UD awarded $5.4 million AIDS research grant

by Cathy Thomas

Of the Post staff

University of Delaware researchers will study AIDS and drug abuse through $5.4 million in grants from the National Institute on Drug Abuse, university President Dr. E. Arthur Trabant said Friday.

The greater portion of the grant money, $4.5 million, will fund an AIDS research program that will study 500 Delaware prison inmates with histories of intravenous drug use.

A grant for $878,000 will finance a three-year research project in Philadelphia to assess how drug use affects the criminal decision-making process of heroin and cocaine addicts.

Trabant said the research projects fit the university's mission as a land grant college.

"They take the expertise. They take the knowledge," he said, referring to the research projects. "They do something for the enhancement of society."

The five-year AIDS research project, the largest ever funded in Delaware, will examine the effectiveness of drug abuse treatment and AIDS prevention programs.

"We're all aware of what's happening with the AIDS epidemic," said Dr. James A. Inciardi, principal investigator for the project and a university professor of sociology and director of the university's Criminal Justice Program. "The intravenous drug user is in the second highest category of AIDS cases.

"AIDS is emerging as a very significant problem."

According to Inciardi, Delaware is ranked 10th in the nation in the number of new AIDS cases diagnosed in 1988.

The project will include HIV testing and AIDS prevention, as well as establishment of a community-based drug abuse treatment program for the state.

"The results of this research should provide important information on treatment alternatives for a particularly high risk group for HIV infection," he said. "While these individuals have had limited exposure in prison, under the normal relapse rate for paroled addicts, they are potentially a prime source for extending HIV infection in the population."

"Intervention at this stage should be a cost-effective public health benefit."

In the second research project, Dr. Leon E. Pettway, an university associate professor of criminal justice, will assess how drug use affects the criminal decision-making process of adult heroin and cocaine addicts.

Pettway will establish a field station in north Philadelphia, where drug-abusing and non-drug-abusing criminals from

Holy Angels asbestos woes

by Cathy Thomas

Of the Post staff

Newark's Holy Angels School will close soon while workers remove asbestos from the building.

Already, children in grades five through eight have been moved from the Possum Park Road school to Linden Hill Elementary School on Skyline Drive in the Pike Creek Valley. Children in kindergarten through fourth grades will join them later this month.

"The asbestos was discovered as a result of an inspection we had to do last year," said Sister Marie Kelly, superintendent of the Catholic schools in the Diocese of Wilmington. "We knew there was asbestos but there was no danger."

The situation changed in recent months after heavy rain and hot weather combined to damage the school building. Ceiling tiles in the building loosened and began falling soon after school resumed this fall.

Asbestos, a cancer-causing chemical, was installed in many older buildings as a fireproofing agent.

Kelly said the Environmental Protection Agency regulations were followed and students were removed from the damaged room. Air samples were tested.

"When we assessed the situation, we decided to remove the asbestos now," Kelly said. "That meant the removal of the students."

The asbestos is in the building wing which houses fifth through eighth graders.

"We don't have to move kindergarten through fourth grade because they're in another wing of the building," said Kelly. "To keep the children together, we decided to move them all."

Nearly 100 parents of children attending the school helped move the upper grades to the Fire rakes Colonial Gardens

by Suzanne Sczubelek

Of the Post staff

Thirty-six apartments were evacuated and 16 residents left homeless Thursday when fire broke out at Colonial Garden Apartments on East Main Street in Newark.

No injuries were reported, but four firefighters were treated and released at Christiana Hospital for heat exhaustion and smoke inhalation, said Chief William B.

Matthews of Newark's Aetna Hose Hook and Ladder Company.

He said the fire, reported at 11:58 a.m., began in the basement.

"These apartments have been known to transmit fire through the walls," he said.

This is the sixth fire for the 27-year-old complex, according to Matthews.

Colonial Garden Apartments consists of 12 buildings housing 12 units each.

Flames spread throughout building G, and Matthews said major reconstruction would be needed before it would be inhabitable.

The fire was brought under control at 1:34 p.m.

Buildings E and F sustained smoke damage and were evacuated but not reached by the fire, Matthews said.

Firefighters cut into the roof of building F to be ready in case the fire spread.

Roads surrounding the complex were closed for more than an hour.

Marion G. Dennick, an apartment rental agent, said gas and electricity were turned off in all three buildings. Many residents weren't home at the time of the fire, she said.

Residents of E and F were able to return to their homes that night. The Red Cross provided emergency service out of the Newark Senior Center for those affected by the fire and found housing for homeless residents.

The top floor apartments were gutted. Residents James Crowhorn and Judy Reynolds held each other as they watched firefighters inside their apartment. The roof had collapsed, and the sun was shining through.

Six fire companies responded to the scene.

Investigators still seek cause of devastating apartment blaze

Investigators have not been able to determine the cause of the fire Thursday at the Colonial Garden Apartments on East Main Street.

The fire, which started in a vacant space, was the sixth fire at the complex, according to City Fire Marshall Ken Farrall.

Farrall may offer recommendations to prevent future fires at the complex.

"Exactly what caused the fire we don't know," he said. "There's still some things we want to look at."

Firefighters battled the mid-day blaze for about 90 minutes before bringing it under control. The fire destroyed Building G and damaged two neighboring buildings.

Farrall said the fire started in an area between two partitions.

"A lot of this is the type of building," he said. "The fire starts in the partitions, and it's in the attic before anyone knows it."

Nottingham Road bridge to be replaced

by Cathy Thomas

Of the Post staff

The Nottingham Road bridge, determined unsafe for heavy truck traffic, will be replaced next year, according to State Sen. James P. Neal of Newark.

The bridge was limited to passenger vehicles last year when cracks in the cement were found during a routine inspection.

Neal said Nottingham Road will be closed west of Casho Mill Road while construction of the new bridge is underway, forcing traffic to detour onto Church Road in Woodmere.

A proposal to build a temporary bridge next to the existing bridge has been ruled out in favor of the Church Road detour, according to Neal.

"It makes sense to close the road for a minimum amount of time rather than building a temporary bridge to bypass the traffic," he said. "It would be preferable to close the road down for two months and get the job done."

If a bypass bridge were built, the project would take up to six months to complete.

The design and bidding phases of the construction project will also take several months. "The earliest possible date that construction could start is June," Neal said.

Delaware Department of Transportation (DELDOT) officials have sought input from Woodmere and Timbercreek residents about the construction start date.

If the project gets underway during the summer months when traffic is lighter, the number of cars detoured through Woodmere will be less.

There will likely be more children playing outside in the summer, however, creating safety concerns for parents.

If the project begins in September, the children will be in school but traffic is usually heavier in the fall.

Neal said residents aren't ready to decide when they project should begin.

A University of Delaware fraternity has been charged with providing alcohol to a 17-year-old girl who later reported being gang-raped at a neighboring fraternity, according to Newark police.

A charge of providing alcohol to an underage person has been filed against Delta Epsilon Educational, Inc., the parent corporation for Delta Tau Delta fraternity on South College Avenue.

The charge is in connection with a Sept. 10 party at the fraternity.

Newark Police Chief William A. Hogan said the alcohol violation was uncovered during their initial investigation of the reported rape.

"It's based on information we obtained from up to 10 individuals," said Hogan.

Delaware Attorney General Charles M. Oberly III has taken over the investigation of the gang rape, which allegedly occurred at the Kappa Alpha fraternity house on Amstel Avenue.

Oberly is expected to release a statement on the case once his investigation is complete.

Although the rape investigation is not complete, Hogan said they decided to proceed with the alcohol charge. "It was a separate issue," he said.

University of Delaware officials are also conducting an investigation of the incident and may take disciplinary action against the fraternities.

NC police said doing the job

by Cathy Thomas

Of the Post staff

New Castle County residents report a high level of satisfaction with police protection, according to a University of Delaware survey.

The survey findings will determine if any modifications are needed in county police service.

The survey findings indicate that 87 percent of county residents are satisfied with police service.

"Our ultimate goal is to have 100 percent satisfaction," said County Police Chief Col. Thomas P. Gordon, but the first time around we thought this was a pretty good measurement."

"When you think we're in the business of enforcing laws — and some of those are traffic laws which aren't very popular — we think that rate is excellent."

The Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies, which awarded accreditation to the county police last year, requires the annual survey as an accreditation standard.

Residents responding to the survey reported satisfaction even in those areas which are not satisfying to the police themselves.

"Our citizens were more pleased with our response time than we were," said Gordon. "We're not happy with our response time at all."

Gordon said by reducing the amount of time it takes them to respond to a complaint, they have a greater chance of catching the criminal. The response times vary, he says, with faster responses to serious crimes.

More than 74 percent of the survey respondents said they want the police to offer domestic violence and child abuse prevention programs — something which the police have already started.

Newark man robbed

A 23-year-old Newark man was assaulted, robbed and locked in the trunk of his car for four hours early Sunday morning, city police said.

James Ayers was assaulted by two men as he left a party in 1100 block of Wharton Drive at 1:30 a.m. Sunday. Police said Ayers was struck in the head, tied with a rope and put in the trunk of his car.

The men then drove the car to Wilmington, stopping the car once after Ayers began shouting. They opened the trunk, struck Ayers, and tightened the ropes, police

After several hours, the captors allowed Ayers to leave the trunk and go to the bathroom. Police said Ayers had loosened the ropes and was able to run from his captors.

Police Chief William A Hogan said police are looking for the two men.

"We haven't been able to determine the motive," said Hogan, "other than to rob him and take his vehicle."

Hogan said the men took Avers wallet, watch, and car.

Amnesty International organizes in Newark

□ Amnesty International U.S.A. is inviting Newarkers to work with the human rights organization.

An organizational meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. on Nov. 7 at the Unitarian Fellowship, 420 Willa Road in Newark.

For more information, call 762-4889.

Democratic Committee to host dance

□ An Autumn Oldies Dance will be hosted this month by the 24th District Democratic Committee.

The dance, scheduled for Nov. 11 at Aetna Fire Hall in Newark, will feature Ralph McKinney, a longtime local entertainer.

The 24th district encompasses an area in Newark, between Del. 273 and Del. 896 and down to Coaches Bridge.

Tickets can be purchased from committee members for $12.50.

'Viewpoints on Greenhouse Effect'

□ "Viewpoints on the Ozone Layer and the Greenhouse Effect" will be addressed during the Delaware Academy of Science fall symposium Thursday evening, Nov. 9 in the Ewing Room of Perkins Student Center on the University of Delaware campus.

Phillip Retallick, director of the Delaware Division of Air and Waste Management, will moderate the discussion.

Panelists are Curtis Moore, a consultant from Washington, D.C., Dr. Ferris Webster of the University College of Marine Studies, and Dr. Phillip J. Wingate, author and retired vice president of the DuPont Company.

The program will begin at 7:15 p.m.

Free weatherization for seniors

□ Free home weatherization services are available to eligible senior citizens through the Newark Senior Center.

The Community Senior Conservation Program is funded under the Community Development Block Grant Program administered by City of Newark.

Homeowners who are over 60 years of age, live in the City of Newark, and meet income eligibility requirements may be eligible for free weatherization services. The weatherization includes insulated water heater wrap, weatherstripped doors, door sweeps, caulking of windows and doors, and smoke alarms.

Work is performed by the Community Services Corporation of Newark and is sponsored by the Newark Senior Center.

Information or applications are available at the senior center.

McDonald House construction begins

With all the new homes under construction in Delaware, there's one that stands out as a first.

Groundbreaking ceremonies were held Monday for the state's first Ronald McDonald House to be built in Wilmington.

The house, to be located on Rockland Road across from the Alfred I. duPont Institute, will provide a home to parents and siblings of seriously ill children.

