Legislature Jams When Democrats Fail To Organize

Senate Caucuses to No Avail;
House is Ready

DOWNWARD NAMED SPEAKER

The situation with regard to the Democratic deadlock in the State Senate continues, according to reports from Dover this afternoon.

No business is being transacted by the Legislature; and matters are at a standstill until the Democratic members of the Senate decide on their caucus slate.

Senator Hardesty, of Dover, is still a firm hold-out. According to reports he is bitterly opposed to the selection by the caucus of John M. Arthurs as the nominee for chief clerk.

No prediction as to when the two houses will convene and hear the Governor's message read could be obtained today.

Plans for the permanent organization of the General Assembly at Dover and the reading of the Governor's message, were held up early this week by a deadlock in the ranks of Democratic State Senators.

Up until this morning, no decision had been reached with regard to the majority slate to be presented at the caucus.

Senator Charles W. Hardesty is the movable rock upon which the partisan storms are beating. Mr. Hardesty, according to reports, was slated the President of the Senate, but in the Democratic caucus Monday he was in the majority.

Failure of the Democrats to agree on a slate is, therefore, tying up the business of the Legislature. Senator Hardesty is leading the bolt from the caucus.

Both houses were to have convened today at noon.

House Officers Elected

Downward, heretofore a dark horse in the race for the caucus endorsement for Speaker, was chosen on Monday night in Dover for that office.

Representative Hastings, of Newark, prominently mentioned for the chair of the caucus Monday night.

At date no one has been agreed upon by the Republican majority for leader.

Republicans hold a majority of seats in the House, while the Democrats control the Senate by a margin of one vote.

House members were sworn in at the noon hour yesterday and the early afternoon following a four-hour recess for lunch. The officers for the House, were all elected by a strict party vote of 22 to 13, the Democratic minority in each instance opposing an opposing candidate as a matter of formality.

H. C. Downward Elected

The first officer elected was Henry Downward, of Wilmington, speaker-elect immediately was sworn in by H. Grantland, and took his seat in the speaker's chair.

The House reconvened and the following officers:

Speaker—Burton S. Heal, of Oak. Clerk—Reuben Satterthwaite, of Wilmington. Recording clerk—M. C. Dager, of Wilmington. Sergeant-at-arms—John W. Burleigh, of Lincoln City. Chaplain—Rev. W. S. Cantwell, of Dover. Librarian—Kisha Campbell, of Lewes. Telephone operator—Alfred Raikes, of Newark. Doorkeeper—Warren Buckner, of Newark. Bill clerk—William C. Brooks, of Dover. Must be elected by a joint session of Senate and House. The members agreed upon—Miss Morgan, of Bridgeville, Miss Talton, of Dover, and Miss Lillie, of Wilmington, will be appointed by a committee, comprised of the members of the committee on the committee on passed bills.

LECTED DIRECTOR

Miss B. Evans, of this town, was elected a director in the Building and Loan Association. All out the unexpired term of A. Bryan, deceased.

COUNCIL FINANCES IN GOOD CONDITION

Over $19,000 Paid Out For
New Streets During Month;
Tidy Balance Left

With all street improvements bills paid, totaling well over $19,000, and a balance of $2,457.71 with which to begin the new year, the finances of Town Council appear to be in good shape.

Pardonable pride was exhibited at the regular meeting Monday evening when the Councilmen were taken over the financial hurdles by the Mayor and acquainted with the facts. Every jump drew forth smiles.

Several matters were discussed informally at the meeting but little business transacted. Talk was rife of an 8-foot walk running from Main street north, under the B. and O. embankment and on to Cleveland avenue. If such an improvement is seriously contemplated, it will meet with the approval of the entire north side of town, at least.

Fines and licenses to the amount of $9.00 were sent in by Alderman Thompson to help swell the treasury.

Council adjourned within an hour after it convened.

State Farm Bureau Meets January 15th

Dover to be Scene of Conclave—Dean McCue to Deliver Address—Reports to be Read

The State Farm Bureau will convene in annual session Thursday, January 15th, at 10 a. m., in the Century Club Room, Dover. The committee on arrangements report their plans completed and from all indications the stage is set for one of the best annual meetings ever held in the State. In order to complete the entire program it will be necessary to open the meeting at 10 a. m. sharp.

Although the program committee have not reported on the exact order of the program, they have been assured that Mr. O. E. Bradfute will be present to address the meeting. Mr. Bradfute completed a term as President of the American Farm Bureau Federation in December and was elected for a second term at the National Convention. His achievements while serving in this capacity and his re-election have marked him as one of the greatest Agricultural Leaders of his day, with a knowledge of agricultural problems that is international in its scope. He will bring a message of vital interest to every farmer in the State and a good attendance is anticipated.

Another feature of the program will be an address by Dean C. A. McCue, of the University of Delaware, who will take as his subject, "The Marketing of Farm Products." Dean McCue needs no introduction to Delaware farmers and he can always be depended upon for some real information and a very interesting talk.

FATHERS AND SONS TO GATHER HERE TONIGHT

H. Rodney Sharp Host At Big Dinner In College
Commons

With approximately 600 covers laid, all is in readiness for what is expected to be the largest dinner ever served at the commons of the University. Tonight the entire student body of the Men's College, accompanied by their fathers or next of kin, will be guests of H. Rodney Sharp, a Trustee of the University and a loyal alumnus.

The facilities of the dining hall will be severely taxed to accommodate the crowd, but plans are perfected for the prompt and efficient serving of the meal under the supervision of Miss Marion Skewis, dietitian.

There will be little speaking after the dinner. Short talks are expected to be made by Mr. Sharp, John G. Leach, president of the student council, and by Richard Torbert, a junior. The dinner is a novelty at Delaware; it was announced by Mr. Sharp at the annual Thanksgiving dinner. At that time, he expressed a desire to see the fathers take more interest in their boys at college, and believed that here was one way in which to reach the desired objective.

SERIOUSLY ILL

Mrs. W. T. Colmery is reported to be seriously ill, at her home on Delaware Avenue, today.

Still In Operation Found By Police On Farm Near Newark

Ira Steel, Young White Man, Arrested and Held for Court Last Saturday

BREAKS DOWN AT HEARING

Goes to Workhouse In Default of $500 Bail

Ira Steel, 25-year-old white man living on the Richard Wilson farm, a few miles west of Newark on the Kemblesville-New London road, was arrested by Officers Ellison and Lewis of Newark last Saturday and arranged before Magistrate Thompson charged with operating a liquor still.

About six weeks ago, according to police here, a complaint was lodged against the activities of Steel by various neighbors. Magistrate Thompson advised the complainants to consult the Federal Prohibition department branch in Wilmington. As far as can be learned nothing was done in the matter by that office.

A few days ago, Mr. Wilson, owner of the farm on which Steel occupies a small tenant house, again brought a complaint to Mr. Thompson. The arrest followed immediately.

Find Ten Gallons of Mash

When the officers arrived at the Steel house Saturday, they found a small five gallon boiler made of copper, a condenser consisting of a coil of small bore piping sunk in a keg, various other items of equipment, and about 10 gallons of alleged "mash" from which the liquor is distilled.

Accounts point to the fact that Steel was engaged in manufacturing a rye whiskey.

Steel was taken at once to Magistrate Thompson's office here and arraigned. The still and mash were confiscated and submitted as evidence.

