Midsummer Night's Dream to be Next E52 Production

The Play Selection Committee of the E52 Players has just announced that it has scheduled Shakespeare's merry fantasy A MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM for production by the Players on May 15. In order to insure proper preparation of this classic, tryouts are to be held next week. Anyone who is interested in trying for one of the many roles should report to Mitchell Hall between 3:15 and 5:30 on Tuesday or Wednesday of next week.

This production will be directed by Dr. Alvin Kronacher, visiting professor of Dramatics. During his long and extensive career in the European Theatre, Dr. Kronacher has staged innumerable presentations of the works of Shakespeare and so brings to Mitchell Hall a great artistic and practical background.

A MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM, one of Shakespeare's earlier plays, is one of his most delightful comedies. It shows the great range of the dramatist who could in the same period also write a spectacle as harrowing as TITUS ANDRONICUS and a tragedy as beautiful as ROMEO AND JULIET. It contains a number of excellent comic roles as well as several romantic parts.

Copies of the play will be kept on reserve in the library. All persons wishing to try for parts are urged to read the play carefully before coming to tryouts. This should be done with an eye towards determining what part or parts the applicant wishes to try for, and what interpretation is to be given to that role. Tryouts will start promptly at 3:15 on Tuesday and Wednesday, but applicants are reminded that they may come at any time before 5:30.

Extensive rehearsals will not begin until after the Spring Vacation, but Dr. Kronacher wishes to begin immediately on individual rehearsals, which will be scheduled at the convenience of the members of the cast.

Sig Eps Preparing For Annual Formal

Preparations are underway for the Sigma Phi Epsilon formal dance, to be held in the Commons of Old College, next Friday night from nine until one o'clock.

The Delaphan dance is the first of the annual spring formal dances given by each of the five Delaware fraternities. Members and pledges of the fraternity and their guests will dance to the music of Larry Potin's orchestra, which will come to Newark from Philadelphia.

The Sig Ep House will be a veritable beehive of activity next week as both pledges and actives prepare the decorations and carry them to the Commons to be arranged by Eugene DiSabatino, chairman of decorations. Brandishing a paddle in one hand, a submarine sandwich in the other and barking out orders to the frightened pledges, "Sabby" will carry out his proposed plans in an orderly fashion until the job is completed in the wee hours of the morning.

Assisting "Sabby" will be Charles "Sleeping Beauty" Moore. Together, they have devised a plan for decorating the Commons in a manner which they claim will astound all who attend.

Students Wanted

Want to earn some money? The Delaware College Commons have replaced some of their help with students. More students will be given jobs. See Miss Ort in Old College now. Get your name on the list early.

Art Department Exhibits Water Colors by Members

An exhibition of Water Colors by members of the faculty of the University of Delaware Art Department opened last Saturday in the Art Gallery of the Memorial Library at the University. The exhibition will continue through February 28.

The Water Colors are Landscapes done in different parts of our country. "Carmel Mission" by Harriet Bailey, was exhibited in the Philadelphia Annual Water Color Show at the Academy of Fine Arts in that city, during the months of November and December, 1941.

Two of the paintings are Delaware landscapes. "T.M. 1808", by Jane Gardner, is an interesting old stone shed of that date on a farm near Newark. Miss Gardner is a member of the National Association of Women Artists. Two of her Water Colors were included in the Annual Exhibition of that Association held last month at the National Academy of Design, in New York City.

Elizabeth Child is represented by Water Colors done on a trip to the West Coast during the summer of 1941.

Also on exhibition with the Water Colors in the Art Gallery is a case of unusual hand-wrought jewelry by Edith Elgner, who was formerly a member of the Art Department faculty.

Choir to Broadcast Over WDEL, Sun.

The University of Delaware Choir and Madrigal singers will have several numbers broadcast next Sunday, February 15, at 11:30 o'clock, when the program arranged by Leonard Quinto, president of the music section of the Delaware State Education Association, in cooperation with the National Broadcasting Company, will be presented at station WDEL and will be sent over the Red Network in a coast to coast program.

"Americana" is the theme of these Sunday broadcasts which are produced from different states at various times during the year. The principal number of Delaware's program will be a short story dramatizing the ride of Caesar Rodney.

The All-State High School band under the direction of Wilbert Hitchener will also be heard on the program.

The broadcast will originate from the auditorium of the P. S. duPont High School in Wilmington.

Heads I. M. A.

