Construction Of Medill Sewer Expected To Begin Next Week

Contract Signed By McCanns, Board Of Education, Levy Court This Week After Right-Of-Way Dispute; Brookside Elementary School Opens Eight Classrooms

Construction of the long-disputed sewer line from the McCanns property to the E. Frances Medill Elementary School is expected to begin next week, Joseph M. McCann, president of the Newark Board of Education announced yesterday following final signature of the contract on Tuesday by the Levy Court of New Castle County.

The contract for the construction of the Medill School sewer line, which will be 1,200 feet long, was signed by the Board of Education and the Levy Court of New Castle County on Tuesday. The contract was signed after a long dispute over the right-of-way for the sewer line. The McCanns property is located on the east side of the school, and the sewer line will run along the property line to the school.

The sewer line will be constructed by the McCann Construction Company, which has been awarded the contract by the Board of Education. The construction is expected to begin next week and will be completed by the end of the year.

The McCann Construction Company is a local firm which has been in business for many years. It has a reputation for quality work and has completed many other construction projects in the area.

The Board of Education and the Levy Court of New Castle County are pleased with the completion of the contract. They hope that the sewer line will improve the sanitary conditions in the area and prevent future problems.

The McCann Construction Company is expected to start work on the sewer line next week. The work will be done during the school holidays and will not interfere with the school's operations.

92-Year Old Man Burned To Death South Of Newark

Third Floor Collapses As Volunteer Firemen Make Rescue Attempt

A 92-year-old Pleasant Hills, Md., man was burned to death Monday night when trapped by flames on the third floor of his home located south of Newark just over the state line.

The victim was George W. Scarborough, 92, who was found by firemen who had attempted to rescue him.

Scarborough's wife, Mrs. B. B. was not injured and escaped safely from the house. The dwelling was located in the East Hill section of Pleasant Hills.

The Acton Hose Hook and Ladder Company of Newark and the Union and North East, Md., fire departments responded but found the frame house a mass of flames upon arrival.

Scarborough, according to firemen, apparently smelled smoke in his home and had gone to the third floor to investigate. It was there, firemen said, that the flames, caused by a defective chimney, were first detected.

Smoke and flames evidently prevented Scarborough from finding his way back to the stairway to the second floor. When the third floor collapsed during the fire, his body dropped through the opening and fell on the stairway leading from the first to the second story.

Firemen donned masks when informed that the aged man was in the house and had not been seen for some time. They were required to take tank wagons to a pond nearly three miles from the scene to replenish their inadequate supply.

The building, a total loss, was valued at $8,000.

Coverdale Urges City Action For Additional Water Source

Opinion Expressed By Consultants In 1951 Of Need For More City Water Cited; Pension Plan Provisions Weighed For Decision; Jail Disturbances Studied

Faced with "an imperative and critical need for additional city water," an opinion expressed in 1951 by Whitman and Reppardt, consulting engineers for the City of Newark, Councilman Wm. Coverdale urged Council at Tuesday night's meeting to consider the purchase of additional property adjacent to the Water Works to augment the city water supply. Efforts to obtain additional sources of city water by the purchase of property at various locations in Newark, have been unsuccessful and Coverdale emphasized the need for immediate action.

Consideration was given to sinking an exploratory well for city-owned property, 800-ft. from the present source and the matter will be referred to the City Engineer, who was absent from the meeting because of illness.

A request from the duPont Company's Stone Laboratory southwest of Newark, off the Elkton Road, for the provision of Newark city water was deferred pending further investigation and a ruling on the maximum extension of city water service.

The shortage of water suffered by residents of the Elliott Heights area was discussed, and it was explained that a lack of money necessary for tearing up the streets to install mains to the area was the cause for delayed water service.

City Solicitor John Sinclair suggested the employment of a plan consultant to aid Council in reaching a decision regarding the plans submitted for consideration.

A "stop and go" provision, in which the plan may be discontinued and later renewed in the event of financial distress, and a provision for police retirement prior to age 65, are being weighed.

The dangerous condition existing at the South Chapel Street crossing over the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks, was cited by Councilman Samuel Diehl, and the railroad will be notified of the necessity for immediate installation of crossing safety gates.