Upon being confronted with the evidence, Steel is said to have broken down and wept at the hearing. He was held in $500 bail for the next term of General Sessions Court. In default of bail, he was taken to the Workhouse by Constable Ellison Saturday.

The prisoner is said to have lived on the Wilson place for several years. He is unmarried.

Levy Court Organizes For The Ensuing Year

Delaware Wright Chosen President—Withold Action on Hart-Caulk Controversy

The New Castle County Levy Court met and organized for the ensuing year on Monday of this week, with all the newly elected members present.

Delaware S. Wright, of Richardson Park, commissioner from the fourth district of the county, was unanimously chosen to be president of the court. Frank L. Speakman was re-named attorney for the body.

Those who expected a wrangle over the Hart-Caulk fight for a seat in the court, were disappointed when on advice of Attorney Speakman, no action was taken in the matter during Monday's session.

Messrs. Hart and Caulk ran neck and neck for the seat from Blackbird Hundred or the seventh district at the general elections in November. Hart was elected on the face of the returns, but Caulk, a prominent merchant of Blackbird, is making a fight for a recount and court adjudication of the trouble. He claims that he is entitled to the seat, and says he can prove it before a court.

In the meantime Hart remains as commissioner, but is drawing no salary. At the current session of Superior Court, it is held likely that the controversy will come up. Until a decision is reached, the salary for the office will be withheld.

The committees appointed Monday are as follows:

Approval of deeds—Stewart, Burris, Hart.
Coroner, physicians—Stewart, Faulkner, Burris.
Overpaid taxes—Stewart, Simons, Faulkner.

RUMOR NOT CONFIRMED

Reports Have It That Frazer and Company May Discontinue Business
Rumors were current on the street this morning that Mr. Ernest Frazer, dealing as Frazer and Company, a grocery store and news stand on Main Street, contemplated selling out.

Mr. Frazer, when questioned by The Post today, gave no confirmation of the rumor.

David Medill and Thomas Green are said to be the prospective buyers.

WATCHES TRAIN CRUSH HIS AUTO

Iron Hill Man Forgets To Flag
Fast Express After Getting Stalled

One perfectly good Ford roadster was reduced to kindling wood and junk about noon Saturday, when a fast northbound Pennsylvania express ran over, through and against it at Iron Hill Station crossing, south of Newark.

The driver of the car, a man named Poor, escaped without a scratch.

Poor, it is reported, was driving Frank Palmer's car in the vicinity of Iron Hill on Saturday. In attempting to cross the tracks at Iron Hill, the machine skidded off the roadway and stalled in the snow between the rails of the northbound track. Frantic attempts to dislodge it failed.

Meanwhile the express was bearing down full speed on the doomed Ford. Poor evidently forgot the possibilities of flagging the train, and thus saw his car crushed to bits under the wheels of the locomotive.

The train stopped and trainmen ran back to the scene of the crash. Finding that no one had been hurt, they proceeded on their way.

Newark Represented In Big State Corn Show

Judges from Wolf Hall, and High School Team in Lewes Today

Newark will be fully represented at the annual State Corn Show being held in Lewes this week, beginning today.

The show is attracting several hundred farmers and agricultural pupils to the Sussex County town, and promises to eclipse all other previous events.

The secretary of the show, M. O. Pence, of Newark, will not be present to guide the exhibition. He will be greatly missed by his associates. The work is going on under the combined leadership of Messrs. Cobb, Schuster and Runk.

High School Enters Team

A corn judging contest will be held in which judging teams from every High School Agriculture Department of the State will compete. The winning team will receive a handsomely engraved Challenge Cup which has been donated by the State Bankers' Association. The cup will become the permanent property of the school whose team first wins three times. During the past month, the students in the agriculture course of the local high school have spent considerable time under the supervision of Horace Nunn, Agriculture Instructor, in preparation for this contest.

This morning, five boys, accompanied by Mr. Nunn, left for Lewes. Three of these boys, Ralph Buckingham, George Cook, and James Harkness, will comprise the team. Two others, Herman Connor and Herbert Pierson, will go as Alternates.

The exhibits to be judged are:

1. Four ten-ear samples of white corn.
2. Four ten-ear samples of yellow corn.
3. Five single ear samples of white corn.
4. Five single ear samples of yellow corn.

SNOW STILL STICKS

Despite valiant efforts of Old Sol to disturb it, the pesky snow still hangs around.

While the streets are well cleared in the middle, parking near the curb is risky, although it is four days since the snowfall.

Motorists manage to get along, however. Now and then the roar of a struggling auto can be heard above the rattle of the elevated on Main Street. They usually get into the channel; often go clear through and sink on the other side.

But there will be more automobiles running during 1925 than ever before.

FIREMEN BEGIN ANOTHER YEAR

1924 Fire Report

The detailed fire report for 1924 submitted to the Aetna Fire Company's annual meeting by Fire Recorder Lutton and herewith published, gives some interesting figures.

Of the 47 alarms to which the Company responded during the past year, 24 were outside and 13 inside the town limits. Thus, over 70 per cent of the fires were in the rural districts.

In 1923, the Company responded to only 34 alarms, of which 23 were outside calls. The percentage for 1924 compares almost identically with that of the previous year.

The fires during the past year were divided as follows: Barns, 7; Brush Fires, 7; Chimneys, 7; Dwellings, 13; factories, 1; Miscellaneous, 11; False Alarms, 1.

In reviewing the report month by month, it appears that November was the busiest time for the firemen. Nine calls were turned in during that time. The year averaged four calls per month.

The detailed report for the year is as follows:

JANUARY
6 House, Singles, Christiansa. Alarm 6 a. m. Damage about $3000.
22 H. E. Vinsinger, Upper Main St. 5:30 p. m. Chimney fire. Damage, none.

FEBRUARY
8 Howell, near McClellandville. Alarm about 7 a. m. Barn on fire. Damage, $4000.
8 Howell's, near McClellandville. Alarm about 12 a. m. Granary on fire. Damage, $300.

12 Deer Park Hotel. Alarm about 2 p. m. Shed in the rear. Damage, slight.
19 Gussie Sullivan House on fire. Alarm about 1:30 p. m. Damage, $500.

MARCH
16 Stanton. Alarm received about 3 p. m. 3 Dwellings burnt and several other properties damaged. Damage, $15,000.

NEW LIBRARY OPENED TO PATRONS THIS WEEK

Convenient Interior Arrangements Feature Latest
Campus Building

Students of the Men's and Women's Colleges of the University were greeted upon their return from the Christmas vacation this week by the completed Memorial Library.

During the recess, workmen under the supervision of D. Lee Rose, moved all the books, magazines and files from the old building on Main Street to the new home, and yesterday found the new library in good working condition.

While permanent lighting fixtures and other equipment are still to be added, the reading rooms are completely furnished, and the books are stacked and catalogued. Miss Dorothy Hawkins, librarian, and her staff, found it no easy task to get things straightened out in the short time allotted them. They have done remarkable work during the past week.

Miss Hawkins estimated that with the addition of the Women's College library, 40,000 books are now in the stacks at the new building. Of this number about 6000 came from the Women's College.

The two wings of the building are given over to reading rooms, one for books and one for magazines and periodicals.

The cataloguing desk includes some very modern arrangements for the handling of the books. Miss Hawkins personally supervised the buying of the equipment.

