The proposed ordinance provides for a one hour parking limit on Main street from Chapel street to the Elkton road between the hours of 8 a. m. and 10 p. m.

During the discussion on the ordinance, a request was presented from the Directors of the Chamber of Commerce asking that the limit be extended to three hours.

DEATHS IN DEL. SHOW DECREASE

But Health Report Will Show An Increase In Infant Mortality

Although the report of the State Board of Health for the past year is not yet complete, Dr. A. C. Jost, executive secretary, says the health conditions of Delaware for 1929 were much better than for the previous year. This view is based largely on the fact that there were fewer deaths in 1929 than in 1928.

Infant mortality is one of the few items in the report that does not show improvement over 1928. Infant deaths show a gain for the year.

Typhoid fever fatalities show a marked decline and deaths from cancer dropped. Some improvement is noted in the fight against tuberculosis. There were 222 deaths from that cause in 1928 but health officials believe 1929 will show a marked decrease. Although other states have had epidemics of diphtheria, Delaware has been remarkably free from it.

Measles, scarlet fever and whooping cough records, it is believed, will be much the same as in 1928 when the current report is completed and ready for comparison.

The State Board of Health recently adopted a resolution prohibiting the sale of oysters from the creeks and rivers where sewage from the cities and towns is disposed. Another resolution was also adopted regulating certain operations of slaughter houses in the State.

PLAN WAR ON RUM IN DEL.

Prohibition Administrator Pays Visit To This State Last Week

Ground work for a general assault on the liquor traffic in Delaware was laid last Friday when Thomas E. Stone, prohibition administrator of Delaware and Maryland, with headquarters in Baltimore, came to Delaware and conferred with officials of the Department of Justice.

Mr. Stone recently succeeded Col. F. K. Herbert as head of this district. First, he visited George A. Hill, deputy prohibition administrator, in Dover, and after inspecting the scanty equipment the agents have for combating the liquor traffic in the State, he went to Wilmington with Mr. Hill and called upon Judge Hugh M. Morris, U. S. Commissioner Albert F. Polk, and U. S. District Attorney Leonard E. Wales.

It is understood Mr. Stone intends to furnish the Delaware agents with modern equipment, particularly newer automobiles. It is understood he also intends to increase the Delaware staff.

This was Mr. Stone's first official visit to Delaware.

WEEKLY MEETING OF THE NEW CENTURY CLUB

The meeting of the Newark New Century Club on Monday, January 6, was in charge of Mrs. Robert Spencer. The Choral Club sang three Christmas carols. Mrs. Spencer read a most interesting paper about the origin of the custom of celebrating Twelfth-Night, or Little Christmas, and Mrs. Cobb read "The Other Wise Man" by Dr. Henry Van Dyke. Following the meeting an informal tea was held.

Next week's meeting will be in charge of the Women's Club of Newport, when a reciprocity program will be given. Tea will be served following the meeting.

CONTRACT FOR NEW BUILDINGS AT FARNHURST

Wilmington Concern Will Erect Two New Structures At State Hospital

J. A. Bader and Co., Wilmington contractors, have been awarded the contract for the construction of two of the three new buildings to be erected at the Delaware State Hospital. It was announced Saturday. Decision on the award was reached Friday at a meeting of the board of trustees of the institution in the hospital, when Fred H. Gawthrop, president of the board, was authorized to give the work to the lowest bidder.

The contract awarded to J. A. Bader and Company is for the three-story observation clinic building and the three-story continued treatment building. Action on the contract for the new nurses' home was deferred by the board, and Dr. M. A. Tarumian, superintendent of the hospital, declared today that it would probably be necessary to revise the plans.

Brown and Whiteside, local architects, drew up the plans and specifications for the three structures. Robert P. Schoenjahn is consulting engineer.

The Bader Co.'s lump bid for the construction of the three buildings was $305,431, more than $25,000 lower than the next lowest estimate.

The board also authorized Mr. Gawthrop, at the meeting Friday, to award the contract for the electrical, plumbing and drainage, and ventilating and heating work to the low bidder.

G. Morris Whiteside, 2nd, architect, declared this morning that work will be begun immediately upon the new structures. The contracts are expected to be signed today or tomorrow.

MARK HALLS AT SCHOOL

The halls of the high school building have been marked off with white paint this week, in order to make the passing of classes more orderly and to insure safety in case of fire, to the greatest extent possible. A traffic squad of six to take charge of each hall has been appointed and are on duty at all times during the passing and dismissal periods. This system is hoped to relieve congestion in the halls during these times.

ONLY FARM ORGANIZATIONS TO RECEIVE FEDERAL AID

University Of Delaware Officials Receive Letter Setting Forth Plan Of Federal Board

The Federal Farm Board will not dispense aid to the individual farmer but rather to some cooperative organization which the farmer will have to join if he seeks Federal aid, according to a letter sent to Dean C. A. McCue, of the University School of Agriculture and Prof. R. W. Heim, State Director of Vocational Education.

The letter was sent to the local officials by James C. Stone, vice-chairman of the Federal Board and explains the manner in which the Federal farm aid will be handed out. The letter in full follows:

"You no doubt are being asked the question every day by both individual farmers and representatives of cooperative marketing associations as to what they will have to do to get aid or assistance from the Federal Farm Board.

"It is impossible for the Board to deal direct with the individual farmer. Under the terms of the Agricultural Market Act, the Board may, with exceptions not here important, lend only to cooperative associations which are qualified under the Capper-Volstead Act of 1922.

"To qualify under the Capper-

Volstead Act, the cooperative must be composed of persons engaged in the production of agricultural products, as farmers, planters, ranchmen, dairymen, nut or fruit growers, acting together in associations, corporate or otherwise, with or without capital stock, in collectively processing, preparing for market, handling and marketing in interstate and foreign commerce, such products of persons so engaged. Such associations may have marketing agencies in common; such associations and their members may make the necessary contracts and agreements effecting such purposes.

