is now a pleasant memory. On the evening of February the eighth, the class of '30 gave its big dance in the ball room of the Hotel Du Pont. I must tell you all about it.

We arrived (my partner and I) just as the festive occasion was to start. There were none other than Torelli, Kimble, and Ryan at the entrance to relieve us (I mean myself) of money. Ryan was a sight for poor men to witness as he had greenbacks protruding from every pocket of his suit. I was handed a leather covered program on which was stamped the University seal. You know, "sigillum universitates, etc." We then went to our respective dressing rooms and emerged therefrom immediately after checking our opera cloaks. I then arranged a schedule of dances with various friends. Gathering all the dignity that the occasion demanded I paraded my partner through the receiving line. Among the patronesses in the receiving line were Mrs. C. D. Buck, Mrs. R. P. Robinson, Mrs. Walter Hulihan, Mrs. Alexander Taylor, Mrs. Charles H. McCue, Miss Nora B. Keely, Mrs. H. C. Reed and a few others whom I cannot recall.

The dance was on, the highly polished floor, the throbbing music, the partner in my arms, all heightened the rapture of that occasion. George Duddy had his joy gatherers performing at their best. The men in their starched shirts and the women in their iridescent gowns swaying, gliding whirling, and bobbing to the music increased the chimera of an already giddy brain. Then to make the dance more erratic and rapturous, the orchestra played those lovely and ethereal waltzes during which the ball room was in darkness except for a lone spotlight that sent its beams of many colored lights over the joyous countenances of the dancers. Elisande! It was enthralling, divine, captivating, and all that one can ask for. The favors—so unique—a soft leather pocketbook in which was enclosed a mirror, purse and an address book. They were a sensation. You should have been there to hear Duddy—to see him—to fall under his spell of merriment. The dance ended at 2 a. m. Even "Walrus," the house detective, was under the spell of the occasion. We departed a joyously contented crowd. I am already preparing for the next Prom.

Promly yours,
Roscoe.

Campus Chatter

Rocker Marrocco has, according to reliable report, added a few stream lines to Charley's comet.

Kimble and Stine left Newark Wednesday night and are expected back any day now.

Harrington has promised to hold his fire until he sees the whites of their eyes. Horrible Fox feels a lot safer, inasmuch as he keeps his eyes closed.

Nonentity Parkinson turns in at ten-thirty these winter evenings, and he has lost the pouches under his eyes since Gobo von Kleck and Skipper Raughley left these parts.

Another old landmark has joined the shades—Speed Robinson, who was reputed to have daddled most of the faculty on his knees, has also quit these diggings for the pastoral. Adios, Speed, thou has served us faithfully and well.

Froggy Elliot was heard confessing that he is an ardent admirer of Cal Coolidge, and that they (he and Cal) have a lot in common. Both go out of office soon, too.

Van Street was seen clapping somebody on the back in the druggie the other day, and also talking cordially to a girl. How have the mighty fallen! We can remember way back when one had to offer him the lead in a dramatic production to hold his ear for more than a minute.

Charley-Boy Owens spoke slightly to a lady from the other side of the library the other day. Don't you care what happens to your reputation, Bunny?

Those celebrated rounders, Jim-Jam Crooks, Billy the Kid Reed, and Marston. (Serve-it-I'll-drink-it) Fox go to the Poconos to panic the Y. M. C. A. convention this Friday.

Wilgus, direct descendant of Big Chief Wild Goose, who hated pale-faces, has gone back to the Happy Hunting Grounds at Selbyville. Go light on the tomahawk, Bill.

The rumor that He-man Maier's other shirt has arrived was short-lived. The clean one was just a borrowed garment.

Since God's Gifty's romance has proved ill-starred by action of the faculty, co-eds desiring dates will line up at eight sharp against Upper-classmen's Wall. At the crack of the starter's pistol, the candidates may take whatever action they see fit, and first come first served.