"Thanks to a lot of hard work and generous support from the community, we've taken a major step in our goal to build a Ronald McDonald House in Delaware," said Marnie Miller, president of the board for We Care in Delaware, the non-profit corporation established to build and operate the Ronald McDonald House. "Now hospitalized children and their families can take comfort in knowing they can be together in a warm, caring atmosphere."

Often called a home away from home, the Ronald McDonald House offers the comforts and privacy of home close to the hospitals where the children are being treated, as well as the support of other families undergoing similar experiences.

Ruly Carpenter, building campaign chairman, said support from local businesses, foundations, and community groups was gratifying.

"We've raised more than $1.6 million toward our target of $2 million," Carpenter said. "Clearly, this is a project that enjoys tremendous support."

"We're not there yet but the goal gets closer each day."

The Delaware house will be wrapped in DuPont Tyvek housewrap as a part of the company's participation in the national Ronald McDonald donor program. The housewrap, which reduces energy costs, is being donated by DuPont in a partnership with building supplies distributors and local dealers.

There are 125 other Ronald McDonald houses around the world.

Delaware's house will have 16 guest rooms, kitchen and laundry facilities, a living room, a video room, and a library. A house manager will reside in a three-bedroom apartment.

Newarkers enjoy Halloween events

Lee McCullough and the Newark Department of Parks and Recreation and Marguerite Ashley and the Newark Business Association deserve high praise this week for their work organizing the Newark Halloween Parade and Trick or Treat Main Street.

The ever-popular parade, now in its 42nd year, was marvelous, from the antique cars to the colorful high school bands to the well-conceived floats and clever costumes.

The parade is truly a beloved Newark tradition and Halloween wouldn't be the same without it.

A tradition in the making, perhaps, is Trick or Treat Main Street.

That event, held downtown Monday night, was a huge success.

Thousands of children and parents flooded Main Street, collecting goodies from participating merchants who were overwhelmed by the turnout.

Trick or Treat Main Street is a great idea for several reasons, not the least of which is that it promotes the downtown area to new residents and to longtime residents who may have gotten away from the central shopping district as its focus has moved steadily towards serving University of Delaware students.

Despite the allure of malls and the convenience of shopping centers, one suspects that Newarkers will never completely fall out of their love affair with Main Street.

"Good roads, flowers, parks, better schools, trees, pure water, fresh air, sunshine and work for everybody." Everett Johnson, from the founding editorial, January 1910.

A kid's fort is his castle

I have a son with a nuclear-powered mouth.

His name is Adam and he wakes up singing, talks non-stop throughout the day and goes to sleep alternately humming and whining.

Recently, after a day at the babysitter with his good friend Johnny, Adam, who is four going on 18, went on at some length about their fort built among the sitter's shrubs.

"Me and Johnny have a fort," Adam said. "It has a bed, but we forgot the clock. Only kids can come in, but teenagers can come in too. Johnny put in the electric lines (don't be shocked; they were pretend electric lines made out of old rope). We have a big bed made out of grass. Bigger than mommy and daddy's bed. About six people can sleep in it but it's made out of grass."

"We made a roof. Johnny is working on the toilet and I'm working on the Christmas tree. (Every house should have at least one of each!) We'll have baby horses and maybe baby cows and baby bulls, and baby ponies. I'll be the leader of the baby bulls. (That, I have no doubt, would be true.) We need equipment like saddles and ropes. Every rope will be used for electricity.

POSTSCRIPT

"We'll have kindergarten. We need forks and Bibles and study stuff so we can do homework. We're making a TV and a closet for books and games and we need hangers for jackets and sheets and there's going to be ladies' clothes, too."

"That's the last thing I'm going to say because I can't think of anymore in mind. Oh yeah, pens and pencils and mostly, mostly cereal — just more sweet cereals than good cereals."

You know, there's something about forts and kids that I hope never goes out of style.

Forts offer a refuge from the adult world, a place where kids can be kids, where they can dream a little about a world run just by them and just for them.

I worry about rampant overdevelopment in New Castle County because all the neat places to build forts are being turned into adult areas — houses and shopping malls.

I was fortunate enough to grow up in a time when there was land aplenty and not so many dangerous people on the loose.

We built upward of a dozen different forts, some basic and some elaborate.

The first was a wood covered hole in the middle of what is now the Sycamore Gardens development.

One was more a tunnel than a fort, dug into an embankment above White Clay Creek. It featured a long entranceway, several ante rooms and an air hole into which the older kids kept dropping cherry bombs.

Best of all was a two-story, 16-foot by 16-foot domicile built across the creek from any adult presence and reachable only by my best friend's rowboat.

The fort was decorated with furniture borrowed from a nearby dump and featured a sofa, an overstuffed (actually, at this point in its career, understuffed) chair and a rug — sort of.

It was a Huckleberry Finn sort of escape.

A man's home may be his castle, but a kid's castle is surely his fort.

Delawareans 'Blue Hen proud'

The citizens of Delaware, including thousands of University of Delaware graduates like me, are rightfully proud of their state university, and of the Delaware "Blue Hen" football team that has been a major emblem of that pride for the last 100 years.

It is a pride that has not been misplaced, because both the university and the Blue Hens have come a long way over the course of that century of Delaware football.

There was, admittedly, a discouraging beginning to that gridiron history — a 74-0 drubbing of "the Delaware college boys" in Wilmington at the hands of the Delaware Field Club on October 26, 1889 — but better days were coming, and a hundred years later we're still enjoying them every fall.

The modern history of University of Delaware football, in the minds of the thousands of fans who fill Delaware Stadium in Newark on a home-game Saturday afternoon, begins with the arrival of Coach Bill Murray in 1940. That first Murray team lost its first three games, but

SENATE REPORT

Joseph Biden

Delaware would rack up 32 consecutive wins — and earn a national reputation, both for the university and the state, that it has maintained ever since — over the next six years.

When Dave Nelson took command of the Blue Hens in 1951, he brought with him a whole new idea of football, the Wing-T, that not only produced an outstanding 15-year record of winning Delaware football, but has also profoundly influenced the way the game is played today all over America, from the scruffiest high-school fields to the multi-million dollar temples of the NFL. And the "Admiral" brought it to its final polish right here in Delaware.

After nearly three decades of such outstanding gridiron achievement, it must have seemed nearly impossible to improve upon it, but that hasn't bothered Head Coach Tubby Raymond in any obvious way. Since taking the reins in 1966, he and a succession of top-notch Blue Hen teams have compiled an absolutely dazzling record for Delaware — including three national championships, seven consecutive Lambert Cups as the best small-college team in the East and four straight Boardwalk Bowl victories. Many people may still have trouble locating our small state in their Rand McNallys, but no one who pays the slightest attention to college football has any doubt where to find Delaware on the map of American football, and it's unlikely that Tubby Raymond will let them forget.

And, you know, while we all understand that football is "only a game," it's still an enterprise where excellence makes the difference, where teamwork and solid coaching count, where strategy and spirit blend — and where the Delaware Blue Hens have made an indelible mark. They have done more than a little to enlarge the image of a small state, and they have done even more than that to entertain and inspire generations of Delaware fans, not so much by winning football games — although they won a lot of them — as by the way they have played the game.

In the intimidating context of a world full of problems and a universe where challenges multiply beyond the range of our imagination, a century of Blue Hen football may not seem like much — but clean, strong, competitive sport meant a lot to the Greeks who founded our civilization and I can't think of one good reason why it should mean less to us, especially in view of the way our Blue Hens have striven to excel on the hundred yards from goal to goal over the hundred years of Delaware football.

Keeping it simple

In accepting an honorary doctor of laws degree from the University of Delaware Oct. 21, former governor Pierre S. du Pont IV offered some interesting views on government and leadership.

DuPont, who also served Delaware in the U.S. House of Representatives and who gained a national reputation during the 1988 Republican presidential nomination campaign, said success can be gained through "belief in a single, simple vision of our future."

Following are several of his remarks, as reported in the University's UpDate publication:

"Whether in government, private life or on the athletic fields of the University, the attainment of any objective must be sought by the same process — beginning with a vision, promoted by a general strategy and implemented through specific tactics.

"Failure generally comes when the process is attempted in the reverse order — an effort to turn a tactical operation into a strategy that will somehow lead to the revelation of a vision. A government so rulerless will fail.

"Our vision for Delaware was a simple one: Magnify opportunity, strike down barriers to its exercise and let a flood tide of ingenuity, energy and effort by individual people lift all the boats.

"Our strategy called for less taxes to generate more take-home pay, less regulation to generate more jobs and limited government to maximize individual freedom. The boats began to rise.

Of course, some boats have holes in them and cannot rise. Others leak so badly that they rise slowly and require constant pumping to stay afloat, so caulking hammers and buckets were an essential part of the tactical plan. But policies that tie all the boats to those that cannot rise slow the tide of opportunity to a mere trickle, leaving most boats resting on the mud.

"...The lesson to be learned is not that our vision is the correct one — although there is powerful evidence that it is succeeding in our community. No, the lesson to be learned is that a vision is required to succeed. In the words of President Harry S. Truman, 'Men make history and not the other way round. In periods where there is no leadership, society stands still.

"But are we, as a nation, pursuing a vision of tomorrow, or are we taking a random walk through the garden of challenges, stopping to pick a flower now and then? We ignore the march of an enormous generation towards retirement; some counsel surrender in the war against drugs through legalization; others a relaxing nap now that the bear in the woods insists he is our partner in peace.

"Tactical responses to these essential challenges will not metamorphize into a vision; we ourselves must create the vision.

"We know we can, for we have done so before. Our future challenge is to see that it is created so that every one of us can 'advance confidently in the direction of (our) dreams.' "

POSTBOX

Provide teens place to go

To the Editor:

A growing concern of Newark residents is that of teenage delinquency, particularly on Main Street during weekend evenings. Concern has become so great that more space was allotted in the Oct. 19 issue of the NewArk Post to the Main Street teen delinquency topic than to the San Francisco earthquake.

Now, because of increasing complaints of noise, loitering and "cruising," and specific incidences of violence by youths, a curfew for persons under 17 has been proposed and is under consideration by city staff members.

In considering a curfew for Newark, one must realize that any curfew would place restrictions on the civil liberties of all residents and visitors of our town.

A curfew that intends only to affect those citizens under 17 years of age would require all citizens to carry identification during the hours that curfew was in effect. Any gathering of young people, regardless of age, would be held suspect by police, as it is difficult to guess whether an individual is 17 or older.

University of Delaware students and other young adults would be regularly harassed on the streets and if they were not carrying proper identification would be subject to citation.

Before enacting a curfew law, one must examine the reasons for this amassing of teens on Main Street every Friday and Saturday night.

My feeling is that there is a lack of entertainment alternatives for youths in this area. Where can a kid go on a Saturday night?

Virtually all the musical entertainment is restricted to bars where a person under 21 cannot enter.

The State Theater, one of my favorite hangouts as a teen, has been torn down for crass entrepreneurial interests.

The Electric Gramophone teen discotheque is closed and there are no local teen clubs to take its place.

Movie prices have risen to the point where a teenager, often on a limited budget, cannot afford the expense.

Many of the problems we are facing with our teenagers stem from boredom. I feel there are more positive solutions to this "teen malaise" than simply enacting a law of questionable constitutionality to treat its symptoms.

FIRE

"He just bought me new furniture two weeks ago," said Reynolds. "It's all gone. It's all gone."

They listed lost items as they thought of them: a piggybank Reynolds filled with change from waitressing, her grandson's piggybank, silver coins saved through the years, a portrait passed down through the family.

"We'll be doing some furniture shopping," said Crowhorn, adding that they would stay in a motel that night before looking for another apartment.

Six fire companies fought the three-alarm fire. "In the day time, you have to go so far to get reserves because of limited manpower," explained William F. Streets of the New Castle County Emergency Communications Center. "We're stripped thin in the daytime."

McDonald's Restaurant workers busily delivered sodas across the street to the firemen as they came out of the building.

