In addition to other aspects of municipal operations, residents can find out how much work it takes to maintain horticultural displays like this one on Cleveland Avenue during a City Sampler Tour in November.

Newark 'behind-the-scenes' tour planned

City employees will work on a Saturday this fall to present a behind-the-scenes look at municipal operations in Newark.

The Newark City Sampler Tour will be held on Saturday, Nov. 6, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. beginning at the Municipal Building. The tour is free but space is limited and reservations are required.

A highlight of the program is a chance to talk with the people who produce the city's highly acclaimed horticultural displays. Participants also can assist with seasonal plantings, inspect play structures, and possibly operate a turf mower.

A tour of the water treatment plant will feature a demonstration of the water testing process and an explanation of water supply requirements and management.

At the electric, police, and public works departments, staff will explain the equipment and technology used as well as special services performed by employees. A slide show will feature downtown Newark's thriving business district.

Transportation will be provided to the various sites on the tour and a light lunch is included. For more information or to register for the Tour, please call 366-7020.

UD/City have an agenda

City council plans to meet on Tuesday for a workshop on city of Newark and University of Delaware relations.

"We've had some tough issues this past year," said city councilmember Thomas Wampler in making the suggestion. "I think it would be a good topic for the next council workshop on Oct. 19."

The Christina School District failed to vote for or against returning funds to the state which would reduce residential property taxes in the district.

Unlike Colonial and Appoquinimink districts which approved the reduction, the Christina school board vote was split 3-3 in the absence of board-member Terry Schooley.

Developer hopes to close by Nov.

Developer Mike Godwin said if there are no more major surprises, Ambling Companies hopes to close on the deal to purchase the former Delchapel site by mid-November.

"Of course, there's always the possibility of surprises, but that's what we plan right now," Godwin said on Wednesday.

Ambling crossed a major hurdle this week in its plan to finance a student apartment complex on the South Chapel Street site with $40 million in tax-free bonds.

POLICE BRIEFS

Police Beat is compiled each week from the files of the Newark Police Department by staff writer Mary Petzak.

NHS security guard nearly run over

A 27-year-old security guard at Newark High School told Newark Police he was nearly run down by a car described as a Dodge with a Pennsylvania license plate on Oct. 1 around 10:30 a.m. The guard reported he tried to stop the vehicle which had a black male driver and an unknown number of occupants because he did not know if they were students when they drove onto the school parking lot at mid-morning. Without stopping, the driver left in a reckless manner, forcing the guard to jump out of the way. Anyone with information is asked to call police at 366-7111.

Man assaulted at 7-Eleven

Newark Police report that on Oct. 9 around 2:40 a.m. a 21-year-old man was kicked and punched by three men in the parking lot of the 7-Eleven on Elkton Road. The victim suffered facial cuts in the assault.

Man charged for urinating in public

On Oct. 8 around 11:50 p.m., Matthew P. Andrisani, 21, was arrested after he was observed urinating on the sidewalk in plain view of passersby in the unit block of Main Street.

Student makes gunfire threats at NHS

Newark Police charged a 15-year-old male student from Wilmington with terroristic threatening at Newark High School on Oct. 7 around 12:20 p.m. Officers reported two students were in a verbal confrontation which was broken up by school staff. As one student was led away, he continued to yell and made threats including that he would "spray" everyone with gunfire. Police said no gun was found in the student's possession.

Student bruised in attack

Two 15-year-old male students were charged with assault 3rd on Oct. 5 around 1:20 p.m. at Newark High School. Police reported the pair, one from Wilmington and one from Newark, punched and kicked a 14-year-old male Newark student who suffered bruises in the attack.

Principal threatened by NHS student

Charges of terroristic threatening and disorderly conduct were pending against a 14-year-old male student at Newark High School this week after he threatened the school principal. Witnesses said the student threatened the principal with bodily harm and used obscene language after staff broke up a fight between the suspect and another student. NHS security guard nearly run over

Man wanted in burglaries arrested

New Castle County Police reported Carl Henderson, 18, wanted in connection with more than 10 burglaries in Delaware has been located in Stonington, Conn. Police in Connecticut advised County police that they were able to locate and apprehend Henderson without incident. He was charged as a fugitive and held for an extradition hearing. Delaware police believe Henderson may be responsible for additional burglaries in New Castle County over the past few months.

State Police help 'clean up' Route 40 areas

Some residents living near Lestardo's on Route 40 got action when they complained to Delaware State Police about intoxicated individuals "hanging out" around the tavern/package store. Lestardo's is at the intersection of Route 40 and Church Road and also near the new Leisure Elementary School.

According to State Police Captain Hancock, a grant was obtained to work on the problem and one adult already was charged with buying alcohol for a minor. Lestardo's also faces a hearing for selling liquor after hours.

In addition, Hancock said an adult was arrested at Fox Run for the purchase of alcohol for a minor on Sept. 24 and two people in the area were charged with possession of marijuana.

Hancock also warned of an increased incidents of car break-ins and shoplifting in the area. He said two people were arrested in the People's Plaza parking lot in Glasgow following police surveillance. Hancock said these thefts are a way to fund heroin addiction for some individuals.

In a collaborative effort with the Delaware Department of Transportation, state police also cleaned up a vacant lot at the intersection of Routes 13 and 40. "Ten tons of debris were removed," Hancock said.

Homeless people living on the lot were offered assistance and housing alternatives. For safety reasons, DelDOT also will be installing a light above the lot.

Race Against Drugs this weekend

Children ages 7 to 12 are invited to try maneuvering a miniature race car through a specially-designed mini-raceway at the K-Mart parking lot in College Square this weekend.

The Kids Race Against Drugs sponsored by K-Mart and Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD) at locations throughout the United States provides fun and also encourages children to abstain from underage drinking and drunk driving.

Newark's event runs from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. tomorrow and noon to 6 p.m. on Sunday.

Every participating child receives a free T-shirt and cap. Local winners from each age group will be entered in a drawing to win an all-expense-paid trip to Disney World where they will race mini-cars and compete for $10,000 in scholarships.

City/UD relations topic for council workshop opment, new city regulations pertaining to students rentals, and the proposed University parking garage on Academy Street as such issues.

City manager Carl Luft told council on Monday night that the preliminary plan for the parking garage had been submitted that day. "I'm just advising you," he said.

University of Delaware director of government relations Rick Armitage also advised councilmembers that he would not be attending all city council meetings as he had been for the past several years.

"In the future, I will attend city council meetings only when there is something on the agenda that might require comment from the University," he said. "The meetings of the Town and Gown Committee have not improved relations between the city and University as much as we had hoped, so I plan to attend all those meetings in the future."

The Town and Gown Committee currently has 14 members drawn from city staff, University employees, students and local residents. Members meet four times a year between September and May to discuss matters of mutual interest on and off the campus.

Armitage said he still would like to find some forum, which city council meetings did not always provide, where discussion could take place between the city and the University about common issues.

City council workshops are held at 7:30 p.m. in the City Manager's conference room on the second floor of the Municipal Building.

Scouting welcome in growing areas

By SUSAN FRANKLIN

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

Boys in the Bear-Glasgow area now have a Boy Scout Troop of their own with the recently formed Troop 97 and its Cub Pack which meets every Thursday from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at Friendship Baptist Church on Glasgow Avenue.

At its first Open House, the troop consisted of five boys and Scoutmaster Judy LaRosch. To raise awareness about the new troop, flyers were sent home from school to notify boys and their parents that Troop 97 had been formed and how to get involved. All boys in first through fifth grades can join the Cub Scouts, while Boy Scouts start in sixth grade and continue to age 18.

LaRosch said several community member saw a need for a troop following the large influx of people into the Route 40 area. Friendship Baptist Church agreed to be the sponsor for the new troop and pack.

"If you look around, you see nothing but developments," LaRosch said. "What is there in the area for youth to do?"

LaRosch said Boy Scouting is a place where boys can go where they want, decide where and when they want to camp, plan their own menu, and do their own shopping and cooking — all without an adult standing over their shoulder.

"Where else can they do that?" she asked. "Nowhere."