Andre Malecot

Chosen to be president of the Independent Men's Association, Andre Malecot will take over his duties at the first dance of the year on February 21. He has been active in the I. M. A. since his freshman year.

Third Delaware Play Festival Gets Underway

Sixteen educational and community theatres are already entered in the Third Delaware Play Festival, according to an announcement made today by Dr. C. R. Kase, Director of the Dramatic Center at the University of Delaware.

The theatres entered include the H. C. Conrad High School, William Penn High School, Newark High School, Middletown High School, Alexis I. DuPont High School, Wilmington High School, Dover High School, Laurel High School, Georgetown High School, Selbyville High School, Bridgeville High School, Greenwood High School, Archmere Academy, the Wilmington Drama League, the University Drama Group of Newark, and the "Y" Players of Wilmington.

The finals for this year's Festival will be held on April 25 at the University. Previous to this time Elimination Tournaments will be held for the public schools in each of the counties and for the private schools and community theatres.

Winners in the State finals last year were Dover High School in the Public School division, Salesianum in the Private School Division, and the Community Players of Salisbury in the Community Theatres Division.

The Committee in charge of the Festival this year consists of: Robert Durkee of Alexis I. DuPont School, chairman, Virgil Wiley of Bridgeville High, Miss Blanche Lee of Smyrna High School, Miss C. Louise Jackson of the H. C. Conrad High School, Miss Phyllis Wood of the Tower High School, Dr. John Sachs of the Wilmington Drama League, and Mrs. C. M. Jennelle of the Community Players, Salisbury.

College Hour

The College Hour on Tuesday will consist of a debate between the University of Delaware and Yeshiva College of New York City. The question under debate is, "Resolved: that youth has a fair opportunity under our American System of Competitive Enterprise." Bernard Ableman and Lloyd Jones will represent Delaware, taking the negative side. Attendance is compulsory.

Faculty Approves Three Year Course To Start This Fall

At a recent meeting, the faculty of the University of Delaware approved the accelerated program which was recently authorized by the Board of Trustees. As described in last week's issue of THE REVIEW, the program will include three 14 week terms.

The University Committee on Courses and Degrees is holding meetings to work out necessary adjustments which must be made to the curriculum. The committee headed by Dean Golder, has been enlarged by the addition of several new members, representing the various courses.

Concerning the acceleration, President Mulliken said, "There is a great misunderstanding about the term 'acceleration', which seems to imply the intention of driving students at a higher speed than in the past. This idea is entirely erroneous. The same amount of time in class and laboratory will be given as in the four year course. The term 'acceleration' simply means accelerating the date of graduation, not the quality or quantity of work required.

The school year will be lengthened six weeks—three weeks at the beginning of the season, and three weeks at the end of the season. The length of holidays will be cut in half, and the teaching day will be lengthened ten per cent. These additions will make it possible to complete in three years the work heretofore done in four years."

Seven Students Join Sigma Nu

Seven initiates were initiated into the Sigma Nu Fraternity at a dinner meeting held last Saturday at the Newark Country Club. They were: David Parvis, Donald Long, John Dougherty, Harry Hoch, Taylor Hollingworth, Rodman Smith, and Robert Winter. The initiating team consisted of the following alumni: Arthur Craig, Victor Graham, William Hegendank, Jr., and Charles Jackson, all alumni of the chapter.

After the formal initiation ceremony which began at four thirty, a banquet was held at which Major Clarence A. Short, Howard Ennis, second commander of the Delta Kappa chapter, and Joseph Marshall, first commander of the chapter, gave short talks. These alumni told all, first commander of the chapter, and congratulated the members on the work they are doing.

Robert Bishop, present commander, thanked the alumni for their support in making the affair a success. Forty alumni attended the initiation and banquet.

Alumni to Hold Mid-Winter Dinner Next Saturday

Dr. Ernest C. Hallman Will be Speaker

Dr. Ernest Clifton Hallman, pastor of the Laurel (Del.) Methodist Church, will be the principal speaker at the University of Delaware Mid-Winter Alumni Banquet to be held in Old College, Newark, at 6:00 P.M., on Saturday, February 21, it was announced today by F. Allyn Cooch of Newark, Chairman of the Reunions Committee.

The Mid-Winter banquet is a traditional gathering of Delaware alumni which has been held annually on the Saturday nearest Washington's birthday for nearly a quarter of a century. It was also announced that the toastmaster will be Victor H. Jones, of Philadelphia, a graduate of Delaware College in the class of 1909.