INVESTIGATION

The apartment complex was constructed in the early 60s. Building codes have since changed, Farrall said, so that apartments "absolutely could not be built that way today."

"This is the fourth major fire since the buildings have been occupied," he said. "There were two fires before anyone moved in."

Among the six fires, Thursday's fire was not the largest to occur at the complex, according to Farrall. A building in the complex was torn down after an earlier fire destroyed it.

The exact cause of the fire may never be determined, Farrall said. He is gathering evidence during the cleanup of the damaged building.

Farrall has met with city building officials to discuss possible recommendations to increase fire safety at the apartment complex.

"We definitely plan to make some recommendations after this," said Farrall. "There's a problem and we're looking at it."

Representatives of the apartment complex could not be reached for comment.

GRANT

throughout the Philadelphia area will be interviewed.

The project will partially focus on gathering data on how criminals move through the city, where they hang out, where they shop, where they entertain and where they have committed crimes.

"There is an important crime prevention component in this project," Pettway said. "We will be determining how crime prevention techniques, such as bars on windows, dogs and alarms, affect criminals' decision-making processes."

"If we have a community with a large proportion of drug-using offenders, what kinds of crime prevention strategies can be used to reduce a portion of the crime?"

Those interviewed will receive payment and a guarantee of confidentiality from the researchers.

"That's about the only way we would have them talk to us," said Pettway. "Everything will be safeguarded."

Pettway said the researchers have received a certificate of confidentiality from the National Institute on Drug Abuse, preventing them from being subpoenaed in a court case.

Pettway said he is sensitive to the ethical and moral issues raised by the research — that the researchers may find out information that would solve a criminal case and that they are paying people who may use the money to buy more drugs.

BRIDGE

"We don't want to answer that question," he said, "until we see the safety measures the state will take detouring the traffic."

DELDOT officials are developing a plan to detour the traffic, taking into consideration the residents' worries about safety. The plan is expected by December, according to Neal.

In a related matter, Neal said the issue of construction trucks using Church Road is still under study. Residents have complained about the noise and safety hazards created by the large trucks.

Although most heavy trucks are detoured around Nottingham and Church Roads, Neal said the construction trucks use Church Road to get to a new development on Nottingham Road.

"You can't prevent local deliveries," said Neal. "It's unclear...whether that's in the jurisdiction of local deliveries."

"Obviously, the dump trucks have no need to go into Woodmere."

Neal believes the trucks should be detoured through Maryland, but is hoping that the city and state can work out an agreement with the developers.

Jennifer Crouse of Newark, active 4-H member and winner of the I Dare You Award.

Jennifer Crouse wins I Dare You Award

Jennifer Crouse, 17, of Newark, a member of the Fantastics 4-H Club, has been named a recipient of the I Dare You Award given by the American Youth Foundation.

Crouse, a senior at Newark High School, was presented the award during the annual New Castle County 4-H Achievement Night held recently.

The award consists of a certificate of recognition and a copy of the book "I Dare You," written by Ralston Purina Company founder William H. Danforth to challenge young people to achieve their highest potential, lead balanced lives and serve others.

Crouse also received a $250 scholarship to attend Camp Miniwanca, a national leadership conference sponsored by the American Youth Foundation. The conference will be held in August 1990.

Crouse was selected for the award because of her outstanding leadership in 4-H, school and the community.

She has been a 4-H member for eight years and has excelled in a wide range of projects, including food and nutrition, clothing, citizenship and leadership.

Crouse will represent Delaware at the 1989 4-H Club Congress in Chicago as winner of the state fashion revue.

Newark 4-Hers win numerous awards

UNIVERSITY FILE

DuPont presented honorary degree

□ Pierre S. duPont IV, former Delaware governor and U.S. Congressman, was awarded an honorary doctor of laws degree during University of Delaware Founders Day ceremonies Oct. 21.

DuPont earned national recognition in 1988 as a candidate for the Republican Party's presidential nomination.

In accepting the honorary degree, duPont said success in any endeavor comes from "belief in a single, simple vision of our future."

DuPont, in discussing his term as governor of the state, said, "Our vision for Delaware was a simple one — magnify opportunity, strike down barriers to its exercise and let a flood tide of ingenuity, energy and effort by individual people lift all the boats."

'Nuclear Age' lecture Monday

□ The University Forum series on life in the nuclear age will continue Monday, Nov. 6 with a lecture by Robert Jay Lifton of International Physicians for the Prevention of Nuclear War.

Lifton will speak at 7:30 p.m. in the Rodney Room of Perkins Student Center on Academy Street. His talk is entitled "Beyond Genocide — Towards Species Consciousness."

Focus of the lecture will be Lifton's book, "The Future of Immortality," and he will explore "psychological and ethical principles as affected by their nuclear age context."

He will discuss maintenance of the human race as part of "the great chain of being" in an age of possible nuclear annihilation.

Upheaval in China

□ "China's Summer 1989 Upheaval: Prelude, Perspectives and International Implications" will be the subject of a talk at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 9 in 130 Smith Hall on the University of Delaware campus.

Presenting the lecture will be Frank Tang, director of American studies at Beijing Foreign Studies University in the People's Republic of China.

Following the lecture there will be an open discussion.

Tang was born in the United States and served in the U.S. Army during World War II. He has been living and teaching in China since 1949.

UC-Riverside prof to speak

□ Stanley Stewart, a professor of English at the University of California at Riverside and renowned scholar of Renaissance literature, will present a lecture entitled "Spenser and the Judgment of Paris" at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 15 in 110 Memorial Hall.

Stewart is currently co-editing a recently discovered manuscript of Ben Jonson's commentary on Spenser's "The Faerie Queene" and "The Ruines of Time."

Sparks named ASA Fellow

□ Donald L. Sparks, professor of soil physical chemistry and chairman of the University's Department of Plant and Soil Sciences, has been installed as a Fellow of the American Society of Agronomy and the Soil Science Society of America. Colleagues within the affiliated societies nominate members based on professional achievements and meritorious service.

Delaware School Boards Association President John F. Lynch Jr. (right) greets Dr. James W. Kent of Newark, representative from the Christina School District and second vice president of DSBA, as the organization begins work for 1989-90. Purpose of DSBA is to encourage and foster a consensus to further the public educational interests of the state and provide training and other resources for local board members.

Brader School dedication is Sunday

The Christina School District's newest facility, the Henry M. Brader Elementary School in Four Seasons, will be dedicated during ceremonies at 2 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 5.

Brader is the first new elementary school constructed in Delaware since 1975. It houses more than 700 students in kindergarten through third grades and serves both the growing Glasgow area and portions of inner city Wilmington.

The school will be dedicated in honor of Henry M. Brader of Newark, who spent his career working toward the betterment of elementary education in the state.

Brader worked in the former Newark School District, predecessor of the Christina School District.

Speakers will include Lt. Gov. Dale E. Wolf, State Board of Education President Paul Fine, State Superintendent William B. Keene and Christina Acting Superintendent William E. Russell.

The actual dedication will be by James W. Kent, president of the Christina school board.

Leslie Morril, Brader principal, will preside and will present a slide show explaining the layout of the school and the school curriculum.

The dedication is open to the public.

LeeRoy DeShazor has been appointed principal of Delcastle High School by the New Castle County Vocational Technical School District board.

DeShazor served as assistant principal at Delcastle from 1982 until his appointment during the Oct. 23 board meeting.

He was a teacher and advisor at Howard Creer Center from 1971 to 1978.

Newark band
is honored

The Newark High School Marching Band earned a superior rating during the 7th annual Haverford, Pa. Festival of Bands.

The Yellowjacket band was also honored for best percussion, best brass and best woodwinds.

A.I. duPont High was honored for best drum major.

Newark began its show with "Brazil" and a drum feature written by former band member Chip Vagenas.

During "Tiger of San Pedro," Derek Johnson and David White were featured.

The band followed with "When You Wish Upon a Star" and closed with a medley from "Cats."

Student leaders of the band include drum majors Brian Cope and Tara Schooley, twirler captains Sharon Ross and Jen Montgomery, silk captains Emily Ridge and Jen Walters and drum line captain Scott Hirsch.

The band is directed by Lloyd Ross and Melanie Townsend.

Nelson heads center effort

David M. Nelson has been named special assistant to University of Delaware President E.A. Trabant to raise funds for the University's new sports and convocation center.

Nelson will take a leave of absence as dean of the College of Physical Education, Athletics and Recreation Nov. 1 to accept the new assignment.

The former Fightin' Blue Hen football coach will work on the fund raising project full-time until his retirement June 30.

Nelson will work with the University's advancement program to help raise $6 million from private sources for the $18 million facility.

University officials hope to raise the remaining $12 million from the state.

The Delaware General Assembly appropriated $4 million for the current year to begin work on the project.

Ground will be broken for the sports center in spring 1990, Trabant said, and work is expected to be completed by spring 1992.

The center will be located at the south end of Delaware Stadium.

It will be used for men's and women's intercollegiate basketball, as a support facility for the football program, for convocation and winter commencements, and for concerts, Trabant said.

After retiring, Nelson will work part-time in connection with the new center. Taking his place as acting dean will be Dr. Barbara J. Kelly, currently associate dean of the college.

A national search will be conducted to seek a permanent replacement for the dean, Trabant said.

"I am delighted that Dave

David Nelson.

Nelson has agreed to serve in this important position," Trabant said. "His knowledge and enthusiasm will contribute to making this new facility a reality."

Nelson, who recently was named commissioner of the Yankee Conference, also will continue his work with the NCAA Football Rules Committee. He is considered the foremost authority on collegiate football rules in the country.

Nelson joined the Delaware faculty in 1951. He has served as head football coach, athletic director and dean.

He was inducted into the National Football Foundation Hall of Fame in 1987 and received its Distinguished American Award in 1984.

Two-time president of the Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC), he received the American Football Coaches Association's highest honor, the Amos Alonzo Staff Award, earlier this year.

Paoli named outstanding educator

Christina Paoli, seventh grade life science teacher at Shue Middle School, was named the region's outstanding marine educator during the 1989 Mid-Atlantic Marine Education Association conference.

Paoli was presented the award Oct. 14 by Mid-Atlantic Association President Karen Travers.

Marine education has been an integral part of Paoli's life science curriculum since February 1988, when she purchased a 55-gallon saltwater aquarium and six freshwater aquariums.

Students have had an opportunity to compare the two environments and observe such diverse creatures as clownfish, sea anemones, starfish, sea urchins, lionfish, butterflyfish, shrimp, clams and seahorses.

The program was funded in part by a grant from the DuPont Company.

In addition to the classroom activities, Paoli maintains students' excitement for things marine through trips to the National Aquarium in Baltimore and to the Delaware shore, participation in the Delaware Nature Society's Streamwatch program, guest speakers, marine scavenger hunts, pond studies and adoption of a dolphin at Florida's Dolphin Research Center.

Paoli said she is interested in teaching students science and in seeing them develop an appreciation for living organisms.

She believes students should develop reasoning skills they can apply to everyday situations.

"I'm flattered to receive this award," Paoli said. "However, there are many outstanding educators who deserve recognition. I need to thank the DuPont Company for giving me a grant (and) my principal, Dr. Hugh Ferguson, who has been extremely supportive of my classroom animals."

Besides the marine life, Paoli's classroom includes four ferrets, seven rabbits, two guinea pigs, three hamsters, two newts, three chameleons, two frogs, a talking parakeet, a lovebird, two doves, three hermit crabs and a turtle.

ASBESTOS

Linden Hill School Saturday. Classes for those children in the new location began Monday.

Kindergarten through fourth grades will move Nov. 11, with classes resuming for them on Nov. 13.

Diocesan officials worked out an agreement with the Red Clay School District to use Linden Hill School until the asbestos is removed, which could be next spring. Linden Hill school was closed in 1981, but kept in a state of readiness.

