A Word to Our Patrons and the Public.

We have aimed in this work, to give information which is most useful, at whatever cost of effort, time or money. It combines, to a great extent, the general Directory of names, Street or Block Directory, Business Directory, Official Register of city, county, state and national officers, and a Gazetteer of general useful information relative to Wilmington. How much research and severe application, portions of the Book have cost us—particularly the statistical information relative to our beautiful city and the assessed value of real estate held by our citizens—those only can understand, and fully appreciate who have made the attempt and know how very difficult it is to obtain accurate and valuable information, and to put it in the best form for the understanding and use of others.

The leading features of the work are:

A full list and description of all the streets, avenues, courts and alleys of the city, from a most careful personal inspection of the same; which will be found full and reliable, and of great practical utility;

Historical and descriptive sketch of the city;

An Official Register of city, county, state and national officers;

Statistical information of Wilmington;

A complete Street or Block Directory;

A Business Gazetteer, and

A General Directory of Wilmington.

1. General Directory, with a large addition of names—spelt with much more accuracy than heretofore—the first name and initials given in full.

2. Business Directory, the classification of which is full, carefully and aptly worded, and arranged in the most strictly alphabetical order.

3. A Block Directory giving the head of the house in each house in a block or street.

As a Directory and Gazetteer of the city of Wilmington it is so full, thoroughly prepared and reliable, that every person, whether resident or non-resident, who wishes to be informed concerning the city, should have a copy. It will be found worth many times the price of the work, and many of the items will be seen to be more valuable the more thoroughly they are examined and the more frequently used.

We have aimed to make it throughout intrinsically valuable and hope that each article will be carefully read, confident that it will repay perusal.

The work is distinctively a home production, as all the work of canvass, compiling, printing, binding and management was done in Wilmington by citizens of Wilmington. This is the first Directory ever published in Wilmington of which this can be said.

In conclusion we wish to thank our patrons who assisted us in making the work a success and beg to assure them that our next work will be even better than this, our first.

Respectfully,
THE WILMINGTON ADVERTISING AGENCY.
W. C. R. COLQUHOUN, Manager.

It Will Be Noticed that the Directory for 1898 is smaller and is not as cumbersome as in former years. This is in deference to the wishes of a number of our subscribers. It is printed from type set from the Mergenthaler type-setting machines, the type being several sizes smaller than the type used in former directories, and presents a clear, distinct face, the pages are more compact and permit of fewer abbreviations, therefore decreasing the number of pages. This change, we believe, will be better appreciated after usage.

THE STREETS OF WILMINGTON.

The city of Wilmington was originally laid out with reference to the two rivers (the Brandywine and Christiana), that flowed along the northern and southern borders, and marked its boundaries in those directions. Since then the channels of its population have widened and overflowed, and the limits of the city have been greatly extended in every direction. The Highlands, Henry Clay, East Lake, and other suburbs have been added, and the DuPont's Banks and Rockland are but an out-post of our city, and should be reckoned as a part of it in every estimation of our population and resources.

We expect Wilmington to go increasing in size, as well as in years, growing and expanding until her present garments shall be entirely too strait for her, or shall appear too shabby and mean for her increased wealth, and enlarged and greatly beautified proportions.

The streets east of Market, and parallel with it, taken as they number, are:

King, 100.	Poplar, 400.	Spruce, 700.	Buttonwood, 1000
French, 200.	Lombard, 500.	Church, 800.	Heald, 1100.
Walnut, 300.	Pine, 600.	Locust, 900.	Claymont, 1200.

The remainder of the streets on the east are not named, but would range, if numbered, as high as 3000 or 3100.

West of Market street and parallel with it north of Tenth street are numbered:

Orange, 100.	Tatnall, 200.	West, 400.	Washington, 500.
		Jefferson, 600.

West of Market street and parallel with it south of Tenth street are numbered:

Shipley, 100.	Madison, 700.	Franklin, 1300.	Lincoln, 1900.
Orange, 200.	Monroe, 800.	Broome, 1400.	Union, 2000.
Tatnall, 300.	Adams, 900.	Rodney, 1500.	Grant, 2100.
West, 400.	Jackson, 1000.	Clayton, 1600.	Bayard, 2200.
Washington, 500.	Van Buren, 1100.	DuPont, 1700.	Woodlawn, 2300.
Jefferson, 600.	Harrison, 1200.	Scott, 1800.	Rodman, 2400.
	Hawley, 2500.	Webb, 2600.	Greenhill, 2700.