Entertainment following the banquet will be provided by Allen Sterling, also of Philadelphia.

Those who have been invited to attend the banquet as guests are: Governor Walter W. Bacon, Lt. Gov. I. J. MacCollum, Dr. Walter Hüllihen Judge Hugh M. Morris, R. M. Carpenter, H. Rodney Sharp, Senator James J. Hughes, Senator James M. Tunnell, Congressman Philip A. Traynor, Clement B. Hallam, A. O. H. Orler, Joseph Martin, W. D. Murray, R. T. Ware, Elmer P. Cunningham, and William P. Frank.

At the conclusion of the banquet the alumni will attend the basketball game in Taylor Gymnasium between Randolph-Macon and the University of Delaware.

The committee in charge of arrangements consists of: Mr. Cooch '21, Chairman; LeRoy W. Hickman '03, Wilmington; Howard T. Ennis '12, Stockley; Horace L. Deakins '15, New Castle; Richard M. Appleby '17, New Castle; LeRoy B. Steele '17, Wilmington; Howard P. Young '22, Wilmington; Russell P. Hunt '26, Lansdowne, Pa.; John E. Harper '27, Philadelphia, Pa.; Charles B. Middleton '30, Wildwood, N. J.; William G. Ott '32, Hugh F. Gallagher '37, and Fred S. Price, Jr. '39, all of Wilmington.

Mitchell Hall Shakes As Rehearsals of The Male Animal Progress

Anyone attending recent rehearsals of THE MALE ANIMAL, forthcoming production of the E52 Players, might have received the impression that chivalry is dead in Mitchell Hall. For they would have seen brawny football player Art Millman tossing leading lady Anne O'Daniel about like the well-known sack of wheat.

No, they're not rehearsing a scene of violence; in fact, the scene is supposed to be a bit on the romantic side. Millman, portraying a former college football star, is seeing his college sweetheart for the first time in ten years. In his enthusiasm he sweeps her off the ground in a fond embrace.

Well, that seems easy enough. Art is definitely on the muscular side and Anne is far from being a Sophie Tucker. But Director C. R. Kase is a perfectionist who demands that a scene be done over and over again until it is just right. So they did it again and again and again until other members of the cast seemed to perceive a veritable stream of leading ladies flying through the air.

The Library ....

One of the main things that makes a university is its library. It has been said that a university is nothing more than a collection of books, a saying that implies a library easily accessible to its students and free from many of the petty restraints that many modern-day librarians like to impose.

Our own library is an excellent example of the deterioration of this principle. We have, perhaps, the most petty set of rules and regulations that make any student desire to avoid it whenever he can. The library is entwined with so much red tape that it prevents any freedom to students.

A student committee will soon be set up to consult with the faculty committee on the library. We would like to suggest certain reforms in the administration of that building.

First: The stacks should be opened to the students.

Second: The "index" should be abolished.

Third: All books, except those absolutely needed in the reference room, should be circulated.

Fourth: All the lighting should be turned on in the evening.

Fifth: Library hours should be extended.

Most of these proposals have been put forth by students in past years. They have always met with failure because of the librarian's opposition or that of the faculty committee. Several of these points were brought to the attention of the present librarian last year, but for unknown reasons were shelved.

We think that these suggestions are not too drastic; even to the present librarian.

The stacks should be opened, because, in spite of the librarian's protestation, most minor points that need to be looked up are not listed in the catalogue. In urging the abolishment of the "index", we must impress upon the library administration that the students are not children; they should not buy books that cannot be used, and which will only rot upon the shelves. As for all books circulating, it is readily apparent that the library is no comfortable place in which to read, and those books which are always in demand can be placed in the reference room. The extending of hours will not work any hardship upon the staff and would give students longer times in which to study.

We would like to suggest one more important change, and that is we wish the library staff would cease to regard the building and its contents as their personal property.

"As a generation, we have been using up the principal of our religious capital. Ethical ideas are rooted in religious faith; when one generation discards religion, the next generation may discard ethical ideas."
—Dr. William P. Tolley, president of Allegheny college, sees cause for alarm in the trend away from religion.

Letters To The Editor

Mr. Edward Butler
c/o THE REVIEW

Dear Ed:

Say, you ought to write for the Cauldron. Or rather, you and Al Boning ought to. I like your style. I mean I liked the style of that letter of yours in last week's REVIEW.