A complaint was received concerning the disturbance created by inmates of the city jail. It was suggested that balustrade prisoners be confined in a variety of number of enclosures, ranging from a padded cell to a jail to a concrete blockhouse in back of the city garage, but Police Commissioner John R. Downes replied that persons taken into police custody must be under periodic observation to prevent injury or death.

Sound-proofing of the present cell and recreation room were offered as remedies to the situation, and the matter will be studied by the Police Committee for future recommendations.

A request to re-zone from residential to business, property on South Chapel Street, across from the Continental plant, was approved by the Planning Commission, and the City Solicitor will prepare a covering ordinance.

A request by the Chamber of Commerce to park the Christmas trumper in the rear of the Academy Building was approved.

YELLOWJACKET HIGHLIGHTS

New Risers For School
Newark High School will purchase new risers to be used by the elementary schools as well as the high school.

Eugene Ketchava, chairman of a faculty committee named to obtain the risers, announced the cost of risers as $24.75 of which $200 will be paid by the faculty from proceeds of last year's faculty play. The elementary school faculty will contribute $200 and the high school student council, $125.

Mary Jane Streepy, high school music teacher, stated that the high school music classes will pay the freight charges from their music fund.

The risers have a wooden top with a metal rail around the top deck and are supported by a steel frame. They are built so that they may be folded up to save storage space and so that new sections may be added later.

Mr. Ketchava expects to receive the risers in time for the annual Christmas Program which is presented by the high school music department.

Student Teacher, John Allen
John Allen, a senior at the University of Delaware, is a student teacher in Mrs. Elsie Rose's 5th grade class at the Newark Elementary School.

He was born in Mount Holly, N.J., on April 9, 1931 and attended high school there. He also went to prep school in Pennsburg, Pa. Mr. Allen played three years of varsity football and baseball in high school. His coach, who knew Coach Murray, encouraged him to come to the University of Delaware. Since he has been at Delaware he has played varsity football and has coached the freshmen football team.

One summer when he was 16 years old he worked in Wyoming in a national forest with a ranger, and has made trips to Florida and Mexico. He dislikes late students and girls. His greatest asset is his ability to get along with everybody. Movies and sports are his hobbies and his favorite food is steak.

His future plans include graduating from Delaware in February and entering the army in June. Because saleswork in industry has interested him for some time, Mr. Allen doesn't know whether he wants to teach school when he gets out of the army or become a salesman.

Ready-To-Eat Food Costly Time Saver Economist Advises

Prepared Mixes Save Time But Cost One-Third More U.D. Nutritionist States

Do prepared mixes and ready-to-eat foods rate an important place on the dinner table?

That depends on the homemaker—whether she wishes to save time or money, says M. Gertrude Hollaway, extension nutritionist at the University of Delaware.

To get the facts on comparative time and cost of ready-to-serve meals versus those that the homemaker prepares from "scratch," home economists of the U.S. Department of Agriculture prepared two sets of daily menus using ready-cooked foods, and two similar menus with foods that had to be combined and prepared.

They found that the ready-to-serve meals took only one-fourth as much time, but cost about one-third more, when costs of food and cooking fuel were added.

The home economists figured that their sample menu of ready-cooked items would cost four people $3.79 a day, as compared to $1.80 when the cook did all the work herself. But completely home-prepared meals for one day took five hours, while the ready-to-serve foods required only an hour and a half to prepare.

Each type of meal has its place, believes Miss Hollaway. Women with small children that need constant attention, or women who work outside the home will find the ready-to-serve foods a real boon, despite the added cost.

A homemaker with time at her disposal may prefer to cut food costs by preparing all her meals from the basic ingredients.

papyrus scrolls, Babylonian clay tablets, bark books, Japanese books on to signatures and present-day bound books. All of these were made and exhibited. Fourteen books were added to the school library.

Miss John S. Cray and Mrs. C. M. Olson of the Newark Branch of the American Association of University Women visited Eden last week in the interest of school libraries.

Miss Marian Hanby, state physical education supervisor observed methods of teaching in the school this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilbreth Horney and Mr. and Mrs. William Horney are spending two weeks in Miami, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. George Messick, of Philadelphia spent Sunday with her sisters in Bear.

