Dean Purchases Center Hall

Will Open New Meat Market

Operating Big Business in Elkton

Center hall or what was known as the Grange Building, was purchased this week by C. B. Dean from Squire Lovett. The price has not been given out. This building, three story stone, is one of the landmarks of that section of Main Street. Mr. Dean will take possession around the first of the year. After alterations, he will open a first class meat and grocery store in the corner now being run as a pool room. The building has aside from this, two other store rooms and basement shop. On the second floor is a public hall and two resident apartments. The whole third floor is a public hall. Mr. Dean's success in Newark has been marked. Now occupying the Claringbold property, he has developed one of the largest businesses in town. He came here from Elkton where he owns the old Falls Hotel property. In this building he conducts a big meat business in Elkton. His energy, courtesy and business methods have won him many friends. He is likely to spring another business sensation at almost any time. The town will hear from him—that is assured.

SCOUT SPONSORS HOLD MEETING

Townsend to Represent Newark in Wilmington Council

The second regular meeting of the Sponsoring Committee of Newark Troop No. 1, Boy Scouts of America, was called to order Friday, October 28, 1921, at 7.20 p. m., by order of Mayor Frazer, chairman of the committee, those present being Mayor Frazer, Mr. John S. Shaw, Dr. Jones, Mr. George Carter, Professor Owens, Mr. Jester, Mr. Keith, Mr. Tarr, and Scout Master Warren.

The Constitution and By-laws of the National Council were adopted without dissent. A committee of three was then appointed to draw up a set of by-laws to suit the local needs, this committee to consist of Mr. John Shaw, Mr. George Carter, and Mr. Tarr. Mr. Carter's suggestion that we confer with a Wilmington troop concerning this matter was considered the most logical method of procedure.

Mr. George L. Townsend was elected to represent the Newark Committee in the Wilmington Council. Mr. John Shaw was elected Troop Treasurer. Upon recommendation of Scout Master Warren, Scout Alvin Wake and was appointed Assistant Treasurer.

The following matters were placed in the hands of the Executive Committee with full power to act:

1. All finances.
  2. The matter of obtaining a new Scout Master to succeed Mr. Warren, who is, unfortunately, to leave town.
  3. The question of arranging a benefit to supply the Troop with necessary funds.
  4. All minor business coming up between this time and the next regular meeting.
- The next regular meeting was scheduled for the first Friday night in December.

University Professor Dies After Short Illness

Body Taken to Connecticut Home

Dr. Manns Represents Faculty at Funeral

The funeral services for Dr. Carlton Friend Miller, professor of chemistry at the University of Delaware, who died last Friday night after a short illness, were held at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon at his late home on West Main Street. The services were attended by practically the entire faculty and a large number of the student body. The body was taken to his former home at Wallingford, Conn., Sunday night and services held in a church there Monday morning. Interment was made in a Wallingford cemetery.

The Rev. Frank Herson, pastor of the Newark M. E. Church, of which church the deceased was organist, conducted the services here. Mr. Herson also paid a tribute to the deceased at the early services at the church on Sunday. The pallbearers were: Professor George E. Dutton, Dr. R. W. Heim, Dr. Thomas F. Manns, Professors T. R. Detjen, Harold E. Tiffany and R. B. Harris. Members of the Gamma Delta Rho Fraternity, of which the deceased was a member, attended the funeral in a body.

Dean E. Laurence Smith, Professor C. O. Houghton, M. O. Pence, John L. Coyle, A. G. Wilkinson and Senator John F. Richards took the floral offerings received at the house to the train in automobiles. Dr. Thomas F. Manns went to Wallingford with the body as a representative of the faculty of the University.

Dr. Miller's death was due to anemia, following a nervous breakdown. While his death had been expected for several days, it came as a shock to his many friends here, especially members of the student body of the University. He was 36 years of age.

Dr. Miller suffered an attack of illness during the vacation period, while visiting relatives in North Carolina. He returned to Newark in September, to resume his work at the opening of the University, and apparently had entirely recovered. He became ill again about two weeks ago and was confined to his bed for several days. He left his bed one day last week to attend a meeting of the faculty, against the advice of his physician, with the result that he collapsed and had to return. He gradually grew worse until the end came at 10 o'clock Friday evening.

Professor Miller came to the University of Delaware as professor of chemistry in 1919 and was entering on his third year as a member of the faculty. He was an excellent musician and took an active part in organizing the college orchestra and glee club. His work in this respect had endeared him to nearly every student at the University.

He was born at Wallingford, Conn., in 1885. He graduated from Wesleyan University with the degree of D. F. in 1909 and from that year until 1914 was an assistant in chemistry at Cornell University. In 1914 he received his Ph. D. degree at Cornell. He was an instructor in chemistry at North Carolina State College from 1914 to 1917 and assistant professor of chemistry at the same college from 1917 to 1919 when he came to Delaware as professor of chemistry.

This term Dr. Miller had been director of the college hour exercises, arranging the programs for chapel. He was a Mason and a member of three fraternities, the National Fraternity, a national scholarship fraternity, a national scholarship fraternity, a local fraternity.

Lights Requested on Academy Road

The Levy Court yesterday referred to Commissioner Buckson a communication from Albert L. Lewis, William J. Lovett, Pierce K. Crompton and Frank H. Balling, requesting that the Academy road, near Newark, be repaired and electric lights be put thereon.

This request was made not only for the increased traffic but in anticipation of building along this line in the Spring.

To the AMERICAN LEGION and THE UNKNOWN HERO

*"Where's the arch high enough,
Lads, to receive you;
Where's the eye dry enough,
Dears, to perceive you;
When at last and at last in
Your glory you come
Tramping home?
Every one of you won the war,
You and you and you.
You that carry an unscathed head,
You that halt with a broken tread,
And oh! most all, you Dead,
you Dead."*

*"O! silent and secretly-moving throng,
In your fifty thousand strong,
Coming at dusk when the wreaths have dropt,
And streets are empty, and music stopt.
Silently coming to hearts that wait
Dumb in the door and dumb at the gate,
And hear your step and fly to your call,
Every one of you won the war—
But you, you Dead,
most of all."*

Faculty Club Hears Interesting Talk

Admits Alumni as Members

Gift from Mr. DuPont Announced

The Faculty Club held its regular meeting Monday evening—and according to reports it was what is usually reported in the country press as an intellectual and social treat. Dr. Bevan of the History Department who is the Faculty Cosmopolitan, talked of his summer vacation spent in Italy. Dr. Bevan has spent much time before under Italian skies and knows not only the haunts of students and travelers, but is acquainted with the life in the byways. His talk before the Club is reported as a delight to those fortunate to be in the academic club.