"Under the provisions of the Act, however, such associations shall be operated for the mutual benefit of their members and conform to one or both of the following requirements:

"(1) That no member of the association is allowed more than one vote because of the amount of stock or membership capital he may own therein; or

"(2) That the association does not pay dividends on stock or membership capital in excess of eight per cent per annum."

YOUTH IS HELD FOR ROBBERING LOCAL GARAGE

A fourteen year old boy is being held here on a charge of breaking into the office of the Rittenhouse Motor Company on Monday night and stealing a sum of money.

The youth is Herbert Githens whose home is in Camden, N. J. Githens, with two companions, entered the garage from the rear and broke into the office where they emptied the cash register. The exact sum stolen has not been determined.

The robbery was discovered shortly after the youths left the building and Officer Keeley arrested Githens within two hours. While Officers Keeley and Cunningham were working on the case they did not know there was more than one person in it until after a confession made by Githens. By that time the other youths had a good start and the officers did not apprehend them.

The parents of Githens were notified and his father notified local police that he was not interested in the case.

DOCTORS FORM MEDICAL BOARD FOR HOSPITAL

Organization Was Effected At Meeting Held On Monday Evening

PLAN COOPERATION

A meeting of the doctors in Newark and vicinity was held at the office of Dr. S. H. Hurdle on Monday evening for the purpose of forming a Medical Board for the Flower Hospital and aid in the campaign of the Auxiliary Association for the local institution.

The organization of the board resulted in the following officers being selected: President, Dr. G. B. Pearson; vice-president, Dr. J. R. Downes; secretary and treasurer, Dr. Hurdle. The following were chosen as the advisory committee, Dr. Johnson, Dr. F. B. West and Dr. A. J. Strikol.

Monday's session was a very pleasant one for the doctors who were greatly enthused over the project and delighted with the prospect of having an active hospital here.

There was a number of discussions on plans of co-operation by the various units to better conditions at the hospital and having the institution used by more patients.

The active interest shown by the local physicians increased the activity on the part of those who are working for the formation of the Auxiliary Association of the hospital. Just as the doctors are working on plans to make the hospital more efficient for those who find it necessary to use, so are an interested group of citizens actively engaged in procuring at least one hundred members for the Auxiliary Association at five dollars per member.

Warren A. Singles, the treasurer of the Association, reports that more membership applications are being received but the desired goal is not yet in sight.

The doctors' medical board will hold its next meeting on Monday evening at the hospital.

DISTRIBUTION OF DEL. CROPS

Fruits And Vegetables Were Shipped To Almost Half Of The States

According to information received by W. T. Derickson, Director of the Bureau of Markets of the State Board of Agriculture, the fruits and vegetables produced in the "Diamond State" during the year 1928 were distributed in almost half of the States in the Union.

The Bureau of Railway Economics at Washington reports that 2,713 cars of the combined 18 principal fresh fruits and vegetables from Delaware were distributed among 66 of the largest cities which were included in their survey. Delaware products were distributed in the cities in Maine, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, District of Columbia, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Tennessee, Kentucky, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota.

During the year 1928, New York City received 491 carloads of fruits and vegetables from this State, Boston ranked second with 409 cars, and Pittsburgh third with 387 cars. The figures mentioned do not cover the movement of fruits and vegetables by truck, but only the quantity moved by rail.

The number of cars of each commodity was as follows: Apples 684, grapes 5, peaches 29, strawberries 359, cantaloupes 315, watermelons 30, white potatoes 55, sweet potatoes 1,236. The crop of peaches in Delaware in 1928 was exceptionally short and this accounts for the very small shipments. Sweet potatoes by far exceeded any other commodity shipped during that year.

Delaware's apple crop was distributed as follows: Portland, Maine, 8; Boston, Massachusetts, 123; Worcester, 7; Springfield, 27; Providence, Rhode Island, 21; Hartford, Connecticut, 17; New Haven, 15; Bridgeport, 2; Syracuse, New York, 17; Rochester, 14; Buffalo, 59; New York City, (Continued on Page 4.)

RELIGION

Its Beneficial Effect Upon the Community

In the days of the circuit rider, the man who preached in the village church or more likely, school house, was a strong-bodied specimen who rode back and forth across the land. He preached religion that may be considered a little crude today—but he made an inspiring impression upon his hearers.

The men who fill the village and town pulpits to-day are of higher average scholarship than their predecessors. They are men of better education. They preach and believe in the introduction of new methods. They maintain an interest in community as well as church affairs.

They are not lacking in manhood either, for these latter day preachers are physically no whit behind those who, when the country was just growing up, spent half their time in the saddle.

The plain white meeting house has long since given away to spacious modern structures from whence comes the force which not only makes Democracy effective in the community, but the force which works for the betterment of civic government and community advancement. The Golden Rule spells P-R-O-G-R-E-S-S!

It reaches out to life wherever and however it may.

The good accomplished by the church can not be estimated in dollars and cents. It deserves your whole-hearted support, and as a community center, the church and the part it plays upon the minds of young and old alike, can not be replaced by any other agency, for it forms our greatest force for good.

The church is working for YOU and for YOUR COMMUNITY. Are you giving it the support it deserves?

Doctors Aid Hospital

The action of the doctors in Newark and vicinity on Monday night of forming a medical board for the Flower Hospital is a commendable action and a move that will be given the hearty endorsement of the community.

Perhaps no individual is more fully acquainted with a hospital, its service and its requirements, than the honored members of the medical profession. Their pledge of co-operation for the local institution is perhaps the largest gift that the hospital has or can receive.

As an institution of mercy to care for the sick and the afflicted, the Flower Hospital should be able to make greater its splendid record of service with the aid of the doctors in guiding its policy.