Borreson, Serpico And Miller On All-Mid Six First Team

Steve Butcher, Tom Redfield, Jim Zaiser Make Second Team; Bob Trivits, Jim Flynn, Honorable Mention, On All-Star Grid Team Selected By Conference Coaches

Seniors John Borreson and Frank Serpico, and junior quarterback Don Miller, were named to the first team of the first All-Middle Six Conference Football squad as the result of a novel poll conducted by the ingenious sports staff of the Wilmington Sunday Star.

Selections were made by coaches of the participating schools.

Borreson, captain of Delaware's Fighting Blue Hens, wound up a brilliant career at tackle with 51 selection to the All-Conference eleven, while Serpico closes out a sparkling term at end.

Miller's needle-threading passing and field marshalling were a big factor in the Hens' undefeated campaign for the Middle Six crown. And Miller has another season ahead.

Halfback Jimmy Zaiser missed a first team berth by one point. He tackled Steve Butcher and end Tom Redfield were on the runner-up club. Guard Bob Trivits and halfback Jimmy Flynn gained honorable mention.

There were 12 men selected on the first squad as Borreson tied with Tony Sautter of Muhlenberg for right tackle. A tie for the right tackle post also resulted in 13 men being placed on the second team.

Jim Egloff of Bucknell and Pete Ascone of Muhlenberg finished last even.

The closest first team battles involved quarterbacks Miller and Frank Gagliardi, Gettysburg's sensational sophomore, and Joe Ujohia, the Bulls' veteran back, and Zaiser, the Hens' sophomore speedster.

Miller edged out Gagliardi, 12 points to 10. Ujohia's edge was even slimmer, a 12 to 11 margin.

The rugged first team line averages 195 pounds with Serpico, the lightest at 162 pounds.

The backfield sports a 167-pound average but possesses Miller's great passing arm, two breakaway halfbacks in McDonald and Ujohia, and the powerful thrusts of Joe O'Leary of Lafayette at fullback.

Ford, who alternated at fullback this season with the veteran Rocky Carzo, had his best day against New Hampshire when he scored three touchdowns. He was the team's fourth leading ground-gainer and was considered by the coaches as one of the better defensive members of the regular backfield. Two years ago, he was a defensive end and line backer in the two-platoon system.

Ford, former Pottsville Catholic High star, is 6-2, 194 pounds, with good speed and powerful punting ability. He is a member of the Theta Chi Fraternity at the university.

Dusting 'Em Off

By
E. A. RAUGHEY

The great guessing contest in Brooklyn has ended and they have finally come up with the manager for 1954. The name of the new leader is Walter Alston. Never heard of him? Neither did I. So I did a little research and found out that he is no stranger in Wilmington, as he played for Trenton in 1944 and 1945. In 1946 he started on his managing career at the bottom of the Dodge chain—Nashua in the New England League. Next year he got a promotion and managed Pueblo in the Class A Western League, and then the playoffs. For this he was promoted to St. Paul, where he stayed until 1949. Then he moved on to Montreal, which seems to be the No. 1 minor league team, where he had winners in 1951-52 and finished second in 1953. So he will be used to winning when he embarks on his National League career.

Incidentally, he got a one-year contract. To make it easier for him, the brains of the Dodgers sent Cookie Lavagetto up to Montreal to replace Alston. Cookie had been one of those mentioned for the Brooklyn job. The dope was that Fresno Thompson would take the job until Pee Wee Reese decided his playing days were over and was ready to take over the reins. Will Reese still get the nod later on and is Alston just being tried out for a filler-in?

An item out of Philly tells us that the Phils have told O'Leary to get his bags packed and take a train for Atlanta. This can mean only one thing and that is the Phils are trading and want his OK on the deals. It is no secret that they had been looking for a fullback and could mean that they have given up on Lepata and want Andy's big back in Connie Mack Stadium. And it also could be that the home folks have seen the last of Fudfin' Carzo, had his best day against New Hampshire when he scored three touchdowns. The dope out of Chicago is that he will be doing his 1954 work for the Cubs.

Walters Waits
At the same time a deal is in the making for Eddie Walters who does not rate very high after leaving the club in New York to go home in the waning moments of the late season. He claimed to have left a note telling that he had been called home on account of his father's illness. The club said they never received it, so there it is. Anyway Eddie is slated to do his playing elsewhere in 1954.

The A's have not given out any information about 1954 plans. Maybe Mr. Joost has had the job thrust on him so suddenly that he has not made up his mind on who to put on the trading block. I did see an item that Les Bell, who will be remembered around here as the manager of Harrisburg in the Interstate, has been moved up to Ottovon from Savannah. So now the Savannah job is open.