The asbestos removal could cost between $500,000 and one million dollars, according to Kelly. School and church officials are developing a plan to raise necessary funds for the project.

"There'll be some diocesan funds," said Kelly. "The majority of the project will be supported by foundations and parents."

Glasgow quarterback Shawn Money looks for a receiver.

Williams bolts for 183 yards as Glasgow tops Newark, 29-14

by Steve Canaday

Of the Post staff

The last time Glasgow beat Newark in a high school football game, President Gerald Ford was in office, bellbottom jeans were in fashion and this year's seniors were in playpens.

Glasgow exacted sweet revenge for 14 years of frustration Friday night, clobbering the Yellowjackets 29-14 behind a three-touchdown, 183-yard rushing performance by tailback Pat Williams. Williams scored on runs of 54, 28 and 55 yards.

"They have a big play offense," Newark coach Butch Simpson said after the game. "That's the way they've been scoring all year. The athletes are there, and they just make things happen. They're a good team."

Just as impressive as Glasgow's quick strike offense was the play of the Dragon defense. Glasgow held Newark to just two first downs in the first three quarters of the game. The Dragons picked off two Rob Callahan passes and sacked the Newark quarterback seven times.

"The credit goes to our line," Glasgow head coach Dave Scott said after the game. "We controlled both the offensive and defensive line of scrimmage, and that's what you have to do if you're going to be the Flight A champ."

"Defensive coordinator Scotty Cressman drew up a great plan," Scott said. "A lot of the sacks were coverage sacks, but defensively we kept the heat on (Callahan) tonight. We kept him contained."

Ironically, Scott was concerned about his defense coming into the game. The Dragons were playing without both of their starting inside linebackers. Charles Quinn was out with a knee injury, and Dave Pullen missed the game with a pinched nerve in his shoulder.

"You can't lose both of your inside linebackers and not be concerned," Scott said. But his concern turned out to be unnecessary.

Darnell Skinner turned in a fine performance on the defensive and offensive line. He assisted on several sacks and kept Callahan guessing all night.

"That was our job," Skinner explained. "To come out her and execute. It was part of our game plan to get (Callahan) under pressure and make him throw in a hurry."

Chris Kohan, who went down late in the game with an injury to his knee, also played a solid game on the line for the 6-0-1 Dragons.

Newark looked like they were going to continue their mastery over the Dragons when Callahan found split end Ivan Holland on a

Jacket kickers stop Penn on Voigt goal

by Steve Canaday

Of the Post staff

William Penn sauntered into town for a soccer shootout with the Yellowjackets of Newark High. The Colonials had already carved nine victory notches into their goalpost against only one loss, and they toted the big gun scoring threat of Swedish foreign exchange student Johan Christenson.

The 'Jackets shot 'em down.

About 13 minutes into the game, Newark midfielder Eric Voigt played a wall pass to fellow midfielder Matt Benin. Benin returned the pass perfectly to Voigt who buried it in the back of the Penn net. That's all it took, because the 'Jackets hogtied the Penn attack all night long.

With Doug Rice in goal, and a stalwart defensive crew led by sweeper Steve Smith, Newark repelled every Penn chance. Yellowjacket fullback Dan Watson was in Christenson's back pocket all night long, and seemed to frustrate the big Swede, who didn't really get a good scoring chance all night.

Rice had four saves in the victory, and continues to emerge as one of the regions finest net minders. He gave a lot of the credit to the defense that plays in front of him.

"The defense is playing very well, we're communicating well," he said. "If I see something, I'll yell out to Steve (Smith), and he'll keep the fullbacks in alignment."

'Jackets head coach Hugh Mitchell was very pleased with the play of his team.

"I think a lot of people expected too much from us too fast," the new coach said after the game. "I was new to this team and they were new to me, and it took some time," Mitchell explained. "They had to adjust to me, and I had to learn what they could do."

What Coach Mitchell had learned is that they can win games. Lot's of them. Since the early season defeats to McKean and Glasgow, the 'Jackets have played exceptional soccer. The difference in the Penn game may have been the play of the Newark midfielders.

Eric Voigt and Matt Benin played heady soccer, and the two 'Jacket midfielders helped to control the tempo for Newark by winning loose balls at midfield, and directing an effective short passing game.

SOCCER

□ Christiana (6-2-3 BHC Flight A, 9-2-4 overall) The Vikings won both of their games last week, and improved their chances of post-season play as well. The Vikes got past a tough Hodgson team 2-0 on goals by Gary Estep and Keith Kendall. Tommy Copeland had an assist. Christiana rolled it up against Wilmington, beating the conference foe 6-0. One goal was scored by each Mike Preske, Tom Porter, Alex Duzan, J.J. Tinney, Keith Kendall, and Jermaine Anderson. Copeland picked up his tenth shutout of the season.

□ St. Mark's (9-4-1 overall) The Spartans are also coming on strong as the season winds down. St. Mark's won two of three last week, topping Caesar Rodney 6-0 and Tatnall 5-0, but fell to top-ranked Salesianum by a 3-1 count. In the victory over CR, Steve Tolmie had two goals, Brian Carberry had one goal and three assists, Josh Mihaly had two goals and an assist, and Tom Janeka had a goal. Scott Vann picked up the shutout in goal. In the win over Tatnall, it was Tolmie, Janeka, Mihaly, Nick Papanicolas, and Eric Emenheiser with a goal apiece.

□ Glasgow (5-3-2 in BHC Flight A, 7-5-2 overall) The Dragons tied twice and lost once in tough action last week. Glasgow played to a scoreless tie against a tough McKean team, and the next day did it again against Brandywine. Skip Thorp registered the shutouts in goal for the Dragons, who are in desperate need of conference wins at this point. They didn't find any against Mt. Pleasant in final action last week. The Green Knights upset the Dragons 1-0.

"We knew that William Penn was going to be tough," Voigt said. "They're a good team and they play real physical. We were ready for them."

The 'Jackets played an intense but clean game, and worked the best when they used the short pass to work through the physical Colonials.

Miles Davis turned in a good game from the striker position for the 'Jackets, but wasn't able to convert on his only chance — a breakaway shot that he pulled wide right. Davis outran the Penn fullbacks and caught up with a beautiful lead pass from Smith, but his shot rolled wide.

The intense play saw each team receive three yellow cards, but the carding didn't mar the 'Jackets efforts on the night.

Delaware stuns Maine, 35-28

"A committed football team is much better than one that has a casual interest." Tubby Raymond.

by Steve Canaday

Of the Post staff

Playing with an emotional intensity unparalleled this season, Tubby Raymond's University of Delaware football team handed the Maine Black Bears their first defeat of 1989.

The emotional 35-28

homecoming victory came against a team that was ranked as the Yankee Conference's top offensive and defensive team, a team which was climbing to the elite level of the NCAA Division 1-AA rankings, a team which had just been featured in Sports Illustrated.

The victory required a total team effort on the part of the Hens, not to mention their fans who sent the first "wave" in Delaware Stadium history cascading around the hedges.

Delaware freshman quarterback Bill Vergantino earned conference rookie of the week honors for his offensive leadership. Vergantino showed the poise that he demonstrated in the beginning of the season in Delaware's first three wins.

Fullback Daryl Brantley ran for 119 yards on 21 carries to earn conference honor roll citation. Brantley's making a habit out of 100-yard games. He's picked up at least 100 yards in each of the last four games, and in five games this season. He also rushed for three touchdowns against the Black Bears.

Team captain and safety Mike McCall had a big day defensively, and was named the Yankee Conference Defensive Player of the Week. He sacked Maine quarterback Mike Buck twice and posted ten tackles.

Raymond fears letdown against UConn

When Delaware football coach Tubby Raymond was asked at a press conference following the phenomenal victory over Maine if he was worried about a letdown this weekend against, he offered a very insightful response.

"Yes," he said.

This weekend's match-up with Connecticut will be no cakewalk for the 'Hens. The Huskies have knocked off Delaware in each of the last two years, and have the personnel to do it again this year if the 'Hens are still reveling in their win against Maine.

Matt DeGennaro, the Huskies' quarterback is a fine passer. He's hit on nearly 60 percent of his passes, and averages almost 230 yards a game passing. Also, unlike Maine's Mike Buck who didn't move around in the pocket too much and was an easy target for Delaware blitzes, DeGennaro will scramble if pressured. He's the type of signal caller that can make things happen.

Statistically, Delaware and

UConn are almost identical. Delaware averages about 25 points a game, UConn does too. Delaware averages about 386 yards of offense a game, UConn 385. Delaware gives up an average of 21 points a game, UConn 22. Delaware's □ Caravel (7-0 overall) How 'bout those Bucs. Caravel traveled to Perryville, Md. to take on a Panther team that's having a pretty good year, and thoroughly dominated in a 21-6 victory. The Bucs held the Panthers to just 53 yards rushing (Perryville only mustered 15 yards of total offense in the first half). The Panther coach was impressed with the size and quickness of the Caravel team which cut down the Panthers' running attack all game. Doing the damage offensively for the Buccaneers was running back Derek Shaw. Shaw went over a hundred yards for the seventh time in seven games, picking up 148 yards and two touchdowns on 30 carries. Fullback Mike Bowers scored the other Buc touchdown, as he picked up 58 yards on 14 carries. The entire defensive unit dominated the Perryville offensive squad, but Mike Hawke, with two interceptions, stood out for Caravel from his defensive end slot.

FOOTBALL

□ Glasgow (4-0 in BHC Flight A, 6-0-1 overall) The Dragons continue to roll. For details on their first win over Newark in 14 years, see story.

□ Newark (1-3-1 in BHC Flight

A, 3-3-1 overall) The 'Yellow-jackets' mastery over Glasgow came to an end last weekend as the Dragons ran roughshod over Newark 29-14. See story for details.

□ Christiana (2-2 in BHC Flight A, 3-4 overall) The Vikes' battled to stay in second place in Flight A, but fell to a strong and motivated Concord team 27-8. For details, see story.

□ St. Mark's (3-4 overall) The Spartans ran into an unbeaten St. Elizabeth team that's on a mission to make the state tournament, and were trounced by the non-conference rival 35-7. Kevin Lazarski ran back the opening kickoff for a 90-yard Spartan touchdown, but that was it. The St. E. defense held the Spartan ground game to an incredible -18 yards rushing. Quarterback Sean Mahoney was sacked four times. He and his backup Mike Mattix tossed three interceptions. The Spartan offense has not scored a touchdown in 18 quarters.

□ Hodgson (0-5 in BHC Flight B, 1-7 overall) Hodgson was mauled by a powerful Dickinson squad 66-0. Phil Anderson set a school record scoring six touchdowns in the game.

VOLLEYBALL

□ Christiana (7-6 in Blue Hen Conference, Flight A, 8-6 overall) The Viking spikers had a split week, picking up a win against Delcastle, but dropping a match against the Newark Yellow-jackets. Christiana began the past week with a resounding two game defeat of Delcastle 15-8, 15-2. Brynn Hudson and Kim Zebley combined for 15 service points in the match against the conference foe Cougars. The Vikings fell in three games to the Yellowjackets 11-15, 15-9, 15-5. Tamie Emerson wracked up 13 kills in the losing effort for Christiana.

□ Caravel (6-6 overall) The Buccaneers fell to .500 on the season suffering a tough three game loss to the Panthers of Perryville (MD). The Buc's fell 5-15, 15-8, 16-14 despite the strong play of Raelynn Reed and Cindy Croes. Reed had 11 service points (five aces), and Croes picked up nine service points and five kills in the heartbreaking loss.