An interesting feature of the evening was the gift of a combination billiard and pool table by Harry F. du Pont. Engrossed in science and theory of the seminary walls, it is thought that this gift will be used as a happy recreation—if any one can be secured to teach the delicate intricacies of what Herbert Spencer was wont to call the "Gentleman's Game—if not played too well."

The By-laws were changed stating that members of the Alumni Association of 5 years standing, residents of Newark and vicinity, were eligible to membership.

Resolutions were presented and endorsed expressing the sympathy of the Club on the death of Dr. Miller of the Chemistry Department who died last week.

On Retired List

Mr. Wm. J. Moore, 129 1/2 Cleveland Avenue, an employee of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, was placed on the retired list November 1st, at the age of 65. He served over 45 years on the railroad, beginning on March 12th, 1876. He served as brakeman and flagman on freight train between Parkersburg, Pa., and Philadelphia from that time until 1889. He was then transferred to brakeman on passenger service from Pomeroy, Pa., to Newark Del., on which he was working at the time of retirement. He is the father of 7 children, 5 boys and 2 girls. He is the grandfather of 15 children, of which 12 are living.

New Walk on Delaware Avenue

Work has been started on a sidewalk to reach from the Infirmary along Delaware Avenue on the property belonging to the University, to join with that of William P. Wollaston. This walk has been long needed and every one will be pleased when it is completed.

Delaware to March in Armistice Parade

Governor Denney to Lead Delaware Contingent

Delaware will be represented in the military procession that will escort the body of the "Unknown Soldier" from the Capitol to Arlington National Cemetery for final burial on Friday by a delegation of twenty-five or more ex-service men. Governor William D. Denney and Captain Harry E. Pettyjohn, State commander of the American Legion, will be among the delegates.

Leander R. Webb, who is making arrangements for the trip of the Delaware contingent, received word from Washington yesterday that a place in the parade was being reserved for the Delawareans. The party will leave Wilmington in a special Pullman car, attached to the Washington express at 11.41 tomorrow night.

The party is not limited to 25, that number being set as the minimum for whom the railroad will reserve a special Pullman. It was desired to have as many as possible make the trip. All ex-service men who can do so, are urged to notify Mr. Webb, by calling telephone 651 between 8 a. m. and 5 p. m., or C. L. Sweeney, at 6674-W after 5.30 p. m.

The party will carry the State and national colors. All men who will march in the parade must be in uniform. Among those in the delegation, in addition to the Governor and Commander Pettyjohn, are L. R. Webb, L. Hamilton Smith, Dr. Willard Speakman, Dr. Meredith I. Samuel, William Berl, Jr., C. L. Sweeney, Lebrun Pyle and C. H. McKinney.

FARM BUREAU MEETS

Plan for Annual Meeting. Membership Increasing

The Executive Committee of the New Castle County Farm Bureau met Saturday, November 5, in the Security Trust Building, Wilmington, in its November meeting. President Frank F. Yearsley, of Marshallton, presided. Practically the full membership of the Committee was present and entered into an animated discussion of the subjects brought before them. The members of the Committee feel the vastness of the responsibility entrusted in them by the increasing membership of the organization.

President Yearsley opened the meeting by stating that the time for the annual meeting of the County Farm Bureau was approaching and he should like to be advised relative to its conduct. Thursday, December 8, was set for the date, and although the place was left to the committee on general plans, the feeling was that Newport would be desirable. It is possible the girls' baking clubs of the county will serve lunch. R. O. Bausman, County Agent, was instructed to secure as the main speaker, if possible, Mr. John G. Brown, President of the Indiana Federation of Agricultural Associations. The following committees were appointed: Committee on General Plans: C. P. Dickey of Stanton, and Lee Hoffecker of Bear; Program of Work Committee: Frank F. Yearsley of Marshallton, J. D. Reynolds of Middletown, P. E. Pleasanton of Odessa, and R. O. Bausman of Newark. The nominating committee will be appointed later.

In order that more farmers may be reached it was carried that the county corn show should be supplanted by two district shows. The southern show will be held at either Middletown or Townsend. P. E. Pleasanton, J. D. Reynolds, and R. O. Bausman were appointed a committee in charge. The northern show will be held at Hockessin with the following committee in charge: Paul Mitchell, Robert Walker, Warren Buckingham, Fred Trimble, Roswell Shaffer, and Wilson Pierson, all of Hockessin.

J. I. Dayett of Coche, and J. D. Reynolds of Middletown, were appointed a committee to confer with the Secretary of the State Holstein Association to determine the feasibility of holding a consignment sale of quality pure bred Holstein cattle (females) during the late winter. The committee is also in charge of a pure bred bull consignment sale if it is thought policy to hold it.

Armistice Day in Elkton

Cecil County to Unveil Memorial

Big Program Planned by Committee in Charge

Armistice Day 1921 will loom large on the page of the History of Cecil County. Standing on the Court House Green is a draped monument erected to the memory of the Sons of Cecil County who offered and gave their all during the late war. Citizens of Cecil County by popular subscription raised $10,000 for this Memorial. On Friday the Monument will be unveiled by mothers of sons who lost their lives during the war.

Addresses will be made by Robert Thackeray, U. S. Senator France and Hon. W. T. Warburton.

That the public might feel the thrill that should go with such exercises, but little information has been given out. Suffice to say that Elkton will witness the greatest day of its history.

EXPLAINS AID TO MAIMED SOLDIERS

Upton Tells of Rehabilitation Work at University

The work of the University of Delaware to rehabilitate disabled, wounded and sick soldiers was explained to members of the Kiwanis Club at the regular luncheon yesterday at the Hotel du Pont, by Raymond Melville Upton, director in charge of the work.

Mr. Upton called attention to the work that is being done to teach disabled soldiers to take care of themselves. Much of this, he said, is of a vocational character. In many cases it is necessary to hold preliminary classes to determine the proper sort of work the men shall do, such as farming, mechanical work, etc., and then give the instruction they need to earn their own livelihood.

In emphasizing the need of the work, Mr. Upton said that there were in the University of Delaware 29 veterans with lung or bronchial trouble brought on by gas, gunshot wounds or exposure and as many more suffering from broken ribs, crushed and paralyzed muscles, broken shoulders, ankles, and the like, besides many with one leg, one hand, one eye, heart cases, deafness, epilepsy. There are in Newark eight men suffering from shellshock.

The work is carried on by placing the men in a specially graded section, where they are trained to enter the main two years' course at the beginning of the third term. From the study, it is possible for the student to learn just the unit he wishes to enter. There are four special or major courses: Agriculture, 20 men; animal husbandry, 16 men; agronomy, 17 men; poultry, 24 men. There are 41 rehabilitation courses, in addition to certain regular college courses from which the student may elect other subjects to give him a broad educational foundation.

"Agricultural training is not the problem," said Mr. Upton. "To improve their spirit and often change their outlook upon life is just as vital. For this purpose, the school holds weekly assemblies to which various speakers are invited to talk on phases of agriculture, civic improvement, ambitions, progress and the like. Then, too, there must be every indication that these veterans are welcome among us, that we are glad of the opportunity for service. The division is doing all in its power to make the boys feel at home."

PROPOSED TARIFF HITS FARMERS

Schuster of Delaware Estimates Costs

Professor George L. Schuster, agronomist at the University of Delaware Agricultural Experiment Station, predicts lower crop and food production and higher living costs, if the proposed five-year graduate duty on the importation of potash for fertilizers is inserted in the Federal emergency tariff bill or remains in the Fordney tariff bill. Professor Schuster says that based on the present use of potash, the proposed duty would cost Delaware farmers alone, $192,850 in five years.

NATIONAL EVENTS

Observations and Comments written for The Post

America's Unknown Soldier to Receive the Solemn Homage of Many Nations

Hope and Inspiration in America's Tribute to the Soldier
Dead

In the Capitol at Washington tomorrow a casket bearing the inscription:

AN UNKNOWN AMERICAN SOLDIER, WHO GAVE HIS LIFE IN THE GREAT WAR

will be placed beneath the dome, and thousands of Americans, including the comrades of the war, will pay tribute by silent visits to this temporary resting place. Within the casket is the coffin containing the body of one of the American men who died in the thick of battle, or was killed in some dangerous watch or flight, and upon whose body no marks of identification could be found. The body of this soldier was selected from the many which still lie in the American military cemeteries in France, by a simple ceremony.

With its guard of honor the body of the Unknown Soldier was brought to this country on the Olympia, and with it a large box of earth from the cemetery at Suresnes, France. The French soil will mingle with the American in forming a final resting place in the American National Cemetery at Arlington.

On Friday morning, the flag-draped casket will be taken to Arlington in a procession, remarkable in many ways as the guard of honor of an American hero. The procession will be led by General Pershing, on horseback, riding with a chosen staff of Army and Navy officers, immediately ahead of the open vehicle upon which the casket will be borne. Following the casket, the President of the United States and all his Cabinet will march.

About 200 Medal of Honor men from all American Wars will follow in the procession, in which will be also large numbers of American official and diplomatic representatives, the most of the foreign delegations, the American Legion, the Red Cross and many other groups.

At Arlington more than a thousand seats have been reserved for mothers of unknown soldiers who died in the war. The services in honor of the Unknown Soldier includes them all and includes every man who made the supreme sacrifice in the World War, and those who bore the loss at home.

The spirit of America in the World War will live afresh on Armistice Day. The impulse to serve the nation as greatly in peace as did the soldiers in war, will be the stronger for the illuminating years that have passed since the war ceased, and particularly on the eve of a conference of nations to limit future wars. Appreciation for the sacrifice of the soldier dead is keener now, than in the reaction of thought and feeling which followed immediately upon the armistice. We are more conscious recently of our shortcomings as a nation in caring for those soldiers who are alive today, but in need of care and help from the Country in whose service they fought. We are more ready to catch the torch from the hands of the heroes who fought for democratic ideals, and to "carry on" in the spirit in which they served and died.

Largest Audience Ever Reached by Human Voice Will be Addressed by President Harding on Armistice Day.

When President Harding rises to speak on Armistice Day at the burial ceremony for America's Unknown Soldier, in the Arlington Amphitheatre near Washington, he will address the largest audience ever reached by the human voice. Before him gathered in the amphitheatre and on the surrounding lawn and hills will be a crowd expected to reach 125,000. Below the President as he speaks and directly in front of the speaker's stand will be a transmitter whose delicate and sensitive construction will permit the transmission of every word and tone over electric wires to a control room where the voice of the President will be thrown by amplifiers to reach the out most sections of the immense crowd at Arlington. From the same control room wires will carry the speech to Philadelphia, and then to Madison Square Garden, New York City, where thousands will be gathered to hear the President's speech through the transmitter and amplifiers arranged there for the purpose. Still other wires will carry the Armistice Day Speech to San Francisco where it will be a part of the Armistice Day Program.

The event and scientific achievement are well joined, which will admit so wonderful and close a touch with the solemn ceremonial and tribute in the farthest parts of the nation at the same moment.

Publicity Director Appointed for Arms Conference

Secretary of State Hughes has named as director of publicity for the American delegation at the Conference on Limitation of Armament, Philip H. Patchin. Mr. Patchin, as a newspaper man has had much experience in the reporting of important conferences. He was the assistant secretary of the American Mission during the peace conference at Paris, has served in the State Department, and crowded much other general experience into his 37 years.

Half a Ton of Soil Brought From Verdun Battlefield in France for Memorial Tree Ceremony in New York.

On Armistice Day, representatives of the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, will plant, at White Plains, New York, fifty memorial trees, each in honor of a White Plains man who gave his life in the World War. The trees will be planted along a parkway and river drive and at the root of each will be placed soil from the Verdun battlefield. Half a ton of earth is being brought to this country for the purpose.

Annual Conference of Governors

Charleston, S. C., is to be the place of meeting for Governors of all the States this year. December 5, is the date set for the annual conference, at which the governors will consider the important problems now confronting the states and the country.

This Country is Exporting Tremendous Quantities of Prunes, Raisins, Bacon and Condensed Milk to Europe.

Not all American raisins and prunes are going into "home brew." Nearly 2 million pounds of raisins and 5 million pounds of prunes were exported through the port of New York in September alone. Most of these went to England. France received from the New York shipment for September about a million pounds of prunes and 38,500 pounds of dried peaches.

Bacon is one of the largest exports, 31 million pounds going out in a month. Of this, between 6 and 7 million pounds each, went to England and Germany.

21,267 bushels of onions, 20,465 dozens of eggs, and 218,330 pounds of butter were among the September shipments from New York.

Nearly 25 million pounds of evaporated milk and 7,025,864 pounds of condensed milk were exported in the same month.

Some of the imports through the port of New York for September were, 45 million pounds of coffee, 3 million pounds of tea, 1 million pounds of rice, 2 million pounds of currents—these came from Greece—and a million bunches of bananas.

Prohibition and Suffrage are Sought in Mexico. Country Not so Backward and Law- less as "Mexican Border Stories" Suggest.

The Mexican Minister of Government who is now in this country, has been dispersing to considerable extent the idea of civic darkness which popular American conception has associated with life in the Mexican states. The minister, himself, General Calles, is strongly in favor of national prohibition for Mexico and says that strong and active organizations are fighting for prohibition laws throughout the country. In Mexico, this reform must come by states, the Federal government having no power to enact such a national statute.

Woman suffrage as a popular movement toward better local conditions and general government, is also vigorously growing according to General Calles' report. Mexican leaders and thinkers both in industry and government are considering the social well being of the people. They desire satisfied workmen, living under a high standard of conditions at work and at home, whose children will be educated and help to build a rich and progressive nation.

The Oldest Industry

When the pioneer farmer began to sow and reap, the development of America had begun. The world has moved forward since Colonial days, but it has not left the farmer behind, and today a new generation tills the same fields under conditions never dreamed of by the early settlers.

Gasoline and electricity have made the farmer more of a business man and less a laborer. He reaches a wider market and reaches it more quickly than ever before.

The telephone was among the first improvements to come to his aid. It puts him in quick communication with his neighbors and with the buyers of his produce. It takes him to the city and in a measure brings the city to him. The farm has been robbed of its isolation and lonesomeness.

The Bell System has kept pace with the State's progress, and often has been the advance guard of a community's development. The growth of every section may be measured by the extension of its telephone service.

Highway Commission Lauds Marvel

Commends His Work for the Public

Exceptional but in good form, generous, but well deserved was the Resolution adopted by the Highway Department upon the resignation of Josiah Marvel from the Highway Commission. To have received such commendation must make him feel that the world with all its petty prejudices and criticisms is worth while, after all.

The resolution follows: "WHEREAS, the Members of the Highway Department have learned with great regret that Mr. Josiah Marvel, who has been a Highway Commissioner since the organization of the Department, has felt compelled to resign, and

"WHEREAS, the remaining Commissioners are much impressed with the great loss the State and the Highway Department have sustained by reason of such resignation and feel that they ought to give some expression of their appreciation of his services,

"NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, by the State Highway Commission, that as a tribute to the great services rendered by Mr. Josiah Marvel, as a Member of the Highway Commission, the following facts be recorded:—

"1. He has given his valuable time to the work ungrudgingly, without stint, without pay, without even his necessary expenses, and without thought of sacrifice to himself.

"2. He brought to the Department his unusual ability, his great foresight for the necessity of good roads, his unbounded confidence in the State's ability, and his great faith in its people to do the right thing in the right way.

"3. He was foremost in building the necessary organization to do this work and has ever been alert and courageous in seeing that no weak spot remained in it longer than it could be removed.

"4. He has remained with and been a part of this organization long enough to be assured that shortly we shall see a splendid highway extending from the Northerly to the Southerly boundary of the State.

"5. Active as he has been for years in the politics of this State, he has conducted himself in this office with such unselfishness as to make the possibility of the Board becoming partisan, impossible.

"BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That in the opinion of this Commission this record of public services has seldom been excelled in this State, and in order that it may become a permanent record and be better appreciated by all Delawareans, we direct that this Resolution be spread upon the minutes of the Board and a copy thereof furnished to the Public Press."

DAD HEARS OF COLLEGE IN HIS DAY

Women's College,
November 7, 1921.

Dear Dad:

Last Thursday we had the nicest thing that ever was happen to the college. The alumnae of the Wesleyan Female College, no longer in existence, came down to present a tablet in memory of their school. None of us knew exactly what we were there for when we assembled in the chapel room at three o'clock, but we didn't have to wait long. Promptness was the first of many virtues that group of people showed they possessed. There must have been about thirty of the alumnae and the liveliest set you'd ever hope to see though it's been half a century since some of them were graduated.

Mrs. Burris, of Middletown, presented the tablet which was placed on the side wall of the chapel room, a bronze dignified in its plainness, for it has only the name Wesleyan Female College, Wilmington, Delaware, and the dates, 1837-1886. Then the Registrar presented the Women's College with a steel box containing many valuable records, among them the charter for Delaware College. A banner framed, a picture of the group, Liberty Bonds to be put to our Student Loan Fund were then given us, but 'tis not the intrinsic value of the gifts that counts, but the spirit in which they were given.

To many of us, it seemed sad to think that their college is no more, though its influence certainly lives, and now even their Alumnae Association is no more for they are all getting old which makes it harder for them to get together. But sad as it may have seemed to us, they were apparently having the time of their lives. Once two of them got to throwing verbal bouquets about appearances long ago, and the quick repartee caused one laugh after another to ripple over the student body. Mention was made of beaux, flowers and long yellow curls. This made some of us shiver to compare our short locks.

Then they sang the song that for over fifty years has been sung by them as a parting song. Their dear old voices were sweet and clear as they sang as a group for the last time.

These "girls" fond recollections of their Alma Mater, and the love they have held for it for so many years made us realize a little of the joy that is to be ours when we have an Alma Mater. And I know that the Bronze Tablet they have given us will ever serve as a reminder, not only of the college which was then the only Women's College in Delaware as ours is now, but of the Wesleyan Alumnae, one of the dearest, quaintest, "peppiest" groups we have ever had in that chapel room. And not only have they left us an impression of themselves, but they have left a spirit which will be an inspiration to us all. Now, as the Dean said next morning, we should realize more fully the meaning of the phrase, "Women's College never dies" in our own Alma Mater. Will it ever die, I wonder. Not if we can help it.

I know that I haven't told you much of this week's news, but its getting late, and I did so want to tell you about this; so everything else will have to wait. I may be home Friday, for Armistice Day we have no classes. In other words a holiday on the eleventh!

Yours,
ROSEMARY.

William Gillette at The Playhouse

William Gillette, whose name and successes are indelibly associated with the name and successes of Charles Frohman, will appear under the management of the Charles Frohman Company at The Play House, Wilmington, for three nights opening Monday, November 14th, as the re-opening attraction. Mr. Gillette will appear in "The Dream Maker" in the dual role of star and dramatist. He will be seen as an eccentric, resourceful and imperturbably dominant physician who has strolled into a set of conditions at a summer hotel colony in which the heroine without a suspicion is about to be embroiled in a frightful scandal and stripped of a small fortune by a gang of cunning crooks masquerading as fellow-guests at the hotel. The manner and method employed by Mr. Gillette in battling with the adventures and eventually rescuing the heroine from her predicament and routing the villains will be exposed in the performance itself without preliminary disclosures in the press. It may be guessed that there will be plenty of skill and excitement evinced for Mr. Gillette is a pastmaster at that sort of things, as is testified by his "Secret Service,"

"Sherlock Holmes" and numerous other outputs.

"The Dream Maker" is the first play from his own pen in which Mr. Gillette has appeared in several seasons—in fact since the revival of "Sherlock Holmes," for his latest starring tours have been in Clare Kummer's "A Successful Calamity" and J. M. Barrie's "Dear Brutus." His new play is based upon a story not yet published by Howard E. Morton, who submitted it to Mr. Gillette for his critical opinion, and this opinion is best demonstrated by the fact that Mr. Gillette immediately made arrangements to dramatize the piece for his own benefit.

Support the Conference

Men there are and women, too, who, though strong advocates of the Treaty of Versailles, are truly hopeful of any success that may come at the approaching conference. They are those who think and act in terms of world good and not in political or personal gain. There are others, so blinded by prejudice, so politically peeved that President Wilson's idea was not accepted that they claim the Washington conference is only a Republican imitation of Versailles. This is unfortunate. We have no quarrel with advocates of the League of Nations. But the idea did not prevail in this country. The "War to end war" was the beginning, it seems, of greater armies and stronger navies. The Washington conference has a motive that should receive American support—not by Republican Americans alone, nor by pacifist Americans, not by women, but by all Americans of whatever creed or party. The staunchest supporter of Woodrow Wilson—yes, Woodrow Wilson himself, should be a strong, active and speaking force of America just now. And if ideals are above Ambitions and Ideas superior to Men, President Wilson and all those who believe with him will speak. The issue, like the League, is of World concern. Civilization stands at the Crossroads, and every leader in command in America during the World War as well as the rank and file who followed, should voice his experience and support.

The issue is too great, the opportunity too wonderful, the responsibility of America too tragic for former leaders to sulk in their tent.

The Ideal toward which we are striving is the "beating of swords into ploughshares." That Nations with their local views, social, religious and political, are ready to do this, is expecting too much. But any thing, by agreement, that will tend to lessen the waste and horror of war demands all that America's thought, time and energy can give. And that man, party, or organization giving less, has failed to catch the spirit of America today—or is opposed to it. And silence will at this time tell a tragic story.

Protect American Toys

"Made in Germany" toys—3000 tons of them, have arrived in Boston for the holiday trade. Made in Germany at a wage per week, not equal to an American wage per day—there's a practical problem in unemployment.

We are not one of those who said a few years ago that our children should never play with toys made in Germany. We still cherish the romance of Nuremberg where Christmas preparation lasts all the year. Our trade relations with Germany will be resumed, of course. The Hymn of Hate is not a popular number of America's repertoire. Many there were who voted discontinuance of the study of German language as a protest against Kultur, blind for the moment that Imperialism is in the hearts, not the tongues of men.

But the imported toys just now. It may seem a bit inconsistent for a tariff on Christmas Cheer, but with thousands out of employment and American Toy Industries, built up during the war, idle because of the free entry, there is a bit of practical business in a tariff on toys. It means employment, protected industry and an American toy—all of which appeal. Costing a bit more, true, but Christmas Joys made by American fathers, just now would be a practical aid to unemployment.

Anyhow, its American made toys for us this season. If we protect, by tariff, other industries, why not the toy business?

Civic Duty No Longer Appeals

Civic Duty and Civic Pride are worn-out terms. We recognize their meaning and obligation but we are tired of them. They are platform platitudes. They have lost their punch. They no longer challenge. The speaker loses his audience immediately he speaks of them. They are the threadbare texts and catch-words of Reformers and 'Ists—and the world is tired of washed-out preachments. Reformers are not so fashionable of late and until new words can be coined expressing the Truth found in these terms, citizens are forgetting those things these words once inspired.

Just for instance. What term could be used today that would appeal and challenge into action a citizen who owns a vacant lot grown up with weeds? Just what word could be expressed that would arouse a Church to clean up its back lawn? Where is the word that would challenge a community into action for scant decency in its schools? What can we say that will cause men of education and big business to take active part in politics?

A time there was when Civic Pride and Duty would cause the well-to-do citizen who owned land on resident streets to clean-up. Today he is legal advisor for some unemployment bureau. Once, Civic Pride would arouse a church organization in a Town Cleaning or Fly Campaign. Today they discuss National Child Welfare.

There was a day when local Public Schools were the vital topics of interest. Today we are discussing a Department of Education in the President's Cabinet.

What can we say? Would that we had the word that would arouse everyday citizenship to sense the obligation imposed by American Institutions.

Leading Citizens of our communities are dissipating their energies. Thinking in terms of Nations, they have neglected affairs at home. We need a bit of Civic Pride or some substitute here in Delaware. Yes, even Newark is sometimes neglected. A wonderful opportunity for that Leading Citizen of yesterday to come back. But Civic Pride and Duty are not words that appeal. Someday they will come—words full of American life and challenge. Let us hope.

Women's Power in Politics

"Oh, women will not do any thing, 'cept being a nuisance around convention time. And we'll fix that. They like resolutions and platform stuff, so we'll put 'em on the platform committee and go into convention and nominate anybody we want to. Then we'll get 'em registered and they'll have to vote."

That's the argument and point of view of a rural district leader—and it holds the secret of success or failure of women in politics in Delaware. Their real power and only power of practical consequence is their vote in the primaries. The selection of delegates to the next Convention is just the thing the Old Guard Politician does not want the woman to interfere with. He'll put up with her at the Convention. Yes, he will even agree to having some women delegates. But to have them start their work early by getting registered and taking part in selecting a controlling majority of delegates to the Convention—that is the Politician's Great Fear and the Women's Great Chance. Few women are acquainted with this advantage and those old gamblers directing the game from the counting room, broker's office and secret councils, are not anxious that this information be widely circulated.—It means a new day—and their political death. And a few first class political funerals might be a good thing. In fact, the State might survive an epidemic.

Daisies and Poppies

The American Legion at the Kansas City Convention adopted the "Wild Daisy" as the official flower, meaning in Flower Language, "I will think of thee." Touchingly appropriate! Someone has suggested that "wild daisies" should be in the center of the Conference table at Washington. Yes, and mingled with them should be "poppies from Flanders Field," recalling,

Take up our quarrel with the foe!
To you from falling hands we throw
The torch. Be yours to hold it high!
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep though poppies grow
In Flanders field.

Versailles and Washington

"God's Providence won the War; I feel that the same Providence will help settle after-the-war conditions and that it will preside at the conference of Nations at Washington," said Marshall Foch on board ship, coming to visit America.

"We have been raised up and preserved in national power and consequence as part of a plan whose wisdom we cannot question. Thus believing, we can do no less than hold our nation the willing instrument of the Providence which has so wonderfully favored us," said President Harding in his Thanksgiving Proclamation.

In the Treaty of Versailles you will find no mention of God, no allusion to a Supreme Being, no acknowledgement of a Directing Providence.

As Others See Us

The great foreign commanders who witnessed the march past of the American Legion in Kansas City saw more than a parade and heard more than the music and the cheering.

Said Marshal Foch: "Here is the soul of the United States—men of high ideals, men who would make a fine backbone of any nation."

"The American soldier," said Gen. Diaz, "is the most dangerous type of fighter—the fighter who smiles."

"The legion," declared Admiral Beatty, "is a power which is important to influence the world."

And Gen. Jacques, of Belgium, declared: "They have the souls of eternal youth; they are sublime."

These leaders are accustomed to evaluate men, in the largest armies, by far, that history records. They have witnessed heroism in every manifestation. Men who failed to rise to what was expected of them in the line of duty never won their eulogy. Their utterance is the appraisal of soldiers by soldiers who themselves went through every tribulation of the war.

No man who has known from within what the American armies did in France will venture to belittle their performance or to underrate the quality of the men who composed the rank and file. The testimony of those who well knew whom they led is the veracious and acceptable evidence.—Public Ledger.

Air Trips Round the World In 17 Days. Practical Men Say Dream Will Come True

Some very practical men have been sitting round a table in Paris recently planning how to make a dream come true. The men are the promoters of a great Airway Congress and Aero Show being held in Paris this fall, and the dream is that air travel around the world can be so perfected that the trip can be made in seventeen days. Everything is planned and mapped out on paper for this amazing journey covering 27,000 miles in seventeen days. The route starting from London would be eastward. Constantinople, Cairo, Australia, San Francisco and New York would be on the route of the air ships leaving London at 8 a. m. Monday and reaching London at 8 a. m. Thursday, seventeen days later. Accomplishing the trip in a month would still seem pretty much like a dream, and even the most enthusiastic planners admit that there are a good many missing links to be joined up in the world air chain before even this can be accomplished. All agree, however, that air travel wonders are coming much faster than even the dreamers dreamed.

Delaware Wallops Western Maryland

Go Up Against Lafayette Next Week

Delaware's flying Yellowjackets added another victory to their string by walloping Western Maryland by the overwhelming score of 48 to 6. The Blue and Gold continued its phenomenal playing and trampled the Maryland defense ruthlessly underfoot. On the defense the line played well, the visiting backs failing to puncture it for more than one or two first downs.

Western Maryland's lone touchdown came as the result of an intercepted lateral pass in the first few minutes of play, when Williams tossed late to Jackson. Delaware showed lots of power, however, and soon started a march for a touchdown. Straight football put the ball across and after that it was one procession after another for the goal line. Time saved the visitors seven points, for Delaware was on the four-yard line when the whistle blew for the end of the contest.

Jack Williams, pile-driver of parts, was one of the luminaries of the afternoon. The big full-back was at his best, tearing holes in the Maryland line and dragging several tacklers many yards before being downed. Williams seemed hard to stop, for the terrific drive which has always characterized his playing was much in evidence. Harry Jackson, Freshman halfback, played his usual game, gaining ground consistently. Jackson's thrusts off-tackle are hard to stop because of the shifty way he runs, and Ward and his running mate did not seem to be able to solve the difficulty. Joe Rothrock, who has been playing backfield this year for the first time, showed his heels time and again to would-be tacklers. Rothrock's size and speed point him as a star of the first magnitude with another year's experience. Johnnie Schaeffer, hard-working quarterback and one of the gamest men on the field, was forced to take the count in the third quarter when he received a kick on the head. Schaeffer played his consistent game and ran his team well until he was removed from the field in an unconscious condition. Doc Steel, in the substitute position, broke loose for a long run and a touchdown. The line played a tearing game and refused to give ground under the most determined offense that Western Maryland could put forth. It opened up wide holes for the backs to slip through, and got into the interference on many plays.

Next week Delaware opposes the big Maroon squad at Lafayette.

DELAWARE UNIVERSITY SO RECOGNIZED BY CONFERENCES

While Delaware College by legislative enactment as far as the State of Delaware is concerned, became a University some months ago, admittance of the University this week to membership in the National Association of State Universities, places the local institution on an equal footing with the great state universities throughout the country.

This action admitting Delaware into the ranks of other state universities was taken at a meeting of the Presidents of the Universities belonging to the National Association of State Universities being held at New Orleans. A telegram from Dr. Walter Hulihan, President of the University of Delaware, who is attending the New Orleans convention, announced the favorable action relative to Delaware.

This action in admitting Delaware to the referred to association cannot be underestimated. It gives the institution an official standing among other institutions which could not be secured in any other way. As a matter of fact it places Delaware on an equal footing as a state university with such great state universities as Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota, etc.

In order to obtain this standing a university must comply with the general standards required by the Carnegie Foundation. This Delaware has done. President Hulihan has been working for some months to secure official recognition from other state universities and the action of the association at New Orleans brings about the results that he has been aiming for.

With President Hulihan at New Orleans are Dean Charles A. McCue, director of the University Experimental Station, and Prof. George L. Schuster, agronomist at the University. They are attending the convention of the Association of Land Grant Colleges to which Dr. Hulihan is also a delegate.

ROAD BUILDING ONE OF THE COUNTRY'S GREATEST INDUSTRIES

Annual Good Roads Congress Will Meet in January

Highway construction has become one of the country's greatest industries, according to E. L. Powers, secretary of the American Road Builders Association. Mr. Powers in preparing for an important meeting of the Association to be held in New York, November 15, has called attention to the facts supporting this statement: There are identified with highway construction in this country 80,000 highway officials, 7,000 road contractors, 2,000 bridge contractors, 1,196 manufacturers and dealers in road building machinery materials and appliances, 7,338 firms manufacturing highway transportation equipment, 15,000 civil and highway engineers, 10,000 chemical and other engineers, and 842 highway associations and engineers' and contractors' associations, as well as many publications devoted to good roads.

That the manufacture of vehicles dependent upon good roads runs up into billions of dollars of invested capital, is another point made by Secretary Powers. He continues, "Road building is largely in its infancy. Eighty-five per cent. of American roads are yet to be surfaced. The automobile having merged city and country, we have reached the point where advancement in production and trade hereafter will be more dependent upon careful maintenance of the highways now existing and the rapid development of new ones. The stability and growth of the entire automotive industry, as well as that of road building and all its branches, are absolutely dependent upon good roads." The twelfth Good Roads Congress will be held in Chicago, January 17 to 20.

"Indignation and Information"

In Atchison, Kansas, a paper issued by Ed Howe, is devoted to "Indignation and Information." The editor believes in making his paper a safety-valve for just resentment, but the "indignation" is by no means of the usual type got off by the chronically disgruntled. An example of Ed Howe's attitude toward that type of citizen is quoted by Colliers as the theme of an editorial devoted to present industrial development. This is that there is no use sitting back and demanding "new conditions" before we contribute brain, energy, and resources to improving business and other things. As Ed Howe says: "There will be no new conditions; we must make better use of old conditions."

American Women Increase in Height

Measurements of women today collected and compared with the records of our grandmothers show that the present day women average four inches gain in height, say the athletic instructors and students of physique. "Our grandmothers," it is claimed in a recent report, stood five feet in their shoes, but their daughters measure five feet four inches, and some of their robust and athletic granddaughters of today measure from five feet five to five feet ten, in their stockings.

Elsie Janis and Her Gang Coming

Elsie Janis and her Gang in a brand new offering will be seen at The Playhouse, Wilmington, on November 17, 18 and 19, as the reopening attraction. Returning from Europe after a triumphant two years as actress-manager, both in Paris and London, Miss Janis immediately started the writing and staging of a new and novel production. Surrounded by Jurien Thayer, Charles Lawrence, Bradley Kurchio, Frank Miller and the rest of "her Gang" of former soldiers, with the addition of a host of pretty girls, Elsie is presenting the most unique, intimate revue that our stage has ever seen. The show is full of sprightly and contagious humor, heaps of brilliant singing and dancing, with Elsie Janis and her Gang in the best performance of the career.

Opera House Offerings

CHARMING STORY OF #### LIFE IN THE SOUTH

A beautiful story, delightfully depicted by some of the most characteristic types ever seen in a screen drama, is George Melford's new Paramount production, "The Jucklins," which will be shown at the Newark Opera House, Tuesday, November 15th.

The characters of Opie Read's famous novel, seem to have been lifted bodily out of the book and transformed into a living, breathing, moving people. Monte Blue, who plays Bill Hawes, the country school teacher, seems a living double for the author's character creation, and so is Charles Ogle, who interprets old Lem Jucklin to perfection.

"The Jucklins" is a tale of Southern country folks after the Civil War. There are two beautiful romances, and the story contains all the other requisite elements, such as suspense, mystery and appeal.

FOX STAR SURPRISES

"EXTRA" IN FIGHT

Johnnie Walker, co-star with Edna Murphy in William Fox productions, is as genial and gracious a youth as ever thrashed a villain on the screen. But in the role of Johnny Rowan in "What Love Will Do," which is booked at the Newark Opera House, Saturday, November 12th, the young Rowan has some fierce fist fights with members of his gang. It is Johnnie Walker's custom to put a good deal of vim into such scenes, but he tries to do it without really hurting any of his fellow actors seriously.

A husky extra, employed by Director William K. Howard for one of these rough scenes, smiled scornfully when Walker explained to him how he could twist his chin so as to catch a blow on the shoulder while it would seem, on the screen, to crash against his jaw. The man winked at another extra and said in an aside:

"I shan't bother. The kid can't hurt me."

Johnnie Walker is not a heavy-weight. The extra did not twist his chin away from that realistic punch for the film, and the result was a real knockout; also bruised knuckles for the young star. Walker then asked that Director Howard hereafter hire extras with less bone in their heads or in their jaws.

FANNIE HURST'S RISE

Fannie Hurst, author of "Humoresque," showing at the Newark Opera House Wednesday, November 16th, learned much of the intensely human side from acting as "sister" on a newspaper. Just out of college Miss Hurst secured a job on the paper at a time when women reporters were practically unknown. She made good from the start, showing an amazing facility for writing up the tears and smiles of ordinary life in an appealing manner. Soon she entered the magazine field, and today she is one of the highest paid writers in America. She receives well over $2,000 for a single story.

"Humoresque" ran serially in a popular magazine and was later published as a novel. The spirit of the book was transferred to the screen with remarkable fidelity under the direction of Frank Borzage. The work of Alma Rubens, Vera Gordon and Gaston Glass, and Dore Davidson in the chief roles is said to be particularly pleasing. Cosmopolitan Productions made the picture and it is a Paramount release.

Baltimore Has Gift of Statue of Poe

A memorial statue, larger than life, of Edgar Allan Poe, was recently presented to the city of Baltimore by the Poe Memorial Association. The statue is of bronze on a marble base and has been erected near the entrance to Wyman's park, in the northern part of the city. The memorial is the work of the late Sir Moses Ezekiel, who completed the statue at his studio in Rome in 1917. On account of the war it was not brought to this country until this year.

"THE STORE ACCOMMODATING"

Sypherd's Bible as Seen by Editor of Every Evening

The craftsmen at Kells—"their shop is on Welsh Lane at Newark, Delaware"—this week presented to the reading public "The English Bible," edited, with introduction and explanatory notes, by Dr. Wilbur Owen Sypherd, Professor of English in the University of Delaware.

This work will be the despair of printers who love beautiful typography, the quarry of bookish folk who have wanted Biblical gold smelted from conventional forms, and a matter of un-Christian envy for all Professors of English who had planned to do what Dr. Sypherd has already done well.

An excerpt from the foreword will give the reader the idea which caused the craftsmen at Kells to publish this edition of the Scriptures: "To make some of the best parts of a great old book more readable and more understandable to the modern reader is the purpose of this book of Selections from the King James Version of the English Bible. The basis of selection is the relative significance of the stories, songs, essays, letters of the Bible as literature and in literature. * * * The language of the King James Version has been strictly preserved, the Oxford University Press reprint of the first issue of the Authorized Version of 1611, being used. An attempt has been made to present these parts of the Bible in the form of a modern book of poetry and prose, with marginal and centre headings to assist in an easy comprehension of the subject matter on the part of students in school and college and of the general reader in the home."

Dr. Sypherd made a success of this labor of years. He has given to the world the first edition of the English Bible which is inviting to read. Everett Johnson, the master worker at Kells, used brains in designing the book. The result is a big, constructive work which should cause every Delawarean to be proud. Not only did a native Delawarean conceive and execute the idea of this volume, but it was printed in Delaware, on paper made in Delaware especially for the edition. Sypherd's Bible—and we predict that will be its name in the mind of the reading public—is beautifully bound in cloth and stamped with gold, thus attracting the eye as would some work of biography, history, or beautiful letters.

This Bible is destined to become the traveling companion and the desk watchman of those folk who love the beauty of the King James Version, but who have deplored the form in which that version has hitherto been presented. The sanctimonious black leather cover, the rounded and flapping edges, the heavy gilt tops, the verse numbering and inane chapter divisions always deterred these from a more enjoyable companionship with the greatest collection of poems, essays, biography, epigrams and history in any tongue.

Some effort in the past was made to publish the Bible in a more pleasing form. First came the English Revised Version. That had as its main object the clarification of the text for the benefit of the average reader. The result was the total destruction of the majesty, color and warmth of the text of 1611. The American Revised Version was almost similar. Certain clouded passages were made comprehensible, possibly, but at what an expense!

The New Century Bible, in thirty-odd volumes, was beyond the means of the average reader. This edition, unfortunately for those who are interested in the Bible mainly for its literary value, preserved that sanctimonious look. Moulton's Modern Reader's Bible, except for the absence of the King James Version, was very near being what the bookish layman wanted. It printed poetry as poetry, drama as drama—but it made quite a bulky object, as all of the Bible was placed between the covers, not a single "be-gat" being omitted.

Dr. Sypherd has culled from this work those unimportant portions which are of little interest to anyone. The long, boring genealogies were forgone; the major histories of minor tribes which never amounted to anything were cast aside; the Psalms which are never read—not even in churches—were left out.