Steam Pipe Burst

The buildings on the upper campus of the University were without heat a few days last week, while workmen repaired a break in the main steam line just south of Main street. The offices of Dean Dutton and Business Administrator Wilkinson were closed during the repairs.

John W. Balling, contract painter, has completed the work of painting the exterior of Union Hospital, Elkton.

Ellison Elected Chief Of Aetna Fire Company At Meeting Friday

R. J. Crow Re-elected President—E. C. Wilson and
Arthur Beals Retire
From Active Duties

With many kept away from the meeting by the severe storm, the annual election of officers of the Aetna Fire, Hook and Ladder Company of Newark was held in the fire house last Friday evening.

About 60 members attended and voted.

In the most important contest for office, Elmer J. Ellison was elected Chief over his only opponent, Robert H. Crow, by 43 votes to 16.

Mr. Ellison is a veteran member of the organization, and has been very active in its affairs. Immediately after his election as Chief, he appointed Ira Shellender as his chief engineer, a position which Mr. Shellender has capably filled for a number of years. The latter in turn, appointed his three assistants for the year, William Cunningham, Eugene Stiltz and William Stiltz.

Two Veterans Retire

Two veterans in the service of the fire company, E. Clifford Wilson, chief, and Arthur L. Beales, treasurer, retired from active duty at the meeting Friday night. Both men have contributed wholehearted thought and energy to the interest of the company, and helped guide it successfully over the discouraging years which are now passed and nearly forgotten. Mr. Wilson actively headed the summer carnival committees for a number of years.

Mr. Beales was succeeded in office Friday by Warren A. Singles. G. I. Durnall, his opponent, withdrew and there was no contest.

The same situation prevailed in the contest for Secretary between Richard E. Ramsey and F. Irving Crow. The latter withdrew leaving Mr. Ramsey a clear field.

The re-election of Robert J. Crow as president of the company was certain. Mr. Crow is serving his third term as head of the organization.

Harlan G. Herdman defeated Elmer Thompson for the vice-presidency by a vote of 39-18.

Assistants Named

In the race for assistant chiefs between Robert H. Crow, Walter R. Powell and Daniel Stoll, Messrs Crow and Stoll won out.

Frank M. Lutton, efficient fire recorder, was unanimously re-elected to the post for another year. Benjamin Devonshire was named Chief Pipe-man for another term.

His assistants are William Bolon, Charles Tasker, Charles Eisner, Harlan Tweed, and Alfred Ewing. These six men were chosen from a field of ten running for the office.

New Directorate

The Board of Directors, the governing body of the company, was also a bit changed as a result of the election.

NOTED ASTRONOMER IS VISITOR IN NEWARK

Miss Annie Jump Cannon

Welcomed by Many Friends
In Community

Miss Annie Jump Cannon, considered one of the twelve foremost women of the nation, and internationally known for her contributions to modern astronomy, was a visitor in Newark last week.

She arrived here enroute to Washington where she read a paper before the convention of the Association for the Advancement of Science. This convention is an annual affair and is attended by practically every important scientist in America.

Upon her return from the capital city Friday, she spent another short visit here with relatives and friends, before continuing on to Cambridge, Massachusetts, where she is connected with Harvard University observatory.

Miss Cannon is a native of Dover, but has lived in Newark many years of her life. She is conceded to be the greatest lady scientist in the country.

100 Years Will Pass Before Next Sun Eclipse

Delaware to See Only Partial Shroud Over Sun January 24th Next

People in the northeast section of this country who will see the total eclipse January 24 will have a chance that has not come since 1806 and will not happen again until 2024.

According to astronomers a total eclipse happens at any one place on the earth's surface only once in three and a half centuries. This does not mean that no eclipse shadows will fall in this section for that period, but it takes that time for the shadows to return to precisely the same place.

Delaware just misses being in the path of totality, the line of complete darkness passing across the north-east part of Pennsylvania a few miles from WilkesBarre. The sun, however, will be seen here about 98 per cent obscured at 9.08 a. m. The eclipse will start at 7.58 a. m., and will last until 10.26 a. m.

The eclipse of the sun has been the subject of much speculation and calculation since Thales, founder of Greek astronomy, first predicted one on a date that has been set as May 28, 585 B. C. Eclipses occur in cycles which move across the earth's surface. Beginning at one pole of the earth, it takes 1,500 years for a cycle to reach the other pole.

An eclipse in the same cycle will repeat itself after a lapse of 233 lunar months of 18 years and 11 days. This interval is called a Saros. A Saros amounts to 18 years, 10 1/3 days if five leap years elapse, or 18 years, 11 1/3 days if four leap years elapse. This one-third of a day in the time of these eclipse intervals is the main reason why the eclipse does not fall upon the same part of the earth.

The eclipse of January 24 had its predecessor on January 14, 1907, one Saros ago, and fell upon Russia and Central Asia. The next in this series will occur February 4, 1943, and will center in China and Alaska.

The moon has a habit, not completely understood by astronomers, of straying slightly from its path. Astronomers can predict with some degree of certainty the supposed position of the eclipse shadow, but instances have been cited in which their calculations have been "off" 20 seconds.

For this reason astronomers are asking the co-operation of the public in the determining of the exact path of the shadow line. Amateur astronomers are asked to take up a fixed position in the path of totality and make observations. The results should be sent to the National Research Council in Washington, with full details of the exact position of the observer. It is expected schools and colleges will organize expeditions in their territories to do this work.

HALT FREE LODGING

Council Takes Steps to Close
Town "Hotel" to Wanderers

Due to consistent misuses of the privilege afforded them, Newark's jail will be closed to dyed in the wool wanderers for the balance of the winter, according to reports from Chief Lewis.

The workmen of the street and sewer department have protested to Council that many of the tramps who have been given free lodging for the night, have left the jail in a filthy condition. Chief Lewis has also lost his patience with the constant flow of prospective one-night boarders. He avers that the numbers increase each year, as the word is passed around the unseen circle that Newark has a comfortable jail and a lenient police force.

DIPHTHERIA-STRICKEN CHILD DIES SUDDENLY

Infant Son of Mr. and Mrs. J.
F. Anderson Succumbed
After Few Days Illness

The home of Mr. and Mrs. John Franklin Anderson, on West Delaware avenue was thrown into sorrow Friday evening last when their younger child, John Franklin, Jr., aged about 14 months, succumbed to a severe attack of diphtheria.

The little one was first taken ill on Sunday, December 28th, and gradually grew worse. Dr. Johnson, who was in attendance, called for a consultation on Wednesday, and with three physicians at the bedside, the case was pronounced diphtheria and customary quarantine measures were taken. The youngster grew worse as the days passed, however, and died late Friday night.

The funeral services and interment were private. Burial was made Saturday afternoon at Head of Christiana cemetery.

TWO OLD RESIDENTERS DIE AT ADVANCED AGE

Middletown Man and Providence
Papermaker Passed
On Last Week

William Cox, one of Middletown's aged residents, died at his home on East Main street on Wednesday last, from a stroke of paralysis, suffered four weeks ago. Mr. Cox was 73 years of age. The funeral services were held at his late residence Friday afternoon, with the Rev. Emory W. McDowell, pastor of Bethesda M. E. Church, of which Mr. Cox had long been a member, officiating. Besides his wife, Mr. Cox is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Etta Burrows, of Wilmington; a grandson, Francis Burrows, and a granddaughter, Mrs. Nelson Neff. The interment was made in Forest cemetery.