Newark has long been proud of the members of the medical profession who have resided within our midst and perhaps no action on their part has ever received greater public approval than the one taken in the formation of the hospital board.

This action on the part of the doctors should add impetus to the campaign to procure members for the Auxiliary Association for the Hospital. While it is not possible for the average citizen to render professional services at the institution yet it may be possible for that citizen to join the Auxiliary Association and thereby do his or her part in maintaining an institution that is of inestimable value to the welfare of this community.

Greed—And A Promise

It is beginning to look as if the Philippine Islands might get their independence because—of all things—of the new tariff bill which the Congress of the United States is now framing. The fight to free the Philippines is more than 30 years old now. Bryan based his presidential campaign of 1900 on it, and lost. The Senate, in 1916, voted to grant independence within four years, but the measure lost in the House. Since then the movement has never been close to success. But now, strangely enough, it bobs up again—and this time the Filipino's chance for independence is brighter than ever. It is rather curious, when you stop to consider it. We have promised independence to the Philippines repeatedly. We promised it when we first took them from Spain, and we have promised it anew, at intervals, ever since. But the promise never weighed very heavily on our conscience. Now, however, there is a tariff in the making. And the tariff may do the trick. The Philippine Islands have become great producers of sugar—something like 600,000 tons a year. Since the Islands are possessions of the United States, this sugar comes into this country duty free. But American investors have many hundreds of millions of dollars invested in sugar plantations in Cuba. These plantations, unable to compete with duty-free Philippine sugar, are having a bad time of it. All Cuba is suffering. Sugar growers within the United States, both in the cane and beet divisions, are up against the same thing. So Congress, to relieve the situation, would like to put a duty on Philippine sugar. To do this, however, it must grant the islands independence. The Philippines, accordingly, are nearer independence now than ever before. Before the winter ends it is quite possible that a bill setting them free will be passed by Congress. We haven't the faintest notion—never having been there—whether the Filipinos are ready for self-government yet. And it's very likely that all good Americans ought to rejoice to see their country at last ready to honor its old pledge. But somehow the thing leaves a bad taste in our mouths. When it is a matter of honor alone—a simple matter of keeping a promise—this country couldn't see its way clear to do anything about it. Now it has become a matter of dollars and cents. That hits us where we live. So maybe, now, we'll keep our promise. The whole thing is a rather sharp commentary on our national character.

Youth "Revolts" Early

A scientist at the recent Des Moines convention arose and solemnly announced that the "revolt of youth" usually begins during the high school age. At that point, he said, a young person begins to be irked by authority, and takes up arms against it. This conclusion, he added, was gained as a result of studies made of some thousands of public school and college youngsters. Maybe it's all very scientific, but we insist that the gentleman doesn't know what he's talking about. The revolt of youth begins just as soon as the youth in question is able to crawl around the floor. If you've ever tried to get a dish of spinach down a child of three who didn't want to eat it, or tried to induce a toddler to go up to bed when that toddler had other ideas on the subject, you'll know at once what we mean.

Federal Aid For Farm Organizations

"Another requirement of the Act is that the association shall not deal in the products of nonmembers to an amount greater in value than such as are handled by it for members."
"In order effectively to carry out the provisions of the Act, the Board has already assisted in the formation of several national cooperatives representing particular commodities. Others will be formed in the future. If and when such national cooperatives are formed, it is the policy of the Board to require that all local, state or regional cooperatives shall affiliate with the national and receive the benefits of the Agricultural Marketing Act through this national affiliation."
"It is the desire of the Board that proper reserves be set up by the cooperatives to meet their own peculiar conditions. In such cases, provisions should be made for the ultimate distribution of such reserves and for the distribution of all other earnings, except the limited dividend requirements of capital stock cooperatives, upon a patronage basis.

"Any such associations as above described will be eligible to do business with the Federal Farm Board without the necessity of coming through or joining with any other organization."
"We are preparing now some skeleton set-ups of cooperatives to handle different kinds of commodities which will be mailed to you in a few days. These should be helpful in guiding the organization of new cooperatives and assisting old ones to comply with our requirements."
"Very truly yours,
"James C. Stone, Vice-Chairman, Federal Farm Board."

U. OF DEL. STUDENTS RESUME STUDIES
After having been closed since December 18 for the holidays, the University of Delaware reopened last Friday. Classes were resumed at 8 o'clock Friday morning. Most of the students arrived in Newark last Thursday. There is only a short time now until the mid-year examinations which start January 24 and end January 31. The second term starts Monday, February 3.

Contract For New Buildings

Both buildings will be fireproof and will be erected of reinforced concrete, steel and brick. Heat and power for the new structures will be provided from the present plant, so that all space inside may be devoted to the specific purposes for which they are intended.

The observation clinic will be of irregular design, measuring about 140 by 130 feet. It will contain 32 rooms with space for 40 patients, all of the rooms will be private, except two, which will be semi-private. There will be rooms for the administration of hydrotherapy and other treatments. Living quarters for a resident physician will be provided in one of the wings and the basement will contain large storage rooms and a dining room for the help.

The building for continued treatment cases will have ground dimensions of 90 by 150 feet. It will contain recreation rooms, dining-rooms and rooms for the examination of patients. Plans call for 16 rooms for private patients and 12 wards of varying sizes.

These two buildings are part of a twenty-year development plan for which an eventual outlay of $2,576,500 is proposed. The plan was outlined in the last report of Dr. Tarumian, from which was supplied the data presented for the consideration of the State Legislature at its last session.

DANGEROUS TO HIDE POISON

Poisoned Fruit Cakes Lead Federal Government To Issue Special Warning

The recent holiday fruit-cake poison case, in which quick action by the Food, Drug, and Insecticide Administration of the U. S. Department of Agriculture saved from illness and perhaps death people who had bought the cakes, leads the administration to issue a warning to housewives regarding poisons in the household.