□ Newark (6-7 in BHC Flight A, 6-8 overall) The Yellowjackets dropped their first match last week to Flight A foe Concord. The Raiders just snuck by the 'Jackets taking two of three 16-14, 6-15, 17-15. Adrienne Smucker continued her impressive play, posting 12 service points, seven kills, and nine perfect passes in the contest. The 'Jackets bounced back later in the week when they knocked off local and conference rival Christiana. Newark needed three games to get past the Vikings 11-15, 15-9, 15-5. Stephanie Leele paced Newark with 11 service points (three aces), and 12 perfect passes. Jenn Sternberg and Ami Holland also turned in big performances. Sternberg serving for eight points and picking up seven kills, Holland serving for seven.

□ Glasgow (5-8 in BHC Flight A, 6-8 overall) The Dragons beat Delcastle 15-4, 15-9 last week, but dropped matches against William Penn and Brandywine. In the win over the Cougars, Niki Tarantino had six service points, while Jenn Falkowski and Tracy Conquest paced the power game with six and five kills respectively. William Penn upset the Dragons in a three game match 16-18, 15-11, 15-11. Brandywine got past the Dragons in three games as well (15-10, 12-15, 15-13) despite the serving of Sheri Nau (12 service points), and the hitting of Conquest (ten kills).

□ St. Mark's (3-4 in Catholic Conference, 5-7 overall) The Spartans began the week by dropping a match to Kennett Square (PA) 7-15, 15-8, 15-10. Julie Orneck played well in the losing cause, and tallied eight kills. The Spartans recovered when they topped St. Elizabeth 15-4, 15-6 behind the play of Monica Williams and Mia Papas. Williams had five kills and eight service points, and Papas had nine service points in the Spartan cause.

Glasgow hockey player reaches for ball during game played under the lights against William Penn.

Penn tops Glasgow, 2-0

by Steve Canaday

Of the Post staff

Glasgow High School field hockey head coach Rhodi O'Neil wasn't upset after her team dropped their first night game of the season to William Penn. And she had no reason to be.

Although the Dragons came out on the short end of a 2-0 score, they ran with the defending state champion Colonials the entire game, and gave the Penn team more than it bargained for.

"I think my kids played as well as I can expect them to play," O'Neil said after the game. "There were no particular weakness on the field. All of them played well."

The game was the first for the Dragon stickers under Glasgow's new lights. Unfortunately, playing hockey under the lights at Glasgow means playing hockey on a football field — a surface not conducive to the smooth uninterrupted rolling of a field hockey ball. Still, O'Neil said that all in all it was fun.

"Under the lights is great. The kids like it and it's a lot of fun. The football field was a lot bumpy and cramped, but you just have to adjust to that."

The coach said that the team was perhaps a little nervous playing at night in front of a crowd for the first time. It didn't help that the Dragons' opponent was William Penn. The Colonials were state champs last year, and at 10-1-1 this season, they're making a strong bid to repeat.

"I think the kids were really nervous about having to play William Penn in front of a crowd," O'Neil explained, "but I think they played well. Our last game was a 5-0 loss, so I think it's a big improvement."

The game was a wide-open, up and down the field affair, that saw neither team dominate.

FIELD HOCKEY

□ Caravel (8-3-2) The Buc's dropped their first game last week to Wilmington Christian 3-1. Diane Stief scored the lone Caravel goal. But the Caravel stickers rebounded with wins over Christiana and St. Mark's. The Buc's downed the Vikings 2-0 behind the two goal performance of Shelly Austin. Danielle St. Laurent had an assist. Caravel knocked off the Spartans by a 2-1 count.

□ St. Mark's (3-0-1 in Catholic Conference, 6-5-3 overall) The Spartans suffered a tough week last week, settling for a tie and two losses. St. Mark's opened the week with a scoreless tie against conference foe Ursuline, but dropped the next two contests, a 2-1 loss to Caravel and a 2-0 loss to Tatnall.

□ Newark (3-6-3 in Blue Hen Conference Flight A, 4-6-3 overall) The Yellowjackets were extremely busy last week, and successful as well. They lost to second ranked Concord 4-0, but managed a tie with A.J. duPont, and two victories, a 2-0 overtime win against Christiana and a 3-0 win over Brandywine. Tracy Matheas posted the shutouts in goal for the 'Jackets. In the nail-biter overtime against Christiana, Stephanie Brackin scored on an assist from Ann Neeves with five minutes to go in the overtime period. Neeves scored an insurance goal moments later to cap the win.

□ Glasgow (2-7 in BHC Flight A, 2-7-2 overall) The Dragons dropped games to highly ranked William Penn (2-0) and Brandywine (4-0). For details on the William Penn game, see story.

□ Christiana (0-11 in BHC Flight A, 0-11-1 overall) The Vikings still seek their first conquest. Christiana was bested by Delcastle, Newark (in overtime), and Caravel last week.

Lisa McGlaulin and Holly Hildabrandt showed a lot of hustle around midfield to stifle several Penn offensives.

Just over eleven minutes into the game, the Colonials got on the board when attacker Theresa Graves found the Dragon net on a rebound shot from Penn's Jamie Summerfield.

Glasgow goalie Bernadette Sullivan did all that she could to stop the Penn attack, and played well in the goal for the Dragons all night. Sullivan's performance was truly remarkable because she wasn't even the regular Dragon netminder.

Starting Glasgow keeper Jen Kent was injured and unable to play, and Sullivan volunteered to put on the pads for Coach O'Neil's team.

"Our regular goalkeeper is injured so Bernadette Sullivan played goalkeeper tonight. She normally plays at left defense, and I think she did real well," O'Neil explained. "Our regular goalkeeper, Jen Kent, injured her left ankle last Friday night building a float for homecoming."

Sullivan kept the potent Penn offense quiet for the rest of the first half. Glasgow attackers made several runs into Colonial territory, but were unable to get off a good shot on Penn's net.

About 14 minutes into the second half, the Colonials' Graves finished out the scoring for the night when she tallied her second goal. Her second goal was unassisted.

Still, William Penn's a team that's been scoring five and six goals a game, and the Dragons could be proud of the game that they played, even if the score didn't have them winners.

Vikes fall, 28-7

by Steve Canaday

Of the Post staff

In what was billed as a battle for a share of second place in Blue Hen Conference Flight A, Concord High School overwhelmed the Christiana Vikings 28-7.

The Viking defense was no match for the quick-strike, big-play Concord offense.

"We were scared to death of their speed," Christiana coach Bill Meuhleisen admitted after the game. "We knew that if any one of their three backs got into our secondary it was going to be a quick six."

He was right. The Raiders scored once in the first quarter, and three times in the fourth quarter, and all the scoring came on big plays.

Jerry Williams, Concord's speedy tailback did the initial damage when he broke into the Viking secondary and motored for 52 yards to give his Raiders a first quarter 8-0 lead.

The Vikes came back with a big play of their own, when on third down and three, quarterback Joe Roberts hit Ken Pritchett for a 15-yard touchdown pass to draw the Vikes to within a point. But that would be all the points that Christiana would score on the day.

The score remained 8-7 until the fourth quarter, when Concord's offense exploded.

On a third and goal from 36 yards out (as a result of a sack and a penalty), Raider fullback Lee Coleman came back to his scrambling quarterback, caught a harried screen pass, whirled, broke through a wall of Viking defenders and shook off several would-be tacklers, dragging the last few into the endzone. Coleman's incredible run was 'the turning point of the ballgame' according to Meuhleisen.

Moments later Raider quarterback Mark Connolly hooked up again, this time with speedster receiver Larry Griffin. Griffin pulled down a Connolly bomb without breaking stride, and cruised into the endzone untouched on the 57-yard touchdown pass.

The Raiders cemented the win when Charlie Scharp intercepted an errant Roberts' pass and returned it for a touchdown as time was winding down.

"I thought it was a great effort by Concord," Meuhleisen said. "They have a good football team. They're very well coached, and my hat's off to them. They did a super job."

The Vikes take on the A.I. duPont Tigers this Saturday at A.I.'s home field at 2:00.

GNFFL hosts
punt, pass, cheer

□ The Greater Newark Flag Football League and the Delaware City Jaycees will hold their annual punt, pass, kick and cheer competition Saturday, Nov. 4 at the Leisure School in Bear.

The competition is for children who have participated in the league during the current football season. Spectators are welcome to come and cheer on the competitors.

The punt, pass and kick competition will begin at 9 a.m., and the cheerleading competition at 10:30. All are invited to stay for the league's championship game at 1.

16th annual
Turkey Trot

□ The 16th Annual Turkey Trot sponsored by the Newark Department of Parks and Recreation is scheduled for November 18th at 10:30.

The 6.2 mile Barksdale Park Course (TAC certified) will be used again this year. Runners can register in one of 16 age divisions, with the first 144 registrants receiving a long sleeve Turkey Trot shirt.

Prizes will be awarded to top finishers. Thanksgivng turkeys courtesy of Newark Shoprite will go to division winners.

Entry fees are $7 before November 16, $9 after. For more information call 366-7060.

Breeders' Cup
simulcast

□ On the weekend of November 4th and 5th, championship racing returns to Delaware Park with the simulcast of the $10,000,000 Breeders' Cup series from Gulfstream Park.

The highlight of the Cup will be a showdown between Easy Goer and Sunday Silence for Horse of the Year honors. A number of Delaware horses will be competing for championship honors including Colonial Waters and Golden Reef, both trained by Ross Pearce at Delaware Park.

Delaware booters
boost E'town

□ Delawareans Tim Jones, Pat Walsh, Chris Morgan, and Eric Smith have helped the Elizabethtown Blue Jays soccer team to a 10-1 record and a 16th-place ranking in the NCAA Division III poll so far this season.

Jones (Brandywine High) leads the team in assists, while Walsh (Sanford) is second in assists. Morgan (McKean) is fifth on the Jays' career assist list, and Smith (McKean), a freshman, has already broken in to the starting line-up.

HENS

But the victory was a team victory, inspired by a halftime tirade from Raymond and a capacity homecoming crowd of 22,904.

Delaware got on the board first when Brantley went over from the three to give the 'Hens a 7-0 lead. But Maine answered with a touchdown run from their outstanding tailback Carl Smith to knot the game at seven.

Undaunted, the 'Hens scored a second touchdown when Vergantino hit wide out John Gilman for a 13-yard score. When Maine tied the 'Hens at 14, Delaware's offense responded with a third score, this time Brantley getting loose for 39 yards and the score.

Maine managed to draw even at 21-21 at the half, and Tubby Raymond let loose at halftime for the first time this season. Clipboards went sailing, but when the 'Hens came back for the second half, they were on fire.

The 'Hens stepped up their defense, holding Maine to only one more score, while Vergantino and Brantley each rushed for touchdowns in the tense second half.

The Delaware Stadium crowd roared like it hasn't roared this season. A second-half wave went around the stadium five times before it died, and Buck said the crowd noise was a factor in the game.

The '89 Blue Hens gave the program a nice birthday present with the win in what was officially the Centennial Anniversary game for Delaware.

opponents on average about 340 yards a game, UConn 330.

So, according to statistics, it should be a pretty close game. The decisive factor will probably be whether the 'Hens are fired up from their win over Maine, or suffer the letdown that Tubby knows is possible.

"You have to show up every week," Raymond said this week in a press conference. "With the parity of the conference, we're right back up against another good team...We're looking for another good game."

After winning their first three games this year, the 'Hens went on a three game losing skid. Although they have seemingly turned it around, winning their last two, Delaware fans still have to wonder whether Jeckyll or Hyde will show up this weekend against Connecticut.

"They know what it takes to get ready to play and what it takes to win," Raymond said. "They've also seen how bad it is when they don't."

Hopefully, the Maine victory has convinced the Blue Hens that they're a good team. The test will come this Saturday afternoon when they travel to UConn to take on the Huskies at 1.

GLASGOW

75-yard pass play on Newark's second possession. The play traveled for a touchdown, and the Dave Gwinn extra point kick was good to give Newark a 7-0 edge.

But the shocking play seemed to jolt the Glasgow defense, which really put the clamps on the 'Jackets for the next three quarters.