Beginning at the Christiana bridge at the foot of Market street, the streets that are at right angles to Market street are Water, Front, and the numerals to Thirty-sixth street, the northern boundary of the city; for example: Water, 1; Front, 100; Second, 200; Third, 300, etc.

On the south side of Market street bridge the streets running east and west parallel with Front street are A, B, C, D, E and F, and follow in order, beginning with A street. The numbered streets that intersect Market street at right angles extend entirely across the city.

In addition to these we have Delaware avenue, extending from Tatnall street west to Union street, and in the northwestern part of the city and parallel with Delaware avenue we have Gilpin, Shallcross and Lovering avenues. They extend from Adams street west to the city line.

In the southwestern part of the city below Front and parallel with it we have Chestnut, Elm, Linden, Sycamore and Beech. All of these extend from Maryland avenue west to Union street.

The above are the principal streets of the city. There are others of more or less extent and importance, all of which are given and briefly described in the "Alphabetical List."

The numbers of all streets running north and south, or east and west, increase by hundreds, at their intersection with all principal streets, whether the number of houses make a full hundred or not.

The short streets have hundreds corresponding with the main streets with which they are parallel, and begin to number from the intersecting street having the lowest number or hundred.

The streets at right angles with Market street number each way from it, whether they intersect it or not; and those intersecting it are designated "east" or "west" to denote the direction of a number or place from Market street.

The numbers of Market street and all streets parallel with it above Front, increase towards the north, below Front they increase toward the south. The number of all streets east of Market street and at right angles with it increase toward the east.

The numbers of all streets west of Market and at right angles with it increase toward the west.

The numbers of all streets running east and west are even on the south side and odd on the north side.

The numbers of all streets running north and south are even on the east side, odd on the west side.

ALPHABETICAL LIST OF STREETS.

To facilitate the description of the prominent named streets they are designated as so many squares, east and west of the dividing line, Market street, thus: Jackson street 10 squares W means 10 squares west of Market, French 2 squares E means 2 squares east of Market, etc.

The numbered streets run east and west and are numbered consecutively from Front to Thirty-sixth street, at the northern limit of the city. They bear the prefix "east" or "west." All other streets are named as follows:

A STREET south side from Market E to Christiana ave.

Adams, 9 squares W from Maryland ave N to the Brandywine.

Anchorage, from Beech S W to 9th ave, parallel with Maryland ave.

Apple, from S Heald E to Bradford N of Lobdell.

GAZETTEER,

WILMINGTON AND ITS HISTORY.

INTRODUCTORY.

The very term "Gazetteer" in connection with a Directory is suggestive of statistics, tables and carefully prepared references.

It calls up associations of counting rooms, workshops and professional offices, and brings vividly before the mind scenes of industry and the noise and stir of the busy mart.

We seem to see the quick and thoughtful step of the merchant, the firm grasp and careful movement of the workman, the watchful eye of the employer, the rapid turning of the account book and the almost lightning speed of the pen or typewriter, and every now and then, the clerk reach forth the hand for "The City Directory" that hangs by the desk, and hurriedly turn over its leaves in search of some needed reference.

Whatever is connected with business speaks the language of activity and dispatch, and calls for clearness, brevity and system on the part of those who furnish the data to work by.

Business men require means and methods at once simple and practical, and the least expensive in time and money. They use a Directory, for the most part, as a book of reference, hence it should be full, complete and reliable.

For this reason, though we had intended to give a somewhat full sketch of the history and growth of Wilmington, we shall confine ourselves to a brief resume, of the origin, natural advantages and leading business interests of our beautiful and growing city.

ORIGIN AND GROWTH OF OUR CITY.