You know, Ed, you shouldn't be so modest. The Cauldron editors told me that they didn't receive a single line from either you or Al. Why, that's terribly nasty of you boys, depriving the world of the fruits of your talents.

Don't misunderstand me, Ed, I just like your literary style. I don't exactly concur in your opinions.

For instance, I don't agree that the Cauldron ought to be junked just because what you call a "clique" does all of the writing. I think what you mean is that the "clique" does all the contributing. Gosh, Ed, if good writers like you won't give the Cauldron a break, you can't expect the editors to make paper airplanes out of the stuff that is handed in.

It's bad enough when the preacher blames those who come to church for the absence of others, but when he stays home himself and criticizes those who come for those who don't—well, he's just making himself seem ridiculous.

And then I can't agree that we ought to scrap the Cauldron because the current issue is not up to the best standards. Of course, I don't know if it's good or bad. I read it and liked it very much, but after all, I'm a chemistry student, so I wouldn't be competent to judge the quality of the selections. I'll have to leave that up to you and Al. But even if the issue is a bad one, we can't chuck the Cauldron on that account. At least you shouldn't complain. Ed, you didn't contribute anything yourself. One of your articles would have made up for several of those you didn't like.

Come now, Ed, you wouldn't want to get rid of the Delaware football team just because the field will only hold eleven men at a time, or the swimming team, just because the boys haven't turned in a win at every meet. Of course not. You're a sensible man.

As to the Cauldron's being out of place at Delaware, I still can't agree. Of course, I know what they might print instead. But you can't, Ed. It's illegal.

Sincerely,
S. Bernard Ableman

Editor
THE REVIEW

Dear Sir:

In THE REVIEW for February 6, I note a challenge by Mr. Charles W. Bush, class of 1903, concerning a walk to Wilmington. A challenge is a challenge, and I accept on behalf of the "soft" college students.

I make no claims as to my hiking prowess. Frankly, I don't know whether I can accomplish the feat or not, but I am willing to give it a try.

I should like, however, to point out some circumstances, which I believe, tend to put me at a disadvantage, as compared to Mr. Bush and his companion. The first factor to be taken into consideration is, I believe, the volume of automobile traffic to be encountered, especially after reaching Wilmington. The B. & O. Station is no longer located on the outskirts of town. Added to these difficulties is the fact that the hard surfaced roads of today are considerably tougher on the feet than those of Mr. Bush's college days. Also, while I do not wish to doubt Mr. Bush's "velocity", it has been said that such records tend to vary inversely with the number of years elapsed, and 39 years is, after all, a woman admits to, until her grandchildren start inquiring. In short, it ain't hay!

No, I'm not trying to alibi, I just wish to face the facts squarely and, if I don't make it, it will still be a big try.

Weather conditions being favorable, I propose to make my bid for fame this Saturday, February 14.

Very truly yours,
Howard R. Smith, '43

Elections will be held on Wednesday between one and one-thirty o'clock—Seniors in West Wing, Sophomores in Wolf Hall.

Hen Scratches

Apparently none the worse for the semester examinations, the proteges of Emory Adkins have taken two of their last three starts, and didn't look at all bad losing to Drexel.

The leading point-getters in the two games have been Freddy Mitchell and Benny Crescenzi, both of whom tallied 26 markers in the two victories. Mitch got 24 of his 26 points against the rebels from Randolph-Macon, though neither he nor Dick Reed could score from the floor against Haverford, two charity tosses competing the Captain's total . . . Benny proved a more consistent shooter in the two frays, getting 14 on Saturday and 12 while opposing the Fords.

With nine games on the records, we find Sid Sadowski pacing the scoring league with a one-point margin over fellow-senior running mate, Fred Mitchell. To the Blue Hens' compilation of four wins and five reversals, senior Sid bucketed twenty-nine from out front coupled with fifteen free tosses to give him seventy-three points. Mitch has racked up twenty-eight twin-pointers along with sixteen foul conversions for his accumulation of seventy-two markers. Both men sport eight point-per-game averages, Sid's being slightly over. George Barlow completes the trio of Delaware leading men, having accounted for sixty-five points on twenty-five buckets and fifteen from the fifteen-foot mark.

For those of you who like figures:

	FG	FoG	Pts.	PPG
Sadowski	29	15	73	8.1
Mitchell	28	16	72	8.
Barlow	25	15	65	7.2

With Ed Legates improving as consistently as he has been doing, the Delaware quint should provide an A-1 ball-retrieving and basket-guarding corps, with George Barlow, Con Sadowski, and Legates. Little men such as Mitchell and Crescenzi are still good in present-day ball, but it's the big good men that really make the difference in winning or losing a ball game.