John Ingram, for nearly fifty years master paper maker at the Kenmore mills at Providence, died at his home at Providence Corner, Friday night, aged 82 years. He had been ill for several weeks. Mr. Ingram was a Mason, Red Man and a member of the Knights of Pythias. He is survived by one son and a daughter, John Ingram, of Newport, Del., and Miss Ella Ingram at home. The funeral was held Monday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock, with interment at Kembleville, Pa., cemetery.

Mr. Ingram was highly esteemed by everyone in the Providence community. He was considered one of the best finishers ever employed at Kenmore Mills. His term of service recently reached forty years, and he was easily the dean of all the paper-makers employed there. At the time of his fatal illness he held the responsible position of head finisher.

Deceased had been sick a number of weeks before he died. Prior to his illness, however, he had been enjoying splendid health.

In addition to his Masonic and Red Men affiliations, Mr. Ingram was a member of the Knights of Pythias Lodge of Lewisville. Funeral services were held at his home in Providence and were attended by a large number of friends and relatives. The community mourns the passing of one of its estimable citizens.

Watch Night Services

On New Year's Eve

Many Newarkers attended the several watch night services held at local churches on New Year's Eve. Special music was sung by the choirs.

Local revelers were rather inconspicuous this year, probably due to the bitter weather. The whistle of the National Fibre Company zoomed its welcome to 1925 with a prodigious blast, and scores of revolvers barked in various portions of the town. Many people hied off to Wilmington and Philadelphia, where they joined in the festivities.

NEWS BULLETINS OF NEIGHBORING TOWNS

KEMBLESVILLE COUPLE MARRIED 50 YEARS

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Davis Entertain Many Friends

Married, December 24, 1874, by Rev. George Lybrand, Kemblesville, Charles Davis, aged 24 years, and Miss Annie Kennedy, aged 19 years, both of that community. They celebrated the golden anniversary of this occasion on the day before Christmas. Mr. Davis, until three years ago, was a successful farmer. Selling his farm near Strickersville, he bought two properties in Kemblesville, where they are living retired.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis, an ideal happy couple who have traveled hand in hand these fifty years, apparently seemed sunshine themselves. They have spent their lives in this community; good citizens, constant friends and ever ready, helpful neighbors. No children blessed their union, but all children of the neighborhood are ever welcome in their home.

The day was a stormy one, making it impossible for many of the guests to be with them. With all the sun failed to put in its appearance, the hospitable home inside radiated a glorious golden time.

The dining room was tastefully decorated with yellow crepe paper and yellow flowers. A fine turkey dinner was served. A large bride's cake, marked 1874-1924, decorated the center of the table. Gifts of gold, cut glass, linen, pictures, rugs, china, etc., were received; also numerous cards of congratulations.

The guests who enjoyed the day with them were: N. B. Slack and George Miller, West Chester; Dr. and Mrs. G. T. Magraw, Avondale; Mrs. Nella Windle and daughter, Oxford; Lewis Lee and family, Thompson; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Lair, Landenberg; Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Pratt, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Richards, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Cloud, Mrs. Phebe Wilkinson, Mrs. Ella Mearns, H. L. Kelley, Jos. Lybrand, J. S. Curry, John Anderson, Sr., Mrs. Harry Blackburn, daughter Florence; Mrs. Florence Mackie, daughter Eleanor, and Miss Minnie Kennedy.—Oxford Press.

Sprinkler System Is

Death To Mill Fire

(From our Philadelphia Correspondent)

About 5:45 Sunday evening, some one noticed quite a blaze in one of the buildings of Kenmore Mill. The alarm was given, whistle blown, and quite an excitement raised. A look had to be broken to get into the room where the old mill truck had been put safely away earlier in the evening for its day of rest.

After the men had entered the truck, they discovered it was only the seat which in some unknown way had caught on fire. The fire was soon extinguished by the quick work of the fine sprinkler system by which Kenmore Mill is fully equipped.

WANT CECIL TEAMS TO JOIN RIVER LEAGUE

Elkton and Elk Mills. Hold-outs Proffered Good Wishes of Circuit

At a meeting scheduled to be held at Perryville on Saturday of this week, the Elkton and Elk Mills teams of the Susquehanna League, will be again asked to rejoin the circuit for the 1925 playing season.

Some weeks ago, both teams refused to be a part of the league the coming season, due it is reported, to dissatisfaction over the direction of the circuit.

It appears now, that a determined drive will be started to urge the teams to come into the fold again and make the league complete.

According to Elkton players and fans, one of the chief difficulties encountered are the series of long jumps which must be made to satisfy the schedule. With the exception of Perryville, Elkton and Elk Mills are the only Cecil county teams in the league. Jumps to Delta, Bel Air, and other Harford county towns are said to be irksome to the Cecil players.

Proposed Another League

Not so long ago, quite a bit of interest was aroused in the proposal to start a new league, with Elk Mills, Elkton, Newark, New London, Oxford, Rising Sun and other teams in this section banding together to form a more compact association.

From a Newark standpoint, the suggestion aroused favorable comment.

Great importance is attached to the forthcoming meeting in Perryville, when representatives of the various clubs in the league will meet. If Elkton and Elk Mills decide to re-enter the circuit, the chances for a nearby association look slim.

ELKTON STORE SOLD LAST WEEK

The meat and grocery store owned and managed for thirty years by John Lee, one of Elkton's veteran merchants, was sold last week by Mr. Lee to George Biddle of Elkton.

The store is situated on East Main street, and serves a steady clientele. Mr. Lee has been at this stand for practically all his business career in Elkton.

Mr. Biddle, the new owner, formerly conducted a grocery store at the corner of High and Bridge streets.

Mrs. Decker Ill

Mrs. J. B. Decker, of Elkton, was operated upon last Saturday for appendicitis in an Elkton hospital. She is reported to be recovering slowly from the ordeal.

APPLETON

Miss Lillian Brown has returned home after a pleasant visit with Mrs. Ray Vansant, Elmhurst, Delaware.

Mr. Seruch T. Kimble, of Washington, D. C., spent a few days last week with Misses Ida and Evelyn Kimble.

Mr. Nimrod Minner was a Washington visitor a day last week.

A number of Appleton folks enjoyed sleighing on Saturday and Sunday.

GLASGOW

The Ladies Aid of the P. P. Church will hold their regular monthly meeting in the lecture room Thursday evening.

Mrs. William Lumm, of this place, called on Mrs. C. A. Leasure Sunday evening.

Mrs. Lamont McElwee who underwent an operation some weeks ago and was able to be out again, is again confined to her home.

Miss Helen Thompson, of North East, is spending some time with her sister, Mrs. L. McElwee.

Mrs. Irwin and son, Bert, of Pittsburgh, Pa., have returned home after spending the holidays with her sister, Mrs. H. C. Milliken.

Cape Henlopen Lighthouse

The citizens of Delaware have now the opportunity to save Henlopen Lighthouse. The United States Government, through the action of the Bureau of Lighthouses, Department of Commerce, has given to a Commission of citizens a revocable license for five years to the Henlopen Light tract. The Service Club Committee has been made official through the cooperation of Governor Denney, who appointed the Committee as a Commission representing the State to carry on the work with the Federal Government.