"Poisons such as garden and domestic insecticides are today almost a household necessity," says Dr. P. B. Dunbar, assistant chief of the administration. "They should, however, be securely locked up or be carefully stored beyond the reach of children, and they should always be kept away from food."

"A package of poison on the pantry shelf is as dangerous as a loaded gun," says Dr. Dunbar. "Someone comes along who doesn't know the package contains poison—that the gun is loaded, and the result is injury or even death. Like precautions are essential in food stores, restaurants and food factories."

The arsenic which came so near taking a toll of human lives during the Christmas holidays had been bought as an insecticide several years ago and had not been safely put away after use. It is supposed that one of the children finding the package of arsenic mistook it for flour and emptied it in the flour sack in the pantry.

A somewhat similar case occurred in an Indiana store some years ago. Contaminated sugar sold by the store made a number of people ill, killing two of them. The administration found that the poison had accidentally been thrown into an open sack of sugar.

In Los Angeles, in 1926, nineteen persons came ill from eating pies containing arsenic. The baker who made them did not know how the arsenic got into the food. It was declared accidental.

Probably none of these cases would have occurred if poisons had been kept away from the food and out of the reach of children.

The Federal Caustic Poison Act requires that certain alkali and acid poisons be labelled plainly in large type on the danger of accidental poisoning. However, there are many other poisons, such as those found in insecticides and some silver polishes, which are deadly if taken in sufficient quantities, and the Federal law does not require that these articles be conspicuously labelled as poisonous. Although many manufacturers have voluntarily used warning labels, or put their poisonous preparations in containers of distinctive shape or color with rough exteriors studded with knobs or points to warn the user in the dark, poisons of the insecticide type are frequently bought in bulk form in bags that are not labeled. Arsenical insecticides may be mistaken for flour. Unless packages containing such poison are clearly marked, or at least carefully segregated after use, there is danger of poison getting into food. The caustic housewife should have a safe place in which she can store all poisons to prevent accidents, says the department of Agriculture.

The University Extension Service of Delaware is sponsoring this cake clinic. The clinic is to be held by Miss Joan Rock of the Royal Baking Powder Company, and Miss Eleanor Howe of the McCormick and Company of Baltimore, Maryland, who will make and bake cakes to demonstrate all of the important points involved in the production of cakes of the best quality. ORGANIZATION OF SINGERS CLUB

An organization is being formed in Newark, consisting of the choirs of the various churches and the Choral Club of the Newark New Century Club as a nucleus, for the purpose of singing "The Holy City," a cantata by Gaul. Since this is a strictly community affair we earnestly solicit the aid of all the singers of Newark. From the above organizations, we are assured of fifty to sixty voices and we hope to increase this number to one hundred or more from the students of the University and from the community.

It has since been learned that the authorities of the University had in mind such an organization as this with Mr. Swinnan, the organist at Longwood, as its director, and the new auditorium as its meeting place. It is hoped that we may form such a substantial organization that it may be later turned over to Mr. Swinnan as a nucleus for a bigger and better one.

The rehearsals will be held in Wolf Hall, Sunday afternoons, from 2.30 to 3.30, starting a week from Sunday, January 19th.

No attempt has been made to reach the singers outside of the organizations named above, and there are a goodly number, and it is hoped that they will regard this as a cordial invitation. If you are interested please call Newark 87 any evening or drop a card to P. B. Myers. Please do this as soon as possible because we want to know how much music to order by Monday, the 13th.

AUTOS ON SHOW

The sixteenth annual exhibit Delaware Motor Trades' Assoc. will be held at the State Armory, January 20 to 25, inclusive. They were selected at a meeting of the association, held in the Elks' Hall.

Upwards of 60 automobiles will be displayed, including the duPont in Wilmington; the super full size Dusenberg; the Cord Frerking, built by Auburn, and the light-cylinder V-type Oakland. Replacements are also being made in the 16-cylinder Cadillac exhibit.

The Marine Construction Company will have a boat exhibit, a brisacraft 20-foot runabout.

The committee in charge arrangements comprises H. Figgart, president of the association; general show chairman, J. A. Johnson, show chairman, J. A. White, chairman of advertising, with R. R. Bantz; and Daniel P. Buckle of entertainment and decorations, with Hugh F. Gallagher and Don-ohoe, assistant; Max Hammond, chairman of arrangements, with F. Oakley and Harry Maltman, assistant.

URGES CARE FOR STATE'S NEEDY

Mrs. Walls Finds Almshouses Are Inadequate For Certain Patients

Inmates of the almshouses of Kent and Sussex counties received new outfits of clothing as a Christmas gift. The money for this gift was donated by the various churches in the State to Mrs. Laura C. Walls of Lincoln, who is secretary of the State Poor Fund. The State Poor Fund is contributed by Alfred I. du Pont of Wilmington, and is used to assist the aged needy of Delaware.

Mrs. Walls in an open letter expresses thanks for the unfortunate to those who made this gift possible. She states that one of the sick inmates of the Sussex almshouse exclaimed upon being presented with the clothing: "I was never rich before," and "many thanks to those who contributed."

In New Castle county the number of inmates of the County Hospital has grown to 272, and on account of this number it was possible to contribute only fifty cents to each person. All were served ice cream and cake, and expressed appreciation for the treat.

Mrs. Walls states: "New Castle county leads in Delaware in buildings and equipment, but how can they hope to make a hospital in a poor house without any proper facilities? Delaware needs a State hospital very badly. There are cancer patients in all of the poor houses. We cannot blame those who are in charge for not wanting to take care of such patients, as they have no experience in nursing of this kind. It does not seem fair to the superintendents to be compelled to admit such patients with no accommodations. I feel that the good thinking citizens of Delaware are responsible to allow such conditions to continue. It would be far better to rent an old building, and equip it in some comfortable shape, and take proper care of such people until the meeting of the next Legislature. It is a disgrace to humanity, and a sin the good citizens of Delaware are committing to allow it to go on. Superintendent McFarlin's wife stated that many patients are brought from the Wilmington hospitals when there is no hope for recovery and dumped on them, and they are compelled to admit them, regardless of no accommodations to take care of them. It is not fair to them, and a hindrance to the success of the management of such institutions.

"It is surprising to find so many educated men in the New Castle Poor House. A large percentage of them are only poor, and some adverse circumstances have prevented them from earning a livelihood."

PUT TEETH IN OYSTER LAWS

New Regulations By State Board Of Health Regarding Pollution

Rigid regulations for the operation of the oyster industry in Delaware were approved by the State Board of Health at a special meeting of the board held last week. Heretofore there has been no regulations with "teeth" in them. Under the new regulations, it will be possible for the State Board to exercise its authority in a way that will protect the people of Delaware from contaminated oysters. The waters of the Mispillion river or creek, St. Jones river or creek, Murderkill river or creek and Broadkill river or creek are officially declared to be polluted by sewage. As a result oysters for sale in this state without replanting, cannot be taken lawfully from these waters.

In the regulations, the State Board of Health may declare the waters of rivers and creeks, or other waters within the jurisdiction of Delaware, to be polluted by sewage or otherwise, and shall name these which are declared to be so polluted.

The name of any river or creek, or other water which has been so declared to be polluted, may be removed from the list named by the said Board of Health upon production of satisfactory evidence that the said waters are no longer polluted.

Oysters sold or offered for sale in Delaware may be sold only if the following requirements have been met: The oysters shall not have been collected from areas covered by waters listed as polluted in the appendix to the regulation, unless such period shall have elapsed as will permit them to have been in non-polluted water for the periods hereafter named, to wit:

A minimum period of 30 days if the waters covering the beds has a temperature between 50 degrees and 60 degrees Fahrenheit.

A minimum period of 15 days if the waters covering the beds has a temperature of 60 degrees Fahrenheit or over.

When the temperature of the water covering the beds is below 50 degrees Fahrenheit, transplantation for market purposes shall not be permitted.

They shall contain at least 14 per cent by weight of solids, as determined by laboratory examination in the State Board of Health laboratory.

They shall not be adulterated. For the purpose of this regulation, decomposition shall be considered as adulteration.

Shucked oysters, sold in bulk or in package, shall not contain free oyster liquor to an extent which shall be greater than 10 per cent of the amount measured out for sale or contained in the package.

Oysters obtained from sources outside of the jurisdiction of the State of Delaware:

The oysters shall have been collected from areas approved by the State Board of Health or other approving agency of the State from which the oysters were obtained.

The oysters shall meet the requirements of sub-sections B, C, and D, of Section 1 of this paragraph.

"Nothing in this regulation shall be construed as giving to any person, firm, association or corporation, any privilege or right of sale not authorized by any law of the State of Delaware.

Any person, firm, association or corporation, who shall violate any provision of this regulation, upon conviction thereof before any justice of the peace of the county in which he, she, it or they shall reside, shall be fined not less than $10, nor more than $100, together with costs.

It is hereby declared to be the purpose and intent of these regulations to make effective in the State of Delaware the "minimum requirements for approval of State Shellfish Control Measures and certifications for shippers in interstate commerce," prepared by the U. S. Public Service. Infractions of the said minimum requirements shall be considered as infractions of this regulation.

Any regulation heretofore passed by the State Board of Health, inconsistent with these regulations, is hereby declared to be null and void.

CORRECT FEEDING URGED FOR ALL BREEDING BIRDS

Penna. Specialist Tells How to Raise Better Poultry Stock

Most Pennsylvania poultrymen have, by this time, made preliminary selection of their breeders for next spring.

Some of these birds, however, will fail to live up to expectations and will have to be culled before the breeding pens are mated, states C. O. Dossin, poultry extension specialist of the Pennsylvania State College. It behooves each poultryman to watch these birds carefully at all times, so that those that show the slightest evidence of weakness may be removed.

Likely candidates for the breeding pens should be given a rest until after January 1. The entire management of these birds up to the breeding season should be directed toward building up the strength and vitality of the birds and not toward present egg production.

Give the breeders free range if possible. They should have dry mash before them all the time, but should also be encouraged to consume a large amount of scratch feed. Whole yellow corn should compose a part of this scratch feed. For the old birds, which are to be used for breeders, a proportion of two parts of scratch feed to one part of mash is satisfactory now.

MANY QUERIES FOR CENSUS

Sample Shows That Many Questions Will Be Asked By Enumerators

Former Governor William D. Denney, supervisor for the 1930 census of Delaware, the fifteenth decennial census of the population of the United States, to be carried on from April for three or four months in this State, will have to see that plenty of questions are answered by all the citizens of the State, according to a sample copy of the questionnaire to be used. John H. Farrell, manager of the U. S. Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, yesterday received one of the sample copies of the schedule to be used from Washington.

The questions to be asked are as follows: Address, number in family, names, in full, ages of all living before April 1, 1930, relationship to head of family, home owned or rented, value of home, if owned, amount of rent, if rented. Have you a radio set? Do you live on a farm?

After you have answered those questions you have made a fair start. Here are the others: What is your sex, race or color, age, marital condition, age at first marriage? Have you attended school or college any time since September 1, 1929, have any members of your family? Can you read or write, can the members of your family? Where were you born, and what languages do you speak? If you were born abroad, when did you come to the U. S., and are you naturalized, can you speak English?