Coach Ed Bardo announced yesterday that Johns Hopkins, whom the Delaware mermen were scheduled to meet tomorrow night, have cancelled the meet. This is the second time this season that the Hens have been left high and dry on the beach by a cancellation, Dickinson having broken an engagement on January 17th. Negotiations with La Salle for a meet in lieu of Johns Hopkins are underway but look doubtful. It appears that cancellations will have to be taken in stride until colleges adjust their sport programs to the present emergency.

The final exam purge, which wrought such havoc among the basketeers, didn't spare the swimming team. George Grier, mighty mite in the distance events, and Bill Thistlethwaite, first string diver, are out for the duration. Between them they've garnered 26 points to date which speaks for itself as to whether or not they'll be missed. Under the spotlight as possible replacements are Phil Doherty, a diver; Hank Lewis, a distance swimmer; and Ben Zolper, a backstroke.

The feature attraction in the next meet should be the 200 yd. breast stroke event. Captain T. D. Weldin looks good enough to smash his last year's record of 2:44.2 by 3 whole seconds.

Delaware Chalks Up 45-33 Win Over Haverford

Continuing in their victory stride, Coach Adkins' charges chalked their second win in three starts of this term as they soundly drubbed the basketeers from Haverford.

Delaware commanded a 7-5 lead at the first breathing spell, and kept pouring it on the Pennsylvania lads, who went down to the final count of 45-33. The Hens were never headed by the somewhat disappointing Haverford array, topping the Fords scoring in every period.

Four of the five men who hit the point column for the Blue Hens vied for top honors, with Crescenzi's six double-deckers for twelve points winning by a nose. The three other high men include Connie Sadowski, who garnered eleven markers, and George Barlow and Ed Legates, both of whom racked up 10 counters. Of these, Legates, for one, deserves a bit of praise. The big fellow came out late this year after laying off the previous season, and is showing continued improvement in ball handling and all-around court play.

Two bright stars who shined for nil during the night were Bill Shinn and Bob Jones, of the Fords, who led their team's scoring with ten and nine markers respectively. Together, they shared the burden of the Hens' varied offense, and Jones with a bum shoulder, too. Probably due to his shoulder, he employed a unique free throw technique, in which he stood behind the far left side of the foul line and tossed them with his right hand.

Complete destruction being the keynote for the evening, the Jay-Vees prepared the way in the warm-up contest by walloping the Fords' seconds, 50-40. The game was more lopsided than the score indicates, since the Hens led in the third period 39-20. The final frame consisted mainly of a pass offense for the Princemen, allowing the home team to diminish the overhead. Jarvis, with 17 markers, and Thompson, with 15 points, highlighted the local scoring, and Saxer contributed nine counters as tops for the losers.

Work on Dormitory Nears Completion

Work on the new dormitory is progressing satisfactorily according to an announcement made by Mr. Charles E. Grubb. There has been little delay in obtaining materials in spite of the intensive defense program.

Plastering has been completed throughout the building and the doors to the rooms are now being hung. The wood trim for the lounge room is being put in place.

The next project for the contractors is the laying of rubber tiling on the floors. Because of the rigid control over rubber, the original tiling could not be obtained. However, with a change in the color combination the school is assured of having enough rubber.

The exterior of the dormitory is entirely completed. Furnishings for the rooms are now on the campus, and are in storage awaiting transfer to the new building when it is completed in April or May.

The Maintenance Center has had harder road to travel than the dormitory has. Special steel, plumbing, and electrical articles have been delayed in delivery by the defense program and the war effort. The job is now four months behind schedule. It is now held up because of the failure of delivery of electric cable. Until that comes new controls for the new smoke control and other equipment cannot be used. The garage section is completed and the office and store rooms are nearly finished. Steel plate must be obtained before the shops can be completed.

About the only evidence of progress in the construction of the new field house is the erection of the contractor's storeroom, and the presence of a steam shovel. Mr. Shepard, a representative of the contractor, says that they have on hand, and are obtaining, sufficient materials to continue when weather permits. The key material, steel, for reinforcing the foundation and side walls, already at the site of construction.

Hens Triumph Over Randolph - Macon With 52-43 Count

The Blue Hens' supposedly weak-ended quintet looked far from weak last Saturday as it trounced the Randolph-Macon aggregation to the tune of 52-43.