"When they threw that bomb, they surprised us," corner back Dana Boyer said after the game. "The coach told us that we had to get our act together, that it couldn't happen again."

"When they scored on the pass play, everybody got fired up," quarterback and safety Shawn Money agreed. "We said, 'no more of that, let's play Glasgow football.'"

Glasgow football indeed. The Dragons exploded for the next 28 points. Pat Williams, Glasgow's leading rusher, found success going through the middle of the Newark defensive line.

"First I was pitching the ball (on the option)," Money said. "When they started stopping that, we read dive and Pat broke it."

"They were just option runs that I ran dive on," Williams explained. "One time I pounced outside, the other time I got through a few tackles."

Pat's twin brother, Paul, scored the other Dragon touchdown when he hauled down a 33-yard Money pass about midway through the second quarter. Paul also played a critical defensive role, covering Newark's dangerous receiver, B.J. Mahoney from his outside linebacker slot.

"This year we watched Newark scrimmage, we watched them do everything," Paul Williams said. "We wanted this win. Ever since last year, we've said we could beat Newark. We knew we could beat them."

"Because it's such a neighborhood rivalry, it's a big game," Coach Scott said. "Emotionally, it's going to be hard to come out and play a very mental game, but I think we did."

"Newark's teams have beaten Glasgow for years, and this was a team win tonight," Scott added.

Glasgow looks to continue their winning ways this weekend against a talented Delcastle squad that devastated A.I. duPont this past weekend 55-0. Kickoff will be Saturday at the Cougars' field at 10:30.

Women's concerns aired

"Women and Delaware's Workforce," a day-long conference on employment issues and opportunities for midlife and older women, will be held Saturday, Nov. 4 at the Delaware Technical and Community College's Wilmington campus.

Featured speaker will be Ruth Mankin, recently retired vice president of the Delaware State Chamber of Commerce.

Mankin's talk, "Life in Reverse," recaps her career.

Mankin started working at age 43, after staying at home with her children for 20 years. She'll talk about personal experiences and translate them into tangible tips for older women seeking satisfaction in the workplace.

Jan Robinson, Delaware Secretary of Labor, will deliver the luncheon speech. Title of her talk is "Chicken Little Met Robotman and Wonderwoman Emerged as Victor."

Other sessions include what keeps women out of the workplace, marketing your maturity, retirement income and health insurance planning, taking care of your health on the job, knowing employment rights, and being the boss.

The Newark Travelodge has been renovated in hopes of attracting University of Delaware visitors.

Travelodge positions for university clientele

The Newark Travelodge is located within walking distance to the University of Delaware, a prime location to attract University visitors.

Hoping to portray an upscale image and attract those visitors, the Travelodge on East Main Street has been renovated.

"We do have a strong position to obtain University clientele," said Pat Hughes, regional director of sales and marketing for Trusthouse Forte Hotels, Inc., which owns and operates the Travelodge.

A grand reopening of the motel last week followed a $260,000 renovation project. The motel's bedrooms, bathrooms, lobby and exterior were refurbished.

According to the resident managers, Don and Betsy Jolman, the exterior has been redesigned to increase the street appeal and security.

Built in 1962, the motel's recognizable was the sleepy bear on the exterior sign. Although the Travelodge has kept the sleepy bear as its mascot, a new logo has been designed, according to Hughes, in keeping with the motel's new image.

Services and amenities, including FAX and photocopy service have been improved.

"We are now in a position to properly service the corporate, the university, and leisure travelers with our new amenities and services," said Don Jolman.

A Lifestyle Kitchen

According to a recent survey by the National Association of Home Builders, homeowners choose the kitchen as the first room in the house for renovations.

Over one-half of American homes are 17 years or older. But a remodeled kitchen or the addition of new kitchen appliances will update the look of any home.

Whether you've just moved into an older home, are preparing to sell your home, or just can't stand your obsolete kitchen another minute, you may be a candidate for a kitchen remodeling job.

"KITCHEN IDEAS FOR TODAY: A Remodeling Guide From Tappan Appliances" is an invaluable guide for anyone planning a kitchen remodeling project.

This 24-page full-color booklet offers practical and helpful advice. It is filled with fresh concepts and sound guidance that will help you plan a kitchen that suits your personal style.

The booklet includes graph paper and scaled appliance cutouts for kitchen design plans. And a detailed four-page questionnaire will alert you to needs and desires that should be taken into consideration in the planning stages of your remodeling project - such as color, cabinetry, appliance choices, flooring and storage.

Included in the booklet are helpful tips such as:

Confine spending to no more than 10 percent of the estimated value of your home.

Kitchen layout should be planned around three centers of activity: Cooking, serving and cleanup. Each center should be between four and seven feet apart.

Walkway space between work areas should be no less than 30 inches.

Allow enough space between the range burners and side walls to prevent splashing or discoloration of the wall.

Place your microwave oven in a convenient area. Useful items to have on hand in your "microwave corner" include paper towels, wax paper, microwave-safe baking dishes and a glass measuring cup.

Microwave ovens should be placed two inches below to 10 inches above elbow level.

Hanging appliances can solve the problem of portable appliance clutter.

THIS SPACIOUS KITCHEN was originally two small rooms. Convenience and contemporary styling were achieved with a myriad of features that are both decorative and functional. The attractive ceiling, for instance, is Armstrong acoustical tile which is easy to maintain and, thanks to the innovative "Easy Up" system, a cinch to install.

Consider incorporating a trash compactor into your remodeling plan. An ecologically-sound addition to the kitchen, some compactors require as little as 12 inches of under counter cabinet space.

Many remodelers are adding a home management center in the kitchen. A desk, bookshelves and phone provide a useful area for storing books and grocery lists, or taking phone messages.

Frequent bakers or bread-makers may want to add a table-level counter area.

If you choose to use wallpaper in your kitchen, plastic coated or laminated paper is easy to clean.

Remodeling Tips

Fill cracks between tub and wall as soon as they appear, or water will seep through the wall and possibly through the ceiling below.

First, clean out old caulk, making certain that all loose particles are removed. Then, using a tube of waterproof, flexible caulk such as Elmer's Silicone Rubber Tub Caulk, squeeze out caulking, pushing it ahead of tip slowly for a continuous bead, and filling the crack completely.

Bubbles in wallcoverings aren't difficult to fix. The Wallcovering Information Bureau says it's best to cut an X in the bubble razor and carefully lift the cut edges out one at a time.

Apply paste to the surface of the wall and the back of the wallcovering. Press the edge back against the wall and use a seam roller to flatten it into place. Remove any excess paste with a damp sponge.

SOLID HARDWOODS

Are you a genius genius?

Called "wudu" in old English, wood is our oldest natural resource, providing fuel, tools, food, shelter and beautiful furniture for centuries. Yet, how much do we really know about it - especially the solid U.S. hardwoods that grace today's fine homes? Pit your wit against myth in this quiz, prepared by The Hardwood Manufacturers Association.

- | | |
|-----------|---|
| — Ash | A a "heroic" wood, used for sailing ships, cathedrals, thrones and King Arthur's Round Table |
| — Birch | B "wood in action," the stuff skis, baseball bats and tennis racquets are made of |
| — Cherry | C an early American "family wood," a mainstay for tools, toys, fence posts and hunting equipment |
| — Hickory | D a "collector's wood," favored for love tokens, woodcuts and grandfather clocks |
| — Maple | E the "aristocrat," prized since the 16th century by inlay masters and harpsichord makers |
| — Oak | F "the colonist's classic," preferred for sewing kits, musical instruments, hatboxes and butcher blocks |
| — Walnut | G a "sailing wood" common to early aircraft and contemporary gliders and canoes |

Multiple Choice:

Shuttle soars to parade blue ribbon

A Space Shuttle created by students at Avon Grove High School of nearby West Grove, Pa. won first place in the float division of the 42nd annual Newark Halloween Parade.

The parade stepped off under sunny skies Sunday afternoon before an estimated 15,000 spectators.

Second place in the float division went to Caravel Academy and third to Mother Hubbard Child Care Centers.

Girl Scout Junior Troop 111 won first place among large marching groups with the theme "Mary, Mary Quite Contrary."

Brownie Troop 18, with the theme "Lost World," won second place and Brownie Troop 156, with the theme "Shamrocks," won third place.

A very clever winner in the family marching groups division was the Hansen family, dressed as a sandwich. The parents were slices of bread and the two children were sliced meat and cheese.

The Beers family, marking the 50th anniversary of the release of "The Wizard of Oz," won second place and the Celauro family, in the guise of a castle, won third place.

Among preschoolers, the winners were Joseph Shekiri, Ryan Kennedy, David Emerson, Jenna Stayton, Hailey Reissman and Danielle Emerson.

Kindergarten winners were Megan Lowe, Aleshia Vadella, Hilary Hedges, Michael Truitt, Joshua White and Mark Stafford.

First grade winners were Jordan McLaughlin, Travis Elswick, Matthew Stronach, Becky McCall, Jesse Slone and Sarah Strwinski.

Among second graders, top costumes were shown by Angela Mc-Closkey, Maria Wilson, Susan Bailey, Hank Daugherty, Nicholas Wilson and Anand Dwivedi.

Third grader winners were Brent Godwin, Scott Parkins, Corey Benjamin, Alicia Yangst and Kristin Bringham.

Among fourth and fifth graders, top prizes went to Allyson Johnson, Melissa Brayman, Jennifer Neil, Dennis Smith, Josh and Brent Roland, and Austin Madison.

Sixth grade winners were Robin Shields, Erin Cataldi and Valerie Rodenbaugh.

The cat is out of the bag

You suspect you are probably heading for trouble when you find yourself defending four breakfast-time actions to your cat. You know you definitely are in deep trouble when you find yourself capitulating to that same cat. At least that is how a panel of experts from a prestigious eastern psychiatric institute diagnosed it. The only expert without a formidable accent asked me, "Why do you let Tuxedo judge you?"

I explained it wasn't that I allowed my cat to judge me, it was that Tuxedo knew he had the right to judge me.

"Surely you are smarter than your cat. Aren't you?" was the hopeful question of another expert.

Of course I am smarter than my cat; he's the only family member who spells worse than I do. (It takes him four tries to spell cholesterol correctly, I usually get it in two.) But smartness, unfortunately, has nothing to do with the issue. Persistence does. And so does the ability to whine. A gift for remembering precedents also counts heavily. Did I mention a flair for incredible helplessness? And finally there is a genius for getting under my skin, thus forcing me either to attack him (frowned on by the SPCA) or to give him what he wants.

Which brings me back to what happened this morning. I was the third and last person to sit at the kitchen table where I did exactly what I have done for the past three years: I breakfasted on sliced fruit — apples this time of year — cheese toast, coffee and the morning paper.

If truth be told, it wasn't me or my breakfast habits that created the problem. It was what the two people before me didn't do that left Tuxedo so riled. The first person was in such a rush that he grabbed a mug of coffee and a banana, dashed out the door — keys at the ready — and hip-hopped off to work in a reluctant and cranky 8-year old car. The second one — more organized and, therefore, in less of a rush — fixed herself apple juice, scrambled eggs and toast with grape jelly before leaving for school.

Which meant that nobody gave Tuxie his usual morning bowl of leftover milk sweetened with sugar and the soggy remnants of cereal.

And that in nutshell, as I explained to the panel of psychologists, was the cause of the cat's peevish petulance. I had interfered with his morning ritual of licking the cereal bowl clean. It's a job he does well and takes great pride in. (Not that I am complaining or anything, but I have noticed that while he does a swell job with chocolate sugar burst cereals, he slacks off when the cereal is nutritious, fibre-rich, all-natural, boring bran pellets.)

I pleaded that it wasn't my fault that one breakfast-eater preferred eggs and toast to cereal on this particular morning. And surely there was no way that the cat could blame me for the other breakfast-

Ballard: 'Newark, At Last'

"In Newark — At Last." That's the amusing title of a cabaret show to be performed here Friday, Nov. 10 by singer and comedienne Kaye Ballard.