Moon Worshipper

A light snowfall had frosted the ground a delicate maroon. Maroon? Perhaps cerise, then. Not mauve in any event. . . . mauve is an adjective for decade in the same manner as is starving for Armenian. Rebecca, arbitrarily called Evangeline, was walking in the general direction (S. S. W.) of the Old Manse under the incognito Princess Tanya Litvinoff. Negroes nodded, bobbed, scraped, curtsied, salaamed, and otherwise made obeisance to her according to their dispositions, previous conditions of servitude, and how much they liked her. She smiled at each with the same smile, illustrating her good breeding and complete lack of favoritism and incisors. Oddly enough, she quoted extracts from Sara Teasdale, who wasn't born until 1884, and this babe did her stuff around the Civil War period (1861-1864 you remember), but she was always doing things like that. Some of the old-home-weekers can recall the time she made whoopee long before Volstead made business boom for the Brown's Cure for Drunkards Mfg. Co. Another time she swallowed three live goldfish in the Smithsonian Institute, and even as a mere child she won her spurs in a hog-calling contest. Later these same spurs were seen on Billy the Kid, and the subsequent scandal raged in all the leading tabloids.

Anyway, right in the middle of a sonnet, who should come tripping by on a coalwhite stallion but General William T. Sherman, disguised as Lady Diana Manners. Thinking her a mulatto (she was really a quad-roon) he reined his horse over in her direction and pulled it to a halt or something.

"Ah, there, my little rebel wench," he chortled, "heigh-ho, and where are you going?"

"Weren't you ever warned against speaking to strange girls?" she asked, immediately penetrating his disguise with a corkscrew she always carried concealed in her stocking.

"Ah, there," said Sherman again, "you aren't going to be coquettish with your old generally-wenerally, are you? I bet you don't even know who I am. . . . c'mon, give a guess! I'll give you a free ride on Sylvia here if you tell me first try."

"Honest?"

"Perfect!" the general cried, "Here, hop up behind me."

So Rebecca climbed up on Sylvia behind the gay general, and they galloped off into the dawn of a new tomorrow. . . .

It was in Oskaloosa that he married either her or somebody else, but it was probably that it was somebody else because he never was very keen about Sara Teasdale, and Rebecca would quote her.

The interesting thing about this little tale, however, is that it so clearly demonstrates how love can triumph over the agonies of war, what a blessing a sympathetic woman can be in time of trouble, and what may happen to you if you insist on quoting Sara Teasdale.

When last heard of the Princess was making ticker tape for brokers by cutting the edges off of old newspapers.

One essential feature of the new Ford is—well, we won't say, but it's uncanny.—Log.

"Gee, but that kid's clever. He's only three and he can spell his name backwards."

"Otto,"—Notre Dame Juggler.

"What sort of egg is he?"
"The kind that writes home when he doesn't need money."

Changing Horses

AT the portals of our large cities—New York, Baltimore, Detroit, and soon Cleveland—a semaphore halts a luxurious flyer drawn by a puffing steam engine. A simple switching maneuver, and electricity takes charge. A giant electric locomotive, quickly under way, glides silently into the home stretch with its long string of Pullmans.

Like a thoroughbred it makes the run—tirelessly. Passengers alight in a clean terminal—clean because there is no smoke or soot.

Another milestone in transportation—another event in the life of the iron horse!

Civilization is progressing, with electricity in the van. How far this advance will take us, is a problem for our future leaders. It is for them to develop and utilize new applications of electricity—the force that is pointing the way over uncharted courses, not only in railroading, but in every phase of progress.

The G-E monogram is found on large electric locomotives and on MAZDA lamps, electric vacuum cleaners, and a multitude of other appliances which serve us all. It is the mark of an organization that is dedicated to the cause of electrical progress.

Mr. Pouffton Has Conference With Dean; Favors Many Drastic Reforms On Campus

Newark, Delaware,
February 15, 1929.

Dear, dear Cuthbert:

This marvelous weather we're enjoying over here, at present, almost forces me to burst into song. I hope you're having equally good conditions in London, although I suppose it is ludicrous to hope for good weather in any part of England at this time of year.