The Bureau of Lighthouses has shown interest and enthusiasm in aiding the Commission. Appreciating the interest and history surrounding the old tower, the Washington Bureau gave a very happy Christmas present to Delaware when they sent by special delivery the form of license, suggested by their Legal Department, which had been agreed tentatively upon through several conferences during the last few weeks. On January 1st there was delivered, again by special delivery, the license itself, signed by the Acting Secretary of Commerce, S. B. Davis. More interesting still than the license itself, giving possession of the tract for work, is the agreement by the Department of Commerce to approve an Act of Congress which would deed to the State a portion of the tract and the tower back to the State of Delaware. This, of course, on condition that the General Assembly of this state, by resolution, would express itself as willing to accept.

Interesting, again, is the fact that the Department further approves the idea of transferring the old logs and records of the Lighthouse to the State and considers kindly the suggestion made that it go to the State University Memorial Library. This, of course, will probably be decided by the General Assembly whether it shall go to the Memorial Library or to the State Archives in the State House at Dover. The Commission will meet in a few days to decide just what immediate action shall be taken. Our own judgment is that citizens of Delaware, after learning the cost, should express themselves as to what disposition should be made. We should like to see the engineering work completed, paid for by volunteer subscriptions, and then offered to the State without any expense from the State Treasury; this would then become a part of the public land of Delaware.

During the recent storm, which came just at the time Delaware had received this license, there were inquiries on every hand whether the old Light had gone down or not. Fortunate again, it was saved from the elements.

Built in 1767, as beautiful a piece of masonry and construction as stands in Delaware today, older than our Flag, older than our Declaration of Independence—yes, just older than the Nation itself; without question the most historic monument standing in Delaware. Without expressing our own feeling in the matter, may we ask, have we the right to let this monument fall? Engineering authorities, men acquainted with the sea, tell us it can be saved at an exceptionally reasonable expense. We just present the opportunity to the civic and service organizations and to the newspapers of Delaware. What are we going to do about it? Now that it is in the hands of Delaware it certainly behooves us to give some time, some thought and some of our wealth to its preservation. We, today, owe that much in gratitude to yesterday, and owe that much in appreciation to tomorrow.

Interesting to note that just today we received a letter from an old sea captain asking if he could in any way aid the Commission; that he was confident that it could be saved and offered his services. These services are not to be scoffed at, because he knows the ways of the sea. Several new contributions have been offered the Commission in the last week. At the request of some of our readers we are printing below the copy of the revocable license given to the Delaware Commission.

REVOCABLE LICENSE

Whereas, that portion of the Cape Henlopen Lighthouse Reservation, Delaware, hereinafter described by metes and bounds and on which the old abandoned light tower is located, is unoccupied and unproductive property of the United States, and

Whereas the old abandoned light tower, built in 1767, is the second oldest standing lighthouse in the United States and is of considerable historical interest, and

Whereas the Henlopen Lighthouse Preservation Commission appointed by the Governor of the State of Delaware and consisting of Everett C. Johnson, Chairman, H. Warren Cornelius, Secretary, E. P. Bardo, F. A. Wardenburg, John P. Hyatt, Edgar Q. Bullock, Alexander Crothers, L. Ray Otwell, Reah DeB. Robinson, Joseph M. Pusey, Alvin V. Roberson, C. H. Grosbeck, and R. G. Hackett, all citizens of Delaware, has applied for a revocable license to occupy that portion of the Cape Henlopen Lighthouse Reservation hereinafter described for the purpose of protecting and preserving the old abandoned light tower, and

Whereas such occupation will not be detrimental to the United States, but will tend to preserve the remainder of the reservation,

Now, therefore, I, S. B. Davis, Acting Secretary of Commerce, acting by and for the United States of America under the authority of the Act of March 3, 1879 (20 Stat. 383), party of the first part, do hereby grant to the Henlopen Lighthouse Preservation Commission, party of the second part, authority to enter upon and occupy the following described portion of the Cape Henlopen Lighthouse Reservation for a period of five years from January 1, 1925, and to perform such construction work thereon as may be necessary to protect and preserve the light tower and the site thereof from destructive action of the elements.

The tract of land which the Henlopen Lighthouse Preservation Commission is, by this license, authorized to occupy, is all that portion of the Cape Henlopen Lighthouse Reservation, Delaware, acquired by the United States by deed of cession dated April 13, 1792, from the State of Delaware, lying easterly of a line bearing S. 12°-50' E. (N. 12°-50' W.) and passing through a point bearing S. 77°-10' W. 300 feet from the center of the original Cape Henlopen Lighthouse Tower.

This permission is granted with the understanding that the party of the second part does not, by this instrument, acquire title to the property.

That the occupation of the reservation by the party of the second part will not interfere with the work of nor be of expense to the Lighthouse Service, and

That this authority may be revoked by the Secretary of Commerce at any time in his discretion.

It is further understood between the parties hereto that recommendations to Congress are contemplated for the passage of legislation to authorized the conveyance to the State of Delaware of title to the premises herein described or to such portion of the Cape Henlopen Lighthouse Reservation as may be later determined. It is therefore understood and agreed that, if Congress should not enact such legislation, then, upon the termination or revocation of this license, any improvements placed upon the premises by the party of the second part shall be promptly removed by the party of the second part without expense to the United States, or be left as erected and become the property of the United States, as the Secretary of Commerce may direct.

In witness whereof the party of the first part and the party of the second part have hereunto affixed their signatures the thirtieth day of December, 1924.

A SKETCH OF BAYARD TAYLOR

Reminiscences Prompted By the 100th Anniversary of the Pennsylvania Poet's Birth

BY E. N. VALLANDIGHAM

Many Pennsylvanians, and a few other folk are interested in the centennial of Bayard Taylor's birth at Kennett Square. We Delawareans should feel like interest, for after all we boast ourselves older than Penn's commonwealth, in some sort its mother country, for we are to celebrate about six years hence the entrance into our four hundredth year from the Dutch settlement at Swaanendael, our ancient claim to European civilization.

Bayard Taylor's life was one of tremendous labor, from boyhood to his death near the end of his fifty-fourth year. He undertook to see Europe afoot when he was nineteen and a half years old; and did it with less than $150 in his pocket. At the end of six months he had spent $130. During a considerable stay in Germany his whole expense averaged 33 cents a day, and he and his two friends gave their landlady a Christmas present of a new carpet for her best-room floor. At Florence, he and his comrades borrowed $50 of Hiram Powers, the sculptor, and with $90 in pocket, set out to walk over Italy, and parts of Bohemia and Austria, and through France on their homeward way. In Italy they often averaged for board 6 cents a day each. They landed in New York at the end of nearly two years, and walked most of the way home to Chester County.

Taylor's letters home to several newspapers had made him famous, and when they were published in book form near the end of 1846 six editions were sold the first year, and the 20th edition was issued before the end of ten years. While awaiting his royalties from "Views Afoot," he lost a year in a luckless attempt to publish a weekly literary newspaper at Phoenixville, and then, against Greeley's advice, went to seek his fortune in New York, where scores of ambitious men were starving in garrets and playing the bohemian in beer cellars in a vain attempt to live by their pens. Taylor was employed as "miscellany" man on a weekly literary paper at $5 a week, and he had $4 a week more for teaching literature in a private school. About that time the Professor of English at Delaware College was rich with $600 a year. When Greeley called Taylor to the Tribune at $12 a week, he thought his fortune made, and during a trip through California, when the "gold fever" of '49 was hottest, his letters to the Tribune created so much interest that he returned to find his salary raised, and himself owner of three shares in the Tribune Company. Then he married his school girl sweetheart, knowing that she must die, and was left fairly heartbroken by her death two months later.