Cubmaster Ernie Boyce of Pack 55, which meets Monday nights at Good Shepherd Church on Porter Road, agreed. "They don't have to have Mom and Dad nagging them, and they grow," he said. "It's an oasis...I learned skills in Scouts that I still use today."

According to LaRosch, Boy Scouts is a "boy-led" organization. "I'm the Scoutmaster, but I'm not the one in charge," she said. "I'm there for guidance, counseling, etcetera. The Senior Patrol Leader is in charge and the boys do the programs, not me."

She continued. "It builds leadership. The older boys teach the new boys as they come in."

Community Day will return to Mall in 2000

Rumors of permanently banning Newark's Community Day from the University of Delaware Mall are groundless, according to a University official.

In response to questions from Newark city council at their last meeting, University director of government and public relations Rick Armitage said this week that he was unable to locate any formal agreement between the city and the college about the location of the event.

"Normally, in the past, the city department of parks and recreation sent a letter in the Spring requesting use of the University Mall on the third Saturday in September," explained Armitage. "The University has always said, 'yes.'"

Armitage said he spoke with University president David Roselle about the arrangement.

"He said we plan to say 'yes' again when the letter comes next year," said Armitage.

Some workers as well as residents attending the event this year had speculated that the University would use the relocation as a precedent for permanent change.

University officials temporarily canceled all events on the Mall, including Convocation at the opening of the 1999-2000 college year, to protect the grass following a dry summer.

Armitage said building projects on the Mall would necessitate some reconfiguration of the activities. "We have building and renovations on that campus for the next two years, but you worked with that when we were building Gore Hall and it wasn't a problem," he said. "We anticipate that it will work again."

WILMAPCO's 2025 MTP is on the way

It seems like only yesterday that the Wilmington Area Planning Council unveiled its 2020 Metropolitan Transportation Plan. Adopted in 1996, that MTP has already been updated and now the group is working on the 2025 plan.

According to a newsletter published quarterly by WILMAPCO, the draft of the 2025 plan features expanded bus routes, train service connections for the region, increased investment options for anticipated growth in the area south of the C & D Canal and expanded transportation projects.

Based on studies completed by WILMAPCO, the population below the canal is expected to increase from 16,000 to 60,000 and employment to rise from 5,000 to 16,000 workers in the next 25 years.

As a result, expansion projects such as more rail stations, building the long-halted Route 301 through New Castle County or expanding the Tyler McConnell Bridge are under consideration. According to WILMAPCO, $1.3 billion of their total budget will be spent on expansion projects in the next 25 years.

The remaining $5.5 billion will be used for management projects such as road resurfacing, bridge repairs, Intelligent Transportation Systems, bike lane restriping and bus shelters.

The draft 2025 MTP is scheduled for review and public comment in November and December, with a public workshop tentatively set for Nov. 17.

Copies of the draft will also be posted on the WILMAPCO website at wilmapo.wilmapo.org and available in libraries as well as at the WILMAPCO office on Library Avenue. Organizations interested in a discussion and 20-minute presentation of the 2025 MTP, can call 737-6205.

SPECIAL TO THE NEWARK POST

Melanie Jones talked to David Motz about scouting at an open house for Boy Scout Troop 97 of Bear-Glasgow.

In Troop and Pack 97, camping trips are frequent, occurring once a month during the school year. "We try to camp locally, within at least an hour to an hour-and-a-half of here," LaRosch said.

LaRosch said most of the camping trips consist of learning various skills such as knot tying and bridge building.

The frequent camping trips also have another purpose. "If they're involved in that, guess what they're not doing?" LaRosch asked. "They're not involved in being bored, which leads to mischief."

Scouting also offers resources such as mentoring, scholarships and leadership programs and Scouts participate in conservation, forestry, farm work and community service projects.

"We try to do service projects outside of the meetings," LaRosch explained. The troop recently completed their first project of the year, assembling nine picnic tables for Friendship Baptist Church.

Boy Scouting is an international movement existing in 140 countries whose mission is to help boys develop character and train them for the responsibilities of adult life. Begun in 1907 in England by Sir Robert Baden-Powell, the program is based on two other American organizations: the Sons of Daniel Boone, founded by American Daniel Carter Beard, and Woodcraft Indians begun by Canadian writer Ernest Thompson Seton.

Those interested in becoming involved in the new Troop or Pack can call Judy LaRosch at 368-2283.

Students can earn high school credit as volunteers

Governor Thomas Carper and Delaware legislators are encouraging high school students to take advantage of a relatively new and little-known student-based volunteer initiative called the Delaware Volunteer Credit program.

At a press conference earlier this month, Carper also announced that the Department of Health and Social Services is expected to receive a grant from the Corporation for National Service to fund an Americorps Fellow to specifically work with public high schools in increasing participation in the statewide program.

According to the Governor, higher education institutions and employers typically review high school students' transcripts as part of their selection process, seeking information on both academic performances and extra-curricular activities. Under this program, public high school students receive a community service credit on their transcripts when they perform at least 45 hours of service per semester for two semesters.

Carper, a longtime advocate of volunteerism, personally participates in a statewide mentoring effort to serve Delaware's at-risk children. He signed the Credit program House Bill co-sponsored by State Senator David Sokola (D-Newark) and State Representative Wayne Smith (R-Brandywine Hundred) into law last year.

The Department of Education and the Office of Volunteerism at the Department of Health and Social Services coordinate the program.

Newark's 'Good Neighbor Day' coming

The Newark Area Welfare Committee, a nonprofit, volunteer group helping Newark-area residents for more than 60 years, will sell beans for soup on Friday, Oct. 22, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Volunteers will accept donations outside local supermarkets and banks and in area shopping centers. They will also sell their own "Good Neighbor Bean Soup Mix": 12-oz. bags, $3; and decorative jars, $5. The bags contain 10 kinds of beans and a recipe to make enough soup to feed 8 to 10 people.

The Welfare Committee maintains a food cupboard and gives cash assistance toward rent, utilities, car repair, and medicines for families in an emergency situation.

In 1998, they helped over 500 families with food or cash assistance, purchased shoes for 83 school children, and distributed 1735 pairs of shoes which were donated through the generosity of a retiring shoe-store owner. In addition, they prepared over 300 Christmas baskets.

Requests for help are rising, and their allotted funds are usually depleted by the middle of each month. Cash donations are desperately needed. Only two percent goes for overhead. Volunteers are also needed to assist the committee in collecting canned goods and frozen turkeys for Christmas baskets.

To join the committee, purchase soup mix, or make a contribution, write to: Newark Area Welfare Committee, Box 951, Newark, 07115, or call Beverly Stoudt, 368-9354.

District to vote again on education tax funds

► DISTRICT, from 1

Karen Thorpe, chief financial officer for the District, said the board's next step is to decide what to do with the money.

Thorpe said the board can choose: to keep the money, which will allow the district an additional $3.7 million dollars for funding in the district; to give back the money, which has not yet been included in this year's budget and will not affect current programming; or to do a combination of both.

"What the school board said was that they are not comfortable at this time giving the money back," said Thorpe. "The board wants to look harder at what they want to do with the money."

If the money is kept by the district, the school board will have to come up with a plan for it by Oct. 30.

Pursuant to the Education Expense and Property Relief Act, each school board must develop a plan for using the monies and take public comment before the board votes on it.

Boardmember Mike Guilfoyle, who voted in favor of returning $3.7 million to the state, was concerned about the process. "If the legislation wants to give a tax cut, why are they doing it through us?"

Guilfoyle asked. "We could just keep the money, but some people in the legislature won't be too happy."

Guilfoyle said some legislators have even threatened the board with making it difficult to obtain state funding in the future if they did not pass the bill. In particular, Guilfoyle mentioned State Representative Wayne Smith (R-Brandywine Hundred).

"I don't like to play politics," Guilfoyle said, "but I would rather be able to go back and say we cut taxes when we need money."

Board member George Evans was opposed to giving the money back to the state. "We don't hear the voices of the children in this," Evans said. "I will face the legislators later. We need to serve the children."

District information officer John Holton said the board will have a special session on Oct. 19 to decide what to do with the money.

Margaret Tansley, the district's state representative for the PTA, said if they don't give the money back they can give kids good programs.