Cuthbert! Conditions are going to be bettered on this campus. Yes, bettered—right here at the University of Delaware. My conference with Dean Futton resulted in the total abolition of mid-year examinations for engineering students, and that is a decided step forward. Of course, the majority of engineers in this college could not pass the examinations, anyway, but of course, Cuthbert, that is not for publication. That is a little secret between you and me. And, furthermore, we are going to institute a new spirit of camaraderie among the students. And it is all due to the influence of the A. C. M. Y. I think you know the organization—it's the one that so freely dispensed cigarettes, candy and all kinds of goodies to the American soldiers during the Great War. Of course, they charged exorbitant prices for their wares, but I hear that the expenses of the A. C. M. Y. officers were very high and of course they couldn't afford to make less than 200 per cent profit on their investments. And then, too, they say that they had to pay for the cigarettes, etc. But, this is all beside the point. We are going to convert the "rabble" into God-fearing men who will at least treat each other with some degree of respect. Heretofore, one Delaware man upon greeting another, invariably said, "Hullo, kid, how the hell are yuh?" or, at least words to that effect. The A. C. M. Y. recommends that this useless carelessness of speech be completely squelched. A new greeting, such as "God bless you, brother," is to be adopted. Cuthbert, we are standing upon the threshold of a new era. An era that will see Delaware students walk around purposefully; amble around with a dazed, sophisticated air, but they will move at all times with the future even before them wide open, innocent eyes. Why, Cuthbert, the new movement will be so easy to put into force that a barely perceptible effort will be enough to start the huge ball of morality on its way. As it gathers speed, drinking, smoking, necking, and dancing will be crushed forever under its virtuous tread. And think! All we have to do is to change the nature of seventy-five per cent of the Delaware men. The Women's College, of course, does not enter into the plan. It would be useless; almost as useless as attempting to "cure" a tee-totaler of drinking, you get the idea? The plan, in so far as the Women's College is concerned, is superfluous. Cuthbert, I'll have you understand I am heartily in favor of this proposed renaissance. I am going to devote all my time and energy to the cause. Imagine, if you will, huge traffic policemen directing the stream of students to the University Library. For traffic policemen will be necessary. The jam at the library will be so great that otherwise some less fortunate student will be trampled under the feet of students, eager to gain access to the philosophical department. Their minds are going to be fed and even now, I hear the death knell for collegiate magazines, Reviews, and all forms of light reading. I sincerely hope I shall see you in the spring when you come over. My love to all and please send me your approval of the plan which I have outlined in this conglomeration of words.

Affectionately,
Cecil Pifflick Pouffton.

From the Lyrics

TO E. H.

Youth,
Or soon . . . before
If you should die tonight,
The toll of earthly years
Is marked upon your brow—
If you should climb
An Allegheny slope
And fall there,
To rise no more,
Surely in that place would grow
Tall elms and stately maples.

Or if, by chance,
The Mississippi mud received your feet
The rattling sedges
Soon would whisper o'er the spot
Wherein you slept
And ever murmur thanks
For their new fount of youth.

Yes, a mighty redwood
From your heart would spring
In that Pacific garden
Where at last you trod;
Spring from the sod
And, reaching toward the sky,
Flaunt your immortality.

Youth,
If tomorrow you should die,
With years of life long spent
In work and play alike,
Then, when the ash
Returned to earth from which it sprang—

(Dry bones and withered sinews only now)

Its strength decayed,
Its immortality scattered
Through the decades past—
Who then could hope
That immortal living things
Could take your place?
Immortality is in living
Not in death;
Immortality is the dream of man
Not of any God!
The Gods give life—
Man makes life immortal.

Life is a game
Which man always loses.
Death plays his cards,
Man leaps . . . into eternity,
perhaps,
But leaves behind him surely
All immortal memory. —C. Y.

"And the blend can't

No visitor to Normandy ever considered his tour complete until he had made the pilgrimage to Mont St. Michel and the Inn of the Famous Omelet—Chez Madame Poulard, l'Incomparable, la Fameuse Omelette.

The Madame is since gone, but not until just before she died did she reveal the secret of her famous omelets. No doubt hundreds have tried—and struggled in vain—to use the precious information, but as a writer has put it, the Inn without Madame is "like Tara's hall without the harp!"

The making of a great cigarette, too, is a secret to be guarded. The artistry lies in how the tobaccos are blended—and from our own private formula comes the rich fruity flavor that you get in your Chesterfield.

Suffice it to say that our blend can't be copied

Phi Kappa Tau vs. Sigma Phi Epsilon

On Wednesday night the Phi Kappa Tau defeated the Sig Eps, 12 to 8, in a game that was featured by clean tackling in the pinches and resplendent with headlocks and flying mares.

The winners went ahead early in the game and continued to hold a slim lead throughout the entire contest. At half time the P. K. T.'s had a 6 to 4 lead.

Johnny Flynn led the victors in scoring with five points and his running mate, Steele added four points. The scoring of the S. P. E.'s was limited to three points each for "Bud" Roser and "Bus" Rose and a sensational field goal by the "Mighty Max."