In the following Summer Greeley gave Taylor a holiday for travel, and he returned about two years later, having seen Spain, Italy, Egypt, Turkey, and as an officer of Perry's flagship, Japan. He came home the most famous traveler of the day, and was soon one of the most acceptable lecturers in the country.

By this time Taylor had perhaps as large an income as any man of letters in America, an income earned by really stupendous labors of many kinds—lecturing, reviewing, editing encyclopaedic works on travel and literature. But all the while he yearned to be known as a creative poet. For this there was little leisure; but his lyrics of the Near East were popular, and a few are still remembered. Later came his translation of "Faust," held at the time to be the best yet made into English, for he had so mastered the German language that he wrote it, whether in prose or verse, like an accomplished native.

He bought land near his native Kennett Square, part of it belonging to the tract that his Quaker ancestor had taken up when he came over with Penn. He built at a cost of $17,000 (it would now cost at least $50,000) the large house that he called Cedar-croft, and there settled with his new German wife, his father, mother, and two sisters, hoping to live a sort of manorial life, and enjoy his old neighbors, while finding leisure for his best possible work. This was about 1860, and within the next few years he wrote his novels, the best of which is "The Story of Kennett," rich in local color, and true in its depiction of character and pure passion. But he was made unhappy by the criticisms of his strict neighbors, because of the wine upon his table.

This was a bitter disappointment, for his dream of bucolic peace was shattered. After important diplomatic service in Russia during our civil war, he was disappointed again, this time in his hope of being promoted from Secretary of Legation to Minister. While in Russia he traveled many thousands miles, and added to his books of travel. His last long journey was taken in 1874, when he visited Egypt, and helped celebrate the 1000th anniversary of Iceland's settlement. The book, "Egypt and Iceland," is the ripest of his prose.

Taylor was still working at high pressure, for he had run into debt, when he was overjoyed with the appointment as Minister to Germany in February, 1878. His reception in Berlin was such as no American minister had ever before received at a foreign court. Now, he thought was the opportunity to write his long contemplated life of Goethe. But this was not to be. His health broke, though he lived long enough to receive from the publishers the first copy of his most ambitious long poem, the expression of his mature philosophy of life, "Prince Deukalion." His illness was torturingly painful. The doctors thought the trouble was in the colon. "I wish," groaned Taylor, "that this colon would come to a full stop!" His wish was fulfilled before the end of the year, and he was buried in the Hixite burying ground near Kennett Square amid those who had criticized him, but who now forgave.

Mr. Cabbage, a Penn State alumnus, is an instructor and assistant athletic coach at the University of Virginia. He was a few years ago talked of as track coach at the University of Delaware.

CENTURY CLUB

At the meeting of the New Century Club, Monday afternoon, after the holiday recess, in spite of much sickness and snowy sidewalks, about 40 members came out to greet the State President, Mrs. Fraim.

She pointed out avenues of usefulness especially open to women, and also urged that we make a study of both the state and national legislative program, especially those measures relating to school, child labor, and the home. She further urged that we back up with all our united strength all forward and upward-looking things. Before Mrs. Fraim's arrival Miss Keeley, of the English Department of the Women's College held the close attention of the women by discussing with them some of the new schools of poetry, principally the imagists and free verse, illustrating her points by reading selections from a number of contemporary American poets.

ROSE FAMILY ENJOYS HOME FOOD IN SOUTH

New Year's Box of Goodies
Pleases Newark People in Florida

In a note from David C. Rose, who with Mrs. Rose, is spending the winter in West Palm Beach, Florida, he describes a bounteous New Year Day feast which came to him all the way from Newark, packed in a box.

The package contained roast duck, fresh eggs (none broken), home-made candy and fruit cake. The Coverdales, near Newark, sent the box south.

Mr. Rose reports that he and Mrs. Rose are enjoying to the utmost the winter season. Thousands of tourists overrun the country near Palm Beach; real estate, as usual, is hopping and skipping from one fancy price to another.

APPLETON WOMAN'S CLUB

The Appleton Woman's Home Demonstration Club gave its Christmas entertainment in Lofland's Hall, Cowtown, December 10, 1924, to the members and their husbands and families. About 100 persons attended the affair. A program was presented which was enthusiastic and filled with the Yuletide spirit.

Mrs. Gus Blackson, president of the club, presided and announced the program: Song, "Hark! the Herald Angels Sing!" by club; Prayer; Reading, Mrs. Hosea Smith; Duet, "Ain't Gonna Rain No Mo'", Misses Mary Moore and Lillian Brown; "Pig-tails," by members; Song, "Christmas Carol," members; Recitation, "Night After Christmas," Mary Moore; Musical reading, "Hats," Mrs. Orville Ottey; Pantomime, "Farmer's Wife," club members; Recitation, "Christmas Gift," Laura Smith; Duet, "Maytime," Misses Mary Moore and Lillian Brown; Movie in one act, presented by an all-star cast of the Appleton's Woman's Club; Song, "God Be With You Till We Meet Again," audience.

"Santa Claus," in the personage of Mrs. Smith, appeared in a particular generous mood and presented each little boy and girl with an appropriate gift. A feature was a package exchange among the members. Refreshments of dainty sandwiches, cake, coffee, and candy canes were served in abundance.

The next meeting will be at Lofland's Hall, January 21. The president is desirous of having all members present as the election of new officers will take place. Hostesses to serve are: Mrs. Elwood Zebley, chairman; Mrs. Emma Vincent, Mrs. Fred Van Sant, Mrs. Pierce Whitcraft and Miss Edith Zebley.

Entertain the Wounded

Members of the newly formed American Legion post of Elkton, journeyed to the Perry Point Veterans' Bureau Hospital at Perryville last Sunday and presented "Ye Olde Village Schule," the popular piece first shown in Elkton under the auspices of the Odd Fellows last spring. The same cast took part in the show Sunday, and the wounded veterans greatly enjoyed the party.

Organizations from all over the county are taking part in a series of Sunday entertainments for the benefit of the shut-ins at Perry Point.

Not Much Sledding

While there was plenty of snow during the past week, the kiddies had a hard time finding good sledding. The snow was deep, and soon after the fall a crust appeared on the surface. Quality Hill held a few coasters Friday evening and Saturday, but the going was anything but good. The Hullihen lawn and Paper Mill Road were other popular spots.

CLOTHES are important, socially and in business, for the effect they have on other people. Everybody knows this. But more important still is the effect they have on the wearer. This is a point often overlooked. Good clothes, a frequent change of clothes, are an unfailing stimulus, an unfailing source of assurance; and this is the best attitude a man can possibly have toward his friends and the public. Knowing this, it is up to us to offer you the best clothes to be had. We do; they're unquestionably Society Brand.

Mr. Tom Ling, Newark's Famous Laundryman, Takes A Fall Out Of The Police Force

His Note to Chief Lewis Goes Begging Until Prof. Koerber at Last Translates It—"Him Run Faster," Secret of Culprit's Escape

Tom Ling, our leading laundryman, is a good man, a kindly man, and certainly, sirs, a law-abiding citizen. But there are times in life when one reverts for the moment, to his tribal emotions, to his ancestral brutality and cunning; in the language of the street, he "sees red."