"They would have money for summer school for kids who did not pass the accountability test," Tansley said.

Tax-free loan still needs approval from DEDO and Governor

► AMBLING, from 1

On Tuesday, the Delaware Council on Development Finance, a seven-member citizen's advisory board, voted unanimously to recommend the approval of the funding request from the Collegiate Housing Foundation, Ambling and the University of Delaware for a tax-free loan.

Darrell J. Minott, treasurer of the Delaware Economic Development Authority, is expected to make his recommendation for or against the loan by Oct. 22. Governor Thomas Carper must also approve the funding.

The Foundation is a non-profit Alabama corporation established to provide funding for construction projects undertaken by Ambling which plans to raze the buildings on the former industrial site in order to build 280 apartments with 880 beds.

Godwin said he already carried the environmental insurance for the project and also secured AA rated insurance on Wednesday, both required by the lending agency.

John Bauscher, president of the Newark Landlords' Association, told the Council that this is the first year of widespread vacancies in the town's rental properties and that several new housing complexes have yet to be finished.

"I don't think this project will stay even half full," Bauscher said. "They have told the city this project would have dorm rules. Well, students don't move off campus to have dorm rules. This is the biggest white elephant to hit the city of Newark. There is not one landlord who is not incensed."

Another Newark landlord, Hal Prettyman, agreed with Bauscher and suggested the Council ask themselves where are the future residents going to come from.

A man who identified himself as the owner of Ivy Hall Apartments said 880 beds were bound to have an effect in a town the size of Newark. "This is a blatant for-profit corporation getting non-profit advantages," he said. "If the University wants the housing, let them build it. If Ambling wants to build it, let them borrow the money."

Bauscher said he was not surprised by the Council's decision to recommend the funding, but he was suspicious of the meeting's short notice and inconvenient scheduling on a Tuesday afternoon.

Day-to-day life fuels this artist's vision

By TERRI GILLESPIE

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

Being a recluse-in-the-garret isn't Yolanda Chetwynd's style. She's an artist who gets involved.

Among the items on her résumé are: artist-in-residence for her son's class at Downes Elementary School; board member for the Delaware Council of Contemporary Arts; consultant in creating the Delaware Department of Education's standards and testing for visual arts; and currently a part-time art teacher at The College School, the University of Delaware's K-12 program for students with learning differences.

On top of all that, the native of Cambridge, England, has only been in the United States since 1987 when she came to Delaware with her husband, University of Delaware professor Suresh Advani.

Her artwork has garnered accolades, awards, and grants on both sides of the Atlantic. "...but it's only now that I feel like I really understand how to paint the pictures I want to paint," she said. "It's a result of painting more and more; it doesn't just happen overnight."

In her studio, tucked into half the backyard garage, she reached into the stacks and pulls out some of her earlier work. "All my life, I've wanted to paint people working," she explained.

The series of five paintings depicts a central event in the life of a small Spanish town — the Christmas-time hog butchering, with the master butcher and his apprentice.

Capturing day-to-day activities on canvas is a way of telling "extraordinary stories that create a link between everyday expression and gigantic, mammoth insight."

Travels in India, her husband's native country, reinforced Chetwynd's interest in painting people involved in their daily tasks. "I empathized with people who were struggling every day to make their lives work," she related.

She recorded simple, dignified scenes on the blank postcards sold there: women crouched by the side of the road, piecing together a quilt; people preparing a meal; a man waiting in line with an armload of laundry.

Some of her postcard studies grew into larger works, and selections from that series are included in the Dover Art League's "A Collage of Cultures" exhibit. That show opens at the Wilmington Library on Nov. 5, with future showings at Chesapeake College, Bellevue State Park, and Del Tech in Georgetown.

Chetwynd admitted she hasn't put effort into exhibiting since her one-person show at Cadogan Contemporary, a London gallery, in 1994. She was also busy enjoying her new daughter and her artist-in-residence work.

Left to her own devices, she said, she wouldn't have gotten any farther with the current exhibit than an initial letter. But the show coordinator personally came to Chetwynd's house, took the paintings off the wall, and took them away to hang in the exhibit for Chetwynd.

Yolanda Chetwynd's postcard-sized paintings of day-to-day life in India grew into larger works.

Now she's re-inspired. "I want to take risks, be adventurous, and push envelopes," she said. "It's part of the job of a painter to make a whole world, to draw you into a world that you can believe in; I just have to keep looking authentically and truly.

Schmidt assists in J.F.K. Jr.'s plane search and recovery

Navy Chief Petty Officer James C. Schmidt, son of Charles E. and Helen L. Schmidt of Newark, recently assisted in the search and recovery of John F. Kennedy Jr.'s downed plane more than seven miles off the coast of Martha's Vineyard, Mass., aboard the salvage ship USS Grasp of Norfolk, Va.

Schmidt and 99 fellow crewmembers were informed at about 10 p.m. on July 17 that they were leaving at noon the next day. USS Grasp arrived that Monday and began checking possible "targets" that had been previously located by the two National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration survey ships already in the area. After battling strong currents on the rocky sea floor with less than eight feet of visibility for nearly three days, the 17 divers found the wreckage in 116 feet of water.

A diving drone equipped with sonar and camera equipment utilized by Schmidt's ship, ultimately identified the wreckage containing the bodies of John F. Kennedy Jr., his wife, Carolyn Bessette Kennedy and her sister, Lauren Bessette.

Salvage ships, like USS Grasp, can support diver operations to a depth of 850 feet and lift submerged objects weighing up to 300 tons.

Schmidt is a 1982 graduate of Newark High School and joined the Navy in November of 1981.

Spoor named to dean's list

Stanley V. Spoor has been named to the dean's list at Clarion University of Pennsylvania for the first semester of the 1999-2000 academic year.

Nearly 1.2 million students in over 20,000 U.S. high schools entered the 2000 Merit Program by taking the 1998 Preliminary SAT/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test. Semifinalist winners are among the highest scorers in the state and represent less than one percent of each state's high school graduating class.

Myers graduates from basic

Navy Petty Officer 3rd Class Joshua T. Myers recently graduated from the Navy's Basic Nuclear Power School at Naval Nuclear Power Training Unit, Ballston Spa, N.Y.

Myers is a 1997 graduate of John Dickinson High School in Wilmington and joined the Navy in November 1997.

The right agenda

The Newark City Council's decision to devote next week's workshop to an examination of city-University of Delaware issues is good news. For some time now, we've witnessed a formerly steadily improving relationship become strained by juicy quotes that make great newspaper headlines but do little to promote harmony.

For generations, it's become nearly a birthright for Newark residents, both natives and newcomers, to complain about "the University." The simple fact is that the University of Delaware is the big dog in town over which the city has very little control. The special exemptions granted the institution by the Delaware legislature have fueled this discontent. Previous UD administrations and trustees may have not always considered the city's best interests as growth was planned. The conspiracy theories continually surface, that latest being that UD had "always" wanted to get Community Day moved off the mall and used the drought simply as an acceptable excuse.

However, in recent years, this newspaper has watched and reported on slow, but steady advances in harmony between the city and University. As he has made his mark on campus, UD president David Roselle clearly sees the advantage of the city and University working together. There are many examples of how his staff, including his key link to the city council, government relations director Rick Armitage, have worked to promote harmony.

Likewise, the Newark City Council diligently has worked to break down the walls and improve the relationship. The Town and Gown Committee, led enthusiastically for many years by Mayor Harold Godwin, has been an effective vehicle to voice concerns and react to them.

Probably the best example of the council's wisdom was its bold move two years ago to create the Downtown Newark Partnership. This board, supported by a city staffer and university funds, brings the key players in Newark's future together, at one table, working on common goals. The city manager, the mayor and Dr. Roselle each have been full participants in getting this new effort off to a good start.

So why can't get we all get along?

The culprit probably is Delaware attorney general Jane Brady. Her inane rulings as to what constitutes a public meeting and who can talk to who without complicated public notice apparently has scared councilmembers. It appears as though they hesitate to meet or talk casually with UD officials. While we steadfastly support openness in government, there is a big difference between sneaking public action through behind closed doors and fact finding. In today's world, little consensus is reached in official forums. It's behind-the-scenes communication, investigating and questioning and trial balloons that make business and government work.