Theta Chi vs. Sigma Tau Phi

In the first game Thursday night the Oxmen from Quality Hill marked up a game in the win column and entered into a quadruple tie for second place in the league by defeating the Sigma Tau Phi's 14 to 3.

In this game a thing happened which is rarely seen in basketball. The Theta Chi's by close guarding managed to keep their opponents from tallying a single point in the first fifteen minutes of play, the first half ending with the score board reading 10 to 0.

In the second half the Theta Chi's substituted "Deacon" Middleton, "Bunker" Hill, and "Underground" Burton and took things easy. With only a few minutes to go Cohen succeeded in scoring a foul, which was closely followed by a field goal by "Herm" Handloff. This completed the evening's scoring for S. T. P. and kept them from being shut out.

The playing of "Al" Wilson and Sparks was outstanding. The former scored 6 points and the latter 4.

Kappa Alpha vs. Sigma Nu

In the most exciting and best played game of the current season in the Interfraternity League, the K. A.'s defeated the S. N.'s, Thursday night, 21 to 17, and gained undisputed possession of first place. This victory over the strong Sigma Nu aggregation makes them the favorites to win the coveted trophy, emblematic of the league championship.

From the opening to the final whistle the game was thrilling and the outcome in doubt. However, the K. A.'s did succeed in gaining a 6 point lead in the first half, that half ending 12 to 6. Nevertheless, the Sigma Nus came back with a rush and bombarded their basket with field goals and with about five minutes to play went into the lead for the first and only time in the game, 15 to 14. Their lead was short-lived, however, for "Featherfoot" Ely soon deadlocked the score by sinking a foul goal. Three following field goals by "Lew" Smith, "Sexy" Ely and "Biff" Hopkins, ended the scoring for the winners, while Stant succeeded in gathering himself another two-pointers.

Ely, he of the sex appeal, was high scorer with three field goals and one foul, for a total of seven points. He was closely followed by "Lew" Smith, who with three sensational mid-floor shots made six points, and by Hopkins who made a like number. The close guarding of "Dogg" Draper and "Doc" Smith was instrumental in the victory.

Stant, with six points, Morris with three, and Hill with two were the stars for the losers.

Slump In First Half Gives Chester Team Big Lead

The University of Delaware basketball team was off form Tuesday night, and took rather a bad beating from the Pennsylvania Military College five, in a game played in Chester. The final score was 41 to 27.

The Blue and Gold had trouble getting started and the first half ended 24 to 5 in P. M. C.'s favor. Delaware rallied in the second half, but not enough to offset the handicap of the first period. Brennan, P. M. C. center, was the star of the game with 17 tallies, while LeCarpentier, of Delaware, stood second in the list with 9 points.

Friday the University five will meet Susquehanna, here. On Saturday afternoon, the Delaware swimming team will reach the hardest point in its schedule when it takes on Lafayette, here. The Delaware fencing team will cross foils with Lehigh, here, Saturday afternoon. Score:

DELAWARE BEATS SWARTHMORE

Revamped Blue and Gold Five Downs Little Quaker, 19-16, In Extra Period Game

Coach Rothrock, of the University of Delaware, put a revamped basketball team on the floor Saturday night, which not only came from behind to tie the score with Swarthmore at the end of the second half of the game, but put over a hard push in an extra five minute period to win by the comfortable margin of 19 to 16.

Due to an academic casualty, Barton, regular guard was not in the line-up and his place was taken by Orth, a freshman. In the middle of the first half "Ace" Taylor made his first appearance on the basketball court for Delaware this season, going in for Roger Holt. Both Orth and Taylor played fine games.

At the end of the half Swarthmore led 11 to 5, but in the second half, Delaware clearly outplayed the Little Quakers and at the final whistle the score stood 15 to 15. In the extra period both Hill and Roman scored on field goals, while all Swarthmore could do was get one free throw.

The feature of the game was the close guarding of both teams, which kept the scores down. The strength of the Delaware defense is shown in the fact that the Swarthmore forwards only accounted for one field goal. Hill, of Delaware, and Burr, of Swarthmore, were the sharpshooting stars of the game, each making 10 points. Delaware's foul average was bad, 3 out of 15 tries.

In a preliminary game the Swarthmore junior varsity beat the Delaware jay vees, 21 to 17. Score:
