APPENDIX.

Report of State Chemist, Dr. T. R. Wolf, and Tabulated Analysis of Commercial Fertil- izers, 1898.

HON. EBE W. TUNNELL,
Governor of Delaware,

Dear Sir:—In accordance with an act of Legislature, I have the honor to submit, in the accompanying tables, the results of my analysis of the commercial fertilizers offered for sale in this State during the year 1898.

For the purpose of easy comparison I have given, side by side, the analysis of the various fertilizers as made in the laboratory and the guaranteed analysis as stamped on the bags. The figures represent per cent. or parts in a hundred.

The results of the chemical examination of commercial fertilizers during the past year have been, on the whole, quite satisfactory. The majority of the brands offered to the farmers of our State yielded results quite in accord with the guaranty of the manufacturers as the figures given in the appended tables will show.

The "comparative values" given in the last column of the tables are based on the following schedule for the various fertilizing ingredients:

	Per Pound.
Ammonia	12 cents
Available Phosphoric Acid in Mixed Fertilizers....	5 cents
Available Phosphoric Acid in S. C. Rock.....	3½ cents
Insoluble Phosphoric Acid in Mixed Fertilizers....	2 cents
Insoluble Phosphoric Acid in S. C. Rock.....	1 cent
Phosphoric Acid in Ground Bone.....	3½ cents
Potash	5 cents

The emoluments received during the past year amounted to $2,880.

Respectfully submitted,

DR. T. R. WOLF,
State Chemist.

Newark, Del.

PETITIONS.

To the Honorable the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Delaware in General Assembly met:

The petition of the undersigned, the President, Directors and Company of the Farmers' Bank of the State of Delaware, a corporation created and existing under the laws of the State of Delaware respectfully represents.

That it will be of great advantage and benefit to the stockholders of the said corporation if the branch of said bank located in the city of New Castle and State of Delaware should be closed and said branch be discontinued and if the capital stock should be reduced by about the sum of one hundred and seventy thousand dollars being the amount of the capital stock issued by said New Castle branch of said bank.

Your petitioners therefore pray that this General Assembly will enact a law authorizing the said corporation to close and discontinue the branch of said bank located in the city of New Castle in the State of Delaware and also authorizing the said corporation to reduce its capital stock by about the sum of one hundred and seventy thousand dollars, being the amount of the capital stock of the said New Castle branch of said bank.

And your petitioners will ever pray, etc.

To the Officers and Members of the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Delaware.

Gentlemen:—At a meeting of the United Labor League of the city of Wilmington, on February 5, 1899, at which delegates were present from nearly every labor organization in the city, the workhouse bill pending before your honorable body was discussed and it was decided to request you not to pass it, on the ground that a workhouse in the State would be detrimental to the interests of the working people, whose interests you undoubtedly desire to protect. The Labor League has given the matter a great deal of thought and the conclusion that a workhouse is against the welfare of the working classes is no idle dream, but was reached after a careful study of the conditions in states where the workhouse is or has been a reality.

The first annual report of the New York State Commission of Prisons, which was submitted to the Assembly of that state, on January 15th, 1896, referring to convict labor, says:

“The evil is one that injures the general manufacturing interests and the laborers, and also subjects the state to loss. As the shipping of but one or two per cent of the gold of the country disturbs the money market, so the underselling in any industry by manufacturers employing convict labor, materially affects the entire market as to the price of the products of that industry. And this is true even if the convict labor represents but one or two per cent of the total labor employed in the state in that one kind of manufacture. We find that it has paralyzed or driven out some manufacturers carried on by free labor. *

* * At Auburn prison the contract for the labor in making women’s calico and gingham dresses and wrappers is at the rate of 50 cents per dozen, 30 cents per dozen for waists and skirts and at like rates for the labor in manufacturing other articles. At the State Reformatory at Elmira are contracts for making heavy overcoats at 40 cents each and umbrellas at 4 cents each. At Sing Sing are contracts for making shoes at 6½ and 7 cents per pair and at the Albany penitentiary shirts are made on contract for 30 cents a dozen. Like low rates for labor prevail at the other prisons and penitentiaries. How much this cheap labor may tend to cause the abuses produced by the so-called "sweat shops" in the great cities, where manufacturers seek to compete with the manufacture of prison contractors, suggests itself. * * * The report of the superintendent of prisons of January 1, 1895, for the year ending September 30, 1894, shows a deficiency in the avails of the prison labor of the three state prisons of Sing Sing, Dannemora and Auburn of $366,071.99. This deficiency was $111,195.98 less than it was in the year 1893, when the deficiency was $477,267.97—a sum greater by over $12,000 than the entire expense for the care and maintenance of prisoners in the year 1894, when the reduced price of provisions lessened the expenditures. * * * The State, in its penal institutions, now owns large manufacturing plants, steam power and machinery, of the inventoried value of $156,433.81. These are used in the various industries for the manufacture of men's and women's clothing, shoes, furniture, woodwork, plumbing materials, stone cutting, builders' supplies, stoves, iron, hollow ware, brooms, &c. * * * The difficulty of selling prison made goods has caused large expense in the sales, as is shown, for example, by the report to the commission, by the warden of Sing Sing prison, from which it appears that the earnings of industries there carried on for the year ending September 30th, 1895, were $81,620.16, and the commission or compensation to agents amounted to $33,184.37. Therefore, it would seem evident from these results that it is not practical for the State to manufacture on its own account for sale in the open market."

The report also shows that the deficiency at the several prisons for the year ending September 30th, 1895, deducting the earnings from the expenditures, was as follows: Sing Sing, $62,715.27; Auburn, $97,799.76; Clinton, $113,030.07; summary of excess for care and maintenance over earnings, $273,545.10. To this amount for care and maintenance should be added the sum of $41,838.23, being the amount of commissions or compensation paid to agents or salesmen, thus increasing the total excess for care and maintenance to the sum of $315,383.33.

The second annual report of the United States Commissioner of Labor, compiled during the year 1886, shows that the matter of convict labor was investigated in the several states where it was in vogue. The New York State commissioners, in their report, arrived at the conclusion that "the contract system of prison labor is bad and should be abolished." They also pointed out numerous other evils in connection with convict labor, and, withal, their report was not at all encouraging or calculated to show good results from the system in vogue in that State.

The report from Ohio, in 1877, was to the effect that the "contract system interferes in an undue manner with the honest industry of the State."

Relative to the prohibition of the sale of convict-made goods outside of the State in which manufactured, the United States Commissioner, in his report, says:

"This suggestion has often been made in good faith. It is difficult, however, to see how it would result practically in avoiding either competition in wages or in the price and sale of products. A law might prevent the sale of convict goods made in a State outside of that State. Such legislation, State or Federal, would simply localize and intensify whatever competition now exists. Such a law would compel the sale of goods now manufactured in New York prisons to the value of $6,236,320.98 within the limits of the State of New York in the first instance of sale. Can it reasonably be shown that this would help any other State? The diversity of interests, the diversity of industries as well, interstate commerce, freedom of trade, all demand that no legislation should be had which would in any way interfere with traffic between the States. The suggestion is the result of the earnest endeavor of men to find a solution to the supposed difficulties surrounding convict labor, such difficulties being so many and running in so many directions that various solutions, more or less sound, come to the surface."

Relative to the payment of wages to convicts, the Commissioner, says:

"Some sincere friends of labor suggest that State governments pay to prisoners for their labor wages equivalent to those paid outside labor for the same quantity of work performed or amount of goods produced, and then sell the products in the open market, charging the prisoners for their maintenance, and leaving any surplus which might accrue over such charge in the hands of the prisoners. On the face of it this suggestion is exceedingly attractive in some ways. If it were practicable, it would lead the prisoners to an ambitious discharge of their duties, and would invest the product with a cost for labor and material equal to goods produced outside prison walls. An examination of facts relating to income and expenses, however, dissipates the attractive elements of such a plan and reduces it to the impracticable, for, under the most favorable circumstances of prison labor, as exhibited in the contract system, the average income from such labor pays but 65 per cent. of the running expenses of the prisons of the country. Of course, if the prisoners were paid wages equivalent to those paid outside the income from labor would be greater, provided the goods could be sold. The result, financially, however, would probably be that the State would pay the convicts for their labor and have to take back all such wages for maintenance and draw on the treasury through appropriations for deficiencies. This becomes significantly true by an examination of the table on income and expenses, so far as overtime work is concerned. Of course, overtime work is allowed in but few institutions, but in those wherein it is allowed the amount is not sufficient to create much hopes that the convicts could earn enough with safety to the State for each man to pay his share of the running expenses of the institution in which he lived. The suggestion is worthy, however, of the most serious consideration and study."

It can readily be seen, from the foregoing, that there are serious objections to the systems of convict labor now in vogue, and the United Labor League of Wilmington, representing the working classes of the chief manufacturing centre in the State, from which the bulk of revenue is derived, respectfully requests your honorable body to take into consideration all of the evils and the interests of your constituents, and in doing so we believe you will not pass the bill.

Yours respectfully,

Legislative Committee, United Labor League.

Wilmington, Delaware, February 11, 1899.

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the State of Delaware, in General Assembly met:

We, R. W. Lewis, S. J. Abbott, J. Frank Allee, Senators from Kent County,

And we, Wm. T. Jester, Jabez Jenkins, William Tharp, D. H. Frazier, John Satterfield, George C. Hering, J. B. Clark, W. A. Faries, Representatives from Kent County,

Being a majority of all the members elected to each house of the General Assembly by the qualified electors in the district of Kent County, in the State of Delaware,

Do, pursuant to the provisions of Article 13 of the Constitution of the State of Delaware,

Respectfully request your honorable body to make provisions for the submission of the question whether the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes shall be licensed or prohibited, to the vote of the qualified electors of the said districts of Kent County at the next general election.