The council's decision to focus on this issue is both timely and wise. The recent trend quickly can be reversed and the communication next Tuesday is an important first step.

The good news here is that we can all get along. We just have to want to. It's clear to us that both the city and the University want a relationship that benefits both students and city residents.

Government is a big part of water problems

By DOUG RAINEY

NEWARK POST COLUMNIST

Artesian Water Co. and CEO Dian Taylor took the bold step of taking on conventional wisdom about the drought.

In advertisements that appeared throughout local newspapers, Artesian boldly stated that mandatory restrictions did not have to be taken.

Instead, it charged that United Water and the City of Newark's utility would not agree to buy surplus water from Artesian, which, as its name indicates uses groundwater, rather than flows from creeks and rivers.

In looking into the situation, it becomes clear that what we have is a giant mess.

Heading the list is Delaware River Basin Commission. The agency is charged with managing water supplies in the region, but has utterly failed in coming up with a strategy for combating droughts.

The commission and governors of the states involved moved decisively once rivers and creeks began to see dramatic declines in flows.

However, it has done little to look for ways to improve the capture of the generous rainfall in the region, but has instead spent time mandating water-stingy toilets and issuing handsome annual reports.

But why should we expect anything out of a regional commission when governments of various states, most notably Delaware, have done such a poor job themselves.

The issue of building reservoirs turned into a battle with not in my backyard folks and well-intentioned environmentalists

Disastrous fire at Glasgow Sunday

Fire of undetermined origin destroyed the large barn on the Frankel farm at Keeney station, near Glasgow, Sunday evening last about 8 o'clock.

The farm was tenanted by Mr. Laughlin. Three fire companies responded to the alarm, among them being Newark and Christiana. Before the firemen arrived on the scene the barn was beyond saving, so they turned their attention to saving the stock and other buildings. It is reported that two valuable pedigree dogs were lost in the flames.

The loss was estimated at about $10,000.

Maryland to finish Kemblesville Rd.

The 1,200 foot stretch of the Newark-Kemblesville road lying in Maryland, given up by the residents of that section as a lost cause, will be improved and hard-surfaced before winter sets in, according to reports received here Monday last.

Providing the Cecil County Commissioners act favorably upon the requests of the farmers living near the Pennsylvania - Delaware line, travelers will have a macadam and concrete road from Newark almost to Cochranville, Pa., and thence to Lancaster and Harrisburg.

Police discuss boundary changes

A renewed controversy is brewing over the long-running jurisdictional problem between New Castle County Police and Delaware State Police.

Representatives from both groups have been discussing a proposal that would revise the experimental cooperation agreement they drew up in 1975.

If adopted, the revised cooperation agreement would give state police exclusive responsibility for investigations of commercial and industrial businesses. The county police, meanwhile, would concentrate exclusively on investigations of residences.

'Closed shop' image spurs Nutter bid

A Newark Councilman has proposed legislation that would prohibit city residents from serving on more than one city agency.

Councilman Edwin Nutter says he is proposing the ordinance to help remove what he considers a

If enacted, the ordinance could affect several city appointees serving on more than one commission. According to city records, at least four persons serve on more than one city committee.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To: EditorFrom: Ann Brown and Sally Cornell, Newark

How disappointing and shocking that University of Delaware would not allow Newark's Community Day to take place on campus. This traditional fall event not only allows many valuable city and university organizations to communicate with everyone but also starts the school year with togetherness, inspiration, and plain old fun.

Part of Newark's wonderful appeal is that at its center is the University of Delaware. We are all proud of that. But there is a fear that the University is not equally appreciative of the community in which it resides. Many people in Newark benefit from association with the University, but these people also contribute to its success.

Those of us who have experienced Community Day from its beginning have wonderful memories of the music, food, and booths that extended from Old College down the University Mall. In recent years, though, we have seen the gradual decrease of space allowed.

It is a travesty that this special day was relegated to a parking lot. Why is this so? A major part of Community Day's success was the pleasure of walking down the mall shaded by majestic trees.

Could it really be that concerns over grass, which regenerates quickly, could override the opportunity for the University to share its most beautiful space with the people of Newark on this special day?

To: EditorFrom: Michael E. Riska, Executive Director, Delaware Nature Society

The Delaware Nature Society enthusiastically supports the referendum to be placed before Newark's voters for the acquisition of the Koelig property for the construction of a reservoir and the preservation of associated open space.

This property presents an exceptional opportunity to solve the city's water supply problem in a manner compatible with natural resource protection. The proposed reservoir site does not compromise any ecologically sensitive lands.

In addition, the proposal would preserve the surrounding open space (1) as a valuable amenity for city residents; and (2) as a significant addition to nearby city parkland along the White Clay Creek, as well as the Pennsylvania/Delaware/New Castle County White Clay Park System. This system is contiguous with city parkland, and includes the state of Delaware's White Clay Creek Park and Preserve, the state of Pennsylvania's White Clay Creek Preserve, New Castle County's Middle Run Valley Natural Area, and the Judge Morris Estate.

Last but certainly not least, this proposed facility is likely to play a significant role in the state of Delaware's water supply plan, which is nearing its final stages of development.

This proposal would simultaneously help to solve water supply, recreational, and open space public needs. It deserves serious positive consideration by the city's voters.

Government hurts water problems

► RAINEY, from 10

who see conservation as a be all and end all. The state, county and everyone involved, rolled over and ignored the issue once any trace of opposition appeared.

The county has also failed in previous decades, although its powers are far more limited. The water resources agency was finally jettisoned, after irritating a number of interests in its efforts to protect water quality and perhaps taking the heat for floating the idea of a reservoir.

In the end, the state had the most flexibility. For instance, it could also have built an emergency system of wells south of the canal that could be used for extreme droughts or it could have taken over Wilmington-owned Hoopes reservoir and made into a more valuable source of water.

One of the good things that came out of the drought was the fact that companies found ways to conserve water. Again, there seemed to be little or no effort on the part of the state to look for ways to conserve water — up until we ended up dealing with a crisis.

As for the water utilities, they acted like private businesses, not an unexpected development.

It is true that Artesian did have a good supply of water. It is also true that United Water and the City of Newark did not want to be overly dependent on Artesian, which has been aggressive in its efforts to expand its territory.

We do remain troubled as to what appears to be a lack of communications regarding Artesian's water surplus. Did anyone talk to anyone else? Or were we swept along in a frenzy of hysteria that seems destined to be followed by extreme apathy. Those questions remain and they are troubling.

As for Newark, it was acting as a city, which is to say that it will protect its interests and municipal jobs, even if it might have made sense for a United or Artesian to manage its water system and guarantee a more reliable supply. Instead, the city is now in an expensive quest to build its own reservoir. It's not a bad idea, but residents should question why such an expense should end up in property tax, rather than water bills.

After all, a utility should pay its own way.

The predictable behavior of business and local government makes the failure of the state and region to deal with the water situation even more appalling.

Artesian's charges deserve a full investigation by the Public Service Commission. This issue is certainly as important as the "rolling blackouts" of Conectiv. The difference is, this time around, government appears to be a big part of the problem.

The age of entitlement

An editorial in the University of Delaware Review made me ponder comments the writer made about the students who were highlighted in a News Journal article on tailgating at the University of Delaware.

The editorial was entitled, "Campus KGB strikes again." The premise of the article was that the University and the Robert Wood Johnson Coalition are out to get all students who are drinking. The truth is the University is against underage possession and consumption of alcohol because both are against the law in Delaware.

To me the editorial boldly reflects the status of our society at this time. We are in the age of entitlement.

Do what you want, when you want, disregard the rules because they are for everyone else — not me — and be sure to blame someone else for the consequences of being caught in the act.

This is the picture that came in so loud and clear to me when I saw four females posing with beers in a picture on tailgating. The "KGB" — as the University is described — did not have to come looking for these students. They blatantly broke the law in Delaware which does not permit possession of alcohol while under the age of 21. This is a law which has specific consequences which the University police and Newark police must uphold.