Sparked by Capt. Freddy Mitchell and Benny Crescenzi, who bucketed 24 and 14 points respectively, the U of D five swung into full stride, ending a four game losing streak. Except for a slight lapse at the midway mark of the second half, the Blue and Gold played inspired ball, taking an early lead and never being headed.

The Delaware five took the lid off on a pivot hot by Barlow, and, paced by Mitchell and Barlow, built up a six point margin at halftime, leading 24-18. Starting the second session, a sudden Blue Hen spurt gave them a sixteen point edge at one time, only to have the Southerners come back, reducing it to the same halftime margin of six points. With about five minutes remaining the Hens racked a couple more quick shots clinching the contest. Again it was Freddy Mitchell, who, teaming with Crescenzi, carried the burden of the Blue Hen scoring in the final period.

The best offensive play of the evening was undoubtedly credited to Freddy Mitchell, who sifted the cords with nine field goals and six charity tosses for his total of 24 points. Runnerup Benny Crescenzi exhibited some sterling left-handed shots for his sum of 14 markers on six double-deckers and two free throws.

The usually aggressive Jay-Vees found it tough going when they tangled with the Wilmington B. C. in the prelim. The Blue Hens' reserves were not clicking, and the B. C. copped the fray by the unimpressive score of 26-18. Jarvis and Thompson topped the Blue and Gold scoring with six markers each in slow, erratic fashion, while Praybylek led the visitors with a total of nine.

On Tuesday last, the Hens' reserves played much better basketball against Goldey College in winning the tilt decisively, 39-22. Deadlocked at eight-all when the initial quarter ended, the local quint began pulling away in the second frame, outscoring their opponents in each frame thereafter. Red Hogan and Buck Thompson shared the scoring spotlight, each with four buckets and two free throws for corresponding totals of ten points.

Aggie News

By EDWARD LEGATES

Mr. Ditman, formerly of the University of Maryland and now associated with the Department of Entomology at the University of Delaware was guest of the Ag Club last Monday evening. For the past few years Mr. Ditman has devoted very much of his time to Japanese beetle control and he gave a very interesting, illustrated discussion of his work. He has worked primarily with a bacterial organism which causes the fatal "Milky White" disease in the larvae of the beetle.

In his work, Mr. Ditman, is producing the bacterial organism through inoculation of healthy larvae. At present this must be done by hand and about 2800 are inoculated each day. These are allowed to become sick, and they are ground to form a powder containing the organism in the resting stage. This powder is spread on the soil, and the larvae which are usually underground take it into their body in feeding. The larvae's blood soon becomes milky white and dies thus reducing the number of ordinary feeding adults.

Mr. Ditman stated that in some cases the number of feeding adult beetles has been reduced 90 per cent after one application of the organism. Of great significance is the fact that the bacteria is not pathogenic to any higher animals and the bacteria will remain in the soil for a rather long time.

During the business meeting, the dance to be held March 14 received some discussion. The dance was decided to be a regular informal affair with Saint Patrick's Day taken as the theme.

Attention was called to our annual Father and Son Banquet which will be held March 21. Dean Schuster offered some comment concerning the affair and he was of the for as large a meeting as usually. In addition to the decrease in enrollment, the time and means of getting to the banquet would possibly be available to a smaller number of guests this year.

Sigma Tau Phi to Induct Nine Men

This evening, the Sigma Tau Phi Fraternity will hold its informal initiation at its chapter house on West Main Street. Those to be initiated are: Francis Hirschout, Nathan Plafker, Ralph Bloon, Herbert Rubenstein, Mark Jacoby, Sol Spiller, Seymour Bellak, David Cohen, and Bertram Steirman. The formal induction will be held on March first.

The ceremony tonight marks the end of "Hell Week," during which the pledges were required to perform all sorts of stunts with liberal doses of paddling being dealt out at unscheduled intervals. The pledges will hold a house party tomorrow night.

Summer Camp For ROTC Discontinued

Last Wednesday morning the Military Department received a telegram from the War Department in Washington announcing that the summer camp for the Advanced Military students had been discontinued until after the war. No further information is available at present as to what these students will do.

JOKE

"What is a hug?"
"Just energy gone to waist."

You trust its quality

Everybody wants the real thing for his money. That's ice-cold Coca-Cola. It has quality, the quality of genuine goodness... taste, the taste that charms and never cloy... refreshment, complete refreshment. Thirst asks nothing more.