But the important parts of every Biblical book are there, divided into logical chapters, and separated into paragraphs as Dr. Sypherd believed they should be. All verse numbers are omitted. Poetry is printed as poetry, in forms pleasing to the eye. Epigrams are paraphrased neatly. Prose is arranged invitingly. And—joyfully to state—the type is large, clear, and easy, so easy on tired eyes. The lines are well spaced, and the margins are wide. There is plenty of room on the left for copious notes. The paper is a light linen rag—none of that sanctimonious India stuff being used. In fact, Sypherd's Bible is such an unsanctimonious looking book that one may read it in the smoker of a through train while a poker game is in progress without attracting the attention of other travelers.

Delaware is noted today for powder and glazed kid—principally powder. In the minds of the unknowing this State is merely a huge powder dump. But tomorrow Delaware will be known as that State which produced Sypherd's Bible. The latter will live for ages to come—thanks to the craftsmen at Kells, who are devoting their lives to giving beauty to a very sad old world.

Rehab Writes of The Hero

By Gracille H. Tatem
Who is that man, with medals grand,
Coming down the street,
Swinging along, amid the throng,
In uniform so clean and neat?
Why he's a World War Hero.

Glad was he, when he sailed o'er the sea,
Glad to return to those who love him.
He's proud you can see, as proud as can be
Of the starry flag above him.
He's proud to be a hero.

He whistles a song, as he marches along,
It's Armistice Day and he's happy.
He hasn't a care, he's glad to be there,
Dressed in his best and so snappy.
He's glad to be a hero.

Here stands a lad, so weary and sad,
Sunken eyes, face furrowed with care,
He stands in the rear, and attempts to cheer,
As his buddies march along out there.
He's a poor wounded hero.

He too marched away, and fought in the fray,
Was hit, while the bullets were flying.
They found him one night, after the fight
On the battlefield, wounded and dying.
Isn't he also a hero?

No medals or stars, just a few battle scars,
Is all this soldier is wearing.
He stands with head bowed, on the edge of the crowd,
He also deserves some cheering
For he too is a World War Hero.

Delaware Ready for Lafayette

Coach Derby put the Delaware squad through a hard scrimmage yesterday afternoon. The scrubs were given the Lafayette plays that the scouts saw at the Lafayette-Penn game last Saturday to work against the varsity. Delaware meets the great Lafayette team at Easton, Pa., next Saturday. The squad is in excellent physical shape and the players are anxious for the Lafayette fray with the belief that the latter will not run up the large score that many football fans are predicting because of the wonderful showing of Coach Southerlands team this year. There are any number of Delaware followers who predict that Lafayette will not run up near as large a score on Delaware as Penn did in the opening game of the season, notwithstanding the fact that Lafayette easily defeated Penn last Saturday. They are claiming that Delaware has improved 100 per cent both in defense and offense since the Penn game.

Much interest is centered locally in the coming game between Delaware and P. M. C., to be played at Harlan Field, Wilmington, Saturday of next week. This will be the first time in 12 to 15 years that a Delaware team has played in Wilmington, and as there is keen rivalry between the Chester eleven and Delaware the game should attract a record crowd. It will be started at 2:30 o'clock. This game is to be played in Wilmington because of a demand of a large number of alumni of that city for one home game in Wilmington, and also because the P. M. C. officials were anxious for it to be played there.

Ready for Basketball

Never in the history of basketball at the University of Delaware has there been such a large squad of candidates out for the team as this year. Yesterday afternoon about fifty candidates were in uniform in practice under the instructions of Coach Shipley. G. Gray Carter, for two years star forward on the varsity eleven, who has given up sports owing to an injury of his back received in baseball in 1920, is assisting Coach Shipley with the new material.

There are a large number of Freshmen out but it is entirely too early to judge of the ability of any of these candidates. While there will be no inter-collegiate games until after the Christmas holidays, Coach Shipley, owing to the fact of having to build up almost an entirely new team is determined to give the men plenty of practice which will afford him an opportunity of getting a good line on the material before the holidays. The inter-class games will be started as soon as the football season is over.

The practice that the large squad was put through yesterday was largely in the fundamentals of the game. The candidates were divided up into two squads with the new men practicing at one basket and the men who have been out before working at the basket in the north end of the gymnasium. Among the latter men were Captain Wills, Cole, Keith, "Skeet" Wilson, Robinson, and several others.

Newark High Defeats New Castle

On Friday afternoon, the Newark High School football team won with a score of 22 to 6 from the New Castle High School on Frazer Field. Proud, of the visiting team, was about to get a kick from behind his goal, in the last few minutes of the game, when he was smothered by the local boys and they got a safety.

Newark now holds the championship for New Castle and Sussex counties. The State Championship cannot be played off until Kent county decides which of her three best teams is the winner for the county. One more game and Newark either holds or loses the State championship. They were to play Georgetown this Friday, but due to the unsettled conditions there, it has been decided to call the game off. They expect to have a game this Thursday with either the Sophomores or Freshmen of the University, and Elkton High School on Friday the 18th, on Frazer Field.

The line-up for last Friday's game was:

Newark	New Castle
H. Hopkins	L. E. King
Hahn	L. T. Cannon
Poole	L. G. Duling
Cook	R. G. Tobin
Strahorn	C. Holliday
Manns	R. T. Toman

	(J. Cannon)

Touchdowns:	Hubert 2, Schwartz,

STANTON NOTES

Due to the dangerous condition of the trolley track in Stanton near the Methodist Episcopal Church, another serious accident occurred last Wednesday. The wheel of an automobile driven by M. Cunningham caught in the track when he was making an attempt to cross and overturned the car. The family was badly shaken up and feel fortunate that some of them were not seriously injured.

This is the third accident of its kind to happen at these crossings and some precaution should be made to prevent them in the future.

Of course you have noticed that the people in this world who get what they go after usually go to the Bank first. And you've also noticed that the people for whom Dame Fortune has a "come hither" expression in her eye are those who go to Bank regularly. Which prompts the remark that even if our savings window is some times crowded it's an inspiration to be one of a crowd of "go getters."

Your way, not My way,
in building a home

Express Your Own
Ideas

Have you ever had an idea that you wanted built into a room or a house---something individual, a sort of a part of yourself ---and have the contractor or carpenter say, "It can't be done," "why that's a foolish notion," "what do you want it that way for" or "why don't you do it this way?"

Have you ever had that experience and realized how it took the pleasure out of the whole thing?

In building a house, this is serious. A home, at its best, is expressive of the owner, not of the contractor.

Realizing that, I have always tried to catch the idea of the man who was employing me and do the job HIS way, not MY way.

The result is a satisfied customer, and often a new idea that appeals to all who see it.

Let us talk over your building plans.