It seems to me these girls thought that no one would notice. What they did not anticipate was that they would be caught and held accountable for the choices they made. The University must adhere to the laws of the state and underage drinking is a law that is taken seriously because young people abuse alcohol to excess and must be transported to the hospital (by those same police officers) when they overdose on alcohol in an effort to save their lives.

Alcohol poisoning is lethal. Young people choose to hold themselves above the law — do what you want, when you want, regardless of the rules. Lying is wrong, breaking the law is wrong and both are punishable by law. It is against the rules to bring alcohol into the Delaware stadium, yet my family is surrounded at games by empty beer cans, beer bottles and cursing for the sake of cursing by students.

I enjoy having some beer or wine but the rules say I can't bring alcohol into the stadium. I abide by those rules. Why do the students feel they do not have to follow the same rules? Why have we failed to teach basic values to young people today?

Unless we as a society wake up and help young people learn that honesty and upholding the law are important values for society, we are encouraging behaviors that oppose good citizenship, character and integrity. We need to teach each other how to be good citizens which includes following the law, being honest, compassionate, respectful, fair and concerned about the human dignity of others.

Islands in the stream of traffic

The city of Newark maintains 17 sponsored traffic islands, including this one at Main Street Library Avenue. Sponsors for this site are PNC Brokerage, Jerome Kayatta, D.D.S., PNC Bank, and Newark Manor Nursing Home.

By SHARON R. COLE

Many drivers in Newark are looking, instead of stopping, to smell the roses planted in the middle of the roadways, but the effect is somewhat the same.

Eye-catching traffic islands decorated with lush lawns, magnificent magnolias and delightful daffodils make traveling through Newark a refreshing experience for motorists hypnotized by miles of concrete.

Newark's flourishing landscape islands were conceived as part of a beautification program in 1978 by the city's first parks director, Jim Hall, to create a welcoming community.

"The city of Newark thought it was important aesthetically to make the area more pleasing," said current director of parks and recreation Charlie Emerson.

As a result, the city hired its first full-time horticulturalist, Richard Colbert, to take charge of designing, developing and maintaining the grounds of specific sites, including traffic islands, areas around city park signs, and landscaping around City Hall and the former police station on Main Street.

As a way to finance some of the costs, city officials decided to begin an island sponsorship program in 1982. This program gives local businesses the opportunity to pay an annual fee in return for a sponsorship sign placed on beautified traffic islands.

"This is a tremendous advertising format for sponsors," Emerson said, explaining that the recognition is worth much more than the $525 yearly fee.

The sponsorship, however, does not completely cover all the maintenance costs. "Probably about 25 to 30 percent of cost for maintenance is brought in through sponsorships," said Emerson.

Today the city maintains 30 beautification sites with 17 sponsored traffic islands including the "McDonald's" circle on East Main Street, the Woodlawn Avenue triangle and the "Deer Park" island at West Main Street.

"People really do notice the islands," Emerson said. "Our most frequent phone calls are from people who comment on how beautiful they are."

In order to keep the sites looking fresh, the city currently employs one full-time beautification horticulturalist, Phil Thompson, along with five temporary/full-time grounds people who work on a seasonal basis.

Tom Zaleski park and recreation superintendent, primarily designs the islands with assistance from Thompson.

"Everyday someone is out on the sites maintaining the trees, plants, flowers and shrubs," Emerson said, "And they are constantly experimenting with new plants."

In addition to the creative aspect of the job, Emerson explained that the horticulturalists have to take into consideration the durability of the plants in different temperatures and their tolerance level to salt, sand and drought conditions.

Of course, one of the major considerations before landscaping an island, said Emerson, is visibility. "We want to make sure the plants do not create a safety hazard," he said.

Some of the more unique plants found among the beautification sites include siberian iris, Prince of Wales junipers, pink turtleheads and creeping lilyturf.

Students believe their are entitled to special treatment

► OUTLOOK, from 12

These are the values which FBI Director Louis J. Freeh in his May commencement speech called the basic core values. "Without those components, neither the law enforcement services of our country nor the country itself, whether in its corporate or family components, will be able to be successful," Freeh said. I am reading an excellent book entitled, "The Shelter of Each Other" by Mary Pipher, PhD. Pipher says that the media and "Ads have taught young people that they are the most important person in the universe, that impulses should not be denied, that pain should not be tolerated and the cure for any kind of pain is a product. They learn a weird mix of dissatisfaction and entitlement. With the messages of ads, we are socializing young people to be self-centered, impulsive and addicted." I hope we can re-learn to be a community of civil and caring people. The integration of basic values like honesty and accepting the consequences of your actions is a good start. I agree with the Irish proverb that says, "It is in the shelter of each other that the people live."

Glasgow's LaShanda Simpson soars to smash home a return during the Dragons' victory last Friday night at Christiana. Natalie Moe (12) and Stephanie Santo prepare for the return.

Glasgow High continued its flawless run through its Blue Hen Conference Flight A schedule by overpowering host Christiana 15-8, 11-15, 15-6 last Friday night.

Glasgow's LaShanda Simpson highlighted the Dragons' effort with 12 kills, 14 perfect passes, five blocks and six aces, while teammate Leanne Karr had 18 assists and three perfect passes, and Terri Mangini had three kills, 14 perfect passes, and three aces.

Glasgow (8-0, 10-2) had no time to rest on its performance in the first half of the season, however, as it played second-place Alexis I. du Pont on Wednesday, Oct. 13, on the Tigers' home court.

In the first game against Christiana, the Dragons surged to a 4-0 lead before the Vikings closed to within 6-3 on an ace by Nina Tarabicos and a kill and an ace by Natalie Moe.

But fueled by Christiana mistakes, Glasgow was never threatened en route to winning 15-8.

In the second game, a more aggressive and sharper Christiana team took the floor and at one point held a 9-3 lead. Glasgow fought back with some excellent serving and blocking to trail 11-10 and 12-11, but couldn't overcome the Vikings' determined play. A kill by Sara Beatty ended the game.

"I tried to put some of my taller front-row players in because against a St. Mark's or a team that's big across the front I'm going to need them," said Glasgow Coach Robin Dunlap. "But they get a little scared or a little tentative, then I have to weigh between playing my shorter players or playing my younger taller players."

"But they played the first and third games well. The second game was kind of ugly."

"The five seniors are all really strong, all-around players. Unfortunately, some of them are a little short. In the second game, we were down but came back and other than a few mistakes, we were right there."

In the third game, Glasgow took a 7-1 lead before Christiana responded with four consecutive points. The serve changed hands five times before Glasgow went on a tear that made it 14-5.

Christiana regained the serve but quickly lost it, and Glasgow closed out the match on its ensuing serve.

Newark outlasts Glasgow in Flight A football clash

By JOE NYE

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

The Glasgow Dragons found out Friday night that sometimes bad things happen in threes as they dropped their third straight to a state powerhouse, falling 14-0 to cross-town rival Newark at Glasgow.

The Yellowjackets used two touchdowns from senior running back Brandon Haman and a punishing defense that sacked Dragon quarterback Matt Folke eight times to boost their record to 3-1 while dropping Glasgow to 1-3.

"We were lucky to get a shutout here tonight," said Newark head coach Butch Simpson. "They're a big play offense and Folke is one of the better quarterbacks in the state. But tonight we didn't give him much time to throw."

The Jacket defense was spearheaded by sophomore John Parkinson, who recorded three sacks and along with fellow defenders Steve Selk, Micah German and Kwame Harris, shut down the Dragon passing game and limited Glasgow halfback McQuail Price to 52 yards on 15 carries.

"We started four sophomores on defense tonight and from what I could see on the sidelines I was pleased," said Simpson. "We had scouted Glasgow last week (against Caesar Rodney) and were impressed with what we saw."

Now if the Dragons could only impress the schedule makers. Friday marked the third week in a row that Glasgow had played a team ranked in the top three in the state and though they were 0-3 during that streak, their effort was never in doubt.

"Our guys fought to the last play," said Dragons head coach Mark DelPercio. "But even with Orien Harris out, Newark still has two future Division I players on their line. Newark's too good a team to beat if you make any mistakes."