What is your occupation specifically, what industry are you connected with, what class of worker? And are you working now? How many members of the family work? Are you a veteran of the military or naval service forces, if so, what war experience have you had.

The enumerators, to be appointed by the supervisor, Mr. Denney, will be appointed soon and it is expected that there will be about 75 for Delaware.

NATURAL LIGHT IS AID IN HOUSE WORK

"There is much truth in the statement that 'light brings joy' for it is difficult to be cheerful in a dark room," remarked Kate Henly Daugherty, New Castle County Home Demonstration Agent.

In order to have sufficient natural light as well as cross ventilation, the windows of the kitchen should be placed in at least two sides of the room. The high, short windows of double construction give a better distribution of light throughout the room and also offers greater wall space. Often a dark, gloomy kitchen will seem lighter if the walls and woodwork can be finished with a color which reflects rather than absorbs light.

Mrs. Daugherty says, "Oftentimes it is wise to do away with the window shades in the kitchen entirely substituting in their place a gay valance of yellow voile or some similar material which will give a finished look to the windows and at the same time let in plenty of light. If it is necessary to have shades at the window let them be shades of lighter colors instead of the dark green ones which reflect a gloom of gray over everything as of a wintry day. Oil cloth in buff or yellow makes attractive, serviceable and inexpensive shades for kitchen windows."

A large dome ceiling light fixture in the center of the kitchen is preferable to a central drop light which causes the home maker to have to work in her own shadow most of the time. In a large kitchen, bulbs should be placed over the work centers such as sink, stove, preparation table, etc. Extension cords will solve the problem in the already built house. The central light bulb near the ceiling should be at least 60 or 75 watt and should not be used too long without being changed, for they wear out and give poor light often before they break or burn out entirely.

Where electric power is not available there are other substitutes for satisfactory lighting such as carbide, acetylene gas, etc. Even oil lamps can be made much more effective by having bracket lamps with good reflectors behind them placed at the various working centers.

CHARTERS, LICENSES TO BRING $5,500,000

The State's revenue from franchise taxes and charter fees will be well over $5,500,000 for 1929, State officials believe, although complete reports for the year have not been fully tabulated.

The amount of franchise tax from corporations filed in Delaware during 1929, as calculated by State Treasurer Howard M. Ward, totals $2,270,493.81.

This does not include the amount of filing fees paid by corporations, filing charters at the Secretary of State's office for the year. It is estimated that this will amount to $3,500,000.

Builders' Tactics Aid Home-Owners

Use of Guaranteed, Grade-Marked Lumber Shows Progressiveness, Says J. H. Hollingsworth

Most of the building contractors here are entitled to the confidence of the building public, both for their progressiveness and for their scrupulous fairness in dealing with home-builders, said J. H. Hollingsworth, manager of the E. J. Hollingsworth Lumber Company, yesterday, in discussing the conditions of the building trades in this vicinity.

"If anyone should survey the houses that have been erected in our town during the last five years," Mr. Hollingsworth declared, "he would find that the great majority of them are just as soundly constructed, embody just as many new materials, new items of equipment and new ideas in planning and design, and represent just as true values, as the homes of any other community in the country."

As evidence of these facts, Mr. Hollingsworth referred to the readiness of the town's contractors to adopt "four-square" packaged and re-manufactured lumber for the finer details in home-building. Packaged lumber, he explained, was put on the market by the Weyerhaeuser affiliation of forest products manufacturers in northern Minnesota, Idaho and the Pacific Northwest to protect the building public.

"For many years," said Mr. Hollingsworth, "there have been occasional complaints that the public knows nothing about lumber grades, that it can't tell one from another, and that, as a consequence, a contractor can substitute an inferior grade for what the owner specifies without the latter knowing about it. Packaged lumber makes substitution impossible, for every package states the grade of its contents in language which any layman can understand. So the packaging and grade-marking constitutes a quality-guarantee to the ultimate consumer."

"Now the building trades in our town are remarkably free from substitution. The eagerness with which the leading contractors here have accepted 'four square' packaged lumber and recommended it to their clients indicates that their methods are above-board and that their business-standards are in line with all new developments that benefit the prospective home-owner."

The Hollingsworth Lumber Company is one of the limited number of lumber merchants throughout the country selected by the Weyerhaeuser interests to be enfranchised as "authorized four-square dealers," and it carries a stock of the quality-lumber in addition to all items in the regular lumber line.

NEW AWARDS SECURED BY ART STONE & TILE CO.

There are two baths in each of these homes, which are being built by Charles Eckman, general contractor.

During the week, the company finished all the tile and marble work in the new building for the Girls' Industrial School, at Claymont, and all the tile in the baths of the six two-family homes for Dominick Canter, at Thirty-fifth and West streets.

READY FOR STORAGE

Now that seed corn has been drying for some time in the crib, driveway or home outside place, it should be ready for storage.

Artificial heat is recommended for drying the corn, and when dried otherwise care should be taken to insure the minimum amount of moisture. A warm, dry room makes the best storage. A seedhouse with a stove is desirable, but if not available a furnace-heated room is recommended. Corn before storage should contain not more than 15 per cent moisture, since dry rot molds grow in corn with moisture content over that.

If there is danger of a larger moisture content because of exposure to the elements in outside drying the corn should be dried by artificial means.

Many farmers use their brooder houses for drying and storing small amounts of seed corn. Care must be taken in providing a good circulation of air in whatever storage place is used. Rats and mice must also be guarded against.

MEETING OF HATCHERYMEN

Lay Plans For The Future At Sessions In Milford On Friday

The largest number of poultry hatchers ever assembled at one time, representing the members of the newly-formed Del-Mar-Va Hatcherymen's Association, met at Milford on Friday at the New Windsor Hotel to attend the banquet and New Year business meeting, and discuss the program for the coming year. More than 54 prominent hatcherymen from all the three States attended, many of them accompanied by their wives.