Ballard, well-known as co-star of the popular television series "The Mothers In-Law," will perform at 8:15 p.m. in the University of Delaware's Bacchus Theatre, located in Perkins Student Center on Academy Street.

Tickets cost $6 for the general public and $3 for University students, and are available noon to 4 p.m. weekdays at the main desk of Perkins Student Center.

Tickets may be reserved by calling the University Office of Cultural Programs at 451-2631.

Ballard's career spans every aspect of show business from vaudeville, Broadway shows, night clubs, films, recordings, radio and television.

She first came to national attention with her appearance on Broadway in "The Golden Apple," from which she had a hit song, "Lazy Afternoon."

Her other stage hits include "Carnival," "Cole Porter Revisited," "The Pirates of Penzance," "Nunsense," for which she won a Carbonelle Award, and the all-woman version of Neil Simon's "The Odd Couple."

"Kaye Ballard Working 42nd Street" was the hit of the 1988 off-Broadway season.

Best known for the television situation comedy "The Mothers-In-Law," Ballard currently is appearing in television commercials.

She also has a new recording featuring the hit songs of Broadway's female composers and her most recent film "Tiger Warsaw," starring Patrick Swayze and Piper Laurie, is awaiting release.

Appearing with Ballard will be pianist Arthur Siegel and singer Miss Faun.

Siegel has composed scores for "Talullah" and several Broadway revues. He is well known to Bacchus audiences.

Miss Faun is a bass player. She has been described by the New York Times as "the most expressive instrumentalist since Harpo Marx."

Taylor Dancers take stage Nov. 7

The Paul Taylor Dance Company, celebrating its 35th year on stage, will perform next week at the University of Delaware.

Sponsored by the University Friends of the Performing Arts, the concert will be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 7 in Mitchell Hall on South College Avenue.

Tickets cost $20 for the general public, $16 for senior citizens and University faculty and staff, and $8 for full-time University students.

Tickets are available noon to 5 p.m. weekdays at the Mitchell Hall box office and can be obtained the day of the performance from noon to curtain time. For reservations call 451-2204.

The Paul Taylor Dance Company has delighted audiences in more than 300 U.S. cities and 53 foreign countries.

Its New York performances are always sold out to a broad cross-section of fans who are spellbound by dances that combine comedy, drama and athletic virtuosity.

Highly praised by critics across America, the troupe recently was described by the New York Times as "one of the most exciting, innovative and delightful dance companies in the entire world."

The Washington Post after a recent performance said, "The troupe gave us an evening of dance that left one awestruck at the power of choreographic art, and the ability of the dancers — who are, after all, just people — to transform themselves into beings of divine radiance."

Paul Taylor himself is a legend in the world of the performing arts. The French government in 1969 elected Taylor to knighthood and elevated him in 1984 to the rank of Officer.

In 1985 Taylor was honored with a MacArthur Foundation Fellowship, often referred to as the "genius award," given annually to an outstandingly talented and creative individual.

He was awarded five honorary doctor of fine arts degrees, most recently from the Juilliard School.

Taylor's distinguished career is chronicled in his autobiography, "Private Domain," which was nominated by the National Book Critics Circle as the most distinguished biography of 1987.

Ballet News described him and his work as "one of the few authentic geniuses in the world of dance."

It said "Taylor exhibits remarkable vision in his work, from the puzzlingly comic to the expansively lyric to the supremely profound and weirdly gothic. His dancers seem challenged, fired up every time they appear, as they inhabit their master's world with dazzling commitment and power."

"One leaves the theatre invigorated, stimulated, recharged in energy, satisfied."

The next program in the Friends of the Performing Arts series will be Thursday, Feb. 8 when the Baltimore Symphony Orchestra will perform.

Spectacular Dallas center for the arts

The people of Dallas took quite a task upon themselves. They wanted to build a temple to music which would put the city "on the cultural map of the world" and be a home for their fine orchestra, The Dallas Symphony, Eduardo Mata music director.

Their unqualified success is the topic of my column today.

I had been reading and hearing about the new home for the Dallas Symphony for several stormy years. It seemed as though all I, and the rest of the world, would ever do was hear and read about it because of all the problems and cost increases along the way. Then, as this season began, The Morton H. Meyerson Symphony Center opened.

It was worth the wait.

Writers and critics from around the world were invited to come to Dallas this premiere season to see and hear for themselves this monument to the people of Dallas. It didn't take me a minute to accept when my invitation arrived.

The most important thing about the new hall, or any symphony hall, is how the music sounds to the audience in it. The Meyerson is too new to make many definitive statements about the acoustics this will not be the one that has to be rebuilt three times as was the case with the debacle at Avery Fisher Hall in Lincoln Center. The sound in the hall, long before the hall has developed its full character, is marvelous.

It was my good fortune to attend a program that combined both symphonic and choral music so, in my brief stay in Dallas, I really had a very special chance to critically listen not only to the music but to the hall as well. I was pleased on both counts. Conducting was Robert Shaw and the program included Haydn's Symphony No. 96 in D Major, the "Miracle;" Hindemith's Symphonic Metamorphosis on Themes by Weber and Poulenc's "Stabat Mater." I think you will agree, a program varied in style and history.

THE ARTS

The citizens of Dallas made a very wise choice in their architect, I.M. Pei, who has one building gracing our Wilmington skyline. Mr. Pei achieved a remarkable edifice, one that is as modern as it can be, but one with the magnificence of the older halls of the world. The key ingredients are limestone and glass and they come together to form that thing I love so much in any of the arts, an entity. The ingredients are at once one with each other.

The photo with my column today is of the interior of the hall with the Dallas Symphony on stage. The three sides of the stage may be adjusted in any direction to enhance the sound of whatever group is performing. It is a true sanctuary in this temple of music.

The Meyerson Symphony Center cost $81.5 million including the hall, performance equipment, underground parking, etc. It is an imposing part of the Dallas Arts District, a 20 square block area northeast of the central business district.

Another tenant already in the center is the Dallas Museum of Art. Although different in design, the two buildings complement each other.

The central focus of the concert hall, as you can see in the photo, is a magnificent Fisk pipe organ. The organ is designed for performance with the orchestra, as a concerto instrument and as a recital instrument. There was no organ in the performance the night I attended; I would like to go back to hear it.

There are 2,065 seats in the house and they are arranged in five areas: orchestra, orchestra terrace, loge, dress circle and grand tier. There can be a sixth seating area behind the main stage. It is called the choral terrace. I walked around quite a bit before the performance, during the intermission and after the performance could observe no obstructions in the sightlines anywhere in the house.

At the beginning of my column I told you the goal of the people of Dallas. If I had to describe the outcome in one word it would be "class;" in two words, "first class." All those involved in this project have not only given Dallas a glorious new symphony hall, they have given it to all of our country and to the world.

Dallas, you have earned a Triple Tip of The Toman Topper.

The heart of the new Morton H. Meyerson Symphony Center in Dallas is the performance area, shown with the Dallas Symphony Orchestra and Music Director Eduardo Mata just before the formal opening.

Ancient Submariner bubbles to surface

Tom Lewis, a Royal Navy chief petty officer turned folk singer, will bring his special blend of land and sea-based music and humor to this area Sunday, Nov. 5.

Lewis, alternately billed as "The Ancient (Sub)Mariner," will perform at 8 p.m. Sunday at Immanuel Episcopal Church, 17th Street and Riverview Avenue, Wilmington.

Tickets cost $7 is reserved by telephone, $8 at the door. Call (215) 444-0446 or 994-0495.

A resident of Halifax, Nova Scotia, Lewis claims to have been singing "since he was born" and has been on the British folk music scene since 1962.

His full time career as a singer-songwriter did not begin until 1977, however, following 24 years of naval service.

Lewis, whose voice, said one critic, is "capable of stopping a train, or charming birds from the trees," has a large and diverse folk reper-

Puppets featured in theater opener

Newark recently lost one theater in the demise of Main Street's State but it has gained a new one in the Chamber Theatre of the Delaware Dance Company.

The Chamber Theatre is located at 22 Prestbury Square Building on Chestnut Hill Road and will host its first performance this weekend.

The Fuzz and Stuffing Puppets of Norfolk, Va. will take the stage at 4:30 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 5. Tickets cost $3.

Earlier, there will be a combination workshop and performance for parents and children. That will be held at 1:30 and 3 p.m., and tickets cost $5.

For information or reservations call the Delaware Dance Company at 738-9251.

The Fuzz and Stuffing Puppets are unique freestanding puppets in the tradition of Japan.

The Fuzz and Stuffing Puppets will perform in the new Chamber Theatre.

University hosts Symphonic Harmonie

The Symphonic Harmonie Orchestra of the Conservatoire de Musique of the Grand-Duché de Luxembourg will perform this weekend in Newark.

A concert will be held at 8 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 4 in Loudis Recital Hall of the Amy E. duPont Music Building on the University of Delaware campus.

The orchestra is under the direction of Roland Hensgen, associate director of the Conservatoire. Its repertoire consists of original works performed in concert and on recordings.

The 1989-90 tour includes concerts in Switzerland and Greece.

The Newark concert is part of an exchange program between the Conservatoire and the University of Delaware Wind Ensemble, under the direction of Dr. Robert J. Streckfuss.

In March 1990, the Wind Ensemble will pay a return visit to Luxembourg.

The orchestra also performed last night in Wilmington through the efforts of the Delaware Chapter of People to People International and DuPont Electronics.

That concert marked the 150th anniversary of Luxembourg independence.

Citing the exchange, Gov. Michael N. Castle and Lt. Gov. Dale E. Wolf issued a joint proclamation declaring Nov. 1 Delaware-Luxembourg Friendship Day.

'Dinosaurs Dwell' at Longwood

Rocks, minerals and fossils dating from prehistoric times will be shown this weekend in conjunction with the Longwood Gardens presentation, "Where Dinosaurs Dwell."

The rock show will be held 1-4 and 7-9 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 4 and 1-4 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 5 in the Conservatory Ballroom Rock Room.

Displays are being mounted by the Delaware Mineralogical Society, the Delaware Museum of Natural History, Newark's Iron Hill Museum and the Chester Country Rock House.

Dr. Richard Busch of West Chester University will present special lectures. He will discuss "Pennsylvania Before the Dinosaurs: Fossils for Children" at 1:30 and 3 p.m. both days, and at 7:30 Saturday will make a family presentation on "Prehistoric Pennsylvania: Plants and Animals from the Past to the Future."

Each child attending the lectures will have an opportunity to hold and examine a fossil guaranteed to be older than any dinosaur.

For details call Longwood at (215) 388-6741.

CAT

eater's rush. After all, I hadn't forced him to stay in bed for an extra 14 minutes after the alarm went off for the second time.

The cat did make one very telling point. The second breakfast-eater had explained to Tuxedo that she would have had cereal if a certain maternal-type adult had remembered to get milk on her way home from work the previous night. With that cat out of the bag, what could I say? Tuxedo won and I lost.

Which is why, dear expert psychologists, I was seen rushing into the dairy section of the Acme at 7:23 this morning and out again at 7:28. Which is also why I gnawed through a small soggy heap of boring cereal and then added several drops of real maple syrup to the bowl before I politely slid it under the kitchen desk.

P.S. You didn't notice the pint of butter pecan ice cream I also bought, did you? Just in case you did notice, I suppose you should know that it is one of Tux's favorite flavors.

Our testing pinpoints problems and we tutor in reading, phonics, study skills, math and SAT prep to help students in all grades do better in school. Call and let us help your child break the Failure Chain.