The game got off to a sloppy start on both sides of the ball as an early Jacket drive was snuffed out by a fumble at the Glasgow 17.

Blue Hens host unbeaten Lehigh Univ.

By MARTY VALANIA

NEWARK POST CONTRIBUTING WRITER

University of Delaware football players, coaches and fans don't have to look any further than last year's NCAA I-AA playoffs to determine if Lehigh's undefeated football team is for real or not.

Patriot League teams have not been looked upon with great respect in I-AA football circles. The league is not regarded as strong and most of the teams play equally weak Ivy League opponents for their non-conference games. In fact, the Blue Hens have beaten Lehigh six straight times including 49-7 and 62-21 shellackings. Delaware also handed the Mountain Hawks their last regular season defeat - 24-19 in 1997.

Last season, however, the Mountain Hawks knocked off Atlantic-10 champion Richmond (the same team that ripped Delaware 45-6 last season) in the opening round of the tournament. That alone legitimizes Lehigh's 5-0 record, even though the victories have come over non-powers Fordham, Monmouth, Princeton, Columbia and Dartmouth.

ATHLETE OF THE WEEK

LASHANDA SIMPSON - GLASGOW HIGH

By CHRIS DONAHUE

NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

Glasgow High senior LaShanda Simpson's first love is basketball, in which she earned first team all-state honors last season for the Dragons.

But if Simpson keeps playing volleyball the way she's been playing this season, it's going to be hard for coaches to keep her off the first team in this sport as well.

Last week, Simpson helped the Dragons improve to 8-0 and take over first place in the Blue Hen Conference Flight A race with her all-around play in victories over Alexis I. du Pont and Christiana.

Her play at the net was especially devastating. Against AI, she notched 15 kills. Against AI, she had 12.

A three-year starter in volleyball and basketball, Simpson said she doesn't know quite what she likes best about volleyball, but that it's "just fun."

Playing on a winning team, as she's done for the past three years as well, may have a little to do with that.

"I think everybody gets along real well," said Simpson, who was an all-conference and honorable mention all-state selection in volleyball last season.

Some opponents probably wish Simpson would have stuck with her other activity -- playing in the school band. Simpson also plays the saxophone and percussion instruments.

As for the future, Simpson, whose grade-point average is about 3.0, would like to pursue a career in forensics. She enjoys math and science and has already visited the University of Miami. Clemson University is also a possibility.

"If she gets a set, she dominates a match,"

said Glasgow Coach Robin Dunlap. "I've been around the sport for a while here and I've never seen a player hit as hard as she can. She can hit harder than I can."

"And for a 110-pound person, she has great arm speed. She really whips. She's tough but she's also a smart, heady player. We've been trying to get her to take a little off (returns) sometimes to just hit the court. But she's also a good backrow player."

"She just has a lot of athletic ability. She's tremendously quick and has good sense; great in practice. I just can't say enough about her. She's just a great kid."

block in the final game.

"I think we're doing well," Dunlap said. "The way we were doing at the beginning of the season, I thought we were a .500 team. So we're doing much better than that."

Beatty finished with nine kills, eight perfect passes and four blocks, while teammates Kara Shepherd had 15 assists, four aces and four digs, and Val Pruitt had nine perfect passes and five digs.

"Unforced errors in the third game cost us and not having the heart to win," summed up Christiana Coach Huggins, whose team also lost a three-set match to AI. Other conference losses were to Glasgow earlier this season and Brandywine.

Christiana, which slipped to 5-4, has its work cut out for it to have a chance of making the state tournament. Delcastle and William Penn were next on the Vikings' schedule.

"The way the Flight A teams are beating up on each other, we're going to end up where we're not going to have enough points because berths are not decided on records alone," Huggins said. "There aren't enough teams that are going to be .700 (winning percentage) to get bonus points. You have to be .750 to get extra bonus points."

FAIR HILL INTERNATIONAL GOES TO THE DOGS
(Or Dogs Have Their Day at Fair Hill)

Fair Hill, MD - October 4, 1999 - In conjunction with the United States Dog Agility Association (USDAA), the Fair Hill International will present Dog Agility Trials and the $4000 Dog Agility Steeplechase Finals when it returns to the Fair Hill Natural Resources Area, Friday through Monday, October 22-25.

The sport of dog agility is open to all breeds of dogs. Different fence heights and obstacles are offered for the various sizes and abilities of the dogs. In order to succeed in this challenging and exciting sport, dogs and their handlers must demonstrate the fundamental elements of agility - strength, suppleness, confidence, speed, and all-around athleticism.

The featured event, the $4000 Dog Agility Steeplechase Finals, is a two-round competitive tournament. Dogs and handlers have competed in regional competitions in order to qualify for this prestigious event.

At the Dog Agility Steeplechase Finals, speed is the key on the Jumpers-style course which will also include weave poles and an A-frame. The best dogs in each height class advance to the second and final round, where fame and prize money awaits the top dogs. The winner in each height division is named the year's Dog Agility Steeplechase Champion.

The main attraction at the Fair Hill International are the equestrian competitions which include the World Championship sport of combined driving and the Olympic sport of eventing. The Fair Hill International hosts the U.S. Equestrian Team (USET) Eventing Fall Championship, the USET Four-In-Hand Driving Championship, the American Horse Shows Association (AHSA) Singles Driving Championship, and the final leg of the Jaguar Triple Crown of Combined Driving.

These prestigious championships attract Olympic and World Championship veteran athletes as well as the brightest up-and-coming equestrian hopefuls. The eventing championship will be a selection trial for the USET's squad for the 2000 Olympic Games in Sydney, Australia. The combined driving competition will serve as a selection trial for the USET squad for the 2000 World Singles Championship in Gladstone, NJ.

In addition to the world-class equestrian and canine competitions, families can enjoy the "Festival in the Country" which features Country Shops, a Classic Car Exhibition, and specialty foods. Many families enjoy picnicking and hiking the grounds in the majestic Maryland countryside as well as watching the exciting sports action.

Tickets for the Fair Hill International are $8 for adults per day or $20 for a four-day pass. Children 12 and under are admitted free. Proceeds from the Fair Hill International benefit the Union Hospital of Cecil County and the U.S. Equestrian Team. All events and activities will take place rain or shine.

For further information please contact the Fair Hill international office at (410) 755-6065 or www.fairhillinternational.com.

Newark knocks off Glasgow

► NEWARK, from 18

After exchanging punts, the Newark defense stepped up once more as junior defensive back Ryan Bullen picked off a Folke pass and returned it 50 yards for an apparent score. But a holding call on the return brought the ball back to the Glasgow 27.

Once there, Haman and the Newark offensive line took over and after a gain of 12 on the first play, the senior running back took it around right end for 15 yards and the game's first score to put the Yellowjackets up 6-0. Price, the Dragons' two-way dynamo, blocked the extra point, but Newark had the breathing room it would need.

Price's block highlighted the efforts of one of the most versatile players in the state. In the span of ten plays in the first quarter, the senior ran the ball three plays from his halfback position, caught a pass from Folke, played defensive back when Newark had the ball, blocked an extra point, returned the ensuing kick-off, and for good measure threw a 38 yard halfback option pass to Glasgow wideout Jay Chandler.

"He's a tough, hard-nosed player with a huge heart who is always working to be a better player," said DelPercio of Price, whose five-foot, seven-inch 155-pound frame belies his strength. "He had told me in practice he could throw the ball and he made a great throw tonight."

That pass to Chandler put the ball at the Newark 40 and three plays later Folke converted a fourth and three with a keeper around left end for five yards which put the ball inside the Yellowjacket 30. Unfortunately for the Dragons, it would be their deepest drive of the night as another sack by Parkinson and a motion penalty forced Glasgow to punt.

The Dragon defense held their own as well throughout the first half, keyed by senior Troy Beulah and the defensive front four and the half ended with Newark clinging to a 6-0 lead.

After exchanging punts to start the third quarter, Newark's defense shut down the Dragon offense deep inside their own end of the field and after another sack by Parkinson, Glasgow punted from its own end zone. Haman took the short punt and bulled his way to the Dragons'

20 in what was becoming throughout the game a battle of field position that consistently favored the Yellowjackets.