The reserve lists show that the A's have only 36 men while the Yanks are two over the 40 limit. But they list Johnny Sain, who says he is through, and for the first time in years the name of Johnny Mize is not one of those reserved.

Bowl Contests
This is time of year to name the lucky teams that will be the New Year's Day attractions. In the old set bowl of all the Rose, Michigan State takes on UCLA in Dallas, the Cotton Bowl will have the Red Elephants of Alabama playing Baylor, bringing together the champions of the South and the West. Conferences in New Orleans George Tech will tackle West Virginia, and the battle down in Miami will bring together unbeaten Maryland and Oklahoma, beaten only by Notre Dame.

That's the line up for the major bowls, but there will be several lesser ones in action plus two other games for charity—the Blue-Gray game from Montgomery, Ala. and the East-West game in San Francisco, open only for seniors.

Up in Philly Penn closed the season with a 7-all tie with Cornell on Turkey Day and Villanova closed the season on a high note with a win over Fordham.

But the Eagles got knocked loose from any ideas they had for getting a tie in the pro ranks, by taking a licking from the Giants in a game that they now lost to the rest of the schedule is something that has to be played which can't change the standings a bit, and the football league does not pay off for a second place finish.

Middleweights Box Friday 10-Rounder In Garden TV Test

Joey Giambra and Jimmy Herring, two rough, tough brawlers, clash in Madison Square Garden Friday night in a 10 round middleweight fight to be nationally telecast and broadcast on the Cavalcade of Sports.

Air time for the bout is 10 p.m. over the NBC television network and the ABC radio network. Herring and Giambra are both 22 years old and are capable of ending a fight with a single punch. Giambra who holds a decision over the up and coming Joey Giambra, has had 36 fights, winning 31 and losing 5. He has knocked out 19 of his opponents.

Herring has had twice as many professional fights as Giambra. In 72 bouts he has won 61 times, drawing nine and drawn twice. His kayo record stands at 23. Among his victims are Jimmy Flood and Sonny Horne.

Duck hunting is a weird business from any angle. It involves voluntarily getting out of bed and into the cold blackness of very early morning, prolonged exposure to wind, water, mud, and ice while the neighboring muskrats are tucked wisely and snugly away in their winter shelters—and for a perfect legal day, the best that the hunter can hope for is a bag of four ducks and a pair of geese—a limit that we have in no appreciable way approached as yet.

Duck hunters pay for the privilege of occupying reed-covered, shivering shelters in muddy, marshy, wetland wastes, and even the ducks must get a few laughs as they look down on the local gunners shaking in the Delaware-Maryland cold, while the wildfowl aim the sky south for winter.

A wildfowler is a bit well different from other men. And ducks, too, who will sit down in freezing water when the land offers greater comfort, have less judgment than other fowl. But dogs, we thought, had more common sense and took to the cold wide open spaces only out of devotion to their masters.

But a couple of weeks ago on the Chester River, we found Ames, a rugged Chesapeake Bay retriever, awaiting our arrival in the open blind where he had of his own choosing, spent what must have been a most unpleasant night.

Ames was a spot in our hearts right then, and took over even more space there when he took off in a racing dive and returned with a mallard hen that fell for George Wiggins' opening gunfire. Fortunately for Ames' faith in his companions, there was little opportunity for shooting, and the only two ducks that came in, stayed there have been times when a good dog would have given us up as a lost cause.

Wiggins, a man of great determination, left the blind at noon for business reasons back in Newark But Glibby Young and Harold Stanley were less resolute. A casual reference to a possible afternoon flight of waterfowl established Young as a shooting companion for the rest of the day, while Stanley and Herman Leasure stayed on, with no coaxing whatever. They were a quarter mile away in another blind.

The afternoon flight incidentally, had failed to materialize when we left at sunset, and George had heard the last shot before his noon departure.

Rack for a Thanksgiving morning stand, George, with Frank Butterworth, killed a Canada goose, a pintail, and a scaup—a blackhead to Arthur and his Eastern Shore companions.