Wilmington, though comparatively young as a city, is one of the oldest towns of the United States, and ought from its natural resources, by every law of development, to be at the present time, one of the largest places on the Atlantic Coast. Instead of seventy or seventy-five thousand inhabitants it should have many times seventy thousand—in place of two or three railroads, we should have a dozen running in every direction and connecting us advantageously with all parts of the country—and where it has little or no coasting trade, and not a ship engaged in foreign commerce hailing from this port, it ought to have trade with every large town on the Atlantic Coast, and many ships laden with the riches of foreign commerce constantly coming from other parts of the world. In manufactures and trade it has made a fine beginning, yet neither is a tenth part of what it ought to be.

But why speak of what ought to be? We had rather consider what can be now—what it is possible to achieve in the future. That Wilmington is destined to make great strides in population, wealth and social improvement; that she has every needful, not to say desirable element of growth, and that there is a glorious future in store for her, we have not a doubt.

A GOOD FOUNDATION LAID.

Our delightful and favorably located city, though less in population and wealth than many of her sisters, and less by far than her natural resources justly entitle her to be, has a solid growth. The roots of her prosperity have struck deep, and the foundations for future development have been laid broad and sure. Though her growth has not been rapid, it is a healthy one, and will bear enlargement and pushing much better than those places that have had a forced development; that have grown up in a night.

The architects of the future of Wilmington have not a foundation of stubble or of sand on which to build, but one that has been laid by slow but careful hands, and on it they may safely build. It may be well, however, to see a little how her corner-stones have been laid, and inquire briefly into her past history, for though her career has not been as brilliant and imposing as some of our larger cities, her past, and especially her early history, is an exceedingly interesting one.

FIRST SETTLERS.

Toward the close of 1637, or early in 1638, a company of Swedes sailed from Gottenberg, in the man-of-war "Key of Calmar" for the purpose of founding a colony in the then unknown "New World." They were accompanied by and under the direction of Peter Minuit, a Hollander, formerly actively employed in this country in the service of the Dutch West India Company. After a tedious voyage they reached the mouth of the Delaware Bay, and on entering inside the Capes coasted up the South River (Delaware) to the mouth of the Suspecough (Christiana) River, which they ascended about two miles and selected a site for their infant settlement, called by the Indians Hopohaccan. It was that on which Wilmington now stands. The commanding appearance which it presented from the River Delaware no doubt led them to decide on this beautiful spot. According to the best authorities their landing occurred in May, 1638.

CHARACTER OF THE FIRST SETTLERS.

The Swedish colonists are generally conceded to have been fully equal, physically and mentally, to any of the early settlers, and to have exceeded most of them in piety, peaceableness and good government. They maintained the most amicable relations with the Indians, who styled them "good friends." As colonists, they were superior to their rivals, the Dutch, as they were seeking "a home in the wilderness," while the latter were, properly speaking, mere traders, taking no interest in the country, except as a means of procuring wealth.

The settlement slowly increased amid great trials and hardships, being claimed at the same time by both Sweden and Holland, whilst receiving little or no assistance from either. In 1655 the colony passed under the control of the Dutch, and remained under their rule until it was conquered by the English in 1664, and finally ceded to them by Holland, in 1674. This was the beginning of better days for the colonists. Hitherto they had suffered much at the hands of many masters, at home and abroad, in addition to the hardships always incident to a new country. It is no matter of surprise, then, that on the arrival of William Penn, in 1682, he was welcomed with enthusiasm by the Swedes as the forerunner of a new era in the history of the colony.

All Delaware, including Wilmington and vicinity, passed under the immediate care of the Penns, and the people, composed at this time of Swedes, Dutch and English, looked forward to a season of better days, and in this they were destined not to be disappointed.

WHEN THE TOWN WAS LAID OUT.

During the first occupation of the Delaware colonies by the English, Francis Lovelace, Governor General of the Duke of York's possessions, granted about the year 1671 the ground on which Wilmington now stands to John Anderson and Tymen Stidham, the same lands having been held for some time by the latter gentleman, under a kind of prescriptive right. But a regular town does not seem to have been laid out until 1731, more than half a century afterwards, when a portion of the grant came into possession of Thomas Willing. This gentleman laid out this tract upon the plan of Philadelphia, which, in honor of its founder, received the name of Willingtownton (afterwards changed to Wilmington) and contained in 1735 about twenty buildings.

WILLIAM SHIPLEY.

At this time William Shipley became interested in building up the town, and the effect of his influence, wealth and enterprise soon became apparent in the prosperity and comparative rapid growth of the place. The name of this gentleman is intimately and honorably associated with the early history of the town.