Jacket fullback Seth Montgomery used three straight runs up the middle to get the ball to the 9 and on the next play Haman ran up the middle for the score behind his fullback and the most talked about offensive line in the state.

"I just try and watch my blocks," said Haman, who finished with 67 yards on 7 carries. "We've got a great fullback and he just led the way."

Newark quarterback Erec Spiese then hit former quarterback Ian Deptula for the two-point conversion and the Jackets led 14-0.

The remainder of the second half stayed a defensive struggle as Chandler later picked off a Spiese pass to squash one drive of Newark's. But in the end it was the Yellowjackets' suffocating pass rush and defensive line play that showed why they are a perennial power.

For Glasgow's part, no team has been forced to walk a tougher path to success than the Dragons. After a season-opening defeat of Dover, they played the current No. 2 team in the state (Middletown), followed it up with a close loss to No. 1 CR, and completed their trifecta by playing No. 3 Newark.

Former Olympian coaches field hockey at local YMCA

By CHRIS DONAHUE

NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

Former U.S. Olympic men's field hockey player Otto Steffers has seen and played in the highest levels of competition in his sport.

The sport has helped him visit every continent and a total of 19 countries.

And now he wants to open up new worlds to some young field hockey players in the Bear-Glasgow Family YMCA.

Last Saturday, under sunny skies at Weiss Park, Steffers, 27, led the second of eight practices for 20 girls in grades five through eight.

The players were all new to the sport, but the enthusiastic Steffers seemed to be enjoying the session as much as the players.

"When I look at the USA, I see a lot of field hockey being played, but it's not being taught young enough," said Steffers, a Wilmington resident who played in the 1996 Olympics and '95 Pan American Games, where he won a bronze medal.

"We need to start teaching them when they're seven or eight years old instead of in junior high or high school. And then they only play for four or five months, then they're done for the year."

"I want to make this a year-round thing, so then we can improve field hockey for all these girls here in Delaware. Make an opportunity for people that might not be able to go to the best college. Give them an opportunity to go to the best college out there on an athletic scholarship."

"I also want to be able to have field hockey become a social event. What happens is that maybe if the girls play their brothers will be interested, then they might want to play. Then the parents might get interested."

"So it's a trickle-down effect where everybody's playing the game or involved year-round and having a lot of fun. That's my ultimate goal."

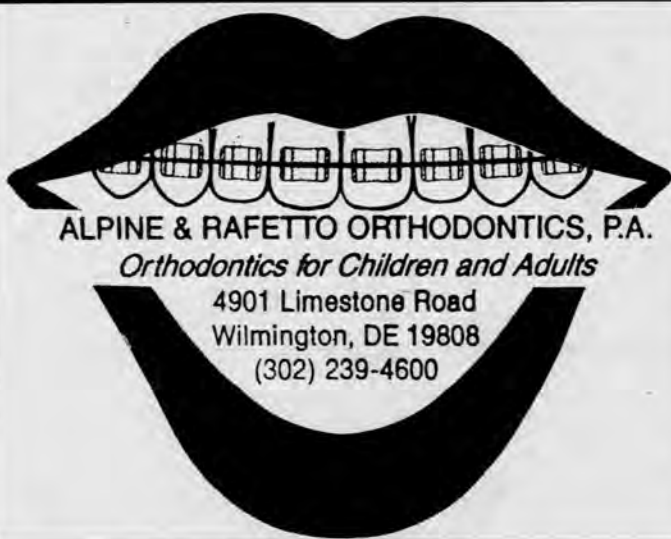

Steffers also envisions a traveling team emerging from the program.

"I believe the grass-roots skills are the most important thing," Steffers said. "Once you teach the skills the correct way, the sky is the limit."

"I try to make it as fun as possible. I try to get them as motivated as possible, but it's up to them on how far they want to go. And I can take them there. I've been to the highest level possible and I know what it takes."

"I started when I was six, seven years old. I know what it takes to get from there to the most ultimate level."

Newark soccer team falls 3-0 to Salesianum

Jackets hurt by injuries

By CHRIS DONAHUE

NEWARK POST SPORTS EDITOR

What was evident in last Saturday's 3-0 victory that Salesianum earned over host Newark was the Sals are a talented soccer team.

Perhaps the only team at this point that can challenge three-time defending champion St. Mark's is Salesianum, which improved to 5-1-1.

At least the Sals and a healthy Newark team.

With several starters sidelined by injuries against Salesianum, including midfielder Noah Thomas (ankle injury) and sweeper Greg Slater (leg), the Yellowjackets played hard, and with the toot of a referees whistle, things might have been a little different.

But coulda, shoulda, woulda doesn't count, as Newark Coach Hugh Mitchell knows.

"Actually, some of the kids played hard and a few played well," said Mitchell, whose team slipped to 5-3. "But there were a few who I expected to perform better than they did today and who have performed pretty well all year but didn't."

"But you can't expect the plowboys to stay with the thoroughbred. And that's not a negative comment to my backup players, but if they were that high a caliber of players, they would have been out there all along anyway. But they're made more for games not of this caliber.

"I mean we started off the game okay and put on a little pressure, then it was just one more injury after another and I was out of subs."

A huge turning point came 14 minutes into the first half when Newark forward Rick Buccos appeared to have been chopped hard from behind by a Salesianum defender deep in the penalty area. Buccos never got a shot off and no call was made.

Three minutes later, Newark goalie Colin Burns made a sprawling save near the left post to deny Salesianum's superb striker, Robert Lobue, from in close.

But a minute later, Lobue fired a hard shot from nearly the same spot that caromed off a helpless Burns and into the net for a 1-0 lead.

Burns kept his team within a goal in the 34th minute with another sparkling save on Lobue, whose long-range rocket ticketed for the near upper corner was turned away.

Newark's inability to mount any cohesive, sustained attacks - due largely to a combination of its impatience with the ball and aggressive Salesianum marking - continued for the rest of the half.

That was especially problematic for Newark when the Sals' Beau Malatesta buried a pretty chip from William Mullins early in the second half to make it 2-0.

game came later when Mark Angeloni did a good job of freeing himself from two defenders to gain a semi-breakaway. But his hard shot from about 18 yards skidded inches past the right post.

A few minutes later, Mullins struck home a hard shot from about 25 yards out to finalize the outcome.

"(Newark's) a good team," said Salesianum Coach Tony Wolanski, who saw the full Yellowjackets squad lose 3-2 St. Mark's. "They have a lot of size, good speed, and excellent skills."

Wolanski credited the play of fullbacks Richard Ptakowski,

Mark Bruxelles and Steve Wang for doing a good job in bottling up Newark's offense, especially the Yellowjackets most lethal striker, Lornny Antwi.

"I'm very pleased, Wolanski said to sum up his teams season. "As long as we stay healthy, that's the key."

Hens ready for unbeaten Lehigh

► HENS, from 18

"I don't think there is an awful lot of awe from them," said Delaware coach Tubby Raymond of the affect Lehigh's playoff success will have on the game. "I don't think they feel there is any difference in the caliber of play at all."

Lehigh's offensive prowess has been staggering.

The ninth-ranked Mountain Hawks rank third in I-AA in scoring (45.8 points per game) and sixth in total offense (503 yards per game). Quarterback Phil Stambaugh is the nation's No. 2 ranked passer with an incredible rating of 182.9. The Walter Payton Award candidate has completed 78 percent of his passes.

"If you look at the numbers, they're hard to believe," said Raymond, who is 16-8 against Lehigh during his 33-year tenure. "It looks like we're getting ready to play the Chicago Bears."

"If we played a seven-on-seven drill in practice, I don't think we could complete 78 percent of our passes. To do what they've done against anybody is exceptional."

To offset Lehigh's potent attack Raymond hopes his team is able to control the ball on the ground.

"Every time we use 25 seconds to run a play, every time we get a first down, this keeps them off the field," the coach said. "We'd like to be able to do that."

Despite Lehigh's higher ranking, the impressive offensive numbers and the undefeated season, the Blue Hens do pose quite a threat to the Mountain Hawks.