The morning session was devoted to a business meeting of the board of directors and the officers of the association, followed by a banquet served by Mrs. Windsor. At 2 p. m. the business meeting was resumed and various problems confronting the hatcherymen and the poultry industry in general were presented by prominent speakers and each question discussed by the entire attendance.

It was generally admitted at the meeting that the first half of 1930 would be as satisfactory as the first half of 1929, which was a banner period in the poultry industry. The members of the association all agreed to an old practice which has been in vogue for years, and decided to employ again their old method of setting eggs during the months of February and early March.

During this period of the year, it was said, there is a lull in the demand for chicks because the broiler growers have already filled their houses with chicks and the farmer and general poultryman do not purchase chicks in winter while quantities until the period beginning in March.

The hatcherymen unanimously agreed that from now until the middle of March they would set only enough eggs in their incubators to fill bona fide orders actually booked at least three weeks in advance.

By following this method of setting eggs, it was said, they will entirely avoid a surplus of chicks during the quiet period of February and early March.

A most interesting topic presented was a detailed cost of operating a hatchery, presented by one of the members who had kept an actual detailed cost of every item of both income and expense for the last three years.

These figures, showing the actual cost of running a hatchery, were a revelation to those who had not kept complete records and data, and it brought out the fact that chicks cannot be produced and sold during the first six months of the year for less than about 15c as a minimum and still make any profit for the hatcherymen.

J. W. Burns, representing Miller, Franklin and Bassett, accountants, was introduced by the president, and gave a very interesting talk upon the simplified accounting system for hatcheries and illustrated his talk with actual books of record and presented a unified plan for cost accounting for all of the hatcheries.

The poultry industry on the Del-Mar-Va Peninsula has reached such size that the hatcherymen and the farmers who produce the eggs for them, both realize there must be close cooperation between all the hatchers and all the producers of hatching eggs, and uniform business methods adopted for dealing with each other.

The hatcherymen buy more than 25,000,000 eggs from the farmers each year for setting in their incubators, and in addition to these they take at least as many more from the farmers which they ship to market for eating purposes. For the eggs put in the incubators and hatcheries, they have been paying the farmers nearly $1,000,000 bonus each year over the price of eating eggs.

At 4, after the business meeting, a musical program was presented by a company of artists from Philadelphia.

The next regular meeting of the association will be held at the New Windsor Hotel, Friday, February 7, at 12:30.

The following are the officers of the association: Neal A. Truslow, Chestertown, president; Thomas Robinson, Georgetown, vice-president; and John MacLeod, Wilmington, secretary.

NOVEL NAME FOR NEW TEA ROOM

A new sign took its place Monday on the Kennett Pike, near Wilmington. This has been placed at the entrance to the old schoolhouse on the north side of the pike at Centreville and reads "Cobwebbs." The sign indicates a new tearoom opened under the direction of Miss Josephine Bush, Mrs. William Scott Bergland and Mrs. Thomas Woodruff Miller.

The name "Cobwebbs" is taken after the old house in Sussex, England, which is so listed in the "Doomsday Book" and as one would naturally suppose, its Delaware namesake is designed to breathe an English atmosphere. The room, where once the three "R's" were the principal theme, has been converted into a most attractive drawing room.

Genuine antiques, selected by Mrs. Bergland and Mrs. Miller in England and on the continent are attracting much attention.

Lodge Notes

I. O. R. M.

Minnehaha Tribe, No. 23, I. O. R. M., and Mineola Council, No. 17, Degree of Pochontas attended the evening services on last Sunday at the Methodist Church. A large number was on hand.

The members are attending the meetings more regular, especially since the indoor baseball game has been on the floor. A committee has been appointed and with the help of other lodges, namely, Osceola Lodge, K. of P., Heptasophs and the Knights of Golden Eagle, will hold a meeting on Saturday evening for the purpose of organizing an indoor baseball League. The meeting will be held in the small lodge room on the second floor of the Fraternal Hall Building.

K. OF P.

On next Monday evening, January 13, Osceola Lodge No. 5, Knights of Pythias will hold an open installation, Grand Chancellor Curtis Trump and staff of Grand Lodge officers will officiate.

W. W. Knowles, a past supreme representative, and also a prominent attorney of Wilmington, will be the speaker of the evening.

Members are requested to come out for the baseball team that is being organized, age makes no difference, the old can play as well as the young, so come out and see if we can't take the lead when the indoor baseball league opens.

JR. O. U. A. M.

It is useless to say that our meetings are interesting as we always have a good attendance, which speaks volumes. All Juniors of the American Flag Council, No. 28, Jr. O. U. A. M. feel that our retiring Councilor Lewis has accomplished well. Brother Lewis is a hard working member and nothing is so small or to large for him to do. Councilor-elect Morine, we predict, will also be on the alert.

All Juniors take notice we have postponed our anniversary celebration until January 27. Our entertainment committee has an unusual program outlined. The refreshment committee plans to be ready to serve 200. Bear in mind the change in the date.

On January 20, Brother Hope will install the new officers and Brother Norton will receive a Junior Past Councilor emblem.

Friday evening, January 17, our Council will visit Old Glory Council of Delaware City. We hope for no less than 30 on that trip.

Next Monday night our meeting will be of a special nature. Councilor Lewis has something up his sleeve for us. State Councilor Mote will have some dates to announce for trips he has planned to take.

Last Tuesday evening we paid Eureka Council, No. 1, of Wilmington, a surprise visit. About 25 members went with Brother Mote on the visit. —A Neal Smythe, Publicity Chr.

Hoodoo Persists In Medical Science

Many believe that the day of superstitions is past. But insofar as they concern medicine, pharmacy, dentistry and other scientific endeavors, according to Dr. Wilmer Krusen, former director of Public Health and president of the Philadelphia College of Pharmacy and Science, the hobgoblins and hoodoos have not died.