Somewhat sleepy after a 3 o'clock rendezvous with the alarm clock the previous morning, followed by an all-day stand on the Chester River, we met Ken Mathewson at 5 a.m. for a recent engagement with the waterfowl of the Hundred Acre Marsh between Delaware City and Port Penn. And for a half hour before legal shooting time, we listened to thousands of ducks quacking, splashing, and swishing their way out of the marsh into the Delaware River.

When it became light enough to shoot, the ducks had departed. All that is, except for a pair of pintails that Ken talked out of the overhead haze into a smooth sweeping stop over the decoys. Mathewson, like a gentleman, directed into the air when we missed our first shot, killed his duck with the second barrel, and we took ours with a second chance as the pintail flared in a sweep around and behind the blind.

That was easy. We were back in Newark at work by 9:30, Friday.

Saturday was a little tougher. It meant getting up at 4 a.m. to meet Dick Ware at the Newark Diner by 5 o'clock. But both of us made it, and half an hour later we walked into the cabin on the Elk River where rugged Ray Ott had the kettle boiling on a welcome stove.

Notre Dame—So. Methodist Grid Telecast On Saturday

The Irish of Notre Dame—one of college football's great teams—will close their 1953 season at South Bend, Saturday afternoon against the Mustangs of Southern Methodist University in a game that will be seen by millions across the nation as the TV Football Game of the Week.

The Notre Dame—SMU clash will bring to a close the 1953 General Motors TV Game of the Week series.

River, we met Ken Mathewson at 5 a.m. for a recent engagement with the waterfowl of the Hundred Acre Marsh between Delaware City and Port Penn. Saturday was a little tougher. It meant getting up at 4 a.m. to meet Dick Ware at the Newark Diner by 5 o'clock. But both of us made it, and half an hour later we walked into the cabin on the Elk River where rugged Ray Ott had the kettle boiling on a welcome stove.

In a duck hunter's dream set-up, after walking less than 100-ft. from the snug cabin to a cedar-fringed shore blind, we were in business. It was too foggy to see more than the outermost decoy, and after soaking up some of this dampness, Dick and Ray adjourned to the cabin for another round of coffee.

With the dangerous fire power out of action, a green winged teal drake drifted down out of the fog to buzz the decoys in what would normally have been a perfectly safe maneuver. But the fog threw us off and we killed him, going away, with the only shot of the day.

Heartened by the shot, Messrs. Ott and Ware returned to the blind and while three cigars were being fired up, three wideopen red wings and dropped out of the mist into the decoys.

Don't know exactly what happened to our two companions—they probably lashed themselves out of their chairs—but our cigar rattled up with the gun stock in a shower of sparks for the only fireworks of that duck visitation.

Newark Ends Year at Conrad With 33-25 Turkey Day Defeat

Conrad Rallies To Overcome 2-Touchdown Yellow Jacket Lead In 1st Period; Al Jezzy Scores Twice In Final Appearance; Shew Passes For Two In Fourth Quarter

Newark High's Yellowjacket gridgers lost their final game of the season at Conrad on Thanksgiving Day by the score of 33-25, but in losing, the Jackets put on a thrilling show and the cause wasn't lost until the final whistle.

The Yellowjackets took a 12-6 lead in the first period when Al Jezzy tucked away a pitchout from quarterback Jake Shew and ran 64 yards for the first Newark score.

But Wetzel, sturdy Newark line, drove in a Conrad field goal in the second quarter to tie the score.

Shew came to life in the last period when he passed to Jezzy for a 20-12 half-time lead. Jezzy passed to Felix for 33 yards and the second touchdown, and the Jackets led 24-6.

Conrad's Steve Kline intercepted a pass on the Newark ten and passed to Felix in the end zone for the Redskins' third period touchdown.

In the final quarter, Jake Shew threw two touchdowns, the Yellowjackets rallied in a ditch stand to outscore their credit opponents.

Steve Kline, fullback, had been sidelined with an injury for most of the season. Shew's pass for 28 yards and third Newark touchdown, Jezzy was on the receiving end another for 24 yards and the score.

The Newark lineup: ENDS—David, McDowell, Hales, J. Smith, Klapsky. TACKLES—P. Smith, Miller, G. McNair, Boudy. GUARDS—Kleinbach, Cunnane, Porach, Roames. CENTERS—Wetzel, Blanton. BACKS—Shew, Conway, Shew. JEZZY, Grant, Pile, Hildebrand, Thorp, Kline.