It has been perpetuated in one of our leading streets, and deserves to be held in honored remembrance, as that of one of the leading spirits among the fathers and founders of Wilmington. From the time he and his wife, an enthusiastic, but gifted and in many respects remarkable woman, came into the place and enlisted their wealth and influence in its behalf, we date its real growth as a town. Would that it had more such persons to plan and labor for its upbuilding and prosperity.

THE FIRST CHARTER.

Wilmington was first chartered by George II., in 1739, and then contained about one hundred and twenty houses, with a population of six hundred persons. During this year the foundation of ship building, afterwards carried on extensively, was laid by the construction of the brig Wilmington, which was also the pioneer in the foreign trade of the port, destined to become by no means inconsiderable, and though lost to us for the present, we may add that by every natural law of trade and enterprise it ought to be by this time far greater than ever before.

MADE A BOROUGH, THEN A CITY.

In 1809 it was chartered by the State Legislature as the "Borough" of Wilmington; and in 1832 was incorporated as the "City" of Wilmington, at which time its population was about seven thousand. This was probably the proudest day of its history. Better still, it was the beginning of a new era of prosperity and the more rapid growth in population, wealth and all that makes a city or a people.

THE RAILROAD ERA.

In 1837 our city was connected with Philadelphia and Baltimore by the P. & W. B. R. R. This road has greatly promoted Wilmington's prosperity by increasing its building facilities, developing its manufactures, furnishing additional outlets for the agricultural districts that surrounded it and rendering it easily accessible from the two great cities on either side, Philadelphia and Baltimore.

Another important feeder to Wilmington was the Delaware Railroad. This road has done much for Wilmington, and a great deal more for the State at large. It has been with its connections and branches the making of Delaware and the Peninsula. Then came the Wilmington and Reading railroad (now the Wilmington and Northern), making a connecting link between here and Reading, Pa.; next the Delaware Western (now a branch of the Baltimore and Ohio), and in 1885 the great Baltimore and Ohio railroad extended their line from Baltimore to Philadelphia giving us a direct route to the west. These important railroads have added greatly to our advancement in that they have furnished cheap and rapid transit for the products and raw materials of our manufactures.

ELECTRIC RAILROADS.

Wilmington has one of the best-equipped electric railroads in the country, and our citizens are given rapid transit and low rates. Within the past year a new road has been put in operation between here and our sister city, New Castle, and with the Brandywine Springs railway and the Chester and Wilmington railway soon to be built we will soon be connected with all the important suburbs, so that Wilmington is destined to be one of the most important cities on the Atlantic coast.

THE GREAT WANT OF OUR CITY.

But the great want of our city, that which would give us large transit; that which would be open to our use winter and summer; that which would give us access to the outer world everywhere and at all times, and bring us any amount of coasting trade, and that without which, Wilmington can never be a large business place, is a foothold on the Delaware river. We have seen the necessity for it, and the advantage it would be to us. Let us then raise the cry: "The Delaware must be reached." Let all classes, especially our business men, unite in it. Let it be ventilated, urged and pushed forward until it is accomplished. It ought to be done; it can be done; it must be done. This achieved, and with the other facilities which we have, rightly improved, Wilmington will not be a slow, befogged, mildewed town, but a first-class city, in enterprise, population and wealth taking its place where it should have been long ago, as one of the principal cities on the Atlantic coast. We have given a brief resume of what Wilmington has been and what she may become. We will now give some information as to its present condition.

LATE POSTAL RULINGS.

To constitute a lottery three things are necessary; First, a consideration; second, a prize; third, the obtaining of that prize by lot or chance. In all missing word and letter contests, jumbled proper names, etc., the element of chance enters largely, and therefore comes under the definition of lottery schemes.

"A state officer having a prisoner in his custody may exercise a certain discretionary power over his written correspondence with others so long as that correspondence is out of the jurisdiction or control of the P. O. Department, but when it is placed within the legal custody of officers or agents of the department, and while it continues there the laws of the United States operate on it and not the laws of the state. No matter what may be the charge against the prisoner, or what the nature of his confinement, letters arriving at the office, directed to him, should be delivered only to his order."