To a great extent they have been crossed with the sacred wafer and banished from the minds of men, but there are a few which still cavort impishly and distort men's thoughts. They can be annihilated only by the scientific attitude of mind, Dr. Krusen believes.

Take those professions which concern themselves with the alleviations of human sufferings, for instance. Greater trust, faith and co-operation exists among physicians, pharmacists and dentists today than ever before, Dr. Krusen believes, but still there are obstacles to be surmounted, boundaries to be wiped away, and perfect harmony to be attained.

Even among the members of these learned professions exist superstitions—although they may not be recognized as such.

POULTRYMEN READY FOR NEXT SPRING

Most Pennsylvania poultrymen have, by this time, made preliminary selection of their breeders for next spring.

Some of these birds, however, will fail to live up to expectations and will have to be culled before the breeding pens are mated, states C. O. Dossin, poultry extension specialist of the Pennsylvania State College. It behooves each poultryman to watch these birds carefully at all times, so that those that show the slightest evidence of weakness may be removed.

Likely candidates for the breeding pens should be given a rest until after January 1. The entire management of these birds up to the breeding season should be directed toward building up the strength and vitality of the birds and not toward present egg production.

Give the breeders free range if possible. They should have dry mash before them all the time, but should also be encouraged to consume a large amount of scratch feed. Whole yellow corn should compose a part of this scratch feed. For the old birds which are to be used for breeders a proportion of two parts of scratch feed to one part of mash is satisfactory now.

LIFT DOG QUARANTINE IN BRANDYWINE HUNDRED

Ralph C. Wilson, secretary of the State Board of Agriculture, on Saturday issued the following relative to the quarantine on dogs in Brandywine Hundred.

"As no further cases of rabies have occurred in certain sections quarantined on account of that disease, the State Board of Agriculture hereby lifts the quarantine on dogs in Brandywine Hundred, New Castle County, which section was quarantined on December 6."

20 P. C. INCREASE IN DRUNKEN DRIVERS

There was a 20 per cent increase in the number of drunken drivers in Delaware who were convicted of that offense during the year 1929. How many others who drove and were not apprehended is not known, but it is believed to be much greater than those convicted.

There were 482 convictions for driving while intoxicated in the past year, as compared with 394 in 1928 and 332 in 1927.

SPOKE TO UNIVERSITY CLUB

Raymond Russell, a graduate of the University of Delaware, and a resident of Newark, was the speaker at the meeting of the University of Delaware Faculty Club, Monday night. Mr. Russell's talk was in relation to his experiences in Liberia, where he spent two years following his graduation, representing a rubber company of this country.

Requirements For Ventilated Henhouse

Advantages of Modern System Outlined by Agricultural Expert Ventilation systems for poultry houses are effective only in structures that are well built and warm, advises Prof. E. R. Gross, agricultural engineer for the New Jersey State agricultural experiment station at New Brunswick.

As between the open-front poultry house and the one equipped with a ventilating system, the engineer believes the latter has the advantages of added warmth and pure, dry air. These two factors, plus sunlight, have been found helpful in stimulating egg production.

"A ventilated house, if it is to be warmer," Prof. Gross says, "must be of better construction than the usual open-front house. This means tighter walls and closer-fitting doors and windows."

"Before installing a ventilation system make the walls airtight by applying building paper and over that an additional covering of weather-boarding. The same objective may be attained by covering the house with roll roofing or by insulating the house on the inside. These materials also make the house warmer."

"If the floors are of wood they they should be double-boarded with paper between or the foundations should be closed on all sides except possibly the front. Under such conditions a ventilation system will give better results, and experimental work indicates that high egg production may follow."

Ventilation system installed in the usual open-front poultry house will usually prove ineffective, according to Prof. Gross. This is because such houses have so many cracks and crevices in walls and around doors and windows. The passage of air through these openings reduces the temperature and breaks the normal flow of air currents in the ventilating flues.

Martial Changes With The Sexes Reversed After Age of 25

A girl's chances of marriage fall off sharply after she reaches the age of 25, while the young man's chances increase for a time after that age, according to some provocative statistics gathered by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company on the probability of marriage at various ages from 15 up.

The 20-year-old girl has a better chance of marrying within ten years than the young man of the same age. By the time each reaches the age of 25, however, the tables are turned, for the young woman has less chance as years go by and the young man more chance to take the marital vows.

One learns that at the age of 20 a young man has a 41 per cent chance of being alive and married within the next ten years, but whether this is to be taken as an encouragement or a warning, the company does not state. The girl of 20 has a somewhat higher percentage of matrimonial risk than the boy, but after that age her stock begins to go down, while for the young man it rises, and he is increasing danger of the altar until he reaches middle age.

The one momentous fact one can discover from a study of the whole situation is that there is no period from the age of 15 years upward that one is entirely immune from the possibility of marriage. To be sure, the percentage of likelihood declines as years advance, and it appears that a man of 55 has only a 10 per cent prospect of marrying within the next five years.

Before the age of 25, the curve shows, the average young man is hardly marriageable, because he is not yet earning a living for two, plus the anticipated additions. Many, in fact, have not yet decided upon their line of work at that age, and most of them are still immature in judgment. Yet, it is between 17 and 25, as a rule, that girls make the great decision of their lives, as often opposed and aided by their parents.

GRAPE CUTTINGS

Grape cuttings for planting next spring may be made any time after the leaves are fully shed until the middle of February. This season's wood is used, and three joints are left on each cane, the best size being about one-fourth inch in diameter. The canes should be cut midway between the joints.

These are then tied in bunches and buried in damp sand, where they will not dry out. Cuttings made after February 15 ordinarily will not have time to callous properly. The canes are planted in the spring, with two of the joints under ground.