"I'm happy with the way we've played," said Lehigh coach Kevin Higgins, who is 0-3 against Delaware. "But we haven't been tested. We haven't been challenged like we will be against Delaware."

"Athletically and skill wise, they have much more than what we've seen. Their speed is so much different. All of that will be an adjustment for us."

The fact that Lehigh is an odds-on favorite to win its conference and earn an automatic bid to the playoffs makes this game a little different for it.

"If you're certain you're going to win your conference, then non-conference games don't mean very much," Raymond said. "However, if you're not, then every game is like a playoff game."

"I'll tell you right now, you're going to see a playoff team on Saturday. There's nobody left on their schedule that can beat them."

"This is a tremendous challenge and our players are looking forward to it," Higgins said. "It's a chance to measure ourselves against one of the best programs in all of I-AA."

Local connection

Former Glasgow High lineman John Baab is a starting offensive guard for the Mountain Hawks.

"John Baab is a tremendously hard worker," Higgins said. "He's gotten bigger and stronger over his years here and has done a real nice job."

A-10 update

It was another wild weekend in Atlantic-10 conference play with William & Mary topping Villanova 45-10 and UMass thumping Northeastern 77-0. That's the same Northeastern team that played Big East foe Boston College very tough in a 33-22 loss two weeks ago.

James Madison sits atop the standings with a 4-0 A-10 record. UConn (2-0) is the only other team without a loss in conference play. UMass and William & Mary join Delaware as one-loss teams.

James Madison travels to William & Mary Saturday in a big conference game.

Steffers coaches at YMCA

► YMCA, from 20

"The girls are the focus. I'm not the focus, because I've already done it. I'm here now to try to get them to enjoy the game as much as I did. Because field hockey is such an enjoyable game and a lot of people don't know about it."

James Lozano, assistant program director of the Bear-Glasgow Family YMCA, said one of the main reasons field hockey instruction was started was to give girls another option.

"Our mission is to make activities a family affair, and I think this helps fill a niche," Lozano said.

"If players want to be in a more competitive environment, we can point them in another direction."

"But this at least gives them a start to where if she goes to junior high or high school, she has a chance to play right away."

Monika Bostick, 12, and her father, Robert, and Caresse Spencer, 13, and her mother, Martha, were all on hand last Saturday.

So was Melanie Spencer, 9, who stood next to her mom wearing a Y soccer T-shirt as she waited for her sister to finish practice. Melanie is participating in the YMCA's soccer program for boys and girls.

"(Monika) seems to really be getting into these scrimmages," said Robert Bostick. "I asked her last week if she liked it, and she said, 'Its OK.'"

"This morning, she was a little slow in getting going, but she's more enthusiastic about it now."

"It keeps you moving and it's really energetic," said Caresse, who added that she'd like to play when she gets to high school.

"I actually got involved because my daughter is involved in the latch-key program with the Y," Martha Spencer said. "And I paid my money for the year and I was thinking, 'So what else do you get for this money?' They said you can get a free sport. So I signed Melanie up for soccer and then I got Caresse involved in field hockey."

"It's a great way for them to get exercise and meet new friends."

Although plans are underway for a new building, the three-year-old YMCA already has about 1,200 members. More than half of those are children.

With the continued population growth of the Bear-Glasgow area, it's time for the new YMCA to have its own facility, Martha Spencer said.

For information about membership or activities at the Bear-Glasgow YMCA, call 832-7980.

Hudson named as college coach

Kelly Hudson, of Newark, a four-year volleyball player at Shenandoah University, has been named an assistant coach with her former team.

Hudson, a graduate of Newark High, takes over the position from Megan Newcome, who left after one season, said Hornets head coach Dave McGuigan.

Hudson, 22, played in 105 matches as a defensive/back row specialist for Shenandoah. She amassed 323 digs and 41 service aces over that span.

As a coach, Hudson will be involved in all aspects of the program, including practice and game management, recruiting and opponent scouting.

"We have been going since August 20 and Kelly has done an outstanding job," McGuigan said. "She has freed me up to do different things, because she is familiar with the program. Kelly is going to be a tremendous asset to us this season."

Hudson will graduate in December.

New assisted living residence planned on Ogletown Road

Alterra, formerly known as Alternative Living Services, one of the nation's leading assisted living providers of assisted living for the frail elderly and memory impaired, has begun construction on Clare Bridge, a freestanding assisted living residence developed specifically to provide care for people with Alzheimer's Disease or other forms of dementia.

The residence, on Ogletown Road, will have an occupancy of 52 and is expected to be completed in the fall of 2000.

Clare Bridge's specialized features will include safe, enclosed outdoor areas that allow residents to wander freely without becoming overwhelmed or lost.

Clare Bridge also features a unique living concept that clusters residents' private living areas into small groups.

"The rooms are scaled and decorated like those in a family home," Slocum explained. "There is nothing institutional about Clare Bridge."

Alterra has been refining its care models since 1981, based on their experience and success in caring for people with memory impairments.

More important than the building design, however, is Clare Bridge's approach to resident care, which Alterra calls holistic.

"By holistic, we mean that the same staff members assist residents through every aspect of their day, from bathing and housekeeping, to gardening and playing games," Craig Peterson, Alterra's vice president of sales explained. "This allows quicker recognition of changes in physical condition or behavior. That's especially important in caring for the memory impaired, who may be unable to verbalize their needs as they change."

Alterra operates and manages 409 assisted living residences. Alterra offers supportive and health care services to the frail elderly and is the nation's largest operator of freestanding Alzheimer's/dementia care residences.

Fair Hill realtor heading up new College Square office

O'Connor, Piper & Flynn ERA, one of the largest residential real estate brokers in the Mid-Atlantic, has opened a new sales office at College Square in Newark, with plans for adding more than 20 new sales associates. OPF already has two sales offices in Sussex County at Rehoboth Beach and Bethany Beach, but this marks the firm's first venture into the northern part of the state.

"We are very excited about our entry into New Castle County," says OPF president James P. O'Connor. "It is a market we have been looking at for some time, with both the Newark and Wilmington areas booming."

OPF already operates 54 offices in Maryland, Pennsylvania, Southern Delaware, and West Virginia, including an office in nearby Fair Hill in Cecil County, Md.

Paul L. Wildey, who is already managing the firm's Fair Hill office, will run its New Castle County operation. Wildey, who has been involved in real estate sales since 1981, previously served as president of the New Castle County Board of Realtors, and won the New Castle County Realtor of the Year Award in 1992 and the New Castle County Board of Realtors Community Service Award in 1998. The University of Delaware graduate is a Life Member of the Board of Realtors' Million Dollar Sales Club.

Wildey anticipates that many sales associates based in OPF's Newark office will be licensed to sell real estate in Delaware, Maryland, and Pennsylvania.

O'Connor, Piper & Flynn ERA is independently owned and operated by NRT Incorporated, the nation's largest residential real estate brokerage with more than 700 offices and 31,000 sales associates in 21 metropolitan markets across the U.S.

Delaware's first Hawthorne Suites coming to Christiana

NAB Hospitality LLC and Atlanta-based U.S. Franchise Systems Inc., franchiser of the Hawthorn brand, have broken ground on Delaware's first Hawthorne Suites at Route 273/Eagle Run Road in Christiana. Hawthorn Suites Ltd. is an all-suites hotel which features business and extended-stay accommodations. A spring 2000 opening is planned.

The four-story, 76-suite Hawthorn Suites will feature six jacuzzi suites, and such in-room amenities as Internet access and voice mail in all rooms, microwaves, refrigerators, coffee makers, and irons and ironing boards. The hotel will also offer an outdoor pool, fitness center, business center and meeting facilities. The hotel is two miles from Delaware Park, Christiana Hospital and Christiana Mall. It is also close by to numerous restaurants and the University Plaza shopping center.

"We are excited to be breaking ground on Delaware's first Hawthorn property," said Jay Patel, vice president of NAB Hospitality, "and look forward to welcoming both business and leisure guests." NAB Hospitality also owns an Econo Lodge in New Castle.

As of June 30, there were 293 Hawthorn properties open or in development. For reservations, contact 1-800-527-1133 toll-free, or visit Hawthorn at www.hawthorn.com to access information and make reservations instantly.