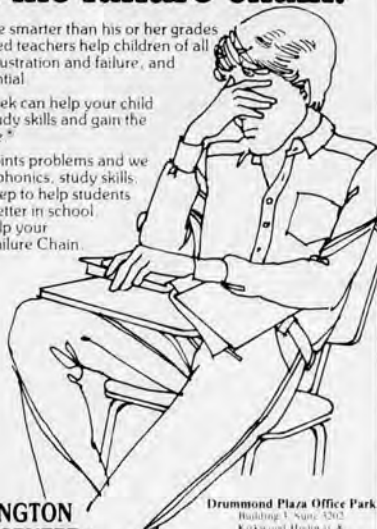

4 Reasons for failure

- weak basic skills
- frustrated with school
- lack of confidence
- no motivation

The holidays are especially difficult after a death in the family. Usually a joyous time full of memories, the recently bereaved often feel the season makes their loss more painful.

That's why we are sponsoring this special program with practical ways to "get through the holidays" while coping with mixed emotions. An expert speaker from Accord, Inc., a national grief counseling service, will present valuable insight into how others have coped with the stress of the holidays. Different ways to commemorate a loved one will be shown as well.

Make plans to attend this session to help you in renewing your spirit and honoring your loved one.

'Tis the season for holiday bazaars

'Tis the season for holiday bazaars, with special events sponsored by the Newark Senior Center, the Newark Jaycees and the Delaware Saengerbund planned next weekend.

The Ladies of the Delaware Saengerbund will open the holiday season with a German Christmas Festival 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 11 at the Saengerbund's Bavarian style clubhouse on Salem Church Road in Newark.

The festival will feature German cakes and pastries, hot food and sandwiches.

There will be a Christmas shop, handmade articles, white elephant, bake shop, children's gift shop and imports.

The honored Enzian Volkstanzgruppe folk dancers will perform at 1:30 and 3 p.m. and Santa Claus will arrive between 3:30 and 4.

The festival is free and open to the public.

The Newark Senior Center will hold its annual holiday bazaar 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Friday, Nov. 10 in the center on East Main Street.

Featured will be jewelry, flea market and baked goods. There will be a lunch of homemade soups, sandwich platters and desserts. A coffee shop serving danishes and muffins will be open all day.

HOLIDAY FILE

Newark Jaycees will hold its ninth annual Arts and Crafts Christmas Bazaar 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 11 in Aetna Fire Hall. Proceeds benefit Sudden Infant Death Syndrome and the Myasthenia Gravis Foundation. Call 368-8415.

Also, the Easter Seal Society of Del-Mar has gotten into the holiday spirit, selling collectible First State Christmas ornaments to raise funds for programs for people with disabilities.

The ornaments depict a Christmas star in Wilmington's Rodney Square and cost $13.40. For details call the Society at 998-8129.

Activities

□ Santa Claus will arrive by tugboat on the banks of the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal in historic South Chesapeake City, Md. at noon Saturday, Nov. 11.

Carolers and children will greet Santa at the town wharf and usher him on a carriage ride through the streets of the historic district.

Activities include a puppet show, a strolling barbershop quartet, rides in a horse drawn carriage, balloons and

□ "Snack With Santa," an annual event sponsored by the Newark Department of Parks and Recreation, will be held 9:30-11:30 a.m. Saturday, Dec. 2 at West Park Place Elementary School. Children can join Santa for juice, doughnuts and a relaxed visit. Admission is $2 at the door, and parents must stay with their children. For details call 366-7060.

□ "Christmas in Parkesburg" will be celebrated Saturday, Dec. 2 in Chester County, Pa.'s first railroad town. Church bells will ring, homes will be open 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and there will be displays of classic automobiles, antique radios, tools, quilts, lighted dollhouses and working model trains. Tickets cost $5 in advance, $7 the day of the tour. Call (215) 857-2616 or 857-3345.

Helping caregivers cope with guilt

Guilt can move people into action.

It can also cause negative feelings, lead to unpleasant relationships and make daily life seem overwhelming.

Guilt is a common experience of people who provide care for elderly relatives and so must be handled productively and realistically.

Leni Markell, mental health social worker and counselor, will discuss how to overcome feelings of guilt during a meeting of Families Caring for Elderly Relatives Tuesday, Nov. 14.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Adult Day Care Center in Newark Hall on the University of Delaware campus, Lovett and Academy streets.

Activities

□ A Red Cross first aid course will be offered 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturdays, Nov. 4 and 11 at Union Hospital of Cecil County in Elkton, Md. Fee is $27. Call 731-0743.

□ Mended Hearts of Delaware, a support group for cardiac patients and their families, will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Nov. 6 in Room 1306 of Christiana Hospital. Guest speaker will be

HEALTH

Kathleen McNicholas, cardiac surgeon at the hospital.

□ The Coordinating Council for the Handicapped Child of Delaware open forum will be held 5:30-7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 7 at the Mary Ann Wright Center, 29th and Jessup streets, Wilmington. For details call 654-6987.

□ The 1989 Delaware Stair Climb to benefit the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation will be held 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 11 at Three Christina Centre, 201 N. Walnut St., Wilmington. Individuals and teams are encouraged to enter and raise pledge money. For details call Stephanie Frangia at (215) 238-8500.

□ American Diabetes Association Delaware Affiliate will hold a gala black tie dinner Saturday, Nov. 11 at the Christiana Hilton. Theme of the event is hot air ballooning, and a balloon will be inflated in the Hilton parking lot during the event.

□ The Delaware Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation will accept orders for roses Nov. 13 through Dec. 1 in preparation for Rose Day. Medium-stemmed roses will be sold for $15 per dozen and will be distributed Friday, Dec. 8. For details call 764-8254.

Red Lion Evangelical hosts Faircloth

Pianist Michael Faircloth will perform at Red Lion Evangelical Church.

Pianist Michael Faircloth and singer Diane Susek will perform a concert of sacred music at 6:30 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 12 at Red Lion Evangelical Church, 1400 Red Lion Rd.

Faircloth, of Abingdon, Md., holds degrees in piano performance from the University of Maryland and also has studied in the Peabody Preparatory Department of Johns Hopkins University.

A semi-finalist in the 1985 International Stravinsky Awards in Illinois, Faircloth has recorded three albums of piano music — "In Moments Like These," "Mike Faircloth, Piano," and "Come Away."

Susek, a native of South Carolina who was reared in central Pennsylvania, was born into a musical family.

She entered Ithaca College in New York with hopes of a Broadway career, but felt the need for a life change and committed her talent to Christian service.

Susek has recorded nine albums of sacred music, one of which was named best album of the year by the National Evangelical Film Foundation.

Nursery will be provided. For concert details call the church at 834-8588.

Newark CWU marks World Day

World Community Day, an ecumenical event sponsored annually by Church Women United, will be celebrated here Friday, Nov. 3.

The Newark Area Unit of Church Women United will mark the day with special activities sponsored by the Korean United Methodist Church and Ebenezer United Methodist Church.

Coffee and registration will be at 9:30 a.m. in the Ebenezer narthex, followed by a 10 o'clock worship service in the Korean church.

Both churches are at 525 Polly Drummond Hill Road in northeast Newark.

The Rev. Park, pastor of the Korean church, and members of that congregation will participate in the worship service.

World Community Day is designed to bring women together to focus on issues of the wider global community and to heighten awareness of the whole human family.

By seeking to raise consciousness through prayer, World Community Day challenges churchwomen to make the critical connections between faith and prayer, politics and action to bring about justice and peace in the world.

The theme for the day is "To Pray Is To Risk," a program written by a group of Korean-American women of faith who have lived as immigrants in the United States and have suffered poverty and discrimination here.

They reflect both their own and the feelings of their sisters in Korea who have been oppressed by These are women who know the meaning of risk in their own lives.

During the coffee, there will be an ingathering of health kits, full skeins of yarn, blankets and money for blankets to be given to Church World Service for disaster relief.

□ A Christmas bazaar will be held 10 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 4 at the Reorganized Church of Latter Day Saints, 1205 Milltown Rd., West Wilmington. There will be a bake and soup sale, handicrafts, plants and photographs with Santa Claus. Lunch will be served 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. and a turkey dinner 3-7 p.m. Cost of the dinner is $6 for adults, $3.50 for children.

□ The annual Friends Fair will be held 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 4 at the Wilmington Friends Meeting House. The fair is reminiscent of the Meeting's 18th century beginnings, when Quaker families gathered at the 4th and West street site. There will be handmade crafts, candies, jellies, white elephant items, used books and plants and floral arrangements.

□ St. Matthew's Church in Woodcrest will hold a craft fair and flea market 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 4. Tables are available for rent at $15 each or two for $25. Call the church at 999-9922.

□ The Little Sisters of the Poor will hold their annual spaghetti dinner 2-7 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 5 at the Jeanne Jugan Residence for the Elderly, 185 Salem Church Rd. The highlight of the dinner, which also includes a Christmas boutique and bazaar, will be a drawing for a 1990 BMW automobile. Proceeds of all events directly subsidize the operation of the Jeanne Jugan Residence.

Robert Plane and family will be guest chefs for the dinner, which includes hors d'oeuvres, spaghetti, meatballs, salad, bread, coffee and dessert. Tickets are $6 for adults, $3 for children. Tickets will be available in advance or at the door. Call Sister Gerard Mary at 368-5886. Soda, beer and wine will be available at a modest additional cost.

Dinner music and entertainment will be provided by Bips

Egnor, and there will be television available for football fans who want to enjoy the games while they eat.

□ Salem United Methodist Church, 469 Salem Church Rd., will hold a country fair from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Friday, Nov. 10 and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 11. There will be a bake shop, soup sales, Christmas shop, handmade gifts, plants, white elephant room and children's place. Lunch and dinner will be served. Meals will also be available to go.

□ First Unitarian Church, 730 Halstead Rd., North Wilmington, will hold a fall festival Saturday, Nov. 11. Pancake breakfast will be served 7:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. at a cost of $4 for adults and $2.50 for youths age 11 and younger. Adults can browse and buy from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m., and there will be a supervised fun room for children 3-12 from 9 a.m. to noon. Items include arts, crafts, jewelry, pottery, jams and jellies, and bags of bean soup mix.

Winterthur focuses on holiday tradition

Although mumming, reveillon, Belsnickel and a putz may sound quite exotic compared with today's typical American holiday celebration, each of these traditions once thrived in America, as visitors to the annual Yuletide at Winterthur display will learn.

In fact, a form of mumming is still practiced on New Year's Day in Philadelphia and even today Christmas in New Orleans wouldn't be complete without reveillon, an elegant late-night meal served after Christmas Eve Mass.

Children of Pennsylvania German descent are still visited by Belsnickel, a rather menacing sidekick of St. Nick, while Moravians in Bethlehem, Pa. recreate the nativity scene in the form of a putz, or creche.

These are just a few of the traditions featured in Yuletide at Winterthur, a special tour that takes visitors back in time to America's holiday celebrations of the 18th and 19th centuries.

For reservations or information call Winterthur at 888-4600.

Longwood's fab foods

"Fabulous Fall Foods," a five-day binge of delectable culinary delights, will be offered Nov. 6-10 by Longwood Gardens as part of its annual Chrysanthemum Festival.

The food lecture-demonstrations, offered at 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. each day, will feature chefs from throughout the Delaware Valley. The programs are free with regular admission.

Ann Stubbs, co-owner of the Sinking Springs Herb Farm in Elkton, Md., will discuss "Incredible, Edible Flowers for Cooking and Garnish" on Nov. 6.

Joe Poon of the Peking Duck House in Philadelphia will be on hand Nov. 7, pastry chef Elaine Rose of the Chadds Ford Inn on Nov. 8, and food columnist Rosemarie Vassalluzzo on Nov. 9.

The series will conclude Nov. 10 with a second presentation by Rose.

For details call (215) 388-6741.

What appears to be a scene of Newark's Main Street circa 1940 is actually the antique car portion of the 42nd annual Halloween Parade. Thousands lined the parade route Sunday afternoon under lovely sunny skies.