Just so with Tom. Up until December 30th, Tom was hugely enjoying life. He knew but a few generalizations concerning Christmas, but it sounded good to him, and he had a little party, mayhap. But on that fatal 30th all the blood of his ancestors for ages back welled and boiled within. Somebody opened the door of his laundry that fine afternoon, and threw a good-sized American stone right smack in his sanctum. Came other stones; they rattled on the door, the windowsill, everywhere.

We all understand, of course, that stoning is a terrible insult to any respectable Chinaman. It just isn't done, that's all.

"Him Run Faster"

But to the real story: The following takes up the yarn and carries it through. It is a note received in due course by Chief Lewis, from Mr. Tom Ling, the aggrieved and humiliated citizen.

Dear Sirs: Have mens take stones throw to my door and open my door throw some to in side on Dec. 30 da 3.20 P. M. When I run out catches one man is on my laundry right side of Ball room of door out side would with him to see you but him make off my hand, run away, is past 10c store and turn left side of street go East I also run follows him but him run faster. When many mens saw me with him run on street please you find catches the throw stones to my laundry of mens come your office and go down my laundry look the men who throw of stones. Happy New Year to you. (Signed) Tom Ling Laundry.

Like a hot potato burning his palm, the note spurred the chief to seek the learned of the town—the translators; preferably, those who are acquainted with involved sentences.

Finally, Professor George Koerber essayed the task of telling him what it was all about, and the professor immediately jumped 100 points above par in the Chief's estimation.

As far as can be learned, the last of the stone-throwing gentry was sailing up Choate street, coastally, the breeze, followed by Mr. Ling, waving something that looked suspiciously like a flat iron, but according to bystanders, might have been brick.

In Memoriam

In sad and loving remembrance of our dear daughter and sister, Grace E. Widdoes, who departed this life two years ago today, January 6, 1923.

Two years have passed, dear Grace, since you were called away; How well do I remember, That sad and dreary day. The happy hours we once enjoyed, How sweet the memory still; But you have left a vacant chair, That never can be filled.

—Father, Mother and Brother

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my dear daughter Helen Mae Schwartz who departed this life January 6, 1924.

Surrounded by friends I am lonely, In the midst of pleasures I am lone, A smile on my lips, but a heartache Always thinking, Helen dear, you.

Gone from me, oh how I miss her, Loving her deeply, her memory I keep, Never till life ends will I forget her, Dear to my heart is the place where she sleeps.

Testing Your Telephone Equipment—

Most cases of "trouble" are discovered by the wire chief in his daily tests, and the telephone subscriber never knows that "trouble" has been brewing, and that it has been "nipped in the bud."

The outside wires, whether they are on poles, or buried under the streets, must be carefully watched. To neglect these tests would spell disaster to the telephone service.

Central office men are proud of the orderly arrangement of the wires in their keeping, but they take greater pride in service free of interruptions, so they test and test, and then test some more.

THE secret of telephone service reliability is preventative maintenance, as it's called, or "correcting troubles before they occur."

The past ten years have marked the height of accomplishment in this respect.

There are still "trouble shooters" who are kept busy repairing the damages of the wind, sleet, lightning, floods, falling limbs and like disturbance. But there's a much larger force testing against trouble that would become serious if not nipped in the bud.

Complicated and delicate as your telephone instrument is, it stands up well under reasonable usage. The circuits and the switchboards, the cables and the open wires are what require sharpest watch.

There are daily tests and nightly tests; tests for rust, hidden dirt and moisture; tests for excessive wear, friction, and for electrolysis, bad adjustment and "temperament" in switchboards, open lines and cable plant.

It consumes the time of many people, and sometimes costs more than it would to let things slide and correct them when the break comes. But it spells service reliability.

Mrs. M. O. Pence Dies
In Baltimore Hospital

Wife of State Extension Leader Suffered for Many Weeks—Funeral Held Monday

Mrs. Ethel Lewis Pence, wife of State Extension Leader M. O. Pence of Newark, died last Friday night following a lingering illness caused by diabetes and other disease complications. She succumbed in the Maryland General Hospital in Baltimore.

Mrs. Pence was first taken seriously sick early in the Fall, but fought off her illness temporarily. She was again attacked a few weeks later and under the advice of her physicians, she was removed to the hospital.

Deceased was a popular member of the community here, and was very active not only in a social way, but in school, church and college affairs.

Funeral In Indiana

The body was taken direct to the Pence home at Converse, Indiana, where funeral services were held on Monday.

Mr. Pence, and the one son "Buddy" survive. They will make their future home in Indiana, where Mr. Pence has accepted the position of Extension Agronomist, at Purdue University. Mr. Pence is expected to return to Newark in a few days, however, to make arrangements for the moving of his furniture, and wind up his affairs at Wolf Hall. He resigned his post here effective January 1st, to take the new position.

Mr. and Mrs. Pence were married in 1912, while the former was assistant to A. E. Grantham at the Experiment State here. Mrs. Pence's home was in Amboy, Indiana.

After a year here, they removed to Indiana, where another year was spent. Then Mr. Pence was named the first county agent for Delaware, with headquarters in Dover. Later he was appointed Extension Leader at the Experiment State here.

Mrs. Pence was a student for two years at the Women's College following her marriage. They lived while in Newark on Park Place.

Mr. Pence's mother came on from Indiana during the last weeks of her daughter-in-law's illness, and took charge of the house here.

The community is fully sensible of the sorrow caused by Mrs. Pence's death, coming as it does, at a time when the family is moving to new fields. Both she and her husband were well liked by Newark people, and their departure from here under such saddened circumstances, draws to them the sympathy of their wide circle of friends.

ANNIE E. REED

Annie E. Reed, for years housekeeper at the George Casho home on Main Street, Newark, passed away on Sunday last after a lingering illness.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at one o'clock from her late residence and interment made in Head of Christiana Cemetery.

Deceased was well known among the older people of the town, having come here several years ago to nurse a sister of Mr. Casho, now deceased. Upon her death, Mrs. Reed remained in charge of the household.

JOHN LAMBERT

John Lambert, a well-known resident of Iron Hill, died at his home there last Friday night.

Deceased was a farmer practically all his life and spent his later years on a small place in that community.

He is survived by his widow. There were no children.

ELLISON ELECTED CHIEF

John R. Fulton, Robert S. Gallaher, H. Warner McNeal, Arthur Beals, and George W. Rhodes were the winners in a field of eight candidates.

The meeting was largely consumed in the election by ballot of the foregoing officers and assistants. The annual fire report prepared and submitted by Fire Recorder Lutton is printed elsewhere in this edition.

The financial statement was read and approved by the meeting, and a few other minor details of business were cleared up.

In facing another year, the firemen are in encouraging circumstances. A tidy balance in bank, a splendid new home and an interesting personnel are evident in the organization.

The older engine has been thoroughly overhauled and adds to the efficiency of the company.

The fire apparatus and equipment, according to the financial statement published this week in THE POST, is assessed at $20,000. The balance is given as $4,116.59.

COLLEGES GUESTS OF
PIERRE S. du PONT

Over 600 Enjoy Theatre Party in Wilmington Last Evening

The second "family" party to be given by Pierre S. du Pont in two years was tendered the members of the student bodies and faculties of the University in Wilmington last night, when over 600 guests attended a gigantic theatre party at the Playhouse.

Mrs. Fiske, Chauncey Olcott, Lola Fisher and William Powers, all nationally known masters of the stage art, appeared in "The Rivals," a revival of the grand old drama which swept to such great successes a score or more years ago.

The Newark party left the B. and O. Station shortly after seven o'clock last night on a special train of nine cars. A number of the faculty and administrative staffs motored to the theatre.

From accounts of the party, everyone enjoyed the splendid character portrayals by the stars, and at the second act curtain, two huge baskets of flowers were presented to Mrs. Fiske and Miss Fisher by Kathryn Ladd on behalf of the Women's College and by John G. Leach on behalf of Delaware College.

Supper On Train

Another example of Mr. du Pont's unflinching thoughtfulness and generosity became apparent when his guests were served sandwiches and bouillon on the train during the return trip. A caterer and staff were on board to serve the welcome refreshments.

Mr. du Pont occupied a seat with the students of the University and enjoyed immensely the play.

Arrangements for the transportation, seating and distribution of tickets for the big affair rested with Business Administrator Wilkinson, and he saw to it that there was no hitch in the program. The theatre train arrived in Newark shortly before twelve o'clock.

NEW LIBRARY OPENED

In the basement movable stacks of modern design are installed and already well filled with reserve books. There is room in the basement to take care of normal expansion for at least ten years.

Each department at the University has been asked by Miss Hawkins to gather the best books in their line from the library's stock, and have them placed in the reading room stacks, thus giving the students easy access to the finest reading.

Six department offices have been installed in the building, where conferences with students will be held. The Education, English, History, Modern Languages, Ancient Languages and Philosophy departments are thus taken care of.

$20,000 of the original Library Fund is scheduled to go to the purchase of new books. This has been delayed, however, until the books can be delivered directly to the new building.

The general public is cordially invited to make use of the Library, and Miss Hawkins yesterday asked that The Post make it plain that everyone, whether student, teacher or layman will receive every courtesy and assistance from her staff.

The staff now consists of Miss Hawkins, librarian, Mrs. Mabel Armstrong, Miss Ethel Campbell and Miss Sarah Lovett, assistants, and several student part-time assistants.

NEWARK REPRESENTED

The entire contest is in charge of the Agronomy Department of the University of Delaware. One hour will be allowed for the judging. The scoring of the teams will be on a basis of 60 per cent for placing and 40 per cent for reasons.

A. D. Cobb, State Extension Leader, will be a judge in the show, as will Prof. George Schuster of the Agronomy department. Mr. Schuster went to Cambridge, Md., last evening, where he judged a similar show. C. R. Runk is in Lewes, where he is directing the Boys' Judging Contest. R. W. Helm is also a busy figure at the show. A meeting is being held this afternoon when officers for the year will be elected.

About 175 entries are listed at the show this year.

State Fair Site Is

Down State Paper Feels Out Opinion On Project

The first faint pop which may or may not result in a veritable roar of partisan cannon during the coming year, is concealed in an editorial published in the Milford Chronicle, at Milford, Delaware, last week.

In the editorial, it is pointed out that the State Fair grounds at Elsmere will perhaps never be used again for exhibitions for which it was established, and that some means might be taken to utilize the plant. From there on the article gently mentions the huge sums Maryland receives from the four tracks in that state, and suggests that the Elsmere track would be an elegant place for "legalized racing."

Just what a "legalized" racetrack in a state which by law does not permit betting at tracks might mean, is still hazy, but it is thought that perhaps the New York system of getting around the law might suffice in Delaware.

The editorial, from comments already heard, will no doubt bring about an interesting issue, in which nearly everybody in the State will have a chance to express their personal opinion.

The State of Maryland this year will receive $721,000, in round numbers, as its revenue from the four one-mile race tracks—Havre de Grace, Pimlico, Laurel and Bowie—figures from the State Racing Commission, complete with the exception of Laurel, indicate.

This revenue is made up of two items:

(1) Tax of $6000 for each day of racing at each track and (2), tax of 15 per cent on the net revenue of each track for the year.

There are ninety-two days of racing in the year.

It is estimated, unofficially, that approximately $51,000,000 passed through the pari-mutuel machines at the four tracks this year.

Yorklyn

Yorklyn Community Association met on Friday evening, December 30, and an election of officers took place. James P. Kane was chosen President; Philip Touhey, Vice-President; Curtis Hannum, Treasurer, and Miss Margaret Connell, Secretary. More than 75 per cent membership of the people of the district was obtained, and the members will work to reach a 100 per cent enrollment during the coming year. The suggested program of the State Association was followed and an interesting Christmas program given by the school children.

NINE LARGE SALES
LISTED NEAR NEWARK

Predict Several Farms To Be Idle During 1925

Nine good sized sales are listed for this community during the next two months with Auctioneer Armstrong, of Newark, according to the latter's review of the coming season.

Mr. Armstrong, when interviewed by The Post this week, was of the opinion that more farms are being vacated each year in the lower end of the county, and that during 1925 he would not be surprised to hear that several will be totally idle.

The annual "moving day" in Delaware is March 1st; several sales other than those listed below are in sight.

Mr. Armstrong's list follows:

Thursday, January 29; Clarence B. Dean, horses cattle and implements, on old Dean farm.

Thursday, February 5; Milton Potter, near Ebenezer Church; horses, cattle and implements.

Tuesday, February 10; William Cloud, Red Mill; horses, cattle and implements.

Thursday, February 12; Allen Ruth; Milford Cross Roads; horses, cattle and implements.

Monday, February 16; Chester Bavington, near Ogletown; horses, cattle and implements.

Tuesday, February 17; Arthur R. Gravitt; Milford Cross Roads; horses, cattle and implements.

Thursday, February 19; Thomas Green, near Wilson Station, horses, cattle and implements.

Saturday, February 21; John F. Allen, New London Road; horses, cattle and implements.

Tuesday, February 24; Clarence Knox, near Head of Christiana; horses, cattle and implements.

M. E. Church

The second week of revival services has started with every indication of surpassing the results of the first week. Mr. Henry Sluyter, a baritone singer of national reputation, is delighting large audiences with his solo work and will be present for the remainder of the campaign. The Booster Chorus meets in the afternoons at 3.30 with an attendance of 150. The Win One Club meets in the evening prior to the evening service and is steadily increasing in usefulness. Thursday night will be known as High School Night. A delegation from New London will be present. Mrs. Goff, wife of the Evangelist, will be present and will sing. Those who know of Mrs. Goff's work as a soloist at Ocean Grove will be glad of this opportunity to hear her sing. Dr. Goff will speak on "Wealthy Young People." Friday night will be known as Booster Night. The Booster Chorus will sing and render a pleasing program, and Dr. Goff will preach on "The Wonderful Power of Faith."

Sunday will be the last day of the campaign. The subject of the morning will be "The Lift That Wins." Members will be received by letter, on confession of faith, and on probation. In the afternoon at 3 o'clock two services will be held. A service will be held for women in the church, Mrs. Goff will speak and sing. Her subject will be "Practical Christianity." At the same hour in the lecture room Dr. Goff will speak to men. His subject will be "Modern Slavery."

Sunday evening at 7.30 the final service of the campaign will be held. Hundreds of Newark people will be sorry to take leave of these good people as they have been extremely popular here and have rendered great service to the community, but as they are due at Selbyville this must be the concluding service. Dr. Goff's last sermon will be "The Devil's Dope."
